The Sound of Wedding Bells

Won After Great Perseverance!

CHAPTER XIV.

"Nor for me," with a little piteous sigh; "you treated me cruelly, now, didn't you?"

He stares aghast at her audacity, then he laughs, and over merrily.

"Did I? Perhaps you will be so good as to tell me in what way?"

"I shall not tell you anything while you speak to me like that," she says.

"What can he do but laugh, laugh with a miserable under-feeling that he is being fooled."

"Tell me what I did," he says, in a quieter tone.

"You behaved shamefully!" she says, indignantly—woman-like, surging higher, as he lowers his tone—

"shamefully; talk about flirting, oh, Hugh, it is too gross."

"What on earth—"

"Now I call that deceitful! I didn't think you were deceitful, sir."

"Go on," he says, sarcastically, but with a smile in his eyes. After all, then, it was she who was jealous!

"Go on; it is better than a comedy. I treated you cruelly. I to whom you would neither glance nor speak. I flirted shamefully, while you allowed that—that idiot to sit in your pocket the whole evening, and make love to you in the most barefaced way! Oh, Dulcie! Dulcie!"

She takes greater heart at the familiar name; the name she loves; no one else calls her Dulcie but he.

"What is your idea of flirtation?" she says. "Mine is walking off with another person into a dark conservatory, and stopping there for hours. I couldn't help Sir Archie sitting near me, and I couldn't help his trying to amuse me, and he couldn't help being amiable and pleasant instead of grave and—jealous. Poor fellow! It would have been hard if I had not pretended to be amused."

"Oh," he says, "it was only pretense, then?"

"Yes. If you had been a reasonable creature, you would have seen that it was," she retorts, with a point.

"Well, it was admirable acting," he says. "It deceived me; I will swear that it deceived him. He sat smiling like a—a—conceited idiot for an hour afterward. If it was fooling, you fooled him to the top of his bent! And why, why, Dulcie?" sadly, reproachfully.

"Because," she falters, ashamed and penitent, "because you were hanging about that—that red-haired girl—"

"Oh, now, Dulcie! Who sent me?"

"I did," naively; "but I didn't mean you to go."

"Dulcie, didn't I tell you I didn't understand women—"

"You seemed to understand her, you seemed to understand each other, Hugh, you can talk about my smiling and flirting, but that girl flirted with you shamefully; it was shameful the way she looked up at you. Hugh, if—if I were bound to sit by and see her do it night after night, I should hate her, and I should hate you!"

"Dulcie! don't say that," he says, so stern and with such grave, sorrowful earnestness that she stops him, and looks up at him eagerly, tenderly.

"No, I don't! I didn't mean it, Hugh; you know I didn't! You know—with a sudden moisture in the dark eyes—" you know I couldn't if I tried; and I did try last night."

"My darling!" he murmurs, reproachfully, and, utterly heedless of the others, who have fortunately gone out of sight, he puts his arm round her.

She nestles her head on his breast, and he feels her heart beat.

"My poor Dulcie!" he says, with passionate tenderness. "What a wild, willful creature it is. And are you really sorry, do you really care?"

"—with a smile—"will it always be thus?"

"I am sorry, awfully sorry!" she says. "I—with a piteous little smile—"I lay awake all night crying, I did indeed!" earnestly. "If that ain't being sorry I don't know what is!"

"My beautiful darling! I half suspected it!" he says, all his anger vanished. "Your pretty pale face wrung my heart this morning. And all for what?—because I was decently civil to an old friend."

"I hate old friends!" with much subdued vehemence. "Hugh," reproachfully, "you need not have carried her into the conservatory and stayed there all that time—old friends though you may be."

"You are right," he says, declinatively. "But—but you drove me to it. Remember, Dulcie, how you treated me—not a word for me and nothing but smiles—and your smiles are so much, Dulcie—"

"Not more than hers," viciously. "I'll stake her smiles against anybody's."

"Nothing but kind glances and laughter for him! Every time I looked at you I saw you—encouraging him. Yes, encouraging him!"

"He needs so little encouraging," she says, and the laughter is twinkling in her eyes already. "Twixt smiles and tears!"

"Just so!" he says. "Confound him for an impudent beggar! But he was ever so. Now, why encourage him?"

"Because I can't help it!" desperately. "I never could. I don't mean to. In short—you see how I have learned all your foolish little parts of speech, sir!—in short, I was born so—and—and—I'm afraid I shall never be better."

He is beginning to look stern again, but she sees it and draws nearer to him.

"But I'm trying, though. And I was so good until you turned me round the other way last night. But, Hugh," eagerly, solemnly, "I mean to be right down angelic. I give you fair warning. I return you your promise. You may flirt with her as much as you like, straight before my eyes, and I won't retaliate. You may do all this if—if you will tell me—that you really and truly love me, wicked wretch though I am!"

No man could resist her. He takes her in his arms—luckily they are in the woods by this time—and holds her looking down into her eyes.

"Dulcie," he says, solemnly, "Never did man love woman more dearly, more passionately than I love you. My face won't pale under its hide-dressed skin but I too lay awake last night, wretched and miserable because of this brush between us. Never doubt that I love you, Dulcie—never. And knowing it, as you know it, don't—don't drive me with too hard a curb!"

It is a characteristic wind-up, but it doesn't jar upon her; she understands him.

"I won't, Hugh. I won't. This is the last time. I give you leave to throw me off for good, or for bad, and all, if I ever sin as I sinned against you last night."

"Throw you over!" and he smiles down at her; "well, it's a bargain; and now, Dulcie, I am glad we have made it up; it is our first little tiff and our last."

"Our last!" she echoes, trying to speak valiantly, but there is a tinge of doubt in the tone.

"I am awfully glad, because I have to go away to-morrow—"

"Go away!" and she stops and looks at him aghast.

He takes her hand and caresses it. "Only for a day or two, I mean. Not to foreign climes," and he laughs, but not, over lightly.

"For a day or two," she says, mournfully. "Oh, don't go, Hugh!"

"But I must!" he says. "It is about my commission. I must go. Do you think I would if I could possibly help it? Why, Dulcie, I am like a love-sick boy; I can't bear the idea of leaving you for a day."

"Then I like love-sick boys," she says. "A day or two; that always means a week!" with a sigh. "What shall I do while you are gone?"

"Anything," he says, "but flirt with Archie!"

She makes a contemplating gesture. "I couldn't while you were away," she says, emphatically. "Don't—don't mention his name! Oh, Hugh, you won't be gone long! The place will seem so dreary without you—say two days certain, Hugh?"

He hesitates.

"I'll say four," he replies. "It will be a scramble, but I'll do it. Why, Dulcie, it will be quite a relief for you!"

"Quite," she says, with sad irony. "Don't say another word. If you must go—with another sigh—"you must. When?"

"To-morrow," he says. "I shall go early."

"I shall get up and see you off."

"What—six o'clock?"

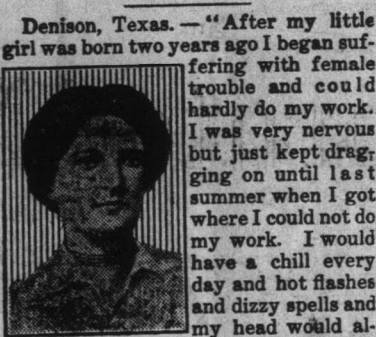

"Yes; if it were four, two, one o'clock; and, Hugh, just to prove to you that I am in earnest, I'll show you how good I can be to-night. I won't dance a single dance. I'll sit on a rough seat, with my back to the wall, without moving. There!"

"Nonsense!" he says, but in a pleased tone. "That's absurd. Dance as much as you like; be as happy as you like; but let me feel that you are mine, and that I leave you safe and secure."

"I won't," she says, with decision. "You shall see, Hugh!—let me go."

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Denison, Texas.—"After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous and just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's step-sister told my husband if he did not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get your medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do, and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas.

If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.

proachfully, and, utterly heedless of the others, who have fortunately gone out of sight, he puts his arm round her.

She nestles her head on his breast, and he feels her heart beat.

"Then I like love-sick boys," she says. "A day or two; that always means a week!" with a sigh. "What shall I do while you are gone?"

"Anything," he says, "but flirt with Archie!"

She makes a contemplating gesture. "I couldn't while you were away," she says, emphatically. "Don't—don't mention his name! Oh, Hugh, you won't be gone long! The place will seem so dreary without you—say two days certain, Hugh?"

He hesitates.

"I'll say four," he replies. "It will be a scramble, but I'll do it. Why, Dulcie, it will be quite a relief for you!"

"Quite," she says, with sad irony. "Don't say another word. If you must go—with another sigh—"you must. When?"

"To-morrow," he says. "I shall go early."

"I shall get up and see you off."

"What—six o'clock?"

"Yes; if it were four, two, one o'clock; and, Hugh, just to prove to you that I am in earnest, I'll show you how good I can be to-night. I won't dance a single dance. I'll sit on a rough seat, with my back to the wall, without moving. There!"

"Nonsense!" he says, but in a pleased tone. "That's absurd. Dance as much as you like; be as happy as you like; but let me feel that you are mine, and that I leave you safe and secure."

"I won't," she says, with decision. "You shall see, Hugh!—let me go."

"I'll say four," he replies. "It will be a scramble, but I'll do it. Why, Dulcie, it will be quite a relief for you!"

"Quite," she says, with sad irony. "Don't say another word. If you must go—with another sigh—"you must. When?"

Stomach Acts Fine! No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Acidity

"Pape's Diapepsin" fixes sick, sour, upset stomachs in five minutes.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain, unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them, if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

Here they are, all seated on a tree like a row of magpies. Wait! and with her color coming and going, she hangs her head. "In case I should oversleep myself to-morrow, you may say good-bye now," and she puts up her lips.

It is half-past ten and the ball has commenced.

"A regular meeting of the clans," says Sir Archie, in an undertone, as he stands beside Dulcie, putting on his gloves and looking round the room—the spacious, grandly decorated room, which was of old the banquet hall of the Castle, but is now the ball-room. Dinner has been over some time, and dancing—quite an informal dance, just for the young people." Lady Falconer has assured the old Countess of Torchester—has commenced. Lucy Fairfax, who does not dance, is at the grand piano, and Lord Melsham, the celebrated amateur, has brought "his fiddle," as Sir Archie insists upon calling it.

"Don't care for anything but his fiddle, you know," he whispers to Dulcie, who has seated herself, like a limpet on a rock, on one of the rout seats, and is setting her teeth firmly, to keep her resolution. She will not dance, nothing—nobody shall persuade her.

"Fine collection of county celebrities," continues Sir Archie, who is a county celebrity himself. "From the three bottle men of the last generation but one down to the coming fillies."

"Please remember that I am a 'coming filly,' if you mean a young lady," says Dulcie, severely, but with a twinkle in her eyes as they wander round the room following Hugh, "doing the polite," as Sir Archie would say, to his guests.

"No, you have come," he says, "you have come, seen, and conquered."

"Nonsense," she says. "There's the first dance—it's a quadrille."

"I won't insult you by asking you for this," he says, eagerly; "though perhaps—"

"Certainly not," she says.

"Very well," he assents, reluctantly, "of course I'd sooner have a waltz. I think I'll sit out this," and he eyes his gloves and looking round the two inches of rout seat beside her wistfully. But she doesn't move to make room for him.

"Nonsense," she says again; "of course you won't sit it out; there are too many ladies as it is; you go and dance with that nice girl over there by the window. I can see her tapping her foot to the music—"

"Why, you are doing the same," he exclaims, indignantly.

"Oh, go, do go!" she entreats, impatiently, for Hugh's tall form is crossing the room in their direction, and she does not want Sir Archie to be hanging about her skirts.

"Oh, very well," he says, "of course if you insist." And he goes.

She welcomes Hugh with a smile—the smile he loves so well.

"How are you getting on?" he says. "Have you got a partner yet?"

"No," she says, firmly. "I don't mean to dance."

Special Session of the Synod

For the Election of a Bishop, October 10th, 1917.

The Synod was opened by the Chairman, the Rev. Canon Smith, formerly Bishop's Commissary, at 9 p.m. After the calling of the rolls of the Clergy and Lay Representatives, the Chairman delivered an address to the Synod.

The Rev. Canon Bolt, Clerical Secretary, on behalf of the Executive Committee, moved the adoption of an address to the Bishop. The motion was seconded by Sir William Herwood and supported by Mr. Withers and the Rev. Canon White, and was unanimously carried by a standing vote of the Synod.

The address, which was as follows, was presented to His Lordship on the following day:

To the Right Reverend Llewellyn Jones, D.D., Bishop.
The Clergy and Lay Representatives of the Diocesan Synod of Newfoundland, in Special Session convened, desire to convey to your Lordship their sympathy with you in the illness which rendered necessary the resignation of your charge of this Diocese, and also to record their appreciation of the devotion with which you have performed your work as their Diocesan.

Many changes have taken place during the forty years that have elapsed since your Lordship became Bishop of Newfoundland; the Colony has passed through days of stress and trial, there has been great diversity of view on leading questions, public opinion has at times run high, but throughout all our varied experiences you have played a high and dignified part, and Churchmen have always felt that in their Bishop they had one who could be trusted to maintain the lofty ideals of his sacred office.

Extended as your Lordship's Episcopate has been, it is not possible within the limits of an address to recount the many agencies in our Church life with which you have been associated, but mention must be made of the zeal with which in the early days of your Episcopate you worked and inspired others to work for the completion of our noble Cathedral, and when it was laid in ruins by the fire of 1892 you were mainly instrumental in procuring funds from all parts of the world for its restoration.

A like devotion was shown by your Lordship two years later, when, owing to financial straits of the Colony, it was deemed necessary to appeal to England for funds to carry on the work of the Church in the Diocese, and there are few Church enterprises that have not at one time or another received your liberal support, while the help you have afforded to those in need by your timely aid has gone far to lighten burdens heavy to be borne.

It is with a sense of loss we realize that we are no longer permitted to profit by your Lordship's words of wisdom and sympathy delivered from the various pulpits of the Diocese with a simplicity and force all your own, nor are we unmindful of the fact that you will not in the future address the Synod in that choice and scholarly diction to which we all looked forward, and you will not again preside over our deliberations with that impartiality and dignity with which you graced not only our Church gatherings but all the public assemblies in which you took part.

It is indeed gratifying to us to know that your relations with those outside our communion have been such that the sense of loss which the Synod feels at your Lordship's retirement is shared by all classes and creeds in the community, and is striking evidence that you have merited the respect and affection which have been so abundantly and so generally extended to you during your long tenure of office.

We learn with genuine pleasure that it is your Lordship's wish to spend the evening of life in the Diocese, to which you have devoted so many years, and we humbly pray that in your retirement you will receive that comfort and support which the Chief Shepherd of the Church alone can give.

On behalf of the Synod,
WALTER R. SMITH,
Chairman.
GEO. H. BOLLY,
Clerical Secretary.
R. WATSON,
Lay Secretary.
St. John's, Nfld., October 11th, 1917.

The following was the Bishop's reply:—
"You will forgive me if I spare myself, and in so doing spare you, the painful effort to put into words which would be utterly inadequate what I feel in the prospect of leaving you.
The affection of a Bishop for his Clergy, and that of a Pastor for his flock are forms of affection which are comparatively out of sight, but are very deep and deepen with every ministrations and with every intercession. And never had a Bishop Clergy

Impressive Ceremony

AT THE PRESENTATION CONVENT, CATHEDRAL SQUARE, ON SATURDAY MORNING.

Bright sunshine ushered in the Feast of St. Edward at an early hour the Cathedral grounds wore a festive appearance in honour of His Grace the Archbishop, whose patron Saint is the King and Conqueror whose reign shines so brightly in English history.

At 9 o'clock the Archbishop in cope, mitre and crozier, accompanied by their Lordships Bishops March and Power and the attendant priests, repaired to the exterior of the new building attached to the Presentation Convent, and having blessed the corner stone placed it in position in presence of a large number of the members of the Association. Then the procession having entered the Oratory of the Immaculate Conception awaited the arrival at the Sanctuary of the novices to be professed. On their having reached the altar rail, His Grace questioned them as to what they demanded; in voices not very loud, but very clear, each answered that it was her petition to be received to the Holy Sacrament. Then having blessed them, the Archbishop assumed the chasuble and commenced the Holy Sacrifice. At the Communion each Sister pronounced devoutly and distinctly the vows which bound her to the obligations of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience in the Order which she had chosen, and the angels hovering round recorded the consecration of six young lives to the service of God and the education of youth, Mass being concluded, each Sister received from His Grace the black veil and the ring the tokens of her complete self-immolation to her Saviour. Then followed the Te Deum, during which the newly professed in profound prostration at the feet of the Eucharistic Lord begged from Him the Grace necessary to be faithful to the end. The "Ecce Quam Bonum" was then sung by the Convent Choir. At the conclusion of His Lordship Bishop Power (St. George's) in choice words laid clearly before the young Sisters, the duties and responsibilities which they had just taken upon them. Specially chosen by the Divine Master for a great and noble work—the religious and secular education of youth—they needed help and grace in abundance to fulfill well the task—these would never be wanting to them if they did their part to cultivate in their own souls all the Christian virtues and the greatest of these, is Charity. That Divine Spouse would be faithful to His part of the compact, thus they would be worthy members of the Presentation Order, worthy children of Mary Magdalen, their work would be a success, their generous efforts would bring many souls in safety to the feet of God and when at length their own turn came—when they at last were called to give an account of their stewardship, they would go forth joyfully from their Convent Cell to receive the reward, exceeding in glory.

The sermon being over, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was imparted by His Lordship Bishop March (Harbor Grace), and thus ended a solemn and impressive ceremony which will long be remembered by those who were present. The newly professed Nuns are Sister M. Bridget Gosse, Sister M. Columba Hipditch, Sister M. Loreto Croft, Sister M. De Lourdes King, Sister M. Genevieve Coady, and Sister M. Patricia Curtin, for all of whom we pray many years of usefulness in their noble calling. Among the clergy present on the occasion were—His Grace Archbishop Roche, Rt. Rev. Dr. March, Rt. Rev. Dr. Power, Rt. Rev. Mgr. MacDermott, Rt. Rev. Mgr. St. John, Rt. Rev. Dean Doughty (Bell Island), Revs. T. J. (Gough) (Portage Cove), F. E. Ryan (Barr), Rev. Dr. Kitchen (St. Joseph's), Revs. Dr. Greene, Carter and Conway (The Palace), Rev. (Capt.) T. Nangle, Rev. Fr. Thibault, Rev. Fr. Kelly, (Manuels), Rev. Bros. Ryan, Cashman and Ennis.

Rev. Father Coady Honoured.

After celebrating Mass at Kilbride yesterday morning Rev. Fr. Coady, who takes up his residence in the Presbytery near Waterford Bridge this week, received a most agreeable surprise, when the ladies of the parish assembled in the Church and presented him with a purse of gold and the subjoined address. Father Coady was not alone taken by surprise but was much affected by this evidence of his parishioners' regard for him. Following is the address:—

ADDRESS.
Rev. J. J. Coady, P. P.
Dear Reverend Father,—Permit us, your loving parishioners, to extend to you our most cordial welcome to our Parish. You may rely on our unwavering loyalty, and our co-operation with you in whatever works you may undertake to promote God's glory and the advancement of our Holy religion. We humbly beg you, Dear Father, to accept this purse as a trifling token of our respect and esteem and as a little donation towards the furnishing of your Presbytery.

In conclusion, Dear Father, we pray that God may spare you for many years to labour in His vineyard, and that the blessing of Heaven attend you always.
Signed on behalf of the Parishioners:—Alice Ryan, Bridget Sinnott, Elizabeth Walsh, Ida Walsh, Bridget Treacy, Elizabeth Purcell.

Association Meeting.

Yesterday afternoon at 3.30 His Grace addressed a meeting of the members of the Presentation Convent Association. After having made brief reference to the ceremony of the preceding day he expressed his kindly appreciation of the good work done by the members during the past ten months. At all times the question of finance is a serious one and were it not for the generous assistance given by the people the church would be shivering in its noble calling. The demands for church buildings necessitated by the progressive spirit of the age. The stately building which is now nearing completion was as they were aware, an absolute necessity, since the number of Sisters must increase consequent on the central novitiates having been established at the Mother House. His Grace had hoped great things from the Association and he had not been disappointed. Two months ago the Treasurer handed him a cheque for a large amount, which has gone towards construction expenses. For the coming years the members must not relax their efforts; he understood the many calls on the generosity of our people at the present time, still he felt confident that they would continue with even increased earnestness the good work which they had set themselves to accomplish, always remembering that they were assisting him in his work. Parish works in Canada and the States were largely supported by the activities of the Women's Associations and he felt sure that our "Association" would not rest satisfied until it had accomplished the object for which it had been called into existence.

The Baltic Adventure

All eyes are turned to-day to the Baltic, where a great German adventure is in progress. This is the evident explanation of the New York Herald's announcement: it must have had reliable information of a big movement by the German fleet, but was woefully astray in its deductions as to its nature. It is the Baltic, not the North Sea, that has been chosen, the weaker Russian fleet, not the British navy, that the valiant dreadnoughts from the Kiel Canal have issued forth to face.

The move is not unexpected. The Russian situation has tempted it for some time and the objects sought by it are reasonably plain. But it will be some time before the outside world will be able to size the situation, before the Allies can judge whether the result has been good or bad. For it is clearly fraught with both good and bad possibilities: it may be successful enough to permit the landing of a great German army behind the Russian front sufficiently strong to turn the Russian flank, which is probably the first thing aimed at, and to open the way to control of the Gulf of Finland, the second; or it may fall of both purposes and provide the very stimulus that is needed to recall both the Russian navy and the Russian army to their serious duty. We are optimistic enough to believe that the latter will be the ultimate effect of it all.

A glance at the map will reveal the strategic relation of the two large islands of Oesel and Dago to the Russian line east of Riga and to the Gulf of Finland. The preliminary success of the enemy in landing troops in Oesel and occupying the greater part of it, in view of his great naval superiority, not surprising and so not too disquieting. A similar attempt at Dago, whether it was a mere blind or a serious effort, failed, and we are also informed that the German fleet has not penetrated into the waters between the two islands. An appreciation of the position must depend upon a knowledge of exactly what can be accomplished respectively by the two arms, naval and military. It would be foolish to minimize its seriousness. With Oesel entirely in their possession—and it looks as if it soon will be—the Germans will command the Gulf of Riga completely and it will be a simple matter for them to land an army on its seacoast. Continuous communication could then be kept by sea with such an army and the threat of turning the Russian flank would assume alarming proportions. But the Russian army and Russian fleet are to be reckoned with, and the adventure will need to be made in very great force to be of any use. Can Germany spare that force? And if she can, has she time before the winter sets in to employ it to effect? These are vital questions and everything depends upon the answers. Meantime the immediate point of interest is as to the Russian fleet, whether it will have the courage to attack the German fleet or not. We shall not be left long in doubt. Within a few days at the most we shall know the course and prospects of their campaign and whether or not it has affected fundamentally the general military situation.

Tag Day.

The British casualties last month were over one hundred thousand. Think what this must mean in the way of surgical supplies and comforts for the sick and wounded. It is the duty as well as the privilege of all who stay at home to contribute to this expense, and to contribute as generously as their means will allow. We cannot all fight, but we can all give, whether it be much or little. The dollar you have in your pocket may be the actual means of relieving the agony of one of our wounded heroes. After all, it is only our money we are called upon to give on "Our Day," but our gallant fighters are giving every thing that makes life worth living, and even life itself. Let us break our record of giving next Thursday, Tag Day.

Cochrane Street Centennial Church.

The Rev. Louis G. Hudson, of the Methodist College Staff, preached with much acceptance on the "Temptation of Christ in the Wilderness," at the morning service in Cochrane Street Methodist Centennial Church yesterday. At the evening service the Rev. Dr. Bond delivered an able sermon on "Jesus Christ the Son and Representative of the Almighty God, clothed with supreme power and showing His power in the healing of helpless humanity." Dr. Bond announced that he would deliver a lecture on Egypt illustrated by a number of beautiful slides on Wednesday evening next, to which admission would be free. An offering would be asked for to defray expenses.

SHELL SHOCK.
Lieut. Fred Rhindell.
Official reports for above not yet received."

"Peggy O'Moore."

There is something unique and quaint about "Little Peggy O'Moore" which gives the play by that name a certain distinction. She is a little Irish girl, whose parents died when she was quite small. She grows up and finally comes to America to see what sort of man this great Dan Murphy, her guardian whom she has heard so much about, is. She falls in love with him at sight, but it would be robbing one of half the pleasure if the whole story was told here. But Peggy's love affair is only part of the play for Dan Murphy, who is Mayor of a typical American city, becomes involved in a political wrangle which develops some unusually exciting scenes and which tests every ounce of metal in the man. That Dan proves himself a hero goes without saying, for Peggy is not the kind of girl who could love a man unless he acquitted himself in a proper way. There is enough comedy in the piece to afford a hearty laugh now and then and, in fact, nothing is missing that could make the show more effective than it is.

Rally Day at Gower St. S.S.

The Rally Day Service at Gower St. Methodist Sunday School yesterday was most enjoyable and about six hundred were present in that large Sunday Schoolroom. Rev. D. S. Drummond, president and Deputy Mayor I. C. Morris, Esq., assisted in the opening exercises. A very choice paper on "The Boy and His Problems" was read by Miss Gertrude Parsons and an excellent address by Mr. William Soper on "Our Primary Department" followed. After a bright hymn, "Dare to do Right," Miss Beatrice Chancey read a carefully prepared and informing paper, "The Aim of the Intermediate Teacher." Mr. W. G. Currie continued after with "The Aim and Objective of the Adult Bible Class." Miss Flora Curtis then gave a beautiful solo, "Just for to-day," and Mr. A. W. Martin was the soloist for an address. His reminiscences of fifty years ago when a lad in the only Wesleyan Sunday School in the city at that time were very interesting, and his remark that out of over thirty juvenile collectors for the school in 1877, forty years ago, only three were then present, Albert Soper and Geo. T. Hudson, and one lady who looked "as beaming and happy as at that time," caused a ripple of excitement as to who she might be, and many no doubt mentally guessed wrongly. Mr. Martin had not time (it being then four o'clock) to amplify on his point that a boy's mind is to him what a steering wheel is to a ship, so he closed a splendid address with a touching story of "Little Mike the boy who loved his mother." The Superintendent, Mr. W. H. Peters, made some suitable remarks and Mr. P. H. Hudson furnished some statistics which showed the school to be in a very flourishing condition. Rev. Curtis closed with prayer and Benediction.

Michael E. Martin vs. W. H. Christian, Administrator of the Insolvent Estate of P. J. Soper.
This is an action for the return of certain goods or their value or for such further or other relief as the Court may consider the plaintiff entitled to.
Howley, K.C., for plaintiff.
E. E. Dunfield, for defendant.
Michael E. Martin, Thomas J. Ryan and Wm. H. Christian were sworn and gave evidence. Judgment was reserved.

Lieut. Harvey Doing Well.

Lieut. Gerald Harvey, who was severely wounded a few days ago in the big battle in which our Regiment played so prominently and gloriously a part, is doing as well as can be expected, according to a cablegram received from him in the city by his brother, Mr. Reginald Harvey. Lieut. Gerald is one of the best and bravest officers here and a most popular officer. His many friends will be glad to know that he is improved and all will hope that his ultimate recovery will be speedy.

At the Crescent.

Tyrone Power, America's most distinguished actor, is presented at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day in "The Devil in Christ," a three reel Selig Diamond special feature. A most intensely interesting photo drama, "The Fable of the Busy Man and the Idle Woman," written by George Ade, the great American humorist, "Frenzied Finance" is an up-to-date Vin comedy, with Burns and Stull as Pokes and Jobs. Professor McCarthy has arranged a new musical programme for this great show.

ANNULAR REPORT.
We have had the pleasure of perusing the annual report of the Cochrane Street Methodist Centennial Church, which is neatly printed in pamphlet form. The work of the Church, with its officials, its financial aspect, the work of Sunday School, Epworth League, Women's Association, and Women's Missionary Society are all outlined. We note the Sunday School has a missionary of its own in Chungking, China, the Rev. Lin Suen San, whose salary is paid by the voluntary offerings of the school. The report closes with some pithy paragraphs "Between Ourselves" — we presume between Pastor and People — which are well worth reading.

A very heavy debt rests upon this splendid church, which the members of the congregation are gradually reducing by generous subscriptions and an effort will be made on Thanksgiving Sunday, November 11th, to further reduce the debt.

Prisoners of War in Germany. The following regulations, governing the regulating and despatch of parcels and money to Prisoners of War in Germany are published for the information of the public. The Newfoundland War Contingent Association is appointed by the Central Prisoners of War Committee to handle all matters pertaining to the forwarding of parcels and money to Newfoundland P. of W. in Germany.

The N. W. C. A. forward a regular supply from London to Germany as follows:—

(a) Food. Three parcels per man per fortnight containing such things as tinned beef, tinned salmon, biscuits, milk, sugar, margarine, dripping, baked beans, carbolic soap, chocolate, cigarettes, tobacco, and a few toilet necessities.

(b) Clothing. The following outfit is sent periodically to N. C. O's and men in Germany by the Pay and Record Office: 1 great coat, 1 jacket, 1 pair trousers, 1 cap (the foregoing is a special uniform for P. of W.), 1 pair of drawers (woollen), 1 under-shirt, 2 towels, 3 handkerchiefs, 1 pair boots.

(c) Money. It is inadvisable to send money, unless P. of W. ask for it. The amount which may be sent is Two Shillings per week for any one man. The Army Council have instructed the Central P. of W. Committee to the effect that they may not accept gifts of foodstuffs or clothing from members of the public, whether for despatch to a particular P. of W. or as a contribution to the general stock of the Association. This instruction has arisen through an arrangement with the German Authorities that all parcels forwarded should be packed and forwarded by the association.

Relatives may rest assured that everything possible is being done in London for the comfort and welfare of Prisoners of War in Germany.

That Very Thin Covering.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON.

Very, very close, under the skin in most of us lies a naked and naive egotism.

Our own personal relation to every event is what chiefly interests us, no matter how carefully we hide it.

Now and then something slips this covering off.

One such something which has an almost universal effect is any great excitement.

The Night of The Big Fire.

Not long ago it happened to be present at a big fire.

All my neighbours also attended and the next morning when neighbor met neighbor there was no other topic of conversation but that. And nearly as interesting as the fire itself was the naive and really delicious egotism that almost all of us displayed.

What He Was Doing of Prime Importance.

In the first place everyone seemed to think that what he was doing when the fire broke out was the most interesting thing about it.

One told circumstantially how she went to draw down the curtain after putting her baby in bed and just what she thought when she saw the flames. Another was just eating her supper when the maid rushed in, etc., etc.

Then each one told at great length what precautions he or she took against the danger of the fire reaching her or his home! Just what articles she packed, what she said to the maid and to her children and what the maid and children said in return, etc., etc.

Rann-dom Reels, CHURCH-GOING.

Church-going is an old-fashioned habit which would be more useful if it had the long, wiry roots of the alfalfa plant. The trouble with so much modern church-going is that it doesn't strike deep enough to get people out to the divine service on a rainy Sunday, while the golf links and the ball game will drag them from home in the face of a cloud-burst.

Years ago one of the most popular ways of spending Sunday was to go to church and listen to a sermon with a mainspring longer than a Waterbury watch. Nobody stayed away from church on Sunday morning unless he was totally paralyzed for the night before. In those days church-going was a duty which nobody could escape unless he had contracted diphtheria in both tonsils, and as a result the minister was not obliged to look into the faces of cold, empty pews and yawning profiles, as is so often the case to-day.

The golf links drag them from home in the face of a cloud-burst.

The golf links drag them from home in the face of a cloud-burst.

There was a great deal of whole-souled church-going in this country up to the time when the installment-plan automobile race above the surrounding scenery, and began to consume gasoline, tires and storage batteries in rank profusion. There is something about an automobile which removes a man's mind from the church and everything else except the coast of upkeep. After an active church-goer has owned an automobile for a few weeks and come in contact with its massive and ceaseless appetite, he will be in no frame of mind to go to church and greet the semi-annual missionary collection. He will be more inclined to retire to some quiet nook and finger his check stubs with a trembling hand.

Although every inducement is being held out to increase church-going, it is not necessary to reserve seats in advance. The church attendant is now offered, altered music by a determined solo quartet and the sermon has been boiled down until it is a mere skeleton of the old-time discourse with self-winding attachment. In the evening there are free motion-pictures and a cornet solo, and yet people prefer to stay away and listen to the music of a grabbing clutch.

If people would do their joy-riding after the morning service they would be better prepared to meet the shifting scenes of life, especially when they shift into an open ditch at forty-five miles an hour.

BACKING UNCLE SAM.

WALT MASON.

In times of peace my robes are rent over every statesman's blunder; I clamor that our government, for bone-heads, is a wonder. O'er congress then I rip and sport, to wrathful frenzy driven; it is a harmless indoor sport, to which most men are given. It doesn't jar our Uncle Sam, this pessimistic harping; he doesn't care a tinker's jam for criticism carping. In times of peace such talk will go, no voter it disgraces; it serves to let our statesmen know that we are keeping cases. But when our country's in a fight and loyalty's essential, how good men hate the grouchy wight, with dirges pentential! Now, I am backing Uncle Sam, though all the grouchies hoot me; and I am silent as a clam if things don't chance to suit me. I still am talking much, by jings, but talking circumspectly; my Uncle Sam is doing things, and doing them correctly. My Uncle Sam is wise and great and all he does is proper; and I detest the sort of skate who's a disloyal yawper.

Brigades Parade.

C. L. B.

The C. L. B., under command of Lt. Col. R. G. Rendell, held a church parade yesterday morning, attending Divine Service at St. Thomas's Church. Major Rendell in command of the Anglican members of the Regiment now in training, took part in the parade. The preacher was the Rev. (Capt.) A. Clayton who delivered an eloquent and timely address to the lads, which was also listened to with deep interest by the large congregation.

C. C. C.

The C. C. C. held Church parade yesterday forenoon, attending last Mass at St. Patrick's Church. The turnout in charge of Major Kent, was fairly large. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Pippy, Chaplain of the Corp. He also preached an appropriate and instructive sermon. After Mass the Corps reformed and made a tour of the city to the strains of their brass band before returning to their Armour.

Father Mathew's Anniversary.

The members of the Total Abstinence and Benefit Society celebrated the anniversary of Father Mathew, the great Apostle of Temperance, yesterday morning by attending eight o'clock Mass and Holy Communion in a body at the Cathedral. The sight was a most imposing one.

Glencoe Back.

The S. S. Glencoe, Capt. Dhandford, returned from Port aux Basques and S. W. ports yesterday. She brought the following saloon passengers:—Rev. J. H. McDermott, Captain Windsor, S. A., Capt. M. Handrigan, Miss Handrigan, Mrs. McDermott, G. Hodder, Miss L. Hodder, P. Lambert, W. F. Matthews, Mrs. Lush, W. Powell, Mrs. Lockyer, Miss M. F. Hartigan, Mrs. B. Martin.

Religious Education.

Sunday next will be observed by the C. of E. as Religious Education Day, when the sermons preached at the regular and special services will all centre around the idea of the better religious instruction and training of the child. Bishop White will be the preacher at St. Thomas's at the evening service.

RUSSIA MENACED FROM GULF OF RIGA.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 14.

The German forces which landed on Oesel Island in the Gulf of Riga under cover of 10 o'clock yesterday morning the whole northern coast of the part of the island, and were in 12 versts of Arensburg, on the southern shore, according to a announcement to-night by the Russian naval staff. The Russians struck by Serel point and Svorb peninsula of the southwestern coast. It is reported that the Germans did not occupy Dago Island, north of Oesel, at the head of the Gulf of Riga, but contented themselves with making a demonstration against the dreadnoughts and a dozen light cruisers, 40 torpedo boats and 30 minesweepers participated in the operation landing on Oesel Island. The operation of Petrograd received the news of the capture calmly. The papers of the Ministers and others, who agree that while the operation seriously affected Russia's strategic position, it does not constitute an immediate menace to the Russian capital. The Premier yesterday sent a telegram to the Commander-in-Chief of the northern armies which he said: "The return of the Baltic fleet that the hour of its arrival. Russia expects for the first time a valiant effort by the navy, as Generalissimo, demand that the sailors make the sacrifice. The ship has come when the Baltic fleet defend the honor of the Fatherland and the great traditions of the Russian revolution. It is time to reflect seriously and to cease to operate involuntarily with the fate of the enemy. The garrison of the coast has by its attitude already proved the defensive resources of the fleet to be incomplete. Let us remember that the Fatherland will forgive criminal levity, but not the abominable crime of the loss of Petrovavsk. Be redeemed. The fleet repulse the enemy under the command of its officers, whose patriotism is well known to all of us. As a result of the misadventure that arose on board the Russian battleship Petrovavsk, she is to be taken out of action. The action of the general assembly of democratic bodies is being upon the officers of the army and navy in Finland to sign a peace of fidelity to the Russian Government. #### RUSSIA MENACED FROM GULF OF RIGA.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 14. The German forces which landed on Oesel Island in the Gulf of Riga, under cover of 90 war vessels, had occupied up to 10 o'clock Saturday morning the whole northern and eastern part of the island, and were within 12 versts of Arensburg, on the southern shore, according to an announcement to-night by the Russian naval staff. The Russians still occupy Serel point and Svorb peninsula on the southwestern coast. It now develops that the Germans did not occupy Dago Island, north of Oesel, and at the head of the Gulf of Finland, but contented themselves with making a demonstration against it. Eight dreadnoughts and a dozen light cruisers, 40 torpedo boats and 30 minesweepers participated in the German landing on Oesel Island. The people of Petrograd received the news of occupation calmly. The papers publish interviews with some of the Cabinet Ministers and others, who agree that while the operation seriously affects Russia's strategic position, it does not constitute an immediate menace to the Russian capital. The Premier today sent a telegram to the Commander-in-Chief of the northern armies in which he said: "Tell the redoubtable Baltic fleet that the hour of trial has arrived. Russia expects for her safety a valiant effort by the navy, and I as Generalissimo, demand that the sailors make the sacrifice. The hour has come when the Baltic fleet can defend the honor of the Fatherland and the great traditions of liberty and of the revolution. It is time, to reflect seriously and to cease to cooperate involuntarily with the cause of the enemy. The garrison of Kronstadt has by its attitude already caused the defensive resources of the fortress to be incomplete. Let all remember that the Fatherland will not forgive criminal levity." Let the abominable crime of the battleship Petropavlovsk be redeemed. Let the fleet repulse the enemy under the command of its officers, whose patriotism is well known to all of us."

As a result of the misunderstanding that arose on board the Russian battleship Petropavlovsk, she is out of action. The action of the general assembly of democratic bodies on calling upon the officers of the army and navy in Finland to sign a pledge of fidelity to the Russian Government, other officers who refused to sign the pledge were shot at Helsingfors last month by members of the crew. The action of the men on the Petropavlovsk later was condemned by the Helsingfors revolution committee, and all sailors who participated in the mutiny were arrested.

The enemy is working stubbornly to clear the entrance to the Gulf of Riga, near the Courland coast. Our coast batteries were silenced by powerful enemy dreadnoughts. The garrison of Oesel is engaged fighting the enemy forces which have landed, and good progress has been made against the invaders.

INFANTRY RESTING.

LONDON, Oct. 14. Infantry on both British and German sides rested in Flanders to-day, but there was considerable artillery activity, according to the official report from Field Marshal Haig to-night. Eastern County troops raided the enemy trenches in the afternoon southeast of Monchy-le-Preux and captured several prisoners. The total number of prisoners captured by us Friday is now ascertained to be 943, including 48 officers. Owing to the weather very little flying was done Saturday. In five intervals a certain amount of artillery and photographic work was accomplished and the enemy's new positions were reconnoitered. Our patrols encountered a formation of double the number of machines, and a determined fight ensued from which four of our airplanes failed to return. Owing to the close nature of the fighting the number of hostile machines accounted for could not be determined by our pilots. Other Allied machines which arrived too late to share in the fight say they saw several enemy machines fall out of control.

AERIAL OBSERVATION INTERFERED WITH.

LONDON, Oct. 14. The following War Office statement concerning aerial activities was issued to-day: "Yesterday the weather could not have been less favorable for co-operation of our airplanes with our infantry in their attack. Nevertheless our machines went out until 4 p.m. during rain and in clear intervals. With great difficulty they succeeded in locating troop movements of the enemy and placing a great many hostile batteries and reporting their observations to our artillery. In addition to this work more than 10,000 rounds were fired by our airmen with machine guns at hostile artillery. Parties of mounted troops and convoys of hostile transports were engaged from low altitudes, causing many casualties to the enemy and confusion in their ranks. Only a few German machines were encountered, presumably on account of the bad weather, and little fighting took place in the air. Four enemy airplanes were brought down and five others were driven down out of control. Ten of ours are missing. A very strong west wind and the suddenness with which driving rain-storms came up accounted for the non-return of many of our airplanes, several of those missing belonging to patrols that were not engaged in fighting and evidently were lost in the storm.

RENEWED BRITISH ACTIVITY.

LONDON, Oct. 14. Field Marshal Haig's forces last night repulsed German reconnoitering detachments north of Poelcapelle and west of Beclaele, on the extreme right and left ends of the new British battle line east of Ypres in Belgium. The British are showing renewed activity further south. The War Office today announced that a successful raid was made on Teuton lines near Hulluch, which is four miles north of the French mining center of Lens.

FEW PRISONERS CAPTURED.

PARIS, Oct. 14. French scouting parties last night attacked German patrols on the new French battlefield in Belgium, and took 30 prisoners. On the River Aisne front the artillery duel reached a lively pitch at various points, according to to-day's official statement.

WORK OF NAVAL AIRCRAFT.

LONDON, Oct. 14. The official statement issued to-day by the British Admiralty, concerning aerial operations over Belgium says: "Owing to unfavorable weather on Saturday, operations by our naval aircraft were restricted. One of our fighting patrols during the forenoon shot down an enemy machine over Ostend, the machine falling in flames."

GERMAN STATEMENT.

BERLIN, Oct. 14. A supplementary statement issued by the war office to-night says: "There was an artillery duel of varying intensity in Flanders and northwest of Soissons. Operations on Oesel Island are progressing according to our plans."

THE GERMAN MUTINY.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 14. The German Admiralty has been forced to issue an explanation in the form of a statement regarding the mutiny in the fleet, for which Chancellor Michaelis and Vice Admiral von Capelle endeavored to place the blame on the Independent Socialist party. It is now declared that the affair was confined to a single ship, where a few sailors endeavored to carry out not a mutiny, but a propaganda. The Admiralty denies flatly the report of mutiny aboard the Nurnburg and four battleships.

A THRILLING GAME.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. In a game that thrilled some 27,000 spectators on Saturday afternoon the Chicago Americans scrambled in to the world's series lead again by defeating New York Nationals 8 to 5 and swinging to the fore by three gaps to two.

To-Day's Messages.

10.15 A.M.

SURPRISE ATTACK REPULSED.

PARIS, To-day. In the Vosges an enemy surprise attack against our small posts south of Hartmannswillerkopf failed. The day was calm everywhere else. Eastern theatre.—In the course of the night in the region of the lakes the Russian troops repulsed an enemy reconnoitering detachment.

GERMANS CONQUERING OESSEL.

LONDON, To-day. With the armies in Flanders inactive except for bombardments, interest centres on the operations of the Germans on the island of Oesel, situated at the mouth of the Gulf of Riga, and the key to the entrance of the Gulf of Finland. At last despatches the Germans, who landed under cover of a great array of naval craft, were steadily pressing back the Russians toward the southeastern part of the island and also putting ashore other forces, with a huge array guarding them against assault by the Russian warships. The entire northern and eastern shores of the island were in German hands and the invaders were only a short distance from Arensburg, on the southern shore, which was in flames. Cereel, which lies on the Zvorb Peninsula, the northernmost extremity of the island, was also on fire. Whether the conflagrations were caused by German guns or whether they were started by the Russians is not known, although a German communication says the Germans suffered no losses during the landing on Oesel Island. The Petrograd war office says that in an attempt to cover the landing of the enemy on Dago Islands to the north of Oesel, four German torpedo boats are reported sunk and one cruiser run ashore. A small detachment which landed on the Dago Islands was forced off later by the Russian fleet, which at last account had suffered no material damage and was hindering the German warships in the waters between Dago and Oesel Islands. As yet nothing has come through to show that the enemy has attempted to attack the mainland of West Esthonia, nor has there been any indication that the Russian front in this region has been moved. Sunday again saw heavy rain on the front in Flanders. There were only reconnoiterers and artillery activity near Poelcapelle and Beclaele. The British troops on Saturday night repulsed German reconnoitering detachments while the French attacked German patrols and took a number of prisoners. To the south along the Aisne a lively artillery duel continues between the French and German artillery. On the Austro-Italian front, especially in the Insozo region, reciprocal bombardments continue heavy. The only infantry engagement reported was in the Chiapovano Valley where the Austro-Hungarians attempted to attack but were repulsed by the Italians.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE.

PARIS, To-day. The two artilleries were active in the region of Craonne and LaFaux in Champagne, in the region of Montasson and on the right bank of the Meuse in the region of Samogneux, Hill 344 and Bois-le-Chaume. Eastern theatre.—The artillery fighting is quite spirited near the German bend and there is less activity on other parts of the front.

ITALIAN REPORT.

ROME, To-day. An official statement issued by the Italian War Department follows: On Thursday night in the Costabella region an attempt by the enemy was promptly crushed. To-day on the Italian front our patrols harassed enemy working parties and took prisoners. There was considerable artillery fire from Romboir to the sea on the Carso. Our batteries dispersed marching detachments of the enemy east of Castagnavizza and fired an ammunition dump in the San Giovanni region.

NO EFFECT YET DISCERNIBLE.

QUEBEC, To-day. The military service proclamation which appeared in every paper here on Saturday, had no apparent effect on those who came under the first call. The usual quota of young men were to be seen in the quarters of the medical boards waiting for examination.

PLUCKY FIGHT SAVES VALUABLE SHIP AND CARGO.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, To-day. A large British steamer loaded with Admiralty stores, principally munitions, and 6,000 barrels of oil in bulk, was towed back into port to-night with fire in her engine room compartment to keep the ship from exploding. The fire broke out yesterday evening when the ship was 20 miles out of this port and off a Government station. Blue flames were seen coming from the engine room compartments. In these was stored the oil in every available reserve water tank. The captain ordered the life boats swung out and wireless calls for help brought several Government responses and two tugs. The crew in a temporary panic rushed into the boats but was ordered back by the naval gunners who were called into service. The captain told them to be real Britons and called on his firemen to go below and draw the fires. These made their way through the flames which were pouring off the burning oil and with the aid of the ship's pumps which flooded the engine rooms the ship's fires were soon out. Meanwhile pilots had put the ship into a creek where the fire is burning in several tanks to-night, but it was said to be all under control and away from the other combustibles. The cargo is valued at over $2,000,000 and only the quick action of the pumps is thought to have prevented an explosion. The ship is practically new. An investigation has been started by the Admiralty and United States officials to ascertain the cause.

THE BALTIC FIGHT.

PETROGRAD, To-day. Fighting between the Russians and German troops which landed on Oesel Island in the Gulf of Riga, continues, according to an official Russian statement issued to-day. The Germans are pressing the Russians towards the southeast. An attempt made by the German forces to capture the pier on Moon Island between the island of Oesel and the mainland of Estonia was repulsed. The statement follows: On Friday the enemy who landed on Oesel Island succeeded in occupying part of the island. Towards evening it was observed that enemy motor cyclist detachments were approaching Orrishaf, in the eastern part of the island, and they attempted to capture the pier on Moon Island but were repulsed. The fight with the enemy troops which landed still continues. The enemy advanced detachments are pressing our troops in a southeasterly direction. The landing of German troops on Oesel Island continued yesterday. The region where the debarcation is taking place is guarded from the sea by very large enemy naval forces. Simultaneously with the landing on Oesel Island several enemy ships engaged our shore batteries on Dago Island. According to information to hand four enemy torpedo boats were sunk by one of our batteries. One enemy cruiser which was firing at this battery was completely destroyed by overwhelming gun fire from the enemy ships. This enabled the enemy to land a small detachment on Dago Island which, however, was unable to maintain its position, and the troops returned to their ship. Since yesterday morning our ships have successfully hindered the enemy's naval forces from entering our waters between Dago and Oesel Islands. In the course of our engagements of the last two days our ships suffered no appreciable damage. During a number of air reconnaissances and engagements in the region of Oesel Island one of our aviators brought down one enemy airplane.

AMBASSADOR TO SPAIN.

PARIS, To-day. Jos. Thierry, Minister of Finance, in the Ribot Cabinet, has been appointed French Ambassador to Spain.

VON CAPELE REMOVED.

BERLIN, To-day. The German Lokal Anzeiger, which is a semi-official organ, definitely announces the resignation of Vice Admiral Von Capelle.

RUSSIAN LOSSES TRIFLING.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 14. The Minister of Marine in a supplementary communication issued this evening says: "The Russian losses in the two days' bombardment of the islands of Oesel and Dago were trifling. Our crews gave proof of their courage, initiative and self-denial."

NO SWEDISH MINISTRY YET.

STOCKHOLM, To-day. M. J. Widen, President of the second Chamber and former Minister of the Interior, who was charged by King Gustave with the formation of a cabinet, has replied that he is unable to accomplish the task. The King has now invited the Liberal leader, Professor Eden to organize a ministry.

DEFECTIONS IN AUSTRIAN ARMY.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. The Austrian Minister of Finance, replying at Vienna to an interpellation, said that information had been disclosed that a small detachment of two regiments of the 19th Austrian infantry in the fighting at Zboroff had failed to offer the resistance expected of them. In another reply he confirmed the resistance of a Czech-Slav force fighting on the Russian side, composed partly of prisoners taken from the Austro-Hungarians who had entered the Russian army. # AN APPEAL

To the People of Newfoundland

Since the outbreak of the present great War, this Colony, in common with all other parts of the British Empire, has sent forth her bravest and best sons to uphold the glorious traditions of our Flag and Empire.

Amongst the fighting Forces of Great Britain and her splendid Allies the men of the Newfoundland Regiment have established a name and record for themselves and their beloved Country, that will live for generations to come, and will redound to the lasting glory and honour of this most ancient and loyal Colony.

Up to a few months ago a steady number of recruits were available to fill up the gaps, in the ranks, that were continually occurring, owing to our Regiment being called upon to participate in all, or most, of the important battles in France and Flanders, as well as the earlier days in Gallipoli. But, unfortunately, for the past few months there has not been sufficient men offering to replace those who are no longer able to hold their places in the fighting line, who have to retire through wounds or sickness—in addition to those who have laid down their lives in the righteous cause for which we are fighting. Are we, the kinsmen, at home of these glorious soldiers of Newfoundland, to turn a deaf ear to the call for help that they are continually sending forth? Are we to let go for naught the great and valiant deeds that they have accomplished, by holding back and failing to keep the gaps filled up?

In as much as the lads who have fought and suffered and died so heroically and nobly for us,—our Country and our homes, in the past,—are those who are left behind content to allow their deeds and sacrifices to go for naught, and have the world realize that the young men of Newfoundland who still remain at home, are not made of the same good stock as those who won distinctions in the British line. No, I feel that there are hundreds of young men who only want to be awakened to a realization of their responsibilities, when they will come forward and take the places of those who are gone, or incapacitated, and relieve for a time at least, those brave boys (especially those of the first five hundred) who have borne the heat and turmoil of the Battle, should be given an opportunity to return to their homes for that well earned rest which they naturally desire and long for.

We are about to start on an active recruiting campaign, and recruiting parties will be sent to all parts of the Island, so that every man who is eligible for service will be given an opportunity to enlist. Every provision will be made for the comfort and care of those dependents whom they leave behind. In the case of married men and others leaving dependents, separation allowances are provided under Regulations just published.

Pensions will be provided for those who are incapacitated through wounds or sickness, as well as the dependents of those who make the supreme sacrifice. Therefore, I confidently appeal to the young men of the Country, who are of Military age, to offer themselves as recruits for a Regiment that every man, be he Newfoundland or otherwise, might well feel proud of. Do your duty now; play the man's part, and never let it be thrown in your faces or the faces of your children that you failed in your duty to your Country in her hour of greatest trial. I appeal to the mothers, to the fathers, and to the sisters, to help the boys to realize their duty, and spur them on, to quit themselves like men, so that they may participate in the great victory that is surely coming, and which cannot be delayed much longer.

If this appeal, and our present recruiting efforts are not fruitful of the necessary number of recruits before the end of the year, we will then have reached the parting of the ways; we must then take one of two courses—either withdraw our Regiment as a separate unit, which would be a most unfortunate and deplorable occurrence, or the Government of the Colony will be reluctantly compelled to consider other means of acquiring men to keep our fighting Forces up to the required strength. Prove, therefore, men of Newfoundland, that this ancient and loyal Colony is able, and is prepared, to keep at least one Battalion in the fighting line, composed entirely of volunteers, to maintain the magnificent record already gained right through to the close of hostilities.

Men who are not altogether fit for active service will find an opportunity to do "their bit" by applying for admission into the Forestry Companies, which are also badly in need of more men.

Your Brothers in Arms Are Calling! Your Duty Is to Go!

J. R. BENNETT, Minister of Militia.

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY

On the recommendation of the Minister of Militia, and under the provisions of the Act 8 George V. Cap. XVII, His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to approve the following Regulations governing the issue of Separation Allowances for the Newfoundland Expeditionary Force.

Regulations Governing the Issue of Separation Allowance for the Newfoundland Expeditionary Force.

Section I.—Explanations.

- Separation Allowance is a grant made by the Government of Newfoundland to dependents of members of the Newfoundland Expeditionary Force, while such members in respect of whom it is paid, remain on the strength of that Force.
- The object of the Allowance is to assist members of the Force while serving therein, providing and maintaining a home for their respective dependents.
- "Allowance" within the text of these Regulations means "Separation Allowance."
- "Dependents" within the meaning of these Regulations, includes:
  - Wife;
  - Motherless children;
  - Widowed mother, if the officer or soldier is her sole support, and is unmarried within the meaning of these Regulations;
  - Mother, whose husband is alive but totally incapacitated from earning a living, if the officer or soldier is her sole support and is unmarried within the meaning of these Regulations.
- "Officers" within the meaning of these Regulations includes all officers appointed to the Newfoundland Expeditionary Force, and paid as members of such.
- "Soldiers" within the meaning of these Regulations includes all ranks, except officers, properly attested and serving on the strength of the Newfoundland Expeditionary Force, and paid as members of such.
- "Mother" within the meaning of these Regulations includes Foster-mother and Step-mother.
- "Widowed mother" within the meaning of these Regulations, includes widowed foster-mother and widowed step-mother.
- "Children" within the meaning of these Regulations includes step-children.
- "Unmarried officers and soldiers," will be held to include "widowers" without children, and will also include married officers and soldiers, provided no Separation Allowance is issuable to their wives or legitimate children.

Section II.—General Instructions.

- The following regulations for the issue of Separation Allowance will be effective from the first day of September, 1917, for the remaining period of the War, and will be regarded as authoritative directions in the matter of Separation Allowance, subject to amendments by Order in Council.
- They will have no retroactive effect.
- Rates of Allowance.—The rates of allowance shall be as follows:

Rank and File	Per month
Sergeants and higher rank below that of W.O. (1st class)	$20 00
Warrant Officer (1st class)	25 00
Lieutenants	30 00
Captains	40 00
Majors	50 00
Officers of Field rank higher than that of Major	60 00
- No person shall receive more than one Allowance for his or her own benefit.
- Only one Allowance may be issued on account of any officer or soldier, and that will be paid to and for his dependents. In exceptional cases, however, as for instance when there is a wife in one locality, and children by a former wife in another, the Allowance may be divided.
- Soldiers on whose account Separation Allowance is issuable, should assign to the recipient not less than 15 days pay of rank (Working Pay and Field Allowance excluded). In cases where no such assignment has been made, but where it has been decided that the dependent is entitled to Separation Allowance, an assignment of 15 days pay of rank (Working Pay and Field Allowance excluded) may be put in force against the account of the officer or soldier. In cases where such an assignment is put in force against an officer or soldier, this officer or soldier will be notified forthwith of the action taken. Should he object and submit reasons for his objections, it will be decided whether the assignment shall be continued or not.
- Section III.—Casualties to the Officer or Soldier.
- Subject to corresponding increase of Assigned Pay, Separation Allowance will increase automatically with promotion, provided that such promotion has been confirmed and published in Part II. Daily Orders, quoting competent authority, but promotion to acting rank will not be accepted as a reason for increase of Separation Allowance. Such increase will take effect from the first day of the month following that in which promotion was confirmed.

17. The rate of Separation Allowance will not be reduced when an officer or soldier voluntarily reverts to lower rank in order to proceed overseas from England to the Front, but upon a reduction or reversion for any other cause, the rate of Allowance will automatically decrease to the rate authorized for such lower rank. Such decrease will take effect from the first day of the month following that in which such reduction or reversion was confirmed.

18. In the case of officers and soldiers who die while serving, or who are reported "missing," and whose dependents are in receipt of Separation Allowance, Separation Allowance shall continue to be paid monthly thereafter at the rates laid down in Clause (a) below, and Assigned Pay shall continue or begin to be paid at the rates laid down in Clause (b) below, until such time as pension is ready for issue, in cases where a pension is to be awarded. In cases where no pension is to be awarded, Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay shall cease as soon as the S. A. and A. P. Division has been notified of the fact that no pension is to be awarded. If the proofs necessary to the granting of a pension are being unreasonably delayed, the Board of Pension Commissioners will so advise the S. A. and A. P. Division, with a view to having payments cease. Provided that in no case shall Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay be issued for more than three months after the first day of the month following that in which the officer or soldier was officially reported dead.

(a) The rate at which Separation Allowance shall be paid in the above cases will be that to which the officer or soldier was entitled at the time of his death or when he was reported "missing."

(b) Assigned Pay will be paid monthly at a rate equal to 15 days pay of rank of the officer or soldier, (Working Pay and Field Allowance excluded).

Section 4.—Withdrawal, Cessation and Suspension.

- The Allowance will be discontinued to a dependent who is owing to serious misconduct, unworthy to receive it.
- Except as is provided in Paras. 21 and 22, the Allowance, if otherwise issuable, will not be withheld for periods for which the officer or soldier forfeits pay.

21. The Allowance may be suspended if the soldier on whose behalf it has been issued, is sentenced by any properly constituted authority to imprisonment for a period of six months or over. The Allowance will be resumed from the date on which the soldier again commences to draw pay after the completion of his sentence.

22. Payment of the Allowance will be suspended upon the officer or soldier being reported absent without leave and the account will be closed from the date on which it was suspended upon the officer or soldier being declared a deserter by a Court of Enquiry.

23. If the officer or soldier rejoins from desertion, payments suspended under the provisions of the foregoing paragraph may be resumed from the date on which he again comes on pay.

24. Dependents of officers and soldiers reported "Prisoners of War" will continue to draw the allowance as if the officer or soldier were still on active service.

25. When the officer or soldier is discharged without pension, Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay may be continued to the dependents to the end of the month, in which the officer or soldier is discharged.

Section V.—Wives and Legitimate Children.

26. The Allowance may be issued in favour of such motherless legitimate children as, in the case of boys, are under the age of 16 and, in the case of girls, under the age of 17.

27. When the Allowance is claimed by an officer or soldier for his motherless children, a Guardian of the children should be named in writing by the officer or soldier for the purpose of receiving the Allowance.

28. The Allowance will not be issued for dependents who are maintained in a Government or Benevolent Institution at the expense of the Government, or public subscription.

29. Where a wife is separated from her husband by written Separation Agreement or a Judicial Decree of "Separate from bed and board" or other similar Judicial Decree, parting her from her husband, and is entitled under such Agreement or by order of a competent Court to payment from her husband, such payment shall be made from the Separation Allowance issued to her; and if the Separation Allowance does not equal the amount so agreed upon or ordered to be paid by the Court, a compulsory assignment of pay, equivalent to the difference between the Separation Allowance and such payment, but not exceeding 15 days pay of rank (Working pay and field allowance excluded), of the officer or soldier, may be put into effect against the officer or soldier.

(a) Where the wife is separated from her husband as above and is living apart from the children and is not charged with their care, Separation Allowance or Assigned Pay or a portion thereof, subject to any valid claim of the wife by virtue of Separation Agreement or Judicial Decree, may be issued to the Guardian of the children.

(b) If the wife has been separated from her husband by Separation Agreement or Judicial Decree, and it does not appear that the husband is absolved from supporting her, and if the wife furnish a satisfactory explanation for not having obtained a judgment for alimony, Separation Allowance may be issued to the wife.

30. Where the wife is separated from her husband not by virtue of a written Separation Agreement or Judicial Decree, and the wife for a reasonable time prior to the enlistment of the officer or soldier, was separated from him and was not in receipt of any payment from him, no issue of Separation Allowance will be made.

31. A mother whose husband is, through physical or mental disability, entirely incapacitated from earning a living, will be treated as a widowed mother, and granted the allowance provided the officer or soldier prior to enlistment was or subsequent to enlistment has become her sole support, and the officer or soldier is unmarried within the meaning of Para. 10.

(a) Any material improvement in the financial condition of a mother receiving the Allowance as a widowed mother, must be at once communicated to the officer issuing Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay, and the withholding of such information whereby payments have been obtained, shall be deemed to constitute fraudulent action.

32. If otherwise eligible, a widowed mother dependent on two unmarried sons, one of whom has enlisted in the Force, will be entitled to the Allowance when the remaining son enlists; and a widow with three or more unmarried sons, on whom she is dependent, will be entitled to the Allowance when a third son has enlisted.

33. The Allowance of a widowed mother will cease on her re-marriage, or upon the marriage of her son, in respect of whom the Allowance has been granted.

34. The Allowance may be granted for such adopted children of an officer or soldier as are, in the case of boys, under the age of sixteen, and in the case of girls, under the age of seventeen, provided such children have been regularly supported by the officer or soldier.

Section 7.—Procedure for Making Claims — On Enlistment.

35. On appointment, every officer, and on enlistment, every soldier, claiming separation allowance for a dependent shall report to the Paymaster of his unit and fill out a Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay Card. All applications for the Allowance on the grounds of "Sole support" and as "Guardian" must be accompanied by a Statutory declaration and such other documentary evidence as may be required to substantiate the claim.

36. A soldier who has a dependent but considers such dependent not eligible for Separation Allowance under these Regulations will be required to deliver to the Paymaster of his Unit, a statement under oath of the reason why he considers such dependent not eligible for the Allowance. Otherwise if such dependent will make a claim for Separation Allowance it will be taken for granted that the officer or soldier knows no valid reason why the allowance should not be granted and a compulsory assignment put into force against him.

37. Where the claim for Separation Allowance under Para. 35 is refused as inadmissible, the amount of pay assigned by the soldier will be paid to the person named, unless it appears that the soldier has a dependent eligible for Separation Allowance, in which case the Separation Allowance may be granted to such dependent and an assignment may be put into force against the soldier in favor of such dependent. In such cases the soldier will be informed of what action has been taken by the department and a similar notification will be sent to the dependents concerned.

Claims After Enlistment.

38. An officer or soldier intending to marry must inform his paymaster of his intention to marry a sufficient time in advance of the marriage, to allow steps to be taken to discontinue the issue of any Separation Allowance or Assigned Pay previously authorized for another dependent on his account. He will at the same time, state whether any such issue of Separation Allowance or Assigned Pay has been authorized; and if so, to whom.

In such cases, if Separation Allowance or Assigned Pay has previously been authorized for another dependent, the paymaster will at once take steps to have it discontinued. The issue to the wife shall not commence until the issue to the other dependent has ceased, which should be at the end of the month in which the marriage has taken place.

39. As soon as the marriage has taken place, upon the production to the paymaster of the marriage certificate, a notification showing the date and the place of the marriage, and the wife's full name and address, will appear in Part II. Orders, and a Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay Card will be completed by the officer or soldier and delivered to the paymaster. The latter will satisfy himself that the wife of the soldier is of a good character before any action in respect of payment is taken. If there is any doubt in the matter, the fullest enquiry is to be made by the paymaster, and a report sent to the officer issuing the Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay.

40. An officer or soldier who has not, on enlistment, claimed Separation Allowance for a dependent may afterwards submit a claim through his paymaster.

41. In cases of dependents other than wives and legitimate children, unless the application for Separation Allowance is made within thirty (30) days of appointment or enlistment, no arrears of the Allowance will be issued for the period prior to application.

Mixed vegetables are very good for winter soup. Can as any fresh vegetable is canned.
Vinegar works like a charm when it comes to cleaning dirt and smoke from walls and woodwork. Wet a flannel cloth with it and rub.
A butter and sugar thin sauce may be enriched by sultana raisins which have been cooked.
A little jar of beef extra-3 kept in the refrigerator is useful to add meat flavor to a vegetable dish.
Sweet pickled apples are delicious served with meats. They may be made just as pickled peaches are.
A teakettle of boiling water should be poured down the kitchen sink every night. This will prevent clogging.

No German Peace.

German agents are now conducting a systematic peace propaganda, alike in Germany, in neutral countries, and so far as they are able among the enemy nations. When this effort fails, as their masters know it must, these masters will proclaim loudly, as they have proclaimed many times before: "Schultz! We are willing to make peace, but our wicked foes will have none of it. On them therefore rests the responsibility for the continuation of this awful conflict."

Nothing could offer a spectacle of more complete retribution than this plight in which Prussian Junkerdom now finds itself. In July, 1914, Europe was at peace—and, save for Germany alone, willing and anxious to remain at peace, willing to make any reasonable sacrifice to that end. But Germany did not want and would not have peace, save on terms which would permit her to feed the smaller nations to the dogs (Austria's note to Serbia, and Germany to the powers regarding Austria and Serbia), to carry on active preparations for hostilities while the only neighbor against whom they could by any possibility be directed was to remain deliberately defenceless (the ultimatum upon the Russian mobilization), and to remain in possession of supreme power on land while the possessor of supreme sea-power was to tie her own hands with an agreement not to avail herself of that power (the charter about freedom of the seas.)

At the time of which we speak, Germany responded to the appeals of the present Allies for peace with the harsh ultimatum: "There shall be no peace which does not leave Germany master of the world."

The war which she thrust upon the world, thanks to the splendid resistance of Belgium and France to the first terrific onslaught, has back-fired in Germany's face. She now finds herself in a position where victory is unattainable, defeat imminent. Naturally then she seeks a draw, and uses every means to bring about a calling off of her foes; and the number of good-intentioned persons deceived by her present attitude is legion.

To such persons we would bring home again and again the fact that there can be no permanent peace with Germany as now constituted. We do not presume to dictate to Germany how she shall be governed, as the accusation runs. We do claim the right to do with Germany somewhat as Germany did with France in 1871—to say "with this government of yours we can make no peace; the war will continue until you have a government with which we can treat on a basis of mutual confidence."

When Germany possessed the power of dictating between war and peace, she chose war, and forced war upon the world. Nor was the war of her forcing such a war as had ever before been known. It was a war in which one neighbor was wantonly attacked, because she refused to bind herself not to join Germany's foes, another because she would not join Germany against those foes. It was a war destined to confer immortality upon the phrases "von heute wird kein German" and "spartus vorankt," upon the names of Cavell and Fryatt. But now the power of dictating between war and peace has passed from Germany to the United States, and our Allies, and as we look back upon July and August, 1914, we can only say to Germany:

"You made the war upon your own terms, at your own time, and enforced it upon an unwilling world. Now the world will make peace with you upon its own terms and at its own time, and if necessary force terms and time upon you."

In taking this position, we are not actuated by any motives of blind rage or desire for revenge. We act merely in self defence. It is simply that we know why Germany, as now constituted, wants peace now. More than one of her influential men, in a moment of undue recklessness, has made this plain to the whole world, has explicitly stated that he regards the much-sought-for peace as merely a period of preparation "for the next war."

In their secret councils, who can doubt that Germany's magnates bring this point forward with the utmost candor? They thought, three years ago, that they had worked out a procedure for overrunning the world.

They find that they were mistaken; so they have revised their formula, and are sure that this time they have it right. But the "idiotic Yankees" (von Papen) who are the prospective victims of their program for world conquest, refuse, for some reason which the German mind cannot fathom, to afford Germany the interval of peace necessary for the initiation of her renewed attack upon the world's liberties. And on grounds of legitimate self-defence, this refusal will continue until the consciousness that the world is not by divine proclamation Germany's (Feigste) is drummed into the Kaiser and his captains, until all thought of a "next war" shall have been driven from their heads. We will push this war to a finish, in order that we shall never have a "next war."—Scientific American.

How Soldiers are Traced.

One of the most important duties performed by our non-fighting soldiers is the keeping of records, by no means a light job. Regiments to-day consist of between 14,000 and 15,000 men, and there are invariably four or five regiments attached to each Record Office. Every detail regarding the soldier is kept here, and when anything goes wrong or any casualty befalls him, it is at the Record Office that the first anxious inquiries are made. If the soldier takes it into his head to get married, the fact must be duly noted, in order that the separation allowance may be paid, and all delays in the payment of allowances due to any cause whatever, bring to the Record Office an immediate demand for an explanation. Intimations of births, deaths, and marriages, claims for allowances and pensions, insistent demands regarding soldiers who are missing, and many other matters furnish work for the wearied soldier at the Record Office, and oftentimes make him feel that if the fighting line was more dangerous, it was less worrying than helping to keep "records" in a dingy office.

Every mother is the best judge of the age at which her child should be told of the origin of human life. No two children develop in exactly the same way and the mother must be guided by her understanding of the child in determining just when her mind is prepared to receive knowledge of this nature. It is a mistake to tell a child these things when her mind is not ready for them that they come as something of a shock, but it is equally a mistake for a mother to wait too long, until the child has perhaps learned these truths from some other and undesirable sources. When you explain these truths to your children tell them how sacred they are and that they should never under any circumstances be discussed with their companions.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Is it ever permissible to wear a bridal veil with a dress without a train?" inquired Miss Bride-to-be.
"A bridal veil should only be worn with a train dress. The dress or train need not be long, however, but a short dress would not look right," advised her friend.
