Big Ben

BIG BEN is a household word because he's a clock of his word. He runs on time, he rings on time, he helps folks live on time.

These are family traits. All Westclox Alarms run true and ring true. They're all good looking, too. You can tell them by the family name, Westclox, on the face.

The Westclox Clock Company builds them in the patented Westclox way—the better method of clock making that won Big Ben's success. Needle-fine pivots of polished steel greatly reduce friction. Westclox runs on time and rings on time.

That's why they say: "Westclox are best clocks." And you will, too, so look for that family name, Westclox, on the dial of the alarm you buy.

Your dealer has them. Big Ben is $4.00.

CHAPTER V.
A VILLAGE FETE.

Then, after a moment's silence, he can feel that she is trembling; her own words have brought a dread to her hitherto fearless young heart. All night! They may be lost all night! And Aunt Martha—what will she do—what will she say? All in a moment her mood changes from courageous to timid and imploring.

One hand goes to her face to stem the fear that suddenly springs to her eyes.

Cyril literally shakes with agony at her sudden misery.

"Don't!" he says, sharply; her tears stop him. "It is all my cursed stupidity! Edna, I'll take you home before night—that brook, we must be near it! If I could think—Ah! where is that ball of crocheted cotton you had in the train?"

"My crocheted cotton! What do you want with that?" Edna says, but she takes it out of her pocket and hands it to him.

Cyril takes the ball, unwinds a round of the cotton, and tries it; it is not very strong. Edna waits, and watches, after a fashion, in smiling curiosity.

"See here, child," he says, "I must find that track, and we must push on—we must! There is no use waiting for this beastly mist, it may last for hours; there is only one resource,

You take hold of this end and hold tight, I'll go with the matches and hunt for the track, and run out the ball as I go, so that I can feel my way back to you."

Edna shudders.

"Yes," says Cyril. "Courage, my child! Keep tight hold of the cotton. You don't mind being left for a few minutes. If you knew how I hate leaving you; but it can't be helped."

Edna chokes back her tears and shakes her head.

"Do you think I am afraid to be left? It is not that!"

"What then? Have you got it tight?"

"No! You don't know which way to go! We may be on the edge of a precipice—"

Cyril laughs carelessly.

"Oh, I shall be all right. I must find the track; keep hold of the cotton, and if I happen to slip, or it should break, stop where you are—don't move an inch; the ulster's warm."

As he speaks he presses her hand, and then loosens his hold of it.

Edna clutches his arm and holds it like a tiny vise.

"No—not I don't mind staying!" she sobs. "You must not go—I—"

Cyril puts her hand away tenderly but firmly.

"Child, you don't know what you say. I'd rather die than you should stay here all night."

She puts her hand up to her face and shudders; then she catches him again, and in a low voice says:

"Give me the ball a moment—it isn't strong enough."

"Yes, I think so," he says, and put it into her hand.

With a long breath she holds it aloft a moment, then flings it boldly into space.

"What's that?" exclaims Cyril. "The ball—good God! you haven't thrown the ball—"

For answer she falls on his breast, her hands upon his shoulders, her sweet, piteous face upturned to him.

"Yes—I have thrown it away! I would rather stay here forever—I would rather die here than you should go."

Then the strong arm trembles like a leaf; he clasps her to him with a low cry, and hides her sweet, fair face upon his bosom.

"Oh, Edna! my darling—my darling!"

CHAPTER VII IN LOVE'S LIGHT.

It was in no dream this time that she heard those words, "Edna, my darling, my darling!" It had come true, that hysterical fancy of hers, and he did love her; love!—what did it mean?

She raised her head slowly and shyly, and slowly found courage to look up at him. It was a goodly sight, for there was that on Sir Cyril's face that had never been there before, and that made him look more than handsome—noble; it was the glow and light of an honest, passionate love.

"Edna—my Edna! you threw the cotton away because I should not leave; do you—can it be possible that you love me?"

She draws her head back, and with her hands resting—pushing against—his breast, looks up at him curiously, almost breathlessly; her lips slightly apart, eyes soft and tenderly dreamy, a delicious languor settling on her whole face—a bewitching face truly to have so near one's own.

"Do I love you?" she repeats slowly, a beautiful blush coloring her loveliness; "do you love me?"

"With all my heart and soul!" responds Cyril in a low, deep voice.

"Oh, tell me, Edna—little fairy—do you really love me?"

She shakes her head slowly, and answers softly:

"I do not know. How can I know? Tell me."

Cyril draws her closer to him, and gently forces her cheek against his heart; she resigns herself with a sigh, and looks up at him expectantly.

"My child," he says—whispers almost, for this sweet innocence of hers is as sacred to him—the world-worn, pleasure-sated man—that he feels as if he were communing with an spirit in some holy place.

"My child, do you not know? Why did you not want me to leave you? You were not afraid to be left alone?" She shakes her head.

"I was afraid for you; we may be near some dangerous precipice—you might fall!"—she shudders—"No; I could not let you go, could I? But tell me, do I love you? What is love? I feel so strange, so—so happy? Is it like a dream? Oh, if I knew!"

Cyril's eyes devour her with a lover's eagerness.

"Do you love me?" he says; "let us see. Tell me, Edna, the truth—nothing but the truth—and I will answer the question for you. My darling, you are happy, you say; is it because I am here?"

A rapt, wistful look came into her eyes.

"Yes," she answers, "I think so, I am sure; I have never been so happy before—no, never. I am always happy when you are near me, and I feel so lonely and restless when you are away. Is that love?"

There is a pause of a moment; Cyril will not speak—will not, by word or movement, break the exquisite delight of her artless confession.

"How long is it since we saw each other? Not long, and yet it seems years and years ago! Oh, what did I do before you came? All that time—before, I mean—seems so dark, so long ago. Do you remember how we sat and looked at the lake, and I told you about all my life, and what we were to do, Aunt Martha and I, in London? What made me tell you? It seemed as if I must, did it not? Did I love you then?"

"God knows! Perhaps," whispers Cyril.

"And you listened, and spoke so gently; I liked to hear your voice even then. I did not mind talking to you—it was good to be sitting near you, and to look into your kind face! And then you came to the pension. Did you come because of my being

GIVE ME A CHANCE TO Cure Your RHEUMATISM FREE

Mr. Delano took his own medicine. It cured his rheumatism after he had suffered tortures for thirty-six years. He spent thousands of dollars before he discovered the remedy that cured him, but I will give you the benefit of his experience for nothing.

If you suffer from rheumatism let me send you a package of this remedy absolutely free. Don't send any money. I want to give it to you. I want you to see for yourself what it will do. The picture shows how rheumatism twists and distorts the bones. Maybe you are suffering the same way. Don't. You don't need to. I have the remedy that I believe will cure you and it's yours for the asking. Write me to-day, P. H. Delano, 809, Delano Bldg., Syracuse, New York, and I will send you a free package the very day I get your letter.

NOTE: Orders for Delano's Rheumatic Conqueror will be filled from their Canadian Laboratories without duty.

there—oh, did you come for my sake?"

And a vivid blush glows upon her eager face.

"For whose else, sweet?"

"For mine," she repeats, with dreamy content, "and I never knew it. Yet I was glad when you came; it was like an old friend, and yet quite different, when you came in at the door and I was glad that you sat near me. Did I love you then, I wonder? Ah, no! With a swift, intense look,

"perhaps I was growing to—was I? How strange it is! Yes, I was beginning to—if I do really love you now—for the days all seemed brighter, and at night, when you said good-night, and used to hold my hand, it seemed so nice to think that I should see you in the morning—that you would be sure to be at the garden door waiting for me—for you always waited for me, did you not?—and that the flowers beside my plate were yours. I kept one bunch on the pillow beside me one night; they smelled so sweet, and they made me think of you."

"My darling!"

"And then came that dreadful crowd, and when I seemed sinking, sinking under a horrible sea, some strong arm bore me up and carried me away. Through it all—when I had lost all—the crowd—that horrible man—I knew you were near, and I was happy! And now, when the mist came, I did not care; I laughed, did I not? Ah, yes, I should laugh if I was on a rock, and the sea rising, if you were near; I could not be afraid or sad at anything if I could hear your voice, touch your hand—is that love—do I love you?"

Cyril drank in the fervent gaze of her questioning eyes.

"What do you think, yourself?" he asks, with a smile. "Tell me Edna?"

Her eyes dropped as she thought for a moment, then she raised them bravely.

"I think it is love," she answered, "and that I do love you."

Rapidly, boldly, as it descended, the mist rises, and in great clouds of vapor is gradually disappearing.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made, and save about $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and hushes the sore, irritated membranes so easily and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma as the cause of a cough and gives relief in a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly returned.

act of the official communication of the proceedings of the sessions is as follows: "The War Council met this morning at 10.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m., and was presided over by the President of the Council, the Prime Ministers of the British Empire, Italy, as well as the Secretary of the United States, the British Secretary of War and the French Minister of War. The representatives of the Japanese Government, Mr. Maruyama, accompanied by General Wilson, General Macdonald, and the military representatives of the United States, France, and Britain. The Council considered the military experts as to the progress of the war, and the Allies and Associated Powers, the Western front during the operations of the armistice. It was decided to set up a special committee of Mr. Churchill, Mr. L. Marshall, Mr. Foch, General Diaz, and General Diaz to examine the situation. It was also decided to recommend the approval of the governments of the Allies and Associated Powers on the issue of an identical declaration and ribbon to all the forces of the Allies and Associated Powers to be taken part in the war.

WILL DISCUSS LOYAL.
Paris, Jan. 24.

(A.P.)—The second session of the Peace Congress to be held tomorrow will, like the first be open to the press. The first subject on the agenda will be international business on labor. Under the agenda given at the first session of the national delegations have been preparing written statements on the views on the subject, and it is understood that under a special order will be received by the committee and referred to a committee which will give careful study to the reports and endeavor to harmonize them into a general program to be recommended to the Congress for approval. British and American views are believed to harmonize in many respects, and there is no doubt that the generally the principles enunciated will be found acceptable to most of the Entente.

Data is being prepared to illustrate a simultaneous movement of the principles of international protection of labor by governments, agencies in the United States, Britain and France. Other agencies are said to relate to child labor, the prohibition of work for minors, a basic eight-hour day, and the prohibition of industrial trade in products made by child labor.

Competition for the world's business is to be avoided, it is understood, and a spirit of mutual cooperation is to govern as the best method of avoiding wars resulting from such competition.

The Supreme War Council also agreed to recommend the approval of the governments of the Allies and Associated Powers and ribbon to all the forces Allied and Associated Powers have taken part in the war.

loyal to the Government, according to accurate accounts received in Madrid. The Madrid newspapers, however, have advised reporting that the army is on the side of the revolutionists. PUTTING DOWN SPARTACAN OUTBREAK. HAMBURG, Jan. 24. The Government troops are making short work of putting down the Spartacan outbreak here. When the revolt began the Spartacans occupied the railway station and other government buildings, but since have been driven out. They attempted to attack the city hall yesterday, but met with a heavy machine gun fire and retreated. They also have been driven from several police stations which they had occupied.

GARRISON GOES OVER. VIGO, Spain, Jan. 24. The greater part of the Lisbon garrison has gone over to the monarchists, according to reports on the progress of the Portuguese revolution received here from Coimbra, in Northern Portugal, and other localities. The wireless station near Lisbon is said to be in Royalist hands.

ANOTHER BOLSHEVIK DEFEAT. PARIS, Jan. 24. Lithuanian troops have inflicted a defeat upon the Bolsheviki near Kescodary, about midway between Kovno and Vilna, according to reports from Kovno received here. The casualties of the Bolsheviki were heavy and they are reported to have lost 6,500 men in prisoners. The Lithuanians are said to be advancing towards Vilna. The losses of the Lithuanians are declared to have been slight.

NOW A PRISONER. BASEL, Jan. 24. Leon Trotsky, the Bolsheviki Minister of War, did not escape from Narva after the defeat of the Bolshevists by the Estonians, but was taken prisoner, according to despatches received here from Libau.

NOT ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED. LONDON, Jan. 24. Newspapers here comment lukewarmly on the plan for a conference between an Allied Commission and representatives of the various Governments in Russia. The Post sarcastically condemns the proposal, and says among other things that it displays more than Christian weakness. The Times, while not enthusiastically in favor of the proposal, hopes it will work, and says that even if it does not, the hands of the Allies will have been strengthened by the failure. E. J. Dillon, the foreign political expert of the Telegraph, writing from Paris, says the Prince's Island plans caused consternation in Russian circles in Paris, and adds that he is authorized to declare that the Governments of Omsk, Archangel, Crimea and Yekaterinoda will absolutely refuse to send representatives to the Conference.

U. S. PLAN. WASHINGTON, Jan. 24. To solve the problem of unemployment with discharged soldiers, the War Department has ordered that no man be discharged from the army against his desire until such time as he can obtain employment in civil life.

VERDICT OF MURDER. LONDON, Jan. 24. The Coroner's Jury to-day brought in a verdict of willful murder against Lieut.-Colonel Norman Cecil Rutherford, of the Medical Corps of the British army, in connection with the death of Major Miles Charles Seton, who was shot and killed Jan. 13. At the inquest a detective testified that Col. Rutherford wrote to his wife saying "I am sorry the worst possible has happened; Seton is dead."

RED CROSS NURSES SUICIDE. BORDEAUX, Jan. 24. Misses Gladys and Dorothy Cromwell, sisters, of New York, leaped from the rail of the French steamer, La Lorraine, as the steamer was in the Gironde River bound for New York to-day. Both were drowned. The bodies have not been recovered. Both the young women belonged to the American Red Cross and were returning home. A letter found in their stateroom and addressed to the commanding officer of their Red Cross unit informed him of their intention "to end it all." The Misses Cromwell had spent much time at the front and friends say they had complained of being tired physically and mentally.

FOOD SITUATION. LONDON, Jan. 24. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—G. H. Roberts, British Food Controller, interviewed by a Reuter's correspondent on his return from Paris where he had been attending the meeting of the Allied Supreme Council of supply and relief, said, that substantial progress had been made in the all-important matter of food supplies. The Allies' first concern was naturally with the Allied countries, then with neutrals and afterwards with enemy countries. The problem of food supplies was being exhaustively investigated and the needs of the various countries being ascertained, and it was believed, relief could be provided without creating any undue shortage in the home market. Relief had been supplied where urgent, but countries needing supplies must re-establish their credits so that the arrangement might be conducted on a rational trade basis. There was every indication that settled government would result from the election in Germany and he did not believe in a continuance of chaos there. "The Allies' message to all neutral countries and enemy countries was: "Go on and establish a settled government. It is no concern of the Allies what is its character or complexion. We are willing to assure you a share of our supplies provided you display an intention to create peace within your own territories and preserve peace with other countries."

VERY REASONABLE.

LONDON, Jan. 23. (Via Reuter's Agency.)—The engineering Trades Committee of the Ministry of reconstruction which was appointed in Dec. 1917 to compile a list of articles which were not made in the United Kingdom before the war or made in sufficient quantities and for which there is likely to be a considerable demand after the war, has submitted a report wherein are made a number of important recommendations. The committee strongly recommends the extensive adoption of specialization and standardization, especially in the case of small manufacturers who, it is believed, would do better to confine themselves to manufacturing new types of articles which they could then bring to greater perfection and produce more cheaply. This would enable the engineering operation to be carried out as repetition work which would enable many highly skilled and highly paid men to be employed in the manufacturing of necessary tools and also create an opening for the employment at good wages of a number of skilled and semi-skilled operatives, both male and female and wounded soldiers. The committee emphasizes the importance of co-ordination in manufacture and design recommending that in future all government designs and specifications should be considered in operation with an expert in workshop methods and production. The members of the committee are of the opinion that in the absence of special circumstances, government departments and public utilities should order standard goods of British manufacture and that where there is no question of ordering a standard design they should have in view the encouragement of production of articles of new and improved types or experimental designs. In order to stimulate production the committee considers that both employees and work people should be educated by the employers. Regarding what is being done in up-to-date works where quality production is scientifically carried out to remove the impression that quantity production produces unemployed and to make them realize the national importance of producing the maximum output in a minimum time, the committee further recommends that a new industry should not be introduced into the United Kingdom unless the wages paid to the workers therein are such as to ensure an adequate standard of living; also no industry should be introduced under conditions involving any special liability on the part of those engaged in it to industrial disease. The committee recommends that German magnets should be excluded for a period after the war except under license and that a duty should be imposed on all imported magnets. Regarding aircraft machinery committee considers that owing to the enormous expansion of this industry during the war its output and capacity will be greater than the demand for years to come and advises the government to take immediate steps to avoid the extinction of so important an industry.

At 72 He Lives to Tell Wonderful Story!

"Eleven years ago I was in a hospital for seven weeks at a cost of over two hundred dollars," says Mr. Wilson the well-known hydraulic engineer. "For two years I suffered tortments, and under medical treatment I laid up six weeks under doctor's care. Truly in the last twelve years I have wanted to die. I was in such agony. I would say, 'good Lord take me, rather than go through it again.' "But now I am a new man. I am a better man today than I was twelve years ago. I can almost get up by the back of my head. I could do that at 30, now I am 72."

Mr. Wilson is only one of thousands who suffered for years, even before the general belief in the old, false theory, that "Lime Acid" causes rheumatism. This common belief has misled him and legions of unfortunate men and women to take wrong treatments. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as to try and get rid of your rheumatism, neuralgia and like complaints, by taking wrong medicine. Many physicians now know that Uric Acid never did and never will cause rheumatism; that it is a natural and necessary constituent of the blood; that it is found in every new-born babe, and in those who do not die.

NOTE: If any reader of the Telegram wishes the book that reveals these facts regarding the true cause and cure of rheumatism, that was overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to the author below, and it will be sent by return mail without any charge whatever. Send now! If not a sufferer yourself, hand this good news to some afflicted friend. The author of this remarkable book, which has brought relief and happiness to so many is H. F. To a seafaring community no notice is so weighted with dread as the three word heading to this article.

'Posted as Missing' is not an unfamiliar phrase to Newfoundlanders. Few there are of our people who have not experienced the anxious time of waiting, who have not made the daily enquiry at the shipping office.

English Appreciation

'The new arrival of frozen fish from Newfoundland is now on offer. Apparently those responsible for this shipment have given heed to the comments passed on previous consignments.

New York Notes.

To one who, like the writer, has not seen it for some years, New York to-day seems the same as ever. 'Only more so', which is to say that it is more than ever brilliant, more than ever crowded, more than ever busy and, in the first reaction following the war, more than ever inclined to enjoy itself.

A NATION'S TRIBUTE.

Roosevelt's sudden death profoundly shocked the country. If greatness can be measured by popularity, and popularity by a people's tributes when their object has gone from them, then Roosevelt was a great man. Never have I read so genuine and so universal an appreciation, nor one so devoid of criticism, as fowed at once from every quarter and found expression in every newspaper.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

By the time these notes appear some definite progress may have been made at Paris, but at present it does not seem very likely. The American attitude at home is clearly one of expectation: the New York papers are curiously reticent, and, excepting the much vexed 'freedom of the seas' and the 'league of nations', venture few opinions on the subject of the peace terms. There is much sharp criticism of President Wilson, not confined to the Republican press, and more to be heard on the street and in the club-room than to be read in any paper, both on the score of his going to Europe at all and of his plainly exhibited intention of doing things his own way.

A MODERN MIRACLE.

It is hardly too much to characterize the extraordinary sweep, over the whole country, of the prohibition movement, which has achieved a success beyond the most sanguine hopes of those behind it. At the moment of writing the vote of one State legislature alone is required to complete the thirty-six necessary to ensure a national prohibition; and seems a certainty that by summer the United States will be one dry. The public aspect of it is that there is no apparent public opinion to justify such a result. Probably in the country as a whole, and certainly in many of the States that have gone dry, a popular referendum would reverse the decision given by the legislators.

convictions, have hesitated and refused to block what they believe to be a moral reform. But however that may be, and whatever may be said of the rest of the country, a dry New York is a curious thing to contemplate and hardly to be conceived in the imagination until it is actually brought to pass! POLITICS IN IRELAND. DUBLIN, Jan. 24. The political agitation in Ireland, outside the sphere of Sinn Fein activities, is undergoing a revival. A meeting of moderate Home Rulers, headed by Stephen Gwynne, yesterday launched a movement for Home Rule with a separate parliament for each province, or three parliaments, with Leinster and Connaught joined, which they call Dominion Home Rule.

Responsive to demands in Great Britain and the United States, which are echoed in Germany, for an immediate conclusion of the peace treaty, efforts are being made to hasten the adoption of a plan for a League of Nations. IN SOUTH AFRICA, TOO. JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, 25-day. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) A plan, by certain persons, to establish a Bolshevik movement on the Rand, has been unmasked. The principal call themselves International Socialists, and the movement was inaugurated at the time of the armistice celebrations. A circular was issued announcing that the progress in practical arrangements was complete with "Brothers in Russia." Investigations show that the natives will have nothing to do with this Bolshevism, the native strike fiasco, last June, having discredited the International Socialists in the native mind.

PRE-EMINENT IN THE AIR. LONDON, Jan. 24. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) Great Britain was pre-eminent in the air at the close of the war, when the British Air Force was the largest in the world, according to a report made public to-day. It fought on more fronts than the Air Service of any other nation, and its successes were proportionately greater. In August, 1914, the British Naval and Military Air Services, together, mustered only 285 officers and 1,853 men of other ranks. In November, 1918, there were 30,000 officers and 264,000 men. At the outbreak of the war Great Britain had 164 airplanes, 45 seaplanes and 7 airships, while at the close of hostilities she had 21,000 airplanes, 1,300 seaplanes and 103 airships. Besides this there were 25,000 airplanes and seaplanes being built, and 55,000 airplanes engines under contract. The Women's Royal Air Force, which was not in existence in 1914, numbered at the close of hostilities 2,300.

Military experts here realize that the weak points on the Ural front are between Ufa and Chaliaditak, and further south at Orenburg, where General Dutoff's conscripts are reported to be worn out by constant pressure from superior forces of Bolsheviks. Negotiations for the dispatch of allied contingents to Orenburg, are now going on, but have not as yet been brought to a successful conclusion. The capture of Orenburg would give the Bolsheviks control of the railroad running into a rich section of Turkestan, and would increase their ability to resist Allied and Russian forces. (Unconfirmed reports were received in London on January 23rd, that Orenburg had been taken by the Bolsheviks). Further north Bolshevik forces were driven back from Perm.

OF INTEREST TO N.E. LONDON, Jan. 24. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) The Board of Trade announces, that controllers of timber supplies will grant permission for the purchase of its wood from Newfoundland for importation to Bristol Channel ports.

BORDEN FOR NEW CONFERENCE. LONDON, Jan. 24. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) It is understood that Premier Borden has been invited to represent the Dominions at the Conference with representatives of the Russian Government at Princes Islands, in the Sea of Marmora.

NAVAL GRATUITY. MELBOURNE, Aus., Jan. 24. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) The Government has approved the recommendation of the Naval Board, that a gratuity of twenty-five pounds sterling be granted each rating of the Australian Navy, who after completing his seven year service, from the age of 18, re-engages for a further five years.

CLYNES TELLS CAUSES. LONDON, Jan. 24. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) J. R. Clynes, British Labor leader, speaking at a luncheon to-day given by the American Club, said that causes of labor unrest were many and varied. Grievances were real, for the strike habit had not yet grown to the extent of causing men to throw down their tools without substantial underlying reasons. Conditions of unemployment, arising through the change from war service to peace work, had much to do with the unrest. There was fear that bad as conditions now were, they might become worse. High prices of food largely accounted for the conditions of unrest and the reason was the energy of political enthusiasts.

PRESS OPINION. LONDON, Jan. 24. (By British Wireless Service.) The Times, discussing the Allied invitation to Russia, says on the whole the agreement of the conference concerning Russia has been better received by the world at large than in Paris, and that even those who might be disposed to criticize must recognize that the decision was unanimously reached by so imposing a cabinet of nations that it is practically impregnable. The chief objections to the proposal, the Times adds, are concerned with its practicability. No one, it is said, can guarantee the success of the proposed meeting, or even that the meeting will ever take place. The newspaper argues that even if the meeting does not occur, or if it takes place and no definite decision is reached, "we shall arrive at a decision, than we now are, for in either case we shall have made it impossible for the Bolsheviks in Russia, or their sympathizers outside, to make any move." The Manchester Guardian, which warmly supports the proposal, says Bolshevik Russia is in desperate need, first of peace and second of trade. The Daily News says the suggestion that the proposal involved recognition of the Bolshevik, will not bear examination. The Westminster Gazette declares that to Europe, as a whole, it will be a great gain, if the conference assembles, "for then we may hope to secure through it, the peace of the world."

BRITISH FLEET SAVED RIGA. LONDON, Jan. 24. (British Wireless Service.) Riga was saved from attack by Bolsheviks and from disorders within the city, by a British fleet which was sent into the Baltic late in December, for the purpose of assisting British refugees to leave Russia. Threats of bombardment resulted in immediate representations by German army officers, that they were there to keep order, and that they would leave as soon as assurance was given that anarchy would not break out. Bolshevik troops, which were expected to attack the town at any moment, deferred action. According to stories told by men on board the British warships the threat of bombardment was for the most part a "bluff," as the fleet could have done, it is said, would have been to smash up the town. It had the desired effect, however.

BOLSHEVISTS CAPTURE UFA. VLADIVOSTOK, Jan. 23. (By the A. P.) The Russian and Czechoslovak forces there, being said to be chiefly due to the failure of arms to arrive from Vladivostok, the troops, which defended the city, have fallen back to Zlatoust, 140 miles to the northeast, where they are making a courageous

How to Say, "Thank You."

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"It's a pleasure to take that girl anywhere," I heard a man say the other day in regard to a young girl he has recently been taking around a bit, "because she shows her pleasure in anything so plainly. At the theatre, the other night, I enjoyed her enjoyment more than I did the play. Some other girls I know are careful enough to tell me when I leave them that they've had a good time, but they certainly don't show it. I like a girl who has a good time and shows it."

The outspoken young man is not alone in his approval of this kind of girl. Everyone likes that person who has a good time and shows it.

I happen to know the girl he spoke of, and also some of the other girls he has taken about. The girl in question is perhaps the least pretty of them all, but it is quite evident that she fully makes up for her lack of beauty by her charming spontaneity in showing her pleasure.

An abundance of enthusiasm and vivacity is a gift of nature, but anyone can cultivate the habit of speaking out his pleasure in a thing simply and naturally, instead of giving thanks for it in a stiff and formal way.

A certain big business man, tremendously busy though he is, finds time to do one kind thing after another for a young woman who is just starting out on a business career. After the reason for his continued kindness is no sex attraction or any ulterior motive, but simply his delight in her spontaneously expressed appreciation. The first kindness was a mere impulse—the result of the fact that he happened to be in an unusually good mood when she came to him. If she had thanked him in the conventional, formal way his kindness would probably have ended there. But she didn't. Instead, she spoke out her surprise and delight with a spontaneity that made him want to please her again. "Why, aren't you good, Mr. N.," she said. "I didn't know big business men had time to be so good."

"We had a lovely time last night, after all," a woman said to me the other day. "Mr. and Mrs. R. are such delightful people; the kind who speak right out when they like a thing. They said they thought my salad was the best they ever ate, and I could see they meant it too."

The "after all" referred to the fact that she had rather dreaded entertaining these people because she was very tired and very busy. In that case their spontaneously expressed appreciation had easily outweighed a heavy balance.

Don't be afraid to be spontaneous in showing pleasure. A quick word of appreciation and delight, spoken at the moment you feel the emotion and glowing with the warmth of it, carries ten times the conviction of formal thanks offered at a conventional time.

Of course you shouldn't overdo it any more than you should overdo anything. I want it understood, and I might as well mention it here and now, that every suggestion I give is to be qualified by the Greek motto "Nothing in excess"; for all advice, all philosophy, no matter how good, needs that tied on to it. But within that limit, don't be afraid to be utterly spontaneous in expressing pleasure.

He was Careful.

(From the Boston Transcript.)

To evade the draft, Sam decided on the plea of imperfect sight. He was warned by his companions that he would have to be careful during the tests at the recruiting office or he would be tricked, and Sam said he'd be careful all right.

The time came and the examining physician, pointing to a card on the wall, said: "How much of that sign can you read, Sam?"

"Sign" cried Sam. "Say, boss, where am dat wall?"

LOST OPPORTUNITIES.

"When I am rich," he used to say, "I'll walk among the poor I find. And unto one and all be kind. I'll place a wreath of roses red. I'll help the struggling youth to climb. In doing good I'll spend my time. To all in need I'll friendly be. The day that fortune smiles on me."

He never guessed that being kind depends upon the heart and mind. And not upon the purse at all. That poor men's gifts, however small. Make light some weary traveler's load. And smooth for him his troubled road. He never knew or understood The fellowship of doing good. Because he had not much to spare. He thought it vain to give his share.

Yet many passed him, day by day. He might have helped along the way. He fancied kindness something which belongs entirely to the rich. And so he lived and toiled for gold. Unsympathetic, harsh and cold. Intending all the time to share The burdens that his brothers bear. When he possessed great wealth and he Could well afford a friend to be.

His fortune came, but, oh, too late! The poor about him could not wait. They never guessed and never knew The things that he had meant to do. Few knew how much he'd planned to give. If God had only let him live. And when at last his form was cold. All that he'd left on earth was gold. A kindly name is something which A man must earn before he's rich.

Queen Mary has a flag of her own, which is flown to indicate the presence of Her Majesty, just as the Royal Standard is flown to indicate the presence of the King. The Queen's flag is somewhat elaborate in design, one-half bearing the Royal Arms of the United Kingdom, and the other half a combination of the arms of Her Majesty's parents, the late Duke and Duchess.

A New Era.

Some of the greatest dates in our history are the easiest to remember because of some peculiarity of sound or appearance. Such are 55 B.C., the year which opens our history with the landing of the Romans; 1066, the year of the Norman Conquest; 1415, the year of Agincourt; 1588, the year of the Spanish Armada; 1688, the year of the English Revolution; 1715 and 1745, named respectively the "15" and "45," the years of the Jacobite risings in favor of the Stuarts; 1805, the year of Trafalgar and the death of Nelson; 1815, the year of Waterloo; 1899, the year the Boer War commenced; 1918, the year of Victory; and 1919, the commencement of a New Era the world's history.

It is one of the safest of prophecies that the world will never be the same again. As it was in July, 1914, it can never be again. Sometimes a tidal wave sweeps over a large tract of land and obliterates all the old landmarks. That is what has happened to Europe. The old order has changed and yielded place to a new order of things. Crowns have toppled from the heads of once mighty potentates like skittles on the green. Peoples who have for generations been so camouflaged by their inclusion in great empires have emerged and set up housekeeping on their own.

The spirit of liberty is abroad as never before, and with it comes the spirit of reform, of betterment.

Red-Haired Heroes.

"Ginger for pluck" is an old saying which would seem to be confirmed in the bestial of military decorations for bravery. It was in the ruined square of demolished Ypres, on Christmas Eve last, that I (writing an N.C.O.) was first impressed by the large number of red-haired men who were receiving the Military Medal.

Since that memorable afternoon I have noted the complexion of every officer, N.C.O., and man wearing a military decoration, and the impression made at Ypres has been strengthened in consequence. There must be something in the old saying, for wherever soldiers are gathered together there is a red-haired, bearded man in the midst of them.

Take our most famous fighting division—the invincible 51st. This is composed almost entirely of Highland troops and the Highlanders are nearly all full-blooded blonds. Of course, there are dark-haired heroes in plenty, but nevertheless red hair and pluck would seem to be synonymous. Red hair is common among our most daring airmen, and although I cannot say how many V.C.'s sport ruddy locks, I am prepared to wager that they form a large percentage.

Scientists say that red hair is caused by a large proportion of iron in the system, and certainly "carrots and freckles" have been worn by men of iron while doing the work of men in the devil's own war.

The Lucky Horseshoe.

One of the most common of superstitions is the belief in a horseshoe as a talisman against evil. It was St. Dunstan, the blacksmith, and the patron of all smiths and saints, who made the horseshoe lucky. St. Dunstan was an Anglo-Saxon ecclesiastic who lived in the tenth century. He entered the Benedictine Order at an early age, and when not engaged in religious duties he was employed as a blacksmith. One day he was tolling away at the forge, when a shadow fell across the doorway. The saint looked up, and whom did he see but the devil!

The Prince of Evil said that he had been travelling so long and so far that his hoofs had become sore and tender, and he desired to have horseshoes put on them. Dunstan agreed to do the job, and he made it as painful as possible. The devil bellowed and roared in rage, but Dunstan was very strong, and refused to let go his hoofs until the Evil One had promised that he would never enter any house where a horseshoe was nailed above the door, nor molest any person who carried a horseshoe charm.

It is now nearly a thousand years since this promise was made, and whether the horseshoe has lost its charm or not the legend is still with us.

THE UNFORTUNATES.

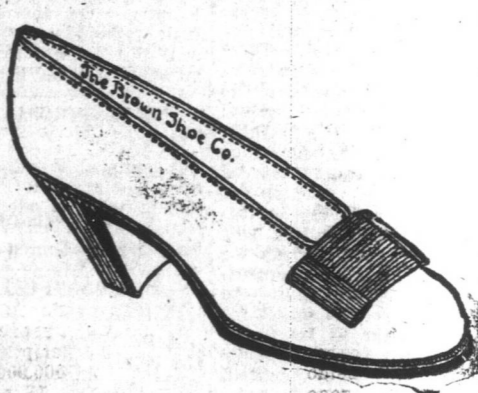

"Oh, come and feed our faces," the abject Germans, whine; "in countless Prussian places men have no chance to dine; their cultured works are hollow, they have no roasts to swallow, no pie or cake to follow, and neither beer nor wine. American!" they bellow, "pray feed the Germans first; we know we're punks and yellow, but feed us till we burst; send on your cooks and waiters and feed our yawning craters with beef and yams and taters, and kraut and liverwurst." Oh, cheer, if I were bossing this graft of dishing grub, no pies would I be tossing to any Prussian div, till all the other critters were given cakes and fritters, ice cream and stomach bitters, and grape juice by the tub. I'd say to Fritz and Heinie, "Shooat vat! The waiting's good; you get no morsel tiny of rich, uplifting food, till all the other nations have had abundant rations; so can your lamentations, and saw a rick of wood. You lose at every clatter when you appeal to me; for you're a whole lot fatter than hungry men should be; your fat's in folds and creases, and yet you bring valises to carry off the pieces of all the grub you see. My first chore will be feeding my friends, heroic souls; they'll get the bread they're needing and soup in flowing bowls; and you, the licked, the beaten, may come when they have eaten the doughnuts crisp and wheat-an, and gather up the holes."

Our three Specials: Stafford's Phorone, Pres. A., and Liniments also Ginger Wine, are sold at Robert Parsons', 7 Hayward Ave. Jan 11, 19.

Sangite.

Under this name, which is derived from the initial letters of the words "Substitute explosive, no glycerine," with "ite" added, in imitation of the word "dynamite," a new explosive is being manufactured in South Africa, to meet the growing shortage of nitro-glycerine explosives. According to a consular report, it has a gun-cotton base and is a similar to tonite, except that nitrate of soda is substituted for nitrate of barium. It is found that by this substitution an explosive of approximately the same strength as gelignite can be produced. The new explosive is said to be so insensitive to shock that it may be safely hammered with a steel tool. If used in mining, explosions would not be caused by drilling into undred holes. It has already been thoroughly tested in a number of mines and found satisfactory.

Burns' Night.

"Burns' Night" was celebrated in the C.C.C. Hall last night by the Nfld. St. Andrew's Society, a very enjoyable time being spent. The ball-room, which had been specially decorated, presented a very pretty scene. Upwards of 500 members and guests were present. Among the latter were Capt. Lamont and officers of the s.s. Alonca. Mr. W. B. Grieve presided, with ex-President John Browning and Vice-President A. K. Lumsden as croupiers. The following took part in the concert which opened the evening: Mrs. F. J. King, Mrs. J. Baxter, Mrs. Riggs, Misses V. Wallace, M. Mitchell, Langmead, Harris; Messrs. Trappell, J. McIntyre, A. Williams, Capt. Campbell, F. J. King. The latter and Mr. Gordon Christian acted as the accompanists. The programme, consisting mainly of Scotch numbers, was splendidly carried out, and concluded with the singing of Auld Lang Syne by the whole company. The Highland Fling by Miss V. Wallace, and sword dance by Pipe Major Mathieson, were executed in a manner that won much applause. Following the concert supper was served, the Haggis and Boar's Head first being brought in by two Highlanders, accompanied by drummer and pipers. Grace was said by Rev. Gordon Dickie, M.A. The catering was attended to by the St. Andrew's Ladies' Auxiliary, while a number of young ladies attired in Highland costume acted as waitresses. The toast of the evening, "The Immortal Memory," was proposed by Mr. W. B. Grieve in an address that won the approval of all. At the close of the supper, dancing was taken up and continued until the wee sma' hours, the C.C.C. band rendering specially prepared music.

Rescued Crew Landed.

Deputy Minister of Customs Le-Messurier received the following message from Grand Bank yesterday: "S. S. Fogota arrived at Grand Bank yesterday, bringing the crew of the schr. Minnie Harris, which was abandoned near Penguin Island. The crew were rescued by the lighthouse keeper. The lost schooner had on board a cargo of hard coal from New York to Grand Bank, met stormy weather on the way, lost her boats and sprang a leak."

Talks by the Way.

"Hello! Tom hear the news?" "New! what's mean Bill!" Why! the President of the F.P.U. is gone off for a trip the paper says. "O Yes! I heard that he's going over about the fish markets isn't he?" "Well! they do say he's going to Italy to see about the 'Wellington' cargo, and then others say he's going to view the battlefields and see where his recruits fought." "Maybe, but I heard Joe Thomas say yesterday that he believed he was going over to help his friend at the Peace Conference." (The listener was almost astonished at the outburst of laughter that greeted this statement.) "But," says Bill, "some say he went a knighthood, and can't see why he shouldn't get it." He says 'he's got so many recruits, and did his utmost to win the war, therefore he deserves a K.C.M.G. or something of the sort, and he's goin' to get it." "Well! what about our Acting Premier and the other gentlemen who are also going away on health trips?" "Health trips? They need to go. Hope they may become so healthy, that Newfoundland will see no more of them." "Too big a loss for our island to lose the President, we want him back to get some lively pen sketches of his travels and wondrous works," said Tom. "For the next convention eh?" added Bill, "but we'll see later I guess." GOOD BYE!

Obituary.

JOSEPH COOK. After a long and tedious illness, during which he had for the past few years been bedridden, Joseph Cook of Cochrane Street fell asleep this morning. Deceased was 75 years of age, and was well known around town. During the number of years he was ill, he bore his affliction patiently and resignedly. He leaves to mourn a widow, four brothers and one sister. One brother is working in Montreal, the others in this city. Although the years of sickness, during which he was confined to the house, may have caused his memory to be dimmed somewhat, yet all those who know him will be sorry to hear of his demise. Sincere sympathy is extended to the relatives of the deceased in their sad time of affliction.

Girls! Have Wavy, Thick, Glossy Hair Free From Dandruff

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments—try this!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine. Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scrub robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fatten, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast. If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made. We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. It eventually—why not now?

In view of the fact that many of our brave boys have returned from a war happily ended, and that other large numbers will soon be on the way home, the subject for discussion to-morrow will have a very special interest; not only for returned and returning soldiers, but for those who as relatives, friends or sympathizers are keenly concerned for the future well being and doing, temporarily and spiritually, of "The Men who Fought." ings as compared with its assets, its profits of $2,850,000, for 1918, were not only in excess of those of the previous year by $212,000, but were larger in amount than anything in the history of the Bank. As a result of a profitable year experienced the bank is able to carry forward into the new financial year, an undivided balance of profits amounting to $1,444,942, or $112,000 more than a year ago.

Two Gratifying Features.

There are two points brought out in Sir John Aird's Report which will undoubtedly be particularly gratifying to the shareholders. The one is that the management has during the year been able to add $1,500,000 to the Reserve Account and thus to realize its ambition of bringing this Account up to an equality with the Paid-Up Capital, a consumation due to the skill of those in command of the bank's affairs. The other is what the General Manager describes as "an unusual item in our Profit and Loss account." In brief, it is nothing less than the fact that the Bank has been able to recover the appropriation of $1,000,000 set aside in 1915 to provide for the depreciation of securities. This is particularly gratifying when it is recalled that, at the time the amount was written off, the best management hoped for was, that at the time it might be recovered.

Growth of Assets.

The growth in the Bank's assets during the year has been most substantial. The total now stands at $440,310,000, an appreciation of $95,925,000, or at the rate of 27.8%. "That the multifarious restrictions which have necessarily been placed on business during the war," should be removed by the Government as speedily as possible.

Great Stories From Bible.

Soldiers Found Holy Wars and Inspired Heroes Most Interesting.

Little incidents that show the influence of religion or illustrate the attitude of the men in uniform toward religion were told at a recent gathering by the Rt. Rev. John N. McCormick, Bishop of Western Michigan, and who spent nearly a year in France as a Major in the Red Cross.

"One of the chaplains in France told me that although every soldier had a small New Testament which went into his pack, he was having constant demands for the whole Bible in English. He had scoured the country for Bibles and the supply was not equal to the demand. Finally he asked a private why he wanted the whole Bible.

"Because I want to read about the wars," came the reply. "The Old Testament is full of wars and I want to read those stories."

"When one of the transports went over last Spring the Chaplain, finding a group of men sitting together on the deck with nothing to do, began to tell them stories. He did not say they were Bible stories. He just told them for their brilliant value as tales. And he told the story of Paul's shipwreck and those fourteen days in a typhoon when he was making his famous voyage to Rome. When he had finished a man called out to him: "Who was that guy?"

"The story teller replied that it was a man named Paul. The soldier went below and aroused his bunkie. The Chaplain was telling us a story up on deck about a fellow named Paul, and he was some man."

"I heard a story about the vindictive which was told me by a sailor. It which was told me true because sailors always tell the truth. When the vindictive was going into the harbor of Zebruges to bottle up the German Navy by linking herself in the harbor it happened to be on the eve of St. George's Day. She passed a British flag ship which signalled her:

"For God for England and St. George" and the vindictive answered, "Yes," and we are going to take a damned good twist in the Dragon's tail."

Bishop McCormick told this story of an American soldier in France:

"This young boy, having a little time off one afternoon, wandered into a little church which had been spared by the German guns. He walked in slowly and wandered about, looking at the beautiful windows, examining the lovely outlines of an edifice which had stood for more than two centuries.

"Just as he was about to leave he saw a man in a General's uniform enter the church, and going up to the altar, kneel down to pray. The boy waited in the shadow. He stood there quietly and watched the kneeling soldier he had not said his prayers for a long time himself, although he sometimes said little silent ones to himself out there under the black sky when shells were bursting.

"At last the officer arose and went out. The boy looked at his watch. For forty-five minutes that man in the uniform of high war honors had knelt. The boy followed him to the street. He saw that his hair was white.

"Who was it?" he asked, an old woman who had bowed and smiled as the General passed.

"That was General Foch," she told him proudly."

It seems that three hockey teams will compete for the championship this season, viz.: Peladians, Terra Nova and Victorias. The opening game will probably not be played before some time in February. Although most of last year's players will doubtless line up in their respective teams, it seems certain that a few others will have to be taken on.

The Evangelists.

(L. C. M.)

For over a quarter of a century I have been writing in the papers, and have had a good deal to say about our country, its welfare and its future. I have written notes of hundreds of sermons and addresses during that time, and also reported the Crossley and Hunter campaign in 1899; and now I have but one confession to make, and it is this: I am not worthy to pass on to the public what Mrs. Demarest said last night. If I believed in the interpretation of Scripture as she declared it last night, then I think I would do the work of John the Baptist and standing in the highway would do what William Booth did fifty years ago—I would preach if last night's standard is correct then some of the churches are lamentably at ease.

Last night's service cannot soon be forgotten. From start to finish it was good, and was indeed a splendid wind-up for the third week of the campaign. Of itself, the singing was an inspiration. Not only the singing of the Evangelists but that of the congregation. And the earnestness and fervour of prayer as led by Dr. Curtis and as responded to by the people were searching, there was no getting away from it. It was a soul-moving hour, and everyone must have felt that those in charge were in downright earnest; there could not be any other conviction.

It was under such an atmosphere that the Evangelist began her discourse, and when it was seen that her interest seemed to deepen more and more. Paul had admonished the Corinthian Christians to examine themselves and to see that they were in the faith. They had to be sure about it. Hoping, or thinking, or supposing would not do. They should see for themselves and know where they stood. Upon this principal Mrs. Demarest based her points and delivered her message out and out. She swept the cobwebs from many a drowsy church member and knocked the crutches from many a spiritual cripple. In all that she said she was directly personal, and unconditionally emphatic. She didn't preach to people a thousand miles away, she preached to the people who sat in the pews before her; and if calm and fixed attention be any criterion, then she was not talking over their heads.

The Saviour put the ten commandments into one sentence when He said—Love God first and your fellow next; and if Mrs. Demarest has any creed than it may be summarized something like this: God and the Devil: Heaven and Hell: Right and Wrong: Time and Eternity: Life and Death: Personal Responsibility, and Final Judgment. She gets these great truths from the Scriptures, and taking them literally and applying them personally she speaks with great concern. She preaches differently from those who train at college. Some of these seem to theorise and to theologise, and speculate, and translate these verities out of the Bible, and because of this we are "at ease in Zion" and we don't believe what we used to—or if we do, we are woefully easy about it.

Apart from its direct religious and spiritual bearing the subject was one well adapted to the times, and this the speaker emphasized when she referred to the busy age and the high pressure at which men live. There is so much to engage the attention, and so many calls to answer, that men have not time to think. In trade and business they take stock, and check their accounts, and employ experts to adjust their ledgers and to balance their ledgers, but they fail to do so in the great ledger of life. They do not examine themselves; they do not want to do so; they are afraid to look into their own breasts, or into their own souls. The picture which they would behold would alarm them, hence they prefer to be let alone. Self examination is not being practised as it should be; as for the old-time custom of meditation it is not known. Hence, the Roman Court, who died about A.D. 50, in the time of Nero says of himself that "at evening he looked within himself and examined what he that day had done."

But our space is filled out, hence our comments must cease, but we wish to add that the topic at the Sunday afternoon meeting will be "The Glory of Youth," and that it is intended for young people of both sexes from the age of fifteen to twenty-five. The subject of the evening discourse will be "The new version of the Prodigal Son." These topics speak for themselves, and in the hands of such a spiritually minded woman as Mrs. Demarest they will be faithfully expounded.

This Drawing is from a Photograph

—That's why it means so

It is from an actual photograph of Anna Case of the Metropolitan Opera singing in direct comparison with her own voice on the New Edison.

"But what's remarkable about that?" you ask. The amazing fact is that no human ear can distinguish the artist from the instrument; so perfect is the RE-CREATION. This is what we call the "tone test". And it proves the truth of the Edison Company's claim about

The NEW EDISON
"The Phonograph with a Soul"

It proves that the instrument does RE-CREATE, not merely imitate. Hundreds of these tone tests have been conducted. More than 2,000,000 people have attended them. And not one could say when it was the artist he heard and when the instrument. With the lights lowered to hide the singer's lips the audience was completely baffled.

Visit our store for a demonstration of the marvelous New Edison or have one sent to your home. No obligation, of course.

New Steamship Line.

We hear that Mr. W. A. Munn, who is in Montreal, is negotiating with the Canadian Board of Trade and with Mr. Hanna, President of the Canadian Northern Railroad, to have a line of steamers run from there to here, via Charlottetown and Sydney. The proposed ships would be of the same class as the Rosalind—large, commodious and well-outfitted for local trade. Mr. Munn is to be congratulated on his efforts to secure such a badly needed addition to the freight carrying steamers of the country.

N. I. W. A.

Last night's meeting of the above association was fairly well attended, President T. M. White being in the chair. It was decided by the association that they henceforth meet fortnightly instead of weekly as heretofore. It was also announced that the offices in the upper flat of the Plaindealer Office were to be taken over to be used as offices and club-rooms by the association, as the rooms in the Renouf Building were unsuitable. Mr. Horwood's letter was the topic of much discussion, and many of the speakers expressed their views clearly. Among the speakers were Messrs. G. F. Grimes, W. Smith, W. A. O'D. Kelly, S. Merille, H. Taylor, A. E. Earle, P. Bennett, D. Dunn, B. Kirkland, W. J. Willar, E. Whitley, G. Tucker and Best. The association was wholeheartedly in agreement with the appointment of a Conciliation Board to settle all disputes between labor and capital, and it put itself on record as willing to do its utmost for the appointment of such.

Wedding Bells.

At Topsail Methodist Church, on Jan. 2nd, a very pretty wedding took place, when John M. Butler was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mollie B. V. Miller. The bride was dressed in white silk with bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and entered the church leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. James Miller, who acted as father-giver. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Wm. LeDrew, sister of the bride, Miss Violet Butler, sister of the groom and Mrs. John Miller, sister-in-law of the bride, and wore dresses of pink silk with black hats. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Alex. J. Butler, Mr. James R. Miller, brother of the bride, and Master Jack Allen. After the ceremony the happy couple and about sixty guests were driven in sleight to the home of the bride's parents, where supper was served, and a very enjoyable evening spent at games, which were kept up till a late hour. The groom's present to the bride was a purse of gold; she also received many valuable and useful presents. The honeymoon was spent at the home of the groom's parents, from whence the happy couple will take up their future home at Topsail.
