The Royal Raspsers Lost a True Heart When He Died a Hero

"The new sub's arrived."

"Ah! What kind of a sort of a Johnnie is he?"

"Delicate, very delicate, and refined—quite refined. Doesn't smoke, doesn't drink—further particulars about himself when he's reported safe arrival to his mater."

"Oh, he's that sort, is he? Poor beggar!"

"You may well say that, Chilcott. The Royal Raspsers have got a pretty fair record membered on their ragged old faces."

"Confound it, old chap," said Chilcott one day, "you ought not to lead that poor little chap such a life. You are so remarkably good natured little chap. When I asked you to let me chuck your bull terrier out of my bedroom window he said it might hurt your feelings."

"My feelings," shrieked Daunt. "Why, the pup would have eaten him, slipped and all. Well, that beats cock fighting."

"At last an event occurred which led to a temporary cessation of the sub's troubles. But the interest in him somewhat revived when, with the Raspsers aboard, the huge 'troopship' glided like a grey spirit down the Solent, for Tibbits succumbed to mal de mer before the Hornsea and Spit forts had been passed."

"The Tibby," old man," asked Sub-Lieutenant Chilcott as he laid a kindly hand on the shoulder of the inert heap of pallid humanity.

"It's dreadfully bad, Chilcott. I—I say—if anything should happen you wouldn't mind sending my gold watch home to the mater? It was my dad's."

"Stuff! You'll be all right directly. Try a brandy and soda—or, better still, eat an apple."

"Now, is that one of those jokes?" smiled Tibbits feebly.

"No, really," said the good-natured Chilcott.

"Don't you believe Chilly," shouted Daunt, joining them. "Look here, Tib, old man, ask the steward to fry you a pork chop, or some sausage, or try a few hardines—ha! ha! ha!"

"At last, after a series of long and arduous forced marches, the brigade of which the Raspsers formed the right wing, came upon the rebel stronghold, a well fortified camp on the edge of an arid plain.

The enemy stubbornly refused to yield to the blandishments of the brigade and 'have it out' in the open, and for a time Gatlings and Maxim-Nordenfelds plied their rattling fire in vain upon the earthworks and bastions from behind which the rebels poured a fire that compelled the attackers to keep at a distance.

At last the brigade determined on a ruse. Orders were given for a feigned attack, and presently a 'galloper' dashed up to order the Raspsers to send forward two companies in open order.

Liked slipped greyhounds they leaped from their cover and dashed forward, extending as they went till at last they formed a long skirmishing line, advancing again, and so on, till they were within some 40 yards of the earthworks.

It was then that the rebels took the old soldiers' bait. Out from the entrenchments streamed a powerful sortie bent on sweeping the thin line of skirmishers off the plain, quickly the huge poled out a recall, and the raspsers stubbornly retired toward their base turning and kneeling at every sixth pace to take shots.

Meanwhile the left wing of the attacking force was wheeling into position for a flank attack, but so hotly did the rebel sortie press forward that the captains of the two companies of Raspsers, drawing their swords, held them aloft and gave the word to rally.

Instantly the skirmishers rushed back and grouped themselves with fixed bayonets around their officers, who gave the command for independent firing.

"Hullo," cried Chilcott, looking across the plain, "Daunt's hit—he's down. Poor beggar, he'll be all up with him if we're not re-enforced. Steady, lads; give 'em hot! By Jove! who's that helping Daunt along and hoisting him on his back? By Jove! Tibbits! Come on, Tibby—sharp! Just in time. Ah!"

For just as the huddled ranks opened to let Tibbits, staggering under his burden, the muff of the regiment fell prone upon his face with a bullet between his ribs.

They dragged the two wounded men within the chevaux de frise, and a great cheer went up as from the left, and the rear regiments swept up, and the rebels, perceiving the trap, turned and scuttled like rabbits for their burrows.

An hour later the officers of the Royal Raspsers gathered round a prostrate form. It was Tibbits. Daunt, his leg in splints, held one hand, Chilcott the other.

Crippled With Rheumatism CURED BY GIN PILLS

Mr. Derragh certainly did have a hard time of it, winter before last. Caught cold, and it settled in his kidneys. First thing he knew, he was in bed with Rheumatism. He nearly went mad, the pain was so intense. The doctors gave him the usual treatment—and pretty nearly burnt his legs off with liniments and blisters—but the Rheumatism went right on aching.

SAFETY BOARD OPENS TENDERS

Contracts Awarded at Last Night's Meeting for Departmental Supplies.

At the monthly meeting of the safety board last evening tenders for stable supplies and for overcoats for the police were awarded. A committee to engage an engineer to prepare plans of the Lancaster lands was appointed. It was decided to recommend the purchase of a small lot of land adjoining No. 1 engine house.

On motion of Ald. Sprull it was decided to accept the tender at $25.

The following tenders for supplies for the fire department were opened:

Table with 4 columns: Name, Quantity, Price per unit, Total Price. Includes D. J. Purdy, L. C. Prime, A. C. Smith & Co., C. H. Peters.

On motion of Ald. Baskin the tender of Mr. Prime for hay, D. J. Purdy for oats and C. H. Peters' Sons for straw and bran were accepted, being the lowest.

The sub-committee on improvements in the accommodation at city hall reported that F. Neil Brodie had been asked to submit plans and estimates. They recommended, as Mr. Brodie was not yet ready, that a report should be submitted at the meeting of the council. This was agreed to.

A sub-committee reported in favor of purchasing from Miss DeVoe a strip of land 15 by 20 feet adjacent to No. 1 engine house. The price is $200. The same committee also recommended against a fire alarm on the ferry building as it would cost $1,000. Both recommendations were adopted.

At the request of the secretary of No. 2 stage corps a warrant was ordered issued to P. B. Heans, of Paradise Row. A communication from Mrs. Margaret Ketchum, of Guilford street, asking for a hearing with regard to arrears in ground rent was received. Consideration was deferred until the next meeting.

Ald. Baskin suggested that it might as well be sold.

LIBERALS WOULD NOT AGREE TO THE PURITY PLEDGES

Refused to Accede to Conservative Proposals in Colchester and Whole Thing is Off.

Truro, N. S., Nov. 24.—The Liberal committee today at an adjourned meeting refused to accept the additional pledges for purity in the Colchester election campaign proposed by the Conservatives. The Liberals claimed it would be improper for an honorable man to pledge himself not to commit a crime and that their other proposals were impracticable. They stood on Charles Hill's proposition or nothing. The negotiations then broke off. Stanfield is said to have a force of detectives in the county.

Life's Pleasures Rest on Nourishing Blood

IS YOURS RICH, OR WEAK?

If your color is poor, your blood is poor. If you lack strength, can't get fat, can't do your work, it's because your blood is too thin to nourish the body.

Your condition is like an expiring fire. Fuel must be added or the fire goes out. Nutrition, new building material must be instantly infused into the blood—the vital stream must be quickened and enriched. Do this and your health is assured.

Simply take Ferronose. Its marvellously stimulating influence upon the appetite upon the formation of rich, red blood makes available for building up of the system the very nutriment it requires.

The heart, strengthened by the increased nutrition Ferronose supplies, is more regular in its action, and imparts an impetus to the circulation that ensures the proper discharge of all the functions of the body.

These very quickly sweeps through the whole body a stream of vitalized, strengthening blood. Quick color is restored to the cheeks. Elasticity, endurance and vigor come to the muscular system.

In brief, the old time strength and vigor are restored, and those insupportable charms that spring from good health, high spirits and endurance, are gained by even a short use of Ferronose.

A true, splitting tonic, a medicine that goes to the root of things—one that makes the weak strong, makes the sick well—makes the dependent ones happy—that is Ferronose. Truly a wonderful remedy, try it, 50c. per box at all druggists.

Count F. Dantone Fiasco, of Italy, is at the Royal. He has been in Sumnerland (B. C.) for some time and there he invested in real estate. He is now on his way to South Africa with his medical adviser, Dr. Williams, of Vernon (B. C.), in search of health and will go to Kimberley, far above the sea level. Dr. Williams accompanies him.

FINANCIAL and COMMERCIAL EXCHANGE CORNERSTONE YIELDS 20-YEAR RECORDS

Newspapers Tell of Henry Ward Beecher's Death—Comparison of Stock Prices of Sept. 8, 1887 With Those of Today Shows Many Ups and Downs—D. L. & W. Has Advanced $269.25 Share.

The metal box recently removed from the old cornerstone of the Consolidated Stock Exchange Place was opened yesterday in the presence of the entire board of governors by Ogden D. Budd, president of the exchange, assisted by Charles H. Bedeau, first vice-president, and W. J. Alpern, the two oldest members in point of service.

The contents of the box were found to be in a perfect state of preservation. They were placed in it 20 years ago, on Sept. 8, 1887, the date of the cornerstone laying. Among the contents were copies of newspapers of that date, lists of the various officers of the exchange, as well as that of the clearing house, a roster of the members of the exchange, copies of the programme of the ceremonies attending the laying of the cornerstone, and various coins of the United States.

The newspapers contained accounts of the death of Henry Ward Beecher, an attempt on the life of the Czar of Russia, a revolution in Hawaii, the Italian war with Abyssinia, the selection of Prince Ferdinand as ruler of Bulgaria, the celebration of Queen Victoria's first jubilee and the burning of the Paris Opera Comique.

From the lists of transactions in stocks on the Consolidated Exchange on the date of the laying of the cornerstone, it is apparent that exchange has kept pace with the rapid growth of this city, as while the total dealings in railroad stocks were then only $1,000,000, the average daily sales now run from 150,000 to 200,000 shares.

A comparison of the prices for some representative stocks with that of those of the present current makes an interesting study. Most stocks have, during that period, enhanced greatly in value, but in not a few instances prevailing quotations are under those of 20 years ago.

Table with 2 columns: Stock Name and Price. Includes entries like 'Sept. 8, Present', 'Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul', 'Delaware, Lackawanna & West', etc.

The Consolidated Exchange was organized in September, 1875, and began business on Nov. 1 of that year, as "New York Mining Stock Exchange." Its membership at that time was 25, which steadily increased until in 1885, when the consolidation with several other exchanges made the membership rise to more than 2,400.

Many prominent men have held seats in the Consolidated, the list including H. H. Rogers and John D. Archibald, of the Standard Oil Co.; Judges Leventritt and Gildenweber of the supreme court; Anthony N. Brady, J. C. Mahen, the southern iron master; Dumont Clarke, president of the American Exchange National Bank; William A. Nash, president of the Corn Exchange Bank; William Nelson Cromwell, of the famous law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell; Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, and others.

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., TUESDAY NOVEMBER 25, 1907

The Evening Times.

ST. JOHN, N. B., NOVEMBER 26, 1907.

The St. John Evening Times is published at 77 and 79 Canterbury street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE EVENING TIMES, THE DAILY TELEGRAPH. New Brunswick's Independent newspapers. These newspapers advocate: British connection. Honesty in public life. Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion. No graft! No deals! "The Thistle, Shamrock, Rose entwine, The Maple Leaf forever."

EVIDENCES OF WEAKNESS

In the three constituencies in which he has had special opportunities to prove his gifts of leadership, since he was made the New Brunswick leader in federal politics, Dr. Pugsley has disappointed his friends. The Times referred the other day to his failure to control the situation in Queens-Sunbury and York, where party rancor reigned in his very presence. He was powerless to restore harmony in the party ranks. The slight constituency in which failure must be written across the record of his exploits is his own constituency of St. John. By his course with regard to patronage he has precipitated conditions in the local Liberal party the very opposite of harmonious. A patronage committee has been selected which is attacked on various grounds by various sections of the party, and to make matters worse the Club informs Dr. Pugsley that, whatever his patronage committee may do or fail to do, he will be held personally responsible for every item of patronage bestowed. As a provincial leader the minister of public works is, as already stated, a disappointment to his friends.

TECHNICAL INSTRUCTION

Touching the matter of technical education, referred to in yesterday's Times, the Ottawa Citizen states that at a meeting last week the Canadian Clay Products Manufacturers passed a resolution asking that the dominion and provincial governments make appropriations sufficient for the establishment of a technical department and technical school in Canada. "The school asked for," says the Citizen, "is to instruct men in the development of the non-metallic minerals, which would include the manufacture of the different kinds of brick, tile, pottery, porcelain, glass, cements, plaster of Paris, etc. The resolution stated that while the non-metallic mineral resources of Canada were unbounded, very little development comparatively had taken place. The development was hampered by lack of investigation into the possibilities of these minerals and the lack of technical knowledge necessary to the progressive development of clays, shales and marls. These resources were more important than any other mineral, owing to their intimate association with Canadian domestic and social life. A school would encourage individual enterprise in the utilization of these resources and do away with the necessity of importing foreign goods and foreign skilled labor." Before specialized schools of this kind can be provided the government must consider the broader question of a general system of technical instruction, the benefits of which would be more widespread.

TRADE WITH MEXICO

Noting the fact that Canada's trade with Mexico has not increased as it was expected to do when the steamship line was subsidized, the Shareholder makes some observations that are worthy of the attention of Canadian manufacturers, especially at a time when there is some talk of decreased production for the home market. We quote: "The cultivation of foreign markets should be pressed at the present time for all it is worth if Canada's exports are to be increased in volume. Mexico offers an opportunity in this direction which should be seized upon without delay. The country is largely agricultural, and our manufacturers will have themselves alone to blame if they allow their more progressive neighbors to the south to monopolize this trade. According to figures furnished by A. W. Donly, Canadian commercial agent in Mexico, the population in Mexico is about thirteen millions, or about double that of Canada, while the foreign trade is about one-half that of Canada. With the developments that are taking place in Mexico, her foreign trade will, doubtless, be largely expanded, and in its expansion Canada should take a prominent part and adopt the exports to the requirements of that country. Careful selection of merchandise, scientific packing of it, and seeing to the forwarding at the same time of the proper papers so as to avoid unnecessary delay, will go a long way in gaining a market which is well worth having and retaining. Canadians are slow in making changes, and among the results we find our active, progressive and pushing American neighbors grasping what Canadians hesitate to touch. To develop an export trade with Mexico will, we believe, prove advantageous. On that account it should be developed now, or the opportunity to do so may slip away and not present itself again." The chief competitor of Canada in the Mexican market is, of course, the United States, and the Canadians should take note of American methods. The Shareholder says that to secure Mexican business the American manufacturers offer a 70 per cent. reduction of their price lists.

PROBLEMS OF GOVERNMENT

Dr. David Starr Jordan told a gathering of Los Angeles business and professional men last week that cheap labor as it exists today is a menace to liberty, and the greatest danger to the true citizenship of the nation. He said: "Apparently the economic need of this country, East and West, is for more cheap labor, for more men without skill and self-respect, who can be exploited even as our natural resources are exploited. But every one of this kind is a burden on our political institutions. Those people stand for bad government, because as a class they have no interest in good government. They have not learned to govern themselves. If we must have such people, those who frankly do not assimilate are best. They do not deceive us; they do not overturn our social and political structures. The Chinese is a Chinese to the last, and we know it." Dr. Jordan takes the view that if there must be cheap labor—by which he means ignorant labor—it should be foreign. In other words American citizens should be skilled and intelligent, having a stake in the country and a reason for wanting good government. His thrust at the ignorant labor which would "overturn social and political structures" would be fully appreciated in California, which has the experience of San Francisco as an illustration, but Dr. Jordan went a step farther and laid the lash on other than the members of labor unions. We quote: "In San Francisco the real rascals are the small cowards and the small shirks, who have made the great thieves possible. At the last election for mayor the character of Schmitz and Ruef, their relation to the law and to morals, was as well known to the people as it is today. Doubtless the union labor party, a minority of the whole voting population, was in some degree deceived or at least blinded by reckless partisanship, but the body of merchants and business men, who consented to the election of Schmitz, were not deceived." Thus, merely to get rid of cheap labor, or to employ only that which does not assimilate—as the Chinese,—does not solve the problem. The "small cowards and the small shirks" remain. And so long as they exist in large number the demagogue and grafter will have his way.

The Shareholder, Montreal, concludes an exhaustive review of the Canadian bank statement with this remark:—"An examination of the statement cannot fail to convince the most skeptical that the Canadian chartered banks are in an excellent condition and are ably managed."

APPALLING DISASTER

Schooner and Crew of Seventy-five Men Missing and the Worst is Feared. Halifax, N. S., Nov. 25.—Advices at North Sydney state that one of the worst marine horrors in St. Pierre flock is reported at the French colony in which some 75 lives are believed to have been lost. The schooner Angler left St. Pierre 60 days ago for France with a crew and returning fishermen numbering 75 souls. No tidings of the vessel and crew have been heard and so the voyage is generally made in about two weeks, all hope has been given up. Of the lost belong to France, and leave wives and families. It is by all odds the worst sea tragedy in the fishing fleet, and adds to the already long list of victims of the sea.

Large Attendance Grooms New Programme. A bumper matinee and a remarkably large attendance at night considering the terribly bad weather, marked the opening at the Nickel yesterday, and even the wet weather was not wet enough to dampen the enthusiasm aroused by the British naval pictures. The day at sea with England's channel squadron was most interestingly spent by everybody in the house, and the trip aboard H. M. S. Terrible was a novel experience. For almost fifteen minutes the watcher was taken through the fleet, out to sea among the surging billows, with the crews going through their daily routine. The training of the big turret guns was an especially absorbing feature. This picture will be shown for the last time this afternoon and evening. A notable feature of last evening's show was the instant hit made by Mr. Cairns in the great ballad of the hour, With You In Eternity. Mr. Newcomb's song, Panama, which is to be rendered again this evening, is a dainty novelty. The three other pictures besides the naval views are: An Unpleasant Legacy, The Soldier's Dream, and The Street Faker, all new and particularly fine.

DO YOU REMEMBER? Do you remember the drive we took years ago in the early Fall. When the moonlight lay like the visible Of God, deep-brooding over all? The prairie had broken into bloom Of golden-rod, like a web unrolled, And there was a faint, soft glow, Over all that lustrous sweep of gold. Never a house for miles and miles, Save our airy castles, columns and towers, That rose in dimly magnificent piles Above a foundation of moonlit dross. Miles and miles through the loneliness, A boy and a girl and a slow, slow steed, The young bears fluttering to express Their highest thought and their deepest need. No bill of hardship, no vale of despair, But a golden plain and a golden sky. We felt that life was thrilling fair And cared not to ask the reason why. Ever so long ago—and we How have we drifted each from each? Achievement's height was we longed to be In all untraversed by scale or speech. But still you remember that vanished year, When you rode alone in the smile of God, And all of our wealth on this mortal sphere Was poetry, youth and golden dross. —Bhelswyn Wetherald in Canadian Courier.

IN LIGHTER VEIN AN UNCANNY EXPRESSION. (From the Washington Star.) "There are times when machinery seems almost human." "Yes," answered the man who smells of gasoline, "I am frequently unable to be sure whether I am fooling with my automobile or it is fooling with me." NOT FOR HER. (From the Chicago Record-Herald.) "How do you like Chaucer?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle as she glanced at some of the finely bound books in the splendid library. "Well, I can't say that I like it at all," replied her hostess, "though I suppose it would be better for my complexion if I could learn to get along with something besides coffee." CORROBORATION. (From the Louisville Courier-Journal.) "I'm half baked," affably announced the young man who had come to call on Johnny's sister. "Then may we war right?" "How's that, bub?" "She said last night you was half baked." SAME HOURS. (From the Philadelphia Press.) MR. BRYAN'S DISSENT WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Upon William J. Bryan's return to Cotter Bride's home from the White House this morning he found a note and a box which had been sent to him by an old lady whom he knew while a member of congress years ago. He slipped the box into his pocket and joined his daughter and several friends at luncheon at the Raleigh Hotel. When desert time arrived he ordered the waiter to search his pocket, and bring forth the package. "These," he said, "are doughnuts sent to me by an old friend, and we are to eat everyone of them." All gladly consented, and the Peeries One consumed five, while the waiters looked on in horror.

SMALL BOY CUTS THROAT WHEN SUMMONED TO COURT

George Fairweather, of Broad Street, Severs His Wind Pipe and May Die—He was Charged With Stealing Coal From I. C. R., But Told Police That Real Culprit Must Have Used His Name.

George or "Goelin" Fairweather, 13 years old, accused of stealing coal from an I. C. R. car at Ballast wharf, and claiming that his name had been given to the police by the real culprit in order to escape punishment, cut his throat with a razor in his home at the corner of Carmaithen and Broad streets last night, and now lies in the General Public Hospital in a critical condition. Notified by Policeman McNamee at 9.15 o'clock last night that he must be in the police court this morning to face the charge made against him, the boy lay aside the work on which he was spending his evening at home as secretary of a boys' association in St. James' church, went to the kitchen and there sought to end his life. To the policeman who called at the door he had denied stealing coal, and laughingly told him that some other boy must have given his name. Then he returned up stairs. All alone, he evidently allowed the tremble to prey on his mind, and his grandmother, returning home at 9.45 found him on the kitchen floor, his throat cut and blood all around him. Near him lay the razor with which the terrible wound in his throat had been made. Dr. J. S. Bentley worked over him for some hours and after inserting a tube to do the work of the severed wind pipe, closed the wound and had the unconscious boy taken to the hospital with a slight chance that his life may be saved. The following report appeared on the police book, dated Nov. 23:

"Report Goelin Fairweather (boy) for stealing coal from the cars on the wharf, 18th inst., the property of the I. C. R. Railway.

"SCOVILL SMITH, I. C. R. Police." Following the usual procedure, when a date of hearing was set for the case and Policeman McNamee on duty at the station of the city was ordered to notify the lad to be in the police court at 10 o'clock this morning.

"Last night the policeman called at the boy's home and told him he must be in court. The policeman told the sad story in all its shocking details. 'I had rather have lost a year's pay than to have been the one who notified that boy to attend court,' he said. 'I knew him well and thought he was a good, bright lad who always went to school. His father and I were shipmates for years and I do not know how to face him.'

"I was sorry to hear of the trouble and I called last night about 9.15 o'clock at his home. I was not sure just where he lived and asked at the door of Wm. Lambert, who lives downstairs. They told me the boy lived up stairs with his grandmother and that they were all out.

"While I talked with Mr. Lambert, however, we heard footsteps upstairs and knew someone was in. I started to go up but the lad, hearing me, and I asked him if he was 'Goelin' Fairweather and he said 'Yes.'

"You will have to come to the police court tomorrow morning," I said. "What for," he asked. "You are reported for stealing coal."

"He did not seem much concerned and replied 'Oh, I didn't take any coal, some other boys have been giving me coal and I am glad to hear it, but you will have to come up just the same.'

"He did not seem much worried and I left him. Scarcely an hour later, Mrs. Lambert came to me as I was standing on the corner of Sheffield and Carmaithen and told me that the young lad had cut his throat. I hurried to the house and found everything in an uproar. The boy was lying on his side on the kitchen floor and the blood was pouring from an ugly gash in his throat. His clothes were saturated and the floor was covered.

"I telephoned for Dr. E. Berryman and he came down, but evidently could not find the place and went back. Dr. Bentley was called and he told me that he had the boy under his care. I believe the boy to be upright and I was surprised at the report being made.

"In the house was an unfortunate boy lives his grandmother, Mrs. Griffiths, and his two brothers, William and Frederick, both older, and his father, George, an Abraham, is in Boston, and the mother has been dead for several years. According to the family, George had been a regular attendant at the Leinster street school and they scout as ridiculous the idea that he should be stealing coal. They are not in the condition that coal need be obtained in that way and they feel sure that some other boy has given his name to Policeman Smith, of the I. C. R.

"The grandmother, when the policeman visited the house, was out on an errand to the grocery, and says she left George writing in a minute book which he holds by virtue of his position as secretary of the boys' club of St. James' church. Naturally much overcome by the terrible occurrence, Mrs. Griffiths talked in a voice broken with sobs, and told what she knew of the tragedy.

"I went out for a few minutes," she said, "about 9 o'clock and left George writing in his book at the table in the kitchen. He had been to school in the morning but, there being one session, stayed at home all the afternoon and, as he did not feel very well, remained in doors. In the evening he went to attend the boys' club in St. James' church and came back and was writing in his little book as I went out. On the street I met a policeman and he told me he had been notified that the boy a few minutes before. I laughed at the idea of the lad stealing the coal and asked him what it meant anyway."

"When I went in everything was quiet and I called 'George.' He did not answer and when I got up I saw what he had done. His feet were almost in the doorway and his head was near the stove. His little dog, which he thought so much of, was lying licking the blood from his forehead. The sight was terrible.

"It was the worst thing for him to do. It was just done on the impulse of the moment and he was innocent but it came into his head that he would rather kill himself than go up to the police court and he did his best to kill himself. Never even when he was angry did he ever threaten to harm himself before and I never thought of such a thing."

Dr. Bentley struggled hard to save the young life and at 1 o'clock felt that it was safe to remove the lad to the hospital. When asked as to the boy's condition, the doctor said: "I found a gash about four inches in length across the front of the throat. Neither the jugular vein nor any important artery was severed but the windpipe is cut clear through and what complicates the healing is the fact that the Adam's apple is cut directly in two and this may have an effect on the lad's speech if he recovers."

"I found that he lost much blood and was very weak. I put a tube in his throat and he is breathing through that. The air does not pass through his mouth or throat but comes through the wound in the tube. He is in a serious condition but there is a chance for recovery."

WHY NOT C.P.R. HOTEL IN CITY OF ST. JOHN? To the Editor of Evening Times: Sir,—Quite recently I have read in the Telegraph two communications on the subject of increased hotel accommodation in the City of St. John. The letters referred to are signed "Traveler" and "Another Traveler", respectively. In the first of these letters certainly the writer deals with his subject very clearly and evidently with a full knowledge of the situation. Both writers are familiar, as commercial men may be, with the conditions in other cities and can easily recognize the consequent disadvantage and loss to this city in the handicap it suffers from in this direction. That the drawback should be permitted to exist the more remarkable when one considers the pluck and perseverance, aye, even the heroism of the people who so bravely took up the burden of building a new city upon the ashes of the old one, and who today are laboring in many directions in making their rebuilt city still more modern and up-to-date, and who are using much endeavor to make it, in every respect, worthy and fitted to accomplish its great destiny as the Winter Port of Canada. In order to effect this, and secure this prestige the more speedily, abundant hotel accommodation of the most modern kind is an important factor and would seem to be indispensable. The benefit that would attend the construction and capable management of a large modern hotel must be obvious to the most casual observer. The cost would be very large and probably beyond the capacity of our citizens, but, if so, that supplies no argument against the measure.

As has been suggested by "Traveler," why not the C. P. R. take up the idea and add one more link to their chain of hotels along their line from the Atlantic to the Pacific? It is useless to enumerate them or mention their locations, the literature of the C. P. R., describing the different features of scenic and other attractions on the route of that great railway, give full information in respect to the hotel accommodation. Even in St. Andrews—the little shire-town of Charlotte county—the C. P. R. maintains a fine, comfortable resting place in the Algonquin Hotel. Why not extend to St. John—the eastern terminus of the C. P. R.—a like consideration? St. John city has always been even more than well-poised to the C. P. R., and today their interests are substantially united. As "Traveler" has well said, let the board of trade take the matter in hand and interview the managers of the C. P. R. on the subject. No time should be lost in doing this, and it is a fair assumption that the C. P. R. would not be found unresponsive. Yours, &c., OBSERVER. St. John, N. B., Nov. 25, 1907.

SMALL CHANCE OF RECOVERY

Lad Who Cut His Throat Last Night is Still Very Ill at Hospital.

Inquiry at the hospital today elicited the information that George or "Booby" Fairweather, the boy who last night cut his throat with a razor because he was summoned to appear in court on a charge of stealing coal from the I. C. R., is but little better than he was last night. Dr. Malcolm when asked as to whether the unfortunate boy would recover, replied that he would not go so far as to say that; as it would hardly be possible to tell very much about the case for a few days. I. C. R. Policeman Scovil Smith when seen this morning said he felt very badly over the occurrence, but had simply done his duty. He had not yet called on the hospital to see the lad, but from the description was reasonably sure it was the same boy he had approached on the government wharf at the foot of Charlotte street on Monday last.
