LESS SUGAR FOR IMPORT TO CANADA IS THE PROSPECT

Advices from Cuba Tell of Reduced Production This Year—United States Capital Invested for Development of Industry.

With the sugar crop of Europe 1,100,000 tons less this year than last and the latest report from the Cuban sugar fields showing a shortage of 221,776 tons as compared with the production of last year, the Cuban consulate in this city is expecting that the import of raw sugar from the southern republic will not be so great this year as it was in 1919, when the crop reached the high total of 3,971,776 tons. A greater export to Europe this year is practically assured and a great amount of the export will be cleared through the refineries at St. John and Halifax, it is believed. Though the crop is less this year, the Cuban plantations are being worked to the limit and several new "centrals" have been established by United States interests. The Hershey Chocolate Corporation of Philadelphia, recently bought the sugar central of Cia Azucarera del Rosario and is erecting a $30,000,000 mill which has a capacity of 75,000 bags of 200 pounds, during the grinding season. Three new centrals have been established in the Oriente province. Several new mills have been constructed by the American Sugar Refining Company, one of which has a capacity of 700,000 bags and cost $10,000,000. Some 60,000 acres of sugar land have been bought by the Miranda corporation, at a cost of $3,625,000 and a large mill will be erected this summer. Another mill, of 125,000 bag capacity is being erected near Ponce, on the seaboard. The native workers, it is said, are growing rich and indolent and several shiploads of Italian labor have been imported for work in the haciendas. Some of the new crop, according to the latest advices received at the local consulate, has been sold on a price basis of six to eight cents a pound, but the greater amount is bringing 1 1/2 cents and it is said by Stefano Calcevetchia, one of the recognized Cuban authorities on sugar marketing, that the general price in Cuba this year will be in the vicinity of 15 to 20 cents.

Dunn, formerly Miss Edna O'Brien, of Bathurst, aged twenty-four, and Joseph T. Dalgle, of West Bathurst, aged sixty-five. MANY PAY THEIR LAST TRIBUTE TO LATE ORLO BROWN

One of the largest processions that ever followed a funeral in West St. John marched to the graveside at Greenwood cemetery yesterday afternoon for the funeral of Orlo Brown, son of William Brown, who was electrocuted in an accident in Queen square on Saturday evening. The service at the graveside and at the residence of his father, 32 Water street, was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Monson. The choir of the First Presbyterian church led in the singing in the service at the home and Mrs. Murray Long sang a solo. The service was a simple one of scripture reading and prayer. Following behind the hearse in the procession to Greenwood cemetery was a coach filled with the floral tokens of very many friends. Six C. P. R. employes, fellow workers with Orlo Brown, acted as pall-bearers. They were William Lowell, S. J. Burpee, John Smith, H. Osborne, P. Currie and Claude Sealey. The staff and employes of the C. P. R. were largely represented among those who formed the funeral procession.

IN MEMORY OF SOLDIER HERO

In Fairville Methodist church yesterday morning a handsome bouquet sent by P. J. Currie in honor of their brother, Frank Linton, who gave his life in the great war, was placed before the church's honor roll. The pastor, Rev. Thomas Marshall, made feeling reference to the death of both this hero and the other three—William Osborne, Lyman Anglin and Andrew Lawson—who laid down their lives in the great struggle. At the conclusion of Rev. Mr. Marshall's remarks the whole congregation rose and sang God Save the King. The sermon of the day was preached by H. H. Stuart, of Sunny Brae.

HAS OFFER FROM MONTREAL A.A.A.

Joseph McNamara, who has been the physical instructor at the Y. M. C. I. here for several winters, arrived in St. John on Saturday from Montreal and is being warmly greeted by his many friends. While in the latter city he had a conference with officials of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association and received a flattering offer to take charge of their physical activities. Mr. McNamara has not yet decided whether he will go to Montreal next winter or not. He will leave for his home in Boston on Wednesday.

TOLD OF HIS PLAN FOR RAPID EVANGELIZATION

A missionary who made no appeal for funds and who said that the organization which he served under, the Church Missionary Society, although it did not appeal for funds had received last year the sum of $200,000 in unsolicited subscriptions, spoke in Trinity church last evening and was heard with interest and he told of his belief that the world could be evangelized in one generation. That missionary was Rev. W. B. Williston, Church of England missionary in far western China, who in that land has a parish with a population of 50,000,000 souls. Mr. Williston told the story of his eleven years' residence in China and of his familiarizing himself with the ways and language of the people when he remained in the country after missionaries had been ordered to leave because of the danger in the Manchurian revolution. Mr. Williston founded the first summer school for Christian teaching in China and last year 600 attended it. He explained last night how he had established a school at which 100 heads of families received the message of the gospel each month, at the end of that vacation these places for 100 more and how each when his stay was ended went to his own district and began a missionary campaign there. The message given to each was the simplest and most direct, the message of the Cross of Christ and reaching as he did 1,000 and more heads

LET THE PEOPLE KNOW.

The mayor and commissioners are probably divided as to the merits, or demerits, of harbor commission. Before they decide to submit the commission plan to a vote, members of the council, whether they favor the act or oppose it, should at least give the citizens a definite interpretation of the act and much more information concerning it than is now before the public.

They should be told why it is necessary to include Indian harbor in the act. The people will want to know about the ferry. They will want to know whether any other port in Canada is asked to pay interest on the cost of all the government property to be taken over by the commission, as St. John is asked to do.

Many people in St. John are still talking about getting $2,000,000 for the harbor and spending that money on the streets. The mayor and commissioners should tell them that the city will not receive $2,000,000, or any amount, to be spent on the streets or elsewhere, in the sense too commonly supposed.

It is a big, happy family party which will sail on the Tennessee and it will be followed by the best wishes of the other members of the family. The vessel possesses the flag which was given in 1897 by the Tennessee Daughters of the Revolution to the cruiser Tennessee which was renamed the Memphis and was wrecked off the coast of Santo Domingo.

There is a case of a man who is doing all that is asked of him. He was secured by his employers for one purpose, to make home runs, and he is seen to do exactly what he is supposed to do—what he was secured for and what he is paid for.

There is another anti-Japanese movement in California. Theodore Roosevelt, when was President of the United States, was compelled on one occasion to make a hurried visit to California in order to hold up state legislation which was threatening to produce a serious rupture with Japan.

1910 gave California 41,855 Japanese residents, most of them engaged in some branch of farming. In ten years this population has more than doubled, amounting now to more than 87,000 Japanese, and it is found that while the land under Japanese control was small in area ten years ago it has now increased to 628,000 acres of the best land in the state.

These figures are employed to increase an already considerable current of ill-will towards the Japanese in California. The situation is all the more awkward because some publicists in Japan have lately expressed strongly anti-American sentiments. The people of California will continue to demand federal legislation to stop Japanese immigration.

When the fine new battleship Tennessee of the United States navy was launched, Captain Leigh, who was placed in charge of her, announced his intention to recruit his officers and crew in the world.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

On August 10, 1916, Andrew Graham Bell, who had been experimenting for years on what is now called a telephone, talked over a wire between Paris and Bradford, Ontario, by the means of a transmitter in Bradford, while the receiver of the telephone was in Paris.

On April 4, 1877, the first telephone line ever built in Canada for public use was opened by the Dominion Telephone Company. The next year the Hamilton Telephone Company took over the rights, with an exchange in Hamilton, Ont.

JOSEPH BRIGGS DROWNED AT OTTER LAKE

Willow Grove Lad Loses Life While on Fishing Trip on Saturday—Body Recovered.

A happy fishing expedition came to a tragic termination and the sole support of an elderly couple was lost when Joseph Briggs, aged nineteen, was drowned in Otter Lake, St. John county, on Saturday night while returning with his companions from a fishing trip. Young Briggs, who was an adopted son of Henry Briggs, postmaster at Willow Grove, about sixteen miles from the city, was returning in a light dory with Alfred Reid, of 27 Celebration street, to the fishing camp that had been erected on the banks of the stream by Edwin Kee, of 808 Pitt street, Harry E. Rickers, of 102 City Road, and John Quislan, when the dory struck a submerged tree that projected from the banks and both young men were thrown into the water. Reid, who is an expert swimmer, rose to the surface and tried water for some time waiting for a chance to help Briggs, but the unfortunate man never rose to the surface. The body was recovered yesterday afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock by a grappling party and was viewed by Coroner F. L. Kenney, M. D., after it was brought to P. J. Fitzpatrick's undertaking rooms last night. The coroner's certificate gives the cause of death as "accidental drowning" and an inquest was considered unnecessary. Much sympathy goes out to the aged foster-parents of the victim of the accident, who was a favorite with all who knew him. He had finished his tuition at St. Patrick's school last June and was just taking on the duties of mastery of his household.

The other members of the party remained at the camp all night. They resumed search for the body at dawn, but all to no avail. They went to the Ben Lomond House and informed Mrs. Barker, who notified J. B. M. Baxter, K.C., of the unfortunate occurrence. Dr. Baxter communicated with J. B. Jones, city commissioner. The latter with Commissioner Thornton, William Donohue, John O'Leary, Henry O'Leary and William O'Leary in one car, and Mr. Jones, Edward Doherty, S. A. Sewell and E. J. McManus in another, motored to the scene with grappling irons and other equipment, and after a short search found the body near where the young man was drowned.

Joseph Briggs, who was adopted by Postmaster Briggs when only a child, was a favorite with all who knew him and was in much demand with those who wanted to be sure of a good day's fishing

IN CITY PULPITS
 Visiting clergymen of distinction were among the preachers in the churches yesterday, filling the pulpits of the local ministers who are spending their vacations out of the city and local exchanges were made. Rev. W. B. Williston, missionary from Western China, preached both morning and evening in Trinity church; Ven. Archdeacon F. W. Vroom in Stone church; Rev. J. H. A. Holmes of St. Jude's church preached in the Mission church in the evening; Rev. J. C. Berry was the minister at St. David's church; Rev. Alexander White of Renfrew (Ont.) was the preacher in the Main Street Baptist church.

SEWER REPAIRED.
 One of the main sewers was found to be choked on the Douglas avenue line on Friday. A catch basin was noticed to be working poorly and the trouble was located in a choked sewer at the corner of Douglas avenue and Main street. It was a difficult piece of work to tear up the concrete pavement and get at the sewer which in that place is between the car tracks. The sewer was cleared on Saturday and it is expected that the concrete and paving will be in place again by Tuesday.

SOCIETY INSTITUTED.
 The reception of members into the new society instituted in Holy Trinity parish, The Confraternity of the Most Blessed Sacrament, took place last evening in Holy Trinity church. Between 300 and 400 parishioners joined the society and after vesper and benediction last evening they were addressed by Very Rev. Monsignor J. J. Walsh. A very pleasing part of the impressive ceremony was the procession of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Dr. Walcott, of Winchester (Mass.), preached at both services at the Central Baptist church yesterday. His subject in the morning was "The Mystery of Godliness" and in the evening "The Legacy of Peace."

William Mishaw, an American tourist, was held up on the Marsh Road yesterday morning about 10 o'clock by Constable Robert Crawford. He was taken before Magistrate Francis Rafferty at Coldbrook, charged with exceeding the speed limit, and was fined $10.

The picnic and sports which were to be held at Fair Vale on Saturday were postponed for a week on account of the rain. HON. MACKENZIE KING SPEAKS ON THE TARIFF

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and other Liberals, including Hon. Dr. Beaman, delivered addresses at a big Liberal picnic held at Toronto Island Saturday afternoon.

Hon. Mackenzie King emphasized the circumstances under which the present government is carrying on without a proper mandate from the people. He replied to several of the statements made by Hon. Mr. Meighen at a political rally in Ontario recently and criticized the attitude of the government toward the tariff and other questions.

In connection with the tariff, Hon. Mr. King said that he believed that the time had come when a downward revision of the tariff is necessary. He believed there should be substantial reduction of the duties on the necessities of life, which included the articles which go to make up the food, clothing and shelter for the Canadian people. He also suggested that certain essentials should be placed on the free list.

In opening his address Hon. Mr. King said:

Liberal Military Policy.
Mr. King went on to outline the Liberal military policy.

"Let me say quiet clearly: The Liberal party of Canada takes no exception to justifiable expenditures for military, naval and police purposes. As a party, several believe there are times and seasons for all things, and that if there is one branch of government in which, at the present time, we can afford to economize until matters more important have been successfully dealt with, it is in the matter of new naval, military and police expenditures. It must be remembered that throughout the war these departments of the government were still used as no others. They attained proportions never before assumed in the Dominion. Proportions necessary perhaps, in time of war, but altogether out of relation to what is necessary in times of peace. The minister of finance tells us that all expenditures on this account, amounting, during the war, to nearly two billions of dollars. Surely, for a time, we may be granted some rest from all unnecessary expenditure on this account.

"We have an expenditure for the present year of something like double that required to carry on the business of government for the whole country ten years ago.

"It is not somewhat surprising that, under these circumstances the government should have asked from parliament and obtained during the last session an appropriation, in addition to other amounts of more than $21,000,000 on account of militia, police and naval services. The opposition did its best to secure economy in these particular branches of expenditures, but without more than partial success. We succeeded in postponing an outlay of about $2,000,000 for additional barracks, but now Mr. Guthrie announces that he is going to ask the minister of finance for this amount and commence the construction of barracks at the earliest possible date. What Canada needs today is not more barracks for a standing army in the nature of a permanent force, but less in the way of militia and police, and more in the way of military and police control and more in the way of increasing production.

Tariff Matters.
The Liberal leader, commenting upon the tariff questions, said: "The tariff policy of this country," says Mr. Meighen, "is to keep Canadian working men in Canada. The policy of the government is to enlarge the employed market and add to the size of Canada. The policy for the government is to make goods and keep people here with plenty of work for every class of men. The policy of the government is to give Canadian industries of every kind just what advantage in the Canadian market as will make it pay them better to stay here and expand than to diminish their plants or to leave."

"Wherein do these pronouncements of policy assist us in discovering how the government proposes to raise the revenue of this country? Wherein is the difference in a statement of this kind and not the aims of the present administration and those of any other government, whether it be Liberal, Farmer or Labor, which might conceivably manage the affairs of the country? What we want to know is, not what is desired, but how the end is to be attained. Well, here we come to the admission of Mr. Meighen that on the all-important aspect of the matter neither he nor his government has any views.

"We believe that the time has come, indeed that it is already long past, when a downward revision of the tariff is necessary. In this revision we believe that there should be substantial reduction of the duties on the necessities of life; in other words, on those articles which go to make up the food, the clothing, the shelter for the Canadian people, that certain specifications required for the purposes of consumption and other articles essential to production should be placed upon the free list, and that in regard to the instruments of production in the basic industries of agriculture, mining, lumbering and fishing, there should also be a substantial reduction of duties.

Not a Free Trade Question.

It is not a question of free trade or protection. With the revenue which will be required for years to come to meet the large interest payments on public debt, the obligations to our returned soldiers in the way of pensions and in other respects, as well as to carry on the work of government in Canada—resort as we may to direct taxation of incomes and of business profits, which is also a part of the Liberal policy; tax as we will all luxuries, which is another plank in the Liberal platform—there will still be required for purposes of revenue large sums of money which if necessary will have to be raised by indirect taxation through a customs tariff. In revising the tariff to this end, care will be taken for the needs of the industries, in this connection will be, under Liberal policy, a tariff for consumers, and producers, and not a tariff to further the interests of combines, monopolies or any special or privileged classes.

"Let me point out such a tariff is not only in the interests of the people of the rural parts, but also in the interests of city dwellers; such a tariff is not only in the interests of the working men, but in the interests of employers; moreover, such a tariff is doubly necessary in the absence of any protection to consumers by the abolition of the combines

NO TRAMWAYS STRIKE BOOKED FOR MONTREAL

Montreal, Aug. 15.—There is to be no tramways strike in Montreal. The employees took a vote in the various barns on Saturday and the results were taken to the union headquarters on Saturday night. The vote showed 2,246 voted, of which 609 were in favor of adopting the award for the board of conciliation and 547 were against. The result is looked on as a decisive verdict for industrial peace on the part of the unions in Montreal or Canada. The new contract is until June 30, 1921, and is retroactive to July 1, 1920.

A DEMONSTRATION.
Halifax, Aug. 15.—A big demonstration under the auspices of the Holy Name Society was held this evening. The parade was the largest of the kind ever held in the city.

DISTURBANCE IN DUBLIN

Crowd Attempts to Rush Castle Gates — Conference Suggested.

Dublin, Aug. 15.—Dublin was aroused at 9 o'clock last night by heavy firing in the vicinity of Dublin Castle, the result of a crowd attempting to rush the castle gates. Soldiers fired over the people's heads and there were a few revolver shots from the crowd. None were injured. The trouble started when a crowd saw a number of soldiers of the Lancashire Fusiliers who, they believe, shot a boy named Farrell during the recent riots in the city. The soldiers were pursued to the castle gates. The firing lasted ten minutes. Later wild rumors were circulated in the city greatly exaggerating the affair. A short time after the firing at the castle an armored car with a lorry of troops pulled some of the soldiers from the lorry. Other lorries were then sent out to pick up straggling soldiers. The troops fired a volley over a crowd at the O'Connell bridge. Many persons took refuge in buildings. Irish volunteers finally advised the people to leave the streets.

For a Settlement.
Dublin, Aug. 15.—Henry Harrison, secretary of the Irish Dominion Home Rule League, has received many letters from moderate men throughout the country, including Ulster, endorsing the league's suggestion that a conference be held to endeavor to secure settlement of the Irish problem. The letters come from men of all parties, and there are several from Catholic and Protestant clergymen.

SOME VAGARIES OF THE GOLFER

One Drove His Ball Through Streets of London in the "Wee Sma' Hours."

The "ways of a man with a mallet" are not more strange or varied than the ways of a man with his golf clubs, says The-Bits.

Only a few months ago early risers were amazed to see a golfer chasing his "wee sma' bit" through the streets of London.

A few weeks later another enthusiast tried off for the first round of the York Royal Country Club links at Philadelphia.

He had completed his tenth round at 8.35 a.m., and went on until he had completed his tenth round at 8.35 p.m., after traversing a distance of over forty miles.

But even this feat had been eclipsed a few years earlier by Lieut. H. B. Lumsden, a young Scotman who chased his ball round the Balgowrie links from twenty minutes past two in the morning till a quarter past eight in the evening, completing a dozen rounds in 990 strokes.

By Lantern Light. There are even golfers who, finding the day too short to satisfy their zest for the game, do not scruple to snatch a few hours from the night.

At Logan's Ports Indians, not long ago, a match was played at night by rival teams, half of the competitors wearing women's clothes.

Each putting green was illuminated by Chinese lanterns, and each hole with luminous paint.

The balls and clubheads were painted with phosphorus.

On the St. Andrew's links, Davie Strait once completed the round in ninety-five strokes by the light of the moon; and on the Porters Park links, Mr. E. Markham and Mr. C. L. Richmond not long ago played a match by lantern light.

Years ago, Lord Kennedy and a Mr. Crulshank played three holes under still more difficult conditions for a stake of £200 a hole.

The game commenced at 10 o'clock at night, and light was allowed except a lantern at each hole. The players actually made out the holes in about the same number of strokes they would have taken in daylight.

For wagers, Mr. Donald McLean once drove a ball over Melville's Monument in St. Andrew Square, Edinburgh; another golfer drove off from Burnside links and holed out on the top of Arthur's Seat, a feat of almost inconceivable skill and difficulty.

While two members of the Burgess Golfing Club drove seven balls out of twelve over St. Giles' steps, 160 feet high.

Some years ago the Luffness course was the scene of an extraordinary match between the Rev. Mr. Tait and "Old Tom" Morris, the former pitting his bow and arrow against the veteran golfer's clubs. In the round of eighteen holes the bow scored a signal victory. But the player has by no means a monopoly of either freaks or feats, for the ball itself runs him very close.

When it leaves the club you never know what tricks it will perform before it comes to rest. Thus we read of one ball which decapitated a wagtail in its flight; of another which killed a hare; and of two others which slaughtered a weasel and a sea-gull in one afternoon.

Balls have found refuge in a cow's mouth, in a player's pocket, in a pillowcase pegged on a clothes line, and behind a picture hanging on a cottage wall.

One ball was discovered lying peacefully in a bird's nest, another disappeared down the clubhouse chimney, and one, the most adventurous of all, was caught by the engine-driver of a passing train and carried forty miles before it came to earth again, thus completing a "drive" which might well make Duncan or Mitchell gasp.

MANAGE BRANCH OF BANK IN SACKVILLE

W. L. Gray Is Succeeded with F. B. McCurdy & Co. by George E. Harley.

Warren L. Gray, for the last ten months manager of the local branch of F. B. McCurdy & Co., has resigned his position with this company and will leave on Friday for Sackville to assume the management of the Sackville branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada.

Mr. Gray entered the financial world in 1906 when he entered the employ of the Union Bank of Halifax. This bank was later taken over by the Royal Bank of Canada, and Mr. Gray retained his position under it. In 1915 he left the bank to join F. B. McCurdy & Co., in Halifax, and worked up to the position of inspector of branches. He came to this city about October 1, 1919, and assumed the management of the local office.

Mr. Gray has made many friends here who will regret to learn of his decision to leave the city. He will be greatly missed in his business and social life.

His place as local manager of the F. B. McCurdy Co. will be taken by George E. Harley, of the Montreal office of the company.

TO RAISE RIVER STEAMER FEES

Amendment to By-Law Is Recommended to Common Council—Subway Suggested for Douglas Avenue Crossing—Spruce Lake Extension Up Tomorrow Morning.

A proposed amendment to the by-law governing the cost of licenses on steamers and towboats in Inlandwater harbor was brought before a committee meeting of the common council this morning and recommended on motion of Commissioner Bullock. This proposed amendment provides for an increase in the annual fee of passenger steamers from $10 to $20 and for tugs and towboats from $5 to $10. The payment of this sum entitles these craft to ply either in Inlandwater or St. John harbors. The new law provides that no payment of wharfage charges will be made on vessels detained at Inlandwater awaiting the opportunity to pass through the falls.

Commissioner Frink, referring to the grade of Lansdowne avenue, said that that established by Mr. Murdoch some time ago was not practical on account of it being above some of the buildings already erected there. He said that he had asked the street engineer to establish a new grade which he would submit for approval.

Authority was given Commissioner Bullock to call for tenders for 12,000 feet of spruce deal and 4,000 feet of spruce boards for wharf repairs.

Speaking on the proposed amendment to the by-law governing the fees on shipping in Inlandwater harbor Mr. Bullock said that the revenue from the Inlandwater harbor hardly met expenses last year.

The amendment was recommended to council.

Referring to the new bridge across the falls, Commissioner Bullock said that the new provincial bridge was put higher than the old suspension and the present railway bridge in order to allow of more easy passage of schooners. He said the highway bridge was ninety feet above high water while the railway bridge was but eighty-four feet. He asked if a request could not be sent to the C. P. R. to see if the new bridge could not be raised above the grade of the present bridge. If this were done, he said, it might be possible to put in a subway at the end of Douglas avenue under the railway crossing and on to the highway bridge direct.

The mayor said he had asked the railway commissioners if they were in this city to call and look over the situation. He said he would make further inquiry in the matter.

Commissioner Thornton reported that the tenders for painting the exhibition buildings would be opened tomorrow.

It was arranged to take up the matter of the Spruce Lake extension tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Commissioner Thornton reported that he had received complaints of destruction in the old burying ground during the evenings after the caretaker had gone. He said he had a policeman on duty there for a while but it was impossible to keep a man there all the time. No action was taken.

Commissioner Bullock asked the commissioner of public works if he had any spare sections; he would like to get one or two for the bathing scows. He said that at present there was not enough to go around but he could figure on a few more in the estimates for the coming year.

HIGHLAND BAND FOR EXHIBITION

H. A. Porter Making Arrangements—Visits Montreal and the Sherbrooke Fair Grounds.

H. A. Porter, secretary of the St. John Exhibition Association, returned to the city on Sunday after a flying visit to Montreal in connection with exhibition matters. On his return he called at Sherbrooke where a fair is to be held the week before that in St. John.

Mr. Porter said he was greatly surprised at the plant which Sherbrooke, a town of 25,000 people, possesses. The area covered exceeds seventy-three acres of ground. Twenty acres were acquired this year. In the centre of the area is a half-mile race track with a grand stand capable of accommodating 5,000 people.

One of the features of the fair is the accommodation for parking motor cars. A subway under one side of the track leads to the central paddock, where all cars are parked and a charge of fifty cents collected. On one day last year more than 1,000 half dollars were collected from this source.

Mr. Porter made arrangements for the getting away of exhibits which will be shown at the Sherbrooke show in time to be on exhibition here on Monday of exhibition week.

While in Montreal he took up with Lt. Col. Eric McQuigg, O. C. the 5th to the Highlanders, the question of securing that unit's band for our fair. He is to receive an answer later.

The Investment Value of Newspaper Advertising

PROBLEMS of transportation and the high cost of selling and distributing goods at a distance, have prompted manufacturers to look for "logical markets."

"Logical markets" are places that can be served easily and economically.

For example: This community is a logical market for many manufacturers whose plants are located here or hereabouts.

The manufacturer who can send his goods into this locality easily and regularly, ought to be building a permanent investment here through advertising in the newspapers.

Newspaper advertising will create popular demand. Dealer interest and support will come, too, because the dealer knows that newspaper advertising does create a demand for him to fill.

You can easily establish now a good will and confidence for your product that will prove a permanent investment for the future.

World Court of Justice Constitution Seems Certainty In Near Future

Sessions of Jurists Advisory Committee, Which Started June 16, Prepare Plans for Selection of Judges

The Hague, July 24.—The constitution of a World Court of Justice to be composed of the most eminent international jurists, sitting in permanent session, and deciding disputes between nations solely on the basis of law, seems a certainty of the very near future as a result of the meetings at The Hague of the Jurists Advisory Committee, which was called together on June 16 by the Council of the League of Nations to prepare plans for such a court under the provision of Article XIV. of the Covenant.

The commission found itself before a problem upon which the most earnest and the most ingenious of international jurists had never been able to reach agreement. It found itself faced by national susceptibilities and fears which had hitherto been insurmountable. It also found itself divided even among its own members by the different schools of thought which stood committed through years of partisanship and argumentation to mutually irreconcilable views.

But it had before it an entirely new international situation. In the thirteen years which had elapsed since the failure of the second Hague conference to create a permanent court of law a fundamental change had taken place in the relations of states. The great war had been fought and an association of nations formed. The disastrous aftermath and the pride of extreme national sovereignty evidenced in 1907 had largely fallen away because of the example of co-operation between nations during the war and of organization among the nations after the war.

In less than three weeks time, therefore, the committee was able to outline a complete plan for the constitution of the court. Under this plan all the various conflicts at issue seem to have been solved by a most ingenious combination of principles which term, first, to harmonize the hitherto insoluble conflict between the big powers and the little powers as regards the selection of judges, and, second, to give every assurance of the choice of the most eminent and the most representative jurists in the world.

The court is to consist of the outmost of eleven judges and four alternate judges, serving for a term of nine years. It will sit permanently at The Hague to decide all cases of a purely legal nature, arising between nations, and will form a complement to the existing Court of Arbitral Justice, which will retain its competence to deal with all cases of arbitration between nations. The functioning of these bodies, one besides the other, will form a centre of international law and justice which is expected to be one of the landmarks in international development.

The first step in the selection of the judges of the court is, of course, the nomination of candidates, which obviously will have a very deep effect upon the final character of the court. It was felt that no better method could be found than to instruct this original nomination to the permanent Court of Arbitral Justice at The Hague, which will not only assure the highest judicial character to the candidates named, but will also make it unnecessary for any Government to commit itself to a choice before the actual time of election.

The four jurists of each nation represented on the court would be requested to form a national group to select not over six candidates, of whom not over two might be their own nationals. These national groups would in turn be requested to make their selection in consultation with the highest judicial authorities in their respective countries, such as the Supreme Court and the various international law societies. The results would be to provide a long list chosen on the broadest principles, assuring a truly international character and providing a rough consensus of legal opinion as to the men best qualified for the final choice.

Method of Selection. After the nomination of the judges, however, comes the selection. It is just here that all previous plans for a world court have broken down. Where there are fifty nations in the world, it is obvious that each one cannot have a national sitting on a court composed of just eleven members. Until the meetings of the present committee no solution has ever been found for this difficulty. The big Powers had maintained that they must always have a national sitting on the court, not only because they represent the force which must be the essential backbone of the court, but also because they were entitled to assured position by their role of leadership in the world and by the predominance of their business before the court. They had refused to admit any system of selection placing them under the control of a court selected by collusion of the small states, especially as many of latter were inferior in civilization and judicial development.

But the little states had similarly refused to admit any method of selection which did not recognize their equality as sovereign Powers. Starting from the admitted principle that justice had nothing to do with the size of a nation, but that it is an abstract principle applicable to all alike, they had refused to recognize the preponderant interest of the big Powers or to agree to any system which placed the latter in a preferential position regarding the selection of judges.

Since the Hague conference of 1907, however, this same difficulty as regards the equality of states had been harmonized in the political field through the creation of the League of Nations. There two bodies had been established—one the council, to consist of the nine larger powers, and to serve as a sort of executive committee, and the other the assembly, to consist of all powers and to be the final repository of international authority. If the two groups could agree on such a method of political organization there was every reason to believe that they would accept a similar plan for the preliminary step in constituting Candidates' Committees.

Consequently the list of candidates as drawn up by the Court of Arbitral Justice would be submitted to the council and the assembly of the league. Each body would proceed by a majority vote to the choice of the necessary number of judges. Undoubtedly there would be some jurists who would receive a majority of votes on both lists. These men, as the choice of both bodies, would be declared as judges.

Equally certain, however, agreement would not be reached on the first ballot for all members of the court. Consequently each electoral body would proceed to another ballot, knowing more exactly the views of the other body. All parliamentary experience with this method of selection goes to show that a large measure of agreement is reached as the balloting continues.

Experience also shows that there is strong probability of reaching agreement in the last places to be filled. Obviously a method must be found to resolve such a deadlock. The solution agreed upon is to have each electoral body appoint a committee of three members to discuss privately with a similar committee from the other body the possible bases of agreement. This would reduce the issue to the mediation of six men, who would be free to agree on any names, whether on the original list of candidates or not.

Experience again shows that in practically all such cases agreement is commonly reached. Men placed upon this sort are confronted by the fact that they must make some kind of recommendation of the bodies to which they belong are not to abdicate their functions. They are consequently driven on by a sense of duty, which at the same time intruded with full powers of compromise.

Joint Mediation Succeeds. When such a joint medium committee reports its decision to the two parent bodies, experience similarly shows that its recommendation is almost always accepted, for as a matter of fact, the recommendation comprises the only way out of a difficulty which has till then ever been difficult. In order, however, to foresee all possible contingencies, provision is to be made that any places which should be filled shall be filled by the vote of the judges who already compose the court. The assembly and the council, for as a matter of fact they are not to agree, but to agree to disagree, and the choice would be made by another body.

This plan is felt to meet all the intricacies of the situation. The nomination of candidates by a body such as the Hague Court of Arbitral Justice would seem to assure the choice of men truly representative of the principal civilizations of the world. The final selection of judges by the council and the assembly would seem to reconcile the hitherto irreconcilable conflict between the big powers and the little powers by giving each a check upon the other. It is hoped that this compromise, based as it is upon the system already accepted by most nations of the world, will prove acceptable to all the nations represented on the council and in the assembly and make it possible to bring the long-expected world court of justice into being shortly after the meeting of the assembly in Brussels in November.

Monteagle, Author of The Dominion of Ireland Bill

London, July 23—As you look around the House of Lords, Thomas Spring Rice, the second Baron Monteagle of Brandon, the peer who introduced the Dominion of Ireland Bill, is the last man you would have picked out in that assembly of hereditary aristocrats to produce a document which contains "more statesmanship, more democracy, more self-determination, and more horse-sense than any home rule bill which has ever been presented to the British parliament," as Sir Horace Plunkett put it.

Lord Monteagle, "a quiet, unassuming peer" with gentle eyes and long white beard, is an Irishman from the banks of the Shannon, where at the age of sixteen, fifty-four years ago, he succeeded to his grandfather's title. He was then a school-boy at Harrow. He distinguished himself in mathematics at Cambridge. On attaining his majority he went to live at Foynes, the family estate of about 7,000 acres in the county of Limerick.

To a young man brought up in the aristocratic atmosphere of a great English school, the responsibility of governing the lives and fortunes of hundreds of ignorant peasants was almost staggering. But, boy as he was, he immediately took his position seriously and proceeded to make good his obligations. This meant that almost immediately he was called upon to choose between his own family fortune and the future and welfare of his tenants.

A Gladstone Supporter. Those were the days of the land troubles in Ireland, and it is significant that the young peer was the first to support Mr. Gladstone's Land Acts of 1886. He put them into immediate practice, with the result that he gave up 4,000 acres to his tenants at once; this was presently followed by the sale of all his farm lands in small holdings to peasant farmers on terms exceedingly advantageous to them.

But Lord Monteagle did not, as did many other Irish landlords, turn his property into cash in order to come and live in England, leaving the ignorant peasants to their fate. He retained possession of his villages only and settled down in his family home at Foynes to devote his life to his country and his people.

Lord Monteagle was not a "Home Ruler" in those days; he believed that Irish farmers would want nothing more if they were given the land. He was the first and the most enthusiastic supporter of the Irish Agricultural Organisation Society, which introduced the co-operative system of farming into Ireland.

It was in the dining room, at Mount Trenchard, Foynes, that his old friend and schoolmate, Horace Plunkett, the only one among all the companions of his youth who had sympathy with his schemes, put the idea of a co-operative creamery before a small group of the more intelligent farmers of the neighborhood. These peasants were already their own masters; but, while they enjoyed all the benefits of independence, they exacted from their one-time overlords all the service and help which centuries of serfdom had taught them to expect. A little incident which occurred after the meeting illustrates their attitude.

What An Old Farmer Wanted. An old farmer bobbed up to Lord Monteagle and, taking him to one side, croaked slyly in his ear, "It's a fine scheme, your lordship, but couldn't you be getting some rich English man to run it for us?"

In 1875 Lord Monteagle married the sister of another school friend, a daughter of the Bishop of Meath. His wife was an ardent Home Ruler, and gradually, as the years went by, she succeeded in converting her husband to the realization that mere material prosperity would never solve the Irish question. This was further strengthened by the fact that the Gaelic League took upon Ireland and the growing determination throughout all the country to emphasize the national aspect of Ireland's claims.

To Lord Monteagle, along with other far-seeing Irishmen, gradually came the conviction that in a federal alliance, rather than union, lay the only hope of peace.

But political controversy scarcely found an echo in Foynes. At present this remote Atlantic port, but it is one of the most magnificent natural harbors in the world, providing safe anchorage for fleets of ships of 10,000 tonnage and with the minimum of artificial construction, for any number of any size. "It has for years been dream of mine," said Foynes, "that eventually become a great port."

FARMER'S WIFE GAINS 15 POUNDS

Looks so Well Since Taking Tanlac Her Best Friends Hardly Know Her.

"Tanlac has been such a wonderful blessing to my wife, that I shall praise it as long as I live," recently declared Atherton Titus, a well-known and prosperous farmer, living at Perry's Point (N. B.). "She certainly was in a terrible condition before taking Tanlac. Why, for ten years her stomach was so bad she didn't dare eat anything like pork or pancakes, and even oatmeal soup and cause gas to form that bloated her up till she was in perfect agony. She fell off in weight until she was a mere shadow of what she used to be and became so weak she could hardly do a thing about the house. To make matters worse rheumatism set in and the pain in her arms and legs was so awful it kept her awake for hours at night. She tried nearly everything in the way of medicines and treatment but never got anything more than temporary relief until she tried Tanlac.

"In all my life I've never seen anything to equal the way Tanlac got rid of all her troubles, and it has built her up to where she is like an entirely different woman. She can now eat anything at all and is never troubled in the least with sourness or gas. She has gained all of fifteen pounds in weight and her looks have so improved that her best friends hardly know her. The rheumatism has practically disappeared and she sleeps like a child the whole night through. She can now work all day without getting tired and feels as well and strong as ever she did in her life. We both firmly believe in Tanlac and want everyone to know what a grand medicine it is."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by the Ross Drug Company and F. W. Munro; by G. W. McKay, Beaver Harbor; W. J. Colwell, Evans; C. V. Parsons, Highland; John F. Meagher, Debec; O. D. Hanson, Lepreau; E. L. Conley, Leonardville; N. H. Johnson, Clarendon Station, and by the leading druggists in every town.—(A. D. V.)

one of the great world ports," said Lord Monteagle in talking of his home. "It has unlimited trading possibilities and is the natural terminus of Irish-American ocean traffic."

"But our people have still to be made ready for it when it comes, and that has always been my chief concern. To understand my neighbors, to live with them year in and year out in harmony and friendship, to understand their needs and in so far as in me lay to help them to achieve them, to identify my life with theirs—that is what I have always striven for."

Lady Monteagle's Work. In this aim Lord Monteagle had the complete sympathy of his wife, who spent her entire married life working to establish better conditions among the peasants of Limerick. Free nursing, free schools, peasant industries, form institutes, and cooperation developed to its utmost were all parts of the scheme, and in its service Lady Monteagle died in 1908 of consumption, contracted during her village work.

Lord Monteagle was elected to the first County Council set up in Ireland in 1888, and since that time has held county office continuously. He is, and always has been, a staunch friend of Sir Horace Plunkett, and when the Irish Dominion League was formed Lord Monteagle at once gave it his complete support. But no one realized that it would fall to this gentle old man, now in his seventy-first year, who proudly, yet deprecatingly, refers to himself as a "backwoodsman," to actually put into legislative form the claims of the best men in Ireland.

The Bill His Own Measure. "As the day approached on which I had to make my introductory speech I had an almost sickening dread," Lord Monteagle told me, referring to the presentation of his bill in the House of Lords. "It is so many years since I have taken any part in politics, and I have grown unaccustomed to the ways and habits of the political world at Westminster that I feel I had scarcely a leg with men and women who are of my children's generation rather than mine. And when I stood up before the lords I felt like one returned from another world driven to my task by one thought only—the need for peace in Ireland. I could not leave the question of Ireland alone, as so many of my Irish friends are doing. I feel that it is the duty of every Irishman at this moment to proclaim the faith that is in him, and this is my faith. My bill is my own, brought forward with no party object. I leave recrimination to one side and I do not attack the government. I am good friends with many Sinn Feiners—my daughter is a Sinn Feiner—and my position has alienated me from my friends and relatives, men who under other circumstances would have been my intimates through life. These things are nothing to me. The dearest wish in my heart is for peace in Ireland and to keep Ireland a willing member of the British Commonwealth of Free Nations. I believe this is possible on a Dominion basis, but nothing short of it, and to this end I have dared to take my stand alone, an old man, but firm in my faith.

August Fur Sale and why

A FUR SALE in Summer seems strange to many folks. They think it odd to buy furs "out of season" forgetting that the season of usefulness need not govern the period of purchase.

"When to Buy?" has no relation with "When to Wear?" Practical economy is the governing factor.

Our stock is purchased far in advance of the season. In no other way can our customers be given the benefit of choice selections from a large assortment in styles and pieces.

Selling in advance of the season greatly reduces the cost of carrying goods in stock and permits a decided saving to our customers. Reducing prices during inactive sales periods is a distinct benefit to all.

The prevailing prices at our August Fur Sale is ample evidence of this fact. Bargains are available now that will be out of the question this Fall and Winter.

The discriminating shopper will make no mistake in looking at our wonderful display of choice pieces in the latest styles of the moment.

Not a Shade of Red Was Missing at This Sale

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who shrewdly maneuvered Sherlock Holmes through the mystifying mazes of "The Red Handed League," would have revelled in the idea used by the Chester Clothes Shop in Boston, to attract attention to its recent opening.

In Boston, as in other cities, new stores are no novelty. They blossom forth almost every day and the public, as a rule, goes its way unheeding until time and a reputation for the excellence of materials gives the young organization the hall-mark of reliability. But the Chester Clothes Shop didn't care to wait for time to turn the trick. They knew they had the goods the public wanted and they were determined to lose nothing by a watchful-waiting policy. So they advertised one of the most unusual offers ever made in Boston.

"The reddest red-haired man who presents himself at our new store on the opening day will receive a suit of our best clothes without charge," was the announcement which appeared in the

Advertisements Kill Deadbeat

It gets pretty hot in summer in south-western Kansas. Folks get "fed up" with life, and the cool, restful mountains of Colorado are paradise mingled at a distance of several hundred miles.

People throw some baggage together and "hit the road." They take a vacation. Sometimes they take that vacation when they can't afford it and can only finance the venture by a device which merchants in many places other than Wichita are familiar. They "neglect" something about it. It has always been an unfavorable element in Wichita retail business, and this year the retailers did better for obvious reasons, for the impractical to approach each of his customers and put through a fourth degree respecting their vacation plans. It just wouldn't do, that's all. But there is a way to do it, and it is done, tactfully, diplomatically and without outraging the feelings of sensitive customers.

The Wichita retailers, through their credit association, did some newspaper advertising, just before the time when Wichita characteristically succumb to summer mountain fever. It was signed "The Retail Credit Men" and headed "Who Will Pay for Your Trip to the Mountains?"

"Every merchant in the city of Wichita doing a credit business has the right to ask that question of every credit customer who does not pay his or her bills promptly," read the copy.

"If you do not pay your July 1 bills before the 10th of the month, you are the money for vacation expenses, you are forcing the retailer who extends you credit to finance your outing."

"Suppose a merchant owed the bank $1000, due on July 1. Then let the merchant go to the bank and say: 'Mr. Banker, I owe you $1000, but I want to take vacation, so I guess I won't pay you now. I can't do both and I want the vacation more than I desire to be free of debt, so you'll just have to wait.'"

"Of course, that could not be done in business. The merchant must pay his note when due or his credit is gone and he soon will have to quit business. But the principle is identical with your situation if you take the money they offered to pay July 1 bills and spend it for a vacation."

"Your conscience will not allow you a very pleasant time if you force the merchant you owe to finance your summer outing."

USE The Want Ad

Buying Advertising Space Means Buying A Market

Cautious merchants buy advertising space the same as they do merchandise or goods in trade—with a microscope in their hand.

"What do I get for the expenditure?" is the paramount question in the present day merchant's mind. Stunts, schemes, fictitious and proof lacking circulation claims have no attraction for the keen space buyer. That's why the Daily Telegraph and The Evening Times-Star represent solid and steady growth in advertising volume—because they can satisfy the most exacting demands made by local or national space users as to the real condition of their circulation.

The membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations—the A. B. C.—of the Telegraph and Times-Star ensures accurate and trustworthy circulation statements.

The A. B. C. is Your Safeguard

The A. B. C. is a non-profit organization made up of concerted advertising interests—publishers, advertisers and advertising agents; and the object is to produce verified and authentic net figures of circulation.

All local newspapers were invited to become members. The Telegraph and The Times-Star were the only two in New Brunswick to accept.

FIELD EVENTS AT OLYMPIAD VERY POPULAR

(Associated Press Correspondence.) Antwerp, Aug. 15.—In his heat of the hundred metres at the Olympic games today, Penton ran second to Abraham, of England. The Canadian ran a strong race. The time was eleven seconds. Coeffer failed to do better than third in his heat which was won in ten and four-fifths seconds. In the eight hundred metres race Phillips was replaced. He made a strong effort for five hundred metres and was then beaten off. This was a classic contest and was won by Rudd of South Africa. Hill, of England, was second, and Eby, America, third. King Albert, accompanied by the queen and royal family, opened the Olympiad on Saturday. The ceremony was elaborate, and the parade of athletes a magnificent one. A crowd of ten thousand spectators greeted their majesties, rising as a token of respect and loyalty, to receive the rulers. King George, in a message to the delegations of athletes from the British empire at the Olympiad, expressed his best wishes for their success, expressing himself as knowing that, whether victorious or defeated, they would exercise an inspiring influence in promoting a chivalrous spirit in the competitions, and that their progress would be followed with keenness and interest.

COLONEL BORDEN GOES TO WINNIPEG

(Canadian Press Despatch.) Halifax, N. S., Aug. 15.—The news that Colonel Allison Borden has been transferred from this city to Winnipeg, and that he will leave for his new post of duty about September 1, is received with great regret by his host of friends here, as also of those of Mrs. Borden. Colonel Borden, whose record as the officer commanding the eighty-fifth battalion is a matter of history has for about eighteen months held the office of assistant adjutant and quartermaster general, military district No. 4. He is one of the most popular officers ever stationed here.

PONTIFICAL HIGH MASS AT THE CATHEDRAL

His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc celebrated pontifical high mass at the Cathedral yesterday for the first time since his return from his ad limina visit to Rome. The occasion was the Feast of the Assumption and his lordship took the opportunity of bestowing the papal blessing which he had received at Rome on the congregation. Pontifical mass is a solemn mass with the ceremonies prescribed and only a few times during the year is a bishop allowed to pontificate. The full ceremonial was carried out yesterday morning when the bishop celebrated mass at his throne. Rev. William Duke was high priest; Rev. Raymond McCarthy, master of ceremonies; Rev. Simon Oram, deacon and Pather Ramage sub-deacon. The feast of the Assumption has a double object—the celebration of the happy departure of Mary from this life and the assumption of her body into heaven. It is the principal feast of the Blessed Virgin. Nothing certain is known of the date, year or manner of her death and the dates assigned for it vary between five and fifteen years after Christ's ascension.

ACADIANS MEET IN CONVENTION

The annual celebration and convention of the Society of the Assumption, an international Acadian organization, were begun yesterday at Neguac, Northumberland county, with a solemn high mass in the parish church at 9 o'clock in the forenoon. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon there were patriotic addresses. The list of speakers included Dr. M. N. Adolphe Rivard, of Lével, University, Montreal; O. Gasnon, I. L. B. of Quebec; Hon. P. J. Veniot, of Bathurst; Rev. Thomas Albert, of Shippegan; and Rev. W. Sormany, of Rogersville. The Chatham band was in attendance. The convention, with a picnic, will be continued today. The Society of the Assumption has among its membership residents of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, the six New England states, Louisiana, where many of the descendants of the Acadians reside, and Quebec.

N. B. Horses for Bangor

New Brunswick horsemen are represented in a lengthy list of entries for the annual Bangor fair races on Aug. 24, 25, 26 and 27. John A. Hal, owned by W. G. Fenwick, of Bathurst, is one of six entries for the 240 pace, purse $500, on the first day. In the 218 trot, owned by Dr. D. H. McAllister, of Sussex, is entered. For the 219 pace, purse $500, on the second day, the entries include Hal Gentry, W. G. Fenwick, Bathurst, and Bengal, Jr., of Fort Fairfield. Hal Gentry is down for the 235 trot and 237 pace, as are Sacros, Worthy Man, Northern Mac, Eleanor Watts and Queen Peters, all of Presque Isle. For the third day no New Brunswick horses are entered. In the 239 pace Billie Buck, of Fort Fairfield, and Planet Boy, of Presque Isle, are in the list. Dr. McAllister's Fern Hal is entered in the free-for-all, purse $1,000, the last day of the meet. Other entries in this big race include Baby Doll, of Presque Isle. In the 230 paces, the last even of the meet, purse $500, Hal Gentry, Bathurst; Tilly Tipton, Jake and Negro Binger, all of Presque Isle, are entered. None of the New Brunswick entries appear against each other in any race.

TRAGIC DEATH IN VICTORIA COUNTY

Herbert Rogers, of Catlingford, Victoria county, met a terrible fate recently by being caught in a belt he was attempting to put on a gasoline engine. The belt wound itself around Rogers, breaking his neck. Rogers was a native of Bodmin, England, and was fifty-two years of age. He leaves a wife and five children. He was very industrious and was greatly respected.
