Hornets Break Up a Funeral.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Aug. 10.—A funeral train was thrown into the wildest kind of disorder yesterday afternoon by a nest of hornets. The friends of Andrew J.
Stewart, an elder in the First Church of Christ, were accompanying his remains to Hillside Cemetery. One of the carriages ran over a hornets' nest which had fallen from an "overhanging tree. The hornets swarmed out, and in an instant their driver, fastened on the reins, was being stung fiercely. The driver threw away the reins, jumped to the road, and dashed into the woods. The horses, mad with pain and blinded by the terrible stings, made a dash and collided with the carriage in front.
The horses clung to them until their fury had been spent, and then men who had jumped from their carriages got near enough to hold the maddened animals. The man and horses are in terrible pain to-day.

be no meeting of that body, steps were taken by the men to organize a special committee to arrange a public demonstration of the unemployed in Queen's Park today (Friday).

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—A remarkable demonstration was made on Tuesday by Mayor Carter Harrison. In an address of welcome to the annual convention of the military surgeons of the National Guard of the United States he said:

"There are 200,000 people in Chicago to-day unemployed and almost destitute of money. If Congress does not give us

FUEL FOR FLAMES.

The G. T. R. Depot at Warrenton Badly
Scorched.

WARRENTON, Aug. 10.—The G. T. R. station was partially destroyed by fire. The blaze first started about 11 o'clock and is thought to have been caused by the explosion of a lamp which was left burning until the late train from Stratford arrived.
The building was not entirely burned but was so much injured that it will require to be rebuilt. All the company's books and papers, though somewhat damaged by water, were saved. The loss will be covered by insurance.

Grand Crops in the North-west.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—The regular re-

holm for damages.

on the lookout on board the steamship Oxenholm when she sank the Italian bark Colombo on Aug. 6 has deserted. He was a very important witness of the accident.

An Unlikely Story.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The Sun says that English bankers have become alarmed
at the prospects of the repeal of the Sherman silver law and the members of the Cabinet are discussing, possibly informally, the advisability of making a proposition to the United States that if it will continue the purchase of silver under the act of 1890 the Indian Government will reopen its mints to the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 24 to 1.

The Duty on Horses.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hamlin makes public a letter written to Collector Hopkins concerning two horses recently imported at that port which were invoiced and entered at a valuation of $100 and $110.
Appraiser Kimball had returned the value of the horses at $125 and $135 respectively. The secretary says that horses valued less than $100 are subject to a duty of $30 each, and if valued at $150 or over, they are dutiable at 30 per cent. ad valorem. Inasmuch as the valuation found by the appraiser did not classify either of the animals within the scope of the ad valorem rate of duty, the specific rate would not accrue.

without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, sores succumb to its action.

Father McGlynn Honored.

New York Friends Rally Round
the Plucky Priest

And Hold a Big Demonstration in Washington Park

No Retraction Was Demanded of Him
in Rome, and He Took Back Nothing.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—It is evident the friends of the Rev. Father McGlynn, recently restored to the priesthood, do not propose to let his alleged enemies rest with the simple fact of his restoration, and the enmity which arose between the followers of Dr. McGlynn and Archbishop Corrigan is increasing.

Tuesday night about 5,000 people gathered at Washington Park in a picnic and festival of the friends of Dr. Edward McGlynn. It was a jubilee over the doctor's restoration to the priesthood. Dr.
McGlynn was treated to an ovation, and in the course of his remarks said:

"I rejoice in no personal triumph. It is triumph of truth over misrepresentation. I have always asserted in teaching those doctrines which were so misrepresented at Rome that I was moved by love and truth.
I felt a determination to preach the truth,
come what might, even if it meant burning at the stake. I do not detract one iota of what I taught, neither did I in my letter demand no retraction. When I was in Rome he demanded no retraction. He gave his blessing to me and my work. Nothing can justify calumnious misrepresentations of me to the Propaganda at Rome."

The speaker here mentioned the name of the Archbishop of New York. As he did so there was a storm of hisses. Dr. Mc-Glynn raised his hand and remonstrated,
and finally the indignation of those present
against Archbishop Corrigan spent itself,
and he continued his address.

Dr. McGlynn then read two letters which he had written before his trip to Rome. One from Mgr. Satali said: "Be assured your reverence will be received by the Sacred Congregation of the Propaganda and by the Holy Father himself with all kindness and with all the regard that you could desire, and be moreover, assured that there will be nothing else done but joyfully continue with the apostolic benediction, already happily completed, the act of reconciliation. God will bless your steps, and on your return will multiply upon you the precious gifts of his grace to make fruitful the work of your ministry, particularly of preaching."

Dr. McGlynn then read a letter from the Catholic prelate, very high in the confidence of the apostolic delegate. It says:
"The delegate is pleased with your idea of not taking charge of a parish, but going around freely and preaching the word of God wherever you may be invited. After your return from Rome you must have full liberty to say mass and exercise your ministry in public everywhere. The delegate said emphatically he will insist on this point."

THE PLEBISCITE.

Berlin Temperance Workers
on the Move.

An Estimate That Prohibition Will Have Fifty Thousand Majority.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—A meeting was recently held in Trinity Methodist Church, Berlin, of the temperance workers of the town for the purpose of getting ready for the vote on the plebiscite in January next.
The meeting was very largely attended and great enthusiasm prevailed. The appointment of an executive committee was about the only business done, and the duty of committees to hold meetings for temperance at intervals, and do everything possible to promote the work of temperance,
and get out every vote in the coming election.

TRAGEDY NEAR KEMPTVILLE.

An Aged Couple Killed by a Train at Harris' Crossing.

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Aug. 10.—While driving from Oxford Mills to Kemptville
this evening Richard Cottem and wife,
an aged couple of the township of Angus, were struck by the express going east at Harris' Crossing and both instantly killed.
They were coming here to visit friends.
It is said the whistle of the train was heard,
but strange to say the train was not even brought to a halt to ascertain the result.

LYNCHED BY SOLDIERS.

Two Texas Miners Hanged by United States Troops at Fort Anderson.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 10.—It is reported that the soldiers at Fort Anderson
went to Coal Creek last night and, thinking Dick Drummond from his boarding-house, hanged him to a tree at 2 o'clock this morning. Shortly afterwards they went to another boarding-house and captured a miner named Elkins and hanged him to the same tree.

Drummond and Elkins were the men arrested on suspicion of ambushing and killing Private Lougher Monday night.

Later dispatches from Coal Creek say
the soldiers have arrested a miner named Moore on suspicion of being an accomplice of Drummond and Elkins, and unless he can prove his innocence he will be lynched.
This morning over 5,000 miners went out on strike and serious trouble is expected.

The bass were in good mood and many good catches were made, the best being by J. A. Aikenhead, of Toronto, who captured a string of bass fifteen in number, the largest weighing four pounds and three ounces. Sixty-five sat down to the banquet last night. 43a IMPORTANT CHANGES IN THE STATES. New York, Aug. 10.—After several days' deliberation the eastern racing associations determined yesterday to reduce the value of their over-night purses from $1,000 to $600. The announcement of this sweeping reduction was made last night, when the following official bulletin was sent out: "The added money for the over-night events for the fall meetings of the Coney Island Jockey Club, Brooklyn Jockey Club and New York Jockey Club will be $600 and upwards. As the month-month Park meeting will close in two weeks, it was not mentioned in the notice, but there is no question that the purses will be reduced at that track next year. These four associations, the Monmouth Park, the Coney Island, the Brooklyn and the New York jockey clubs comprise all the legitimate race tracks in the east, and their united action in the matter of reduction of purses will have a tremendous influence on the thoroughbred interests all over the United States. The value of the thoroughbred is

The Ghost That Walked Through

Tara's Halls.

A Winton Man Frolics in August—

Crop Prospects in Oxford—A

Lady Fatally Burned.

BRUCE

Tara has lately resided in the possession of a white robed ghost which was wont to walk at a midnight hour. The ghost had a queer penchant for visiting an unromantic

slaughter house belonging to the Messrs.

Dolphin, and after its visit the proprietors found that the meat stored therein had always suffered more or less diminution.

Inquiry into the phenomenon resulted in the capture of the spirit, who proved to be a woman of the village wrapped in a white sheet, and on plunder bent.

Mr. Samuel Kirkland, Teeswater, died

very suddenly last Friday night. A few minutes after getting into bed his wife heard a peculiar, heavy breathing, and before she could light a lamp life had fled.

An incident occurred in Winton the other day of a very peculiar nature. Mr.

Donald McLeod recently went to work for the Buffalo Fish Company, and was sent to the "freezer" with pans of fish, which were stored therein and frozen. The thermometer in the freezer is always twenty degrees below zero, and Donald neglected to put on a pair of mitts, which are especially provided for the men. He was only in the freezer some three minutes, but when he came out he soon realized that all the fingers on both hands were frozen stiff.

After an illness of more than a year Mr.

Arch. McKillop, one of the oldest residents of Aldborough, passed away on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. A. N. C. Black, of Sutton, while attending to her domestic duties, was very painfully burned, owing to her clothes taking fire. Her son and daughter succeeded in extinguishing the flames before she was fatally burned.

George Root, employed by Mr. Cooper,

thresher, South Norwich, had his arm caught while throwing off a belt, and it was crushed to a jelly.

EMANCIPATION OF THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

It would not do to totally exclude the Irish people from representation in the British House of Commons. Ireland is and must remain a portion of the United Kingdom. The position of the two islands—their contiguity to the great and ambitious European continental nations—makes it necessary that they should put together in all matters relating to external defense and trade and commerce.

For this reason, Parliament was warranted in condemning the view set up by Mr. Chamberlain and his friends, that the Irish should virtually be debarré from representation in the Imperial Parliament. There is some force in the objection that, though the Irish are to have a local legislature, they are still to have representation in the Commons alongside of the other divisions of Great Britain which, as yet, have no local legislature.

But does anyone suppose that the much-needed unloading of Irish local concerns on a local legislature will not be followed by the necessary corollary of a local legislature for England and Scotland as well? When these portions of the nation are also able to transact their own local affairs in legislatures established at London and Edinburgh respectively, the world will witness the application of the federal system in the motherland. There will be nothing dangerous in the change—nothing very revolutionary. The sun will rise and set, and the people will continue to do business as before. But the management of British public affairs, which becomes more difficult and more harassing every year under present conditions, will be systematized. It was a comparatively easy task for the parliamentarians of 200 years ago to manage local as well as imperial business at St. Stephen's. Then the British colonial empire was a baby. British interests abroad were few, British trade and commerce had not permeated every civilized and every savage country in the world, the democracy was not recognized in the government of the country, and the laws passed were chiefly designed to benefit the territorial magnates, and were therefore few and very conservative in their scope.

Conditions have entirely changed, and statesmen are recognizing that methods of government must change with them—that if the Imperial Parliament is to be imperial in fact as well as in name, it must cease attempting to control every petty municipal change, every little local reform that may be desired. These matters, it is recognized, must be settled by local legislatures of the respective divisions of the kingdom. When that is accomplished, the great Imperial Parliament, which could very properly be cut down in numbers to 300 or 400, instead of 670, as now, would be able to devote its attention solely to imperial concerns. Such a body would not require to sit two-thirds of the year to consider public affairs and still find itself hopelessly in arrears, as does the Imperial Parliament now in session. It would be free to act with promptitude, and to supervise in an effective manner every imperial interest wheresoever centered. Why should there be opposition to a reform so very desirable?

THERE were between 6,000 and 7,000 people at the Young Liberal picnic at Queen's Park Wednesday. Even the Free Press owns up to an attendance of 6,000. But by the time the Toronto Empire got its report the truth was very materially economized. The Empire misrepresenter says the attendance was "about 3,000." The object is obvious; but how can such misrepresentation help any paper?

FOUL SEWERS.

Another reason why the pumping force at Springbank should be increased lies in the absolute necessity for periodical flushing of the sewers. In some cities summer flushing of the sewers is not required so urgently as in London. But here the fall of the average sewer is so comparatively small that occasional flushings are necessary if the public health is to be secured. The stench from the sewer traps in various parts of the city at the present time is almost stifling, and we have heard of one woman householder who endeavors to keep the air in the vicinity of her bedchamber pure by placing a piece of carpet across the sewer opening opposite her residence! The health as well as the comfort of the citizens demands that the water-pumping apparatus should be so augmented that citizens may have plenty of water for every necessary purpose.

The Doll's Dressmaker for July is a charming number and must increase very largely the favor with which the publication is regarded by the little folks and their guardians. (New York: Jennie Wren.)

THE GRASSHOPPER VISITATION.

Farmers are anxiously looking for rain in this neighborhood, not only because the later crops—and especially grass, roots and fruits—are being dried up to an alarming extent, but because of the annoying prevalence of grasshoppers. Usually grasshoppers do not give Western Ontario farmers much bother, but they are multiplying in numbers and in destructiveness to an extent far from reassuring at the present time. One farmer in Westminster township reports a field of second growth clover, at one time promising, now nearly cleaned out by the pest. The grasshoppers have also reached this city, and are even seen hopping about the sidewalks. Grasshoppers are also giving trouble further west. In Oliver township, near Port Arthur, they are stated to be destroying the crops.

"PROTECTION" has not helped Australia. A dispatch to a Canadian Conservative paper says: "Great distress still prevails in Australia. What are called 'doss' houses have been started, 500 destitute people eating and sleeping in the same building, a space 7x3 being allowed to each man."

RIGHTFULNESS OF THE PLEBISCITE.

We are glad to find that Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, and one of the most advanced temperance men in the Province, discusses the Referendum and Plebiscite in the Canadian Magazine for August. He effectively supports the stand taken by the ADVERTISER in favor of getting at the undivided sentiments of the community on the great moral question of prohibition by means of an untrammelled vote of the electors. The considerations adduced by the honorable gentleman in favor of the plebiscite are as follows:

1. It is an appeal to the calm judgment of the electorate on a simple issue—a yes or no. Instead of a jury of twelve, as in ordinary civil or criminal cases, it is a jury of the nation, and the jurors know that their verdict may affect themselves and their children to remotest generations.

2. It increases the responsibility of the electors. In the last analysis, sovereignty is with them. Why should the sovereign be consulted in matters of state? If an evil is to be removed why not let it be benefited thereby but the people? If a great national reform is to be inaugurated why not let them share in the honor? Has Edward Burke's great maxim lost its force, namely, "Government by the people, for the people, and through the people?"

3. It increases the stability of legislation. In 1855 New Brunswick passed a prohibitory liquor law; the following year it was repealed, and Sir Leonard Tilley, the present Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, then whom no better authority could be cited—says the effect was injurious to the temperance cause. Permanence in legislation is quite as important as progressiveness. Under the British constitution, the House of Lords is supposed to check undue haste on the part of the House of Commons. Our Canadian Senate is supposed to discharge a similar duty for us. May we not strengthen this guarantee that legislation is not ill-timed by occasionally submitting a great question to a plebiscite.

4. It is educative in the highest degree. To vote with the party in a general election is not necessarily the highest effort of electoral intelligence, although it usually exhibits a commendable degree of faith in party leaders. To vote intelligently on a great issue, like prohibition, requires study and reflection. In forming a judgment, the personal equation of party leadership must be omitted, and the responsibility of solving a problem on its intrinsic merits must be met face to face.

The plebiscite, the Minister points out, in the form previously indicated, has already been accepted with respect to legislation of a very important character. For the purpose of ascertaining public opinion, even where legislation was not involved, it has been favorably considered. The great convention of temperance workers that met in Montreal in 1875 recommended the passage of a prohibitory liquor law, subject to ratification by the people. In the same year the Senate of Canada, by a vote of 25 to 17, resolved that should the Government feel satisfied that the indication of public opinion by the petitions presented to Parliament was not sufficient to justify the early introduction of a prohibitory law, it would be desirable to take a vote of the electors as soon as possible.

The Legislatures of Ontario, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island have accepted the plebiscite with respect to prohibition; and the great National Liberal Convention that recently met at Ottawa has made the plebiscite on the question of prohibition a plank in its political platform. The tendency of public opinion in Canada is therefore evidently in favor of this form of appeal to the electorate on questions of national significance.

OUTLOOK FOR MANUFACTURERS

A tariff for revenue must remain, and under shelter of this manufacturers ought to be able to succeed.—(Toronto Monetary Times.)

Our contemporary thus foreshadows the effects of the liberal policy of a tariff for revenue only. At one time the Monetary Times endorsed the high tax policy of the present Government; its gradual indorsement of the Liberal position is a welcome sign of the times. No manufacturer, conducting a sound business, will have any reason to fear the advent of the Liberal party. The only men who will be affected will be those sheltered behind combines, which are enabled, by the present tariff, to collect tribute from the whole people. That tribute will be cut off, and the money hitherto so diverted will be left in the pockets of the people, who will become better customers of the large number of independent manufacturers that simply claim a fair field and no favors. They will have that under a tariff for revenue only, as our Toronto contemporary points out.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN.

Do you know that citizens will soon have to go down in their pockets and either erect a large aged men's home or build an addition to the present one. There is hardly a council meeting but that one or two unfortunate are admitted.

What has become of the clause in the report of No. 2 committee whereby that committee, the mayor and the city engineer, with power to add to their number, were to go to Chicago and take in the latest hints about stone crushers and brick and asphalt paving. Of course they were not to look sideways at the World's Fair. Have they grown modest all of a sudden, or were they afraid of having the clause referred back like the exposition clause of No. 3 committee?

A very worthy gentleman of the East End, who is well advanced in years and but little accustomed to the ways of this electrical age, had occasion to call out the firemen the other day. He opened the box and "called out" literally, but the firemen came not. When someone had been sent up to the fire station and the fire ladders had arrived they found that the button had not been pulled down.

"Why didn't you come when I called?" the old gentleman asked of the firemen.

"Why didn't you pull the button?" asked they, in reply.

"Well, I opened the door and told you that you were wanted," came the unexpected answer.

And he wondered why they laughed.

Water Commissioner Cowan recently assured his colleagues that the Young Liberal Club picnic would insure a fall of rain. It is rarely that Mr. Cowan fails in anything that he undertakes, but I very much fear we must class him in the Wiggins tribe. Where is the wet, sir?

Smothered in a Bin.

MARILLA, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Leon Howe, an 8-year-old son of Wallace M. Howe, a well-to-do farmer living near Marilla village, was at play in a large bin of sugar meal. He fell in a hole in the meal near a spout in the bottom of the bin, and in trying to get out he was instantly covered by a large quantity of meal which caved off. He was found smothered to death.

An Heiress Betrothed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—A special to the World from Atlanta, Ga., reports that Secretary Herbert and Miss Sallie Brown, youngest daughter of ex-Senator Joseph E. Brown, are engaged to be married. Miss Brown is a blonde, and is still a child of 30. She is a woman of literary tastes and many social graces. Her father is worth $10,000,000.

Funeral of Mr. David Porter.

TARA, Aug. 10.—The funeral of David Porter, M. P. for North Bruce, was largely attended. The procession was over a mile and a half long. Friends from all parts of the riding were present. The body was interred in the Tara cemetery under the direction of the Independent Order of Foresters. The last funeral rites were performed by Rev. Mr. Mowatt, of Allenton. The deceased was very highly respected, and his death has caused a gloom to pervade the community.

That Tired Feeling

The marked benefit which people overcome by That Tired Feeling derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." J. B. Emerson, a well known merchant of Auburn, Maine, says: "About five years ago I began to suffer with very severe pain in my stomach, gradually growing worse. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, being convinced that I was troubled with Dyspepsia complicated with Liver and Kidney troubles. I improved at once and am certainly very much better and feel more like working."

ROUTE OF THE LANTERN PARADE.

The following route has been determined upon by the London Bicycle Club for their grand lantern parade to-night. It will be one of the most interesting sights ever beheld in the city, and should be witnessed by everybody. Leave club rooms at 8 o'clock sharp to Queen's Park, circle around Richmond, north to "Graydon's Park" and circle around Victoria Park, coming out at south-west entrance; thence west on Dufferin avenue to Richmond, south to Dundas, east to Queen's Park, circle around and west to Adelaide, south to King, west to Talbot, north to Queen's avenue, east on Queen's avenue and back to club rooms.

DISASTROUS FINISH.

The five-mile bicycle race for the championship of Scotland, which took place at Edinburgh on the 22nd ult., had a disastrous finish, owing to Vogt, in attempting to cut at the corner of the back straight, bringing down all the riders but two. So serious was the collision that, when the mail left, one of the competitors, McKelvie, was lying unconscious and in a critical condition, having a broken bone in his neck, besides suffering from a severe concussion of the brain and a large scalp wound. Another rider named Peate received a severe injury in the face, which was badly lacerated, and it is feared that he will be disqualified for life. Vogt's style of riding is generally censured, and it is expected that the occurrence will form the subject of inquiry by the Scottish executive. Only two of the competitors finished first, J. McLaren, East Stirlingshire, being first, and J. Kilgus, Forfarshire, second.

NO TROUBLE TO RIDE A SAFETY.

The editor of the Express purchased a new pair of pants to wear to the World's Fair. On Tuesday he was standing by the new bike of the Journal correspondent, and decided to give the boys a little exhibition on the safety, resulting in his garments being entangled in the chain and a small whirlwind. Part of the time the bike was on top and at other times the editor. It was a desperate battle. When time was called, the editor appeared in low neck and short sleeves, and his hasty trip home was not along the front street.—[Aylmer Sun.]

SPOKES.

Secretary McCormick has received W. M. Carman's entry for the London's race meet on Wednesday next.

The prizes to be given at the London's meet on Wednesday will be an exhibition on Saturday in a Dundas street store.

A lantern brigade in connection with the London's will tour the city this evening, starting from the club house, Picton street, at 8 o'clock.

A good story is being told about Zimmerman. He was racing at Ashbury Park last year. Two deacons belonging to the champion's town went to see him ride. They were not without some serious scruples, as they had never before seen a race meeting before. In a search race three meetings before, a close finish between Zimmerman, Taxis and Taylor. The good deacons got terribly excited. They jumped on the seats, and as Zimmerman got on terms with his opponent, one of them cried out in his opponent's "Glory to God, he is coming!" while the other, as Zimmerman shot past the post first, answered, "Amen, amen!"

THE FIRST LADY CHAMPION.

The first lady champion has arisen, and has proved again the wisdom of the old adage, "Practice makes perfect." Lady Margaret Scott is the daughter of the Earl of Eiden, and she has had ample opportunities for daily practice at her father's Gloucestershire seat, Stowell Park. Even during the time the family are in town she does not allow her arm to forget its cunning, for she is frequently to be seen on the ladies' links at Wimbledon. At yet she is only 19 years of age, and naturally all her family are justly proud of the honor which has befallen her.—[London Figaro.]

LONDON WINE.

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—The London Asylum cricket team played a fine game with the Rosedale Club to-day. Rosedale were first to bat, and in the first inning made 83 runs, to which Lyon contributed 51 and Montgomery 14.

London Asylum followed with 182, to which Rev. Mr. Terry contributed 54, England 37 (not out), and Pope 35. A remarkable feature of England's scoring was there was not a single made, the total consisting of 7 fours, 2 threes and 1 five. Rosedale made 105 in the second inning, leaving the visitors but seven to make to win.

One or two men went to bat for London, and the match closed in their favor 190 to 188. The visitors play East Toronto to-morrow.

ATLANTIC VS. SIMCOE.

SIMCOE, Ont., Aug. 10.—The cricket match played here to-day between Simcoe and Aylmer resulted as follows: Simcoe, 51; Aylmer, 81.

YES.

The Australian cricketers, who are about to leave England for home, will take the new route via Canada.

C. N. SHANLY, acting secretary of the Ontario Cricket Association, has received from A. Dimpberger, of Montreal, a letter informing him the eastern men would be unable to send a team. He says the change in the date of the match will make it impossible for them to get a team together.

An interested spectator of the London-Toronto game on Wednesday, during the earlier part of the afternoon, was no less a personage than a son of the redoubtable W. G. Grace, who is on a flying visit to Canada. He is also a W. G. Grace, and has played for his county (Gloucestershire) on various occasions.

THE ROD.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Aug. 10.—In the fly-casting tournament to-day C. Hunter, of Toronto, won the first prize (a beautiful hand-made lancewood rod) in the casting long distance, and J. Pringle, also of Toronto, won second. In the casting for distance and accuracy combined Mr. J. D. Edgar, M.P., of Toronto, was first. The longest cast was 48 feet 8 inches, but the wind was against the casters. After the tournament a meeting was held in the Queen's Royal, and it was decided to form an international anglers' association. The Earl of Aberdeen, Governor-General, and President Cleveland, both great fishermen, will be asked to be honorary presidents. A committee was appointed to complete the organization of the association.

THE TRIGGER.

REDPATH'S CLEVER SHOOTING. Redpath is a shooter. He only missed 3 out of 37 shots before 6,000 or 7,000 people on the grand stand at the great Liberal picnic, breaking his single and, in one case, where four birds were thrown up he broke three in three shots and exchanged guns while the birds were in the air—an exhibition that would do credit to experts like Dr. Carver, Capt. Bogardus, or "Left-Hand Charlie." Redpath is one of the London Gun Club crack shots. He used two Greener hammerless guns, and shells loaded by himself, with the E. C. smokeless trap powder. This exhibition of Redpath's skill as an expert trap shot is another evidence that when he lays himself out to do fine shooting or anything else it is well done.

HIS REPENTANCE.

"Is Mr. Gray at home?"

"No, sir. He went to the city early this morning."

"How Mark Gray blessed his servant for the unobtrusive mistake, he alone could tell. The man had not seen his master come in and had no idea he was in the house."

"Gone to the city, is he? Are you sure?"

"Quite sure, sir."

"A pause. Mark's heart was beating. 'What time will he be home?'"

"I don't know, sir."

"Another pause. 'I suppose Mr. Barker's not here?'"

"Mr. Barker? Oh, dear, no, sir."

"And that was followed by the closing of the hall door. Mark gave a great gasp of relief, and went upstairs to his own room."

He did not stay there above a minute. Caroline—who remembered it afterwards—heard a drawer or two opened and shut. She had been following him, but was early detained by a question from Mr. Barker, who was waiting outside the door with the dress upon her arm.

"What time will he be home?" she asked, and he answered it, and then he went up the stairs she met Mark coming down.

"Who was at the door, Mark? Who did you think it was?"

"I don't know who it was."

"You seem alarmed, and annoyed."

"Well," returned Mark, speaking rather fast, "and it is annoying to have business follow coming at me in my house. 'Why can't they go to the office?'"

"To be sure," said Caroline, reassured. "I did not see a soul here, if I were you."

"He had been waiting outside the hall-door while he spoke. But, ere he had reached it, he turned and drew his wife into one of the rooms."

"Look here, Caroline: I am not sure but I shall have to go down to the mines to-night, if so, it is just possible that I may not be able to come here first. So you won't be alarmed if you don't see me home."

"What a hurry you must be in!" exclaimed Caroline. "Not come home first?"

"That if I do go, mind, it will be on a little private matter that I don't want known," he continued, taking no notice of the remark.

"No if anybody should ask where I am, just answer that you can't tell, but that I shall be back in a day or two. Do you understand, Caroline?"

"Quite well. But, Mark, you will come home first, won't you?"

"I only tell you in case I don't come," he said, evasively. "I have a good deal to do to-day. Good-bye, Caroline."

"But about Henderson?" she interrupted.

"Henderson? Oh, I am quite sure I shan't have time for Henderson to-day. If you don't like to go without me, we must put it off for a day or two."

He stooped to kiss her. Opening the hall-door, he stood on the steps, looking right and left, as if he were waiting for some one to come. Very timid was Mark Gray in that hour; he did not like that people should have looked at him so closely.

Then he turned to the Victoria station, perhaps as the nearest point of refuge. He would make his way to Wales, to the mine, as straightly and speedily as he could, consistent with prudent care.

Mark had been gone the best part of an hour, and it was hard upon mid-day. His wife was just dreading whether to go shopping in the afternoon, or make a call, or pay a visit to the empty park, or take a drive out of town; which way, in short, would be the least of his troubles, when the precious time that God had given her, when she was aroused by a formidable summons at the door, and the noise of many steps and voices besieging the hall.

What next took place Caroline never remembered. Confused recollections remained in her afterwards of angry demands for Mark Gray, of impatient denial to the servant's assertion that his master was in the city; the hubbub was great, the voices were threatening. Caroline's first surprise was succeeded by indignation, and that in its turn gave place to alarm.

You all know what it is to pour oil on a spark of fire, previously kindled to burn in a flame. When the Great Wheel Bag's shareholders had looked to the Great Wheel Bag's office that morning, they were on the balance, as may be said, between war and peace; somewhat uncertain in their own minds whether to treat Mark Gray and Mr. Barker as unfortunate fellow-sufferers with themselves, or to expend upon them their wrongs and their wrath. That mistake of the Great Wheel Bag's secretary—as alluded to in the last paper—turned the scale. In his dismay and confusion he inadvertently alluded to the former eruption of water, and the unquenchable disclosure madened the throng. They forthwith looked upon themselves as dreadfully injured people; in fact, they jumped to the conclusion that the Great Wheel Bag itself was little better than a swindler; so apt are we all to rush into extremes. Barker did what he could to stem the torrent; but the crowd vociferously demanded to see Mark Gray. It was in the end known mostly in the affair, for Barker was usually at the mine. And, not finding Mark answer to their demands, some of them went off on the spur of the moment in hansom cabs to his residence.

Caroline stood the very image of dismay. She did not show herself; she was too much alarmed; she peeped from the half-closed dining-room door, and listened, just as Mark had done a short while before. Confused words of "water" and "mine" and "swindler" and "ruin" saluted her ears; and the demands for Mark Gray became more threateningly imperative. Some movement of the door occurred; she staggered against it; and it was seen from the hall.

Perhaps it was only natural to the belligerents to conclude that Mark Gray was there. They pressed forward to the room; but upon seeing that the lady was its only occupant, the young and lovely lady in her pale morning dress, and the roses chased from her face by fear, they drew back and entered outside it.

"What is it that you want?" gasped Caroline from her trembling position.

"One of the foremost answered her. He was a gentleman, and he raised his hat and made his tone as courteous as his son's of fiery allowed. They were very sorry to disturb her, but they must see Mr. Gray. They had come to see him, and would see him."

"I assure you that he is not here," said Caroline, her earnest voice carrying truth with it. "He has been gone some time."

"He was at the office this morning, wasn't he?" said one of the men, who told that he had no doubt come home.

"It is true," she answered. "He went to the office very early, and came home again about 11 o'clock, for something he had forgotten, papers, I think he said. He did not stay two minutes; he got them and went back again. What is it that is the matter?"

"Back to the office?" they asked, disregarding the question.

"Yes, back to the office. He said he must make haste, for he had a great deal to do to-day. I am sure you will find him there."

She had no suspicion that she was not asserting what was not true. Whether they believed it or not—though most of them did believe it—they had no resource but to act on the supposition that he was in the city. Filling out again, they jumped into the cabs, and rattled back again at the rate of about nine-and-twenty miles an hour.

These visitors left Mrs. Gray in a gloomy state of perplexity and distress; for they had spoken of "ruin" as connected with the mine. She was one of those who cannot bear suspense, and had no patience, no endurance, not even for an hour. In a tumult of hurry and emotion, she had her carriage brought round, called for Sara Davenal, to whom, however, she did not tell what had taken place, and drove on to the city almost as fast as those cabs had driven, to get an explanation from Mark.

The cab had arrived previously, and their occupants found they had been deceived. No Mark Gray was at the office or had been there since his first departure from them. They burst bounds, in tone at any rate, and talked of warrants and prosecutions and various other inconvenient things. Other shareholders, who had been in the mine, and it may be perhaps excused to them that when the carriage of Mark Gray suddenly appeared in the general melee, they turned their rage upon it.

That is, they pressed round it and saluted it with reproaches not at all soft or complimentary. Possibly the moment's blind anger, they did not see that Mark himself was not its occupant. They were, on the whole, men who knew how to behave themselves, and would have desisted, perhaps apologized, when they had time and calmness to see that only ladies were there; but that time was not allowed them.

One came, with his tall strong form, his pale, resolute, haughty face, and pushed them right and left, as he laid his hand on the carriage door.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

Various Changes in the Regulations.

Curriculum in the High Schools—What High Branches May Be Taught in the Public Schools.

The following are some of the recent and important amendments to the regulations of the Education Department: 1. High school entrance examination—1. The examination on history will be in Canadian history alone. No questions will be set in British history. The inspector shall see, however, that the subject is taught orally, and shall report any case of negligence to the board of trustees. 2. Physiology and temperance are compulsory, and shall take rank with the other subjects for the entrance examination. The new text book in this subject may not be ready before the 1st of October, and this fact will be taken into account in the construction of the examination. 3. The work in drawing is limited to drawing book No. 5, and in writing to writing book No. 6. 4. The public school leaving examination or some modification thereof will be substituted for the present high school entrance examination as soon as the results of the present changes in the public school leaving examination justify the Education Department in adopting this course.

II. Public school leaving examination—The changes with respect to the leaving examination are as follows: 1. The subjects of the fifth form may be taught in any school, irrespective of the number of teachers on the staff or the grade of certificate which they may hold. Pupils may write at the leaving examination without having passed the entrance examination. 2. The examination will be conducted by the board of examiners having charge of the entrance examination, and will be paid for at the same rate per candidate. 3. Physiology and temperance are compulsory, and the examination in this subject will include the ground covered by the new text book. 4. The subjects of Euclid and algebra will be included in the small text book which will be the basis of the examination, and will be ready by Oct. 1. 5. Agriculture, botany and physics are optional subjects; the course in each to be determined by the teacher, subject to the approval of the inspector. 6. The high school reader will be used for reading and literature. The public school arithmetic will be enlarged to admit of greater practice in commercial work, but no change will be made in its price. The additional exercises will be required for the fifth form. The text books in the other subjects will be those authorized for public schools. 7. Candidates who obtain public school leaving certificates shall be entitled to admission into the classes in form II. of a high school in all the subjects of that examination, and the commercial course for the primary should, if possible, be completed before they enter the high school. Candidates who fail at the leaving examination but who obtain 25 per cent. of the marks for each subject, will be admitted to the course.

1. The course prescribed for the primary examination with the science option may be taught in any public school, subject to the approval of the trustees and the inspector. 2. The amount of the school work, prescribed for the commercial course has been reduced, and the details of the course modified, especially in drawing. The examination of all candidates will be conducted by the principal of the high school and the high school teachers in charge of such subjects, but a written examination will be required, in addition, on papers prepared by the department. For 1894, any of the books of the high school drawing course will be accepted, in the case of candidates for the primary examination, in lieu of the prescribed books of the new course, and any two books in the case of other pupils. The work done in book-keeping in the blank books hitherto used will also be accepted for 1894. 3. The whole of Euclid, book I, is now prescribed, and will form the subject of examination in 1894.

CONSTITUTIONAL WIDOW. "She who never answers till her husband calls, or if she rules him, never shows she rules."

is a type of wife happily becoming common in these days when women may have good health, cheerful dispositions, strong nerves and clear minds, simply through the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Before the reputation and use of this remedy became world-wide, irritable, cross, nervous, debilitated women, suffering with displacement, hysteria, and every female disease, were the rule rather than the exception. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven to be the key to a long and happy life—the key which effectually locks out that old array of ills: nervous disorders, periodical pains, weak back, prolapse, inflammation, ulceration, nervous exhaustion and general debility. Untold Misery—What a Well-Known Commercial Traveler Suffered, and how he was cured—Gentlemen—About five years ago I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery from this terrible complaint. I was at that time traveling for Messrs. Water Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of dyspepsia. (Signed.) T. S. OUTSPOKEN ORANGEMEN.

The Brethren Will Not Be Deprived of Freedom of Speech.

The following is the resolution which was unanimously adopted by the Cooktown L. O. L., No. 449, at its regular meeting on Friday last:

"That, whereas, a certain report appeared in the public newspapers concerning a resolution passed at the meeting of the G. L. B. N. A. recently held at Sault Ste. Marie; and

"Whereas, we regard such legislation as invading the rights of subordinate lodges, who, while acknowledging their subordinate relations, do not intend to allow a superior lodge to crush their independence, or to coerce them from expressing fully and freely their minds on the public acts of all or any of the superior officers, and, when they think it proper, denouncing their public acts just as vigorously as the Grand Lodge is said to have denounced the acts of the subordinate lodges who saw fit to express themselves on the action of the grand master in accepting a humiliating position for self in the formation of the late Government; and

"Whereas, we believe that said legislation interferes with free speech, the right of every British subject, and that it was enacted for political purposes to strengthen the hands of the Government. Be it therefore

"Resolved, that we, the members of Cooktown L. O. L., No. 449, desire to enter our most emphatic protest against said legislation; and we do hereby demand from the position of mere serfs in our organization, in surrendering our rights and privileges as British subjects, of expressing ourselves on any question that pertains to the wellbeing of the Orange order, or what we consider to be in the interests of this country; and be it further

"Resolved, that we declare ourselves ready to resist the introduction of such arbitrary and despotic legislation as is said to have been enacted by this grand body, believing it to be subversive of the best interests of our noble order; and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the press for publication."

In either of these, with a little Pearline, you can wash clothes more easily, more quickly, and more cheaply, than in any other way. You can, we say—but perhaps you don't have to. Then (?) the ease of it doesn't affect you so much. But the quickness, the thoroughness and the economy of it does. The less time that's spent on your clothes, the less it costs you—it's money in your pocket every time they are saved from the searing rub, rub, rub of the old way. But the water doesn't make any difference. Use what's handiest. Hot or cold, hard or soft, salt or fresh, rain or shine, it's all the same if you have Pearline. When you don't have it—then there is a difference.

Early Morning Blaze.

A fire which started at 3 a.m. yesterday in A. Keenleyside's lard oil manufactory, corner of Nightingale avenue and Alton street, did $2,000 damage. It had obtained considerable headway before the firemen arrived, and owing to the distance from hydrants, only two streams could be brought to play on the blaze. The building was an old frame one, and fell in easy prey to the flames, which made faster progress on account of the inflammable nature of the contents. The place was part of the old Rose oil refinery.

Mayor Essery Magistrate Pro Tem.

Mayor Essery occupied the presiding official's seat in the Police Court yesterday morning. Magistrate Parke was attending the late Judge Davis' funeral. The first item on the docket was a charge against Joseph Caravella of allowing his goat to run at large on Queen's avenue. This was dismissed. Henry McLean, who is said to have placed his display goods on the sidewalk, had the case adjourned until the 14th. Edward Walker, who has an accusation against his name, will appear again on the same day. James Hobbs, the young man who was arrested a short time ago on a charge of assaulting and wounding John Remazano, an Italian fruit dealer, was bailed to appear on Tuesday.

A charge of riding a bicycle on the sidewalk was laid against W. J. Clarke. This case will be decided later.

Presbytery of Guelph.

On Aug. 3 this Presbytery met in Chambers Church, Elora. After induction services, the committee appointed to consider the claim of Mr. Carruthers for $100 from the congregation at Waterloo, of which he was lately minister, gave in their report to the effect that, having considered all the facts, and the grounds on which the claim was based, they considered that the congregation was not only free from any pecuniary liability as alleged, but that they had acted very generously towards Mr. Carruthers, having paid him $150 more than the amount of his salary while he was their minister, and that they deserved commendation for their liberality.

Two calls were reported and sustained, one from Doon and Preston to Mr. Thomas R.A., which was accepted, and one from Waterloo to Mr. John McNair. Arrangements were made for the ordination and induction of each, Mr. Thomas on the 21st and Mr. McNair on the 22nd of the current month.

The Water Supply.

The steam pumps were stopped at Springbank at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and after a delay of 84 hours they once more resumed work. During the interval three boilers were cleaned and the machinery thoroughly overhauled after its four weeks' stoppage.

Findlay desires to state that he never saw men work so hard as did his engineers and firemen during the time the steam was closed down. Chairman Jones, of the water commissioners, and Engineer Moore visited the waterworks during that time and were much pleased with the energy displayed by the men. The city streets are already in a deplorable state for want of sprinkling. Where an open window would be a boon to a stir of air everything must be kept hermetically sealed to shut out the clouds of dust that are swept up from the streets. What's the matter with sulphur water for Dundas and Richmond streets?

A Brick-Dust Track Best.

Assistant City Engineer Ironsides and Ald. Dreaney have returned from their bicycle-track inspecting expedition. The former thinks a track similar to that in Toledo would be the best, and will so report. The Toledo track has brick dust six inches thick as a foundation. On the surface is a dressing of 50 barrels of salt. When the whole is wetted, and rolled an admirable surface is secured. It has no injurious effect upon tires such as results from racing on asphalt, and if a rider falls he is not so apt to be badly marked as he is if the accident happened on a cinder path. This track is from 20 to 30 feet wide, and, as the president of the track association in Toledo stated, is "not wide enough." It is banked one foot in four as against one in five at Sarnia. "Is that banking not rather high?" asked the reporter. "Well," observed Mr. Ironsides, "the authorities there say that the cracks will not race upon track if it is not well banked. The incline I have mentioned is none too great." The two commissioners also visited the Sarnia track. This is built of cinders, is from 16 to 25 feet wide, and according to the bicyclist is not broad enough, and they are making arrangements to have it widened.
