TREMBLAY DIPS INTO POETRY

The Planet, He Says, Was the Only Thing He Could Not Get Away From.

He and Boyd go in for the Aesthetic Art-Gives Their Production to this G. H. J.

Do you want a piece of poetry which Stan Boyd and I composed?" queried Louis Tremblay as he smiled through the bars of his cell yester-day and talked with The Planet reentative, while the girl from De presentative, while the girl from Detroit waited patiently without. "Boyd and I made up the poetry and whichever of us returned first was to give it to The Planet. We used to read the stories about us in the G. H. J. after we left. The Planet was the only thing we couldn't get away from. There were some papers that blamed all those robberies that occurred after we left on us. They were away out. We never did one of them. We weren't taking any chances. I was only back once and then I didn't stay very iong. Here is that poetry," continued Tremblay, as he ripped it off by the yard:

congregation of Holy Trinity church gave a farewell reception to the Rev. T. Beverley Smith and Mrs. Smith last evening in Holy Trinity Sanday school. The congregation turned out enmasse and the standing was all taken up. C. E. Beeston, one of the Wardens, occuped the chair in a very pleasing manner. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. F. E. Malett, Dr. Battisby and the Rev. A. H. MacGillivray, All spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Smith and expressed extreme regret at his departure. He had always been a friend to all.

Mr. MacGillivray said that what a man was counted more than what he said, although he doubted not that Mr. Smith had spoken well to Them in addition to being everything to them.

Mrs. Spencer Stone and Mrs. Milton Bogart contributed exquisite yocal selections. Miss Eva Barassin, the charming elocutionist, gave a pleasing reditation, and J. W. Wilson, choir leader of Christ Church, gave a flute selection.

At the conclusion a dainty repast of coffee and cake was served and a pleasant hour of social intercourse, saddened by the parting, was spent.

The Maple City is to be congratulated upon adding this excellent skating rink to the large series of winter engagements. It is something the city has been without for a great number of years, and the magnificent opening attendance last evening testifies to the public appreciation of the popular young Non-Coms. in briaging it about.

The rink will be open every week evening, weather permitting, from

There was a good turnout at the heckey practice held in the skating rink last evening. The prospects for a good fast hookey team are very encouraging. Among those who were noticed on the ice were W. Elliott. S. Mercer; M. Fraser, O. K. Lawson, Mac McBeth, McLeod, Rankin, Shambleau, Brady, Courtney and others. The boys are now getting in good shape for games.

DON'T MISS FRIDAY'S MEETING

Don't forget that the heart est kind of an invitation is extended to every elector-no matter what his past party affiliations-to be presont at the Grand Opera House on Friday evening mext to meet and hear J. P. Whitney, the People's Premer, and the two Kent Standard bearers, James Clancy and Philp H. Bowyer.

This is the opening county rally and promises to be a memorable one. Both Kent constituencies will be largely represented and the proceedings will be of interest to all.

[Let everyone interested in new, clean and progressive Government by the people and for the people be present on Friday evening and bring a friend.

IN FORBIDDEN PATHS

Mr. J. S. Willson, biographer of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and life-long Liberal, writing in the Toronto News says: The appearance of Mr. P. D. Ross, at supporter of the Opposition, worrying the old dyed-in-the-wool partisans. The member who gives an independent support to the Government of the day is a familiar figure. His motives can be understood. Patronage, canals, post offices, public expenditures in the constituency, all go to the member who gives an intelligent and discriminating support to a Government, and looks sadly at the factions and unreasonable Opposition. But here is a man who apparently prefers Opposition, who regards it as his first duty to defeat one Government, and hold himself free to oppose other Governments if they do wrong. There, is something new and terrifying in this, and we are surprised at Mr. Whitney's recklessness in accepting Mr. P. D. Ross as a supporter, and declaring that he hopes the new Logislature will contain other gentlemen holding similar views of public duty. The rebellious spirit has infected the press of the Province. Saturday Night, a journal not unfriendly to Liberalism, says: "P. D. Ross, of the Ottawa Journal, athlete, good newspaperman and good citizen, put it exactly as it should be put when he accepted the Conservative nomination on Tuesday. At first he refused the nomination, but being pressed to accept, he did so on the distinct understanding that if elected he would assist Mr. Whitney to install a strong Cabinet and then support him when he thought the Premier was right, and oppose him when he felt he was wrong. That is all the party loyalty which should be expected of any man with sense enough to think for himself, and Mr. Ross was accepted by the convention with the greatest enthusiasm."

Where is this thing to end? The sentries must have slert. Sedition has crept into the press, and even into the pulpit, although we are constantly assured that the present Ontario Government is the only one that good men can support. The Rev. Mr. Hossack has condemued the Government, but we are fold that he has mingled too much with the things of the world, that he has committed the unra donable sin, in a minister, of engaging in secular occurations. But then there is the Rev. Nathanici Smith, an old-time Liberal, who says that Premier Ross has gone wrong through being ton fond of office and power. There is the Rev. Mr. Kettlewell, who says that for 32 years he has, with two exceptions, voted with the Reformers, but conceives it to be his duty "and the duty of every officen who has any regard for moral and political decency to help put out of office a government capable of such breach of good faith. An elector of good moral sentiment should support his party only when his party does right. This is the only was to preclean party. If you support your party when it does wrong, you forfeit your influence upon it for the right, and the party will go on doing wrong, believing that you will stick to it is spite of its corrupt acts. The only way in which you can influence your party for good is to teach it that you are sufficiently independent to oppose it, or at least, to withheld your surport when it is wrong. A season in the sold shades of Orposition may be not only the best for the country, but

Rev. J. S. Ross says that in all his adult years he has sympathized with the Liberal party, and nearly always supported its candidates. He is thoroughly dissatisfied with the attitude of the present Government in regard to prohibition. He lays down the startling dootrine that Ministers and Governments are bound by their pledges. It is almost implied in his letter that a Government ought to resign rather than go back on its pledges. "The action of the Government and of the convention has forced the question of political integrity in high places before the whole council. ed the question of political integrity in high places before the whole country. It may be a breach of faith with the prohibitionists fo-day, but it might be the same question with the Manufacturers' Association or the Labor Federation to-morrow. Who or what interest hereafter is gafe should bad faith be condoned at the polls? To be upheld in that will only put a premium on what, in future, must produce dry-rot in publie life. Good citizenship should insist on public honor being fulfilled, or a serious attempt made to do so, in all parties. As it is at present, what Liberal Government pledge on any subject can be trusted? Behind every such promise must lurk thequestion. Is this really the policy on which the Government proposes to stand or fall, or is there a string to it, namely, provided it be ratified at the next Liberal convention, say,

We regard it as a solemn daty to warn all political leaders and organizations of the rebellious spirit that is abroad in the press and among the people. Newspapers are more and more expressing ideas at variance with those of the machines; and the people are getting it into their heads with those or the machines; and the people are getting it into their heads that they really govern themselves, that free and fair elections are matters of importance, and that political leaders are their servants instead of their masters, and must keep their promises like ordinary men. This seems to us to be seditious doctrine, as dangerous to the political boss on one side as to the political boss on the other. It may overturn a Libertal Government to day, it may overture eral Government to-day; it may overturn a Conservative Government some years hence, "unless it behaves itself," as the insolent democrats say. We feel sure that all loyal supporters of the divine right of the political boss will turn out in force on January 25, and suppress the rebel-

Registration at the recent Dominion election is no good for the Provincial election. The Provincial law

The days fixed for registration in Chatham are next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th days of January. The hours are from 10 to 1, 2 to 6, and 7.30 to 9 each day.

Persons residing over the river, which is No, 5 Ward, will register at the police station, and persons residing in any other part of the city will register at Harrison Hall before either Judge Bell in his chambers, James Holmes in Major Coogan's office, or Judge Dowlin in the Council Chamber. Chamber. These are the same places that were used at the last registration.

It is well to register the first day or at the earliest time possible, for if a person who has had a chance to register is afterwards called away from the city and should not get back before 9 p. m. of the 11th, he would lose his right to register. The qualifications are simple; reside in the Province for a year and in the city for three months next preceding the 11th of January, 1995, being a British subject and 21 years of age. No property qualification is required. The only difference property makes is that tenants and owners, if assessed and living in the city at the time of assessment, are supposed to be put on the list without registration.

Make sure that your name is on. Get the hames of your friends on. If you know of any person entitled to register whom you can not see personally, telephone the name to S. B. Arnold or ring up the people's committee room, telephone No. 3.

Remember the People's party can be aided greatly by the registration of every voter who is in favor of clean and honest Government.

AFRICA'S VOLCANOES.

y Are of the Busy Order-Details of the Great Eruptions in Central

May 13 last in the lake region of Central Africa.

The eruption was very severe for three days. The wide, lava covered plain in which the active volcances are found seemed to be covered with flames that poured forth from many fissures in the rock. What seemed to be a column of fire was maintained to a height of several hundred feet for several hours.

Near these volcances on the south

Near these volcanoes on the south is Lake Kivu, in one of whose northern bays occurred a terrific unaqueous cruption. The water for a mile around was turned yellow by the outpouring vapor heavily charged with sulphur. Many thousands of fish were killed and their bodies floated on the surface,

This region north of Lake Kivu and Tanganyika is the greatest con-

This region north of Lake Kivu and Tanganyika is the greatest cut tre of volcanic activity in Africa, and one of the largest in the world and it was never heard of till ten years ago. The discovery of these volcances by Count won Gotzen did considerable damage to the theory that volcances are developed only in proximity to the sca.

These volcances are about 700 miles from the Indian Ocean, almost in the heart of the continent. The other great centre of present volcanic phenomena in Africa is also hundreds of miles inland, gear Lake Rudoff.

Students of volcances now think it hundreds of miles inland, pear Lake Rudoff.

Students of volcances now think it is better to say that they are found both on the margins of the sea and in the neighborhood of great depressions in the land surface caused by violent movements of the rocks, which have produced lines of weakness, through which volcanic energy is able to find vent.

There are eight volcances within sight of one another just a little north of Lake Kivu. They are in three groups. The two western groups are composed each of three extinct volcances, while the eastern group contains two towering mountains that are at times exceedingly active.

In addition to the lively challitions from these craters, the region is richer than most other volcanic districts in mineral and hot springs and other manifestations of vulcan ism.

The two active cones are among the two active cones are among the very largest in the old world and are almost unique in their great distance from the sea. The larger of the two, Kirungu-cha-gungo, is a single huge cone, rising to a circular and unbroken rim, 11,350 feet in saicht.

height.

This rim encloses a vast crater over a mile in diameter that has always been full of steam and smoke when the visitors have peered over the edge so that they have been unable to learn the nature of the crater floor or of its interior walls.

It is inferred that the crater is of enormous depth, for stones rolled over the edge of the chasm have merely bounded from rock to rock, their concussions becoming fainter and fainter with nothing to indicate that they finally found a resting place.

It is a well recognized fact that the best advertising an article can have, is that which is known as "word of mouth"; this rightfully carries more weight than all the claims which can be set forth. It follows that Mr. Kinkaid, with his wide acquaintance, will largely promote the sale and use of Pyramid Plic Cure because—and here is the vital point—he knows whereof he speaks, and not only advocates its use but does so with inchusiasm; this is not to be wondered at, and in point of fate can anyone, after reading his letter, doubt that this remedy cures?

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for the low price of fifty cents a package; it is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts affected, and does its work quickly and painlessly; there is no other remedy "just as good."

A little book describing the causes and cure of piles is published by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich, and will be sent free to any address for the asking.

The Dinard correspondent of The London Daily Mail says: Though weak of health, the Marquis of Anglescy is, it may be surprising to hear, strong of spirit, and regards his temporary eclipse with a philosophy worthy of Socrates. The Marquis lives a retired life amid perfumes, hair tonics and cheap jewelry. A local tradesman has already sold him £100 worth of jewelry, while the hairdresser who attends him has been kept blusy supplying hair washes, face treams, rouge and perfumes. The Marquis' greatest excitement is the anticipation of the arrival of a new stick or jewel from Paris. When I met him the other afternoon he apologized somewhat profusely for his appearance. He was attired in what I believe tailors call a lounge suit of tweed, and was sitting in a rather uncomfortable chair bound with red velvet by a fire that the weather scarcely warranted. "What are your present plans?" I asked. "I shall stay here for the time being. I like the place and the climate. Afterwards I may move on to Paris and London. But nothing is settled. Tm really very happy, though I suppose no one would believe it. I drive and do poker-work, and I'm writing a book—on myself."

JAMES CLANCY'S STRONG STAND FOR CANADIAN LABOR INTERESTS

His Strong Appeal in Parliament for the Establishmen, of an Effective Alien Labor Law to Protect the Honest Canadian Labor Interests - Official Record,

It will be interesting to many of our workers to have the opportunity of tooking up the public record of the experienced man who is appealing for their support in the cause of new, clean and, progressive Government. James Chao's has 'dways been the strong and stalvart champon of the honest laboring interests and it will doubless' afford the people satisfaction to have the opportunity of reviewing his purlimentary record in this respect. Actions speak louder than words and the will compete on fair terms with our own people, people than words and the will compete on fair terms with our own people, people than words and the class of the people satisfaction to have the opportunity of reviewing his purlimentary record in this respect. Actions speak louder than words and the Planet has much pleasure in presenting the official record of Mr. Claney's actions in the Domminon Parliament on the labor question.

Hon. Mr. Mulock introduced a so-called alfan law but, on the pressure of the Grand Trunk Pacific corporation, the practically destroyed it.

Mr. Claney made a strong appeal for the pessing of a strong appeal for the pessing of an effective glien law preventing contract labor coming in to unfairly compete with honest and capable Canadan labor.

We quote from the official Hansard of Angust, 1904, pages 8886 to 8891, as follows:

Mr. Claney. The question is a plain one. The honorable gentleman has avoided the direct question is a plain one. The honorable gentleman has avoided the direct question is a plain one. The honorable gentleman has avoided the direct question by avoing interesting our one a system of legislation.

Sir William Mulock. The hon, gentleman must have been absent from the House to-day. This point has been discussed a good deal. The law as an alien labor law is applicable to such countries as have on their statute-books similar legislation. It is just as general as the proposition would suggest and no more. We are not enlarging the extent of its applicability.

would suggest and no more. We are not enlarging the extent of its applicability.

Mr. Clancy. I regret very much that that should be the case. The alien labor law which has been placed upon the statute book imposes a very great injustice on the laboring men of this country. I have personal knowledge of Belgians being brought into this country under the Alien Laber Act without any let or hindrance, I know that they came into towns, villages, and in some cases into tural districts, and lived eight or ten in a room probably not ten feet square in a state of squalor that was unfit for pivilized beings and yet the honest laboring men of this country are supposed to take on themselves the duties of citizenship, educate their families and compete against that class of people. I say it is not fair to permit a class of persons to come into this country who are not citizens of the standard that we would like to see h Canada. It is nafair to our laboring men and I repeat that it is a matter of sincere regret that the hon, gentleman has

Mr. Clancy. Does the hon, gentleman not think that we should exclude undestrable classes from coming into this country to compete with Canadian workmen?

Mr. Galliher. Yes. To do that would mean that we would have placed on our statute book a jaw which would prevent men simply because they were Belgians coming freely and at their own expense into Canada.

Mr. Clancy. No. no.

Mr. Galliher. We would. That is exactly what we would do. We would prevent men walking over into Canada of their own free will from the United States and taking their chance of getting employment. I do not think that there is a single labor organization in Canada that wishes parliament to enact such a law as

Mr. Galliher. What did the hon. gentleman mean when he said that the Government should pass a law which would prevent an undesirable class of Belgians from coming into this country to compete with labor? Such a law would restrict the entrance of men into the country under contract or not under contract.

Mr. Lancaster. The whole lot applies to men coming in under contract.

The Ancient Calendar.

The Ancient Calendar.

In times past the Jewish year had two commencements. The religious year began with the month of Abib (April) and the civil year with Tisai (October). The year was a solar one, and but two seasons were reckoned—summer and winter. The months were lunar, twelve in number, each of thirty days. This was the case with the average year, but occasionally a thirteenth was necessarily intercalated.

This thirteenth meath was called "Veadar." Several of the ancient nations—the Egyptains, Chaldeans, Persians and Phoenicians in particular—began their year at the time of the autumnal equinox, about Sept. 22. Celonies Are Leyal.

Earl Percy, speaking at Selby, said we were standing at the parting of the ways, and it might be that the people of this country would have to choose between the two fundamental concentions of Funite The mental conceptions of Empire. The colonies would remain loyal whatever we did, but the question was whether our connection with the colonies was to be based on sentiment and blood relationship or on mutual community of interest.

Speaking at York, Lord Durham said the Liberals defence of free trade involved no antagonism to the colonies. It was merely a foolish cry of protectionists to discredit the Liberals. It was the Liberals who gave the colonies the most cherished pri-vilege of self-government. Liberals recognized the loyalty, the power and the importance of the colonies. Even if there were a few Liberals who were if there were a few Liberals who were not sound on the matter they were less dangerous than those protec-tionists who said the only way to maintain the integrity of the Empire was by an ignoble system of barter. Liberals regarded the Empire as bas-ed upon a far different basis, upon the freedom of Government, religion and commerce.

The Simple Life

By CHARLES WAGNER

Translated From the French by Mary Louise Hendee

Copyright, 1901, by McClure, Phillips & Co.

On the other hand, if we hold to simple needs we avoid all these evils and replace them by measureless good. That temperance and sobriety are the best guardians of health is an old sto-ry. They spare him who observes them nany a misery that saddens existence They insure him health, love of action, mental poise. Whether it be a question of food, dress or dwelling, simplicity of tastle is also a source of independence and safety. The more simply, you live the more secure is your fu-ture. You are less at the mercy of surprises and reverses. An illness or a period of idleness does not suffice to dispossess you; a change of position, even considerable, does not put you to confusion. Haying simple needs, you find it less painful to accustom yourself to the hazards of fortune. Your remain a man, though you lose your office or your income, because the foundation on which your life rests is not your table, your cellar, your horses, your goods and chattels or your money In adversity you will not act like a nurshing deprived of its bottle and rattle. Stronger, better armed for the struggle, presenting, like those with shaven heads, less advantage to the hands of your enemy, you will also be of more profit to your neighbor. For you will not rouse his jealousy, his base desires or his censure by your inxury, your prodigality or the spectacle of a sycophant's life, and, less absorbed in your own comfort, you will find the means of working for that of

SIMPLE PLEASURES. O you find life amusing in these days? For my part, on the whole it seems rather de-pressing, and I fear that my opinion is not altogether personal. As I observe the lives of my contemporaries and listen to their talk I find myself unhappily confirmed in the opinion that they do not get much pleasure out of things. And certainly it is not from lack of trying. But it must be acknowledged that their success is meager. Where can the fault

Some accuse politics or busine others social problems or militarism. We meet only an embarrassment of choice when we start to unstring the chaplet of our carking cares, Suppose we set out in pursuit of pleasure.

There is too much pepper in our soup to make it palatable. Our arms are filled with a multitude of embarrassments. ments, any one of which would, be enough to spoil our temper. From morning till night, wherever we go, the people we meet are hurried, worried, preoccupied. Some have spilt their good blood in the miserable conflicts of petty politics; others are dis-heartened by the meanness and jealousy they have encountered in the world of literature of art. Commercial competition troubles the sleep of not a few. The crowded curricula of a few. The crowded curricula of study and the exigencies of their opening careers spoil life for young men. The working classes suffer the consequences of a ceaseless struggle. It is becoming disagreeable to govern because authority is diminishing; to teach, because respect is vanishing. Wherever one turns there is matter for

Appetite Was Poor.

Dizzey Most of The Time.

Could Not Sleep at Night.

Many people are unaware of having anything wrong with their heart or nerves till some little excitement or overwork makes them feel faint and dizzy, or perhaps simply going up or down stairs causes dizziness and specks to float before the eyes. People troubled in this way should heed the warning, and not fail to take treatment before something more

For all heart and nerve troubles there is nothing to equal

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills

We do not claim that they will cure chronic heart disease, but we do claim that they will strengthen the weak heart, and build up the shaky nerve

Here is what Mrs. Sidney Hoffman, Hillside, Ont., says:—
"I was troubled greatly with my heart,

"A was troubled greatly with my heart, and was so very nervous that the least little thing startled me.

"My appetite was very poor; I could not sleep at nights, and was dizzy most of the time. I took three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am burn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am very pleased to say that they did me a wonderful lot of good."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All druggists, or mailed direct.

THE T. MILBURN CO., LIMITED, TORONTO, ONZ.

And yet history shows us certain epochs of upheaval which were as lacking in idyllic tranquillity as is our own, but which the gravest events did not prevent from being gay. It even seems as if the seriousness of af-fairs, the uncertainty of the morrow, the violence of social convulsions sometimes became a new source of vitality. It is not a rare thing to hear soldiers singing between two battles, and I think myself nowise mistaken in saying that human joy has celebrated its finest triumphs under the greatest tests of endurance. But to sleep peacefully on the eve of battle, or to exult at the stake, men had then the stim-ulus of an internal harmony which we perhaps lack. Joy is not in things; it is in us, and I hold to the belief that the causes of our present unrest, of this contagious discontent spreading everywhere, are in us at least as much as in exterior conditions

To give oneself up heartily to diver sion one must feel himself on a solid basis, must believe in life and find it within him. And here lies our weak ness. So many of us-even, alas, the younger men - are at variance with life, and I do not speak of philosophe only. How do you think a man can be amused while he has his doubts wheth. er, after all, life is worth living? Besides this, one observes a disquieting depression of vital force, which must be attributed to the abuse man makes of his sensations. Excess of all kinds has blurred our senses and poisoned our faculty for happiness. Human nature succambs under the irregularities imposed upon it. Deeply attainted at its root, the desire to live, persistent in spite of everything, seeks satisfaction in cheats and baubles. In medical science we have recourse to artificial res piration, artificial alimentation and galvanism. So, too, around expiring pleasure we see a crowd of its votaries exerting themselves to reawaken it, to re-animate it. Most ingenious means have been invented; it can never be said that expense has been spared. Everything has been tried, the possible and the impossible. But in all these complicated alembics no one has ever arrived at distilling a drop of veritable joy. We must not confound pleasure with the instruments of pleasure. To be a painter, does it suffice to arm oneself with a brush, or does the purchase at great cost of a Stradivarius make one a musician? No more, if you had the whole paraphernalia of amusement in the perfection of its in-genuity, would it advance you upon your road. But with a bit of crayon a great artist makes an immortal sketch. It needs talent or genius to paint; and to amuse oneself, the facul-ty of being happy—whoever possesses it is amused at slight cost. This faculfidence, moderation and normal habits of thought and action. An excellent proof of my proposition, and one very easily encountered, lies in the fact that wherever life is simple and sane true pleasure accompanies it as fragrance does uncultivated flowers. Be this life hard, hampered devoid of all things ordinarily considered as the very conditions of pleasure the rare and delicate plant, joy, flourshes there. It springs up between the fags of the pavement, on an arid wall, in the fissure of a rock. We ask ourselves how it comes and whence, but it lives, while in the soft warmth of conservatories or in fields richly fertilized ty is destroyed by skepticism, artificial living, overabuse; it is fostered by conservatories or in fields richly fertilized you cultivate it at a golden cost to see it fade and die in your hand.

Ask actors what audience is happiest at the play. They will tell you the popular one. The reason is not hard to grasp. To these people the play is an exception. They are not bored by it from overindulgence. And, too, te them it is a rest from rude toll. The them it is a rest from rude toil. The pleasure they enjoy they have honestly earned, and they know its cost as they know that of each sou earned by the sweat of their labor. More they have not frequented the wings, they have no intrigues with the actresses, they do not see the wires pulled. To them it is all real. And so they feel pleasure unalloyed. I think I see the sated skeptic, whose monocle glistens in that box, cast a disdainful glance over the smiling crowd.

Poor stupid creatures, ignorant and gross.

Poor stupid creatures, ignorant and gros

Poor stupid creatures, ignorant and gross.

And, yet they are the true livers, while he is an artificial product, a mannikin, incapable of experiencing this fine and salutary intoxication of an hour of frank pleasure.

Unhappily, ingenuousness is disappearing even in the rural districts. We see the people of our cities and those of the country in their turn breaking with the good traditions. The mind, warped by alcohol, by the passion for rambling and by unhealthy literature, contracts little by little perverted tastes. Artificial life makes irruption into communities once simple in their pleasures, and it is like phylloxera to the vine. The robust tree of rustic joy finds its sap drained, its leaves turning yellow.

good old style with the village festivals, so called, of today. In the one umes, genuine countrymen sing the folk songs, dance rustic dances, re-gale themselves with native drinks and seem entirely in their element. They seem entirely in their element. They take their pleasure as the blacksmith forges, as the cascade tumbles over the rocks, as the colts frisk in the meadows. It is contagious; it stirs your heart. In spite of yourself you are ready to cry: "Bravo, my children! That is fine!" You want to join in. In the other case you see villagers disguised as city folk, countrywomen made hideous by the modiste, and, as the chief ornament of the festival, a lot of degenerates who bawl the songs of music hails, and sometimes in the lot of degenerates who bawl the songs of music halls, and sometimes in the place of honor a group of tenth rate barn stormers, imported for the occa-sion, to civilize these rustics and give them a taste of refined pleasures. For drinks, liquors mixed with brandy or absinth—in the whole thing neither originality nor picturesqueness. Li-cense, indeed, and clownishness, but not that absorder which the support not that abandon which ingenuous joy brings in its train.

This question of pleasure is capital Staid people generally neglect it as a frivolity; utilitarians, as a costly su-perfluity. Those whom we designate perfluity. Those whom we designate as pleasure seekers forage in this dell cate domain like wild boars in a gar den. No one seems to doubt the im mense human interest attached to lov It is a sacred flame that must be fed and that throws a splendld radiance over life. He who takes pains to for ter it accomplishes a work as profit able for humanity as he who builds bridges, pierces tunnels or cultivates the ground. So to order one's life as to keep, amid toils and suffering, the faculty of happiness and be able to propagate it in a sort of salutary contagion among one's fellow men is to do a work of fraternity in the noblest sense. To give a triffing pleasure, smooth an anxious brow, bring a little light into dark paths—what a truly divine office in the midst of this poor humanity! But it is only in great simplicity of heart that one succeeds in

SONG HEROES AND HERCINES. ienerally Strange and Uncertain Charge ter

Most of the heroes and heroines of songs, says a writer in "T. have been of humble origin. I only rerkins of Paudington Green, for instance, was a barmaid, and her character hardly bears very and her character hardly bears very strict. Investigation. Sweet Jessie, the flower of Dunblane; was the il-literate daughter of a poor hand-looin weaver, with whom the author of the ditty in question, one John Tan-nahill, chanced to, be acquainted. Aince Laurie was fair but false, for she jilted the writer of the ballad that was to confer bunorfality. she fitted the writer of the ballad that was to confer immortality upon her, in order to wed a rich rival of his, Alexander Fergusson, Esquire o. Craigdargach. Just before the American Civil War, that could forcibly sunder lovers, no matter whether their skins were black or white. The original Nellie Gray was a 'yaller gal,'' who picked cotton for Mr. Bennison, a South Carolinian planter.

"Darling Nellie Gray" swept through the country like a cyclone.

About Maggie Lauder the less said the better. Highland Marry was either Mary Campbell or Mary Morison, both of whom were beloved by Burns. Ben Bolt was a young Massachusetts fisherman and the "Sweet" sachusetts fisherman, and the "Sweet Alice, whose hair was so brown," was the daughter of the lighthouse keeper at Cape Cod. Tom Bowling, was an old salt who was once a well-known character on Portsmouth

The Vicar of Bray was a certain Simon Alleyn, who lived in the little Berkshire town during the reigns of King Henry VIII., King Edward VI.,

King Henry VIII., King Edward VI., Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth; and was first a Papist, then a Protestant, then a Papist and lastly a Protestant again.

The Lass of Richmond Hill had, contrary to the generally-accepted belief, nothing whatever to do with Richmond Hill in Surrey. Her name was Mary Janson, and she resided at Hill House, Richmond, Yorkshire, where she was wooed and won by the writer of the sone Mr. Legnard Me. of the song, Mr. Leonard M

"My Pretty Jane," is said to have been one of the most profitable songs ever issued. The original of the ballad was the daughter of a farmer residing at Burwell, an old-fashfoned village near Newmarket. She died young, of consumption, but her portrait, painted by Edward Fitz-Bell, is still in existence. It was this same terrible scourge, by-the-by, that cut short the existence of another song heroine. Dorothy Dene. other song heroins. The actors who show little respect to the poet's text, are determined to set up a monument to the poet's memory. Shillings are demanded in the public prints, and the warmings of the past are unregarded. No man that ever lived needs honor that a the past are unregarded. No man that ever lived needs honor that a statue can afford so little as Shake-speare. If you would seek his monument open his book. Moreover, every attempt to colebrate his genfus has ignominiously failed. Who thinks of the sad monument in Leicester Square without disgrace? Can anyone feel a pride in the vast tea garden which has been arranged under the very best auspices at Stratford-on-Avon? There is but one tribute which the actors of England need pay to England's dramatist. They may recite his works with the same restraint of gesture intimation and adornment which interpreted his works in his own day. And if this method be not acceptable to them, let them be sincere in their admiration, and set up all the statues they can afford to the carpenters and scene painters, who are the real masters of the modern drama.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Constipation the cause of most Wo-men's troubles—An easy way to Permanently cure this Painful

There are few women indeed who do not suffer with chronic constipation. Nearly all are slaves to some kind of medicine to correct this trouble, and yet they get nothing but temporary relief. One period of constipation is followed by another and it's physic, physic, year in and year out, till life becomes a burden. There is now a sure cure for this condition and a oure that does not have to be repeated.

Dr. Leonhardt, of Linsoln, Neb., is the author of this prescription. He used it for his own practice as a remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness and constipation.

Many, ladies who have suffered for years are now enjoying good health and a perfect freedom from the old constipation through the use of Anti-Fill.

Mrs. Tabb, 257 Emeraid St., North Hamilton, Ont., writes—

It is an inflammation of the macous lining of the throat, bronchial tubes and masal passages excited by germs that can only be destroyed by fragrant, healing Catarrhosone, which is breathed direct to the seat of the disease, and has never yet failed to cure. Pleasant to use, absolutely certain to cure, Catarrhosone always gives satisfaction. "I suffered from nasal catarrh so badly that I couldn't breathe through my nostrik, writes G. K. The specie-room on an ovean stear ship is an important institution. It is located in an out-of-the-way place amidships, under the saloon. Few of the passengers know of its existence, or of the valuable treasure that is carfed across the ocean with them. The room varies slightly on different ships, but is usually about sixteen feet long and ten feet wide and eight feet high. It is constructed of steel plates a quarter of an inch thick, and strongly riveted together. The floor, the celling, and the walls are also made of steel plates. There is a heavy door, also made of steel. It is provided with a variety of combination lock that is said to be burglar-proof. The second force is that of gravity, which tends to draw it towards the centre of the earth.

The projectile, deviating from the line of metal, commences to fall as soon as it leaves the barrel, owing to the force of gravity. While falling it is also influenced by the force communicated by the explosion, and, being acted upon by both forces, the projectile, takes an intermediate course and describes a curve in midair, represented by a curved line and called the "trajectory."

Because the force of gravity is constant and the projectile can travel is constant and the projectile can travel is called its range. By elevating the rifle muzzle this distance is increased, but without elevating sights the object can't be seen, for the rifle barrel is between it and the eye.

With elevating sights true aim can be taken with the muzzle pointed above the object, by increasing the elevation of the rear sight. The space the vision travels in aiming is called the "line of sight." The important lines to remember are the "line of metal," the "trajectory" and the "line of sight." go high on account of his taking a coarse sight, because of the insufficient light to take a fine one.

A fine sight is one in which the tip of the front sight covers the object; a coarse sight a portion lower. On a bright day use greater elevation, on a dark day less, and still less after night has fallen.

Moisture in the air, by opposing the force of gravity, supports a projectile in the air, so less elevation is taken on a moist day. On a dry day use greater elevation.

Keep careful and honest record of all shots fired, mentioning the date, distance, score, rifle, ammunition, elevation, windage, direction of the wind, state of atmosphere (dry or damp), light (bright or cloudy), and any other appropriate remarks.

Ha bad shot should be made think out the cause of it. The wind may have suddenly gone down; the regulated sight changed; defective cartridge; rifle barrel foul; piece pulled away in the act of firing, etc. Whatever the cause, record it with the score and take care to prevent its reoccurrence. Faithfully hunting up mistakes and correcting them makes good shots.

PRIVILEGES OF WIVES.

Wife Makes His Career,
While a woman cannot make her husband's character anew, still she may be a power for good, or a mighty evil influence. It all depends on his inclination, and right here is where a man, if he has a grain of sense, will be careful in his choice of a life partner, and will not allow what may be a passing fancy to run away with his better sense. Take time in choosing your husband, good sit the man has average attinty niminal; and in order to accomplish this end there are things which she can do for him.

**Reof Up His Faith.**

One of these things is to keep alive his faith in himself. There comes a time in every man's career when his fate rusts in his wife's hands. It is when the battle goes against him and he is tempted to give up in despair. Then if his wife rominds him that luck always has been against him, that the world is leagued together to defeat him, that she told him he would fail, and she knows he never can succeed, that man's doom is sealed. On the other hand, if she flutters ahead like a flag of glory, always beckoning him on, telling him she knows he can overcome all obstacles, steadily showing her faith in him and rejusing to give it up, she will increase him with the courses and

Another way in which she can help

She may know little about his occupation, but if she is sensibly interested her intuitions will be flashes of comradeship on that score.

Above all other ways she can pro-Above all other ways she can prosper his career by keeping home comfortable for him. It is strange how many women fail to realize that a home is the power house in which the wage carners of the family should gather dynamic energy to fight and win the battle of life. Every fireside ought to be a haven of peace, where jaded nerves, frayed and frazzled by contact with the world, may be soothed and restored. For the woman who is happily married, this handling out of home nerve tonic is the biggest kind of career. If she chooses to exhaust her husband's strength on foolish household tasks, slay him with bad cooking and otherwise givs him a hit-or-miss home life, she is deliberately pulling him down into obscurity.

If she builds him up with proper foods, sends him out cheered and restored, with faith in himself and in her, she is pushing him straight on to success.

The Read of the House.

The Head of the House

The Head of the House.

When it comes to the pinch, it is the husband who is to decide what visitors shall be admitted to the home—not the wife. It is not for the wife to say who may come and who must stay away, even if she owns the hothe. At least, that's what the Supreme Court of Ohio says. The question of who is the head of the family recently came up in Erie County in that State, and was passed upon by no less than four courts. Oscar W. Green, it seems, is one of the men who does not like his mother-in-law. In fact, he dislikes her so much that he does not want her to visit him and his wife at their home, and he gave her notice to that effect. The mother-in-law kept on coming, just the same. One day her son-in-law met her at the door, and refused her admittance. She immediately had him arrested, and he was found guilty in the Probate Court of assault and battery and fined $10 and costs. This finding was affirmed by the Court of Common Pleas, but reversed by the Circuit Court on the ground that a man's home is his eastle, and that the husband is the lord of the castle. Or in other words, he is the "boss." The Supreme Court has now affirmed this decision.

It is said this decision will be a lecision.

It is said this decision will be a precedent even in Canada.

Many of the breeders would not think of offering a boar or sow for breeding purposes unless its mother was three years old and its father more than one year, says a correspondent of American Cultivator. They think also that the sow which has only one litter a year gets the spondent of American Chityacot. They think also that the sow which has only one litter a year gets the fat in the interval between her farrowing to produce strong and thrifty pigs. They may do to fatten when the is not more than two years old, but after she is that age they do not consider them even first class for that, if she has but one litter a year. We would prefer that a breeding sow should have two litters a year, if we had to give away the fall pigs as soon as she had weaned them, and we would not accept as a gift a pig from a yearling sow or one that had not more than one litter a year if we wanted one for ter a year if we wanted one breeding purposes.

What did the Banner do with Dr. Thornton's letter? Why can't the Ross organette he fair? When it finds its malicious lies nailed it just grawls.

And still the B. Mistake fills its editorial columns with that which Dick Paxton describes as the "silliest consense and humbag." Mighty intelligent school trustee, i say.

The organette is running its open declaration in favor of a campaign of slander without policy on the front page. I thought that was the lline it was following all along.

No. dear gentle reader, the frothing at the mouth, characteristic of the B. M. organette is not due to hydrophobia. No self-respecting dog would care to sample that journal.

The organette has declared in fa-wor of a campaign of slander without policy. Trot out your slanders as fast as you like, old boy. They'll help to make votes for Kent's own Jim.

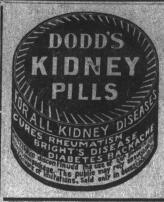

It is over a week since the "Hon"
G. P. Graham said that North Renfrew hadn't been without representation during any session of the legislature and the B. Mistake hasn't yet discovered an excuse for the deliberate lie.

"Are you in favor of a campaign of slander without policy, or a policy without slander?" shricks the popular newsievitch; and then proceeds too emphasize its own distinct preference for a campaign of slander without policy.

The pop-gan editorial organette is squirming in every way to avoid the issues of the campaign. It has nothing to say about the Ross-Stratton-Sullivan corruptionists. The reason is apparent. There is nothing to be said in their favor.

There's neither sense, nor non-sense, wit nor wisdom in that Banner Q. T. column," remarked a staunch Liberal. "What do they print it for?" And once again when the B. Mistake attempted to imitate this G. H. J. they got it where the hangy man's noose is always carefully adjusted.

Us people over the river are getting a little jealous of the west end. They think they've got a cinch on the mayoralty down there in Horace Greeley's Advice Corner. W. E. Mc. Keough had the job two years, now G. W. Cowan has it, and W. S. Marshall comes next. W. H. Westman

If Mayor Cowan does all the things his inaugural address suggests, I see that Council kept busy.

I don't know whether the people will "Bemember Ross" or not, but I know they won't forget Jim Claney.

A vote for Kent's own Jim will help put the people in power and the election crooks in the penitentiary.

What Liberals consider good reading, the Banner labels as lies on know which judge and which side wed.

Stoessel's first inquiry was about the whereabouts of Gen. Kuro-

General Stoessel added that he had sent out spies who returned and reported that General Kuropatkin, with a relieving army, was at Kinchou, twenty miles north of Port Arthur.

Five thousand men of the Russian garrison at Port Arthur to-day were marched from Yahutsui to Chang Ling Tzu, and the other detachments followed soon after. Each detachment was accompanied by six loaded transport carts. The Russians during the night will be taken on special trains or open trucks to Dalny, and they will immediately embark for Japan.

The long procession of remnants of the gallant Russian garrison was a pathetic spectacle. The first arrivals at Chanlingtzu were four droskies, drawn by sorry looking horses. They contained the staff officers who had refused to give their parole. All wore their swords, as they were allowed to de under the terms of the capitulation compact.
