The Sound of Wedding Bells

— OR —
Won After Great Perseverance!

CHAPTER I.

"I am victorious, you see!" he says, in his crisp, light-hearted tones. "But the enemy is the richer by a tourist hat and a pocket-handkerchief. Is Miss Dorrimore still outside?"

"Yes, still outside, Sir Archibald," says Aunt Fermor, reluctantly. "And I am afraid she will get cold. And how could you think of facing that awful crowd—and your hat! Oh, dear me, what a dreadful noise! What is it now?"

"Oh, they are just lighting up," he says. "It is all right. Now is the best part of the fun. By the way, persuade Miss Dorrimore to put on this wrap, and hasten her from a chair."

"Perhaps, you can," assents Mrs. Fermor, but doubtfully. "I have asked her to do so twenty times. She seems quite deaf."

Laughingly he goes out, lantern and wrap in hand, and is rewarded by the turning of a beautiful face, the flash of Dulcie's dark eyes, the child-like lilt of Dulcie's heart-whole laugh.

"Have you really got it!" she exclaims. "Really and truly? Yes! How good of you! No, I won't have the wrap. Please don't ask me; I'm too warm already. If aunt could have her way I should go about like an Egyptian mummy. Oh, look! they are lighting up the Square. Isn't it beautiful! Do you know, I have never known what happiness was until now. I told Aunt Fermor so, and she was shocked. You are not, are you?"

"I am never shocked at anything you say," he murmurs, his blue eyes open with ecstatic, admiring eagerness.

She laughs; compliments fall upon Dulcie's ears as water does upon a duck's back—harmless.

she says; "It shows how seriously your education must have been neglected. Do you think you could light the lantern?"

He glances toward the room; the girl laughs.

"Don't be afraid; aunt is so benumbed at my general audacity, that you might do anything—anything."

Thereupon he lights the lantern and gives it to her, and she stands swinging it on the end of its stick, all unconscious that its fitting light is falling upon her face and revealing its glorious beauty to the eyes of the crowd beneath.

CHAPTER II.

Not only to the crowd beneath, but to the young man by her side. Sir Archibald Hope is of a susceptible nature at the worst of times, and always open to the fascination of the other and fairer sex, but to-night admiration threatens to glow into the white heat of passion. His affairs of the heart, as the French delicately put it, have been both numerous and various; on an average he has fallen in love ten times in every year, and, considering his title and the extent of the Hope estate, it is a marvel that he has escaped the bonds of matrimony. To-night he is quite ready, if such a course were practicable, to rush into them and drag Dulcie Dorrimore with him, but for the first time in his life his tongue falters, his spirit quails. For all the frankness, perhaps because of the almost boyish frankness, he is afraid to utter the ardent proposal which trembles on his lips. In fact, this time he is really in love and is afraid. As it is, he keeps as close to her side as good manners will permit, and watches the beautiful face with that ardent wistfulness which can only be seen in the eyes of a lover—and a faithful dog.

All unconscious, the girl leans over the balcony, swinging the lantern to and fro, and humming a light air softly. Suddenly she breaks off and sighs.

"And it will soon be over," she murmurs, rather to herself than her companion. "A few days more only, and then a long, dreary vista of cheap lodging-houses at the seaside, or ditto ditto in Bloomsbury Square. Ay domi! as they would say below."

He sighs in sympathy.

"Why should it be?" he murmurs, eagerly. "Why do you go back? Why not stay, or say, go on to Florence, or—anywhere?"

She turns her head and looks at him. There is infinite grace in the pose, infinite candor in the half-scornful, half-indignant face.

"Why? What a question to ask. Do you not know, have you not already surmised, Sir Archibald, that we—Aunt Fermor and I—are emphatically that kind of persons for whom the proverb, 'Beggars mustn't be choosers' was invented? We are both of us as poor as church mice, and this little trip of ours will have to be atoned for by a long course of economy and self-denial—in other words, dinners of cold mutton and cheap sherry, and toilets principally consisting of turned dresses, and last season's bonnets."

He mumbles something.

"Very sorry, did you say? So am I—most intensely, most emphatically sorry. Did it never occur to you that it is always the people who don't know what to do with money that have so much of it, and that some who really know how to make the most of it always have so little? Now you—I suppose you are very rich?"

She asks the question with the most charming air of naturalness, just as she would ask him if he liked dry champagne in preference to sweet, or whether he thinks it will rain tomorrow, her dark eyes fixed on his face meditatively.

"I?—yes, I suppose so," he answers, his eyes chained to hers.

"Just so," she assents; "and I feel convinced that you don't know what to do with it. Of course your being here argues that you do; but I'll be bound you won't stay here—that you'll go back to that horrid London for the season, and stifle and choke in the heat and the dust, while you might be—ah, where might you not be! Oh, to be a man, and a rich one!"

And she sighs again.

Now is the time for him to say: "I am rich, share my wealth with me." But he cannot. He knows, he feels that it would bring those dark eyes upon him with a look of bland surprise, of girlish mockery, perhaps a sudden anger; and instead he fidgets his watch-chain and stares at the bracelet on her white, rounded arm.

"Now, if I were a man," she goes on, after a moment's silence—Dulcie's silence seldom lasts more than a moment—"do you think I should be shut up here in this hideous balcony, like a wooden image, eating my heart out with longing to be down there, below us?"

"I don't know," he says. "I'm a man, and I'm not eating my heart out to be anywhere but where I am. I am quite content," he repeats, emphatically and significantly; but his significance is lost upon her.

"That's because you have been out," she says, decisively, "and I haven't. I wish—" She stops suddenly, and glancing over her shoulder, she continues in a low voice, "I wish I could go; just for a little while, you know. Where would be the harm?" argumentatively. "It wouldn't be wrong, would it?" coaxingly.

He glances toward the window.

"Not at all," he says, "if you were protected. Would you like to go?"

"Would I?" she stops, and the color mounts to her face, and her eyes sparkle. "Will you take me, really?"

"What will Mrs. Fermor say?" he asks.

She makes an impatient gesture, then she laughs, and averts her eyes quickly.

"Aunt would probably go into a fit—if she knew; but, this insinuatingly, 'why should she know?'"

He stares at her.

"You couldn't drop from the balcony, you know!" he says.

She laughs softly.

"Will you take me? Not just out into the street, but down to the Square; I want to see the fountains and hear the singing."

"I'll take you to the other end of the world if you like," he responds, warmly.

"Thanks," she says, quite coolly, "the end of the Square will do. Well, you go down and wait at the door, and I will follow you in—say, five minutes."

"Right," he says, and is preparing to depart with alacrity, when she stops him with a soft, amused laugh.

"How stupid you are! Do you think if you rushed off like that, that aunt wouldn't see at once that you had planned some mischief?"

"I?" he says, with a smile.

"Well, I, both of us, what does it matter? No, you must saunter in, say something about your hat, and make your adieus in a proper manner."

"I see," he says. "Yes, it was stupid. Well, five minutes. You will be sure to come?"

She does not reply, except with a confident smile; and he goes into the room, and plays his part, and disappears.

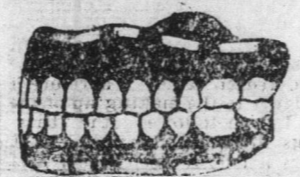

Five—three minutes afterward, as he stands at the door, eagerly watching the stairs, he sees the tall figure clad in the domino, and with the "little absurd" mask held closely to her face, gliding down the stairs.

With her red lips parted with an eager smile, and the dark, beautiful eyes glowing through the mask-holes, she puts her hand on his arm, and with many "I beg your pardons? Will you permit me?" Sir Archie forces a way through the group at the door.

The streets are still full—indeed, they will be full till dawn breaks over the city—and for a moment Dulcie clings rather nervously to her companion's arm; but presently her courage comes back—it is never very far off at any time—and she begins to enjoy herself.

Prohibition Case Dismissed.

The further hearing of the case in which Dr. McDonald was charged with giving a prescription for liquor which was not used for bona fide medicinal purposes was concluded before Judge Morris in the Magistrate's Court yesterday. The evidence in the main was that the defendant gave a script for a bottle of rum to a woman of Portugal Cove, who stated that the stuff was for her brother. Instead she gave it to another man, who was later found inebriated. The case was dismissed. Mr. Higgins acted for the defence and Mr. Dunfield, who conducted the case for the prosecution, gave notice of appeal.

Swimmer Meets Accident.

While bathing at "Sliding Rock," near Long Pond, yesterday afternoon, a lad named O'Rielly met with a painful accident. He was walking on the bottom when he trod on a part of a glass bottle, inflicting a deep and ugly cut in his foot, which bled profusely for upwards of an hour. The lad, who was very weak from loss of blood was later driven by Cabman Drunken to the surgery of Dr. Burden, who had to insert several stitches in the wound to close it.

INTER TOWN SERIES.

Bell Island has challenged St. John's for the Inter Town trophy presented by Mr. R. G. Reid, and the City team has decided to accept it. The series will be the best two out of three games. The first game will be on Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock, and a full 9 innings will be played. The second game will be on Wednesday morning, so that should both win a game each the play off will take place in the afternoon. Since last week the visitors have been hard at practice and have hit a strike that it is going to be difficult for the City to keep pace with, so that the series should produce spectacular ball. The selection of the City team rests with Major Montgomery and Messrs. A. Hiltz and W. Collins. Should St. John's successfully defend its title, they will journey to Grand Falls on Thursday next in order to give the Paper Men a chance for the Trophy.

Editor Baseball Column.
Your interesting column contains a letter to the Editor signed by Doc Power. Well, sir, I must say that I cannot agree with him, and he puts forth a weak argument without authoritative proofs. I have never known either the National or American Leagues to finish their FULL schedule of games, therefore it does not figure in the making up of the averages. I have followed the baseball doing in the big leagues for 15 or 17 years and have yet to hear of a tied game being counted in the averages. I intend looking up the positive ruling on the matter, and you will hear from me in this connection.
Yours truly,
FAN.

NOTES.
Carew was in wonderful form yesterday.
Brown was very accurate in getting them over but seemed to lack juice.
Hall gave his best exhibition for the year, and the Big Stick artists of the Lions were unable to find him.
Gowan was hit very fresh and St. John was successful in making the one and only home run of the season off him.

To the Trustees, Grand Falls Permanent Patriotic Fund, Grand Falls, Newfoundland.

Income:

Expenditure.
Grand Falls Women's Patriotic Association, $152.35 and 14 donations of $50.00 each for support of two Hospital Cots . . . . . $ 852.35

Nfld. Cot Fund, per Sir Wm. Horwood, St. John's . . . . . 600.00
Twelve (12) Donations of $20.00 each for two Hospital Cots, Prisoners of War, per V. P. Burke, St. John's . . . . . 250.00
Salvation Army Rest Home for Nfld. Regt. . . . . 20.00
Slips (Stationary) . . . . . 9.14
Stamps . . . . . 72
Rosettes . . . . . 1.32

Cash in Bank . . . . . $3,433.53
Per Bank Book . . . . . 1,782.02
Less Cheques not deposited: No. 31, $250 and No. 37, $50. . . . . 300.00
$5,215.55

This statement shows that a total of $5,215.55 has been contributed by the employees of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co. Ltd., Exploits Valley Royal Stores, Ltd., Wood's Candy Store, and by various other private subscribers throughout Grand Falls, and that the sum of $3,433.53 has been expended to date, or almost exactly two-thirds of the total sum subscribed.

The maintenance of four Hospital Cots is one of the chief objects to which money has been contributed from the fund, and a total sum of $1,462.35 has been devoted to this end. Monthly contributions of $100.00 are being continued to support these cots. The sum of $1,200.00 has been voted to the Imperial Red Cross Fund, to be used in aid of their work in connection with wounded soldiers. The sum of $500.00 was devoted to the Jensen Camp, and $250.00 to the Prisoners of War Fund, and the sum of $20.00 to the Salvation Army Rest Home for the Newfoundland Regiment at the front.

May I point out that as we have undertaken to support the four Hospital Cots for a further period of one year, and as our obligations under this will amount to the sum of $1,200.00, some provision ought to be made to meet this amount?

While it is true that the monthly income at the moment is in excess of this required amount, yet it ought not to be overlooked that the destruction of Merchant Shipping by submarines, if continued, might create a situation under which the production of this Mill might have to be largely reduced, with a consequent shrinkage of the income of the fund.

I am having this Statement posted in the Mill Office, so that Subscribers can have the assurance that the funds which they have so generously made available for the relief of wounded Soldiers, are not being allowed to accumulate in the Bank, but are applied

Thoughts Upon the Times.

(By PATRIOT)

At last the Government has decided to grant separation allowances to the families of married men enlisting in the Regiment. The amount is $20 per month and takes place from the first instant. This has not come a moment too soon. Had we followed Canada's lead in this respect eighteen months ago our Regiment would now be numerically stronger than it is. There is no need for the Government or any member thereof to expect a pat on the back for doing this. It was their obvious duty to do so. The people have been expecting it long ago. One reason why recruiting slackened was because it was not done. Even now we are not treating our soldiers and their families nearly so generously as are the governments of Canada and the United States. In the States the least amount which the wife of a soldier can receive is $47.50 per month. The government also insures the life of the soldier up to $10,000.

It is to be noted in yesterday's papers that Selective Conscription is foreshadowed in the event of the failure of the coming recruiting campaign. The writer is of the opinion that it will have to come eventually. If we are sincere about the war the question would overshadow for the time being every other public question. In discussing the Military Service Bill in the Canadian Senate the other day Sir James Loughheed, the leader of the Senate laid down this doctrine:—

"The basic principle of the State is compulsion. This is fundamental in its entire organization. It runs through every system of law both civil and criminal, through practically all the conventions of society. Without it law, order, system and organization could not exist, and there is no element constituting the State so important as that of defence. It may be asked at this point, who is to determine when a man should place his life in defence of his country? The answer is, the Government. The Government is charged by the people of the State with the supreme duty of determining what the safety of the State requires, what military necessity demands from us in the hour of danger."

We have received the final report of the Commission appointed to enquire into the High Cost of Living. They tell us that the dealers in tinware goods and kerosene oil are not making any excessive profits. Their goods. The public will have to accept their report as final. There is no appeal.

for the purposes for which they were intended.
I am, sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) W. SCOTT,
Treasurer.

TENDERS CONGRATULATIONS TO JUDGE MORRIS.
Yesterday on taking his seat for the first time since his appointment to the Judgeship of the Central District Court, Mr. F. J. Morris, K.C., was tendered the warmest congratulations of the Bar by Mr. W. J. Higgins, who on behalf of his professional brethren, paid an eloquent tribute to their late colleague. The new Judge, he said, was one of the senior and most esteemed members of the legal fraternity whose best wishes he had in entering upon his new duties. His practical experience as a lawyer as well as his long connection with the public life of the Colony, combined with his peculiar gift of the knowledge of human nature, eminently qualified him for the position, which he had hoped, the newly appointed Judge would be long spared to fill with his well known courtesy, dignity and satisfaction. A fitting reply was made by Judge Morris, who thanked sincerely the members of the Bar for their kindly manifestations. He expressed the hope that the friendly relationship and good will which had existed between him and them would continue, and gave the assurance that justice would be always meted out by him with fairness and impartiality. In conclusion he thanked Mr. McCarthy, Clerk of the Peace; Supt. Grimes; Sergt. O'Flaherty and other court officials for their co-operation and support while he was temporarily performing the functions of the office to which he has since been permanently attached; also he expressed his gratitude to the press.

Wedding Bells.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning, Sept. 5th, at the Oratory of our Lady of Good Counsel, Cathedral Square, by Rev. Dr. Greene, the contracting parties being Miss Bridget M. Murphy and Mr. M. J. Fitzgerald. The bride was very neatly attired in a costume of cream corded silk with georgette trimming. Miss K. Murphy, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, whilst the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. P. J. Fitzgerald. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's mother where breakfast was partaken of, after which the happy couple motored to Topsail over the honeymoon will be spent. Many useful and valuable presents were received by the happy couple. The groom's present to the bride was a gold brooch, the bridesmaid a gold ring and to the best man gold cuff links. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald join in wishing them many years of happy matrimonial life.—Com.

A Chat on the House of Assembly.

"I would give ye the kowld shivers in the month of August to peruse the debates the members had in the House before they all went through the winter." Why they fairly ate one other alive without any salt. 'Tis had enuff that that should have occurred, but to be dishing it up those nights in the subsidized papers, to be grinding it out in the well-paid organs is the height of ridiculousness. One good lesson it teaches us common beings and that is we have as much sense as a two year old donkey. There is an ancient and shrewd saying that politics make strange bedfellows, but our politicians have knocked that in to a cocked hat. But after all there are no real strangers among them, for every mother's son of them have been on all sides of the House just as it suited them. What a glorious panorama is passing before the gaze of Sir Robert Bond as he sits in his chair out in quiet Whiteburne. How he must enjoy the spectacle of those loving brothers hugging one another. What a sound of revelry must re-echo through the halls of Sir Edward's mansion as he chats with his carrier pigeon on how they worked the game and sings that well known melody, "We'll get you when we want you." Gentle reader, when you are all fagged out from weariness, when your brain is tired from perusing those heavy deliberations of the Food Commissioners, when you ponder on the heavy men who are now adorned with the title of Honourable, go fetch the News and read those stormy debates of the House and they will bring a smile to your face that will iron out those wrinkles of care. Once more the public have been made mere jackasses. Once more the whole jolly lot of us are fooled. But we will not learn anything from it for we seem to like to be made fools of. Go on, free and independent, work and drag to pay the piper, for that is all you are needed for—to pay the piper. The slippery politicians will make you dance to the piper's tune too when they want to. You will listen to their clap-trap when again they appear on the stage to save the country. You will unharness the horse and haul them home and haul yourselves hoarse cheering them. They know it, know they can get you when they want you, and for the present you can amuse yourselves reading the stormy debates and fitting yourselves to be fooled again when the opportunity presents itself. 'Tis a great game, a game in which ye free and independent always and ever come out second best.

LOOKING FORWARD

The world will be a better place when Kaiserism meets its doom, for then the well known human race will see true liberty in bloom. For years the Kaiser's been a threat, even when he talked of peace the most; he meant the whole world go in debt for ships and guns and armored host. If some one lives next door to me, of whom I live in constant fear, I may be nominally free, but freedom of that sort is dear. I have to keep a bulldog pup, a loaded shotgun and a creese, a large stuffed club to beat him up, if he attempts to break the peace. I never know when he may come, on some excuse, all full of fight, to knock my plexus out of plumb, and so I cannot sleep at night. It's vain, to tell me I am free, that laws protect me, and police; while that man lives next door to me, all empty is your boon of peace. Thus to the world has Kaiser Bill a menace been, a nightmare threat; while talking peace he yearned to kill, and soak the globe in carnage wet. Because of him the nations bore a load that sapped their strength away, and manufactured tools of gore, instead of tools for baling hay. When Kaiserism is suppressed, when it goes down with sick'ning thud, the world will have a long sweet rest from all this talk of war and blood.

ITALIANS CAPTURE SAN GABRIELLE.

LONDON, Sept. 5. The Italians have captured San Gabrielle, according to advices to the Daily Mail.

A despatch received here confirms the capture by the Italians of Monte San Gabrielle together with 900 prisoners including 32 officers. The Italians now possess the entire chain of mountains which dominate Gorizia.

The Italian official read here to-day tells of the resumption of the battle on the Julian front and the capture of an Austrian position on the Bainsizza Plateau, south of Ochrogio. In addition, 86 officers and 1,600 men were made prisoners.

RUSSIANS RETIRING.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 5. The Russians continue to retreat along the coast of the Gulf of Riga toward the northeast. They have crossed the Vironian river the war office announces. Russian forces operating in an easterly direction from Riga have retired to Segevoid, Lemberg and Detostobray.

SEMI-OFFICIAL RUSSIAN STATEMENT.

LONDON, Sept. 5.

The Press Bureau has issued a semi-official Russian statement dated Sept. 4, which says in part, "the catastrophe at Riga was not wholly unexpected. Measures for the evacuation of the Littoral of the Gulf were taken before the passage of the Germans across the Dvina near Uxhull, and the artillery of heavy calibre on the permanent emplacements was thrown out of position during last week. After the Dvina was forced an order was given for the evacuation of Riga. The Russians withdrawing from Riga are holding up the enemy's pressure. Several units have shown exceptional valor repulsing German counter attacks with the bayonet. The first battalion of the Death (composed of women) particularly distinguished itself, throwing itself into the water at a most critical time and throwing back the pursuing enemy nearly three kilometres in spite of the loss it had sustained. The example set by this battalion inspired the other units. General Novitsky personally directed the attacks."

GERMAN SUB BOMB SCARBOROUGH.

SCARBOROUGH, Sept. 5. During the prevalence of a thick mist, a German submarine appeared two miles off the coast at 7 o'clock last evening and began to bombard the town. About a dozen shells were fired in quick succession at the shore, which at the time was crowded with visitors. British mine sweepers began an attack on the submarine and the cannonade became deafening. The submarine soon submerged and was not seen again. The material damage inflicted was small considering the fact that the bombardment lasted ten minutes. A station two miles inland was hit by a shell but no one was injured. Some persons assert they saw two subs; but the presence of more than one boat has not been confirmed.

London.—Scarborough on the English east coast, was bombarded last night by a hostile submarine. It is officially announced to-day. About half the shells fired from the undersea boat landed, three persons being killed and five injured. But little damage was done.

SAY GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED.

PARIS, Sept. 5. German attacks on the Aisne and Champagne front last night were repulsed by the French, says to-day's official. The French made a successful attack in the Champagne. French hospitals were again bombarded by German aviators.

AIR RAID—NINE KILLED AND 40 INJURED.

Streets were filled with curious crowds until early hours to-day, inspecting the damage done from last night's raids over the London district. More bombs appear to have fallen in the streets than hit buildings. The Chronicle estimates that eight or ten raiders visited London. There were two separate attacks over the London district. The second occurred about 1 o'clock this morning. Some people claim they saw half a dozen planes, but they were quickly lost sight of in the haze. After dropping the bombs, the raiders flew seaward. One machine was located by a searchlight at an estimated height of 9,000 feet. It was severely shelled, and onlookers declare it was hit. At the same time British airplanes were seen manoeuvring for an attack on the raiders.

In last night's air raid, one bomb fell outside a hospital, another smashed through a theatre, and still another hit a retail store in which a number of girls were sleeping. Notwithstanding the moonlight, nothing could be seen of the raiders, although their engines could be heard overhead. That they were invisible was perhaps due to a slight haze, which however, was insufficient to obscure the moon. The raiders were constantly shelled by anti-aircraft guns and several British machines took the air to attack the invaders. The streets were practically deserted at the time of the raid, it being long after theatre hours. The few late street cars that were running were without lights, or stripped. A message from the southeastern district says that apparently the invaders crossed the North Sea in three successive groups, and that all were severely shelled both arriving and returning.

The Chatham district for the first time experienced an air attack on Monday night, when one or more bombs fell on a section of the Royal Barracks, killing 107 bluejackets outright and wounding 86 others. Four bombs in all fell about the barracks but two were harmless, and in fact apart from those which took such a heavy toll of life, the damage in the whole area was insignificant. The barracks was filled with sleeping hammocks and a majority of the men were asleep at the time of the attack. The first indication of the presence of air raiders was the sound of engines overhead. The presence of high-powered machines overhead did not cause much alarm because notices had been published early in the evening that anti-aircraft practice would be carried out that night, and when the guns began firing it was assumed that the practice was in full swing. Then came the unexpected. Loud explosions were heard in one part of the district and then in another. The explosions then ceased, but after a few minutes they were heard again and following by the sounds the air raiders had circled the town. In all about 17 bombs were dropped and the raiders were thought to have been over the district nearly an hour. Searchlights sought the raiders, but they failed to locate them, the visibility being low owing to a slight haze, notwithstanding the moonlight. Immediately following the explosions in the barracks rescue parties were organized and the wounded were removed to hospitals, one of which came very near to being a target for a bomb. All the survivors were instantly at their quarters and the greatest coolness was shown. A naval man who was in barracks at the time gave the following account of the raid: "Most of us were asleep in our hammocks, in the dormitory which was in a large drill hall. We had no warning of any kind. I have been in some scrapes, but I did not dream that anything so sudden could happen. Before we knew what was happening the roof was lifted off the ship, blown into the air and fell in a thousand pieces among the men. It was the flying glass, which was thick and heavy, that did the damage. We were dashed out of our hammocks and all mixed up in broken glass. The men on either side of me were killed. Officers were on the scene in a moment and worked with us the whole night getting the wounded to hospitals and the bodies to the gymnasium which was used as a mortuary." Another man sleeping in a different part of the dormitory said that he didn't wait to put on his shoes and did not know that he was walking on broken glass until long afterwards when he found that his feet were bleeding. Still another man with a piece of glass in his head did not know it, the shock of the explosion being so great; and a man who was blown across the parade ground, and who alighted on his feet, declared he did not feel any the worse for his experience. Some of the injured died during the night and the survivors complain bitterly about their companions being killed without an opportunity to strike back. If we have to die we want to die fighting, one bluejacket said. Most of us have been fighting, and we want another go at the Huns. A remarkable feature of the raid was that a comparative few people in the bombarded area were aware that there had been an attack till they arose the following morning. One bomb struck a small cottage, one of a row. The tenant and his daughter who went into the garden to see what was happening escaped injury. His wife remained in the house and was killed.

GERMAN ARTILLERY ACTIVE.
LONDON, Sept. 5. A hostile raiding party were driven off by fire, rifle and machine guns, last night in the vicinity of Armentieres, says to-day's official. A raid by the enemy at a later hour against positions held by the Portuguese, also was unsuccessful. The German artillery was active in the neighborhood of Lens.

AMERICAN PRISONERS.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. Capt. Albert Oliver, of the American tank steamer Campana, and four of the five members of the naval gun crew, who were taken prisoners when their ship was captured and sunk on August 4th by a German submarine, are in a prison camp at Brandenburg, Prussia, the American Red Cross was advised yesterday by cable from Geneva.

BRITISH BOMB ADRIANOPLE.

LONDON, To-day. British naval airplanes penetrated far inland over Turkish territory on Sunday night, dropping bombs on the city of Adrianople, about 137 miles northwest of Constantinople, says an official to-day. The text reads: Naval airplanes dropped bombs with good effect on the railway station and bridge at Adrianople on Sunday night. The main line of the Belgrade-Constantinople railway and part of the Berlin to Bagdad railway passes through Adrianople.

THE ATTACK AT MT. SAN GABRIELE.

LONDON, To-day. Details of the Italian attack on Monte San Gabriele on Monday sent by an Austrian correspondent at the front and transmitted by the Central News correspondent at Amsterdam, said that the mountain on that day was continually subjected to violent artillery fire, which at times assumed the intensity of drum fire. At six o'clock on Tuesday morning the Italian infantry began a furious attack, the mountain being enveloped in dense clouds of smoke and dust.

THE MOONLIGHT RAID.

LONDON, To-day. London is convinced that last night's raid was only the first of many similar undertakings to be undertaken, knowing the habit of the Germans who once successful continue operations until a way of checking them is found. Crowds visited the arena in which bombs were dropped; among them were many American Army officers. The raid began just as a brilliant moon was shining. There was no official warning, but flashes of searchlights gave the public an inkling that something unusual was happening, and the few persons who were about the streets when the first bombs were dropped shortly before midnight, took cover. It is believed there were from eight to ten raiders in the first wave of the raiding force, but they were flying so high that they were hidden by a thin haze which overhung the sky. Shortly after the raiders made a second attempt, this time with the aid of searchlights glimpses of the airplanes could be obtained at brief intervals. Anti-aircraft guns came into action, and, according to some observers, got direct hits on one of the Germans who was flying at a height of 5,000 feet. British airplanes also were in action manoeuvring for battle, but the haze rendered the development of their attack invisible. The third wave came about one o'clock this morning. Like its predecessors it was accompanied by the dropping of bombs. Shortly before 2 o'clock the all clear signal was given. In addition to the attack on the London district, bombs were dropped in the neighborhood of certain southeast coast towns. No report of damage or casualties has yet been received from that region.

THE "INDEPENDENT" GERMAN PRESS.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. Hereafter every Government department in Germany is to have its own press bureau. The North German Gazette of Berlin, a semi-official organ, in announcing the plan, says the object is to establish a close collaboration on a large scale between the Government and the newspapers. The press, however, says this semi-official organ, notwithstanding the new scheme for its enlightenment, is to maintain its right in judgment, which would be far greater in the new Germany.

fore reaching our position. Artillery activity continues on both sides of the Ypres battle front. Last night enemy airplanes again dropped bombs on different places behind our lines. A few casualties were caused in one of our hospital areas. There was no damage of military importance. One of the enemy's raiding machines was brought down by our fire and destroyed. Our airplanes have continued their bombing operations and activity day and night. Yesterday great activity in the air prevailed on both sides. Artillery, machines and balloons worked all day in co-operation with our artillery. Despite vigorous attacks from hostile airplanes a record number of aerial photos were taken, many of them at a great distance behind the line. Though the enemy's airplanes showed disinclination to meet our fighting machines unless well to the east of the line, five hostile machines were brought down in the combat, and nine others were driven down out of control. Seven of our machines are missing.

DAUGHTER TO THE CROWN PRINCE.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. The German Crown Princess to-day gave birth to a daughter, according to a Berlin advice. This is the sixth child born to Crown Prince Frederick William and the Crown Princess.

GREAT RUSSIAN CONSPIRACY UNearthED.

PETROGRAD, To-day. The aim of the conspiracy in connection with which Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch and others were arrested was the restoration of the autocracy. The chief conspirators were Mme. Margaret Hitrovo of Tobolsk, and Mme. Hitrovo of Yelaburg, members of a well known bureaucratic family, both of whom were arrested. In the house of Grand Duke Paul when he was arrested was found a Mistress of the Court, Mme. Harychagne, a confidante of the former Dowager Empress, Mme. Harychagne was not arrested but an immediate domiciliary search of her home in Petrograd was made and her correspondence seized, according to the Bolsheviks. A number of officers have been arrested and other Grand Dukes have been taken into custody. The State Attorney refuses to divulge their names. It is assumed that one of the Grand Dukes arrested was a candidate of the conspirators for the throne. A special Council was held yesterday by Premier Kerensky and the Chief Ministers at which plans for future action against the conspirators of the left and right were drawn up. It is said that the Minister of Justice has tendered his resignation through the minister's failure to unearth the plot, which was brought to Kerensky's knowledge by three Bolshevik visitors. An indictment against the Hitrovo women and their accomplices has already been drawn up.

1.30 P. M.

THUNDERSTORM AFTER AIR RAID.

LONDON, To-day. Following the excitement of the air raid on Tuesday night, London was visited last night by a terrific thunderstorm, which was accompanied by a spectacular electrical display and a heavy downpour of rain, which continued for three hours. The storm came as a relief to many persons, who, in anticipation of the repetition of the moonlight air attacks, had arranged safer shelters than they had Tuesday night and made preparations to stay in them.

RUSSIAN FLEET IN PERIL.

NEW YORK, To-day. A cable to the New York World from London says grave fears are expressed there regarding the possible fate of the Russian fleet, for its safety depends on a stand being made by the Russians. "Germany has her eyes on the Russian fleet," the cable says, "and its early capture is viewed in London as an even more immediate consequence than the Petrograd campaign. Naval experts hold the fleet will be destroyed by the Russians themselves in the event that its capture seems imminent."

AUGUST HAD LOWEST SHIPPING LOSSES.

LONDON, To-day. The Times' Naval correspondent, commenting on the week's losses by submarines and mines, says the total losses of all vessels, including fishing vessels, in the five weeks of August was the lowest average yet recorded in any month.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES CALLET IN COWS.

of the Dutch Grain Bureau, J. B. Vander Souvan, Van Condel, former President of the Council of India, Jost Van Hollenhorst and a staff of clerks.

NOT POLITICAL.

ROME, To-day. Thomas Nelson Page, American Ambassador to Italy, passed through Scotland to-day on his way to Rome. Page said he was on a vacation, that his visit here had nothing to do with politics.

LAST WEEK'S SINKINGS.

LONDON, To-day. British merchant ships sunk by mines or subs. in the last week numbered 20 of more than 1,600 tons, and three under 1,600 tons, according to the official statement to-night.

CANADIANS GOOD WORK.

Canadian Headquarters in France, via London. (By Stewart Lyon, Special Correspondent of the Canadian Press.)—The famous Prussian Guard formations are war-weary and dependent over their experiences during the last three weeks on this part of the front. A prisoner of a regiment attached to the Fourth Guard Division, which holds the enemy line in the vicinity of Hill 70, says that the losses of his regiment have been very great. By our attack on the morning of Saturday the third battalion was so badly cut up that the first battalion had to be called on to take over a part of the line. Officers of this battalion were not aware that our men had a trench well to the south of our front line. By orders the Germans advanced up to the trench until they came under the concentrated machine gun fire of the Canadians holding the trench. In a few minutes the whole company were wiped out. In another part of the trench a similar experience befell another company. These misfortunes cut the nerve of the enemy, and circumstances of the attack Tuesday morning added to their demoralization. That attack was preceded by a projection of gas. Some drums of gas were thrown into the German trenches beyond the point to which it is intended men should penetrate. Dugouts are traps when gas is projected into the trenches, as it soaks to the lowest level available and settles there till gradually absorbed into the atmosphere. Forsaking their dugouts when the gas alarm began to ring, the enemy rushed up into the front line trenches and put on their gas masks. At that moment our barrage came down upon the trench, preparatory to an assault. The enemy lost many men by our artillery fire and when our infantry came up it was met with a half-hearted resistance that the enemy offered. No serious attempts have been made to recover the lost ground, which was almost the last position north of Lens from which the enemy could observe movements within our lines. There has been abnormal bombing activity by the enemy and shelling of the back area by high velocity guns. British aviators have been extremely busy since the return of clear weather. In one case a direct hit was made with a heavy bomb on an aerodrome. The explosion violently bumped the attacking aeroplane but it quickly righted and the aviator swung around and crossed the aerodrome at a height of 700 feet to observe the result of his lucky hit.

Great clouds of smoke were rolling up. It was evident that a large plant had been destroyed.

ROUNDING UP THE DISTURBERS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Nation-wide seizure of the Industrial Workers of the World was conducted to-day under the direction of Attorney General Gregory. This action was taken under the direction of the Attorney General, says a statement issued by the Department of Justice, and in connection with the Grand Jury investigation which is in progress in the United States Court in the northern district of Illinois.

CANADIAN ENLISTMENTS.

OTTAWA, To-day. Enlistments in Canada for the last two weeks of August total 1,500, which was a decrease of 148 compared with the preceding two weeks. The total enlistments in the Canadian Expeditionary Force are now 431,455.

AUSTRIA EVIDENTLY SICK OF IT.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. A despatch to the Weser Zeitung from Budapest says that Austrian delegations will meet in Vienna in November to discuss internal and foreign politics and the question of peace. A far reaching decision will probably be taken, it is understood.

FORESHADOWS BIG ATTACK.

British Monitors.

Aid in Shelling of Trieste Defences— Effort, if Successful, May be Em- ployed in Attack on German Coast.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The first in- formation that the British navy is as- sisting in the great Italian offensive was received at the Italian embassy to-day. The cablegram indicated that a combined fleet of British and Ital- ian monitors, carrying 15 or 16 inch guns, have been piloted through the mined Adriatic and are subjecting the principal fortifications on the Her- mada, the mountain range which pro- tects Trieste, to a terrific bombard- ment.

The cablegram, which was partially deleted by the censor, indicates that the monitors are lying out of range of the guns on the shore batteries and are throwing an indirect fire over the hills thereby dislodging the guns which were expected to hold back the Italian forces.

Because of the altitude of the Her- mada, it will be impossible for the Austrians to haul large siege guns to positions where they might be avail- able against the bombarding fleet. A number of Austrian battleships are lying in Fiume harbor behind carefull- y constructed nets and other "safe- guards. They may be sent out to fight the monitors in a last effort to save Trieste.

The British and Italian fleet is being protected from submarine attacks by destroyers while super aeroplanes of the latest Italian type are protect- ing them from aerial attack and are directing the long range fire.

In the event that the monitor attack on Trieste accomplishes the destruc- tion of the mountain fortifications and forces the city to fall before the Italians, it is believed that the allied navies may attempt a similar attack upon the German coast.

It is known that some naval experts have been of the opinion that the only way to reach the submarine and other German bases was by the use of the discarded monitor.

The Irish and the Huns

(From the London Referee.)

In the trenches one evening a bat- talion of the Leinster Regiment held a "railee" (ceili), or Irish sing-song, at which was a spirit rendering of the humorous ballad "Bryan O'Lyinn," sung to an infectious rollicking tune. The opening verse runs:

"Bryan O'Lyinn had no breeches to wear
So he bought a sheep-skin to make him a pair,
With the woolly side out, and the skinny side in,
Faix, 'tis pleasant and cool, says Bryan O'Lyinn."

The swing of the tune took the fancy of the Germans in their trench- es, less than fifty yards away. With a "rumty-tum-tumty-tumty-tumty-tum," they loudly hummed the air at the end of each verse, until the Lein- sters, singing at the top of their voices, gave the words as topical applica- tion:

"With woolly side out and the skinny side in,
"Sure, we'll wallop the Gerrys, says Bryan O'Lyinn."

Hearty bursts of laughter and cheers arose from both trenches at the conclusion of the song.

THE PARAGON.

The young man annoyed me, though I am of as placid a temper as war- worry and Mr. Bonar Law will let me be. He seemed so absolutely satisfied with himself. His air of swaggering complacency so irritated me that I asked him what he was so jolly pleased about.

He did not stop smiling.

"Listen to my record," said he, "and then tell me if I have not reason to rejoice. In the early days of child- hood, no fewer than nineteen tutors gave me up in despair as being ab- solutely unteachable. From the pub- lic school I went to I was expelled as idle, worthless and incorrigible.

"A splendid start," I commented.

"Wasn't it?" he said, smirking.

"Then," he resumed, "I had a job found for me in my poor uncle's counting-house. Had to leave that be- cause my little mistakes were a good deal more trouble than I was worth, I—of course—went on the stage! but gave up a Thespian career when a North-country audience tried to wreck the theatre after pelting me with half-bricks and disused tomato- cans. Went into newspaper work, and was sacked the first week after nearly steering the paper into a libel ac- tion. With the wreck of my savings opened a fruit-stand and was robbed of stock and stock money the first dark night. Tried sweeping the roads, and the foreman said if I stayed on the job he'd murder me."

"You seem to have been a first-class failure all round," I commented.

"I am!" he said triumphantly.

"Then why so gay?"

"Because," he replied, "I am now fully qualified for a well-paid post in the Government!"—Winning Post.
