Time to Drop Wrangling

At least the city council appears to be seized of the necessity of settling the fire department muddle before adjourning for a vacation. Fill the vacancy first, and then talk about a vacation. Ald. It seems rather absurd that the business of a city like Toronto should be run after the manner of a faction fight

There must be two or three men in the length and breadth of the British dominions who would be capable of filling the position of fire commissioner of Toronto, or fire chief, if that suits the aldermen better. If the board of control finds itself unable to

It is stated by one officer who won his spurs in South Africa that young Canadians seem to want to get commissions before they go to the front. Lieut. Tibbs points out that there are the same attention as the surgeon's plenty of officers but a plentiful lack of men, and he pledges his word that he would rather go into the ranks as a private any time than stay at home. Just what self-respect young men possess who sit at home and allow other men to go to the front and fight and die for them it is hard to say. Some people can get along without self-respect, but these are the people that the rest of the world can get along very well without also.

The man who is waiting for an excuse not to go to his duty in the present war may be quite sure that when the big crisis comes upon him at himself equally unready and he will have to pay the price of his unreadiness. Nature always gets back at us some way. We may shirk for some way. We may shirk for awhile, but later on we meet the inevitable. It is better for inevitable. It is better for us to do the right thing out of our own consciousness and without force, than to be compelled to do it when everyone sees that it is under compulsion that we have to act. If we can judge by other great wars, and the experience of history, the shirkers have always been marked men for the rest of their lives. Little boys will talk about the war in days to come, and tell how their "Daddy went to the battle. But Uncle Joseph didn't go. Mamma says he was a 'fraid-cat'!"
