TORON

INDU

In a few months, the fifth year, having been sold in order to premises.

Let us look at the information:

1st. Are the premises suited to the needs of every woman?

2nd. Are the premises comfortable?

3rd. Could the premises be used for other purposes?

To the first question, the experience of all who have been willing to stay in the house have comfort and nourishing food. To the second, the remuneration for the household duties is regular. To the third, it is with the help of the Matron, who is in their power to resist temptations.

To the second question, the premises are well connected with the city and established.

TWENTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE
TORONTO MAGDALENE ASYLUM, OR INDUSTRIAL HOUSE OF REFUGE.

In a few months, this Institution will have completed its twenty-fifth year, having been established in 1852—a quarter of a century ago—and was carried on for about seven years in a small two-story house in Richmond Street. Afterwards, it was removed to the old building on Yonge Street, Yorkville, which was recently sold in order to assist in building the present commodious premises.

Let us look back over all these years, and answer faithfully, for the information of our friends and the public, the following questions:—

1st. Are the rules and regulations of the Institution such as are suited to the purpose for which it was established, viz.: To give to every woman who wishes to reform a chance of doing so?

2nd. Are the results such as should justify us in carrying it on?

3rd. Could these results not be greatly increased, and by what means other than those at present employed?

To the first of these, we answer in the affirmative. The experience of all these years is decidedly in their favour. We never reject any, however low or degraded, who ask admittance, and are willing to stay the prescribed time and submit to the rules. They have comfortable work-rooms and dormitories, have plain but nourishing food supplied to them, and are kept busily employed on remunerative work, such as washing, sewing, &c., as well as the household duties, and are encouraged to fit themselves for the places of service to which they will be sent at the end of their term, while religious instruction on week, as well as Sabbath days, is regularly afforded them. And when they leave the Home, it is with the knowledge and feeling, that the Managers, as well as the Matron, have a deep interest in their welfare, and will do all in their power to cheer and help them through the trials and temptations which are almost sure to assail them.

To the second question: Those ladies who have been longest connected with its management—and some have been since it was established—can point, in answer, to many, very many, who, having served their term and gone to situations, are, and have been for many years, leading respectable and useful lives—some in comfortable homes of their own, others in service, while others again have passed from this earth, after having given evidence of a real and abiding change of heart. And some, too, there are, who have remained in the Home for a period of years, acting as the faithful assistants of the Matron, and having an influence for good on the others. We have somewhat, too, to urge as to the good results, even on those of whom we cannot say, “they are reformed,” that is, we cannot depend on them for any length of time after leaving the Home. Of these, some continue three, four, or six months to give every satisfaction to their employers, and then—fall. But that they are willing to return again and again to the Home, spending at least twelve months each time, is surely a result of the beneficial effect of the management; for no one, we think, will dispute but that it is far better they should be encouraged to try, even many times, in hopes of finally overcoming their besetting sin. Yes, we do say, most decidedly: The results have been such as to justify us in carrying it on.

And now we come to our third question: Could these results not be increased, and by what means? To do this the suggestion is made to us to classify—keep separate the old in sin from the young who have apparently only entered on the downward path. But it is a most difficult matter to discriminate, for the young who come to us have in many cases been born in and lived surrounded by evil of every kind, while many of the older ones have taken to these evil courses late in life, and thus it is almost impossible to see any difference between them in the knowledge of sin except in the length of time it has been indulged in. Then, the young are more confident in their power to resist temptation, and are therefore often more difficult to manage. Then, too, there is this to urge against a “complete system of classification”:

It seldom helps in the reformation of any one, in any rank of life, to be told, in act, if not in words, “that she is not fit to associate with the others,” and in the class we have to deal with it is positively injurious, and only tends to inflame their minds and make them more hardened. A woman such as comes to the Home seeking admission, has to make up her mind to leave her companions, give up all stimulants, work hard for those taking charge of her, and deprive herself of all freedom for twelve months! Think how much courage that requires, and think also of the craving after those indulgences that must possess her during at least the first three months! If, added to that, we insisted on her leading a life of comparative isolation for a certain period would it not be impossible to retain her in the Home? Recollect they are voluntary prisoners, we cannot keep them one day against their wills. Our experience, on the contrary, has taught us that being at once admitted to the various work-rooms and dormitories with the other inmates—many of whom are contented and happy—and with those who have lived there for years, from choice—has a powerful effect in strengthening their good resolutions and helping them over the first months. We think the only means of increasing the good results is by more earnest believing prayer and faithful teaching. Our loving Saviour has promised to bless all those who trust in Him. He has, we are deeply thankful to say, blessed our feeble efforts in the past; He will bless those in the future. Let us only be more earnest in working, while at the same time we exercise a stronger belief in His willingness to save—and be more self-denying.

The number of inmates in the Home 1st January, 1876, was 21—admitted since, 62. Of these 20 were sent to service—3 were sent to friends—15 left of their own accord—1 died—4 sent to Lying-in-Hospital—4 to General Hospital, leaving 36 in the Home, 1st January, 1877.

Of those sent to service, a larger proportion than usual have been, and are doing well. Of those sent to friends, one was the eldest in a most respectable family in Scotland, and letters from her father have been received, full of gratitude for restoring to him “his first born,” who had been “lost but now found.” She who died had been many years in the Home, but had also been out at service three different times, always giving satisfaction, and only returning on account of ill health. After much and prolonged suffering, she passed away “in the sure and certain hope of a blessed resurrection.” Those sent to Lying-in-Hospital are doing well in service. Good news continues to come to us from one and another in different parts of the country, as well as from the city; while little presents, such as a braided pincushion, from one in Sarnia, two pretty groups of flowers with glass shades, from another—and one came all the way from Scotland—testify to the kind feeling and gratitude felt towards the Matron. And a subscription of four dollars to the Home from another is but the same feeling expressed in a different form.

The amount earned by the inmates this year is $1,109.11.

We can but reiterate what we have said in many former reports, that the Matron, Mrs. Aiken, continues to give us entire satisfaction, her influence for good over the inmates increasing as year succeeds year.

We tender our grateful thanks to those gentlemen who so kindly and earnestly attend to the religious instruction of the inmates, and also to our worthy medical attendant, Dr. Geikie.

Our debt on the new premises is now only $1,500, and an old and valued friend to the Home, Mr. Alcorn most generously lent us that sum, in order to pay off the mortgage, which bore a very heavy interest, and accepted a simple promise to pay the principal whenever we can, in the meantime only charging us 6 per cent. Many thanks to him, and to all our valued friends, whom we shall not fail to visit during the present year.

Faint, illegible table with columns of text and numbers, possibly a ledger or financial record.
