UNDRESSED AND TRIED TO SLEEP ON STREET

A Teamster Made a Sensation Last Evening

Another Man Would Sit up all Night to See U. S. Consul—Hungry Family Tell of Drunken Father.

As a general rule Saturday morning's police sheet does not show the names of many prisoners, but this morning there were crowded on the prisoners bench 15 men, mostly all charged with being drunk.

One of the drunks, a teamster, amused about 50 young men, and afterwards shocked a large number of the residents on Waterloo street.

Charles Broadfoot charged with being drunk on Main street, pleaded not guilty. Policeman Perry said the defendant was drunk and refused to go off the street as he said he was going to wait until morning to see the American consul.

George Brown, charged with drunkenness, said that he was arrested in his own yard. He had been drinking and his wife refused to let him in his house and then gave him in charge of the police.

Antonio Cleorecco, an Italian without any idea of the English language, was charged by I. C. R. Pollock Smith for being and lurking about the I. C. R. yard. He had a ticket for Bangor but not enough money to be passed by the United States immigration officials.

Northumberland—John Morrissey, D. Morrison, J. L. Stewart and George Fisher. Others mentioned, Councillor McLaughlin, Mr. Benson, of the Commercial, and Messrs. Galloway and Peix Michael.

St. John City—John E. Wilson, G. V. McInerney and Robert Maxwell. The opposition are not without hopes of getting Mr. W. H. Thorne of Mr. W. S. Fisher for their fourth candidate and other names mentioned include Mr. W. F. Hatheway, Alderman Baxter and ex-Alderman Macrae.

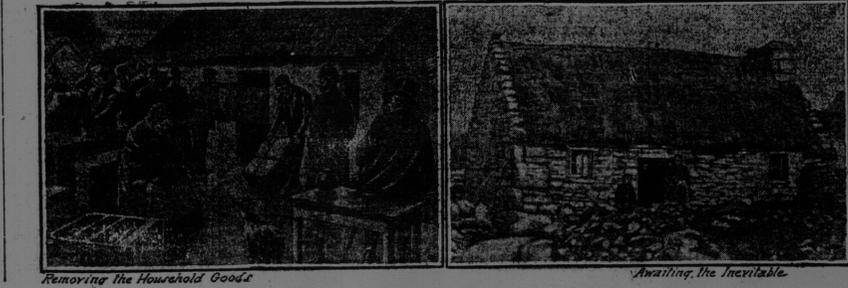

Westmorland—F. B. Black, P. G. Mahoney, Lionel Hanington and Dr. Bourque, others mentioned being J. P. Sherry, F. W. Sumner, O. M. Moloney, Editor Robideaux and A. W. Hewson.

Onlooker has omitted a few. The St. John manager of the directory is H. M. McAlpine, 18 Horsfield street, and upon application to him the Freeman can secure the names of the remaining residents in the province.

WANT PAY FOR THE TIME THE TIDE STOPS WORK

This action it was said would take place as a result of the inroads which the non-tariff companies are making into the business. The underwriters, however, say that they intend to keep to the agreement which they have made in the matter.

LOTS OF NEWS THIS WEEK FROM VICTORIA COUNTY.

(Victoria County News.)
A scandalous transaction took place Wednesday night of last week at the Boundary Line when a mercenary by the name of Pelkey maliciously injured two mares belonging to W. W. Boyer. The Hoaster on entering the stable in the morning found one of the mares suffering great agony and had lost a large amount of blood and it is doubtful if it will recover, after attending to it some he went further into the stable and found the other in almost as bad a condition, some slight suspicion pointed to this Pelkey and Constable G. M. McCrea being notified, succeeding in arresting him when he acknowledged committing the felonious act, he was brought before Justice McCue on Friday who sent him up for trial under the speedy trial act, and the case will be heard before Judge Carleton tomorrow, Friday.
Our school closes this week for the holidays, our present teacher will not return.
Philip Britt of South Tilley was putting up a Frost wire fence for J. A. McCrete this week and then says to Piaster Rock where he will put one up for Thos. Daley.
Monday's storm was very severe all along the river and some damage was done at different places a barn was blown down at Everett, the river rose very rapidly from the immense quantity of rain that fell. Road work is commencing. Supt. Hayden started work on the Riley Brook section this week with Roy Ross in charge of the Road Machine.
As some of the writers in the News have been asking where is the Kicker, I will rise to remark that he is still right side up with care in better shape than ever to do a stroke of kicking. Crops our way are looking fairly well, every farmer has more spuds in than ever before and from my rambles around the country it is so with every corn husker, and on the spud line there is as we see it a chance to go (belly up) that may sound like accey boy but if spuds don't sell, if they sell at all, this fall they will go cheap as so many farmers had no means any arrangement for holding or storing the same.
Will Brayall posted through here last week buying lambs and paying the highest prices that has been paid in N. B. for years. We have sold to Brayall for years and found him O. K. Willie Pearson and wife of Westfield spent Sunday with his father and mother at the old home, Bro. Crab, our new neighbor who bought the McCrea farm, is visiting folks in Nova Scotia. The Kennedy Bros. have bought the B. A. Flewelling farm. Willie Pearson paid a visit to his old home, we are always glad to see Billie. We called on our new neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Fox who are living on the Henry Darkis farm, we found them just such people that one likes to meet. Uncle Bob Deak is doing his own farming this year and is hauling sand for his cellar that he intends to put under his house. Geo. Field is spending the summer in Limestone. John Bartley was visiting friends in Houlton and other places last week. Harry Buckham is working in the E. A. Flewelling mill. Many from this place and Easton attended the trial at Andover last week where, as we learn, one Peter had been dealing in water oh, no, but that what is called whiskey. Now Peter why not like your name sake of Bible days stick to water, why poor Peter just walked on water.
Monday's thunder storm was one of the heaviest that has visited the county for some time while not excessive just here in Perth in the surrounding County it was very severe and accounts of damage in many cases to buildings and the gutting out of the roads are heard of from all directions. A heavy land slide from one of the embankments a short distance above Limestone sliding delayed Tuesday's trains so that the down express did not arrive here till after 6 P. M.

Through the Scotch Colony it was very severe, Jas. Winter lost 11 sheep by the lightning leaving only 4 out of the flock of 15 which got under a tree from the storm.
The heavy thunder storm of Monday night done considerable little damage about here, Councillor Jas. Jenkin's telephone was burnt out and some little damage done to his building, Percy Everett's telephone was also burnt out and his building some damaged. Mr. Allen, head Game Warden, who was on his way to the Forts had to take refuge at J. Wisn, Johnson's for the night as also John W. Howard and wife of Grand Falls who had been attending the funeral of her brother Jas. Stevenson at Riley Brook who died on Friday of last week.
Geo. Orpin has almost completed a fine fishing camp for A. E. Robertson of North Devon, England, on land close to the river which he sold him situated about 2 miles below the Ogilvy Gulgou Camps.
One of our older residents who met with a rude rebuff at Ortonville some time ago made another visit there the other day and this time got a good doubling.
H. Murphy was arrested here collecting for Geo. Griffiths who left here last season. Inspector McCrea was also around informing parties to stop the sale of Pelester Beer which caused some very funny remarks.
A Fine of Perth was through this place last week on a peddling tour. A number of Arrostook people went up river today on a fishing trip.

THAT MORAL WAIVE.
(Montreal Herald.)
The present hopes of the Conservative party, such as they are, appear to be in the line of being swept into power on the crest of a huge wave of moral indignation. The indignation is evidently to be on all the three separate lines of "wine, women and graft." Not to mention, however, that the evidences of the gathering of such a wave are discouragingly inadequate, there is something peculiarly ludicrous in the idea of Mr. Fowler, Mr. Foster, Mr. Pope and the rest floating in on its crest.
BEHIND THE SCENES.

IS FOR FILIPINO SELF-GOVERNMENT

Mr. Bryan Thinks They Should Now Be Treated the Same as the Cubans Have Been

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 25.—Early independence for the Philippines in order that they may develop the capability for self-government, which he holds they cannot do under American rule, is the policy which William J. Bryan would adopt for the Philippines. He is in favor of applying to the Philippines the policy the United States followed in putting Cuba on its feet as an independent state.

Mr. Bryan expresses his views on Imperialism in the July number of the Reader Magazine, in which he is writing a political joint debate with Senator Beveridge of Indiana. Advance sheets of the most recent installment have just reached here. Senator Beveridge finds that the present policy with regard to the Philippines has been full of benefits to them and to the United States. The day of their self-government is so far distant, in his opinion, that he dismisses it without discussion.

Mr. Bryan points out that although the United States for eight years has been administering a colonial system, yet no party has ventured a platform declaring in favor of a colonial policy. The pledges of congress at the outbreak of the war that the United States did not wish to extend its territory have, he declared, been only half kept, for they applied in spirit to the Philippines as well as Cuba.

Two intermediate courses, he says, are open to the United States. One is to tax Americans for the development of the islands, conscientiously governing the Philippines with an eye single to their welfare. This policy, Mr. Bryan believes, is the plan of those who believe it.

ITALY IS SUFFERING FROM INCREASED COST OF LIVING

Struggle for the Throne in the Little Duchy of Luxembourg Greece is Taking Steps to Put a Damper on Emigration.

ROME, June 28.—Your correspondent is informed that one of the smallest of the European states, the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, is on the eve of some political trouble of great local import, and inasmuch as the question is of dynastic character it may in no far distant period involve the Grand Duchy in international complications. According to all accounts as received here, the situation is as follows: The present Grand Duke, Wilhelm Alexander, is without male offspring and it is not believed that he will ever be the father of a son as the state of his health is very precarious. Being thus very weak he is greatly under the influence of Grand Duchess Marie Anne, a Princess of Braganza who is a staunch Catholic. The Grand Duchess has caused a bill to be introduced into the Chamber of Deputies providing for the succession to the throne, according to which the Grand Duke's eldest daughter, the Princess Marie, who is now thirteen years of age, should the Grand Duke die as is probable before the Princess is of age, the Regency shall be exercised by the Grand Duchess. The objection to this course comes from the Liberal and the Socialist members of the Luxembourg Parliament, who claim to view with dissatisfaction the accession of a daughter to the throne, and a distant relative of the Luxembourg family alleges that he has distinct claims to the throne and his contention is supported by many Luxembourg people. The matter is now at a standstill, but in the event of the death of the Grand Duke, an open competition would arise between the Grand Duchess supported by the Conservatives and the Liberal and Socialist. In the event of such competition proving an unsolvable problem the Grand Duke's will, if he had one, would be opened to foreign intervention. That is why the matter is being watched with the keenest interest in all of the Chancelleries of Europe.

held by some of the officials that they are really to blame for the Italian sailing in droves and that in the main their motive is not only misleading but absolutely dishonest. And according to all accounts the situation is equally bad if not worse in Greece. There the emigration fever is said to be assuming serious proportions. The Greek Government has issued a law which tends to limit it in some respects. All citizens who have not served in the Army or the Navy are debarred from leaving the country. When it is borne in mind that the total population of Greece scarcely exceeds 2,000,000, the effect of an annual loss of 100,000 emigrants is not to be wondered at. SECRET SOCIETIES ARE STEADILY WORKING UP A REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT IN CHINA

Influence of Japan is Also Making Itself Felt—Conditions Now, While Not Serious, Are Such as are Worthy of Careful Consideration.

BEIJING, June 28.—Canadians will be interested in learning that the situation in China today is one that calls for watchfulness but not for acute alarm. The key to the situation in the Orient commercially, and from a military point of view is Japan and not China. If Japan should once conclude to teach the Chinese all the tricks of modern civilization and then inaugurate a war of the yellow races against the white, the most serious struggle in the history of the world might be precipitated. The ferment caused by the reform movement here in China, the revolutionary ideas covertly fostered by the great army of fourteen thousand youths studying last year in Japan, and the changing economic conditions brought about by direct introduction of the methods of western civilization are all making themselves felt. A few more victories gained by the rebels such as they have already gained in several places against the Imperial troops will enormously increase their numbers. The Revolutionary Army, their natural ally, has arms, money and organization. If the anti-dynastic revolutionists and the peasant rebels work together, the situation will undoubtedly take on a more sinister aspect.

The rebellion in the southern provinces which has been attracting so much attention is really only one of several symptoms of grave disturbances that have made their appearance in the Empire on the third day of the month. The Golden Pill Society, of which the Boxer movement has been busy since last autumn. To the south of Kwangsi where most of the present trouble now is, the Big Leg Society (Ta-Tai-hui) began open demonstrations last November. Its leaders naturally affected the price of food in the south. In addition heavy floods last year swept away a considerable portion of the rice crops and with this has been a drought recently which made the transit of food supplies along the waterways slow and costly. In consequence of a combination of circumstances therefore the peasantry of the two Kwangs have felt the pinch of hunger. They are a turbulent and somewhat passionate people, men from whom the river pirates of the south place Mr. Morgan had done much toward rescuing ecclesiastical artistic objects from the hands of iconoclasts who would have let them perish. Besides, two years ago, when the Pope was in financial difficulties, he was relieved by a check for a large sum from Mr. Morgan.

are recruited and from whose country rebellion after rebellion has started in the past. They are not of the kind that endure wars. The Chinese Government is paternal and if the people lack food the authorities are expected to provide it for them. Early this year in order to remind the Imperial authorities of their duty the people of several districts rose in revolt. These uprisings were not purely local disturbances. It was noted that before the men of one town took up arms others from many parts around came to them. At Tungchow several thousand people marched through the streets, burst open the stores, looted all food supplies and swept the soldiers on one side. In the country district to the lack of Swatow numbers of officials were assassinated and their yamens burnt. The mob had few weapons but they were badly opposed by the ill-armed and poorly disciplined soldiers of the old type. Had there been a few remnants of modern-trained Chinese soldiers such as are to be found in Chih-li the uprising might have been nipped in the bud at the commencement. As it was the Imperial soldiers were defeated several times and the rebels gained courage. It gradually became apparent that the men in various districts were working together. To add to the trouble large numbers of pirates and brigands made their appearance. The crooks and rascals of the south are notoriously unsafe, but during the past three or four months they have simply been haunted by unnumbered marauders. Brigands organized after the manner of the Hightowers of the north have spread their activities throughout the province. Merchants who could have imported stores of rice have been prevented from doing so because of the danger of robbery. As all the world is affected the price of food in the north has risen. For the moment the greater part of the rebels are landless, badly armed and untrained peasants. How long will they remain so? It is well known that for some months past the titles of weapons have been smuggled into Canton. There have been seizures by the Imperial maritime customs of considerable quantities of rifles, bayonets and ammunition. For one contingent of rifles has been sent to the north. What has become of these? If the die-hard revolutionists are to be successful in their march on Peking, the situation will become more serious. The leader of the peasant rising is a Japanese trained student. The army and navy officers here and the whole community bear him an enthusiastic farewell. A salute of seventy-six guns was fired by the forts.

DISEASE MAY BE CARRIED BY STREET CAR TICKETS

Lots of Money in the Theatrical Business—A Russian Fair Captured in Paris—The Dyeing of Hair a Scientific Profession—Railroad Company Had to Pay.

PARIS, June 28.—Ten tramway tickets delivered by five different conductors and thereupon immediately enclosed in sterilized paper envelopes to preserve them from further contamination have been carefully analyzed by Dr. Baugnot of Bordeaux with ghastly results. Each one yielded a separate cultivation of microbes. Among these were staphylococci, pneumococci, Loeffler's pseudobacilli and others with even worse names. The ten tramway tickets were severely admonished to wear white mice. Eight of these died very rapidly and the remaining two are dying. Five white mice drank of the potions and all expired. Dr. Baugnot's conclusion is that four out of five tramway tickets may transmit dangerous diseases. Theatre managers grumble chronically here as elsewhere, but they seem to make money all the same. The returns for Paris just published give their total receipts last year as more than $3,000,000, the largest figure on record. In 1906, the year of the last exhibition, which exceeded $10,000,000. A decade ago Paris theatre takings barely reached $5,000,000. Prince Sergius Urussov or a man thus styling himself, has just been sentenced for defrauding two years' imprisonment on a sumptuous scale. Sergius Urussov gave himself out as a Russian prince and owing about $40,000 a year. His wife, the Princess, was described as a daughter of the Emperor of Russia who had escaped from some harem in her own country. "descentances, no doubt," remarked the judge, showing that he had read Loti's latest novel. The Princess made no secret of the fact of the fiction that she had $50,000 a year in a princely mansion but do not appear to have ever furnished it. Counsel for the plaintiffs, wine merchants, said that the mansion remained here except for a small fountain calculated to impress visitors. Once a process-server who refused to be unduly impressed forced his way beyond the ante-chamber and found nothing except empty rooms behind. Yet the Prince had bought enough furniture to fill the place twice over. The explanation seems to be that he had sold it again immediately, and it appears never to have paid for it. The transaction was a lucrative one for done Lord Curzon arose, removed his cap and addressed to each a few words of Latin.

A PRINGELY TITLE FOR J. P. MORGAN?

He Has Only to Become a Roman Catholic to Receive an Honor Conferred Only on Sovereigns.

ROME, June 28.—The recent rumor that J. P. Morgan intends to leave the Episcopal church and become a Roman Catholic has much of a foundation. The Pope wished to give him some conspicuous token of recognition and appreciation, and the Vatican authorities had sounded Mr. Morgan's personal friends as to whether he would accept the title of prince of the Holy Roman empire. It is said that Mr. Morgan signified his willingness to accept the title which in past ages has been conferred only on sovereigns, and is now held by the Emperor of Austria and the Emperor of Germany. It was, however, observed that the title of prince of the Holy Roman empire cannot be conferred on private persons unless they are Catholics, and an invitation to this was conveyed to Mr. Morgan's friends. American prelates who have recently been in Rome have informed the Pope that since the resignation of Dr. Rainford from the rectorship of St. George's church in New York, Mr. Morgan has not been active in his work in this church as formerly. In view of this there is hope at the Vatican that Mr. Morgan may in time become a Roman Catholic, in which event one of the greatest honors the church can confer will be given to him, his rank being equal in dignity to a cardinal.

place Mr. Morgan had done much toward rescuing ecclesiastical artistic objects from the hands of iconoclasts who would have let them perish. Besides, two years ago, when the Pope was in financial difficulties, he was relieved by a check for a large sum from Mr. Morgan. Some, whose judgment in the matter is of value, think that if Mr. Morgan should not become a Catholic the Holy See will honor him by conferring a decoration which will not necessarily require his conversion to the church. The Duke of Loubar, of New York, on receiving his title, made a present to the Vatican authorities under the late Pope amounting to $100,000, and Marquis Maloney, of New Jersey, who is now in Rome, gave as much to the Vatican when he was made nobleman, and much more subsequently when Cardinal Satoli went over to perform the marriage ceremony for the Marquis' daughter. ST. PETERSBURG, June 28.—An imperial ukase issued last night directs Mr. Kokovoff, the finance minister, to increase $25,000,000 in four per cent. rents for purposes set forth in the budget, including famine relief. "Betsy, let's run out into the Hudson and see Peary's ship!"
Betsy Cobb jumped at her brother's words and gazed with sudden interest on the window.

"Well," she said reluctantly, "I'll be there in a few minutes."
"Ten days, I've been here three." His face lit up.

"I haven't time for foolishness," the doctor stated briefly, and Nurse Isabelle, coming up, heard him.

"The doctor's hand was wet, his face was red and his shirt was open at the neck, showing the cords of his strong neck. He lifted the little steaming body in his arms and held the boy while Nurse Isabelle enveloped him in a heated blanket."

THE ST. JOHN STAR

FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER

SUITS FOR COUNTRY OR SEASHORE WEAR

HERE was a time not so many years ago when anything was considered good enough for everyday wear. Nowadays, however, the sensible woman who has the knack of always dressing well pays far more attention to her everyday suits than to any other gown in her wardrobe. The reasons for this are obvious, as the average woman has far more use for the walking-length skirt and jacket than she has for elaborate gowns, especially if she is going away to the seashore or country. It is such a satisfaction, too, to always feel well gowned, whether the days are sunshiny or gloomy, or even if the rain pours.

Two smart little suits are shown today, which are so easy to build that the home dressmaker will find no difficulty in copying them. The first one is in oyster shell white rough tussor or pongee, the skirt of which is frankly short and in the popular nine-gored circular model, finished with a deep hem. A cape coat with an under founce, and with the long drooping shoulder lines, is worn with this jaunty costume. White tussor-covered buttons with white silk cord loops are used for trimming. The collar is a lingerie affair, and the soft tie in front is of deep rose silk. A large white chip hat has a deep pink and white scarf draped around it, with one huge pink rose in front to match the pink in the scarf and the parasol, both of which give the touch of color needed to liven the white.

Soft white flannel or a linen not too heavy in weight would be equally smart. In this case a touch of red on the hat and a red parasol should be added to a most effective costume.

If linen is the choice for such a suit, another combination that is desirable is of dull blue braided and embroidered in white. The loose little cape with its jaunty lines may be supplemented by a braided skirt, as is the case in most of the French models of this class.

The bold Breton embroideries in red and blue are also much used in Paris for the trimming of string color and white linens, and some of the prettiest French models have English open-work embroidery in color on white or string color. Such embroidery in brown upon natural toned linen is considered very smart. Dull Copenhagen blue on string color is also most effective.

The second model shown is a smart brown-and-white striped flannel. It, too, may be developed in linen if lighter weight material is desired. Two bias panels are used in the front of the circular skirt, which is also trimmed with two bias folds around the bottom.

The cut of the coat is simplicity itself, but it is exceedingly chic with its left side lapels decorated with smoked pearl buttons. The kimono sleeve is simply slashed half way to the shoulder and rounded toward the elbow.

A brown turnover linen collar, embroidered simply, is worn on the coat. A deep russet brown hat, trimmed with bows of black ribbon, gives the French touch to the costume. A cravat of black is also worn, while, as a useful and finishing touch, one of the bronze silk umbrellas parasols with black satin stripes is carried as a protection against both rain and sun.

Buttons covered with flannel, pongee or linen embroidered with dots, stars or circles of a contrasting color, are quite the rage, and they are easily achieved details which give individuality and distinction to a simple frock.

Another craze is to make an open work trimming by putting two narrow bands of the linen two and one-half or three inches apart, and joining them by little linen straps, alternating with open spaces of the same width of the straps.

Fancies of the Moment

FININGS for the sheer cotton gowns are preferably of lawn made into a slip skirt, which may or may not be elaborately trimmed, but must be cut on the same lines as the outside skirt.

The Parisienne still clings to the silk lining for the lingerie gown, and most of the imported models are made up over a white or colored silk foundation. The softer silks, particularly those of satin finish, are chosen rather than taffeta, as they lend themselves better to the clinging effects of the season.

For the serviceable gown, however, taffeta is still the favorite lining. It gives a better "set" to a frock, and if a good quality is bought, lasts a surprisingly long time.

Linen is more popular than ever, both in the sheer and heavy qualities. Nothing makes a more satisfactory costume for business than one of the new canvas weaves of linen in one of the many serviceable shades of brown, dull blue and gray now so much worn. These are, as a rule, made in strictly tailored fashion, with half-fitting or tight, half-length or short coats.

The more elaborate linen suits are in bolero or Eton styles. Many of them show the Oriental tendency, and all are more or less trimmed. Soutache braiding and hand embroidery combined is much seen on them, or the embroidery alone.

White, or ecru, linens frequently show the color note in their trimmings. This is often given by hand-embroidered dots. Sometimes the cuffs, collars and revers are in a colored linen. Thus one stylish string-colored linen had collar, waistcoat and cuffs of rose pink, set in inch bands of the string color and outlined by a narrow line of black soutache braid.

Pattern robes of white linen, with tassels, fringes, long loops and elaborately braided designs of white and brown, or white and pink, blue or green soutache.

Dainty little silk coats are much worn with sheer fabrics, such as voile or marquisette, and most attractive models are shown. Some of them show loose drapery falling from a long shoulder line in loose folds, others have square, bib-like trimming falling loosely over a girde, and still others show modifications of the postilion back.

Little black lace coats in loose hip-length models, flaring into ripples at the bottom and with wide kimono sleeves, are bordered with accordion-pleated frills of pinked chiffon taffeta. Such coats are very effective when worn over lingerie gowns either colored or white. Taffeta coats in light plain colors, braided in soutache, are also much used to slip on over summer dresses.

The three-quarter length wraps of heavy black hand-made laces are exceedingly handsome. Many of them are made up over gray instead of white chiffon, which gives a less glaring effect. They are very loose and full, fitting smoothly on the shoulders and falling in deep ripples, sometimes straight from the shoulder seam, again from a shallow yoke. One particularly handsome coat of black d'Alencon lace had huge accordion-pleated bell sleeves falling well below the hips. It was made up over white liberty satin, shrouded in pearl-gray chiffon. The front had choux of black and white chiffon at wide intervals to conceal the fastenings.

A curious new fan is made of a real bird, parrot or any other kind, the feathers stuck on the skin itself. When this fan is closed, the bird looks as if it were asleep. A specially pretty one was made of a green cockatoo.

Tassels, fringes, long loops and ends of velvet finished with tassels, and other dangling trimmings on fancy coats and blouses which have been seen all through the early spring were only an introduction, as it were, to the scarf idea, which is now pronounced in many of the late models.

On evening gowns of mousseline or chiffon are draped broad scarfs made of the material, inset with lace insertion and finished at the ends with deep, knotted fringe. These scarfs are sometimes pleated at the shoulders, fall low over the arms, and are either knotted or caught at the bust line, hanging loosely from there on each side of the front. Again, they are brought smoothly over the shoulders in shawl effect and are confined by the girde. A favorite tennis hat with young

Parisiennes is on the Panama order, but in rice straw. The only trimming is an Oriental scarf tied in a bow around the crown, the long ends being fringed. Black, gray and brown are the colors most seen in the dresses of the smartest women, while the mustard or ochre tint is next favored. The tailors encroach more and more on the dressmakers, giving us ornate creations of cloth, tussor, linen, and even of muslin.

FRENCH DIPLOMAT HAS TO LEAVE BERLIN

Delayed to His Government Secrets Imparted in Confidence by the Kaiser.

BERLIN, June 28.—M. Lecomte, the first secretary of the French embassy in Berlin, has been recalled with dramatic suddenness. He left Berlin this morning.

This is the latest development in the Round Table scandal, which has already led to the downfall of Prince Philip Eulenburg and other high officers of state.

The signaller, of which the prince was the head, is stated to have plotted to obtain undue influence over the Kaiser, and to bring about the dismissal of Prince Eulenburg. His machinations were disclosed by the crown prince to the Kaiser, who dealt with the situation with his customary swift decision.

ADMITTED TO MEMBERSHIP. Prince Eulenburg admitted M. Lecomte to membership of the Round Table, by which means the first secretary was brought into close personal contact with the Emperor and associated on free and easy terms with

AN EGYPTIAN NATIONALIST.

In an obscure street in Cairo, friendless and broken in his old age, lives Arabi Pasha, the man who controlled Egypt a quarter of a century ago.

He was the Egyptian Minister of War and represented the national party opposed to the "dual control" by England and France. He was crushed by the English under Lord Wolsey at Tebe-Kebir near Cairo, and was long a prisoner on the Island of Cydon. Four years ago he was permitted to return to Cairo. He is described as a man of great size though his seventeenth year. His hair and beard are snow white. He has kindly eyes gilded somewhat by age, but lighting up wonderfully when he talks about things that interest him. His nose is straight and powerful. A large mouth, once hard and cruel upon occasion, has been much softened by adversity. He must look with a degree of grim interest upon the present national movement which represents the ambitions of those who wish to see a termination of British control of Egyptian affairs.

THE PIGEONS LONDON EATS.

A description of the manner in which pigeons are brought over from Italy to the London market is unpleasant reading, especially for those who are in the habit of eating birds. During the journey, which occupies nearly three days, the pigeons are closely packed in crates and only one fed. The feeding takes place when they reach Paris. By that time a number are dead. These are removed, and the survivors are fed, the birds being too young to feed themselves, by men taking soft food into the mouth, opening the beak and blowing it into the gullet. A day or so later pigeons, which are imported at the rate of 5,000 and 10,000 a week, are served up as dainty dishes for our consumption. After this I imagine that many people will cease to eat pigeons in any form unless assured that the birds do not come from Italy—London Times.

GOOD ADVICE TO FOLLOW.

Somebody gives the following anti-theft advice: "Drink less, breathe more; eat less, chew more; tie less, work more; clothe less, bathe more; walk more, work more; waste less, give more; write less, read more; preach less, practice more."

A COURAGEOUS GUEST.

Guest (to wife of the Inn-keeper)—Good heavens, woman, what kind of pork do you call this? Are you not ashamed to set such a dish before a human being?

Inn-keeper (in an undertone)—That is right! Give it to her well! I did not like it either.—Translated for Transatlantic Tales from Fliegende Blätter.

KING ALFONSO SEEMS TO BE GREATLY PLEASED WITH HIS NEW HEIR

MADRID, June 18.—This is the first photograph taken of King Alfonso, since the birth of his son and heir. The young king attended a christening ceremony in the uniform of a general of cavalry. He was deeply moved by the hearty reception of his subjects, and "never lost his perpetual smile." One gracious act made a great impression on the public in the galleries. During the procession they were so anxious to get a nearer view of the royal baby that they nearly succeeded in breaking through the files of halberdiers. Seeing this King Alfonso gave a hurried order that the people should be allowed to have their own way, as they were anxious to demonstrate their affection. Accordingly, the royal procession was soon passing through a narrow human avenue, and everybody expressed thanks to His Majesty, who by this democratic act did more than any amount of etiquette to win his people's regard.

LONDON PURITY PEOPLE AGAINST LIVING STATUARY

Big Deputation Protests Against the Nude in Art—The Patents and Designs Bill to be Amended—Many Sports in British Cabinet.

LONDON, June 28.—A "social purity" deputation headed by the Bishop of London has just made a stirring address before the House of Commons in connection with the proposed amendment of the Patents and Designs Bill.

The deputation was composed of representatives of various societies looking after public morality brought up the rear. Several ladies were in attendance but they did not express their views.

Mr. H. J. Greenwood, the chairman of the deputation, received the attention of the House of Commons. He declared that "living statuary" of the nude in art is diabolical and pagan and one should have nothing to do with it. But because it is a thing one shrinks from discussing shall I keep silent? No. The question at stake is the question of national morality.

There is no art in stripping of the clothes. Nude art ought to be swept away from the walls of the Academy and it ought to be swept out of the country.

At a recent meeting, Mr. Laurence Hardy presiding, of the House of Commons standing committee to which had been referred the Patents and Designs Bill, the debate was resumed on Mr. Lloyd-George's new clause providing that it should not be lawful in any contract relating to a patented article or invention to impose a condition prohibiting or restricting the purchase or lease from using any other patented article or invention supplied by another patented owner.

The clause which in principle was accepted at the previous sitting is intended to prevent the owners of patented articles insisting that for a period of years no other invention of the same class should be used. It was suggested by the state of affairs in the book trade in which a machine which is absolutely essential will not be supplied by the patentees unless under an agreement insisting that for a period of years no other invention of the same class should be employed to do the same work.

Mr. Lloyd-George moved to amend the clause which provides for a contract for the use of a patented article being terminated on three months notice so that the party to whom the article is liable to pay to the other party such compensation as a falling agreement might be determined by an arbitrator appointed by the Board of Trade.

Various agreements were suggested to this amendment. Sir P. Magnus moving that regard should be had to all of the circumstances and conditions of the original contract.

Mr. Lloyd-George admitted that his amendment was drastic but said it would give enormous relief to the book trade and in his view this was necessary. In this country for the first time he said the people were face to face with the new methods of the American Trusts. He thought it necessary to make it perfectly clear that the people would not stand that in this country.

The agreement was made to conform to the immigration law enacted at the last session of congress.

FATE PLACES MAN IN TERRIBLE DILEMMA

Has to Decide Between Saving His Wife or His Sons From Drowning.

PARIS, June 28.—A pathetic tragedy in which a farmer had to choose between saving the lives of his two little sons or that of his wife, has occurred at Pont, near La Fuy.

M. Kuhue, with his sons aged 4 and 6, was waiting on the bank of the Allier, for his wife, who had gone to a village on the opposite side of the river. When the wife on returning saw her husband and children waiting for her, she started wading across the river instead of making a detour of 500 yards and crossing by a bridge.

The river was only three feet deep at the spot but the current was very strong and suddenly M. Kuhue was horrified to see his wife swept off her feet and carried down the river, but the two little children followed their father's example and they also were swept down the stream.

The agonized father had to choose immediately and he swam for the boys. He brought the two boys to the bank in safety, and then returned for his wife, but she had been carried into a deep pool lower down the river and have been discontinued until the first week in October, when they will be resumed.

The series of sacred concerts in the Every Day Club hall, so successfully conducted for a considerable time past, have been discontinued until the first week in October, when they will be resumed.

REVIEWS THE STORY OF IRELAND'S FRUITLESS FIGHT

A. J. Kettle, Old Time Home Ruler, Tells of the Parnell Campaign, Its Successes and Failures—He Still Hopes for a Satisfactory Outcome.

DUBLIN, June 29.—One of the most interesting statements in connection with the Irish situation is that made by Mr. A. J. Kettle who in a recent interview said: "My only claim for interposing at the present crisis in the affairs of Ireland is based upon my experience. After the Kilmainham Treaty and the Phoenix Park tragedy Mr. Parnell told me that he would have to fall back upon parliamentary lines absolutely. He pressed on Mr. Davitt and on me the importance of our going to parliament. I told him that I had no faith in my power to do any good there, that I had all my life's earnings pledged, and that as the fight was over for the time being I would go to work to redeem them. On looking over my papers he pressed me to get the party to pay them. I thanked him but told him that I had never intended to beg until I must and that I only let him see the documents to give him the real proof of my retirement, but that I would watch the current of the struggle in the belief that he would have to advance to revolutionary lines once again before the end. Well, he said, it may turn out that way. He sent for me to meet Sir George Trevelyan, the chief secretary, about the first Laborers Act. I saw him and learned that about the Tory proposals a few days after he met Lord Carnarvon. I helped him to keep the labor leaders from interfering politically with the Tory policy. Mr. Davitt and I spent a whole day with him at Avondale when he was about to accept Gladstone's proposals to settle the land and the Home Rule questions. I saw him in a terrible state of despondency after his failure with both English parties when he exclaimed, "Well, Kettle, I have forced into the service of Ireland the leading men of both the English parties, and I have failed all along the line, and now the fight has gone back to Davitt's line and yours. Go and make the best of it. He got a very severe attack of illness soon after this and Mr. Davitt went to America to get married, I think.

"Now Mr. William O'Brien who had been very ably covering the retreat after the failure in 1885 in 'United Ireland' declared his intention to start an agitation in Ireland for the Tories to govern Ireland as Gladstone said by Home Rule or coercion. He consulted me about the start but he evidently had his mind made up before the interview. When I learned why he was starting a land agitation on the lines of expediency taking little account of the merits of the question I declined to help him. When he published his 'plan of campaign' I at once took public exception to it. Nevertheless by the great talents of Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon the agitation caught on and spread like wildfire over the country simply because it possessed the red revolutionary element which must be present in every effective Irish movement. But the rent strike by which it was worked was a terrible blunder. Instead of placing a garrison on the campaign estates by buying in the valuable lands and evicting the evicted tenants on those holdings the entire people were cleared out upon the roads and left the landlords little difficulty in utilizing the estate. The plan of campaigning could easily have been made a great success but instead it nearly bankrupted the movement, and many of the leading men were in America trying to raise funds for the unequal conflict when the Parnell crisis arose.

FATAL DUEL WITH CAVALRY SWORES

Two Austrian Officers Fight Until One is Pierced Through the Heart.

VIENNA, June 29.—A terrible duel, with fatal results, was fought in the barracks at Trieste yesterday, between two officers, Reserve Lieutenant Hertl and Lieutenant Wernik. A trumpet dispute, which ended in high words, was the cause, and heavy cavalry swords were chosen as the weapons. After fencing stubbornly for some minutes both combatants neglected their guard to reach out for a decisive blow. Lieutenant Hertl brought his sword down on his opponent's forehead with great force, cutting partly through the skull, while at the same moment Lieutenant Wernik's point pierced Hertl's heart, and he fell dead on the floor.

STEPS THAT LED TO CONFEDERATION

A short resume of the march of the great measure of confederation towards its final consummation will not be without interest. In 1868 Richard J. Uniacke introduced the question of union of the British provinces in North America, before the legislature of Nova Scotia.

On the 14th of June, 1864, Hon. George Brown, as chairman of a select committee of the Canadian Legislature, reported in favor of a federative system applied either to Canada alone or to the whole of the British North American provinces.

On the 10th of October, 1864, delegates from the Provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland met at Quebec, and the resolutions of the Quebec Conference were submitted by Hon. E. P. Tache in Legislative Council, and by Hon. John A. Macdonald, in the House of Assembly.

On the 22nd of May a Royal Proclamation issued at Windsor Castle. On the 1st of July, 1867, the Union was proclaimed throughout the four provinces, which became the Dominion of Canada.

On the 1st of July, 1872, British Columbia was admitted into the union. On the 1st of July, 1873, Prince Edward Island was admitted a province of the Dominion of Canada.

On September 1st, 1867, delegates from the governments of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island met at Charlottetown to discuss maritime union. While discussion was going on, delegates from the Province of Canada asked permission to attend, which was granted, and the larger union was proposed on the 13th of September.

Mrs. F. L. Creighton and two children from Somerville, Mass., arrived yesterday on the Calvin Austin to spend the summer with her sister-in-law, Mrs. C. N. Huggard. They intend leaving tomorrow on Mr. Huggard's new gasolene yacht for Cedar Point where they will remain for the summer months.

Terrence Leger and Peter Maillet employed with A. & R. Locke at Boreham in drifting for mackerel had a thrilling experience on Tuesday morning last. As they were entering the harbor their boat upset. Both men hung on to the boat for some time. Maillet benumbed with the cold was at last washed away and Leger rescued after him. He succeeded in getting Maillet back to the boat. This action had to be repeated three times as Maillet had not strength enough to cling to the boat for any length of time. The men were picked up by fishermen some time after Leger's heroic actions were worthy of great praise.

In the Cathedral this morning Messrs. Michael O'Brien, of Charlville, and Edward Conway, of Hampton, were ordained deacons. These gentlemen were ordained deacons in the cathedral on Thursday. Messrs. O'Brien and Conway have attained distinction in their ecclesiastical studies in the Grand Seminary at Quebec. In that institution three important branches of the higher studies are carried on. There are two classes of dogmatic theology and one of moral. These newly ordained priests succeeded in taking premiums in all three branches. Father O'Brien taking the premium for moral theology and for one dogmatic class. Father Conway winning the premium for the other dogmatic class.

The ordination service was one of great solemnity. In beginning the bishop imposed his hands on the heads of the two young men. All present then raised their hands together while the bishop solemnly recited the consecrating prayer which is as follows: "The priests who are in the second order hold the places of the seventy-two apostles, who were given to Moses to assist him in governing the people; they are the companions and assistants of the Pontiffs, as the children of Aaron assisted their father, and as the Apostles accompanied the Son of God. Therefore, my very dear sons guard in your conduct integrity of a chaste and holy life. Compend what you do, imitate what you touch."

The bishop then anointed the palm of one of the newly ordained with holy oil. While so doing he recited the following prayer: "Deign, Oh Lord, to consecrate and sanctify these hands, so that everything which they will bless may be blessed, and everything which they will consecrate may be consecrated, and sanctified in the name of Our Lord Jesus Christ."

Then he gave them the challenge to touch, containing non-consecrated wine, and the paten with an unconsecrated host upon it, saying at the same time, "The priestly power to offer sacrifice to God, and to celebrate masses for both the living and the dead."

As soon as the last words were uttered the two young men were priests and after having had their hands purified, they began the exercise of their office by celebrating the holy sacrifice. After the communion the bishop again imposed his hands on the priests, saying: "Receive the Holy Ghost, whose sins you shall forgive they are forgiven them, and whose sins you shall retain they are retained." Then the bishop took the both hands of the young priests within his own, saying: "Do you promise me, and my successors, respect and obedience?" To this the priests answered: "I do promise."

This concluded the service of ordination.

Father O'Brien is well known in this city where he was formerly a student in St. Malachi's hall.

PILGRIMAGE TO ST. ANNE WILL START ON TUESDAY

Father Maloney, of St. Peter's, Will Represent the Bishop on This Occasion—A Lot of People Going.

The third annual pilgrimage to the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, near Quebec, will leave this city on Tuesday morning and the bishop will be accompanied by the Sisters of Charity of the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Memramook.

The pilgrimage last year was eminently successful. Two large trains of fourteen cars each were required to carry the great numbers who desired to avail themselves of the privilege of visiting the shrine of St. Anne. The numbers attending are increasing yearly and on Tuesday the depot will be filled with persons taking the trip.

The utmost satisfaction was expressed on every side. A new and beautiful country was seen for the first time by most of the pilgrims while every foot of the grand, old city of Quebec and for many miles around it was full of interest for the visitors.

The Bishop himself presided over the pilgrims who left from this parts last year and will be represented this year by Rev. Father Maloney C. S. S. R. of Saint Peter's church.

A large number of St. John people will attend the pilgrimage.

A DRIVING ACCIDENT AT ROCKWOOD PARK

A serious accident almost occurred in Rockwood Park yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Gardner Perry, of Oldham (Mass.), who is a guest at the Royal, was driving in the park when the horse went over an embankment. Mrs. Perry was thrown to the ground and was badly shaken up, besides being cut about the face. She was accompanied by another lady who escaped injury. W. H. Thorne's delivery team was near at hand, and by the ladies were conveyed to the hotel.

The carriage was somewhat damaged. Fortunately the embankment was not a very steep one, and Mrs. Perry was more frightened than hurt.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT AT CAMP SUSSEX

SUSSEX, June 28.—The red coats made another attack on the merry-go-round tonight. After enjoying free rides the militiamen numbering about 800 jumped on the machine and furthered tonight for not obeying orders, when told to get away from the station platform. A member of the Army Service Corps was imbibing too freely last night and demanded another soldier to pay for his drinks. The Service Corps man is now the owner of a black eye.

The church parade on Sunday promises to be an exceptionally fine one. Over two thousand soldiers will be on parade.

MRS. COLEMAN ANGRY AT CAPT. PERRY'S STATEMENTS

Declares She Has No Spite Against Him—Only Told What She Heard.

Mrs. Mary Coleman, who was cook on the ill-fated steamer Crystal Stream, returned yesterday from Cole's Island where she attended the inquest. Mrs. Coleman when seen by a Star reporter stated that she wished to make several statements to the public.

She referred to Captain Perry's statement that she had lied when she said that she had heard that the vessel would have vengeance on the public.

"I wish you could make the bread my mother used to make," sighed the young husband.

"And I wish you could make the dough my father used to make," retorted the wife with spirit.
