

JURY DISAGREE

Probably Will Be a New Trial in Goodspeed Case. Burglary Charges, However, Will Be Pressed Before New Jury Comers His Guilt as Accessory - Elquent Addresses of Counsel.

(From Tuesday's Daily Sun.)

After nearly five hours' deliberation the jury in the case of the crown against Fred W. Goodspeed, as an accessory after the fact to Doherty's murder, failed to come to an agreement, and were discharged. And now the work on the crown's side is all to do over again, for it is unlikely that the case will be permitted to drop where it is.

The burglary charges will, however, be taken up first, and on Thursday morning Goodspeed will be formally arraigned on the two counts of breaking into and stealing from the stores of D. A. Kennedy and of Phillips & Foley. At the conclusion of these it is probable that a new jury will be empanelled to consider again the question of his guilt as an accessory. Excepting the prolonged deliberation of the jury, the proceedings yesterday occupied less time than had been expected. Mr. Merrill, who has conducted the case for Goodspeed with quiet skill and effectiveness that have won him great praise, occupied less than half an hour in a speech which with eloquence and force touched on the weak points in the crown's case and on all the strong points in favor of the prisoner for whose acquittal he pleaded. Mr. McKewen's able summing up for the crown was most effectively concluded in three-quarters of an hour. The charge of the chief justice consumed only about ten minutes. It was a concise review of the salient points of the evidence, with a clear exposition of the law in the case. It militated rather against the prisoner than otherwise, as it practically admitted that Goodspeed had furnished assistance to Higgins, and left the jury as practically their only chance of acquittal, to find that Goodspeed had through all his actions subsequent to the murder had been possessed with mortal fear of Higgins as not to be a free agent.

MR. MORRILL'S EMPHATICNESS. In presenting to the jury the case for the prisoner Mr. Morrill in introduction commented on the fact that throughout this trial there had been no disposition on the part of any one to conceal anything connected with the case. What the jury had to decide in this issue, was, he said, whether Fred Goodspeed of his own free will, having made up his mind, himself assisted and aided Higgins to escape. In reviewing the evidence he asked the jury to forget all except that which was connected with the prisoner. He spoke of Mr. Doherty's statement that it was Goodspeed who said Willie had gone to Springfield. That had been contradicted and it was only fair to state that during the prisoner's examination Mr. Doherty had placed those words in the mouth of Higgins, speaking of the evidence generally, he pointed out that nearly every single of evidence brought out during the trial had its beginning in Higgins' brale. In this connection he referred in strong terms to Higgins' diabolical attempt to swear away an innocent boy's life. Referring to Higgins' penchant for hypnotism he said it might be well for the jury to consider if there was any stronger power in the brain of Higgins which could or did influence the prisoner's actions after the murder. Speaking of the influence that had acted on these boys he said it would be well if bookkeepers would figure up the profit on five cent novels were commensurate with the harm they did, and even for the newspapers to see if the publication of crimes from all over the world the best material to be placed before the eyes of youth. Continuing, he dwelt on the absolute lack of motive in Goodspeed's case for the murder, in contrast with the motive of Higgins, who was mixed up with Doherty in the Brownville and other burglaries. He told the jury to put Goodspeed's own burglaries in connection with those charges. The robbery committed by a thirteen-year-old boy, the coaxing instigation of an older companion, were not the only things to be considered in connection with the case. He said that the jury should be reminded of the fact that Goodspeed was in mortal terror. As soon as he was delivered from this fear, he opened his heart and made it possible for justice to be done. Don't condemn him, he pleaded, for what he did not do, but rather leave him to come to his own conclusion, free and untrammelled for the future. He asked the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

MR. MCKEWEN. In opening his address for the crown, Mr. McKewen spoke of the rapidity and swiftness with which justice had been done in this crime, committed only five months ago. He dwelt on the essential nature of the sure administration of justice to the safety of the state, and warned against the distortion of justice by pardonable sympathy. He impressed upon the jury the responsibility of their position in relation to the community, whose feelings, thought and intelligence they represented. The question they had to consider in the case was whether the prisoner did as charged, and the court adjourned until 11 a. m. Thursday.

The jury which failed to find a verdict was made up of Foreman Fred G. Bonnell, John P. Maloney, John Condon, Wm. A. Fenallan, Wm. Heathfield, R. E. Patchell, William Court, Frank Fain, Charles E. Evered, Charles A. Henderson, George E. Day and Thomas J. Dillon.

When after charging them again on some of the points on which they wished light, he sent them back to their room. He told them there was no excuse for a disagreement in this case. The court then took recess till five o'clock. When the chief justice again took the chair the jury through their foreman, F. G. Bonnell, reported that in spite of their prolonged discussion they had reached no agreement, nor was there any possibility of their doing so. They were thereupon discharged, and the court adjourned until 11 a. m. Thursday.

Passing to the scene of the murder and the succeeding days, the counsel spoke of the prisoner's admittedly calm demeanor while the deed was being done and the body buried, and of his concealing falsehoods told thereafter. The defense pleaded that he was in mortal terror all this time, and when a boy of the prisoner's intelligence said that even with police-men around him and Higgins nowhere near he did not tell what he knew because he was still afraid, it was an insult to the intelligence of the jury to argue before them that he was not a free agent then as any of the jury would have been under similar circumstances. As soon as the revolver was thrown into the creek Goodspeed knew as well as anyone could that it was impossible for Higgins to have been him, especially in the bosom of his family, under the protection of the police.

In concluding, he said it was for the jury to close the book in connection with the Doherty tragedy, than which none in our lifetime had been more aberrant. He urged them to cast their favor and sympathy out of their minds, and to judge the issue fairly. Goodspeed's future was of little consequence in comparison with the harm that would be done if the impression should get abroad that justice was not being fully and impartially administered.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE. The chief justice in charging the jury said that in all his fifty years' experience in the courts he had never been so impressed by the eloquence and effective speaking of any man as he was by the many ways in which the prisoner's conduct was likewise greatly to the credit of the learned counsel employed on both sides. He also warned the jury not to be influenced by any sympathy for the prisoner or his family and insisted that justice should be done in the case.

Returning to the scene of the crime the chief justice discussing the prisoner's position as a free agent asked the jury to consider whether or not Goodspeed in his silence and falsehoods was not thinking of shielding himself as well as Higgins. If they thought this was possible in the case they were to say so. If they thought he was so possessed by fear as not to be a free agent they might find him not guilty. But they should be very careful to do this as the plea of fear was not an easy and common defense to set up. The jury, he said, had given most careful attention all through the trial and he had every confidence in their ability to find a true verdict.

The jury retired at twenty-three minutes to one, and the court adjourned until two o'clock. The court resumed at two, when the jury sent down a request for refreshments, stating that they were not making much progress and might be occupied the whole afternoon. The chief justice had no authority to furnish food for them, and sent them a request to come to a decision as quickly as possible. At 2:30 they reported that it was impossible to come to an agreement. The chief justice had them brought into court.

NO MORE PAIN IN THE BACK. Chas. Gilchrist, of Port Hope, Cured By Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ex-Fishery Overseer in Splendid Health at Seventy-four—What He Has to Say of the Matter.

PORT HOPE, Ont., Jan. 12.—(Special).—Everybody in Port Hope knows Mr. Chas. Gilchrist, for fifteen years Chief of Police and afterwards Fishery Overseer of the Dominion Government. He is seventy-four years of age now and a healthy man. But he has had his share of suffering. For ten years he was afflicted with Dodd's Kidney Disorder. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. Mr. Gilchrist said: "I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for about five years, off and on. When I got a pain in the back and my urine is full of brickdust I take a couple of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I am all right. I generally keep them on hand, for there is no medicine like them. "When I commenced to take Dodd's Kidney Pills I was in a fearful state. They have made me a new man. I have about one-quarter acre in a garden, I dug and planted it last spring. When I first took Dodd's Kidney Pills I could not have done it to save my life. "I believe I would have been dead before them if it was not for Dodd's Kidney Pills. It is cures like this that are giving Dodd's Kidney Pills their popularity."

MR. TRISSELL. Man Well Known in St. John Community Guide.

A note to the coroner stated that he had killed himself for private reasons. The note further stated that he had traveled on the road 24 years in every state in the union, Canada, Japan, China and South Africa.

MR. KING'S OWN, L. O. L. On the last Tuesday of December the members of No. 88, King's Own, L. O. L., elected their officers for the ensuing year: Capt. W. A. Pitt, W. M.; H. W. Clark, D. M.; Ralph Morrison, R. C.; J. Mullet, F. S.; Robert Chamberlain, T.; A. Miles Saunders, C.; James Saunders, D. C.; R. Smith, F. C. In his address the officers were installed by Capt. W. A. Pitt, honorary life member of the grand lodge.

TIME AT SEA. A correspondent writes to the Sun: In the royal navy, time is reckoned as on shore, and has been kept in civil time since 1898, by order of the admiralty. In the merchant service it has been the custom to begin the day at noon, and presumably this continues to be the case in the majority of ships, and with most masters. But there can be no doubt that the slip of log should be kept in civil time, 24 hours to the day, the first 12 hours being a. m. and the second 12 hours p. m. By this mode of reckoning the night of the day is 24 hours in advance of the astronomical day. Besides, the astronomical day begins at noon and ends at the noon following, and the astronomical day is 12 hours in advance of the astronomical day. The barbarism of reckoning by a night of 12 hours in advance of the astronomical day, cannot be much deprecated, and must have frequently led to errors in the computation of time. Two modes of reckoning dates must surely be enough, without the complication of a third, and wholly useless, date.

REV. P. R. KNIGHT. Rev. Peter R. Knight, a well known and esteemed clergyman of the Baptist denomination, died at his home at Lower Kingsdale on Sunday afternoon, after an illness of dropsy and heart trouble. He was a native of St. Peterport, Isle of Guernsey, and came to New Brunswick with his parents when fourteen years of age. His father was a clergyman and labored in different parts of the province. Mr. Knight began life as a shoemaker, and was ordained at Woodstock thirty years ago. Rev. Mr. Knight was in his 43rd year, and is survived by a widow and family of one son, Herbert, and two daughters, Mrs. Harry Dunphy and Mrs. Manasseh Dunphy, all of whom are in the city.

IMMIGRANTS AND TRACHOMA. Dr. Ellis, the Immigration Inspector, is keeping many out of Canada.

Of the fifteen steamer passengers landed from the Lake Megantic Tuesday who were turned back by Dr. W. L. Ellis, the Canadian immigration inspector, all were suffering with trachoma, the dreaded infectious disease of the eyes which is being introduced into this country with the squallor and filth of these lowest classes of immigrants. Already Dr. Ellis has been the means of preventing from entry into Canada this winter a large number of persons so affected who, if they had arrived last year, would, under the conditions prevailing then, have been freely admitted, to become a charge upon the country and a source of infection to all who would come in contact with them.

Most of these cases so stopped are sent back to the country whence they came, though when the patient is not severely affected and can afford hospital treatment he is allowed to undergo such treatment, and if cured is permitted to stay in the country. All those returning are sent back at the expense of the steamship company which brought them out, and consequently the shipping people are becoming more careful what they bring. The prohibition against trachoma has been strictly enforced in the States for some time, and as a consequence immigrants so affected have been almost entirely brought to Canadian ports. Now that the home authorities are showing an equal strictness the number of such arrivals will soon show a marked decrease, owing to a more rigid inspection of the passengers before they are allowed on board ship.

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING FUND. Hope to Raise Necessary $50,000 in 30 Days.

Within thirty days the local Y. M. C. A. members hope to raise their building fund to the $50,000 mark which will enable them to begin active work on the selection of a lot and the erection of the much needed new building. The amount now guaranteed is $48,000. To secure the remaining $2,000 a vigorous campaign has been inaugurated. Over fifty members of the various committees have pledged themselves to assist in the canvass. These will meet every day, when a list of men to be interviewed that day will be given to each. In the evening each canvasser will report progress to the secretary. In addition to this local canvass a committee has been appointed to acquire the names and addresses of every St. John people moved away, and who might still be supposed to have an interest in affairs of their native town. These will be written to and substantial return from this course is hoped for.

ANOTHER ADVANCE IN OIL. The People Must Have Money to Burn This Winter.

Kerosene oil has gone up again. The last advance, that of one cent per gallon, was made by the wholesale people on Saturday and by the retail stores on Monday. The wholesale rate is now 23c per gal. from the tank wagon, or 21-2c, by the barrel, while the retailers in the city are charging as high as 25c, with a special rate of 25c for quantities of five gallons or more. Some of the dealers are selling by single gallons at 26c or 27c, but most of them are on the 23c rate. The cause of this advance is the great demand for oil in the United States on account of the scarcity of coal, and the price is liable to a further advance at any time.

SEVEN MEN KILLED. Terrible Explosion in a British Columbia Powder Factory.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 14.—A terrible explosion took place at Northfield, five miles from Nanaimo, at 2:30 this morning in the works of the Hamilton Powder Co. Details are not yet to hand, but it is believed seven men were killed, two women and five Chinese. An explosion in the same place a few weeks ago resulted in the death of one man. The shock of the explosion this morning broke plate glass windows in stores at Nanaimo and created great excitement, as it was at first believed that it had taken place in one of the coal mines near that city. The names of the white men killed are George Simons and James Palford. The explosion occurred at the Hamilton Powder Co.'s works, Departure Bay, today, Geo. Simons killed. Only one body, that of a Chinaman, was recovered. Others were absolutely blown to fragments. The gun cotton stores house exploded first, the concussion exploding the sulphur in the drying house, 400 feet away, where the great loss of life is supposed to have occurred. The ground was excavated to a depth of six feet. The buildings were blown into kindling, and scattered with fragments of human flesh over several acres. The tramway was torn up and a length of steel rail twisted spirally around a tree like a whip lash. James Preston, a nitro-glycerine maker, had a miraculous escape and owed his life to his courage. He was running his chimney 400 feet from the explosion when he saw the flames and ran down the chimney and a part of the wall were blown in but he kept his machinery running in spite of the concussion which almost stopped it, and never left his post, thus preventing a third explosion.

CONSTITUTION THE FOE OF HEALTH AND BEAUTY

It is quite likely you are doctoring for the wrong thing. Or perhaps you are taking medicine for a trouble you really have but which has been brought on by that common ailment—constipation. Whatever your trouble, do you find it stubborn to treat? Do you wonder why you do not get cured? Are you sometimes almost discouraged?

Try doctoring your bowels. Don't imagine because you seem regular, or maybe once a day for a time, then a day skipped, and so on, that you have healthy bowels. Everybody needs a gentle laxative occasionally. Where you think you may be all right, you may be all wrong. Likely as not it is the cause of something else you are suffering from.

A LIGHT SENTENCE. Goodspeed Gets Off With Thirty-nine Months in the Reformatory. Chief Justice Says He Should Have Been Found Guilty as Accessory and That Higgins Should Have Been Hanged.

Chief Justice Tuck, freed from the charge of being an accessory to murder, has been sentenced to thirty-nine months' confinement in the industrial reformatory.

The prisoner was formally arraigned in circuit court at a few minutes after eleven o'clock this morning. He took his seat in the dock looking as healthy, but a little more serious than usual.

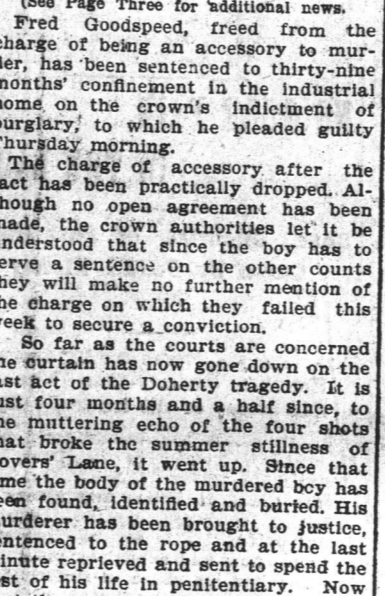

When the court re-assembled, and the sentence was pronounced, Scott G. Morrill, to whom the reformatory Goodspeed owes the remarkable length of his sentence, said he had been present at the trial.

The judge made by the chief justice before delivering sentence was strong opinions emphatically stressed.

It was in my mind during your trial," he said to the prisoner, who with bowed head, was listening intently.

After the reading of the minutes, the president announced that the Vice President O'Brien and C. A. Everett were prevented from being present by illness.

The president then read his report as follows: To the Shareholders of the St. John Exhibition Association of the City and County of St. John.

Gentlemen - Your executive committee beg to announce with your instructions that they have completed arrangements for the holding of an exhibition in this city during the week ending the 30th September.

While the exhibition was formally opened by His Honor the Lieutenant Governor on the evening of the 28th August, the real opening day was Labor Day Monday September 1st.

The early date of the exhibition did not as it was feared it might, materially effect the showing of the exhibition.

The growth in exhibits of pure bred horses, stockmen of the maritime provinces, has been marked, and the probability is that the live stock exhibition will be the best yet held in this city.

The treasurer's report was as follows: Statement of receipts and disbursements of the Exhibition Association of the City and County of Saint John for the year ending 31st December, A. D. 1902.

Rid the System of Poisons, and You Need Have No Fear of Appendicitis, Peritonitis and Other Dreaded Ills.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The Great Family Medicine.

When the bowels are constipated or sluggish in action the human body seems an easy prey to nearly every ailment to which human beings are subject.

The immediate result of inactivity of the bowels is the clogging and obstruction of the action of the kidneys and liver, the upsetting of the digestive organs and the forcing back into the system of poisonous impurities which contain the germs of disease.

Not only are colds and all contagious and infectious diseases more likely to attack a person subject to constipation, but appendicitis, peritonitis, inflammation of the bowels and chronic dyspepsia are the direct result of neglecting to keep the bowels regular and active.

In health, the bowels should move about once a day, otherwise the effects are soon felt in the way of indigestion, headache, dizziness, bodily pains and feelings of uneasiness, languor and depression. The most prompt relief as well as the most thorough cure for constipation is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
