

"MAD POET" STARTS U. S. CAMPAIGN

Names Personal Representative to Set Forth Italian Claim to Fiume.

WHITNEY WARREN OF NEW YORK CITY

Chosen by D'Annunzio as Propagandist in the United States—Wants Americans to Know Truth of Matter.

(Special Cable Dispatch, Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Co.)

Plume, Aug. 16.—Gabriele d'Annunzio today officially appointed Whitney Warren, of New York, as his special representative in the United States to represent Italy's moral claim to the city of Fiume. Warren is not an ambassador nor a plenipotentiary, but according to the poet-commander of Fiume, he is merely invested with the duty of presenting in a clearer light to Americans the Italian birth and to Americans in general the position taken by D'Annunzio in occupying the city for ultimate annexation to Italy instead of to Jugoslavia, as provided for in the Versailles treaty.

Mr. Warren is a member of a prominent firm of architects, Warren & Wetmore, who have been conspicuous in the construction of many great edifices in New York, of which one is the Grand Central Station. The main reason why D'Annunzio chose Mr. Warren is that Mr. Warren is perhaps the poet's oldest American friend, and is especially familiar with Italian history and its problems following the great war. D'Annunzio is of the opinion that America is indifferent to the Plume question partly because it does not really understand the problem and partly because of propaganda from Jugoslavia, which has been an effective force in justifying Italy's claim to the Austrian port. The appointment was dispatched to America by a special courier from the palace of the commandant here. Commenting on the action of d'Annunzio said:

"Mr. Warren is one of my most trusted friends one of the finest Americans, a sympathetic student of Italy's problems, and a man eminently fitted for the delicate task of informing America about Fiume for despite the apparent justice of our claim from our viewpoint, it must be remembered that Americans have other problems of their own and are likely to form a hasty judgment of Italy. But we wait patiently. It is hard for us to stand in the face of the world about justice when justice is so evident to us. But we must break down the barriers that have been erected quietly by clever enemies."

While D'Annunzio is one of the foremost poets and creative geniuses of Italy, nevertheless he has decisive military qualities as is shown by an announcement in today's issue of "La Veneta d'Italia," his official newspaper in the occupied city of Fiume. D'Annunzio was informed that a certain Italian deputy, a member of the national parliament, who is said to have deserted to the army of Italy during the war and to have gone over to the enemy, was heading a movement in Rome to eject the national claims to Fiume. Furthermore, the poet heard the deputy was in Trieste, on his way to Fiume to start a campaign right in D'Annunzio's camp.

"To my ARCH-ENEMY—The miserable deserted Signor—(Mislano is his name) who has misrepresented the cause of Italy and the Adriatic, is coming to Fiume to start a traitorous campaign against our cause. He is a former deserter, but now a member of the national parliament. If he attempts to enter this city, despatch him on the spot, not with bullets but with cold steel. As commander I take full responsibility on my word of honor, for this order."

UNITED FARMERS IN ROUSING MEETING

Gather at Woodstock Where They Hear Inspiring Speeches and Decide to Branch Out.

Special to The Standard.

Woodstock, Aug. 16.—The first of a series of meetings to be held throughout the province by the United Farmers was successfully carried out on Island Park this afternoon.

A circular was sent out all over New Brunswick by the Central Organization asking if the farmers were willing to organize branches. Your correspondent was shown 700 replies in favor, and as a result meetings will be held during the month throughout the province and every county will be organized. John M. Pratt, of Winnipeg, C. Gordon Sharpe, Provincial Secretary Pembroke, and T. W. Caldwell, M. P., provincial representative, East Florenceville, will be the principal speakers. Mr. Caldwell has just returned to Woodstock from Winnipeg where the Canadian Council of Agriculture held a convention at which it was decided that every county in Canada should be organized. The grandstand at Island Park this afternoon. There were 400 men and women present. W. R. Reed of Knoxford, was chairman; C. Gordon Sharpe, central secretary, opened the meeting with an able address dealing with development of the association in New Brunswick, and pointing out the need for organized effort. This was well received and followed by Mr. Caldwell, M. P., of New Brunswick. Mr. Caldwell dealt very definitely with certain phases of the legislation at the last session, laying special stress upon the Order-in-Council granting credits to $500,000, and Bonanza amounting to $500,000, which will manufacture goods but were purchased from government members. Mr. Caldwell said the chances of payment of this amount is very remote, and the chances are that the taxpayers of the Dominion will eventually have to pay for the goods these persons sold at warden prices.

Mr. Caldwell also dealt with the ship building programme and showed how credits extended for this purpose amounting to $20,000,000 probably would eventually have to be paid for by Canadian tax payers.

John M. Pratt made a 20 minute talk dealing with organization.

W. E. Reid acted as chairman and interspersed timely remarks.

Mob Rule and Civil Authorities at the Point of Balance in Town of Thorold.

PREMIER GUEST OF HOME FOLKS AT ST. MARYS, ONT

Greeted by Enthusiastic Crowd at Scene of His Boyhood Days.

PRaises Sung BY FORMER TEACHERS

Referred to as Man of Brilliant Courage, True Faith, Upright and Trustworthy.

St. Marys, Ont., Aug. 16.—Arthur Meighen, once of Blanchard township and late student of St. Marys College, returned today to the scenes of his boyhood days as Premier of Canada. Guest of honor in a public demonstration, such as the stone town never witnessed before, it was plain, nevertheless, that to the people of this district, the Premier is still Arthur Meighen and that to him St. Marys is, first of all, the old home. The Town Council an d Board of Trade had left nothing undone to show honor to the native son of South Perth, now called upon to direct the destinies of his country. But the real reception, if one might judge from the Premier's smiling face, came from the men and women who thronged in hundreds after the parade this morning, and again after the addresses this afternoon, to press his hand and exchange a word with him about former days.

EUROPEAN RUSSIA REDUCED IN AREA

Overthrow of Bolshevism Necessary Before Normal Life Can be Resumed in That Unhappy Country.

Constantinople, Aug. 16.—Russia's ability to export raw materials in the near future has been greatly overestimated by foreign countries in the opinion of Colonel B. Englehard, formerly a member of the Russian Duma and a student of economic conditions in Russia before and after the revolution. In a talk with The Associated Press correspondent he said that foreign nations seem to fail to realize the collapse of the Russian transportation systems, reduced manpower and run-down condition of the Russian farm lands.

PREPARING AIR ROUTE MAP OF CANADA

Transcontinental Stations to be Established About Twenty Miles Apart.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 16.—The Air Board here announced today a complete air route map of Canada with the stations of the transcontinental passage about twenty miles apart. It is expected to make a transcontinental flight from Halifax to Vancouver shortly, and when all arrangements are complete, the passage between these points will be done in less than fifty hours.

Mail, freight and express, with a rapid but expensive passenger service, is the aim of the Air Board. Europe has made very rapid advancement in commercial aerial development, and there has been proven a commercial feasibility. The severity of our winters will prove no handicap in commercial aerial transportation. The seaplane will be utilized in eastern Canada during the summer, making landings possible near many cities where aerodromes are not established. The new map will be published in a few weeks.

HEAVY FIRE LOSSES THIS YEAR

Should Average of First Five Months be Maintained the Total for Year Would be $28,000,000.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 16.—(By Canadian Press)—If the average of losses of the first five months of the year is maintained, fire losses in Canada during 1920 will reach almost twenty-eight million dollars, according to figures made public by the Committee of Conservation. Should these figures be reached, the losses will exceed any thus far recorded, with the exception of those incurred during the destruction of a number of munition plants. They already exceed those of 1919, an exceptionally favorable year, by over one and a half million dollars, the total for the five months' period being well upwards of eleven million dollars.

Resolutions were adopted calling for removal of the ban on Archbishop Mannix's movements. These resolutions will be sent to Premier Lloyd George and Professor Edmond De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic."

The outbreak was first reported from Lunenburg County and it is widely distributed along the South Shore.

Crain Being Garnered Expected to Yield Handsome Returns.

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press)—Harvesting is now in full swing in all parts of Manitoba and Eastern Saskatchewan, according to the Canadian National Railways' weekly report issued today, and the grain being garnered will yield a very generous return, the best in five years. Recent weather conditions have brought about backward crops that farmers thought three weeks ago would not pay for the seeding and cost of planting, but which will now give profitable returns. Late sown grains will also yield much better than expected, owing to showers and cooler weather of the past ten days.

NEW ARRANGEMENT IN IMMIGRATION MATTERS

Canada and United States Enter Into a Reciprocal Arrangement for Handling Immigrants.

New York, Aug. 16.—Dr. T. R. Rutherford, head of the Canadian immigration service in the United States, and the dominion agent at Ellis Island, left today to take up a new position with the Canadian Immigration Service at Quebec.

While no official announcement was made, it is believed that Dr. Rutherford's withdrawal is the result of a new arrangement between the two countries by which Canadian officers will handle all United States immigration business in that domain, and United States officers will handle all Canadian matters here. Such an arrangement has been considered by the two countries in the past, but no official word has been given of its approval.

Dr. Rutherford said he did not know whether any body would be appointed as his successor.

YOUTH SHOOT AND KILLS WOMAN

Confesses to Having Shot Her in Her Home During a Struggle.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Philomena Lafond, aged fifty years, was shot yesterday afternoon at her home near Cherry Creek about seven miles from the village of Gracedieu, Que., and died a few hours later.

It is alleged David St. Jacques, aged 18 years, has confessed to the deed. He surrendered himself to the authorities at noon today and will be brought to Hull by High Constable Joseph Cavalier to stand his trial on a charge of murder.

According to the details available Mrs. Lafond lived in a small cottage alone, and yesterday afternoon, about three o'clock, St. Jacques called at her home, and during a struggle picked up a shot-gun and fired at her, the shot lodging in her neck. She discovered some time later by neighbors who summoned Dr. Desjardins, who was unable to save her life. She was, however, able to give the authorities the name of her assailant.

Search was then made for St. Jacques last night without success, but he surrendered today. Coroner T. B. Davies of Hull has left for Gracedieu and will conduct an inquest there.

ICE CREAM IN CHINA SHOCKS JUNKETERS

One Member of Congress So Overcome by Grape Juice That He Fell Into Lake.

By ARTHUR WEST.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.)

Shanghai, Aug. 14.—Members of the congressional party were shocked and disappointed by the Chinese residents of Hangchow, who served only grape juice and ice cream sodas at the official banquet there. Coolies carrying big containers of the food beverage Bryan made famous, met the party at its arrival from Shanghai. The congressmen smiled indulgently, thinking this only a beverage and intended as a subtle compliment to the few dry members of the party. But the hard liquor contingent was greatly surprised later to find at table with the gentlemen a feast magnificent with silver and gold pitchers filled with the same unauthoritative beverage.

From Hangchow the party has gone to Nankin, the next stop on the way to Peking. Some of the congressmen are said to have requested their escort to telegraph the reception committees of other cities that they had had enough grape juice at Hangchow to last the rest of their lives and also that they hoped never to look another ice cream soda in the face while in China, which, until they struck Hangchow they had come to regard as God's country.

ARMY WAR COUNCIL COMES INTO BEING

Secretary Baker Says Signs Order Carrying Out Reorganization of the General Staff.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.)

Washington, Aug. 16.—Reorganization of the general staff of the army in accordance with the provisions of the army reorganization bill was put into effect today through orders signed by Norman D. Baker, Secretary of War, providing for the creation of a war council and the division of the staff work into four branches: Operations division, military intelligence division, war plans division and supply division.

Under the terms of the reorganization there is created a war council consisting of the Secretary of War, the Assistant Secretary of War, General Pershing, by virtue of his rank as the General of the Army, and the chief of staff. The war council will meet from time to time when directed by the Secretary of War for the consideration of policies affecting both the military and the national problems of the war department.

The new order also makes the assistant Secretary of War in every sense the business manager of the army, and places in his charge the task of making all necessary material preparation for the army both as a peace unit and for any emergency which may arise in the case of war.

In order to facilitate this new work the supply division has been created as a full section of the general staff and will in the future take over the work carried on during the war by the division of purchase, storage and supplies. It is to be specifically charged with the supervision and co-ordination of the activities of the military establishment dealing with purchase, transportation, disbursement, storage, construction, requirement and procurement, transportation of troops, settlement of claims and sales of surplus.

The carrying out of the reorganization program will mean the shift of several bureau chiefs, according to the announcement made today by Mr. Baker, but the officers for the new posts here have not been finally selected.

It desires that its new rates be put into effect on and after September 1.

THE DREAD PYORRHEA BEGINS WITH BLEEDING GUMS

Pyorrhea infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proven this. Diseased conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable to trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this pyorrhea infection.

Don't let pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of poisons generated at their base.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

LOYD GEORGE ACTS AS SPOKESMAN

"In the Russian question—and from now on Polish affairs resume their place in the general body of Russian questions—Premier Lloyd George decided to let Premier Millerand decide to let Premier Lloyd George be the spokesman. For months the English cabinet head has been occupied, re-serving for himself the leading role in the Russo-Entente negotiations. Therefore, at an hour when these relations attain their most critical point, Millerand leaves first place to his British colleague.

"For the moment no military support of Poland is planned. Such an expedition is too difficult to organize, for, as Marshal Foch observed, we must do everything or nothing. Sending two divisions is useless—sending twenty-six divisions is impossible. Moreover, it is not the numbers Poles lack but moral force. Europe cannot supply them this; it is for them to defend their country. The first point decided, France and England made known to Poland that they did not disapprove the opening of conversations at Minsk between the Polish and Russian plenipotentiaries. But the two great western powers have formulated the conditions necessary so that an arrangement to intervene could be accepted by them. One of the conditions which is essential is the preservation of the political independence of Poland. Neither England nor France will defend their country. The first point decided, France and England made

"Red blood, rich in iron is a never failing source of strength and endurance," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Many a man is losing the strength, health and enthusiasm of earlier years simply because there is not sufficient iron in his blood to send it, pure and red, flowing through his body, rebuilding wasted tissue and renewing energy and force."

"It is the man who keeps his body tied with organic iron—like Nuxated Iron—who is building within in himself the strength that towers in an emergency; a strength that endures; a strength that masters obstacles and clears the way to success."

Nuxated Iron is prescribed and recommended by physicians and is now being used by over 4,000,000 people annually to build red blood, strength and endurance.

LOYD GEORGE ACCUSED OF BREAKING

French Say Advice to Poles to Accept Hythe Agreement of Monday — Millerand.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

Paris, Aug. 16.—The following semi-official statement from the Quai D'Orsay has been given exclusively to the Public Ledger Foreign Service:

"A few days after the Hythe conference, which should have established perfect agreement between France and England on Russian affairs, there arose a misunderstanding between Premier Millerand and Lloyd George which recalls the difficulties caused by the occupation of Frankfurt. At Hythe the two premiers agreed to send a note to Warsaw calling on Poland to defend her political independence at any price and promising in exchange to support Polish resistance by all means in their power, except for sending of troops, which they thought impossible.

"This solemn exhortation of the two great powers, when transmitted by M. Jusserand and Lord Daberton to the Polish minister of foreign affairs, immediately had a most happy effect on Warsaw—on the one hand the reorganization of the Polish army in favor of General Weygand had been authorized by the French Government to accept the Polish offer of the chief command, if the British agreed. On the other hand, the Polish armies, taking heart again, were preparing to launch a formidable battle before Warsaw which would decide the fate of the whole campaign.

Lloyd George Steps In.

"But at this decisive hour, when anything capable of hurrying Polish affairs seemed momentous, Lloyd George without consulting any of his allies, abruptly charged his Warsaw representative to notify the Polish Government that England considered the basis of peace proposed at London by Kamenev and Krassin, acceptable and would not help the Poles if they rejected the Soviet overtures.

"This news, when it reached Paris, literally overwhelmed Millerand. The Kamenev conditions, even if ratified by the Soviets whose armies continue to advance on Warsaw, really were equivalent to the destruction of the Versailles treaty and the abolition of Polish political independence. The existence of a strong Poland was one of the cornerstones of the Versailles document, which gave Poland the double role of watching Germany on the east and preventing contact between Germany and Russia. What effective control hereafter could a state exercise which no longer has an army, arms, munitions nor means of making them, nor authorization to buy them, when at the same time no limitation is made to the Soviets' liberty to arm themselves to the last degree? Indeed, Poland would have no other alternative but to realize Lenin's design and become a Russian protectorate.

"Thus on the one hand world revolution, advancing one step is installed in Central Europe ready to contain the state Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Austria, and on the other hand the Russian-German pact is made, with every facility, henceforth for collaboration between these two great forces of disorder and imperialism.

"It is inconceivable that the English premier could have fallen into a communist trap, it is unheard of that he should have dared to accept such propositions, without consulting his allies, under the futile pretext of gaining time when nothing was more contrary to the policy adopted at Hythe.

"As a strict matter of fact, Lloyd George has violated the agreement of the eighth of August. It is easy to understand the indignation his move has caused at Warsaw, where it is feared it will be a factor in defeat by discouraging the people and the amazement it has caused at Paris, where anything was expected but that.

"It is possible that the emotion produced by this veritable thunderbolt had something to do with Premier Millerand's decision to recognize General Wrangel as the chief de facto government in South Russia. For some time Premier Millerand has favored this project. On July 20 he indicated to the Chamber of Deputies that he would be disposed to do it if General Wrangel fulfilled certain conditions of the French—give a democratic form to his government, guarantee peasant occupation of the land and to respect the previous Russian government's foreign obligations. Just recently General Wrangel has made it known that he agreed to these conditions. Nothing that was done at Hythe prevented Premier Millerand from recognizing General Wrangel. For a long time the French premier has not hidden from the English his intentions in this regard. A preliminary agreement was necessary only if military support was to be furnished General Wrangel but that is not in and has not approval of firmness to resume its Russian affairs, over, this was much more to have notified the Polish minister of foreign affairs, immediately had a most happy effect on Warsaw—on the one hand the reorganization of the Polish army in favor of General Weygand had been authorized by the French Government to accept the Polish offer of the chief command, if the British agreed. "This news, when it reached Paris, literally overwhelmed Millerand. The Kamenev conditions, even if ratified by the Soviets whose armies continue to advance on Warsaw, really were equivalent to the destruction of the Versailles treaty and the abolition of Polish political independence. The existence of a strong Poland was one of the cornerstones of the Versailles document, which gave Poland the double role of watching Germany on the east and preventing contact between Germany and Russia. What effective control hereafter could a state exercise which no longer has an army, arms, munitions nor means of making them, nor authorization to buy them, when at the same time no limitation is made to the Soviets' liberty to arm themselves to the last degree? Indeed, Poland would have no other alternative but to realize Lenin's design and become a Russian protectorate.

It is easy to understand the indignation his move has caused at Warsaw, where it is feared it will be a factor in defeat by discouraging the people and the amazement it has caused at Paris, where anything was expected but that.

"It is possible that the emotion produced by this veritable thunderbolt had something to do with Premier Millerand's decision to recognize General Wrangel as the chief de facto government in South Russia. For some time Premier Millerand has favored this project. On July 20 he indicated to the Chamber of Deputies that he would be disposed to do it if General Wrangel fulfilled certain conditions of the French—give a democratic form to his government, guarantee peasant occupation of the land and to respect the previous Russian government's foreign obligations. Just recently General Wrangel has made it known that he agreed to these conditions. Nothing that was done at Hythe prevented Premier Millerand from recognizing General Wrangel. For a long time the French premier has not hidden from the English his intentions in this regard. LOYD GEORGE ACCUSED OF BREAKING COMPACT

French Say Advice to Poles to Accept Red Terms Violated Hythe Agreement of Monday — Action Overwhelming Millerand.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

Paris, Aug. 16.—The following semi-official statement from the Quai D'Orsay has been given exclusively to the Public Ledger Foreign Service:

"A few days after the Hythe conference, which should have established perfect agreement between France and England on Russian affairs, there arises a difference between Premier Millerand and Lloyd George which recalls the difficulties caused by the occupation of Poland. At the Hythe conference the two premiers agreed to send a note to Warsaw calling on Poland to defend her political independence at any price and promising in exchange to support Polish resistance by all means in their power, except for sending of troops, which they thought impossible.

"This solemn exhortation of the two great powers, when transmitted by M. Jusserand and Lord Dabernon to the Polish minister of foreign affairs, immediately had a most happy effect on Warsaw—on the one hand the reorganization of the army was decided in favor of General Weygand who had been authorized by the French Government to accept the Polish offer of the chief command, if the British approved. On the other hand, the Polish armies, taking heart again, were preparing to launch a formidable battle before Warsaw which would decide the fate of the whole campaign.

Lloyd George Steps In.

"But at this decisive hour, when anything capable of hurting Polish morale seemed monstrous, Lloyd George without consulting any of his allies, abruptly charged his Warsaw representative to notify the Polish Government that England considered the basis of peace proposed at London by Kamenev and Krassin, acceptable and would not help the Poles if they rejected the Soviet overtures.

"This news, when it reached Paris, literally overwhelmed Millerand. The Kamenev conditions, even if ratified by the Soviets whose armies continue to advance on Warsaw, really were equivalent to the destruction of the Versailles treaty and the abolition of Polish political independence. The existence of a strong Poland was one of the cornerstones of the Versailles document which gave Poland the double role of watching Germany on the east and preventing contact between Germany and Russia. What effective control henceforward on a state exercise which no longer has an army, arms, munitions nor means of making them, nor authorization to buy them, when at the same time no limitation is made to the Soviets' liberty to arm themselves to the last degree? Indeed, Poland would have no other alternative but to realize Lenin's design and become a Russian protectorate.

"Thus on the one hand world revolution, advancing one step is instituted in Central Europe ready to contemplate Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Austria, and on the other hand the Russian-German contact is made, with every facility, henceforth for collaboration between these two great forces of disorder and imperialism.

"It is inconceivable that the English premier could have fallen into a conspiracy trap, it is unheard of that he should have dared to accept such propositions, without consulting his allies, under the futile pretext of gaining time when nothing was more contrary to the policy adopted at Hythe. As a strict matter of fact, Lloyd George has violated the agreement of the eighth of August. It is easy to understand the indignation his move has caused at Warsaw, where it is feared it will be a factor in defeat by discouraging the people and the amazement it has caused at Paris, where anything was expected but that.

"It is possible that the emotion produced by this veritable thunderbolt had something to do with Premier Millerand's decision to recognize General Wrangel as the chief de facto government in South Russia. For some time Premier Millerand has favored this project. On July 20 he indicated to the Chamber of Deputies that he would be disposed to do it if General Wrangel fulfilled certain conditions of the French—give a democratic form to his government, guarantee peasant occupation of the land and to respect the previous Russian Government's foreign obligations. Just recently General Wrangel has made it known that he agreed to these conditions. Nothing that was done at Hythe prevented Premier Millerand from recognizing General Wrangel. For a long time the French premier has not hidden from the English his intentions in this regard. A preliminary agreement was necessary only if military support was to be furnished General Wrangel but that is not in question, Premier Millerand has not gone beyond the treaty.

"Parliamentary circles, where bolshevism is considered almost as much an enemy as Germany, give general approval to Premier Millerand's energetic move and see in it an indication of firmness and the desire of France to resume its role in the settlement of Russian affairs. Many regret, however, this game of hide and seek between the allies. It would have been much more advantageous, they think, to have notified England before acting. Then if Lloyd George disapproved, Millerand would have had much more authority for going ahead and maintaining his decision. These divergences which weaken the action of the powers in the east, do not trouble Paris which has the conviction that the differences will pass away. Millerand left to continue his tour of the liberated regions and no one here thinks of conking Parliament.

"The ministry of foreign affairs remains fully confident in the result of the explanations given the young English charge d'affaires, Henderson. One can, however, be a little less optimistic—the divergence between the Russian policy of Millerand and Lloyd George is profound.

"For Millerand, the Soviets are not so much a government as a fanatic sect which will use any peace consented to by bourgeois governments, as a trap destined for the preparation of world revolution. With them no understanding is possible, and any conversation is dangerous because it augments their prestige and gives them time. The Bolshevik advance will not stop until the powers decide to build a wall. Poland ought to play the first role in erecting a dike against the Red wave. To preserve Polish independence is the essential task.

"For Lloyd George, on the contrary, by sincere conviction or the influence of domestic politics or personal sympathy, the only method to make efficacious war on communism is to make a peace at any price with the Soviets. Between these opposing tendencies no conciliation has been possible in the two years during which France and England have had sharp controversies over the Russian questions. A miracle is necessary for a sudden understanding to be reached. It is probable that the solution once again will be a compromise, for the Franco-English alliance is imposed by inevitable necessity.

"But these differences on Russian affairs will have a deplorable result in diminishing the force of this alliance everywhere and notably in German affairs. Berlin once more is going to try to make the most of the situation."

August Fur Sale and why

A FUR SALE in Summer seems strange to many folks. They think it odd to buy furs "out of season," forgetting that the season of usefulness need not govern the period of purchase.

"When to Buy?" has no relation with "When to Wear?" Practical economy is the governing factor.

Our stock is purchased far in advance of the season. In no other way can our customers be given the benefit of choice selections from a large assortment in styles and pieces.

Selling in advance of the season greatly reduces the cost of carrying goods in stock and permits a decided saving to our customers. Reducing prices during inactive sales periods is a distinct benefit to all.

The prevailing prices at our August Fur Sale is ample evidence of this fact. Bargains are available now that will be out of the question this Fall and Winter.

The discriminating shopper will make no mistake in looking at our wonderful display of choice pieces in the latest styles of the moment.

Sale Opens August 17 and Closes Sept. 11.

IRISH LAND PROBLEM CONFRONTS SINN FEIN

"Acting Minister of Agriculture" Asked That a Republican Land Commission Be Set Up, Secret Paper Shows.

K-IRISH LAND. . . Ypsil.
By CARL W. ACKERMAN.
(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

London, Aug. 16.—One of the most disturbing questions in Ireland today concerns land agitation, which in the western part of the country assumed alarming Bolshevik tendencies in May of this year. I am able to send today reports on this subject, presented by the Sinn Fein acting minister of agriculture to the recent secret session of Dail Eireann, the Irish republican parliament in Dublin. The gravity of this back-to-the-land movement, and the Sinn Fein methods of controlling it, the fears of the government, and the attitude of the people, are revealed here for the first time by a leading Irish authority. All extracts published in this article were taken, verbatim, from a photographic copy of the report which is in my possession.

The land question is the biggest single economic problem of Ireland. When one travels in that country today, one hears from all sources the lament that because there are cattle and not men, on the large estates, tens of thousands of Irish youths have to emigrate each year to America and other countries. Among the Sinn Feiners there is a movement to solve the land puzzle as the acting minister of agriculture himself states in reporting at the secret conference.

The conference met on May 29," he wrote, "and though there were a few regrettable absences, due to short notice, yet it achieved its main purpose by showing the necessity for a forward land policy. It showed further the suspicion which was general, of all sectional attempts at land settlement, not under the authority of the Dail, and the absolute necessity for co-ordination between the work of the courts and the machinery to carry out decrees. In speech and letter at the conference, four out of every five delegates made it clear that passivity, or an attempt to drive the land movement under, would be not merely futile but dangerous and unjust to the young men who in the circumstances of the war had compelled to remain in Ireland, and who are now more than ever, from patriotic reasons, desirous to remain in their own country.

"As a result of the conference and many discussions I have had with people from different parts of the country, as well as through my own observations, I have come to the conclusion that the land question must be tackled by us, not in any halfhearted, dilatory manner, but with a desire to solve it where so many others have signally failed. The circumstances of the present hour, though much against us in the creation of machinery, favor us as previous generations were not favored. Power and control are passing from the British Government in land, as well as in everything else, all over the country, and we should be worse than fools if we let the opportunity pass of righting the wrong of ages.

"We must tackle the land question as a national proposition, and though we may be able to deal with only a very small portion of the problem before we are able to freely function, yet the skeleton we create and proceed to clothe with flesh and life, must be properly designed and proportioned from the very commencement, so that no needless amputations or grafting will be necessary later on.

provisionally for the constituency, to operate until the Dail had definitely decided on its scheme. The chief anxiety with the delegates was that there should be some authority to carry out the findings of the courts. Otherwise they would be a farce.

"The majority seemed to favor using volunteers, as a deterrent rather than as a cure, saying that if one or two good examples were made of evil doers there would be no further trouble. This is a matter which I think intimately concerns the minister of defense. I think the whole troublesome situation in the west now is pretty well in hand, due to the following points:

"First. Like a fever in the land, hunger breaks out at the first of May each year. This year it was more violent than heretofore, probably due to the uncertainty of our point of view and action. Now that the first of May has passed, the fever has very much subsided; and,

"Second. Owing to the establishment of the arbitration courts and the knowledge that we will not back up or tolerate the attempted robberies which were in progress or in contemplation, a regular and well-considered land policy for the west and other similar parts of Ireland, fitting into a proper national scheme such as I hinted at in Galway, should be thought out; and all our dealing with the land should be staged to fit in with a thus properly conceived national scheme.

"Fortunately for us, the feelings against the C. D. B. and impatience for its delaying tactics are very strong, and general in Connacht, and this coupled with the disposition which even large land owners have recently developed toward us, such as faith in our fair play and power over our own followers, will make them very ready to come forward to assist in drafting a proper, workable scheme, with special reference to its financial requirements."

"C. D. B. Very Unpopular.

"No" courts had been in operation in this constituency up to this time. There were a few difficult cases pending. We discussed the constitution of arbitration courts, and decided on one

GOING TO AUSTRALIA WITH SPIRIT MESSAGE

Sir Conan Doyle Claims He Has Converses With Dead Who Entrusted Words of Comfort to Him.

(Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic News Service.)

London, Aug. 16.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the creator of Sherlock Holmes, and Lady Doyle are preparing to leave almost immediately for Australia and New Zealand to carry a message of spiritualism. Both declare they have been in communication with even dead relatives, not through table readings but face to face talking to them as if in life.

"What we tell friends," says Sir Arthur, who declares he will devote the rest of his life to spreading the message of spiritualism, "what we heard from the lips of the dead must be true. No such message has been given before and we will get across to those troubled hearts for whom it was intended. The same message came two thousand years ago, but has been so mingled by men that it has been lost."

When the personal effects of the once-famous dancer "Irigoboccha," who died recently in Paris at the age of 39, were sold at auction, an old silk dress was knocked down to a secondhand clothes dealer for a mere song. On examining the garment the purchaser found concealed in the lining a bundle of French bank notes to the value of $1,060.

Forty per cent of blindness is said to occur after the age of 46.

Little Interest Taken In Rifle Assn. Meet

Less Than 500 Riflemen Were on Hand for Matches Opening Yesterday.

Ottawa, Aug. 16.—About 400 riflemen were on hand when the first matches of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association since the war opened at Rockcliffe ranges today. The fact that reorganization of the militia units has, in many sections, not advanced to such an extent as to give the same attention to rifle shooting as in the pre-war days, is probably the cause of the falling off in attendance as compared with 1913 when 740 crack shots, drawn from every province in the Dominion, competed for the highest honors in marksmanship in this country.

The match committee was selected this morning and is composed of Brigadier General J. Duff Stuart, Lt. Col. H. C. Blair, Brig. General A. T. Swift, Colonel John C. MacLaren and Captain Marsden, Lt. Col. D. R. Street is chief range officer. Owing to the disorganized condition of many of the militia regiments the executive has decided that civilian rifle associations may enter teams in all matches formerly restricted to the militia organizations. However, the members of the teams must be soldiers within the age limit.

Track And Field Teams At Antwerp

United States Continued to Gain Honors in Second Day of Seventh Olympiad — Outclassed All Other Nations' Combinations.

Antwerp, Aug. 16.—The track and field teams of the United States continued to gather honors in the second day of the seventh Olympiad. It outclassed all the other nations' combinations, but its members were not strong enough individually to win all the first place honors, particularly in the classic pentathlon, in which the Finnish star E. Lehtonen proved to be the best all-round athlete.

In addition to the U. S. scoring the greatest number of points, the only world record of the day was made by Frank Loomis, of the Chicago A. A. in the 400 metre hurdles with 54 seconds flat, a full second better than the time made by C. Bacon, in the London Olympics in 1908. In both the hurdles and the 100 metres dash four of the six finalists were United States athletes, of whom three ran first in the hurdles and two first in the 100 metres.

In the other events, the heats before the semi-finals in the 800 metre run, all the United States contestants retained places. Further, after they had previously done. Further, after the boat upset Reed did not swim for the shore, but clad in heavy clothing kept aloft awaiting the appearance of Briggs and while doing so shouted loudly for help to his friends on shore. Young Reed remains in the water some time waiting for his companion to make an appearance before he reached the shore.

Increased Freight Rates.

But the fact that the C. P. R. is getting a special advance because of increased rates should not deter the railway commission, from making a bid that will be fair to the government lines. There is more mileage of government lines in Canada than there is of Canadian Pacific, and the interests of the government-owned lines are paramount for with the people. They have right to a legitimate rate, no matter what conditions are, and in setting that rate the C. P. R. is able to make a great profit, it is the business of the government to step in and take from the company what ever proportion of profit is greater than is legitimate. It can be done, and the government is the agency to see that it is done. Nor do we imagine the C. P. R. will make any protest, provided it is left with a fair profit on its investment.

Ball Player Has Skull Fractured

Member of Cleveland Team "Beaten" by One of Mays' Underhand Shots.
Bulletin, New York, Aug. 16.—Ray Chapman, of the Cleveland Americans, was hit on the head by a pitched ball in the game with New York today and his skull fractured. Surgeons at the hospital to which he was taken said an operation would not be necessary.

The accident occurred in the fifth inning when Chapman tried to dodge an underhand throw by Pitcher Mays. After receiving medical treatment on the diamond the player was carried to the clubhouse and thence removed to the hospital.

An X-ray examination later disclosed that Chapman had suffered a depressed fracture on the left side of the skull and another fracture on the right side. The hospital surgeons then decided to perform an operation without delay.

AMERICAN INDUSTRIES IN CANADA.

In an article in a recent issue of the Union Bank of Canada Monthly, Mr. A. G. Sclater, Manager of the Statistical Department of that bank gives some interesting information regarding the number of American industries that have come into Canada within the past few months. During the year 1919, it appears, no fewer than two hundred United States manufacturers erected or leased factories on this side of the line, and the number is still growing. His view of the matter is that the tariff is the controlling factor in bringing these industries here, which as a consequence employ Canadian labor, pay Canadian taxes and bring in large amounts of foreign cash. In this connection Mr. Sclater says: "These manufacturers had established themselves in Canada, first, to escape the Canadian tariff, and, secondly, to take advantage of the preferential tariff treatment given by other parts of the British Empire on goods originating within the boundaries of the British Commonwealth. Today the American manufacturer in Canada, must establish himself in Canada to hold that business. The instinct of financial self-preservation is forcing Canada to do her utmost to curtail purchases in the United States and to make within her own borders those things which her people need. In this way only can she hope to rehabilitate her credit in the United States and to reduce the volume of her war debts. Canadians see the logic of the situation. The "Made in Canada" movement is daily gathering strength in the Dominion.

The advent of these industries to this country is a matter that the Ministers who are now engaged in obtaining data for revising the tariff must take into consideration very seriously, because it shows what keen Americans experienced in business think of our prospects. It ought to be encouraging to the immigration movement. It bespeaks increased demand for labor, and enlarging capacity at home for the products of our farms. It shows that Americans with capital to invest have not only strong faith in our future but also confidence in the stability of our laws relating to property and in the trade policy of the country. They evidently are convinced that Canada will not depart from the National Policy. These Americans know what they are about. They are well informed as to economic and political conditions in this country. They have ascertained that Canada has vast diversified sources of raw materials, and that she has been brought to her present great industrial development by adhering steadily to the principle of moderate protection. They take it for granted that she will continue to hold fast to that principle, for it has been the making of her.

Canada welcomes the bringers of new capital and the applicers of new capital to the work of creating and operating new industries for the employment of her wage-earners and for the expansion of her farmers' home market. The parent corporations of American branch factories established in Canada find it to their advantage to produce here for their Canadian customers and for some of their overseas customers rather than to keep on "pushing" trade here against our tariff. It is more to Canada's advantage to have these manufacturers produce their goods on this side of the line than to send them here from the other. The more of American industries we attach the more we will reduce our imports from the United States and the more we will conduce to the building up of the Canadian dollar in American currency value. It must be the study of our business men and our Government to make the Canadian dollar worth 100 American cents and keep it up to that exchange value.

These American industries would not have come to Canada if there had been any serious doubt in the minds of their owners as to the stability of the country's protective policy. The great mass of our people are rightly credited with good sense and patriotism enough to stand by that policy against leaders like Mr. Cressat and Mr. Mackenzie King, who keep up their onslaughts upon it. Canada will surely never trust itself in the hands of such reckless politicians.

FOOLS AND THEIR MONEY.

From time to time some genius or other evolves some new kind of a get-rich-quick scheme by means of which it is hoped fortunes can be made while you wait. Very rarely, however, have these things turned out to be anything else but "taken," as those who have permitted themselves to go into them have found to their cost. The latest "wizard of finance," Mr. Ponzi, seems to have outdone all his predecessors both in the magnitude of his operations and in the apparent simplicity of his methods. That he should have been able to induce over 40,000 people to invest altogether something like $25,000,000 is a striking reflection on the intelligence of the public, who seemingly took the bait which promised riches galore without stopping to reflect that no such returns could possibly be made from any legitimate business operations. Doubtless many of these investors realized that there was "something rotten in the state of Denmark," but risked their cash on the chance of getting their returns before the thing came to grief.

Judging from the present indications it seems likely to be ultimately shown that the operation of Ponzi have not differed greatly from those of other get-rich-quick schemes of a similar nature and that the large rate of interest paid was disbursed from the new deposits. It remains to be shown if Ponzi had any belief that through operations in foreign exchange he could achieve a fortune or if he had other plans when the deposits with him reached a sufficient sum.

From the moment that publicity was given to Ponzi's operations financiers would have no belief that depositors would in the end be satisfied, but the situation in the Ponzi case has been different from those of other similar schemes in that shrewd business men have felt that possibly the Italian had discovered a feasible plan to make money through the upset in the rates of foreign exchange occasioned by the war. They have doubted but they have not been thoroughly convinced that it could not be done. It was this uncertainty, this possibility, that brought so much money to Ponzi for investment.

There are doubtless many sadder but wiser people in the United States today than there were a week or two ago, for the losses have accrued chiefly to those who are least able to bear them. It remains for the future to discover if they will get back any considerable portion of their investment, or if the money received has been practically all paid out in the excessive interest offered, in which case those whose money remained on deposit with Ponzi have suffered for the benefit of those who cashed in and received interest.

THE PARTY PLATFORM.

The Liberal-Conservative National party, of which Arthur Meighen is the leader, like the Liberal-Conservative party of 1874, is born of the best minds and the best traditions of two great historic parties uniting in a day of national crisis. Its birth-pangs, as the London Free Press says, were those of a war for the liberties of the human race, unquelled in its agony by any other war the world has known. Sturdy as the infant giant Pantagruel, its immortal first act has been to place this young nation head and shoulders with the nations of an older world. It, therefore, in the words of the Premier, is "well born and well bred."

Son as he is of such a coalition, Mr. Meighen will sternly oppose any and every attempt to divide this country on racial, religious or class lines. Today is the dark dawn of a new epoch, twilight morning hours in which those who can best make a living out of the chaos of conflict and the confusion attendant upon just starting awake, are doing their best to break up cohesion and destroy confidence. It is well we have a leader whose eyes pierce the gloom, whose voice is the voice of a clarion. Arthur Meighen will withstand, too, the honest as well as the dishonest among such as would wreck Canadian industrial life on the illusion of free trade. Today though, owing to the sagacious policy of 1878, the trade of this country has been marvellously augmented, her manufactures come to enjoy not only the patronage of foreign markets, but the patronage of the home market—infinite more difficult to secure—the time seems ripe for a restatement of those principles of an economic policy which turned the Canadian people from mere producers of raw material, mere hewers of wood and drawers of water for their more opulent neighbors in the United States, into a competitive nation, small but vigorous.

That Canada has won the respect of outside peoples to so marked a degree is due not alone to her loyalty to the cause of humanity and the British Empire, but to the fact that she has been true to herself. Canada has been true to the resources of this vast country. Canada has been true to the genius and the energy of the people she has bred up in her maritime, her industrial and her prairie provinces. Her reward is her prosperity and her reputation.

Never was there a time when the new materials of this country took on a more alluring guise to countries whose own raw materials are small or depleted. Break down the tariff and that raw material will become the prey of foreign industries whose mouths are hungry. Keep up the moderate protective policy and the plants already here will stay and expand, and where one plant is there shall be two. A government such as that of the Liberal-Conservative National party, which, while playing up Canada's natural industry, agriculture, to the last iota, seeks to enlarge the employment market along other lines; a party whose policy is not only to grow grain in Canada and breed cattle, but to make goods in Canada and keep people-making people in Canada by giving Canadian industries a margin of advantage in the home market, is a government which should appeal to every Canadian.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Incomplete Advice.
(Hamilton Spectator.)
Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the board of railway commissioners, continues to advise people to lay in their winter's supply of coal. He would confer a great favor on many Hamiltonians if he would advise where it might be secured.

Has Yet to Learn.
(Hamilton Herald.)
F. B. Carvell, chairman of the Dominion Railway Commission, is new on his job and has yet to learn much before he will be as clever an official as former chairman of the commission. And one thing he will have to learn is to be respectful to the people, who are entitled to respect from their employees, of whom Mr. Carvell is one.

Hurts Irish Cause.
(Buffalo Express.)
For two centuries the case of Poland has been that of Ireland. If free Poland could expect the heartiest sympathy and support from anybody in the world, it should be from those who advise free Ireland. Yet on the limitation that the British Government at last purposes doing something to save free Poland, one of the few Irish voices which still remain in the British Parliament was raised in such violent protest that suspension of the offending members followed. This is the kind of attitude by Irishmen which hurts the cause of Ireland more than anything which the British leaders possibly could do or say.

Increased Freight Rates.
(Calgary Herald.)
But the fact that the C. P. R. is getting a special advance because of increased rates should not deter the railway commission from making a decision that will be fair to the government lines. There is more mileage of government lines in Canada than there is of Canadian Pacific, and the interests of the government-owned lines are paramount with the people. They have right to a legitimate rate, no matter what conditions are, and if in setting that rate the C. P. R. is able to make a great profit, it is the business of the government to step in and take from the company whatever proportion of profit is greater than is legitimate. It can be done, and the government is the agency to see that it is done. Nor do we imagine the C. P. R. will make any protest, provided it is left with a fair profit on its investment.

THE PARTY PLATFORM.

The Liberal-Conservative National party, of which Arthur Meighen is the leader, like the Liberal-Conservative party of 1874, is born of the best minds and the best traditions of two great historic parties uniting in a day of national crisis. Its birth-pangs, as the London Free Press says, were those of a war for the liberties of the human race, unquelled in its agony by any other war the world has known. Sturdy as the infant giant Pantagruel, its immortal first act has been to place this young nation head and shoulders with the nations of an older world. It, therefore, in the words of the Premier, is "well born and well bred."

A BIT OF VERSE

MIDSUMMER PASTORAL.

Three children climbed a hill
Where grasses were astray
With winds of magic blown
(For it was midsummer).
And never bird nor beast nor silvery vibrant tree
On that fair hilltop stood;
It seemed those children were the first
To break its solitude.

Like butterflies at play
Soft dallying here and there,
They knew not weariness that ran
Aloft in golden air;
But had they come, as fairy comes,
Out of some forest tree,
Or had they waded down a mint-green brook
That flows in Arcady?

I cannot tell, but I could see
That never alone were they;
Some shepherd boy, came-shepherdless,
Came on with pipes to play;
Quaint shepherds they, whose flock is fed
In meadows honey-sweet
That have not known in all their golden years
The paths of weary feet.

So mortal with immortal danced—
How light they trod green earth,
How silvery sweet that pipe's tune,
How dulcet all their mirth!
I closed my eyes, but when I looked once more
Up yonder all was still;
Only three white clouds
Hung low above that hill!
—Annie Y. Young, in N. Y. Times.

ALL motorists, especially those who use their cars for business purposes, must have steady service. They soon learn that correct lubrication is vitally important to uninterrupted service and that Imperial Polarine gives adequate thorough lubrication.

Imperial Polarine keeps the engine running smoothly and quietly by establishing and maintaining a perfect piston-to-cylinder seal, which holds all the power of the fuel charge behind the piston.

Imperial Polarine thoroughly lubricates and cushions every rubbing surface with a wear-resisting oil film. When used exclusively break-downs are infrequent, depreciation is low, fuel costs reduced.

One of the three grades described below is specially suited to your motor. Look for the Imperial Polarine Chart of Recommendations where you buy your oil and learn which grade to use.

Imperial Polarine is sold in one and four-gallon sealed cans, steel 12 1/2-gallon kegs, steel half-barrels and barrels, by dealers everywhere.

CABINET SPLIT IN POLAND SEEN IF WARSAW FALLS

Some of the Ministers Going to Cracow, Others to Posen—Present Regime Has Lost Grip, is Belief—Censors Prohibit Criticism of Pilsudski.

Special Cable Despatch
Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Co.
Danzig, Aug. 16.—The Polish government if forced to leave Warsaw, will probably break up, part of the ministers going to Cracow the former capital of Austrian Poland and part, including the Foreign Minister Prince Sapieha, to Posen, which will become the nominal capital. The foreign missions in choosing Posen followed the decision of the foreign office to which they are attached, but the general impression in diplomatic circles is that they will find there neither Premier Witos nor Vice Premier Daszynski and in all probability the chief of state, Marshal Pilsudski, will find his comfort better served elsewhere than in Prussian Poland.

The legation, however, attach less importance to this prospective dispersion of the government since even when assembled it fails to pull together and to repeat the phrase which the correspondent succeeded in getting by the inelastic censorship Sunday, has "lost all coherence and grip of affairs." It was impracticable under the censorship conditions to explain and develop the phrase, which was cited literally from diplomatic conversation and nutshells of opinion widely held.

It may be explained from Danzig, however, that the weakness in Poland today is not only military but administrative and political as well. Its new cabinet of national defence, formed to unify the nation in the hour of peril, is strong in numbers, but weak in unity of purpose, slow of decision and prone to waste time in debate and vacillation. The two days which the cabinet and the council of national defence wasted in debate on the terms of the answer to the Soviet proposal to send peace delegates to Minsk when each hour was bringing the Polish army nearer to catastrophe typify the vacillation and indecision of the cabinet. It may now be stated that the answer was drafted and despatched then only as a response to the strongest representations of the allied missions. It took repeated sessions of the cabinet, likewise under allied pressure, to come to a decision on moving the capital, former Austrian and Prussian ministers, striving hard to bring the seat of government into their respective spheres of influence. Dependence upon the crack Posen divisions, the most dependable fighting force of the army which still preserves Prussian discipline and the punch, finally swung the vote in favor of Posen, but Austrian ministers do not consider themselves obligated thereby.

spirings dispatches about foreign troops about to move to Poland's assistance, heavy shipments of munitions, prospective declarations of war by the United States against Russia, and other news items calculated to make the population think that all will go well. Your correspondent himself had the impression when he left Warsaw that ships were coming in steadily stream to Danzig with munitions, and leaving only upon arrival there that the whole epic on munition shipments had been written around a single shipload with no early prospects of more.

Dispatches dealing with prospective re-inforcements of inter-allied troops all give the impression that the British and French divisions have been or are being mobilized and are held up only by German obstruction to the passage of troops across Germany, but the correspondent does not recall a single printed despatch on the opposition at home which the two governments must overcome before the troops could be sent or indicating that the German attitude is altogether unwelcome. The excuse for hesitating in sending much-needed re-inforcements is that Rumania, according to the despatches issued by the official news agency, is always mobilizing, or Hungary is about to send troops. The readers do not learn of the impossibilities of assistance from these quarters. The result probably will spare the government much criticism, but it is largely responsible for the apathy with which the population not exposed to the immediate danger of invasion have regarded the crisis.

The outgoing censorship, on the other hand, is the despair of the foreign correspondents. The censorship bureau is manned by a crew of officers, of whom only one has been found speaking English, others only French or German, though called upon to pass upon press dispatches in all three languages. One censor encountered spoke only Polish and Russian. The correspondent was forced to explain the contents of the dispatch in the latter language. The onerous and fast rule of the censorship emanating from Marshal Pilsudski and the inner organization is that the chief of state must not be criticized. The correspondent therefore, are forced to resort to much circumlocution to write up the political and military developments of the last fortnight unless their direct references escape the eye of the napping censor. In the early hours of the morning the government represented abroad, but the correspondents are fond of discussing how Poland's case is misunderstood or misrepresented abroad, but the government itself is largely responsible, since it is almost impossible to obtain reliable information or explanations from any government source.

The one branch of the government whose efficiency impresses the foreigner is the railroad administration. The trains, it is true, move on delayed schedules, but reach their destinations and are handling enormous movement of troops and refugees and heavy freight in which, successfully, despite the war conditions. The result it partly due to the presence of the American technical mission, which supervises and advises the Polish railway administration.

Newspapers Encouraging People
The government, though slack and tardy in decision, is capable in at least one field that is influencing public opinion through the press. The newspapers are daily filled with in-

PAPER STOCKS THE ACTIVE ISSUES

On the Whole Trading on Montreal Exchange Was of Narrow Scope.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—Trading on the local stock exchange today was narrow with attention confined to a few active issues, in which considerable strength was shown, particularly in the paper stocks, the Spanish River being the most prominent.

Spanish common was traded in to the extent of 2,000 shares, at the preferred to the extent of 1,97 shares. At its best price for the day the common was 8 1/2 points above the week-end close. From this point there was a reaction to 17, with 116 5/8 bid, leaving the net gain one of 7 1/2 points. The preferred made a maximum rise of 8 points to 124 and held the gain with 124 bid and no stock offered.

The day's largest gain in the paper group went to Rioridon, which, on dealings in only 110 shares, sold up ten and a half points to 202 1/2 and held nine at 201.

Abitibi and Laurentide also did well, the former netting three points and the latter 2 1/2 points. Dealings in Abitibi amounted to 800 shares and in Laurentide to 260. Abitibi closed at 79, the day's best, and Laurentide at 113 1/2, a fraction under the best. The largest gain was scored by St. Lawrence Flour, which sold up 8

Dr. Polovtzev is Assistant of Bolshevik Envoy in London.

BRILLIANT WOMAN IS SOCIAL REFORMER

Fully Qualified Dr. of Laws and Philosophy—She Was Minister of Warfare Under Kerensky.

By EDGAR G. MIDDLETON. (Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic News Service.)

London, Aug. 15.—The absence of Gregory Krassin, the Bolshevik envoy, from London, leaves a woman in charge of the Russian Co-operative Society here.

Krassin, business man before politics, wasted no time during his brief sojourn in London. His activities were manifold and not the least was the establishment of a new Russian co-operative organization—the "All-Russian Co-operative Society, Ltd."—the machinery of which, it is hoped, will prove instrumental in restoring the successful re-establishment of trade with Russia. In the development of the All-Russian Society he was ably assisted by a well-known woman co-operator, Dr. Polovtzev, whom he has appointed to the control, and who will act for him in purely business matters, during his frequent absences.

That is the bare recital of fact. Behind it lies the usual intrigue and controversy of conflicting interests, without which unfortunately no Russian political or commercial development is possible.

It was a simple matter for the government to offer to re-open trade with Russia through the channels of the co-operative societies. For Krassin to make use of that offer involved him in an intricate conflict with the London representatives of the co-operative organizations, who for policy throughout had been opposed to political, and particularly Bolshevik, control or dictation.

The result of Krassin's attempt to negotiate, however, was a severe disapproval within their ranks. The co-operators' camp became divided into two forces. Seventy per cent of the members determined to stand by their original policy, while the remainder voted in favor of opening negotiations with Krassin.

It was better, they claimed, to risk their personal differences, if by so doing they could alleviate in any degree whatever the present distressing economic conditions in Russia.

As a result of this decision, many of the minority members resigned, among them being Dr. Polovtzev, for some years the London director of "Centrosyuz," one of the most powerful of the Russian co-operative organizations representing over 300 different societies.

Throughout the history of the Russian co-operative movement, this brilliant woman has been one of its most noteworthy figures. Of middle-age and a descendant of one of the oldest and most aristocratic of Russian families, she has given her life to social reform. As a fully-qualified Doctor of Laws and Philosophy of Petrograd University, she received her early training as Professor of Philosophy at Berlin University, and already had achieved such a reputation that at the time of the overthrow of the Czarist regime, Kerensky offered her the post of Minister of Welfare in his first cabinet.

This offer Dr. Polovtzev accepted. She continued in office until Kerensky, in his turn, was deposed. Both Lenin and Trotsky pressed her to remain. But, disagreeing with the policy of the Soviets, after three months she resigned. Since which time she has devoted herself to the service of the Russian co-operative movement. M. Krassin showed characteristic shrewdness in his choice of an assistant.

Not only is Madame Polovtzev well versed in the intricate and delicate machinery of the Russo co-operative societies, but she is determined, apart from any political bias, to make use of that machinery for the re-establishment of trade between Russia and the outer world.

"Every Russian co-operator," she said in an interview, "who does not direct all his efforts to supporting the renewal of trade with Russia is acting against the vital interests of his people, and is one who mistakes private interests for the interests of the whole population, which is starving and imploring for an alleviation of their lot. Neither fear of compromising oneself as a Bolshevik nor the desire to keep co-operative organizations independent from any governmental control should be at the proper moment be given any consideration in face of the urgent object of restoring the economic life of Russia, both in the interior and in the relations with the whole world."

"Those of the Russian co-operators who wish to help, to give their whole effort for this purpose, to face all difficulties and opposition in front of them, would be happy to count on the sympathies and support of the British people."

A new co-operative society, she went on, "has just been organized in London, to promote the export and import of goods between Great Britain and Russia—the 'All-Russian Co-operative Society, Ltd.' Its aim will be exclusively the exchange of goods. And it will represent here the co-operative center in Moscow—the reorganized 'Centrosyuz.'"

Co-operative Movement. Dr. Polovtzev was at pains to outline the main points of development in this movement. "The co-operative movement in Russia since last March," she said, "has embraced the whole population; representing thus all the consumer interests. Since January last, it united all the co-operative organizations in one mighty organization, the reorganized 'Centrosyuz,' working in close contact with the government for the restoration of the economic life of the state. It has mentioned that about 80 per cent of the working capital of co-operation be loaned to the government thus explaining the necessity of control on the part of the latter."

"As the distributing medium, the co-operative organization in Russia at present, indeed, is gaining unprecedented importance. Outside of it there is no distribution of any products. All private enterprises are abolished. As well, it carries to a large extent the production and collection of goods for various government departments, while its representatives work hand in hand with the National Economic Council (sovmarkhoz), and the Commissariat of Health and Education.

"The educational work has been in part transferred to the Commissariat for Education. But the co-operators still have under their control not only the co-operative educational organizations and institutes for co-operative instructors, but also schools for general education of children and adults, and even the museum and cinema."

"Imagine a similar situation in North America—and Russia embraces an area as wide as the United States and Canada together—I am speaking now of Greater Russia. It is only of recent years that the great spaces of the West have been properly developed. The United States owes its proud standing among the nations to the initiative and enterprise of hundreds of varied and immensely wealthy financial and industrial corporations. We, the Russian co-operators, a single corporation, have been endeavoring to administrate the trade of a country vast in area and with the same population as the United States."

"As for Canada. Suppose a similar corporation were to approach the government one day and say, 'Give us carte blanche and we will develop all the virgin areas of the Northwest for trade for you.' What would the Canadian Government say? Of course, they would refuse. That will give you some idea of the gigantic burden which the Russian co-operatives are bearing today."

"Thus in the event of a future to re-establish trade with the outer world, a great part of the responsibility for that failure will be borne by the Russian co-operators."

"And how will that failure affect European nations in general?" Russian Conditions.

SOCIETY WOMAN IN "WAY DOWN EAST"

Mrs. Morgan Belmont in Cast of Griffith's New Picture—Has Appeared in Amateur Theatricals.

Mrs. Morgan Belmont, of New York and Newport, the first American society woman to appear in motion pictures, will be seen in D. W. Griffith's production of "Way Down East," which will open at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, New York, this month and will be released throughout the country in the fall, says Moving Picture World.

Mrs. Belmont plays the part of a Boston society matron in the earlier scenes in the production. For six weeks she reported at the Griffith studios at Munsterwick, N. Y., every morning, working until late at night, and receiving the same pay as other players working exactly in the same capacity.

Met With Injury. Her action is similar to that of Lady Diana Manners (now Lady Duffy Cooper, of London), who wished to enter motion pictures and called Mr. Griffith for work in his organization. The contract for her appearance had been signed when she met with an injury to her spine through a fall while watching one of the parades of returned British soldiers.

Mrs. Belmont, like Lady Manners, is very tall and slender. Several years ago she appeared in society theatricals with considerable success.

When Mr. Griffith was casting the society scenes for "Way Down East," Mrs. Belmont was one of seven members of the social set who applied for an engagement. Her personality was considered most suitable to the role.

SIXTY-SIX YEARS AS A PROTESTANT PHILANTHROPY

Letter from D. C. Clark, President of The St. John Protestant Orphans' Home

St. John, N. B., Aug. 14, '20. CITIZENS OF NEW BRUNSWICK:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have the honor of addressing you for the first time as President of The St. John Protestant Orphans' Home, the old institution which has borne the work of this splendid philanthropy for sixty-six years, and which has today traded its usefulness by reason of the lately-acquired second building in West St. John. There are now almost one hundred children in residence, where a year ago there was not half that number. Eighteen of these are infants being cared for professionally in the special baby wards of the West St. John institution. Much work has been done of late in bringing both buildings of the Home into modern condition, and with a doubled staff, a doubled cost of maintenance—fuel, food, illumination, general supplies, clothing, etc., etc.—expenses have, very naturally, increased enormously. Therefore, in setting aside your contribution for the Home this year may I ask you to take these serious matters in consideration? The old institution is maintained by the gratuities of the Protestant people of the province, and I have ample faith in their continued good-will and charity to hope for an especially generous response.

Yours faithfully, D. C. CLARK, President.

KINDLY ADDRESS CONTRIBUTIONS TO H. C. Rankine, Treasurer, 212 Germain St., St. John, N. B.

For Purity, Strength and Fine Flavor USE

What's The Use, Mr. Grocer,

(St. John Evening Times, Aug. 15)

A record book has been provided by Rev. W. D. Wilson, chief inspector under the prohibition act, and will be furnished to all dealers in essences, tinctures and extracts as required by the regulation adopted by the provincial government. The book contains a copy of the law, a date line, name of purchaser and address, the kind sold and the quantity. All dealers handling these commodities must first register with the chief inspector, otherwise they are liable to a penalty.

Of adding to your burdens for the sake of keeping alive the last "kick" of the liquor evil?

Especially when the great mass of the people themselves are willing to substitute the tube for the bottle. Read this:

(Moncton Times, Aug. 9)

It is stated that a large number of postcards disapproving of the sale of lemon extract are in circulation. The cards, it seems, are the ordinary postcards with a set text printed on one side. The gist of the text is to call attention of the remarks of Police Magistrate Ritchie, of St. John, as well as a statement of Dr. Addy, of St. John as to the terrible effects of drinking lemon extract and also expressing opposition to the sale of same. A blank is left for signature. All the cards are addressed to Premier Foster, St. John. It is stated these cards are being sent to many addresses throughout the country for signature and forwarding to the Premier.

FOOD PRICE FALL SEEN IN BIG CROPS

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Report Says Nation's Harvests Are Now Secure.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.) Washington, Aug. 16.—Lumper crops in all parts of the United States will bring about a slight reduction in food prices this fall, according to the forecast of all the leading economists of the committee on statistics and standards of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which was made public today.

According to Mr. Douglas, receipts at primary points have not been heavy, largely due to the lack of cars, yet prices "have been on the downward grade because of a great surplus, which, sooner or later must find not only a domestic but a foreign market."

"There is no longer any doubt of an abundant harvest. In all manner of agricultural products," says the report. "The winter wheat crop will be about 344,000,000 bushels and the spring wheat not less than 370,000,000 bushels. Despite severe local damage by black rust in some states of the northwest with a few more timely rains there will be 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn, of which the southern states will furnish about one-third. Texas has the greatest corn crop in its history, while Kansas has the unusual accomplishment of large corn and wheat yields in the same season."

"There will be a plentiful supply of other food products: Grain, tubers, oranges, fruit and vegetables for man and beast. Those prospects of farmers and bread lines can have the satisfaction that no one remembers now was they were of what they said. The wheat surplus in Kansas alone, taking into account that carried over from last season, is over 100,000,000 bushels, and requires 100,000 freight cars to move it, or about 4 per cent of the country. Shipments from southern points of fruits and vegetables average about 15,000 cars weekly and are gradually bringing down the price of these commodities to a point where they are as cheaply and as readily available as luxuries."

Lack of transportation is the principal hindrance to larger and better distribution. The prospects of farmers and even advance prices because of the comparative scarcity thus caused. Railroad rate advances point the way to an ultimate solution, but it seems a long story. Unless experience is misleading, the now purchasing power of the railroads will be a strong factor in maintaining both prices and the volume of business."

"MUST" IS DOING A BIG BUSINESS

Securities Sold Only by Those Who Have to Dispose of Them—Optimistic Feeling in the Air.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 15.—"Must" is doing a lot of business in the securities market right now, even in the face of somewhat higher quotations on certain stocks. "Must" sell it because a have not the funds wherewith to pay my part in the purchase of the stock, or because ten per cent of the General Consolidated Oil Company," is an utterance that is breathing from the lungs of quite a number of people, and the coincidence of this sort of remark has a price of 84 for that security, which is some ten points below the price at which the issue was offered to the public. The price of the stock is a price of 84 for that security, which is some ten points below the price at which the issue was offered to the public. The price of the stock is a price of 84 for that security, which is some ten points below the price at which the issue was offered to the public.

But Chicago operators are not selling securities unless there is a "must." They hear certain things which lead them to believe that the worst thing in the world, that is the European situation, is beginning to turn for the better. Last night there was a voice in the dark and this morning a few men bought some stock. The interest came from an underground route that an armistice between Russia and Poland had been agreed upon and that the conference of tomorrow will merely register the decision and hand it out to the reporters. The correctness of this information is not guaranteed, but it is not a "sensational newspaper report." It comes, as did the first news of the peace in Japan, from persons having direct relations with important foreign affairs. The fact that the fighting has not ceased does not

THE STANDARD'S FINANCIAL SECTION

MARKET RESUMES

DULL COURSE

Foreign Situation Served as a Deterrent to Any Constructive Efforts.

New York, Aug. 16.—The stock market today resumed its recent dull and tortuous course, the foreign situation and further movement of funds from this point to agricultural centres serving as the chief deterrents to any constructive efforts.

Developments over the weekend in the Russo-Polish controversy as to the frequency of international exchanges, although Paris witnesses strengthened evidence of announcement that the French government will assist its part of the Aago-French loan at maturity.

Reports from leading transportation terminals indicated freer movement of freight and this, together with better credit conditions, imparted a firm and strong tone to calls of the higher class. The inquiry for these shares, however, was light at best.

Shorts concentrated their operations in shipping, low priced oils and metals, and some of the better known specialties comprising the rubber, chemical, textile, food and paper groups, in which extreme losses extended to more than about five points.

The few striking exceptions to the general reaction included Crude Oil and Republic Steel, and among oil, conspicuous strength was shown by Royal Dutch and Shell Transport.

Final declines were confusing. Some of the steel, equipment and sugar then coming forward smartly, while American Car and affiliated issues developed increased heaviness. Total sales 1,700,000 shares.

Conditions affecting the money market were unchanged, all call loans being made at seven per cent, last week's ruling quotation, with only nominal sums available for thirty and sixty day loans.

Bonds, including Liberty and International issues, were irregular on limited dealings. Total sales, par value aggregated $5,375,000.

Old U. S. bonds unaltered on call.

STOCK MARKET

DULL AFFAIR

Standard Oil Only Issue to Show Any Activity.

(McDUGALL & COWANS.)
New York, Aug. 16.—The stock market was an extremely dull affair during the afternoon and throughout the entire session for that matter. Trading was very light and prices moved listlessly. Considerable activity developed in Standard Oil issues and Standard Oil of N. J., sold up to 67 1/2, a gain of 1 1/2 points. This strength is attributed to the belief that this Company will take some action in the near future, looking to a readjustment of its common stock.

Standard Oil of N. Y. is said to be formulating plans to sub-divide its common share, thus giving them a wider market on the exchange.

Activity also developed in the tobacco group when it became known that G. W. Whalen would soon arrive in N. Y. from abroad. Sales 287,500.

REPORT—SUBMITTED BY THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS TO THE GENERAL ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SHAREHOLDERS, 11TH AUGUST, 1920.

Gentlemen: We have the honor to submit to you for approval the account of Profit and Loss and the Bank's statement up to the 30th of June last, date of the closing of its twentieth year. As you are aware, the preceding statement covered a period of eighteen months. In spite of the very great increase in charges, consequent on the advance in the high cost of living, the results of our operations are very satisfactory. After deduction of all costs of management, provisions for the current quarter, payable on and after WEDNESDAY, the FIRST DAY OF SEPTEMBER next, to shareholders of record of 31st July, 1920.

The inventory of the Bank's assets has been made with great care and attention, following our habits. Expenses in connection with the opening of all branches and agencies of the Bank have been completely wiped out, and the figure representing the valuation of safes and furniture appears in the assets for a considerably reduced sum.

We should mention the total amount of taxes paid to the Federal and Provincial Governments and to Municipal Corporations amounting to the large sum of $48,423.

The statement submitted shows assets totalling to $39,075,524, as against $31,692,379 on the 30th of June, 1919, an increase of $7,383,145. On the credit side the total obligations due to the public for deposits, etc., is $36,738,269, as against $28,594,720 in the preceding statement, an increase of $8,143,549.

In accordance with the measures of prudence hitherto always observed, which have assured the Bank's success and high credit, your Directors have seen to it that liquid assets to a high degree form a large part of the Bank's assets; the Treasury is amply supplied; money in cash and in bank amount to the sum of $9,264,496, which, with Bonds of the Government of the Dominion of Canada and of the Allied Powers, Canadian Municipal Bonds and loans on demand guaranteed by securities pledged, represent a total of $26,489,628, being 74 per cent of the Bank's obligations to the public.

The head office of the Bank and all its branches and agencies have been visited, and the business transacted during the period under review has been carefully audited by competent officers.

Furthermore the auditors duly named by the shareholders have made an examination of the assets and liabilities of the Bank in conformity with the Bank Act. Their certificates appearing on the general statement shows that they have been perfectly satisfied. The Commissioner-Censors (the Permanent Commission of Control for the Savings Department) have been most devoted in the care they have taken, as appears sufficiently from their report which will be presented to this meeting.

As in the past, the staff has been unsparring in its co-operation. On our part, we have taken into account their needs resulting from the high cost of living, and we have done our best to help them to meet these new charges by increasing salaries and granting special allowances. Moreover, this year, we have added the large sum of $45,000 to the special Reserve Account for the creation of a Pension Fund, and we rest assured that our officers and employees appreciate the extent of our efforts.

The Great Impersonation

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM.

You are absolutely calm, absolutely without heart or sympathy when your work is concerned.

"Now I know the truth," she muttered.
Dominey found an opportunity to draw Seaman away from his little group of investment-seeking friends.

She turned very sweetly to Everard.
"Will you take me upstairs?" she begged. "I have been hoping so much that you would come before Doctor Harrison sent me off."

"All that I have pleaded for," Dominey reminded her earnestly, "is delay."
And what delay do you think, she asked, with a sudden note of passion in her tone.

"Just for a moment," she broke off.
"You were like Leopold. As a rule, you know, you are not like him. I think that you left him somewhere in Africa and came home in his likeness."

"I wonder! I am very observant, and I have seen her looking at you sometimes—Of course," Rosamund went on, "as I am not really your wife and you are not really my husband, it is very stupid of me to feel jealous. Isn't it, Everard?"

Stephanie's hands were extended as though to prevent any chance of Dominey's approaching her again.
"Look here," Seaman interrupted. "the Princess is a woman of the world. She knows what she is doing, and there is a definite tie between you and her."

"Well, I have done it," Dominey acknowledged. "She has gone off to bed now, and she is leaving early tomorrow morning. She thinks I have borrowed some West African magic, that I have left her lover's soul out there and come home in his body."

"I love you to say that," she admitted, with a little sigh, "but it seems wrong somewhere. Look how cross the Duchess looks! Some one must have played the wrong card."

"Kiss me—upon the lips, Leopold," she ordered.

Dr. William Warwick At Scout Camp

Found Everything Trim With Boy Scouts at Jenkins Cove — Delivered Lectures — Twenty-Six Boys Passed Examination for Public Health Badge.

Dr. William Warwick, sub-district medical officer for the Board of Health, returned Saturday evening from an inspection trip to the Boy Scouts' camp at Jenkins Cove, on the Bellisle Bay. He reports that the camp is in first-class condition and that he was very much pleased with the different sanitary arrangements that had been made.

While at the camp, Dr. Warwick delivered a set of lectures to the older boys in Public Health. Afterwards all boys who wished to qualify for the Public Health badge were examined by Dr. Warwick. Twenty-six boys passed the examination successfully and are now proudly wearing the Public Health badge. This badge has been only added recently to the list of badges that the scouts can attain. Dr. Warwick speaks very enthusiastically of the work being done by the scouts at the camp. The boys who tried the examinations showed a keen interest in the subject and a real desire to learn, and he was delighted with the excellent showing that they had made.

The weather man had not been very good to the boys last week, but it did not seem to dampen their enthusiasm in the least. The boys have developed wonderful appetites, and there is not such a thing as food thrown away. He fears that their parents will have to double-stock the larders to prepare for their arrival home.

Common Council Met In Committee

Notice of Motion Yesterday on Proposed Increase of Rates for Indiantown Harbor—Matter of Having New Bridge Higher Discussed—Complaints of Damage in Burying Ground.

Commissioner Bullock yesterday gave notice of a proposed amendment to the by-law governing the cost of licenses for steamers on Indiantown Harbor, raising the fee from $10 to $20 for steamers, and from $5 to $20 for towboats.

Commissioner Frink reported that he was having the road engineer prepare a grade for Lansdowne avenue which would be submitted for approval.

Commissioner Bullock was authorized to ask for tenders for 12,000 feet of spruce deals and 4,000 feet of boards for wharf repair work.

Commissioner Thornton said he had received complaints of damage done in the Old Burying Ground after the caretaker had gone home. He had kept a policeman part of the time, but could not spare a man all the time. Commissioner Bullock brought up the matter of asking the C. P. R. to raise the level of their new bridge to that of the highway bridge, and expressed the opinion that if this were done it might be possible to arrange for a subway under the track instead of the overhead now proposed. The matter will be looked into.

It was decided to take up the matter of water extension to Spruce Lake this morning at 11 o'clock, when it is expected the city engineer will be on hand to make a report on the quantity of water available.
