PARIS, Tuesday.—It is not often that Paris gets its fashion ideas from the Congo, but this is true of the latest style in sunshades. This week four of the principal houses in Paris sent models to the race course supplied with sunshades, the handles of which were composed of a combination of pampas grass and precious jewels. The grass is woven in native African style on a light bamboo base, and then studded with pearls, sapphires and emeralds. The general effect is extremely cool and refreshing. The linen of the parasol is itself embroidered with grass in a variety of fancy designs. Some parasols are so richly adorned that the price runs to thousands of dollars. The fashion was inaugurated by the young administrator of the Congo Colony, who sent a number of grass-handled parasols to his women acquaintances in Paris. He now has a hundred natives employed in doing the work and cannot supply the demand.

West Virginia is taking proper steps to put an end to the Black Hand within her borders. Three members of the society were captured recently and each was given 10 years in prison, which is the extreme limit of the law. M. Henri Turot a socialist municipal councillor, created amusement by a demand for the suppression of boxing, on the ground that it is injuring the morals of Paris. He alludes to the recent police prohibition of nude women on the theatre stage and defends the graceful feminine lines as a public spectacle against those of boxers, whom he calls "fat brutes."

London suffragettes are happy again. Some of them have been arrested.

Heart Strength

Heart strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Poorly, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a case of nerve trouble. The heart is a muscle, and like all muscles, it needs, and must have, more power, more vitality, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have their own controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all the painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this powerful, strengthening, and life-giving tonic—breaks and weakens nerve centers. It builds up strength; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed.

OTTAWA NOTES.

OTTAWA, Thursday. — Arrangements have been practically concluded as the result of which the militia camps will not have to be postponed but will go on this month as originally planned.

OTTAWA, Thursday. — Dr. Daniel addressed the House of Commons today on the subject of the representation in the Maritime Provinces. He was followed by Mr. Turgeon of Gloucester.

OTTAWA, Thursday. — The Commons committee on the banking and commerce this morning approved of the terms of a bill proposed by the Crown Life Insurance Company which provides for a re-organization of that company to restore an impairment of its capital. This end is accomplished by reducing the outstanding capital stock from 5,564 to 2,782 shares and by an agreement made with Mr. H. S. Strathy for the purchase by the latter of 3,000 shares in the company and for a cash payment of $75,000.

OTTAWA, Thursday. — There are reports that after today's sitting the public business will go more rapidly than it has been going, and there are sanguine prophecies that parliamentary work will be finished by the end of the month. It is a fact that both parties are beginning to feel apprehensive of the effect of the long session upon the public mind and both appreciate the necessity for moving haste. At the present moment a great many members on both sides are away electioneering in Ontario and Quebec and the delay suits both parties. But by the end of the week campaign work will be over. Voting will be on Monday and the majority of the absent ones will be here on Tuesday so that the work may promptly go on.

OTTAWA, Thursday. — Negotiations are well under way looking to a settlement of the contentious clauses of the Aylesworth bill and it is expected that an announcement will be forthcoming to this effect in the course of a day or two at the most. About the negotiations the arrangement proposed is one which is said to be satisfactory to both political parties.

OTTAWA, Thursday. — In the House of Commons this morning Dr. Reid (Conservative, Grenville) made an indignant denial of the statement yesterday of his having had his yacht repaired in the Marine Department depot at Prescott. Dr. Reid characterized it as absolutely untrue that the work had been done on his yacht that he had not paid for. It was agreed that Mr. Reid will have an opportunity to make his explanation in the public accounts committee next Wednesday.

QUEBEC, Friday.—Considerable excitement prevailed in the famous Chateau Frontenac when the night watchman discovered fire between the second and third floors. Guests were awakened and transferred out without the least excitement or commotion on the part of the building. The upper part of the large building by this time was fast filling with smoke and the firemen were engaged in deluging the interior with water from as many nozzles as they could bring to play on it. They were taking no chances and water simply poured through the walls and fell with force of a small cataract to the halls below; in fact such force that plaster of the ceiling gave way and fell from the second floor.

The scene of the fire was just above staircase leading from the lobby to the upstairs portion and water played havoc with the magnificent drawing rooms situated on the second floor. Beyond damage done by the axes of firemen no further damage was apparent.

Shortly after the fire started the electric light circuit was cut off and the hotel was in darkness, save for the flickering gleams of candles or flare of firemen's torches.

The origin of the fire is not known but it is supposed that the electric lights caused it. The damage from water is heavy and though not yet estimated will amount up in the thousands.

MONTREAL, Thursday. — Local officials of the G. T. state so far as they know no decision has been reached to abandon the Front Street site in Toronto and build the new station in the asylum property. The C. P. R. officials have left the matter in the hands of the G. T. R. officials but it is evident that the companies will try to force the city to pay the greater part of any outlay that will be caused by doing away with the level crossings.

A BRAVE GIRL OF THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION.
"In the mines of Akatul, in central Siberia, there is a beautiful girl of twenty-two serving a sentence of twenty years at 'hard labor,' says Kellou Durland, author of 'The Red Reign,' who has spent much time during the last year or two in Russia and in the June Woman's Home Companion the author then proceeds to tell the marvellous pathetic story of Marie Spiridonova, who was condemned to die for a 'political crime,' but whose sentence was finally altered to twenty years hard labor in exile, owing to the popular clamor for the girl's life all over the world."

CURED ITCHING PILES
Mr. C. V. Mutart is a Customs Broker and Insurance Agent at St. Catharines, Ont. He writes the Zam-Buk Co. as follows: "I have been a sufferer for years with itching piles. I have spent many dollars on advertised remedies for Piles but got no relief. A friend of mine advised me to try Zam-Buk. I had but little faith in any remedy to cure me, but tried one box and I got relief at once. I have used four boxes and am completely cured. I cannot thank you enough for such a wonderful curative. I have recommended Zam-Buk to my friends and they too were cured."

EUROPEAN METHODS.

Canada, being the latest of the great tree-producing countries of the world to have its forest resources exploited, is fortunately in a position to benefit by the experiences of other lands, and learn at no cost lessons for which they have often paid a terrible price. In this respect the United States, on account of their proximity and very similar physical and climatic conditions in the northern parts, first offer themselves for consideration. And the startling disclosures which have in recent months been made of the approach of failure of American forest resources afford Canadians a very striking illustration of the inevitable results of the extravagant forestry methods there adopted. But there is also much to be learned from a study of European methods, which are less familiar to people in this country.

In the first place in studying European methods it must be remembered that conditions are very different from those of America. The timber lands are very limited when compared with such forest areas as those of Canada, they have been out for many generations, and even centuries, and their preservation has made necessary a careful and elaborate system of management which might in its entirety be at present more or less impracticable in this country. Trade conditions, too, are different, and this could not be better illustrated than by the case of Germany, where an import duty is placed on pulpwood. On this continent such a duty is out of the question, and the whole difficulty is caused by the too great readiness of one country to take the other's wood. But there is a good reason for the duty in Germany, as it is necessary to protect the native lumbermen, who are greatly restricted in their operations by a careful system of government supervision against the competition of the Austrian dealers who are comparatively free to cut as they please.

Of all European countries, Sweden offers the closest parallel to the conditions in this country. Sweden has fine forest resources for a country of its size, but they have been eagerly exploited and now, in spite of a very efficient government forest service, a scarcity of timber begins to be felt. Furthermore, its neighbor, Norway, is drawing heavily on the Swedish supplies of pulpwood, as the Norwegian mills cannot find sufficient raw material at home. This position is very similar to that subsisting between Canada and the United States. In order to check this heavy exportation pulpwood the Swedish government in 1906 enforced an export duty of 35 cents a cord on pulpwood. And there is now a strong movement in that country to raise this duty to $1.50 a cord so as to make it practically prohibitive.

Another country which has an export duty on pulpwood is Finland, which is drawn on very largely by Germany for its pulpwood. An export duty was established, and not being sufficiently deterrent was doubled, and there is now an agitation for a still further increase. Furthermore the Finnish government insists on large exporters of pulpwood, such as Waldhof, of Mannheim, manufacturing into pulp in Finland, as much wood as they take out of the country. As a result Waldhof has lately constructed a 200 ton pulp mill in Finland.

In Austria there is no export duty, in spite of the fact that a great quantity of pulpwood is annually exported, especially to Germany. The reason, however, is clear when it is understood that the government owns only 7 per cent. of the timberland, all the rest being in the hands of private owners, the proprietors of great estates. These men would naturally be opposed to any check on their operations, but there is nevertheless a strong movement in Austria at present for such a duty as a means of forest preservation. In Germany, like Austria, there is no export duty, but it is seen that the home supplies of raw wood do not begin to suffice for home consumption, and this more elaborate system of forestry and government supervision is employed to preserve the forests from destruction. The other countries of Europe possess so little wood that they are not worth considering in this connection, except as horrible examples of the results of reckless forestry.

HOUSEHOLD RECEIPTS.

If kitchen floors are painted with boiled linseed oil they will be easily cleaned.

Hang woollens out on the line dripping wet, without wringing them at all. If dried in this way they will not shrink.

Half a lemon dipped in salt is excellent for cleaning copper articles. Oxalic acid, too, is equally successful both for copper and brass.

A few drops of alcohol rubbed on the inside of lamp chimneys will remove every trace of greasy smoke when water alone is of no avail.

Silver that is in daily use may be kept bright by placing it occasionally in hot borax water and allowing it to stand an hour or two. Rinse well with clear hot water, then wipe with a clean dry towel.

For dull and speckled mirrors take a small portion of whiting and add sufficient cold tea to make a paste; rub the glass with warm tea, dry with a soft cloth, rub a little of the paste wet on the mirror and polish dry with tissue paper.

To clean white or light feathers lay the feathers flat on a clean white cloth, then rub wheaten flour well in. After doing this shake out the flour. Hold the feathers for a few moments to the fire, shaking all the time, when they will look equal to new.

Natural wood should be freed from all loose dust before cleaning, and then may be wiped off with a woollen cloth moistened with oil and turpentine or with wood alcohol. This treatment should be followed by a rubbing with a dry woollen cloth to bring out the polish. A woman who found several dents in the hardwood of her dining room wainscoting restored it by laying over each dent a thick pad of wet brown paper, a wet cloth folded several times over that, and then applying a hot iron over all. When the pad was about dry it was removed and if the place still showed a mark the treatment was repeated.

AN EXCUSE FOR PRINTER'S ERRORS.

Newspaper readers, says the Pall Mall Gazette, are often angry or sarcastic (or both) at misprints. Perhaps they will be more charitable if they consider the 12 conditions under which a newspaper may be expected to come into the hands of the public without any printer's errors. They are: 1. When the contributor has written correctly. 2. When he has written the correct thing distinctly. 3. When the compositor has only the correct letters to the different cases. 4. When he does not take letters from a wrong case. 5. When he sets them correctly. 6. When the "reader" corrects every error. 7. When the compositor corrects the "rough proof" properly. 8. When the "reader" reads the corrected proof attentively. 9. When the compositor corrects the second proof properly. 10. When the revised proof is carefully "read." 11. When the "reader" has sufficient time to do this. 12. And when a dozen other circumstances work together for good.

A CONTEST OF MUCH INTEREST.

Vacation days are near, and the work of preparation will be pleasant employment for idle moments.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it 'Spring Fever.' But there is no fever—usually. It is the after-effects of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired worn-out nerves are sluggish, lifeless and without spirit, or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that this remedy is reaching that 'tired spot.' Druggists everywhere are advising its use. A splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the system than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, freshens sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced.

Interesting Budget From the Restigouche Shiretown.

DALHOUSIE, Thursday. — Messrs. John C. McLean and James McPherson, contractors for the substructure of the Eel River bridge were in town yesterday. They are about ready to begin work. Over 500 barrels of cement have been purchased and there is a large quantity of other material on the spot. Mr. A. R. Wetmore, provincial engineer is expected next week to lay out the work. Asked as to inspection, the contractors understood that Mr. Wm. Fraser, the veteran mason of River Charlie, would be the inspector of the substructure. This appointment has not yet been finally settled as there are a large number of applicants for the job. Among others Councillor Robert St. John, Ex-Councillor Wm. G. Mawhinney, Daniel McCurdy, James and John Miller.

Mr. J. E. Dean proprietor of the Inch Arran Hotel was seen by your correspondent this morning. The general manager said that he expected to have a few carpenters at work shortly to put up swings on the grounds near the hotel, a floating wharf and other attractive improvements. The bowling alley will be put in order and in fact everything that can possibly be done to make the place attractive for tourists during July and August. Several applications have already been received for rooms and there is every prospect that Dalhousie will see lots of tourists this year.

The patriotic concert given by the pupils of the public school last week was a great success. The Morris hall was crowded to the door. The quartette by Mrs. Potts and Messrs. Trueman, Storer and Lennox, and the duet by Mrs. Potts and Mr. Storer were very much enjoyed. One draw back to the concert was the noise made by the boys. This is nothing new in the shiretown and in future our policeman should attend all public functions and see that perfect order is kept.

Last year 714 persons wrote the matriculation examinations. It is expected that this year the number will be fully as large.

As a special freight train was running in the vicinity of Barnaby River yesterday, L. C. R. Driver Williamson noticed as many as twelve moose, two deer and one fox in a field nearby. The moose or deer did not appear alarmed but the fox quickly made its way to the woods. Two large bull moose were seen Wednesday in the field back of Mr. Wm. A. Taylor's house, South Esk.

Wages being paid men of the St. John River Log Driving Company this year are less than they were last year. This year $1 per day and board, while last year $1.25 and board was paid. The Douglas boom is the only one in operation thus far, and 140 men are employed there.

NO DELAY IN L. C. R. PAY DAY
Mr. Evan Price, district superintendent of the L. C. R. arrived by the express this afternoon from Campbellton, accompanied by his secretary, Geo. F. Miles. Mr. Price says that the pay for this month will be paid at the same time as usual on or about the 18th inst., and that there will therefore be no delay or inconvenience for the men who will all be paid at the usual time.—Gleaner, June 10.

VIOLATION OF GAME LAWS.
Chief Game Warden John Robinson Jr., had three young men of Rogersville brought before Police Magistrate Maltby Wednesday for violation of the game laws at Lakeland. Maxime Malt, Edward Richard and Alfred Thibodeau. The two former were each fined $20.00 and $12.75 costs and the latter $15.00 and $8.85 costs. As the young men pleaded ignorant of the law the magistrate said he would hold issue of commitments until the Surveyor General could be corresponded with.

The Chief Ranger said he would like for the court to let the fine stand for the young men's future good behavior as this is their first offense and they were ignorant of the law.

A. A. Davidson for the prosecution and E. P. Williston defending.

Big game is becoming very plentiful about Fredericton of late and one evening last week, while about three miles from the city, on their return from McLeod Hill, Douglas, Messrs. Frank Lister and Percy Gerow came upon five beautiful deer, standing together right alongside the road. Only a day or two before Fred Payne, while en route to the city from his home at Lincoln, met a large moose on the side of the road and on Sunday last a large moose came right into the slip at Morrison's mill, where for some time when it was chased back into the water by some children who later followed it in a canoe until it landed on the Lincoln shore. This may have been the same animal seen by Mr. Payne a day or two later.

Mr. Edward Hayes, Sr., of Renous River, caught a few days ago, the largest bright salmon ever known to have been landed on the Miramichi. The salmon was caught at the Donovan Rapids and weighed 22 1/2 lbs.

The Transcontinental Railway Commission, through C. O. Foss, District engineer, have appointed fire wardens on all the forest sections in New Brunswick to supervise the clearing and burning operations and see that proper precautions are taken to prevent fires.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Edward Currie, fish warden of Douglas, missing since Sept. 25 last, was cleared up Tuesday afternoon by the discovery of his body grounded on a rock in the river at the lower side of the court house slip, Fredericton. The body was in advanced stage of decomposition. Coroner Weaver will hold an inquest. Mr. Currie was forty-five years old and leaves a widow and four daughters, also five brothers. He carried $1,000 insurance.

Mr. N. Ritchie of the Miramichi Lumber company, has been engaged by the New Brunswick Railway company to make an estimate of the value of the standing timber on that part of the company's lands in the counties of Carleton and Victoria, which will be taken by the Transcontinental railway for a right of way. Moore, a miller at Mechanics' Settlement, Kings Co., was drowned on Tuesday evening last week in the mill pond close beside his home, and within earshot of his elder brother. Both lads were fishing, the younger from a big boom in the pond and the elder near at hand. Between the time when the latter last saw his brother alive and that when he again looked about for him twenty minutes elapsed. He heard no cry from the lad whatever. CONSERVATIVES WAVERING.

The Opposition at Ottawa agreed, on the 12th instant, to cease their obstruction long enough to permit the passing of a second interim supply bill, which provides for the payment of all salaries and the continuation of the public service. This relieves the public employees from the inconvenience of having their salaries indefinitely withheld.

Why the Opposition, who, several weeks ago, announced that they would completely block the passage of supply until the clause of the Amendment to the Elections Law obnoxious to them were dropped, should on two occasions so materially modify their program does not appear. To be logical, they should either have not adopted obstructive tactics at all, or, having adopted them, they should have fought the question out to the bitter end. Such wavering on their part should not increase the confidence with which they are regarded by the electorate.

CONCERNING SCHOOL BOOKS.

Mr. Hazen promised a cut of fifty per cent. in all school books, but the price of all other books, except readers, geographies and scribbles remains the same. The school children of New Brunswick will still be compelled to pay the old price for text books in history, arithmetic, algebra, geometry, chemistry, Latin, Greek, French, health and many others, and these are the most expensive books that have to be purchased.—Fredericton Herald.

"THE LAND OF THE FREE."

An American soldier has been sentenced to three years in the penitentiary because he attended an Anarchist meeting and shook hands at its close with Emma Goldman, one of the speakers. And yet our American friends are fond of talking eloquently of American freedom! "The land of the free!" There is no military regulation against shaking hands with an Anarchist, and Emma may be so good-looking that the soldier wanted an excuse for clasping her taper fingers. The sentence is more outrageously unjust and tyrannical than anything that has yet been reported from Russia.—Chatham World, J. L. Stewart editor and proprietor.

SMALLWOOD—FOGAN.
At the home of Mrs. Mary J. Fogan, Newcastle, on Wednesday, June 10th, her youngest daughter, Miss Frances, was united in marriage to Harry M. Smallwood, of the L. C. R., Newcastle. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. C. Rice, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride was becomingly dressed in a gown of white silk. She was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Violet Smallwood, who wore white organdy. The groom was supported by Wm. Fogan, brother of the bride. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome gold bracelet, and to the bridesmaid a signet ring. The young couple, who have the best wishes of their many friends, will reside in Newcastle.

MACKAY—CARR.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at Trout Brook, Kent Co., June 10th, at the home of the bride, when Ethel, daughter of John Carr, was united in marriage to Clifford Mackay of Harcourt. The bride who was given away by her father, was becomingly attired in white. Rev. H. H. Stavert officiated. After a dainty breakfast, the bride and groom left for their future home in Indian town. The bride's travelling dress was Alice blue cloth.

DESPONDENT WOMAN
COMMITTS SUICIDE

Mrs. James Shea, Despondent on Account of Ill Health,
Hangs Herself.

Despondent from the effects of a recent illness, Mrs. James Shea at noon on the 13th hanged herself in the attic of her home at Kent Junction.

The unfortunate woman's body, swaying from a beam, was found by her husband, who coming home to dinner, was surprised at not finding his wife in her accustomed place. He searched the house, but failed to locate her until he reached the attic, where he was horrified to find her suspended from one of the beams. The woman was dead when found.

Mrs. Shea was sixty-two years of age and had been in poor health for some time past. She became despondent, but Mr. Shea did not believe her condition was so serious as to lead to the rash act. She had no children. The house was near the I. C. R. track, and the body was viewed by several passengers on the express trains which passed through.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS
FOR YOUNG MOTHERS.

The hot weather months are an anxious time for all mothers, but particularly for young mothers. They are the most fatal months in the year for babies and young children, because of the great prevalence of stomach and bowel troubles. These come almost without warning, and often before the mother realizes that there is danger the little one may be beyond aid. It is the duty of every mother to use all reasonable precaution to ward off summer complaints. For this very purpose no other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets. An occasional dose will keep the stomach and bowels from offending matter, and will ensure the little ones good health. If the trouble comes unexpectedly the Tablets will speedily cure it. Every home, therefore, should keep the Tablets on hand always; they may be the means of saving your child's life. They are guaranteed free from opiates and narcotics, and may be given with perfect safety to a new born babe. Sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MILLERTON.

Salmon, bass and shad are being caught in fairly large quantities. Mrs. W. Cliff is slowly recovering from her serious illness.

Mrs. G. R. Parker spent a few days in town last week.

Mr. Week's new store is doing a fairly good trade. Ladies were treated to candy, and gentlemen to cigars first day of opening.

Rev. Mr. Colquhoun is expected home shortly. We trust that the Reverend gentleman will be sufficiently recovered as to resume his work again.

The new school is being rapidly erected. It will be a fine addition to the place. The cost will probably be about $3000. Mr. Forsythe has the contract.

Miss Miller has returned home after several years teaching in the States.

It is rumored that workmen's houses for the employees of the new pulp mill are to be built.

IN MEMORY OF
Rev. Wm. MORRISCY.

(By Wm. RAMSAY.)

While resting on my cot one night,
These words came to my head,
To place a few lines about
Father Morrissey who is dead.

He passed away as in a dream,
Bidding all dear friends farewell
For he knew that his work was done,
On earth where he did dwell.

So loving and so truthful,
So skillful and so wise,
He's gone to that happy home above,
With God in Paradise.

There were fully one thousand people,
Or at least the papers said,
Walked ten abreast together,
To the grave where he was laid.

Fully thirty Priests and Bishops,
His soul in Heaven they blest,
Whilst in the grave they lowered him,
Placed his body for to rest.

A brighter home he has attained,
A brighter path to tread;
For his wondrous works on earth he'll
A crown upon his head.

His numbered years were sixty eight,
And on earth he'll toil no more,
Thy blessed Saviour called him home
To that bright eternal shore.

At Bartibogue he did reside,
On a point beside the sea,
Where the waters glide so swiftly by,
From down the Miramichi.

JUST WHAT IS WANTED

ST. JOHN, Saturday.—The amendments of the Canada Temperance Act debated in the senate on Thursday caused gratification to the local temperance men. A prominent temperance man here, speaking of the matter yesterday afternoon said the proposed alterations to the law are just what is wanted.

He expressed the opinion that the Scott Act is the best piece of temperance legislation ever introduced into Canada. The case, however, with which liquor could be transported from a license into a non license county had always interfered with its proper enforcement. It is true that the provincial legislature might pass legislation to enforce this point as had been done in New Brunswick but the proposed amendments introduced into the Dominion act would make it very much better to enforce the law.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO MIDDLE LIFE

From girlhood to middle life the health and happiness of every woman depends on her blood. If her blood is poor and watery she becomes weak, languid, pale and nervous. If her blood supply is irregular she suffers from headaches and other unpleasant distress which only women know. At every stage of a woman's life Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are her best friend, because they actually make the rich, red blood which gives health and strength and tone to every organ of the body. They help a woman just when nature makes the greatest demand upon her blood supply. Mrs. H. Gagnon, who for twenty years has been one of the best known residents of St. Roches, Que., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. I was weak, worn out and scarcely able to drag myself from headaches and dizziness, my appetite was poor and to attempt housework left me utterly worn out. I slept badly at night and what sleep I got did not refresh me. For nearly three years I was in this condition and was constantly taking medicine, but found no benefit from it. One of my neighbors who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with much benefit, advised me to try them. I did so, and the whole story is told in the words 'I am well again'. There are times yet when I take the pills for they seem to me a guarantee against the troubles which so many women suffer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not act on the bowels. They contain just the elements that actually make new blood and strengthen the nerves. That's why they cure anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, lumbago, headaches, backaches, heart palpitation and skin diseases like pimples and eczema. That's why they are the greatest help in the world for growing girls who need new blood and for women who are troubled with irregular health. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BATHURST NEWS AND NOTES.

BATHURST, Friday.—One of the most severe thunder storms passed over this section of country on Wednesday afternoon. A barn belonging to Fred Cole on the south side of Big River was struck by lightning and was burned to the ground with all its contents including one hundred and fifty bushels of oats, farm implements, harness, sleighs, waggon and carts. Two horses were removed with difficulty.

The residence of E. J. Palmer on St. Andrews st. was struck. The bolt passed down the chimney and out the rear of the house. Little damage was done outside of the destruction of the chimney which was rendered unsafe for use.

Word received from Grand Anse states that a barn was also destroyed there and only with great difficulty were the neighbors able to save the adjoining house.

Paisley Miller, accompanied by his wife and child, arrived here yesterday morning and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller. Mr. Miller left here about seven years ago and went to Michigan. He is now located at Gladstone where he is engineer on a train. They will probably remain east a couple of months.

Miss Marion Miller returned yesterday from Richibucto, where she has been visiting since the close of Mt. Allison.

Miss Mable Windsor left yesterday morning for Boston where she expects to remain a month, during which time she will attend the Harvard closing exercises.

L. A. Palmer returned last evening from Carleton.

The quarantine has been lifted from the White House and a number of commercial men were registered there today.

J. A. Marven is in town today. Rev. Mr. Bartlett secretary of Sunday school and Epworth League work of the Methodist church for Eastern Canada delivered an able address in the Methodist church last evening.

He spoke along the different lines of Sunday school work, dwelling upon the work being done by the Adult class. The school here has one of the classes and it was under its auspices that Mr. Bartlett came here.

BATHURST, Saturday.—J. Y. Mercereau paid us a flying visit yesterday afternoon, returning to Chatham this morning.

Miss Bessie Bishop has returned to her home.

Mrs. L. C. Loosen, Buffalo, N. Y., is at the Robertson House.

Fred S. Moore and J. A. Latimer, Springfield, Mass., are in town in connection with the Nipisiguit Lumber Co., Ltd.

George L. Kelly, M. Bohah, St. John; George Strachan, Toronto, and L. Shottier, Montreal, are registered at the Robertson.

Rev. A. D. McCully has returned from the District Meeting at Newcastle.

Clarence J. Veniot, son of our popular collector of customs, who is attending Laval Medical College at Quebec, passed first on list with highest honors in his baccalaureate, also divided prize of excellence with two classmates and captured several burseries.

It is rumored that H. M. Buckley, I. C. R. agent at Gloucester Junction, has been appointed to the vacancy made here by the transfer of Mr. W. R. Payne to Newcastle.

Mr. Buckley is a very popular official and his many friends are glad to hear of his transfer. He has been on the I. C. R. for a number of years, and has proved himself an excellent station master always being obliging to both the travelling public and railway men and at no time neglecting his duties.

RETIRED CAPTAIN
ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

DIGBY, N. S., Friday.—Capt. Fred Olsen of this town, a retired sea captain, tried to end his life today by cutting his throat, but was prevented in the nick of time.

At the first cut he screamed. This attracted attention to his rash act and he was prevented from completing his own destruction. He is sixty years of age and a wife and one child, who were visiting the former's brother Prof. Haycock, of Acadia, were immediately summoned home.

JURY DISAGREED IN
DOHERTY TRIAL

In the P E Island Murder Case 7 Jurors Thought Prisoner Insane

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sunday.—On Friday last at 6.20 p. m., the Doherty murder case was given to the jury. At 11 p. m., they reported no decision and were allowed to sleep over it.

At 1.30 a. m., Saturday, they came down and reported a disagreement, and were charged and sent back by Judge Fitzgerald. They then stood 8 to 5 in favor of 'Not Guilty,' on account of insanity.

At 9.50 a. m., they came down and again reported a disagreement 7 to 5 in favor of 'Not Guilty.'

Then Judge discharged them without further words.

On motion of Attorney-General Palmer a new trial was ordered to begin Monday morning.

It is expected that considerable time will be taken in empanelling a new jury. The evidence will probably be shortened, for instance two doctors will be called by the crown instead of two to meet the plea of insanity advanced by the defence.

If the jury again disagrees and it is ascertained that they are fairly evenly divided it is probable the case may be adjourned till next fall. There is at present quite a feeling in Summerside and vicinity in favor of the accused. If it develops to undue proportion an appeal may be made for holding the trial in another county.

It is thought that probably Stella McDonald may have some new evidence to offer at the second trial.

SENATE AMENDS
THE SCOTT ACT.

The Bill Makes it Unlawful to Send Liquor Into a Scott Act County.

OTTAWA, Thursday.—In the Senate today Senator McGregor on the second reading of his bill to amend the Canada Temperance Act, said that twelve of the eighteen counties of Nova Scotia had for many years enforced the Canada Temperance Act. There had been great benefit. However, recently two counties had voted against the act and he believed this was chiefly due to a defect in it which his bill proposed to cure by making it unlawful to send liquor into a county which had voted for the enforcement of the Canada Temperance Act from a county which had not voted for it. A resolution favoring this had unanimously passed the Nova Scotia legislature.

A number of Senators including Senators McSweeney and Doolittle spoke against the Scott Act.

The German Consul Dr. Hollman arrived with Hafid Taib Tas brother of Mamammed Tas Ad-El-Aziz minister of Finance who has prominently supported Mulai Hafid declares that he has received a letter from the German legation at Tangier stating that when Mulai Hafid entered Fez Germany would recognize him as Sultan and other powers would follow suit.

Chas. B. Ullimo, Convicted of Selling French Secrets, Sentenced For Life.

TOULON, Friday.—A pitiable spectacle, the degradation of the traitor, Charles B. Ullimo, formerly a naval officer, occurred at Stoch Square here today in the presence of an enormous crowd.

Ensign Ullimo, was arrested at Toulon last October, charged with being a spy. Examination of his effects showed him to be in possession of many valuable documents. Last February he was found guilty by Court martial, of attempting to sell naval secrets to a foreign power, and sentenced to life imprisonment in a fortress and to be degraded in rank. Train excursions were run into Paris and thousands of people from the surrounding country came to witness the ceremony.

n National Convention

CHICAGO, Friday.—Tonight will see the end of long drawn out series of contests waged for seats in the republican national convention before the National Committee of the party. The committee thus far has been able to work close to the limit, set for various cases. Their way cleared for the final arrangements for the big gathering next week. Despite the action in the seating of at least 539 delegates favorable to Taft was a revival of the presidential 'Booms' today. The friends of Governor Hughes, of New York, showed especial activity.

ALLEGED CORRUPTION.

OTTAWA, Friday.—Today was spent in the Commons in passing supply for the Customs. Mr. Cockshutt alleged political discrimination was practiced in favor of friends in Customs seizures, whereby these friends, when they got into trouble had been able to settle privately with the inspector. He cited the Montreal case to back up his statement, and added that it was unfortunate that Mr. Patterson decided this.

REFUSE TO LET CATTLE IN

LONDON, Friday.—In the House of Commons last night several members protested against the board of agriculture's refusal to withdraw the prohibition against the importation of cattle for immediate slaughter from disease free countries, alleging that this refusal was playing into the hands of the American meat combination Sir Edward Strachey, the representative of the Board of Agriculture in the House, on behalf of the Board, denied that the operations of the so-called meat trust tended to raise the prices. On the contrary, he said, the policy of the trust in bringing dead meat into the country in preference to live cattle was an economical method to lower the prices.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST.

Homestead Regulations.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres more or less.

Application for entry must be made in person by the applicant at a Dominion Lands Agency or Sub Agency for the district in which the land is situated. Entry by proxy may, however, be made at an Agency on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of an intending homesteader.

(1). At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of land in each year for three years.
(2). A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

(3). If the father (or mother if the father is deceased) of a homesteader has permanent residence on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of the homestead, or upon a homestead entered for by him in the vicinity, such homesteader may perform his own residence duties by living with the father (or mother).

(4). The term "vicinity" in the two preceding paragraphs is defined as meaning not more than nine miles in a direct line, exclusive of the width of road allowances crossed in the measurement.

(5). A homesteader intending to perform his residence duties in accordance with the above while living with parents or on farming land owned by himself must notify the Agent for the district of such intention.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

FAR FROM THE MADD'ING CROWD.

(By a Banker.)

To the tired brainworker, who, from "early morn till dewy eve," day after day, week after week, month after month, sits at his desk, perhaps engaged in literary work, or perhaps occupied in the still harder work of controlling some great commercial undertaking, to shake the dust of the great city from his feet and for a time to quit the haunts of men and rove about amidst the wild mountain scenery of the Pyrenees of the Alps, is indeed the acme of mundane enjoyment. Instead of the smoke-laden atmosphere of the city he is now breathing the free invigorating upper air of the mountains, and, alpenstock in hand, leaps from boulder, or from one ice hummock to another, as though his youth had been renewed like the eagles.

And who, unless his heart were very adamant itself, could roam about amongst the glorious scenery of the mountains without experiencing a feeling almost of ecstasy coursing wildly through his veins, for he is in the midst of surroundings of the sublime grandeur and magnificence. In front a mighty glacier, torn and rent into irregular, fantastic columns and pyramids of ice, gendored in a vale between two opposing ranges of up-reared, pinnacled cliffs, their beetling crags rising sheer towards the deep azure of the skies; while here and there the rugged surface of the ice is cleft into deep crevasses; now as brilliant a blue as the skies of heaven above, or now a vivid brilliant gray, varying in beauty with the emerald itself.

Beneath, and bordering the course of the glacier, is a wild rocky garden of lovely alpine flowers blooming in wildest profusion and luxuriance; while still further down the landscape is set out as in a map—winding rivers, in their height like a thread of molten silver, a small sparkling lake bordered by a dense forest of pines, numerous hamlets, and scattered chalets and lodges.

Aye, to escape for a time and roam about these beauties far from the madding crowd, is indeed a pleasure and a joy. But when the time comes for the weary toiler to cast off his earthly burdens, if he has conformed life according to his Creator's commands, and if, through the expiatory sacrifice of the Saviour of the world, upon whom he has laid his sins, there is no record on high against him, his redeemed spirit will bound upwards to the Paradise of God, where the glories and the beauties are such that the mind of man is altogether unable to conceive.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN

Unexpected interest is being shown in the St. John Exhibition by the merchants and manufacturers of not only the Maritime Provinces, but in Upper Canada as well. These, with the entries in the Agriculture department, will be sure to make the show a most attractive one. The amusement features promise to be of a more novel and startling than usual. The prize lists are interesting reading, and are sent upon request, to anyone. The dates of the Exhibition are easily remembered—September 12th to 16th.

SAVE THE CHILDREN
Insure Them Good Health.

Ninety per cent. of children, under twelve years of age, are being poisoned and parents don't realize it. Irregular bowels are the chief cause. You parents know that your bowels should move every day. You know you must be as regular as clock-work, or the blood will become tainted. Don't you realize that the children must be as orderly in getting rid of the waste matter of their system? Then, if you find that any of the little ones go two or three days without action of the bowels, don't run to castor oil, senna tea, calomel, cascara or harsh "liver pills." Those simply purge the child—strain the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the ideal medicine for children. They are fruit juices and tonics in the form of a pleasant tasting tablet. "Fruit-a-tives" stimulate the liver, causing more bile to flow. It is the bile, given up by the liver, which moves the bowels. "Fruit-a-tives" regulate the liver and bowels, and thus completely cure constipation. They sweeten the stomach, and are the finest tonic in the world to build up the system and make children plump and rosy. See a box-six for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your dealer does not handle them. "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

FLEWELLING'S SHORTAGE

REACHED $20,000.

It is learned that in the special audit of the books of the late W. P. Flewelling, deputy surveyor general, the shortage so far discovered runs up to about $20,000, instead of $12,000 as previously stated.

It is understood that some three years ago, shortly after the general elections of 1904, a shortage of about $13,000 developed and while the books are arranged as to make it appear that this shortage was fixed up in some way or other, there is nothing to show how it was fixed up, if it ever was, in fact there is nothing to show whether it ever was actually straightened out.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

Three years ago the conservative won Ontario from the Liberals, having a majority of forty or more in a house of ninety-eight members. There have been nine by-elections since then, besides the elections rendered necessary by the return of members of the government, and of these the conservatives won five, the Liberals three and the labor party one. On Monday next for the first time since confederation a conservative government makes an appeal to the people of Ontario. Except from the period of 1867 to 1871, when a coalition government was in power, the Liberals have always held the reins of power when elections were brought on. Thus, the Blake government held office from Dec. 20th, 1871 to Oct. 25th, 1872; Sir Oliver Mowat led the government from Oct. 25th, 1872 to July 19th 1896, after which period the Hardy government continued in office until Oct. 17th, 1899. Hon. Geo. W. Ross became premier in the latter year, and continued in power until Feb. 7th, 1905, when Mr. Whitney captured the province. In the legislature to be chosen on Monday there will be one hundred and six members, and Mr. Whitney expects a large majority. Over sanguine conservatives declare the Liberal minority—the number is less than thirty—will be still further reduced, but that is not the opinion of the ordinary observer. It is more than likely that the Liberal strength will be increased, but to what extent is very uncertain. Mr. Whitney starts off with securing six seats by acclamation. Mr. McKay, the Liberal leader, has made a vigorous and an aggressive campaign, and has been partially aided by some of the federal ministers. He is very hopeful of adding to the number of his supporters.

In Quebec the situation seems to be about the same as in Ontario, except that the position of the parties is reversed. The Liberals are in power and are strongly entrenched. The conservatives in the legislature must necessarily be increased, because there were only seven in the last assembly, but it is claimed the Liberals will win handsomely, even though the Nationalists have joined hands with the conservatives. Mr. Gouin has the satisfaction of winning five supporters by acclamation, but he is being vigorously fought in districts where he had won easily in previous years. He is thoroughly confident of the decision of the people on Monday next—Globe.

THE GIRL WHO WASN'T AFRAID.

The burglar was in the act of pouring out a glass of wine from a decanter on the sideboard, when the door opened and a remarkably beautiful girl stood on the threshold facing him.

She was clad in an elegant ball dress, with a string of pearls clasped round her slender, shapely throat, and a crushed spray of lilies of the valley nestling on her bosom.

Her dazzling white arms seemed almost to flash in the bright electric light which the burglar had been careful to switch on, and her wealth of gleaming hair was surmounted by a single rose, set there carelessly, as one may set a sume, in the sudden caprice of a maiden dallying in front of her looking-glass with little private effects before the final moment of retirement.

With one small satin shoe thrust delicately forward, and one hand still resting on the knob of the door, which she held open, her lips parted in an inarticulate gasp of surprise, and her great blue eyes open wide in sheer amazement, she completely justified at that instant her claim to be considered one of the prettiest debutantes of the past London season.

The burglar, at the very first glance, conceded it. The slight shade of annoyance that had crossed his features passed instantly, as he turned toward her with a little bow.

"With your permission," he murmured politely, at the same time raising the wine glass to his lips.

"Who are you?" demanded the girl, her eyes still riveted on his face, as though in a kind of fascination, which, nevertheless, seemed singularly free from any element of terror—for the accents of the burglar had instantly conveyed by their subtle tone of culture, a strange and soothing sense of security to her soul, together with a vague sense of something at that moment vaguely familiar to her memory.

"Who are you?" she repeated, in a rather more peremptory voice, as he carefully set down the empty wine glass on the sideboard again.

The burglar passed a cambric handkerchief delicately across his lips. "Oh, don't you know?" he replied with an apologetic gesture. "I'm a burglar."

"A—good gracious me—a burglar, did you say?" she exclaimed in a tone of incredulity.

"If you will kindly shut that door—," he suggested courteously. "Yes, I'm a burglar."

She closed the door behind her and stepped into the room.

"Is that open you wear that horrid black mask," she inquired, "and drink claret at 3 in the morning?"

"I felt a trifle thirsty," he explained with a penitent air. "And the mask was, of course, a necessity. All burglars wear masks. They have to. It's a rule of the game, you know."

"A rule of the game?" she asked, looking at him with a reproachful air. "Surely, you don't think I am such an intolerable idiot as to break into a person's house at night and run the risk of being shot by Sir Thomas just for fun, do you?"

"To say nothing," she added, with a pout, of frightening me to death."

"You don't give a casual observer the impression of being frightened to death by her features. Besides really I hadn't the faintest notion that you were staying with Sir Thomas—I thought you were with your uncle and aunt in Grosvenor square."

"I only came here yesterday for a short visit," she explained him, while my uncle and aunt were away. They had to go down into the country. So it was a bet, was it?"

"Certainly said the burglar. I was dining tonight, with Charlie Craster and Lord Penhurst, and they bet me that I wouldn't burgle Sir Thomas' house and fetch away a silver teapot, or something of the kind—to prove I had really got in, you know, and I took the bet, and they are waiting round at Craster's chambers for me now."

"How awfully interesting," she said, leaning forward with parted lips. And that stupid Lord Penhurst wouldn't bet you a pony that you wouldn't 'o it?"

"Actually," said the burglar. "And I really can't afford to lose it, you see. That's why I want the teapot."

"But," she knitted her brows together in perplexity—"what do you want a pony for, Mr. Tolroy? You've got one horse already, haven't you?"

"A pony," he explained, glancing at her severely, "he is not an animal—I mean, not always an animal," he corrected himself. "In this case it is a sum of $50, which I should regret extremely having to hand over to Penhurst and Craster."

"I think I should too," she remarked pensively. "Both Mr. Craster and Lord Penhurst are quite rich enough as it is, while you—"

"Oh," said the burglar, "don't mind finishing the sentence, please. I'm not rich. I'm only a younger son, and—to be quite candid with you—I have been profusely thinking of taking up some profession lately. Burglary struck me as a not unprofitable one."

"And you mentioned this intention to your friends at dinner?"

"Well, to be accurate—after dinner." They agreed that the idea was good, but not practicable. I offered to prove that it was both. Hence, the bet you see."

"Ah, the modern burglar is more polished—less colloquial," he explained apologetically.

"I do hope," he added with sudden concern, "you have not caught a chill? The fire has been out some time, and the room—as you have perhaps noticed—is growing a trifle cold. Your ball dress—"

"Oh, I don't feel cold," she assured him. "My dress is—"

"A delicious creation," he put in enthusiastically. "If you will permit me to say so, it suits you to perfection. I will venture to swear you were the belle of the ball tonight."

She shrugged her beautiful, round shoulders as one to whom such compliments came as a matter of course. "Yes," she agreed; "curiously enough, the same thing has occurred to me. Please, what's that morose leather—that? Oh, that's for the teapot; the burglar explained."

"Mr. Tolroy," she said sweetly, "I think you would look ever so much nicer if you took off that stupid black mask."

The burglar gave a little resigned gesture; then he sat up and carefully removed the bit of black cardboard from his forehead.

"To think that you should have recognized me," he murmured. "Anybody could recognize you from your voice and the way your chin sticks out," she retorted. "And now you will perhaps explain why you are behaving in this extremely idiotic way?"

"Idiotic way," ejaculated the burglar indignantly. "I don't see that it's idiotic at all. Unusual and adventurous if you like—but idiotic—"

"Well,—unusual and adventurous, then," she conceded, "since you prefer it."

The burglar looked mollified. "A person for daring enterprises," he began.

"Led you," she interposed scornfully, to enter a friend's house in the middle of the night by the window and steal his silver teapot?"

"Ah, by the bye," rejoined the burglar, with sudden briskness, "the silver teapot. I was almost forgetting it."

"Why do you want it?" she demanded, turning a pair of wrathful eyes upon him. "What on earth's the use of a teapot to you?"

"No use at all," admitted the burglar. "I hardly ever drink tea, but a teapot is the sort of article that is most likely to carry conviction. Burglars always collar teapots and spoons. A teapot is probably what they expect, you see."

"What they expect? What you expect?" she exclaimed impatiently. "I don't see at all."

"Why, those silly Johnnies who mad the bet with me, of course," he explained.

"A bet. O—oh." She drew the exclamation out on a gradual note of comprehension.

"I begin to understand. So you have made a bet with somebody?"

He looked at her reproachfully. "Surely, you don't think I am such an intolerable idiot as to break into a person's house at night and run the risk of being shot by Sir Thomas just for fun, do you?"

"To say nothing," she added, with a pout, of frightening me to death."
