MAIL ORDERS
 We solicit out of town orders which receive our personal attention. The length of time taken to fill orders is governed very largely by how busy we are in the department of our factory in which the particular goods are made. While we have exceptional facilities for promptly turning out goods, it is important to place orders as far ahead as possible. Orders are filled by us in the rotation in which they are received, and customers can always depend on our doing everything in our power to give prompt despatch.

SOLDIER'S TRIBUTE TO 26TH BATTALION

"There is no Stopping That Bunch When They Get Started," Says Pte. Tufts

"Canada can well be proud of her sons in France," writes Pte. Frank A. Tufts, of No. 2 Canadian Pioneer Battalion, to his mother, Mrs. Benjamin Tufts, of 123 Acadia street. The letter is full of optimism and cheerfulness, and he says that the 26th Battalion stops at nothing, always taking what they set out to get. The letter is as follows:—

"Dear Mother:—I was speaking to a number of St. John boys recently and they are all well. I do not know how the 26th made out in the recent big fighting, but I think their losses were light. There is no stopping that bunch when they get started. They have always gotten what they went after. The bombardment was terrible. The Prussian Guards seem to be more favored than the other units of the enemy, as they were all dressed in full uniform and much better dressed than the others. It was pitiful to see one little fellow with his leg shattered, laying on a German Bible. No doubt you have heard of the new kinds of armoured cars of the Allies. They are queer looking but they have the Huns guessing. One went through a village that the Germans were holding, and they started to throw bombs at it. They might just as well have kicked at it for all the harm they did with the bombs. Nothing stops it short of a brick wall, and it can blow it down and go on at that.

"Canada can well be proud of her sons in France. Once again they have made a good haul of prisoners since I started this letter.

THE DEATH OF CAPT. R. K. SHIVES

"Accidental Death" Was the Verdict of the Coroner's Inquest

The Canada Gazette, London, in its issue of Oct. 5, says: "An inquest was held at Thetford on the body of Capt. Robert Kilgour Shives, 25, a flight commander of the Royal Flying Corps, who met his death the previous day through a gun accident. A verdict of accidental death was returned. Capt. Shives' home was at Campbellton, New Brunswick, Canada, and he had been wounded in the air in France. The evidence showed there were three spent cartridges, and the explosion shattered his head.

TO RAISE FUNDS FOR 26TH BATTALION

Young Ladies of Tipperary Club Will Hold Tag Day Saturday, Oct. 21st

In response to the appeal of Lt.-Col. A. E. G. McKenzie for funds to purchase extras for his gallant boys of the 26th Battalion, the young ladies of the Tipperary Club are to hold a tag day on Saturday, Oct. 21st. We trust that our citizens will respond liberally to this worthy purpose. The young ladies hope to have the money forwarded in time to reach Col. McKenzie so that he may be able to supply a special Christmas treat for his battalion. Campbellton should at least raise $500.00 for this purpose.

So when the young ladies confront you on Saturday, dig down deep and pay, pay, pay.

CURZON'S GLOWING TRIBUTE TO CANADA

London, Oct. 17.—Speaking at the Etonians' luncheon to the Duke of Devonshire, Earl Curzon declared: "If there is any among the dominions of the crown that has established for itself the right to rank among the great nations of the earth, it is Canada. If there is any part of the British empire that is assured of a dazzling, and almost limitless expansion in the future, it is Canada. If in this war there are any of our fellow subjects who in superlative degree might be said to have shown loyalty of loyal and bravery of brave, those are our fellow subjects from the dominion."

The Duke of Devonshire, replying, said that Canada had played her part in the war. He felt proud to think that he would be able to hear a message to the people of Canada of gratitude and heartfelt sympathy for the assistance they had rendered to the empire in the great struggle.

SAD TRAGEDY AT MONCTON I. C. R. OFFICES

Drink Crazed Soldier Shoots and Kills Clerk He Had Never Seen Before

Moncton, Oct. 17.—The news of a tragedy swept over the city of Moncton like a flash of lightning this afternoon, and the crime seemed so incredible, it was scarcely at the outset believed. So far as can be learned Mr. John Fletcher Rogers, a clerk in the Accounting Department of the I. C. R., went to the vaults in the basement of the I. C. R. General Offices either to file or procure some papers. Those who saw him leave and go down, never imagined for one moment that was the last they were to see of him alive.

About the same time the Ocean Limited Express arrived from Halifax, and it was being disconnected to form the usual two trains, one going north and the other west.

A passenger on that train apparently was a soldier officer, whose name is believed to be Lieut. John E. Merrill, whose identification card gives him as an officer in the 10th Battalion (King's Own Regiment) England. On the train he gave evidences of being crazed by drink.

On reaching Moncton, under the influence of drink, he left the train and found his way across the green in front of the I. C. R. General Offices.

Those acquainted with the building will know that there are stone steps leading to the main floor, and through there is a doorway entering into the basement. He must have passed through this doorway. On this there is no light at the present. All that is known is that he met this clerk, Mr. J. F. Rogers, and as a result of that meeting he drew a revolver and shot him, although a perfect stranger so far as known, and as a result of that revolver shot, Mr. Rogers died within a very few minutes. Such is the story in brief.

PTE. STEWART ADAMS

The many friends of the late Stuart Adams as well as citizens generally, regret to hear of his death at the front. He was at first reported as missing after a determined fight between the 15th and 17th September. Afterwards his father and mother were notified of the fact of his death. This young man, one of our own boys grown up among us, was only in his 23rd year. He enlisted at first with the 56th and after keeping him for seventeen days, he was turned down as physically unfit. He afterwards underwent an operation to fit him for enlistment in the 26th, with which he remained during his life. Stuart was enthusiastic in his ideas of prosecuting this war and determined to have a hand in doing so, having stated on more than one occasion that he would pay his own way over to England and enlist if he could not get there otherwise. He was in the thick of the fighting up to the last and his letters to his mother expressed the fact that he was "so tired." He had never had a day off after his enlistment with the 26th. When he asked for a day off he was told that men were too scarce—that he was needed and that he could not be permitted to have leave. He enlisted with the 26th on the 26th April, 1915, and from that date until his death he never had one day's leave of absence. His was a short life, but it was crammed full of obedience to duty and he died at his post. As we look at it from the observer's standpoint, surely there was some one of the many who, at England, Camp Borden, Valcartier, Sussex, or at the picture shows, along the streets, or even in the places of business who might have been found willing to take a hand in this struggle.

It seems that the few who are willing are required to make efforts, greater efforts than their strength permits. We wish to honour the memory of this young man who stood firmly and faithfully at the post of duty, and when the Supreme Call came he was found as one "faithful unto death." Such is the stuff that historians deal with and in after years men will read with admiration and love the lives of our noble dead—from Campbellton—and particularly of this happy young life surrendered at the Call of Duty.

Artist (pointing to his very successful picture, "A Donkey")—"What do you really think of it, anyhow?"
 Enthusiastic "Lady"—"Lovely! And you have put so much of yourself into it, too!"

WRECKING TRAIN BADLY SMASHED

Train Wrecker Opened Switch and Train Piled up in Ditch

About 6 o'clock Friday morning, a work train proceeding at a lively rate of speed from Campbellton to St. Leonard's over the International branch of the Canadian Government Railways, was derailed by train-wreckers at Hazen, a small flag station some miles west of Campbellton, where she ran through an open switch and piled things up rather badly. Fortunately no one was injured.

Roadmaster Gorham, of the I. N. R. who was riding on the engine, got a bad shaking up and came within an ace of being seriously hurt, but apart from this there were no casualties.

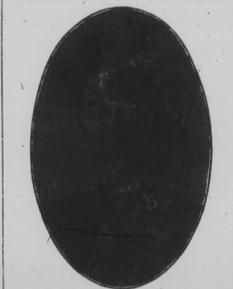

When the engines picked themselves up and took a look around, they came to the conclusion that the switch had been tampered with and so reported to Campbellton.

C. G. R. Detective Harry Culligan, who has cleared up a number of other North Shore mysteries, was put on the case, and after sleuthing around for a short time, he unearthed evidence upon which he placed under arrest charged with the crime, a young fellow named Leo LaBrie, of Hazen.

LaBrie has been charged with train-wrecking and his case comes up at Campbellton this week. Train-wrecking, it need hardly be stated, is a most serious offence, and in conviction carries with it the heaviest penalties.

FAREWELLS

Capt. and Mrs. Squarebriggs will farewell from the local S. A. corps on Sunday, Oct. 29th. They have been here for fifteen months. During that time they have made numerous friends who will regret to learn of their intended removal. Besides being interested in every work for the uplift of the community, Capt. Squarebriggs has been an efficient member of the Fire Brigade. Capt. and Mrs. Fullerton will take over command of the local corps, while Capt. and Mrs. Squarebriggs will go to Woodstock, N. B.

A race riot happened in a southern town. The negroes gathered in one crowd and the whites in another. The whites fired their revolvers into the air and the negroes took to their heels. Next day a plantation owner said to one of his men:

"Sam, were you in that crowd that gathered last night?"

"Yassir."

"Did you run like the wind, Sam?"

"No, sir. I didn't. But I passed two others that was running like the wind."

The Duke is fond of sport, especially cricket. He has been president of one of the great cricket clubs in England.

The inventor of plug tobacco was one of the Duke's ancestors. At his Irish seat, Lismore Castle, Sir Walter Raleigh planted his first potato.

No other subject of King George can boast such a number of stately homes as the Duke of Devonshire.

"Devonshire House," the Duke's London residence, has for many months been given over to war activities.

Queen Mary's Work for Women Fund and the British Red Cross Society being only two of the many organizations which are utilizing it by permission of its dual owner.

It is Chatsworth, however, that is unquestionably the gem of the classic homes of the Duke. Mary Queen of Scots was five times imprisoned in "The Palace of the Peak," as Chatsworth is called.

Because alfalfa is a more valuable crop than hay, selling for more, and yielding better results as a feed for poultry, pigs and all live stock, the Massachusetts State Board of Agriculture, and the Massachusetts Society for the Promotion of Agriculture have instituted a campaign to interest farmers in its production, offering six hundred dollars in prizes to that end.

Many sections of New Brunswick are well adapted to the growth of alfalfa, but despite the fact that investigation has shown it will grow better cattle, make cows produce more milk and hens more eggs, its production in this province has received little attention.

The Massachusetts movement may have the result of arousing in adjacent localities a deeper interest in the development of this valuable farm product.

CANADA'S NEW

GOVERNOR GENERAL

Duchess One of Queen's Most Intimate Friends—No Information as to Departure of Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

Ottawa, Oct. 14—Great interest is manifested throughout the Dominion of Canada, in the Duke of Devonshire, the new Governor-General, and the Duchess, who are expected to arrive shortly.

The Duke of Connaught, retiring Governor-General, and the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia have left here to return to England. Due to war conditions their port of departure and the date of their sailing is withheld.

There were few formalities at the leave-taking, but the Premier, Cabinet Ministers, Supreme Court Judges and many State and military officials were present.

The Duke reviewed a guard of honor from the Governor-Generals foot-guards and then, after about twenty minutes of handshaking, the royal party boarded their special train amid cheers of the people and waved their last farewell to the rear platform.

The Duke of Connaught became Governor-General in October, 1911.

The Duchess is Queen Mary's most intimate friend and has been Mistress of the Robes many years. The two women are like as two peas, conservative, interested in charities and simple pleasures, and frowning on innovations, extreme modes of dress and gay life.

It was at the Duchess' house (but before her husband inherited the title) that Queen Mary, her bosom friend, and others formed the famous plan to check the American invasion of London society.

The Duke of Devonshire is forty-eight years old and succeeded his uncle eight years ago. He made his political debut as Victor Cavendish in the House of Commons in 1892. He was for three years treasurer of the royal household, and last December he was made Knight of the Garter, the highest social honor in the gift of the King.

The Duke has been financial secretary to the treasury, and in June of 1915 he was included in the Coalition government at the request of his father-in-law, the Marquis of Lansdowne, as Civil Lord of the Admiralty.

The home life of the Duke and Duchess is ideal. They have two sons and five daughters. The Duchess knows Canada well, for as a girl she lived here when her father was Governor-General.

The Duke is fond of sport, especially cricket. He has been president of one of the great cricket clubs in England.

The inventor of plug tobacco was one of the Duke's ancestors. At his Irish seat, Lismore Castle, Sir Walter Raleigh planted his first potato.

No other subject of King George can boast such a number of stately homes as the Duke of Devonshire.

When the high cost of living was threatening and the Liberal Government would have averted its worst features by tariff relief the people of Canada voted them out of office and the obstructionists in. The result could have been foreseen by anyone of ordinary discernment. Attributing it entirely to the war is misleading.—Toronto Globe.

DR. OTTO B. MOORE

Bathurst, Oct. 16.—Very many friends extend sincerest sympathy to the relatives of Dr. Otto B. Moore, whose death took place at 12 o'clock on Monday last, at the home of John Robertson.

Dr. Moore had been practising his profession here since 1902, and during that time by his kindly manner and sterling character won for him hosts of friends who will long cherish his memory.

His funeral on Wednesday morning in charge of the Masons, of which order he was a valued member, went from the residence of Mr. Robertson to the I. O. O. F. station, where, in charge of a number of brother Masons, the remains were taken on the local to Sussex his former home, for interment. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Joseph Moore, and three brothers, Frederick H. Moore, Charles W. Moore and Joseph E. Moore, all of Moncton.

A new story is at hand bearing upon the exasperating delay in completing the Lamb's new clubhouse. Thomas Findlay was one day passing the clubhouse, where the work upon the addition is still in progress. Meeting the janitor, Findlay asked him how soon the building would be ready for occupancy.

The janitor, an Irishman, replied: "About the first of October." Findlay retorted: "You mean September?"

"I meant what I said," insisted the janitor, "October." "But there isn't any such month," declared Findlay. "That's why I made it October," answered the janitor.

"Are they in easy circumstances?" They ought to be, they have no auto to support."

Trade was bad. At the end of another blank day the discouraged salesman called on another prospective customer and asked to show his samples. "No, there is nothing I want today," said the customer.

"But will you just examine my line of goods?" the salesman persisted. The customer would not. "Then," said the salesman meekly, "will you let me use a part of your counter to look at them myself, as I have not had the opportunity for some time?"

The people of Canada ought to be shown that the present price of flour in this country is necessary and unavoidable, or the price ought to come down. The government at Ottawa has power to act in the matter of the high and ever increasing cost of living. Why does it not act? In other parts of the Empire the governments do not shirk their duty. What is the trouble at Ottawa? Is it fear of the "big interests"?

It is said of Spurgeon that when a disbeliever, endeavoring to corner and confuse him, asked whether a man in business should always tell the truth about his goods, he answered: "It's a wise plan to always tell the truth—but don't be always telling it."

CAPT. FRANK MAGUIRE KILLED IN ACTION

Popular New Carlisle Man Makes Supreme Sacrifice on Field of Battle

The sad news came by wire on the 27th September last, of the death, on the battlefield, on the 22nd of the same month, of Captain Frank Maguire, Second Battalion, C. E. F.

Captain Maguire was of Irish and Scottish descent, his grandfather on his father's side being the late Honorable Justice Maguire, born in the County of Fermanagh, in Ulster, who came to Canada at an early age, and died in Quebec on the 5th August, 1880.

His father, Gordian Francis Maguire, for upwards of forty years, Prothonotary of the Superior Court at New Carlisle, was born in Quebec, and in 1884 married Isabella Mary Taton, a daughter of the late Duncan Taton, who was largely interested in the lumber business in the city of Quebec, and who died there many years ago, universally esteemed and respected.

Captain Maguire was born of high intellectual gifts. He studied Law at Laval University, Quebec, and was called to the Bar after passing his University examinations with distinction. He at once began the practice of his profession. His quite exceptional talents and endearing personality soon made him a foremost forensic speaker, keen in argument and brilliant as a pleader. When the present war broke out, he joined the army and was one of the thirty-two thousand brave men who went overseas in October, 1914.

Captain Maguire had the advantage of considerable military training, and held a commission as Captain in the 61st Regiment of the volunteer forces of the Dominion. It would have been a matter of no difficulty for him to have obtained a commission for the actual business of war, but this would have entailed delay. He, however, joined the ranks and thus numbered with the gallant men who were first to respond to their country's call.

From that time until he came to the end of his brief but glorious career, on the blood-drenched battle-fields of Belgium and France, the story of his life is that of the present war. He rose in a sphere where merit is the sole passport, one the battle-field, step by step to the rank he held, whose death called him a comforting proof that his conduct was that of a brave man and worthy soldier throughout. He was one of the Canadians who "held" at Ypres and saved Calais.

He leaves a bereaved mother and a sister and brother. They will long remember him in sorrow. They have the sympathy of all in those sad moments. Let us hope the soothing influence of time may lessen their grief and bring about a change. Their sorrow, though natural, is under the present circumstances misplaced. Captain Maguire died under circumstances which give rise to a righteous pride, since he generously gave up his young life fighting for the right. Sic itur ad astra! He is one of the honored dead. From him we should take example for higher effort, at a time when the fullest measure of devotion is called for by our country. If this be one of the results of his sacrifice, his epitaph may well be "Non omnis moriar."

The dining room was prettily decorated, and the tables were ornamented with flowers and ribbons. Among the handsome array of presents was a chest of silver, the gift of the bride's parents. What are Peps

Peps are the new treatment for coughs, colds and lung troubles. They are little tablets made up of Pine extracts and medicinal essences. When put into the mouth these medicinal ingredients turn into heating vapors, which are breathed down direct to the lungs, throat and bronchial tubes. The Peps treatment is direct. Swallowing cough mixtures into the stomach to cure ailments and diseases in throat and lungs is in fact a waste of time. Peps are revolutionizing the treatment of colds, as their effect is within the reach of all. Buy all druggists, or Peps Co., Montreal.

Save your Hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now—Also stops itching scalp.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is sure evidence of neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store. You surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Save your hair! Try it.

CAUSED A DISTURBANCE

Two longshoremen were arrested for causing a disturbance in the Canada Cafe. Chief Mann was called and after a severe scrimmage landed both in the cells.

Old Uncle Jacob was walking majestically up and down the village street dressed in his Sunday suit. "Hallo, Uncle Jacob," cried one of his neighbors, "are you having a holiday?" "Yes, I am," replied Uncle Jacob proudly. "I'm celebrating my golden wedding." "Then why isn't your wife celebrating it with you?" said the man. "She ain't got ought to do with it," replied Uncle Jacob indignantly. "She's the fourth."

The weatherman lay dying; it was only a matter of a few hours, the doctors said. Motioning to his sobbing friends, he waited until they had crowded round his bed to listen to his last words. He gave careful direction for the disposition of his belongings, and outlined the general features of his funeral, then he murmured: "And I want you to put up a nice tombstone for me with these words carved on it—'Probably Cooler.'"

At the French Tribunal.—Doctor— "Why were you rejected?" Applicant (smiling)—"For imbecility."

"What do you do for a living?" "Nothing; I have an income of sixty thousand francs."

"Are you married?" "Yes."

"What does your wife do?" "Nothing; she is richer than I."

"You are no imbecile. Passed for general service."

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine—Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. MARY ASSACI, North Crandon, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ailing women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCLELLAN, 609 Hays St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were hearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. Osgood, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WHIP ONCE RULED BRITISH SOLDIERS

Men Until Comparatively Recent Times Given Hundreds of Lashes for Trifles

Punishments in the past were usually cruel, very often savage. Utmost publicity was given to them. It was thought, says Lloyds, of London, that morals were improved by urging crowds into the streets to see a woman whipped at the cart's tail, a politician standing in the pillory, a robber dragged in his shirt on a hurdle for several miles to the gallows at Tyburn.

Military punishments were frequently inhuman. The "ant" was the great weapon, and British soldiers were stripped to the waist and triced up and cut to pieces for offences that were sometimes trifles. The application of the lash was authorized from the passing of the first Mutiny Act in 1689. Courts-martial had the power of inflicting corporal punishment to any extent; and not infrequently these tribunals flogged men to within an inch of their lives. Sir Charles Napier states that forty years before the time at which he wrote (1837) he had often seen from six hundred to one thousand lashes given. If a man could not stand the whole of his punishment at once he was carried to a hospital and probably brought out again when his wounds were but partly healed to receive the remainder.

Again and again the question was raised in Parliament, and we owed it mainly to the action of the Irish party that the fate of flogging in the army was at last and forever sealed. Gladstone, Hartington, and even John Bright, sat man during the great debate. Alexander MacDonald, M. P., used to rush at the generals and colonels in the lobbies of the House and shake his fist in their faces. The generals and colonels used to rise in their places and solemnly protest that flogging was necessary to the maintenance of discipline. Can we imagine a cat-o'-nine-

Deeply regret to inform you 445626, Private Wm. Betteridge, infantry, officially reported killed in action between Sept. 15th and 17th, 1916.

Officer in Charge of Record Office, Office of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries of Canada, September 30th, 1916.

Dear Mrs. Betteridge:—
It was with feelings of very great regret that I learned today of the death in action, between September 15th and 17th, of your husband, Private William Betteridge.

I am writing this letter for the purpose of extending my very sincere sympathy to you in your sad bereavement. Nothing of course can lessen the effect of the blow and of the sorrow caused to you and his family and intimate friends, but at the same time it is a satisfaction to know that he died serving his country, fighting in defence of those who are left at home and of the free institutions that are so dear to the heart of every Canadian and Britisher.

Again expressing my very deep sympathy, I am,
Yours very truly,

tails in the ranks of the British army of to-day?

It is generally supposed that in the Prussian army, since the era of Frederick the Great, punishments have been of extreme severity; but floggings have never been so brutal as they were in the British ranks.

In the Russian army of old the most formidable punishment was running the gauntlet. The bayonet of the prisoner's musket was held against his stomach so that he should not walk too quickly, and he was then compelled to march between two lines of the regiment, drawn up to form a long lane. Each soldier was armed with a piliant hazel wand, with which in turn he struck his wretched comrade. Up to the middle of the last century two and three thousand blows were given at a time; and under Peter the Great twelve thousand could be ordered. If the sentence were that these should be dealt "without mercy," the victim was, of course, flogged to death.

Of punishments in the British army at the present day there is very little. It is well understood that the whole force is a very different one from any that we have ever raised before, and while the discipline is strict, it is enforced in a manner that makes obedience easy to every recruit who has not a screw loose in him.

"The Graphic", Campbellton, N. B.

Dear Mr. Editor:—
Permit me to call your attention to a subject which seems to be given little or no consideration, or else is passed over lightly with a laugh.

We hear a great deal about the "shirkers" these days, men who will not take up arms in defence of their country. But what about the other class of "shirkers," double "shirkers" they are who are scattered throughout our country, and in some sections so numerous as to amount to almost a plague. I refer to the unmarried men of thirty-five years and upwards, who own or control some of the best farms and homes of our communities. As a rule you find it is the mothers of these men, though advanced in years, who still have to bear the burden of keeping up the home, or else, a sister, compelled by a high sense of duty gives up her own hopes and plans to keep the home together for the sake of her aged parents.

Ah no, you won't catch these men enlisting. You see they haven't accustomed themselves to assuming their rightful responsibilities, and conscription, should it come in force, will not be likely to take them, or many of them, because they are farmers.

Now Mr. Editor, the question is, of just how much value are these men to their country?
Doubtless, if spoken to about the matter, they would quickly tell you that they were minding their own business. Yes, so are the other fellows minding their also, yet they are familiarly referred to as "cold footed cowards". Why so?
Perhaps Mr. Editor, if we had a wide discussion of this subject, we might be more satisfied to have matters as we find them, or else become more awake to the need of having them changed. What really constitutes PATRIOTISM?

"A COWARD IN THE FIGHT"

He has no enemy, you say; My friend, your boast is poor; He who hath mingled in the fray Of duty that the brave endure Must have made foes. If he has none Small is the work that he has done. He has hit no traitor on the hip; Has cast no cup from perjured lip; Has never turned the wrong to right; Has been a coward in the fight.

How often we hear the remark or read it in the press, that the W. C. T. U. are only a band of females or narrow-minded people trying to deprive the boys of a little enjoyment, in protesting against the sending of cigarettes to our soldiers.

To say that woman's protest is not patriotic is absurd, for if the cigarette were a blessing instead of a curse, we would be among the first to advocate sending them, but knowing as we do the injury those "coffin nails" are to the user, containing so much nicotine which is one of the most powerful poisons known, can we with a clear conscience advocate sending them to our boys, when they need to be at their best.

One authority says, nicotine kills by ambush, as it were, hardening, arteries, raising blood pressure, and causing numerous forms of cigarette troubles, which are always laid to other causes, and still so many go on with the habit and teach others, heedless of the result.

Giant Evils.—Cigarettes are one of the "Giant Evils" stalking through the land, deceiving the nations by their sorceries, destroying the unborn, dwarfing the physical and mental development of the youth; wasting the earnings and impoverishing the poor; blocking the wheels of industry; killing off babes and strong men, and the aged; and on the whole, producing a race of degenerates and criminals in every so-called civilized Christian land, to the shame and disgrace of legislation and the dishonor of our God—the Giver of every good and perfect gift.

The manufacture, sale and use of these "Giant Evils" are the enemies of the best interests of mankind, and are in direct disobedience to the commandments, statutes, judgments, and laws of God, and contrary to the plain teaching and practice of Jesus and the Apostles (1 Cor. 10:31).

Destroyers not Saviours.—Do you know that poisonous drugs, alcohol and tobacco, are neither meat nor drink? that they have neither health-giving nor curative powers? that they are destroyers—not saviours? (Isaiah 55:1-3). We are told not to defile the temple of God which is our bodies (2 Cor. 7:1-3; Rom. 12:1-3).

The military authorities prohibited cigarette smoking on the troop-ship because "cigarette smoking is injurious to health," etc. It unfits the soldier for best service to his king and country, and if he gets sick or wounded, makes his chance for recovery far less than the soldier who has no poison in his system. Considering these things, which is the most patriotic, to supply or withhold from our boys at the front, that which we know works physical injury, and may perhaps prevent an ultimate recovery because of a weakened system?

Oh, yes, you are only a little thing, Quite innocent looking 'till you're shot, But lots of woe and misery Are caused by such as you.

S. M. THORNTON, Prov. Supt. for Manitoba, DO YOUR BEST.

Frances Willard often used to say, "Understand this first, last and always; the world wants the best thing—it wants your best. Not your 'good enough' or even 'better than the average' but your best." Even in the smallest details of life our best should be given. For what is worth doing at all is worth doing the best. Everything we do in a "good enough" way weakens, and to set our standard no higher than "the average" is to court failure. In life's small things be resolute and great to keep thy muscles trained; for knowest thou

When Fate thy measure takes, or when she'll say "I find thee worthy, do this thing for me."

Are we as W. C. T. U. members living up to this standard set us by our noble leader? If not, why not? If our Union is not doing its best work in our community then we are not doing our best and the standard is being lowered. Let us examine ourselves and see where the fault lies then set resolutely to work to mend matters. Let each member ask herself the following questions:

TWO ANGELS

God called the nearest angels who dwell with Him above; The tenderest one was Pity, the dearest one was Love.

"Arise," He said, my angels! a wail of woe and sin Steals thro' the gates of heaven and saddens it within.

Fly downward to that underworld and on its souls of pain Let Love drop smiles like sunshine and Pity tears like rain.

The way was strange the flight was long; At last the angels came Where swung the lost and nether world red-wrapped in rayless flame,

There Pity shuddering wept, but Love with faith too strong for fear Took heart from God's almightiness and smiled a smile of cheer.

And lo! that tear of Pity quenched the flame whereon it fell And with the sunshine of that smile hope entered into hell.

Two unveiled faces full of joy looked upward to the Throne Four white wings folded at the feet of Him who sat thereon.

"Welcome!" my angels! ye have brought a holier joy to heaven Henceforth its sweetest song shall be the song of sin forgiven. WHITTIER.

PAINTING OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

The painting of farm implements for their protection and preservation has apparently received very little consideration by Canadian farmers, if one may judge by the information secured by the Commission of Conservation in the survey conducted on 100 farms in each of four counties in Ontario. In Waterloo, not one farmer who painted his implements, was found among the hundred, in Carleton only one, in Northumberland three, and in Dundas eleven.

The use of paint on both the wooden and metal parts of machinery gives a protecting cover against deterioration by use and weather, apart altogether from the general improvement in appearance. The cost of prepared paint for the purpose is very small, and experience in the work is unnecessary.

The initial cost of farm implements means to the farmers a large outlay. This investment should be protected. Depreciation from rot and rust is rapid, when once these conditions are established. For the actual money saving as well as for the more prosperous appearance it gives to the farm and farmer, the regular overhauling and painting of the farm implements should be a recognized part of the year's work.—D.

A WISE BULL A young fellow was looking over a fence watching a girl milk a cow in an open field when suddenly he observed a young and excited bull, with his head lowered and tail coiled high in the air, rushing madly toward her. The youth called out to warn her of the approaching danger, but she just glanced at the bull and continued calmly to milk the cow.

Still the infuriated animal rushed toward the dauntless girl, and then, when it was almost upon her, it stopped short, gave a loud bellow and galloped away to the farther side of the meadow. The young fellow now ventured to ask the girl how she knew the bull would not touch her.

"Oh," was the gentle reply, this cow's his mother-in-law.

HUNTING LOST CARS Railroad Job That Calls for Hard Work and Great Patience. At times when the scarcity of freight cars causes the railroads to place an embargo upon certain classes of goods, the problem of keeping track of its cars to see that they do not run away and become wanderers upon the face of the earth is a stupendous one for each company.

When a freight car is built, it is given a number before it leaves the shop, and thereafter it is always known by that number until it is worn out and scrapped. When a new car receives its number, and starts out upon its business career, it is entered in the record book, and a careful account of its wanderings and earning powers are kept there. This record book is a history of the car, and by consulting it, one can learn how many trips it has made, what cities it has visited, how many times it has been to the repair shop, and also where it is supposed to be at any given time.

But in spite of all this care in keeping a record of each car, now and then, for some unexplained reason, one disappears from sight—literally running away. Some of the big companies employ car tracers, but as a rule a printed traced is first sent after the car to bring it back home. This printed tracer, in a blue envelope, is sent to the person in whose jurisdiction the car was last supposed to be, and if it has passed out of his district, the tracer is sent on to the next one to whom the car was consigned. This little printed tracer falling to bring the car home in a reasonable length of time, a man known as a tracer is sent after it. The tracer is really a railroad car detective. And sometimes it is more difficult to track a runaway freight car than a criminal. There are tens of thousands of miles of railways, and hundreds of thousands of freight cars, and to find one carrying a certain number is often like hunting for the needle in a haystack. The tracer may arrive in a city where the runaway is supposed to be, at the very moment when the car is leaving it in the opposite direction. It may cross his track on a parallel line, or dodge around him on a short line. It may be headed south while he is travelling north, or rolling northward toward the Pacific while he is going toward the Atlantic.

A runaway car apparently is as depraved as any animal. It hides on a lonely siding, or gets lost in a short swamp line. One such runaway rested nearly a year on a siding in southern Texas simply because it got lost, and no one seemed to know just what to do with it. The nearest freight agent had TUNING Piano and Organ tuning and repairing done by W. C. Day, Tuner. Contracting a speciality. Orders may be left with the LOUNSBURY CO. no record of it, and no tracer had requested its return. Going on the principle that what is "everybody's business is nobody's business," this local agent made no effort to hunt up the owners. If the order had been received by him to return it, he would have obeyed, but lacking such orders he left it on the siding. In the course of time it was occupied by a family of squatters, who lived quite comfortably in it for six months, and were routed out only when, quite by accident, the car tracer discovered it.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.
