

COL. HODGINS WAS CAPTURED AND MARCHED BACK TO CAMP

With Paymaster Pocock, of the Seventh Regiment, He Is First Prisoner of War—Have to Prove Their Identity Before Being Permitted to Proceed.

[By Staff Reporter.]

Col. Hodgins, D. O. C., superintendent of the present military manoeuvres in Western Ontario, and Paymaster Philip Pocock, of the Seventh Regiment, were the first prisoners of war to be taken in the operations, the pair last night falling into the hands of the defending force, camped at Culver's farm, in the third concession of Delaware Township, Col. Hodgins and Paymaster Pocock had visited the camp earlier in the evening. The D. O. C. earlier in the day had visited the enemy's outposts near Glenora. The two officers after dark slipped out of the defenders' camp in a high-power automobile, headed for the staff headquarters at Mount Brydges. Two miles out they were held up by Lieut. Shuttleworth and two of his men, doing outpost duty on the road. In vain did the two officers explain their identity and protest against arrest. Their captors insisted that they had to be "shown," and the end of the argument was that Col. Hodgins and Paymaster Pocock were ordered from the machine and marched back two miles to camp under guard. Here their identity was established and they were allowed to go. In the auto was found a large quantity of mail. Col. Hodgins, although a victim, expressed himself as delighted with the situation, as showing the men keen for the work of the manoeuvres.

This morning the red force will move towards Delaware village, where it is expected that a juncture will be made with the Twenty-fifth, which has been coming up steadily from Talbotville since Monday night.

ALD. RICHTER FAVORS PLAN OF TAXPAYER

Believes Joint Operation by Steam Roads of London and Port Stanley System Is Feasible and the Best Solution of Problem.

"Feasible and the best solution of the problem," this is Ald. J. G. Richter's favorable criticism of "Taxpayer's" solution of the London and Port Stanley Railway problem, as outlined by his letter to The Advertiser which appeared in last Saturday's edition.

The suggestion of The Advertiser's correspondent was one characterized by him as being the one that would yield enormously greater advantages to the city than any others previously suggested. In this he is supported by Ald. Richter, who is fully in accord with the suggested joint operation of the London and Port Stanley line by these steam roads which desire connection with the lake.

The best way. "If any arrangement can be made with the different roads," said Ald. Richter in discussing the proposition this morning, "it would be the best way, by far, out of the present difficulty."

The example of the New York and Long Branch Railway was cited on Saturday as a road where joint operation has worked out to the best possible advantage. This line is a 38-mile road, yet the company owns absolutely no rolling stock. Three trunk lines are the joint lessees, the owners of the road appointing a superintendent and staff, and having control of the operating of the trains of these three companies.

Like "Taxpayer," Ald. Richter is firmly convinced that such a scheme could be worked out in connection with the London and Port Stanley.

A Paying Proposition. The C. N. R., the Grand Trunk, the Canadian Pacific, the Michigan Central, the Pere Marquette, are all apparently willing to operate the lake-side road, and Ald. Richter believes that the joint operation of the L. and P. S. along the lines of the New York and Long Branch Railway would not only be the best way out of the present problem, but would be the best-paying proposition that could be secured for London.

"There is no reason why the scheme could not be worked out to the advantage of London," declared Ald. Richter. "The principle of joint operation is one that is quite a common one—they have it no farther away than St. Thomas, where the Wabash has running rights over the Grand Trunk, and there should be no reason why the London and Port Stanley could not be put on the same basis. If it is possible to have the roads Continued on Page Eleven.

HALF SCORE OF CHILDREN NEAR DEATH IN THAMES

Thrown Into the River Sunday Afternoon by Collapse of Cable Supporting Private Bridge That Crosses From Pine Lawn, East London, to South Shore.

Thrown into the Thames by the collapse of one of the wire cable supports, half a score of children had a close call from death on Sunday afternoon at the swinging suspension bridge that crosses from Pine Lawn, East London, to the farm of Charles Parkinson, across the river. With some difficulty the entire coterie of children was rescued, and nothing more serious than a wetting was the result of an accident that might have added many more names to the Thames death toll this summer.

Has Cost One Life. From the same bridge little Alfred White lost his life a month ago, the child having been thrown into the water in much the same manner as those on Sunday. Immediately below the swaying structure the river flows swift and deep, making the escape of the children almost miraculous. The bridge is a private one, and placards at each end warn trespassers against its use, but it is alleged that those who nearly met death on Saturday were trespassing on the bridge in the same manner as the little White children when Alfred was drowned. It is merely a foot bridge, and was erected by Mr. Parkinson for his own use. It is supported by wire cables, and crossing it is a rather ticklish proposition.

MAWSON'S ANTARCTIC PARTY NEARLY STARVED TO DEATH

Men When Found by Relief Party Had Exhausted Their Supplies and Were in a Very Weak Condition—Two of the Expedition Died.

[Canadian Press.] Christchurch, N. Z., Aug. 27.—Relief arrived just in time to save the lives of Dr. Douglas Mawson, the Australian Antarctic explorer, and his five companions, who were left in March last on Macquarie Island, in the Antarctic Ocean, when the remaining 24 members of Dr. Mawson's expedition returned to Tasmania on board the Aurora from their south Polar trip. The six men were believed to have ample provisions to last them until the Antarctic spring, but the commander of the Government steamer recently sent to their relief, reports that the explorers had exhausted all their supplies, and that the men had been living for some time on the hearts and tongues of sea elephants. All of them were obviously in a very weak condition, when the relief ship reached them.

Two Were Killed. Dr. Mawson's expedition was unfortunate in losing by death two of its members owing to accidents on the ice—Lieut. Ninnis, an English army officer, and Dr. Xavier Mertz, a Swiss scientist.

The original expedition left Hobart, Tasmania, on Dec. 2, 1911, its principal object being the exploration and survey of the Antarctic coast line. When the Aurora went to fetch the explorers back early this year the vessel was forced to leave before taking on Dr. Mawson and five of his companions forming one of the parties, as she was in danger of being crushed by the ice. As they were said to be well equipped no fear was felt for their safety, and the news brought by the commander of the relief ship today came as a surprise to all circles.

Borden Gives Canada Bilingual Postcards

French Is Ordered Upon New Issue for the First Time in Canadian History—Stamps May Be Changed Next.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—The French language has finally found its way to Canadian postal cards. Up to the present time the only printed matter on postcards has been in the English language.

A new issue of postcards has just been made under direction of Postmaster-General Pelletier, and on them the directions are in both the English and French languages.

The new card contains the words "Postal Card" and "Carte Postal." "This side reserved for the address" is duplicated by the French inscription, "Cette cote reserve pour l'adresse."

Hereafter only bilingual postcards will be available for Canadians. There has been no change in the stamps as yet.

FREE PRESS GUILTY OF CIVIC TREASON ON TWO OCCASIONS

"Taxpayer" Reasserts Charges That It Has Sought to Exclude Two Great Lines.

Flat Untruth That Steam Roads Are Ready to Use an Electrified Line to Port.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

My letter of the 21st instant in your columns has provoked a feeble editorial response in today's Free Press, headed "An Open Door for All." No effort is made to deny the truth of my assertion that the Free Press has been guilty of civic treason on two momentous occasions by lending its influence to the exclusion of two great railway lines from London at the dictation of its political leaders. Such a denial would be too palpably gauzy to be accepted by even the most bigoted of the Beck following. But the editor makes a transparent effort to do so, and cloud the issue. And he makes an assertion, which everyone concerned knows is not true, when he says:

"Not only will all steam roads find the London and Port Stanley Railway an open door to the city, but the electric roads as well."

Could anything be more disingenuous than that? The Free Press knows, and every interested person among its readers knows, that the above quotation from its editorial is a flat untruth, and that every steam road concerned objects emphatically to running steam trains over an electrified railway.

If London wants to secure the maximum possible railway service over the L. and P. S. R., there is but one way to get it, that is through a long-term agreement between all the steam roads, similar to the one under which the New York and Long Branch Railway is operated, as described in my former letter. It is utter nonsense to talk about all the steam roads using the L. and P. S. R. tracks if that road is electrified.

There is nothing to be said in favor of electrification except that it would please Mr. Beck, and there is nothing to be said against a refusal to let the L. and P. S. R. operate jointly by all the steam roads except that it would interfere with Mr. Beck's wishes.

Is there enough civic patriotism among the Conservatives of this city to rise superior to political dictation on a strictly non-political issue, and thus prevent a ruthless sacrifice of London's business interests that is now threatened? We shall see.

$10,000 FIRE AT BELMORE

Blaze Started in Hotel Attic and Threatened to Wipe Out Village.

WATER WAS SCARCE

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wingham, Aug. 26.—Fire, which broke out in the attic of James Kirby's hotel at Belmore, ten miles from here, completely destroyed the hotel, part of McGrogan's general store, and the residence of Paul Wille.

A bucket brigade was formed and water rushed from the creeks and wells, but little could be done. The loss, which is about $10,000, is covered by insurance.

President Reads Message to Congress Urging That a Firm Stand Be Taken at Once in Regard to Mexican Trouble.

OCCASION NOT PARALLELED IN HOUSE SINCE DAYS OF GEORGE WASHINGTON

All Americans Will Be Urged to Leave Mexico at Once, and Every Assistance Will Be Given Them To Get Away.

[Canadian Press.] Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—President Wilson appeared in person before Congress today and laid bare to the world the details of this nation's efforts to bring about peace in Mexico, the facts concerning Huerta's rejection of the peace proposals and the policy to be pursued now by this Government. The President announced the position of the United States to be as follows:

"No armed intervention. Strict neutrality forbidding the exportation of arms or munitions of war of any kind from the United States to any part of the Republic of Mexico."

No Partisanship. "Under no circumstances to be the partisans of either party to the contest that now distracts Mexico, or constitute ourselves the virtual umpire between them."

To urge all Americans to leave Mexico at once, and to assist them to get away in every way possible.

To let everyone in Mexico who assumes to exercise authority know that this Government shall vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who cannot get away and shall hold those responsible for their sufferings and losses to a definite reckoning.

"That can and will be made plain beyond the possibility of a misunderstanding," declared the President.

Open To Negotiate. Negotiations for the friendly mediation of the United States are open to resumption at any time upon either the initiative of this Government or of Mexico.

Accompanying the President's address was the reply of the Huerta Government rejecting the American proposals. It was written by Foreign Minister Gamboa. It suggested the following alternative policy for the United States:

"Reception of a Mexican ambassador in Washington. That the United States send a new ambassador to Mexico without restrictions."

"Strict observance of the neutrality laws and see to it that no material or monetary assistance is given to the rebels."

"Unconditional recognition of the Huerta Government."

A Memorable Occasion. The occasion had not been paralleled in more than a century. No other president since George Washington has appeared before Congress on a foreign affair. The Senate and House assembled in the House chamber, the senators filing in two by two. As the President mounted the platform, where Speaker Clark and Vice-President Marshall were waiting, the big chamber was hushed. Attired in a conventional frock coat suit, the President stood and read his address in a conventional tone for which he is noted. Scarcely a sound interrupted.

Friend and Neighbor. First pointing out that it was his duty without reservation to lay before Congress all the facts concerning the relations of the United States with Mexico, the President outlined what the United States had done "as a friend and neighbor." Asserting that this nation was glad to call itself the friend of Mexico, and hoping for many future occasions to show that disinterested friendship, the President declared that "we shall yet prove to the Mexican people that we know how to serve them without first thinking how we shall serve ourselves."

Describing Mexican conditions and the events that led up to the negotiations just concluded, President Wilson outlined how "war and disorder, devastation and confusion seem to threaten to become the settled fortune of the distracted country." As friends, he said, this country could wait no longer for a solution of things in the sister republic.

Lind's Instructions. President Wilson read his instructions to John Lind.

"All America cries out for a settlement," read the note Mr. Lind bore to Mexico. "A satisfactory settlement seems to us to be conditioned on: 'An immediate cessation of fighting throughout Mexico, a definite armistice solemnly entered into and scrupulously observed;'

"Security given for an early and free election in which all will agree to take part; 'The consent of General Huerta to bind himself not to be a candidate for election as president of the republic at this election, and

"The agreement of all parties to abide by the results of the election and co-operate in the most loyal way in organizing and supporting the new administration."

THAW'S LAWYERS IN NEW MOVE FIGHT TO KEEP HIM IN JAIL

Writ of Habeas Corpus Withdrawn, But New York Authorities Are Trying to Force Case So as to Bring Thaw to Trial Quickly.

[Canadian Press.]

Sherbrooke, Aug. 27.—New York State was ruled out of court here today in a dramatic preliminary skirmish with lawyers for Harry K. Thaw, the Matteawan fugitive fighting deportation.

Superior Judge Globensky, hearing arguments of Thaw's counsel, on a motion to discontinue a writ of habeas corpus, absolutely refused to entertain the objections of Hector Verret, representing New York State. This was greeted with a wild outburst.

WORKED ALL NIGHT. Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 27.—After an almost sleepless night, during which attack and counter-attack were discussed by the leaders, the opposing forces in the case of Harry K. Thaw, held in the Sherbrooke jail as a fugitive from Matteawan, were in battle array today, prepared for a struggle to determine whether Stanford White's slayer shall remain in his cell indefinitely or be arraigned in court, freed of the charge on which he is held and turned over to the immigration authorities to be sent to Vermont.

A Change of Tactics. Thaw's lawyers, having served notice yesterday that they had given notice withdrawing the habeas corpus writ on which Thaw was to come into court today, maintained that this insured his detention in jail until such time as he saw fit to elect trial on the charge of being a fugitive, either before a magistrate or before the King's bench, criminal side, in October. In withdrawing the writ, they contended that they were well within their legal rights.

May Force Case. This was the situation when Franklin Kennedy, deputy attorney-general of New York, hurrying here after a trip to Ottawa, where he conferred with the Dominion department of the interior with reference to Thaw's deportation, announced that Canadian counsel, acting through the crown prosecutor, would seek to force Thaw into court today.

He maintained, moreover, that the motive of Thaw's lawyers to abandon the habeas corpus writ was irregular, and would at least have to be sanctioned by Superior Judge Arthur Globensky, who granted it last week. Judge Globensky reached here during the night from Montreal, and it was expected that Thaw's lawyers would consult him about the writ as soon as he came in his chambers. It was not known in advance whether it would Continued on Page Eleven.

RUSH TO THE WEST MAKES BIG PROBLEM FOR CHURCHES

Anglican Synod Will Have Very Important Matters to Discuss in Regard to Dealing With the New Foreign Population.

[Canadian Press.]
Winnipeg, Aug. 27.—Delegates are here from all over the western dioceses for the opening today of the triennial Anglican Provincial Synod, which meets in two sections of the House of Bishops and the House of Delegates, the former being private.

This synod is likely to prove historic in the development of the Anglican Church of Western Canada. The progress of the west in material things presents its demands to the church and calls for important readjustments. Resolutions will be presented on behalf of the two dioceses of Rupert's Land and Calgary asking for their division. Another reflection of the peculiar problem of the west is furnished by the resolution of Principal Lloyd to the effect that the synod increase foreignization of Canada, and asking that an effort should be made to discourage this influx of non-British and non-Scotch stock.

A pastoral address will be delivered by Archbishop Matthew, primate of all Canada, to the assembled clergy and laity at St. John's Cathedral tomorrow morning.

Among those present will be the Bishops of Qu'Appelle, Calgary, Saskatchewan, Kootenai, Athabasca, Yukon and McLeod, besides the deans, archdeacons, canons and leading clergy of the various dioceses and representative laymen.

Canadian Clubs' Conference Ends

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hamilton, Aug. 26.—At the fifth annual conference of the Association of Canadian Clubs which ended here tonight it was decided to hold the 1914 convention in Vancouver. Rev. Dr. MacKay, principal of Westminster College, Vancouver, is the newly-elected president, while Lady Drummond was elected vice-president.

The other officers elected to serve for the ensuing year are: Dr. J. B. Hall, of Truro, N. S.; Prof. Robinson, of Prince Edward Island; Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, of St. John, N. B.; A. R. Doble, of Montreal; Prof. W. R. Grant, of Queen's College, Kingston; A. L. Crossin, of Manitoba; C. F. Adams, of Alberta; W. J. Gunn, of Saskatchewan, and Mr. D. von Cramer, of British Columbia. These constitute the provincial vice-presidents. W. Sanford Evans, ex-mayor of Winnipeg, was elected an honorary president of the association in addition to Mr. C. R. McCullough, both having been responsible for the founding of the Canadian Club movement.

WANTED FOR FRAUD

Elk Organizers Alleged to Have Skipped With $15,000.

[Canadian Press.]

Winnipeg, Aug. 26.—Harry C. Kelley, who organized an Elk lodge in Winnipeg, is badly wanted here by the Elk executive committee to explain some financial transactions. A warrant has been issued at Fort Frances charging his partner, J. L. Hargrove, with obtaining money under false pretences. Kelley and Hargrove were seen last week in Toronto, said to be en route to Montreal. When officers visited the Kelley home today they discovered it had been vacated Saturday. Mrs. Kelley said she was going to Buffalo. It is estimated that these Elk organizers took $15,000 from Winnipeg, Estevan, Regina, Brandon, Selkirk and Fort Frances. It is thought they are now in the States. Kelley was in jail in Cheyenne, Wyo., for robbing box cars, and was twice arrested here for fraud, but each time escaped conviction.

Bailiffs Are After Jack Johnson Now

May Prevent His Appearing on the Stage in London.

London, Aug. 27.—The Standard says the prospect of Jack Johnson, the American negro pugilist, appearing in London is becoming daily less hopeful. An unexpected incident has seriously affected the fighter's plans. This was the sudden appearance on Monday night at the house in Baywater, where Johnson is staying, of a number of bailiffs sent by a firm of solicitors, who got judgment for $7,500 damages for breach of contract against the pugilist the last time he was here. Johnson then broke his engagements with some of the NacNaughten syndicate music halls and skipped to Paris. MacNaughten then got the judgment against him.

The bailiffs stayed at Johnson's house all night, but a conference on Tuesday morning resulted in a settlement.

Rev. F. B. Meyer, formerly president of the Baptist Alliance, who has been fighting against Johnson's appearance here, says he has now received Johnson's invitation to call on him and discuss various matters in the presence of newspaper men. Johnson, however, conferred with another rival opponent, Dr. A. J. Waldron, who, after a serious attack with the negro, said he was impressed by Johnson's simplicity and honesty, but agrees with Rev. Meyer that if Johnson wants to stand right in England he must return to America and face the music.

THE RISE OF PRICES.

A report of the British Board of Trade on the cost of living, just published, is interesting if not encouraging. Broadly it shows that in the United Kingdom 22 shillings today purchases about as much as 20 shillings purchased in 1905. Of foodstuffs, it purchases much less. Meanwhile money wages have risen, but not so fast as the prices of necessities. This condition, which is almost universal, is the root of much of the discontent of the workers in every industrialized country at this time when the profits of capital are greater than ever before.

A general fall of prices began in the seventies, and continued till 1896. In this period money wages rose very little, but the workman had the benefit of the reduced cost of living, and the real wages (i. e., wages measured by their purchasing power), were 60 or 70 per cent. above what they had been in 1850. In 1896 a rise of prices began, but money wages kept pace with it until about 1900. Then came a check; for a few years wages tended downward and when the rise in prices set in again in earnest, wages followed slowly. Hence the deep labor unrest and the strikes of 1911-12. On the other side of the account it must be borne in mind that the inflation of prices is partly responsible for the general buoyancy of trade and the consequent diminution of unemployment. We have been speaking of the United Kingdom alone, but the state of affairs has been similar in other countries. In some of them the increase in the prices of necessities, particularly of foodstuffs, has been much greater.

As to the cause of the prevailing high prices, economists and other experts differ. On the theory that price is the ratio between gold and goods, the increase in the output of gold, by making that metal cheaper, has been a great, perhaps the chief, factor. Gold is subject to the same laws as any other commodity—the more of it the cheaper it is. This is illustrated in an ordinary purchase, say of a bushel of wheat. The persons whom we call the seller—the seller of the wheat—is also a buyer. He buys money, which is gold in the last analysis. It needs no argument to demonstrate that if money is plentiful, and, therefore, cheap, it will take less wheat to buy a given amount of money. This is only another way of saying that a given amount of money will purchase a less amount of wheat. This is the economist's way of proving that the increase in the production of gold raises prices, but it must be remembered that the volume of the business of the world, and hence the demand for gold to transact it, have also enormously risen in recent years. Never was so much capital absorbed in the development of regions whose riches have been latent, such as the Canadian west and South America. The causes of the rise of prices may be many and complex. Certainly they have not been clearly disentangled by the financial pundits. It is time for an authoritative diagnosis. A remedy is needed.

THAT PREHISTORIC SKULL.

Quite a battle has been raging in the anatomical section of the International Congress of Medicine over the notorious Pittdown skull. This Sussex find of a few months ago is pretty generally admitted to be the oldest human relic yet discovered in Europe. How old it is and what the size and nature of its brain, these are the questions in dispute.

The conflict among geologists and anatomists was compared by one of the leading participants to the meeting of the geological section in Bret Hart's most famous poem. In that instance the debate over the age of a badly-dinted skull was abruptly closed by the story of one fully informed. He knew how modern was the skull, and remembered the price of old red sandstone that had craved the head of Thompson in.

Romancers delight to poke fun at the gullibility of scientific sages. There was the case cleared up by old Eddie Ochiltree in Scott's Antiquary, and that of "Bill Stumps His Mark" in Pickwick Papers, and in a French comedy read in the high schools there is a fine story of a broken-dish heap in an antiquary's backyard. Probably in real life the archaeologist is not so easy a mark, though it seems that no two of them can quite agree about anything.

MOUSTACHES VANISHING IN ENGLAND.

A futter was caused recently by the announcement that the war office proposed to abolish the King's regulation which lays down that the upper lip must not be shaved, and already officers have taken advantage of the report, for many of them regard their moustaches as hardly an adornment.

"Two or three of my clients who are officers," said the manager in a hair-dressing establishment in Bond street yesterday, "have recently had their upper lips shaved clean. For a long time there has been a tendency among military men either to do without a moustache altogether or when a commanding officer insists on its retention to reduce it to the smallest possible dimensions. It very seldom extends the whole length of the mouth, is cut or course, be highly probable that the two belong together, and anyway the scientists manage to agree that the mandible itself has partly simian, partly human characteristics. The roots of the teeth are of ordinary, modern, human formation, while the general shape of the jaw, practically chinless, is that of a young chimpanzee.

A leading geologist, however, has reconstructed the skull with very small brain capacity, while a leading anatomist contends for a reconstruction which would give a capacity larger than that of Australian savages of the present time. His view is, further, that even at the ancient date of the geological formation in which the skull was formed, the human cranium could hardly have been at so undeveloped a stage. It must, he thinks, even then, say 20,000 years ago, have reached practically its present capacity, and the time since the first differentiation of human and simian brains must be thought of in hundreds of thousands or a million or two of years. The fuller formed the brain of that Pittdown man was, the more ancient the history of man. An anti-evolutionist might be disposed to rejoice in the full humanity of the Pittdown worthy, thinking that here was proof of original, separate human creation. Not so thinks either the geological or the anatomical champion in this contention. The latter only pushes back a million years or so farther the evolutionary deviation of man from his nearest relatives.

NOT YET LOST.

A few days ago a New South Wales loan was placed on the British market, and only about 30 per cent. taken up. At the same time an issue of seven and a half millions of Canadian Northern bonds was over-subscribed, without any hesitation.

This is somewhat of a commentary on the lamentations of Conservative special pleaders after the refusal of the Senate to ratify the Government's naval bill. We were solemnly assured that we were turning English capital out of the country; that there were millions of English money ready to be invested in the Dominion and in Canadian securities as soon as we showed our loyalty in the way Mr. Borden and his Nationalist allies had marked out. All that good, solid British gold was now lost. But it seems it is not all lost yet. The men in Great Britain who have money to invest will send it wherever the security is good and the interest satisfactory. They will send it to the United States just as readily as they send it to Canada, if they can make a good bargain. And they are sending it here since the naval bill was hung up just as readily as they did before.

Perhaps the United States would be satisfied if Thaw were deported to Mexico.

Mr. Foster at least found one old friend in Australia—his own naval policy of four years ago.

Mr. Lancaster, M. P. of Lincoln, is likely to go on the bench, which would be one way of shelving the ne temere agitation.

In view of the turmoil and bloodshed in Vancouver Island, the Minister of Labor has hastened to Europe to study labor conditions there.

The New York World, observing the delays in the Thaw case, says that Canadian law seems to be as bad as that of American law. Is it much as that?

The auditor-general complains of the huge unauthorized expenditures run up by cabinet ministers. But consider how long they were kept out of the crib.

The West has hitherto refused to look at anything less than a 5-cent piece, but the copper coin has penetrated to Calgary, and may soon cross the Rockies.

AUSTRALIA'S SOCIOLOGICAL LABORATORY.

[From the New World of the South, by Dr. W. H. Fitchett.]
The story of Australia is a revelation of the political temper and genius of the British race. It certainly represents an experiment which, so far, has succeeded brilliantly. A community has been evolved set in conditions so happy—once so sheltered from external pressure, and so absorbed in its own life, that it forms a kind of sociological laboratory, for the most part, the equitable temper—if not always the scientific intelligence and method—of a laboratory. And if its experiments sometimes amuse, they sometimes, too, instruct the rest of the world.

MOUSTACHES VANISHING IN ENGLAND.

A futter was caused recently by the announcement that the war office proposed to abolish the King's regulation which lays down that the upper lip must not be shaved, and already officers have taken advantage of the report, for many of them regard their moustaches as hardly an adornment.

"Two or three of my clients who are officers," said the manager in a hair-dressing establishment in Bond street yesterday, "have recently had their upper lips shaved clean. For a long time there has been a tendency among military men either to do without a moustache altogether or when a commanding officer insists on its retention to reduce it to the smallest possible dimensions. It very seldom extends the whole length of the mouth, is cut very short, is trimmed square at each end."

Feminine influence is at the root of the change, for it is noticeable that in America and England, the two countries in which women are most emancipated, the tendency is toward the clean shaven face. There was a time when women acknowledged the moustache as a sign of masculinity, if not of masculine superiority. But times have changed, women desire to equal men, but since they cannot compete in the matter of moustaches they prefer not to be reminded of their existence.

[Youths Companion.]
Two farmers met in a certain town a day or two after a cyclone had visited that particular neighborhood.
"She shook things up pretty bad out at my place," said one, stroking his whiskers meditatively.
"By the way, Hi," he added, "that new barn of yours got hurt any?"
"Waal," drawled the other, "I dunno. I hain't found it yet."

NO HURRY AS YET.

WORSE AND WORSE.

THE BATTLE OF THE BARDS.

[London World.]
If Kipling had not been so hot Against our ruling "coolie" lot— If hapless Watson had not sung Of someone with a serpent's tongue— If Hardy's muse had learned in youth To be less ruggedly uncouth— If Masfield did not serve his verse Poppered with "damns," and even worse— Then one of these might fairly ask The bays—and the unimputed cask; But as for reasons here supplied These four appear disqualified. We, as a Laureate used to write, "Come down from yonder mountain height," And leave the torrents of its ridges For the still stream of classic Bridges.

MR. DOOLEY ON "PEACE."

[Chicago Tribune.]
"It's a strange thing," says Mr. Hininsy, that with all the war boomsting peace, there's so little in it in the world. There've been peace congresses an' wars goin' on side by side ever since I can remember. There's never any peace in the world except after a war. When a nation is at peace it's thinkin' of war, an' when it's at war it's thinkin' of peace. In time of war, as Hogan says, prepare for peace. The most money ever give to the cause of peace come from a German man, lastest year I think he was a German man, that'd made his bundle sellin' stuff to blow up armies in time of war. According to the will of this Quaker, 'th' fellow in all 'th' world that does most for the cause of peace gets a bunch of money. Well, who'd think it was grabbed off 'th' prize? Was it William Jennings? Or Andrew? It was not. Wan purse went to that little poet, Rudyard Kipling, author of 'th' tender sonnet entitled 'Slay, Slay, Slay.' An' another war handed over to no less a dovelike character than our own Tiddy."

What the Ancient Order of Foresters Do For Their Members

Many people do not know that the Ancient Order of Foresters, now holding their 19th biennial session in this city, is the only legal fraternal society doing business under the 3½ per cent reserve basis in contract policies, under Dominion act of incorporation. It issues to the people policies like a line company, a straight life, or a pay life, or an endowment, according to a person's requirements. It has all the privileges of loans, cash surrenders, paid-up insurance and extended terms, with the advantage that, being on the fraternal basis, it carries with it the benefits of the lodge system, and every policyholder being a shareholder, the participant procures it at cost price.

It is a practical life benefit society. It provides medical attendance and medicine. It gives $4 per week for 52 weeks, it gives $2 per week further for 52 weeks, $100 insurance and $50 death of wife.

It gives a blanket protection for the home, for the husband, the wife, the boy and girl.

It is instituted on the broad principles of the brotherhood of man; no creeds, color or nationality. Any man who has a good moral character and who is healthy when he joins is eligible for membership. Inquire or send card to FRED ROSSITER, London Brush Company, York street.

OLD SOLDIERS WENT HUNGRY AS RESULT OF LONDON STRIKE

Men of Eighteen Unions Threaten to Go Out Unless Non-Union Men Are Dismissed—Strikers Plan to Resist Armed Forces.

[Canadian Press.]
London, Aug. 27.—Hundreds of veteran army pensioners in Chelsea Hospital, the old soldiers' home of London, went hungry for several hours today owing to the strike of electricians of the public works department, declared last night in consequence of the employment of non-union painters at the admiralty.

The culinary departments of all the civil service institutions were placed in the same plight, while the fountains in the public squares were put out of service, as the strikers refused to work.

May Join Movement.
Some 10,000 men laid down their tools today, and the members of the eighteen trades unions connected with the building trades threaten to join the movement unless their demands for the dismissal of non-union workmen are complied with.

"If armed force is used against the strikers, I claim the right of the strikers to use arms to protect their own interests," said Ben Tillett, the Socialist-Labor leader, today, speaking at a conference of the International Federation of Transport Workers, now meeting in London.

MOTORMEN AND CONDUCTORS IN OUTING AT SPRINGBANK

Five Hundred Street Railway Employees and Friends Had Glorious Time.

Fun galore was the order of the day at the street railwaymen's picnic at Springbank on Tuesday afternoon. A crowd of nearly 500 people, comprising motormen and conductors, their wives, families and friends, attended the outing. The weather man was in a generous mood, and sent ideal weather after a few days of cold. Owing to the nature of the street railwaymen's work it was necessary to have the picnic in two parts, one yesterday, and one on Friday, at which the sports, games and dancing will be identical with the outing on Tuesday.

A Masquerade Band.
A masquerade band in all imaginable costumes added to the afternoon's enjoyment. In spite of their grotesque appearance the band was able to keep the crowd in good humor with their selections. They played all the old-time melodies and attracted the attention of the Ancient Order of Foresters, who pressed them into service for the parade in the evening.

The committee in charge of the picnic worked hard to make it a success, and the capable manner in which it was handled proved that they were old-timers at the business. Each department was well looked after, and everyone went away, satisfied that all

Big Power Company To Be Reorganized

New Deal Will Mean Much to Both Sides.

[Canadian Press.]
Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 27.—On a bid of $3,500,000, the mammoth plant of the Michigan and Lake Superior Power Company passed yesterday into the possession of the first mortgage bondholders of the defunct company, represented by A. F. Weill. Their bid was the only one made.

It is understood that as soon as the plant passes out of the receivership it will be handed over to the Michigan Northern Power Company, a new corporation, and that it is their intention to repair and improve the plant so that all the water available can be utilized, which would give $3,500,000 for the plant for industry purposes. The big plant was sold to satisfy holders of first mortgages valued at $5,255,000.

The successful bidder must deposit with the master-in-chancery following acceptance of the bid $250,000 in cash or $500,000 in bonds. John S. Lawrence was the master-in-chancery conducting the sale. The turnover is accepted here as the herald of a new era in prosperity of the two Sogs.

FRUIT GROWERS PAID VISIT TO THE WINONA DISTRICT

Twenty From Near London Inspect Nurseries and Orchards of Famous Section.

Extraordinary Interest Being Shown in Development of the Byron Fruit Lands.

Twenty of the London district fruit growers left London Monday morning and had a most interesting visit to the Winona district. They were the guests of Messrs. J. Sherman and C. W. Baker, and among those in the party were Messrs. H. Shore, T. A. Baker, R. Englund, N. E. Bilyea, W. Bartlett, S. D. Dawson, N. Sanderson, S. F. Cody, F. C. Brook, W. H. Mundy, S. Connell, W. C. Pack, W. H. Hadlow, J. Sharmar, J. A. Lawson and L. B. Whale.

Those who had not been in the Grimsby fruit belt had a surprise in store. As they rode on the trolley from Hamilton to Grimsby their eyes were opened as they passed acres and acres of plum, pear and peach orchards heavily laden with fruit.

The manager of one of the nurseries met the party at Grimsby, and after dinner they were taken in autos to the various nursery farms at Beamsville and Jordan Harbor.

The different methods of propagating the young trees were demonstrated. For pears, plums, cherries and peaches, bud grafting is practiced on one-year-old stock. The men were grafting cherries at the time of the visit. A bud of the desired variety is inserted in the bark of some hardy stock just above the ground, and from this the tree is formed. Apples are mostly root grafted, as this can be done in the winter.

The foremen of the different farms explained in detail the work that was being done, besides answering a multitude of questions regarding cultivation, pruning and general orchard work.

The orchards and trees in the nursery appear in healthy condition, and what caught the eye was the freedom from weeds, the land being well cultivated.

The day was all too short, and those who took the trip were deeply grateful to Messrs. Sherman and Baker, who made it possible, and to those who conducted them through the ranches and nurseries.

Those who went on the excursion stated that more fruit would be laid out in this vicinity before long.

GARBAGE REMOVAL PROVIDES SEVERAL LEGAL PROBLEMS

The City Solicitor Will Give an Opinion on How Much Can Be Removed.

London's System Operated Under Different Act Than Prevails Elsewhere.

Among the multitude of legal questions that have been "stored" up awaiting City Solicitor T. G. Meredith's return, and which will now be answered, are several that directly affect the future operation of the city garbage department. The problem of manufacturers' waste and a possible limit to the amount of refuse that may be removed from any one place will have to be determined by the solicitor's opinion.

London's Case Different.
The operation of the London system is under a different act than that in Toronto and other Canadian cities. This was necessitated because of the "limited" area the local garbage collection takes in. In other cities the entire municipality is served by the garbage department, but here such is not the case.

There is a proviso in the garbage bylaw that says all ashes and garbage within the collection area will be removed by the city provided it is placed in cans. The London Electric and other concerns, where a large amount of fuel is burned, have requested that their ashes be removed. Because they have not been placed in cans suitable for handling by the garbage men, the requests have been turned down. Now the question has been raised whether these large ash-producing concerns could demand the removal of their ashes were they placed in cans. This is one of the legal questions that will be taken to the solicitor.

Limit to Refuse.
Another is the limit for amount of refuse that can be taken from any one place. Considerable quantities are every day placed in the cans by restaurant keepers and hotels, and it is claimed that an extra charge ought to be levied for the removal and destruction of these above normal individual consignments of garbage. In Toronto, the limit is one load of refuse per week. Above that 50 per cent per load is charged for removal purposes. Whether a similar tax could be levied here, in view of the special act under which the system is operating is doubtful. Manufacturers' waste of all kinds is being refused by the garbage department, it being claimed that "waste" is not garbage, and therefore does not come under the classification of those articles which are to be removed free by the city.

"LONDON AWAKENING" FEATURE OF NEXT OLD BOYS' MEETING

Industrial Commissioner Will Co-operate in Next Year's Reunion.

Staging the Old Boys' reunion of next year in company with a great London awakening campaign, embracing commercial, financial, manufacturing and industrial lines, is a suggestion made by Industrial Commissioner Gordon Phillip. He will likely work out plans along this line and will co-operate with the Old Boys' executive in endeavoring to make the 1914 Old Boys' reunion the best ever.

"Get Together."
Speaking to The Advertiser, Commissioner Phillip expressed his opinion that the idea, contained in a story in Monday's Advertiser, of a speedy organization in order to get the ball rolling this year, was a good one.

THE RED AND BLUE FORCES MAY CLASH THIS AFTERNOON

[Special Staff Man.]
Komoka, Aug. 27.—After a march of about eight miles, which was accomplished in excellent time, the defending red forces bivouaced for the night in an orchard on the Culver farm, 3rd concession of Delaware, about 3 1/2 miles west of Byron. The Twenty-Fifth Regiment from St. Thomas bivouaced at Howlett, not far from the village of Delaware, and communication was established between the two camps by motorcycles. Two companies of the Seventh, under command of Capt. George Watson, were detailed for outpost duty, and left about 6 o'clock in the evening to take up positions about two miles distant from the bivouac to guard against a night attack. The night proved uneventful, however, and no sign of the enemy was seen, the blue force apparently being at too great a distance to take the offensive.

May Meet Today.
The general consensus of opinion is that the rival forces will be in touch with each other this afternoon, when the fighting will begin. The plan of the campaign is that the red force, coming from the direction of London and St. Thomas, is to engage the advancing blue force and hold them in check until a supporting column from the direction of Toronto can come up to reinforce the reds.

There was little, if anything, about Tuesday night's bivouac to distinguish it from real active service. The men came into camp dusty and somewhat fatigued from the long tramp, and immediately preparations for the night were got under way. The wagon train with the food supply, blankets, tents, etc., and blank ammunition was drawn up in a line to the back of the camp, ready to be moved on a moment's notice. The horses were also picketed in readiness. Tents were pitched for the staff officers, but the greater number spent the night in the open road in their blankets. The night was fairly cool, a slight frost being noticeable this morning, but no great discomfort was experienced, and both officers and men are delighted with the progress of events thus far and are eager for the fray which, it is expected, will take place today.

Scouring the Country.
The corps of guides were abroad at daylight scouring the country for miles to the west, reconnoitering for signs of the enemy's cavalry. A detachment of cavalry from the Twenty-Fourth Grey's Horse also left camp before 6 o'clock to support the reconnoitering party in case the enemy's cavalry is encountered. The chances are that a brush between the cavalry of the two forces will precede the general engagement, the red cavalry endeavoring to hold the blue forces in check until the infantry can be brought up.

Umpire in Camp.
Col. Mayberry, chief umpire, was in camp this morning to view the preparations being made for the coming conflict. He took the field shortly after daylight. Col. Hodgins motored over from headquarters at Mount Brydges Tuesday evening and visited the bivouac. He also visited the blue camp during the afternoon. He found both sides eager for the battle and confident of victory. The bivouac was broken up about 8:30. The column will probably pass through Delaware on its way to the front, as a junction with the Twenty-fifth will be made before going into action. A thirteen-

"They ought to get together and perfect the local Old Boys' reunion organization now in order that the plans may be well worked out," said the commissioner. "The idea is a splendid one and there is no reason why we shouldn't have a bigger and a better Old Boys' reunion here than ever before."

The idea of having a "London awakening" demonstration campaign at the same time will have special consideration at the hands of the commissioner, and it is likely that he will have an outline of such a program to present to the Old Boys' organization meeting. Another suggestion that may be carried out will be the use of the Old Boys' associations in various places to further the publicity work of the London bureau. London literature being sent to the secretaries of the various out-of-town associations for distribution in the city of their adoption.

pounder gun from the London Field Battery was detained at Mount Brydges this morning and will accompany the column.

Can Find No Trace Of Marjory Evans

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Covall, Aug. 27.—Marjory Evans, aged 16, is missing from her home here and despite a thorough search in London, Toronto, Windsor and other points, has not been located.

With her parents and brother the girl started from Covall for Port Stanley on Aug. 9. She chose to remain in St. Thomas to do some shopping, and disappeared. Her family has been searching for her ever since, but without any result. St. Thomas and London have been scoured by the family, the aid of the Y. W. C. A. having been enlisted in the former city.

Her brothers have recently been to Toronto, but one of her brothers was unable to find her there. She has disappeared as completely as though the earth had swallowed her.

Her brothers have recently been to Windsor in an effort to secure traces of her.

Two Women Tell How They Escaped the Surgeon's Knife

by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Swarthmore, Penn. — "For fifteen years I suffered untold agony, and for one period of nearly two years I had hemorrhages and the doctors told me I would have to undergo an operation, but I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am in good health now. I am all over the Change of Life and cannot praise my Vegetable Compound too highly. Every woman should take it at that time. I recommend it to both old and young for female troubles." — Mrs. EMILY SUMMERSGILL, Swarthmore, Pa.

Baltimore, Md. — "My troubles began with the loss of a child, and I had hemorrhages for four months. The doctors said an operation was necessary, but I dreaded it and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has made me a well woman and I feel strong and do my own work." — Mrs. J. R. PICKING, 1260 Sargent St., Baltimore, Md.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

brakeman and the plaintiffs allege that his death was due to the negligence of the defendants.

There is always something about the coming of the circus that carries with it a universal appeal, except with the pessimistic folks, who frequently argue that all circuses are alike. Brothers and sisters, don't you believe a word of this. Every circus has been different to real thinking people since circuses were invented. They are different because each succeeding year sees them coming along with more beautiful ladies, more captivating horses, more ponderous elephants and funnier clowns than the last time. It doesn't matter how many you've seen,

the next one is always the best, or you think it is, which practically amounts to the same thing.

The Sells-Floto Circus performances have always been excellent, up-to-date, and refined. It is especially worthy of patronage because of the fact that it was the first big tented attraction to cut the price of admission in half, a policy which it has adhered to ever since.

The time-honored parade will be given at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. It is promised by the management that this year the spectacle will be of more than ordinary merit. Two performances will be given tomorrow — in the afternoon at 2:15 and in the evening at 8:15. The doors will be open one hour earlier. The tents will be pitched at Princess avenue and Charlotte streets.

The price of general admission is 25 cents.

AN OBLIGING HORSE.

A doctor and a clergyman were exercising their horses one morning in a country lane, when an argument arose between them as to which of the animals possessed the sweeter disposition.

"Till wager that if their respective tempers could be tried," said the doctor, "mine would be far away the better."

"That's all nonsense," retorted the clergyman. "My mare has the best temper of any horse in the neighborhood."

"Well, here's a stiff hedge, let us try their leaping capabilities," suggested the doctor.

"Right you are," agreed his friend.

The doctor's hunter quietly refused the jump, although put at it again and again. The clergyman's little mare also refused, but at the same time threw back her ears and exhibited considerable ill-temper. When repeatedly urged to jump she finally accomplished a clever back-jumping feat, which threw her master straight over the hedge. Strange to relate, the reverend gentleman was quite unhurt, and

FAIR BOARD SHOWS

DEEP REGRET AT

COL. LITTLE'S DEATH

Resolution of Sympathy Was Passed at Meeting Tuesday Afternoon.

Citizens Asked to Decorate

Their Homes During Week

of the Exhibition.

The Western Fair Board, meeting in the association rooms, Dominion Savings Building Tuesday afternoon, passed a resolution of sympathy to the family of Lieut.-Col. J. W. Little, who was vice-president of the association at the time of his death. President W.

J. Reid also spoke of the loss sustained by the association in Lieut.-Col. Little's death.

Secretary A. M. Hunt presented a financial report of the work of the grounds and building committee in Queen's park to date this season. Without including the cost of the new heating system, which is being installed,

$8,617 has been expended on improvements to the grounds and buildings.

Grounds in Good Shape.

Mr. W. J. Reid and Mr. William

Moore verbally reported on the improvements made and several of the other directors, in expressing their approval, declared that the grounds were in unusually excellent condition this year. Mr. Moore recommended that after this year's fair, all the buildings, and particularly the grandstand, be thoroughly cleaned.

It was decided to add a hackney class for ponies to the prize list. Two sections were made, one for stallions and one for mares.

Commissioners to Toronto.

Ald. W. J. Saunders and Mr. William

Moore were appointed to attend the Toronto Industrial Exhibition and look after the interests of the Western Fair.

A resolution was carried to ask the citizens and merchants of London to decorate their premises, homes and stores during exhibition week. The opinion was expressed that the citizens have been remiss in not observing in this way the Western Fair week in past years.

The following resolution of sympathy in the death of Lieut.-Col. Little was passed:

"Whereas, the late Lieut.-Col. J. W.

Little, the first vice-president of our association, has been removed from our midst by death since the last meeting of our board; and whereas, the said

Lieut.-Col. Little has been associated with and a director of this association
