ELEVEN NEW MINISTERS IN REORGANIZED CABINET UNDER PREMIER MEIGHEN

R. G. Manion of Fort William Becomes Head of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

NEWLY APPOINTED ONES ARE SWORN INTO OFFICE

Calder, Reid and Foster Are Retired, But Will Likely Go to Senate.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Canadian Press.—The prime minister, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, had a couple of surprises when he announced his new cabinet this morning, after the ministers had been sworn in by his excellency the governor-general, who returned to the city at 8:15 o'clock from Kingston. R. B. Bennett, K.C., of Calgary, succeeds Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty as minister of justice, and R. J. Manion of Fort William becomes minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment. Both of these men had been prominently mentioned, but more recently it had been intimated that neither was likely to be included in the new cabinet.

Six ministers—Rt. Hon. C .J. Doherty, justice; Hon. Dr. Reid, railways and canals; Sir George Foster, minister of trade and commerce; Hon. R. W. Wigmore, minister of customs and excise; Hon. J. A. Calder, minister of immigration, and Hon. P. E. Blondin, postmaster-general, have retired. There are nine new ministers with portfolio and two without portfolio.

The new men are: J. A. Stewart (Lanark), minister of railways and canals; H. H. Stevens (Vancouver), minister of trade and commerce; R. B. Bennett, K.C. (Calgary), minister of justice; R. J. Manion (Fort William), minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment; L. G. Normand (Three Rivers), president of the privy council; J. B. M. Baxter (St. John, N. B.), minister of customs and excise; L. G. Belley, K.C. (Quebec), postmaster-general; Dr. J. W. Edwards (Frontenac), minister of health, immigration and colonization; Rodolphe Monty (Montreal), secretary of state, and Edmund Bristol, K.C. (Toronto), and James Wilson (Saskatoon) without portfolio.

Ministers Retained.

The portfolios in which there is no change are: Prime minister and minister of external affairs, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen; finance, Sir Henry Drayton; militia, Hon. Hugh Guthrie: marine and naval, Hon. C. C. Ballantyne; public works, Hon. F. B. McCurdy; interior, Sir James Lougheed; agriculture, Hon. S. F. Tolmie; labor, Hon. G. D. Robertson.

Sir Edward Kemp and Hon. E. K. Spinney (Yarmouth and Clare) remain ministers without portfolio.

The post of solicitor-general remains to be filled, and an announcement as to this portfolio is expected in a day or so.

Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty is to be appointed to another office, but as yet the prime minister has not indicated what that office will be.

Of the old ministers who are retired, Hon. J. A. Calder, Hon. J. D. Reid and Sir George Foster are understood to be slated for the senate and Hon. W. R. Wigmore for another appointment outside. Hon. P. E. Blondin, postmaster-general, is already a member of the senate.

The new cabinet met this morning in the privy council chamber immediately after the ministers had been sworn in. An announcement as to dissolution is expected by tomorrow.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL WILL BE BENEFITTED

Receipts From the Lecture of S. S. McClure To Be Paid Over.

Double opportunity is offered the people of London in the visit to the city of Samuel S. McClure to speak Thursday evening in Masonic Hall on Queen's avenue on "World Conditions Today."

The net receipts of the lecture will be paid over to the Children's Memorial Hospital. This is in accordance with the wish of Mr. McClure. When the members' council of the Chamber of Commerce, which invited Mr. McClure to come to London, wrote to him, asking if he had any preference in the matter of the disposition of the receipts, he answered that he would be pleased if he might help the children of London.

The chamber had intended to devote the receipts of the talk to some object of community concern, and the suggestion from the speaker at once solved the question. In order that the Children's Hospital may be largely benefited, the chamber hopes the sale of tickets will be large. The capacity of the room is about 700, and the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce to hear Mr. McClure is extended to all citizens.

JOINT CANDIDATE FOR BRANTFORD CONSTITUENCY

Brantford, Sept. 21.—It was nearly midnight last night before the U. F. O. gathering held at Maple Grove for Brantford riding dissolved. A strong plea was made by Brantford Labor men for support of the provincially authorized I. L. P.'s choice of A. W. Burt, it being pointed out that the U. F. O. nominee running alone would not stand a chance in this industrial riding. After much discussion it was decided to call a joint conference of ten each from the I. L. P. and the U. F. O., this to select a joint candidate. The I. L. P. is the new branch formed after the local I. L. P. refused to expel M. MacBride, M. P. P., from its organization and disown him for going to the cross benches, the charter being cancelled and granted to a new group here.

LOSES SAVINGS OF A LIFETIME IN "LITTLE TIN BOX" GAME

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—Paul Moringovitch, a Russian, of 30 Albert street, is short $678, his savings of a lifetime, today as a result of "a little tin box" confidence game worked on him yesterday by two prosperous-looking strangers.

Hon. L. G. Belley, K.C., the new postmaster-general, was elected in 1892 as member of the House of Commens as a Conservative under the Abbott Government. He was born at St. Alexis, Chicoutimi County, in 1863. He practiced law at Chicoutimi for some years, and lived for a short time at Calgary, Alta., for the purpose of managing his ranch of 1,280 acres of land at Cluny, in the C. P. R. irrigation block. Himself the ninth child of a family of fourteen Mr. Belley is the father of five sons and five daughters, all unmarried, and had one son, Francois, killed at the front. NO AVOIDABLE DELAY IN PASSING BYLAW

E. V. Buchanan Denies That P. U. C. Is "Passing the Buck."

E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the Public Utilities Commission, does not take kindly to the action of those aldermen, who in session Monday evening intimated that the commission is "passing the buck" as an explanation of the delay experienced in passing a bylaw in accordance with the wishes of the city council, prohibiting vehicular traffic in Victoria Park.

The delay is not attributable to the commission, but was due to the fact that the city solicitor failed to prepare a bylaw governing park traffic in time for the last Public Utilities Commission meeting. This bylaw has now been prepared and will be passed by the commission at its meeting Thursday afternoon.

"I have that bylaw in my pocket now," said Mr. Buchanan to The Advertiser. The request of the city council that Victoria Park be closed to vehicles came up at the meeting of the Public Utilities Commission on July 27, as the minutes show, and after discussion, on motion of Commissioner McFarland, it was referred to the city solicitor to prepare a bylaw in accordance with the request.

"The minutes further show that on September 8, the general manager reported to a meeting of the commission that Solicitor Meredith had just returned from his holidays and had not yet prepared a bylaw to close the park to vehicles. Since that time the bylaw has been prepared, but it was not considered an item of sufficient importance to necessitate calling a special meeting of the commission to pass it.

"It will, however, come up at Thursday's meeting for final disposal. There has been no delay in getting this request attended to on the part of the Public Utilities Commission."

FEMALE WORKERS WAGE SCALE SET BY THE BOARD

New Order Applies to London, Hamilton and Ottawa Only.

DIFFICULT PROBLEM

Minimum For Experienced Adult Is Set at $12 a Week.

All comment or criticism of businessmen affected regarding Order No. 6, as outlined by the Minimum Wage Board of Ontario, and intended to govern female employees in retail stores in cities of more than 50,000 population, will be received at a public hearing scheduled for October 4 in Hamilton.

The new order when placed in effect will apply in the cities of Ottawa, Hamilton and London. Toronto is excluded. For the purposes of the newly-proposed regulation the selling force of an establishment will include cashiers, parcelers, messengers, and other employees working with the saleswomen and not on the office or operative staffs, declare the minimum wage board.

Difficult Problem.

The decision has been somewhat delayed, it is explained, owing to the novel problem presented by the greater number of smaller places in the province The claim has been that young women in the villages and towns almost all live at home. No boardinghouse rate could be determined. Some have pleaded on this account that the minimum wage rate should not include any provision for board and lodging, as it is claimed that the worker receives it gratis. The board, however, feels that it is unjust that the employer should reap the benefit of a father's provision for his daughter. On the other hand, it is probable that the cost to the father is not as great as the boarding house rates paid in such places by high-salaried workers. Consequently, the board is forced to make an investigation of the cost of living for a modest family in a modest home in the smaller urban community. As soon as this has been completed, a new budget will be made, which will have the same authority as the budgets which have been made for the cities. The way will then be open for an immediate issuing of the order governing female workers in retail stores in all parts of the province.

Schedule of Wages.

Order No. 6 reads as follows:

1. For experienced adults, $12.00 a week.

2. Inexperienced adults, one year's apprenticeship, with a minimum wage of $10.00 for the first six months and $11.00 for the second six months.

3. Young girls, under 18 years of age, the minimum wage rate of $ for the first six months, $9 for the second six months, $10 for the third six months, $11 for the fourth six months, with the provision that no girl beginning in the industry before reaching the age of 18 years shall be paid less than one who begins at or later than the age of 18 years.

4. The number of inexperienced adults or young girls shall not exceed 25 per cent of the total female working force, except where the total female working force is less than four.

HARD HEADS FOIL WORK OF DRILLERS

Rock Breaks Steel Drills of Experts Seeking Water.

Experts of the Ohio Well Drilling Company, who are sinking a test well near the River Thames at the end of Victoria street, are experiencing difficulty owing to the presence of boulders, which are located beneath the surface of the soil at this point. Already four wells have been attempted in this location, but each time broken drills have resulted from encounters with boulders.

However, the drillers, who are acting for the public utilities commission, are determined to continue operations in the vicinity, which they declare to be a promising locality for pure drinking water. Another well will be started with wrought iron drill pipes used. As a rule steel pipes are used, but the boulders have so far proven too great an obstacle for them.

No difficulty was experienced by the Ohio experts when they drilled test wells near the cove in South London, and in West London. They were engaged by the public utilities commission to sink test wells throughout the city in an effort to definitely settle the extent of London's underground water supply.

If reports warrant same, these experts will sink supply wells for the commission on a guarantee basis of "No water, no money." The headquarters of the drillers is Massalon, Ohio, and no reports on progress made here with regard to the finding of water will be made until all the test wells desired have been sunk.

REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED IN WESTERN HUNGARY

Vienna, Sept. 21.—Stefen Friedrich, former Hungarian premier, arrived at Oedenburg, Burgenland, on Monday, and proclaimed West Hungary a republic, it is declared by newspapers here. Burgenland was recently in the hands of insurgent Hungarian bands, but they were believed to have withdrawn, for the most part, as a result of representations by Allied authorities.

Military forces commanded by Friedrich are reported to be assembling at Steinamanger, and belief is expressed here that the Carlists and the legitimatists have joined issue over the Burgenland question.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED.

McComb, Miss., Sept. 21.—Edward McDowell, negro, garage employee and hospital helper, was hanged by a mob, two miles from here, Monday. The McComb police say they know of no motive for the lynching.

ARREST OF POPLAR'S COUNCILLORS

One of the women councillors addressing her constituents immediately before leaving for prison. They were arrested for refusing to levy a tax for unemployment insurance.

MUST NAME SOME SPECIFIC CASE, CLAIMS LOWMAN

S. A. Child Welfare Secretary Ready To Answer the Charges Made.

BOOKS ARE OPEN

Temporary Care of Children Limited to Three Months.

"They must name some specific case before I would be able to answer any of their charges of inefficiency," W. E. Lowman of the Soldiers' Aid Commission advised today with reefrence to the action taken by the local branch of the Army and Navy Veterans at a general meeting last evening. Mr. Lowman is in charge of the child welfare branch of the commission. He declared himself today to be ready at all times to explain the activities of his department whenever the exact charges are made.

Allegations Made.

Answering one charge that the policy of the commission had changed materially since his transferral to London last May, wherein it involved the care of children whose parents were unable to support them, Mr. Lowman contended otherwise. At last night's gathering it was said that he was reluctant to accept children for temporary care by the commission, but that, on the other hand, he was insisting that the parent or parents relinquish all legal rights as to control.

Records Are Open.

Mr. Lowman inferred that this was not so, and placed his records at the disposal of The Advertiser, showing several specific temporary cases which have been taken care of this year, and incidentally called attention to one case wherein the parent's application for aid had been refused.

"There was no solution in this case," Mr. Lowman explained. "The father wanted a home for his children, but was unwilling that they should become wards of the commission. We could have found these children good homes, but were compelled to get his consent, which he was unwilling to give. That may be one case that is referrd to."

Three Months Maximum.

Secretary Ed Lance threw considerable light on one point of contention raised during last night's meeting. "The maximum length of time that the commission will take a child is three months," he advised, "while no children become permanent wards without first we have a court order after the magistrate has sifted the evidence."

BRITISH MAILS

The next mail for Great Britain and Europe will close at the local postoffice at 10 a.m. on Friday, September 23, 1921, to be forwarded via steamship Empress of France, sailing from Quebec on September 24, 1921. This mail will consist of full mail.

CONFESSES TO MURDER.

Lake Charles, Sept. 21.—Jesse Reen, a young negro, confessed today that he killed Rev. Charles Havens, 70-year-old minister, according to a statement by Sheriff Lyons. The motive was robbery.

RAILWAY HANDS TO GET THEIR PAY THURSDAY

Sheriff's Grip On Street Railway Cash Box Pried Loose by City.

MAY BE COMPROMISE

Company Will Likely Pay a Stated Amount Monthly To Wipe Out Debt.

Deputy Sheriff Watterworth has released his death grip on the finances of the London Street Railway, and Treasurer L. Tait of the L. S. R., says that the employees will be paid tomorrow.

As a result of an appeal made to the council on Monday night by C. H. Ivey, solicitor for the company. The council left the matter of seizing the company's daily receipts in the hands of Mayor E. S. Little and City Solicitor T. G. Meredith with power to act. Previously the city solicitor had got the sheriff to seize receipts totalling $1,573 to apply on a $7,000 judgment which the city held for money expended on repairing Rectory street.

Just what arrangement Mayor Little made with the company at yesterday's conference is not known, but it is expected that he has accepted the undertaking which the company's solicitor proposed of paying $500 a month and interest until the debt is wiped off.

The men will be jubilant, as they should have got their pay on Tuesday.

MEXICAN TREASURER MISSING.

Mexico City, Sept. 21. — Edouardo Diaz, treasurer of the Chamber of Deputies, is declared to have been missing since Monday, and it is alleged that there is a shortage in his accounts of more than 200,000 silver pesos. It is believed he fled to the United States.

DR. M. G. PEEVER of this city, who has accepted an important appointment on the medical staff of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. He is a son of the Rev. R. G. Peever, formerly pastor of the First Methodist Church here, and graduated from Western University Medical School. Prior to accepting the Baltimore appointment, Dr. Peever was an interne on the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital here.

The Reporter Didn't Have It Quite Right About Home Brew Remarks?

In regard to a report appearing in this paper of a meeting in Woodstock of the U. F. O. and I. L. P., in which one of the speakers referred to the apathy of men in political matters, Mrs. G. A. Hogg, of the Maple Avenue Stock Farm at Thamesford, writes to The Advertiser as follows:

Editor, London Advertiser:

Sir,—Censured the men; did I? 500 or more responsible citizens who attended the U. F. O.-I. L. P. convention will say NO. I congratulated the men for their fairness in selecting women delegates and also in nominating some of our number. It certainly looks as if the men minded business exceedingly well, when, as you reported, they had a full representation of delegates at the convention from every polling division in the riding, and these delegates were selected at the primaries, which were advertised and held the night before the convention.

But I did censure certain newspapers, whose deliberate policy seems to be to see how many partial truths and untruths they can get in their papers about the Farmer and Labor parties, particularly in North Oxford. I stated:

"The women vote is an untried factor as yet, and big enough to hold the balance of power. I believe the majority are approaching this election with open minds, not as rabid Conservatives or radical Reformers, but realizing our responsibility in this matter of citizenship and with an earnest endeavor to learn how best to further our ideals. If we fall into the rut of the old party politics you men will be to blame. If all the help Empire, The London Advertiser or the London Free Press, or the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, which is just as bad, and many of you are not even taking the Farmers' Sun, then it will serve you right if you are out-voted."

Further on in your article your reporter asserts that I told a "whopper" about a meeting I was supposed to have attended. He must have been dreaming about the home-brew he talks about, while I was repeating a new story on the Yankees, as follows:

"I do not know if we will ever reach the state of the Yankees or not. You know over there raisin pie is tabooed, the men seeming to think raisins are too precious to use for pies and Uncle Sam sighs as he says, 'Yes, times have changed, I was at a family party last night, the women talked politics, while the men got off in a corner and swopped recipes.'"

Now, Mr. Editor, in British fair play, I expect that you will give the same prominence to this correction as you did to the half truths which you printed in your issue of September 19th.

MRS. G. A. HOGG.

CLOSE WATCH ON HEALTH OF CITY KEPT BY BOARD

Restaurants, Barber Shops and Bake Shops Closely Inspected.

MILK SUPPLY WATCHED

Public Health Nurse Made 1,024 Visits During the Month.

The board of health seems to have its finger well on the pulse of the city, judging from the reports presented by 's officers at the meeting held on Tuesday afternoon. The conclusion would seem to be that it will be a hard job for an epidemic of any kind to get under way without the city having sufficient notice to marshal its forces to combat it.

The reports presented to the board recorded well over 2,000 visits paid to different places by board officers during the month of August. It may be that in a few cases there was a little overlapping, but not much. For instance, the plumbing inspector and health nurse may have been at the same house during the month. Or the sanitary inspector and plumbing inspector may have been at the same restaurant, but that is all.

Inspected 371 Cows.

Dr. Tamblyn, concerned with the milk supply of the city, visited the herds of 9 different owners. Some he called upon two and three times and brought his total visits up to 37. He inspected 371 cows whose product, 3,540 quarts of milk, is sold in the city.

Miss McGugan, the visiting nurse, reported that, along with her other duties, she made 395 calls during the month.

The sanitary inspector, R. H. Sanders, in his report, mentioned specifically 235 visits he had made, and also said he called on all the barbers and bakeshops, which would indicate that there are not many places of importance about the city that he does not get his nose into during the progress of a month. The general tenor of his report was that there has been a material improvement along sanitary lines, especially in the restaurants, cafes and butcher shops.

Record in Visiting.

His assistant, Mr. Boss, was also on the go pretty well and made 157 calls. He took twelve samples of drinking water for tests and also looks after quarantine cases.

To Mrs. M. Patterson, the public health nurse, go the marathon honors of the month, however. Her total calls number 1,024, and these figures brought forth words of praise from Chairman Cunningham.

And the plumbing inspector was not idle, making 138 inspections before issuing permits and 125 in other cases coming under his notice.

CITY HALL DESERTED FOR KITCHENER TRIP

Mayor, Aldermen and Officials Accept Invitation to Banquet.

The city hall is quite deserted of dignitaries, or, rather, aldermen and officials, today. With but few exceptions only the fair stenogs and other girl aides are holding the fort.

The rumor spread about that there were good things in store for those who succumbed to the call of the Kitchener council, with the result that there was a last-minute rush to go down and imbibe, just what, nobody knows.

Early yesterday morning it looked as if the trip which Ald. W. A. Wilson was organizing was going to fall flat. The weather dampened the ardor of many. They realized that the roads would be bad for such a trip. Things, however, took a turn in the afternoon. Some additional information, or, rather, hints, found their way around, and then everyone was going. The result is that there was not even an acting mayor left to guard the destinies of the city.

Mayor Little, most of the aldermen who were in the city, City Clerk Sam Baker, City Engineer Brazier, Building Inspector Piper, Inspector McCallum and a few ex-aldermen made up the party.

And this morning the belief that the rumors about the things to look forward to were given added weight when the commander-in-chief of the expedition intimated to the press that no reporters were wanted. It was hinted that on the recent Sarnia trip some of the press reports were a little too accurate as to details, and there was a desire to avoid a repetition of this on the Kitchener trip. So the reporters remained at home.

LEDOUX AGREES TO ABANDON "AUCTION" OF N. Y. UNEMPLOYED

Police of Metropolis Will Aid Him in Feeding of Jobless Persons.

New York, Sept. 21.—Urbain Ledoux, whose activities in behalf of New York's unemployed have been combatted by the police, announced early today that he and the police had arrived at a compromise. He has promised, he said, to abandon plans for holding a modern "slave auction" here, and the police have agreed to aid his efforts to feed the jobless.

Carrying out the terms of the compromise, Ledoux appeared in Bryant Park this morning with a police escort and began distribution of tickets good for breakfasts in nearby restaurants. He announced he would open a breadline at St. Mark's, in the Bowery, on Monday. Lodging also will be provided, and an employment bureau operated, he said.

LOCAL LIBERALS TO SELECT A CANDIDATE ON FRIDAY EVENING

LEGLESS, ARMLESS MAN PROVED TO BE CONTORTIONIST

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 21. —Pedestrians passing the corner of Delancey street and the Bowery today missed the poor legless, armless man who had solicited alms there, with a placard around his neck announcing that he was a "crippie of the world war."

Yesterday when a policeman approached him, Jellyfish Maxwell, a contortionist, untangled his legs and arms and fled.

Convention To Be Held in Hyman Hall at 8 p.m.

SEVERAL NAMES MAY BE SUBMITTED

A. T. Little, C. R. Somerville, Dr. W. J. Stevenson and E. S. Little.

Liberals of London will on Friday evening next select their candidate for the coming general election to the Federal Parliament.

An open convention has been called for 8 o'clock in Hyman Hall, in which all Liberal men and women of the city are invited to participate. It is not improbable that several names will be offered for consideration, among them being Arthur T. Little, ex-Mayor Somerville, Dr. W. J. Stevenson, Mayor E. S. Little and Col. Clifford Reason.

Field Is Open.

The field is declared open, however, and all interested members of the party are being urged to attend for the purpose of lending their aid in the choice of a candidate. None of these possibilities have been approached as yet. Jas Gray, who was mentioned a few days ago as a possible nominee, when questioned as to whether he would accept the nomination if such was proffered him, stated that pressure of business alone would forbid him taking any active part in the coming fight.

With this announcement made by the secretary of the Liberal Association at noon today, the local political situation begins to shape itself definitely.

EIGHT HUNDRED GERMANS KILLED BY EXPLOSIONS

Plant Where Nitrogen Compounds Are Manufactured Is Scene of Disaster.

ENORMOUS DAMAGE DONE

Force of Blasts That Destroyed Town Felt For 15 Miles Around.

Mayence, Germany, Sept. 21.—Eight hundred persons are reported to have been killed and many injured today by explosions in the Badische Anilifabrik Works at Oppau near Frankenthal, in the Rhine Palatinate.

The plant, which was the scene of the disaster, was that of the Badische Anilifabrik concern. Explosive nitrogen compounds are manufactured there.

The earlier reports issued that there were two explosions which, besides causing hundreds of casualties in killed and injured, did enormous material damage.

The disaster appears to have been one of the most terrible in the history of industrial catastrophies.

The first explosion occurred when the shifts were being changed at 7:45 a.m. in a laboratory where 800 men were working. All of these are reported to have been killed.

This explosion was followed by a rapid succession of others, which rendered assistance to the first victims impossible.

The concussions were so terrific that they were felt in this city, some 35 miles from the scene, while at Mannheim, 13 miles distant, almost every window was shattered and several persons were killed and 36 others injured by debris.

Some presons were killed at Ludwigshafen, across the river from Mannheim, many roofs were blown off houses and all the windows in the town were broken at Worms, while of Oppau itself nothing remains but a heap of ruins.

The shock was felt as far as Frankfort, more than 40 miles away, and many windows were broken there.

The whole district was enveloped in thick smoke, which, together with the cutting of telegraph and telephone communication with neighboring towns hampered the efforts at assistance.

All the available fire brigades were rushed to the spot, but rescue work was found to be exceedingly difficult.

Rescuers who penetrated Oppau reported finding hundreds of dead and wounded lying in the debris. The uninjured inhabitants fled in panic when the explosions occurred.

The reports from the scene variously describe the disaster as due to the explosion of a gas tank or a spirits tank.

TOWN IS DESTROYED.

Paris, Sept. 21.—The town of Oppau itself was entirely destroyed by the explosions in a chemical plant there, advices received here state. The force of the shocks was felt for a distance of enarly 15 miles around. In Mannheim one person was killed and about fifty others injured.

The cause of the catastrophe is not known.

IS G. W. V. A. PET OF PREMIER MEIGHEN?

Distribution of Canteen Funds Unfair, Claims A. and N. V. Speaker.

Disapproval of the action of the present Dominion Administration with relation to the disposal of the overseas canteen funds was strongly expressed again during a regular session of the Army and Navy Veterans last evening.

It appears that the Great War Veterans' Association has received from the Dominion Government a grant of some $20,000, a part, it is said, of the canteen profits in question. The claim has been made from time to time by members of other soldier associations throughout the country that such action was decidedly unfair.

At last night's gathering Comrade Rawlings explained that the G. W. V. A. was supposed to be a sort of pet of the Federal Government, and referred particularly to the disposition of the canteen funds. He asserted that even different locals of the G. W. V. A. itself had quite recently gone on record as being unfavorable to the acceptance of this sum, having evidently realized its unfairness.

SAVINGS OF KIDDIES VARY IN SCHOOLS

Highest Average Under Penny Bank System Is 72 Cents, Lowest 2 Cents.

An interesting study of the saving habit in various parts of this city among school children is afforded by figures received showing deposits by city public school children under the penny bank system for May and June of this year. A total of $1,753.58 was deposited here during that period in contrast to penny bank deposits amounting to $904.65 during the same months in 1920.

As an example of the study afforded it may be pointed out that the highest average amount deposited per pupil in any city school was at Colborne street school, the figure being 72 cents, while the low margin was reached by Victoria school pupils, who deposited an average of 2 cents each in May and June, or one cent per month.

The question arises are the Colborne street kiddies the most economical in the city, and those of Victoria school spendthrifts, or does the proximity of the popular school candy and ice cream cone establishment find an outlet for the savings in London South? Officials point out that the principal and teachers of the schools control to a great extent the amounts deposited by encouragement or discouragement of thrift among the children.

Knollwood Park Public School ranks second on the local list, with an average of 63 cents per pupil deposited. Egerton Street Public School is third, but a big drop is noted, 50 cents being the record for this school. Ealing School is fourth with 38 cents as an average. It is noted that the records have been established in small schools, and three of the four leaders are located in the outlying districts of the city.

The question brought out by this information is whether size and location of a public school here governs to any extent the amount saved by pupils attending?

In addition to the figures quoted above the following are the total average amounts per pupil deposited in public schools here last May and June under the Penny Bank system: Wortley Road, 36 cents; St. George's, 33 cents; Ryerson, 32 cents; Aberdeen, 31 cents; Simcoe Street, 28 cents; Talbot Street, 23 cents; Tecumseh, 22 cents; Empress Avenue, 20 cents; Alexandra, 19 cents; Pottersburg, 18 cents; Lorne Avenue, 18 cents; Chesley Avenue, 18 cents; Boyle Memorial, 18 cents; Quebec Street, 15 cents; Rectory Street, 13 cents; Riverview, 12 cents, and Lord Roberts School, 7 cents.

OFFICIAL OPENING OF NEW WING AT WORTLEY RD. P. S.

Bazaar Held by Mothers' Club in Aid of Children's Hospital.

COMMUNITY CENTRE

Inspector Greer Advocates Use of School For Social Activities.

The official opening of the new four-roomed wing of the Wortley Road School yesterday was marked by a bazaar, held in the afternoon by the Mothers' Club in aid of the Children's Hospital, and a reception in the evening given by the Mothers' Club and teachers of the school. The result of the activities of the day was over $50 raised for the hospital, and an increased interest aroused in that district for the school as a social center.

V. K. Greer, local school inspector, in addressing the gathering last evening, expressed the hope that the school would be made a community center for the amusement and educational activities of the district. He didn't see any reason why the people should have to go downtown for their amusement. Mr. Greer was also of the opinion that the "Mothers' Club" should soon become a "Parental Club," in which fathers and mothers should work together with the teachers of the school and the members of the school board in the interests of the children.

Splendid Co-operation.

Several members of the school board were present and spoke briefly on the splendid co-operation between the teachers and parents in the Wortley road district. Trustee Thos. Coleridge, chairman of the board, referred particularly to the new auxiliary class which has been opened in the school this fall for the instruction of sub-normal and super-normal children. This class, now being conducted by Miss Hay, one of the most efficient of teachers along this line, had an enrollment of nine pupils, and with the co-operation of the parents in the district could be made most worth while in the community.

Trustee Mrs. W. A. Tanner referred to the splendid work of the Mothers' Clubs in the city. The first club, she said, was organized in the Wortley Road School 23 years ago, and since that time the Mothers' Club movement had spread, not only throughout the city, but throughout the Dominion of Canada. She referred to the fact that the Wortley Road club had held the banner as the largest club in the city for several years, losing it last year by but two members. The new four-roomed wing of the school was the outcome of a petition to the board from the Wortley Road mothers three years ago. Other speakers of the occasion were Edwin Smith, A. N. Udy, D. Eggett and Mrs. John I. A. Hunt.

A splendid program included vocal numbers by Mrs. Ed. Wyatt and J. McCormick, and dramatic readings by Miss Topley-Thomas. Mrs. Richmond, president of the Wortley Road Mothers' Club, and Mrs. Smythe, one of the teachers, acted as hostesses for the evening.

EMPRESS AVENUE.

Miss Lawrence, a teacher at the Empress Avenue School, was the speaker for the first autumn meeting of the Empress Avenue Mothers' Club, held at the school last night, her subject being "Co-operation Between the Home and the School." The speaker was of the opinion that mothers could greatly help in the education of their children by sending them to school fit to take in what was taught them there, that is, by insisting that they have plenty of sleep, good food and fresh air. Often children were retarded in their studies through scanty sleep in poorly-ventilated rooms.

This club has decided to hold a sale of home-cooking and fancy articles at their next regular meeting, October 11. A very fine program last night included an instrumental by Miss Agnes Stilson, vocal solo by Master Hervie Baird and reading by Miss Ella Hawthorne.

COMMUNICABLE DISEASES IN 8 MONTHS TOTAL 1,469

Measles and Chickenpox Lead—No New Typhoid Cases.

To the end of August the city has harbored 1,469 cases of communicable disease. The month of August produced 150 new cases, and the previous total for the year was 1919. As usual, measles and chickenpox rank first, with 469 and 228 cases each. Then come the more serious or dangerous ones, with diphtheria leading this section with a total of 182, and scarlet fever next with 144. Typhoid fever led all in August in the matter of new cases with 83, the outbreak at the Hospital for the Insane sending this total up. Diphtheria came next with 32 victims, and tuberculosis third with 13.

Diphtheria is still rampant, as the report on communicable disease for the week ending September 17 shows five new cases, while no further cases of typhoid were reported.

LONDON'S ZOO PRAISED BY HUMANE INSPECTOR

Inspector George Tustin of the London Humane Society, gives the Springbank zoo a clean bill in so far as care of the animals and birds housed there is concerned. The following clipping from the columns of the Humane Pleader, official publication of the Toronto Humane Society, is self explanatory:

"Beg to report that the animals at the London zoo are visited by me from time to time, and am pleased to report that every time I have visited them I have always found them O. K., and in a clean condition. The bear pits are cleaned out every morning; and the animals are in good, healthy condition; running water in every pen, and a man employed for looking after the animals; and every animal looks fine; in case of sickness a doctor is at once called and all care is taken of the animal. During the last twelve months I have not received a single complaint."

RIOT AT VIENNA BOURSE.

Vienna, Sept. 21.—Serious disorders occurred in this city yesterday following the closing of the bourse. Many rushes were made upon the entrances to the building, but these were checked by the police. The crowds then wrecked the shops of several money-changers in the vicinity, while a few men suspected of speculating in foreign exchange were dragged from their automobiles and beaten.

BEET SEASON OPEN.

This week will see the opening of the sugar beet season as far as all roads in Western Ontario are concerned. The G. T. R. moved several carloads today from the counties of Essex and Kent to the sugar factories in Chatham and Wallaceburg. The season on the Pere Marquette opened last Monday, while the C. P. R. expects to begin hauling beets by the end of this week.

Officials of the C. P. R. report that the crop of beets all through Western Ontario is as heavy as it was last year despite the fact that last season established a record. The acreage this year, however, is not quite as great, owing to the dissatisfaction of many of the growers over last year's prices. The Pere Marquette alone expects to move 5,000 cars of beets, while the C. P. R. expects at least 1,300 cars as their allotment.

The Progressive Sugar Company, a new concern, with a proposed capitalization of $2,000,000, is endeavoring to establish a plant at some point in Southwestern Ontario. If their plan succeeds it is expected that the acreage of beets in Western Ontario will be greatly increased next year.

P. M. R. IN MICHIGAN.

A normal crop of beets and an unusually good crop of potatoes will provide much business during the next few months for the Pere Marquette in Michigan. It is estimated that at least 10,000 cars of beets will be moved in that state this year.

ODDFELLOWS' SPECIAL.

Four hundred Oddfellows left this city for Toronto at 5 o'clock this morning, via a special C. P. R. train. The train formed a first section of No. 20. A return special will leave Toronto for London this evening, it is expected.

JUDGING COMPLETED.

Judging of the flower beds and the decorative garden plots of the various stations and sections of the C. P. R., has been completed, and the prizes will be awarded by the end of this month. Each year the C. P. R. in this district offers eight prizes for the best kept lawns and gardens in the vicinity of stations, section houses and section-men's homes. As the competition is always keen the company's right-of-way is greatly beautified through the efforts of the employees.

OFFICIALS ELECTED.

As the result of the amalgamation of the Canadian Express Company with the Canadian National Express, the employees' organizations of the two roads, both of which were branches of the C. R. R. E., were united into one big, country-wide organization. At the recent conference of the representatives of the two unions held in Winnipeg it was decided that the new organization would remain true to the Canadian Brotherhood, despite the actions of the Canadian Trade Congress in revoking the charter of the national organization.

At that meeting, N. L. Preston, formerly chairman of the general grievance committee for the employees of the National Express Company, was appointed general chairman of the same committee for the new organization. Albert H. Ball of this city was appointed general secretary, as well as vice-chairman of the grievance committee for the central division, which stretches from Armstrong to Montreal. W. C. Johnston was elected vice-chairman for the eastern division, with headquarters in Moncton, N. B.

The appointment of Mr. Ball to the position of general secretary has brought considerable distinction to the local branch of the union, M. Dundas of this city, formerly chairman of the general grievance committee of the Canadian Express, was elected honorary vice-president of the C. R. R. E. in Ontario.

Because the company was unready to present the proposed new scale of wages and working conditions to the employees when they met in Winnipeg, the present scales of both companies were extended until October 15. It was the intention of the company to end the present agreement on September 15. A meeting will be held in Montreal at the end of this month, it is expected, to discuss the new scale of wages and working conditions.

ANNUAL TOUR.

The Pere Marquette Railway's annual tour of the lines is scheduled to start on October 21, and will continue for the ensuing nine days without a break, according to the present plans. Heretofore the inspection trip has taken a period of two weeks, due to the tieing up on Friday over the Sunday intervening between the first and second half of the tour. This break is to be avoided this year.

LONDONER WILL GET CHIVALRY DECORATION

J. Kirkpatrick Among Those To Be Honored by Oddfellows.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—A proposal to organize a juvenile branch of the I. O. O. F. for members between the ages of 16 and 21 was presented to the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the order today by delegates from Minnesota. The tentative bill, as presented, embodied the suggestion that the branch be given its own governing council. For years there has been a strong body of the order working for the lowering of the minimum age limit from 21 to 18 and the Minnesota measure is designed to meet this demand. It was referred to the committee on legislation, who will report tomorrow or on Thursday.

Would Lift Ban.

Another proposal, emanating from the Illinois delegation, was that subordinate lodges be permitted to resume the use of foreign languages in their ritualistic exercises. The adoption of this suggestion would lift the ban imposed shortly after the United States entered the war, on the use of German in the order.

The Minnesota representatives also gave notice of a bill for the establishment of a tuberculosis hospital for the treatment of Oddfellows or members of their families.

Representative S. H. Page, of Pennsylvania, proposed an amendment to the code to permit grand encampments to authorize non-beneficial subordinate encampments to expend funds for the benefit and advancement of the order.

Representative P. W. Mahoney of Wisconsin, moved to reduce the age at which members may become non-beneficial members from 50 to 45 years.

Meet in Detroit.

It was the unanimous decision of the grand lodge to meet in 1922 in Detroit.

The sub-committee on finance reported a balance on hand on August 1, 1920, of $59,570.50. Receipts during the year were $186,950.73; expenditures, $173,465.99, leaving a balance on hand at July, 31, 1921, of $73,055.25.

Mileage was set at 11 cents a mile, and the per diem allowance at $7.50 for accredited representatives of the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

The recommendation of the general-commanding for the conferring of Grand Decoration of Chivalry on representatives from the several departments was indorsed. The list includes J. Kirkpatrick of London, Ont., James F. Hildon and James F. Collinghorne of Toronto and T. N. Clements of Windsor.

PRE-NATAL INFLUENCE STILL HAS ADHERENTS

While some may scoff and laugh over tales of pre-natal influence, there are still those who firmly believe that such influences on a mother will be visited upon her offspring in some form or another, mostly in the form of birth-marks.

The matter came before the board of health at its meeting Tuesday afternoon. Objection was being raised to the fertilizer plant hauling dead horses through the streets. One of the reasons given was the influence it had, and the results which might attend, if an expectant mother was forced to look upon such spectacles from day to day.

Chairman Cunningham hastened to set the complaint right. He declared this belief to be a fallacy, long since disproved, and hence taboo. He said that the conclusion had long been reached by authorities that it was other things which produced birth-marks, etc.

The man accepted the explanation of the chairman with a smile, but he went away skeptical.

SASKATCHEWAN'S WHEAT CROP 145,082,000 BUSH.

Regina, Sask., Sept. 21.—On a seeded acreage of 10,363,000 acres, the wheat yield for Saskatchewan this year is estimated by A. E. Wilson, Dominion grain commissioner, to be 14 bushels to the acre, making 145,082,000 bushels.

PENNY BANK FAIRLY POPULAR IN LONDON

Local School Children's Deposits Average 22c Each a Month.

Reports of the Penny Bank issued for the months of May and June last show that the average deposit per pupil in London public schools during this period was 22 cents. The average per pupil for the Dominion of Canada during this period was 37 cents. While obviously from these figures London has not the highest average in the dominion or province, the averages published show that local public school kiddies are fair savers. In contrast to this, figures from some centers appear indicative of spendthrift tendencies on the part of the younger generation in so far as the Penny Bank system is concerned.

Following are some of the figures issued for different educational centers in Eastern Canada and including London district: Ottawa, 34 cents; Stratford, 32 cents; Paris, 31 cents; Galt, 50 cents; Goderich, 41 cents; Welland, 43 cents; Guelph, 74 cents; Kitchener, 16 cents; Blenheim, 2 cents; London, 22 cents; Toronto, 42 cents; Leamington, 12 cents; Montreal, 18 cents; Woodstock, 29 cents, and Niagara Falls, 48 cents.

From these figures it can be seen that Guelph with 74 cents as the average deposit per pupil during the months of May and June ranks highest, while the figure for Blenheim with an average deposit of two cents per pupil for these two months would seem to indicate that the candy store and ice cream cone are popular in this town.

WANT RETURNED MAN APPOINTED AS JAILER

Army and Navy Veterans Censure Reports of Newspaper.

That the vacancy created at the county jail by the resignation of Governor Carter be filled by a returned man, if such is humanely possible, was the resolution passed by the Army and Navy Veterans last night.

Comrade Rawlings insisted that no better selection could possibly be made than an ex-soldier, one who has been thoroughly trained in receiving and dispensing orders, and well versed in general discipline. He urged the members to get behind any returned man who might make application and see that he was appointed.

Another comrade suggested that it would be first necessary for any prospective candidate for the position to secure a farm before he need entertain any hope of winning out.

Reports Censured.

Certain items which have appeared in a local paper from time to time, purporting to be voicing the general sentiment of the association as to federal political matters were severely censured. Two of these were particularly obnoxious to the members, both inferring that a certain possibility for nomination for the general election had the whole-hearted backing of the Army and Navy Veterans.

"I want no one person here to dictate to me how to vote," commented Comrade Casson, who drew attention to the articles in question. Secretary Glennie and other members insisted that as the organization was still non-political and non-sectarian, it was not consistent with its policy to even mention politics in connection with the association. The statements as appeared last night were emphatically repudiated, and a communication to that effect is being forwarded to the journal in question.

G. W. V. A. SKEPTICAL RE AMALGAMATION

Local Command Wants To See Benefits Under Proposed Union.

The first general meeting of the local G. W. V. A. since the installation of the new officers for the year was held last night in the new club rooms over the Majestic building on Dundas street.

Colonel W. G. Coles, president of the organization, was very much pleased with the exceptionally large turnout, and expressed hopes that the association would stick together and attend the meetings a little more regularly than they have done in the past.

Comrades Ireland and Bates were elected to the executive committee by vote, and Comrades Gibbling, Williams, Ryder, Menzies and Noble were elected to the house committee by acclamation.

Nearly Starved.

It was moved and seconded that a letter be sent to General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the public utilities commission, stating that the G. W. V. A. would fall in line with the city council and render the veterans of the city aid in obtaining employment. It was stated that work on the public utilities commission was being done mainly by foreigners and retired farmers, who were not in need of the money, when returned soldiers and other residents of the city could not get work at any price. It was claimed that some veterans nearly starved to death during the winter months of last year.

The amalgamation question was brought up, but it was decided to let it "hang fire" until it was seen what would be done by the various organizations at the coming Dominion convention. "It is up to the other soldier organizations to show what benefits can be derived from amalgamation before we will express ourselves," said Colonel Coles, "and, as a part of the G. W. V. A., I think they should come to us and not have us go to them. If they want amalgamation, let them have it, but let them be amalgamatd under the G. W. V. A. This was the first returned soldiers' organization and, moreover, it has done more regarding the fair distribution of pensions and other work among the soldiers than any other organization that I know of."

New Organization.

Regarding the opening up of a new organization of returned soldiers in the eastern section of the city, Col. Coles stated, "I do not feel depressed about anything like that. If it does start, well, that merely means another organization in the field and we're still going strong with all the competition there is at present. If it is being formed, it is only being done by members who have been kicked out of this organization and they won't get anywhere.

"All that is necessary is that each man shall do his bit. Stick together like we did in the army on the field of action and don't ask the public for any special benefits, except that possibly we should ask a little more consideration regarding the filling of positions than the man who did not serve his country in the time of need."

A good deal of discussion regarded the appointment of a man from an outside point to the position of secretary, but this was ruled down as the present secretary was formerly a member of the local organization and was transferred to the London command from Windsor. One of the members took the floor and discussed the appointment in very clear language and started quite a controversy, which ended by him saying: "Well, whatever I have to say on anything regarding G. W. V. A. circles I say it right here in the club rooms, I don't preach it on the street corners like A. E. Johnston of Pine Lawn."

The Right Man.

"The present secretary has done very good work for the association," declared Col. Coles, "and, since he has been appointed, 51 of the old members have returned to us and six new members have been added to our roll. I am sure he is the right man for the position and I think you will all see it in the same light."

It was stated at the meeting that it is not necessary for old members who have dropped out to pay another initiation fee if they wish to join up. They will be required only to pay dues from the time they rejoin.

Service Ribbons.

A resolution was passed that Col. Coles call on the head of the police and fire departments to ask permission for the men to wear service ribbons of the last war and all former wars, on their uniforms.

Another resolution was also passed that the local G. W. V. A. send a letter of condolence to Lady Hughes in connection with the death of her husband, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes. It was stated that it was a little late to send the letter, but that this meeting was the first held since his death.

V. D. SPREAD CHECKED

Opinion Expessed by M. O. H. at Meeting of Board of Health.

Is the statute making it obligatory on the part of physicians to report cases of venereal disease being rigidly adhered to?

Some seem to think that it is not, and base their conclusion on the fact that few cases are being reported. On the other hand, there are those who claim that the scarcity of new cases may be accepted as an evidence that the spread of the disease has been checked.

Speaking at the board of health yesterday, Dr. Downham said that the total number of new cases reported for the whole province was only 300. This was in answer to a query from the chairman as to whether or not the doctors were reporting such cases.

The weekly report of communicable diseases for the city for the week ending September 17 shows five cases of syphilis. Dr. Downham, in his report for August, said there were six new cases during the month of August. The previous total of the two diseases when added brought the eight-month total for the city up to 112. The venereal disease clinic report to the provincial board of health for the month showed three cases admitted to the hospital.

CARTER RESIGNATION WILL BE ACCEPTED

Takes Effect October 1, Says Hon. H. C. Nixon.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—The resignation of Governor James Carter of Middlesex County jail will be accepted, according to Hon. H. C. Nixon's announcement tonight. It takes effect October 1. The report being prepared by Inspector W. W. Dunlop and Deputy-Attorney-General Bayly, Hon. Mr. Nixon said, had not yet reached his hands.

In reply to Governor Carter's letter of criticism, Inspector Dunlop said:

"In the future, as in the past, I will do my duty as I see it, fearlessly and impartially. I will not try to smoke-screen my errors and omissions. Neither will I try to camouflage my imperfections."

PAID $5 FOR WATCHING BIG BASEBALL GAME

Edward White wanted to see the baseball game at Tecumseh Park yesterday and put his head through a hole in the fence. Sergt. William McCullough saw the head and investigated. He found that a board had been torn off the fence, and said that White was tearing part of it off when he arrived. White denied that he had damaged the fence, and said the board had already been taken off.

It was in the seventh inning and a player made a hit. From outside White could not see where the ball landed, and so put his head through the hole to get a clearer view. He was fined $5 and costs.

Sam Conklin, a vagrant from Niagara Falls, was allowed to go out in search of work today, after he had served a week in jail. He said that he expected some money today, which would provide him with meals until he obtained work.

JURY SEEKS SOURCE OF ARBUCKLE BOOZE

Seven Witnesses Questioned But No Indictments Returned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—Seven witnesses were questioned today by the federal grand jury in an attempt to learn the source of the liquor consumed at the affair in Roscoe C. ("Fatty") Arbuckle's hotel suite here, from which resulted the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, and Arbuckle's arrest an a charge of murder.

"No indictments will be returned until all of the federal departments co-operating in the case have completed their several investigations," announced Robert H. McCormack, assistant United States attorney-general. The investigation will be resumed by the grand jury Friday, he said.

Important Witnesses.

Today's witnesses were Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont, Miss Alice Blake, Miss Zey Prevost and Mrs. Mae Taube, who were present at the party; John P. Pickett, a bell boy at the hotel, and Miss Josephine Kessler, a hotel maid.

Mrs. Delmont swore to the murder complaint against the film comedian, and Miss Prevost was the woman whose statements to the police caused Arbuckle to be booked on a murder complaint.

Joyce Clark, another member of the party, was subpoenaed, but was not called today.

"We simply wanted their testimony perpetuated in the event any witnesses should leave the city, and to prevent conflict of testimony in case any of them should desire to leave before the case might be brought to trial," McCormack said.

Subpoenaed Sherman.

A telegram to Lowell Sherman, a participant in the affair, was sent today to Chicago by District Attorney Matthew A. Brady, asking Sherman to come to San Francisco to give his version of the affair. District Attorney Swann of New York also was notified by telegram to intercept Sherman if he arrived there, and keep him under surveillance. Sherman was subpoenaed as a grand jury witness before he left Los Angeles for Chicago. Assistant District Attorney Milton U'Ren said he hoped Sherman would leave voluntarily, and not cause legal steps to be taken against him.

The authorities announced today that they believed that May Parsons, another woman who had been in the Arbuckle party, had been located at Fort Worth, Texas. Chief of Police O'Brien asked the Fort Worth authorities to detain her.

RAISES OBJECTIONS TO CANADIANS' LOAN

Claim Is Made That Deal With the Chinese Republic Is Against Concertium.

London, Sept. 21. — Canadian Press Cable.—The Times correspondent at Pekin says that important issues have been raised by the agreement recently signed in that city, by which a Canadian banking syndicate will lend the Republic of China 3,000,000 gold dollars against one-year bonds secured on various enterprises. It is noted that the discount and interest give a return to the Canadian investors of a rate exceeding 20 per cent per annum.

The correspondent says that the transaction seems to be in order, except that the concertium of the powers formed to regulate the question of a loan to China has not been consulted, and that the loan is a direct negation of the British Government's policy in China. It is pointed out, however, that the Canadian Government is not a party to the concertium agreement between Great Britain, United States, France and Japan, and feel under no obligation to observe its terms. Nevertheless, foreign parties to the concertium will naturally take the view, says the correspondent, that if the Canadian loan goes through the British Government will be subscribing to one policy with the right hand, and to a totally different policy with the left. The concertium arrangement must end if all parties to it do likewise.

ODDFELLOWS HOLD A MONSTER PARADE

From 30,000 to 50,000 Members of Order in Line At Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Canadian Press.—Under lowering skies, which threatened to break into showers at any moment, the parade of from thirty thousand to fifty thousand members of the Indepent Order of Oddfellows, with their militant encampments and sister lodges, took place here this afternoon, in connection with the 98th meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, which is now in session.

No attacks of the elements could dampen the enthusiasm though it might mar the splendor of the parade. The proclamation of Mayor Church and the city council had asked employers to suspend business as far as possible, and judging from the crowds which lined the streets to see the monster procession many had complied with the request.

The long line of lodges, cantons and auxiliaries was reviewed by Jos. Oliver, former mayor of Toronto, and grand sire of the order. Leading civil and provincial dignitaries were also on the reviewing stand.

ANOTHER GUESS AS TO MURRELLS GONE WRONG

Eight days ago Blackstone, the magician, predicted that Sidney and William Murrell, who escaped from the county jail on September 2, would be captured within eight days. They are still at large. As magicians and such persons endeavor to surround themselves with an air of mystery and often have double meanings for all their utterances, Blackstone might not have meant the "days" of being 24 hours each, but the "days" referred to in the Bible which were as long as 1,000 years of the present calendar. If so, he may guess right.

CANADIAN CATTLE CAN BE SHIPPED OVERSEAS AT A FAIR PROFIT

Ottawa, Sept. 21. — That fat cattle can with profit be shipped overseas in increasing volume from Canada, provided the movement is properly regulated, is asserted in a bulletin on the subject just issued by the livestock branch of the department of agriculture. For the English market, says the bulletin, the most saleable animals weigh between 1,200 and 1,300 pounds, not particularly fat, but well teaned, and preferably under 3 years of age. In Scotland the demand is mostly for lean meat. The trade in Great Britain do not look for any marked decline in values during the present autumn, expecting increased demand with cooler weather.

ACTOR WANTED IN 'FRISCO DISAPPEARS

Lowell Sherman Leaves Train —Joins Red-Haired Woman With Automobile.

New York, Sept. 21.—Lowell Sherman, an actor who is wanted by District Attorney Brady of San Francisco in connection with the case against Roscoe Arbuckle, today left a tran at Harmon, N. J., when on the way to New York and vanished in an automobile with a red-haired woman. This information was given to a representative of District Attorney Swann's office when he went to the Grand Central station here to meet the Twentieth Century Limited from Chicago, and detain Sherman, as requested in a telegram from District Attorney Brady.

Mr. Swann at once asked the police of Westchester County to locate Sherman. Harmon is a switching point on the New York Central Lines, a few miles up the Hudson above Ossining. All trains stop there, in order that electric engines may be substituted for steam. Detectives awaiting the train at the Grand Central did not accept the conductor's information without reservations. They tried the ruse of having "Mr. Sherman" paged by a telegraph boy. They got one "Mr. Sherman," but he was not the one.

Sherman was one of the party assembled in Arbuckle's hotel suite in San Francisco the night Virginia Rappe met death.

According to the conductor Sherman made merry with theatrical folk on the trip east, getting off the train at Chicago to chat with a young woman.

Gundy, in announcing that the fine for speeding had been increased from 50 cents to $1 per mile, declared his determination to assist the police in every way in stamping out speeding on Riverside Drive, where no fewer than six deaths have resulted from automobile accidents since March. More than $250 in fines and court costs were paid by the drivers.

LONDON, Sept. 20. — (By Canadian Press Cable.)—Large reduction in wages paid to workmen in the coal trades are due, under an agreement, at the end of this month. This will, of course, prove naturally unpopular, but further trouble is not anticipated, as the agreement can only be terminated by three months' notice, given after next September.

BUSY SEASON LOOMS AHEAD OF THE "Y"

The Wireless Movement Is Spreading; Many Enthusiasts Take a Hand.

The Y. M. C. A. is launching a season of activity after a well-earned holiday, and meetings of the board of directors and officials of the various classes is the order of the day.

Last night the "Y" Radio Club officials decided to elect new officers for the coming term at the next meeting. Regular meetings of the club will be held next week, Wednesday being set aside for the seniors, and Friday for the junior class.

On Saturday an inspection of the Y. M. C. A. wireless apparatus will be made, and any additions that will be deemed essential to the plant will be discussed.

The wireless club is becoming more recognized each day, and many enterprising youths in the city have erected an apparatus of their own just for the purpose of keeping abreast of the times by receiving all the latest wireless messages of the day.

The benefits of this apparatus were shown at the Fisher's Glen Camp, where the Y. M. C. A. boys spent part of their summer holidays, when the youthful operator there received the reports of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, hot off the wire, even before it was displayed on the bulletins of the newspapers.

Many Improvements.

Several improvements have been added to the locker room of the "Y," and the tote box system is an outstanding feature by itself. This room, which formerly was used as the auditorium, is partitioned off, and the junior class will enter by the auditorium entrance, present their ticket, which will have their tote box and locker number attached and received a key for their locker in returin. The seniors will follow the same plan, except that they will enter by the usual entrance.

Fifteen hundred tote boxes have been purchased by the association, so that each individual member will have one for himself. Formerly there were many members who did not have a box or locker, and it was quite an inconvenience to them to leave their clothes lying around on the floor or on the benches in the dressing room.

The dressing room has been rearranged, and the floors will be painted, walls kalsomined, and a strip of linoleum laid from the entrance to the showers and plunge.

The bowling alley has been dismantled, owing to the high cost of the up-keep, and it has not yet been decided whether the association will erect a box-ball alley or not. This will probably be brought up at the next meeting.

REMAKE JOINTS OF HIGH PRESSURE CABLE AS A PRECAUTIONARY STEP

Because of a break in a joint of a main high pressure underground cable early this month, all such joints in this city are to be remade by public utilities employees. The joint which blew up had been made by the best means known when the cable was laid ten years ago, but since that time there have been many improvements, and in order to avoid similar trouble in future all joints will be remade.

This break was not located and repaired until 24 hours after the joint blew, during which time the damaged line remained out of commission, inconveniencing many consumers. As there is only one high pressure underground cable in the city, namely, that between the Horton street station and the Anne street sub-station, remaking the joints will not be an extensive job. The work is estimated by General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the public utilities to cost about $150.

It is the intention to do the work on Sundays, and during hours when the least possible inconvenience to consumers will result.

M'DERMAND MAY NOT SECURE ACCLAMATION

Removal of Govt. Dredge To Port Burwell Probable Election Sign.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 20.—Government dredge No. 117 has gone to Port Burwell and is expected to remain there during the balance of the season. An intimation, it is said, to S. S. McDermand, M. P., that he will not, as he expects, be elected by acclamation.

His Claim Allowed.

Judgment has been given for H. Flack, jeweler, in his claim against E. E. Davis of the P. M. for $8, the value of work done on a watch for Mr. Davis. Judge Ermatinger found that the timepiece had not been injured while it was in the possession of Mr. Flack.

Death of Mrs. Bissell.

Mrs. Susan A. Bissell, wife of John Wesley Bissell, died this morning at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Samuel Downs, Frome, after a year's illness. She was born in the village and was a member of the Congregational Church. She is survived by her husband and daughter, Mrs. Fred Lee, Detroit. Ex-Mayor Horton and Leslie Horton, Vergersville, Alta., are brothers. Mrs. Archibald Berdan, Frome, and Mrs. Samuel Davis, Frome, are sisters. The interment will be in Fingal Cemetery on Thursday afternoon.

Diphtheria Increasing.

There are fourteen diphtheria cases in the city, the majority of which are of a mild type. A couple of adults are, however, in a serious condition. There are two cases of scarlet fever.

Maxwell McNally Recovering.

Maxwell McNally, the lad who was seriously injured in an auto accident last week and has been unconscious since, shows signs of recovery today and the doctors now hope that his health will soon be restored.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McCall, San Francisco, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Kitchen, Elgin street.

Mr. McCall, after an absence of 55 years, is renewing friendships with the older people of Simcoe and St. Thomas.

RATEPAYERS MAY VOTE ON ASPHALT PLANT

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 20.—The people may be asked at the coming municipal election to provide a sufficient sum to purchase an asphalt plant for the city. City Engineer Miller, after investigating the results, both operative and otherwise, of the plant at St. Catharines, will advise the purchase of machinery for local purposes, and sees a profit-making investment for the city. The probable cost would be $30,000, and would pay for itself in five years.

TORIES TO NAME CANDIDATE SOON, LABOR ALSO BUSY

Many Willing To Carry Conservative Standard, Is Claim.

SOLDIER CANDIDATE

Labor Party Is Planning To Place Man in the Field.

The first real move by the Conservative party in preparation for the general election is scheduled for Monday next at 1:30 p.m., with a general caucus at the Conservative Club rooms, Dundas street. The Advertiser was advised this afternoon that it is the intention that every riding in Western Ontario will be represented, and plans for the coming campaign will be mapped out.

Many Are Called.

Following this, it is further intimated, a local convention of Conservatives will be called to select a suitable candidate. Just who the latter will be is somewhat problematical. In fact, the Tory leaders do not seem to possess the slightest idea themselves, except to announce that many will be called. Among those more prominently mentioned recently have been Ald. Cameron Wilson, Ald. H. J. Childs and E. R. Dennis, while even Sir Adam Beck's name has been suggested as "being able to emerge successful from the contest."

Labor Leaders Busy.

The labor leaders have announced that they will probably make their choice for the contest. Several possibilities will receive consideration by a combined meeting of the Independent Labor Party and the Labor Representation Committee.

Soldier Candidate.

Although all the returned soldier units have but recently expressed determination to withhold from politics as organizations, the cause of J. W. Cunliffe has been persistently championed by numerous individual returned men. Mr. Cunliffe advised The Advertiser this afternoon that he still had the question under consideration, but would make his final decision shortly. He has already explained that in event of his entry into the local arena his ticket would be straight independent.

TRUSTEES FAVOR JUVENILE COURT

One Intimates That Delay of Council Is Not Being Approved Of.

Members of the board of education, interviewed by The Advertiser this morning, "come out strong" in favor of a juvenile court for London, one of those interviewed intimating that the inaction of the city council with regard to this question is not being favorably received.

"I am very much in favor of it," said Trustee Mrs. Tanner this morning, "and I think it is not a bit too soon to take action. A committee of the Social Service Council waited on the city council urging the juvenile court, and they promised consideration. I thought the aldermen were favorable to a juvenile court.

Surprised at Delay.

"I was very much surprised when no action was taken because I thought the time was ripe. It would be better to start while the problem is small, and not wait until it gets too big to handle."

"It seems to me on the surface, without investigation, that a juvenile court could specialize on the personal relationship of the child to the state," declared Thomas Coleridge, chairman of the board of education to The Advertiser. "In this way it would be better able to judge what is best for the child. I have nothing else to say on the question without a study of it."

Approves of Scheme.

"I approve of the principle of a juvenile court," commented Trustee Thomas Rowe, a veteran member of the board of education. "I am not prepared to say anything about the delay in getting it established, if it is a delay."

"I have always been favorably inclined to the establishment of a juvenile court for London," Trustee A. N. Udy informed The Advertiser. "It is a step in the right direction. People should be educated up to the idea, and we are not beyond that stage yet."

"I certainly think we should have a juvenile court here," asserted Trustee A. A. Langford. "I am in favor of it."

RAILWAYS REDUCE TARIFF ON GRAINS

MONTREAL, Sept. 20. — Reduced freight rates on grain and grain products for export to come in force on September 23 are given in freight tariffs issued by the C. P. R. and received this morning by the transportation bureau of the Montreal Board of Trade. These reductions bring the rates down to within about 10 per cent of those ruling prior to the increased rates granted last December by the railway, according to W. B. Lanigan, freight manager of the C. P. R. The Grand Trunk and the Canadian National Railways are issuing similar reduced tariffs.

The four new traffics, all on grain and grain products, are for shipments at Atlantic seaports; to Montreal and Quebec for export; by lake and rail from Fort William to Atlantic seaports for export, and by lake and railroads from St. William to Montreal and Quebec for export. It is stated by grain people on the grain exchange of the Montreal Board of Trade that these reduced rates will come in time for the movement of practically the whole of this year's crop.

U. S. CONGRESS RECONVENES.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Congress reconvened at noon today after a recess which began August 24. Under a gentlemen's agreement in the House, however, that body is to begin immediately a series of three-day recesses until October 4, while the senate goes ahead at full speed on tax revision, the ratification of the peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary, and with a number of other important measures, including anti-beer, railroad debt funding, Allied debt refunding and Panama Canal tolls bills.

LEWIS WINS BY KNOCKOUT.

PLANNING FOR THREE YEARS' LIVE PROGRAM

Value of Definite Aims Will Be Emphasized by C. of C.

Looking at least three years into the future of the London community, the Chamber of Commerce is planning that the results of its expansion movement shall cover at least that period. One of the methods it will follow, as in the past three years, is the preparation of a new program of work. In telling why and how it will do that the executive committee makes answer to the question of "what can the chamber do?"

Emphasis was placed on the value of definite aims in maintaining the interest of the members in the organization after it has been expanded. In forming its program of work, the chamber will ask the members two questions. The first will be what the organization can do for the benefit of the individual members, that being the selfish question; and, second, what the body should do for the community, the unselfish question.

Group Meetings.

As a matter of fact, it is expected few answers will be made to the first question, but such as are made will have careful attention. Reliance will not be placed on mail replies to the two inquiries. Group meetings will be held, discussions invited and other means adopted, all intended to secure from each member a candid and earnest expression of opinion or suggestion.

Each member will write his answers and sign his name to a sheet. This will enable the chamber to make a card file of the suggestions, the record serving a double purpose. It will be possible to determine what matters are of first importance, and when the time comes to name the special committees to undertake the projects, men and women who are interested in the particular matters may be selected, thus avoiding the incompetence and inactivity of the old standing committee system.

Interest Individuals.

"It is by giving the individual member opportunity to work on the thing he is particularly anxious to have done that the whole membership is kept alive and interested," it was said at the expansion headquarters in the chamber's rooms.

Under such a method it is impossible to say precisely what the chamber will do, it was explained, but this statement was made: "The chamber can and will do anything upon which the thought and energy of the community has been centered as needful to be done.

"What it will do depends entirely upon the membership." Each member will have an equal voice in saying what the chambers should do, and the doing of those things will then become a matter of uniting the community, as represented by the chamber, to that end."

RECENT RAINS HELP PLOWING AND SOWING

Most of the Tobacco Has Been Cut in Essex.

Following is a summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario department of agriculture:

Recent dry weather has had a tendency to slow up the sowing of fall wheat, but recent rains have helped both plowing and sowing, and a larger area than last season is likely, taking the province over.

Waterloo puts the increase in that county as not less than one-third more than that of last year while Kent, our greatest fall wheat county, estimates the increase at 10 per cent.

Timiskaming reports that some farmers are plowing up turnips and are sowing fall wheat.

Essex reports that by Saturday about 90 per cent of the tobacco in the Warren district had been harvested, and that about half of the Burley had been taken off. The crop has been ripening very quickly during the last week or two.

Fruit Unsaleable.

Brant says that fruit in unsprayed orchards is more or less unsaleable, as much of it is wormy and spotted. The sprayed orchards are running from 50 to 60 per cent with domestics.

Haldimand states that the marketing of grain has been curtailed recently, local farmers being of the opinion that prices will go higher; and that this also applies to the selling of hay, of which there is a considerable quantity on hand, present prices running from $18 to $21 a ton, f.o.b. cars.

Grey says that while some are going out of sheep-raising, many are still standing by it, knowing that they will gain eventually. There is considerable local inquiry for pure-bred rams.

Halton states that a number of farmers are rushing their livestock to market in an unfinished condition, due to the scarcity of feed.

Bruce reports that a number of heavy steers were shipped from several points in that county lately, and that there are some inquiries for good stockers.

Disposing of Stock.

Leeds states that much inferior livestock that would make unprofitable feeders are being disposed of. The representative also says: Last week I saw a herd of 95 milking pure-bred Jerseys. The milk tests high, and the price received has been 15 cents a quart, retail. During the war the owner agreed not to raise the price over 7½ cents, and he kept his word, thereby losing money, but he now has no difficulty getting a market for all his surplus by catering to summer visitors at the Thousand Islands."

Silo-filling is still progressing, both the quality and the quantity of corn being all that could be desired. Prescott and Russell says that yields of 20 tons of fodder corn to the acre are common.

Damaging Corn.

Peterboro says: "There have been some cases reported of the corn ear worm doing damage to sweet corn. It was mistaken for the borer, and some farmers were greatly worried, until they were assured that it was not that pest."

The Lennox and Addington representative says: "A marked increase in the attendance of farmers has been noticed at all the local agricultural fairs. This, no doubt, has been due to the fact that farmers are well advanced with their fall work. I notice that farmers are taking a keen interest in the educational exhibits at fall fairs especially intended for farmers."

CLAIMS $10,000 FOR THE LOSS OF WIFE

Fatal Accident on Dundas Street Results in Action For Supreme Court.

Leo Sullivan, administrator of the estate of May Sullivan, deceased, has entered suit in the supreme court, which opens here Monday, for 10,000 damages against Cecile Draisey and Henry Draisey, for the death of his wife, which he claims was caused by the negligent driving of the defendant, Cecile Draisey.

On December 6, 1919, Sullivan claims, his wife was standing on the sidewalk at the corner of Clarence and Dundas streets, and as a result of the careless and negligent driving of Cecile Draisey, his wife was struck by the auto driven by Mrs. Draisey and owned by her husband, Henry Draisey, and thrown eight feet against a telephone pole and instantly killed. He says that as a result of her death he will be forced to hire a housekeeper to care for his 15-months-old child.

Cecile Draisey denies that there was any negligence on her part, and says that the deceased crossed the road in front of her auto and then stepped back in front of the car. She adds that it was impossible to avoid striking her. Henry Draisey claims that no cause for action is disclosed in the plaintiff's statement of claim. Judd & Henderson for the plaintiff; Meredith & Meredith for the defendants.

Suit Over Mortgage.

William A. Duffin of West Nissouri has entered action against Joseph E. Hodgins over the execution of a mortgage. On December 7, 1906, he claims he was owner in fee simple of certain lands in West Nissouri. To raise $5,000 he conveyed by mortgage to the defendant the lands. On November 11, 1908, he was behind in his payments, and to secure money to pay, gave the defendant a chattel mortgage on some of his personal possessions. He also conveyed the lands to the defendant on condition that it was to be reconveyed to him, when he wiped out the chattel mortgage. He claims that the defendant has refused to reconvey the lands. He asks for a declaration that the defendant holds the lands subject to the mortgage of December 7, 1906, an order to have the lands conveyed subject only to the same mortgage, and an accounting of moneys received from the plaintiff by the defendant, and the repayment of any moneys overpaid.

Defendant's Case.

The defendant claims that Margaret Duffin, wife of the plaintiff, was a party to the agreement in 1911, and that at present the plaintiff is his tenant, having leased the lands from him on December 23, 1911. The plaintiff's reply is that the lease is not binding, as he had no independent advise on the matter. Meredith & Fisher for the plaintiff, T. W. Scandrett for the defendant.

Both of the above cases are on the jury list.

Two cases were added to the non-jury list. J. Roger Anderson is suing the Ruggles Motor Truck Company, Limited, and John Bridge for $2,012.49, interest he claims due him, less charges for advertising, of which he has no account. He claims that on December 20, 1920, he was engaged as sales manager by the defendants to sell $184,000 worth of unsold stock. He alleges that it was agreed that he was to receive a commission of one per cent on all sales made under his direction, five per cent on personal sales, and a two per cent bonus if all the stock was sold by February 7. On February 2, he claims, he notified the defendants that he could not sell all the stock by February 7, but that he did sell it by April 2.

Paid In Full, He Says.

The Ruggles Motor Truck Company, Limited, say that they did not have a contract with the plaintiff, and John Bridge says that although he arranged with the plaintiff to sell the stock that the plaintiff has been paid in full. Meredith & Meredith for the plaintiff; Ivey, Elliott & Ivey for the defendants.

Julia Fisher and Caroline Logan, married women, residing on the Chippewa Indian Reserve, are suing Daniel Albert to secure a declaration that he obtained certain lands from the Department of Indian Affairs fraudently. The plaintiffs say that they are daughtesr of Betsy Grosbeck, deceased, who owned the land. They claim that the land was leased to Daniel McNeil, and that at the expiration of the lease, Albert took possession of it, under a location ticket issued by the Indian Department. They say that he did not purchase the land from the deceased, and that if he secured it from her he did so frauduently.

No Jurisdiction.

The defendant claims that as all parties are Indians and as the land is on the reserve for the Chippewa Indians of the Thames, that the court has no jurisdiction. He claims that the matter was threshed out before the superintendent-general of the Indian department and setled. This case is re-entry from the last court. McKillop & Douglas for the plaintiffs; A. G. Chisholm, K.C., for the defendants.

Altogether 20 civil cases have been set down for the court on Monday.

CHEAP EXCURSION HAS CAUGHT ON OVERSEAS

LONDON, Sept. 20. — (By Canadian Press.) — The British railway companies, fortified and encouraged by the enormous success of the cheap excursions during the past summer, are promoting similar enterprises on a bigger scale next year. The competition from motor buses and other automtive traffic, including the huge charabancs, has not proven as formidable as was anticipated, despite the excellence of the great English highways for such traffic.

SAYS SQUARE DEAL IS ANSWER TO BOLSHEVISM

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, Sept. 20.—Combatting Bolshevism, which, he declared, has 25,000 paid agitators in the United States, J. A. Yeomans addressed the local Kiwanis Club this afternoon on "The Gospel of the Square Deal."

He declared there was need of the fifty-fifty split, the co-operation of capital and labor, the acknowledgment of the interests of both parties and more religion, not of the church type, but between employer and employee. He declared that education and the square deal alone were needed to combat the growth of Bolshevism.

BRITISH PRESTIGE IN EAST WEAKENED

American Journalist Warns Canada of Dangerous Development in Asia.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—That British prestige in the Near East is in no little danger of being considerably weakened by the trend of recent events, and that the people of Canada are but ill-informed regarding the things of the other hemisphere which have a most important bearing on the future of the British Empire, is the opinion expressed by Dr. William T. Ellis of Swartsmore, Pa., a journalist and magazine writer, who has traveled much in the Orient.

"I have been pleading on the Chatauqua platform," said Dr. Ellis, "for Canada to recognize her new mediatorial and interpretative place in the preservation of the solidarity of the English-speaking world.

"Canada can say to Britain what America cannot say and Canada can say to America what Great Britain cannot say. This seems to me about the biggest job Canada has on hand at the present time.

"But the one thing I want to impress on everybody's mind just now is that this threatened loss of prestige and power by Great Britain in the east is a matter of the gravest concern to the whole civilized world. For hundreds of years the British flag has stood for law and security and western civilization in Asia. If, therefore, British influence was to suffer eclipse in Asia, it would be nothing less than a calamity for civilization in general. The united resources of all those who adhere to the Anglo-Saxon type of life must be enlisted to prevent this."

WILL ADOPT SAME POLICY.

Edmonton, Sept. 21.—A policy of co-operation between the federal and provincial governments in regard to the necessary relief work in Alberta this fall and wlater will be carried out along the same lines as in previous years.

KING DECLARES MEIGHEN CANNOT HIDE GOVERNMENT FAULTS BY TARIFF TALK

BURDEN OF TAXATION TOO HEAVY AT PRESENT.

Government Accustomed To Spending People's Money In Millions.

PEOPLE MUST HAVE CONTROL OF AFFAIRS

Friends of the Party In Power Have Things Very Much Their Own Way.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—"The Liberal policy is that of a tariff for revenue, in the interests of producers and consumers, not a tariff in the interests of combines, monopolies, trusts and mergers, such as a tariff based primarily on the principle of protection is all but certain to be."

Thus did Hon. Wm. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, summarize the position of his party on the tariff question at a great meeting held in West Toronto tonight, and which marked the opening of the Liberal general election campaign in this province.

Forced Into Election.

The Liberal leader claimed that Premier Meighen had been forced into declaring a federal election because the press supporting the Government had broken into open rebellion against his administration holding on to office any longer.

Mr. King maintained that the prime minister sought to narrow the issue down to that of the tariff. "But let me tell him," he continued, "that it will take more confusion than he and his colleagues are capable of creating by spoken or printed word to cause the people to forget the many arbitrary and autocratic acts of his Government."

Strongly Condemned.

Strong condemnation of the Government's attitude in refusing information to Parliament respecting expenditures on the government railways and merchant marine was voiced by the Liberal leader.

He urged the forces of Liberalism to unite and fight the common foe, not to be divided between those who wished to go to extremes in the matter of government, and those who choose to go more slowly towards a higher and better economic order. He said it would be a mistake for each to go their own gait now and unite after the elections. The country is tired and disgusted with coalitions. There must be a united party in support of Liberalism in its highest and truest sense.

Replies to Premier.

Referring to the challenge made by Premier Meighen in his London, Ont., speech that Mr. King definitely state his position in relation to the platform adopted by the Liberal party convention in 1919, Mr. King replied by quoting from his speech on that occasion. It was that he regarded that platform of principles and policies as a chart upon which was plotted the course it was desired the party should take and that in seeking to discharge the duties of his office he would rely on the counsel and advice of those who were outstanding in the ranks of the party.

Position of the Liberal Party.

"May I say just one word of a personal character," began Mr. King. "We are delighted to have with us tonight the Hon. W. S. Fielding. May I not rather say our province is greatly honored in once again having him as a guest in its capital city. I know you will agree with me when I affirm that no man in public life in Canada is held in higher esteem than Mr. Fielding. No man in public life has given to the affairs of our country a wider measure of disinterested and distinguished public service. Were it possible so to do, I should like to take advantage of this occasion to acknowledge something of what I feel I owe to his whole-hearted, chivalrous and constant co-operation, both in and out of Parliament, and publicly to thank him for it.

Why Dissolution of Parliament Is Imminent.

"Now let me come to the question which I asked a moment ago. What were the circumstances which caused the prime minister, in so short a space of time, to change his mind with respect to an early dissolution of Parliament? Were the truth known, it would be found that, having held on to power against the will of the people to the point at which his own party press had broken out into open rebellion, and the shattered remnants of his following could no longer be relied upon to give him support in the House of Commons, he preferred the defeat of his Government in the country to its defeat in Parliament; he preferred to appear before the people as a prime minister holding office rather than as a prime minister who, in office, had suffered defeat.

"I need not remind this vast gathering that the Liberal party, true to its tradition as the upholder of the rights of the people against autocracy or privilege in any form, once the war was over and demobilization of the war forces effected, consistently and persistently advocated the right of the people to a general election. At the opening of Parliament two sessions ago, we urged in the strongest terms the people's right to a representative parliament and a responsible ministry to deal with post-war problems and policies. This demand we repeated at the beginning of the last session, and maintained throughout. On all occasions, we were told that we were in the wrong, that what the public interest demanded was the postponement of a general election, at least until after redistribution had been effected. In view of the prime minister's announcement, who, may I ask, was in the right and who in the wrong?

The Government's Position.

As Liberals, we have all along contended that, having regard to the circumstances and conditions under which the Unfonist Government was elected in 1917, the act of Mr. Meighen in assuming and retaining office, after Sir Robert Borden and many of his colleagues had resigned, was the act of a usurper and, as such, was wholly foreign to the spirit of our constitution and of our time.

"I need not remind this gathering that the Government of Sir Robert Borden, elected in 1917, was a War Government chosen for war purposes only, that it was a government composed ostensibly of members of both political parties. By no stretch of the imagination could such a claim be made for the Government of Mr. Meighen. It was from the beginning a government without a mandate, without a policy, and is now a government without a friend. This is the government which, battered and bandaged, with new splints and props freshly-applied, now comes before the people seeking an expression of their confidence. It is true that it has waited until it could wait no longer to take the step. Now that, to save complete dismemberment, the step has been taken, it is for the people to say whether, as regards the future, they will place their confidence in a government which, through the whole of its past, has had no confidence in them.

Canada Is Alone.

"As evidencing Mr. Meighen's little regard for the rights or the will of the people, this it would seem is an appropriate moment to remind the electors of Canada that the right to a general election has been denied the citizens of our country for a period longer than has obtained in the United Kingdom or in any of the self-governing dominions of the British Empire; longer than has obtained in any of the countries of the Allied and Associated Powers, with the exception only of Russia; longer than has obtained in neutral countries, or even in former enemy countries. In all parts of the world where government is supposed to be carried on by the will of the governed, the people, with the exception only of Canada, have long since been accorded the right of choosing a parliament representative of the popular will to deal with post-war problems and policies. We alone have still to exercise that right.

"In Great Britain, a general election was held almost immediately after the signing of the armistice. In South Africa, two general elections have been held. In New Zealand, in Australia and Newfoundland, general elections were held over two years ago. Of the allied and associated powers, Belgium France, Italy, the United States and Japan, have all had their general elections since the war. The peoples of Holland and other of the neutral powers of Europe; the peoples of Mexico and of the South American Republics; the peoples even of Germany and of other of the autocratic powers allied with her in the great war; all long since have been accorded this right. We alone have had it persistently denied.

Other Issues Besides the Tariff.

"Confronted with an indictment so unanswerable, is there not something lacking in the vision of the imagination of a prime minister when he tells the people of Canada that the issue of the election which he has at last been compelled to concede is solely that of the tariff. In the mind of the prime minister, the tariff may be the issue. In the mind of the people, however, the issue is the prime minister and what he and his colleagues represent of autocracy and extravagance in the management of public affairs.

"I have read with care the speech delivered by Mr. Meighen at London. Read it for yourselves, and you will find that all that it purports to say is that the issue in this election is not the question of defence, but solely that of the tariff. Who ever suggested that the question of defence was the issue? Who but the prime minister himself has sought to set aside the momentous questions before the people of Canada at the present time and narrow public discussion down to this single issue of the tariff? Mr. Meighen may believe that, through the medium of costly protectionist propaganda, he may succeed in obscuring or distorting the vision of a portion of the electorate. Let me tell him, however, that it will take more confusion than he and his colleagues are capable of creating by the spoken or printed word to cause the people to forget the many arbitrary and autocratic acts of the Government of which he has been a member and of the administration of which he is today the head.

The Cost of Living.

"What is the question of greatest concern to the people of Canada? Unless I am very much mistaken, men and women of all classes and from all parts of our vast Dominion will tell you that it is the problem of the cost of living, to which, at the present time, the cost of government is far and away the most important contributing factor. In the solution of the problem of the cost of living, the tariff and its revision is an important and far-reaching consideration. It is, however, but one of many considerations, and not less important than the tariff, in this connection, is the Government by which the tariff is to be revised.

"In any consideration of the cost of living and the cost of government, we must begin with conditions as we find them. The Canada of today is different from the Canada of the years prior to the war. The problems of government, as a consequence, are also different, and in almost every particular more difficult as well. The affairs of a nation resemble those of a household, in that what may or may not be done depends primarily upon what is owed and what is owned. Where little is owed and much is owned many things are possible. Where, however, much is owed, until outstanding obligations are adequately met or cared for, the uses to which actual or potential wealth may be put are necessarily circumscribed.

Our National Obligations.

Ten years ago, the national debt of Canada amounted to some 340 millions of dollars. Today the national debt of our country is not in the millions, but in the billions. It has reached the colossal figure of two billions three hundred and fifty millions of dollars ($2,350,000,000).

Let us immediately concede that approximately two billions ($2,000,000,000) of this debt has been due to the war and conditions arising out of the war. Let us also immediately concede that, with respect to every dollar of war expenditure honestly and legitimately incurred, not a word of exception can be taken by any man or woman in this country. In estimating the price at which our freedom has been maintained and our liberties have been preserved, no financial obligation imposed on our own or succeeding generations can ever equal or compensate the extent of the sacrifice as measured in terms of human lives. Let us forget for the moment all there has been of unnecessary expenditure, of waste, and extravagance. Let us assume that all has been spent in a just and a good cause and in a right and proper manner. The fact nevertheless remains that our country carries today a mortgage of $2,350,000,000, whereas ten years ago the load was deemed excessive at the relatively small figure of $340,000,000.

Interest on the Public Debt.

Until the principal of that mortgage is paid, the men and women of this country must carry, in the form of taxes, directly or indirectly levied, a burden of debt on annual interest account alone of $140,000,000. Ten years ago the burden of taxation on account of annual interest on the public debt amounted only to the sum of $12,500,000. When we consider that, ten years ago, the amount required to be raised to meet the total expenditure on government account in all its branches and departments, including subsidies to railways and the amount payable as interest on the public debt, had never equalled $123,000,000, and that the amount now required to be raised in taxes solely to meet the interest on public debt is $17,000,000 in excess of that amount, we begin to get some idea of how conditions have changed, and of the need there is at the present time for economy and retrenchment in the outlays of government.

Pensions and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

Failure to meet the interest on our public debt would spell insolvency and bankruptcy for the nation. There is, however, another charge upon the public treasury scarcely less large and vastly more sacred, from the point of view of national obligation, than the interest on the public debt, an obligation to fail to meet, which would spell not only insolvency and bankruptcy, but ingratitude and dishonor as well. This is the charge, amounting at the present time to some $130,000,000, in the nature of pensions payable annually to disabled soldiers and the dependent relatives of those whose lives were sacrificed in the great war, and on account of soldiers' civil re-establishment and other outlays incidental to what may be termed war veterans' account. This obligation we are determined at all costs to meet. Remember, however, it is an obligation which ten years ago had no place in our public accounts. Remember, too, that in amount it is an obligation vaster than the sum expended on all branches and departments of government ten years ago.

The National Railways and Merchant Marine.

But this is not the only new obligation. Since the year 1917, two vast railway systems have been transferred from private to public ownership. One of these transfers that of the Canadian Northern Railway System, was effected by the Government of Sir Robert Borden during the period of the war at a session of Parliament which was in the nature of an extension of its constitutional term, which extension had been arranged for on the understanding that no measure of public significance apart from immediate war necessities should be dealt with one way or the other.

The Grand Trunk Railway system, the other system to be acquired, was taken over in part by the Government of Sir Robert Borden and in part by Mr. Meighen's Government almost immediately preceding and subsequent to Mr. Meighen's accession to office. In both cases the method of acquisition was high-handed and arbitrary, the people in neither case having been consulted on the question of policy involved, and even Parliament having been denied the right of full and free discussion as to the method and terms of acquisition.

For the moment I shall speak only of the annual charges upon the treasury in consequence of these acquisitions. I shall refrain from making mention of the colossal amounts which would have to be paid were these systems to become the property of Canada free from all outstanding obligations. Last year the deficit on account of government-owned and operated railways amounted to some $50,000,000. This year the deficit had reached some $70,000,000. It is now taken for granted that the deficit for the coming year will be in the vicinity of $100,000,000. Sir Joseph Flavelle has warned the nation that for a period of years to come it may expect recurring deficits of possibly even greater amounts. Be this as it may, at this year's session Parliament was asked by the Government to vote on account only of railways and canals the sum of $165,000,000. Ten years ago the total outlay on account of railways and canals was $38,000,000. Here is an additional annual burden upon the shoulders of the Canadian people of $127,000,000, a sum again considerably in excess of the total expenditure on government account ten years ago.

Having grown accustomed to talking in millions, let us now look at what, as citizens, we are expected this year to contribute to the federal treasury in the form of taxes. Omitting some $35,000,000 voted on soldiers' land settlement account, which I have also not included in speaking of war veterans' account, and some $11,500,000 voted as loans to the provinces on housing account, both of which amounts are classed as advances to be subsequently repaid, the total amounts voted for expenditure during the fiscal year, March 31, 1921, to March 31, 1922, was over $550,000,000. The census will not be complete until the end of the present year. We are therefore unable to say just what at the present time the total population of Canada may be. I greatly fear that it will be found to be under rather than over nine millions, as is popularly supposed. Assume, however, that it should be nine millions; that would make the taxation for federal purposes alone equal to something over $62 per head of the population. When, however, it is realized how considerable is that portion of the population dependent on those who directly or indirectly must carry the burden of taxation, we soon discover that the average load of the individual taxpayer is considerably beyond this amount. For the family of five the average of taxation would exceed $310. This is for federal purposes alone. When you add the amounts to be collected for taxation on provincial and municipal accounts, you will begin to see the truth of what I have said when I spoke of the cost of government as being the most important of all the causes at present contributing to the high cost of living.

Women's Interests in State.

Let me at this point address myself more particularly to the women of our country. With the exception of some, who on grounds of naturalization are still being arbitrarily disfranchised, you are today in the same position as the men in the exercises of the rights of the franchise, which means the selection of those who are to be intrusted with the making of the nation's laws and control of government in our land. It may seem to you that the all-important questions of national finance, especially such as pertain to the ownership and operations of railways and the merchant marine; the revision of the tariff, military, naval and police expenditure, and to inter-imperial and international relations, are so far removed from the orbit of your accustomed thought that they are, so to speak, beyond you. Do not be surprised if you have a feeling of the kind. There is not one man in a thousand in our country who, were he to speak his mind honestly, would not say that he shares that feeling in considerable measure. The truth is, the problems of government today have become so vast that it is exceedingly difficult to find the men or the women who possess the natural ability and training to cope with them, and who at the same time are prepared to make the inevitable sacrifices of time and means and health which participation in public life involves.

In one particular, however, an understanding of the significance of all these problems is brought home in a very real way. Sooner or later it is discovered that every one of them affects our individual incomes and the family budget. Do not be misled into believing that, because taxation may be indirect instead of direct, you are thereby escaping carrying part of the load of the cost of government. Do not be led into believing that, because only incomes above a certain amount are taxed, persons whose incomes are less than this amount escape altogether carrying part of the burden of direct taxation. If your landlord, in consequence of the increased amount of income tax, yields to the temptation to raise your rent, that he may get from you something that has been exacted from him, you, not he, are carrying the burden of direct taxation. If you find it is costing you more than you formerly paid to purchase clothes or food or fuel, do not be deceived into believing that, because you are not handing over part of the amount in the form of a tax to some visible tax-collector, someone else is not exacting from you, in the price you are compelled to pay, some proportion of the amount which, through indirect taxation has been paid into the federal treasury. The five hundred and sixty millions of dollars voted by Parliament for Government expenditures in this one year has all to be raised in the form of revenue one way or the other, or the country must go that much deeper into debt. It must all come out of the pockets and earnings of the people. If, instead of it being $560,000,000, it were half or even two-thirds of that amount, the sum to be taken out of the pockets of the people would be proportionately reduced. That is why it is a matter of vital concern to every woman, as well as to every man, who is in power at Ottawa, and what the policies are in accordance with which the affairs of the nation are carried on.

The Concern of Liberalism.

It is in the name of the home and its needs that the Liberal party makes its appeal to all classes in this country. We do this in the belief that in the happiness, contentment and prosperity of our homes lies the happiness, contentment and prosperity of the nation. Happiness, contentment and prosperity are not necessarily bound up with great wealth or great fortune. Indeed, were the truth known, riches are more frequently a source of unhappiness than of joy. Privation on the other hand, if it be unduly great, serves only to thwart and blight the higher aspirations and nobler development of human lives. It is in terms of privation that all of us have have in some measure been obliged to take account of the cost of government as it has made itself felt through the greatly increased cost of living in recent years.

I spoke of the average yearly taxation for federal purposes coming to something like $310 per family of five. Have you ever considered what the difference of that margin might mean in the strain and stress of home and family life? To one family, it may come to mean the difference between ownership of and a mortgage upon the home; to another, the difference between comfort and overcrowding. To the head of many a family it will mean the difference between insurance against accident, sickness and death, and the inability to make this provision for those most loved. In cases of illness or misfortune, from which few homes are ever exempt, it may mean the difference between the care and attention which restore health and the inability to make the provision which prevents infirmity and which sometimes is necessary to the saving of life itself. To some homes, it will mean for children the difference between a higher education and the starting of life with a permanent handicap. To some individuals it may mean a little more than the loss of social enjoyments or accustomed pleasures; to most, however, save those of more than average wealth, it is likely to mean privation in some measure, and to many hardship and possibly actual want.

Economy and Retrenchment Not To Be Expected From War-Time Government.

I might quote many reasons why it is useless to expect economy or retrenchment from any government of which the present prime minister is the head. I shall mention only two. They are, however, so obvious that their unanswerable force will be quickly appreciated by you.

During the period of the war some two billions of dollars were loaned to the Government and spent by the Government of which the Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen was a member, and which he claims was to all intents and purposes the Government of which he is the present head. After all, human nature is human nature. You cannot over a period of years grow accustomed to spending millions and billions of dollars without coming to find it exceedingly difficult to think in terms of hundreds and thousands. In pre-prohibition days it used to be said that once cultivated, a champagne appetite could not be satisfied with ordinary beer. And yet it is to the humbler diet we must grow accustomed in our public expenditures if the burden of the people in taxation is ever to be lessened. It is not unnatural that the prime minister and his minister of militia and his minister of marine, and, for that matter, any other of the ministers associated with him during the period of the war, should, as respects the matter of expenditure, continue to think in terms of war. What is wanted in the administration of public affairs today is not only a recognition of the fact that the war is over, but also that it has left in its wake vast obligations, the like of which this country has never before experienced, and that, as a consequence, too great economy and supervision cannot be exercised in all outlays of public moneys.

Barnacles and Unnecessary Cargo.

The second point I wish to mention is that, in the course of the period of the war, and for that matter in the period since, many new branches of the administration were opened up and a vast army of employees drafted into the public service. In some of the departments, in the outside as well as the inside service, there has come to be as a consequence, not only overmanning of the staffs, but also much overlapping in the work itself. Sooner or later, barnacles accumulate on every ship. Notwithstanding that many clerks filling temporary appointments have been let out, or replaced in their positions by others; numbers of office holders remain whose continuance in the public service, or in the particular post they fill, is due solely to the influence which occasioned their appointment and which keeps them where they are. The ship of state in Canada today is burdened with unnecessary cargo and covered with barnacles which add materially to the cost of government. They will never be removed so long as the influence responsible remains. Nor need we expect say elimination of unnecessary or duplicated work so long as ministers find it to the advantage in political power or personal prestige to avoid the discontinuance of these superfluous posts and services.

National Audit Necessary.

Apart, however, from barnacles and unnecessary cargo, there is great need today of a fresh accounting with respect to our national liabilities and assets. There is every ground for believing that, in the desire to make the showing as favorable as possible, many existing services and undertakings are being placed to the credit side of the national ledger which ought to be on the debit side. Many of our so-called assets may be in the nature of liabilities. The present minister of finance so described some of our railway properties. I believe he might well have included the Government merchant marine.

Let it never be forgotten, we have been through four years of war, during which period two billions of dollars have passed through the hands of the Government. It is now nearly three years since the war ended, and we are still spending millions on demobilization account.

No one really knows where the country stands in the matter of its undertakings and obligations, or the wherewithal to meet them. No one will ever know so long as concealment is rendered possible on the part of those who are responsible for waste and extravagance.

In such circumstances, commonsense, not less than the national interest, demands a very obvious course; it is the course which every man in the management of his own financial affairs, every business and financial concern in the management of its affairs, after a time of crisis, would adopt; and that is to have a strict accounting, a fresh inventory, above all, an independent audit. This, I submit, can only be expected and effected in our national affairs by a government which has had no part or parcel in the matters into which inquiry is to be made; in other words, by an entirely new administration.

The Closure Applied.

When, at the last session of Parliament, with respect to proposed additional expenditures on the merchant marine, the Opposition made a determined effort to elicit information which would disclose the waste and folly of some of the transactions in connection with that enterprise, all opportunity was summarily ended by the application of the closure. An hour or two earlier the closure had been applied with respect to the voting of a sixth of the total supply for the present year, without discussion or debate of any kind having been permitted. This was the manner in which the new prime minister met the House of Commons in committee of supply for the first time after his accession to the premiership. Nothing so arbitrary or high-handed with respect to the voting of supply has ever before been attempted in the Parliament of Canada; there might as well have been no Commons to guard the public treasury. It is well that the people of Canada should understand just how far Mr. Meighen's Government has gone in this matter, and how far he may be expected to go if opportunity is afforded.

The management and operation of the National Railways and the Government marchant marine have been placed by the Government under a board of directors, the members of which are all the Government's own appointees, and, as was to be expected, with the possible exception of the deputy minister of railways and canals, whose relation to the board is virtually nominal, all immediate and close friends of the Administration. By statute, the members of the board of directors of the National Railways are freed from personal liability with respect to matters arising out of the management and operation of the roads.

One would assume that, under circumstances of the kind, the people's representatives in Parliament would be entitled to the fullest information as to the manner in which these gentlemen, freed from all personal responsibility, exercise their trust. Mr. Meighen and his colleagues, however, have taken the position that, having transferred to this board of directors control of the National Railways and Government merchant marine, they, the members of the board, are free to expend the appropriations made by Parliament on railway and merchant marine account in such manner as they think best, and that, with respect to how and to whom these expenditures are made, the people's representatives on the floor of Parliament are not to be entitled to information.

A New Family Compact.

You have, on the one side, a small group of the Government's own friends exercising complete control in the expenditure of millions upon millions of public funds, and exempted by statute from personal liability in the manner described. And you have, on the other, the small group comprising the Government itself, the few men who exercise political control, shielding their friends from the possibility of any exposure on the floor of Parliament in the matter of these vast transactions, and denying to the representatives of the people whose money is being expended the right to information as to the nature and amount of expenditure and the methods adopted in connection therewith. The situation is so extreme that it seems altogether unbelievable, and yet I have stated the exact position. I venture to say that nothing comparable to it will be found in any free country under the sun.

How Baneful Combination Works Out in Practice.

To illustrate how this baneful combination works out in actual practice, let me give one or two examples from proceedings in the last session of Parliament. In the course of the session, we of the Opposition asked the Government to inform Parliament of the names of the members of the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways, and also whether any or all of these gentlemen were directors of other important industrial concerns; and if so, the names of the concerns in question. With respect to the first part of the question, the Government replied giving the names of the board of directors, which, of course, were already publicly known; with respect to the second part of the question the Government replied that it had no information.

Subsequently the Government was asked whether any insurance had been placed upon the properties of the Government-owned railways, and if so, through what companies and to what extent. This surely was information to which the people's representatives in Parliament had reason to believe they were justly entitled. It was not information the disclosure of which could possibly prejudice the government roads in competition with those of private companies. The Government's reply was as follows: Here are the exact words:

"The department has no returns in its record showing information asked for. These are transactions which are carried on by the Canadian National Railways as an incorporated company."

The Government was asked a similar question with respect to the purchase of coal, as to the relative amounts purchased in United States and Canada; with respect to the calling for tenders in the loading and unloading of cargoes for the merchant marine; with respect to the purchase of cars and other rolling stock and supplies for the railways, and yet to one and all of these questions the Government replied to the effect or in the language to the reply I have already quoted. It could not be said that the giving of such information was drawing the railways into politics or giving to rival companies an unfair advantage. Considering that public moneys were involved in all these transactions, it was surely information to which the people's representatives in Parliament had a right to feel themselves entitled.

Interlocking of Directorates.

Let me carry this matter one stage further. Notwithstanding the Government's attitude in the House of Commons, before the session was over members of the Liberal Opposition were able, in the proceedings of one of the committees of Parliament appointed to deal with railway matters, to elicit sufficient information with respect to these questions to disclose why the Government might well have desired to refuse to give to Parliament the information requested. It was shown that, with the exception only of the deputy minister of railways and canals, three-fourts of the members of the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways were also directors or the presidents and managers of some important industrial enterprise the business of which related to what in the nature of supplies, equipment or insurance might be required by the government railways and merchant marine, and that some of these gentlemen were directors of a considerable number of such companies.

Insurance and Other Contracts.

With respect to insurance, it was shown, for example, that the railway properties had been insured to the extent of over $140,000,000, of which under $33,000,000 had been placed in the company's insurance fund and $108,000,000 with insurance companies. With respect to the $108,000,000 placed with insurance companies, it was shown that practically the whole had been placed with one company, which did as it thought best with respect to re-insuring with other companies. This insurance, of course, was all paid for in advance.

The investigation further disclosed that two of the members of the board of directors of the government railways were also directors of the assurance company with which the bulk of the $108,000,000 of insurance had been placed.

If you look at the printed report of the proceedings and evidence before the committee on Canadian National Railways and shipping, a copy of which I have in my hands you will see that with respect to equipment ordered for 1918, 1919 and 1920 delivery contracts for cars to the amount of nearly $12,000,000 were given to one company in Nova Scotia, and contacts for locomotives to the amount of nearly $8,000,000 to one company here in Ontario. Reference to the list of the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways discloses that one of the directors is a director of the Nova Scotia company to which I have referred and that another of the directors is a director of the Ontario company to which I have referred. One might go on to cite contract after contract, for coal, for lumber, for supplies of a dozen different kinds, for loading and unloading of cars and vessels, all of which have gone to companies of which directors of the National Railways are also the officers or directors. So far as we have been able to ascertain, these contracts have been awarded for the most part without tenders having been called for. Contracts for the construction of sixty-odd vessels, now a part of the government merchant marine, were all awarded without a single tender having been called for.

Let me make my position perfectly clear. I am making no charges against the companies concerned, nor do I wish to be considered as reflecting, either directly or indirectly, upon the integrity of any of the directors concerned. It is the Government that I am concerned with, and the manner in which it has been conducting the public business of this country. The Government must take the responsibility for its own appointments, and the system it has devised for controlling expenditure on the National Railways. I contend that, apart altogether from the possibility of fraud or dishonesty in any of the transactions I have mentioned, there is disclosed such an interlocking of directorates as is sufficient completely to discredit the Government's whole method of dealing with these vast public enterprises. A member of Parliament who accepts a Government contract is supposed to lose his seat in the House of Commons, as having lost his independence. An official connected with any of the departments of Government, who at the same time was a director of a company obtaining contracts from his department of the Government would be instantly dismissed from the service.

Commenting on this amazing situation on the floor of Parliament, I ventured to express the opinion that our country's affairs were not being controlled by the people of Canada through their duly elected representatives in accordance with any true theory of responsible government, but that the existing control was that of a baneful combination of political autocrats and industrial plutocrats, who working together and playing into each other's hands, the one for the sake of a monopoly of industrial control, the other for the sake of a monopoly of political control, were bringing this country to the verge of bankruptcy. I wish to repeat that statement tonight, and to say that, in the breaking of that combination and a full return to constituencies and responsible government, as respects all matters of public administration, lies the first necessary step in the solution of the railway or any other problem with which Canada is faced at the present time.

Coming to the Tariff.

Let me pass from the question of the railways to that of the tariff. I think enough has been said to make it clear why Mr. Meighen and his political and industrial associates would be glad to have the tariff made the chief, if not the sole issue in the present campaign. You, I trust, will see reasons equally strong why, though important, the tariff should, in the public interest, be regarded as only one of the issues at this time.

Mr. Meighen is very aggressive in his attitude towards all who do not express their views on the tariff in language identical to his own. In his first public address after he became prime minister, he spoke of those who did not see eye to eye with him as Bolshevists and nation wreckers. Not only did he thus divide the citizens of the Dominion into the two categories of the sane and the demented, but he further classified them as protectionists or free traders, those who viewed the tariff as he did being, of course, in the protectionist and sane category, and all others in the free trade and demented category.

Speaking here in Toronto some little time later, the prime minister enlarged somewhat on this attitude. He said that in his belief a tariff could be framed only on one of two principles, the protectionist principle or the free trade principle. Referring to myself as leader of the Liberal party, he said that Mr. King could not be got to say on which of these principles he stood; a tariff on the protectionist principle or a tariff on the free trade principle. This somewhat ingenious statement was repeated over and over again until, one day in Parliament I ventured to point out that all talk about a tariff based on the principle of free trade was an absurdity, since, free trade implying in its very nature and essence the absence of all tariff, a tariff based on free trade principles was a contradiction in terms.

It is not to be supposed that this truth was not already known to the prime minister himself, or that it was without design that he sought and still seeks to make the issue one of protection versus free trade. He knows very well that, no matter what views men and women may held theoretically on the respective merits of free trade and protection, no government charged with the duty of administrating the nation's affairs would find the abolition of all tariffs under existing conditions either wise, patriotic or possible. No, the prime minister's purpose was and is that of making the issue one of extremes, in the hope that the course that avoids extremes may be overlooked altogether

That course, need I tell this audience, is not a possible tariff based on the principle of protection, nor an impossible tariff based on the principle of free trade; but a tariff based on the principle of revenue so framed as to avoid, under conditions as they exist in Canada today, the evils of a policy which would have regard only or mainly for protection, and the shortcomings of a policy which would have regard only or mainly for free trade.

It is for the principle of a tariff for revenue that the Liberal party has stood in bygone years; it is for that principle the Liberal party stands today, and it is for the principle of a tariff for revenue that the Liberal party will continue to stand if returned to power in the present contest.

Let me tell Mr. Meighen that, while it is impossible to have an issue between a tariff based on the principle of protection and a tariff based upon the principle of free trade, it is not impossible to have an issue on a tariff primarily for revenue as against a tariff primarily for protection; and that upon this issue we are prepared to fight, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding fought in 1896, and with expectations of a like return of prosperity and stability in matters industrial and commercial, should our policy be vindicated at the polls.

Having invited me to say "Yes" or "No" in one impossible position, and having for obvious reasons failed in that effort, Mr. Meighen now, for reasons equally obvious, invites me to say "Yes" or "No" in another position equally impossible. Laughable as it may appear, he now asks me to answer "Yes" or "No" to a question which, according to his own statement would not permit of either answer, without, at the same time rendering me in public opinion unfit, as he says, for power. Let me read the prime minister's exact words as given in his address at London a few nights ago. Speaking of the platform of the Liberal party adopted at the convention held in August, 1919, Mr. Meighen said:

"Tonight I put on record the question: Does Mr. Mackenzie King stand pledged to put that platform in effect if returned to power? That question admits of two answers and two only; one is 'yes' and the other is 'no.' He cannot refuse to answer. Let the answer come . . . . If Mr. King answers 'Yes,' I say he should not have power because his

The Liberal leader, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, who opened his Ontario campaign at a monster meeting in Toronto last night, emphasizing especially his tariff policy.

The Real Aims of Tariff Revision As Set Forth By Liberal Leader

SPEAKING at Toronto last night, Hon. Mackenzie King thus stated the position of Liberals in regard to the tariff:

There need be no mistaking the position of the Liberal party as respects the tariff. It regards the tariff not as an end in itself, but as a means to an end. That end, according to Liberal policy, is threefold, and is to be effected not by abolition of the tariff but by its revision.

1st. Its revision for purposes of revenue; this to be accomplished by making such revisions as are required to give greater effectiveness to the tariff, as one of the means of raising the revenues necessary to carry on the government of the country.

2nd. Its revision for purposes of increase of production; this to be accomplished by facilitating more extended development of the industries based on the great natural resources of our country—agriculture, mining, lumbering and fishing—by making the necessary instruments and implements of production available where possible at lessened cost.

3rd. Its revision for purposes of decrease of the cost of living; this to be accomplished through rendering possible increased production in the manner already described, and by making certain of the necessaries of life available to the people at lessened cost.

In other words, the Liberal policy is that of a tariff for revenue, in the interests of producers and consumers; not a tariff in the interests of combines, monopolies, trusts and mergers, such as a tariff based primarily on the principle of protection is all but certain to be.

TABLETS 25¢

Dear Peggy,

You angel child of course I'd like to come, — but how do you s'pose poor old Doug is going to get along in the meantime? He is such a helpless sort of man, you know, when it comes to doing housework!

I've been nearly killing myself with work lately, — can you imagine it? And as a result my hands are all rough and red. Or rather I should say they were rough and red before I put on the compress which would point the direction as we traversed the unknown seas of the future.

Need I do more than point to the resolution on the tariff which at the last session of Parliament was moved by Mr. Fielding, and which I had the honor of seconding, to show wherein I have been true to the attitude I expressed at that time?

I believe that my fellow members who without exception have so loyally supported me in the House of Commons during the two years and more in which I have been privileged to serve as the leader of the party will bear me out when I say that in matters of policy I have never attempted to dominate or dictate; that I have not only been willing and ready to accept counsel and advice, but have sought it in as many directions and from as many sources as time and opportunity would permit. I know they will be equally ready to say that, in being guided by the compass of collective wisdom, I have been not less true to the indications of the chart before me. The course which in this respect I have pursued in Parliament as leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition is the course which I propose to continue to pursue should I be called to fill the high and responsible office of prime minister of this country.

Let me say, not with relation to the tariff issue only, but as respects all matters of politics, not less than all matters of religion, that I believe there is no truer saying than that "the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life." In reference to the question which he has propounded, no one knows this better than Mr. Meighen. I do not propose, by any acceptance of the letter, in the manner in which the prime minister desires, to be false to the spirit of the Liberal party or to any of the policies laid down by its members in convention assembled.

An End to Coalitions.

There are some who say to those opposed to the return of the present administration: "Let us each run our own gait, and let us join forces after the battle is over." My friends, victory was never attained in that way. If it is the defeat of the enemy and the triumph of your principles you wish, the time to co-operate is before, not after the nation's verdict is pronounced. Let me add this: We cannot afford to experiment further with combinations and coalitions and unions in matters of Government. We have before our very large eyes at the moment a spectacle that should sicken us once and for all of coalitions. Read you papers from day to day, and what do you see? One Tory-Unionist, so called, going to the Senate; one Liberal-Unionist, so-called, going on to the bench; one Tory-Unionist being taken into the cabinet; another Liberal-Unionist being kept in office there; one Tory-Unionist being made lieutenant-governor in one province, and one Liberal-Unionist being proposed as lieutenant-governor in another. Nothing but a disgusting and degrading rewarding of political support by an administration has been so compromised by its ill-mated folowing that it could be held together only by the promise of life positions to the greater portion of its more active members. You wonder why there has been little or no constructive legislation since the war. There is the answer. Coalitions, sooner or later, become another word for compromise, and where there is constant compromise you may look in vain for the desertion of principle of any kind.

I believe the people of Canada have had enough of coalitions. They want an end to coalitions. They want a government of one mind and of one purpose; not a group of or class government, as some are advocating, nor another attempt at so-called Liberals and Conservatives, as some of our Tory friends in their despair are already suggesting. They want a government that will give stability; that want a government that will make for unity. That is only possible in a government which is broadly representative of all parts and classes in the country, and which has the undivided support of men of like thought and feeling as respects the principles and policies that are to be made to prevail. It was a government of that character which the Liberal party gave to Canada in 1896. It is a government of that character which the Liberal party is prepared again to give.

platform is unsound and un-Canadian, false to the interests of our people of every class and occupation. If he answers 'No,' which I shall not presume until he says so, then I say he is unfit for power because he deliberately contemplates bad faith. If he refuses to answer at all then he is unfit for high office as lacking in frankness and candor."

Well, I do not propose to be thought as lacking in frankness or candor, so I shall not refuse to answer. Neither do I wish to be regarded as unfit for power, so I shall decline to make answer in the specific terms which Mr. Meighen has proposed, and either of which, according to his own statement, would, if used, render me unfit for power.

I shall answer, however, in the terms in which I accepted the responsibilities of the position of the leader of the Liberal party at the time the platform of the Liberal party was framed, and in the presence of the thousand or more delegates who attended the convention, at which it was adopted. My exact words will be found in the printed proceedings of the convention. In a word, they were to the effect that I regarded the platform of principles and policies as laid down by that historic gathering as a chart upon which was plotted the direction of the course it was desired the party should take, whether in opposition or in power; that in seeking to discharge the duties of my office in the manner in which I believed the party would wish them to be performed, I would rely upon the counsel and advice of those who were outstanding in the ranks of the party; and that at any given period or moment I would find in their collective wisdom the compass which would point the direction as we traversed the unknown seas of the future.

LABOR MEN PLEDGE SUPPORT TO KENNEDY

Farmer-Labor Alliance Is Attacked At Windsor Meeting.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, Sept. 20.—Attacking the Farmer-Labor Government of Ontario, and terming them the most "unsatisfactory combination the province has ever seen,' Ald. Albert Strong, one of four Labor representatives in the city council tonight, pledged his support to William C. Kennedy should Labor decide to unite with the farmers in nominating a candidate to contest North Essex.

Ald. Strong made known his attitude on the coming contest at a meeting of Mr. Kennedy's supporters of the fourth ward. His experience in dealing with the Provincial Government, he said, had caused him to come to the conclusion that the alliance of farmers and labor had resulted in the worst failure in the history of Ontario.

Ald. A. Hooper, another labor representative, declared for the popular Liberal member. Mr. Kennedy, he said, had better qualifications to serve the working men than a great majority of machine politicians.

Damien Gourd was chosen chairman of the fourth ward organization by acclamation, and B. R. McKenzie and Harry Mere are vice-presidents. Volunteers were so plentiful to serve as subdivision chairmen that two were chosen for some districts.

Revise Tariff Downward Declares W. S. Fielding

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—Hon. W. S. Fielding made an exceedingly popular speech at the big Liberal meeting here tonight. He termed the defeat of reciprocity as the greatest crime ever inflicted against the country. There would be no Fordney barrier if reciprocity had carried, and cattle would have free entry to the States. The Liberal party would revise the tariff downward, he said.

"It's good to be here," he said, as the cheering subsided after he was called upon. "It's a long time since I've been in a real old-fashioned political meeting like this.

The Best System.

"We believe that the party system is the best that civilization has developed in the matters of government," he said, "in spite of the tendency to break party ties.

"There is one thing sure," he continued, "and that is that this Government is hopelessly beaten in this election from the start. I haven't met a Conservative in this country who has the faintest idea that the Meighen Government will be returned to power."

Mr. Fielding criticized Mr. Meighen for not going to the country when he was first made prime minister, instead of holding on until now. He continued that Mr. Meighen's idea of government is at entire variance with the democratic ideas of the present day. His strong-arm methods of government would be suitable for Mexico, where only such a government can survive, but it is hardly suitable for this country.

Dyed In the Wool.

"If there is a real, dyed-in-the-wool Tory of the family compact type it is Arthur Meighen," said Mr. Fielding.

Mr. Fielding dwelt with much humor and not a little sarcasm with what he termed the constant change by the "Tories" of their name. The present Government, he thought, put in the name "National" as a tribute to the Nationalists of Quebec who helped put Borden in power in 1911, because they thought Laurier too British.

Mr. Fielding stated that a few years ago if any party attempted to spend money without submitting accounts to the auditor-general, alarm would have spread that they were striking at the very root of parliamentary government. But this government refuses to allow the accounts for its vast expenditures on railways to be submitted to the auditor-general.

Criticizes Methods.

The former finance minister strongly criticized the Government's methods in refusing information to Parliament, as autocratic. The autocracy of the present premier was also shown in the closure which the Government was ever-ready to adopt when in difficulties in the House of Commons.

"We could have put reciprocity through by adopting that gag in 1911," Mr. Fielding asserted. "But Laurier said, 'No, I found a free parliament and I will leave a free parliament.'

"The defeat of reciprocity was the greatest crime ever committed against this country.

Did Not Realize.

"The cattle growers did not seem to realize what reciprocity meant until recently, when the Fordney bill was passed by the United States Congress. In reciprocity cattle were on the free list. When Premier Meighen says the United States has raised a barrier against Canadian products he is wrong. Meighen and his party raised this barrier when they defeated reciprocity."

He said that every Tory voted against British preference when it was first introduced in the House of Commons, but now the Conservatives are even talking of "waving the flag again."

He urged every effort to relieve unemployment, and said he did not wish to make political capital out of the present labor situation, but it was a sad time when soldiers who had defended this country were not able to earn a living.

CATTLE ENTRIES ARE FEATURE OF STRATHROY FAIR

Best Show in the History of Association, Says the President.

[By Staff Reporter.]

STRATHROY, Sept. 20.—Old Jupiter Pluvius did his best to spoil the second day of the Strathroy Fair today, but was minus a decided success, for over 3,000 people braved the elements and wended their respective ways to the fair grounds on Metcalfe street.

They were rewarded by the best show in the history of the Agricultural Society.

The cattle and horse exhibits were beyond the fond expectations of the directors and crowded every stall in the ample buildings and sheds. Capt. Tom Robson of London, who judged the cattle, was highly delighted with the quality of the cattle, stating they were much better than last year.

Owing to the heavy morning rains, the track was not in fit condition for the races this afternoon, which means that five good trotting races instead of three will be run off Wednesday afternoon on the half-mile track. A good list of entries has been received.

A fine vaudeville performance in front of the grandstand, and the 26th Middlesex Band helped to enliven proceedings during the afternoon, while the midway was the largest in the history of the fair.

Fakirs Were Absent.

Fakirs gave the fair a wide berth, and it was just as well they did, for Provincial Officers Palmer and Gale from London were both on the grounds to keep a weather eye on the gentlemen who gain their living by games of chance.

The exhibits of fruit, vegetables asd ladies' work showed an improvement over last year, much to the delight of ex-Warden Donald A. Graham, president of the agricultural society.

President Pleased.

"We have the best show we ever had," said Mr. Graham to The Advertiser, "and all we want is the good weather to show the people what we have. If the sun shines tomorrow we will have in the neighborhood of 12,000 people here. Everything is running smoothly and a lot of credit is due Secretary D. J. Donaldson of Strathroy, who has produced the results."

Hotels here were jammed to capacity last night and today, showing the importance with which the fair is regarded by travelers, who all speak of resulting good business.

Splendid Cattle.

"We have three times as many cattle this year as we had last," said D. J. Donaldson, the hustling secretary. "The horses are away above average, while the Crystal Palace is just naturally chock full of good things. I am certainly pleased with the fair."

The concert in front of the grandstand tonight was well-attended and the various artists were heartily applauded. Vocalists taking part were: J. W. Cameron, Donald McGregor, Miss McNair and Miss Winifred Evans of Toronto; while the Highland dancers were accorded a warm reception on a real chilly night.

Following is a partial list of the prize results:

Grain and Seeds.

W. A. McCutcheon of Glencoe was a heavy winner in the grain and seeds exhibits.

Leander Foster of Watford was another who took a number of prizes. Mrs. W. Gregory of Strathroy showed some prize corn, while Evans Denning of Kerwood was also numbered among the prize-winners.

Roots and Vegetables.

Clarence Maier of Delaware took first prize for the best collection of standard potatoes, five varieties. He also had the best peck of Early Rose potatoes, and also of any other variety. Mr. Meyer also showed the best white garden turnips, parsnips, red cabbages, summer and Savoy cabbages, seed onions, Hubbard squash.

L. Walters of Mount Brydges had the best collection of garden vegetables, three of each variety, excepting pumpkin, squash and cabbage.

Fruit.

James W. McLean of Wyoming, W. G. Buttery & Sons of Strathroy and Ralph Buttery of Strathroy were the principal winners in the fruit display.

Mrs. Bert Brett of Strathroy, Mrs. W. A. McCutcheon of Glencoe and Mrs. Ira Downer of Strathroy, as well as Mrs. W. Gregory of Strathroy, all proved their ability as cooks, taking the majority of prizes in domestic science display. Lucy Hunter of Strathroy was the prize bread maker, taking three first prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Paine of Strathroy took all the prizes in plants and flowers.

The Ladies' Work.

In the ladies' work Miss C. McLachlin, Hyde Park, Miss Louisa B. Fisher, Roches Point, Mrs. W. A. McCutcheon, Glencoe, Miss E. McVean, Weston, Miss L. B. Elliott, Port Arthur, and Miss Nellie Sinclair, Petrolea, all showed some fine sewing and many favorable comments were heard as to the quality.

Miss E. McVean of Weston won the prize for the best pair of hand-knit socks, while Miss Louisa Fisher knitted the prize mitts and made the best dress.

Prizes are still given for the best-made buttonholes, and Miss C. McLachlin was the winner in this class.

Mrs. Jas. W. McLean, Wyoming, had the best pair of home-made blankets on display.

Mrs. L. Gregory of Ilderton showed the best butter in the crock and the best five pounds of dairy butter.

W. MacWaddell of Strathroy had the best 56 pounds of factory butter and the prize pound prints creamery.

Alex R. McLean of Kerwood cleaned up in the swine exhibits.

Cattle.

Wm. McLean & Son, and Ed. De Gex pretty well divided the first prizes in Shorthorn cattle, while T. Douglass was also among the winners.

W. McIntyre, Kerwood, W. Smitherman, Kerwood, and Jas. R. Parken, Watford, were the winners in the Hereford class.

E. A. Edwards, Watford, swept everything in the Aberdeen-Angus cattle, while Wm. McLean & Son were the heavy winners in the grades, and also won the special prize of $15 by the Strathroy Chamber of Commerce for the best cow and calf in either Shorthorn, Hereford or Angus class.

LIGHT POTATO CROP THROUGHOUT CARADOC

Yield Only About Forty Per Cent of Last Year's Output.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

STRATHROY, Sept. 20.—Caradoc Township, known far and wide as the finest potato district in Ontario, will harvest but 40 per cent of the usual crop of spuds this year.

This was the doleful information given The Advertiser today by Mr. S. Leitch, one of the largest potato growers in the township, who was in attendance at the Strathroy Fair this afternoon.

"There is no use in talking," said Mr. Leitch, "the crop is away below average, and we will be lucky if we harvest 100 bushels to the acre, where last year we dug 250.

"The dry weather of early summer was responsible to some extent, the weeds managed to get a firm hold later on, and now the blight has got them. The majority of the crops have been black for some time, although I do not think digging will start till the middle of October. There will be dozens of farmers in Caradoc who will barely have enough potatoes for their own use, while farmers on the clay of East and West Williams will have nothing at all.

"It pays to plant pedigreed seed and to use Bordeaux mixtura in spraying. The haphazard days of potato growing are over and every efforts known to agricultural science must be made in order to insure a profitable crop."

How To Have Pretty Natural Curling Hair

Straight, lank hair is becoming to but few women and there's no excuse now for anyone looking homely and unkempt on that account. Those who have foresworn the curling iron because of the damage it does by drying and breaking the hair, will be glad to hear that the simple silmerine method will produce a far better and prettier effect, without any injurious result whatever. If just a small quantity be applied with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair, the loveliest natural looking curls and waves will be in evidence in three hours, and there will be nothing streaky, sticky or greasy about it.

A few ounces of liquid silmerine, obtainable at any drug store, will prove a welcome addition to many a dressing table. It is best applied by dividing the hair into strands and moistening each of them separately from root to tip. The beautiful wavy effect will last for a considerable time.—Advt.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

(t Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, pan-creatin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and, moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion. —Advt.

SIX THOUSAND AT EXETER FALL FAIR

Fast Horse Races Were a Feature of the Exhibition.

EXETER, Sept. 20.—Despite the disagreeable weather which prevailed this afternoon, nearly 6,000 persons attended the Exeter fall fair. A slight rain in the morning kept a large number at home; otherwise a new record for attendance would have been established.

The fruit exhibit this year was not up to the usual standard. Vegetables, however, were plentiful and were of high quality. Flowers in a profusion of beauty were on exhibit. Fancywork and art were up to the usual standard. Many of the town's prominent businessmen hold forth on the main floor of the Crystal Palace with their exhibits of merchandise.

Quality Was High.

Cattle, sheep and pigs were shown. Although the number of exhibits in this line were few, the quality of the animals was high, and many fine prizes were carried off.

Heavy horses, carriage horses and colts led by their young masters, who had spent months in training their animals for the big event, were there in large numbers, and the judging was difficult.

The poultry exhibit this year was large, birds from a distance being on show in competition with the local bird fanciers.

Some Fast Races.

The main event of the day was the horse races, the large purses drawing many fast horses from all over the country. The results were as follows:

2:50 Class—1, Sadie Green; 2, Daisy Hal; 3, Dan Patchen; 4, Little Dick. Time, 2:24¼.

2:19 Pace—1, Lady May C.; 2, Eva Patchen; 3, Jim Hal. Time, 2:19¼.

Named Race—1, Wildfire; 2, Hazel Dillon; 3, Topsy.

The Exeter brass band furnished excellent music for the crowds all afternoon. The McCullough Concert Company of London drew a large crowd in the evening, the Opera House being filled to capacity, also the motion picture theatre.

WOMEN MEN ADMIRE

Men admire a pretty face, a good figure, but most of all the happy, healthy, contented woman, as beauty fades and the figure will change. Women who are troubled with backache, headaches, those dreadful dragging sensations, and nervous irritability, cannot hope to be popular, and advancement in either home, business or social life is impossible. The cause of these troubles, however, yields quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is a natural restorative for such conditions, and dispels effectually all those distressing symptoms.

Why Night Calls are Popular

"HOW good it would sound to hear Mother's voice to-night!" he thought—for there were times when he was lonely—mighty lonely in the big city.

"If it didn't cost so much I could call her up. Perhaps it dosen't cost as much as I think."

"Long Distance, what will it cost to speak to Number 624 Springville?" he asked.

"The day rate for a station-to-station call is 90 cents, but as it is now ten o'clock you can talk for 45 cents. After twelve o'clock the rate is only 25 cents."

"Great!" said John. "Get me No. 624 Springville." Soon the welcome voice was telling him the things he wanted to hear, and before they finished talking a midnight talk for every Wednesday was arranged. Did Mother grudge the little sleep she lost, when Wednesday night came 'round?

Evening and Night Long Distance rates on Station-to-Station calls are a precious boon to thousands seeking an inexpensive and intimate means of promptly reaching dear ones far away. Many travellers arrange to call their homes at stated hours.

And business executives now call their partners, their customers, their salesmen, their superintendents or foremen, at their homes—often by arrangement—profiting by the very low night rates on Long Distance, Station-to-Station calls.

The Liberal Leader.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in his address in West York on Tuesday evening, made it plain that he intends to conduct his campaign on matters of broad, constructive policy rather than resorting to carping criticism and small personalities.

His attacks upon the Government record were clear cut, direct and aboveboard. He charged the Meighen party with clinging to power long after is had any mandate from the people to function as a war administration.

That charge stands. Every one of the Allied nations, Britain, South Africa, New Zealand, Australia, Newfoundland, Belgium, France, Italy, United States and Japan have all turned to the people for their verdict since the war.

As an exception to this we have Canada and Russia.

The Liberal leader performed a good service when he held up to public view the financial condition of the country—that is as far as he was permitted to find out about these matters. He did not begrudge war expenditure, provided there was an even break between money spent and value received. But he pointed out these startling truths:

Ten years ago the national debt of the country was $340,000,000. Today it is $2,350,000,000.

Ten years ago our annual interest debt was $12,500,000. Today it is $140,000,000.

The provisions that must be made for soldiers' pensions, etc., are $130,000,000 a year, or more than the total expenditure for Government purposes ten years ago.

The railway deficits are more than the total expended on Government accounts ten years ago.

Hon. Mackenzie King is right when he claims that there is the most crying need for curtailment in matters of Government expenditure. There is need for greater simplicity and more efficiency. The average family, through direct and indirect taxation, is today contributing the sum of about $310 per year for the upkeep of the Ottawa Government.

This expenditure is closely related to the cost of living, and will be a big factor in determining how the average householder is going to cast his or her ballot.

The tariff issue was not dodged. It was stated in plain words, as follows:

"The Liberal policy is that of a tariff for revenue, in the interests of producers and consumers; not a tariff in the interests of combines, monopolies, trusts and mergers, such as a tariff based primarily on the principle of protection is all but certain to be."

Mr. King's speech is one of the most direct messages to which he has given utterance since assuming leadership of the Liberal party. It shows his grasp of the situation, his appreciation of the weakness of the present administration, and what is more essential, the ability to go ahead in the way of corrective and constructive leadership.

A Sufficient Burden.

Premier Drury intimates that nothing will be done on the Toronto-St. Catharines hydro-radial line until the work at Chippewa is completed.

His reason, as stated to a reporter, was straight and short, viz.:

"The financial burden on the province is already sufficiently great."

This point should be well and thoroughly established, and it should be posted on the walls at Toronto for the Government itself and all those seeking backing from it to read.

We are still in a high money market and borrowings made now to cover a period of years are going to carry that high rate into years when rates may be more favorable.

In South Wellington.

Slate-makers in Ottawa do not definitely state what is to become of Hon. Hugh Guthrie of South Wellington, the present minister of militia in the Meighen cabinet.

Stray trips to Ottawa made by Hon. S. C. Mewburn bring up the rumor that he is to be given the portfolio of minister of militia, and that a seat to the liking of the honorable member from Guelph is to be found in some corner of the judicial system.

Liberals in South Wellington have already named their candidate, Sam Carter, who was defeated in the last provincial contest, after winning the Local seat from H. C. Schofield. In fact, Mr. Carter made quite a notable fight on that occasion, turning an adverse Conservative majority of some 400 into a win of over 100 for himself.

During his campaign in 1914 the Hon. Hugh Guthrie was one of Sam Carter's supporters, and as such was able to make him acceptable to some old-time Liberals who had looked upon Carter as too much of a radical to take into camp.

Now the whirligig of politics brings Hon. Hugh Guthrie and Sam Carter together again, not as a team, but as opponents. Then the third candidate will also have to be reckoned with.

Both Guthrie and Carter are hard campaigners and hard hitters from the platform. It seems almost certain that personalities will have their innings in this contest.

Conservatives are ready to welcome Hon. Hugh Guthrie as their candidate. For years they sought candidates to beat him as a Liberal, but since his jaunt to the Tory camp the spare-room has been cleared out for his use, and the sign "Welcome" has been knit into the door-mat.

Donald Guthrie first won that seat in a by-election in 1876, and again at the general election of 1878. Then his son, Hugh Guthrie, was elected in 1900 when he defeated the late C. Kloepfer. The seat has been his since then continuously, and he was returned in the reciprocity fight in 1911 when so many Liberal stalwarts fell by the way.

If he takes the platform now as a straight Conservative, in view of his outspoken utterances of 1911, he will have turned one of the most complete somersaults on record in Canadian political history.

Home-Brew—Politics.

At one of the political rallies at Woodstock a woman speaker brought a serious charge against the male element in the organization.

It was this, that while the women were in the halls many times discussing politics, the men were sitting outside on the steps swapping recipes for making home-brew.

Now, this is a serious state of affairs. In the good old days, 'twas not thus.

The men gathered together and marked out the path for the ship of state, while the women stayed home or sat on the steps outside and swapped recipes for tomato catsup or catnip tea.

But still the new order of things may have a beneficial side. It is very important that politics be well and thoroughly understood, and it is surely right and proper that the newest capers in the rearing of home-brew shall be spread along the concessions and the side-lines.

And so it is not an altogether disturbing picture. Women can surely wax eloquent over matters of public policy, and the most stoic male in the community becomes a babbling fountainhead of words when he begins to speak of his experiences with raisins, potatoes, dandelions and yeast.

No Room in Canada.

At present it is hard to state definitely how much progress has been made in organizing a Ku-Klux clan in this country.

The history of the movement centers almost exclusively in the Southern States, where its activities were pronounced during the period following the Civil War.

Canadians should think seriously, and very seriously, before they allow themselves to be allied with any new order or organization.

It is a force that will divide the Canadian people into two separate and distinct camps. There are enough—and more than enough—influences doing this poor work at the present moment.

Canada has no need and no room for any sect or organization that seeks to set sect against sect or class against class.

If United States wishes to recognize the growth and development of this movement, that is the business of that nation. It has no place in the make-up of this country.

The Movies.

The Arbuckle case has brought on the movies a rather too sweeping condemnation. Many have denounced the people of the film world holus-bolus because of one screen star's alleged immorality.

This is as unfair and as unreasonable as to say that vaudeville actors, or those of the stage, are immoral because some of them are notorious degenerates. The percentage of decent men and women in the theatrical business is probably just as large as in any other section of the community, and this applies to the screen [illegible] should be more concerned with the moral calibre of the photoplay rather than with that of the film actor. Outside of an unhealthy-minded few the public can be depended upon to refuse to support film plays the stars of which have been found guilty of gross license. But the strictest censorship must be applied to the photoplay, especially such as appeal to the children. The movie is here to stay as surely as is the stage, and if the public desires it the films can be kept clean, wholesome and informing.

FINALLY OPENED—FROM THE INSIDE.

—James in the St. Louis Star.

They Can't Get Gouin.

From Toronto and Ottawa come stories from authoritative sources which tell of frantic efforts of the Conservative leaders to win over Sir Lomer Gouin. If the great Quebec Liberal could be persuaded to desert his party, it is figured that he would carry sufficient of the high protectionist votes to kill off Quebec, at present so solid for Mr. King.

But while there are indications of differences between Sir Lomer and Mr. Lemieux, of which the Tories are trying to make capital, the dissension is not at all in the nature of a split in the party, and nothing that the Meighenites can do can bring that about. Sir Lomer and Mr. Lemieux may not love one another as ardently as in the past, but it is certain that they have no love whatever for Mr. Meighen.

The Montreal Gazette (Conservative) has no illusions about the situation. It says that for the general elections the Liberal leaders will undoubtedly stick together, presenting a united front.

The Government's effort to break this shows how desperate is its case.

LITTLE 'TISERS

Lloyd George has a very sore jaw. This may explain why he doesn't bite at de Valera's bait.

Lethbridge has a hunger-striker. It's almost unbelievable, with the pumpkin pie season right on us.

Scientists think coral islands may be upside-down. However, there is no doubt about the Emerald Isle being topsy-turvy.

"Llannovrenskyovitch" is where Lenine has gone for a vacation, not a typographical artist run wild, as you might be inclined to think.

About this season of the year the residents of this thrifty district turn once more to that fine old custom of banking up the house for the winter.

And now a barber in St. Catharines is quite sure he shaved the Murrell brothers. Thus they have been fed, shaved, transported—in fact, everything but caught.

The politician of today, with his patronage curtailed, must look with envy on the good old days when he was able to toss the T-bones and the plums to his ward heelers and vote-getters.

Toronto has come back to standard time after being off on a spree all by itself this summer. Clock tinkering is a fad, and Old Sol has a good deal more to do with regulating seasons than the tinkers have.

NOAH'S POETRY

A Rough Sermon.

Some folks is always groanin' 'bout the things that come their way, and 'less they've got a grouch to air they've nothin' for to say; there ain't no smile upon their jaw, no dimples in their snout, their countenance is like unto the rheumatiz and gout.

Their speech is frigid and it hurts like days when wind blows cold—their souls, by gum, are like the cream that's well nigh two weeks old.

They ain't content to go and use the talent what they own, but gaze upon some smart galoot and forthwith hatch a groan.

They haven't got the happy trick of livin' to the sun, of bootin' out the sorrowful and gettin' it to run—of pickin' little hunks of joy from out life's garbage can, and sticking out their chest a bit and bein' a helpin' man.

Oh, how I'd like to take them folks and give to them a kick, and swat 'em with a mighty fist and heave at them a brick.

They cause my anger for to boil, my temper for to rise, until they come nigh mountin' to a point durn near the skies—they never see good things in life, no driftin' cloud nor mist, no morning dew nor droopin' flower, no mountain peak, sunkissed.

I'd like to mount upon a box this homely truth to tell—that life ain't holdin' a good hand, but playing poor hands well. —NOAH.

PRESS VIEWS ON POLITICS

NO GROUND LOST.

[Calgary Albertan.]

We desire to assure the usually well-informed Manchester Guardian that Premier Meighen did not lose ground with the people of Canada during his absence at the imperial conference, since it is impossible to lose that which one never had.

JUSTICE AND POISON GAS.

[Winnipeg Tribune.]

The way to disarm Japan is to convince her of the honesty and justice of our intentions, and the way for Japan to disarm us is to convince us of the honesty and justice of her intentions.

This is only another way of saying that where justice is sought and served by all, the chances of misunderstanding are remote, and will seldom be carried to the supreme court of war. It may sound a little old-fashioned, but it is still valid reasoning even since the invention of poison gas.

MUCH IMPRESSED.

[Westminster Gazette.]

Princess Bibesco, wife of Prince Antoine Bibesco, the Rumanian attache at Washington, and daughter of Mr. Asquith, has arrived in the Aquitania at Southampton.

"The thing in America that impresses me most," said Princess Bibesco to the Daily Express, "was the beauty of the railway stations. The Pennsylvania terminal in New York, is the most beautiful railway station I have seen anywhere. It is a real triumph of commerce and business. The Grand Central is only second to it. I was also much impressed by the developments in Christian Science, which seems to me about the fourth business enterprise in America. The Monitor, which is the Christian Science newspaper, I think, is the only paper in existence that deserves to be called a world newspaper.

"I saw the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. I think Carpentier is far more beautiful than any man I have ever seen. He is like a beautiful animal—a dog or a horse."

COMING BACK.

Robert Rogers is looming up in the offing. He will be in the fight again and this time with the Conservative party. When in Toronto the Toronto Star interviewed the political celebrity and got from him the reply that he knew of no "fifty party," known as "a straight Conservative party." The Meighen Government, he added, "was living up to the tenets of the Conservative party." He had no fault to find with it.

Boston Transcript: "I presume," presumes J. M. R., "that while men go to a barber, the girls go to a bobber."

The Croaker Rises Again.

Albany Journal: For the money that was spent for that ill-fated dirigible balloon, many comfortable homes could have been built.

Nothing Else To Do.

Orillia Packet: Lloyd George, it appears, when it is possible, goes to church twice on Sundays. No doubt there are many who would do the same if they were as idle and care-free as Lloyd George is.

Not Even in Politics?

Vancouver Sun: A lie, or an exaggeration, as it is sometimes called, is a dangerous thing. There is no such thing as a harmless lie.

A One-Man Concern!

Toronto Telegram: Toronto has gambled $67,000,000 worth of credit on the survival of Adam Beck's life and health and power. If Adam Beck were overtaken by sickness or death or dismissal from office Toronto's vast commitment of $67,000,000 in hydro-electric and hydro-radial undertakings are all at the mercy of political appointees.

Is the Thing Top Heavy?

Vancouver Sun: At the present time Canada has a standing army of 4,000, headed by 478 officers, including some 20 or 30 generals. That is to say, there is a commissioned officer for, roughly, every eight men. Some of these officers are paid as high as $6,000 a year, while few of them receive salaries which might be regarded as meagre. In Ottawa alone are stationed enough highly-paid officers to command a force as big as the army of the Marne. It would appear from these figures that the military affairs of Canada are, not to put too fine a point on it, somewhat mismanaged.

THE SMILE FACTORY.

Arthur Stilwell, railway builder and founder of Port Arthur, Texas, believes that each of us should start a smile factory and keep it working overtime.

"The sole working partner is a merry heart.

"Smiles lighten your burdens, bridge your disappointments, attract friends and help in all walks of life.

"Read funny stories and remember the good ones. The branches of the chestnut tree protect us from brain storms.

"If anything has annoyed you on the way to the store or office, walk around a block before you go in, and think of some good joke."

That reminds me of my friend Farabee, the Amazon explorer whom Roosevelt wished to take to France as a leader in that division which wasn't allowed to go.

Farabee came back from his last trip in the rubber country reeking with tropical malaria. "What are you doing for it?" I asked him. "Oh, when it gets so bad I can't stand still, I walk around the block and chase it away."

And now he's shaken it off and has returned to South America to get a fresh supply.

When you've got an A No. 1, blown-in-the-bottle, dyed-in-the-wool case of what is commonly known as the "blues," don't keep it in the house to make everybody miserable.

Take it out in the sun and air. Drown it in a sea bath. Let it fall overboard while you're fishing. Shoot it dead—and don't let the dog bring it back to you.

Then go and get a big, bright and beaming smile from your smile factory. (Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Co.)

POETRY.

THE ROSE AND THE GARDENER.

[Austin Dobson.]

The Rose in the garden slipp'd her bud,
And she laugh'd in the pride of her youthful blood,
As she thought of the Gardener standing by—
"He is old—so old! And he soon must die!"

The full Rose wax'd in the warm June air,
And she spread and spread till her heart lay bare;
And she laugh'd once more as she heard his tread—
"He is older now! He will soon be dead!"

But the breeze of the morning blew, and found,
That the leaves of the blown Rose strew'd the ground;
And he came at noon, that Gardener old,
And he raked them softly under the mould.

And I wove the thing to a random rhyme,
For the Rose is Beauty, the Gardener Time.

LOVE'S WAGES.

[Martha H. Clark.]

The wages of Love are small, so small,
You scarce might know they were paid at all,
A glance, a smile, or the clasp of hands,
The coin of a heart that understands;
A name soft whispered, a lingered kiss—
The wages of Love are paid in this.

But oh, the magic such coin can buy—
The waking joy of a dawn-flushed sky,
Drudgery speeding on skylarks' wings
Songs in the heart beats of common things:
And firelit shadows of evening blent
With peace and comfort and all content.

The wages of Love are small, so small,
One scarce could say they cost at all;
Yet lives are lonely and hearts still ache
In bitter lack for the wee coins' sake;
And many a silk-clad life of ease
Would barter its purse of gold for these.

ASPIRATION.

[Nell Ruth Roffe.]

Little swallow, little swallow,
Could I mount your wings and follow
Where you circle o'er the tree-tops over there,
Should I find more joy a-winging
Than these earth-trod paths are bringing,
Where I wander, with my heavy weight of care?

Is your joy of heaven given,
Happy bird, or have you striven
Oft to rise to find the golden afterglow;
To escape the shadows falling,
And the vexed earth voices calling,
While we're groping where the heavy mists hang low?

Oh, to feel my soul up-winging
Where the skylarks sweet are singing!
Just to dwell above the little things that fret;
Where the air is purer, sweeter,
And life's song a happy metre,
Where the sordid things 'tis easy to forget.

I will mount faith's wings and follow
E'en beyond the flight of swallow,
So I'll glimpse the glory, even when 'tis dim;
And, whatever be the weather,
Take the sun and shower together;
Tread the uplands each glad day and walk with Him!

BRITISH SCIENTISTS DELVE DEEP IN FOOD AND WAR PROBLEMS

One Scores Crazy Dervishes Who Deny Malt Liquors and Wine to Humans.

London, Sept. 20.—Folks would take more pleasure in their breakfast every morning if, instead of regarding it only as a conflict between the morning newspaper and indigestion, they knew something of the fascinating chemical process set up within us by the smell of frizzling bacon or of the change the bacon undergoes after it is swallowed, according to Prof. M. O. Forster, formerly a member of the senate of London University, and one of the best-known scientists of England, speaking before the British Association in Edinburgh recently.

Prof. Forster spoke to the scientists there on "The Laboratory of Living Organism," and referred to the microbe almost with affection, speaking of it as a trade unionist who goes on strike when labor conditions are unfavorable.

"If we knew more about yeast cells," he said, "we would have fewer crazy dervishes who would deny us malt liquors and wines, and fewer maniacs who complicate our social problems by habitual excesses."

Vocational Training a Topic.

A spirited discussion occurred in the convention between economists, psychologists and educationalists on vocational training and intelligence. The psychologists complained of lack of system in discovering the aptitude of each child and the tendency to confuse educational achievements with native intelligence. Dr. Charles Meyers said that if a child had no preference in the matter of vocation, it showed it was badly taught and urged that children be aided in the choice of a trade by films showing work in various occupations.

Sir William Beveridge, upholding the position of the economists, blamed employers' methods of choosing workers, which he characterized as hopelessly bad. Arnold Lupton denounced the whole educational system because, he said, it was run by literati, who, he declared, knew only grammar, Latin and other useless things and starved the nation.

Sir Richard Gregory, explaining evils which society often charges to science, said they were the result of science badly used. He said the scientists themselves were largely to blame and urged them to take part in the government of the world and to place their knowledge at the service of society. At the same time he appealed to labor to foster science.

Attacks Poison Gas.

Poison gases in warfare, used as "the negation of civilization," were strongly condemned by Sir Edward Thorpe, president of the association, in his address. He warned scientists that the educated public would refuse to give credit to any body of scientific men who employed their talents devising means to develop or to perpetuate modes of warfare which are abhorrent to the higher instincts of humanity.

Answering those advocates of gases who asserted they were far less cruel than any other instrument of war, Sir Edward said:

"These arguments carry no conviction. Poison gas creates a new kind of weapon, of a power of deadliness far beyond the limit of man's vision."

Dealing with the general progress of science, he said that unfortunately the industrial world had possessed an underrated value of the research work done, but there was an indication it was at length aroused to the importance of this work, which, he added, was indicated by the creation of a department of scientific industrial research.

"No such comprehensive organization—one which deals with mining, water-power, building, food preservation, fuel economy, the preservation of antiquities and with various industries—has ever been created by any other state," he declared.

NO NIGHT IN SCOTCH HIGHLANDS DURING JULY.

In the early July days the Highlands may truly be called a land where there is no night, writes a correspondent of the London Daily Mail from Elgin, Scotland, for sunset and sunrise are really one and the same. Officially the sun disappears for about six hours, but the track of its passage from northwest to northeast is marked by a crimson glow above the horizon which serves to link the long summer days together, in an unbroken chain.

On a cloudless night one can sit by the shores of the Moray Firth and read a newspaper at midnight, and golf, tennis and bowls have all been played while England slept. Cattle can be seen steadily grazing through the clear nights. The birds, too, appear to be a little puzzled by the unusually bright conditions. Their twittering never ceases, and occasionally one will break into song that another will answer.

THE SPORT'S LOGIC.

[Boston Transcript.]

"I think it's cruel to race the horses that way in hot weather," said the tender-hearted lady on the race course.

"Race 'em what way, mum?" asked the sport.

"Making them go so fast."

"Why, mum, the faster they go, the quicker they get through. It's kindness, that's what it is."

CLASSICS IN DRAPERY.

Statue draperies have been utilized by many clever creators and offer, in their way, just as rich an inspiration impetus as do paintings, although their lack of color gives them a less general appeal.

One needs no particular amount of imagination to sense the connection between the fashionable woman of the sketch and the grim-visaged figure centuries old, but robed so richly and with such grace of treatment that she is still of value in the world's events. Of all the fascinating games there are to play, surely nothing excels in interest the knack of bridging the centuries and making dead things live again. So many things that one wears are not beautiful, they gain momentary distinction because for some reason or other they are the fashion, but in no sense can they be immortalized. Other things are classic and are just as beautiful today as they were in prehistoric times, and it is these rich sources that artists tap for the current styles, frequently, it is true, cheapening them, but often giving them a new dignity. Perhaps these drapery and color motifs may not be applicable to everyday clothes, but for the woman who has the wealth and leisure to indulge in lovely things to wear around her home, they are invaluable.

Black for the Negligee If You Would Be Smart.

Those who have the leisure to while away the hours in negligee have a fascinating assortment of lovely things from which to make their selection this fall. The most sensational feature to be exploited by Paris is the introduction of black velvet for the robe intime. As might be expected, too, the Spanish tendency is evidenced in fringe, lace and modifications of the cape and shawl idea, and there is no denying their charm.

An interesting treatment of the French negligee is the use of the underslip, straight or closely draped in line, which is shrouded in a mystery of lace and chiffon, either in coatee or some other flowing drapery. Negligees and tea gowns are picturesque in the extreme and often stately in their long medieval lines, flowing sleeves and straight Italian necklines. Brocaded velvet and velvet itself are materials admired by the chic Parisienne, and for itss luxurous garments there is the all-oblig[illegible] crepe de chine, which seems to gallantly fill in any place it is called upon to fill—but black is the main feature and one which is regarded with misgivings on this side of the Atlantic. One may reveal an orientalism in one's boudoir, but the newer note is sounded in the Italian Rennaissance and in gowns which are dignified in spirit.

Of course, most of us will be content with a bright corduroy robe or a cheerful garment, which makes up in comfort what it lacks in elegance—still it is nice to know that fur-collared and fur-edged bathrobes and coatees of chiffon and dyed lace are to be had if fortune permits us to revel in their charm.

MULCAHY—SUCHARD.

An interesting wedding took place at the Egerton Street Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Miss Christina Nelly Suchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Suchard of Hill street, became the bride of Mr. James Henry Mulcahy of this city, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. A. C. Bingham. Miss Irene Latham attended the bride, while the groom was supported by Mr. Justin Suchard, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Mulcahy left for a trip to Niagara Falls, Toronto and Hamilton, and on their return will reside in the city.

SHILLINGTON—LIDDICOATT.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at New St. James' Church on Tuesday afternoon, September 20, when Muriel M., second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Liddicoatt, was united in marriage to Alan G. Shillington, son of Mrs. R. Shillington, Colborne street. Rev. James MacKay officiated at the ceremony, which was witnessed by the immediate families of the bride and groom and a few friends. The bride looked very charming wearing a navy tricotine and satin coat dress, with navy and grey hat and corsage of Killarney roses. She was attended by Miss Helen Davey, costumed in a navy dress, black velvet hat and corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. The groom was assisted by his brother, Harold Shillington.

After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Shillington will reside in this city.

BLOXAM—AUSTEN.

On Monday morning, Sept. 19, 1921, the home of Mrs. R. Austen, 14 Euclid avenue, this city, was the scene of a very interesting event, when her only daughter, Mary Victoria, became the bride of Mr. Harry Bloxam, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bloxam of London West. The bridal party stood under a beautiful arch of ferns and foliage, centered by a large white wedding bell. Mrs. William Courtis acted as maid of honor, and Mr. Alfred Chapman as best man. The Rev. S. Salton officiated at the ceremony. The bride looked charming in her wedding gown of Copenhagen silk, beaded in black, and carried Sunset roses, while the maid of honor wore a black silk gown with overdress of crepe georgette. After a wedding luncheon the happy couple left on the noon train for Toronto, Ottawa and points east, and on their return they will reside in London.

CAMPBELL—McTAVISH.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. McTavish, Riverdale Farm, Dunwich, on Wednesday, Sept. 7, was the scene of a pleasant event when their only daughter, Anna Louise, became the bride of Mr. Alex. Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Campbell, also of Dunwich. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. A. Malcom, in the presence of about forty guests. Promptly at the hour of 4 o'clock the bride entered the drawing-room, which was prettily decorated with ferns and foliage to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, being played by Mrs. Margaret McTavish. The bride, who looked charming in a gown of white satin with rosepoint lace, wore a bridal veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. During the signing of the register Mr. Thomas McTavish, cousin of the bride, sang sweetly, "The Flight of the Ages." The only ornament the bride wore was a rope of pearls, a gift of the groom.

After partaking of a dainty wedding dinner, the bridal party left amidst confetti and best wishes, motoring to London and thence on a trip up the Great Lakes to Duluth. The bride's traveling suit was of navy blue, with hat to match. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will reside on Hill Crest Farm, North Dunwich, and will be at home to their many friends after Nov. 1.

SHORT—WEBSTER.

A most attractive wedding took place in the Colborne Street Methodist Church at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon, when Miss Phyllis Jean Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webster of 529 Piccadilly street, became the bride of Mr. Wilbert Short, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Short of Quebec street, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Judson Kelly, while Mr. Ronald Hart presided at the organ.

The bride was prettily gowned in white tricolette, handsomely embroidered in silk and trimmed with pearls. She wore the conventional bridal veil, crowned with pearls and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and orchids. Her only ornaments were a diamond cluster dinner ring, the gift of the groom, and necklace of pearls, the gift of the best man. Attending her as bridesmaid, was Miss Irene Webster, sister of the bride, gowned in peach organdy with hat to match, and carrying a bouquet of gladioli in peach shades. Little Miss Gladys Doris Short, sister of the groom, made a charming little flower girl in her frock of white net, and carrying a basket of roses and sweet peas. Mr. Wilfrid Reuben Short, brother of the groom, was best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the house being attractively decorated with flowers for the occasion. About 35 guests were present at the wedding breakfast, after which the bride and groom left immediately on a motor trip to Buffalo. The bride traveled in a navy blue suit, hat to match, and a fox fur stole. On their return they will reside in St. Thomas. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a cameo brooch; to the best man, an ebony baton with gold ferrule, and to the pianist, a tiepin.

THE WOLF DOG.
Part Eight.

Busybody, the evil old wolf, ran with her story to the sons and daughters of the mother wolf early next morning.

"Your mother is hiding a young wolf cub, and won't let it join our pack. I saw her hunting with it by moonlight last night," she declared.

Of course, the grown-up young wolves were quite shocked at the news.

"We thought all our young brothers and sisters were killed by the cruel hunter," they declared. "The story of this must not reach the ears of the head of the pack."

"I have been to the head of the pack already," the mean old wolf told them. But no sooner were the words out of her mouth than she wished she had kept her tongue, for the young wolves were so infuriated at her getting their mother in trouble, as they knew her tale-bearing would, they cast themselves at her and gave her a good chewing and biting. It was not until the evil old wolf cried out at the top of her voice for mercy that they let her free, and then they ordered her right away from their cave.

In the meantime, the old mother wolf and her adopted son, the puppy, were quite happy in their cave, and were resting from their night hunt. It was well onto daybreak when a scratching sounded outside the cave.

"Who is there?" asked the mother wolf.

"It is your eldest son," came the answer in a voice the mother dog knew quite well. "The evil Busybody has discovered that you are hiding a cub, and has told the head of the pack. That means that you will be punished and that your cub will have to take the test of the pack at once," her son replied.

"My cub will do no such thing," said the old mother wolf in great fear, but making out she wasn't afraid at all. "I'll not permit it—just take that message to the head of the pack. Tell him I am much older than he, and wiser, and that my word is law."

"That is a foolish message to send to the head of the pack," her son told his mother. "Let me see your cub."

"No one can see my cub," the mother wolf declared stoutly, for she did not want the wolves to learn that the cub was a puppy.

"She must be mad," the young wolf said to himself as he stalked away, wondering whatever he could do to stop the misfortune that would come to his mother if she didn't obey the command of the head of the pack.

"So old Busybody thought the puppy was a cub," the old mother wolf said to herself. Then she called the puppy to her and looked it over. To be sure it did look like a wolf cub, only its coat was more yellow and its eyes more beautiful. "Let me see your mouth," said the wolf. She looked at the puppy's teeth and then cried out in joy. "You are part wolf; your mother may have been a dog, but your father was a wolf. You will be able to take the test of the pack after all."

LUDINGTON LOSES, BUT CARRY TECS TO 11TH

Invaders Offer Unexpected Opposition To London Steam Roller—Weather Fooled Fans and Only Few Turned Up.

Hamel's error, which allowed Stutz to score from second on Shay's hard knock in the eleventh frame, gave London a 3 to 2 verdict in the first clash with Ludington, Central League champs. Because of the muggy, chillsome weather, only a handful of fans turned out to see a close, hard-fought battle. Fans who stayed away because they thought the game would not be played missed a surprise, for the Ludington team on their first appearance, anyway, refused to be the victims of any ironing-out process engineered by the Wetzel steamroller. Shoup, the visiting javelin-hurler, who is billed to consort with the Toledo Club next spring, was the first sacrificial offering, but he gave the local high priests of the swat a battle royal, holding them to five hits. Herbst's service was punctured for half a dozen hits which made the total figure out to something very near one loud smacker per frame—meaning there was a lot of noise that went to the waste pile.

A double steal in the fifth, with Crichlow on the cowcatcher and Curry doing the pushing, eased over London's first run.

Ludington, in the following scene opened it quietly with a single by Hammond. Shoup, not satisfied with merely hurling, sired a double to left that evened things up, Hammond scoring. Beal's sacrifice fly to center field scored Shoup.

Curry was allowed to stroll in London's eighth, and continued on through Herbst'e sacrifice. Stutz's single to right field scored the London catcher, Stutz going to second on Hamel's bad throw. Two were gone and Shay made the third one and a margin at this juncture impossible.

Ludington got men to second on a walk and an error in both the ninth and tenth, but became nastier still in the eleventh. Beal singled and Sharp was safe when Kuhn juggled Herbst's short but fast throw. Burns, however, sent down a choice, the play being staged on Sharp at second. The suspense sagged when McMenamin grounded out to Stutz.

Herbst struck out to start the London eleventh. Stutz discounted this by doubling to left and making third on Shay's hit, and home when the ball, which had hit the ground, got away from Hamel.

Brown, who is on the way to Brooklyn, will hurl today.

FAVORITES WIN AT OTTAWA TOURNAMENT

Misses MacKenzie and Leitch Remain in Running For Golf Honors.

OTTAWA, Sept. 20.—The law of the survival of the fittest prevailed in the first round for the women's Canadian golfing championship, played at Rivermead today, the favorites eliminating weaker contestants mostly by decisive scores. Miss Ada MacKenzie, erstwhile Canadian champion, playing in her old-time form, eliminated Mrs. J. F. Kidd, Royal Ottawa, on the tenth green; Miss Doris Chambers, one of England's best, had a similar triumph over Miss J. Masten, Toronto; Miss Bosworth, also of England, showed equal mastery over Miss A. McCartney of Grandmere, while Mrs. Gavin, New York metropolitan champion, and the Misses Leitch won less decisively, but very emphatically from their respective opponents. Ottawa aspirants encountered heavy reverses, Miss Paget, its brightest star, being forced to default through illness, and four others of its contestants being eliminated, but Montreal and Toronto remain in the struggle with five and three representatives respectively.

The Two United States contenders kept Old Glory fluttering in the breeze, while all four of the British representatives are still in the fight.

ROSS LEAVES FOR ENGLAND.

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—Commander J. K. L. Ross, president of the Montreal Jockey Club, who is reported to have offered his Maryland horse-breeding farms and racing stables for sale, is on a trip to England, but at his office here it was said today that there was no truth in the report.

WATEROUS WILL COACH NEW BRANTFORD SQUAD

General Enters Sixteen-Mile Road Race at Toronto.

BRANTFORD, Sept. 20.—Charlie Waterous has been appointed coach, and Scotty McDonald assistant on the new Brantford Intermediate rugby squad, and with men of this calibre behind the club there is every promise of success. McDonald is to look after the club's equipment. A report has been received from "Bert" Moore, the well-known rugby star who played for the Tigers last season. Moore reported that the application for admission into the O. R. F. U. would be accepted, but that the grouping was very uncertain. Secretary McKie of the O. R. F. U. has given his assurance to do all possible to assist the club.

Norman General, local Indian runner, has entered the Sportsmen's Patriotic, 16-mile race, at Toronto on October 8.

LANNIN'S RINK WINS McGIBBON TROPHY

SARNIA, Sept. 20.—Chief of Police Lannin skipped the rink that brought back the McGibbon Trophy to Sarnia after an absence of more than a year. The final round between the Sarnia rink and the Petrolea quartet, skipped by I. Grennizen, was one of the keenest fought of the whole day's program, the Sarnia man being one shot up on the last end. The Petrolea rink won the runners' up prizes.

The Sarnia skip was forced to fight all the way in the event. In the first rounds Howlett's Petrolea rink was only eliminated by one shot. In the second round, however, Drope's Coplestone rink proved easy, the Sarnia trundlers rolling up a 22 to 6 score on the villagers.

JUNIOR RUGBY TEAM FOR SARNIA ASSURED

SARNIA, Sept. 20.—With the entry of Petrolea into the Junior O. R. F. U. series this year, a team in the lower step of the Ontario Union from this city appears assured.

The Sarnia Rugby Club, having control of the intermediates, may send the juniors through, but lacking that the City League may handle the kids.

There is good junior material in this city, and they will have their first opportunity of playing anything faster than City League. Last year, with practically no coaching, they held the Petrolea Juniors to a one-point lead in two games. This year, with coaching, the locals should have little trouble in eliminating the Hard Oils for district title honors.

SINN FEIN CAMP ESTABLISHED.

BELFAST, Sept. 20.—The Belfast Telegraph says today that a Sinn Fein camp of 500 men has been established at Drumaness, County Down, six miles from the Bally Kinler internment camp, where more than a thousand Irish Republican prisoners are located. The Sinn Fein flag is flying over the camp and drilling is being carried on actively, the newspaper asserts.

"Darling!" he exclaimed, "no wolf will come to our door. The mere sight of your face would keep the wolf away!"

RAIN HALTS GRAND CIRCUIT RACES AT COLUMBUS

Only Two Heats of Two Races Run Off—Big Purse.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 20.—One of the biggest cards of the present Grand Circuit meet, in which $20,000 was to have been distributed among the winners, came to grief here today after two heats were contested. A heavy shower fell, making the track a slippery mass of mud.

One heat of the 2:05 trot, the Capital City Purse of $3,000, was won by Periscope, and Guardian Trust won the first heat of the 3-year-old trot, the Horse Review Futurity Purse of $6,000, when the shower fell.

The time of both these miles was 2:04¼. Guardian Trust's heat in that time was the fastest trotted anywhere this year in a race by a performer of his age. It also gave Belwyn, his sire, his first 2:05 trotter. The betting on Guardian Trust, the favorite, was very heavy, some tickets in the auctions calling for close to $1,400, and in them he sold for $500.

Periscope was a prohibitive favorite to win the 2:05 event. Barred in the auctions, Millie Irwin sold for $100 to the field for $115.

The entire program will be taken up at 1 o'clock tomorrow, and as much of it and the regular day's program will be finished as possible.

CRIME AND WELFARE.

[Manchester Guardian.]

Crime has two parents—will and circumstance; and to treat it in abstraction from environment is only to misunderstand it. The theory of the web of life is the keynote of modern natural history, and we are always gathering new instances of infinite and unexpected connections. To kill a wagtail may be to bring disease to a flock of sheep. Who drives out bees drives flowers from his land. In exactly the same way social reform is distorted by rigid analysis. The problems of society merge in a single complex of moral and economic adjustments. By building houses we empty hospitals; prosperity slackens the pressure on the prison; schools and schooling tilt the balance against the police court. The lesson of this blue book should go first to the economist who divides collective activity into so many sections and would lop indiscriminately at each. For the problem of social welfare is, unfortunately, not at all so simple.

LXXXIV.—The Walk

Dick arrived at half-past two—a somewhat reluctant Dick, if the whole truth be told. He wasn't looking forward to this walk with Miss Eve Rochester.

Besides, the White Lodge was a place he particularly wanted to avoid. It held unhappy memories for him. It always would.

"Oh, here you are! That's fine!" Eve slipped a possessive hand into the young man's arm.

Things must be hurried. He was going away so soon. There was not any time to lose.

"Did you bring a car?" she added casually.

"I thought you wished to walk," said Dick, glancing surreptitiously at Eve's high heels and telling himself that it was quite on the cards she'd sprain her ankle. She was no country girl. Her whole get-up was a perfect skit upon the country.

"Oh, never mind!" said Eve. She felt a little nettled, all the same. A four-mile walk until they reached the hill—a walk along the high roads without any privacy, and the sustaining of a bright and sparkling conversation all the time—well, she would have to face the herculean task.

"Why don't you get Miss Drew to walk with you?" inquired Dick as the two set off, side by side. He had a sneaking hope entirely against his better judgment—that Miss Drew might have been persuaded by the other girl to accompany them today. Which goes to show that Dick was ignorant of women and their ways!

"Oh, my guardian requires her services most of the time," said Eve, with a little patronizing air. She definitely dismissed the subject of Miss Mary with the comment:

"I understand that everything is fixed up between them now. Only the wedding announcement to be sent out, or something of that sort. Amusing, isn't it?"

Dick did not think it was amusing. A great lump seemed to block his throat and make speech difficult.

At last they reached the hill.

She kept up the bright and breezy role with a persistency that was praiseworthy, had her energy been applied to a more hopeful cause.

For it was uphill work with Dick Calardin!

"He would be a hopeless bore to marry!" Miss Eve told herself repeatedly, as each playful sally seemed to miss fire with her silent companion.

The country round about was pretty in the summertime—but on this wintry afternoon it held an hilly, forlorn sort of look.

The sun had sunk to rest quite early, too—and darkness was falling rather rapidly.

"I think we'd better hurry," Dick suggested. "A long walk lies before us—"

"Oh, we don't want to go the same way home," cut in Miss Eve. "As a matter of fact, I don't feel up to that long, straight tramp along the high road. And so I humbly make the suggestion that we cut across, and find the nearest railway station. It's only three miles off—we easily can find it. Then we can get a train—or telephone for a car—but, anyhow, we won't have such a long walk home!"

This was not heroic. But Eve spoke with conviction. She now assumed her liveliest mood. Dick, in spite of himself, began to feel somewhat entertained. Eve could be superficially clever—for a certain length of time. She did not "wear" well, but there were periods when she was amusing.

Once or twice Dick's laugh rang out. It was not perhaps a very cheery laugh, but, oh, he wanted so much to forget the misery of last evening. . . .

The moon came up, and the hills were lying in a romantic radiance.

"Heavenly, isn't it?" breathed Eve, clinging close to Dick and smiling up at him. Things must be "speeded up" now, surely!

"It's very cold," said Dick, prosaically. "Now, can you tell me where that railway station lies?"

"Right over here," said Eve, quite glibly.

They walked for perhaps an hour, and then Eve announced she was tired.

"We'll rest a little, shall we?" She glanced at her wrist watch. She could see the figures of it in the moonlight. "Dick, what's the time?" She held a slim, gloved hand up to him.

"It's nearly 8 o'clock." He looked a trifle worried. "I seem to have lost my bearings—"

"It's I who have made the mistake," confessed Miss Eve, with airy brightness.

They started off. They walked and walked. There were endless aggravating little tracks across the fields—which seemed to lead to nowhere. Dick could not guess that Eve knew the whole neighborhood like a book—and was deliberately misleading him.

Every now and then she insisted on a "rest." And time flew by. Up one path and down another. The moon was now obscured by clouds. They had to wait until it reappeared.

"Jove! This is getting serious." They had walked for miles and miles, and reached no point Dick recognized. There were no houses here—no sign of human habitation. . . .

It was towards 11 o'clock that Eve—the wily little Eve—appeared to abandon hope. She sank down on a fallen tree and moaned in tragic tones:

"Oh, Dick, I'm dead beat—and whatever will my guardian say to me? How all the neighborhood will talk and gossip! Because we're lost, Dick, lost—you and I alone—and it's getting on toward midnight!"

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Good, better, best, never let it rest till your "good" is better, and your "better" best.—Franklin.

The Road to Nowhere.

Dear Miss Grey,—You are a useful person, and a busy one, but it's nice to have a seat in the front row.

I should like to get into touch with a lady ex-teacher whose last name is (or was) Smillie—someone who is not long enough away from the work to have lost sight of its little entertaining phases.

I had a teacher friend of that name and type, but I lost track of her—she just seemed to melt into space.

It would be curiously interesting to correspond with one of the same name; it would almost be as if I had found her. She was one of the kind that I care to remember.

THE ROAD TO NOWHERE.

Tip Sends Money.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here I am again, but I am coming this time with my bit of money, it only being a ten-spot this time. I will send the rest when I get the quilt finished, for I am sure I have more than what the quilt will cost. I received the blocks from M. E. W. and Brown Eyes No. 2. You both did very well with the names. I will keep your addresses, as I haven't time to write to all just now, so by this you will know that the blocks arrived O. K.

I received a block with no name at all on it, nor any name to say who sent it. I hope it was not sent as a finished block, as there are pieces of silk in it, but no names on it.

I saw by the paper that Oakdake was sending a block. TIP.

Ans.—How splendid of you to collect such a large sum of money, Tip. I am quite sure the sum realized from the quilt will be much larger than I first anticipated.

Attention, Fuzz Wuzz.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw by the Mail-Box that Fuzz Wuzz had returned; also she said she was going to write me again. That was three or four weeks ago, but up to the time of writing this I have not heard from her. Hurry up, Fuzz Wuzz, as I am waiting for your letter. What kind of flower seeds have you on hand, as I would like to get some? Please excuse scribble, as I am in a hurry to get to the Fair.

HUROKI.

Ans.—The following is a list of the seeds on hand: Hollyhock, poppy, cosmos, phlox, balsam, petunia, sweet william, zinhia and marigold.

Seeds, Seeds.

Dear Friend,—I am mailing a quantity of marigold seeds, also poppies, phlox, balsams, petunias and sweet williams, in aid of the S. C. H. fund. Will have another supply later of cosmos, asters and a few others. I will call again in a week or two. Hoping this will add a mite to the fund, I am,

HAPPY HOOLIGAN.

Ans.—The seeds arrived this morning. Thank you very much for them, also for offering to send more.

Bobbie's Mother Helps.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—Just a line to say that I had seventeen names, and I have forwarded them on to Tip, and am sending you a postoffice order for $1.75. Yours truly,

BOBBIE'S MOTHER.

Where will I send my number of names I guess? Will send mite next time.

Ans.—It was very good of you to collect all these names. I trust Tip will find room for them somewhere on the quilt. The quilt is to be given to the person making the highest bid for it.

Guesses of No Value.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending in some guesses for the quilt. I will send in the money when I send in the balance of what I have when the quilt is finished.

Each time I write to you I forgot to ask if I could have your name for my block, so as I forgot to ask I took the opportunity to put it on. As our quilt would not be right without your name on it. I hope it is all right. Don't scold if I have done wrong.

I saw in the Mail-Box where you had raised $428 already for the cot. The Mail-Box has certainly done well. I hope we come up to the mark with the quilt.

I received Beppy's block, but I have not received Oakdale's block yet. As ever, TIP.

P. S.—I received Seventy Years Young's block.

Ans.—Thank you for putting my name on your block Tip. The guesses you sent in are of no value now as we are giving the quilt to the person making the highest offer for it.

The "Blockites."

The following is a list of the twenty Boxites who have promised to make a block for our hospital quilt. Some of these blocks have already been completed and sent to Tip, who has so kindly offered to make up the quilt, besides making a block: Busy Hands, Red Rose, Bessie, Brown Eyes No 2, Busy Isy, Pussy Willow, M. E. W., Thistle, Geranium, Gabby, Oakdale, Jeff's Sister, Cheerful Face, English Edythe, Seventy Years Young, Devonshire Dumpling, Evening Star, Whistler, Heartsease and Tip.

Will those who have not already sent in their blocks kindly do so before September 30, as we are quite anxious to make up the quilt.

Tip has asked me to remind all those making a block to be sure and not use silk patches.

Want Slips.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here I am again wanting something as usual. I was sorry none of the Boxites had the words of "Let the Rest of the World Go By" and "I Know Where the Flies Go," but maybe some time they will have them. Could I please get a sachet if there are any in the Mail-Box? Also if any of the Boxites have any slips of any kind would they mind sending them to me, and I will pay postage for some. My address is with Miss Grey. I am 16 years old and have four sisters and four brothers, so there isn't very many of us is there? Well, I must fly out of the way, or the W. P. B. will get this epistle. Wishing the Mail-Box every success. Inclosed find a mite for the S. C. H. BLINKY.

Ans.—Am mailing you the words you asked for, Blinky, but there are no sachets left. Thank you also for sending us the mite for our fund.

The Last Block.

Dear Miss Grey,—Have started a block for hospital quilt this morning. Should have done it sooner, but have been away.

Please send me address of Tip in inclosed envelope.

Did I not see some mention of a guessing contest of names on quilt? Please say in paper.

Dime inclosed for fund, also recipe for Scripture Cake, an extremely good cake to make. Sincerely,

HEARTEASE.

Scripture Cake—Four and a half cups 1 Kings, iv., 22; ½ cup Judges, v., 25; 2 cups Jeremiah, vi., 20; 2 cups 1 Samuel, xxx., 12; 2 cups Nahum, iii., 12; 1 cup Numbers, xvii., 8; 2 tablespoons 1 Samuel, xiv., 25. Season to taste with 2 Chron., ix., 9; six of Jeremith, xvii., 11; pinch of Levi, ii., 13; ½ cup Judges, iv., 19; 2 teaspoons Amos, iv., 5. Follow Solomon's advice in Proverbs, xxxiii., 14, and you will have a good cake. Bake in a moderate oven from 2 to 2½ hours.

Ans.—Thank you, Heartease, for offering to make a block. I am mailing you directions in full, so that you may go right ahead with it. Thank you also for dime inclosed, and cake recipe, which is quite novel. The quilt is to be given to the person making the highest bid for it, as it cannot be raffled now. Send your name and address and the amount you are willing to pay for it.

Where Is Mrs. Hopeful?

Dear Miss Grey,—I am just coming to thank you for the clippings re the patterns and addresses. I am writing today for them. I don't know what I would do without the 'Tiser, with its Mail-Box, full of interesting letters; it is the first thing I look for. Has anyone heard from Mrs. Hopeful? I wrote to her early last winter, but have not heard from her since, and I wrote to the eldest of the Two Country Rosebuds last winter, and have not heard from her yet, either. And Tiger Lily, will you please write me a letter and tell me how to cook those garden huckleberries.

When anything burns in pots or saucepans, try putting ammonia and water and boil for a while on top of stove. To clean windows put a little coal oil in water and no soap and windows will polish easier. Geranium, if you will be kind enough to send me some of your slips I will sure return postage as soon as I receive them, or send you roots of garden flowers, whichever you like, only please do send me some slips. My address is with Miss Grey. Well, I must run away now. Please find a wee mite for the S. C. H.

PINE LIMB.

Ans.—Thank you for the recipes, which have been put on file for future use; also for the "we mite."

Attention! Lozana.

Dear Miss Grey.—May I drop in for a wee chat this fine sunny morning? I saw in the paper where Lozana wants to know whether vinegar, mustard, salt and sugar has to be boiled. Mixture requires no boiling, just mix one gallon vinegar, one cup salt, one cup sugar, one cup mustard all together, and it is ready for cucumbers. You can drop them in each day until your crock is full. Put a plate on top to keep them under vinegar. Stir each time you put in cucumbers. They are good done this way.

Say, Busy Hands, I certainly did smile when I saw you had some nice house plants for me. I am inclosing 10 cents for postage on them. Will you send me address and money inclosed to Busy Hands, Miss Grey? Thanking you for your kindness. I will send double mite next time for the S. C. H. JUST A SMILE.

Ans.—Am forwarding your address and money to Busy Hands.

Dear Cynthia Grey.—I only began my block the day I wrote to you, not a week yet, and just finished collecting this morning, and am sending a postal order for $3.80. I really could not send it sooner, and am sending the names to "Tip," and the block for fear she might need it, and if not, she might use it for something else.

MRS. S. K. J.

Ans.—Thank you, Mrs. S. K. J., for sending the money so promptly.

Chili Sauce.

Dear Miss Grey.—Would you please give me a good recipe for chili sauce? I have mislaid mine, and would like to make some. Wishing the Mail-Box success, I am A TOMATO.

Ans.—Here is a recipe for chili sauce that you will find very good, I think: Six quarts ripe tomatoes, 2 quarts sliced onions, 2 cups sliced red peppers, 3½ cups best vinegar, 3 cups brown sugar, 4 teaspoons of cloves, 1 of allspice, 3 of celery seed, 3 of ginger, 3 teaspoons mustard seed, 10 tablespoons of salt. Mix, cook on very moderate fire until quite thick.

Want Words.

Dear Miss Grey.—This is my first letter to your Mail-Box and find it very interesting. I had a birthday yesterday. How are you enjoying these hot days? Would you please send in a package of poppy seeds, also the words of "Let the Rest of the World Go By"? Please find inclosed self-addressed envelope for seeds and song. BILL.

P. S.—Will send my mite next time. —B.

Ans.—A package of seeds is on its way to you, Bill, but there isn't a copy of the words you ask for in the Mail-Box just now.

GREEN TOMATO RECIPES.

There are many ways to use green tomatoes, and while they are not so valuable food as ripe ones, yet they contain valuable acids and mineral salts which aid digestion.

For fried green tomatoes, choose fairly large, firm tomatoes, slice them half or three-quarters of an inch thick, dip the slices in egg slightly or sifted very fine, and fry in butter or substitute until a fork will thrust easily through them. Turn them only once. Bacon fat is excellent for frying green tomatoes.

For green tomato pickle add three-quarters of a cupful of salt to four quarts of chopped green tomatoes. Let stand over night and drain. Then add two teaspoonfuls of pepper, three each of mustard, cinnamon, allspice, and one of cloves to two quarts of cider vinegar, heat to boiling point, add tomatoes, four sliced green peppers, and two chopped onions. Boil a quarter of an hour and pack in an earthen crock.

Another recipe for green tomato pickle, very good, is as follows: Slice thin a peck of green tomatoes and four large white onions, sprinkle alternate layers with a cupful of salt and let stand over night. Drain, add half an ounce of cloves, allspice, and peppercorns, half a cupful of brown mustard seed, a pound of brown sugar, and four green peppers chopped fine. Cover with cider vinegar, beat slowly, and boil half an hour.

A sweet green tomato preserve is made with four quarts of sliced green tomatoes, four sliced lemons, and eight cupfuls of sugar. Lay tomato, lemon and sugar, one on another in an earthen crock, and let stand overnight. Cook slowly for two hours.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

About the Morning Bath.

A reader says her husband has been for years a devotee of the practice of taking a cold plunge bath every morning on rising. "But lately," she continues, "he has heard that you ruin your health by this habit. Is that true?"

I'll tell the world not to worry about that. There isn't a ghost of a chance that I'll ever ruin my health that way. Just why I should climb out of a nice warm bed in the morning and subject my nice warm skin to the shock of a cold wetting is more than I have ever been able to conceive, and I value health highly, too, yes, and pep, and vigor, and courage and everything.

The morning cold bath habit is like touring Europe. People seemingly affect these things for the pleasure of talking about the accomplishment or distinction afterward. Then, too, I sometimes think a bad conscience has something to do with a trip to Europe or a cold morning bath. I notice particularly that in many novels the most immortal hero or heroine does a tremendous amount of bathing, on the theory, I suppose, that the bath will wash the sin away.

Now, I am a believer in soap and water for the hands, and behind the ears, and here and there. I am a believer in cleanliness rather than disinfectants or antiseptics. I even practice and advocate daily air baths, because the air is nature's greatest cleanser, and, besides, the air feels fine, summer or winter.

But it does not feel good to plunge into a cold water bath immediately after awakening, and I have a suspicion that the plunge wastes more energy than it conserves or builds, in most cases.

Instead of showing your nerve or courage by plunging into cold water on rising in the morning, why not show your self-discipline by forcing your lazy body through a few vigorous exercise while you enjoy your morning air bath in your room? Of the two tests of courage, in my judgment, it requires greater courage to go through the regular stunt of exercise each morning than it does to jump into a cool bath and jump out again and polish your shivering hide with a warm towel. Leave that for your swimming days. Take your conditioning exercises every morning in the year, to keep fit.

I dare say the average cold morning bath enthusiast of my age and status is not in such good physical condition as I am, and I do not bathe below the neck more frequently than the law demands. I don't believe the human skin was intended for an aquatic or amphibian animal, but for a land animal. This is all of my own individual belief or opinion in the circumstances. It is a matter of opinion, and every doctor has his own opinion. Mine is that within reason, the more rarely we wet our bodies with water, the better for our health. More or less body washing is rendered unavoidable, of course, by our civilized life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Circulating Books.

Kindly inform me whether in your opinion it is safe or harmful for others, healthy or otherwise, to handle books, periodicals or newspapers that have previously been handled by tuberculosis patients.—REV. C. F. S.

Ans.—In my opinion there is no risk involved. If there were, then it would be unsafe to handle paper money, to purchase a newspaper from a newsboy or news-stand, to purchase a magazine, to open a door with your hand on the knob that everybody had handled, to touch the arm of your theatre seat or to open the hymn book in church.

What Coddling Means.

I am anxious to learn just what you mean by the term coddling.

Ans.—Wearing any clothing in excess of what comfort or custom requires. Heating living quarters one degree higher than comfort demands.

Shooting Implements.

I have accepted a position as nurse maid, and I would like to care for them in the proper way. The baby, aged 2, still wears a woolen hand. I wanted to remove it in the very hot weather, but the mother would not let me. I would appreciate it if you would tell me how to feed, bathe and any other necessary things in the care of children from 2 to 5. (Miss B. O. M.)

ANSWERS—Study Dr. Griffith's "Care of the Baby," published by W. B. Saunders Company, Philadelphia, Pa., probably available in your public library.

VALERA'S REPLY MAY RESULT IN CABINET MEETING

Latest Message of Sinn Fein Leader Causes Considerable Comment.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Mr. Lloyd George's reply to Eamonn de Valera will likely be delayed until after a conference with the ministers at Gairloch Thursday, and it seems certain that there will be no Irish peace conference at Inverness, for, according to the latest reports, the prime minister has decided to return to London at the end of the week if his health is sufficiently restored, in which case the next formal cabinet council will be held in London.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, left today for Gairloch, indicating that Ireland would be the subject of the conference on Thursday.

May Delay Reply.

None of Mr. de Valera's previous communications with the prime minister has provoked such divergent opinions as his latest telegram. All considered, it is not unlikely that the prime minister will even delay his reply until the whole cabinet has met here. The Parliament of North Ireland met today, the date originally proposed for the Inverness conference, and the speech of Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, showed that Ulster is no better disposed toward the peace conference than before.

Election Rumors.

The decision of Mr. Lloyd George not to go to Washington has revived gossip of a coming general election, the idea being that there are now only two alternatives—a peace conference, or an appeal to the country, either of which, since the conference has been so greatly delayed, would necessitate the prime minister's presence in England in November. The Government is likely to find itself surrounded with difficulties, not only in the shape of unemployment, the anti-waste campaign, and similar matters at home, but also abroad.

A Big Question.

The reparations question with Germany, involving possible friction with France, combined with the continued depreciation of the mark, may necessitate further meetings of the supreme council. New difficulties with Russia seem to be brewing, all of which may require the prime minister's personal attention, and incline him to secure a new mandate from the country on a question on which he might hope to secure a certain majority.

Latest reports from Gairloch tonight say that a ministerial conference may be held tomorrow, and there are also reports that Mr. de Valera has expressed willingness to withdraw his claim that the Irish delegates must go into the conference as representatives of an independent and sovereign state.

QUESTIONS VALERA'S RIGHT.

BELFAST, Sept. 20.—During the parliament session today, Representative Scote questioned Eamonn de Valera's right to membership in the Ulster Parliament, owing to the fact that he was born of alien parentage and had not been naturalized as a British subject. (In the Irish elections in May Mr. de Valera was elected a member of both the northern and southern parliaments, but he did not take his seat in the northern parliament when it was organized, his action in this respect being in line with that of the other Sinn Fein candidates elected to this body.)

The speaker replied that Mr. de Valera was a member of the British Imperial Parliament for a period of about three years, and as that parliament permitted him to remain it hardly devolved upon the Ulster Parliament, whose election laws are the same as those of the body sitting at Westminster, to take such steps as were suggested regarding Mr. de Valera.

ALLEGE JONES GAVE FALSE TESTIMONY

Police Are Seeking Recent Witness in Liquor Case.

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 20.—John E. Jones of South Yarmouth is wanted by the police on a warrant charging him with making false statements in the testimony given by him in the recent proceedings taken by Jones to recover $1,600 worth of liquors which had been seized by Inspector Ross in April last at the M. C. R. freight sheds, St. Thomas. Inspector Ross and Detective McCully failed to find Jones at his home this afternoon.

A confession today made by Frank Cosley, sentenced last week to pay $1,000 fine for selling whiskey, and who is now in the county, brought about the issue of the warrant.

Cosley is alleged to have admitted to the crown attorney and Inspector Ross that he and two Cleveland men went to Montreal to purchase liquor, and the shipment was made to John H. Jones, St. Thomas. Jones, according to Cosley, was to claim the liquor in consideration of allowing him to help himself in some drinks when he felt so disposed, until the stuff had been removed over the lake, besides a cash deposit of $250.

Some trouble has arisen between the parties interested in the bootlegging, and now Cosley has taken the authorities into his confidence and given the details of the whiskey partnership away.

Bandits Like Murrells Robbed Car Early Today

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, Sept. 21.—Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning two young men whose discription exactly answers that of the Murrell brothers who recently broke jail at London, held up the Tecumseh electric car at Lauzon road, eight miles from here.

One man covered the car crew and twelve passengers with a gun while the other went through the passengers and collected $50.

Both men had handkerchiefs tied around their faces.

After robbing the passengers they left the car hurriedly and made off in the dark.

The car was rushed to Tecumseh and an alarm given.

MADE HUGE PRISONER RIDE IN BAGGAGE CAR

Charles Veale of Springford Is Taken To the Penitentiary.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 20.—Charles R. Veale of Springford, who confessed to firing the house on the farm of Eli Barnim and was sentenced to five years in Kingston, was today removed to the penitentiary by Sheriff McGhee. Veale is a man weighing over 250 pounds, and when the party arrived at the station the conductor gave Veale the once over and forbid him on account of his tremendous bulk and uncouth appearance to enter the day coach. The sheriff was for the moment non-plussed, but finally the conductor allowed the party to ride in the baggage car.

No Sales Made.

Seventeen cents was the highest bid on the local cheese board today when 1,285 boxes of cheese were boarded. Bidding started at 16 cents. Not a sale was made on the board or curb. The factory men held for 18 cents, but the buyers would not advance over 17¼ cents.

The first rugby accident of the season occurred this afternoon at Woodstock College when Mansfield Warren of this city suffered a broken jaw. The young man was in the act of making a tackle when he was struck flush on the chin.

Will Acquire Mines.

The annual meeting of the Oxford Cobalt Mines, Limited, was held here. Shareholders, representing over $294,000, were present. It was unanimously decided to acquire three mines claims adjacent to the original property, giving the company a total holding now of 100 acres. The new officers elected are: President, A. H. Wilson; vice-president, J. R. Shaw; secretary, Geo. F. Mahon; treasurer, E. A. Rea; general manager, J. W. Russell.

EXPRESS HITS AUTO AT TORONTO CROSSING

William Barnes Killed and Three Companions Seriously Hurt.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—William D. Barnes was instantly killed and Miss Dora Murphy, aged 19, Miss Vera Meads and Norman Jones, all of Toronto, were injured when the automobile in which they were riding, driven by Barnes, was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway express on the crossing west of Toronto at 9:30 this evening. Mr. Jones and the young women were taken to the hospital.

Miss Murphy is suffering from a badly injured head and probable internal injuries; Miss Meads from a broken collarbone and head injuries, and Jones from head injuries. Jones was unconscious when conveyed to the hospital.

The car, in charge of Barnes, had halted at the crossing to allow a westbound freight train to pass. As the tailend of the freight train left the crossing Barnes started across, when he caught a glimpse of an express heading towards him. He pressed the accelerator and tried to gain the other side, but he was too late. The car was caught by the train, carried a distance of 50 feet, and thrown with terrific force against a telephone pole.

EX-WARDEN W. J. FOY DIES AT CHATHAM

CHATHAM, Sept. 20.—Following an illness of over a year and shock sustained in a recent accident in the garage at his home, ex-Warden W. J. Foy, for many years prominent in the municipal life of Dover Township, died at his home today.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Foy of Dover, and was born in that township 44 years ago. His election as reeve from 1915 to 1919 inclusive was not only a tribute to his popularity, but also to his ability in municipal affairs. His worth was also recognized when attending the sessions of the county council in this city, and a distinct tribute to Mr. Foy and Dover Township was paid to him when in 1919 he was elected warden. He was nominated as the U. F. O. candidate for West Kent at the last provincial election, but withdrew before the election actually started. Fraternally, he was a member of the Ancient Order of Foresters. Besides his wife, one daughter at home and two sons in Dover Township survive. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon to Maple Leaf Cemetery.

AMERICAN SHOT BY MEXICANS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Carl Tabb, a United States citizen employed by the Mexican Petroleum Company, was shot and killed Sunday night "by Mexican soldiers" in the oil fields near Tampico.

UNION OF SYNODS IS UNDER CONSIDERATION

Committee Is Appointed To Take Matter Up Next Tuesday.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—Rev. John A. Moir of Woodbridge was elected moderator of the Toronto Presbytery at today's meeting in succession to Rev. Dr. J. M. Duncan.

The proposed union of the synods of Toronto and Kingston and of London and Hamilton was discussed, and a committee consisting of Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, Rev. Dr. Duncan, the moderator, and the clerk, Rev. R. C. Tibb, was appointed to bring the question before the meeting of the former body at Orillia on Tuesday, September 27.

The presbytery accepted the allocation of $258,750 as its share of the 1922 budget. This amount represents an increase of $28,750 over the 1923 budget allocation.

It was decided to organize in all congregations an "Every-Person Canvass" about the end of November for congregational maintenance on the basis of the new minimum stipend and for the 1922 budget.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS SET BIG PRECEDENT

Dispute Between Poland and Lithuania Will Be Reopened.

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—The council of the League of Nations established an important precedent this morning when it decided to refer to the assembly of the league the dispute between Poland and Lithuania concerning Vilna, considered a fortnight ago to have been settled, but reopened because of the attitude of the contending parties.

WINDSOR DISTRICT TO HAVE HIGHEST OBJECTIVE

Decides On 25 Per Cent Increase For Missionary Offerings.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

HARROW, Sept. 20.—The Windsor district of the Methodist Church met here yesterday, when nearly 200 delegates from the churches of Essex and Kent assembled. Every minister but one was present, and a letter of sympathy was directed to be sent to Rev. J. H. Johnston in the loss of his son. Assessments were levied on the different charges for superannuation, general conference and annual conference funds. At noon the Harrow women banqueted the delegates, and during the luncheon Rev. Dr. Crews of Windsor gave an account of his trip to Europe, describing the conditions in Italy, France and Belgium. The latter, he said, seems to be getting back more quickly to pre-war prosperity. The high taxation in England is accomplishing much in the breaking up of great estates, but is putting the people to very great hardships. Few, he said, can afford to keep an automobile for pleasure, the license fee being $200 and petrol costing $2 a gallon.

The afternoon was given to missionary objectives, and after listening to Doctor Lloyd Smith of Toronto and ex-Mayor Austin of Chatham, the district unanimously adopted a 25 per cent increase, which will make Windsor district the banner district of the London conference. Rev. W. E. Donnelly and Rev. J. Jones presented the claims of religious service. A good audience listened to the speakers of the evening, Dr. Smith of Toronto and Rev. B. W. Robinson of Leamington. The sessions were presided over by the president of the conference, Rev. J. W. Hibbert.

LATE MRS. RAYNER NATIVE OF LONDON

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Alice Rayner, aged 61, formerly of London, died at her home, 50 Mitchell street, tonight. Besides her husband, she leaves three sons, Charles, Jack and Melville, and two daughters, Caroline and Dorothy. Five sisters also survive, Mrs. Robert Caldwell, Toronto; Mrs. Gordon Turnbull of Wauseon, Ohio; Mrs. James Luscombe, Mrs. Emma Denley and Mrs. Coleman, all of London. Her brothers are Melville, Phillip and Edward of London, John of Hamilton and Charles of Havre, Montana. Mrs. Rayner had resided here for 28 years and was an active member of St. John's Anglican Church.

BRITAIN DEMANDS EXPLANATION OF SOVIET ACTIONS

Serious Breaches of Faith in Central Asia Are Charged.

AGREEMENT VIOLATED

Government Has Evidence of Intrigue With Indian Revolutionaries.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The British Government has dispatched a strongly worded note to Moscow calling the attention of the Soviet Government to alleged serious breaches of faith involved in the pursuance by the Russians throughout Central Asia and Afghanistan of a campaign of intrigue hostile to Great Britain. An explanation is demanded. The note details fully the alleged hostile acts complained of. Most of them were in Afghanistan.

Flagrant Violations.

The note which was written by the foreign minister, Earl Curzon, was delivered to the Moscow Government two days ago. It details a number of "flagrant violations" of Russia's undertaking under the trade agreement with Great Britain, to cease anti-British propaganda, and enumerates the activities of Third International of Moscow in India and Afghanistan, quoting in substantiation thereof a statement by M. Stalin, president of the eastern section of the Third Internationale urging the eastern secretariat to devote itself to undermining the external power of England and France.

Continued Intrigue.

It is declared in the note that the British Government has evidence of continued intrigue with Indian revolutionaries in Persia, some of whom were invited to Moscow last June to discuss the best means of bringing about a revolution in India, and also refers to the activities of Rothstein the Russian representative at Teheran who is declared to be importing large sums and known to be subsidizing Persian newspapers to carry on an anti-British campaign.

It complains that the soviets are supporting the Turkish Nationalists.

The gravest charge pertains to the Russo-Afghan treaty and M. Tchitcherin's insistence upon a clause in this treaty providing for the opening of consulates in Eastern Afghanistan.

Strong Evidence.

Lord Curzon says the Government possesses indisputable evidence that these consulates are regarded by the Soviet Government as prospective centres of propaganda and has evidence also of the activities of Jamal Pasha, sent to Afghanistan by the soviet to provide the hostile tribesmen with funds, arms and ammunition.

The British foreign secretary asks for definite assurance that these activities, constituting breaches of the trade agreement shall immediately cease.

PRINCE OF WALES IS NOT COMING TO CANADA

Will Return Through Suez Canal on Way Home From India.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(By Canadian Press.)—The Prince of Wales will not visit Canada on his return journey from India as he will follow the same route homeward as on his outward voyage via the Suez Canal.

The foregoing appears in an official announcement which states that the arrangements for the prince's tour are practically completed and that the recent events in India have in no wise affected the proposed program.

The battleship Renown, which makes a trial run next Tuesday, will sail for Gibraltar en route to India on October 26. The Indian staff will join the Prince of Wales' party at Bombay.

An interesting figure among the Renown's staff of sixty-five officers is Prince Charles, second son of the King of the Belgians. Prince Charles, who was a cadet along with Prince George on the Thunderer, during her Mediterranean tour, has been appointed to the Renown as a midshipman.

The Renown is amply stocked with stores necessary for receptions, in addition to the needs of those aboard. Included in these stores, for the use of officers, are 195,000 cigarettes, two thousands bottles of wine and nine thousand cigars, in addition to five thousand cigars to be taken by the Prince of Wales himself. For the men there are 5,560 gallons of rum and four thousand gallons of lime juice. The Renown will have a good supply of mascots also, eleven black cats being taken along for good luck.

NEWFOUNDLAND ASKS FOR EASIER TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Sir Richard Anderson Squires, premier of Newfoundland, had a conference with Secretary of Commerce Hoover today over the prohibitive rates affecting trade between Newfoundland and the United States in the Fordney tariff bill. He pointed out that with only $2,000,000 of Newfoundland fish and other products coming here annually for use in the United States, against $20,000,000 worth of manufactured articles going into Newfoundland from the United States, it was a mistake for this country to impose prohibitive rates on the fish and fishoil of Newfoundland. It was definitely learned there is strong sympathy with Sir Richard's view in high administration circles.

Dr. Manion is himself a returned soldier, having served overseas with the C. E. F., and is the author of "A Surgeon in Arms," a war book which attracted a great deal of attention throughout Canada. He won the Military Cross at Vimy Ridge.

Hon. H. B. Bennett, of Calgary, who succeeds Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty as minister of justice, has been recognized for long as one of the outstanding political figures in the prairie provinces and as a clever lawyer He first came into the Federal House of Commons in 1911. The new minister of justice was born at Hopewell, Albert County, N. B., in 1870, of United Empire Loyalist stock.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, came into the House of Commons to represent Vancouver in 1911. He was born in England in 1878, but came to Canada when nine years old, and was educated at Peterboro, Ont.

Hon. J. R. Wilson, minister without portfolio, is well known throughout Saskatchewan as one of the men who was prominent in building up the city of Saskatoon. Hon. Mr. Wilson was a pioneer miller and grain buyer in Saskatoon, who first came into federal politics when he was elected for Saskatoon in 1917.

Hon. J. A. Stewart of Lanark, the new minister of railways and canals, was elected by acclamation in his constituency at a by-election held May 3, 1918, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. A. E. Hanna. Hon. Mr. Stewart is a businessman of wide experience.

ALL NEW MINISTERS HAVE SEEN SERVICE IN POLITICAL ARENA

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Practically all the new members of the cabinet have had extensive political experience. Those who have not are men whose business careers were such as to recommend them to the notice of the premier at the time he was casting about for material with which to rebuild the cabinet.

The Quebec representation is perhaps of chief interest in view of the attention directed to that province since it became known the reorganization was imminent. Of the new Quebec ministers, Hon. Rodolph Monty, the new secretary of state, is a well-known Montreal lawyer, head of the legal firm of Monty, Duranleau, Ross & Angers. He is known throughout his native province as a good speaker and a clever lawyer.

Dr. Normand's Career.

The new secretary of state was born at Montreal in 1874. He studied law at McGill and Laval, obtaining his degree of LL.D. He has been councillor and treasurer of the Bar Association of Montreal district, and examiner of the bar for the province of Quebec. FURTHER DECLINE IN LIVE HOG FIGURES

Potatoes Also Show Easing in Price—Outside Supplies Available.

Offerings of home-grown potatoes on the local market are decreasing, and supplies are being shipped in from outside points to meet the demand. Local prices dropped from $1.75 and $2.25 a bushel to $1.75 and $2, and dealers claim that the potatoes shipped in may be purchased at a lower figure than that.

The price on live hogs dropped from $9.50 a cwt. to $9, and for fat sows the price dropped from $4.75 and $5.25 to $4.50 and $5 a cwt.

Hay is still firm, and three loads offered this morning before 10 o'clock sold at the top figure of $25 a ton.

No oats or wheat were offered on the square this morning.

Dealers claim that this will be the last week in which peaches and plums will be offered.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Bears had an advantage in the wheat market today, owing more or less to an official report indicating that France has a surplus of 28,000,000 bushels over and above bread and seed requirements. Selling came chiefly from commission houses. Aggressive support was lacking. Initial quotations, which ranged from ¼c to 1c lower, were followed by a decided setback all around.

New low record prices for the season were reached in the corn market. Predictions were current that the Government crop report, October 1, would be bearish. After opening unchanged to ¼c lower prices continued to sag.

Oats were weak with other grain, starting unchanged to ¼c down and then scoring further losses.

POISONED BUTTER NEARLY KILLS TWO

Mysterious Case Near Guelph Will Be Fully Investigated.

Guelph, Sept. 20.—After eating breakfast at their farm, West Garafraxa, yesterday morning, two sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Cope were taken suddenly ill, and when a physician was summoned it was discovered that both young men had been poisoned. Dr. Allen of Arthur, who atended them, had some butter which they had used in frying potatoes, analyzed, and it is reported that it contained a quantity of strychnine.

It is believed that during their absence some person entered the house and poisoned the butter.

A dog fell dead after eating potatoes taken from the cupboard. The boys are now out of danger. Crown Attorney Kearns of Guelph has been notified.

RAW MILK FROM UNTESTED HERDS TO BE BARRED

Board of Health Decides To Act On the Government Recommendations.

ASK FOR AN EXPERT

Milk From Untested Herds Must Be Pasteurized Before Sold.

Suggested regulations of great moment in regard to the control of the milk supply of the city were accepted by the board of health from Dr. Tamblyn, veterinary surgeon, at a meeting of the board held yesterday afternoon. Ultimately they will come into effect. The proposed changes are really based on pointers from the federal department of agriculture, and aim to give the city a supply of raw milk free from tuberculosis germs.

The federal department is making an offer to different centres to carry on the work of inspecting herds as to tuberculosis for two years, the centre to then take up the work and continue the inspection. The members of the board thought the proposition a good one. They also thought that it was something that the city would have to come to sooner or later, in view of the spread of the child welfare movement and the drink-milk propaganda.

Purity of Milk.

Dr. Tamblyn's suggestions are that no milk or cream be sold in the city in its raw state unless the herd be known to be free from tuberculosis; that milk from untested herds must be pasteurized; that milk must be bottled only in a properly equipped sanitary building with non-absorbent walls and floors, with proper facilities for sterilization, a good supply of cold and hot water or steam, and a proper apparatus for the sterilization and filling of bottles.

Dr. Tamblyn stated that he had spoken to many farmers about the matter, and they seemed to be well pleased with it.

Chairman Cunningham stated that it would be a great thing for the city to have raw milk, tuberculosis free, available.

J. H. Saunders said that if it was going to benefit the city it should by all means be adopted.

The board decided to accept the principles laid down and the secretary will write to the department of agriculture, Ottawa, to this effect, and ask if it would be possible for the department to send a man here to go into the whole question. It was thought that possibly, while here, he could address a meeting of the farmers and outline the benefits of the scheme for the farmer as well as the city.

Report on Fair Grounds.

Sanitary Inspector Sanders made a report on the sanitary conditions at the fair grounds during fair week. He was not altogether pleased with what he found and suggested a number of changes. These would be costly. J. H. Saunders thought that by increasing the accommodation at the grounds all matters of complaint might be overcome, and a recommendation to this effect will be made. Mr. Saunders also suggested that there should be signs pointing to the location of the different comfort stations.

Oh! That Fertilizer.

A Mr. Sauter, residing on East street, complained to the board about the stench coming from the fertilizer plant. He wanted to know what could be done about it. The board did not hold out much hope for him. Chairman Cunningham said that it was a legitimate industry, and J. H. Saunders said that the plant had been moved there, into the country at that time, at the request of the city, and the city had followed it out.

The same resident also objected to the wagon of the fertilizer plant going down East street with dead horses hanging out of the wagon. He suggested that it be suggested to the company that the wagons be routed down Hall street instead. The board thought that it might be able to do something along this line, but up spoke Sanitary Inspector Saunders, "And then what about my place?" He added that to ask the change down Hill street would mean that the wagons would have to go further east on the Hamilton road and would pass his place. The board dropped it like a red hot iron.

Easy to Locate.

The sanitary inspector complained about the wagon of the fertilizer plant standing on the market for a couple of hours on market mornings gathering stuff from the wholesale butchers, who sell on the market. He said that the wagon waited until all the butchers were in, but prior to coming to the market the different butcher shops in the city were visited and a load of bones and other butcher shop refuse taken on. The varying breezes of the hot summer brought varying kicks and complaints about the stench from this wagon. Chairman Cunningham also received these objections. The board decided that from April to November in future the wagon must collect its stuff from the butchers, also the hides, and be off the market by 9 o'clock. It cannot remain on the market any later.

The various reports showed the staff has been busy as usual during the month. The report of the M. O. H., Dr. W. S. Downham, showed 32 cases of diphtheria for August and 83 of typhoid fever. The doctor said that there were a number more cases at the Hospital for Insane and a few other scattered cases in the city.

Dr. Downham stated that reports on the water supply have been most satisfactory.

PIANO OF ROYALTY.

Whenever royalty has visited Canada it has always been a piano made by Ye Olde Firme, Heintzman & Co., Limited, 242 Dundas street, London, that has accompanied them in their journeys and been placed at their disposal when resident in Quebec or other centres. Some years since when the Duke and Duchess of York, now King George and Queen Mary, visited Canada, it was a Heintzman & Co., piano that accompanied them throughout their journey on the royal train from ocean to ocean. When the Prince of Wales, so beloved by everyone, was here later, he made the request that the Heintzman & Co. piano should be placed at his disposal. One of the popular styles of the Heintzman & Co. pianos is that known as the Duchess of York, named after the style piano used by Queen Mary when she visited Canada. b

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

Even more wonderful and deeply thrilling is the pictured production of "Experience" than was the stage presentation of this great play presented here last winter. As the feature offering at the Grand Theatre for the balance of this week, the picture, which includes many scenes not presented on the stage, should appeal both to those who have and those who have not seen the stage production.

The role of youth is admirably acted by Richard Barthelmess, who achieved such a distinct success in "Way Down East." John Miltern takes the part of "Experience," and Majorie Daw is endearing in the role of "Love." Nita Naldi in the role of "Temptation" is a strong character, and a new character in the picture but not in the stage production is "Gloom," rather cleverly acted by Leslie King. Edna Wheaton is "Beauty," and every one of the other characters is splendidly and realistically portrayed.

Thousands who see the picture will be thrilled with the fine emotions which it provokes, but whether they will learn from it the simple truth that disillusionment and pain await those who too violently and too eagerly rush far afield to revel in the excitement of great cities and the teeming vicissitudes of life, while love and other things worth while wait patiently near at home, or whether the beautiful settings, costumes and general splendor of the production will but inspire thousands more to foolishly learn experience for themselves, is an open question.

The Piscatorial Angle is a clever scenic offering, the Burton Holmes Travelogue shows interesting life in Cuba, and the animated cartoon of the feline baseball players, entitled $10,000 Under a Pillow," is a brilliant bit of burlesque which sport fans will richly enjoy.

Miss Melda Allporte, in a classical and popular song revue, includes the excellently rendered numbers, "Carissima," "Tired of Me" and "Think, Love of Me."

Marcus Adeney, a talented 'cellist, appears in the augmented orchestra with a beautiful solo part in the overture.

OFF THE RAILS

NEW RAILS.

Work will be started on Wednesday on the relaying with 100-pound new steel the westbound track of the G. T. R., between this city and Paris. Large gangs of men will be employed on the work and so it is expected that the stretch of track between Paris and Princeton will be complete before night time. As the rails will be replaced two and three at a time, no train will be held up for any considerable time. With the completion of the 50 miles of track from London to Paris the program of construction work in the local division of the G. T. R. will be practically completed.

APPOINTED FOREMAN.

J. S. Hall, formerly night locomotive foreman in the C. P. R. shops at Sherbrooke, Que., has been appointed night locomotive foreman in the local C. P. R. roundhouse. He will succeed Mr. French, who has held the position for several months. Mr. Hall held an official position in Sherbrooke for many years.

NO COAL PILES.

No coal will be stored up this year for winter use in this city by the G. T. R., it is expected. It was the custom for many years when coal and money were plentiful to pile huge quantities of coal in the east end yards for use in times of emergency. Last year, however, the G. T. R. departed from the custom and depended successfully on the coal it could import from day to day. Last winter proved to be a very open one as far as the railroads were concerned, and so the G. T. R. was able to operate at all times with flying colors. As far as it is known the same policy will be adopted this year.

The C. P. R., on the other hand, has an immense pile of reserve coal in this city. The pile consisting of many hundred carloads has lain practically untouched in the east end yards for nearly two years. Owing to the open weather of last year the C. P. R. found it possible to operate on its daily importations, and so the reserve pile was never drawn upon at any time.

STEEL RECLAIMED.

As practically all of the old rails which will be removed from the London-Paris district of the G. T. R. will be ready for use again after the worn ends have been sawed, the reclamation yard recently opened in the east end of this city will be kept working at full capacity for some time. The rails, when sawed, will be laid in some districts where the traffic is much lighter.

The 100-pound steel which was moved from the double track between Copetown and Lynden Junction will for the most part be rerolled. They will be taken to Chicago for the purpose. After they have been heated and rolled the worn 100-pound steel will make perfect 90-pound rails, it is expected.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR EXPANSION OF C. OF C.

Robert A. Crosby Addresses Campaign Committees—Chamber's Record Good.

With James Gray as general chairman and Col. W. J. Brown, Geo. D. Clarke, A. J. Mitchell and Capt. J. M. Watt as district chairmen, the campaign executive committee for the expansion effort of the London Chamber of Commerce was completed yesterday afternoon. The full personnel of the committee was announced following a meeting of the directors of the chamber.

In addition to those named the other members are: George H. Belton, A. S. Blackburn, Ald. John Bridge, Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles, Major Hume Cronyn, M.P., E. R. Dennis, Col. W. M. Gartshore, S Frank Glass, M.P., Robert Greene, Major Gordon Ingram, Ray Lawson, F. E. Leonard, A. T. Little, Mayor E. S. Little, Frank McCormick, J. K. McDermid, T. W. McFarland, W. N. Manning, John M. Moore, Major-General H. Paget, Philip Pocock, T. H. Purdom, K.C., George M. Reid, Dean Sherwood Fox, Col. A. M. Smith, T. A. Stevens, G. R. Taggart, Jared Vining and Arthur W. White.

About 30 prominent men had been asked to attend the directors' luncheon and nearly all of them did so. President John Bridge in opening the meeting said that the members' council of the chamber had had the matter of expansion campaign under consideration for some time. The directors had agreed to the plans with enthusiam, for the feeling was strong that the chamber's record has been so good that more of the citizens would welcome an opportunity of serving their city within the organization.

Mr. Bridge said the plans contemplated a brief, sharp drive, devoid of all sensational methods. The chamber proposed to stand squarely on its record, and he had enough confidence in the good judgment of his fellow-citizens to believe the effort would be a great success.

Robert A. Crosby, who has come to London for two weeks or more to assist the committees in the campaign, made a brief talk, in which he said he wanted to tell the directors and their guests just what he thought of them. Mr. Bridge had introduced Mr. Crosby as a man with many years of experience the most practical sort in the civic-commercial organization field.

"For more than 12 years," Mr. Crosby testified, "I have been familiar with chambers of commerce all over this continent. I hesitate to say just what is in my mind about your organization, for fear I will be accused of flattery, but the honest fact is that I have never seen a chamber of commerce with a better record and seldom have I seen one with a record as good."

At this point Mr. Crosby took up a copy of the program of work of the chamber made three years ago and analyzed it, showing that in all important matters the body has "made good." On the points of industrial development and civic advancement in particular, the speaker showed from the records that the chamber has more than justified its existence by actual accomplishments.

He then emphasized the statement that if the chamber has done so well with a membership limited to about 800, there ought to be no trouble at all in enlisting at least another 200 members; "and frankly, we shall be disappointed if your citizens do not respond to this effort to the extent of 400 new members.

"The burden which has been carried by the active ones in your present membership has been heavy," said Mr. Crosby. "It has been well carried, however, and I am sure that there are some hundreds of others in London who would now like to share both the burden, the responsibility and the rewards. It is, I am sure, an honor to belong to so good a chamber of commerce as London has; this is the time to gain that honor."

NO POSTGRADUATE PHYSICS AT WESTERN

Funds Not Available For the Very Expensive Apparatus Needed.

Post-graduate work in physics will not be undertaken this year in the Western University, according to Professor R. C. Dearle, but by the time graduates in the new science department are turned out, there will be M.A. courses which they may pursue.

The royal commission has not reported in favor of the Western University immediately undertaking to turn out Ph.D's in higher mathematics and science, but the reason for this, obviously, was the reluctance of the Government at present to appropriate to Western University funds necessary to provide high-priced apparatus which Toronto University now has available for its advanced work in physics and chemistry.

Theory of Relativity.

Professor Dearle made this expression of opinion in explanation of a denial of a report that lectures on Einstein's theory of relativity were to be part of the course in physics at Western University during the session which opens on October 4.

For some years Toronto University has been teaching the theory of relativity, which is not really a new thing. Einstein's contribution to the whole subject, with the result that he is being given unlimited credit as the originator of the theory, consisted in providing for the theory an apparently sound mathematical basis.

Post-Graduate Work.

Lots of people who do not know just what is Einstein's theory may be disappointed at the announcement that no special course will be available in the much-talked-of German scientist's contribution to scientific thought. It is just possible that in concession to popular demand, the subject may be dealt with in an extension course lecture, but students enrolling for the new science course will not be troubled with it very much for this year, at least. It properly belongs to post-graduate work, Dr. Dearle states. It really isn't of any practical value to the average man on the street, the professor added, and to a more explicit inquiry, he replied that it wouldn't help any in building sky-scrapers or high railroad bridges.

Altering Building.

Dr. Sturdevant, associate professor in chemistry at the Western University, is still in Toronto securing new apparatus for the chemistry laboratories and will not return to London before the end of this week. The grim old medical school building is being altered, remodelled and newly decorated to provide one large lecture room, two physical laboratories, both in the east wing, two chemistry laboratories and a geology laboratory in the west wing.

MANY DOGS AND CATS POISONED IN EAST END

Very considerable and strongly expressed indignation is being expressed in East London at the killing recently of a number of valuable dogs and cats.

Discussing the matter today a resident of the east end said that the residents in certain quarters were up in arms over the killing of many valuable dogs in the past week. The means used to destroy the animals is believed to be ground glass, as the animals appear to suffer intense agony for some time before they die.

So serious has the matter become that owners and lovers of animals propose to take action to locate the culprits, and a police court case will probably result when this is effected.

DECLARES G. W. V. A. IS IN WITH GOVERNMENT

Amalgamation Question Discussed At Meeting of A. and N. V. League.

"I feel safe in declaring that the Great War Veterans' Association is in with the Government body and soul," asserted Comrade Rawlings during a discussion on the question of amalgamation at a general meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans last evening.

"We often hear that the G. W. V. A. is the one and only body recognized by the Dominion Government, but I believe that not more than 10 per cent of the returned men are with them, while not more than 30 per cent of all the veterans are organized in any of the associations. Go over this moment to the G. W. V. A., and you will not likely see more than 40 or so of them."

Believes Not.

Questioned as to whether the Army and Navy Veterans, as a whole, were sending a delegate to the Dominion convention of the G. W. V. A. that takes place in Port Arthur next month, and at which this subject is to be definitely settled, Secretary Glennie expressed the opinion that he believed not.

"Although the Army and Navy recognizes the fact that unity of all would be for the betterment generally, we realize that it would be safer to determine first how we should go about it. Our motto is progress. We must assure ourselves that we will be getting something that will be constructive, and not destructive."

The secretary inferred that the organizers of the newly-proposed Canadian Legion were but Toronto radicals.

ONLY GET REDRESS THROUGH ELECTIONS

Assertion Made by R. Fraser Before Army and Navy Veterans.

"Equal rights for all," declared R. Fraser to The Advertiser last night upon announcing that he intended allowing his name to go before the electors of Ward 4 as an aldermanic candidate at the next municipal election.

"The only way you will ever get action is by electing eight new members to the city council," advised Mr. Fraser to the members of the Army and Navy Veterans in session last night. "You need a new crowd entirely to do things up around the city hall."

The unemployment problem was under discussion, and the attention of the gathering had been called to the fact that two positions were being held in the city tax office by a man and his wife, one of which positions should by all rights be given to some returned man unfit for harder work. In response to an inquiry as to who these people were the names of Mr. and Mrs. Turner were submitted.

Although no definite action was taken, the question was discussed at some length. Various members held that it was next to useless to appeal to the city council, and that the only redress would be in the election of a new civic administration. Comrade Rawlings emphasized his contention that the officials paid scant attention to any resolutions the returned men may pass, and recalled the fact that the secretary of the board of education and the position of assistant sanitary inspector were both filled with other than veterans.

OPEN NEW "Y" GYM ON MONDAY NEXT

Two Floors Now Available For Physical and Other Classes.

With the opening of the physical and other classes of the local Y. M. C. A. only a week off, the new gymnasium is now completed and ready for use, and will be used for the first time next Monday night, when the various classes take the floor.

The new floor is the largest in the city and provides plenty of space for indoor baseball or basketball enthusiasts in the city, who are desirous of seeing some good, clean games this fall and winter.

Two floors are now available for the use of the members of the "Y." This will save a great deal of time and provide room for other classes to be organized

It was the custom in former years to have basketball during the supper hour, but now that another floor has been added to the building, the whole of Thursday evening of each week will be devoted entirely to this sport

Beginning with the opening week of October 3, each separate class will be required to map out its individual program for the week. Each class will elect its own officers, stage its own council meetings, and in a general way carry on the work which formerly was done by the heads of the association. This, it is expected, will create more interest in the classes.

JUNIOR "Y" MEN MAP OUT WINTER PROGRAM

The junior men's class of the local Y. M. C. A. held an executive meeting in the "Y" last night for the purpose of mapping out the fall and winter program for the coming season.

It was decided at the meeting to set aside Tuesday, September 27, as the night on which this class will stage its formal opening.

Two of the features of the program are basketball and baseball. The president of the class, Neil McCrimmon, and vice-president, Mal Dale, were elected as captains of the baseball teams, and Messrs. Davidson, Balfour and Fraser for the basketball teams.

Royal purple was adopted as the class color, and each member's ticket will have a purple strip through the centre.

The class basketball team is made up of the following men: Jack Smith, L. Camp, George Taylor, George Fraser, Ben Butterworth and Leo Detwiller.

The next meeting of the class will be held in conjunction with a meeting of the directors of the "Y" at their supper next Monday night. The teams for the baseball league will then be organized.

The class nights for the junior men will be held on Tuesday and Friday of each week.

FORGOT NEED OF STAGE DOOR TO NEW AUDITORIUM

Strange Omission in New Victoria School Plans Revealed.

NOVA SCOTIA BOILERS

No Lightning Insurance Carried On City Schools—Damage $120.

In the opinion of Trustee Wright, "someone made a bad bull" when a stage door entrance from the outside of the New Victoria Public School to the auditorium was omitted. He voiced this opinion at a meeting of No. 2 committee of the board of education held Tuesday afternoon. It is pointed out that there is no exit from the stage, a fact which at some future date might seriously menace the safety of children entertaining at this school. Chairman Hayman was recommended by the committee to obtain estimates on the cost of constructing an entrance from the outside to the stage and small dressing rooms, not included in the original plans.

Storm Damage $120.

The committee was informed that the insurance companies concerned are not liable for damage done to Alexandra Public School and the Technical School by lightning on July 10, last. This damage amounted to $120 and as there was no fire, the insurance companies are not liable. The damage was confined to electrical equipment, in these schools.

Nova Scotia Boilers.

A communication was received from E. Leonard & Sons, asking about the boilers for the new Victoria School. These boilers, of the water tube type, Robb pattern, will be supplied by a Nova Scotia firm and assembled in London, the contract having been awarded. Trustee Mrs. Hunt declared that the boilers should be constructed by a local firm, but Trustee Eggett declared there was nothing in the specifications to this effect, and that E. Leonard & Sons had purchased their steel supply in the United States.

"When the boilers are up E. Leonard & Sons will not think we are such dubs as they do now," commented Chairman Hayman. It was decided to notify this firm that the contract for boilers has been awarded.

Election Account.

A bill of $345.51 was presented from City Clerk S. Baker as the board's share of the expense account for the municipal elections conducted here last January. The city solicitor will be consulted, and if payment of this account is declared legal the committee will recommend same. Arrangements for holding municipal elections in public schools on December 5 were referred to the chairman of No. 2 committe and the chairman of the board.

Offers to Sell Houses.

J. A. Thomas wrote to the committee offering to sell two brick houses and property at Wharncliffe road and Byron avenue, adjacent to the New Victoria School for $13,000. The communication was filed, the committee deciding to take no action on enlarging the school grounds at present.

Trustee Eggett inquired if any member present was aware of the whereabout of Architect L. E. Carrothers during his vacation. "He could not be located for a week," he said, "he must have died." No one on the committee could recall holidays having been granted to the school architect, but it is thought that he obtained permission from Chairman Coleridge of the board of education before hiking for parts unknown.

New School Site.

No action was taken regarding the recommendation of Senior Public School Inspector C. B. Edwards that additional accommodation for Ealing and Chesley Avenue Public Schools be provided by construction of a four-roomed school in this district, owing to the fact that options have already been secured on land on Price street for that purpose, and the purchase of this site is to be considered by the board of education at its next regular meeting.

Purchase of supplies and equipment as recommended by the inspector was referred to Secretary Tanner with power. The committee adjourned at 6:25 p.m.

CHILD WELFARE WORK IS NOT SATISFACTORY

Claim Made by Speakers At Meeting of A. and N. V.

That the work of the Child Welfare branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, as undertaken by Secretary Lowman compels a rigid, immediate investigation was the unanimous opinion expressed by a representative gathering of the members of the Army and Navy Veterans in general session last night. The following committee was selected to conduct a thorough inquiry: Comrades Capewell, O'Brien and MacKay.

Greatly Hindered.

Several members of the association expressed the belief that the Child Welfare work under the auspices of the Soldiers' Aid had been greatly hindered since the release from the department of William Casson. The present incumbent of the office of secretary, Mr. Lowman, who was brought to London apparently from an outside point, was severely criticized by different members because, as they claimed in one particular instance, he had not exerted himself to the proper extent in the general interest of returned men.

Inefficiency Charged.

General inefficiency of this department was charged and it was first proposed that the provincial secretary of the Soldiers' Aid be petitioned to make an inquiry into the local situation and the work of Mr. Lowman in particular. This course was not pursued, it being deemed advisable to conduct a local inquiry first.

In a general discussion of the subject the point was raised that the present system whereby, it is claimed, the commission "farms out" children of returned soldiers, is totally unfair and should be strictly investigated. It was consdered mproper that the parent of a child, once the latter has been placed in a home, has no further control over it.

W. U. WILL SEEK TO EDUCATE FOREIGNERS

Plans To Aid Students To Work Way Through College.

The question of providing part-time employment for students who wish to earn in part their expenses at the Western University is now being threshed out by a special committee, on which both the university authorities and the London Chamber of Commerce are represented.

"Modern biography teems with instances of great men who have worked their way through college tending furnaces, mowing lawns, repairing fences, washing dishes or waiting on tables in hotels or restaurants or for caterers at banquets, clerking afternoons or evenings in shops and stores, doing clerical work evenings, keeping books for small business firms, and innumerable other lines of work.

Popularize Education.

Aside from the fact that the provision of such work for students who require it will enable many to go to university that might not be able to go unaided, the coming into contact of these students with other young people in shops, offices, stores and other places of employment will have a big value in popularizing education among young people and older people, too, who are not aware that there are university classes they could attend.

It is claimed that working in factories, shops, stores and restaurants of London there are hundreds of young men of foreign birth who are sufficiently well educated in their own languages to pursue courses of higher education through the medium of special classes. The English classes tought in night schools, Sunday schools and various missions and social service centres are not always calculated to hold the interest of students who, although they know little English, may be able to speak four or five other languages fluently and to discuss abstract philosophical questions and world history with remarkable comprehension in their native tongues.

Educate Foreigner.

A great cry to "educate the foreigners" is being heard on all hands today but in most cases the foreigner is aged somewhere from 20 to 50 years, and he finds the seats in the kindergarten very uncomfortable.

Although the matter is not fully decided yet, the Western University, according to the executive secretary, Lieut.-Col. Brown, is quite likely to take the lead in university classes in English for foreigners, as it has already taken the lead in many other special courses and extension classes.

ALBION RECITAL TOMORROW.

The concert season will be opened tomorrow evening when Mr. Edouard Albion, general director of the Washington Opera Company, well known in this city as Harold Meek, will present a song recital of unusual merit in Wesley Hall under the auspices of the Institute of Musical Art. Frances Corey, lyric soprano, also of Washington, will be the assisting artist. The event promises to be of the first importance socially and artistically.
