For Richer, for Poorer.
BY LULU LINTON.
It was sweeping day, and Mrs. Barnard, warm, tired and discouraged, sank down on the top step of the stairway to rest a moment before attacking the upper rooms. The view of the lower rooms, even from this lofty point of view, was discouraging.
With the rugs up and the pieces of furniture pulled away from their accustomed places, the pitiless sunshine showed every crack in the carpet and every soiled spot upon the wall-paper.

What's the use of trying to clean up, cover up, and pretend any longer?
Mrs. Barnard said bitterly.
I believe that good things, when they do begin to show the effects of long and rough usage, look worse than cheaper ones; but if they hadn't been good to begin with, we've never been able to replace anything, and she sighed as she looked at the expensive furniture, now marred and scratched, and at the carpets, still bravely holding to their rich coloring, although worn almost threadbare.

Her gaze could not reach the dining-room, but she knew that the beautiful but fragile glass and china with which she had so proudly started housekeeping had dwindled sadly, and the costly linen was patched and darned in many places. The bedrooms, still awaiting the attack of her broom, were all needing supplies.

It's the old story of flying before we learn to walk. Here we are, careworn and old before our time, and in such straits as we hardly know which way to turn, and think of the start we had! Our little fortune was a cube instead of a blessing, for it gave us a taste of a life of ease, then left us to be common drudges. If John had only known how to manage, or if he could only learn to manage now like other men, we might get even with the world once more, but I don't see much hope. If I had a daughter, I'd educate her so that she might be able to support herself, and teach her to let married life be what it should be, a happy, care-free girl into risk-taking her happiness in his hands!

The town clock struck ten, and Mrs. Barnard rose wearily, picking up her broom, and admitted the towel that was wrapped around her head.
The rooms must be put in order before the noonday meal, and many tasks were waiting yet in the lower part of the house.

The postman's whistle sounded at the front door, and she went down to receive two envelopes, each addressed in the same handwriting. One was a wedding invitation and the other a letter.

"Why, it's from Una, my little Una!" exclaimed Mrs. Barnard, as she read:
Dear Aunt Una, I am not writing letters to send with all my invitations, but I wanted to write to you, to tell you that you must come to my wedding. It would not be complete without you.
You know my first experience in church weddings was when I was flower girl at your wedding, and I have never attended one since that was half so pretty, nor have I ever been so much impressed by any other ceremony as I was by that, young as I was. I want my wedding to be just as nearly like yours as it can be,
and oh, Aunt Una, the strangest part of it is, I am to marry a John, too.
You will remember John Nelson. He was such a great gawky boy, and I never dreamed that I would ever marry any one I had always known, but when you see him you'll say he's a perfect dear. Of course you will not think him half so handsome as your John, and I know I shall not be half so lovely a bride as you were,
but we're very much in love, and so happy! It will spoil all my pleasure, though, if you fail to come. I want you so much.
Your little Una.

"Why, she's only a child!" Mrs.
Barnard said, as she folded the letter.
Then she thought of the fifteen years that had flown since her namesake had been flower girl at her wedding, she realized that the second Una would be an older bride than she had been.

The letters had miscarried, and had been on the road for some days. The wedding was to take place on Wednesday evening of the next week, and this was Friday. How she would like to hurry to get ready for it! She must begin hurrying right away, and she went tripping up the stairway like a girl.

She saved the letter and invitation for a little surprise at the table, and was so eager to read them aloud to her husband that she did not wait to eat; but when she paused at the close of the reading, her husband only said, soberly:

"I don't see how we can send a present."
"Send it!" she echoed blandly. "We can just take it as we go."
John Brandon looked up in surprise.
"You know we can't go," he said.
"We must go! It's Una's wedding!" she gasped.

"I might say it is John's wedding, too, although that does not make any difference. We saw't afford it."
"But being Una's wedding, it's different from all other things we've given up on account of expense. Why, John, she was named for me! and she has always called me aunt! I love her and nursed her when she was a tiny thing, and she was our flower girl, and she wants me."
"She was pleading with him in her earnestness, but he answered, a trifle impatently, 'I tell you we can't. We haven't the money for new clothes, and I can't even spare the car fare just now.'"

He rose hurriedly and left the room, and his wife gazed after him like one dazed by sudden misfortune. Of course, woman-like, she had thought first of the clothes, and realized that the shortness of the time would make preparations harder; but she had thought that by beginning that evening she could make a pretty evening skirt presentable by a little furish-ing up. As for John's suit, it could be brushed and pressed. No one ever noticed a man's clothes at a wedding, anyway.

But now, dropping her head on the table, she sobbed like a disappointed child. The children, not knowing just how to act in such an emergency, slipped out of their chairs and betook themselves to the back yard to talk it over.

"Isn't the same as if I were always asking for things!" she sobbed.
"I've learned long ago to do without and keep my longings to myself. He treated me as if I were a spoiled child." Then the sobs came so thick and fast that they choked out the words.

Presently something rattled in her ears, and she looked up, startled, staring at her hair, and the oldest of her four little boys said, timidly:
"We put all our money in Wendell's bank, and we want you to have it to go to the wedding. We were saving it for Fourth of July, but we're too big to care much for that, and—"
"O mother, please don't cry!"
She looked up in astonishment, to find her four children regarding her with wide, sympathetic eyes. Drying her tears, she gathered them all in one great motherly embrace, kissing away all their worries, and giving them back their money with as much cheer as if it had been offered by old friends, assuring them that she could manage some other way to go to the wedding. And the children, used to mother's habit of managing, and her ability to clear the path even when seemingly insurmountable obstacles loomed up, returned to their play.

In the first moment of bitter disappointment over her husband's refusal to attend the wedding, Una Barnard had given it all up, but the children, by bringing out their small hoards, had suggested a new plan.

Tucked away in her handkerchief-box upstairs was a precious bill that had been her birthday gift from her only brother. She had been saving it not because there was no pressing need for it, but because there were so many needs that it was hard to decide where to use it to the best advantage.

It was just enough to pay the fare to the home town to attend Una's wedding and to buy some pretty trifle for a wedding gift. This would give her more pleasure than anything else in the world. She would have to give up the new waist, but perhaps her old one would not be noticed much in a crowd.

Her spirits rose as she went about her work that afternoon, and when John Barnard came home that night, tired and discouraged, dreading to meet his wife's reproachful eyes, he was surprised to find her talking cheerfully to the children as she set the tea-table with more than usual care. Almost her first words to him were:
"We're going, after all. I've arranged for Aunt Slocum to keep the boys."

He opened his lips to protest, but she interrupted him quickly. "No, you need not lose any time. We can leave here after the factory closes stay for the wedding and reception, and take the train back to the city,
As to the expense, I'm going to pay that with my birthday money."

John Barnard knew how many times this precious money had already been spent in imagination, and how badly his wife needed it to replenish her scarce wardrobe. His face clouded,
as he answered:
"I can't let you take your money to pay my way. If you must go, take part of it to buy something new to wear and the rest for your car fare.
I'll stay with the boys."

"She answered, 'I can't go back there alone! I must go, and you must go with me. I don't care much for the clothes, but O John, I do want to go to the wedding, and you must not spoil all my pleasure!'" The excitement of preparation on the eventful evening brought a color to Mrs. Barnard's cheeks and a light to her eyes that made her look almost youthful; and as she kissed the boys good-by, little Wendell touched the soft waves of her hair, saying almost reverently, "Pretty mama! Catching her husband's quick glance, she blushed like a girl."

"They arrived early at the church, and saw many old friends ushered into the seats about them. Mrs. Barnard folded her hands with the best go on top, and wondered if her waist did look very narrow between the shoulders.

But the soft, sweet music was soothing the ache about her heart, and when it pealed out triumphantly, announcing the arrival of the wedding party, she was absorbed in the excitement of the moment.

Then came the clear, slow, solemn notes, and she caught her breath with deep feeling. It seemed that she was living over again her own wedding night.

The bridal party passed down the aisle. Mrs. Barnard clasped her hands tightly, but they shook with nervousness.
The pretty young bride stood trustfully and proudly beside the tall young man, who hereafter was to be her shield against the world. The minister was speaking. Una Barnard's heart stood still as she heard the groom repeating after the minister the solemn words of the beautiful
ring service:
"I, John, take thee, Una, to be my wedded wife. I John Barnard moved unwisely. The ceremony proceeded:
"For better, for worse; for richer for poorer; in sickness and in health;
to love and to cherish; till death
do us part."
Una Barnard turned a wistful face toward her husband, and reaching over, he clasped one of her work-hardened hands with one of his big strong ones.

ter the solemn words of the beautiful
ring service:
"I, John, take thee, Una, to be my wedded wife. I John Barnard moved unwisely. The ceremony proceeded:
"For better, for worse; for richer for poorer; in sickness and in health;
to love and to cherish; till death
do us part."
Una Barnard turned a wistful face
toward her husband, and reaching
over, he clasped one of her work-
hardened hands with one of his big
strong ones.

Then the girl's sweet voice was heard distinctly, as she repeated:
"I, Una, take thee, John, to my wedded husband, to have and to hold,
from this day forward."

Una Barnard's eyes were blurred by tears of memory and regret as she listened to the promises: "For better, for worse; for richer, for poorer."
Ah, the sacred promises, and how poorly she had kept them! She had been a gay, bright companion in the time of abundance, but in the time of loss and unaccustomed toil she had been bitter and gloomy, silently pining for her carefree girlhood instead of trying to make a home for her. He, too, had been accustomed to a life of ease.
How hard the struggle for daily bread must have been for him! There were gray hairs about his temples and lines of discouragement about his mouth. She caught her breath with a sob and clung to his hand as if she would never let it go.

The audience was intent on the ceremony, and no one saw or heard when John Barnard patted the hand he held, and stooped to whisper lovingly: "There, there, dear! It's all right. We'll try it all over again!" Then came the closing prayer, and the organ pealing out the recessional.
The bride looked trustfully up into the face of her husband as they passed down the aisle to the door, and the people in the audience sighed or smiled, according to the way the ceremony had affected them.

In the crush of the reception, Una and John Barnard were almost the last in the line to offer congratulations.
The groom asked, as he grasped John Barnard's hand, "Well, sir, did you not feel as if you were being married over again?"
And John Barnard answered earnestly, "I decided to-night that it would be a good plan for every married couple to have the ceremony performed at least every fifteen years, if not oftener."

At the same moment Una Barnard was clinging to the bride, whispering brokenly between kisses, "Una, Una darling, whatever happens, don't forget that you promised

Dr. Hutchinson's Lecture.

The opening lecture, which was unavoidably postponed at the beginning of the college year, was delivered on Wednesday evening in College Hall. In spite of the disagreeable state of the weather there was a good attendance, every seat in the body of the hall being occupied. Colonel Vince, of Woodstock, N. B., one of the Board of Governors who have been in session here this week, presided. Prayer was offered by Rev. S. W. Campings, of Amherst, after which the president introduced Dr. Archibald, the new professor of mathematics. Dr. Hutchinson was then introduced as the lecturer of the evening, and for nearly an hour he held the closest attention of the large audience. The address was earnest, eloquent and forceful, and as on all other occasions where the new president has appeared before a Wolfville audience he won the golden opinions of his hearers.

Dr. Hutchinson's subject was "The Value of an Education." He said in part:

Why is an education worth while? It involves heavy expenses on the part of parents, communities and nations; it consumes many of the best years of youth. Does it pay? Is there an adequate return for all the outlay?

Our fathers who built this College believed in education. So when in 1855 it was decided to establish an institution of learning, 'Money, so the historian tells us, was contributed at once for the purchase of a property. The sacrifice thus begun has been continued since with increasing gifts, because our people believed that of all investments Christian education is the one that pays best.

What, then, are some of the benefits accruing from higher education?

1. An education means larger usefulness. We often confuse success with mere money-making, but it is something very much higher. True success means the largest usefulness to society. This will often be attended by financial prosperity, but the latter is not the essential thing in success. The time has gone by when the man who cannot sign his name or who keeps his books with a system of private hieroglyphics can succeed in business. It is education which fits for a successful career, and above all which fits one to be a blessing to society.

The education which increases usefulness must be both of the head and of the hand. Germany was for decades the recognized leader in the education of the head; but recently much attention has been paid to technical training, so that now articles 'made in Germany' are to be found in all the markets of the world. In the United States special attention has been paid to the training of the hand, but now the pendulum has swung the other way and men who can 'teach thinking' are everywhere in demand. Is it too much to hope that in Canada the just balance between the two may be maintained and so the highest results reached?

2. An education means greater happiness. Even if education did not enrich one dollar in money, yet if it made life happier, it would be worth while. It comes largely from the atmosphere which pervades an institution. Oxford and Harvard are more than certain books and buildings and men—they are Oxford and Harvard. Acadia College is very fortunate in her surroundings. The men who selected the site recognized its marvellous beauty, but they could not foresee that it would be the place in the Maritime Provinces most celebrated in literature. Longfellow's 'Evangeline' has woven a spell about this spot which is of incalculable value as a means of culture.

Culture brings intellectual pleasure, which is one of the highest forms of happiness. A life of mere amusement cannot be enduringly happy. The happiest family and the happiest individual are those having intellectual resources and pursuits. The daily occupations may seem sordid, the conditions of life may appear very poor, but if the mind is well furnished, there are unfailing sources of happiness. Music and art and literature and the knowledge of nature sweeten many a bitter cup. In an important sense it is true that

"Science and poetry and thought
And the things they make the lot Of the dwellers in a cot,
Such they curse their Maker not."

3. An Education means higher ideals. Every college stands for certain ideals. President Garfield said that his conception of a true college was a log with a student sitting on one end and President Mark Hopkins sitting on the other. But a solitary student can never be a college—there must be some companionship of students to beget the college spirit and true college ideals. From the standpoint of our own college I spoke of an Acadia spirit. Every true institution has a spirit, an ideal, working as a formative force.

Our ideals determine our character. As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is. In a college course we live, with the great sages and think their thoughts. Plato is dead, but his thoughts can never die. Hence the value of Christian education, for Jesus of Nazareth gives us the highest ideals. If you miss Him, you miss the best. If any man had embodied in himself all that was to be known of any science, of any art, of any branch of knowledge, would we not study that man and his ideals? What is the most important thing to know? Not mathematics, or science, but how to live. 'The glorious master piece of man is to live.' And how to live is the one thing which has been perfectly revealed, because it has been set forth in the life of a perfect man. Hence culture without this highest ideal must lack the most important element.

Balzac tells of an artist who toiled for years to paint a master piece. It was to be a picture of a woman more beautiful than any woman who had ever lived. Hence he would have no model, but wrought out his imagination alone. The only standard was within himself. And when at last he thought it was perfect and admitted his friends to see it, they found nothing but an ugly blotch of paint. He had retouched and improved it, as he supposed, until there was no beauty left. Having no standard or model, measuring himself by himself, his fancied success became tragic failure. So it must be with culture which has not Christ as the model of perfect manhood.

Help Your Baby.

No mother can expect her little ones to escape all the minor ailments of childhood, but she can be reasonably sure that her child will be healthy if she gives it an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. And she can feel absolutely safe in giving this medicine, as she has the guarantee of a government analyst that it contains no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. Uria Cressman, New Hamburg, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach troubles and constipation with the greatest success. I always feel safe when I have a box of Tablets in the house." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A High Compliment.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 7th, 1907.—Mr. John F. Masters, New England Superintendent of the Dominion Atlantic railway, and a native of Kentville, N. S., was to-day elected president of the British Charitable Society of this city. This is a very high compliment to Mr. Masters, as the position is regarded as one of the most honorable in the city, the organization being one of the oldest and most representative in Boston.

During his residence here, Mr. Masters has attained much prominence in social and business affairs, and is one of Boston's best known and most popular citizens. He was one of the organizers, and for several years president of the very successful Canadian Club of this city, which has entertained so many public men of Canada.

The British Charitable Society has been in existence over 90 years and has done an immense amount of philanthropic work among the British and Canadian-born residents of the city. Many Canadians residing here are members of it.

From an extended article on the death of Hon. Dr. Parker in the Dartmouth Patriot of last week we copy the following:

"In his death this town loses one of its best citizens and a man of a fast disappearing type, honorable, true, tender, courtly and unafraid. Howe, Johnston, Tupper, Young, Doyle, Halibarton were his friends and contemporaries. They have written a large page, not only in the history of Nova Scotia but of Canada and three at least of their number have won Imperial fame. They were a country great service. To have been associated with such men is much, but in his sphere of life, in his sympathies and in his activities, he was quite their peer."

The increase in the Bank of England's discount rate to 7 per cent., with an increase in the rate by the Bank of France and a prospective increase by the Bank of Germany, should stop exports of gold to the United States, except where they are made to pay for goods bought and delivered. It will also tend to discourage stock speculation on borrowed money in European countries. Thus two influences that might be expected to strengthen the securities market on this continent will be curtailed. The day of the stock market bull is yet some distance in the future.—Montreal Gazette.

The funeral of Benjamin F. Congdon was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elery C. Fisher. The services were conducted by Rev. Wesley L. Smith, pastor of the Baptist church. Mrs. Alice Wade Laird sang sweetly, "Lead, Kindly Light," "Some Sweet Day By and By" and "The Christian's Good Night." The interment was at Coweset cemetery, Marshall's corner, Brockton.—Brockton, Mass., Enterprise.

The King celebrated his 66th birthday on Saturday, 9th. Among his guests are the King and Queen of Norway. Presents and telegrams poured in from all parts of the world. The most costly present was the Cullinan diamond from South Africa, valued at $750,000.

What Other Papers Say.

A PERTINENT QUESTION.
(St. John's Evening Times.)
Why does not flour decline in price in some proportion to the decline in wheat? When wheat goes up flour is never any appreciable distance behind.

THE WAY OF THE POLITICIAN.
(Toronto World.)
Of course Mr. Bourassa will now be discredited by many who would have acclaimed him, had he succeeded in carrying Bellechasse. To be defeated in any contest, however trivial, seems to be a disgrace in Canadian politics.

THE REDOUTABLE "TEDDY."
(Montreal Herald.)
There are two very positive opinions about politics in the States. One is that Roosevelt could beat all opponents, together or singly, and the other is that anybody outside the homes for aged and infirm could beat Roosevelt.

CONCLUSIVE PROOF.
(Halifax Chronicle.)
The fact that our foreign trade has increased more in the last twelve months than in the whole eighteen years of the Conservative regime is striking evidence of the benefits of Liberal administration.

BORDEN NOT AFRAID.
(Halifax Herald.)
The Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Borden, has given Mr. Pugsley and all his colleagues due notice that he will do all he can to give them an opportunity to have the election funds of both political parties fully investigated by a Royal Commission, but neither Mr. Pugsley nor any of his colleagues have so far intimated any willingness to admit so much light to the campaign funds of both parties.

HIGHLY ENCOURAGING.
(Yarmouth Times.)
Hants county has always been closely contested and no party has been able to secure an abnormally large majority in it. The largest record was in 1878, when Allison, Conservative, was elected by 251. Putnam, likewise Conservative, on one occasion had a majority of 122. No successful Liberal candidate has ever received a majority as high as a hundred. The outlook for Mr. Hargrigh's election is highly encouraging.

FROM A LIBERAL POINT OF VIEW.
(Halifax Chronicle.)
The Liberals of Colchester have made an excellent start in nominating a good candidate, and with a good cause also to fight for the result should never be in doubt.

PROHIBITION AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE.
(St. John's Sun.)
Finland, the first country to grant full political rights to its women, is also leading the world in prohibitory legislation. Last week its parliament, in which nineteen women sit as members, passed a bill forbidding not only the manufacture and sale of all alcoholic intoxicants within Finnish borders but all the importation of any liquor into the country. If the Russian authorities permit the enforcement of the new law, which is said to be doubtful, and if the law is supported by public opinion, the whole may be given the novel spectacle of a system of prohibition which really prohibits.

TUPPER AND BELL.
(Montreal Herald.)
If Hibbert Tupper has affirmatively answered Pictou's invitation to "take off his coat and fight," the news has been lost sight of in the anxiety caused by the rejected candidate's inquiry, "Why didn't you get a man from Hong Kong?" It is worth considering, Hong Kong as a possible field of supply for Conservative leaders didn't occur to many of us, but the territory between has been gleaned pretty bare.

DOESN'T LIKE THE PLATFORM.
(Halifax Recorder.)
The Tory organ this morning has the following in bold-face letters: "Government stealing Borden's planks." It must be ratters our contemporary means. The planks, what there was of them, fell to pieces from dry rot long ago.

HARD TO SATISFY.
(St. John's Sun.)
Opposition papers, which a few weeks ago were in a panic over the prospect of an early provincial election, the date of which they definitely fixed as the Tuesday preceding the opening of parliament, are now pretending rage at the possibility of another session. It seems impossible to satisfy that opposition.

WITH REGARD TO H. M. WHITNEY.
(Halifax Herald.)
The Chronicle's candidate for the governorship of Massachusetts did not score such a success as to put the barnyard in a flutter.

THE NOVA SCOTIA AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE AT TRURO has reopened for the winter session. There are about twenty students attending this session, which is more than usual.

Beaver Flour
Gluten is really the nutriment in wheat. It is a heavy, tough substance much resembling raw dough. The trouble with Manitoba flour is, that it contains too much gluten. Bread made with it is apt to be gray and heavy, and pastry is sure to be.

Ontario wheat does not contain quite enough gluten, but it is rich in carbohydrates—which give to flour the qualities of lightness and whiteness.

Beaver Flour
is both a Manitoba and an Ontario wheat flour.

Just as much as Ontario Flour are used in blending Beaver Flour, so that each will supply what the other lacks.

That is why Beaver Flour makes whiter, lighter, more wholesome Bread and Biscuits than Manitoba flour—and makes lighter, tastier Cakes, Pies and Pastry than any "pastry" flour.

No matter what other flour you are using now, try Beaver Flour. The first sack will prove its superiority. At your grocer's.

Local Happenings.

The Municipal elections take place on Tuesday of next week.

Kentville wants the Kings, Hunts and Annapolis exhibition next year.

The students of Acadia celebrated the birthday of King Edward on Saturday in appropriate manner.

The thick snow-storm which prevailed all day yesterday produced a decidedly wintry appearance.

The Board of Governors of Acadia University was in session here on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Some of the neighboring towns are already making arrangements for the customary Merchants' Day. What is Wolfville going to do about it?

The ladies engaged in the work for the Labrador Mission will meet next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. W. Roscoe, Highland avenue.

The Browning Club will hold its first meeting for the season on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock at the home of Rev. David Wright. A full attendance of members is requested as important business will be before the meeting.

The creamery and canning factory at Kingston was destroyed by fire on Friday night of last week. The loss is over $8,000, with small insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from the pipe leading from the sealing stove.

The object of the entertainment to be held in Temperance Hall on Friday evening of next week is certainly a good one. Every encouragement should be given the ladies in their laudable undertaking for the providing of a free reading-room.

Wolfville Division S. of T., was favored on Monday evening with a visit from Canaan Division. There was a goodly number of visitors present and a pleasant time was spent. A good program was given and suitable refreshments were provided.

The suggestion of some plan for the improvement of the condition of our principal street is again in order. THE ACADIAN freely offers the use of its columns for a full discussion of the subject—provided the language used is within the bounds of propriety.

President Hutchinson was unable to come to Middleton on Saturday as expected. Principal DeWolfe of Acadia Seminary occupied the Baptist pulpit on Sunday in his stead. Rev. Mr. DeWolfe is a splendid speaker, who is always heard with pleasure in Middleton.—Middleton Outlook.

Wolfville will be the only place in Nova Scotia outside of Halifax to be visited by Marie Herites, the talented young Bohemian violinist, who is to appear in College Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 29th. No person who possibly can do so should fail to hear her.

The new D. A. R. engine Blomdon passed through on Monday with 21 cars. The engine is a powerful one of 100 tons, and we notice the veteran, Mr. Benjamin Vould, at the throttle of the big engine. Soon after the midday freight came along with nine cars.—Windsor Exchange.

Five room tenement to let. Apply to E. B. SHAW, Wolfville.

The 'Steadfast' Circle of Kings Daughters intends to give a concert in the Temperance Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 22nd, at eight o'clock. All the best local talent, assisted by Miss Joy Lawrence, of Hantsport, and Miss Palmer, of Grand Pre, pupils of Mr. Emery, will take part and a good programme has been provided. Admission 25cts.

In spite of the desperate efforts put forth by some of the other papers of the county to increase their circulation, scarcely a week passes without a goodly number of names being added to the subscription list of THE ACADIAN. The people evidently know a good thing when they see it and will not be led astray by the offer of "something for nothing."

Mr. W. H. Duncanson has purchased the green house at the horticultural grounds here and had it removed this week to his premises on Willow avenue. Mr. Sidney Borden, of Port Williams, had charge of the work, and twelve pairs of oxen were employed in the moving. Mr. Duncanson intends to carry on the green-house in connection with his other business.

The annual class debate between the Sophomore and Freshman classes was held in College Hall on Saturday evening last. The subject discussed was the Japanese immigration to Canada. The Sophomores contended that the Japanese were not suitable or desirable settlers. The Freshmen, with much ability, took the opposite view, and carried their point. The judges were Dr. Hutchinson, Dr. Tufts and Dr. Archibald.

That the result of the Acadia—Mt Allison foot-ball game was a disappointment to friends of Acadia cannot be denied. Score of 8—0 was certainly not expected. However there were no doubt good reasons for the result, as our boys certainly could not have been playing with their customary vim, and the fierce game of a few days before and the long journey was not the best preparation for good play.

The Gaspareaux Electric Light and Power Company, which has been at work over a year building extensive works at Black River, has been under considerable financial difficulties for some time and fears were entertained that the scheme might be given up. It is understood, however, that Sir Frederick Borden is interested in it, and should he take over the plant cheap light may yet be furnished to the towns in the Annapolis Valley.—Ex.

With hay selling at $16 a ton and oats at 60c, a bushel the farmer who is lucky enough to have got his potatoes out of the ground should feel a bit happy. Mr. A. W. Turner, who has been at his home here for a couple of weeks, returns to-morrow to finish his contract on a large and expensive dwelling in Brookline, Mass. Willie Turner has got a new horse. Mr. Leslie lost a valuable jersey cow a few days ago. Cause of death colic. Our grocer reports trade good. Apple barrels are scarce. Potatoes are now pretty well out of the ground in this locality. Wedding Bells.

A pretty but quiet wedding took place at Melanson, Nov. 6th, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mr. Fred J. Fielding, when his daughter, Clara Blanche, was united in marriage to Mr. Frank E. Downey, of Highbury. The bride entered the parlor, which was tastefully decorated with evergreens and plants, leaning on the arm of her father and took her place beside the groom under an arch. The bride was attired in a gown of cream crepe de chene, with silk lace and trimmings and a bridal veil held in place with orange blossoms. A small number of relatives were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Brown, of Gasperau. After congratulations, refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Downey will reside at Highbury. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. THE ACADIAN extends congratulations.

Threatened With Bright's Disease

This case well illustrates the way in which kidney diseases of the most serious form are developed from derangements of the liver. Mr. John Wilson, 918 Esplanade avenue, Montreal, Que., writes:—"Last February I was taken sick and had to have the doctor, who said that my ailment was a diseased liver. A few weeks after completing his treatment I began to notice symptoms of kidney disease. The urine took on a reddish appearance and continued to get worse, until there were brick dust deposits, and then I knew that the kidneys were seriously affected, and that I was threatened with Bright's disease."

I obtained some of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and as a result of this treatment was completely cured. My water became a natural color, and is so now. The cure was thorough and lasting."

The Wasting Process of Disease.

Disease is tearing down, wasting away and destroying of the tissues of the body and a shriveling up of the nerve cells and blood corpuscles. Nature demands assistance to overcome this dreadful wasting process and the needed help is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative.

'Tomkins has got more nerve than any man I ever met.'

Dr. Chase's Ointment

A Richmond lawyer was consulted not long since by a colored man who complained that another negro owed him three dollars, a debt which he absolutely refused to discharge. The creditor had dunned and dunned him, but all to no purpose. He had finally come to the lawyer in the hope that he could give him some good advice.

'What reason does he give for refusing to pay you?' asked the legal man.

'Why, boss,' said the darkey, 'he said he done owed me dat money for so long dat de interest had et it all up, an he didn't owe me one cent.'

Mark Twain on Advertising.

'It pays to advertise,' said Mark Twain at a recent banquet. 'When I was editing the Virginia City Enterprise, writing copy one day and entering the next, I tried for this truth home in many ways. One day I received a letter from a subscriber saying he had found a spider pressed between the pages of his paper, and he wanted to know was this good or bad luck? I replied to him in our Answers to Correspondents as follows:

'Old Subscriber—The finding of a spider in your copy of the Enterprise was neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our pages to find out what merchant was not advertising, so that it could spin its web across his door and lead a free and undisturbed existence for a fortnight.'—Success.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells nothing everywhere to give it without hesitation even to very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress simply a restorative plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spasmodic call this shrub which the Doctor uses, 'The Sacred Herb.' Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. A. V. Rand.

Worth Remembering.

That to clear and strengthen the voice lemon juice and glycerine mixed in equal proportions is excellent.

That buttercough for a cold is a pleasant remedy, being as good as anything in the medicine line. Half a saucerful of sugar, one teaspoon of vinegar and half a teaspoonful of butter. Boil together five or ten minutes. Eat white hot.

That oil of thyme is a good remedy for toothache, neuralgia or any other painful swelling.

That to prevent tetter accumulating on the teeth and thus causing a disagreeable breath it is well to brush the teeth with borax or baking soda. Sulphur is also good and preserves the whiteness of the teeth. A few drops of myrrh in a little water is an excellent sweetener of the breath.—Health.

A Methodist Minister Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for seven years, and it has always proved to be a reliable remedy. We have found that it would do more than the manufacturers claim for it. It is especially good for croup and whooping cough.

Rev. James A. Lewis, Pastor Milaca, Minn., M. E. Church Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is sold by Rand's Drug Store.

Never venture into a sick room if you are in a violent perspiration (in circumstances require you there), for the moment your body becomes cold it is in a state likely to absorb the infection and give you the disease. Never visit a sick person (especially if the complaint is of a contagious nature) with an empty stomach, as this disposition has the system more readily to receive the contagion. In attending a sick person, place yourself where the air passes from the door or window to the bed of the diseased, not betwixt the diseased person and any fire that is in the room, as the heat of the fire will draw the infectious vapor in that direction and you would run much danger from breathing in it.

A Good Liniment.

When you need a good reliable liniment try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It has no superior for sprains and swellings. A piece of flannel slightly dampened with Pain Balm is superior to a plaster for lame back or pains in the side or chest. It also relieves rheumatic pains and makes sleep and rest possible. For sale by Rand's Drug Store.

The lock on the door of a Methodist chapel in a Surrey, Eng., village had recently been removed, as it was choked up with coins, dropped in by some one who mistook it for a collection box.

A Reliable Remedy for Croup.

Mrs. S. E. E. of Turner, Michigan, says: 'We have used Chamberlain's Cough Medicine for ourselves and children for several years and like it very much. I think it is the only remedy for croup and can highly recommend it.' For sale at Rand's Drug Store.

Value of Birds.

A New York dispatch says: That because of the decrease in birds the United States is losing yearly without protest a larger sum than the capitalization of all the national banks in the country, was the statement made by President Wm. Dutcher of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at the annual meeting of the association here. The public, declared Mr. Dutcher, placidly allowed agricultural crops valued at $500,000,000 to be annually destroyed by insects, whose destruction is entirely due to the rapid decrease in the number of insectivorous birds in the country.

Barely Lived Through it.

A terrible experience had Edw. J. O'Connor of Sault Ste. Marie. 'From boyhood' he writes, 'I have been a constant sufferer from asthma and catarrh. My nose and throat was always stopped up and I had droppings in the throat. When attacks came on I thought I couldn't live through the night. I would sit up, gasp for breath and endure great distress. Catarrh made me an entire yel.' No stronger proof is required. Asthma is curable, so is catarrh. Use Chamberlain's Cough Cure. Your recovery is guaranteed. Two sizes, 25c. and $1.00 at all dealers.

Some of the newest sleeves are full length and made of lace but draped in one way or another with the material of the bodice. A great many of the shoulders overhang the sleeve tops in some way, but when this is not done and the sleeve is set into the armhole, the sleeves, if the waist makes any pretensions to dressiness, is in almost all cases in two parts, one the oversleeve of material like the bodice, that goes to the elbow, and the other, under, of gauze or lace.

Fits your Case Exactly.

You know how you feel—bluing, sickly and heavy. Each morning you waken in a dull 'dopy' condition and wish it were night again. Your liver is wrong and needs fixing with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they do cure all liver ills. At once the system is relieved of poison, blood is enriched—purified, appetite increases and digestion picks up. Health and vigor return because Dr. Hamilton's Pills make the body proof against weakness and disease. For your liver, your kidneys, your stomach, for the sake of your looks and feelings, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box at all dealers.

Experience shows more and more every day that the man who knows most is he who is most in demand, both in the professional and in the commercial world, and in domestic life as well. The duffer and the simper have no chance now, and in their place enters the shrewd, well-managed, well-informed business man, in the first case, and the agreeable, polished friend and companion in the latter. These qualities can be cultivated in one's spare time, and it is the man who puts his leisure to the best use who gets in this world.

The finest Coffee Substitute ever made has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. 'Made in a minute' says the doctor. 'Health Coffee' is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. Not a grain of real Coffee is in it either. Health Coffee Imitation is made from pure roasted cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—were he to unknowingly drink it for Coffee. T. L. Harvey.

What some farmers need most is more capital to carry on a large business, but better ideas as to how to carry on their operations with the capital at hand. How to carry on operations without the waste in fertilizers and labor. Some operations are carried on after the manner of pouring water in a leaky vessel. No more water is needed, but the leak should be stopped. Let us look after the leak.

A WOMAN'S ORDEAL

DREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS

Thousands Write in Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free.

'There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate woman, indeed woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private life, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than to submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease, and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female diseases.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Della Emerentienne Montreuil, of 114 Latourelle St., Quebec, Que.

'I suffered for eight months with what the doctors called prostrata, with faint dizziness all over my system, with faint dizzy spells. I kept growing weaker and weaker until several medicines which they claimed would cure my trouble, but nothing was of the least benefit until I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and this helped me so rapidly that I could hardly believe my good fortune. I would gladly have paid $5.00 for that first bottle for it started me on the road to health, and five bottles cured me. I am most grateful for my splendid, robust health, and shall certainly recommend the Vegetable Compound in glowing terms to all my friends and acquaintances, for it is deserving of all the praise that can be bestowed on it.

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Nerve strength, not one weak back, is the best thing in the world. It is the source of all vitality. It is the source of all energy. It is the source of all power. It is the source of all success. It is the source of all happiness. It is the source of all life.

Temperance and Prohibition.

STRONG TO DESTROY.

Says Dr. B. W. Richardson, M. D., one of the most distinguished English medical men:—'Never let this be forgotten in thinking of drunkards—that drink is strong only to destroy; that it never by any possibility adds strength to those who drink it.'

whose house?

This incident tells its own story. The drunkard makes himself poor to make the grog-seller rich. Late one night a poor man lay in a drunken stupor in a liquor saloon. 'I wish he would go home, if he has one,' the dealer's wife said. 'Hush! he will call for a drink directly,' was the answer. 'I wish he would make haste about it.' He's taking the shingles off his own roof and putting them on ours.' Just then the drunkard rose, retaining the dram that was offered him. Weeks afterwards the liquor dealer met him and asked, 'Why haven't you been down to see us?' 'Why, I have taken so many shingles off my house, it began to leak, so I thought it was time to stop the leak and I've done it.'

A PREMIER'S TESTIMONY.

A gentleman travelling on a train recently engaged his seat mate in conversation. The talk drifted to the question of prohibition of the liquor traffic. His companion, who proved to be an agent of the great Schlitz Brewing Company, in the course of the conversation made this statement: 'Anybody who says that prohibition does not prohibit is either a liar or a fool. I am now on my way to Wisconsin. I also work in North Dakota. I can sell more beer in Wisconsin (a license state) in four days than I can sell in North Dakota (a prohibition state) in four months. Our company is not telling this, but we are doing all we can to disgust the people with prohibition so that if the question ever comes to the people they will vote our prohibition.'

RUM MEN'S POLITICS.

'It is the duty of the liquor men throughout the country to 'spot' every member of a legislature who is suspected of strong temperance proclivities, and exert themselves to the utmost to defeat him.'—So says The Texas Liquor Dealer, an organ of the traffic in that state. And that is the policy of the men of the traffic everywhere. In Canada, as elsewhere, the trade men have no policy but 'our business,' as they call it. And from their selfish and wicked point of view they are wise. Temperance men need to learn a lesson from the enemy, and oppose every candidate for representative position who is not against the iniquitous traffic.

WHOSE BOY?

Somebody's boy must be ruined, body and soul, to keep the rum traffic going. The rum seller does not care whose boys they are so long as he gathers in the blood money. The boys are surely worth saving. Horace Mann, urging on some friends the claims of an institution for the care of homeless boys, said they would be well repaid for their efforts if they succeeded in saving one boy. One of his friends, less enthusiastic than he, asked if it was not an extravagant statement that it was not his boy's. Can any true father feel differently? and yet many fathers feel that they do not see the immediate danger of their boys, consent to the authorization of the Finnish traffic. And some of them realize when it is late that they have contributed to the destruction of their own flesh and blood. But even if their own boys do escape, what about other people's boys? Have they no care for them? What cold-blooded selfishness?—Maritime Baptist.

He Had a Way.

In McClure's Magazine Lincoln Steffens tells of an interview with Mark Fagan, mayor of Jersey City. Mayor Fagan had just spoken against railway influence in politics. Continuing he said: 'I have hated men, almost, some of these corporation men, but I don't say more. I used to hate men that said things about me that weren't true, that weren't just. But I've got over that now.'

'How did you get over it?'

'I have a way,' he said, evidently meaning not to tell it.

'You must have been tempted often in the four years you have been in office. Have you never been offered a bribe?'

'Only once, but that was by a man sent by some one else. He didn't know what he was doing, and I didn't blame him so much as I did those

Constipation and Bleeding Pile

Mr. John Hughes, Dexter street, Cambridge, Ont., who has been resident of this city for forty-five years, writes: 'It is a satisfaction to speak on behalf of Dr. Chase's Ointment for Piles. For five years I was afflicted with constipation and hemorrhoids, and I was unable to do anything, but I was in a most distressing and disagreeable condition, as I had taken considerable professional treatment in vain.

'However, there came a day when I was surprised to see and also my neighbors, for I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Ointment, and a short time was greatly relieved, and I was again enjoying my former vigor, having obtained complete immunity from pain, for which I feel very thankful.'

Because constipation and piles so frequently go together it is well to be of this combined treatment—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate the bowels and Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure piles at all dealers or Editors, Bates & Co., Toronto, Ont.

who sent him.'

'But the subtler temptations, did you resist them?'

'I have a way,' he said again.

This time I pressed him for it, he evaded the point and I urged that he knew a way, and a good way, to resist temptations, of which he knew of it.

He was most uncomfortable at a good way,' he said looking at me. Then looking up he almost choked. 'I pray. When I take an oath, officer, I speak slowly. I say of word thinking how it is an oath, afterward I pray for strength to keep it.'

'A silent prayer?'

'Yes.'

'And that helps? Against daily temptations, too?'

'Yes, but I—every morning when I go up the steps of the city hall, I think that I may be given strength to resist temptations when they come to me and—to resist them. And might I go over my every act and give thanks if I have done no injury to any man.'

Lingering Cold.

WITHOUT OTHER TREATMENT QUICKLY CURED BY CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY.

'Last winter I caught a very severe cold, which lingered for weeks,' says J. E. Hart, of Zephyr, Ontario. 'My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer commended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One small bottle of it cured me, but I have used it since. This remedy is for sale by Rand's Drug Store.'

Billness and Constipation.

'For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made me unable for me. My appetite failed, I lost my usual force and vitality. My preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know what should have been to-day had I not used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The Tablets relieve the fullness at once, strengthen the digestive force, helping the system to do its work naturally.'—Mrs. Rosa Porter, Birmingham, Ala.
