God Knoweth Best.

The value of life being either way.

On soldiers, his eyes bright and day.

One enters through the open door;

One breathes to return an'other's.

God knoweth best, which more blood.

God knoweth best.

We greet with smiles the one who comes

Like sunshine to our hearts and homes,

And reach out loving hands with tears

To him who in his ripened years

Has gladly but heavenily rest.

God knoweth best.

He guards the gates. We need not dread

The path these little feet must tread.

Nor fear for him who from our sight

Passes through our lives, to the realm of light.

God knoweth best.

Prevent Disease by Being Clean.

Illness which has an unfamiliar name is always more terrifying than that to which we are accustomed, although it may not really cause greater mortality. This cholera in the past, and now infantile paralysis, causes nearly a panic, though we take cautious steps to prevent it. While doctors have not yet discovered a cure for infantile paralysis it is of an order in classing it to be a preventable disease.

In such times as the present it believes the housewife to keep clean the many corners and crevices that are in every house and which often afford lurking places for dangerous germs. This rate especially applies to the kitchen. It should be borne in mind that only the hardest and smoothest surfaces can in their cleaning be rendered absolutely germ-free.

In the kitchen the smooth, impervious surfaces of glassware, glazed earthenware and enameled ware are the only safe utensils in the light of the present epidemic. Even a small, avoidable scratch on the face of the kitchen ware may harbor countless germs.

Be sure the left over food is not contaminated by flies. Be sure the ice-box is immaculate. Remember that germs cannot resist boiling and if there is any sick child or person in the household the safest way is to use enamelware in the sick room, and boil thoroughly before it is used again or by another member of the family. Fly screens are useful in keeping out flies, but that does not save one the necessity of killing the flies that are already inside the house.

All fruit and vegetables should be very carefully washed and heated still, peeled, if they have had much handling. Take reasonable precautions of this kind and then don't worry.

Many a child has been worried into an illness by an over anxious mother.

A Builder of Health.

Nothing can be of greater assistance in building up the system than Dr.

Chase's Nerve Food, for this food contains rich food, and nourishes and restores the feeble, wasted nerve cells.

Gradually and naturally the body and mind regain vigor and energy, and you feel again the joy of living which comes only to people in good health.

Know Him but Not by Name.

A little Irishman smoking a short clay pipe entered the crowded inn of a market town, walked up to the bar, elbowed several customers aside, took a match from the counter and then

How Typhoid May Be Controlled.

In the Department of the Public Health, (New South)

the death rate from typhoid fever in Toronto was 40.8 per 100,000 of population. Since that time, as a result of the activities of the Department of Health, this rate has been steadily and rapidly reduced, and in 1915 it was but 1.9 per 100,000 of population.

A striking illustration of the success of the measures adopted is the fact that the city of Toronto has had a lower death rate from typhoid fever in 1915 than any other city in the Continent having a population greater than 350,000.

The Toronto Health Bulletin for April explains this notable result as follows:

'The city water has been chlorinated and this is believed to be the greatest factor in the reduction. The city water is examined bacteriologically six times a day, and these repeated examinations show that the water as sent out to the citizens is consistently safe.

'The city milk supply (except certified milk) is required to be pasteurized and since 1912 there has been no milk typhoid in Toronto.

No cases of typhoid have been traced to oysters in Toronto for at least five years. The same is true for raw vegetables. Oyster beds are, of course, protected by the federal authorities at the sea coast.

As soon as a case of typhoid is reported an inspector calls and among

How Canada Found Itself.

In 1912, when outside capital hesitated in its support of Canadian enterprise, when certain great railway undertakings were practically thrown back upon their guarantors...

Then followed days, and weeks and even months, during which only the pessimists found any satisfaction in contemplation of the outlook...

Every inch of ground gained was dearly bought, for the Boche had had a vision and he was fighting with the desperation of a dying man.

It is here we catch sight of the first bed in months, but best of all, and a sight that has done more to alleviate pain than tons of drugs...

From the clearing hospital we soon find our way to the base hospitals, either in France or England...

Just how long Germany can stand this pounding from England, France and Russia, remains to be seen.

Blueberry excursions is the order of the day.

By the way, we have recently been hearing the sound of rumbling noise, or what is the matter with us having a doctor of our own at the Port? That is right, the writer has recently seconds that sound. Now then, all together, a strong pull, for that, a doctor of our own. This stirring up of village usually accomplishes what it undertakes and we feel sure all the several surrounding places will unite with us in this need, as they are further away from doctors then we are, and they are a lot to do and energetic people. A doctor located here would do all right. The doctors in the towns of Kentville and Wolfville all have enough to do without coming to us. Now then, somebody make a start and rush this thing, the sooner the better. Winter is very near to us; usually lots of need for a doctor then.

Miss Stella Naylor, of North's Corner, returned home last week from visiting her friend, Miss Leah Forsythe.

Miss Loretta Mitanit, of Malden, Mass., who is guest of Miss Leah Forsythe, will soon return to her home.

Miss Esther Pearson returned last week from a visit of several weeks, with her cousin, Miss Atwater, at her home in Bolyston, Gushborough county.

Miss Charlena Pearson arrived home Saturday from a visit at her aunt's in Aylesford.

Mr. R. Bert Bishop is visiting at the home of his uncle, Mr. Andrew Cobb, in Bedford.

Miss Georgina Bell, of Cambridge, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Cutler Forsythe.

Mrs. G. Orge Bishop and twins recently visited her parents in Grafton for a few days.

Miss Isobella Meek, of Poreau, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Dexter Forsythe.

Mr. Leslie, nurse at the Nova Scotia Hospital, Dartmouth, has been a guest at the home of Mr. C. C. Brown.

We notice that our tennis court and swing in the 'O.K. Grove' has not been so freely enjoyed while the cool days were with us but we hope for more warm weather this season. The tennis court has certainly been a splendid thing for the young people.

ELDERLY WOMEN SAFEGUARDED

Tell Others How They Were Carried Safely Through Change of Life.

Durand, Wis.—"I am the mother of fourteen children and I owe my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I was 45 and had the Change of Life, a friend recommended it and it gave me such relief from my bad feelings that I took several bottles. I am now well and healthy and recommend your Compound to other ladies."

A Massachusetts Woman Writes: Blackstone, Mass.—"My troubles were from my age, and I felt awfully sick for three years. I had hot flashes often and frequently suffered from pains. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now am well."

—Mrs. FERRIS COURNOYER, Box 239, Blackstone, Mass.

Such warning symptoms as sense of faintness, headache, palpitation, dizziness, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetites, weakness and dizziness, should be heeded by middle-aged women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has carried many women safely through this crisis.

THE CHIEF CHARM OF LOVELY WOMAN

Soft, Clear, Smooth Skin Comes With The Use Of "FRUIT-A-TIVES".

NORAH WATSON, Toronto, 86 Drayton Ave., Toronto, Nov. 10th, 1915.

A beautiful complexion is a handsome woman's chief glory and the envy of her less fortunate rivals. Yet a soft, clear skin—glowing with health—is only the natural result of pure blood.

"I was troubled for a considerable time with a very unpleasant, disfiguring rash, which covered my face and for which I used applications and remedies without relief. After using 'Fruit-a-tives' for one week, the rash is completely gone. I am deeply thankful for the relief and in the future, I will not be without 'Fruit-a-tives'."

Rejoice!

Joaquin Miller.
From out my deep, wide bosomed West
Where unnamed heroes hew the way
E'er worlds to follow, with stern zest.

A boy steps forth, clean-eyed and tall,
A bashful boy, a soulful boy,
Yet comely as the sons of Saul—
Yet bel-apparent, poor, unknown.
Lo! Freedom's bleeding sacrifice!
So like some tall oak, tempest blown Beside the storied stream he lies
Now at the last pale-browed and prone.

Yet, still I say, rejoice! I say
The lesson of his life was much—
This boy that won, as in a day,
The world's heart uttering a touch
Of tenderness and tears: the page
Of history grows rich from such;
His name the nation's heritage—
But O! as some sweet angel voice Spoke this brave death that touched us all

Therefore I say, rejoice! rejoice!
Run high the flag! Put by the pall!
Lo! all is for the best, for aill!

Note.—When Joaquin Miller wrote the poem from which the above is taken he had reference to James A. Garfield. To us it applies fittingly to many a Canadian western lad who has given his life in the great present day struggle.

Brewer's Son Became Social Reformer.

How F. N. Charrington, the brewer's son, became F. N. Charrington, the social reformer, has often been told; but in these days when we are being asked to consider the liquor traffic as a suitable business to undertake, it will be no harm to give once more Mr. Charrington's own account of the revolution which took place in his life when, for the first time, he saw the drink traffic as God sees it.

One evening Mr. Charrington was walking from the brewery to a slum district where he was engaged in mission work. He passed on the way a horrid looking little public house called the "Rising Sun". What took place is best told in his own words:

"As I approached this public house

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system.

To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal ingredients strengthen the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not and other relief, before the sleeping substitutes.

Suffering for God is sometimes the sublimest way of serving God.

a poor w. man with two or three children dragging after their skirts, went up to the swing door and calling out, 'Oh, her husband inside, she said: 'Oh, 'Teg, do give me some money, the children are crying for bread! At that the man came through the door-way. He made no reply in words. He looked at her for a moment, and then knocked her down in the gutter. Just then I looked up and saw my own name, Charrington, in huge gilt letters on the top of the public house, and it suddenly flashed into my mind that that was only one case of dreadful misery and fiendish brutality in one of the several hundred public houses that our firm possessed. I realized that there were probably numbers of similar cases arising from this one public house alone. I thought, at if in a flash, that, whatever the actual statistics might have been, there was at any rate, an appalling and incalculable amount of wretchedness and degradation caused by our enormous business. It was a crushing realization, the most concrete, unavoidable object lesson that a man could possibly have. What a frightful responsibility for evil rested upon us! And then and there, without any hesitation, I said to myself—in reference to the sodden brute who had knocked down his wife into the gutter—'Well, you have knocked your poor wife down, and with the same blow you have knocked us out of the brewery business.'

I knew that I could never bear the awful responsibility of so much guilt upon my soul. I could not possibly allow myself to be a contributory cause, and I determined that, whatever the result, I would never enter the brewery again."

A Deliberate Purpose in Life.

Any dead fish can float down stream, but it takes a live fish to swim up stream. Your purpose, your firm determination to succeed in whatever you undertake, will help to carry you up stream, no matter how strong the current or what obstacles may oppose you. If you have no purpose, if your determination is weak, wavering like a dead fish, you will float down stream with the multitude of other human derelicts who haven't enough vim or will-power to force their way up to success.

It does not matter how much ability you have; if you lack that power of resolution, which knows no surrender, which faces on its goal and never turns back, you will not likely achieve anything that is worth while, anything that is distinctive.

In this day of sharp, close competition, it is only those who bring the weight of their whole lives into their vocation who usually succeed in any marked, individual way. A half-hearted or indifferent purpose produces only half-hearted results.

Some people have not the normal courage, the persistence, the force of character, to get the things out of the way which stand between them and their ambition. They allow themselves to be pushed this way and that way into things for which they have no fitness or taste. They haven't strengthened their back bone, their will-power sufficiently to fight their way to their goal. In fact they have no goal, no definite purpose in view, and they get nowhere.

Without a definite aim it is impossible to make any headway, to get anywhere. "Nobody ever drifted in to heaven." Purpose alone enters there. Nobody, as a rule, drifts into anything desirable. Everything worth while in this world is brought about by an intelligent effort, by a direct purpose. 'Straight is the gate and narrow is the way,' does not only apply to heaven, you must know what your goal is, and you must make straight for it. This is what gives meaning to life. A person without a worthy aim doesn't really live; he merely exists. When there is nothing to look forward to, to struggle for, life has lost its savor. A worthy aim gives dignity to the humblest everyday task.

Therefore we should have the resolve long we may be delayed from its accomplishment, or how far we may be swayed aside by mistakes or iron circumstances, we shall never give up striving far what we have deliberately aimed at as our purpose in life, until our efforts shall be crowned with success.—St. Paul Bulletin.

IN COLD AND GLOOM LIES WORLD'S WORST CITY

In a Far Off Land There Lies a City Which the Very Name Brings Terror—Murders Daily

To bear the title of "the world's wickedest city," is hardly an honor there is one that certainly has a claim to that title. Many people who have never travelled extensively and rely on books for their knowledge of the great cities, seem to have it fixed in their minds that Paris is a place where Apaches rule, and vice prevails. Why? The main reason is because a "friend of a friend of people" once went there, and saw people dancing at midnight, and because everybody drinks wine and ladies smoke cigarettes in public. Why then need the "wickedest city of Paris" wit its stately cathedrals and magnificent buildings be worse than any other place? In other places, for instance, many people dance till midnight, and possibly if they had to there, things might be the same. French on any that London holds the pioneer place for evil. As the night-lark city in the world, the City of London is remarkable in its absence of vice. Of course as it is in every large city, a certain part of it is bad, yet on the whole, thanks to the police, who, by the way, are the best in the world, it is wonderfully quiet. Clergymen tell us that the worst city in Chicago, the city of graft and intrigue, Buenos Aires in the Argentine, and Buenos Aires in the Argentine holds the unenviable position. From the many people who write, Brussels, Havana, and Buda-Pest are all named for leading position.

The Worst of Them All

Now we will come to the city which for sheer crime and vice leads all other cities. It is a city which probably 45 per cent. of the people of this continent have never heard of. Its name is Irkutsk. Situated in Eastern Siberia, on the Angara river, 3,722 miles from Petrograd, it is far and away the best built city in Siberia. It is a city of beautiful cathedrals, up-to-date schools, well built factories. Theatres abound in abundance. It is the seat of the Imperial cloth factories of the Siberian troops. Its exports are tea, rhubarb, paper, silk, and porcelain. It was founded in 1652, and is situated near the Balkal mountains at the border of Mongolia. Its population is estimated to average about 70,000.

Its Mayor a Murderer

Irkutsk is a city that is governed by brutality. Its mayor for some years was a murderer exiled from the terrible quicksilver mines. On an average there are over 500 murders there every year. The majority of the inhabitants are illiterate, and half savage. The city council for many years was as bad as the rest, holding up civilians in the streets at the point of the revolver and forcing them to hand over their money. Although times are changing in the city, there was a time when stories of vice and crime went on which cannot be printed here. Truly it bears the title of the world's wickedest city.

ENGLAND'S NEWSPAPERS

In London there are three newspapers which came into existence in the latter part of the eighteenth century, the oldest of these being the Morning Post, which dates from 1772. The Times was established sixteen years later (1788), and the Observer, in 1791. At the beginning of the next century the Weekly Dispatch appeared (1801), and in 1803 the Globe was first printed and still occupies an honorable place among its younger contemporaries. Outside London the Sheffield Telegraph claims to be the oldest newspaper, but Leeds Mercury, as a newspaper, can claim a longer record, for it was founded in 1718, and the Yorkshire Post came into existence as a weekly in 1754. On Jan. 1, 1914, there were in the United Kingdom 2,400 newspapers, making allowance for recent publications which have succumbed in the struggle for existence—and representing 27 million copies of paper and six million copies of newsprint. In the English and Welsh provinces there are close on 1,500 newspapers, in Scotland 225, and in Ireland 190. There are forty-two London daily papers to-day—though, of course, comparatively few are known to the public, many of them being purely business papers, and no fewer than five are Jewish dailies.

Nothing in Talk

The late Sir John Blundell Maple, one of London's best business men, once said, in a discussion on efficiency in salesmanship:

"The young salesman can make no greater mistake than to think that loquacity and gab are the chief factors in making sales. They are, but too often the chief factors in losing sales. The representative of a promising novelty complained to me one day about his want of success. 'The man doesn't want of success,' I answered. 'Knowing the young man's weakness, I answered: 'How can you expect a customer to see your point, George, when you talk him blind?'"

The Limit of all Things

It was at a village concert, where some pretty girls were acting as attendants, showing people to their places. One specially charming damsel approached an old gentleman.

"Shall I show you to a seat?" she inquired with a beaming blush.

The old man stared at her, and the girl repeated her question, feeling most abashed. "Can I show you to a seat?" she said, in lower tones.

"Oh, what—what?" exclaimed the old man, who was very deaf. "That finished the poor fellow. 'Shall I show you to a seat?' she screamed wildly.

According to Indian mythology, the earth is supported by eight white elephants.

Kamloops (AND) Irrigation

(1) Panoramic View of Kamloops.
(2) Irrigation Ditches.
(3) Field of Mangolds, raised by Irrigation.

THE Western Canada Irrigation Association held its Tenth Annual Convention at the City of Kamloops the last week in July. The picturesque little city takes its name from the Indian equivalent, "Meeting of the Waters," where the sun shines every day and good fellowship, health and happiness radiate from all sides, opening wide in hospitality, its arms to you.

Away back over a century ago, the North West Company Trading Co., with keen appreciation of the advantages of the location, established a post on the present site of Kamloops—the junction of the now called North and South Thompson Rivers. Its excellent water communications; its central position in a wide open stretch of splendid grazing country and its healthy, growing climate attracted Indians and traders from all parts, and soon the little trading post grew in importance and population.

seventy-five years afterwards the steel rails through the main street of the aspiring little community, and it was but an endorsement and confirmation of the old trading company that Kamloops was indeed, "The Place in the Sun."

There are irrefutable reasons why Kamloops claims the distinction of being the leading inland city of the Province of British Columbia. Its geographical position marks it as serving a very large area; 250 miles from Vancouver, 200 from Calgary, and 400 from Edmonton, it sees no possible rival. With a population of some 6000, it points with pardonable pride to its splendid streets and pavements, to its modern electric lights, power, water and telephone systems, and to its uninterrupted steady progress.

"HAVE A CARE OF A SILENT DOG AND A STILL WATER"

Look out for the merchant or manufacturer that does not advertise. If he had anything worth the telling he would tell it quickly enough. But "just as good" substitutes or shoddy goods are not things to boast about. The weak will inherit the earth—eventually but not now. The progressive business man is not a shrinking violet.
