 WHITE'S PORTLAND CEMENT
 SOLD AT BOWRING'S Retail Store.

A Reminder to HOUSEKEEPERS:

Libby's Evaporated Milk is superior in many respects to ordinary milk

It is pure cow's milk reduced to its present consistency by evaporation.
 It is put up in cans containing a NET weight of 16 ounces.
 By adding one part of water to one part of contents of can a resulting milk product will be obtained which will not be below the American legal standard for ordinary milk.
 The retail price is very little (if anything) higher than the price charged for ordinary milk.
 It is NOT SWEETENED and therefore does not change the flavor of the tea.
 IMPORTANT.—It is carefully sterilized in the process of canning and is guaranteed by Libby, McNeill & Libby to be absolutely pure.

Ask your grocer for a can and try it.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Only those who, strength and spirit spent after many a fight, have dragged themselves for a little respite, a little tender healing, to the one human source that never yet has failed them, and found that source cut off forever—only such can tell what Nancy's announcement signified to Sydney.

A great billow of despair seemed to close over her; an unconsciousness of everything save that another hard blow had come upon her when her forces were at their lowest ebb, and none of her once full fund of buoyancy left to meet it.

Nancy's frightened cry to her mistress; Miss Ambler's scared appearance downstairs; these were a blank, emerging from which she found herself upon a slippery chintz-covered sofa, the black-robed landlady copiously besprinkling her with cold water, while the excited domestic fanned the air about into a temporary gale with the "Stillcote-Upton Weekly Express."

THE BRATLEY DRUG CO. Limited, ST. JOHN, N. B. Deschamps' Warmish Candy for Children safe and sure. 5

"There, there," said Miss Ambler, soothingly, as Sydney's great sad eyes opened once more with sense and questioning. "You are coming to as nice as can be. Don't try to talk yet, miss. Nancy didn't ought to have told you all of a sudden. Shocks are bad; I have had them, and know. Here comes your luggage. You lay quiet, miss, while I take it in. We're ready for you, so to speak, for— with a sudden collapse into lachrymose condition—him that's gone, poor dear, had been counting of your coming, and the room at the back's been ready for you for weeks."

The injunction to lie quiet Sydney obeyed involuntarily; for every vestige of rallying power seemed to have left her. All the battles she had gone through from last year till now re-venge themselves on her vitality at once. As white as marble and as still she lay an hour and more without a word, till a glimpse of Miss Ambler creaking away tip-toe with a countenance of profound anxiety supplied a spur to exertion which rarely found Sydney irresponsive.

"I am better," she said, turning, with a most wistful attempt at a smile, to the mellow, late afternoon light. "Please don't be frightened for me. And—will you tell me—about it now?"

Miss Ambler, more exercised than Sydney divined, had to cough and sniff a great deal before she was equal to meet this request; but presently, perched bolt-upright on the edge of a chair, since the young lady made her sit, she managed to give account of as happy an exit from this troublous sphere as the best heart could desire its best friend.

"He talked many times this month past of when Miss Grey—he called you Miss Grey"—Sydney made a movement of confirmation, the slightest color rising, not unobserved—"of when you were coming for a holiday to him, and seemed as pleased about it as a prince. He'd not been well this winter, but he was always cheery the days he got your letters. He was looking for—one this very time last week, and spoke put-out-like, for him when I carried him up another instead. 'But,' said he to me when I fetched his breakfast-things down (for I waited on him myself, Miss—Grey, and marked his appetite, and got him many a spring broccolow or new-laid egg my own self since I could afford it, for mean by nature I'm not, though close by habit I've had to be!—Miss Amelia," he says, "I'd no right to grumble at that letter. It's brought me great news. I shall tell you of it some day." And almost every time I came to his room he seemed to have been reading it, and I can't picture how he looked, miss, but more glad and young-like than I'd seen him these long whiles. He played a deal of music that day. Long pieces such as he learned forty years ago with his rich master, as was then. And at night when I went to put his sitting-room lamp out he'd just finished 'Auld Lang Syne,' he tune the clock at Stuart's used to play last thing before he left, he's often told me. He was so fond of it. He said 'Good-night,' and went off sort of singing it. And he might have

WOMAN'S MOST SUCCESSFUL MEDICINE

Known All Over The World—Known Only For The Good It Has Done.

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or received so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In nearly every community you will find women who have been restored to health by this famous medicine. Almost every woman you meet knows of the great good it has been doing among suffering women for the past 30 years.

Fox Creek, N. B.—"I have always had pains in the abdomen and a weakness there and often after meals a soreness in my stomach. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better and I can work with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. WILLIAM S. BOURQUE, Fox Creek, N. B.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, many of whom state that it has saved them from surgical operations.

been listening to it when he was— sent for—Miss Grey. For in the morning, when Nancy couldn't wake him, I went and found him with a tear on his cheek and a smile on his mouth, as easy-looking as a baby asleep. That was the morning your letter came, miss, which," said Miss Ambler, after a gallant struggle with an obstinate sob, "you'll find in poor Mr. Cheene's rack, upstairs, for, of course, you'll like his room to yourself while you stop here. Nothing would have pleased him more than for you to use it. And till the gentleman comes who knows what's to be done with the things, it's freely yours."

Miss Ambler ended with a good hearty cry behind her handkerchief Sydney had not yet reached that merciful easement. But stupefied as she still felt, the instinct born with her name did not desert her. This good landlady of Jacob's must not be encroached upon.

From her purse she took out three sovereigns.

"If I may stay here while these last," she said, "I can not tell you how thankful I shall be. For," moving her tired face into shadow again, "I did so want this for a home a little while."

With a curious look Miss Ambler pocketed the gold; but if dissatisfied at the loose bargain, showed no signs of being so; for when the new lodger was fairly ensconced among the old edger's household goods she was sedulous in her care, and made no trouble of anything except Sydney's poor straggle of the provision she offered.

But for days the oppression of mingled pains kept Sydney in the bondage of an inertia which to her bright, ready activity was as the thralldom of some heavy illness.

Jacob gone: no one to speak to: her every mental effort introspective; not a line from her mother, to whom she had written some ten days before leaving Wynstone; sharply assailed by mistrustful dread of her own doings—had her willfulness been wickedness all through, and so had she thrust herself into her present punishment? And above, beneath all emotions else, like the dirge of sea-waves dominating every other sound upon the shore, one passion beat, beat, beating at her heart, restless as hopeless; small wonder was it that unuttered mourning darkened the dreary length of that fair midsummer, threatening the very foundations of her much-taxed courage.

Not until July's first week had glided by did the tense strain of morbid suffering show signs of giving way. Then said Miss Ambler one morning, "Miss Grey, if you go on getting paler and thinner, and eating no more than my tortoise-shell cat downstairs, it won't be long before you are laid upon my hands, and then I should like to know what's to be done!"

This sent a wholesome thrill of alarm through the girl. In such case, what indeed would be done? She was growing strangely selfish. Taking Miss Ambler's zealous services by far too easily. Unless she meant to throw her burden most unfairly on a stranger, she must rouse now at once.

The day was delicious. Martins chirped busily about the roof. The fresh air seemed to say, "Come out and taste me," and Sydney's sense accepted the pure medicine. She must have a beginning of whatever her new course was to be. It should date from her old friend's grave. In the quiet little churchyard, which he had taken greatly to when he had "Taffy's" tombstone placed there, Jacob Cheene was laid. "How can I get to Lutterthorpe?" Sydney now asked.

"For I will try not to be ill, Miss Ambler. I ought to go out, I know; and I would rather go there than anywhere."

It was not exactly the excursion Miss Ambler would have selected for her invalid; but seeing it was almost the first wish Miss Grey had expressed, she wisely furthered it. Brief journeys by rail took Sydney to and fro between now and evening. Between the lettered record of her earliest friend, the late turfed covering of her last, she was granted the great relief of not altogether regretful tears. Here rested, after many cares, two faithful uncomplaining natures. Wherein was she more privileged than they, that she should waste her gift of life in vain repining? Nay, rather should she be up and doing, holding closer to that Presence of which the solemn age-worn walls uprising near seemed fitting sanctuary.

Tired completely, but more healthily, she spent that day's twilight among memory's less dangerous depths. Sitting in her father's chair, turning poor Jacob's cherished music pages over; registering those marked by her father's hand; and about her sleep that night hovered notes and chords of some long strain, unknown, but strangely sweet, such as aforesaid had sounded often enough at Stuart's, unfinished when next morning she awoke.

Waking, work lay before her. She kept that fact written as it were in space, spurred to it by a new ambition. What she might earn need not be all her own. Though parted from Gilbert Hurst, her debt to him was not paid yet. However distant, she might gather together and send him herself, unsuspected, the means to preserve him from entire dependence on Mr. Montague Carl, or any other paymaster. That hope stirred animation once again. She would wait only a little longer, till the effort to breathe, to eat and drink were something less, then she would go straight to the trading-wharf of all nations,

London, and backed by such credentials as Major Villiers could give her, would hunt for the hardest labor she could take at the highest pay.

One more week she would allow herself at Stillcote-Upton, if Miss Ambler would have her, and when her landlady was retiring with her early dinner tray, she asked if she might be harbored so long.

"And welcome," was the emphatic answer. "And I'd say for a month, miss, if I could make sure this furniture would stand as it is so long. But an empty room you couldn't dwell in; and as for asking you to take share of mine—"

At the City Hall.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY PASSED.

Mayor Ellis presided at yesterday's meeting of the City Council, at which Councillors Martin, Ryan, Coaker and Myrick were present.

After the opening of the meeting with the usual preliminaries, the Mayor referred pathetically to the Empress of Ireland disaster, and moved a resolution of sympathy.

The Colonial Secretary wrote acknowledging receipt of Council's letter asking for portion of the Government land at head of Cochrane Street for street improvement. The matter will be dealt with by the Executive Government at an early date.

W. D. Ryan complained of defective gully on William Street, which will be attended to.

R. F. Horwood wrote complaining of partly covered sewer near his residence, LeMarchant Road, and of the condition of the sidewalk. Both matters will be referred to the Engineer.

A. S. Wadden asked permission to install motor for the manufacture of ice cream in his store on George St. Referred to the Engineer.

Morison and Hunt, on behalf of Mrs. Fitzgerald, wrote re fence which divides her land from public road, upon which matter the Engineer was asked to report.

W. G. Gosling was given permission to erect a concrete wall at the rear of his property on Cabot Street.

A. Samuelson reported pollution of public well near Browning's bakery. Enquiries will be made by Engineer.

R. Morgan offered about 40 tons of gravel for road purposes, which will be accepted.

Thomas Hamilton asked permission to lay platform in front of store on Carter's Hill. Matter referred to Engineer.

Thomas Bros. were granted permission to make temporary repairs to steps in front of house on McFarlane Street.

M. O'Neil may repair house on Cabot Street subject to Engineer's directions.

G. T. Conway applied for water and sewerage to house on Rennie's Hill. Council will make allowance for 60 feet of work and Mr. Conway will have to meet the rest.

Plans of concrete addition to house on Catherine Street were approved.

Permission was given I. F. Perlin to install motor in factory on Henry Street. The Council waives all responsibility as regards any annoyance it may cause residents of that street.

Harvey & Co. were given permission to use private hose to sprinkle Cove.

The Engineer submitted specifications re wall on South Side and tenders will be asked for.

Provided they make provision for sanitary arrangements and build concrete foundations, plans of houses belonging to Wm. Mercer and John White were passed.

Owing to the unsatisfactory state of affairs that has prevailed at the sanitary stables, and at the incessant complaint of the Supervisor, it was decided that a saddler be appointed forthwith to take up his duties right away. On motion of Councillor Ryan, seconded by Councillor Myrick, Mr. J. P. Scott received the appointment. Councillors Martin and Ryan got a pension allowance of $3.00 per week for sweeper Hopkins, who had been 36 years in the service.

It was reported by Water Inspector Rooney that the Reid Company had used the city water to test the fore-peak of the s.s. Bruce. The Council thought this attitude contemptible and ordered that the Solicitor be instructed to prosecute.

The Reid Co. will be instructed to put lights in Parks which will open on Monday next.

After the passing of bills, pay rolls, etc., the meeting adjourned.

Caught in the Act.

If you are one of those that think the day of thrills is past and that the inventor can no longer produce that which will cause you to marvel, go and see the wonderful Edison Talking Pictures when they will be given at the Casino Theatre next Monday afternoon for the first time here. Nothing so novel and mystifying has been offered the public since the invention of the first moving picture. Skepticism will give way to amazement when these wonderful Talking, Singing and Laughing Pictures are seen. Among the subjects that will be shown are John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, in a baseball monologue. Another feature "Talkie" will be the famous vaudeville team, Seymour, Dempsey and Seymour, kings of music and mirth; "Mrs. Murphy's Horse Shoe," "Caught in the Act," a roaring comedy sketch, and entire acts from the comic operas "The Mascott" and "Olivette." These talking pictures are not only shown, but the auditor will hear every word, song and the patter of the dancers as each participant goes through the incidents as outlined by the produc-

The Early Toiler.

Some fellows, when dark beds in the morning, arise from their beds in just giving place to the dawn, and everyone's rights in the neighborhood of scorching, they push their old mowers all over the lawn. Their mowers are rusty, and schreetch like Old Harry, go creakety-creaky in a maddening way; the voice of a rusty old mower will carry all over the village, at breaking of day. Then neighbors get up and lean out of their windows, and shovel out language that's added and snarl, and beg, in the tongues of the Choctaws and Hindoos, that silence

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office—its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. Every Stiff Joint Limbered, Rheumatism Cured

That Old Family Remedy "Nerviline" is Guaranteed for the Worst Cases.
CURES NEURALGIA, BACKACHE, LUMBAGO.
Rheumatism to-day is unnecessary. It is so well understood and so readily curable that every day we have reports of old chronics being freed of their tormentor.
"I can speak confidently of the Nerviline treatment, for the simple reason that it cured me," writes Albert B. Cornelius, from Kingston. "You can't imagine how stiff and lame and sore I was. Nights at a time I couldn't sleep well. I followed the Nerviline directions carefully—had it rubbed into the sore regions four or five times every day. Every rubbing helped to reduce the pain. The swelling went down. I got a fair measure of relief in a week. I also took two Ferrozene Tablets with my meals. They increased my appetite and spirits, purified my blood and toned up my system generally.
"I am as well to-day as a man could be—in perfect good health. I give Nerviline all the credit."
A large family size bottle of Nerviline costs only 50c., or the trial size 25c., and is useful in a hundred ills in the family. Whether it's toothache, carache, headache, neuralgia, lumbago or a cold, Nerviline will cure just as readily as it will cure rheumatism. For family use nothing equals Nerviline.

This Would Suit Partial Payment Investors

—as it fills their requirements to such a satisfactory degree that we know of few other securities equally as desirable. We refer to the 6 p.c. Cumulative Preferred Stock of Robin, Jones & Whitman, Ltd.
—In the first place, it is distinctly a high-grade security, with a large margin of reserves, actually amounting to $127,002.67. (Partial Payment investors demand "safety first" in their investments.)
—Secondly, the return on the investment considering the security is very attractive—7.07 p.c. on the Preferred alone and in addition a 25 p.c. bonus of valuable dividend—earning Common Stock. (Partial Payment investors insist on as high a return as possible consistent with safety.)
Therefore, we anticipate numerous requests for our Special Report on this issue from those likely to purchase on the Partial Payment Plan.

SATURDAY, May 30, 1914.

Capt. Bob Bartlett Safe.

The news of the safety of Capt. Bob Bartlett will be received with great relief. The first news received here was a message from Bob himself to his father, Capt. William Bartlett, at Brigus. The message came from St. Michael's, the chief port and distributing centre of Alaska, where he arrived yesterday. Mr. Dove received two messages from New York conveying further information as to Bob's doing, the Karluk and her crew. It will be remembered that the Karluk was last sighted off Flaxman Island, on August 14th last, and that she was carried off drift while Stefansson and two others of the expedition were away hunting. The latter made for the Mackenzie region and reached Herschell Island this spring and gave the story that the Karluk and her crew had been caught in the ice and carried off. The two messages to Mr. Dove are as follows:—

"Karluk sunk Herald Island; party landed Wrangel Island. Bob marched to Siberian Coast and down to Alaska, where he was rescued by a whaler and brought to St. Michael's, Alaska. Quite well."

"Karluk crushed in January. Robert arrived at St. Michael's yesterday. Crew at Wrangel Island."

The latter message is from Mr. E. L. Bridgeman, the Secretary of the Peary Arctic Club. From the two messages it would appear that the Karluk from Flaxman Island, well to the north of Bering Straits, until last January, it was crushed and sunk at Herald Island, which is a small island, well to the north of the Straits, and about equal distance from Alaska and Siberia. The party then made towards the Siberian Coast and the crew took up their quarters at Wrangel Island, about half the journey to the Siberian Coast. Bob left them without doubt in search of aid and made for the Siberian Coast, probably about 140 miles away. His march along the Siberian Coast and across the Straits separating the two continents must have been a terrible one, and the story will be awaited with interest. He managed however to get across from Asia to America, where he was picked up by a whaler in Alaska.

The march from Herald Island to Wrangel Island, to Siberia, and along the Siberian Coast, across the Straits to Alaska, probably 1,000 miles, must have been made mainly during the long Arctic night, when the sun is but a little time above the horizon and he would have to avail largely of moonlight. At St. Michael's, he is 2,700 miles from Seattle. He is however more likely, as he is reported will, to be more concerned about organizing a relief expedition to rescue his companions at Wrangel Island than to be thinking of returning. St. Michael's is a port in Alaska, a little to the north of the Yukon, washed by the waters of Bering Sea, and somewhat south of Bering Straits.

Bartlett of Polar Fame Reaches Alaska.

Steamer Karluk Crashed.
Yesterday Capt. William Bartlett, of Brigus, received a message from his son Bob, of polar fame, saying that he had landed safely from Siberia. The message was sent from St. Michael's, N. Alaska, via Seattle, and comes as a great source of consolation to the parents and relatives of the fearless Newfoundlander, as well as to the world who have spent months of anxiety concerning the whereabouts of Stefansson's missing ship Karluk.

The message stated the Karluk was crushed in the ice during January, but no particulars regarding the others of the party are given though it is safe to assume that all have reached Siberia. Particulars of the loss of the Karluk and the escape of our Newfoundland men will be awaited with interest.

The Karluk was last sighted off Flaxman Island on August 14th, last, and was carried in the ice until she became crushed on January last. Stefansson and two others of the expedition who had landed on a shooting expedition were unable to reach the stamer. The Karluk was provisioned for two years, and Stefansson held out a hope that the ship would survive the ice and return to Herschell Island during the spring.

EXPRESS DUE.—The incoming Lintrose express is due in the city about 10 p.m.

REACHED CHANNEL.—The schr. J. R. Bradley has arrived at Channel to load salt bulk fish for Gloucester.

LOCAL ARRIVES.—The local from Carbonar via Brigus arrived in the city at noon to-day, with upwards of thirty passengers.

FOGOTA IN SAME POSITION.

Despite the most searching enquiries, we have failed to elicit any further information concerning the S.S. Fogota, which ran ashore at Musgrave yesterday, beyond the fact that the ship is in the same position. From private messages received in the city to-day we learn that there is very little chance of refloating her, and that a heavy sea is still running.

Montreal is in Mourning

Special to Evening Telegram.

MONTREAL, To-day.
Montreal is in mourning. Business is at a standstill. Sports planned for holiday to-morrow have been abandoned for the present. Montreal people have suffered worst calamity in their history, by the loss of the steamship Empress of Ireland which sank early this morning by collision with the Dominion collier Storstad, thirty miles east Father Point, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. According to latest advices received here only 337 out of 1367 on board the Canadian Pacific Liner, reached the shore. Of these 22 died soon after rescue. Out of the total only 12 women are saved. The list of saved given out by the Canadian Pacific, bears point for reflection. Few of them were first class passengers, most of them are members of the crew. The Storstad struck the stricken liner amidships, scraped along the side, opening the plates of the liner from the point of contact to the propeller. The water-tight compartments with which the Empress was amply supplied, it is supposed, were of no avail. The ocean poured in catching the stokers and fring room crew at work, stifling their lives like rats. The passengers fared little better. The disaster recalled to mind of the superstitious the fact that Doctor Crippen uttered a curse upon Captain Kendall, when the latter humiliated him over to the authorities of London and Scotland Yard and the Dominion upon his arrival. "You will suffer for this treachery," cried the enraged murderer, when he was informed for the first time that his disguise had been penetrated, that he was under arrest. The Empress of Ireland went down in those very waters within a few miles indeed of the spot where Crippen first ran into the clutches of the law. There is just two months difference in the season immediately the accident occurred. McWilliams, the wireless operator of Rhinowski, was informed of the accident by calls for help from the stricken liner, and started help for the scene. He despatched the Eureka and Lady Evelyn, and later saw their return with a few shivering survivors and many bodies. Nine lifeboats he described were hovering around the spot where the Empress went down, but no trace of the liner remained. The survivors, he said, arrived on shore almost naked. They landed the pilot here at 1.30 this a.m. There was a haze at 1.50 a.m. I was awakened by a S.O.S. ring on my doorbell, and rushing down was informed by the Marconi operator the Empress of Ireland was sinking, having been struck by some vessel. I dressed and started to help; no other signal could be got from the doomed vessel. She had no time to give another word, as she sank ten minutes after being struck. At 6.10 the Norwegian collier Storstad, coal laden from Sydney, N.S., for Montreal, came along slowly. When her bow was seen smashed in, it became known she was the vessel that had struck the Empress of Ireland the fatal blow. Crippen, the murderer, was picked up from among the wreckage, but is reported to be dying from the effects of being in the cold water of the Gulf for half an hour. The C.P.R. ship sank in 14 minutes, before the officers had time to lower all the boats, of which there were sufficient to accommodate 1,600 people, or even to light the lights. Those who managed to escape into the icy waters of the sea were clad only in night robes and suffered intensely before help came to them from the Eureka and the Evelyn. The cause of the rapid sinking is reported to have been the manner in which the Storstad rammed the Empress, anchored as she was in a dense fog. The Storstad was not too much damaged to allow her to proceed to Quebec under her own steam. But before proceeding she landed a few survivors and some dead bodies which were taken off by the steamers Eureka and Lady Evelyn which landed at the Rimouski wharf. The Empress foundered in a depth of seventeen fathoms, about ten miles below Father Point. There was not sufficient time to launch all the lifeboats. Two Marconi operators were among the saved. Their signaling was the means of very quickly bringing assistance to the victims. The survivors number about 337. It is a small portion of passengers and crew. A thousand are missing. Boats are still searching the locality.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED JEAN BAPTISTE TAPP.

Quebec Man Who Suffered From Kidney Disease for Years is Again a Robust, Healthy Man.

L'Anse-a-Valleau, Gaspé Co., Que., May 29. (Special).—"I am happy to tell you Dodd's Kidney Pills made me well." So says Jean Baptiste Tapp, a well known and highly respected resident of this place. And so thankful is Mr. Tapp for the benefits he has received from Dodd's Kidney Pills that he wants the whole world to know it. He wants others who suffer as he did to know the cure.

"For many years I suffered from kidney disease," Mr. Tapp says. "It started from a cold, and gradually grew worse. My skin had a harsh, dry feeling, my appetite was fitful and I perspired freely with the slightest exertion. I had flashes of light before my eyes and I was always tired and nervous."

"Finally rheumatism was added to my troubles, while attacks of sciatica and neuralgia followed. The doctor who attended me and the medicines I tried, failed to help me till I decided to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took four boxes in all, and to-day I am a robust man in excellent health."

All Mr. Tapp's troubles came from sick kidneys. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them.

The schr. Madonna, Moulton, master of Burin, was run into and cut down off Cow Head on Thursday last by the schr. Jessie A. Keeping, master. Her crew of five men were saved and brought to Bonaville Bay by the schr. Floris M. The Jessie A. was considerably damaged and reached Bonne Bay last night to have repairs effected. A message concerning the above was received to-day by Assistant Collector of Customs LeMessurier.

SALVATION ARMY OFFICERS LOST

There was a large number of Salvation Army people on board the ill-fated liner. They were en route to London to participate in the big International Congress to be held there early in June. According to a recent issue of the "War Cry," the Army newspaper, the accompanying is a list of the high officers who were booked to leave Quebec for Liverpool on the Empress of Ireland: Commander and Mrs. Rees, Colonel and Mrs. Maidment, Brigadiers Potter and Walker, Major and Mrs. Creighton, Major and Mrs. Findlay, Major and Mrs. Atwell, Major and Mrs. Morris, Staff Captains Arthur Morris, McAmmond, Hayes and Goodwin; Adjutants Price, Edwards and Beckstead; Ensign Jones, Peacock and Knudson; Capt. R. Rees, and members of the Territorial Staff Band.

The following message was received:

Piano Maker Praises Zam-Buk.

BEST FOR STIFFNESS AND SPRAINS.

As an embrocation for stiffened muscles, sprains, rheumatism, etc., there is nothing like Zam-Buk. Its penetrating powers are so great that it gives almost instant relief. Mr. D. R. Gourlay, of Messrs. Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, the well-known piano manufacturers of Toronto, used Zam-Buk, and this is his experience: "I have much pleasure in stating that two applications of Zam-Buk entirely cured me of a very severe strain of the back. While not given to the indiscriminate use of, or belief in, patent medicines, I can conscientiously recommend Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk is used by the world's foremost athletes. Why not give it a trial. Price 50c. per box, at all druggists and stores. Zam-Buk is also best for eczema, cuts, sores, bruises, ulcers, piles, and all skin injuries and diseases.

LIEUT. COLONEL MAIDMENT.

dreadful thing had happened. I jumped out of my berth and ran out. As I did so I felt the deck tilt and list and a great deal more perceptibly as I ran up the companionway. When I reached the deck I saw another steamer backing off. People were pouring up from below. I ran back to my cabin, pulled on my trousers and a light pair of shoes and ran back again. People were struggling up. It was a very difficult climb up. When I ran down I passed Commissioner Rees, who was supporting his wife to bring her above. "What is wrong?" he whispered, which I find it is something very serious. I whispered back. When I reached the deck a second time there was a great tilt to it, and people were clamoring to the upper side in their effort to get further away from the water. I went up to the upper rail and as I reached it, the boat quietly rolled over the rest of the way, and lying on her side, sank. I was carried down with it and was shot up again, how I cannot tell. As I arose I was struck several times by bodies and was again pulled down, but I came up again; then I was in smoother water and I struck out for the steamer, which was then standing by some distance away. I am a strong swimmer and I got along without any trouble. When I was two-thirds of the way across, I came to a piece of wreckage on which were two other men, and I held hold. It was sufficient to support three of us. A little while later we were picked up by a boat from the other steamer. Captain Morris suffered severely by the disaster, his brother and the latter's wife being carried down when the Empress sank. Mr. Morris told how Major Atwell had helped his wife from the cabin and brought her to the deck. They clung on to the slanting deck, far surpassed that horror after horror startled one. Here a mother gazed open-eyed in amazement. It was a strange sight to see many of these dead staring with open eyes, some gave evidence of the horror they had gazed on, but most of them seemed puzzled rather than frightened as if it all happened so quickly that there was but little time in which for fear to enter. A mother held her little girl tightly clasped to her breast, as though she had given her last in an effort to save her, a futile effort. Around the tot's neck was a little chain of gold, carrying a tiny gold cross. A graphic description of the scene on the Empress after the collision, was given by Dr. J. F. Grant, Surgeon on the Empress of Ireland: "I was in my cabin and heard nothing until the boat listed so badly that I tumbled out of my berth. I tried to turn on the light, but there was no power. I tried to find the door lock, but the list was so strong that it took me a considerable time to open the door. When I reached the alleyway it was so steep, due to the way the ship was tilted, that my efforts to climb up were rendered impossible. I then scrambled up and stuck my head through the port hole, but was unable to get my shoulders through it. At that time the ship was lying almost flat in the water on her starboard side, and a passenger who was standing on the plated side of the ship, finally managed to pull me through the port hole. About one hundred passengers were standing on the side of the ship at the time, and a moment after I had joined them the ship took another list and plunged to the bottom. I next found myself in the water and swam towards the lights of the steamer Storstad, when nearly exhausted from struggling. Among the passengers were Lawrence Irving, English actor and Co. Dr. Alex. Lindsay, Halifax, Commissioner Rees, Salvation Army and a number of other officers going to London to attend the Convention, Sir Henry Seton Kerr, London, all of whom were lost."

MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY. TELEGRAMS.

To Governor General Ottawa, (sent 29 May, 1914.)
Colony deeply grieved by terrible disaster and loss of life in the sinking of the Empress of Ireland. On behalf of the people of Newfoundland Ministers unite with me in respectfully tendering to Your Royal Highness assurance of our profound sorrow and our heartfelt sympathy with the bereaved.
HORWOOD, Administrator.
From Governor General, (reached 30 May, 1914.)
All here in Canada deeply appreciate sympathy of Government and people of Newfoundland.

On the Brink of a Discovery

Tuesdays and Fridays of each week Marian went to the Van Dines to teach Grace public speaking. The advance payment of $20 seemed like a miniature fortune to her. It was the first money she had ever earned. It repelled the gnawing wolf from the door. It charged her being with a sense of self-reliance that was good to feel.

In a letter to Ann Stewart, the artist, she said: "A chance encounter on the train, on my way back from my visit with you has meant a great deal to me. As a result, I'm a teacher—of dramatics, if you please. The good fairy on the train was a Mrs. Van Dine of this city. Her daughter took me for an actress. Can you beat it?"

"I admitted having given readings—more or less of an exaggeration, to be sure—but the upshot was that Mrs. V. D. asked if I would consider taking her daughter as my pupil. The girl is sixteen, and like most sixteen-year-olds, wants to be an actress. "So twice a week I sit patiently by, at two dollars a sitting, while the young lady butchers Shakespeare. The Bard of Avon wouldn't thank me for it. But I console myself with the thought that I'm playing the game. Bluff's the thing; I expect to have a regular class and to teach dramatics to veritable job lots of stage-struck young ladies. Maybe I shall have a real studio of my own some day—with a waiting list of eager candidates for instruction. Wouldn't it be grand?"

In another letter, to her brother in Seattle, Marian gave a glowing account of her professional headway, and held for the promise that she would undoubtedly soon be able to repay the loan he had made her. Her projected class would soon be formed she thought, an event which would soon lead her into the pleasant shade of economic Easy Street.

Marian had wondered at, but had never questioned, the motives back of Mrs. Van Dine's speedy decision to engage her to teach her daughter. She satisfied herself with the conclusion that the other had been attracted to her and had felt instinctively that her services to her daughter would be of value. Nor did Marian ever question whether her instruction was worth two dollars a lesson. Mrs. Van Dine had offered to pay it. That was enough. Like most young women everywhere, Miss Winthrop lacked a sense of value. All her life she had been a learner, getting something for nothing, content to take it, angered if it was not forthcoming. Meagreness of income had been the chief and foremost disturbance in her married life. Had Frank had a fortune, she could have been as happy with him as with any other. This, she had known subconsciously, although she had never admitted it.

Many a strong man works all day in a steel mill, in a factory or the railroad tracks for a two dollar wage, producing values, doing the world's hardest physical labor. Marian Winthrop was receiving two dollars for an hour's desultory instruction of a sixteen-year-old girl, doing a task which was based on no particular training, fitness, or effort. Yet such was her lack of knowledge of the real world that she took her compensation without question or hesitation, winning in a slipshod hour what myriads of toiling women in sweat-shops labor fifteen or twenty times as long to acquire.

Had Marian known a little more of the world, the circumstance might have set her to thinking and wondering. As it was, she was entirely unprepared for the astounding turn events were destined soon to take.

The Old Misunderstanding.

By BETH CAMERON.

In the columns of the daily paper, the other day, I read a letter from a mother who wonders what the young people of this generation are coming to.

Her daughters, she says, are a terrible trial to her. They simply are not willing to do as she wants them to do. They insist on wearing too thin clothes in winter; they will pick out these exaggerated styles; they use slang and they seem to think of nothing but having a good time.

Now, my dear madam, you didn't write to me, but I'm going to say a few words to you just the same.

Did it ever occur to you that some of the trouble between you and your daughters might be your fault as well as theirs?

They are not willing to do what you want them to, you say, and you think it is very strange. But is it? When did youth ever see things in the same way as age?

You do not blame them because their skin is clearer, their eyes brighter and their motions quicker than yours. Is it any more reasonable, then, to blame them for being less sensible than you? Less interested in warm clothes and more in good times?

Let me tell you what one of the most successful mothers I know said on this subject the other day. "It seems to me," she declared, "that the reason why a great many mothers and daughters do not get along together is that the mothers have entirely forgotten how they felt when they were young. They try to make their daughters think and act like older women. Now, I've never tried to make Margaret wear flannel petticoats and act like an old woman. I know I didn't want to when I was a girl. You see I'm not so very much older than she, and I have not forgotten how I felt when I was young."

"Yes, I know we older folks want to give the benefit of our experience to the younger generation. We are wiser than they, we think, and we want to keep them from mistakes.

Of course we do, and yet after all are we always wiser. We see things differently, but are we always right? "Age is no better, hardly so well qualified for an instructor, as youth.

For it has not profited so much as it has lost," says Thoreau. And Stevenson declares, "Old people have faults of their own; they tend to become cowardly, niggardly and suspicious. Whether from the growth of experience or the decline of animal heat, I see that age leads to these and certain other faults; in short, if youth is not quite right in its opinions, there is a strong probability that age is not much more so."

When youth and age fail to understand each other, the greater fault lies with age. Why? Because youth has never been old, but age has once been young. Youth cannot remember, but age can—if it will only try.

Ponderous Personages.

By GEORGE FITCH.

John Milton was an Englishman who was born in 1608 and who spent his youth until the age of twenty-five in deep study. He was a frail, light-haired boy with gentle manners and while in Christ's College at Cambridge he did not get out with the fellows at night and tip over watchmen as was the custom of those times. For this reason he was nicknamed "The Lady of Christ's" by a large number of hearty roystering students who have been completely and appallingly extinct for two and a half centuries.

Milton went home at the age of twenty-five, distended with learning and proceeded to buy another bale of Latin and Greek literature. In despair his father, who eked out a hand-living as a scrivener, asked him when he was going to get a job. Milton replied that he intended to become a great poet and take his pay in glory. His father's share in the said glory would be to support him to the end of his days and leave him his fortune. There are many reasons why England should be thankful that Milton's father was a real sport and took up the job without a murmur.

Young Milton now began composing poems and pamphlets in Latin which was the literary language of that day, the English language not having been trimmed sufficiently about the edges to make good poetry. He wrote about Nightingales and Ladies and May mornings, and the Death of a Fair Infant, much as poets do to-day. But he also wrote religious and political discourses, full of ponderous and devastating words which rumbled over his opponents creating great havoc and making him a mighty man in England.

Learning was very highly thought of in those days and the man who could read down into a bin full of expensive words and hurl a handful against an existing evil, was regarded as several degrees greater than a soldier. He also needed to be several times braver than a soldier who got off at the worst with a bullet in a vital spot, while men who wrote and talked too much were still being regarded occasionally in merrily England. Milton won as many battles in the reformation as Cromwell did, for whenever an enemy of the Commonwealth would discharge a torrent of abuse in a pamphlet, Milton would come back with a two pound charge of solid logic which no one could resist and few could understand. Even when King Charles II, was invited back to England, Milton kept blazing away in black-letter bombast, though this was as reckless a bravery as being an American in Mexico is to-day. That was the kind of a lady Milton was.

Milton was Latin secretary during the Commonwealth and worked himself blind in office. In his later years, he retired from the odor of King Charles's court and wrote "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained"—two mighty poems which are admired by all, even by those who have not read them. But these were his smaller works. Few men could hew their way through the opposition with a political pamphlet the way Milton did when he was standing practically alone and the executioner was running his thumb along the edge of his axe in a suggestive manner.

Milton's first wife left him in a few months and he wrote the first appeal for reasonable divorce laws ever published in England, being about 300 years in advance of public sentiment, which is just catching up with him.

The Disaster.

Over One Thousand Lost.

Special to Evening Telegram. RIMOUSKI, May 29. The Marconi Company's operator supplies the following account of the sinking of the Empress of Ireland after her collision with the Norwegian collier Storstad:

The Empress was rammed this morning at a quarter to two o'clock by the Storstad when about twenty miles out from Father Point. The big steamer sank within ten minutes after the S.O.S. signal sent out by the operator on board was received at Father Point. The Empress listed and was unable to get most of her boats out. Capt. Kendall was saved being picked up on some wreckage by a lifeboat fully thirty minutes after the ship had foundered. Both wireless operators, the assistant purser, chief engineer and chief steward are among the saved. The chief officer and purser are among the missing. Up to the present three hundred and fifty passengers have been landed at Rimouski and others are to follow. When the first S.O.S. call was received from the Empress at 1:45 this morning, the operator on the docked vessel reported that she was sinking fast. The Government steamers Evelyn and Eureka were at once rushed to the scene of the disaster, but the ship had gone down before they arrived. Repeated attempts were made to get the Empress hoisted, but nothing was received from her beyond the announcement that the Storstad had rammed her in a vital part, that she was going down rapidly, and that the weather was clear. Only the most meagre details are as yet available, but it is believed that the number of the lost totals 1,002, and the saved, 420. The steamer had 930 passengers on board, and carried a crew of 132.

Special to Evening Telegram. MONTREAL, Last Evening. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, issued the following statement this afternoon:— The catastrophe, because of the great loss of life, is the most serious in the history of the St. Lawrence route. Owing to the distance of the nearest telegraph or telephone station from the scene of the wreck there has been unavoidable delay in securing official details, but we expect a report from Captain Kendall in the course of the afternoon. From the facts as we have them, about two o'clock this morning the Empress of Ireland when off Rimouski, stopped in a dense fog, was rammed on the port side from the middle to the screw thus making her watertight bulkheads absolutely useless. The vessel settled down in fourteen minutes. The accident occurred at a time when the passengers were all in bed, and the officers were not sufficient to enable them to rouse the passengers and get them into the boats, of which there were sufficient to accommodate a very much larger number of people than those on board including passengers and crew. That such an accident should be possible in the St. Lawrence to a vessel of the class of the Empress of Ireland, with every precaution taken by the owners to insure the safety of the passengers and vessel, is deplorable. The saddest feature of the disaster is, of course, the great loss of life. The heartfelt sympathy of everybody connected with the Company, goes out to the relatives and friends of those who met their death in the ill-fated ship.

OTTAWA, May 29. A message to the Marine Department here, from its agent at Father Point, says that 337 of the rescued have been taken to Rimouski, but it is not certain whether this number includes those on board the Storstad, though it is believed it does not. If the figures to the department are correct

GLAD NEWS TO ALL WITH BAD COLDS INSTANT RELIEF—FEW HOURS FOR CURE

Nothing Known to Science is so Invariably Sure to Cure as "Catarrhazone." Just Breathe Catarrhazone! The Ozonated Air Cure, better known as "Catarrhazone" is death to colds. Its health-laden fumes contain the leading balsams of the pine woods. Soothing and antiseptic, it gives instant relief—stops gagging, hawking and sneezing. Mucus and phlegm are cleared away, breathing made easy, and Catarrh symptoms entirely disappear. Delightful and pleasant is Catarrhazone, simple to use, because you breathe it—sure to cure colds and catarrh because it destroys the cause. Doctors say nothing is more scientific, nothing possesses such might of merit in winter ills. "To clear a cold out of your nostrils and to be able in a minute or two to breathe freely again, I can't conceive of anything better than Catarrhazone," writes J. H. Galvin, of Port Limon, C. B. For any sort of Catarrh, throat trouble or Bronchitis, Catarrhazone is a specific. I know scores of people who use Catarrhazone and all speak wonders of its merit." Get the complete $1.00 outfit it does the work sure. Small size 50c; sample or trial size 25c. Sold by dealers everywhere.

rect it leaves a total of 1,030 unaccounted for. Boats belonging to the Empress of Ireland saved 350, and more were picked up out of the water by the Storstad, but the majority of the fifteen hundred souls on board went down to death trapped like rats. Of the 337 passengers landed at Rimouski, 22 have already died from exposure, and only twelve women were saved.

Laska Monday's feature at the Crescent.

The coming week will see something extraordinary at the Crescent Picture Palace. The opening bill will surpass anything yet attempted by the management of this theatre. The feature of this big treat in pictures is a spectacular two-part poem illustrated "Laska" adapted from the celebrated poem. It is undoubtedly the best two-reel subject ever released by the Bison Co., and has won great praise from the censors. Added to this sensation of freedom are two other good pictures and a new ballad sung by the Lyric baritone Sidney Earnshaw. The mid-week and week-end bill are in line with the big show on Monday and Tuesday, as special attention has been given to the various productions. Last night's programme of four interesting pictures and a novelty selection by the vocalist, attracted big crowds. It will be repeated again to-night. On Monday we will give a brief synopsis of the special feature "Laska."

Minard's Liniment Co. Gentlemen:—I had my leg badly hurt the pain was very severe and a large swelling came above the knee. I expected it would be serious—I rubbed it with MINARD'S LINIMENT, which stopped the pain and reduced the swelling very quickly. I cannot speak too highly of MINARD'S LINIMENT.

AMOS T. SMITH, Port Hood Island.

The Late Commander.

The late Commander of the Empress of Ireland and who was succeeded by Capt. Kendall, was Captain J. A. Murray, a well known British seaman of daring and ability and who is now Harbor Master of Quebec. The names of some of the officers who sailed in last voyage of the ship are:—M. R. Steede, Chief Officer; W. Sampson, Chief Engineer; A. B. McDonald, R. N. R. Purser; C. Kennedy Surgeon and A. W. Joadie, Chief Steward. As will be seen in one of the despatches published the Chief Engineer and Chief Steward are saved, the others are among the missing.

HIS MAIDEN TRIP.

Captain H. J. Kendall, who was rescued by a lifeboat only 30 minutes after the ship foundered, is one of the greatest seamen of the day. He is a native of London and went to sea when very young. He had some trying experiences and some hard struggles against nature. It was he who figured prominently in the poisoner Dr. Crippen case and was usually responsible for the arrest of that notorious character and for which he was handsomely rewarded by the British Government. Capt. Kendall was second officer on board the "Lusitania," 12 years ago when she struck the land off Cape Race and out of 880 passengers not one life was lost. Capt. Kendall was making his first voyage on the Empress of Ireland and it will be universally regretted that the result has been so disastrous.

THE CITY COUNCIL PAY TRIBUTE.

Yesterday afternoon when the City Fathers met His Honor, Mayor Ellis spoke as follows:—

Before dealing with the business of to-day's sitting, I should like to avail of the occasion to refer to the terrible marine tragedy which occurred this morning. The C.P.R. liner, Empress of Ireland, was sunk by collision with a collier in the River St. Lawrence and the loss of life, according to latest reports, is about one thousand. Emerging as we are only now from the shadow of the dreadful catastrophe which befell our own Colony a few short weeks ago, when 250 of our seafarers were so suddenly called to the other world, we can sympathize the more readily and completely with the people of Canada, who are now so sorely stricken in the same way, and I am certain that I am safe in stating that there will be a hearty outpouring of sincere sympathy by the citizens of St. John's for those who have suffered by this almost unexampled ocean horror.

I think it is but fitting that this Council should put on record what we feel to be the sentiment of the people of this city, and I therefore offer the following resolution:—

RESOLVED.—That the St. John's Municipal Council having learned of the disaster to the Canadian liner Empress of Ireland, whereby the lives of about one thousand persons have been lost, desire to express its heartfelt sympathy with all the sufferers by this disaster and with the Canadian people in a tragedy of such national magnitude.

A Canada Life Endowment.

New Glasgow, N.S., February 26th, 1914. J. I. FLICK, ESQ., District Manager, Canada Life Assurance Co., New Glasgow, N.S.

Dear Sir,— I wish to state that I am well satisfied with the results which your Company have given me in connection with my Endowment Policy No. 47,775, which matures on the 17th of March. I find that the returns give me over $424.00 more than I have paid in premiums, in addition to the protection that I have had during the Policy term. I consider this all the more satisfactory taking into account the fact that the dividends were applied as a Bonus every five years. I, therefore, received a return beyond Bank interest, in addition to the protection.

Yours very truly, JOSEPH STEWART.

Daring Theft.

THIEVES CAUGHT, PLEAD GUILTY AND IS AWAITING SENTENCE.

One of the most daring and meanest thefts heard of for some time has just been brought to light. The perpetrator is Joseph James, who, up to the time of his arrest, was employed as watchman with Messrs. Ayre & Sons, Ltd. There is also an accomplice named Henry Dibbon, belonging to Port au Bras, Burlington, who is here in his schooner, which is now lying at Ayre's wharf for supplies for the fishery.

The facts are that at an early hour yesterday morning Constables Pitman and Emberley, who were doing night duty, passed along Water Street. They stopped near the Bank of Montreal and looking down in Ayre's Cove saw a man rolling a barrel, which they thought to be pork or beef, from the eastern to the western pier. The affair aroused the suspicion of the officers, who immediately went to investigate. Suddenly they were approached by the watchman of the premises, Joseph James, who said blushing, "It's only a barrel of water."

Nothing daunted, the officers on examining the barrel found that it contained pork, valued at $25.50. The officers then took the name of the man whom they saw first with the pork and reported the matter to the police station. Subsequently both dishonest men were arrested by Detectives Byrne and Tobin. Meanwhile the police learned that the watchman had effected the sale of his employer's goods beforehand to the owner of the craft. Both the accused appeared before Judge Knight to-day, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced this afternoon.

Constables Pitman and Emberley, though only juniors in the force, deserve credit for the vigilance displayed by them in detecting this act of theft.

St. John's, Nfld., April 15, 1914.

To Manager, St. John's Gas Light Company. Dear Sir—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season. Yours truly, D. JAMES DAVIES, B.S.C., F.C.S., Analyst and Assayer. may14,t Vessels Not Reported.

Two schooners, the Cactus and Irene, from Salvage and Glovertown, respectively, which were off this port during the storm of Thursday night, had not been reported up to press hour. Messages have been sent to Cape Broyle and other points along the Southern Shore enquiring of their whereabouts, but it is expected that the vessels were compelled to run further west and will likely be heard from this afternoon. The Cactus and Irene are both staunch little crafts, and the former is commanded by Reuben Ralph, of Salvage, whilst the latter is in charge of Edgar House of Glovertown.

Reids' Boats.

The Argyle left Placentia at 2.10 a.m. to-day on the Merasheen route. The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.15 a.m. to-day. The Clyde left Horwood at 3.30 a.m. to-day, outward. The Dundee left Port Blandford at 8.15 p.m. yesterday. The Ethie left Heart's Content at 5.50 p.m. yesterday, outward. The Glencoe left Harbor Breton at 6.30 p.m. yesterday, going west. The Home left Lewisporte at 4.40 p.m. yesterday. The Invermore is due at North Sydney to-day. The Kyle left Curling at 10.45 a.m. yesterday, going north. The Lintrose left Port aux Basques at 3 p.m. yesterday. The Meigle left Port Saunders at 4 p.m. yesterday, going north.

CREW OF SCHOONER RESCUED BY FIONA.—The Deputy Minister of Customs had the following message last night from Ramea: "Fiona just arrived and reports finding the crew of the schooner Maria Stella. The men were on their way from Dutch Cove where they landed when they abandoned the vessel; the schooner was on her way from St. Pierre when the accident happened."

Days Past—149 To Come—215 DEORATION DAY, U.S.A. RUBENS died 1640, aged 63. One of the most notable of Flemish painters, producing a number of historical and religious works which made him a great reputation. ALFRED AUSTIN born 1835. The late poet-Laureate, whose verse displayed a deep love of nature, though it is not likely that he will be considered on the same plane as Tennyson or Browning.

JOAN OF ARC burnt at Rouen 1431, aged 19, inspired by the conviction that she could deliver France from the English, she offered her services and led the French armies to victory. When she was captured, to the shame of the French King, it must be said that he made no effort to ransom her. Joan of Arc was beatified by the Roman Church in 1909 and will soon be a canonized saint.

"Faith Healing."

REPORT OF CLERICAL AND MEDICAL COMMITTEE.

The Value of "Suggestion."

Three and a half years ago a conference of representatives of the clerical and medical professions met in St. John's Chapter House to discuss the development of "Spiritual" and "Faith" healing movements, and to consider such results as had been obtained for them. A special committee was nominated to report upon the best methods of closer co-operation between the two professions. A year later, in October, 1911, certain preliminary conclusions of this committee were unanimously adopted and an enlarged committee was appointed to (a) continue investigations into the meaning and scope of "Spiritual," "Faith" and "Mental" healing; (b) Consider how the dangers connected with such treatment by persons not medically qualified might best be guarded against; and (c) Promote all legitimate co-operation between the two professions. This committee have held 19 sittings, and their report is now published under the title of "Spiritual Healing: Report of a Clerical and Medical Committee of Inquiry into Spiritual Healing, and Mental Healing." (Macmillan, 1s.)

"Healers" Limitations.

In presenting their conclusions the committee state that they are of opinion that the physical results of what is called "Faith" or "Spiritual" healing do not prove on investigation to be different from those of mental healing or healing by "suggestion." The term suggestion is used in this report in a wide sense as meaning the application of any natural mental process to the purposes of treatment. They recognize that suggestion is more effectively exercised by some persons than by others, and this fact seems to explain the "gifts" of a special character claimed by various "healers."

They are aware that no sharply-defined fundamental distinction can be drawn between "organic" and "functional" ailments. They are forced, however, to the conclusion, after the most careful inquiry, that "faith" or "spiritual" healing, like all treatment by suggestion, can be expected to be permanently effective only in cases of what are generally termed "functional" disorders. The alleged exceptions are so disputable that they cannot be taken into account. The committee would emphasize this point in order to warn those who resort to "healers" in the hope of receiving a permanent cure that they may thereby be postponing until too late the medical treatment which might serve to arrest organic disease.

Three appendices are added to these conclusions. The first provides a valuable note on "Suggestion" by Sir R. Douglas Powell; the second contains a list of the alleged diseases which had been treated by "spiritual healing." In the greater number of them no medical evidence was obtainable. The committee state that they have been unable to find an instance of the cure of so-called "incurable" illnesses by these means.

Let us make our education brave and preventive. Politics is an after-work, a poor patching. We are always a little late. The evil is done, the law is passed, and we begin the uphill agitation for repeal of that of which we ought to have prevented the enacting.

Bismarck's Table Talks.

Some of Bismarck's table-talk is included in a new "Bismarck Calendar." Here is his comment upon an interview with Louis Napoleon: "After sitting for nearly an hour opposite Napoleon in the little room of the cottage near Sedan, I felt precisely as if I had done once when a young man at a ball after engaging a partner for a cotillon, to whom I could not say a single word, and of whom no one would relieve me." Of war he said that all military leaders say of it: "I, for my part, will only resort to it in the most extreme cases of necessity." Yet he said, too:

"Had it not been for me, there would have been three great wars the less; the lives of eighty thousand men would not have been sacrificed; and many parents, brothers, sisters and widows would not now be mourners. That, however, I have settled with my Maker."

In much the same strain is his comment upon the twelfth chapter of Romans, which he had been reading, "not indeed on the balcony by moonlight, but in my bed as the wind and rain beat at my window. It is a chapter from which one can easily learn how wicked and lacking in faith one actually is. I could have devoured my enemies over and over again when I was hungry; but to bless them—that would be something very different and exceptional, if I could only do it." Like men in humbler walks of life, he spoke contemptuously of his profession. "I never thought," he remarked, upon one occasion, "that in my riper years I should be obliged to carry on such an unworthy trade as that of a Parliamentary Minister. As envoy, though only an official, I still had the feeling of being a gentleman; as a Parliamentary Minister one is a helot." An uncommon use which he found for a common habit is explained in the following extract:

"When you enter on a discussion which may lead to vehement remarks, you should smoke. When one smokes, the cigar is held between the fingers; one must handle it, not allow it to fall, and thereby violent movements of the body are avoided or weakened. With regard to the mental condition, it does not deprive us of our intellectual capacity, but it produces a state of kindly repose."

The Lighter Side.

One of the guests at a wedding, seeing a dismal-looking young man who appeared to be on terms of familiarity with the principals, asked: "Are you related to the bride or to the bridegroom-elect?" "No," was the gloomy reply. "Then," said the guest, "what interest have you in the ceremony?" "Well," replied the young man, "I'm the defeated candidate."

An old man who looked like a countryman was walking along a London street playing a concertina that had seen better days. Noticing a brass plate with the words, "Doctor of Music," written under the name of it, he went up to the house and rang the bell. The door was answered by a servant, who asked his business. "Please, be th' doctor in?" he asked. "Yes. What is it you want?" said the servant. "Why, jus' t' e pop in an' ax un hoo much 'e'll charge t' mend t' auld concertina," was the reply.

MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

Noses to Order

New noses are being constructed by skillful surgeons, with fine results. Noses are built up from nothing—or next to nothing—for those who have lost their own by some accident; or noses are cut down to a normal size and shape for those who are victims of a not uncommon disease that brings about the growth of enormous and coarsely surfaced noses.

A Chicago surgeon freezes these big noses, cuts the skin off with a razor, and then proceeds to slice off all the knobs and bumps. He is careful to leave the sebaceous glands, which have to do with the skin; but the knobs can be cut off, because they are largely between the glands and the skin surface. With this precaution the skin will grow normally again.

At one large hospital noses are made out of the ribs of the patients. Rib cartilage is used to take the place of the normal cartilage of a nose, and with the cartilage is transplanted the necessary skin flap. With this material the adept surgeons model new noses so that they will look very like real ones.

Testing Seeds.

As it is essential the farmer shall sow the best possible seed, and as he cannot sow it if he has not got it, and does not know what sort of seed he has sown till it comes out of the ground, these simple home tests for germinating values of samples are given. By the blotting-paper method some slips of ordinary blotting-paper, 18 by 8 ins., are folded twice, so as to get three thicknesses, top and bottom, and laid on an ordinary dinner plate. If the grains to be tested are small they are laid on the blotting, if large between the folds, and the paper is kept moist (not soaked) in an atmosphere of about 70 or 80 degrees. It is better to work with a hundred grains, as the percentage is more easily arrived at. Every second day, in the case of seeds showing signs of growing, they should be removed and counted, and about the seventh day the balance may be counted out. Those which have germinated are deducted from the lifeless ones, and the result is the percentage of good seed in the parcel. The sand method is another which may be relied on as a home test, but the blotting-paper will give a good vitality result. A thin layer of fine sand is placed in the bottom of a glazed dish and the seeds are laid on the sand and under a layer of the same; this must be kept moist, and well shaded, at a slightly higher temperature than in the blotting-paper test. The procedure is the same in both cases; the number of seeds in 100 to sprout represents the vitality of the sample and of the parcel from which it is taken.

Try Again.

You have, it may be, used ointments, pastes, lotions for Eczema till you begin to get tired of trying things. Well, but you should remember that science is advancing all the time, and that what was not possible yesterday can be accomplished to-day. If you neglect to try Zylex—the newest and best thing that science has yet to offer for the relief and cure of Eczema and other annoying and disfiguring skin diseases—you are missing a great opportunity. It may be that it will cure you. It has cured some very bad cases. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

Items of Interest.

Copper may be easily cleansed with a cut lemon, dipped in salt. Italian state railways will use 750,000 tons of Welsh coal this year. Scotland produced about 65,000,000 gallons of oil from shale last year. Of the 37,000 electric vehicles in the United States, about 25,000 are pleasure cars. A telephone transmitter that works perfectly when completely submerged in water is a novelty.

Semi-official statistics place Russia's beet-sugar production last season at about 1,703,240 short tons. A rubber band around the bell of an alarm clock will lessen its noise without impairing its effectiveness. With the opening of new cables to Ceylon, messages have been transmitted from London within half an hour.

For warming the feet a foot rail for steam radiators adjustable as to height and length has been invented. Goldfields in Northeastern Siberia which have not been worked since 1907 will be reopened early this year. Harvard University has opened a special course for training men for the duties of municipal health officers.

The German pound is exactly one-half a kilogram or about one-tenth more than the American and English pound. Adjustable canvas shields have been invented for protecting freshly transplanted trees from too much sunlight.

France will hold an international exposition of marine motors for vessels of all sizes from June to September. The greenhouse attached to a hotel in Yellowstone Park, has been built over a hot spring to benefit by its heat.

Russia expects to produce 24,000,000 long tons of bituminous and 6,300,000 long tons of anthracite this year.

Tell Your Temper By Your Ways.

Experiments numbering over three hundred, conducted over a term of three years, have convinced Dr. J. Henson Hooker, of Nottingham Place that the rays emitted by the human body differ in color according to the character and temperament of the person, and he gives the following curious particulars in a letter to the Lancet:

The rays emanating from a very passionate man have a deep red hue, says Dr. Hooker, one whose keynote in life is to be good and to do good throws off pink rays. The ambitious man emits orange rays; the deep thinker, deep blue; the lover of art and refined surroundings, yellow; an anxious, depressed person, gray. One who leads a low, debased life throws off muddy brown rays; a devotional, good meaning person, light green, and a physically or mentally ill one, a dark green.

"I know perfectly well," adds Dr. Hooker, "that these statements will be received by many with an amused smile of incredulity, as many other so-called discoveries at first; but I also know perfectly well that sooner or later they will become accepted facts. Nor is there anything remarkable or unreasonable in all this when we consider that man has been thousands of years (Max Muller is my authority) in evolving his color sense to its present point. There is no Sanskrit word the meaning of which has any reference to color. Later red and black were distinguished, and still later yellow, and then green.

"As our senses become more refined surely we will evolve the power of detecting more refined hues. We have not yet reached the point of finality in rays."

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Perete Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

A Man

WHO DISCOVERED DIFFERENCE BETWEEN BEING 70 YEARS OLD AND 70 YEARS YOUNG.

A few days ago the press dispatches carried a paragraph about a man of 70 who applied for admission to a Missouri university as a student. It is to be hoped the university took him in and gave him a chair, the chair which Ponce de Leon should have endowed, for example.

For that man knows more than any college course can teach him. He knows the secret of eternal youth. He has discovered the difference between being 70 years old and being 70 years young. He has learned that the secret of "growing old gracefully" is not to grow old at all.

Forgetting, in a personal sense, that time is behind him, he remembers only that eternity is ahead of him, or at least that it is wisdom to act as if it were, since no man knows to the contrary. He knows that the man who plants his feet firmly upon To-day, with his eager, interested face turned toward To-morrow, is just as much alive at 70 as at 17. As much? More! He has experience, judgment, comparison, which mere youth, though it were sired by Genius and wedded to Power, cannot possibly have. In all life there is no substitute for having lived.

One thing only must the one-who-has-lived remember—not to live IN experience, but FOR it.

In all eternity there is only one day—To-day. There are dead to-days which we call yesterday and unborn to-days which we call to-morrow.

These were, or will be, but To-day is the only day which IS. Let us live it then as though it were the only day which had ever dawned and then, though we be 70 or 17, in the profound words of the Indian chieftain. "We have all the time there is."

Treating The Other Woman's Child.

They all sat round in friendly chat discussing mostly this and that, And a hat.

Until a neighbor's wayward lad Was seen to act in ways quite bad; Oh, 'twas sad! One thought she knew what must be done

With every child beneath the sun— She had none. Forgetting, in a personal sense, Another's theories were begun— She had one.

The third was not so sure she knew, But thus and so she thought she'd do. She had two. The next one sighed, "I don't see; These things work out so differently." She had three.

The fifth drew on her wisdom store, And said, "I'd have to think it o'er." She had four. And then one sighed, "I don't contrive Fixed rules for boys, they're too alive!" She had five.

"I know it leaves one in a fix, This straightening of crooked sticks." She had six. And one declared, "There's no rule at all." She had seven. But do your best and trust to heav'n! She had seven. —Woman's Home Companion.

For the Piano Student.

The mind has powers of which most students little dream. These powers, if allowed to act without interference, are capable of enormous development. Day by day it is possible to acquire power and more control, until the faculties are exerted freely and without hindrance. It is probable that the memory may be vastly extended and made more reliable, that study may become a delight and an unconscious effort, and that nervousness in public performance may quite disappear. Under the influence of strong interest or of excitement hours fly like minutes, all mental effort is unobtrusive, and one becomes unconscious of oneself. This proves that certain powers of the mind, when freed from interference by other powers, act much more freely, and with greater strength and certainty. Why can we not, then, learn to throw out of action temporarily, as it were, all powers except those necessary to the work in hand? There is surely a great field here for the investigation of the modern educator, student and psychologist. The trouble is that most piano students have no control over their minds. The fingers may be occupied, but the thoughts often roam at will among all kinds of subjects, giving but a fitful attention to the task before them. Do you wonder then that when performing before an audience, they should allow fear of public opinion to occupy a third of their attention to the playing? And they need the whole three-thirds, every particle of it, or else mistakes occur.

May Day Celebrations.

THE LATIN HYMN OF MAGDALEN TOWER.

What do we up so early this May morn? Hath Health the hussler from some neighbouring hill Blows such a blast of her enchanted horn, That Youth forgets his slumber?

Just as dawn was breaking over Oxford on May 1st, as early as half-past 4, youth was making his way, for the most part on the unpoetic bicycle, to Magdalen Bridge. A little later, the choir clambered up the countless steps and the steep ladder to the summit of the Tower; the President, or organist, fellows of the college, and privileged ticket holders followed until quite 200 had assembled. Down below in the street a noisy, hilarious crowd was blowing "May-horns" and waiting till the hours should strike. At last the clock chimed 5, a sudden silence fell upon everybody; heads were uncovered, and as the last beat died away on the clear air, the choir burst into song—the old Latin hymn, written towards the end of the 17th century and now incorporated in the college "Grace":—

Te Deum Patrem colimus, Te laudibus proseque mur Qui corporis tibi redicis Concessit mentem gratia.

A moment of silence followed the singing of the last verse; then, just as the crowd began to disperse, the joyous silvery peals of the College bells broke upon the air. Though much has been written on this curious ceremony, its origin is still a mystery. It is known, however, that the ceremony achieved its present form in 1844, when Dr. John Bloxam undertook its reorganization. In its earlier days it was apparently a secular celebration—a merry concert of the vocal and instrumental music consisting of several merry sketches, and lasting about two hours.

covery, be learned and practiced! Hospitals are only an intermediate stage of civilization, never intended, at all events, to take in the whole sick population. May we hope that the day will come when every mother will become a health-nurse, when every poor sick person will have the opportunity of a share in a district sick-nurse at home.

The Gatlin Treatment

EST. 1900. For Drink or Drug Habit

The results accomplished by the Gatlin Treatment have caused the establishment of Institutes throughout the world for the cure of the liquor and drug habits. This great treatment quickly and permanently removes the craving for stimulants, tones up the entire system, placing the patients in the same or better mental and physical condition as before the habit was formed.

The Gatlin Treatment is administered without hypodermic injections, contains no powerful nerve-racking drugs, nothing in any way harmful, is quick, certain and lasting in its effects. Through its efficiency thousands of men and women have been permanently cured.

Special treatment will be furnished those who prefer taking treatment at home. For complete information sent in plain envelope, address—GATLIN INSTITUTE Ltd., 41 Longard Road, HALIFAX, N.S. may6,13,1,w,s
