There Must Be a Reason

That a great many of the garments that we have received in the past month were from new customers who had those garments mishandled by other dyers and were sent to us as a last resort before a settlement was made with the owners. We were able to doctor up the majority of those crumpled garments to the entire satisfaction of those owners. If you have any sick garments of this character send them to us. If our customers don't accept the garments after we doctor them, don't pay us. No cure no pay. We have received a new shipment of dye, the best on the market. Raglans cleaned and dyed at shortest notice. Outport orders get my personal attention.

Good home made bread is the most palatable, wholesome and nourishing food in the world. It is far more economical than any other staple food. If people would eat less meat and other heavy foods they would feel better and help to keep down the cost of living. Bread made in the home with Royal Yeast Cakes is more nourishing and appetizing than any other. Nothing healthier for children and grown ups.

A fresh, rosy complexion indicates perfect health. To secure this in most cases all that is necessary is to take one to three Royal Yeast Cakes a day for a few weeks.

Yeast is a food. It supplies the water soluble vitamins which the diet may lack. Scientists tell us that this vitamin is essential to good health. Yeast is highly beneficial in many cases in which the system seems to be run down. The yeast cakes simply add to the diet. Dissolve a Royal Yeast Cake in fruit juices or mix it with cereal and milk, and take it at meal time. The chances are in a few weeks the complexion will be clear. Constipation and other ills will be relieved. For children reduce the amount to one-half or one-quarter of a cake with each meal.

OR The Shadow of the Future.

CHAPTER VIII. THE COUNTESS RECEIVES.

With a large family, and the prudence engendered of long-limited means, they elected to keep up but one country-house. Their choice fell upon Oakleigh, and here they determined upon making in this first festive meeting a thoroughly favorable debut in rural society.

So the gardens, kept up through all vicissitudes, were now set forth in July perfection. The house, a stately Georgian building, with suits of state-panelled apartments, painted, mirrored, portrait-hung, after the varying fashions of two centuries, was open from end to end. Every possible preparation was made to insure the day passing off well.

The earl, schooled to phlegmatic calm by serving in a permanent government post under half a dozen different administrations, took the approaching reception very coolly, but the countess' feminine nerves appreciated the complexities of the situation, and were most actively on the alert to prevent the slightest flaw in here fête.

As four o'clock approached she summoned her sons and daughters about her in the first reception-room, and favored them with maternal instructions, assisted by a farrow peep at her visiting list. "Now, my dears, there's the first ring. Do, pray, put plenty of spirit into the next three

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Peasey Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered with irregular menstruation, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains, so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of medicines and had been treated by physicians but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. PEASEY, 387 King St., Toronto, Ontario.

If you are one of those women who suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Peasey did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health.

hours, and as we've undertaken this 'thing' let it be a success!"

And a success it assuredly was from the arrival of the first carriage-freight to the departure of the last; a meeting that well earned Oakleigh Park a character for hospitality, and marked an era for more than one of its guests.

For a long hour the roll of wheels landed of the Erpinghams, their many-quartered shield upon the doors, to the roughest of country roundabouts, did gayly-robed figures debouch under the wide north portico. A radius of twenty miles supplied the throng. Squires, squires, squires, professional people few and well-selected, parsons innumerable—rectors, vicars, curates—but there the line was drawn. My lady said they must stop somewhere, so they stayed their tidings of at curates. An occupier of one of the largest farms, who by virtue of eminent respectability, and a good balance at his banker's, had ventured once upon a time to lift his eyes to Leonora, Villiers drove by the Comynghams' gate as Mrs. Alwyn turned in at the same, and this practical exposition of her superiority made her pulses beat all-exultant, revived the glories of her Guiswick reign, and by a hundred-fold increased the moment's proud delight. If Leonora—Ah! on the wings of that "if" Mrs. Alwyn's imagination took flight, and sent her 'a so radiant, so dignified, that, as she failed not to note, eyes and lips were questioning who she was the whole afternoon through.

Sydney, willingly released by Mrs. Alwyn, found her way with Mary Dacue among the wide south stretch of flower-parterres, and through the domed conservatories, fragrant with waxen stephanotis, so completely charmed with the novel scene, her face so full of bright enjoyment, and her graceful young figure so perfectly at ease in perhaps the simplest toilet present, that a battery of admiring, approving glances followed wherever she went, to her companion's excessive satisfaction. "I declare, mother, her eyes were as blue as sapphires!" Mary Dacue reported at home. "I do wish you could have seen her! People kept wanting to write her away from me, but the foolish child wouldn't leave me once!"

The rector of St. Clair's was standing at the edge of Lady Comyngham's circle; he had just made his bow, apologizing for having brought with him a friend, a guest of two days only, whom the countess had most cordially welcomed. Now both men leaned on the gray terrace-wall, watching the mirroring, many-colored throng. "A sight worth looking at," said the stranger, "and people too. Who are those?" as a pair of figures approached across the grass. "A lady in a blue gown, who smiles as if didn't know what ill-temper meant; and one in white, much younger, uncommonly good-looking, but of totally different mettle."

The rector laughed as he followed his friend's glance. "Much travelling sharpens one's skill in observation, I suppose, Drayton," he said, "for you are very right about those two. The elder is my doctor's only daughter, and a good one she is; so good, I always wonder she's not been stolen away long before now."

The other—well, I call her child, but she's that no longer, though she brings me her Latin exercises twice a week still—she's a young lady now, I suppose, and I confess, a marvellous favorite of mine. If I'm not mistaken, there's stay and spirit in her for more than the likely possibilities of life."

"Well, she's out of the way of unlikely-ones down here," returned Mr. Drayton, which showed him less a philosopher than observer; "but if looks make one's fortune she ought to secure a good one."

"Then we'll wish her a safer road to prosperity," said the rector, half-jocose, half grave, "for her stepister has not achieved any grand coup at present, though she is years older, and, most people say far handsomer."

"And is this last beauty present?" "Come this way, and I'll introduce you."

And moving on a few yards, the rector made known to Mrs. Alwyn and Miss Villiers: "Mr. Richard Drayton, an old pupil of mine, though—with a gleam of sedate mischief—"no credit to me."

And then he had to break off his friendly slanders, to shake hands and talk the regulation two-minutes with the earl.

"Quite unfair of Mr. Vaughan, I protest, to take away your reputation among strangers!" said Mrs. Alwyn, amiably. No other gentleman was in attendance on Leonora and herself just then, Major Villiers having found in the senior officer of the Fifty-first, whose band was delighting the company, an old comrade, with whom he was recalling Madras experiences. "I really consider such a slur demands explanation."

"Which is easy enough, luckily. It merely means that, having head for neither classics nor mathematics, I bade Oxford good-bye in my first year, and took myself out to find a fortune in foreign parts."

"Abroad? Oh, really!" ("Which accounts," thought the lady, "for your just a little unkempt, an English look, sir.") "And may I ask in what quarter of the world you have been?" "South America. Chiefly Brazil."

"Most interesting. I am sure the superb trees and plants here make any one long for the flora of the equator. Leonora, dear, Mr. Drayton has actually been fortunate in his bird-says, in the land of humming-birds!" Leonora had taken the gentleman's introduction with rather too obvious indifference. A badly-clad, middle-aged man was scarcely a desirable cavalier even for a few minutes. Now, however, her mother's tone warned her to be gracious. So she donned an ever-ready smile, of which an inextinguishable stock as even and expressive as a row of steel buttons was always in reserve, and repeated:

"In the land of humming-birds! How most sweet! And did you find it?" "And—er—oh, I see! The fortune. Not I!" Leonora's gleam of liveliness died out instantly. "No, I came back, after fifteen years, rich in experience, but very little else. Luckily, a nest was provided for me here in the old country, or I might have had to go on knocking about to the end of my life."

"A nest? You mean a home?" asked Mrs. Alwyn, while Leonora yawned behind her sunshade.

"Exactly so. A little property down in Dorsetshire. Nothing grand, but more than I ever expected from an old uncle. At a place called Grandtyde. Do you know it?"

A shade of some disturbance passed over the lady's countenance; but she hastened to answer:

"Not in the least. I never was near such a place that I'm aware of. You intend to live there?" "Perhaps—or sell it, I've come down to consult my old tutor. He's always ready to help his men through any problem. There's nothing as a kinder, wiser head than Robert Vaughan's."

"Undoubtedly. Just so," murmured Mrs. Alwyn, but her attention flew all away. The next moment she rose, and swept down, all a-sparkle in satin and jet, on a gentleman just passing.

"Sincerity in word and deed, that is what makes friends, wins customers, grows business, insures success. We make no claim we cannot substantiate, declare 'no values we cannot show.'"

Our claim is that Phosphate Cough and Cold Cure is the best preparation for all kinds of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and various lung troubles, and to substantiate our claim we can produce the proof by the sales we are making. If St. John's Phosphate was not what we claim it to be why should people be continually asking for a bottle and wholesalers purchasing it in great quantities. Phosphate is only one of the many preparations we manufacture and have succeeded in obtaining a very large sale for owing to its medicinal qualities.

LOOKING AHEAD.

A man can't see an hour ahead; in one brief hour he may be dead, from all his labors gone; life's so uncertain now, can say, "I'll see the finish of this day, and greet another dawn." The citizen in gorgeous health, goes forth to gather in some wealth, a buoyant, cheerful scout; he strides along the village street, an airship drops a sack of wheat, and he is flattened out. Oh, all varieties of doom are round about us, dumping gloom upon the human race; our lives we're taking in our hand, wherever we may walk or stand, or ride or dance or chase. And yet along our course we speed, as though our lives were guaranteed, for eighty-seven years; next year we will insure our lives, and save, some money, that our wives may eat, if death appears. Next year, or maybe five years hence, we'll show we have some good horse sense, and salt some coin away; next year we'll tread the thrifty track and lift the mortgage from the shack—we're out for fun today. This reason, multitudes of jays who look ahead to countless days that they may never see; no man who on this planet rides can safely bet one hour divides him from eternity. Let us be prudent, then, and wise, meet obligations as they rise, and cancel every debt; if there are chores that should be done, oh, let us do them are the sun of this bright day has set.

Silesia May Become Source of Trouble.

France Will Send Reinforcements Independently -- Fordney Tariff Bill Passes U.S. House.

FRENCH ANGER.
PARIS, July 21. French official circles received a distinct shock from the British Government's reply to the French suggestion that Allied reinforcements be sent to Upper Silesia, and in some quarters to-day, Anglo-French relations are described as critical as a result. The French Government is said to have been unprepared for the severity and unyielding tone that this morning's newspapers indicate characterizes the British communication. Editorial comment suggested that the British Premier acted entirely too hastily in refusing to agree with the French view that additional Allied troops were necessary in Upper Silesia.

FRANCE HOSTILE TO MEETING.
LONDON, July 21. While the formal reply of Premier Briand of France to Earl Curzon's proposal for an immediate Supreme Council meeting has not yet been received, it is learned in official circles, late this afternoon, that a verbal answer has been given to the British charge at Paris, in which the French reiterate their desire for a postponement of the meeting until late in August. Meanwhile it was added, the despatch of further troops for the pacification of Silesia is necessary.

FRANCE TO ACT INDEPENDENTLY.
PARIS, July 21. France, it was declared in official circles this morning, will send reinforcements to Upper Silesia, whether Great Britain joins or not, in those reinforcements suggested by France. The French move will be made, it was declared, to insure the safety of ten thousand soldiers already on the ground there.

TO REPLACE OBSOLETE SHIPS.
LONDON, July 21. Mr. Lloyd George declared in the House of Commons to-day that it was essential for the Government to proceed with its policy of replacing obsolete capital ships of the navy. As a result of candid discussions with the principal naval powers, the Premier declared, it might be possible to avoid anything in the nature of competitive bidding, but he said, it would be a dereliction of duty on the part of the Admiralty to allow neglect, and not to provide it with material equal to the rest, and in which full confidence could be had. The Premier was speaking concerning four capital ships, provided for in naval estimates. He was asked if the Government would not suspend work on the capital ships, pending the outcome of the Washington Conference. Mr. Lloyd George said the Government in replacing obsolete ships, neither committed itself to, nor contemplated, any building program in answer to that of any other power.

NO BASIS YET.
LONDON, July 21. A basis for the Conference to attempt a settlement of the Irish question has not yet been found, it was announced in an official communication issued after the Conference to-day, between Eamonn De Valera and Mr. Lloyd George. Mr. De Valera and colleagues, adds the communication, will return to Dublin to-morrow, and will communicate with Mr. Lloyd George, after further discussion with their followers there. Mr. De Valera arrived at Number 10 Downing Street at 11.30 this morning. He remained until 12.25. The Republican leader was chatting and smiling as he came out, and it seemed to the crowd that he was pleased with his interview.

CURZON IS HOPEFUL.
LONDON, July 21. A hopeful view of the Irish peace negotiations was taken by Lord Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the House of Lords this evening, when he incidentally touched upon the question. It was the Government's intention not to have an autumn session of Parliament, Lord Curzon said, in answering a question, but if the Irish negotiations proved successful, and so far, he was glad to say, they seemed charged with hope, it was conceivable that an Assembly of Parliament in the autumn might be necessary.

THE IRISH TERMS.
LONDON, July 21. The Parliamentary correspondent of the London Times understands that Premier Lloyd George will announce the terms of the Government's offer to De Valera in a speech in the House to-morrow.

FAMINE IN RUSSIA.
PARIS, July 21. An appeal addressed to all nations in the world, asking that they organize to provide immediate aid for millions of Russians now suffering from famine in the region of the Volga River and South West, was issued last night by the Executive Committee of the Russian Constituent Assembly. Latest reports from this region say that epidemic diseases are rapidly getting beyond control, and that if relief is not immediately provided, another serious European menace is imminent.

FORDNEY BILL PASSES.
WASHINGTON, July 21. The Fordney Tariff Bill was passed to-night by the House by almost a straight vote, after the Democratic motion for its recommittal had been rejected by 239 to 127. The vote for the passage of the Bill was 239 to 127.

Brick-Making Old Art.

The Bible tells us of the manufacture and use of bricks. The most ancient records contain references to this building material, and we know as early as the year 44 A.D. the Romans used them in England. The actual scientific and mass production of bricks did not begin until 1886, when Alfred the Great directed that bricks be manufactured under government supervision. History does not tell of another ruler who became deeply interested in this industry until we came to Charles I., who, in 1625, thought it necessary to regulate the size of bricks, so that transportation difficulties could be overcome. An inventor in the United States by the name of Spence is credited with the first brick-making machine, but an Englishman, whose patent was granted in 1861, was the first to produce brick by steam at the rate of 1,500 an hour.

Episcopal Visitation.

Bite of Confirmation at Crabbes

His Lordship the Bishop of Newfoundland, accompanied by his Chaplain, Rev. Canon Bayly, and Rev. A. Butler, Rector of the Parish of St. George's, was at Crabbes on Thursday, July 7. On arrival Wednesday evening the Episcopal party was greeted with volleys of musketry, the salutes of welcome being fired as the Bishop and clergy passed under the first arch, erected near the Cemetery, where Mr. Richard Chaffey was in waiting with horse and wagon and took the Bishop to his residence, where he was entertained during his stay. The Chaplain lodged with Mr. Isaac Chaffey on the East side of the River. Two other very fine arches were erected, one at the Norris Lodge, and one at the Church gate, decorated with flowers and bearing appropriate inscriptions. Manifestly those who planned and erected these arches possessed something of the beautiful in nature and art.

At 7.30, the Bishop, fully robed, entered the Church preceded by his Chaplain, bearing the Pastoral Staff, and the Lay Readers. Mr. J. A. Renouf, the Churchwarden, read a most appropriate address of welcome from St. Michael's congregation, to which His Lordship made a very happy reply and thanked the congregation for the address and the splendid reception accorded him. The Rector then presented 47 candidates, all of whom knelt before the Bishop and were confirmed. The Bishop's address to the children was couched in simple but beautiful language, which the youngest novice could understand, and dwelling particularly on the efficacy of prayer as a means for using the grace given to them in their daily lives.

At 7.30 this morning there was a celebration of the Holy Communion, the Bishop being celebrant, Rev. S. A. Butler, Epistoler, and Rev. Canon Bayly, Gospeler, and all those who were confirmed yesterday, and many others, received the Holy Eucharist from the hands of their Bishop. After service the Bishop and party were taken to Crabbes Station by teams and left by No. 2 express for Stephenville Crossing.

At the station the Bishop exchanged greetings with His Lordship Bishop Renouf of St. George's, who was paying an official visit to his people and our good neighbours at the Highlands and Crabbes Station. As the train was about to pull out three hearty typical Newfoundland cheers were given for both the bishops.—COM.

The ROYAL STORES, Limited

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

EVEN A TIGER.

Isn't it marvelous how a skillful author can enlist your sympathies for any person whom he chooses to make his hero or heroine?

Even if that person isn't a person at all but an animal.

The other evening I read a story about a tigress. She was represented as being different from the average tiger, gentle and almost kindly. When the circus tent blew down in a hurricane she escapes and goes into the mountains where her cub is born. Two days later while hunting for food for herself and the cub she is shot and badly wounded and creeps back to lie down by the cub, weak and fevered.

How Our Sympathies Are Aroused.

So strongly does the author work up our sympathy for the mother feeding and petting her tiger baby even while she herself is starving and perhaps dying, that I did what I seldom do, skipped ahead because I was so anxious to know if everything came out all right.

In the end the tigress carries the cub back to her old home in the circus and I breathed a sigh of relief when I saw them safely received and domiciled.

Now isn't it perfectly marvelous that that sigh of relief could be won from me by my feeling for a fictitious animal, and further than that an animal which ordinarily is identified in our minds with the idea of cruelty and savagery and treachery. "Tiger, tiger burning bright through the darkness of the night, what immortal hand or eye planned thy fearful symmetry?"

Horses and Dogs Are Closer.

It isn't so strange that the suffering of dogs and horses can touch our hearts because both of these animals suggest to us the highest and finest qualities, as much as if not more than human beings. "The more I see of men the more I admire my dog," For myself the three things in fiction which opened the fountain of tears most deeply were the death of Colonel Newcome in Thackeray's "The Newcomes," the disgrace of the dog Red Wull in "Bob Son of Battle" and the death of Ginger in "Black Beauty."

The author and I were discussing the tiger story and he admitted to a similar feeling of suspense, even though he is not so fond of animals as I. "It shows what a writer with skill can do," he said. "I wonder if he could take an insect as his hero and get us all excited over him."

Not the Fly or Mosquito.

We considered that point and decided that while there are certain insects, such as the spider or the ant or the bee, for which sympathy might be aroused, there are certain others, such as the caterpillar or the fly or the mosquito, for which not even the cleverest author could arouse sympathy.

Of course the way the thing is done is by personification, by ascribing to the animal the big human feelings. In the case of the tiger, it is the devoted mother love that arouses our sympathies. We are imagining ourselves in the animal's place and pitying ourselves.

And it would really be too much of a strain to imagine oneself in the place of such a detestable creature as the caterpillar, wouldn't it?

Embargo on Cheap Meat

OVERSEAS EX-PREMIER ASKS FOR ITS REMOVAL.

Extracts from the "Daily Express" were quoted again before the Royal Commission which was holding an inquiry into the House of Lords into the question of the removal of the embargo against the importation of Canadian cattle into this country.

"I was not responsible for the statement of the B. Farmers' Federation in the 'Daily Express' that the introduction of Canadian store cattle would reduce the price of meat by 6d. a pound," said Mr. William Henderson, farmer and stock breeder, of Coupar Angus, Forfarshire, "but I agreed with the estimate at the time and in the circumstances then prevailing."

A ludicrous picture of the Highland glens of Scotland if Canadian cattle were imported was drawn by Mr. James C. Booth, farmer and butcher, of Peterhead. "Large areas of the glens," he said, "will be depopulated of the finest fighting men we have in the country."

Conflicting Views.

"What Canada wants," continued Mr. Booth, "is not the reduction of the price of meat, but to improve the price of Canadian cattle. It will be a bad day when we flood this country with store cattle from outside sources, no matter what the sources may be."

Mr. John Evans, of Lincoln, who gave evidence on behalf of the council of the Royal Agricultural Society, the Dairy Farmers' Association, and other bodies, was no more optimistic. He stated it to be his opinion that probably in June 1922 there would be as many cattle in this country as it could support.

Lord Morris, former Prime Minister of Newfoundland, gave strong reasons in support of the contention that the embargo should be removed. "I do so from the point of view of Empire development and Empire advantage," said Lord Morris. "I am not personally interested," he continued, "but Newfoundland imports seven-eighths of her cattle from Canada for the purpose of milk cows and for stall breeding. Generally speaking, from any point of view, there will really be no danger to this country from the importation of Canadian cattle," he concluded.

Just Folks

THE HARDER PART.
 It's mighty hard for Mother—I am busy through the day
 And the tasks of every morning keep the gloomy thought away
 And I'm not forever meeting with a slipper or a gown
 To remind me of our sorrow when I'm talking in the town
 But with Mother it is different—there's no minute she is free
 From the sight of things which tell her of the joy which used to be

She is brave and she is faithful, and we say we're reconciled,
 But your hearts are always heavy once you've lost a little child,
 And a man can face his sorrow in a manly sort of way
 For his grief must quickly leave him when he's busy through the day,
 But the mother's lot is harder—she must learn to sing and smile
 Though she's living in the presence of her sorrow all the while

Through the room where love once waited she must tip-toe day by day
 She must see through every window where the baby used to play
 And there's not a thing she touches nor a task she finds to do
 But it sets her heart to aching, and begins the hurt anew.
 Oh, a man can turn from sorrow, for his mind is occupied,
 But the mother's lot is harder—grief is always at her side.

Taught a King Economy.

When King James was not yet James I. of England, but still only James VI. of Scotland, a letter was written which was extant in 1817 and was printed in Blackwood's (Edinburgh) Magazine in December of that year. It was a remarkable letter in its way, because it testified to the poverty which might even then "hedge" a King. James wrote his cousin:

"I pray you, lend me thy pair of silken hose in order to grace my royal person at the reception of the Spanish Ambassador."
 But if James was once poor, and perhaps all his life a little fearful of sword, he became very rich and prodigal in his expenditures, and brave in facing the complaints of the keeper of the royal purse. The lord treasurer of England was often in despair when favorites presented him with orders for large sums. He determined to teach the king a lesson if he could do so in a diplomatic way.

The Earl of Somerset's appearance before the lord treasurer with a royal order for $100,000, was the opportunity which the treasurer seized upon. To make the king aware of how great were the sums he was squandering on Somerset, the lord treasurer invited James to an entertainment. In a room through which the king must pass the treasurer laid out four tables. On each table he piled $25,000.

The king was astonished by the four immense heaps of money. He had never before seen such sums with his own eyes. He stopped at he had ordered paid to Somerset. He sight of them, and demanded the "Zounds, man!" James cried. "One reason for this amazing display. He of these heaps of glittering coins is Blueberry muffs and white with toll that was the money which enough to serve his turn."

The Modern Substitute for the family cow in the barn is a tin of Libby's Evaporated Milk on the pantry shelf.

Clean, Safe Milk is a Necessity.

Expert medical research indicates that including the amount used in cooking, a pint of milk each day for an adult and a pint and a half for a child, is necessary for our physical well being.

Evaporated Milk

answers all requirements for a clean, safe, convenient and economical milk.

If you could visit any one of the splendid condensaries where Libby's Milk is made, you would be enthusiastic over the advance it represents in cleanliness and scientific care as compared with your ordinary source of milk supply.

You can use it for tea, coffee, cooking and drinking, or in any way in which milk or cream is used.

Look for the white and blue label at all good grocers, and order a few tins of Libby's Evaporated Milk to-day.

Galvanized Into Life.

We submit below some information gleaned by Sir Michael Cashin relative to Education.

The answers were tabled by Dr. Hynes, Minister of Education, at Wednesday's session of the House.

The questions and answers are as follows:

Question—If the Minister of Education of his department has been for some time past engaged in the framing of a scheme whereby the country is to be divided into inspection districts for educational purposes, each district to be under the jurisdiction of one or more of the inspectors now being trained abroad for this work?

Answer—The Superintendent, in accordance with Section 21, Sub-section 1, Education Act, 1920 have been and are at work upon this problem.

Question—If the scheme contemplates that these inspectors are to inspect all schools within these Districts not alone the schools of the denominations to which the inspectors themselves belong, but of every other denomination as well?

Answer—The Supervisors will be called upon to visit, examine and report upon the schools assigned to them by the mutual consent of the Superintendents of Education.

Question—Is this not a breach of the principle of denominational education as recognized in this Colony?

Answer—Such an arrangement in no sense constitutes a breach of the principle of denominational education as by law established in this Colony.

Question—If protests against this proposed procedure have been received by himself, his department, or any officials thereof, from representatives of certain denominations, and if so to lay on the table of the House copies of the said protests?

Answer—No protests have been received by the Department from the representatives of certain denominations.

Question—To lay on the table also a written statement of the policy of the Government in this respect and how it is proposed to employ the different inspectors?

Answer—The policy of the Government in this particular has not yet been decided on.

C. L. B. Cadets Camp Notes.

GETTING DOWN TO ROUTINE.

Yesterday was cleaning up day with the C.L.B. Cadets encamped at Topsail. In spite of the dampness, consequent on the previous night's rain, the lads were out of their tents before the last notes of the reveille had sounded and were up to the river and washed within a very few minutes. The greater part of the day was spent in putting the finishing touches to the camp. Everything was made spick and span and the camp ground was also cleaned up. Lieut. "Billy" Moty, the efficient quartermaster is looking well after the lads and his management of the commissariat is worthy of commendation. The Battalion has received an invitation from the O.C. J. Co. Wabana, to visit Bell Island on Tuesday. They will leave for the island at 10 a.m. and will spend the whole day there as the guests of J. Co., returning to Topsail at 9.30 p.m. All ranks are looking forward to this excursion. Yesterday, the Brigade badge and motto was laid out in small stones, near the entrance to the camp. The badge in particular, is exceedingly well done, all the most minute details having been inserted. The outer stones will be whitewashed to-day and the badge will be painted in red, yellow and blue, the Brigade colours. The work was done by C.S.M. Harold Rendell and Sergt. A. Feaver. To-day, the regular camp routine will be enforced and is as follows:—

- Reveille—6.00 a.m.
- Cocos and Biscuits—6.15 a.m.
- Parade—7.00—7.30 a.m.
- Breakfast—8.00 a.m.
- Parades—9.00—9.45 a.m. 10.00—10.45 a.m. 11.00—11.30 a.m.
- Clean Limes—11.30 a.m.
- Inspection—12.00 noon.
- Bathing Parade—12.15 p.m.
- Dinner—1.00 p.m.
- Retreat—5.00 p.m.
- Tea—5.30 p.m.
- Prayers—8.15 p.m.
- Last Post and Staff Parade—10.00 p.m.
- Lights Out—10.15 p.m.

About 12 bandmen are at present in camp and they are giving their first camp dance to-night. There will probably be several more dances before camp comes to a close. From now on the work of getting the companies up to the mark for the inspection by H. B. the Governor on Thursday next, will be carried out, and particular attention will be paid to marching manoeuvres. It is to be hoped that before long the weather man who is as a rule so kind to the C.L.B. in camp, will present them again with some warm weather and to add to the pleasure of the holiday.

Catalina Celebrates Boyne Day.

Called to order by the sound of the gavel was the large body of Orangemen who had assembled in their Lodge Room on Sunday morning, July 19th, to attend Divine Service in Commemoration of July 12. As the day was exceptionally fine it afforded an opportunity for many of the older brethren of the ranks to be with us who, were it not for the fitness of the day could not possibly attend and no doubt would have brought back a longing for their minds for the days when first they began their celebrations. Sharp at 10 o'clock the long procession could be seen moving along the decorated streets of Catalina towards the Church of the Holy Martyrs (Fort Union) and the society entered the church at 11 o'clock and was met at the door by the Rev. R. F. Mercer, the newly appointed incumbent of the mission who conducted the service, which was very impressive to the minds of all hearers. The sermon was very forcibly delivered in words suitable to the occasion and cannot but have a lasting effect upon the minds of all present. After service return was made to the Hall where it was moved by Bro. E. M. S. Milfin seconded by Bro. A. E. Reid that the best thanks of the Lodge be tendered to the Rev. Mercer for the services rendered to us. The brethren were then dismissed and repaired to their respective homes feeling thankful to Divine Providence for being privileged to attend worship on this other commemoration of the Boyne.
