

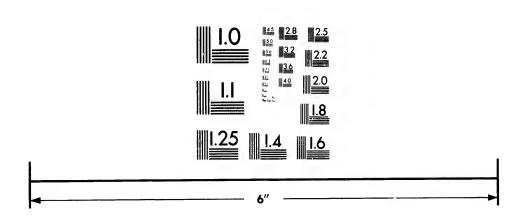

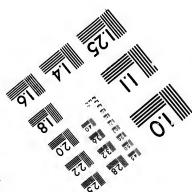

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences Corporation

23 WEST MAIN STREET WEBSTER, N.Y. 14580 (716) 872-4503

CIHM/ICMH Microfiche Series. CIHM/ICMH Collection de microfiches.

Canadian Institute for Historical Microreproductions / Institut canadian de microreproductions historiques

(C) 1984

Technical and Bibliographic Notes/Notes techniques et bibliographiques

	12X	16X	20X		24X	28	×	32X
			1
This i Ce do	tem is filmed at tl cument est filmé 14)	au taux de rédi	tio checked belov uction indiqué ci- 18X	n/ dessous. 22X		26X	30X Additional comm Commentaires su
	Blank leaves add appear within the have been omitte Il se peut que cel lors d'une restaux mais, lorsque cel pas été filmées.	e text. Wheneve ed from filming, taines pages bl ation apparaiss	er possible, these / anches ajoutées ent dans le texte	,	slips, tissu ensure the Les pages obscurcies etc., ont é	es, etc., hav best possib totalement o par un feuil té filmées à	lly obscured by re been refilme le image/ ou partiellemer llet d'errata, ur nouveau de fa- age possible.	d to nt ne pelure,
√	Tight binding ma along interior ma Lare liure serrée distortion le long	rgin/ peut causer de	l'ombre ou de la		Seule édit	eldaliava no dinoqaib noi	le
	Bound with othe Relié avec d'aucr	es documents			includes s Comprend	upplementa du matérie	ry material/ I supplémentai	re
	Coloured plates a Planches et/ou il	end/or illustrati lustrations en c	ons/ ouleur	V		print varies. égale de l'im
	Coloured ink (i.e Encre de couleur	. other than blu (i.e. autre que	e or black)/ bleue ou noire)	V	Showthro Transpare	•
	Coloured maps/ Cartes géograph	iques en couleu	r		Pages det Pages dét Cover title missi Le titre de couve			V	Pages dis Pages déc	coloured, sta colorées, tac	ained or foxed/ hetées ou piqu	ées
	Covers restored Couverture resta						r laminated/ u pelliculées
	Covers damaged Couverture endo				Pages dar Pages end	maged/ dommagées Coloured covers Couverture de c	•			Coloured Pages de orig cop whi repr	Institute has atte inal copy available y which may be b ch may alter any o oduction, or which usual method of f	e for filming. Fe ibliographically of the images in h may significa	eatures of this unique, or the antly change	qu'i de d poir une mod	l lui a été p cet exempla nt de vue bi image repi	ossible de s dire qui sont ibliographiqu roduite, ou c ans la métho	neilleur exempl e procurer. Les peut-être uniq pe, qui panvent qui peuvent exi pde normale de	détails ues du t modifie ger une

The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Library of the Public Archives of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol → (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ▼ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

La bioliothèque des Archives publiques du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▼ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de çauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

1	2	3

1 2 3

1	2	3
4	5	6

rata

ails

du odifier

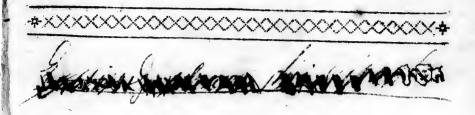

une

nage

elure, å

2X

 Į. M *>

REVIEW

William OF THE Williother.

MILITARY OPERATIONS

Present from IN me & _ n

NORTH-AMERICA.

WAS AN WINNER THE SALE AS LEADING

" " "" K

M

The or

With ne T

Prin

REVIEW

OFTHE

MILITARY OPERATIONS

IN

NORTH-AMERICA;

FROM

The Commencement of the FRENCH HOSTILITIES on the Frontiers of Virginia, in 1753, to the Surrender of Ofwego, on the 14th of August, 1756.

INTERSPERSED

With various Observations, Characters, and Anecdotes; necessary to give Light into the Conduct of American Transactions in general; and more especially into the political Management of Assairs in New-York.

In a LETTER to a Nobleman.

NEW-YORK:

Printed by ALEXANDER and JAMES ROBERTSON, MDCCLXX.

linea our pole a L shall I wi

Forg ftron

a me to wl

Whe

REVIEW

OFTHE

MILITARY OPERATIONS

Y N

NORTH-AMERICA, &c.

My Lord,

ESTEEM myself highly honoured, when Introduction you request of me, a full account of the rife, progress, and present state, of the military operations in North-America; with a just delineation of the characters of the principal agents in our political affairs. Indeed, my Lord, you impose a task that will require a Volume, rather than a Letter. As your Lordship's desire, however, shall always carry with me the force of a command, I will engage in it with the utmost chearfulness. Forgive me, my Lord, for faying I have a still stronger motive for composing these sheets, than a mere compliance with your Lordship's request; to which I would ever pay the profoundest regard. When I reflect upon your eminent station---your excelling excelling abilities --- your warm and active zeal. for the interest and welfare of the British colonies: I am prompted by an unfeigned defire of ferving my country; and fetting before your Lordship's eves TRUTH, in her plain undifguised habiliments: I would ftrip her of all that delufive colouring, with which she hath been artfully varnished, by letterwriters from this part of the world; either to fubferve some mean finiter party defign, or to promote the views of some aspiring and ambitious minds. Candour and integrity shall therefore guide my pen; and amidst the variety with which it is my purposé to present your Lordship, it shall be my facred endeavour, to the best of my knowledge, to attach myself to the strictest -- the most impartial verity.

American colonies too long neglecgeneral importance.

THE American colonies, I speak it with submisfion, my Lord, were too long neglected by their ted, tho' of mother country; tho' loudly demanding her patronage and affiftance. Those, on the continent, reduire her peculiar notice: They may be made an inexhaustible magazine of wealth; and if suffered to fall into the hands of the French, such will be the accession to their already extended commerce and marine Rrength, that Great Britain must not only lose her former lustre, but, dreadful even in thought! cease to be any longer an independent power.

DOM fucc proj up the all I ceffa poli long men ly in

T too l laft . peop expe that conv Maff that redu the 1 feque impo its re laft ig al, for nies: I

ing my

's eves

nts : I

, with letter-

to fub-

o pro-

bitions

e guide hich it shall be vledge, partial

Submif-

v their patron-

ent, re-

ade an uffered

will be nmerce

ust not ven in endent

power.

power. Nay, should every other scheme fail, the fuccess of this will inevitably accomplish the longprojected defign of that afpiring nation, for fetting up an Universal Monarchy: for, if France rule the ocean, her resources will enable her to subject all Europe to her despotic sway. But it is unneceffary to offer any arguments in support of a proposition, of which the public seems to remain no longer insensible. Happy for us, had these sentiments prevailed earlier, and been more frequently inculcated: ! ..

THE importance of the colonies, my Lord, was More confitoo little confidered, till the commencement of the dered, on The reduction of Cape Breton by the tion of last war. people of New-England, was an acquisition so unexpected and fortunate, that America became, on that remarkable event, a more general topic of conversation. Mr. Shirley, the governor of the Massachusetts Bay, was the principal projector of that glorious enterprize: An enterprize, which reduced to the obedience of his Britanic Majesty, the DUNKIRK of North-America. Of fuch confequence to the French, was the possession of that important key to their American settlements, that its restitution was, in reality, the purchase of the last general Peace in Europe.

46

ce fe

ce fa ce in se fi

66,.8

.. a

46.d

arife

fron

has:

fo c

the

Thi

COIT

ley,

nia ?

find

hap

upo

ing

per

thei

graf

bùr

min

ped

100

Character of Gov. Shirley

Or all our plantation Governors, my Lord, Mr. Shirley is most distinguished for his singular abilities. He was born in England, and bred up to the Law, at one of the Inns of Court. In that profession he afterwards practifed, for several years in the Massachusetts Bay: and, in 1741, was advanced by his Majesty to the supreme command of that colony. He is a Gentleman of great political fagacity, deep penetration, and indefatigable industry. With respect to the wisdom and equity of his administration, he can boast the universal suffrage of a wife, free, jealous, and moral people. Though not bred to arms, he is eminently possesfed of these important military virtues---An extent of capacity to form and execute great defigns; --profound fecrecy; --- love of regularity and difcipline; --- a frugal and laborious manner of living; with the art of conciliating the affections; --- a talent which Hannibal admired in Pyrrhus, above all the rest of his martial accomplishments. In the first of these great qualities, Mr. Shirley is univerfally acknowledged to shine: and it is, in reality, more estimable, than all other military endowments without it; confifting, to use the words of that discerning historian Mr. Rollin, "in having great " views; in forming plans at a distance; in pro-" poling a delign, from which the author never departs; rd, Mr. lar abilid up to In that ral years was admand of political able inquity of rfal fufpeople. y possesn extent gns; --and diffliving; s ; --- a . above In the univerreality, wments that difg great in pror never eparts;

" departs; in concerting all the measures necessary of for its fucces; in knowing how to seize the " favourable moments of occasion, which are rapid " in their course, and never return; to make even "fudden wand unforeseen accidents subservient "to a plan; in a word, to be upon the watch " against every thing, without being perplexed and disconcerted by any event." But, whether it arises from his being so far advanced in years, or from his constitutional disposition and make, he has not, in my opinion, that activity and alertness fo conducive to warlike expedition; and on which the fuccess of ar enterprize frequently depends. This was one of the characteristics of Braddock; a commander, vigorous in executing, as Mr. Shirley, judicious in contriving a plan --- fed non omnia possumus omnes --- and 'tis easier, my Lord, to find active hands, than able heads. No man per- His attenhaps in the nation, has bestowed more attention, tion to coupon the state of the colonies in general: and having their interest fincerely at heart, he has been perpetually concerting expedients, advancive of their prosperity, and to check the views of an allgrasping Monarch. Upon the reduction of Louis. burgh, he earnestly recommended to his Majesty's ministers, the demolition of that fortress, and an expedition against the French settlements in Canada.

The reasons why he succeeded in neither of these with a regiment, and fent commiffary to Paris.

proposals, I cannot take upon me to assign. His Is rewarded Majesty, however, sensible of his services, gave him a regiment in 1746; and upon the conclusion of the peace of Aix-la Chapelle, fent him as one of the British commissaries to Paris, for settling the controverted limits between the two Crowns in America. Amidst all the splendors and delicacies of -Versailles, he forgot neither Our interest, nor His duty. As a proof of his integrity and diligence, during that fruitless embassy, one need only peruse these judicious and laborious memorials, in support of his Majesty's right to Nova Scotia, which were principally framed by him; and lately published by order of the Lords of trade, as a full exhibit of our title to that part of America. When no fatisfaction could, in this way, be obtained from the Court of France; which was artfully endeavouring to spin out the negociation, and at the same time fortifying the places in question, as well as making new acquisitions; the British commissaries retired from the French Court, and Mr. Shirley refumed his government in New England in Auguft 1753. engli unana Menucian 1753.

The French encroach on Virginia.

THE French, jealous of the growth of the English colonies, were now meditating all possible arts to distress them, and extend the limits of their

OWI

terp the

vinc

men

the

cond

Octo

there

desir

had

indu

jor V

occa

was an a

date

175 tion

66 C

46 V

65 F

cc y

c; }

c t er of these own frontier. The Marquis Dul Queine, an en- 1775 iclusion of one of the the conin Ameicacies of , nor His diligence, only perls, in fupia, which ately pua full ex-When ned from deavourthe fame well as missaries Shirley d in Au-

of the possible of their

OWN

ign. His terprizing genius, was at this time invested with gave him the supreme command of New France. Our provinces were quickly alarmed by the French fettlements, which he this year began on the banks of the Ohio. Virginia, appearing more immediately concerned, Mr. Dinwiddie * wrote, on the 31st of Message to October, to the commandant of the French forces mandant. there, complaining of fundry late hossilities and desiring to know, by what authority an armed force' had marched from Canada, and invaded a territory indubitably the right of his Britannic Majesty. Major Washington, a gentleman of whom I shall have occasion in the sequel to make honourable mention." was the bearer of this letter. He returned with an answer from Mons Legardeur De St. Pierre, dated at the fort on Beef River, 15 December, 1753; of which the following is an xexact translat It is answertion: "As I have the honour to conimand here in ed " chief, Mr. Washington delivered me the letters " which you directed to the icommandant of the 5 French troops. I should have been pleased if " you had given him orders, or if he himself had been disposed, to visit Canada and our general :

· Lieutenant Governor of Virginia.

" to whom, rather than to me, it properly apper-cc tains

1:7531

tains to demonstrate the reality of the King my

" master's rights to lands situated along the Ohio,

"and to dispute the pretensions of the King of "Great Britain in that respect.

36" I shall immediately forward your letter to

" Monf. Le Marquis Du Quesne. His answer will be a law to me: and if he directs me to communicate it to you, I assure you, Sir, I shali

", neglect nothing that may be necessary to con-

's vey it to you with expedition.

" As to the requisition you make (that I retire

" with the troops under my command) I cannot

"wballeve myself, under any obligation to submit;

"to it. L'am here, in virtue of my general's or" ders 3 and I beg, Sir, you would not doubt a " moment of my fixed resolution to conform to " them, with all the exactitude and steadiness that

"amight be expected from a better officer. 18 14 do not know that, in the course of this cam-stripaign, anything has passed that can be esteem"ed an act of hostility, or contrary to the trea" ties lublisting between the two crowns; the " continuation of which is as interesting and pleas" ing to us, as it can be to the English. If it had " been agreeable to you, Sir, in this respect, to " have made a particular detail of the facts which " occasion your complaint, I should have had the " honour

00 00

"

66 -1.6

دد دد

Di

Gr

He por

end

req nie

and ed King my. he Ohio,

King of etter to swer will to com-I shali to cont I retire I cannot o fubmit; eral's or-doubt a form to ness that

1 = 2 = 1

his camesteemhe treans; the nd pleaf-If it had pect, to s which had the honour

6 honour of answering you in the most explicit 1,7.53.

" manner; and I am perfuaded you would have " had reason to be satisfied.

"I have taken particular care to receive Mr.

"Washington, with all the distinction suitable to "your dignity, and to his quality and great meric.

1 flatter myselfthat he will do me this justice, and " join with me in tellifying the protound respect with which I am, it is a min bor bear bear's to no corder by the corder of the second of The y " Your most humble and a limit of -noise, "most obedient servant, not,

-mea. Legardeur De St. Pierre." charten of articol list M Ry's recorded ands

On the receipt of this resolute answer, Mr. 1754. Dinwiddie made instant complaint to the Court of Virginians Great Britain; and by alarming speeches laboured apply for aid to rouze the Virginians into a vigorous opposition. to the colonies. He wrote also to the neighbouring governors, importuning the aid of the other colonies, for repelling the invasion, and erecting a fort at the confluence of the Ohio and Monangahela. An immediate junction in such measures became absolutely requifite for our common fecurity. But the colonies, alas! were funk into a profound lethargy; and, refigned to stupidity and slumbering, appeared inlensible of the threatening danger. They con-

Dallar of Anil St

temned

CL

re

OV

ur

9 4

rei

ted

br

TH

VOI

me

gul

wei

Th

mai

the

ney

ny.

head

the -

who foner

rienc

reinf

that e

from

C

temned the power of Canada; confided in the number of their inhabitants; inattentive were they to the inconveniencies of an endless frontier; and in short infirely unacquainted with the situation of the inland country. The waters of the Ohio, before this period, were scarce-known, save to a few Indian traders; and the generality deemed those French fertlements too remote to be the object of dread, and a matter of infignificant moment. Ac-But they ge- cordingly, when application was made for succours cused them to Virginia, conformable to directions from the ministry, some of our provincial assemblies, particularly those of Pennsylvania * and New York , seemed even to question his Majesty's title to the lands usurped by the French. Others, to avoid their Thare in the burden, framed the most trifling exnerally exfelves.

You would not admit, that the French encroachments " and fortifications on the Ohio were within our limits, or his Majesty's dominions, thereby feeking an excuse to " avoid doing what was required of you."

> Gov. Morris's message to the affembly of Pennsylvania, a., Nov. 1755.

Address of the general assembly to Lieut. Gov. De Lancey, 23 April, 1754.

^{ &}quot;It appears, by other papers your honour has been " pleased to communicate to us, that the French have built * a fort at a place called the French Creek, at a confiderable of distance from the river Ohio, which may, but does not by " any evidence or information appear to us to be an invasion of any of his Majesty's colonies." Ill Cale to n the e they and tion of

o, bea few those ject of Ac+ ccours om the particufeeme lands ld their ling excuses

achments - limits, excuse to rity Erit affembly 17.55

has been ave built fiderable es not by invalion ut. Gov.

cufes. New York, however, voted 5000 l. currency in aid of Virginia; which, considering her own fituation, and approaching diffres, was no ungenerous contribution. ... Baffe berebaud words

THE Virginians inevertheless proceeded in their refolution of marching a body of troops to the protection of their frontiers : and passed an act in February 1754, for raising 10,000 l. and 300 ments Forces raised The command was given to Colo Washington, a Washington. young gentleman of great bravery and distinguished merit. By his Majesty's direction, two of the regular independent companies of foot at New York, were ordered to the frontier of that dominion. They embarked for Virginia on board the Centaur man of war; which unfortunately did not fail from thence till the middle of June, and carried the money before mentioned to the affiftance of that coloand the state of the state of ny.

Col. Washington began his march, at the Who had a head of his little army, about the ift of May, of On successful the 28th he had a skirmish with the enemy, of the enemy. whom ten were flain, and about twenty made prifoners. But this public-spirited officer soon experienced a reverse of fortune. Waiting for further reinforcements, he was alarmed with an account, that 900 French and 200 Indians were advancing from the Ohio; who accordingly in two days after came

"came up, and an engagement immediately cnfued! Our thoops were but a handful compared to the number of the enemy, confifting only of about three hundered effective men. After a vigorous relittance for three hours, in which it was faid near two hundred of the French and their Indian allies But was af were flain; Col. Walhington, oblerving the great serwards. subdued by numbers.

111 27

superiority of the enemy, who now began to hemon him in on all quarters, found himself under an ablolute hecdfity of submitting to the disagreeable terms that were offered thim + 1 1 aid the recognition in the frontiar of the imminor The third of July,

The terms of capitulation granted by Mons. De Villier, captain and commander of the infantry of his Most Fort Wacestry, which is built on the land of the king's

As our intentions have never been to trouble the peace and harmony which reigns between the two princes in amity, but only to revenge the affallination which has been done on one of our officers, bearer of a station, as appears by his writings; as also to hinder any chablishment on the lands in the dominions of the king my master; upon these considerations, we are willing to grant protection and favour to all the English that are in the faid fort, upon the conditions thereafter mentioned.

JEOGN 139 PO D'ARTICLE I. We grant the English commander, to tetire with all his garrison, and to return peaceably into his own country; and promise to hinder his receiving any insults from us French, and to restrain, as much as shall be in our power, the savages that are with use # our erribal our

ARTICLE II. That the English be permitted to march out, and carry every

W

ed

be

the

an

ca

an

7 and a fu as fi

Arik

Ί Fren

the are whe end tion upo mou And cade Sieu the the Van as he men efcor mad ely cnfupared to of about vigorous faid near fan allies the great began to under an agreeable

In

De Villier, his Most actually in the king's peace and amity, but e on one of s writings; the domirations, we the English eafter men-with all his untry; and French, and favages that and carry every In this action we had thirty killed and fifty wounded. The French were observed to be affisted by a considerable number of Indians, who had been long in the English alliance: Not a few of them were known to be Delawares, Shawanese, Consequences of and of the Six Nations*. On the surrender of our this deseat. camp, they fell at once to pillaging the baggage and provisions; and not content with this, they every thing with them, except the artillery, which we keep.

ARTICLE III.

That we will allow the English all the honours of war; and that they shall march out with drums beating, and with a swivel gun; --- that we are willing to shew that we treat them as friends.

ARTICLE IV.

That as foon as the articles are figned by both parties, they firike the English colours.

ARTICLE V.

That to-morrow, at break of day, a detachment of the French shall make the garrison file off, and take possession of the fort: And as the English have a few horses or oxen, they are free to hide their effects, and come and search for them when they have met their horses: And that they may for this end have guardians, in what manner they please, upon condition, that they will give their word of honour, not to work upon any building in this place, or in any part this fide the mountains, during a year, to be accounted from this day. And as the English have now in their power an officer, two cadets, and most of the prisoners made in the assassination of Sieur Desamonville, that they promise to send them back to the Fort De Du Quesne, situate on the Fine River: And for the security of this article, as well as this treaty, Mess. Jacob Van Bracham and Robert Stobo, both captains, shall be put as hostages, till the arrival of the Canadians and French abovementioned. We oblige ourselves, on our side, to give an escort to return in safety these two officers; a duplicate being made upon or of the post of our blockade. July 3, 1754.

^{*} They are called Mingoes by the fouthern Indians.

1754.

afterwards shot some of the horses and cattle, and scalped two of the wounded *.

AGAINST this conduct, Col. Washington remonstrated, but all his arguments made but little impression upon them. The Canadians delight in blood; and in barbarity exceed, if possible, the very Savages themselves. Thus the French remained masters of the field; the Indians were riveted in their defection; his Majesty's arms unsuccessful; and our frontiers exposed, through the ill-timed parsimony of the provinces. The enemy, on the other hand, wisely improved the present advantage, and erected forts, to secure to themselves the quiet possession of that fertile country. How evident then was the necessity of uniting the power of the British colonies! The expediency of a plan for that purpose had been before considered. Some measures seemed also absolutely requisite for supporting our Indian interest, and preventing their total declension.

Grand congress held at Albany.

ACCORDINGLY, agreeable to his Majesty's orders, the 14th of June was appointed for a grand congress of commissaries from the several provinces, to be held at Albany, as well to treat with the Six

Nations,

Na of pat ten of 40 var the cou citi fo the mei Joh froi Ind bein fro pro like Cli

ped

len

ed v

្នំ† puti

^{*}Among other infractions of the capitulation, the destruction of the doctor's box ought not to be forgotten; by which means our wounded were barbarously distressed.

See Col. Innes's letter of 12, July, 1754.

ttle, and n remonittle imlight in ole, the nch rewere rims unugh the present themountry. ing the ency of sidered. ifite for enemy,

orders. l convinces, he Six ations.

renting

destrucwhich.

1754.

Nations, as to concert a scheme for a general union 1754. of the British colonies. Messengers had been dispatched to the Indian castles * to request their at- Indians detendance; but they did not arrive till the latter end ance, and the of the month; and the Mohawks, who live but reasons. 40 miles distant, came in last. This occasioned various speculations: some imputed it to fear; lest the French, in their absence, should fall upon their countries: Others to art, --- imagining that by exciting our jealoufy of their wavering disposition, at fo critical a juncture, the more liberal would be the presents made them by the several governments. Not a few thought it an artifice of Mr. Johnson's, who expecting to rife into importance, from the reputation of a mighty influence over the Indians, kept them from a punctual attendance; being very confident of a public request to himself from the commissioners, to go up, and hasten their progress. There was the highest evidence of the like piece of policy at an Indian treaty, during Mr. Clinton's administration. The Indians however at length arrived, tho' fewer in number than was expected, or had been usual on those solemn occasions. Hendrick, a noted Mohawk fachem +, apologized for the delay of that canton, in a speech to this effect: "There was (said he) an interview "last, fall, between Col. Johnson and the six na-"tions, at Onondaga. Our brethren of the other nations reported, that his speech to us was con-"certed by the Mohawks: We therefore come last, to prevent any ground for the repetition of such slanders, with regard to the address now to be made us by your honour."

* The Indians, call their villages, which are only furrounded with pallisades, castles.

[†] A fachem is a warrior, and a man of an established reputation for his wisdom, and bravery, among the Indians.

1754.

Commissioners, and how ranked.

THE congress having been opened on the 18th of June, were ready to treat with the Six Nations; and on the 29th, after settling disputes between the commissioners concerning rank and precedence, Mr. De Lancey, the Lieutenant Governor of New-York, addressed himself in a speech to the Indians. ---On his right hand, were Meff. Murray and Johnson, two of the council of New-York; next to them, Mess. Wells, Hutchinson, Chandler, Partridge, and Worthington, commissioners from the Massachusetts Bay: Then the gentlemen from New Hampshire, Mess. Wyburn, Atkinson, Ware. and Sherburn: And last on that side, Mess. Hopkins and Howard, commissioners of Rhode-Island. On his left, were feated Mess. Chambers and Smith, two other of his Majesty's council for New-York: Then the Connecticut commissioners, Lieutenant Governor Pitkin, Major Walcot, and Col.

Williams :

Wi and Col

The from to : value the war from

con

missing were missing formerica. of t with flamery experient abance

mig

peech to nterview e fix nahe other vas conre come tition of reis now he 18th Vations: between cedence. of New-Indians. ray and k; next ler, Parrom the n from , Ware, ff. Hop. e-Island. ers and or News, Lieund Col.

lliams :

Williams: After them Mess. Penn, Peters, Norris. and Franklin, from Pennsylvania: and last of all, Col. Tasker and Major Barnes, from Maryland.

THE treaty was conducted with great folemnity. Indians The Indians appeared well pleafed with the prefents from the feveral governments; which, compared but blame to former donations, amounted to an immense value: But in their answer, recriminated upou us the defertion of our fort * at Saraghtoga the last war: lamented the defenceless condition of our frontier city of Albany; and extolled the better conduct of the French, in fortifying and maintaining their garrisons.

THE Indians being dismissed, the conferences were continued till the 11th of July. The commissioners were, both for abilities and fortune, some of the most considerable men in North-America. The speakers however were not many; but of those who spoke, some delivered themselves with fingular energy and eloquence. All were inflamed with a patriot-spirit, and the debates were nervous and pathetic. This affembly, my Lord, might very properly be compared to one of the ancient pleased with the presents. our conduct.

* Upon the disbanding of the forces raised for the Canada expedition in 1746, and the assembly's disinclination to garrison it, the fort, by order of Mr. Clinton, was burnt and abandoned.

1754.

1754.

Plan of a

ancient Greek conventions, for supporting their expiring liberty against the power of the Persian empire, or that Lewis of Greece, Philip of Ma-In the conclusion, a plan was concerted for a general union of the British colonies, and creating a common fund to defray all military expences; and a representation of their present state drawn up; which were agreed to be laid before the King's ministers. Some of the governments have nevertheless declared themselves averse to this scheme; tho' approved at the time by every member of the congress, except Mr. De Lancey. Unaccountable was the conduct of this gentleman to everal of the provincial deputies. But those who were best acquainted with his character and love of iway, ascribed his aversion from the plan, to an apprehension, that should the same take place, the Approved by all, except De Lancey.

Hischaracter and history.

As the Lieutenant Governor will appear, in the course of this letter, to bear a principal part in our public transactions, it will be necessary, before I proceed any farther, to present your Lordship with

fupreme officer, who agreeably to it was to prefide in the grand council of deputies from the respective colonies, would most probably be the governor of the Massachusetts Bay: An apprehension, which repressed his own aspiring views; and, it was imagined, stung him with unspeakable chagrin.

fin to gen who his able In to mery ty's ( beca

took

extre tratio

his r

Depo to hi

first s

wit

* Mi Spent f of that judge of g their Perfian of Mancerted ies, and tary exent state fore the ats have to this y memy. Uneman to rose who and love n, to an ace, the o preside e respec-

agrin. , in the rt in our governor

n, which it was before I Lordship with with his picture at full length. Without an in- 2754. timate knowledge of that gentlemen's history and genius, it will be impossible to comprehend his conduct, or trace his actions to their genuine fource_

I-IE is the eldest branch of one of the first families in the province. His father, a French refugee, a gentleman of distinguished rank in this city, and who here acquired a large fortune, fent him for his education to the university of Cambridge. He was a youth of prompt parts, and made a confiderable progress in learning, especially in the classics. In the year 1729 he was, by Governor Montgomery's recommendation, created one of his Majefty's Council of New-York; but never engaged the public attention, till the time of Mr. Cosby. became then very famous. With this governor he took part in most or all of his measures --- measures extremely arbitrary, and productive of an adminiftration odious and turbulent. Cosby, in return for his ministerial services, loaded him with favours. Deposing Chief Justice Morris (the main obstacle to his perilous projects) he raised him to the first seat on the bench . But tho' his excellency had ^{} Mr. De Lancey was not educated to the law; but having pent some time, after his return from England, in the study of that science, Gov. Montgomery appointed him second udge of the supreme Court of Judicature.

eft

tri

am

we

bet

fup

Was

hib

gen

ed with

fole

virt affer ed I

long

fign

com

good

hope

thro care

prov

mini

open

1753. had the disposition of offices, he could by no means delegate the affections of the people. Accordingly, our politician was equally honoured and defpised. He enjoyed the smiles of the governor, which loaded him with the curses of the people; was careffed by the former, and by the latter abhorred. Cosby leaving a successor capable of governing without a prompter, the chief justice found it necessary to to deface the memory of his former conduct, by cultivating the arts of popula-Mr. Clarke, who succeeded *, being perfectly master of our constitution, a gentleman of experience and penétration, and intimately acquainted with the temper of the people, in a short time reconciled all parties; and by restoring the public tranquility, rendered Mr. De Lancey's plodding abilities utterly useless. Hence he was at full leifure to court the populace. Suddenly he became transformed into a patriot; and, strange to relate! without a fingle act of patriotism. His uncommon vivacity, with the semblance of affability and ease; his adroitness at a jest, with a shew of condescension to his inferiors, wonderfully facilitated his progress. These plausible arts, together with his influence as Chief Justice, and a vast personal estare

* In March, 1736.

o means cordingand defovernor. people; atter able of gof justice ry of his f populaeing" pereman of acquainort rime ne public plodding t full leie became o relate! uncomility and w of conacilitated ther with personal eftare

estate at use, all conspired to secure his popular triumph. To establish such an undue power, and amazing influence, would, in a Grecian commonwealth, have exposed a man of less ambition and better principles to the oftracism. Mr. Clark being superseded by Governor Clinton *, Mr. De Lancey was presented with a fresh opportunity for the exhibition of his political genius. Mr. Clinton, a gentleman of but indifferent parts, wholly refigned himself into his hands. Contenting himself with the title and falary of Governor, he left the fole direction of affairs to his minister, who, by virtue of his late acquired omnipotence with the affembly, carried all his points, and even endeared him to the people. This intimacy subsisted no longer than it was found conducive to his de-Having obtained from Mr. Clinton a new commission for his office of chief Justice during good behaviour; and flattering himself with the hopes of another, appointing him Lieut. Governor, through the interest of his friends in England, he cared not how foon his excellency abdicated the province, nor how tempeltuous he rendered his administration; and was therefore prepared for an open rupture. He no sooner thought himself capable able of acting independently of the Governor, than, like Sixtus Quintus, who threw aside his crutches the moment of his exaltation to the popedom, he put offall that humble devotion, by which he had fo fatally deceived his too credulous mafter, and openly fet himfelf at defiance against him. Now he began to dictate, rather than advise: and instead of Sejanus, chose to be Tiberius himself. one day with Mr. Clinton, and infifting upon some favourite point with great imperiousness, the Governor, who had hitherto very cordially fuffered himself to be led, refused on this occasion to be driven. The Chief Justice then arose and left him; declaring, with an oath, he would make his administration uneasy for the futute: His Excellency replied, he might do his worst. Thus they parted; nor were ever afterwards reconciled. This breach gave rife to the contentions, which fo unhappily imbroiled our provincial affairs, during the remainder of his administration. The affembly were inflantly inflamed. He who before had been able to make them connive at very unjustifiable steps, could at once stir up an oppofition to the most unexceptionable measures. Remonstrances, warm and virulent, were now drawn up; unworthy their own dignity to offer, and replete with the groffest language to his Majesty's representative.

^{*} Mr. Clinton arrived as Governor, 22 Sept. 1743.

1754.

rep Clin he d him rv hun viol in and Clir whi stat fpor bey blov vinc pair enoi men 39th vers to re influ mal

Kin

all

and

r, than,

rutches

om. he

e had fo

d open-

he beftead of

Dining

g upon

es, the fuffered

n to be

ft him: his ad-

xcellen-

us they nciled.

which

rs, du-The

before

ery un-

oppo-

and reajesty's

ntative.

Redrawn representative. Thus was formed against Mr. Clinton a powerful party, which ceased not, while he continued at the helm, to harrass and perplex him. To fuch an exhorbitant length did they carry their opposition, as to throw off the restraint of humanity; They had even recourse to force and violence. Nay, a partisan of the Chief Justice, in defiance of the facred rights of the magistracy and the law --- to shew his resentment against Mr. Clinton and his adherents --- affaulted the mayor; whipped the sheriff; damned the Governor; and stabbed his physician. My Lord, we became the fport and contempt of our neighbours; and it is beyond contradiction, that Mr. De Lancey, by blowing up the coals of contention, did the province more injury, then he will ever be able to repair. Nor is there any reason to doubt, that the enormous power of this gentleman, and the ferment raised against M. Clinton, occasioned the 39th article of the king's instructions to Sir Danvers Osborn; which appears purposely calculated to render our future Governors independent on his influence over the affembly: For a law indifinite, making provision for the falary allowed by the King to his Governors; and competent falaries to all judges, justices, and other necessary officers and ministers of government --- fuch a law, I fay, would 1754.

would effectually render a Governor independent of the assembly, and consequently of any undue influence in it. Nor without fuch independence, or an abridgement of Mr. De Lancey's power, by reducing him to his primitive private station, do I fee any probability of the extinction of that partyspirit, which hath so long disturbed the tranquility, and injured the public weal of the colony. Mr. Clinton, being supperseded by Sir Danvers Osborn, *a gentleman of a most amiable moral character, retired into the country; from whence he propofed to embark for Great-Britain. The Chief Justice, notwithstanding his long declared enmity, and unwearied industry to embarrais his administration, had now --- the humility, shall I call it? --- to dispatch a messenger to him, with design if possible to procure an accommodation --- in order to fecure his favour in England, when he could no longer distress him in America, It were difficult to determine, whether this required a higher degree of assurance or servility. But it is no uncommon thing, to behold the same person fastidious and fawning, fupercilious and fycophantic. Mr. Clinton, far from an implacable enemy, began to be foftened; when his lady (who if born among the Scythians,

u

ec

in

aE

ex

he

for

of pre

in t pri

he

the

in

COL

66.]

^{*} Sir Danvers Osborn arrived at New-York, the 7th of Ostober, 1753.

Scythians, had been the Thalestris of antiquity) 1754. pendent unravelling the fecret, frustrated at once all exidue inpectations of a composition; and gave the plenince, or potentiary fuch a volley of investive against his ver, by constituent, as rendered all future overtures intiren, do I ly hopeless. t party-

On the death of Sir Danvers Ofborn *, equally His appoint. unexpected and deplored, Mr. De Lancey publish- ment to the ed the commission he had just received, appoint- and system of ing him Lieutenant Governor. He was now to politics. act a part intirely new, and demanding the full exertion of his political dexterity. In the first place, he had to convince the ministry of his utmost efforts to carry the King's instructions in the house of representatives: And in the next, in order to preserve his popularity with the assembly, and not in the most flagrant manner counteract his avowed principles, he was to fatisfy them, that in reality he by no means expected their compliance with them. To execute the former part of this plan --in his speech of the 31st of October, 1753, to the council and general assembly, he says, --- "You His speech to " will perceive by the 39th article of his Majesty's in- the council

" ftructions to Sir Danvers Osborn, (copies of which bly. " I shall herewith deliver you +) how highly his Ma" jesty

7th of iquility,

y. Mr.

Osborn,

naracter,

propos-

nief Jus-

ity, and stration,

- to dif-

posible

er to feould no

ficult to r degree

ommon

ous and

r. Clin-

n to be

ong the thians,

^{*} This happened on the 12th October, 1753.

⁺ The 39th instruction was published in one of our news. papers :

li

th

pr

me

his

ob

cet

the tin

affe

gor

por

mer

judi

men

" ti " v

" fo

ec p

I

1754.

" jesty is displeased at the neglect of, and contempt " shewn to, his royal commission and instructions, " by your passing laws of so extraordinary a nature, " and by fuch your unwarrantable proceedings, " particularly fet forth in this instruction: Hence " also his Majesty's royal pleasure as to these mat-" ters will appear, and what he expects from you. "On this head, I must observe to you, that by " our excellent conftitution the executive power is lodged in the crown: That all government " is founded on a confidence, that every person " will discharge the duty of his station; and if "there should be any abuse of power, that the " legal and regular course is to make application " to his Majesty, who having a paternal tender-" ness for all his subjects, is always ready to hear " and redrefs their grievances:" and then addref. fing himself to the assembly in particular --- " I " must earnestly press it upon you, that in pre-" paring your bill for the support of government, " and other public fervices, you pay a due regard " to his Majesty's pleasure signified in his instruc-" tions; and frame them in fuch a manner, as " when papers; and re-printed in England. The publication of it was thought to have been intended to excite the popular clamour; and it occasioned the resentment of the ministry. It is worth remarking, that copies of several other instructions were expressly ordered by his Majesty to be laid before the assembly; but no such directions were given with respect to this.

WALLEY.

tempt ctions, nature, dings, Hence se matm you. hat by power rnment person and if that the lication tenderto hear addref_ --- " I in prernment, regard instrucner, as when > ion of it popular ministry. ftructions. he affemto this.

" when laid before me for my assent, I may give 1754. " it consistent with my duty to his Majesty." What think you, my Lord? could your favourite Garrick have personated Richard the Third in a livelier manner, than this gentleman the real advocate for the royal instruction? --- Could the man, who but a day or two before had intrigued with the members how to elude that very instruction, preserve his gravity, while acting such a tragicomical farce? --- for that, my Lord, was the method in which he performed the fecond part of his plan. As his Majesty's representative, he was obliged to urge their compliance with feeming fincerity and warmth--- but as James De Lancey, Efq; their old friend and best adviser, it was his real sentiment, that never ought they to submit.

MATTERS being thus previously adjusted, the affembly in their address studiously avoid a categorical answer with respect to the indefinite support: But to gratify his honour, and blaken the memory of Mr. Clinton, that he might not prejudice him in England, they make use of this memorable evalion --- "On reading the 39th at- Affembly's

"ticle of his Majesty's instructions to Sir Dan- evasive an-

" vers Osborn, your honour's immediate predeces-

" for, we are extremely furprised to find, that the " public transactions of this colony have been

" fo maliciously misrepresented to our most gra-" cious Sovereign. We can, Sir, with truth and " justice affirm, that his Majesty has not in his " dominions a people more firmly, and that from " principles of real affection, devoted to his per-" fon, family, and government, than the inhabi-" tants of this colony. And we are greatly at a " loss to discover, in what instances, the peace and tranquility of the colony have been diffurb-" ed, or wherein order and government have been " subverted. If the course of justice has been ob-" structed, or in any case perverted, it has been 66 by the direction, or through the means, of Mr "Clinton late Governor of this province, who " fent peremptory orders to the judges, clerk, " and sheriff of Duchess County, to stay process, " and stop the proceedings in feveral cases of " private property, depending in that court; and who did, in other counties, commissionate judges ' " and justices of known ill characters, and extreme " ignorance: One stood even presented for per-" jury in the supreme court of this province, whom " he rewarded with the office of assistant judge; 46 and others were so shamefully ignorant and illiterate, as to be unable to write their own names: "From whence we greatly fear, that justice has " in many cases been partially, or very unduly ad-ISHALL " ministred."

fen due Mi as dan the Cli

* C

ca

th

de

nó

let

wi

ed

Ar

tic

no

wh

an

mi

CO

and

ft gra-

th and in his

it from

is per-nhabi-

tly at a peace

ifturb-

ve been en ob-

is been

of Mr.

who

clerk,

processa

ases of t; and judges extreme

for per-

, whom judge;

and il-

names:

tice has

duly ad-SHALL

I SHALL not trouble your Lordship with a vindication of Mr. Clinton; but only observe --- that the fuits commenced in Duches County were by on this addeferters against their Captains *; that the governor, who was no lawyer, affured the house, his letters to the justices were written unadvisedly, and with precipitation; and that if any man was injured, he would readily compensate his damages. And as to the charge of appointing ignorant just tices, it lies with equal truth against all our governors, (Mr. De Lancey himself not excepted) who, to influence elections, have gone into an unjustifiable practice of intrusting blank commissions with certain favourites in the respective counties, impowered to place and displace civil and military officers at their pleasure. These election jobbers are generally the court members in affembly: And decency, my Lord, should have induced them to stifle the ridiculous affertion, that Mr. Clinton rewarded a man for being perfured; as well as the more pertinent invective against the dangerous usage just mentioned, for corrupting the house of representatives. --- But to disgrace Mr. Clinton was expedient to the Lieut. Governor; and hence this attack, upon the former.

UPON

Captains of t'ne levies raised for the Canada expedition in 1467.

Numerous and fulfome addresses to the Lieut. Governor.

UPON his honour's advancement to the government, the press laboured with addresses; and the incense offered upon the occasion, might have perfumed the whole temple of Delphos. It was not enough, that, agreeable to antient usage, he was prefented with the compliments of public bodies alone. It was necessary, from the number of addresses, to display his extensive influence, and the universal joy --- thereby, if possible, to lay the foundation of his continuance in the administration. Accordingly, the very militia officers and supervifors of Queen's County (a motley asiemblage!) were made to groan out their aspirations for this auspicious event --- "Oh!--- that his gracious " Majesty would be pleased to confirm and fix you, " for a long time, in this exalted station." Never have I feen an infignificant interjection more infignificantly employed. To fo extravagant a pitch, my Lord, did this exuberant ardor arrive, that we at length found him cloathed with an incommunicable attribute of the Deity himself ---" Thefe even his immutable moral rectitude. things in you, (fay they) are not fo properly cal-" led virtues, as NATURAL ENDOWMENTS. You will " not, you cannot act otherwise than you do." With such sustian can some men be regaled: and by e

a

ti

e

tŀ

h

m

a ra

je

vė

govern-

and the

have per-

was not

, he was ic bodies

er of ad-

, and the

lay the istration.

fupervi-nblage!)

s for this gracious

d fix you,

more in-vagant a

or arrive,

th an inmielf ---

" Thefe

erly cal-

You will ou do."

4: and by

Never

by fuch fustian is oftentimes a whole nation de- 1754. luded.

To proceed in the character of this remarkable American --- He is a person of quick apprehension, and extensive acquaintance with the law; which he acquired with incredible application, to obliterate the indifferent figure he made, when first elevated to the chief feat on the bench, to serve the purposes of Governor Cosby. Without the talents, he has all the ambition of a Ripperda. His thirst after popularity, which in him is a mere engine of state. hath almost banished all public spirit; and the triumphs of power occasioned the exile of common Apprehensive of the diminution of his own fenfe. lustre, his jealoufy will not admit a competitor; His jealoufy; but fets him at mortal odds with a rifing independent spirit, lest it be rewarded with popular favour, and thence refult into popular interest --- in derogation of his own fovereign influence. Hence, whoever would accomplish a patriot measure, must either obtain his leave; and then he arrogates to himself the merit due to its author; or carry, it by mere stratagem, without which he may be sure of a disappointment. In the latter case, he has generally address enough to be revenged on the projector, by rendering both him and his project univerfally odious. Some among us fee these arts;

many 1754. many suspect them; few dare mention them; and fewer still oppose them. Thus a people, who would by no means be forcibly deprived of their liberties, post into voluntary bondage: and they who would fcorn a vaffalage to the greatest monarch, become dupes to a dictator of their own creation.

and univerfai influence.

Or all provincial affairs he is the uncontrouled director. As Chief justice, great is his interest in the counties: with that interest he commands elections? with his sway in elections he rules the affembly: and with his fovereignty over the house controuls a governor. His influence with the members of the assembly being the main source of his exorbitant power, never will he serve the Crown at the risque of a diffention with the house. will only stand by a governor while at his devotion, and standing fair with the people; but in case of a rupture, instantly facrifice prerogative on the altar of popularity. His own interest is his idol, and every thing else made subservient to procure it veneration and esteem. The men who are his greatest tools, are generally by himself the most despised; and fometimes treated with despite and insult. If they discover the least freedom of resentment (which few of them dare discover), he can with a fmile, or a joke, or a promife, or a bottle, at once dissipate diffipa to the threat dark i render down, pleases and ev mony fuppor tion, ir mise su

SHOL extreme virtue, ple, who his contr question and a sti your you I am co merit. are often led and a bewitche crafty fed

determi

nd

ho li-

ey

0-

NN

ed

est

ds

he

ıse

he

of

Nn

He

n, f a

ar

nd

etſ-

t.

ht

a

e

diffipate the struggling resolution, and reduce them 1.754. to their primitive obsequiousness. By hints -- by threats and blandishments --- by emissaries --- by dark infinuations and private cabals, he is able to render any measure hateful or popular --- to put down, or raise up, whom, when, and what he pleases. Nay, my Lord, I will venture to affirm--and every man in the province must bear me testimony --- that while his influence continues to be supported with his office of chief justice, no operation, in which this colony is concerned, can promise success, should this monopolizer of power be determined to obstruct it.

Should it now be inquired, Must not a man so Reflections extremely popular be necessarily possessed of eminent on popular virtue, and warmly devoted to the weal of the people, who thus cordially refound his fame, submit to his controul, and agree to adorn his triumph? The question can only come from a novice in history, and a stranger to mankind. In the judgement of your your Lordship, who is deeply read in both, I am confident that popularity is no indication of With the deluded mulitude the best men are often unpopular --- the most pernicious, extolled and adored. The people are ever ready to be bewitched, cheated, and enflaved by a powerful crafty seducer: and, what is worse, ever ready to facrifice 1754. sacrifice whoever would disabuse and release them.

The same people who could without emotion behold a Sidney bleeding in defence of public liberty, could commit a riot in rescuing a Sacheverel for preaching fedition, and subverting the nation. Your Lordship remembers that Massanello, in the short space of ten days, was a poor fisherman, --- a popular incendiary, -- a fovereign viceroy, --- stripped of his honours, --- treated like a malefactor, --knocked on the head, --- and thrown into a ditch. Who, in fine, was more popular than the pestilent Clodius, except, perhaps, the more pestilent Cataline? 'Twas therefore well observed by the protector Cromwell, that the very men who followed him with acclamations and torrents of flattery, would with the same demonstrations of joy accompany him to the gallows.

Thus, my Lord, I have presented you with a faithful portrait of the Lieut. Governor of New-York, who is to bear no small share in the public affairs, of which I have the honour to transmit your Lordship an account - - a portrait, under which there had been no need of fixing a name to direct to the original, those who have the least knowledge of that gentleman's character.

Character of While these things were transacting at Albany, Mr. Thomas Pownal. Mr Pownal, brother to John Pownal, Esq; one of

th wi

cif

pe

wia

the wit

in

and def

ly

of

ed;

able

of i By in th

fomis hi

the t

gallo

them. ion beliberty, erel for nation. , in the in, --- a -- stripfor, --a ditch. pestilent nt Cataprotecwed him , would ompany u with a of Newe public transmit t, under. name to the least

Albany, liq; one of

of the secretaries to the Board of Trade, was upon the spot. This gentleman came over to America with Sir Danvers Osborn, in quality of his private fecretary; though it was imagined by many, he was deligned to be an affiftant to him in the exercife of the government. He is fornething of a scholar, but a confused reasoner; and in his stile perplexed; and in that usefullest of all sciences, the knowledge of mankind, he is a mere novitiate: without the latter, your Lordship knows that other acquirements are comparatively of small account, in the management of public business. To be only learned, is frequently to be vain, oftentatious, and obstinate; such a one, in a word, as Tertullian describes the most learned among the heathens, " an animal of glory." This gentleman is fond of being considered in an important light. Insatiable of praise, he can not only hear himself flattered; but, what is more unaccountable in a man of tolerable sense, can flatter himself. He is a person of uncommon application, and a good memory. By dint of industry, and an access to the papers in the Plantation Board Office, he has acquired some knowledge of American Affairs: but so keen is his appetite for promotion, that he cannot brook the thoughts of a gradual advancement. He is for galloping into preferment: and so intent on the contemplation contemplation of his future grandeur, as to lofe all patience in earning it. Being more skilled in books than men, he is very abrupt in giving a scholastic turn to conversation, in order to display his erudition. Ever ready to contradict : himself impatiant of contradiction. But wonderful is his knack at pluming himself with the chemes and inventions of others; and, with the daw in the fable, shining in a borrowed dress: a remarkable instance of which I shall give your Lordship in the following anecdote; as charecteristic of a person, who will ap-Pear to have had some considerable influence in the course of American transaction. During the sitting of the congress, it was scarce possible to prevent part of their fentiments from transpiring. The scheme of a Naval armament on Lake Ontario, projected by Lieut. Governor Clark, before the late war; submitted to the then ministry; and now strongly recommended by the commissioners of the Massachusetts Bay; by some means or other happned to be hinted without-doors vr. Pownal, intent upon rifing into fignificance among the colonies, choic not to slip so favourable an opportunity of distinguishing himself, as he could now lay accordingly drew up some loose indigested proposals, with respect to American affairs. Among other hold of, from these whispered intelligences.

1754

Anecdotes respecting a piece he pub lished. nor proto nier on couling and from of t

trit

the

the

inl

me

afte

len

gin

ent

#
1756 it we color with to the

to the

trite

lose all n books holastic his eru-If impas knack rentions shining of which ig anecwill ape in the the fitto preng. The Ontario, fore the y; and oners of or other Pownal, the copportunow lay es. He roposals, ng other

trite

trite fentiments, he urged this scheme as a new un- 1754. thought-of measure, absolutely requisite to secure the command, and preserve the furr trade of those inland seas. This he delivered to some of the members of the congress to be communicated: and afterwards transmitted a copy to England; challenging to himself the sole merit of being the original author of fo useful and necessary an expedient *.

WHILE the congress was held at Albany, Gover- Shirleyerects nor Shirely, ever jealous of French machinations, forts on Kennebec. proceeded, at the head of about one thouland men, to the river Kenebec; and erected forts, at conve nient distances, to stop the progress of the French on that quarter; to fecure the possession of that country with the friendship of the eastern Indians.

THE remainder of this year was principally spent in repeated representations to the ministry, respecting the dangerous fituation of the English colonies; and the absolute necessity of a powerful assistance from Great Britain, to defeat the ambitious designs of the court of France. ON. (अ. मतिम

* Mr. Pownel had this piece published in New-York in Feb. 1756. It contained an introduction, declaring, that copies of it were fent by the ministry to the respective governors of the colonies: and in the spring following, it was republished; with great oftentation, in the English magazines. With respect to those parts of it, wherein he talks of Indian affairs, the fentiments feem to be unintelligible by a North-American understanding.

On the welcome intelligence of the success of these representations; and while forces were expecting from England; the two regiments of Shirley and Pepperel were ordered to be re-established, and recruits were raising thro the several governments, to form an army for dispossessing the French from their late encroachments.

Defigns an expedition against Crown

THE general affembly of the Maffachusetts Bay being convened, and the members sworn to secrecy; Mr. Shirley communicated to them a design of attacking Fort St. Frederic at Crown Point, the ensuing spring; and his intention to appoint Col. Johnson to the command of that expedition. The scheme being approved by the council and representatives of that province, and the quotas settled, commissioners were charged to the neighbouring sovernments, to sollicit their concurrence and aid, in the prosecution of this enterprize.

WHILE these matters were in agitation, Mr. Pownal was at Boston, intending to sail from thence to England. He now thought fit to change his resolution; and Governor Shirley honoured him with the embassy to New-York, for which place he set out the beginning of March. Some gentlemen of the council and assembly were commissioned, on the like errand, to the other colonies of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, &c.

MR.

W

jea

wi

tre

tò

M

the gre

occ

De

of v

enk

hou

ture

anc

nan

disti

fubi

to o

the

cour

lead

when

join

Mr.

Piqu

ccess of vere exof Shirblished, govern-French etts Bay o fecredesign int, the nt Col.

The d repre-.fettled, bouring and aid.

n, Mr. thence his reim with he set men of ed, on ew Jer-

MR.

MR. Powner's prospects of success at New-York were at first not very encouraging. De Lancey, jealous of Shirley's rifing reputation, appeared, endeavours with regard to the expedition recommended, ex- to obstruct tremely phlegmatic: and though artful enough renceof New to abstain from an open opposition, he made use of York Mr. Chambers as his tool in council, to obstruct the concurrence of the legislature. At this time great animofities were prevailing in the province, occasioned by a charter just before granted by Mr. De Lancey, constituting a college for the education of youth, upon a foundation which happened to enkindle the general difgust. The majority of the house, apprehending the loss of their seats on a future election, should they afford it the least affistance, found themselves obliged rather to countenance the popular resentment. A gentleman of distinction, with whom Mr. Pownal advised on the subject of his commission, thought it a prudent step to open his message in part, to those members of the affembly, who, on the above-mentioned account, were then in the opposition. Several of the leading men were fecured by this method: and But in vain. when the house met, such a disposition appeared to join in the scheme proposed, that it was beyond Mr. De Lancey's power to obstruct it. Out of pique however to Mr. Shirley, to whom this ex-

1755.

De Lancey the concur-

pedition

of

fit

an

gr fho

Br

pr

for

ga

di

th

,pa

,bl

Fr

he

-ler

of

to

tai

Yo

wi jeć

of pro the

of 1755.

pedition was folely committed, he prevailed upon them to suspend the execution of their vote, until General Braddock's approbation was obtained: and by this artifice occasioned a considerable delay in the operations.

Braddock governors. and fettles the operations.

GENERAL BRADDOCK, being now arrived in Virconvenestie ginia, fent expresses to the several governors to meet him, in order to a consulation on the business of the approaching campaign. --- This convention was opened on the 14th of April*, at Alexandria in Virginia. Here it appeared, that thro' mifrepresentations from Virginia, the general was injoined to proceed immediately to Fort Du Queine. Those who re well acquainted with the country, could not help observing, that a march from Potowmac, across the Allegheny mountains, must be attended with incredible difficulty, hazard, and expence --- that the vicinity of New-York to Canada --- its Fort of Oswego on Lake Ontario --- together with the advantages of water carriage --rendered that province by far the fittest theatre [&]quot; It was at first proposed to have been held at Annapolis in Maryland. Mr. Shirley, who thro' the multiplicity of his affairs did not arrive there till April, has been charged with delaying Braddock's march near three weeks; tho' it is notoricas, that delay was occasioned by the failure of the Virginia contract for the necessary supplies. The general was afterwards obliged to enter into a new one with gentlemen in Pennsylvavia; which was not compleated till the 27th of May, near fix weeks from the conclusion of the congress.

ed upon e, until d: and lelay in lin Virnors to business vention exandria o' mifrewas in-Queine. country, rom Pomust be , and exto Canao --- toriage ---

Annapolis icity of his arged with t is notorie Virginia afterwards Pennsylvay, near fix theatre

of

of action. Braddock's orders were nevertheless por 1755. fitive. --- For the preservation therefore of Oswego, and the reduction of Niagara, it was at length agreed, that Shirley's and Pepperel's regiments should proceed to Lake Ontario, --- while General Braddock attacked Fort Du Quesne -- and the provincial troops, commanded by General Johnfon, marched to invest Crewn Point.

THESE refolutions being taken, Mr. Shirley be- Shirley regan his journey to Boston, to prepare for the expedition under his immediate command; to forward pare for the that under Col. Johnson; and to quicken the de- expeditions parture of the New England troops, now affembled by his Majesty's directions, for reducing the French settlements in Nova Scoria. On his way the spent some time in conference with Col. Schuy. der, a gentleman of fortune and courage, who, out of difinterested love to his country, was engaged to head a regiment of 500 men, raised and maintained by the province of New Jersey. In New York, he was retarded a few days to confult with General Johnson, and remove fime objections made by Mr. De Lancey to the form of his commission: * and in Connecticut, to haften turns to Bofton, to pre-Northern

1 15

^{*} Mr. Johnson had his commission from the governors of the provinces, which furnished the troops under his command; the draft of which was settled at Alexandria. The Lieut. Go.

Albany.

1755. haften the affembling the troops of that colony.* THE necessary dispatches being given to the expedition to Nova Scotia under Col. Winflow, Mr. Shirley, upon the arrival of the paymaster for the and fails for northern district, returned to New York; and on the 4th of July failed for Albany, his own regiment having passed by for that place, in twenty-one vernor of New York now thought proper to repeat those very objections, which had been there over-ruled. This unaccountable conduct gave Mr. Johnson great uneafiness, who could not obtain Mr. Delancey's commission, till proper notice was taken by General Shirley of so manifest an obstruction to the operations of the campaign.

ABOUT

transports, a few days before.

* Connecticut had voted one thousand men for the Crown Point expedition, and given assurances of 500 more, if the service so required. New York was to supply 800; but thro' the delay occasioned by the suspending clause above-mentioned in the vote of our affembly, Mr. De Lancey's brother was sent into Connecticut, to obtain leave for recruiting the quota we were to furnish, in that colony; as men might there be raised more speedily than in the province of New-York. Mr. Shirley being at Hertford, during this application, was told by governor Fitch, that if Connecticut complied, they should consider themfelves disengaged from the assurances given of 500 more than their own quota, did the service demand it. This, with Mr. Oliver De Lancey's declaration --- that if himself should accept the command of the New York regiment, he could in ten days raise the whole number in this province, induced Mr. Shirley to oppose the application; it appearing to him not improbable, that the fervice might afterwards require the reinforcement offered. In consequence of which, only 300 recruits were furnished New York from thence. --- A lucky incident for Mr. Shirley's adversaries to incense the people of New York against him; to which purpose it was industriously applied; tho' his conduct in that affair was prudent and rational; and tho' by repeated lettets to Lieut. Governor De Lancey, he took pains to remove any misunderstanding at a juncture so unseasonable.

uni Eng and whe emi Adı inte feize

ward in o Frei of V land 130 the

in a crof WOO

rifo:

rab !

me thel

gene tion olony * the exw, Mr. for the and on giment nty-one

Авоит

ofe very account-10 could tice was n to the : Crown e fervice ' the deed in the fent into we were ed more irley beovernor er themore than ith Mr. ould acould in ced Mr. him not he reinrecruits incident of New fly apational;

Lancey, flure fo

ABOUT this time, the colonies were filled with 1755. universaljoy, on the agreeable news that the New Nova Scotia England troops were become masters of Beau-sejour reduced. and Bay Verte, on the isthmus of Nova Scotia; whereby a new province was added to the British empire in America: and that a ftrong fleet, under Admiral Boscawen, lay before Louisburgh, to intercept the French supplies; and which had also feized two of their capital ships, the Lys and Alcide, and fent them into Halifax.

GENERAL BRADDOCK was now on his march to- Braddock wards the Ohio, at the head of about 2200 men, from Fort in order to invest Fort Du: Quesne, and drive the Cumber-French from their incroachments on the frontiers of Virginia and Pennsylvania. From Fort Cumberland to Fort Du Quesne, the distance is not less than 130 miles. Mr Braddock began his march from the former on the 10th of June; leaving the garrison under the command of Col. Innes. Innumerable were the difficulties he had to furmount, in a country rugged, pathless, and unknown, ar cross the Allegheny mountains, thro' unfrequented woods, and dangerous defiles. From the little me dows the army proceeded in two divisions. At the head of the first, consisting of 1400 men, was the general himself, with the greatest part of the amunition and artillery. The second, with the provise

V.

O

la

fr

8 b ro

fir

lei

lea

an

wi

tio

wa

im

mo

act

an

to

acc

and

for

ons, stores, and heavy baggage, was led by Col Dufibar! Never was man more confident of fuccess. do ... than this brave, tho' unfortunate officer. Being advised at the great meadows, that that the enemy expected a reinforcement of 500 regular troops, he puffied on by forced marches, with fo much difpatch, that he fatigued the foldiers, weakened his horses, and left his second division near 40 miles m the rear, the enemy being not more than 200 strong at their fort on the Ohio, gave no abstruction to the march of our forces, till the memorable of hof July -12 adday never to be forgotten in the annals of North Americas (About noon our troops passed the Monagahela, and were then within seven miles of Fort Du Quesne. --- Unapprehensive of the approach of an enemy, at once was the alarm given; by a quick and heavy fire upon the vanguard, under Lieut. Col. Gage. Immediately the main body, in good order and high spirits, advanced to sustain them. Orders were then given to halt! and form into battalia. At this juncture the van falling back upon them, in great confusion, a general panic feized the whole body of the foldiery; and all attempts to rally them proved utterly ineffectual. The general and all the officers exerged their utmost activity, to recover them from the universal surprize and disorder: but equally deaf were they

v Col iccess. Being enemy. ps, he ch difed his o miles an 200 ftructi_ norable in the troops thin fehenfive s the athe vantely the advaniven to ture the usion, a oldiery; rly inefexe wd the uniaf were

they

they to intreaties and commands. During this scene of confusion, they expended their ammunition in the wildest and most unmeaning fire. Some discharging their pieces on our own parties, who were advanced from the main body for the recovery of the cannon. After three hours spent in this melancholy fituation, enduring a terrible slaughter, from (it may be faid) an invisible foe, orders were given to found a retreat; that the men might be brought to cover the waggons. These they surrounded but a short space of time: for the enemy's fire being again warmly renewed from the front and left flank, the whole army took to immediate flight; leaving behind them all the artillery, provisions, ammunition, baggage, military cheft, together with the general's cabinet, containing his instructions and other papers of consequence. So great was the consternation of the foldiers, that it was impossible to stop their career, slying with the utmost precipitation three miles from the field of action; where only one hundred began to make a more orderly retreat.

WHAT was the strength of the enemy, has hitherto remained to us uncertain. According to Indian accounts, they exceeded not 400, chiefly Indians: and whether any were flain, is still to be doubted, for few were feen by our men, being covered by 1.755.

stumps and fallen trees. Great indeed the destruction on our side. --- Numbers of officers facrificed their lives thro' fingular bravery. Extremely unfortunate was the whole staff. The general, after having five horses shot under him, received a wound in his lungs thro' his right arm, of which he died in four days. His fecretary, eldest son of Major General Shirley, a gentleman of great accomplishments, by a shot thro' the head, was killed upon the spot. Mr. Orme and Capt. Morris, aidde-camps, were all wounded. Of the 44th regiment, Sir Peter Halket, Colonel, was flain, with feveral other officers; and Lieut. Col. Gage wounded. Lieut. Col. Burton, of the 48th regiment, was among the wounded; and nany gallant officers perished in the field. Ou. ...ole loss was about feven hundred killed and wounded.

To what causes the deseat was ascribed.

To what causes this unhappy catastrophe is to be ascribed, has been matter of much inquiry and animated debate. The officers charged the deseat to the cowardice of the men: but, in a representation they made to Mr. Shirley, by order of the Crown, they in some measure apologize for their behaviour --- alledging, that they were harrassed by duties unequal to their numbers, and dispirited thro' want of provisions: That time was not allowed them to dress their food: That their water (the

or ba he ar

th pe

tiv

the be

for Visiter

tro Bu

wa cor fol

fio:

Lo Do ne

me

only

the des facriktremegeneral. ceived a f which t son of reat acas killed ris, aid-4th rein, with woundent, was officers s about e is to be iry land ie defeat resentar of the their beaffed by lispirited ot allowater (the

only

only liquor too they had) was both scarce and of a bad quality: in fine, that the provincials had difheartened them, by repeated fuggestions of their fears of a defeat, should they be attacked by Indians; in which case the European method of fighting would be intirely unavailing. But, my Lord, however censurable the conduct of the soldiery may be thought, Mr. Braddock, too fanguine in his profpects, was generally blamed for neglecting to cultivate the friendship of the Indians, who offered. their affiftance; and who, it is certain, had a number of them preceded the army, would have feafonably discovered the enemy's ambuscade. The Virginian rangers also, instead of being made to ferve as regulars in the ranks with the English troops, should have been employed as out-scouts. But this step, so necessary to guard against surprise, was too unhappily omitted; the whole army, according to the representation above mentioned, following only three or four guides.

WHEN the routed party joined the second divi- Dunbar refion, forty miles short of the place of action, the treats preciterror dffused itself thro' the whole army. Your Fore Cum-Lordship might naturally expect to hear, that Col. berland. Dunbar then intrenched himself, and called on the neighbouring colonies for immediate reinforcements; --- as by fuch a step the enemy might have been .

been detained at Fort Du Quesse, prevented from ravaging the frontiers, or throwing succours into Niagara. But alas! my Lord, an infatuation seemed to accompany all our measures on the southern quarter. Fearful of an unpursuing soe, all the ammunition, and so much of the provisions were destroyed, for accelerating their slight, that Dunbar was actually obliged to send for thirty-horse-loads of the latter, before he reached Fort Cumberland—where he arrived a very sew days after, with the shattered remains of the English troops.

Major Gen. Shirley affumes the command. On Mr. Braddock's unhappy catastrophe, the command of his Majesty's forces in North Americal devolved upon Major General Shirley. I before acquainted your Lordship of his return to New York, and departure from thence to Albany, where he arrived the beginning of July.

ALBANY, my Lord, was the grand theatre of all the preparations for the northern expedition against Fort St. Frederic, as well as that to the westward for the reduction of Niagara. The general, on his arrival there, found not the former in the forwardness he had reason to expect. The provincials discontented with the inactivity of a long encampment, Major General Lyman was obliged to make short marches to prevent their disbanding; and the general was therefore detained a while in that city,

Is detained at Albany.

to

to

nfe

fro

pu

Th

ian

the

atil

gai

fo I

turi

inco

por

mar

fore

batt

The

Plac

way

tren

er,

fons

not

Tak

dle,

den,

nfean time were filing off, in different divisions;

from Schenectady toward Ofwego.

Oswego, along the accustomed routes is com-

Oswego, along the accustomed route, is com-Route to puted to be about 300 miles west from Albany. Oswego. The first fixteen, to the village of Schenectady, is. land carriage, in a good waggon road. From thence to the Little Falls, in the Mohawk River, at fixty-five miles distance, the battoes * are set against a rapid stream; which too, in dry seasons, is so stallow, that the men are frequently obliged to turn out, and draw their craft over the rifts with inconceivable labour! At the Little Falls, the portage exceeds not a mile: the ground being marshy will admit of no wheel carriage, and there fore the Germans who reside here, transports the battoes in fleds, which they keep for that purpofe. The fime conveyance is used at the Great Carrying-Place, fixty miles beyond the Little Falls; all the: way to which the current is still adverse, and extremely swift. The portage here is longer or shorter, according to the dryness or wetness of the sea-In the last summer months, when rains are not frequent, it is usually fix or eight miles across. Taking water again, we enter a narrow rivulet, called.

Dunbar fe-loads land---with the

the am-

vere de-

to New

re of all

I before

against ward for his arorward-ials difncamp-

o make and the

and the

, to

A battoe is a light flat-bottomed boat, widest in the middle, and at each end sharp pointed, of about 1500 weight burden, and managed by two men, with paddles and setting-poles.

called the Wood-creek, which leads into the Oneida Lake, distant forty miles. This stream, the favourable, being shallow, and its banks covered with thick woods, was at this time much obstructed with old logs and fallen trees. The Oneida Lake stretches from east to west about thirty miles, and in calm weather is passed with great facility. At its western extremity opens the Onondaga River, leading down to Ofwego, situated at its enterance on the fouth fide of the Lake Ontario. Extremely, difficult and hazardous is the passage thro' this river, as it abounds with rifts and rocks; and the current flowing with furprifing rapidity. The principal obstruction is twelve miles short of Oswego, and is a fall of about eleven feet perpendicular. The portage here is by land, not exceeding forty yards, before they launch for the last time.

Your Lordship, from this account, will readily conceive, that thro' such a long amphibious march an army must proceed with prodigious risque and fatigue; and the battoes be necessarily conducted by persons skilled in the navagation, and enured to hardships. For this service General Shirley hadengagad all the young men in the county of Albany, who formerly had been employed in the Indian trade at Oswego: and a vast number of battoes were prepared for the conveyance of the troops, stores, and provisions.

Oswego

m di th

th th

ce:

the

in of to ner def

do

the of

per

wei Th

of a cou tion

to t he Oneam, the covered bstructda Lake les, and y. At its er, leadance on xtremely this rivthe curprincipal go, and ar. The ty yards, ill readiphibious us risque ily con-, and en-1 Shirley ty of Alhe Indibattoes troops, Dswego

Oswego was formerly garrifoned by twenty-five 1755. men; but on the commencement of our present diputes, the number was augmented to fifty. Early this fpring fifty more were ordered up: and about the latter end of May, Capt. Bradstreet arrived there with 200, besides workmen to be employed in the naval preparations, purfuant to the scheme concerted in the congress of commissioners at Albany the last summer.

Col. Schuyler's New Jersey regiment embarked Troops proin two divisions from Schenectady, the beginning ceed to that of July. Shirley's and Pepperrell's were preparing to follow, when the melancholy news of Gen. Braddock's defeat reached that place. This struck a general damp on the spirits of the soldiers, and many deserted. Great numbers of the battoe-men disperfed themselves into the country, and sled to their respective habitations. To engage the return of above half me fugitives, equally ineffectual were threats or promifes, rewards or punishments. The general, however, fensible of the importance of the service, pursued his march in spite of every veratious disappointment. As he passed their country, he called upon the Indians of the Six Nations at fome of their castles; and entambassadors Six Nations to the rest, pressing them to join him, with assur- Niagara exances of his protection. But they seemed in ge-pedition, and averse to the

neral

neral greatly difinclind to our western operations. Indian affairs had been too long neglected by the province of New York, to which the principal management of them has always been committed. Neither the sums allotted for presents to those sa-

Johnson holds a conference with them.

vages, were always by our governors fairly expended; nor the prefents themselves honestly distributed. And partly thro' repeated frauds, and the omission of proper measures to conciliate their favour, our interest with them amounted to little more than a bare neutrality. Mr. Johnson nevertheless pretending a mighty influence over them, was intrusted with 5000l. sterling, in order to engage their affiftance for the general benefit of his Majesty's fervice. For this purpose he held a congress with fome of their principal fachems at Mount-Johnson*, foon after his return from Alexandria.

Your Lordship is pleafed to infift upon my "de-" fcending into a detail of every transaction, how " minute foever, that can give any light into the " more fecret springs of our political action." (I shall therefore acquaint your Lordship, that upon the general's arrival at Albany, Mr. Johnson laid before him a copy of the minutes of his late treaty with the Indians. These minutes, it seems, con-

Anecdote of Johnson and Shirley.

> * Sir William Johnson's own seat, near the lower Mohawk eastle, about 30 miles from Albany, tain lend ther not loya the who Indi ed t tion tion mat mak On Joh inti con

Hay com fole

imp mig fide

foor inte

tained

fide

d by the ipal manmitted. those faexpendtributed. omission our, our re than a less pres intrustige their Majesty's ress with ohnion*, my " deion, how t into the tion." I hat upon rations.

ion, how t into the tion." I that upon nfon laid ate treaty ms, contained er Mohawk

tained fome unhandsom reflections upon his excellency; infinuating, that to treat separately with them, he had employed one Lydius, a person of not the most unexceptionable character, either for loyalty or integrity. The fingle reason upon which the furmise could be founded was this. Lydius, who formerly lived near Lake George, and whose Indian acquaintance was very extensive, had offered the general his assistance, in procuring the junction of a number of them, on the defigned expeditions. Upon which he wrote to Mr. Johnson, intimating the pleasure it would give him, if he could make any use of this man in his Majesty's service. On delivering those minutes into the general's hands, Johnson, fensible of the infinuation, told him, he intirely disapproved the reflection they seemed to contain, and appeared ashamed of its insertion. Having perused the paper, Shirley could not avoid complaining of the ill usage, while the other with folemn vows protested, he was not privy to it, and importuned him to return the minutes, that he might erase the obnoxious passage. The former confided in the fincerity of his protestations, but foon after had abundant reason to distrust his integrity.

THE general had applied to one Staats, who refided near Albany, and had a confiderable interest with the Indians of Stockbridge*. He proposed to him his raising a company of them, as a guard to the battoes in their passage to Oswego. Privately was this man intimidated from the undertaking: and Mr. Johnson, to induce him to break thro' his promises, offered him a captain's commission, could he engage an Indian company to proceed on the expedition under his own direction.

Your Lordship, being already informed of this gentleman's appointment to the command of the cretary for Indian affairs, and clerk of the city and county of Albany. Governor Clinton had granted a commission for the latter of those offices, before the date of Wraxal's fign manual. A fuit was therefore commenced, and is still depending between him, and the person in possession of the office, su-provincial army, by the interest of General Shirley, will scarce have patience at the recital of a conduct so astonishing and ungrateful. The secret, my Lord, was this. --- Mr. Johnson was never distinguished for his sense or penetration. He had now for his aid-de-camp Capt. Wraxal, a man of art and genius, who a few years before had been appointed se-

Faction formed against the general, and occasion of it.

fpended on the determination of a point of law. Upon this account Wraxal became a humble dependant unle mul ter, thro and ing : vinc ed t with ed a fon nor. proc join or a obiti tario thin insta at S affui five

but,

(thr

head Shiri

^{*} Stockbridge, by the Indians called Housatonic, lies upon the western confines of the Massachusetts Bay, in the eastern parts of the province of New York.

thro' his n, could the exd of this d of the Shirley, conduct ret, my r distinnow for t and geinted fecity and ranted a before as therebetween lice, suaw. Updependant lies upon he eastern

ofed to

uard to rivately

taking:

ant on Lieut. Governor De Lancey, before whom, unless superseded in the chief command, the case must be determined upon a writ of error: the latter, who had been a declared enemy to Johnson, throughout the whole of Clinton's administration, and had even prevented the affembly from discharging a very equitable demand he had against the province for fervices and difbursements, now determined to fall in with, and fet him up, in competition with Shirley. Wraxal's post and dependence afford. ed a fine opportunity for the purpose: and so Johnfon became strongly attached to the Lieut. Gover- Evil effects nor. Your Lordship will no longer wonder at his of it. procuring all the Indians he could prevail upon, to join the provincial troops under his own command; or at his attempts to excite others to embarrafs and obstruct the general's designs upon the Lake Ontario. In support of a charge so heavy as this, I think it incumbent upon me to affign the following instances: 1. Not an Indian joined General Shirley at Schenectady, agreeably to Mr Johnson's positive affurances. 2. Nor at either of the castles in the five cantons, as he passed thro' them to Oswego: but, on the contrary; 3, One Bant, an Onondagar (three of whole fons were in Johnson's army) at the head of feveral other Indians, declared to Mr. Shirley at Ofwego, that it was a place of trade and peace --- that there should be no war there --- and that he should not disturb the French; adding, that he was going with the like message to Canada. The general having convinced him, that the expulsion of the French from their encroachments must redound to the advantage of the Six Nations; he afferted, that Mr. Johnson had sent them upon this embassy to Canada. Tho' this appeared utterly incredible, 'tis nevertheless certain, 4, several other Indians arrived from the Onondaga castle, with a belt, declaring it to have been fent them by Mr. Johnson, with his request, that not a man of them would join the King's troops, under the command of General Shirley. 5. Others also, from the Seneca, Oneida, and Cayuga cantons concurred in the like reports; particularly one Redhead, an Indian of great fame, and a speaker at the late congress at Mount-Johnson, came to Oswego, in his way to Oswagatic or la Gallette, and defired the ceffation of all military defigns; affirming, that with the same request he was going to the French.

peace

Ir was with difficulty, my Lord, thefe Indians were reconciled to our attempts, detained at Ofwego, and thereby prevented from communicating our operations to the enemy. The general, from these instance, became more and more suspicious, that the faction at New York were endeavouring to embarrass

CO of his val he en

Of wel

cor

diff wit retu acq mai ing tim a fe cil wer

John Mr.

Shar

very bar

1600

--- and dding, Canada.

the eximents ations; n upon ed utfevea castle, hem by man of ne como, from concuredhead, the late ego, in defired ng, that

French.

Indians t Ofwe-nicating al, from

picious, iri, g to barrass

embarrass and impede his measures. What farther confirmed his fuspicions, that the Lieut. Governor of New York, with that view, made Mr. Johnson his instrument, was a letter, which after his arrival at Oswego he received from the latter, wherein he justified that very aspersion before disavowed, contained in the minutes above recounted.

My Lord, we will now leave Mr. Shirley at Ofwego; and pursue the course of transactions, as well at New York, as in the fouthern colonies.

DUNBAR, having reached Fort Cumberland, Philadeldispatched an Indian express to General Shirley, phia. with an account of the defeat, and the necessary returns respecting the troops under his command; acquainting him, moreover, with his intention of marching to Philadelphia, and his hopes of meeting his orders at Shippensburgh. About the same time Mr. Dinwiddie wrote to Dunbar, propofing a second attempt on Fort Du Quesne. But a council being thereupon held, the Members of which were Col. Dunbar, Lieut. Col. Gage, Governor Sharp, Major Chapman, Major Spark, and Sir John St. Clair, it was unanimously conceived, that Mr. Dinwiddie's scheme was impracticable. The very next day, being the fecond of August, Dunbar began his march towards Philadelphia, with 1600 men, four fix-pounders, and as many cohorns; leaving leaving behind him the Virginia and Maryland companies, and about 400 wounded. At this fudden departure of the forces, the Virginians were extrmely disobliged, as not only exposing their frontiers, and occasioning the daily defertion of their provincials; but because the enemy, in flying parties, penetrated into the province, and on many of the inhabitants committed robberies and murder. What judgment ought to be formed of this retreat, I leave your Lordship to determine. Certainly those fouthern colonies ought to have strengthend General Braddock with a large body of provincial forces, which had doubtless prevented all that effusion of blood and treasure --- the fatal contequence of their ill judged parfimony! Upon the advi-Quefue pro- ces received from Dunbar, Mr. Shirley gave orders for renewing the attempt, if the fouthern colonies would readily afford him a competent reinforcement.

Frontiers of Vitginia left exposed.

Another attempt on Fort Du posed.

But Pennsylvania withholds her Aid.

GOVNENOR MORRIS having convened the Pennfylvania assembly, informed them of the retreat of our army, and in a well-drawn pathetic speech, pressed them to the most vigorous measures for the defence of their borders. They proceeded so far as to vote for raifing 50,000l. but offering a bill for taxing the proprietary-estate, an immediate rupture enfued, of which your Lordship is long since acquainted, by the ample accounts in fundry late pamphlets

P V th ed nif Al bly for to to inft only foot Sch tives with the most the with houf ned a feco

the

ceed

that meet

comidden

e ex-

fron-

their

g par-

iny of

urder.

treat,

rainly

hend

vincial

har ef-

equera.

advi-

orders

olonies

ement.

Penn-

of our pressed

lefence

to vote

or tax-

rupture

nce aclry late

mphlets

pamphlets on that and similar subjects. As to Virginia --- now equally open to the irruptions of the enemy, four companies of rangers were ordered out, and the affembly voted 40,000 l. for furnishing a thousand men for the frontier defence. About the same time, met the council and assembly of New Jersey, and the latter voted 30,000 l. for the public service: but as the house proposed to prolong the currency of the bills for nine years, to which Mr. Belcher, who never fwerves from his instructions, not being able to affent, 15,000 l. New Jersey only was raised, and its use restricted to keeping on foot her regiment at Oswego, commanded by Col. Schuyler. At New York, the house of representatives affembled on the 5th of August, and set out management with a generous spirit. Agreeable to the request of to the reinthe Massachusetts Bay government, always foremost in military affairs, they resolved to reinforce New York. the provincial army, destined for Crown Point, with 400 men The bill was actually pissed the house for that purpose; and the council had determined to conceal from their knowledge, the contents of a second letter from Gen. Shirley to Col. Dunbar, of the 7th of August, in which he ordered him to proceed with his troops to Albany, for the protection of that important post, in case the colony forces should meet with a repulse. By this bill the assembly proposed only continuesher regiment in pay.

Virginia provides for her frontier Defence alone.

De Lancey's with respect forcement defigned by proposed to invest the respective captains of the city militia with an arbitrary power to draught men for the service. The design of this extraordinary project was suspected to serve a particular purpose, on a new election of representatives, which, according to custom, it was thought would immediately ensue the arrival of Sir Charles Hardy, who was foon expected with a commission for the chief command of this province. It certainly was a favourite bill; for, contrary to president, the Lieut. Governor came to the council board*, and pressed them to pass it: but when he perceived an amendment preparing for a ballot of the recruits in New York, as well as in the other counties, he immediately laid the General's letter to Dunbar before the house --in consequence of which, the design of a reinforcement instantly dropped, and the assembly adjourned the next day.

His influence over the affembly. AFTER what I have already recounted, your Lerdship will not, I presume, be at all surprised, to find Mr. De Lancey leaving no device untried, to maintain the sole direction of the assembly. He knew that on his interest with the representatives depended dep with poin nion fupp nobl had very proc obed tions cend natu deriv ed or had rether none days pleaf luptu while who, the fi pular

^{*} Before the administration of Governor Cosby, it was customary for the Governors to be present in the council, even when sitting in their legislative capacity. But since that period, they have not openly interposed in the consultations of that branch of the legislature.

he city t men rdinary urpofe, accorddiately ho was ef comvourite Goverd them ndment v York, ely laid ouse --inforceidjournd, your irprised, tried, to He ly. ntatives epended t was cufncil, even

e that peiltations of depended his credit with the ministry; and that 1755. with the expiration of his power to carry certain points of prerogative, would also expire their opipion of his importance. His agents in England, to support their patron, had hitherto amused a certain noble Lord with many specious promises. They had represented his capacity to serve the Crown in very magnificent terms; nor forgot his readiness to procure, whenever an opportunity presented, the obedience of the house to some favourite instructions. Hence it is evident, that the loss of his afcendancy over that branch of the legislature, must naturally terminate in the extinction of his grandeur derived from the Crown.

WHILE he held the reins of government, assumed on Sir Danvers Osborne's decease, the ministry had none to inspect his conduct, or trace him thro' the mazy labyrinth of his politics. From himself came all their intelligence, and hence undoubtedly none in his own disfavour. During these golden days of security and repose, he resigned himself to pleasure, and indulged his natural disposition to voluptuousness and ease. The province, the meanwhile, was principally governed by his fecretary; who, like a fecond Atlas, bore the chief burden of the state. Thus negligent of his politics, his popularity began to suffer a manifest declension. It ritydeclines.

1755°

was moreover notably abridged by his paffing the charrer before-mentioned, repugnant, by his own confession, to the dictates of his judgment. By this step he incurred such general umbrage, that the vety members of the affembly could not be wrought upon to confirm it. Nay, so disgustful to the people was this charter, that a majority of the most reputable inhabitants united against it in a petition to the house. Civil liberty, and by some, even the rights of conscience were imagined to be in danger; and the opposition being, as it were, pro eris & focis, was extremely animated. The Lieut. Governor became now apprehensive of the consequence. He stood upon the point of resigning his command to a fucceffor hourly expected; and, without regaining his feat as chief justice, his popularity appeared descending from its meridian: nor, in case of a dissolution was he insensible his authority with the house must suffer a total eclipse. Your Lordship cannot therefore but observe, of what moment it was, to fecure the friendship of the next governor. Permit me to mention the arts, whereby it was accomplished.

He secures the ear of his successor;

SIR CHARLES HARDY arrived in our harbour on the 2d of September 1755. The council immediately convened themselves for his reception. In the midst of their consultations, Mr. Oliver De Lancey, without

Wit and fag the ed . rece ty a was nor him him nex and ente to t peop ferv of pain the bod

ter, men

men

not

ng the nis own By this the verought he peone most petition ven the danger; is & fo-Goverquence. mmand t regainppeared f a diffohe house cannot was, to Permit accom-

rbour on immedi-

. In the

Lancey,

without

without leave of the board, bolts into the chamber, 1755. and modeftly interpofes his advice, to fend a mefface to Sir Charles, requesting his continuance in the ship, till the next morning. The reason assigned was, to gain time for drawing out the militia, to receive his excellency at landing, with the formality and honour due to his rank. But the true fecret was, to gain an opportunity for the Lieut. Governor, and a felect juncto, to pass the evening with him, in order to conciliate his graces, and give him early impressions in favour of their party. The next day, the governor published his commission; and was, by Mr. De Lancey, invited to a public entertainment. In the evening they conducted him to the common, to hear the acclamations of the people; and on every occasion, followed him with fervile court and adulation. To impreis a high fense of his predeceffor's popularity, they spared no pains. For this purpose also they intrigued with the affembly, and city corporation, two elective bodies, and thence under his influence. Of the lat- and procures ter, Mr. Oliver De Lancey, as alderman, was a enlogiums member; and, with true fraternal affection, slimu- administralated the board to infert in their address a compliment to his brother. A modest motion, my Lord! and so vehemently urged, that it was carried, tho' not without some opposition. The burden of that momentuous

momentuous passage, without which the whole had been jejune and infipid, was discharged in these terms --- "We have the greatest reason to expect "the continuation of that wife and happy admini-"ftration, we have been bleffed with fome time " past." Still greater was Mr. De Lancey's interest in the affembly, as I have already had the honour to acquaint your Lordship. But one gentleman in that house opposed the flattery of their address. He is a man of an affluent independent fortune, a bold unshackled spirit, and of strong natural parts. The address was calculated to secure De Lancey's power both with governor and people: the former, by displaying to Sir Charles his formidable interest in that house: the latter, by preventing a diffolution; than which nothing was the object of greater dread. "It has, Sir, (these are the expressions) been usu-" al in this colony, at the accession of a new gover-" nor, to give the people an opportunity of a new " election of representatives. If your excellency "conceives, that fuch a measure, in the present " state of affairs, will be confistent with his Majes-46 ty's fervice, and the fecurity of this his loyal co-"lony, it will be agreeable to us, and to the peo-" ple we have the honour to represent.

"The importance of the business under our con"fideration, and the dispatch necessary to accom"plish

e fo

6

« w

" p

" C(

" no

of n different of an necessary accounting the troo_j Alba

your

and

fon, guft, whole in these expect dmini-

ne time interest honour man in ess. He a bold

ts. The power ner, by erest in lution: dread. en usu-

gover f a new ellency present Majef-

yal coie peo-

ur conaccom-

" plish

66 plish it, will plead our excuse to your excellency,

" for not being earlier in this address.

"And here, Sir, we should have ended, were

"we not in justice bound to pay some acknowlege-

" ment to the administration of your excellency's " predecessor the Lieut. Governor; whose upright intentions, as far as we had opportunities of dif-

" covering them, ever tended to his Majesty's ho" nour and fervice, and the welfare and prosperity

" of this colony."

Mr. De Lancey is one of the most fortunate of men. While the people impatiently expected a diffolution, an express arrived on the 12th of September, with a confused, but alarming account of an action at Lake George. This rendered it necessary for Sir Charles Hardy immediately to proceed to Albany. Thither the Lieut. Governor. accompanied him, and had thereby a fair opportunity to ingrofs and cajole him. I shall suspend the relation of his fuccess, till I have laid before your Lordship the progress of the provincial army, and their repulse of the French.

Major Gen. Lyman, being advanced with the troops to the Carrying-Place, about 60 miles from Albany, was waiting the arrival of General Johnfon, who fet out from thence on the 8th of Au-builds a fort gust, with the train of artillery. Lyman had begun at the Carry-ing Place.

a fort

1755. fort at the landing, on the east side of Hudson's River, now called Fort Edward. About the latter end of the month, Gen. Jo nson, with the main body, moved forward 14 miles more northerly, and pitched his camp at the fouth end of Lake George. before called St. Sacrament. By fome Indians, who had been fent as scours, he re reveal the following advices: --- That they had d covered a party of French and Indians at Troond tige, fituate on the ishmus between the north er . Lake George and the fouthern part of Lake Charactain, 15 miles on this fide Crown Point; but that no works were there thrown up. To have fecured this pass, which commanded the route to Crown Point through the Lake, had been a measure extremely adviseable. Mr. Johnson, informed of its importance, on the 1st of September wrote to Gen. Shirley, that he was impatient to get up his battoes; proposing then to proceed with part of the troops, and feize upon that pass. The French however took advantage of the delay, and cut out work enough for him at his own camp.

> OF the troops that failed from Brest in the spring, amounting to about 3000, your Lordship knows, eight companies were taken with the Lys and Alcide men of war, who fell in with our fleet commanded by Admiral Boscawen. One thousand wer at C nera of t of th min ftru fron rive the i ceffa news St. S and Whe was for t great

> D up o yanc to de of A all c folut

trem

route

were

-50

were landed at Louisburgh; and the residue arrived 1755. at Ouebec, with Monf. de Vandreuil governor-general of Canada, and Baron Dieskau, commander of the forces. The French Court, well apprifed of the fingular consequence of Oswego, had determined to reduce it. Such being the Baron's in- Diekau destructions, he immediately proceeded to Montreals duce Oswefrom whence he detached 700 of his troops up the go; river, intending himself speedily to join them with. the remainder. Just before he had made the necessary preparations, Montreal was alarmed with the news of our forming a numerous army near Lake St. Sacrament, for the reduction of Fort Frederic. and perhaps to penetrate into the heart of Canada; Whereupon a grand council being held, the Baron but is diwas importuned to proceed thro' Lake Champlain, for the defence of that fortress: nor was he without great difficulty prevailed upon to alter his intended. route.

DIESKAU, having in vain waited the coming He marches up of our army, at length resolved himself to ad- Gen. Johnvance towards them; and if he proved victorious, to desolate our northern settlements, lay the towns of Albany and Schenectady in ashes, and cut off all communication with Ofwego. A dreadful refolution, my Lord! And had he fucceeded --- I tremble at the thought --- had he fucceeded.

the

dion's latter main y, and eorge, , who owing rtv of on the les on were which gh the re and

seable. on the hat he poling feize ok ad-

nough pring, knows, nd Al-

comoufand

were

1755. the Supreme Disposer of events had not yet devoted us to ruin; and therefore, like the councils of Achitophel, blasted the fanguinary purpose. ---

For the execution of this delign, he embarked at Fort St. Frederic with 2000 men in battoes. and landed at the South Bay *. Of this movement, Gen. Johnson had not the least intimation, till his fcouts discovered their actual departure from the South Bay towards Fort Edward. By an English prisoner the Baron was told that the fort was defenceless, and our camp at the Lake, when he left it a few days before, without lines, and destitute of cannon. Having approached within two miles of Fort Edward, he opened his design to his troops, confifting of 600 militia, as many Indians, and 200 regulars. To animate his irregulars, who feemed difinclined to the attack pro-

His irregulars averfe to Fort Edward.

theattack of posed, he assured them, that inevitable must be their fuccess --- "that on reducing this fort, the "English camp must necessarily be abandoned, " and their army disperse in great disorder --- that " this would enable them to subdue Albany; and " by starving the garrison of Oswego, superadd to " to their conquest the absolute dominion of Ontario." with whatever intrepidity this harangue inspired his European troops, the Canadians and savages

vage the prife mus fign, agair on t feper of t of w who enen Infte the g whic war with expr " to fervi

who T

bank fide

marq

but a no int

^{*} About 16 miles from the English encampment.

devor-

cils of barked

attoes.

ement.

till his

m the inglish

as de-

en he

s, and within design

many

is irre-

k pro-

ust be t, the

doned.

--- that

; and radd to

Ontague inand fa-

vages

t.

vages, fearful of our cannon, were utterly averse to the scheme; but declared their willingness to surprise our camp, where they expected nothing beyond musquetry *. Thus disappointed in his principal de- He moves fign, he changed his route, and began to move emap; against the main body at the Lake. Gen. Johnson, on the information of his fcouts, had dispatched feperate messengers to Fort Edward, with advice of the enemy's approach towards that garrison; of which one was unfortunately intercepted: the rest who got back, reported, that they had descried the enemy about four miles to the northward of the fort. Instead of any attempt to discover the strength of the guard left with their battoes at the South Bay, which might easily have been cut off, a council of war refolved the next morning to detach 1000 mens with some Indians, to fall upon, or, as Mr. Johnson expresses it in his letter to the several governors. " to catch, the enemy in their retreat." On this fervice commanded Col. Williams, a brave officer.

THE English, my Lord, were encamped on the banks of Lake George, being covered on either side by a low thick-wooded swamp. After the march of the detachment, Gen. Johnson drew up who met the baron within four miles of our camp.

* Our artillery was got up to the camp from Fort Edward but a day or two before the action, of which the French had no intelligence.

the

the cannon, then at 500 yards distance from the front. Trees where also felled to form some sort of breast-work: and this was all his cover against an attack; having hitherto strangely delayed the proper retrenchments-and meets our detachment.

ABOUT an hour after Williams's departure, a heavy fire was heard; which evidently approaching, Gen. Johnson judged rightly, that our detachment was retreating: for the French were superior in number, amounting to about 1800. Upon this he fent out a reinforcement to support them: which was very judiciously conducted on the death of Williams, by Lieut. Col. Whiting, a Conneticut officer, who gained much applause at the reduction of Louisburgh. Gen. Johnson informs the governors, "That about half an hour after eleven "the enemy appeared in fight, and marched a-" long the road in very regular order, directly up-" on our center: That they made a small halt, " about 150 yards from the breast-work, when " the regular troops made the grand and center " attack; while the Canadians and Indians squatted " and dispersed on our flanks." This halt was the baron's capital error: for, amidst the consternation at the camp, had he closely followed up the detachment, he had easily forced their lines, and gained a complete victory. But by continuing for fome former that foon his the refwarm fire to and i mand of refwhich the coffed till himfer a ftur of our pour is no tia an Englishalte place

here attac

their

om the me fort against ged the rture, a paching, chmenr erior in on this them; ne death Connethe rerms the r eleven ched a-ctly upill halt. , when

l center quatted

alt was consterup the es, and ing for fome

Some time a platoon fire, with little execution at 1755. that distance, our men recovered their spirits. As foon as the artillery began to play, Dieikau and his regulars found themselves totally deserted by the militia and favages, who all skulked into the fwamps, took to trees, and mantained a scattered fire upon our flanks, for some time, with variable and intermitting brifkness. Having now no com- He is defeat. mand of any part of his army, except his handful ed, and of regulars, the baron thought proper to retire; foner. which he did in very great diforder. A party from the camp followed him, fell upon his rear, difperfed the remaining foldiers about him, and being himself wounded in the leg, was found retting on a stump, utterly abandoned and destitute of suc-Feeling for his watch, to furrender it, one of our men, suspecting him in search of a pillol, poured a charge thro' his hips; of which wound he is not yet recovered. Upon his retreat, the militia and Indians retired in small parties: and as the English neglected to continue the pursuit, they halted about four miles from the camp, at the very place where the engagement happened in the morning. Opening their packs for refreshment, they here entered into confultation, respecting a second attack. Why the enemy was not purfued, when their retreat became general, no tolerable reason

has

Gallant behaviour of M'Ginnes. has ever yet been affigned; and Mr. Johnson in his letter, seems very artfully to evade it. Nothing however could be more fortunate than the gallant behaviour of a party consisting of about 200, led by Capt. M'Ginnes, who had been detached from Fort Edward, to the affistance of the main body. They fell upon the French in the evening, put an end to their consultations, and gave them a total overthrow. M'Ginnes died of the wounds he received in this reincounter, having signalized himself by a spirit and conduct that would have done honour to a more experienced officer.

Remark on Wraxal's imagination.

MR. WRAXAL, in his letter to the Lieut. Governor of New York, told him, he flood so near Gen. Johnson, when the latter received his wound, that "he thought he saw the ball enter:" which curicus piece of intelligence was obliterated before its publication. I only mention this circumstance to convince your Lordship, that the most intrepid toldier hath not always the same presence of mind.

The enemy

If the dusk of the evening was too far advanced, before the repulse at the Lake, for an immediate pursuit (which by the way could not be the case, since M' Ginnes's encounter was subsequent) yet the neglect of it the next day admits of no colourable apology. Mr. Lyman urged it with great warmth; but the general

gen
of a
by
and can tion
cou him fend fitu
Gen
intr

mer from at a affif fide mu pea eve not of lett

nfon in . Nohan the ut 200, etached e main vening. e them wounds rnalized ld have Goverar Gen. id, that ch curifore its ance to ntrepid ence of vanced, ate purince M' neglect pology.

out the general

general with most of the field officers, are accused of an equal difinclination. Mr. Johnson, to judge by his letter, feemed well fatisfied with his escape, and determined with this action to close the present campaign. It was probably to avoid the profecution of the expedition, that he transmitted no account of the battle to General Shirley; contenting himself with requesting Lieut. Governor Phipps to fend a copy of his letter from Boston, tho' his own fituation was 200 miles nigher to Oswego, The Gentleman at Albany, to whom his dispatches were intrusted, suspecting their contents, and conceiving their communication to the General absolutely neceffary for his Majesty's service, broke open the letter to Governor Phipps, and fent an express with a copy to Oswego.

THE Indians, during the whole of the engage- The Indians ment, some of the Mohawks only excepted, retired joined not in from the camp, waiting the event of the conflict at a convenient distance. Nor indeed was their affiftance expected, by those who knew their boasted fidelity was a mere delufion, and Mr. Johnson's fo much magnified influence, what it has fince appeared to all men, the groffest imposture. They even declared before their march, they intended not to engage, but to be witnesses of the gallantry of our troops. And had Dieskau won the day, equaly equally ready had they been to scalp their brethren the English, as now they appeared to exercise their brutal dexterity on the French. Moreover, they army after it. came in a body to Albany, immediately after the battle, on pretence of celebrating the success of our arms, and to condole with the widows of those who fell in the action. This, fays one of Mr. Johnson's encomiasts, is their cuttom; subjoining prophetcially, that they were in a fortnight after their departure to return to the camp. The favages, my Lord, observe no such custom, save on the conclusion of an enterprize; whereas this was scarcely commenced: and as to their return, 'tis notorious they never did. Besides, had the general the real interest pretended, would be not, for once, have induced them to postpone their triumphant festivity, and untimely condolence, when their presence at the camp, would they realy fight, was of indispensable necessity; and himself in expectation of a second attack; nor, by the strain of his letter, exempt from a little perturbation of mind?

1755. and left our

Major Gen. Lyman maliciously chaaged with cowardice.

To render the luster of this gentleman's charecter still more refulgent, by preventing any one's sharing with him the glory of the day, a junctocombined at the camp, and framed a letter*, impeaching pead dafta a fel the titud proc

For, mor thei arofe fied defe ful i pect ingl next But imp read ing of the

doul

dayr

⁻ Minds that will mount into superior state, Climb mischeif's ladder RICHARDS's Messalina.

peaching Mr. Lyman, the second in command, of 1755. dastardly carriage, which they procured one Cole, a fellow of no reputation, to sign, and convey to the press. A notable instance of the amazing latitude to which an invidious spirit is capable of proceeding. So true is the poet's observation,

---- Men that make

Envy and crooked malice nourishment,

Dare bite the best ---- Shakesp.

For, in reality, no man, my Lord, behaved with more magnanimity, than the unfortunate object of their jealoufy: and from his superior merit actually arose their malignity, as he thence rivalled their deified idol. The reason why this much injured officer deferred his vindication, was not only the difgraceful name of his calumniator, but because he expected that justice from the public; who accordingly, in testimony of his merit, vested him, the next campaign, with the fame important post. But numbers of witnesses --- eye witnesses, utterly impartial, and not belonging to the camp, are ready to depose, that by them he was feen fighting like a lion, and exposing his life in the hottest of the battle: not to mention a gentleman *, of undoubted veracity, to whom Gen. Johnson, two days after the action, frankly acknowledged in his

Col. John Ransalair, of Albany.

Malina.

thren

their

, they

er the

ess of thole

Mr.

ining

after he fave on

is was

n, 'tis

gene-

t, for rium-

when

fight,

xpec-

of his ind?

harec-

one's juncto.

*, im-

aching his tent, that to Lyman was chiefly to be ascribed the honour of the victory.

Remarks on Jonnion's reasons for not pursuing the enemy, or profecutdition.

I SMALL now, my Lord, take the liberty to make a few remarks on Mr. Johnson's letter to the governors; and examine the reasons assigned against pursuing his advantage, as well as those aling his expe- edged for not profecuting the expedition. The repulse of the French delivered us from such unspeakable calamity, naturally to be apprehended from the enemy's fuccess, that we have infinite reason to thank the God of Armies, for thus remarkably rescuing us from the jaws of perdition. Nor ought we to mention either our officers or men, who generally behaved as well as could be expected, without a fuitable tribute of gratitude. But the General's own letter will enable me to convince your Lordship, that the magnificent trophies erected to his fame, fprung wholly from the New York cabal; whose services, when encircled with his laurals, he was ever after to acknowledge and retaliate

--- facra redemitus tempora lauro

--- veterem Anchisem agnoscit amicum.

By this letter he appears so conscious of deserving reprehension, rather than applause, that the latter part of his epistle is apparently calculated to divert all inquiry into the true reason of his not pursuing the

the e out j " fay " da " ari « an " bo can't breal intell order tigue world groui " ene derab my L fords the fl out of And . ment. their

arcan

is not

of 20

ans (1

scribed

to the gned anose al-ich unhended infinite hus rerdition. cers or ould be to connt troom the om the ncircled wiedge cum.

ferving e latter divert urfuing the

the enemy, and breaking up the campaign, without paying a visit, to Crown Point. "Our men, " fays he, have fuffered so much fatigue for three " days past, and are constantly standing upon their " arms by day, half the whole upon guard by night, " and the rest lie down armed and accouraged; that "both officers and men are almost worn-out." I can't help thinking, that had the general begun his breast-work more seasonably, and not waited for intelligence of the enemy's advancing, before he ordered up his cannon, his men had been less fatigued by this redoubtable action. But least the world should remain in the dark about the real grounds of his apprehension; he proceeds --- "The " enemy may rally; and we judge they have confiderable reinforcements near at hand." I question, my Lord, whether the whole circle of hiltory affords a fingle instance of an army's rallying, after the flaughter of 1000 men (his own computation) out of about 1800, the whole force of the enemy. And whence he conjectured they had any reinforcements so near at hand, as not to be able to join their routed detachment, still remains one of those arcanas of state, which, by common understandings, is not to be fathomed: or, if the French confifted of 200 grenadiers, 800 Canadians, and 700 Indians (the barons account to the general) fo great a flaughter

1755.

flaughter as is pretended by the letter, with the loss of the greatest part of the principal officers, and Monf. St. Pierre, who had the chief command and influence over the Indians, must have reduced them to less than 800. From these, one would have imagined, there was no danger of a fecond attack. Far more probable was it, that for fo momentous an enterprize as the reduction of the forts before-mentioned, the French had mustered all the forces they could spare from Crown Point and Tinonderoge, where many of the regular troops were posted; especially, as they went unfurnished with cannon. Add to this, that our army was now flushed with victory; the enemy, on the contrary, disconcerted; and, according to his account, most of their principal officers, and many of their men, flain; the Indians too, by the death of St. Pierre, probably wavering and diffipated. This, if fuch were the facts, was a glorious opportunity to disposes them of Tinonderoge. the longer they were suffered to fortify, the more arduous the task to dislodge them, and the greater the loss of our present advantage, resulting from their defeat and our success. Besides, was their any probability of their returne the next day, to re-affault the camp with musquetry, when the effects of our cannon (admitting them to have done the the their time nera ee or " de fervi livin wou « ex Mor their and i « Wi this with wher he th knov ed to cawe > they of the de but as made

rison

all th

th the

fficers,

mmand

educed.

would fecond for fo

of the

ustered

n Point

regular nt un-

our army, on

g to his

e death

Tipated.

us op-

But

e more

greater g from

s their day, to the ef-

e done

the

the pretended execution*) was still so recent in their memories; and to the Indians, even the first time, so visibly tremendous? But the cautious general fubjoins --- "We don't think it either prudent se or fafe to be fending out parties in fearch of the "dead." I agree, it had been more for his Majesty's fervice to have dispatched them in pursuit of the living. After a short paragraph concerning the wounded, his panic returns --- "I think we may "expect very shortly a more formidable attack." More formidable than what? Why, than that of their regulars firing at a distance and the Canadians and Indians running away -- " and that the enemy " will then come with artillery," I wonder whether this gentleman expected to reduce Crown Point without being exposed to the French artillery. But whence this furmise of a more formidable attack, he thinks not proper to communicate. It was well known, the whole force fent from France amounted to about 3000: --- that of these, Admiral Boscawen took eight companies, and 1000 were in garrison at Louisbourgh. Admitting therefore that all the rest arrived at Quebec, without any loss, (a favourable

^{*} The cannon were so ill-served, and highly elevated, that they did, beyond all controversy, no execution at all; none of the dead being observed to have been killed by cannon-shot: but amongst the tops of the trees, 30 and 40 feet high, they made great and useless havock.

fayourable concession) the utmost amount that reached Canada was about 1700; of which 500 were at Cadaragui: fo that, without any allowance for those killed at the camp, or in the mock purfuit which enfued, the whole number of regulars that arrived with Dieskau, and could come against him, but little exceeded 1100. The gentleman proceeds --- "The late Col. Williams had the ground " cleared for building a stockaded fort: our men " are so harrassed, and obliged to be upon watchful "duty, that I think it would be both unseasonable, " and I fear in vain, to fet them at work upon the " designed fort. I design to order the New Hamp-" fhire regiment up here to reinforce us: and I " hope some of the designed reinforcements will be "with us in a few days. When these fresh troops " arrive, I shall" --- I dare say your Lordship expects at least the demolition of Fort St. Frederic: nothing like it --- "I shall immediately fer about building " a fort." Still the firongest symptoms of terror and alarm: for, 'tis evident from this passage, he had now laid afide all thoughts of profecuting the expedition, should even succours arrive, as an fact soon after fuccours did arrive, and in greater numbers than were necessary. All his puissant purposes terminated now, "in fetting about building a fort." And if indeed he thought Crown Point impregnable by ftr fou and for lefs try wh mo Cre ma atta but ten bui was wit fort But ert pro add

Tin

tion

int that ich 500

llowance

ock purregulars

against ntleman

ground

our men watchful

sonable.

pon the

Hamp-

: and I s will be

h troops

expects nothing

building

eror and he had re expe-

act foon numbers

ofes ter-

a fort."

regnable

PA

by the army then under his command, above 4000 1755. strong, he must necessarily conclude it would be found fo the next year, by double the number: and if then attempted thro' another route, his grand fortress at the end of the Lake was absolutely useless. Nor would it prove any defence to the country between Lake George and Hudson's River, while the French could penetrate it by two other more usual passages, the South-Bay and Wood-Creek; thro' the former of which they ad actually marched to his camp. And as to their formidable attack with artillery, whence could they bring it, but from Crown Point? And if they learnt he intended, in the prefent campaign, nothing beyond building a stockaded fort, that very intelligence was fufficient to induce them to attack the camp with cannon; against which, I am confident, his fort would make but a very indifferent relistance. But, in reality, 't was most probable they would exert their efforts in strengthening Crown Point and Tinonderoge; the reduction of which, for not improving our fuccess at the camp, will cost us a vast addition of blood and treasure.

Thus, my Lord, ended this expensive expedi- Reflections tion in erecting a wooden fort; faulted by Mr. Montresor*; and, I dare say, derided by the ene-

on the fortune and conduct of this general, my.

Chief engineer.

my. So that if ever any man obtained laurels without earning them, it was this fortunate general; who, by the splendid representations of his secretary, and the fovereign decree of his patron, is exalted into an eminent hero. To the panegyrical pen of Mr. Wraxal, and the --- fic volo, fic jubeo --- of Lieut. Gov. De Lancey, is to be ascribed that mighty renown, which echoed thro' the colonies, reverberated to Europe, and elevated a raw unexperienced youth into a kind of fecond Marlborough ---

Fortunate puer, tu nunc eris alter ab illo.

So capricious is fortune, and fo fond of sporting with human affairs. The emperor Severus (I think it is Herodian tells the story) when obliged to raise the fiege of Atras, the only attempt in which he had ever been baffled, thought himself conquered because he did not conquer: but our hero, it seems, is a conqueror, because he was not conquered. When a general finds himself attacked in his camp, a very quaker methinks, would forget his principles, and follow, in spight of Barclay and the meeting, the powerful dictates of nature incentive to felf-defence. And did the valour of our warrior carry him an inch farther? Did he pursue an enev, who by flying, with the lofs of about 30 men, exhibited exhi lanir was de-c his t ders defti the i posit fuffe ed a pani

T if yo coun fell b loft i gage is no repre tem mag orde sente prod rend

that

s witheneral: fecreis exgyrical c jubeo fcribed e coloa raw Marl-

0. porting I think to raise hich he quered feems, quered. camp, princimeettive to warrior in eneo men,

hibited

exhibited a full proof of a most extraordinary pusi- 1755. lanimity? Or, if his wound (which, confidering it was made by a ball visible in its flight to his aidde-camp, must have been very capacious) rendered his personal pursuit impracticable; were any orders given to improve the fortune of the day, and destroy a fugitive army? Was not, on the contrary, the noble ardor of those who offered to pursue, by positive orders repressed; and a poltroon adversary fuffered to escape, whose recent cowardice promised a general flaughter, and who, in their present panic, had fallen a facrifice to our victorious arms?

THESE are facts of incontestible notoriety: and Why this if your Lordship demands, whence then the accounts that fix or eight hundered, nay a thousand, aggerated fell before the camp (when, in reality, the enemy lost not above two hundered in all the three engagements, which is less than our own loss) there is no other way of accounting for thefe glaring mifrepresentations, than that it suited our present system of politics to have this action exaggerated and magnified. It was necessary to exalt Johnson, in order to depress Shirley, and they who had reprefented the expedition against Crown Point of such prodigious importance, thought it adviseable to render every thing important that was transacted in that expedition. Every man among us knew it to action was fo greatly ex-

be an imposition; and yet ran the risk of having his head broke for offering to doubt it. It was notorious, not above 30 of the enemy were found slain at the camp; and that the rest of the dead could neither sly into the air, nor dive into the earth. Where then was the remainder? To anticipate the question, lest any one should have effrontery enough to start it—they were carried off by a slying enemy, who took to their heels to save their own lives; and yet were so anxious about their dead, as to carry them all along. Such manifest contradictions are we obliged to believe!

Shirley abfurdly cenfured.

NAY, to excuse this favourite general, the blame of not following his advantage, has been thrown on Mr. Shirley, and attributed to his positive di-Besides the absurdity of the accusation, rections. that he could be accessary to an omission of this nature, it was absolutely impossible for him to know whether the enemy would at all risk an attack. Your Lordship will consider, the general was then at least 365 miles from the place of action, nor advised of it till nine days after it happened. when he received the intelligence, fo far from directing to the inactivity of a merely defensive conduct, that he dispatched repeated expresses to Mr. Johnson, urging him in the most pressing terms, to pursue the advantage already obtained; and if unable four feafe of the But a quire pera

of A

Y

marc

· V

num fervi ly de ons, impé

Ofwe T mada

it wa

tion voy held

Sept

blame hrown ive difation. of this know attack. s then nor ad-

But m die con-

to Mr. terms, and if unable unable to proceed in perfons to commit the charge of the troops to Major Gen. Lyman : of, if he found it impracticable to invest Crown Point that feason, at least to make himself master, if possible, of the enemy's advanced post at Tinonderoge. But all was ineffectual: the laurel being already acquired; fortime was not again to be put to a defperate venture. (13..... roi ha try mat

WE will now if your Lordship pleases, return to Oswego, where General Shirley arrived the 2 ift of August, and take a view of the course of his . proceedings in that quarter.

YOUR LORDSHIP may remember, that the troops Course of marched from Schenectady, with scarce halfathe number of battoemen, which contracted for the fervice; and these by frequent desertions graduals ly decreased. Hence the transportation of provisions, thro' this long tract of country, was fo much impeded, that until the latter end of September it was impossible, upon that account, to move from Ofwego. . iq. ea say

THE general however had, in the mean time, made all the necessary preparations for the expedition to Niagara: and as the arrival of a large convoy with provisions was then hourly expected, he A council of held a council of war at his camp on the 18th of war held September; at which were present

M

1755.

proceedings at Olwego.

council of his intelligences.

His Excellency the GENERAL?

Lieut. Col. Ellison, Major Bradstreet, Adj. Gen. Lieut. Col. Mercer, Capt. Bradsord, Col. Schuyler, Capt. Broadley, Com. of the Capt. Patten, vessels on the Lake.

Major Littlehales,

The general THE general the flate of affairs, and waggons of informs the of fladgement

THE general informed this council, that thro' the great defertion of battoemen, the scarcity of waggons on the Mohawk River, and the defertion of fledgemen at the Great Carrying-Place, the conveyance of provisions and other stores had been so much retarded, that there had not been at any time fince his arrival, a sufficient quantity of dry provifions to enable him to go upon action: but as a large supply would probably very soon arrive, he was determined to proceed immediately. He thought proper to inform them of his intelligence concerning the fituation and strength of the enemy --- which was to this purpose --- That before he left the Oneida Carrying-Place, two trufty Indians, with as many Albany traders, were fent as spies to Niagara; who, after fourteen days absence, returned with an account --- That the Indians had been two days in the French fort there, which was built partly of stone, but principally of logs, being in a weak and ruinous condition --- that the garrifon confifted of about 60 French and 100 Indians, who faid they had tity of their quent expended, of the that ment a larg Fren, they this a gallie appro

fet or

Hi an In assiste

that the hithe li

invite their

> Up it nec

had

n. of the

dj. Gen.

arcity of defertion the con-

y provibut as a rive, he thought

-- which the Onewith as Niaganed with wo days partly of reak and listed of aid they

had

had for some time expected 900 Indians and a quantity of stores from Canada; but were apprehensive their vessels were taken --- That letters came in frequently from Fort Du Quesne, whence also they expected a considerablereinforcement. The spies added, that the Indians were disgusted at the division of the spoils, on the defeat of General Braddock, and. that the French had loft 30 men in that engagement --- that they faw many English scalps, with a large quantity of cloaths and furniture --- that the French had there 70 or 80 large battoes, with which they intended to meet and board our vessels. and this article was confirmed by another Indian, who fet out after the spies, and meeting one of our rowgallies, cautioned the commander against a nearer approach to Niagara.

HIS EXCELLENCY also informed the council, that an Indian spy had been with the Outawawas, who assisted the French in the action at Monongahela---that they had declared their inclination to lay down the hatchet, and that others more westerly gave the like intimations; which had induced him to dispatch four messengers with belts of wampum, to invite them into our alliance, or at least to engage their neuterality.

Upon the general's arrival at O swego, he thought it necessary to procure intelligence from Fontenac;

and

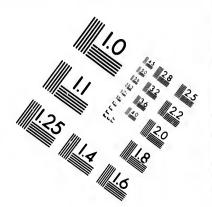

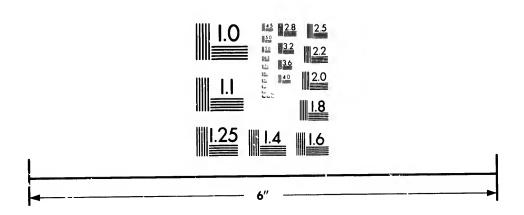

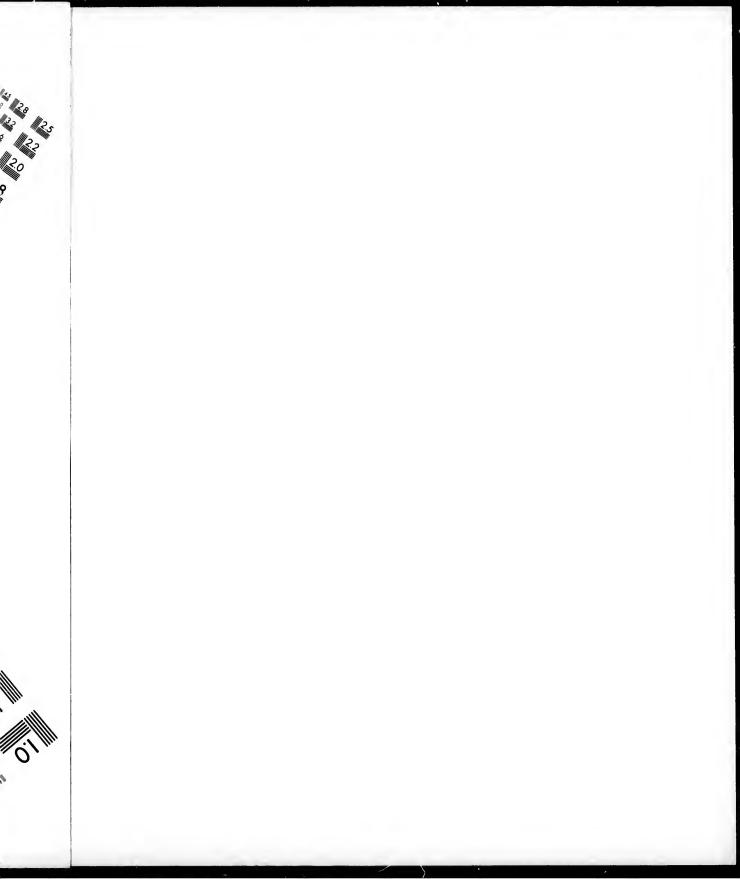

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences Corporation

23 W@ST MAIN STREET WEBSTER, N.Y. 14580 (716) 872-4503

STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY

and for that purpose sent out a party of white men and Indians, who returned about the 8th of Seprember. with information -- that they landed upon an illand, about fix furlongs from the fort, from whence they had a full view of it --- that it was built in a bay, near the edge of the water, and furrounded by a stone wall; the land behind it cleared, and rifing in a gradual acclivity --- that two veffels of about 40 tons each; lay moored in the harbour, unrigged, and without guns --- that at the east end ofthe fort there was a regular encampment, and fix marquis tents; from the extent of which they imagined it contained about 3 or 400 men. - Upon the fide of the bay, opposite the fort, the land projected about half a mile e between this and the island they were upon was another little island, about three quarters of a mile from the fort, inhabited by about twenty Indian families. The spies added, that there were several other adjacent islands; but they discovered no battoes. His Excellency farther acquainted the council, that an Indian who came to Ofwegotabout the time of his arrival, and had left Frontenac nine days before, declared there were 30 French within the fort; a confiderable quantity of powder, and many guns mounted on the furrounding wall, which was about fix feet thick; and the encampment without consisted of 600 soldiers.

The

Th

was tha

ans

CON

by

tro

froi

go.

figr par

fidé

the

the

and

fori

bab

Ofw

diti

the

feaf

Tha

of t

of t mir

yon

tice

hite men of Sep. ed upon rt, from was built rroundred, and effels of our, unft end of and fix iev ima-Upon and prohe island out three by about nat there they difther accame to had left ere were quantity . the furck; and soldiers.

The

The information of Redhead, to the fame effect, 1755. was also laid before the council, with the addition --that there were two encampments, one of Canadians, and the other of regulars, in a hollow, indifcoverable from the island; and that he was told, by the commandant, of a much larger number of troops expected with the general, lately arrived from France; when they proposed to invest Oswego. Gen. Johnson's letter of the ist of September, fignifying, that his feours informed him of the departure of 300 canoes to Frontenac, was also confidered and from these articles of intelligence --the account of the arrival of the French troops --the suspension of all intercourse between Frontenac and Niagara -- and their lying still so long at the former; his excellency observed, it was not improbable their design might be to make a descent on Ofwego, if the whole force proceeded on the expedition to Niagara, which was about 150 miles to the westward; and from whence, at that advanced feason, they could not return in less than 30 days. That this was the more probable, as Ofwego was of the greatest importance for securing the frontiers of the western colonies, maintaining the British do minion over the great lakes, and the country beyond the Apalachean mountains. He also took notice of the defenceless state of Oswego, which would render render it necessary to leave a strong garrison there: that the number of effectives at that time in the three regiments and independent companies, including ferjeants and corporals, amounted to 1376; and that the irregulars, who were Albany men and Indians, procured by his own emissaries, consisted only of 120. For the better security of the place, the general had ordered to be built, with all possible dispatch, a strong wooden fort, capable of mounting cannon, with picquets and a ditch, on a high point, commanding the old fort on the east side of the river. This he observed was already begun, and would foon be compleated: and that for the proposed enterprize, he had built and equipped a floop and schooner of fixty tons each, two row-gallies, each of twenty tons, with eight whale-boats, each capable of carrying fixteen men. He then informed them of his intention to embark for Niagara, as foon as the expected convoy arrived, with 600 regulars, including gunners and matroffes, befides the Albany and Indian irregulars, one 18 pounder, four 12 pounders, a ten-inch mortar, a feven-inch hoyet, two royals, and five small swivel-hoyets, the vessels, whale-boats, and a competent number of battoes; leaving behind him 700 effectives, two 12 pounders, ten 6 pounders, six 3 pounders, and eight cohorns.

1755,

THE

ani
tior gar Ofw
the
All
exce
adv
that
the fervi veffe lake

In drau on b on b read;

gan

dier

(wiv

The council, upon this representation, were unanimously of opinion, in answer to the several questions proposed, that the force intended for the Niagara expedition was sufficient: but with respect to Ofwego, tome imagined it would not detenfible: the majority, however, were of contrary fentiments. All agreed, that a feint upon Frontenac, while his excellency was gone to Niagara, was by no means adviseable. They universally concurred in opinion, that a fort ought to be erected on the west side of the old fort; and that it would be for his Majesty's fervice to prepare materials for building one or more vessels, larger than any of those already upon the lake, capable of mounting ten 6 pounders, besides fwivels, two more row-gallies, and 100 good whaleboats.

In consequence of this advice, 600 regulars were Preparations draughted, the artillery and ordnance-stores shipped to proceed on board the floop Ontario, part of the provisions gara expedion board the floop Oswego, and the residue was tionready for the row-gallies, whale-boats, and battoes. While these preparations were making, the weather was extremely wet and tempestuous. The rains began to fall so heavily on the 18th of the month, that on the best chosen ground the tents of the soldiers were overwhelmed. As 400 of the troops must have gone in open battoes, it was impossible

THE

there:

in the

es, in-

1376;

en and

nlifted

place,

posible

mount-

a high

fide of

begun,

for the pped a

w.gal-

-boats,

hen in-

or Nia-

d, with es, be-one 18

rtar, a

all fwi-

ompe-

m. 700

rs, six to pass the lake with any fasery, till the storm 2-1755.

Which could not be profecuted from the badness of the weather. bated; which was on the 26th of the month, which orders were immediately issued for the imbarkation of the troops; but these could not be carried into execution. The the rains ceased for a short space of time, the western winds began to blow with residuabled sury; and were again succeeded by continual rains for thirteen days together. During this boisterous weather, numbers fell sick, whose tents were an insufficient shelter: and the Indians, well acquainted with the climate, went off, declaring the season too sar advanced to admit of an expedient on upon the lake.

Another council of war held, in which the general represents the unfavourable circumfances of affairs.

In the midst of these difficulties another council. consisting of the same members who composed the last, was called on the 27th of September. The general acquainted them with the untoward state of affairs, and some of his latest advices. He observed as follows——That the preceding day, eight battoes were arrived, with 48 barrels of flour, and 13 lof bread; so that there was then 14 days full allowance of those species of provisions for 2000, being the number then in his camp——That he thought it necessary to take with him 24,000 weight of bread and flour, which for 700 men, forty days, amounted only to three-fourths of the usual allowance—that, in such case, there would be left with the garrison warr half rece Riv qua a fu men days mot --- T fort with that --- t a fm and barro nicat struć whice tion com

Mon

firit

nadia

there

migh

dorm 2rowlien rkation ed into rr space vith rei -conting this se tents ns, well claring expediat Verticator. council pled the The gestate of bserved battoes 1 13 of lowance: being/ ought it f bread mountance --vith the garrison

garrifon only Sono weight of bread and flour, at 1755. half allowance for only 12 days: but, by advices. received from the Carrying-Place and Mohawk River, he had the greatest reason to expect such a quantity of provisions, in a few days, as would be a full fupply for forme mouths --- that a party of men, with two officers, in whale-boats, fent feven days before to Frontenac to discover the enemy's motions, were returne with the following report --- That they went into the harbour, and faw the fort, which appeared to be a regular square saced with stone, having four embrasures in the front --that the encampment confifted of above 100 tents --- that two brigactines of about 40 tons each, and a fmall floop lying then at anchor, were rigged, and the fails of one of them bent: and a number of battoes lay near the walls of the fort. He communicated to them also a copy of the orders and instructions given to the krench regulars fent thicker; which were taken from baron Dieskan, in the action at Lake George: whence it appeared, that ten companies of the Queen's battalian marched from Montreal o Cadaraqui, in two divisions, upon the first and second of August, together with 250 Canadians, exclusive of Indians: the number of men therefore at Frontenac, including the garrison, might amount to 1000 effectives, originally defign-N ed, as appeared from those papers, for an attack upon Oswego. He farther took notice of the deparrure of fome of our Indians, and their unanimous opinion, that the attempt against Niagara could not fucceed this feafon: on which account the remainder were resolved to return to their respective castles; giving nevertheless the highest assurances of their willingness to join us in much greater numbers the ensuing spring; --- that the Albany trader3 were of the same opinion, that the battoes, tho' well adapted for the navagation of small rivers, could not live on the lake in such tempestuous weather as had continued for a fortnight past --- that Lieut. Holland, who had refided there above three years, declared it was commonly windy and wet, with few fair days intervening, during the fall. --- That it was besides now impracticable for the vessels and battoes to fail in concert: and as the veffels and whale-boats would not contain all the supplies, there was the utmost danger of spoiling that part of the provisions and ammunition, which must be conveyed in the battoes; in consequence of which many of them might be cut off; it being more than probable, from the weakness of their fort, the enemy would attack them on the lake --- that from the returns of the director and furgeons of the hospital, the number of the fick amounted to about 300, excluft ceffi info rack old fide to t ftree Can ra, city on t ทบเท da to wef thei way and vific post toewith the

in t

dy t

and

clusive

ack upe deparnimous could the respective furances er numv trader3 ho' well s. could eather as t Lieut. e years, with few That it Tels and

Tels and Supplies, hat part must be ore than the ene-

of which

from the hofpital,

300, ex-

clusive

clusive of officers; which they imputed to the ex- 1.755. ceffive rains, and want of barracks. His excellency informed them, he proposed the erection of barracks, and a strong redoubt on the hill, west of the old fort, before the winter was too far advanced.

THESE matters, my Lord, were attentively con- Their opifidered: and the council of war prayed leave to add advice to lay to the general's representation --- That Major Brad- afide the exstreet, fince his residence there, was persuaded 1650 and strength-Canadians had paffed by from Cadaraqui to Niagara, for the Ohio; a great part of whom, thro' scarcity of provisions, he conceived must then be upon their return to Canada; and that a confiderable number of French traders go annually from Canada to Detroit, and other French settlements to the westward, who, at this season, are generally upon their return: --- that their passage home is by the way of Niagara, where, it is very probable, they and all the French will tarry, as long as their provisions admit, for the defence of so important a post. That there were then but few proper battoe-men at Ofwego: nor could they be provided with a fufficient number, as those who understood the management of battoes were chiefly employed in the transportation of provisions from Schenectady to Oswego, and from Albany to Lake George; and that the foldiers were unable to conduct them

nion, and pedition. en Ofwego. 1755: to Niagara, the lake being turbulant generally five days in fix.

THE advice of the council, my Lord, was unanimously to this effect --- That the arrival of the battoes with provisions, the hourly expected, was by no means to be depended upon, there being scalping-parties in the neighbourhood; one of which, fince the last council of war, had actually killed three, and captivared two of the workmen employed in building the new fort on the east fide of the river; and the cutting off the battoes was the more to be apprehended, as the Indians in our alliance were now returning to their caftles. Nor did they thank ir adviteable, to risk the troops in battoes upon the lake, at foradvanced a feafon of the year. They approved his excellency's intention of raising barracks for the foldiers without delay; and thought the fort on the east fide of the Onondaga River ought to be compleated as foon as possible; and again advised the erection of a work for mounting cannon on the eminence west of the old fort --- all which, in their opinion, could not be effected before the winter was too far fet in, without employing the whole firength then at the place. They were also unanimously and clearly of opinion, that his excellency ought to defer any lattempt on Niagara or Frontenac, till the next foring; when they had had bod alli $\mathbf{E}n$ M can boa fore 252 im the of p poi COIL fort the ing

> 300 16 p

the

dito

log-

west with which is in ally five

as unaof the ed, was e being one of actually orkmen aft fide was the our al-Vor did battoes he year. f raising thought a River and aounting rt --- all: ited bemploy-

They on, that on Niaen they had

had great reason to expect the junction of a large 1755. body of the Six Nations, and some of the French allies, who had taken up the hatchet against the English, and were concerned on the banks of the Monongabela. Befides, he night, in the enfuing campaign, have a grewer number of troops, whaleboats initrad of pattoes, and a more powerful naval force, which they conceived cuitht to be provided against the beat honey.

Turs advice, my Lord, the general proceeded Which was im neglately to carry into execution Compleating execution. the fort on the east only on the river, was a matter of principal attention, because stuated on a high point of land, at 100 yards distance from the lake, commanding the ground round about it :-- the old fort at 450 yards diffance -- and the entrance of the harbour. Its circumference was 800 feet, being built of logs from 20 to 30 inches diameter, and the outer wall 14 feet high. Round it was to be a ditch 14 feet broad and 10 deep. Within, a fquare log-house to overlook the walls, and barracks for 300 men. --- This fort, called Ontario, was to mount 16 pieces of cannon. Another, called Ofwego, was immediately begun, upon an eminence 450 yards west of the old fort. It was a square of 170 feet, with baftions, and a rampart of earth and masonry; which, besides the parapet, was to be 20 feet thick. 12 in height, with a disch 14 feet broad and 10 deep deep. The barracks within were to contain 200 men. This was to mount eight pieces of cannon: being made the more defensible, as it commanded a good landing, distant 150 yards on the edge from the lake.

The general labours to Indians in our intereft.

WHILE these works were carrying on, the geneestablish the ral employed himself in a necessary attention to In-He laboured to establish some of the dian affairs. principal Onondagas, who were thro' negligence become wavering; and difpatched messages to those who were gone from us, and fettled at Ofwegatie. and to the meffafagues and Chippawees on the north side of the Lake Ontario. Others were fent to foment the dissaffection of the Outawawas, disgusted at the French partition of the plunder, on Braddock's defeat. With the Senecas, the remotest from our fettlements of all the five cantons, and therefore the most debauched by the French, he fucceeded fo well, that they now dismissed Joncaire, one of their emissaries, whose father had been long fuffered to relide among them, in spite of our repeated remonstrances; and was the chief preserver of the fort at Niagara. They also engaged to meet him, the next campaign, with 100 of their warriors, and promised for the future to refuse the assistance they had formerly given the French, in transporting their furrs, with horses and sleds, across the Niagara aga of c Wh nera leav

of I wor

F tim in t flect infu expe zard beer the the just tlem the ! Nias he b off h 11

Cana

diate

turn

ain 200 annon: manded ge from ie genen to Ine of the gligence to those wegatic, on the ere fent vas, difremotest ons, and nch, he der, on

oncaire. en long our re-breserver to meet

warriors, Mistance

ansports the Niagara

agara Carrying-Place --- as necessary there, as at any of our portages between Schenectady and Olwego. When nothing further could be profecuted, the ge- And returns neral retired from Oswego the 24th of October, leaving 700 men in garrison, under the command of Lieut, Col. Mercer; with orders to continue the works projected for its defence.

HAVING, my Lord, taken up too much of your time in a circumstantial relation of the proceedings in this quarter, I shall not trouble you with any reflections upon them. Your Lordship has seen the infurmountable difficulties attending this western expedition; and will doubtless approve our not hazarding the loss of Oswego. That such would have French debeen the event, had Mr. Shirley left the place about off Oswego, the beginning of October, was wifely foreseen, from had the gethe advices he had received: and baron Dieskau, ceeded to just after the action at Lake George, assured a gen- Niagara. tleman of distinction in the army, he questioned not the English general would make himself master of Niagara; but that the French had half the forces he brought with him from Brest, with a number of Canadians and Indians, at Frontenac, ready, immediately on his departure, to invest Oswego, and cut off his retreat.

While the general was at Albany, after his re- Hardy calls turn from the lake, forwarding the supplies for the inthemilitia figned to cut neral pro-

Sir Charles garrison alarm.

garrison at Oswego sepreparing for the operation's of the next campaign, and examining into the state of the troops arrived there under Col Dunbar; the city was alarmed by expresses from General Johnfon-informing, that 8 or 90 to of the enemy were advancing towards him. Sr Charles Hardy, then at Albany, called in the militia: and a detachment of the regular troops, with a train of artillery, held themselves in readiness to march at a moment's warning. But another express gave reason to believe those apprehensions were ill grounded, and General Johnson's fears in some measure abated. It feens a few Indian fcouts had discovered the tracks of a large army; but Capt. Rogers, the brave officer before mentioned, came into the camp foon after them, and declared, the enemy were employed, as the general had predicted in his letter to Mr. Johnson of the 19th of September, in throwing up works at Tinonderoge. Upon which, the militia were difmissed to their respective habitations.

Or the malignity of the New York faction against the general, I have already acquainted your Lordship: permit me to present you with another instance of the same spirit. A mercenary scribler, of whom I shall soon take more particular notice, is pleased to inform the public, that "Col. Dunbar" with his forces, were obliged six weeks to lie encamped se ca

" ly

" fo

fifting 16 m dy, of are in abou Lord

ed w

want

a po

the f

dock

Mur opin

e the

" qu

This

the state bar; the al Johnny were dy, then achment ery, held noment's in to beled, and abared, ered the ters, the he camp vere em-n throwhich, the stations, ur Lordother inibler, of otice, is Dunbar to lie en-

eamped

"camped at Albany, in the rain and snow, till bar"racks were built for them. That they were entire"ly obliged to Sir Charles Hardy, that they got a "stick of wood to burn. So (says he) were our "forces disposed of."

ALBANY, my Lord, is an old compact city, confifting of 3 or 400 well-built houses: and at about 16 miles N. W. from it, is the town of Schenectady, confisting of about 150 houses. The inhabitants are far from being indigent: the adjacent country abounds with provisions; and in such quarters, your Lordship is sensible, his Majesty's troops will not want necessaries; especially fuel, in a country covered with timber. Where then the probability, that the forces, which confifted of 1200, would fuffer in a post like this? As to the affair of barracks, my Lord, there was a council held at New York, on the first of August, when the news arrived of Col. Dunbar's retiring into winter-quarters, after Braddock's defeat. It was composed of Mr. De Lancey the Lieut. Governor, Mest. Alexander, Kennedy, Murray, Holland, Chambers, and Smith; and the opinion of that board then was, "That not only the King's forces to the fouthward, but also those "that could be spared from Nova Scotia, should "quarter near Albany, for any future operations." This resolve Mr. De Lancey transmitted to the general neral at Oswego; and as Dunbar's troops were ordered to Albany, for the defence of that country, and particularly to make a stand, in case the provincials were defeated; they had, methinks, the highest reason to expect favour from the inhabitants, and the special countenance of the government, even had they been quartered upon them as usual: and which at prefent is actually the case, by express orders of my Lord Loudon. The general, I fay, had no reason to expect, upon this head, any opposition from the civil magistrate. But Sir Charles Hardy, on his arrival at Albany, about the 26th of September, fignified to him by letter, his apprehenfions of uneafiness arising among the inhabitants, should the soldiers be quartered upon private families; and wished to have his excellency's orders for building barracks, both there and at Schenectady; least his assembly should not chuse to put the province to that charge. He also expressed his hopes, if fuch an expence was faved them, of their greater readiness to raise more men, should the service require it, the next campaign. The general's answer to this letter equally demonstrated his integrity to the crown, and concern for the troops. He intimated his fears, that the construction of barracks would be thought an extraordinary expence; but it being necessary for the service, that Dunbar's, and t should plied to pro poffib in his titute pence reque thefe cial n of fer that t from get to Bay; for h nuan they, there arifin by th

ks he w ed Si

, Lord

and were orcountry, the pronks, the abitants, ment, cas usual: express l, I fay, any op-Charles 26th of s appreabitants, ite famirders for nectady; the pros hopes, rgreater vice res answer grity to He intiarracks ce; but unbar's,

and

and the regiment of the late Sir Peter Halket, 1755. should winter in Albany and Schenestady, he complied with Sir Charles's request; and defired him to provide barracks for those regiments with all possible dilligence, that the troops, on their arrival in his government, might not find themselves deftitute of quarters. To relieve the crown in the expence, he farther took notice to Sir Charles, of the request made by his own government for drawing these troops to Albany --- that they would in a special manner cover the frontier of New York --- be of service to Oswego in the ensuing spring --- and that the inhabitants would draw very large fums from their residence amongst them. Nor did he forget to recommend an imitation of the Massachussetts Bay; who thought it reasonable to erect barracks for his own regiment, tho' they knew their continuance among them would be short, destined as they were for the western expedition. But that there might be no delay in building the barracks, arising from any doubt of the expence being paid by the province of New York, Mr. Shirley informed Sir Charles, that if they would not, after these confiderations, take that expence on themselves, he would defray it out of the contingent-money in the hands of the deputy pay-master. Thus, my Lord, if any ground for complaint of the want of barrracks, barracks, Mr. Shirley 'tis clear was intirely uncenfurable: and if the troops, as this libeller informs us, did fuffer in their tents, --- I fubmit it to your Lordship, whose province it was to have found them better quarters. But the fact is, that the barracks were finished, and the troops quartered in them before the first of December, suel provided for them sufficient for the winter, and all at the expense of the crown.

were appointed by the governments concerned in the Crown Point expedition, to afcertain their respective quotas for garrisoning the forts Edward and William Henry, and disbanding the rest of the army. After this was compleated, the general and Sir Charles Hardy returned to New York; where the former convened a grand congress of governors and field officers, to deliberate on a plan for the orations of the succeeding campaign. But before I enter upon their transactions, I shall briefly lay before your Lordship those between Sir Charles Hardy and his assembly; which was opened on the second, and continued sitting till the 23d of December.

Tranfactions in New-York

I HAVE already observed, that the ministry, from the time of Mr. Clinton's departure in 1753, had been sollicitous about procuring the consent of our assembly affer for Sir an i whi at h was of h it in who conf men in t Syste Dan be d pref bly, fupp mig that cour prov reft a

ever

Sir I

and

unceninforms to your found the barered in rided for expence issioners rned in their re-Edward t of the eral and ; where vernors or the opefore I lay beles Harthe fe-Decemry, from 53, had of our ffembly

affembly to a law establishing a permanent provision 1755. for the governor, and other necessary officers. When Sir Danvers Osborne arrived, he brought with him Charles an instruction for that purpose; from the terms of Hardy and which it was apparent that the ministry had it much bly. at heart; and Sir Danvers, before he left England, was made to believe that Mr. De Lancey, by means of his great popularity, would enable him to carry it into execution. This I had from a gentleman, to whom Sir Danvers opened himself, and whom he consulted before his embarkation for his government. The gentleman is a person of the first figure in these colonies; and being acquainted with the system of politicks in New York, he informed Sir Danvers, that those promises were by no means to be depended upon: that Mr. De Lancey was inexpressibly jealous of his ascendancy over the assembly, who were utterly difinclined to a perpetual support: that he would join in no measures that might weaken the confidence they reposed in him: that as long as he maintained his influence in their counsels, he would virtually be the governor of the province; and therefore upon the whole, his interest and ambition would infallibly lead him to keep every governor in a state of dependence upon him. Sir Danvers disliked so disagreeable a prediction; and many are of opinion, that its accomplishment hastened for troubling you with a relation of facts, a little Anecdote of out of the strict order of time. There is an anec-

Sir Danvers Ofborne.

dote of Sir Danvers, of which I would not have your Lordship uninformed. He arrived here on the 7th of October, 1753, under very discouraging apprehensions of the people; and indeed not without reason, the opposition against Mr. Clinton having been carried beyond all decorum. Governor Ofborne's commission, thro' Mr. Clinton's abscence, remained unpublished till the third day after his This is usually done, first privately in the council-chamber; and immediately after, in the most public manner at the city-hall. To wait on his excellency thither, Mr. Clinton came abroad; an aftonishing crowd being assembled at the Fort Gate, to attend the procession. Mr. Clinton's enemies were very affiduous in exciting the popular acclamations; and the huzzas of the mob were scarce intermitted for a moment. There appeared, in fhort, fuch a profusion of joy, accompanied with fome indecent expressions respecting himself, as gave Mr. Clinton just reason to suspect more open indignities. He therefore foon took his leave of Sir Danvers, who expressed his displeasure at the conduct of his enemies. This, my Lord, proved a day of general festivity and Bacchanalian frolic. In the mo

inst tran

vels

elev

on t unai opin quef

each

deep in a

" co desid plea

time that

tive

the Lord. little anechave on the ng apvithout having or Ofscence. ter his in the in the wait on broad: he Fort n's enepopular b were peared, ed with self, as re open ve of Sir he conroved a olic. In

the

the evening, the city was illuminated: the com- 1755. mon blazed with bonfires: great was the confumption of Madiera; and every company rung with maledictions against the late commander in chief, who was charged as the fole procurer of the new instruction; an account of which could only have transpired from some of the council. Sir Danvers alone appeared unaffected with our intemperate revels; and on his countenance fat a melancholy gloom. He convened the council on Thursday the eleventh of the month; and prayed their fentiments on the probability of obtaining a permanent support, according to his instructions. That the point was unattainable, they all delivered as their unanimous opinion. He then required the folution of the same question from each member severally; and still from each received the fame reply. Upon this, he turned himself about in apparant distress, uttered a deep figh, and reclining his head against a window, in a desponding accent said, "What then am I " come hither for?" The next morning --- But I desist. This instruction, as your Lordship will be pleased to recollect, remained unrevoked all the time of his successor: and 'tis natural to expect, that the people of this province were very inquisitive whether it was continued to Governor Hardy --- they were fo. But Sir Charles did not follow

the

the example of Mr. De Lancey, in laying his inftructions before the assembly. The article relative to the support has undergone, as I am credibly informed, very sew alterations, and those only in the preamble. That it was in substance the same, is evident from his speech to the house, on the 3d of December, at the opening of that session. His

Sir Charles Hardy's fpeech to his affembly.

words are these: "I am commanded by his Majesty "to recommend in his name without delay, to "consider of a proper law to be passed, for settling

" a permanent revenue upon a folid foundation, " for defraying the necessary and established charge es of government; taking care that such law be

" indefinite, without limitation of time; and that " provision be made therein for a competent sa" lary to the captain-general and governor in chief of this his Majesty's province; and likewise for " competent falaries to all judges, justices, and to other necessary and usual officers and ministers of "government: and also for a certain permanent

"fund, for repairing and maintaining the fortifi" cations, for making anual presents to the Indians, " and for the other contigent expences attending

"that service: and in general, for all such other "charges of government, as may be fixed or afcertained." The affembly in their address, after a justly-merited compliment, for his activity in proceeding

Their an-

" q

pro

mea

emo

" ce

ee ci ot m ali

e ex

o be

th com

" be

" ce " ni

M

fe'ml relative ibly inv in the ame, is the 3d n. His Majesty elay, to fettling rdation, l charge h law be and that tent sain chief wife for es, and ifters of manent e fortifi-Indians tending ch other d or afess, after ivity in ceeding his in-proceeding to Albany, and their approbation of the measures for garrisoning the frontiers, subjoin this emolient paragraph: "We wish we could, with e-" qual satisfaction, reconcile to ourselves your ex-" cellency's recommendation of an indefinite sup-" port: but humbly beg leave to inform your ex-" cellency, that we have no permanent funds, on "which to establish such a revenue; nor do any " occur to us, without very apparant inconveniencies to our constituents. We therefore most hum-66 bly hope we shall stand acquitted in the eyes of our most gracious fovereign, if we decline a " measure so directly opposite to the sentiments of 4 almost every individual of the colony. We can-" not leave this subject, without disclosing to your 66 excellency the concern it gives us, that this his " Majesty's loyal colony, which, tho' small in num-66 bers, has chearfully bore very heavy expences, 44 and particularly supported its governors, and other officers of government, in a more liberal " manner than most others on the continent, should "be requested to pursue measures hitherto unknown to it, whilft the rest, almost without ex-" ception, are left to practife the very measures de-" nied to us."

MR. CLINTON, my Lord, asked of this same as- Their behafembly only a support for five years; and it was viour differrefused

1755. what it was refused with indignation and virulence. Sir Charles here demands much more; and we fee, that he is in Clinton's answered with the most commendable decency. To time, and the help your Lordship in accounting for his contradictory behaviour --- Mr. De Lancey was bent upon expelling that governor from the province: and to gain his point, continually fomented the quarrel he himself excited. But Sir Charles was to be treated in a different manner, and measures more lenient were to be pursued. An ascendency over him would ensure to his lieutenant many advantages; and enable him to procure the governor's affent to a bill, for paying him a large fum, now due for his falary and other perquifites, while he had the chief command. He might indeed, but durst not pass such a bill himself, and therefore it was not offered. Accordingly, the house, at their very next meeting, fent up a bill to the council, on the 4th of February 1756, for paying the debts of the government; in which he was a creditor for But of this I shall have occasion to near 4000 l. take more particular notice. Thus, my Lord, I will forfeit my honour, if, upon a faithful perusal of the journals of assembly, your Lordship doth not find --- the conduct of the house, and the interest of Mr. De Lancey, for ten or fifteen years past, perfectly to tally.

L gran ven ope ber, Tho it co

F chie F

> verr Nev

> > T

nor Mai T

gove of p

T com

> C C

M S

M Afte bers

LET

ir Charles that he is ency. To is contrabent upince: and the quarwas to be res more ency over advantagrnor's afum, now while he leed, but erefore it , at their

e council, the debts editor for casion to

Lord, I il perusal

hip doth the inte-

ears past,

LET

Ler us now take a view of the transactions in the grand council of war, which the general had convened at New York, for fettling a plan of the future cil of war operations. It was opened on the 12th of December, and continued fitting for the space of two days. Tho' the invitation to the governors was universal, it confifted only of these members:

His Excellency General Shirley, commander in chief of all his Majesty's forces in North America:

His Excellency Sir Charles Hardy, Knight, governor and commander in chief of the province of New York:

The Honourable Horatio Sharpe, lieut. governor and commander in chief of the province of Maryland:

The honourable Robert Hunter Morris, lieut. governor and commander in chief of the province of pennsylvania:

The Honourable Thomas Fitch, governor and commander in chief of the colony of Connecticut.

Col. Thomas Dunbar:

Col. Peter Schuyler:

Major Charles Craven:

Sir John St. Clair, deputy quarter-master general:

Major John Rutherford.

After adjusting several points of rank, the members took their feats in the order mentioned; and 1755.

Grand counconvened at New York for fettling the operations for 17:6.

the

« Ire

" bu

" T ee to

" to « an « en ce los

" be

66 th

". go

66. A ce th

« a:1

cc at

« M

"fuj

ss.the

es the

es fiff

" wit

" mi " wi

" va celler

" Fre

1755.

The general delivers his fentiments to the council;

the general opened the conference, by laying before the council the King's instructions to General Braddock. He then delivered his fentiments to the board, to the following purpose: "That our only " enterance into Lake Ontario, was thro' the Onon-" daga River to Oswego. No other harbour had "his Majesty upon that lake, capable of receiving " veffels of force: that Ofwego was fituate in the " country of the Onondagas, the centre canton " of the Six Nations, and famous for the furr no other mart could we boall, for "commerce or correspondence with those nu-"merous tribes of favages inhabiting the western " country, on the banks of the great lakes Erie; "Iluron, Michigan, and the many rivers which " roll into them: That the Lake Ontario was only " accessible to the Canadians, thro' the river Cada-" racqui, formerly called by the French Fleuve I-" roquois; but in their late maps, calculated to " countenance their exorbitant claims, distinguish-"ed by the name of St. Lawrence. At the head " of that river was their enterance into that lake; " and near Fort Frontenac, situated on its northeastern edge, about 50 miles from, and nearly opposite to, our fort at Oswego: That while the "enemy kept possession of Frontenac, with the "harbour at Fronto, and a free passage thro' the " Iroquois ing be-General s to the ur only Ononour had ceiving in the canton he furr fl. for ose nuwestern es Erie; which as only r Cadaeuve Iated to nguishie head lake; northnearly hile the ith the ro' the

cioupois

"Iroquois River, they would always be able to 1755. " build and maintain veffels of force upon the lake: "Thas his Majesty would therefore be necessitated " to support a naval armament there, at least equal " to that of the French. Without this, they might "annoy any forts we could erect at the northeast " end of the pass at Niagara; and Olwego itielf be " loft. The inevitable confequence of which would. " be, the defection of the Six Nations, the lofs of "the whole country for near 300 miles from Ofwe-". go to Schenectady, and perhaps the reduction of "Albany itself." The general added, "That all "the French forts at Niagara, upon the lake Erie, " and the river Ohio, those also upon lake Huron, " at the Streights of Missilimakinac, and the Lake "Michigan still more westerly, received all their "fupplies by water carriage from Montreal, thro' "the River Iroquois, and the Lake Ontario: That " the French settlements at the mouth of the Mis-" sissippi furnished these northern garrisons, neither " with provisions nor stores; being not only at 2000 " miles distance from any of them; but embarrassed "with insuperable difficulties, by a laborious na-" vagation against a rapid stream." Hence his excellency concluded, "That could the French be "diflodged from Frontenac and the little fort at " Fronto, and their enterance into Lake Ontario " obstructed.

"obstructed, all their other forts and settlements on the Ohio, and the western lakes, were deprived of their support from Canada, and must ere long be evacuated." and proposes his plan of operations:

IMPRESSED, my Lord, with these views, the general proposed, as a plan of operations for the next year --- That 5000 men should be very early assembled at Oswego, and 4000 of them sent to attack Frontenac and La Gallette; which being reduced, an attempt should be made upon the forts at Niagara, Presque Isle, Riviere au Beuf, Detroit, and Missilimakinac: and that in the mean time, 2000 provincial troops should march from W.il's Creek, for the reduction of Fort Du Quesne: that a body of 1000 should proceed to Crown Point, build a fort there, and launch one or more vessels into Lake Champlain: And that the force of Canada might be farther divided, he proposed, that 2000 men should carry fire and sword up Kennebec River, fall upon the fettlements adjoining to the River Chandiere, and proceed to its mouth, three miles distant from Quebec; and by dividing themselves into small parties along the banks of the river St. Lawrence, and destroying the scattered settlements there, keep that part of Canada in continual alarms.

He then observed, that if the several attempts upon Crown Point, the forts upon the lakes, and

the

th ve in at

th us

lar

me as

at

on Cre

Of the loss the

the acq

and

F cou

wer to o

the

req

lements deprivnust ere the gehe next y affemo attack educed, at Niaoit, and e, 3000 s Creek, a body build a to Lake a might oo men River, e River lements l alarms. ttempts kes, and

the

ee miles

emfelves

river St.

the Ohio, were not profecuted at the same time, 1755. very perilous might be the consequences. That if in particular, while Frontenac and Niagara were attacked, no attempt was made against Crown Point, the whole force of Canada would march to oppose us; which would defeat the design, and require so large a body of troops, as to render the transportation of necessaries to Oswego impracticable. So numerous an army might also march against Albany, as effectually to cut off the retreat of our forces, or at least totally obstruct their supplies: That should, on the contrary, our whole strength be destined for Crown Point, and the western operations neglected; Oswego, the grand object of the French, was in the utmost danger of faling into their hands. A loss irreparable and beyond estimation --- the loss of the whole country down to Albany, with that of the Six confederate Nations; and to the French the acquisition of an absolute dominion on the lakes, and the whole fouthern country.

HIS Excellency finished, with informing the council of his late intelligence --- That the French were building three large vessels, of superior force to ours, in the harbour of Frontenac: and upon the whole prayed their advice.

A PLAN fo well digested, and so clearly stated, Which was required but little confideration; and accordingly approved, little altera-

it was in the main unanimously approved. The council advised the general, to give orders for building three or more veffels at Ofwego. They were of opinion, that 10,000 men were necessary for the Crown Point expedition, and 6000 for that on Lake Ontario. The attempt against Fort Du Quesne, by the western governments, 'twas thought would answer very good purposes, especially in securing the fidelity of the western Indians. The feint against Quebec was approved, if it interfered not with the other expeditions. The operations on Lake Ontario, they conceived ought to begin with the attack on Frontenac --- and upon the whole, were of opinion --- that an additional number of regular troops would be necessary for effectually recovering and fecuring his Majesty's rights and dominions on the continent.

Defign a' gainst Tinona deroge in the winter defeated.

THE council having finished their business, the governors soon after returned to their respective provinces. But the general continued his head quarters at New York, till the 21st of January, to prosecute an expedition against Tinonderoge, this winter: and as the French garrison was left very weak, it had doubtless succeeded, had not the want of frost and snow prevented the transportation of the stores. Before he left New York, he had a fresh instance of the unwearied and ill-natured industry

The cabal against the general abi d

of

of

CO

de

La du

the 25 cor

mo

bee

I a

to l

him

ben

" T

" p ec h

se fo

o. r

Eng

gen from

the

tion

. The lers for They flary for that on Queine, it would ring the t against with the ke Ontane attack e of opiar troops ing and s on the ness, the espective ad quarto proge, this eft very the want ation of d a fresh industry

of

of his oppofers; of which, because important in its consequences, I shall give your Lordship an ample. detail. The principal agents were Meff. De el, and by Lincey and Pownal, who now formed a kind of what cautes. duumirate, to perplex the fervice, in order to ruin the general. Without question, my Lord, you are as much furprized, after what has already been faid concerning these gentlemen, to find Mr. Pownal among the general's enemies, as you would have been had I told you that Mr. De Laucev was not? I am sensible, that a person of your Lordship's high sense of honour, will recollect Mr. Shirley's favours to him at Boston; and think it incredible to find him in the catalouge of those combined against his benefactor. But it is a shining remark of Tacitus*, 66 That benefits are only fo far acceptable, as it feems " possible to discharge them; and that when they have exceeded all retaliation, hatred is returned " for gratitude." Mr. Pownal, who was ambitious of recommending himself to a certain nobi. Lord in England, by furnishing him with American intelligence, could by no means brook his being absent from the congress at Alexandria, in the spring of the present year. He earnestly fought an introduction to General Braddock; and Mr. Shirley did the office

Beneficia eo usque læta sunt, dam videntur exsolvi posso: abi multum antevenere, pro gratia odium reddica.

office with great politeness. He was then just informed of his appointment to be lieut. governor of New Jersey, and on that account pressed for an admission into the council. Mr. Shirley, in a very genteel manner, declined a task, which might give offence to the general; and if any resolution transpired, draw himself into a snare. But Mr. Pownal, being a stranger to that diffidence and modesty, so fuitable to his years and inexperience, became from this moment difgusted, and was seldom after seen amongst that gentleman's friends. He tarried at Philadelphia, till General Braddock's defeat: and towards autum returned to New York. This change of temper recommended him to Mr. De Lancey, who failed not to exasperate the rising resentment: and now his opposition became open and unreferved. Just at this juncture, arrived Sir Charles Hardy; and Mr. Shirley being then at Oswego, your Lordship sees how seasonable their opportunity, for fowing the feeds of prejudice in the breast of the new governor. I will not take upon me to speak of their success; but doubtless no misrepresentations were wanting to strengthen the cabal. Yet no sooner did the general arrive from Ofwego at Albany, where Meif. Pownal and De Lancey attended upon Sir Charles, than the former, diffembling his enmity, laboured to procure his confidence, that he . might mig mat gent infid his and who mor tano as d cern char too and rlen VOW ey a to c Wi he o perh fhor out

fhou

Lor

he is ţŗigu

just in-

ernor of r an ada very

ght give on tran-

Pownal.

lefty, fo

ne from

ter seen

rried at

at: and change

Lancey,

ntment:

nreferv-

es Har-

o, your

nity, for t of the o speak

ntations

fooner

Albany,

d upon his en-

that he might

might pry into his secrets: but from previous intimations of his present disposition, in a letter to a gentleman then near the general, he failed in that infidious defign. He could now no longer suppress his malevolence, or conceal his recent connections; and therefore openly traduced the very man, to whom he was indebted for all his fignificancy amongst the provinces. My Lord, it is with reluctance I utter these things. But your Lordship is as determined to know every transaction which concerns the operations in America, as I am to difcharge the office of a faithful historian. Truth is too facred to be violated either out of fear or favour; and whatever your Lordship may think of this gentleman, fuch was his conduct. I knew him an avowed enemy to Mr. De Lancey, and to Mr. Shirey as sanguine a friend. I have since known him to calumniate the latter, and applaud the former. With a change of residence, or rather of interest. he changes fides; and on this account, no man perhaps ever multiplied fo many adversaries in fo fhort a time. He aims at two governments, without the least prospect of peace, if either of them should fall under his command. I can assure your Lordship, that even in the province of New Jersey he is so little esteemed, and that principally for intriguing the disbandment of the regiment under Col.

Col. Schuyler, to disoblige Mr. Shirley, that upon his return to England in February 1756, he was unable to procure a vote of affembly, defiring his affiftance of their agent at the Court of Great Britain; though he pushed it with an earnestness that would have cost most men a blush of confusion

Mr P wra's ". I viour to e governer DETERMINED to embarrals the general, nothing could have been more agreeable to Mr. Pownal and hew Jer- the lieut, governor of New York, than an admission into the late council of war. To a fear at that board neither of them had the least pretension; and yet both were highly displeased at not being invited, Mr. Pownal, who has often diftinguished himself for pushing a bold point, repaired to New Jersey, and importuned Governor Belcher, unable on account of his age, to attend the congress in person, to depute him in his stead." His excellency very wifely answered, that the invitation he had received from the general, was merely a personal compliment: nor could he, with the least decency, infift upon an appearance by proxy. His lieutenant, impatient of a denial, called in a menacing tone for pen, ink, and paper, thinking to operate on the infirmities of age by commination and outrage. The council were aftonished at this indecent attack upon an ancient and faithful servant of the Crown, and witheld their advice. But the governor, conscious of

of fir th

Y

at ab

m

cft

m

on tre

ter

Pov

a p and

Mr Prc Th

mo Suc

wit Th

WI baff

of.

com ·in

cafi ing

OWI he

mag

to

hat upon , he was defiring of Great rnestness onfulion nothing wnal and admission iat board and yet invited.

himself w Jersey,

le on acn person,

ncy very receiv-

nal com-

ency, inutenant,

tone for n the inge. The

ack upon

wn, and conscious

of

of the propriety of his refusal, firmly adhered to his 1755. first resolution; and Mr. Pownal abruptly quitting the board, returned with disappointment to New York.

This gentleman, my Lord, became acquainted He procures at Philadelphia with one Evans, who, for a* valu-publish inable confideration, dedicated to him his map of the vectives middle British colonies, with an encomium, that he against the general. esteemed him the best judge of it in America. This man having, in the public streets of Philadelphia, not only prefumed to accuse Governor Morris of high treason, but to asperse two of his Majesty's ministers as pensioners to France, sled from justice there, and took fanctuary in New York. Mr. Morris, however

 Among other gentlemen of distinction in the colonies, Mr. Pownal became acquainted with Mr. Alexander, of New York; a person of a triendly disposition and easy access. Mr. Alexander had row the furveyor general's office of New Jersey: and Mr. Pownal, to procure the fulfome dedication from Evans. premifed him that office, upon his accession to the government. This, Evans frequently declared in his last illness to one of his most intimate friends; who concealed it till after his death. Such an anecdote will scarcely be credited by those unacquainted with Mr. Pownal's infatiable ambition to rife in America. There-was another instance of his conduct equally furprising. While this gentleman was at New York, discharging his embassy from Boston in the spring 1753, he had the loan of a map of the country from Crown Point to Montreal; which was composed by William Alexander, Esq; a gentleman well skilled in the geography of America. Mr. Pownal, who had occasion to lay this chart before the assembly of New-York, having erased the name of its author, very modelly inserted his own. And tho' his plagiarism was detected at the time, he neglected to return it; and afterwards produced the fame map before the ministry, claiming to himself the honour due to Mr. Alexander alone.

ever commenced an action against him in this province, more for his own vindication, than a reparation of damages; which the poor fellow would never have been able to make. Upon this he was committed to goal, till Mr. Oliver De Lancey fo far befriended him, as to become his fecurity. These were his circumstances, when he published a pamphlet full of invectives against General Shirley. I will not affirm, that he wrote it at the instance of the cabal-in New York. I leave your Lordship to judge how far they were concerned in it, after adding, that it contained their repeated remarks; that Mr. Pownal was frequently at his lodgings about the time of its publication; and did actually accompany him to a printer, to hasten the impression, before he failed for * England. I shall not trouble your Lordship with any particular observations upon this libel. If ever it should fall into your Lordship's hands, this letter will affift you in detecting its falsehoods, and forming a proper judgment both of its author and his abetiors.

THUS,

by of t missi lant nab Her land judg peti trun port foon repr hund a fuf there ney, and men Poin went your seque tende

to be fairef

^{*} Upon the news of the loss of Oswego, part of it was republished in the New York Gazette, to lead the populace to impute this calamity to General Shirely. It was appealed to, as an indisputable authority, by the very persons to whom poor Evans was indicated for his materials; and without whose dictating, it would never have seen the light. To write a book in another's name, and then to quote it as an authority, is a species of proof, with which Euclid appears to have been utterly unacquainted.

is pro-

repawould

he was ncey fo

curity.

ished a

Shirley.

ance of

ship to er adds: that about

accom-

on, bele your

oon this

rdship's

s false-

h of its

THUS,

was repulace to

ealed to, nom poor

hose dice a book ity, is a

been ut-

Thus, my Lord, was every opportunity embraced 1755. by the cabal to prejudice the general in the opinion Great pains of the people: and happy for the colonies, had their taken to premisrepresentations been confined to this side the At- judice Mr. Shirley both lantic! Bent on Mr. Shirley's removal, all imagi. in England nable pains were taken to defame his character. Here, they questioned his integrity. But in England, they endeavoured to create a suspicion of his judgment. General Johnson was set up as his competitor; and to his renown were blown all the trumpets of fame. Shirley's deep sense of the importance of Oswego, was made the object of buffoonry and rid cule. The reduction of Crown Point represented as a matter of superior moment. Three hundred men Mr. De Lancey often declared to be a fufficient garri fon for Oswego. The general was therefore charged with squandering the King's money, in making it the main object of his attention: and out of mere opposition, a scheme was recommended for turning our whole force toward Crown Point. Upon this errand, my Lord, Mr. Pownal went home in February 1756. I need not inform your Lordship of the success of the faction. The fequel will shew with what consequences it was attended. Thus ended the year 1755. A year never Reflections to be forgotten in America. It opened with the less operafairest prospects to these distant dispersions of the tions of British

on the fruit-

the

and

us,

lies

this

cha

bers

cap

bou

are

fore

to ti

men

which must fet o

but

prov

field

the

puri

of th

aver

diffid

in a pres

the British Empire. Four armies were on foot, to remove the encroachments of a perfidious neighbour: and our coasts honoured with a fleet for their security, under the command of the brave and vigilent Boscawen. We had every thing to expect --- nothing to fear. The enemy was despised; and we only defired a proclamation of war, for the final destruction of the whole country of New France. But, my Lord, how unlooked for was the event! General Winflow indeed succeeded in Nova Scotia: but Braddock was defeated --- Niagara and Crown Point remained unreduced --- the Barbarians were let loofe from the wilderness - - many thousand farms abandoned --- the King's subjects inhumanly butchered, or reduced to beggary --- one of the # provinces rent by intestine broils --- in another, a

The importance of the New Englandcolonies in military matters.

THE New England colonies, my Lord, take the lead in all military matters. Your Lordship is too well acquainted with history, not to know, they chiefly owed their origin to the disputes which involved the nation in all the calamities of a civil war. The first planters encountered innumerable difficulties, and were long engaged in repeated wars with the Indian natives. Their descendants retain the potent faction laying the foundation for new difasters, in the course of the entuing year.

* Pennfylvania

vigilent --- noand we he final France. event l Scotia: Crown ins were housand umanly of the * other, a w difasttake the ip is too w, they hich inof a civil imerable ated wars ts retain the

to rehbour;

ir fecu-

the martial prowess and spirit of their ancestors: 1755. and for wisdom, loyalty, and an enterprising genius, are a people of renown. In these governments lies the main strength of the British interest upon this confinent. Besides their above advantageous character, they are very confiderable for their numbers, the Massachussetts bay contains about 40,000 capable of arms. The militia of Connecticut is about 27,000. Rhode Island and New Hampshire are not so populous. His Majesty's service there-Shirley fore rendered it necessary for the general, according wifit his own to the plan of operations, to visit his own govern- government. ment, in order to follicit the fuccours; without which the expedition proposed against Crown Point must inevitably have failed. For this purpose he fet out from New York on the 21st of January: and, but for his presence and sollicitations at Boston, no provincial troops would this year have entered the field .--- That colony was so extremely disobliged at the conduct of General Johnson, in neglecting to pursue his advantages, after the memorable route of the French at Lake George, as to be in general averse to a new campaign: and with the utmost And with difficulty did the general procure their concurrence tains their in another expensive attempt. --- There let us at concurrence present leave him, promoting the public service of expedition. the colonies: and returning again to New York --- difficultyobin another suffer me, at this inactive season of the year, to entertain your Lordship with one or two instances of Lieut. Governor De Lancey's more private political fears.

NEVER was any man more impolitic than Governor Clinton. Had he kept the chief justice dependent on his favour, he would have governed his province with ease and tranquillity: but by granting him a new commission for his office, during good behaviour, he fet him at liberty to act at pleafure: and in consequence of this fatal error, the province was thrown into violent convulsions. Nothing therefore, my Lord, could be more desirable to his fuccessor, than to hold that gentleman under proper restraint. Sir Charles Hardy had this advantage: his office of chief justice, I am informed, became extinguished the moment the government devolved upon him by the death of Sir Danvers Osborne. From the time of Sir Charles Hardy's ar-Lieut. Gov. rival, Mr. De Lancey had impatiently expected a new commission: but the governor neglecting the offer, to the aftonishment of most in the province, he notwithstanding ventured to resume his seat on the bench in January term; when two felons were arraigned before him. This bold stroke at the prerogative, most men imagined would have drawn down the refentment of the new governor: and why De Lancey refures his feat on the bench, tho' his office of chief justice was become extinct.

it w to y had fice. of t fcier. with the f

tend

I hay

fion

cc ver " vir

" ver " we

" tha " the

e Mr " the

" go " tibl

" der " ann

es offi

it was to ennces of politi-

an Gotice deverned but by during at plea-

ns. Nolesirable n under this adformed, ernment ror, the

Danvers rdy's arpected a ting the rovince, feat on ons were the pree drawn and why it was it was passed by without observation, I must leave to your Lordship's conjectures. That De Lancey had, in reality, no right to the exercise of that office, has been strongly insisted upon by gentlemen of the law, tho' in an extrajudicial manner. I pretend not myself to any knowledge in that intricate science; but beg leave to present your Lordship with an opinion, relating to the point, contained in the following letter from a gentleman of the profession to his friend in this city; with a copy of which I have been favoured --- Philad. 21 Oct. 1755.

"SIR.

"You say you're informed, that your lieut. go- The opinion "vernor deligns to exercise his former office, in of a gentle-" virtue of the commission issued by your late go- law with re-" vernor Clinton. I can't think your information spect to it. " well grounded; because I am clearly of opinion, " that office was extinguished by his acceptance of "the lieut. governor's commission: and I conceive " Mr. De Lancey will hardly venture to dispute " the matter with the crown. The main reason I " go upon is, that those two offices are incompa-"tible. To make this plain to you, you must un-"derstand --- that to every office there are duties "annexed. The same person cannot exercise two " offices, inconsistent with one another. One of them.

man of the

1756. "them must therefore be lost; because, as every " office is pro bono publico, its use lies in the exer-" cife of it: and the inferior office is that which is " lost; because it is most for the public good, that "the officer should hold the superior office; as the " law prefumes every man capable of the office, " which the King, who is the fountain of offices se and honour, is pleased to confer upon him. A-" greeable to this, we find many resolutions in our " books: I'll mention one or two --- A man cannot " be forester and judge er instanti. Rolls Rep. 452, " &c. --- Nor judge of the Com. and King's Bench " simul & semel. Dyer's Case. 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. "the first patent is determined, tho' the second was " granted pro illa vice, and surrendered the next day. Br. N C. 5 Mar. Br. Commissions pl. 25. " Nothing now remains but to shew, that the " office of chief justice and governor of your pro-"vince are inconfistent. To explain this, I must "inform you, that your supreme court is a " court of general jurisdiction, established by an

" as fully as they are taken cognizance of by the "King's Bench and Common Pleas in England.

"Superior to this, is the Court of Governor and 1, 23 66.1 46. ["ordinance of governor and council; claiming « f " the like power here in all pleas civil and criminal,

> % k 46 8

cc i

46

66

66

46

23

"

66

46

66

"

65 ce 1

66 i

es 1

4c 1

6,6

"Council --- a court, instituted by one of his Majesty's s every e exerhich is d, that as the office, offices n. As in our cannot p. 452, Bench & Mar. and was he next 1. 25. hat the our pro-I must irt is a by an claiming riminal, by the England.

nor and his Majesty's

* jesty's instructions to your governor. In virtue 1756. " of this instruction, writs of error are returned from the supreme court, before the governor 46 and council. The inconsistency then of the two " offices becomes very apparent: By the instruction, the governor in the court above is a fine " quo non; and to suppose him at the same time "judge in the court below, and must difregard the " abfurdity of the governor's fending a writ to com-"mand himself; and of his justifying his judgment " as chief justice to himself in council as governor: "and yet be excluded from a voice in the judg-"ment above; which nevertheless cannot be given without him. You see then the incompatibility " is much stronger, than if a man should be judge 66 both of the King's and Common Bench in Eng-4 land. There the other judges of B. R. might cor-"rect the error in the Common Pleas --- but here "the course of public justice might be intirely ".ftopped.

"IF it should be faid, his power was only fu-" spended, while in the chair of government; I an-" fwer with the observation before --- that an office " is a duty, as the very word itself implies: and I "know of no fleeping and not-to-be-exercifed office. Every office is instituted for the public " good: the officer is therefore obliged to exercise

his

his duty; for, without that, he cannot serve the 1756.

46 public --- and to be obliged to act, and at the same time obliged not to all, is nonsense. It would be' " more specious to fay, the instruction is no law; 46 as your affemblies have often faid in other cases " but then, Sir, Mr. De Lancey, in obedience to it, has declined acting as judge, ever fince the 46 death of Sir D. Osborne: and why has he (as I "have been informed) rejected a writ of error, be-" cause, according to this very instruction, the damages in demand did not exceed 300 l. sterling? 66 Besides this court of Governor and Council, I am " told, has long exercised its power, under this an former instructions to your governors, of the like "tenor, without the least opposition. "THE offices will further appear to be inconsistent, if you reflect --- that as governor he is also chancellor. The Court of Chancery often reftrains the power of the law courts: and it is the " spirit of every court to enlarge its own jurisdic-"tion. Upon both these accounts, the two offices " " must inevitably clash. I know that Knevet was " formerly chief justice and chancellor: but the or propriety of that double investiture was never fo-66 lemnly confidered, it was long ago, in the time " of Edw. III. There has been no instance of the

"like in latter times; nor do I believe it would be

ec ;

«« y

"

• :

affig vafi was mai tice the

Har amb

won dom

ran Chan

on the

ť

" lo By

dito

fuffered

ve the fame ald be' law: cases ace to ce the

as I or, behe daerling? l, I am he like his an

confiftis also ten ret is the urisdic-offices " ret was out the ever fohe time of the ould be

fuffered

" fuffered. But the case is much stronger here --- 1756.

" and I can't conceive, for the reasons above, that 46 your lieut. governor will attempt to fit as judge, 66 by virtue of his old commission. It it more pro-

66 bable, he will prevail on your governor, lately arrived, to grant him a new patent.

I am," &c.

PERHAPS, my Lord, no higher evidence can be affigned of a man's influence, than fuch a bold invasion of his Majesty's prerogative. Mr. De Lancey was determined not to lose an office, which he knew to be the grand source of his popularity, and the main prop of his power. For, whoever is chief justice of the province, unless a very novice, must be the fecond man in the government. Governor Hardy made no opposition to this large stride of ambition: and the other not long after, by his wonderful artifice, subjected him to his absolute dominion. It was effected in the following man-Yer --- Your Lordship will be pleased to recollect, obliges the that Mr. De Lancey had the address to prevail up-governor to on the affembly to fend up a bill to the council, on pass two acts the 4th of February, intituled, "An act for " the payment of the Debts due from this Co-"lony; and other Purposes therein mentioned." By this, payments were to be made to many creditors of the government, for services done this colony,

without

1756. without specifying what those services were. The - lieut. governor was to receive 3787 l. 16s. and feveral other fums were payable to his brother. It was in reality a bill for discharging the arrears due to the ordinary officers of the government. To render it the more palatable to the governor, provision was made for paying him also large sums for prefents to the Indians, and the expences of his voyage to Albany, after the French repulse at Lake When it came up to the council, it ob-George. ajority only by one voice: and of thefe, my Lord, two gentlemen, besides lieut gov. De Lancey, were themselves interested in the bill. They were the puisne judges of the supreme court, Mest. Horsmanden and Chambers, whose arrears of falary were now by the act to be discharged. Meff. Colden, Alexander, and Smith looked upon it, as a mean invalion of the King's instructions which, until they refigned their feats at the council board, they were bound in honour to regard with facred punctuality. --- It was besides evidently partial; no provision being made for other creditors, whose demands were indisputable. They also conceived it derogatory to the dignity of that board, to pass an act, excluding themselves from any knowledge of those services, for which the respective fums were made payable. For these reasons, among âmi thei the it w tho mo: but at. h the the den he by pla OW to wh fhip rica and for nev Po tie Jer dai

thi

The 6s: and ther. It ars duc To renrovision for prehis voyit Lake , it obf thefe. gov. De he bill. c court, arrears charged. ked upuctions council rd with tly pareditors. lso conboard, om any respecreasons,

among

among others, they opposed the bill; and prayed 1756. their dissent might be entered, as a vindication of themselves to his Majesty. The governor, to whom it was fent up, detained it for farther confideration; tho' he passed several other bills on the 19th of the month. This circumstance, my Lord, could not but chagrin his lieutenant, who had the bill much at heart; not only on account of the large fums thereby payable to himself and brother; but because the passing it into a law, would be the fullest evidence of his afcendency over the governor; and if he could bring him into difgrace with the ministry, by leading him into a breach of instructions. It was plain he would have nothing to rely upon, but his own popularity. This was an important card, and to be skilfully played off. So indeed it was: and when I finish the story, I am persuaded your Lordship will entertain no very mean opinion of American politicians. --- The fpring was now advancing; and it became necessary to pass a law for levying forces, not only to join the eastern colonies, on a new expedition against the French fortress at Crown Point, but for the protection of our western fromtiers, in conjunction with Pennsylvania anst New Jersey, which were become fields of blood, by the daily ravages of inhuman barbarians. The bill for this purpose originated with the affembly: and Mr.

1756. Mr. De Lancey, who was now closeting the members, was its principal constructor. When it came before the council on the 28th of March, that board immediately objected to it, according to his expectations: and the governor declared, that if the council approved, he should himself give it a negative. According to the tenor of this bill, the forces designed for the western expedition were to serve but forty days, when the province of New Jersey had ordained their quota, to be disbandable by Mr. Belcher: and Sir Charles Hardy infifted, that the like confidence ought to be reposed in his judge-The two houses now gaged themselves in a dispute, at a time when, of all others, every contention should have been avoided. Mr. Oliver De Lancey, appointed by the house to provide the Supplies for the regiment designed as our quota towards the Crown Point expedition, now gave orders to stop all farther preparations, an open rupture between the governor and affembly being daily expected. The members began freely to speak against him. The council laboured to procure an alteration of the bill --- but all to no purpose. The principal thing aimed at, was the passing of the debt-bill: and a leading member in the house plainly intimated their defigns to the governor. Doubtless your Lordship will wonder he did not dissolve them ther wou una test tion pub dela and con bec wit fro bou diff can he giv for pri alt M fer. m shi

th ca

al

he memit came at board is expect if the it a nethe fore to ferve w Tersev e by Mr. that the judgeselves in ery conliver De vide the uota togave oren rupng daily speak acure an . The of the e plain-Doubtdiffolve them

them with indignation. Believe me, my Lord, it 1756. would have been a step, at this time, extremely unadviseable. Forty days intermission between the test and return of the writ of summons for the election of representatives, being required by law; the public exigencies were too pressing to admit of any delay. Mr. De Lancey knew all his advantages: and that Sir Charles Hardy might be at no loss to conjecture that the house was now acting at his beck, nor himself under the necessity of joining with the council against the bill, absented himself from the confultations of that board. The neighbouring colonies in the mean time were urging the dispatch of our preparations for opening the campaign. Reduced at length by these perplexities. he was obliged to fend for his lieutenant, and give him his promise to pass the favourite bill for payment of the public debts. The house then privately took back the quota-bill; and after a few alterations, the council passed it on the 31st of March. To both of them Sir Charles gave his affent the following day: and they were enrolled among our laws. I leave this affair to your Lordship's own reflections; observing only, that from this period, the lieutenant governor's influence became more apparant than before --- and that as it always was, fo it will ever continue to be, his rulling 1756. ling passion, and the grand engine of his politics. to crush or controul the King's governors in this province.

Intelligence from England.

THE plan of operations, concerted at New York in December, was a few days after transmitted to Sir Thomas Robinson, to be laid before his Majesty, for the royal approbation.* Upon the arrival of the first vessels from Europe in April following, we were furprifed with these remarkable articles of intelligence: --- That the action at Lake George had been magnified in England into an almost 'decifive victory --- that Mr. Johnson was advanced to the dignity of a baronet, and 5000 l. fterling voted by the commons, as a farther reward for his great fervices --- that Eyres, his engineer, was raifed to a majority --- and Wraxal, his fecretary, to the command of a company. To crown, in fine, the utmost wishes of his adversaries --- that Mr. Shirley's conduct having been entirely disapproved, his Majesty had been pleafed to remove him from the command, and appoint the right hon, the Earl of Loudon general of all his forces in North America. Than these particulars, nothing could have been more pleafing agreeable to Mr. Shirley's adverfuies and why.

> * Mr. Pownal importuned Mr. Shirley to be made the beaver of these dispatches. The generalivery civilly thanked him for the offer of his service; but chose rather to conside in Major Rutherford and Capt Staats Morris. Mr. Pownall followed foon after them to England.

to : Feat had gen

.01). neft

tere

. I ceiv plan

> on t tinu

> > exe cou low

Lie mai

Mr. con the exp

he o eacl

than

bui

politics. in this

w York tted to Majef-

arrival lowing. icles of George . oft denced to g voted s great ifed to é comütmöst 's con-

Majesty mand. lon gen thefe leafing to e bearer n for the Rutheron after to the New York cabal; as they were shortly to 1756. reap the fruits of all thase calumnies of which they had been the original authors. A change of the general at once gratified their revenge and ambition, and tacilitated the execution of an affair earnestly solicited, and greatly advancive of their intereft.

I WILL not affert, that Mr. Shirley had yet received his Majesty's orders with respect to the late plan of operations. I believe he had not --- because on the 7th of May he arrived at Albany, and continued his preparations for carrying that plan into execution, untill the 25th of the month, when a council of war was there held, confisting of the fol- The general lowing members:

His Excellency the GENERAL. Lieut. Col. Gage, Lieut. Col. Burton, Major Chapman, Major Sparks, Sir John St. Clair, John Montrefor, Efq; chief engineer.

Mr. Shirley laid before them the minutes of the congress in December, and acquainted them with quaints them the state of affairs. With respect to the western expedition, the naval force upon the lake confifted, affairs. he observed, of two vessels of ten carriage-guns each; two row-gallies, each of ten swivels; and that he had three months before issued orders for building three other vessels, one of eighteen, another arrives at Albany, and calls a council of war :

with the situation of 1756. ther of fixteen, and a third of 12 carriage-guns. Besides which, there would be 250 whale-boats upon the lake, each of them capable of containing 16 men. The land forces then at Ofwego, and on their march for preferving a free communication between that place and Albany, were his own and Pepperell's regiments, with that raised and supported by the province of New Jersey, and the four independent companies of New York. As there was a magazine of provisions and stores at the Canajahary Falls, about 35 miles from Schenectady; his excellency proposed posting there 100 men out of those forces: as many more at the German Flats, to secure another magazine, guard the portage, and convoy the provisions thro' the Wood Creek: and as the fall near Oswego occasioned another small portage, a fort was there also to be erected, for a garrison of fifty men at least. It was, my Lord, of the greatest moment to keep open the communication between Albany and our fort on the lake; his excellency was therefore intent upon raising four companies of fixty privates each, to be employed in scouting along the passage, and harrassing the French settlements between Frontenac and Montreal.

> THE general gave them also an account of the ftrength of Oswego, when he left it the last fall --adding, that he had fent up Mr. M'Keller, the engineer

if

ri

fo

70 pu

di

T

fp

th

nie

and

ry.

cx

exc

La

mo

ferv

wh

e-guns. ats upning 16 on their etween Pepperted by dependa magary Falls, cellency forces: ire anovoy the the fall rtage, a rrison of e greattion beis excelur comoved in e French eal. t of the ft fall ---, the engineer

gineer in second, and Mr. Sower, a practitioner 1756. engineer, with orders to make fuch additional works, as they should think necessary for the security of that important post. And your Lordship will be pleased to take notice, that these orders were issued very early in March, before the Mohawk river was open; and that the engineers actually arrived at Oswego in April. At these several garrifons were to be deposited six months provisions for 7000; and he observed to the council, that for that purpose, 200 whale-boats and 500 battoes had been dispatched from the first of April since Schenestady. The remaining quantity would have been transsported by the middle of July, had his designs been carried into execution.

As to the provincial expedition, he informed them --- that the troops voted by the feveral colonies amounted to $800 men, including the officers and garrisons at the forts Edward and William-Henry. One, or perhaps two hundred Indians might be expected to join them, besides a company which his excellency had raifed to harrass the enemy upon Lake Champlain, and procure intelligence of their motions in Canada; and three more, for the like fervice, were intended to be chosen out of the whole force destined for Crown Point.

ABOUT this time one Rogers, of New Hampshire, Capt. Rocapt. gers, an active officer, gains intelligence; of which the general informes the council.

capt. of a ranging company, gave repeated demonstrations of his activity in the neighbourhood of Crown Point: He made many incursions upon the enemy, fell on their scattered parties, and scarce ever returned to Fort William-Henry, without scalps and prisoners. The general took a particular notice of him; and he became fingularly ferviceable in procuring intelligence. By a cadet, whom he took on the 20th of May, we were informed, that the whole number of men at Fort St. Frederic, Tinonderoge. and arai advanced post, were 1100, composed of the regiments of Languedoc, the Queen's regiment, two companies of the colony troops, and the militia. Befides there, there were Indians; but their numbers uncertain: that at Tinonderoge the French twelve pieces of ordnance mounted, and carriages preparing for an additional number; but that the retrenchment at at the advanced post was without any cannon. These troops wintered at Montreal and Chambly; and arrived at the fouth end of the lake about the middle of April, being plentifully supplied with provisions and military stores, --- These intelligences the general laid before his council; and then observed, that the 50th and 51st regiments, the four independent companies, and the regiment of New Jersey, were scarce a third part of the number of troops defigned by the general plan for the operations upon Lake

L ly th pr

Po jui Al

ex pe

W

pa rai

in fro

tha Fal Ge

Ha: and

per wh plo

wi

demonhood of pon the arce eit scalps r notice in protook on e whole deroge. d of the nt, two itia. Beumbers had arriages hat the without real and he lake upplied intellind then the four of New ftroops ns upon Lake

Lake Ontario: that the provincials were also not on- 1756. ly deficient of the complement thought necessary at the congress, but even of the number voted by the provinces concerned in the enterprize against Crown Point; and that it was impracticable, even with the junction of the 144th and 48th regiments, then at Albany, to carry on both the northern and western expeditions at the same time: that he had no dependance upon the Indians of the Six Nations; Sir William Johnson being unable to procure scouting parties; and that upon this account he proposed raising four companies for that service.

Your Lordship may hence observe, what reason the congress in December had for their opinion, that more troops were needstary for his Majesty's service in America. No reinforcements being yet arrived from England, for carrying the general plan into execution, the council were of unanimous opinion --that 1300 ought to be posted at Oswego, 50 at the Their ont-Falls, 200 at the Oneida Carrying-Place, 150 at the nion and r German Flatts, and as many more at the Conejo-Mary Falls. They advised therefore, --- that the Foth and 51st, and the New Jersey regiments; the independents, and the North Carolina provincials (all which amounted to about 2000 men) should be employed in that fervice. The 44th and 45th regiments, with the colony troops, were though a fafficient to reduce duce Crown Point. Accordingly, they recommended their junction: advising, however, that the regulars should continue for a time in their encampment, at Albany. --- The ranging companies, proposed by the general, were highly approved; and the railing of others strongly recommended. They also concurred with him in lentiment --- that a road ought to be made from the German Flatts to Ofwego: and declared, it appeared to them very necesfary to strengthen Fort Edward, and erect another at the South Bay. The former was a deposit for ftores, and at the concurrence of all the routes from Crown Point to Albany. The latter would command the route taken by baron Dieskau for his designed attack upon Fort Edward --- a route thro' which incursions were frequently made upon our northern frontier. A fort at the South Bay was conceived requifite, to cover our convoys of provisions for the northern expedition from the infults of the enemy, who in flying parties infested the passage from Albany to * William-Henry. The propriety of this advice, my Lord, must be evident to every man of a tolerable acquaintance with the country; and thefe

were

edly lett

him

why till
ley,
ed
fave thre
Sch
place

to a gine obje We to i

and fent can

neE nor gain wel

Ger

^{*} For the building of a fort at South Bay, preparations were making when Mr. Shirley refigned the command of the army: but the work has fince been neglected; and the passage from Fort Edward to our camp at William-Henry, insested all this summer, and many of our people cut off, as was foreseen by this council.

edly communicated to Sir William Johnson, in his letters, after the action at Lake George; which were then flighted by the cabal, who studiously opposed mmendt the reencampies, proed; and . They t a road o Ofwey neces-posit for tes from m.mand lefigned hich in-another

orthern ived refor the enemy, om Al-

this adan of a d thefe

were

ns were e army: om Fort is fumby this him in all his measures. Thus I have shewen your Lordship the reasons why the general plan continued to be unexecuted, till the fitting of this last council of war. Mr. Shirley, however, in hopes of the arrival of the expected reinforcements, and loth to be diverted from his favourite defigns upon Lake Ontario, continued to throw large quantities of provisions and stores into Schenectady, and all the magazines between that place and Ofwego. This, it was supposed, was done to induce his fuccesfor, from these ample supplies. to act upon this quarter; it being univerfally imagined, that Crown Point was now become the main object of the ministry. Till the arrival of General Webb on the 7th of June, this was only conjecture, and general report. The effects of the misreprefentations of American affaire in England, then became evident to all; for the stores laid in at Schenectady were now reconveyed to Albany for the northern expedition; and fresh clamours excited against Mr. Shirley, for his supplies towards the Major General Aberwestern operations. On the 15th of June, Major crombie General Abercrombie landed at New York; and takes the command of ten the army.

ten days after at Albany; where he immediately took upon himself the command of the army. Shirley continued there no longer than to deliver over to the new general the proper returns, and communicate such information as appeared necessary, with respect to the present situation of affairs.

The whole force, of which General Abercrombie now took the command, consisted of the 44th, 48th, 50th, and 5 ist regiments, four independent companies, the New Jersey regiment, four companies raised by the province of North Carolina, Otway's, and the Highland regiments, * and the provincial forces deslined against Crown Point.

Sir William Johnson holds a conference at Onondaga.

Instructions had been given to Sir William Johnson, to procure a large body of the Six Nations, to join in any attempt that might be made upon the Lake Ontario; and to engage 100 more, for the assistance of the provincial army. To effect which, he was then holding a conference with the deputies of the Six Cantons at Onondaga; from whence he was to proceed immediately to Oswego. Mr. Shirley had, besides, raised a company of Indians from Stockbridge, to be employed in ranging the woods between Fort William-Henry and Montreal: and that his Majesty's service upon Lake Ontario might be the 40 cap pro dire cer. ine jud mad Ne inv has this ship Shi tion Joh ·ven thei > cati effe

ferv

Acc

a lit

ingwas

^{*} These two regiments arrived with him, and consisted of about 900 men.

diately . Shirer over ommuy, with rombie , 48th, t companies tway's, vincial ations on the the afwhich. eputies nce he

Villiam

. Shirs from woods

: and might be

fifted of

be free from the obstructions, by which it had been 1756. the year before greatly embarrassed, he had inlisted 40 companies of battoemen, each of 50 men, a Forty comcaptain and an affiltant, for transporting stores and toe men provisions to Oswego. These were put under the raised, and direction of capt. Bradstreet, an active vigilent offi- ufefulness. cer, inured to the hardships to which that service ineviteably exposed him. This, the one of the most judicious measures that could have been taken, was made the subject of low invective. The faction at New York laboured to represent it as a project to involve the Crown in a needless expence: but time has given the fullest evidence of the propriety of this step; and proper it will appear to your Lordship, before the conclusion of this letter. General Shirley wisely forsaw, that the Indians of the Six Nations, whatever influence over them Sir William Johnson might pretend, could not be engaged even to protect the King's troops in the passage thro' their own country; and that unless the communication was kept open to Ofwego, nothing could be effected upon the Lake, nor the garrison itself preferved from falling into the hands of the enemy. Accordingly, no fooner did the spring open, than A small post a little blockaded post, with 25 men, at the Carry- cut off in the ing-Place, in the very center of the Oneida country, try. was cut off; the Oneidas themselves being unques-paniesofbat-

tionably

1756. tionably concerned in the massacre. Nothing could fecure us against the repetition of these insults, but passing thro' the country with large squadrons of battoes: and to facilitate the transportation, Mr. Shirley, who canvafed every expedient for the prefervation of Oswego, employed a working party of So men, under a director, to remove the obstructions in the Wood Creek; by this means, the portage from the Mohawks River, across the great Carrying-Place, was reduced from eight miles to one. Nor did he omit observing to his successor, that an attempt upon Niagara was of the last importance; the loss or preservation of our Indians depending upon the success of the operations on Lake Ontario:

> RELATIVE to the Crown Point expedition, he recommended the march of part of the army, in a new discovered route, on the west side of Lake George, to the enemy's advanced works, five miles short of Tinonderoge. Which being carried, the heavy artillery and flores might be there landed, and transported thro' a road to Tinonderoge and Fort Frederic: and after the reduction of those Fortresses, he advised General Abercrombie immediately to construct armed vessels, to secure the command of Lake Champlain.

Governor Sharpe's defigned attempt on Fort Du Quesne fails.

Your Lordship may remember, that an attempt was proposed, at the congress in December, against Fort

Fo Go pri fec fen tier and but pro

fafe

ties

V fairs OfM to y yuga fmal tles. that the 1 the 1 alfo John of a all p

BE

cure

ould: Fort Du Quesne, with an army of 3000 provincials. but ns of 1756.

Gov. Sharpe was to have commanded in that enterprize; but there remained now no hopes of its profecution. Virginia chose to be entirely upon the defensive. --- Maryland was wholly inactive; her frontier being covered by the adjoining provinces --and as to Pennsylvania, she raised indeed 1500 men, but only with a view to protect her out-farms; nor probably would thus far have confulted her own fafety, but for the daily murders and horrid cruelties perpetrated upon her borders.

WITH respect to the circumstances of Indian affairs to the northward --- While Mr. Shirley was at Ofwego, and upon his return, as I before observed to the northto your Lordship, he proposed to the Senecas, Cayugas, Onondagas, and Oneidas, the erection of fmall forts for the protection of their respective cas-The two last tribes consented, desiring also, that the forts might be mounted with cannon: and the Tuscoraras afterwards sent deputies to him, with the like request: --- the Senecas and Cayugas had also lately fignified their acquiescence to Sir William Johnson; and the general transmitted him the plan of a fort, directing the profecution of the work with all possible dispatch, as a most effectual means to secure the Indian country to his Majesty.

BEFORE Mr. Shirley left Ofwego the last year, he proposed

stances of Indian affairs

ttempt against Fort

Mr.

pre-

ty of

truc-

port Car-

one.

iat an

ance;

igup-

tario:

he re-

a new eorge,

nort of

vy ar-

tranf-

rt Fre-

treffes,

ely to

and of 1756 proposed to the Six Nations, their convening this fummer, in a grand council there, the Indians on the north fide of Lake Ontario, and round Lake Erie, to consult their common interest, and maintain a correspondence by annual councils at Ofwego. And to draw off the latter from their attachment to the French, recommended to the Six Nations their concurrence, in opening a free trade with the foreign Indians; at the entrance of the Onondaga river, upon terms more advantageous to all the Indians, than any hitherto pursued: This fpring Sir William Johnson informed his excellency, that the Six Nations were extremely well pleaf ed with the projects relating both to the trade at Oswego, and the construction of forts in their cantons. To accelerate the latter, the general supplied him with 5000 l. sterling, in addition to 5000 l. advanced to him by General Braddock: and yet, my Lord, he was constrained to confess, in a subsequent * letter, that unless his excellency could engage several companies of rangers, he despaired of the preservation even of a free passage thro' their country: and whether he has to this day built a fingle fort, as the general proposed, I have not been able after much inquiry, to discover.

Situation of our affairs with the ioutheren Indians.

EQUALLY unpromising was the situation of our affairs

10 May, 1756.

affai deed kees terri The tions wa: prog The lawa Penn tion weff exter the r fey p lawai their Sir V

ga, t to th enga

upor

were brok

mur

very

g this ans on T ake

main-Ofwe-

attach-

x Nae trade the O-

ous to

This cellenl pleafa rade at eir can-applied ol. ad-

er, my fequent.

gage seof the r couna fingle

en able

of our affairs affairs with the fouthern Indians. Some hopes in- 1756. deed were entertained of the fidelity of the Cherokees --- a people warlike and powerful; in whose territories the Virginians were erecting a fortress. The Shawanese nevertheless continued their irruptions into that province: and Governor Dinwiddie was obliged to draft the militia, to oppose their progress, and preserve the town of Winchester. These Indians also, with the Susquehanas and Delawares, committed frequent hostilities upon the Pennsylvanians. Governor Morris, for the protection of the country, carried a line of forts on the west side of the Kittatiny mountains, all along the extended frontier of that colony, from Delaware to the river Potowmac. The government of New Jerfey proceeded even to declare war against the Delaware Indians; and would have penetrated into their fettlements, had not affurances been fent by Sir William Johnson from the council at Onondaga, that the Delawares and Shawanese, in obedience to the Six Nations, were under renewed and politive engagements, to refrain from any farther outrages upon the fouthern frontiers. If any fuch promites. were really made, 'tis certain they were immediately broken, many of our inhabitants having fince been murdered and captivated by the favages of those very tribes. Whence we may fairly conclude, that either the Six Nations connived at these infractions of their commands; or that their antient fovereignty is become the contempt of their tributaries. In fact, my Lord, the matter is still worse. Too much reason is there to believe the truth of both these alternatives.

Sir William Johnson's conduct confidered.

I INFORMED your Lordship, that Sir William Johnson was ordered to proceed from Onondaga to Ofwego, with as many Indians as could be perfuaded to march with him; not only for the more effectual prefervation of that post, but to execute the plan which Gen. Shirley had concerted, for the establishment of an annual council there, with those Indians who had been long in the French interest, and seemed ready to listen to proposals for an alliance with us. It was expedient, my Lord, that he should have complied with these instructions, nay it was his duty; but no fooner was he acquainted with Mr. Shirley's refignation of the command of the army, than he returned from Onondaga to Albany, at the head of about 60 Indians; leaving Capt. Patter with his company of grenadiers, to wander thro' a forlorn wilderness, in fearch of Oswego. Whether this instance of his conduct was not intended to raise his reputation with the new general, as a leading man among the Indians, I leave to your Lordship's conjecture. By arts like these, he acquired his Indian f York doubt riors f fresh the de the O the pa ther, tions. appro able. as Col ny, a quain thefe By fu bitant they a the co the g in the

> ers, h M

atten

to Ma feet o

dian

fractions vereignries. In o much these al-

William

idaga to perfuadnore efcute the for the h those nterest. an alli-

, nay it ed with the ar-

that he

oany, at Patten thro' a hether to raise leading dship's his Indian

dian fame: and the influence of the faction at New York so powerfully sustained it, that few persons doubted his ability to procure feveral hundered warriors for our affiltance, though every day exhibited fresh proofs of their melancholy defection. Besides the destruction of our post in the very country of the Oneidas mentioned before, the enemy infested the parts about Ofwego, and the whole passage this. ther, without the least opposition from the Six Nations. Alarms indeed were frequently given of the approach of their flying parties; and it was observable, that Sir William Johnson, on those occasions, as Colonel of the county, raifed the militia of Albany, and proceeded to the spot; tho' every man acquainted with Indians well knows, that of all places, these are the most unlikely for finding the enemy. By fuch fliam expeditions have our northern inhabitants been impoverished and distressed: nor could they answer any other end, than to raise a bruit thro' the colonies; and with parade and oftentation fet the gazetteers upon founding his applause. --- Even in these wild romantic excursions, but few Indians attended him: and yet if we credit our news writers, hundreds were in his train.

MR. SHIRLEY had scarce resigned the commandto Major General Abercrombie, when the good effeet of the battoe fervice became so irresistably evident,

ci

in

C

th

n

at

tl

fi

h

1756.

Account of a gallant action of our battor men under Capt. Bradffreet.

dent, that his very enemies recollected their ungrounded calumnies with shame and confusion. ---I allude, my Lord, to the action between the French and our battoe-men, on the 3d of July. Senfible of the importance of Ofwego, the enemy collected themselves about the latter end of May in a large body, not many miles to the eastward of that garrison; from whence detachments were perpetually fent out to fall upon our workmen, and infest the passage thro' the Onondaga River. Capt. Bradstreet who had the direction of the battoes, was apprized that small parties lay in ambush, waiting a favourable opportunity to attack him. Accordingly, when he left Oswego, he ordered the several divisions to proceed as near each other as possible: but so numerous and irregular a body could not without difficulty be kept to any tolerable order. He was at the head of about 300 battoe-men, in the first divifion, upon his return to Schenectady; and about nine miles from Oswego, when the enemy, who were 700 strong, rose from their ambuscade, and fired upon his front. Near the place of attack, was a small island, by which the enemy might easily have forded the river. Bradstreet in an instant landed upon the island, to prevent being inclosed between two fires; and with fix men maintained his possession, bravely repelling twenty of the enemy, who attempt- ϵd heir unusion. --e French enfible of collected n a large that garrpetually infest the radstreet apprized a favourgly, when visions to ut fo nuthout difle was at first divi ind about who were and fired as a fmall ave fordded upon ween two offession, attempted to seize that a lvantageous post. He was then re- 1756. inforced with fix others; and even compelled a fecond party of 40 French to give way. Enraged at this shameful disappointment, the enemy, to the number of 70 men, thought proper to make a third attempt; but the battoe-men, who did not exceed 20, with redoubled bravery still kept their ground, and again forced their adversaries to retire. During these skirmishes, which lasted near an hour, the battoe-men in the rear landed, without loss or confufion, upon the fouth fide of the river. Four hundred of the enemy now advanced up the north fide of the stream, intending to ford it about a mile higher, and furround us. Bradstreet, aware of the defign, left the island, and with 200 men marched on the other fide to oppose them. But they had actually forded over, before he came up, and posted themselves in a swamp. Dr. Kirkland, with the second division of battoes, was now advancing to his affiftance; but Bradstreet ordered him, and Capt. Butler, who commanded the third division, to keep their posts, and cover the battoes in the rear. Being arrived at the swamp, an engagement ensued in the Indian manner of fighting, and continued above an hour with dubious fuccess. Bradstreet, at length animating his men, rushed into the thicket thro' twice his number, and gallantly pushed them into the 1756. the river, where many of them perished. Another attempt was made, in the mean time, to ford that river a little higher; but those being also repulsed, the whole parry was intirely routed and dispersed.

ed

Just after the defeat, Capt. Patten, with his grenadiers from Onondaga, fell in with our battoes and the next morning a reinforcement of 200 mencame up from the garrison; and but for the exact five rains, which began foon after the action, and continued all the next day, these brave battoe-mon would probably have cut off the whole party. That Sir William Johnson, as was expected, accompanied Capt. Patten to Oswego, with the Indians from Onondaga, Bradstreet might have made immediate pursuit, and many of the enemy must have been overtaken; but this pacific plenipotentiary was then hastening to Albany (a safer situation) with the important minutes of his late conference. A conference full of affectionate Indian speeches, and large promises of their affistance; when scarce a man of them could be prevailed upon to turn out of his hut for the defence of the common cause. Bradstreet had but three Indians of the Six Nations with him at this attack. Of these, one took to his heels; a fecond fought bravely; but the third went over to the enemy, and affisted in pointing out our officers. In these several actions we had about 30 men killed and

and is ! the

> Scl and

mo bei

the

of

cro he

pre pui Up

iffu rea

gin bei

tha mig rea

long ons

purp

other 1 .12: 11100 .. erleda

S 715. 1109 Michiga.

I Wall 1

- 17970 1 Red panifrom

diate been then

e imonfer-

large an of is hut

freet him.

ls; a er to

cers. killed and and wounded. How many of the French were slain, 1756. is not certainly known; tho' it is generally faid, they lost about 120. Eighty arm's were brought to Schenectady; and about 70 men found in the woods, and carried to Oswego. The French fled in the utmoti disorder: and some of their regular soldiers, being strangers to the country, got bewildered in the defart, and perished for want of fustenance.

BRADSTREET arrived at Schenectady on the 11th of July; and the next day acquainted General Aber- telligence of crombie at Albany of the state of Oswego. --- That he learnt from his prisoners, the French were pre- tackOswepreparing to attack it, having 1200 men for that purpose encamped not far from the easternmost fort. Upon the receipt of this intelligence, orders were issued to Major General Webb, to hold himself in readiness to march for its defence with the 44th regiment. My Lord, Mr. Shirley had, feveral days before*, advised General Abercrombie to reinforce that garrison with + two battalians at least: and they might have marched immediately, as Bradstreet was ready to convoy the troops, and every magazine, along the passage, plentifully supplied with provisions. But not to anticipate my flory; Bradffreet gives inthe enemy's defign to at.

MR?

On the 26th of June, the day after he was superseded. + Such a reinforcement could eafily have been spared for that purpose, Otway's and the Highland regiment being now landed at Albany. And that this necessary step might not be obstructed, General Shirley had, before their arrival, dispatched an express to Oswego, ordering Bradstreat to quicken his return to Schenectady.

Lord Loudon arrives. MR. SHIRLEY arrived at New York on the 4th of July, and waited the arrival of my Lord Loudon, who landed there on the 23d of that month, with Mr. Pownal in his train: but in what character the latter returned a fecond time from England, was a subject of doubtful conjecture.——His Lordship, regardless of his ease, and the satigues of a tedious voyage, tarried there but three days; and on the 29th of July reached his head quarters at Albany, when he took upon himself the command of the army.

Our present force, and that of the French. The garrison of Oswego consisted now of 1400 men, and about 300 workmen and sailors. Four hundred and eighty-sive were posted, in small parties, between that place and Burnet's Field, to maintain an open passage thro' the country of the Six Nations. The 44th and 48th regiments at Albany and Schenectady, with the British troops just arrived, consisted now of 2600 men; and the provincials, under the command of General Winslow, were about 7000, and ready to march from Fort William-Henry.—Of the naval force of Oswego, I have already given your Lordship an account: and as to the strength of the enemy at Tinonderoge and Crown Point, according to the latest intelligence obtained by Capt. Rogers, they did not then exceed 3000 men.

From his Lordship's known abilities for war, the colonies

th d' Po

fay

to im

gr

the

cor

Fre fire

elc.

to i wh

boo

was fery

mo

ner wh the 4th oudon, h, with fter the , was a hip, retedious on the Albany of the of 1400 Four all paro main-Six Naany and arrived, vincials, were a-Villiamhave alnd as to dCrown ainedby oo men.

war, the colonies

colonies were in great hopes, that notwithstanding 1756. the delay of the Bratish reinforcements, some coup d'eclat would very speedily be struck at Crown Point. But alas! while we were intent upon this favourite defign, the enemy were bending their main force, not to oppose us at Tinonderoge, but to secure what was to them a matter of much more importance, I mean the exclusive dominion of the great Lakes --- Accordingly, they laid fiege to O- Ofwego taken by the swego; and after two or three days contest, obliged French, and the garrison the garrison, on the 14th of August, to surrender madeprisonthemselves prisoners of war. This melancholy ac- ers of war. count was first brought to Albany by several soldiers, fome of whom had formerly deferted the French fervice; and remained many days unconfirmed, till the arrival of two failors, who made their escape after the reduction of the forts. An univerfal shock was now given to the whole continent: and to increase our distress, the Indians reported, that the whole garrison was put to the sword, and the dead bodies of our countrymen denied even the facred rite of sepulture. But this, by subsequent advices, was contradicted: and the spies, dispatched for obfervation, inform us, that the works are intirely demolished, and the enemy departed. In what man-Circumner, and by what numbers, it was taken, or upon fiege unwhat terms surrendered, I cannot give your Lord-known.

ship any satisfactory account. How many were killed on either side is also unknown; the certain it is that Lieut. Col. Mercer, the commanding officer, is among the sain.

IT is much to be wished, my Lord, that Mr. Shir-Battoe-men improdehtly discharged.

ley's advice to General Abercrombie had been followed: and equally to be regretted, that Sir William Johnson returned with such precipitation from Onondaga to Albany. Nor ought the discharge of 400 battoe-men, after Bradstreet's return, to pass without some remark. They arrived at Schenectady, as I observed before, on the 11th of July; and methinks the recent proofs of their courage, and the account they gave of the strength and designs of the enemy, might have been a sufficient antidote against the poison of that council for their discharge; which was unquestionably deligned by Mr. Shirley's enemies for throwing an odium on his measures. To the fame influence, my Lord, it was undoubtedly owing, thar General Webb's march, with the 44th regiment from Schenectady, was delayed till the 12th of August, but two days before the garrison was actually furrendered. He had proceeded no farther than Burnet's Field, with his regiment of 900 men, and the remaining 800 battoe-men, when the deferters brought him the news of the fiege.

General Webb's march delayed.

Upon the receipt of which, he made a forced march

to

at

th

10 m

en

the

pu

Six

and cha all

gre

an

der N

the

and at a

towa

very Gen

to th

Web

burn ans. officer,

Ir. Shireen folir Willion from large of to pass ienectaly; and ge, and defigns intidote Charge; Shirley's ires. To ubtedly he 44th till the garrison ded no

ment of n, when flege. d march to the Oneida Carrying-Place; where he immedi- 1756. ately felled trees into the Wood Creek, to prevent the approach of the * enemy.

THESE, my Lord, were great overfights: but the loss of Oswego must principally be ascribed to a more distant cause --- to a juncto, who have all along embarrassed every part of his Majesty's service on the Lake Ontario. By their misrepresentations, the public has been drawn into a dependance upon the Six Nations, merely to exalt Sir William Johnson: and that nothing might be wanting to procure a change in the command of the army, and destroy all confidence in Shirley's judgment, Ofwego, the great object of his attention, has been flighted as an uneffential post; and the reduction of St. Frederic represented as a point of far superior moment.

My Lord, by these intrigues our country bleeds Unhappy --- Ofwego is loft --- loft perhaps for ever, --- with quences of the naval armament --- above 60 pieces of ordnance, this imporand a rich supply of stores and provisions, laid in tant post. at a vast expence, for several thousand men, during

the

^{*} The French were equally apprehensive of his advancing towards them, or of our attempting to rebuild Oiwego: and very prudently improving the present advantage, began where General Webb left off, and continued the obstruction quite down to the entrance into the Oneida Lake; which renders it imposfible to pass thro the Wood Creek, 40 miles in length. General Webb not long after abandoned the Carrying Place, after burning down the forts, much to the disfatisfaction of the Indians.

de

ar

ex

W

ha

m n

th ha

of ٧ď

m

qu

ob

tei

or

ha Ih

th

un $\mathbf{p}_{\mathbf{q}}$ fin

Wa de

bl

1756. the whole campaign. --- Would to God this was all. and we had nothing worse to apprehend! --- Our furr trade, which has long been the principal object of the national attention, and the support of our frontier city of Albany, is at an end. The French can now with the utmost facility secure the inland country, and confine us to the very brinks of the ocean a free communication is opened between Canada and Louisiana; and all our intercourse with the Indians totally relainded. The enemy, on the other hand, may, without opposition or restraint, render these innumerable tribes of savages their ailies and 'defieddents. The Six Nations are more wavering than ever: and should they no longer think it expedient to preferve their neutrality, the whole continent must inevitably become a field of blood.

Thecolonies not so paiv-

350 41.3

Whatever may be thought of these colonies, which of late have been magnified for their numbers and erful es ima-opulence, I do affure your Lordship, that a short war will effectually exhaust them. Their settlements are scattered; their frontiers extensive; the inhabitants but few, generally in very moderate circumstances, and still luxurious, and without resources. The irruption of a few Indians into Pennsylvania, had already occasioned the loss of several hundred fouls, and the desolation of near two thousand farms. The frontiers of the neighbouring colonies are equally dfenceless:

was all. --- Our object of ur fronnch can d coune ocean n Canawith the he other render llies and vavering k it exole conf blood.

s, which pers and hort war ents are abitants stances.

had ald' fouls,

The ir-

is. The equally

nceleis:

defenceless: and the power of the native savages, 1756. ar present in the French interest, is of itself sufficient, by flow but inevitable means, to reduce us to extreme beggary and diffreis.

Thus, my Lord, I have finished the relation of General Rewhat has hither to been transacted in America. have not only presented you with a series of the whole. most interesting events, but brought your Lordship acquainted with the characters and designs of the principal agents in our political affairs. have erred. I am persuaded it is not in any article of importance, nor purposely in the minutest. --- Every line of this letter hath been penned with the most facred veneration for truth, and a mind eaqualy unbiassed by resentment or assection. --- For obtaining an intimate acquaintance with the matters rehearfed, few in the colonies have had superior advantages: nor in collecting proper materials, has any one been more affiduous. Add to this, that I had no other interest in the public measures, than the interest of every man on the continent. I am unconnected with all parties; neither enjoying any post myself, nor standing in the least relation to a fingle officer in the army. The love of my country was the fole spring of my curiofity; and so far, indeed, I was not an unconcerned spectator of the public transactions. If I have made honourable mention 1756. tion of General Shirley, it was owing to my approbation of his schemes, as conducive to the common weal of the British plantations: and if my judgement was in this regard erroneous, I have the pleafure to find myfelf in very respectable company, Except New York, or rather a prevailing faction there, all the colonies hold him in very high efteem. Some have made public declarations of their fense of his great merit; and that too, at a time when he appeared descending from his meridian of glory. But he needed no other than the testimonials of his own province; for he, my Lord, whose conduct is approved by the people of the Massachussetts Bay. must be distinguished both for his abilities and his virtue. They are too numerous and wife to be deceived, too free and independent to be driven. An undue influence can never be obtained by the governor of a colony, who has neither power nor places to bestow. --- Their assemblies are annual --- the members elected by ballot, in number near 200. ---The council, or middle estate, chosen yearly by the affembly: --- and as all the offices are elective, not a man in the province is dependent on the smiles or the frowns of the King's representative: --- and yet fo wife, free, and loyal a people have approved his judgment; confided in his integrity; testified in his favour; and publickly lamented his departure from

fr L m

in no

it I

tu

ca L

ful an

ing

no are

tio tea

ant

on of a

Tea

ed if I

eve the

blie

to y approommon judgehe pleampany. faction esteem. ir fense e when f glory. s of his iduct is ts Bay, and his be deen. An the goor plal --- the 200. --by the e, not iles or ind yet ved his fied in parture

from

from the continent. I would by no means, my Lord, be understood, by these favourable sentiments of Shirley, to disparage his noble Successor in the command, he yet has not, at least he deserves not to have, a fingle enemy amongst us: and I hope it will ferve the purposes of no man to be his enemy. I could only have wished, that at this critical juncture, a gentleman fo thoroughly versed in American affairs, had been continued in America for his Lordship's assistance. We have to contend with a fubtle enterprising foe --- a foe, rapacious, martial, and bloody, committing inurders, rather than waging war. Tho' the French colony contains perhaps not 30,000 men capable to bear arms; yet these are all under the despotic command and sole direction of their governor-general; and experience teaches us, that in spite of our navy, they may be annually reinforced. The strength of our colonies, on the other hand, is divided; and the concurrence of all necessary both for supplies of men and money Jealous are they of each other --- fome ill-conflicuted --- others shaken with intestine divisions --- and, if I may be allowed the expression, parsimonious even to prodigality. Our affemblies are diffident of their governors --- governors dispife their assemblies, and both mutually misrepresent each other to the Court of Great Britain. Military measures demand demand secrecy and disparch: but while the colonies remain undivided, and nothing can be transacted but with their universal assent, 'tis impossible to maintain the one, or proceed with the other. Without a general constitution for warlike operations, we can neither plan nor execute. We have a common interest, and must have a common council, one head, and one purfe. --- The French service is unexposed to these embarrassments; and hence they project without discovery, and we scarce collect their designs, till we are attacked and defeated. Hitherto they have profecuted the war with superior advantage; and yet the militia of the province of the Massachusetts Bay alone, undoubtedly exceeds. by some thousands, all the troops of Canada. Since the commencement of the present hostilities, his Majesty has lost above 3000 loyal subjects: and as all the Indians are at the devotion of the French. and Ofwego is now loft, many thousand farms before the opening of the next fpring, will probably be abandoned; and the interior settlements deluged with the innocent blood of all ages and fexes. Indeed, my Lord, 'tis not beneath the most elevated station, to indulge the benevolent feelings of humanity; nor, retiring a while from the pomp and gaity that furrounds you, to fled a pitying tear over families inhumauly, bereft of their substance, er more

f

ti

P

q

p

i

he colotransacpossible e other. e operae have a n counervice is nce they collect lefeated. th supevince of exceeds, a. Since ties, his : and as French, arms beprobably s delugd fexes. t elevatgs of hu-omp and tear o-

ance, cr

more

more inhumanly flaughtered in their beds. --- It is a celebrated faying, and does honour to human nature, "Homo fum, et nihil humanum a me aliemum puro."

What the prefent or the next campaign will

What the prefent or the next campaign will bring forth, is known only to the Omniscient Governor of the universe. The colonies are nearly exhausted, and their funds already anticipated by expensive unexecuted projects: and whether they will still continue their efforts, or refign to a listless defpair, is uncertain. I fear the worst --- and yet you know, my Lord, I am not of a melancholy cast. There is too much reason for general concern: and I venture to predict, what every judicious person foresees, that unless some successful blow is struck--and speedily struck, at the the power of France, Britain must inevitably lose her possessions in America. An event, my Lord, of the most tremenduous consequence to us --- to you --- to the protestant religion --- to the peace of Europe --- yes --- and to the peace and happiness of all mankind.

HITHERTO we have wasted our strength in loping off branches, when the axe should have been laid to the root of the tree. Canada, my Lord, Canada must be demolished --- Delanda est Carthago --- or we are undone. Strength sufficient have we lest, with proper assistance, for a decisive struggle:

ftruggle: but a lingring confumption will infallibly enervate and destroy. France has been, ever can, and will be annually, throwing over fresh troops into her colony, in defiance of our greatmaritime force: and flould peace enfue, even before our ruin is compleated, what will be the state of these provinces upon the next rupture between the two crowns, when the inland country is filled with our enemies? --- As you therefore value, my noble Lord, the cause of liberty; the glory of the British name; the honour and dignity of the best of Kings; and the preservation of these colonies from bloody carnage and total ruin; exert, I befeech you, exert your influence, to extirpate this by od of French savages from the face of the continent. In a scheme so decifive, and in no other, will the provinces heartily unite; and if well concerted, and our unfortified fea-coasts at the same time sufficiently protected; it will doubtless succeed --- humble the pride of France--- and close the present war with a lasting and honourable peace. I am,

My Lord,

New York, Sept. With the profoundest respect, Your Lordship's most obliged and obedient servante

The state of the last will be and the same the state of t partition of the profession area fallibly in, and ps into force: ruin is rovinrowns, emies? d, the e; the id the arnage our invages fo deeartily rtified ected; ide of

pect,

lasting.

eggil.

