REDUCED INCREASE IN WHEAT IN WEST VERY HEALTHY SIGN

is Due, Says Commissioner Sclanders, to the Growth of Fodder Crops and the Tendency to Mixed Farming

A letter from F. Madore Sclanders, the able commissioner of Saskatchewan, on the present crop situation, contains not only a good view of the prospects for this autumn but also some very important considerations too often overlooked, upon the economic position of the whole of Central Saskatchewan and much of the territory adjacent to it. Says Mr. Sclanders:

"The principal crops here are of the pioneering agricultural type; viz., wheat, oats, barley and flax. Every new district starts with such crops in the course mixed farming is thereafter evolved. It is interesting here to mark that practically everything we have so far accomplished in this Great West has been done with such pioneering crops, which, as all who are familiar with agriculture will know, are the least profitable that can be raised upon the land.

"Take wheat, for instance, and then remember that it involves the annual summer following of one-third of our agricultural land. Think of about one-third of the cultivated land in this west doing and producing absolutely nothing each year! And then imagine, if that is possible, that this west will be when even 50 per cent. of our arable land shall be producing not merely wheat but all the infinitely more profitable crops which may be grown anywhere in a similar latitude, and which we have conclusively demonstrated can be produced here to very remarkable advantage.

Better Than For Years

"I have probably travelled more throughout the three prairie provinces this summer than during any previous year in my experience, and have carefully investigated the crop situation. I fully investigated the crop situation in only say that as an agricultural people whose sole source of income is derived from our crop, we have every reason to be exceedingly thankful and encouraged. Some pessimists are apt to overlook the fact that the influence of the present financial constipation does not and cannot extend to our harvest—the sole source of our revenue. I have avoided the word 'stringency,' the continual repetition of which in our press becomes a little trying more especially as the term is extreme and does not properly apply to the situation.

"From every possible standpoint it would seem to me that crop conditions this year are considerably more favorable than for some years past. Never have our fields looked healthier or of better color. It is my impression that wheat will average for this province probably last year, and perhaps it may turn out even a little better. With the continuance of our present splendid weather, the quality will, of course, average very satisfactory, and damaged grain—feed—will not be anything like so abundant as during the past two years.

"When we consider the very broken and unsatisfactory fall of the past couple of years, at least, I am satisfied that our harvest work should be through earlier this year. Cutting ought to commence in some parts about 15th August, but my impression is that it will not be general throughout this district until between the 21st and 24th. This is just about normal.

"The increase in acreage under wheat for the present season is not so great as in previous years. Oats will show a marked increase; so will barley. I am glad to say, however, that flax will indicate a fall from 15 to 25 per cent.

"It is very encouraging for those who have the best interests of our country at heart to contemplate the splendid increase in the growing of oats and barley. The increased production of such crops confirms the fact that our people have at last awakened to the wisdom of mixed farming, and to the necessity of working twelve months of the year on the farm, just as business men must do in their offices.

When Your Baby Starts School

Hints to Mothers of Young School Children

By CAROLINE COE

Don't make the mistake of bundling up your child's throat every time it goes out. In the morning after its bath pour cold water over your hands and rub its throat, chest and back with it. Then rub it with a coarse towel. If you do this you will find your child will be immune from colds.

See that your child's feet are kept dry. Overbores are indispensable, as they can be taken off at the schoolhouse, leaving the feet warm and dry.

Be very sure that your little girl's hair is perfectly clean. It should be washed every two weeks. The best time to do this is at night. Make a suds of white castile soap and rub well into the roots and then rinse in many waters. Vermine will seldom stay in a perfectly clean head, but if you find traces of them rub extract of larkspur all over the head and wash it off in the morning.

Chapped hands mean hands that are neglected. Whenever your child's hands are washed teach them to dry them thoroughly and if they chap rub them with mutton tallow.

Remember to look carefully at your children's eyes and teeth. A small tooth brush with bristles that are not hard and plenty of boracic acid water solution must be used daily. Teach them not to swallow this solution, although it is not poison.

Teach your children to tell you all the things which happen while they are away from you. If you are diplomatic you can become their only confidant, and you can counteract any bad influence which—every mother worries so much about when she first sends her baby girl to school.

Visit the school and see that the chair in which your child sits and the desk in front of him is the right height. Look at the ventilation of the room. Insist upon plenty of fresh air. It is of more importance than heat.

Do not let your children kiss other children in the public school nor try on others' clothing or hats. Never let them eat fruit or candy that have been handled by others.

Neither must they put their fingers, pennies or nickels in their mouth. Teach them to keep their mouths shut when out of doors. To habitually breath through the nose will often prevent one contracting the germ of a cold.

Don't scold or ridicule your child for mistakes in judgment or even thoughtlessness and never tell it an untruth. Remember if you once lose your child's confidence, it is lost forever. Do not evade its questions; tell it the truth about the facts of life; its physical and spiritual welfare is of greater importance than any other thing in which you are concerned.

Let your little children form the habit of answering the call of nature each morning before they go to school. Insist that they shall pay a visit to the bathroom the last thing before putting on their wraps. This will help much to ward off diseases that come from constipation and it also forms a habit which is of incalculable benefit to them all their lives.

Visit the school at least twice each month; talk with the teacher and encourage her in every way you can to co-operate with you in laying the foundation not only of a "book" education, but of an education in good morals and good sense.

DELIGHTS LADIES

Parisian Sage, the Great Hair Beautifier is Guaranteed

Hair that is irresistibly attractive will make any woman look more youthful. In Paris the clever French women fully realize this and retain their youthful appearance even in the fifties.

While Parisian Sage is known the world over as a certain cure for dandruff and falling hair and is paid for by druggists on the no-cure-no-pay plan, it is especially recommended to society women who greatly desire lovely, fascinating hair.

It will put life and lustre into dull, faded hair in one week.

Parisian Sage makes the head feel good the minutes it is applied. The first application creates confidence, for the user cannot help but feel that such delightfully cooling and exhilarating tonic will do what ordinary commercial tonics have failed to do.

Parisian Sage is sold in St. John by all druggists and by leading druggists everywhere.

Guaranteed to kill dandruff microbes, cure dandruff falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back. Comes in large 50-cent bottles and "The Girl with the Auburn Hair" is on every package.

Killed Whole Family.

New York, Aug. 19.—The bodies of Mrs. Mary Lake and her four children, Florence, 17; Walter, 8; Stella, 18; and Dorothy, 14, were found in their Brooklyn home yesterday horribly mangled. Beside them, dying, was the husband and father, Henry Lake, a restaurant chef. Apparently he killed all five and then fatally wounded himself.

When the tablecloth shows signs of wear cut it up into pieces the size of napkins. They will often save good napkins, and will come in handy for the picnic basket, or to wrap about a dainty bit of food sent to neighbors.

RECENT DEATHS

Arthur Cavanagh, the sixteen-year-old son of John H. Cavanagh, formerly of Moncton and Yarmouth, died yesterday in Everett.

The death of Mrs. A. A. Holly, widow of Hon. James Holly, occurred yesterday at her residence, 188 Douglas avenue. Mrs. Holly leaves two sons, Alexander B. and Murray McL., both of this city; two daughters, Mrs. C. A. Swinerton, of Boston (Mass.), and Mrs. John E. Moore, of this city; three sisters, Mrs. William Rivers, Mrs. D. H. Nason and Mrs. Fred Tapley, of this city, and one brother, B. B. Bramhall. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon from her late residence.

The funeral of Mrs. Jane Long was conducted yesterday afternoon from her late residence in Waterloo street. Rev. B. H. Nobles, pastor of Victoria street Baptist church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. Bolster, of Boston. D. B. Pidgeon sang two solos, one being "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

The deceased was the widow of Abner Long, who was her second husband, the first having been the late A. M. Parlee, of Millstream. Three sons and one daughter survive—H. W. Parlee and Charles Parlee, of this city, and Alfred Parlee, of Chipman, and Mrs. R. C. Manning, of Waterloo street, with whom the late Mrs. Long made her home. Mrs. Long was a regular attendant at the Victoria street Baptist church and a large circle of friends will regret to learn of her death.

Major J. Albert Black died at Amherst yesterday in his 78th year. He established the Amherst Gazette, the first paper published in Amherst in 1868.

MORNING LOCALS The body of Ernest Earle the young victim of a collision at Cedar Point last night about 10 o'clock. It was accidentally discovered floating on the water near Bear's Head by E. Harrington, who was coming to the city in a motor boat. An unusually large crowd turned out to the band concert in King square last evening, when St. Mary's band gave an enjoyable rendering of a number of popular and classical selections.

SACKVILLE PERSONALS (Sackville Post) From Toronto, where he has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Will Bear, Professor Twiss is off on a trip to the Pacific coast. On Thursday, Professor Watson returned from his trip through Berkeley camp meeting, and bringing back with him Mrs. Watson and his two little girls. Mrs. Goodwin, wife of Halifax. Miss Baker, late vice-principal of the Ladies' College, arrived in Sackville on Wednesday evening from Martha's Vineyard, and is staying with Mrs. Stewart, wife of Doctor Stewart, W. P. Deal, M. A. 1908, who is in the employ of a western corporation, is spending a few weeks with his friends in Upper Sackville. Mrs. Goodwin, wife of Professor W. L. Goodwin, of Kingston University, and one of her four daughters, will be in Sackville this evening. Former students of the Ladies' College will remember Mrs. Goodwin as Chrissie Murray, Professor Goodwin, whose native place is Bale Verte, in this county, has been attending the geological gathering in Toronto, and will not come east this year.

CHEERY REPORT FROM THE ALBERTA CROPS Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 20—Harvesting operations are under way in various parts of central Alberta, and within a week big batteries of cutting machines will be far flung in this district. Reports received by the department of agriculture and the board of trade here indicate that the grain crop throughout the province will be the largest ever gathered. Its firm value is placed at from $33,000,000 to $35,000,000, as compared with $31,000,000 in 1912. This is attributed to the increased acreage and larger acre yields.

THE THREE-DECKER

It would be unfortunate if on the first occasion on which the referendum was appealed to, under the new form of civic government in St. John, the people should endorse a reactionary policy.

On Tuesday next a vote is to be taken for and against the by-law which prohibits the erection in the city of three-decker wooden tenements.

It is difficult to understand how the three-decker can be defended. People who have spent considerable money in erecting comfortable homes for themselves have been greatly worried and have seen their property depreciate in value when three story fire traps were erected in the immediate neighborhood.

No man would expend as much money in the erection of a home for himself in the immediate vicinity of three and four-decker wooden tenements as he would in a locality where these were prohibited. They increase the fire risk very materially, and they also invite the development of slum conditions.

It is contended that the three-story wooden house enables persons of small income to get a cheaper rent. This is not true. Rents in cities where the one and two family house are the rule are as cheap as rents in St. John. The landlord gets the benefit of the third flat, while the tenants must endure less healthy conditions than if they lived in a one or two family dwelling, and they must also endure the increased fire risk.

The trades and labor council, whose members are familiar with the conditions under which families of moderate and small income must live, has declared itself against the three-decker, and calls upon its members to vote for the by-law on Tuesday next.

It is easy to talk sneeringly about what this or that individual or organization may have failed to accomplish for the betterment of housing conditions in St. John; but why encourage a policy that would make existing conditions worse? It is quite easy to criticize, but more difficult to gain popular approval for a constructive policy. It may be true that no one has rushed forward with an offer to present people with new dwellings or even to build one or two family dwellings in great numbers; but, if it be true, it is no argument at all in favor of the three-decker.

THAT "PERMANENT POLICY"

Of course Sir Richard McBride could not visit Ottawa without being asked by the Montreal Star to express his view on the naval question. Sir Richard assured the Star that British Columbia is practically united in support of the Borden policy; and he added that when Mr. Borden's "permanent policy" was announced, it would be "acceptable and adequate, too."

With what fine complacency these Tory statesmen discuss the naval situation, Mr. Borden is in power and has at his disposal the wealth of Canada. Not being able to rally his forces in support of a definite naval policy for the future, he cheerfully proposes to hand over thirty-five million dollars of the people's money as a gift to the admiralty, while he is endeavoring to make up his mind about the future; and whatever he does is approved beforehand by all the Tories in the country. They agree with Sir Richard McBride that, whatever policy Mr. Borden may announce, it will be "acceptable and adequate, too."

And why not, since in the meantime the Tories will have full control of the financial resources of the country and the patronage which is so dear to the Tory heart? It is nevertheless a safe bet that the "permanent policy" of Mr. Borden will be as near to a policy of contribution as he dares to go.

While Sir Richard McBride has been expressing his views in Ottawa, our Mr. Hazen is heartily asserting in Vancouver that in naval matters the Tories are "masters of the situation and intend to hold that position." This is the same Mr. Hazen who was not trusted by his leader to introduce the naval bill, and who failed utterly to make any impression upon the house during the course of the naval debate, except when he distinguished himself by taking part in a miserable scheme to prevent Sir Wilfrid Laurier from speaking, after he had risen and caught the speaker's eye.

If Mr. Hazen is master of the situation to any large extent, why does he not see to it that the port of St. John is provided with terminal facilities without which it must lose trade? If he is master of the situation, why does he not tell the Borden Club, in response to their request, what he knows about the St. John Valley Railway and the St. John terminals of the Grand Trunk Pacific? He asserts that the government will force the naval bill through parliament, and that the country will not be consulted until a "permanent policy" has been arrived at. Here again is a reference to the "permanent policy." Where is that policy, and why is it not proceeded without further delay? Mr. Borden and Mr. Hazen were both in London and in conference with the admiralty. They are in as good a position to announce their "permanent policy" today as they will be a year hence.

BIRTHDAYS OF NOTABILITIES

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 20

Robert Mitchell Ballantyne, of Montreal, associated with one of the largest wholesale produce companies in the world, observes his fifty-fourth birthday today. He was born at Stratford, Ont., and was for some time president of the Western Dairyman's Association.

Bryce James Allan, third son of the late Sir Hugh A. Allan, founder of the Allan line of steamers, is fifty-one today. He is the representative of the Allan Company at Boston.

George H. Allen, Montreal, general manager of the "Travelers' Life Insurance Company of Canada, was born in Odessa, Ont., on August 20, 1867. He has long been connected prominently with the insurance business.

LIGHTER VEIN

A Puzzle

She was hurriedly adjusting her veil, and had but a few moments to catch her car. "Oh, dear!" she murmured, "I can't find a pin anywhere. I wonder where all the pins go to." That's a difficult question to answer, replied her practical husband, who was standing by. "Because they are pointed in one direction and headed in another."

Scotch Division

At a school north of the Tweed the teacher was instructing his class in the rudiments of simple division. "If," he said to one of the boys, "I had twenty marbles and I wanted to divide them, Willy, between you and Macgregor, how many would you get?" "Ten, maybe," said the boy. "Why maybe?" asked the teacher. "Because, sir, Macgregor would nag me ten unless you were standing by."

Very Independent

A farmer in great need of extra hands at hay-making time asked St. Warren, who was accounted the town fool, if he could help him out. "What'll ye pay?" asked St. Warren. "I'll pay what you're worth," answered the farmer. St. Warren scratched his head a minute, then announced decisively, "I'll be durned if I'll work for that!"

When charged at Tottenham with damaging a door a woman said she acted in self-defence. The Magistrate—"What had the door done?" The woman "Pinned my fingers."

St. John bids all the visitors a cordial welcome.

It may be necessary to keep the Dokeys and the maritime press men apart. There is no telling what might happen if the two should get together.

The Republicans in the United States see the shadow of Roosevelt already falling across the presidential primaries of 1916.

The authorities in British Columbia appear to be acting with promptness and energy in dealing with the strikes in the Nanaimo district. It is probably true that the strikers, and especially the inciters to riot and bloodshed, are foreigners; and they must be taught the lesson that such methods are not needed and will not be tolerated in this country.

The gentlemen who control the weekly newspapers published in the smaller towns of the provinces perform an important service in their communities, which cannot be rendered by the dailies in the larger cities. The letters may cover the important news of all localities from day to day, but there is much in the local field with which only the home paper can deal in a satisfactory way. These weekly journals deserve the hearty support of their constituencies, and the publishers deserve the co-operation of the business men in their locality. The resident of a town or county who does not take a home paper is depriving himself of what should be regarded as a valued privilege.

SPOTS ON THE SUN.

We shall consider a little later the nature of sun-spots, but for the present we may regard them simply as solar storms. When spots are numerous the entire sun is disturbed, and eruptive phenomena, far transcending our most violent volcanic outbursts, are frequently visible. In the atmosphere of the sun, gaseous prominences rise to great heights. This one, reaching an elevation of 85,000 miles, is of the quiescent type, which changes gradually in form and is abundantly found at all phases of the sun's activity. But such eruptions as the one of March 25, 1895, photographed with the spectroheliograph of the Kenwood Observatory, are clearly of an explosive nature.

As these photographs show, it shot upward through a distance of 146,000 miles in twenty-four minutes, after which it faded away. When great and rapidly changing spots, usually accompanied by eruptive prominences, are observed on the sun, brilliant displays of the aurora and violent magnetic storms are often reported. The magnetic needle, which would record a smooth straight line on the photographic film if it were at rest, trembles and vibrates, drawing a broken and irregular curve. Simultaneously, the aurora flashes and pulsates, sometimes lighting up the northern sky with the most brilliant display of red and green discharges.—Dr. George E. Hale in 'The Popular Science Monthly.'

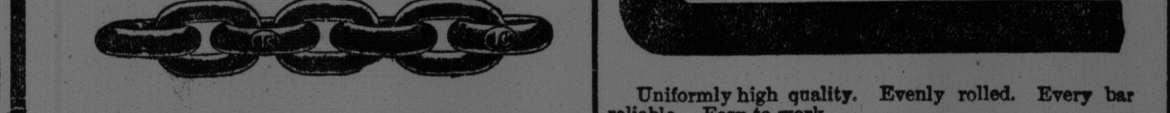

HYPNOTISM EXTRAORDINARY

During a recent trial at Prague a man was charged with forging entries in a baptismal register. In pleading not guilty, he said that if he committed the forgery it was done in a trance and under the suggestion of a certain hypnotist, whose name he had been forbidden to disclose. His family physician declared that the accused was a neurotic, easily hypnotized, and, to prove his assertion, began to read, despite the judge's protest, a formula beginning "Deus Ateriusus" from a French book on magic, which the doctor had discovered the unknown hypnotist used for the accused. To the amazement and horror of the court (says the "Family Doctor"), the prisoner immediately fell into a hypnotic trance, with his arms stiff and outstretched. Lawyers present thrust needles into his head and tried to move his arms to see if he were shamming, but without producing any reaction. The prisoner awoke only when the doctor breathed upon him, uttering another formula. The trial was adjourned to get the opinion of medical experts.

Direct from the wilds of the Kohistan desert, a large band of Dokeys of Aboi Ben Adhem Temple arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Boston and received the glad hand of greeting from their kinsmen here, many of whom were on the pier, when the Governor Cobb reached port, to welcome the visiting Arabs. Amongst those assembled to greet newcomers were Grand Visier Z. H. Bonnell, C. P. Nixon, H. H. McLellan, R. S. Ritchie, Wm. Johnson, and others from the Adlia Temple, who guided the strangers through the streets of the city until they had found shelter and rations for them for the night. They will make the Royal Hotel their rendezvous during their stay.

Last night the visiting Shiaks and the others of a lower order in the tribe assembled in Keith's Assembly rooms, where several candidates were admitted to the secrets of their temple, undergoing a memorable grilling and making appropriate sacrifice in gratitude for being taken into the ranks of the noble tribe of Dokeys. When an iron hammer had been securely fastened to the neck of the hungry tiger, and the proverbial goat had been chloroformed and laid helplessly to one side, for the benefit of the poor unfortunate tyro, then it was that those older Dokeys became more rational and civilized in their treatment towards mankind, and all present to the number of about 225, sat themselves down to a sumptuous banquet prepared by the Knights of Adlia Temple, with Major McIntosh as caterer. A pleasing feature of the affair was the presentation of a large silver shield, engraved with the names of the officers of the visiting temple, to the members of Adlia Temple to commemorate the visit of the Bostonians to the city. Music was rendered by the Nickel orchestra, Arthur P. Cameron of the Gem, gave some English songs, and local members and with visitors assisted in the programme which proved most enjoyable.

MIANUS OIL ENGINE

KEROSENE—GAS OIL—FUEL OIL

NO HEAT IN CRANK CASE NO CARBON EASY TO START NO EXTRA TANKS NO HEAT NECESSARY TO START ENGINE SIMPLE SAME PRICE AS GASOLINE ENGINE POWERFUL MORE EFFICIENT THAN GASOLINE ENGINE

A development resulting from years of experimenting. Operates on the principle of completely breaking up the kerosene and therefore does not require heat to start and does not carbonate. Much simpler than old-style kerosene engines requiring the cylinder head to be heated first, or to be run five or ten minutes on gasoline to heat up the kerosene. Patent is now pending in the United States Patent Office, and persons making, selling or using apparatus which infringes on our patent claim will be rigorously prosecuted. THE NAVAL POLICIES

(Halifax Chronicle)

Some of the tory organs are citing the action of the New Zealand government in support of the Borden naval policy of permanent contribution to the admiralty. But that is not the view of Archibald Hurd, the naval editor of the London Daily Telegraph, who, we were often told by the Montreal Star, is in close touch with the admiralty. In an article in the current Fortnightly Review Mr. Hurd writes as follows: "Sir

GERMANY AND PRUSSIA AT ODDS

Latter Wins Second Round Of Secular Fight

RECENT DIET ELECTIONS

The Standing of Kaiser Wilhelm in the Matter—Electoral Reform as Democratic as That in Germany Must Come Before Conflict Ends

(Times' Special Correspondence)

Berlin, Aug. 6.—Prussia is victorious in another round of her secular fight with Germany. The recent diet elections ended without any material party change. The solid Conservative party which is the bulwark of Prussian hegemony in Germany came back nearly as strong as it started; and its Centre ally came back actually as strong. In the new diet they have 208, the 108-strong Catholic Centre, which tradition declares cannot be changed in strength, confirmed the tradition by returning with 108. The National-Liberals gained a few seats; and the Socialists who started with six members have now ten. But roughly, Prussia's diet retains the party divisions which were established nearly thirty years ago. For practical purposes it is a Conservative diet. And the meaning of that is that Prussia, which is essentially the Conservative state, will continue to rule all Germany, and to battle all efforts to modernize and liberalize the German constitution.

Prevents Consolidation

Briefly put, the battle fought at all such elections is a fight between Prussia and Germany. It is this unceasing fight which more than anything else prevents the complete consolidation of the empire. The states of Germany and the Prussian provinces are not united by the domination of Prussia in imperial councils. A certain domination, they admit, is inevitable because Prussia has 25 per cent of the empire's 208,780 square miles, and 40,165,000 of the 64,285,000 population. But the perils of a Prussian domination were foreseen.

Bismarck, Prussian though he was, devised special safeguards in order to prevent Prussia from incurring the jealousy of her weaker allies. He based the Reichstag on universal suffrage, thus putting a democratic counterpoise to the bureaucratic Prussian state; he gave public assurance that the separate states would be respected; and he laid down financial rules to prevent the states feeling their association with Prussia to be a burden.

Despite Bismarck's measures, not one of these questions is finally settled. Prussia—by which is meant the dominant Prussian Tories—openly shows her desire to abolish the separate states which she sees responsible for a socialistic Reichstag, and to replace it with a property franchise like her own. The separate states are persistently chafing at alleged incursions into their domains by the empire, and Bismarck's financial principles are being thrown overboard. And all this makes for a Prussian hegemony which forty years ago was so little in men's minds that Bavaria seriously proposed that the imperial crown should belong alternately to Prussia and to herself.

Retrospect Policy

Prussia is unpopular with Germany. This does not mean merely in the non-Prussian states, but throughout the whole empire known as the Reich. Prussia herself. Probably jibes the manner in which Kaiser Wilhelm has been elected by Prussians than by non-Prussian Germans.

Prussia's internal policy, compared with the policies of the South German states, is distinctly retrograde. In South Germany progress has gone so far that even the Social-democrats are making peace with the government. Where Prussia has influence, it is a reactionary character. She lends reactionary ministers to these states and sometimes borrows reactionary ministers from them. Prussia's Agrarian-Conservatives, who fill all the important administrative posts, are Prussian in spirit and are indifferent to the imperial idea. They are, in the old German sense, "Particularists." Their ideal is an Agrarian territorial state with a big army which will protect the states and their interests. They buy at high prices their horses and grain. For manufacturers, commerce, finance, and the fleet they have no understanding—these things they regard as Jewish innovations; and being anti-Semitic, they have no room for such innovations.

The quarrel between Prussia and Germany is a quarrel between country and town, between agriculture and industry, between land and sea. Prussia is unfriendly to the fleet, and resents the manner in which Kaiser Wilhelm has backed it up. Not only has he created the fleet, but he has made friends with commerce, tolerated high finance, and become bosom friend of Ballin, Rathenow, Simon, and other Jewish merchant princes. In these respects the Kaiser is a "German" rather than a Prussian and Prussians of the old school condemn him as a backslider.

than once privately protested against unjustifiable pretensions of the court of Prussia. At present, the leader in the protest is the new Bavarian prince Regent Ludwig. Ludwig's distrust of Prussia's pretensions has always been marked, and seventeen years ago he showed this distrust publicly.

Germans complain that Prussia's leadership in the Reichstag is a Prussian veto in certain legislative branches, but nothing more. Prussia still 298 members to a Reichstag of 397; but in the federal council she has only seventeen representatives out of sixty-one. To balance this weakness in the Reichstag, Prussia has carried over from the Kaiser's time a number of laws concerning army, navy, taxation and tariffs.

He claimed nothing more. The practice, however, has grown up of taking Prussian ministers into council before imperial bills are submitted to the legislature. Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg last March admitted this to the Reichstag. Prussia has now not only the power to say what bills shall not pass, but also the power of saying what bills shall be prepared. Also in foreign affairs, Prussia's power exceeds Prussia's constitutional rights. Bismarck gave Bavaria the presidency of the federal council committee on foreign affairs, meaning that Bavaria and the non-Prussian states should have a real control; but for years on end this committee did not meet and the Kaiser carried on a foreign policy of his own.

Germany is further discontented with Prussia on the score of taxation. Formerly the sum paid by all the states worked out at about 18 cents a head a year. When the government introduced its bill providing for $46,000,000 new annual taxation, it proposed to cover part of this by the government introducing payments to thirty cents. The extra twelve cents would be raised by the individual states and paid over to the empire.

This proposal caused much opposition among progressives and "Germans" who contended that the Reichstag must have the final say as to the way imperial taxes are levied; whereas the proposal would mean that the Prussian diet and the other individual state legislatures could raise the money in their own way. In all state legislatures the reactionary influence is far stronger than in the Reichstag; and to give fresh power to the state legislatures meant more reaction and also more "Prussianism and Particularism." The opposition is more marked since the general election to the Reichstag of January 1912, when the Reichstag for the first time got a distinctly Progressive majority and actually in Dr. Kaempf, got a president who belongs to the extreme Radical "Prussian." Naturally with this taste of progress, the Reichstag aims at defending part of its rights and resents restoring powers long abandoned to the politically retrograde individual states.

The Prussian-German conflict cannot be fully allayed until the political influences of Prussia and of Germany are made to coincide by granting to Prussia an electoral reform as democratic as that which Germany has. Hence Progressives demand the abolition of the Prussian "three-class electoral law," which is based on property and its substitution by universal suffrage, which is based on individuals. If this reform were carried, Prussia would become a modern state and her interests would be identical with those of the empire. The prospects of such a reform are remote. Prussia's opposition to reform has been drafted by Bethmann-Hollweg in 1910 was cut to pieces by the lower Prussian house, and again cut to pieces by the House of Lords. And as the Prussian aim of abolishing the Reichstag universal suffrage cannot be carried, the quarrel of Prussia with Germany is likely to last.

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSE

More than 200 children were present at the closing of the two North End playgrounds, held jointly on the Alexandra school ground yesterday afternoon. The children were under the direction of Miss Turner, general supervisor; Miss Daisy Porter and Miss Isabelle Larlee. A programme of physical drill was successfully carried out under the direction of George Howard.

The programme of the afternoon was as follows:

O Canada—Chorus.

Highland scotchies—Ten little girls.

Danish dance of greeting—Twelve children.

Recitation—James Munro.

Highland scotchies—Ten little girls.

In addition, a long list of folk games and dances were conducted, affording excellent pleasure for the children and great interest for the spectators.

CHOCOLATE SOLDIER TONIGHT

Manager Kelly Announces an Excellent Attraction

Considered a comic opera de luxe, the Chocolate Soldier will begin a four day engagement at the Opera House tonight, indorsed by the management as being something far excellence. With the original cast that appeared in the production at the Casino, New York, and the Colonial, Boston; the same superb mounting and costuming, it will be staged in its entirety at the Opera House.

Miss Lella Hughes will sing the principal role of Nadina, Lucille Saunders, that of Aurelia; Lottie Collins will be seen as Maucha; Harry Fairleigh as the "Chocolate Soldier"; Francis J. Boyle as Captain Massakoff; George Tallman as the Major, and Sylvia Longlais as Popoff. Arrangements have been made for the accommodations of those wishing to attend the performance Thursday night, for the Welford train to be held until 11.15 p.m. The curtain will rise promptly at 8.15 p.m.

St. Rose's Picnic.

Favored with ideal weather the annual Sunday school picnic of St. Rose's church held yesterday on the church grounds concluded a splendid success and the hundreds that attended spent a very enjoyable day. In all some 600 were present.

Senior girls' race—Prize, mesh bag, won by Kathleen Carlin.

THREE STORY WOODEN BUILDINGS

Editor of the Times:

Sir,—In Saturday evening's Times I have read your lengthy article re three deckers as you term three story wooden buildings. Trusting to your accustomed fair play I ask space for a few lines to present the other side.

I am not conversant with conditions in large American cities, but think your argument far-fetched.

I do know that the Shyllocks in St. John are not confined to three story buildings. I also know that the majority of our citizens are law-abiding people who are willing to submit to any reasonable building restrictions; they are fully as anxious to conserve the public health as our officials are.

At present the time it is very difficult for a family of moderate means to obtain any dwelling place and I think I am right in quoting one of our leading officials as saying that people were living in places where he would not keep a dog.

I know that there are women in this city who are the bread-winners for their families who go out in the daily toil through winter storm and summer heat, that they may shield their loved ones and their children from the cold and the rain. These women are law-abiding people who are willing to live in places and surroundings from which every fibre of their nature revolts.

What is being done to relieve this condition?

Perhaps the city fathers will tell us how many applications for permits to build three story houses they received in April? How many they turned down that night soon as sheltering families were crowded into the comfort and cleanliness of our city.

Let me cite one instance: A citizen, who has paid taxes in this city for thirty years, applied on the 24th April for a permit to build. He was asked to wait a few days, as the head of the department was very busy. When the few days had elapsed he was informed that they were introducing a bye-law to forbid the erection of three-story wooden buildings. Such bye-law was enacted on the 30th of April if I remember rightly.

This permit was asked for in a locality already built-up with three-story houses, where the erection of another could not be a menace to public safety. Needless to say the permit was not granted.

In regard to the argument that "three-deckers" increase the cost of asylums, hospitals and public institutions, permit me to say that we have always found the worst cases of destitution in broken down shacks, in low lying districts, and the cause of such destitution could not be traced to three story buildings; but in nearly all cases it could be traced to the legalized saloons, which is being fostered and protected by our city laws.

When the voters of St. John go to the polls on the 26th inst. I hope they will remember justice and humanity, the humanity that supplies the brawn and muscle, in many instances the brain, to build and enrich our city.

Do not let us forget that verse from the good Old Book, "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain who build it, except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh in vain." This may not be in line with modern ideas, but it is true nevertheless, and will be true when those who today are clothed in a little brief authority are forgotten. Yours very truly houses. It still remains true that the three decker is less healthy and tends to encourage slum conditions, as well as to increase the fire risk.

BREEDING PESTILENCE

Editor of the Times:

Sir—Will you kindly allow me to express myself through the columns of your valuable paper, regarding the "Sanitary conditions" which exist in a certain house situated in Queen street. Several times this season the health inspector, Dr. Melvin, as well as other gentlemen connected with the health department, have visited the place and pronounced it a disgrace and a menace to the health of the tenants, as well as to the general public, and yet nothing has been done to improve matters, but just simply a "promise" that it would be looked into. Now I would like to ask this question:—If the health officers have not the power to compel landlords to comply with the law of putting in patent toilets and keeping their houses in a sanitary condition. What are we paying them a big salary for? I notice there is a big time being made over the milk in regard to the outbreak of typhoid fever. Well, all I can say is this, that if there is not some serious results arising in this particular place there is no need of probing into the milk or anything else in this city. Now I trust that those gentlemen who hold the high positions of health officers will see that there is something done at once, not only in this particular place, but in all others where improvements are needed. I remain Very truly yours, ONE INTERESTED. St. John, N. B., Aug. 18.

A Times' reporter visited the house in question, and the complaint made by the correspondents is more than justified by the conditions.

Hundred Strikers Arrested.

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—One hundred arrests had been made up to 6 o'clock this evening in the coal mine strike zone on Vancouver Island.

The presidents of the union at Ladysmith, Nanaimo and Cumberland are in jail, charged with rioting, and charges of attempted murder and arson are yet to be laid against some of the hundred who were taken into prison last night and today. Forty-seven were arrested in Nanaimo during last night and thirteen more were added this forenoon.

Tan, Red or Freckled Skin is Easily Shed

To free your summer soiled skin of its oiliness, mudiness, freckles, blotches or tan, the best thing to do is to free yourself of the skin itself. This is easily accomplished by the use of ordinary macerated wax, which can be had at any drug store. Use at night as you use cold cream, washing it off in the morning. Immediately the offending surface skin begins to come off in fine powder-like particles. Gradually the entire cuticle is absorbed, without pain or inconvenience. The second layer of skin now in evidence presents a spotless whiteness and sparkling beauty obtainable in no other way I've heard of. If the heat tends to loosen and wrinkle your skin, there's an effective and harmless remedy you can readily make at home. Just let an ounce of powdered saskolite dissolve in a half-pint witch-hazel and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and smoothes out the lines, making you look years younger.—Emily Coulson, in Popular Monthly.

THREE SUFFOCATED BY GASOLINE FUMES ON POWER PACKET

Curling, Nfld., Aug. 19 - A newly married couple and an elderly lady were suffocated by gasoline fumes while sleeping in the cabin of an auxiliary packet employed by the Canadian government on the Labrador coast, according to today's news brought back from Labrador today. No details and no names were known by those on the Newfoundland mail steamer which brought to the outside world the first news of the tragedy.

THE JOURNAL OF COMMERCE

Upwards of $20,000,000 is invested in Canada's fishing industry, which gives employment to 100,000 men and produces annually $85,000,000 worth of fish. These and many other facts relating to the fishing industry in Canada appear in this week's issue of the Journal of Commerce, Montreal. The article, which is illustrated, is from the pen of H. H. C. Coats, editor of the Labor Gazette. Mr. Coats shows that the industry has developed almost entirely in the last half century. Fifty years ago, the annual output of fish was valued at $100,000. Salmon is our most valuable fish, the value of the catch being more than $10,000,000 a year, while British Columbia ranks first as a fish producing province with Nova Scotia second. The article is unusually interesting reading as it does of an important but little known industry. In the same issue of the Journal of Commerce are articles dealing with the lack of progress of British Life Insurance Companies in Canada and the failure of the Lloyd George Insurance Act. Professor Skelton of Queen's writes on the New Nationalism in Australia and Professor Short on The Balance of Trade in Canada.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING TO THOSE INTERESTED IN THE DRINK CURE

One year ago we opened a Neal Institute treating the drink habit at 44 Crown street, St. John (N. B.), to demonstrate to the public that we had a treatment that would cure all desire and craving for alcohol in three days time. Some few call it a "fak" while others credit it with the remarkable result we cured several scores of men and women. St. John was only one of our sixty branches that we have established throughout Canada, U. S. A., and foreign countries. After running it at a big expense for one year we closed our eastern branch as well as several other places where there was a danger of it becoming known that certain prominent people had taken the drink treatment. For the self-same reason we established a large central hospital at the Capital City Ottawa some two years ago, where we have every convenience, thoroughly trained male nurses and graduate female nurses for women. Our twenty-two private rooms with electric fans, bath and every modern convenience guarantee to the outside patient comfort and secrecy while taking treatment. While the ride may seem rather long when starting, it is well for the public to know that it is not necessary for the patient to arrive here perfectly sober, inasmuch as we never cut a patient straight off from liquor. Another feature that adds to taking treatment away from home is the fact that a good long ride after completing the Neal treatment acts as a tonic, the fresh air, change of scenery and the knowledge that when one returns nobody will be a bit the wiser. Remember our fee or charge is $125 out of which we allow transportation both ways and we return all money paid if the patient is not perfectly satisfied that all craving and desire for liquor has been destroyed when leaving the institute. If you have a loved one at home who is near and dear to you speak kindly to him and persuade him to take the Neal treatment.

FARMER'S WIFE ALMOST A WRECK

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound - Her Own Story.

London, Ont. - "I am a farmer's wife and a very busy woman. Last summer I was taken with severe pains in my back so bad that I could not get up or scarcely move without pain, and my periods were painful. My husband called in a good doctor and I was under his care for some time, but he did me little or no good. One day a friend of mine told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had been greatly helped by it. I began taking it and soon got well, and my periods became natural again. Since then I have had perfect health. In fact, I have never felt so well in my life. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine many women need. If you think this letter will help other women please publish it." - Mrs. K. C. Young, Tambling's Corner, London, Ontario, Canada. Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, GOOD ROADS ENTHUSIAST, HELPS BUILD BRICK HIGHWAY SO PUBLIC CAN CROSS HIS ESTATE

Road for which obstacles were ironed out by oil king, his summer castle and himself. The road would be much prettier if given graceful curves and located a little further west along this water course. Never mind the expense. I will buy the land to include the new site. And he did. In the end a forty-foot road will be written on the first map of the road. It winds round a steep hill and is shaded by many fine trees. To locate the road Rockefeller was compelled to buy land on both sides, entailing double assessment for frontage, but he announced that he would do it. In all he bought more than a dozen acres. He might have bought a thousand and without missing the money. He might have paved the street with gold, but he expressed a preference for brick. Rockefeller is one of the most constant users of the rural pavements near Cleveland. Scarcely a day goes by during fair weather without an auto ride and his large car with the world's richest man and a group of guests is one of the familiar sights of the country side. Many of the farmers know him personally and enjoy quiet roadside chats with him about the weather and the crops. More than one of these casual acquaintances has been remembered when some anniversary made a gift appropriate.

TORCH TO BEACON Harbor Guardian to Be Set Afire on First Favorable Night

The useful career of the old harbor beacon is at an end and at the first favorable opportunity its final destruction will be completed. Owing to the solidity of construction primary methods of removal would be slow and costly and its removal will be as spectacular as its career has been long and useful. The superstructure will be soaked in oil, and the light will be set on fire. In the last hours of the work, which has proceeded since the light was set on fire, the signal light, the huge warning bell, the equipment and stores and all other articles of value have been removed by the department of marine and fisheries and the bulk has been turned over to the department of public works for removal to the tip for which it was intended. In England alone the sale has reached something like 400,000 copies, while in America it may be set down at 250,000. The latter declined it. The Rev. John Kelle offered his "Christian Year," a country publisher for $20 but it was refused. As the sale of this book we learn that he has during the forty years immediately succeeding its publication, Mr. Kelle's share of the profits amounting to $25,000. Hans Christian Andersen's "Fairy Tales" were refused by all the publishers. "Vandy Fair" to some publishers it had run through the pages of a magazine; but it was refused, as they thought it was not an interesting novel, or one that would meet with a ready sale. Jane Austen, who was undoubtedly one of the greatest novelists that ever lived, met with great difficulty at the beginning of her literary career in getting her books printed. She sent her "Northanger Abbey" to three or four firms, but it was refused by all of them. At last she disposed of her manuscript for the small sum of £10 to a bookseller, Samuel Warren's very interesting book, "The Diary of a Late Physician" first saw the light of day through the medium of Blackwood's Magazine, the publishers to whom he had submitted it having refused to undertake its publication in book form. Charlotte Brontë's first novel was refused by a great many firms. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe submitted her "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to a firm of publishers in Washington after it had appeared in serial form in an anti-slavery magazine, but on the recommendation of their reader, it was rejected. It is used to be said that best plain English was found in letters, and no one writes letters now. We must judge by the newspaper and the book which no longer live, the hurried writing meant for hurried reading. There is no reason to fear that common sense is disappearing as a result of the newspaper and the book. It is rather that it is being buried under a mass of words that never pass such sentences as Deities let go in his early work. The latest newspaper in Burns, beginning December 13, after a visit to the India Baptist missions in India, will be able to add to the work as acting pastor of the Greenwood church in Brooklyn in February.

DIFFICULTIES OF AUTHORS

Robinson Crusoe Hawked About From Publisher to Publisher—Great Stories That Went Cheaply (Great Thoughts) Defoe offered "Robinson Crusoe" to publisher after publisher without success. It was, however, at last bought out by a publisher named Taylor, to whom it proved a veritable gold mine. He is said to have made a profit of some hundred thousand pounds by the sale of this remarkable book. W. M. Thackeray offered his brilliant novel, "Vandy Fair" to some publishers but it had run through the pages of a magazine; but it was refused, as they thought it was not an interesting novel, or one that would meet with a ready sale. Jane Austen, who was undoubtedly one of the greatest novelists that ever lived, met with great difficulty at the beginning of her literary career in getting her books printed. BEST SPOKEN ENGLISH

The true English is preserved from generation to generation by the mothers. In every age you find it accepted that the middle-aged woman has an asterisk, a purity of language, which contrasts with the exuberance of her juniors. The young people are always trying to be odd. The matrons preserve the standard. Always the best spoken English to be heard from the woman of culture. She has responsibilities, and is aware of them. The man, unless he has some reputation to keep up as a purist, is not easy-going. The woman, when she is the prime minister of a family, knows that she has the future in her charge. When you turn from the spoken word to the written, you will find that the eternal talk of decadence was never less justified. Whether we have great masters of style or not is irrelevant. Genius comes and goes, and no amount of good intentions will make it. The point to consider is the current merit of writing. It used to be said that best plain English was found in letters, and no one writes letters now. We must judge by the newspaper and the book which no longer live, the hurried writing meant for hurried reading. There is no reason to fear that common sense is disappearing as a result of the newspaper and the book. It is rather that it is being buried under a mass of words that never pass such sentences as Deities let go in his early work. HIS LEG BROKEN Mr. M. A. E. Berry came to the city this morning from Clover Hill, Kings county, returning to their home. Besides a little girl, he brought with him his young son, Fred, who had to be carried, as he was weak and a broken leg. About a week ago, Berry, while driving with his mother and grandfather, part of the team, broke and the horse, coming into contact with the wagon, kicked striking the boy's leg, which he was swinging over the side of the wagon at the time. Mrs. Berry was also struck by the horse's hoofs, which went right through the board, but her injuries were very slight.

CITY OF THE CAESARS Hotel Keeping at Rome's Chief Industries (London Standard) The principal industry of Rome, if it may be called, is that of catering for foreign visitors, and local enterprises in that direction seems to be a profitable one, judging from the large number of registered hotels and boarding-houses. These, according to the report for 1912 of the British consul, Mr. Morgan, amount to 168 in a city of 600,000 inhabitants, irrespective of other very numerous unregistered private boarding-houses. The consul continues—Laudable attempts have been made and are still being made to improve the industrial conditions of the Italian capital in order to convert it from a consuming centre into a productive one, but the process of transformation must necessarily be a slow one, and seems to be hampered by certain adverse local conditions, such as the high cost of living and heavy house rents, which have contributed to the state of wages demanded by local workmen, who are to a large extent unskilled, not having had the training opportunities afforded by other Italian industrial districts, such as Lombardy or Piedmont.

One other grave obstacle in the way he says, is the fact that notwithstanding the vicinity of Rome to the sea, there does not exist any appreciable means of transport up river from the coast to the city, as in other large European capitals. Those who are interested in the welfare of Rome have endeavored during recent years to raise the necessary means for building a harbor at Ostia at the estuary of the Tiber, and at the same time to widen and dredge the river so as to render it navigable for vessels of a high tonnage. A preliminary step in that direction has been taken by the construction of large bonded warehouses. As matters stand at present, Mr. Morgan points out, the greater part of the commodities imported to Rome is carried overland by rail as well as by means of carts for such supplies as are provided by the neighboring districts. The existing railway system cannot promptly and satisfactorily meet the exigencies of the increasing traffic, hence the necessity of opening a direct highway to the coast.

The consular officials—From the contemplated regeneration of Rome substantial benefits must necessarily accrue to its inhabitants as well as to those countries, like the United Kingdom, who have extensive commercial relations with Italy, and it will largely contribute to free the Italian capital from its traditional dependence for its subsistence upon the uncertain and fluctuating influx of visitors. Its geographical position, as well as its supply of water-power, general favorable conditions of soil and climate, constitute such important factors as to engender the hope that before long the capital of Italy will be able to add to its unrivalled art and archaeological attractions the substantial, healthy, and modern benefits arising out of the labor of man.

FIRST STEEL COLUMNS FOR THE REFINERY ARE PUT IN PLACE TODAY

The first work on the superstructure of the Atlantic Sugar Refinery's main building of the new plant at Ballast wharf was begun this morning. Five steel columns were raised by noon and it is expected that when the main leave of work tonight five more will be in position. So far all the work done has had to do with the concrete foundations for the buildings. Those for the pan, filter house and machine shop are now completed; the boiler house and smoke stack foundations are in course of construction and will be completed soon while those for the main house will be started in a few days. The foundations consist of concrete piers which are from six to ten and twelve feet square and are sunk all the way from thirty to forty feet. In the weather conditions continue favorable this part of the work should be completed by the middle of October.

On the concrete piers the steel superstructure is placed. This is the stage which is commencing today. The machine shop will be put up first and this will occupy several days; the steel for the pan and filter are on the ground now and will be erected next in order. At present the Dominion Bridge Co., which is doing this part of the work has only thirty men engaged but will increase this force soon.

The brick work on the superstructure is being done by E. G. M. Cape who has A. S. Grant in charge of the work. They have a crew of 100 men at work now and expect to increase their staff to 300 next week when 800,000 gal. will be laid in position.

Taking the men employed by the Foundation Company, the Dominion Bridge Co., and E. G. M. Cape there will be between 400 and 600 at work next week. The contractors say that they are using local labor almost entirely and are purchasing a large part of their supplies here.

THAW MAKES FIGHT AGAINST BEING TAKEN BACK TO THE STATES

Hampshire sheriff, who discovered three Canadian lawyers retained to oppose Thaw's deportation indicated that his preliminary arraignment would be postponed at least until tomorrow, possibly for the 20th—Attorney General Frank Kennedy left for Sherbrooke this morning to represent the state in effort to induce the dominion authorities to turn Thaw over to the state.

FREDERICTON NOTES

Fredrickton, N. B., Aug. 20—Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Bailey celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding last evening. Members of the family and friends were present. Indications are that the rush to pay up will not be so great as in previous years.

Professor Gagnon of Northampton, Mass., is here on his annual trip. The Salvation Army held a very successful picnic at Cromoche yesterday. The presence of Major and Mrs. Taylor and Staff Captain Coombs gave interest to the occasion.

The Bangor baseball team arrived at noon and will play Fredericton this afternoon. The Royal Bank will occupy its new quarters early next month.

KICKED DOG INTO HARBOR

A young man who handles the gang plank on the ferry steamer Governor Carleton distinguished himself this morning by kicking overboard a pet dog belonging to a lady passenger. It is said that the animal was in his way and he deliberately kicked it off the deck. The act was followed by a great commotion in which the protests of the indignant owner of the pet were a leading feature. Other officials on board the boat were possessed of more humanity and the ferry was stopped until the dog could be restored to its owner but there were intimations that the last had not been heard of the matter. Other complaints have been made.

THE DOKEYS TO LOCH LOMOND

The Dokeys who came here yesterday from the desert of Khorassan chose a good day on which they should seek the pastoral haunts of Loch Lomond to sport, frolic and fish, and have a general good time. They must have a more than intimate acquaintance with Jupiter Pluvius way out there in the Arabian suburbs of Boston, for they knew what they were doing when they selected such an ideal day as this for their outing. From the Royal Hotel this morning in automobiles the visitors from Abou Ben Adhem Temple were taken by their kinsman from Adlia Temple on a day's pleasure trip to beautiful Loch Lomond, where a clam bake, baseball game, fishing, and general sports will be features of the excursion. They will return late this evening. The visiting Arabs from the temple in "Hubben" in charge of Grand Vicer Ray, include the following: H. T. Pond, Dr. B. A. Graves, Wm. M. Spilne, Edward McKay, Dr. Ben VanMagness, Arthur C. Savage, Wm. Hill, Wm. E. Sanford, Walter L. Simms, James W. Merkel, M. F. Gallison, C. Murphy, J. E. Casson, F. B. Jackson, C. H. Greenlaw, H. C. LONDON TAILOR BECOMES AUTHOR

Dickens Was His Customer in Maltby's Father's Day HAS WRITTEN THREE BOOKS

A Great Worker and Careful About His Material—An Amusing Adventure When He Kept Appointment With Late King

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Aug. 9.—That old saying that it takes nine tailors to make a man will have to be revised if there are many more tailors like Arthur Maltby. Mr. Maltby, who carries on business in the fashionable West End, has just come into the limelight as the author of a historical novel, called "Detained by the King," which, it seems, is the third he has published—and he proves also to be an ex-scholar with several world-records, no end of a scholar, and a pretty fair artist in oils, as well as the sole proprietor of an old established tailoring house which formerly numbered Charles Dickens, the novelist, Robert Browning, the poet, and Macready, the actor, among its customers.

"This tailor-novelist, who is fifty-six, but still looks the all-round athlete, standing just over six feet, and possessing gifts to match devotees four days a week to his regular business, and spends the other three at Thorpe Bay, an east coast watering place, where he has a house, working on whatever novel he may have in hand. All three of his books, "Queen, But No Queen," "Inez," and his latest one, "Detained by the King," are historical romances, and one and only claim that their author makes for them is that they are true, for, unlike Alexander Dumas, Sir Walter Scott and a lot of less eminent novelists, Maltby doesn't take liberties with history to suit the exigencies of his plots. He writes his novels with the most painstaking care—each one of them has taken him more than two years, having been re-written four or more times—and he is absolutely indefatigable and reckons expense no object in getting his material for them.

His Material "Although my own life has been exceptionally eventful," he said, when seen at his shop, "and though I have met many remarkable people, I cannot make copy of what happens about me, but must turn constantly to history. My plot-germs come to me in the oddest and most unexpected way. A misty old manuscript about Judge Jeffreys which I picked up on a second-hand book stall for eight cents gave me the nucleus for my last novel, and for the rest I make endless visits to museums and libraries, always searching for the forgotten incident, the unpublished secret about my literary heroes, kings who have died.

Collecting the material for "Detained by the King" cost me nearly $800, and for my book "Inez" I sent a man to Spain to make extended inquiries. Do I get the money back? Well, almost if not quite. My first book, "Queen, But No Queen," which was a story of Yucatan, did only moderately well, but "Inez" went into four editions, and of "Detained by the King," 700 copies were sold on the day of publication.

Perhaps the queerest fact in connection with Mr. Maltby's books is that they are mostly written in the dark. "During my week-ends at Thorpe Bay," said the author, "I sleep only six hours and devote the rest of the time to planning and writing my books. I do practically all my preliminary writing between four and eight in the morning. I write exceptionally fast and have learned to do it in the dark. A scribbling pad hangs from the head of my bed, and as soon as I wake I begin work. I can't always read what I write in this way, but my wife can, and she copies it out afterward.

Dickens a Customer "It was a pat on the head and a few words of encouragement from Robert Browning that more than anything else led me to start writing. This business, you must understand, was started by my father in 1830, and among his best customers were Charles Dickens, who lived close by in Devonshire Terrace; Browning, and Macready, the actor. Dickens used to sit right on the end of that old counter there, and play with a big black cat that we used to have, and Browning was in and out frequently. One day he put his hand on my head and said, 'This boy has a good head. He ought to be a writer.' That made a big impression on me, and as I was passionately fond of history at school, I soon began to reproduce pages from history in story form, but it was many years before I could arrange to do literary work regularly.

"I know that my work is amateurish, though the critics have been extremely kind to me. If I wanted to brag about anything, it would be the showing I made as an athlete in my young days, which was unique, I think. At sculling I never have been defeated and I beat Arthur Zimmerman at cycling when he was in this country, and made what I believe is a world's record by winning five running events from scratch and getting second in a sixth, all in one afternoon.

"That was in 1874. The events which I won included one one-hundred yard dash, one half mile and one mile race. In all, I took part in 303 open handicaps, which I believe is another record, and my prizes include sixty-one cups, seventeen medals, considerable money, and several pieces of furniture. I began running at nineteen and ran my last important race when I was thirty-eight. This was a half mile event at Kensal Rise, and my son, who then was twenty, ran in the same race. I took the second, a gold watch, which he still wears.

"I was fairly useful on the bicycle, too. I rode against Arthur Zimmerman at Herne Hill, and beat him twice, but this I should explain, was a handicap race. I won two heats against him, but was disqualified in the second, my start or having put his foot over the starting-line. He happened to be a man of considerable means, and he was so sorry for having lost me the race that he presented to me a replica of the prize, a cup, paid for out of his own pocket.

"Another bicycle race of mine resulted in rather a gruesome experience. In the course of the race, I managed to run into the back wheel of the man in front of me, and, after doing so, swerved across the track, ran over a small boy, crashed into the fence and was flung right over the palms. When I came to, I was laid out on a trolley, my collar with the fence having stopped my heart's action for the time being. I was paralyzed for days afterward, but then came round and soon was as right as rain."

Started to Be Doctor The tailor-novelist, it seems, started out to be a physician and studied medicine under a professional coach, but just as he was making good progress, his father died unexpectedly and there was no one else to take over his big business. So the embryo novelist put aside his dream of being a sawbones, and likewise sidetracked his literary ambitions, and set to master his father's trade, which he eventually did, and today can cut a coat or sew on a trouser head as well as one of his own men.

Appros of his tailoring, Maltby told a rather funny story. One of his inventions in the sartorial line was a "united suit," coat, waistcoat, trousers, collar and tie all complete, which made something of a sensation when it came out, purchasers thereof numbering, according to Maltby, about half of the population, including, among others, the present Earl of Arlington and the late Montague Guest. The united-suit proved, however, too expensive to make to allow any profit worth mentioning, so in time its inventor abandoned it.

In the first flush of enthusiasm over the suit, however, Mr. Maltby conceived the idea of making one for the late King Edward—then Prince of Wales, and, of course, the arbiter of male fashions the world over—and got permission to do so. This, by the way, was in 1888. The suit he produced was of black velvet, lined with old gold satin. When notified that it was finished, the prince consented to try it on, making an appointment at Marlborough House, which then was his official residence, one morning at 11.30.

Adventure With Royalty "Of course I was there on the minute," said Mr. Maltby, "and with me I took a little present which I had had made for His Royal Highness in the shape of an umbrella. It was a very special kind of umbrella, though, for inside the handle was an extremely thin Indian rapier. To get the thing up cost me just over $200. I remember, and I may tell you, however, that when my first book, "Queen, But No Queen," came out, His Majesty wrote to me, saying that he would be willing to accept a copy of it, and that I might present it to him in the ordinary binding, instead of the costly vellum which is usual."

"What became of the rapier-umbrella?" demanded the interviewer. "I sold it eventually," said Mr. Maltby, "with a chuckle, 'for just $30 more than it cost me.'"

The tailor-novelist is almost as deft with his paint-brush and palette, as he is with his pen, and the walls of his house, near Regent's Park, are covered with his works. Among his other treasures, he showed me several letters from heads of states accepting copies of his novels, the writers including the late and present King of England, the King of Spain, and President Poincaré, and President William H. Taft of the United States. Mr. Maltby has sent a copy of his latest book to President Wilson.

F. HYATT, Secretary, St. John Trades and Labor Council. A JOB FOR COL. SAM (Halifax Chronicle)

We entertained the hope that when we nominated Col. Sam Hughes for the vacant throne of Alberta, his claim would receive the unanimous support of the Canadian people. We are greatly disappointed to find that a rival has appeared in the person of Richard Bedford Bennett, M. P. for Calgary, whose many qualifications for the royal post are eloquently supported by the Calgary Albertian. We must confess that Mr. Bennett's career as a politician in the west suggests that he will be a dangerous rival, but if the matter of the appointment is left to the Canadian people we have no hesitation in predicting that their vote will be overwhelmingly in favor of Col. Sam Hughes for the King's job. And the job would suit him down to the ground. He could then play the role of 'war lord' seven days a week.

LABOR MEN FAVOR TWO STORY LIMIT

Representing the Trades and Labor Council, the secretary yesterday issued an appeal to workmen to support the housing by-law at the special election on Tuesday next.

This read as follows: Sir,—I would remind all trade unionists and others that the vote on the question of two or three story buildings comes up for ballot at a special election to be held at St. John on Tuesday, August 26.

On May 15, 1910, the Trades and Labor Council endorsed the action of the city council favoring the building of two story houses, which in the opinion of the Trades Council would be in the best interests of the workers generally.

With all the land at our disposal, it is a standing disgrace for the workers to be herded in tenement houses, those in favor of three or more storied houses are the owners of property wishing to let them out at high rents.

There are enough slums in St. John without giving landlords a chance to create more. One has only to look around to see the evils of the tenement house, besides these places are nothing

LABOR DAY PLANS At a meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last evening, matters in connection with the celebration of Labor Day were finally arranged. It is expected that the day will be observed as never before in this city. Besides the big procession decided upon as a morning feature there will be a swimmoth garden party on the Barrack Green in the afternoon and evening. A temporary committee, J. Squire and J. Montague will be in the Oddfellows Hall between 4 and 5 o'clock each day from now until Labor Day to meet with any desirous of entering in the sports or of co-operating in the parade.

The council has issued invitations to the mayor, commissioners, and members of the local legislature to be present. The route of the procession will be: Forming up on King street, east will pass through Westworth, Leinster, Sydney, south side of square, Charlotte, King, Dock, Mill, Main, Adelaide, Victoria, and returning will pass through Durham, Main, Paradise row, City road, Brussels, Union, Charlotte to Broad and up Broad to Barrack Green.

Control Your Coal Expenditure In the Gurney-Oxford range you will find more exclusive features, more essential improvements that appeal to the thrifty housewife than have ever before been found in any one kitchen range.

But most important of all is the Economizer. This clever device for regulating the drafts saves 1 ton of coal in every 6 that you would burn in the ordinary range. It takes the smell of cooking out of the kitchen and sends it up the chimney. You know what that means.

The Economizer enables you to absolutely control the amount of coal you wish to consume and still have a perfect heat for cooking. It will enable you to keep your fire going while you go out shopping or visit your neighbor, and all that is necessary for you to do on your return is to press the small lever and you are assured of a hot fire in a very few moments.

A Gurney-Oxford stove is sanitary—no dirt can accumulate on its beautifully smooth surface. A removable nickle trimming makes it easy to keep this range always bright and new in appearance. Of paramount interest also are the other remarkable and exclusive attachments—the Special Grate, the Divided Flue and the Broiler. Every woman who knows owns a Gurney-Oxford.

Schlitz in Brown Bottles does not have that disagreeable taste so often found in beer in light bottles. We reprint below an opinion rendered by another famous scientist: "Bottles of strong glass should be selected. They should never be of colorless glass, inasmuch as through the influence of light the beer will not only take on a disagreeable odor and taste, but will also become turbid." (Lintner.) Extract from Die Malz and Bierbereitung, Published by E. Leyer, Director of the Brewing Academy in Augsburg, Tenth Edition, Stuttgart, 1900, page 680.

This is one of the authorities quoted by Dr. Robert Wahl, President of the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, to corroborate his own opinion.

Quebec Province Shoot.

Montreal, Aug. 20.—With ideal shooting weather prevailing, except for a tricky wind for a few hours in the morning, the 49th annual four day meeting of the Province of Quebec Rifle Association was opened yesterday at the Pointe Aux Trembles ranges.

In the afternoon there was some remarkably good marksmanship, especially in the first stage of the lieutenant-governor service conditions, and extra series matches. The results of the first named match, though not yet complete, showed that, for the first time in the history of the association, the lieutenant-governor's silver medal, the blue ribbon event of the P. Q. R. A., is in danger of being taken from the province by Color-Sergeant H. M. Marsden, of the 90th Winnipeg Rifles.

The attendance this year is considerably larger than at any previous meet, more than 250 entries being received, as against 208 in 1912 and 1911. There are 30 from Winnipeg, and many others from the maritime provinces. Nearly all of the outsiders came well up in the prize money. Of Winnipeg men, twenty won places in the service conditions match.

A remarkable fighter is Jerry Jerome, an Aboriginal of Queensland, in Australia. Despite the fact that Jerry is forty-four years of age and has undergone many hardships, he is still able to put up a great battle and stand the pace over a marathon route. Last month he fought a heavy-weight named Bill Senter, who has had some pretty good scraps with various Australian and American fighters, and at the end of fifteen rounds Senter was taking the ten counts, but a terrific battle all the way, Senter setting a fast pace, expecting that the aboriginal could not keep it up, but he did and when Bill was tired himself the native came back and handed out a couple of straight punches to the head that put Bill down and out. Jimmy Clabby defeated Jerome in 1910 when he was in Australia, stopping him in short order, but Jerome came back afterwards and began fighting better than ever in his career. Besides being a good boxer, Jerome is an all around athlete and can run 100 yards around the 10-second mark. He is also a great jumper and a wonderful rider and boomerang thrower. It is only very recently that Jerry fought Dave Smith for the championship of Australia and lost.

A Glance at the Work of An Important Commission Which Has Been in Existence For Three Years—How Industry is Being Fostered

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Aug. 9.—The ideal of running the affairs of England with the smartness, which a modern business man shows in the management of his concerns, took a long time in reaching the governmental mind. John Bull has been too prone in the past to muddle along anyhow, and until about three years ago no attempt was made to develop the country's economic resources. Works of public utility and improvement schemes never got under way for want of cash.

The need for such enterprise was only pointed out by bright spirits who knew what the British dominions beyond the seas had been doing in the way of realizing their potentialities.

This state of things was due to the inherent conservatism which is a temperamental defect of the Britisher. Now, although the unrealized possibilities of the nation are being surveyed, and their growth assisted officially, not one out of every hundred citizens in King George's realm knows anything about the means by which these ends are accomplished.

There is little excuse for this ignorance, because this particular work has been under way for more than three years, carried out by machinery specially devised for the purpose by act of parliament. Under the provisions of the Development and Road Improvement Funds Act, 1909-1910, eight officials, known as the Development Commission, were appointed to advise the treasury in the administration of a national fund of being taken from the Exchequer by Color-Sergeant H. M. Marsden, of the 90th Winnipeg Rifles.

Run England's Affairs On The Principles of Business

JOGGING ALONG TOO EASILY

A Glance at the Work of An Important Commission Which Has Been in Existence For Three Years—How Industry is Being Fostered

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Aug. 9.—The ideal of running the affairs of England with the smartness, which a modern business man shows in the management of his concerns, took a long time in reaching the governmental mind. John Bull has been too prone in the past to muddle along anyhow, and until about three years ago no attempt was made to develop the country's economic resources. Works of public utility and improvement schemes never got under way for want of cash.

The need for such enterprise was only pointed out by bright spirits who knew what the British dominions beyond the seas had been doing in the way of realizing their potentialities.

This state of things was due to the inherent conservatism which is a temperamental defect of the Britisher. Now, although the unrealized possibilities of the nation are being surveyed, and their growth assisted officially, not one out of every hundred citizens in King George's realm knows anything about the means by which these ends are accomplished.

There is little excuse for this ignorance, because this particular work has been under way for more than three years, carried out by machinery specially devised for the purpose by act of parliament. Under the provisions of the Development and Road Improvement Funds Act, 1909-1910, eight officials, known as the Development Commission, were appointed to advise the treasury in the administration of a national fund of being taken from the Exchequer by Color-Sergeant H. M. Marsden, of the 90th Winnipeg Rifles.

The attendance this year is considerably larger than at any previous meet, more than 250 entries being received, as against 208 in 1912 and 1911. There are 30 from Winnipeg, and many others from the maritime provinces. Nearly all of the outsiders came well up in the prize money. Of Winnipeg men, twenty won places in the service conditions match.

BASEBALL. As to Woodcock. The Gloucester Gazette has the following: It may not be generally known that the St. John Marathons are after pitcher Woodcock. There would be an awful howl from the local fans if the Senators let the big fellow go, as he is a big factor in their success.

St. Croix vs Fredericton. After twelve innings of scoreless ball St. Croix took yesterday's game from the Fredericton 8 to 1. Inexhaustible errors in the thirteenth inning did the trick.

The bats had a number of chances to win the game in the early stages of the same but lost them by bunched work on the bases. In the thirteenth inning rapped an easy fly of Lynch's, which tried to cut off Lynch on McHenry's sacrifice and both were safe.

McAvity's team defeated the W. H. Thorne nine last evening by the score of 5 to 4. Batteries for the winners, Marshall and McKensie; for the losers, Henderson and Knight.

National League. At Boston—Cincinnati 4, Boston 2. Batteries: Johnson and Kling; Rudolph, Dickson and Rariden. (Second game)—Cincinnati 2, Boston 0. Batteries: Sugg and Clarke; Tyler and Whaling.

At New York—Pittsburgh 5, New York 4. Batteries: Adams and Gibson; Fromme, Crandall, Schupp and McLean, Hartley. At Brooklyn—St. Louis 5, Brooklyn 2. Batteries: Perritt, Sallee and Wingo; Reulbach, Ragon and Miller, Fisher.

At Philadelphia—Chicago 4, Philadelphia 2. Batteries: Pierce and Archer; Seaton and Killifer.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

An employee named Grey was seriously injured by a flying deal in Hick's mill at Portage Vale, Kings county, on Monday. Hopes for his recovery are entertained.

Delegates to the meeting of the Maritime provinces lodges of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, to the number of 415, were welcomed to Charlottetown, P. E. I., at a public meeting last evening. E. A. Ball, of Stratford, Ont., first vice-president of the order, in replying to the addresses of welcome, dealt with the aims and objects of the organization and urged greater efforts on behalf of the members.

Boston, Aug. 19.—Miss Sarah Fields, aged 26, of Montreal (N. B.), was held in the Lynn court today for the alleged larceny of $300 worth of wearing apparel from her employer, Mrs. Edmund J. Phelan. Most of the property has been recovered, including fifty pairs of silk stockings. Mrs. Phelan also lost some jewelry, but Miss Fields denies that she was responsible for this loss. Montreal, Aug. 19.—Overcome by smoke on the fifth floor of a burning building in St. Peter street this afternoon, Alphonse Caron, fifteen years old, was burned to death. His body was found close to an open window burned to a crisp.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Republican leaders in congress progressives as well as regulars, have come to the conclusion that Theodore Roosevelt will enter the Republican presidential primaries in 1916 in the hope of capturing the Republican nomination.

Free Sugar Carries. Washington, Aug. 19.—President Wilson's programme for free sugar in 1916 carried a heavy bill in the senate today, when Democrats rallied to the support of the tariff bill and defeated all amendments to the sugar schedule. With all but Senators Ransdell and Thornton, of Louisiana, standing firmly for the administration measure, the Democrats defeated the Bristow amendment for a compromise duty; the Norris amendment against free sugar; and the Gallinger amendment against free maple sugar.

LOCAL NEWS

THE SICILIAN
 Allan line steamer Sicilian was reported 150 miles west of Fastnet at one p. m. yesterday and is due in Quebec Thursday morning.

MISS SARAH WALKER
 Miss Sarah Walker, sister of the late Dr. A. B. Walker, and the last member of the family, died yesterday at her home, No. 2 City Road. The funeral will be held from there at half past two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

THE PAVING
 The work of laying the surface on the paving on the north side of King square and around the corner in Sydney to Union has not yet been started. The concrete foundation is being somewhat ground into a layer of dust which in this dry spell is causing annoyance to passersby.

KING STREET
 Additional repairs to the King street paving are being made today by the contractors who laid it. So far most of the trouble has occurred on the northern side of the street, and this is explained partly by the fact that this side is used by the traffic bound up the street, which is harder on the surface than the downward traffic. Patches are being made of asphalt and broken stone.

DIED IN SAN FRANCISCO
 Captain Flewelling of the steamer Oconee received a telegram yesterday informing him of the death of Le Bert Wheeler, his wife's brother, which occurred in San Francisco following an operation. He was thirty-two years of age. He was the son of E. A. Wheeler, formerly a famous skate maker of Greenwich, but who moved away from the province about twenty-five years ago. Besides his father and mother he also leaves his wife and another sister in San Francisco.

THE BUILDING LAW
 The amendment to the building law limiting the construction of wooden buildings to two stories, which will be the subject of a referendum vote on next Tuesday, will be discussed at a special meeting of the Builders' Exchange this evening. As the members of the trade interested in construction work will be affected by the law the matter may be one of considerable importance to them and the meeting has been called to give them an opportunity to exchange opinions and to decide whether they will support or oppose it.

HAROLD ALLEN DEAD
 The death of Harold Allen, son of John and Eliza Allen, occurred last night at the home of his parents, 20 Marsh street, after an illness of three weeks from typhoid fever. He was fifteen years of age and is survived by his parents, three brothers and five sisters. The brothers are Mark of Prince Edward Island, who is expected home today; and John and Edmund at home. The sisters are Mrs. Leander Sabean, Mrs. Bessie Mabey, Mrs. Watson Sabean and Misses Nora and Freda, all of this city. The body will be taken to Fredericton tomorrow morning for interment at Marysville.

POLICE COURT
 Magistrate Ritchie gave the police court officials a mild surprise this morning by appearing to open court between the hours of six and seven. The four prisoners who were arrested yesterday were brought before him and remanded. Cornelius Heffertin, who was arrested last evening on charge of being drunk and interfering with pedestrians on the north side of King square, was one of the four remanded.

Thomas Baxter was another. He was arrested by Deputy Chief Jenkins on suspicion of assaulting little Arthur Gibbons in Rockwood Park on July 27. The other two prisoners were arrested on drunkenness charges.

BURIED TODAY
 The funeral of William A. Nichols was held at 2:30 this afternoon from his late residence, Spar Cove Road, to Cedar Hill. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. H. P. McKim.

The funeral of Charles Armstrong took place this afternoon from his late residence, Spruce Lake. Services were conducted by Rev. W. P. Dunham. Interment was in the Charlestown burying ground, Manawagonish Road.

The funeral of Dorothy daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alloway, Little River, was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon to the Methodist burying ground. Rev. Mr. Crisp officiated.

The body of Mrs. Alice M. Armstrong was taken from her late residence, Paradise row, to the Mission church, St. John the Baptist this morning and requiem was celebrated at seven o'clock. The funeral was held at two thirty this afternoon to the Church of England burying ground. Rev. Father Collins officiated at the services.

LONG DRIVING BY LOCAL "PRO"
 The Montreal Telegraph of August 15 contains the following concerning the long driving of F. Rickwood, professional of the St. John Golf Club during the recent tournament in Montreal:

"In the course of yesterday, after the day's play had ended, an interesting driving competition was witnessed from the starting tee beside the club house between F. C. Stephens, of the house club, who has the reputation of being a hard hitter, and F. Rickwood, of St. John, N. B., whose record drive is the tremendous one of 250 yards 'carry'."

"In the 'carry' Rickwood won with each of his five balls. For the furthest driven ball, he also won."

"His farthest drive was 251 yards. The average for the St. Rickwood, 255 yards; Mr. Stephens, 210."

"'Carry' means the distance traversed by the ball before it strikes the ground and begins to bound and roll. A ball that carries 251 yards might well run fifty or seventy-five yards more before stopping, according to the hardness of the ground and the trajectory."

Vincent Astor on Battleship
 Newport, R. I., Aug. 20.—Vincent Astor is on the battleship Utah for the week's manoeuvres off Block Island Sound. It is not often that a civilian is taken on these cruises. He is pursuing the course of his father, the late John Jacob Astor, who was much interested in gunnery, and, in fact, gave a field battery outfit to the government during the Spanish War. The Utah is the winner of the gunnery trophy of the battleships of the Navy and this is the reason why Mr. Astor is anxious to study the conditions on this ship.

A baggage check numbered 8223, between Montreal and Calgary, was found by the police yesterday.

THE BASEBALL SITUATION HERE

The last day or two have brought changes in the baseball situation in the N. B. & Maine League. Other changes are looked for. Announcement of a new turn in the situation may come tomorrow.

The position of St. John, while not encouraging is hardly any worse than it was about this time last year when the fans will recall that the management got in touch with Comiskey, Stahl, and others in the baseball world in the states, and the result was a strengthening of the team so that they won thirteen out of the last sixteen contests.

Charles, first string pitcher on the Marston lineup left the team today and went to Glace Bay. He told a fellow player before he went that he "intended to take a rest." It can hardly be a question of money which is taking him to the Cape Breton league, but as an inducement for his return a wife was sent by the management to catch him at New Glasgow. Joe Neptune has joined the St. Croix team since the purchase of McPherson by Lynn. In today's game Flaherty was to catch and, if he arrived, Conley to pitch.

OLD CANNON GO FROM HERE TO GRACE NEW YORK MAN'S ESTATE

Mr. Remington, of New York, president of the Remington-Union Gun Company, which is building the sub-structure of the new sugar refinery, was in the city two weeks ago to look over the work, has been interested in the collecting of cannon for years, and when he saw two old cannon near the scene of the company's operations he was attracted by them. He made inquiries and found that they had belonged to the French and were captured at Loubourg when the British took that place in 1758.

Mr. Remington interviewed Mr. Lantallum, who owned the cannon, and purchased the guns. They were sent last Saturday to New York, where they will occupy a prominent place on Mr. Remington's handsome estate there.

ATHLETIC EXPERTS GATHER IN CONVENTION IN BERLIN

Berlin, Aug. 20.—Athletic experts from all parts of the world are assembled here for the opening of the International Amateur Athletic Federation. The formal business is the drafting of rules for international competitions, but the delegates are chiefly interested in the Olympic games, which are to be held here in 1916. They hope to induce the Olympic committee at Paris in 1914 to adopt the federation's recommendations for the authority on track and field sports.

A meeting of the executive committee will be held here today. The delegates will inspect the stadium for the Olympic games which will be dedicated by Kaiser William in July last. The conference proper will open on Thursday.
