THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY IS PROVING A DIFFICULT QUESTION TO SETTLE.

WASHINGTON, Feb 20—The American Canadian Joint High Commission, after a session today, adjourned to meet at Quebec August 2 next. The chairman of the respective commissions agree upon another date. The joint commission first began its labors nearly six months ago in Canada, and with the exception of probably a month, been earnestly at work endeavoring to effect an agreement with a view to the formulation of a treaty covering many perplexing questions of differences affecting the business interests of the United States and Canada.

The commission has made very substantial progress in the settlement and adjustment of many of the questions upon which it has been earnestly engaged. But it has been unable to agree upon the settlement of the Alaskan boundary. This problem has been a complicated and difficult one, but the commissioners have been unable to agree upon a satisfactory adjustment. The difficulties arise from the imprecise definition of this boundary by the commission itself, which it might be referred to arbitration. The British commission desired that the whole question should be referred on terms similar to those provided in the referendum and which, by providing an umpire, would ensure certainty and finality. The United States, though the local conditions in Alaska so different that some modification of the Venezuelan boundary reference should be introduced. They thought the reference should be made to eminent jurists, three chosen by each of the high contracting parties, and the final vote of the jurists so chosen.

not opened as brightly as was hoped for. Mr Larke says that payments on the 4th of the month were, according to the reports of business men, the worst for years, due largely to the fact that farmers are holding their wheat, owing to a decline in the market. The outlook in the other colonies for the present year is more favorable, Victoria and South Australia are estimated to have an exportable surplus of 35,000,000 bushels of wheat. Queensland is still cranking its record crop of sugar cane, the output being estimated at 150,000 tons, against 97,500 last year. Taken as a whole, the prospect for trade in Australia in 1893 was rather better than was the case a year ago, and though there was a general expansion it should be sound. Mr Larke says that importers upon whom he called at Melbourne were generally satisfied with the goods received from Canada, but there was a repetition of the complaints reported from Sydney. Tweeds were not so good as to either width or weight of sample. Window shades declared to be proof against the rays of the sun cracked a few days after being hung. Carriage wheels spokes were dressed too fine, and proved to be slightly under the measurement specified. Complaint was made that orders were filled with packed badly, and that no specification of contents of cases was sent with the invoices. Manufacturers' agents who have valuable connections said they did not care about taking up Canadian goods. They said they did not wish to have their trade prejudicially handled by an unsatisfactory Melbourne Chamber of Commerce had always been very active in promoting the Pacific cable, and was gratified at the publication of a message from London to the effect that Canada had undertaken the responsibility of securing the cable route for the coming year. Mr Larke says it is improbable that there will be any expansion in New South Wales during the first half of this year. Sydney is becoming the distributing centre for Canadian goods, and the conditions of trade are so much better in most of the other colonies, there should be a large importation entered in this port. South Australian flour is coming into New South Wales in quantity and at a low figure. It is not equal to Manitoba flour, but is of good quality and cheap. It is so much cheaper than the Canadian article that it is used as a substitute in mixing with the weaker flour of New South Wales. The demand for Canadian flour will be small. There is a better demand for flour in the rest of the colonies, but of which Canada can supply. The demand for agricultural implements last year was the largest in the history of the British Isles, and Canadian firms did a large share of the trade. Canadian cottons are much in demand, and the reputation of the Canadian firms are doing a large trade in bicycles, but it is necessary for the manufacturer to handle a large quantity of machinery to take the responsibility.

NEW YORK FOG-BOUND. Travel Badly Delayed in All Directions. New York, Feb 18—Both the rivers and the bay were enveloped in fog this morning and travel was seriously delayed. Ferries on both the East and North rivers ran on about half schedule during the early hours. At 5 o'clock delays on the shorter lines averaged nearly half an hour. The cable and electric cars were unceremoniously stopped on the day of the blizzard. Everything seemed to be in a hopeless tangle. Express trains were run far behind the regular schedule and way trains on hill-top lines were delayed. West street, always one of the busiest highways of the town, and all ways especially crowded on Saturday mornings, was almost impassable at 3 o'clock, and after that hour drivers and horses were mired in almost inextricable tangle. Owing to the dense fog the transport Sherburne, which was to have sailed for Manila today, will not leave until tomorrow morning. She was lying at her pier at the foot of Pacific street, Brooklyn, this morning, with the 12th in entry and the 3rd battalion of the 17th infantry aboard. The final preparations for her departure were being made.

BEER SHIPPED TO MILES' ARMY. Testimony That it Remained on a Porto Rico Wharf for a Month. WASHINGTON, Feb 20—The army board of survey, appointed to enquire into the condemnation of 800,000 pounds of refrigerated beer consigned to General Miles' Porto Rico expedition in the war, has covered most of the ground involved in the examination and expects to give its findings soon. This particular board was not an outgrowth of the charges made by Gen Miles concerning the quality of the beer furnished the troops. It was appointed in the report of the board of the quality of the beer for the condemnation of this particular cargo and to decide whether Smith & Co, from whom the beer was purchased, the government was responsible for its spoiling. The board is already convinced that the beer was not spoiled when delivered by the contractors, and that it had not been chemically treated. The evidence so far brought out by the board shows that the beer was duly discharged at Porto Rico, and that it lay on a wharf for a month without any care. No attempt was made to learn the condition in that period, and when finally opened it was found unfit for use and nothing remained but to condemn it.

GALLANT RESCUE. Fourteen Men Taken From the Sinking Baxter. Boston, Feb 20—Fourteen shipwrecked seamen were landed at this port yesterday after an experience which none of them would care to repeat. The fact that the men are alive is due entirely to the gallant action of the captain and crew of the British steamer Mounse, Capt Birchman, which reached here yesterday afternoon from Shields, Eng.

Gobow was wanted for breaking and entering.

Eight members of her crew are reported to have been picked up at sea on February 12 189 miles east of the Azores and just landed at Cete by the British steamship Kater, from the Atlantic Stock January 29th for that port.

HER GLASS EYE CRACKED. Charles Krauss Thinks the Fact She Wore One Cause for Divorce. CHENNAI, Feb 20—Because his wife Katherine wears a glass eye, and he says she never confided the fact to him during their courtship, Charles Krauss thinks her petition for divorce is thereby sufficiently answered and a case made out for a cross-suit.

ELEVATOR BOAT AFIRE. Towed Into Midstream and Burned to the Hull. New York, Feb 20—The grain elevator boat Columbia caught fire while feeding the White Star liner Cymra at this pier today. The Columbia was towed into the stream after and while two fireboats poured water over her as she was towed to the Jersey flat, she steadily burned to the hull. The loss is about $200,000.

La Grippe. It's here again! The doctors say it mostly attacks the weak, thin, those with poor blood and nerves all unstrung. Escape is easy, simply by taking Scott's Emulsion. The oil is the very best food for making rich blood and producing force and energy. The hypophosphites give stability and strength to the nerves. The germ of La Grippe cannot infect a body thus fortified.

VICTORY!

Government Candidates Sweep All Before Them.

St. John City Redeemed—York Snows the Opposition Under—Charlotte Goes to the Government—Queens Gives Ferris and Carpenter a Good Support—The Greatest Waterloo Ever Known in New Brunswick's Political History.

The morning of the political battle (Saturday, February 19), rose clear and bright—the sun was shining as serenely as though the fate of a government was not in the balance of public opinion. At 6 o'clock there were many on the streets, early about making arrangements for getting out into St. John county, or to Kings and Queens, non-residents, agents, and workers all intent on carrying their polling places in the interest of this or that candidate.

When 8 o'clock came, there was a crowd around each poll, and as the again returned by a vote far in excess of that they received last time and which swamped the captain from the eastern end of the county and the virtuous councillor from Mesquash. As the time wore on the returns arrived from places outside the city and county, and as the links were bound together they formed into the grandest political victory ever won in the province.

The four city members elected were in the hall as the returns came in. They went home when the result was known and returned about 8 o'clock. As each entered he was received with cheer upon cheer. With difficulty, a narrow lane weather was warm and the excitement intense, the polls were crowded all day. There was a good party organization on each side, but the government apparently had the greater number of ward workers, and the results show that their men were better placed and did the most effective service. It was not the fault of those in charge of the polls if all in St. John did not cast their ballots, as each party had plenty of teams and the voter could have a choice of conveyance, sleigh, coach or street car.

The candidates on either side took a hand in the fight, and during the day went from poll to poll encouraging their men, and assisting by their advice in the battle.

In every store and shop, and on all the corners and in other places where people gathered the talk was election; and public opinion, swayed this way and that, as good or bad reports were brought from Wellington, Prince, Queens, Kings, and the other larger and therefore more important towns. Bets were numerous, and of all natures, some betting the result would be such as it is; others thought that Stockton and his forces would carry everything before them. Many clung to the idea that Stockton, Shaw, Robertson and McKewen would get a majority of the ballots. Some claimed that the city would return the opposition ticket, while the county would go Dunn and McLeod; but there was quiet confidence in the camp of the government that four o'clock would see their complete ticket, city and county, returned.

After the Polling.

McLanghin's Hall where so much good committee work was done during the days just preceding the contest, was made the spot where the victorious electors gathered after the battle, for exchange of congratulations and to hear results from provincial points, while Foster's corner was the waiting place of those of the defeated party who had spirit enough left to wait to hear anything.

The rush to the government headquarters began as soon as the people had time to reach there after a hurried meal. Before 8 o'clock the place was unaccountably filled, and by the time speeches began the hall was crowded and many were unable to get in.

The returns had been brought to the hall as announced at the city booths, and they were posted on large blackboards, as the voters had gathered to see the results of the election. The excitement was at its height, and the enthusiasm grew and grew until the greatest excitement prevailed. Then the county returns came showing that the Hon. A. T. Dunn and Mr. John McLeod had been

was made through the crowd and he reached the platform, there to be bodily lifted aloft and the laughter and cheers of the people. Mr. A. O. Skinner, I. E. Smith and Hon. A. T. Dunn made addresses.

Mr. Parry was the first of the city candidates to appear. When something like silence followed his reception he addressed the assemblage, and in the course of his remarks referred to his ward, where he had not done as well as he expected; where a certain laboring class had united forces against the government. He didn't object to a man voting as he liked, but he thought their course unfair. He complimented the electors on the way the ticket had been run. He (Parry) would rather have fallen than have any other on the ticket left behind. He hoped all four would retain the confidence of the people.

When Mr. Robertson, the leader of the poll, stepped forward next, he was welcomed in the heartiest manner. He referred to the great victory, a change of 1100 votes. The victory would have a good influence in the city and it would unite the people as they had not been for years. He spoke of the fine fight made by the government workers in Carleton Place though victory was not with them. Still the opposition was happy over there, for they would still have Mr. Lockhart with them. (Laughter.) The way matters had gone in the city showed gratitude to Hon. Mr. Blair and his government. (Cheers for Mr. Blair.) As to the course of the new representatives for St. John in parliament it would not be for want of determination and effort that this city would not be in a better position in parliament than for nine years. He was a supporter of the provincial government and a supporter of the dominion government as long as it continued to do justice to St. John. He was bound to go party as a machine. After the battle of today we should all feel kindly and meet our opponents as brothers and citizens.

Mr. Reynolds was given ringing cheers as he responded to calls for a speech. The battle had been an important one, and had been won on a principle. He said the opposition had been broken up and its venturesome crew swept aboard. But this was not a time for unkind remarks, the opposition were "lovely and peaceful in their lives and in death they were not divided." He was proud of the vote he had received; it was splendid support, and grand work had been done for the ticket, and his colleagues were true to him and he to them. The returns were represented in one in several ways, for one thing, it served to heal breaches which need never have existed. The returns were a very effective work done in the campaign by Mr. McDade, who, however, could take little credit to the party as a whole. To him much of the credit of victory in city and province was due.

Mr. John Connors was called on. He made a very fine address indeed. He showed how well the whole government ticket had been carried, quoting the figures to show the uniformity of the returns of the candidates. He had never seen a contest where the variations between the highest and lowest was less than in this one. Mr. Reynolds was the lowest and this he considered, under the circumstances, the point of honor. British fair play would grant this, as he represented the sentiments of the minority of the constituency. Law, literature and mercantile interests were represented in the new representatives and in the new equal the best of the metropolis of New Brunswick ever had. He believed the day was not far distant when the premier would call one of them to represent St. John in the government.

Mr. James Barry was called on and spoke briefly. He gave way to Mr. McKewen, who had just entered. Mr. McKewen's reception was very flattering. He was flattered by the fight and made only a short address. The doctors had been relegated to private life. The government candidates could not write D. U. or L. B. after their names, he said, but a vote from the crowd suggested that they could write M. P. Mr. McKewen spoke of one feature of the contest—the fact that the government employees, the men holding office, had voted against them in many instances. He had been astonished as he noticed this in the ward where he worked (Victoria). It was a matter for serious consideration by the Liberal party (hearses). He and his colleagues would be ready always to act in the interests of the people. Mr. McKewen spoke of Mr. McDade and paid a tribute to him and to his work towards speech, and again briefly addressed the people. Mr. McDade was in the hall and the people called for him to speak. He finally took the platform and was cheered lustily. He spoke briefly analyzing features of the campaign and, grasping Mr. McKewen by the hand said as they shook hands, "the orange and green will go forward together." (Cheers.) Mr. W. H. Franklin spoke in response to numerous calls, and delivered a splendid address. The meeting then adjourned with cheers for the representatives elect, for Hon. Mr. Emmerson, for Hon. Mr. Blair, and for the Queen.

A telegram was read during the evening, received from Hon. Mr. Emmerson. It conveyed his congratulations to the successful government candidates in St. John.

At Opposition Headquarters.

The followers of her majesty's loyal opposition met at Foster's building and at the Mechanics' Institute in the evening to receive returns.

Mr. W. H. Franklin spoke in response to numerous calls, and delivered a splendid address. The meeting then adjourned with cheers for the representatives elect, for Hon. Mr. Emmerson, for Hon. Mr. Blair, and for the Queen.

Mr. C. B. Lockhart was given a rousing reception. Referring to the victory of the Emmerson government he said it was won by rain and money. Not only that, but a number of the honest electors holding government positions had been threatened that if they voted for the opposition Mr. Blair would have them dismissed. Over $45,000 was brought from Upper Canada and used in buying votes for the government. There was no intimidation on the part of the opposition. He would be more than pleased if the government had no opposition in the house; the government could have everything their own way—squander the people's money as they saw fit. That kind of government would not last forever. He thanked the electors for their support, and should they again want a candidate his services were at their demand.

Dr. A. A. Stockton was received with cheers. He said they had been defeated fighting for the rights of the people and honest government. There would be a revolution in the Blair government that would carry the opposition into power. He did not take anything he had said in regard to the bridge charges. He subscribed to the editorial in Saturday night's Globe. There must be honest men in the government before the people will be able to get honest administration. He said it was a disgrace that the way government candidates conducted themselves at the polls. Considering the influence against the opposition they had done exceptionally well. Mr. Stockton thanked the "men who voted for them. He said they would find him always ready to fight for honest government.

Mr. William Shaw was given a hearty reception. He said the opposition was not dead yet. They had nothing to regret. He did not feel greatly disappointed, but felt sorry for their supporters, and glad that he escaped the company of the men who are now to rule the country. The government now has a better chance to fight against themselves. The opposition had fallen fighting a great battle, they had kept the faith. He thanked his electors for the support given him, and was at the service of his country were it was only a pound keeper or a hog rove.

Dr. Elias Alward was given cheer after cheer. He said the opposition party was to be congratulated on the splendid fight they put up. If it had not been for the aid received from the federal government the opposition would have been defeated by a larger majority. He claimed it was a disgrace and a shame the way the electors were intimidated and coerced by the government party. In two years hence the present government will have a large majority opposed to them. Truth crushed under its weight will rise again. The opposition had staved the reign of the party of reform, economy and all that was in the interest of good government. They had come out of the fight nobly and without losing their self respect. Should the honest people of St. John wish him to represent them in another election, he was at their service.

Speeches were also made by Messrs J. B. M. Baxter and E. B. Chapman. Mr. Word was received that a crowd was

Terrors of Childhood

Many diseases of children previously misunderstood are now known to be of germ character and susceptible to cure by the use of Shiloh's Consumption Cure. Among such diseases are croup and whooping cough. The symptoms can never be mistaken. Croup usually commences with a cough, more or less fever, alternate hot and cold spells, flushed face, watery red eyes and restlessness at night. It is a disease in which time is life. The following letter to the S. C. Wells Co., of Le Roy, N. Y., was written by an old lady whose grandchildren owe their lives to Shiloh's Cure:

"Never shall I forget the agony I experienced that night, when little Tom was taken with the croup. It was midnight and snowing. Our house was a mile from the nearest village; I had no one to send for the doctor. I had given Tom nearly a bottleful of syrup of ipecac, without effect. He was suffocating! Frantic with fear, I pulled him out of the bed, and, as a last recourse, made him turn round and round; in fact, I whirled him until he grew nauseated and suddenly threw up a quantity of phlegm; his life was saved! With dear old Shiloh at hand, nowadays, we have no such terrible scenes to contend with, for it prevents them. Yours truly, BERTY FORBES."

Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold by all druggists on a guarantee to refund the purchase money in case of failure or dissatisfaction. 25c., 50c. and $1 a bottle in United States and Canada. In England, 1s. 2d., 2s. 3d. and 4s. 6d.

True happiness does not begin for a woman until she becomes a mother. The feast of death stands between thousands of women and this supreme joy. If a woman will but take the right course, she may trample this fear out of her heart, and all come for it out of her body. There is practically no danger, and but little pain, in maternity, for a woman who is thoroughly healthy and strong in a womanly way. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes the delicate organs that bear the burdens of maternity strong, healthy, virile and elastic. It banishes the distress of the period of impending maternity, and insures the new-born's health, an ample supply of nourishment. An honest drug-giver will not try to get you to take some mother's word for it. Prospective mothers who write to Dr. R. V. Pierce will receive the best advice of an eminent and skillful specialist, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y.

"A neighbor of mine who was expecting the arrival of a baby before very long, was in very poor health," writes Ellen Remondier, Post-mistress at Majida, Bourbon Co., Kansas. "I induced her to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She used four bottles, and has just been delivered of a daughter as I ever saw. She was only a short time in labor and is now doing well."

For sick headache, biliousness and constipation, Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the most rational cure known. They are mild but thorough and effective. They regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Never gripe. No other pill is like them.
