THAT ONE TIMBER.

I was in Hyde Park one afternoon, comfortably ensconced in a shady nook, from which I could watch the stream of early appointed equipages constantly passing.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

A man to whose outstretched hands two little children—a boy and a girl—were clinging, passed me and finding an unoccupied shelter under the trees, threw himself at full length upon the ground, and encouraged the little one to gambol on the soft grass.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

He was, judging from his bright eyes and fresh pink and white complexion, about 33 or 35 years of age. A heavy mustache covered his lip, and his hair—had he thrown off his hat—was thick and wavy.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

It and the mustache were now white, and it was speculation as to the cause of this phenomenon that so distracted my attention from the scene around me.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

Barton is a newspaper writer and knows everybody; consequently, I was not surprised that he nodded familiarly to the man who had so attracted my attention, and called out to him in his cheery way:

THAT ONE TIMBER.

"Hollo, Derry! Taking a day out?"
"The man bowed in reply, and I seized Barton by the arm, pulled him down on the seat beside me, lowered my voice, and propounded this inquiry with an eagerness that betrayed my intense curiosity:

THAT ONE TIMBER.

"That man—Derry—how did his hair become white?"
"Turned in a few minutes from fright," replied Barton coolly. "Not an uncommon thing. Derry though, had a remarkable experience. Wait till I light my cigar and I'll tell you all about it."

THAT ONE TIMBER.

It was during a great railroad squabble in France some years ago. Lionel Derry was a minor clerk in the main office of the Great Wisonian company, but sharp, shrewd, attentive to his duties, and well thought of by his superiors.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

When the Parry company began to build a road, and attempted to cross the Seine on property belonging to the Wisonian people, Derry was sent up with others, to "hold the fort" until the matter could be settled by the courts.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

The Wisonian company's bridge was only a temporary trestle work, but plans had been prepared for a substantial cantilever, and it would be put in place as soon as the trouble about the right of way was settled.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

The engine in charge of the bridge work was an elderly, red-headed man named Pierre Lamoureux, intensely devoted to his profession and a great inventor.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

Among the labor saving machines he had devised was an improved pile driver which utilized the water of the river as a motive power and could be managed by one man.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

One day it was moved up close beside the bridge to do some piling, and the engineer, pointing to the beams and crosspieces above their heads said:

THAT ONE TIMBER.

"That's the weakest part of the bridge. Ten minutes work will displace a timber up there that will cause the whole affair to collapse the minute a train attempts to pass over it. I've been afraid of this Parry fellows would notice the matter and do our company irreparable damage."

THAT ONE TIMBER.

"You don't mean to say," began Derry.
"Yes, I do," interrupted the engineer, with positive emphasis. "They are a bad lot, and Guio, the head man, would sacrifice a hundred innocent lives to give his company an advantage."

THAT ONE TIMBER.

Lionel Derry had no reason to like Guio. Derry thought he was paying altogether too much attention to pretty Aimee Etiole, who, strangely enough, was the only daughter of the chairman of the Wisonian road.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

Mlle. Etiole was staying at the big hotel with her aunt, and Derry, being known by the latter, had been introduced to the young lady. He fell in love with her on the spot of the moment.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

One night when there was no moon and the stars were obscured by clouds, Derry left the hotel as usual after supper, and it was 9 o'clock when he returned.

Selected Literature.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

"Don't it was the quick retort. And wheeling suddenly the man dealt Lionel a blow full in the face that knocked him flat.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

Attracted by the struggle, Guio came forward, and bending down, peered into the young clerk's face.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

"What shall I do with him?" asked the accomplice. "Pitch him into the river!"
Guio, stepping to the pile driver, picked up a long piece of rope that had been left lying on the ground.

THAT ONE TIMBER.

With this, assisted by the other rascal, he bound Derry hand and foot, and, throwing himself at full length upon the ground, and encouraged the little one to gambol on the soft grass.

Active canvassing is now going on and polling day, Saturday next, will probably decide that the majority of voters are in favor of the government candidate in spite of the efforts of a number of liberal stump speakers imported to endeavor to pull the wool over the eyes of the electors.

Maritime Board of Trade.

A meeting of delegates from many of the Boards of Trade of the Maritime Provinces was held by invitation in Halifax on Tuesday last week, for the purpose of commencing a union of all these boards of trade under one organization.

The Newcastle Board of Trade not having been favored with an invitation to attend this meeting for organization was therefore not represented at the meeting. Mr. W. S. Loggie of the Chatham Board of Trade, was one of the delegates present. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mayor Robertson, St. John. First Vice—Geo. J. Troop, Halifax. Second Vice—Geo. P. Blake, Charlottetown.

Secretary—J. W. Cornwall, St. John.

Sad Drowning Accident.

THREE LIVES LOST.

On Saturday evening about 8 o'clock there was much excitement in this town because of an accident to the steamer Miramichi when returning from her trip down river. The rumor had it that four persons were missing and Newcastle people who had friends or relatives on board the Miramichi were anxiously awaiting the arrival of the steamer Nelson, who was bringing the Miramichi's passengers up. Upon her arrival it was found that the rumor had been exaggerated in fact and that three persons had been drowned and two others who had been knocked or jumped overboard had been rescued, one of whom was Miss McLeod, daughter of Mr. Simon McLeod of this town, who was suffering from a weak and had been taken to the Hotel Aberdeen, Chatham, until somewhat recovered.

The steamer Miramichi had left Black Brook on her way up and when Black Brook was reached about 8 o'clock she was seen beating down, but after leaving Black Brook the steamer was not noticed until just before the collision, when apparently too late to avert a collision.

Capt. Degraze had left the wheel a short time before and went down to get his supper, leaving Wm. Tait, deckhand, in charge. Tait states that he did not see the schooner until her jibboom struck the steamer just forward of the smokestack, tearing it off and the schooner was seen beating down, but after leaving Black Brook the steamer was not noticed until just before the collision, when apparently too late to avert a collision.

The schooner was in charge of Pilot Patrick Nowlan, and he says he saw that the steamer was not going to clear the schooner and lifted up as much noise as possible. Had the schooner not been lifted, she would have probably sunk the steamer.

Fortunately, owing to the cool castleship, there were not many persons on the upper deck or the fatalities would probably have been much more numerous than they were.

Five young ladies, Misses Matilda and Rhoda K. Stewart, daughters of Mr. Alex. Stewart, Chatham; Misses Anna and Maggie Lobban, daughters of Mr. John Lobban, Chatham; and Miss McLeod, daughter of Mr. S. E. McLeod, merchant tailor, Newcastle, were on the upper deck at the time of the accident and were swept overboard. The schooner dropped anchor at once and they got out their boat and set about rescuing the drowning girls.

Two out of the five were all that were in sight, and these were pulled into the boat, one of them, Miss Matilda Stewart, unconscious. Miss McLeod was the other. No sign of the rest of the girls could be seen and all were in such confusion that it was almost impossible, at the time, to find out whether or not the two who were really swept overboard.

The steamer, badly disabled as she was, made her way to the Canada dock. Capt. Degraze telephoned to Dr. Joseph B. Benson and Dr. Baxter to meet the Miramichi at her landing place. This was the first intimation that the town folks had that there had been an accident, and the excitement at once grew intense. Every one that heard the report told every one he met, and so all rushed to the steamboat landing.

The excitement was so intense that no one seemed to know who was really lost.

Mr. Loban telegraphed to Bay du Vin and Black Brook and found the sad news that his daughters were on the ill-fated steamer at the time of the accident, and were, of course, drowned.

Miss McLeod's injuries were found to be mostly caused by the severe shock on her nervous system on account of the accident.

Miss Stewart was, however, very seriously injured, the top of her head being very severely cut. She, when taken from the water, was so nearly drowned, that it was not until the following morning that she was restored to her body. She may recover, but she is in a very critical condition.

The schooner's boat went out with grappling irons and recovered the body of Rhoda K. Stewart about midnight. It was removed to her home in Chatham, and on Sunday morning Coroner Dr. John S. Benson summoned and empaneled a jury. About 9 o'clock they viewed the remains and the inquest was adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

All day Sunday several boats were down on the scene of the accident grappling for the bodies of the Loban girls, but up to 9 o'clock, p. m., they had not recovered them.

The inquest on the remains of Rhoda K. Stewart was resumed this morning. Captain Charles Edward Dixon, master of the schooner Osceola, Pilot Patrick Nowlan, Master James Haines and Robt. Macna, captain of the steamer St. Andrew, were sworn at the morning session of the court. Capt. Dixon swore that under the circumstances the accident could not be avoided, and that the steamer ran into the schooner.

Pilot Nowlan's evidence corroborated that of the captain. None of the men on the schooner expected that the steamer would attempt to cross her bows, and nothing was done on their part until the collision was inevitable, when the helm was thrown to starboard. This action, he said, although done when it was almost too late, is believed to have saved the schooner from sinking the Miramichi.

At the afternoon session several witnesses were examined, including Capt. Degraze of the steamer Miramichi. He had, without the consent of the company or its manager, allowed the mate, Capt. Goodfellow, to remain at his home in St. John. He left a deck hand named William Tait at the wheel and went down to supper. He had not been away more than five minutes when the collision occurred.

The evidence of the rest of the witnesses was not of much importance. The inquest was adjourned at 5.30 till 10.30 tomorrow morning.

The funeral of the late Rhoda K. Stewart took place at 6.30 this evening. It was very largely attended.

The bodies of the Misses Loban are not recovered yet, although grapplers have dragged the river for over a mile each way from the scene of the accident all day Sunday and to-day.

Progressive Millerton.

Millerton, Aug. 1.—A stranger in passing through this town cannot but notice the great improvements that are being made, new dwelling houses of the latest design, and the most artistic style. We notice also a new church, with a tall and lofty spire, commanding a fine appearance among the other improvements. It bears the name Grace Church. It got its name from the fact that the late Mrs. Grace Robinson, who was the instrument in the hands of good people of that place. About a year ago she started a subscription list. She never asked but a subscription from each party. She now has presented to the church a beautiful organ, and the finest quality inside and out. The grounds and fences are beautifully fitted up, and clear of all encumbrances. "TRAVELLER," in Gleaner.

Methodist District Meeting.

The financial meeting of the Miramichi District in connection with the Methodist Church will be held at Bathurst beginning on Tuesday evening, Aug. 27th. A public meeting will be held at 7.30 on Tuesday evening at 7.30. Wednesday 9 a. m. the arrangements for holding of public meetings on behalf of the Missionary, Educational and Sustentation Funds will be made, and the estimated receipts for the year will be presented. The District will be considered and recommendations for aid will be made to the Central Mission Board. In the afternoon a meeting will be held at 2.30. In the evening at 7.30 an open session, in which the public are cordially invited, will be held and the question: "What measures are adopted for the promotion of the work of God in the District," will be discussed.

James Crisp, Chairman. Wm. Harrison, Secretary.

Remodelled.

Early this spring some extensive additions and improvements were commenced on the Waverley Hotel premises and they have now been completed and the premises very much improved and enlarged.

Ten bed-rooms have been added to the former sleeping rooms and four more will shortly be completed. These rooms are all of fair size and are neatly furnished. The former dining room has been enlarged by the addition of nine feet more space, and where the former store was situated is now a roomy office, with what is intended as a refreshment room, and a kitchen, with hot and cold water. The former office has been utilized as a writing room for the use of guests.

A very neat bath room has been fitted up, supplied with hot and cold water. An abundant supply of pure cold water is obtained from the artesian well recently bored on the premises. With ample room and every facility for the accommodation of guests the Waverley Hotel will no doubt continue to meet the approval of the public. The proprietor, with Mr. Chas. Call as clerk and Mrs. Call as housekeeper.

That Tired Feeling.

Is a common complaint and it is a dangerous symptom. It means that the system is debilitated because of impure blood, and in this condition it is especially liable to attacks of indigestion, headache, and also for that weakness which prevails at the change of season, climate, etc.

Hood's Pills act easily, yet promptly and efficiently on the bowels and liver. See.

Bathurst School Enquiry.

Bathurst, Aug. 13.—The equity court, Judge Barker presiding, resumed the hearing of the Bathurst school case this morning.

Dr. Inch, the first witness, was shown a letter written by him to the secretary of the trustees, Mr. O'Brien, touching parallel grades. Parallel grades, he said, depend upon there being no reasonable one given grade than can be reasonably accommodated in one department. Again, the distance from school would make it necessary in some cases. The teachers do not grudge, with sanctimony, the trustees. It is general in the province. Have visited schools in the convent building. They were very satisfactory so far as his observation of an hour would allow him to judge. He was very well pleased. He found no books but those prescribed by law. He found time-tables; did not notice anything to lead him to suppose the school rooms were not properly ventilated. The light was as satisfactory as generally found. The intellectual character of the pupils in the convent was equal to similar schools elsewhere, and in some cases superior. He was pleased especially with the order, general behavior and promptness in replying to questions. In second grade, John, Frederick, Moncton, and he thought, Shadac. There are other places where the trustees have rented buildings for school purposes. He saw no sign of religious instruction in the convent schools. He came to Bathurst to judge for himself of the state of affairs, and found a tendency on the part of the pupils to crowd into the convent schools, and his object in writing the letter was to prevent the trustees from indulging in such a policy to one school and have so many sent to each, but in every town there is to be found a favorite school. The grammar school could contain about 50 per cent. more pupils than were in actual attendance. He has his own knowledge of the one room in the grammar school building was unoccupied. He did not think that the teaching of religion before and after regular school hours is a violation of the regulations or render the schools in any way sectarian. The schools everywhere throughout the province have been and are used for religious, temperance and political purposes, and he did not think it his duty to interfere so long as the trustees consented.

Mr. Skinner cross-examined Dr. Inch about his opinion on the effect of religious instruction in schools.

At the afternoon session Father Varrily was the first witness. His connection with the coming of the Sisters of Charity to the organ very efficiently. The ushers were Messrs. S. W. Palmer and B. T. Peters. The bridegroom was Mr. J. E. Hooper, rector of St. Joseph's church, officiated. Damage Done.

The heavy downpour of rain on Wednesday did considerable damage. Above the town line to the cross roads, the fall of hail was very heavy, and did much injury to the growing crops, thrashing out the oats and cutting up the leaves of turnips and potatoes. It was accompanied with a heavy wind which blew down some trees and fences. The pine tree at Fiddler's, the former one of the pair which for so many years had been such a landmark near the town line, was blown down, and in the fall of the tree the remaining one was blown down. An old settler states that these trees have been prominent landmarks for all of eighty years and now the last one has gone. The hail is said to have been heavy over in Nelson, and that a number of windows were broken.

The Crops.

Reports from different parts of the county speak well of the crops. Hay on uplands was not more than two-thirds or half of the crop of last year, but the hay on the meadows (much of which has been housed in prime condition) is reported to be far in advance of last year. Grain and roots promise well and the crop of apples is abundant. The recent rains have been most beneficial to the growing crops.

Camp Adams.

The "Bathing season" of 1895 at "Camp Adams" was closed on Tuesday, Aug. 13, with a most successful trip made by Messrs. J. M. Lawlor, R. H. Armstrong, John Sargent and R. H. Grayson, of Newcastle. They arrived in Camp on Saturday, Aug. 10th, and remained for three days during which they landed fourteen grise and four salmon, two of which weighed 16 and 23 pounds respectively. This season's fishing has been a great success (notwithstanding the low water) the total catch from July 7th to 14th Aug. being 272 salmon and grise.

Beats Methuselah.

The Chicago Post publishes the following item which is a rather startling argument in favor of the use of tobacco: "Baldness: Ky. points with pride to a 95-year-old citizen, Mr. A. Rice, who never chewed or smoked tobacco, never swore an oath, and was never drunk. Meanwhile Philadelphia is getting ready to celebrate on the 5th of September the 1024th birthday of Mr. Jacob Urban, a hale old gentleman who has been an inveterate chewer and smoker of tobacco since boyhood."

A Warning to Smokers.

For some time past certain dealers have been selling inferior brands of tobacco when "T & B" is asked for, and are not trading on the reputation of the manufacturers but also injuring the sale of the article. The Geo. E. Tuckett & Son Co., of Hamilton, have taken the matter in hand and intend prosecuting the offenders. Smokers should be careful to see the "T & B" stamp on each pack, to gain extra profit, unscrupulous dealers tear the tag off other brands and say it is "T & B" and "just as good."

A Case of Triplets.

It is supposed that a claim for "the Queen's bounty"—which, however, is said not to be extended to persons in the colonies—will be made in September, by Mrs. Cleophas Mallis, of Tracadie, who not only fairly earned it on the 9th instant by giving birth to triplets, but has, since her marriage in 1885, made a record as a mother which is said to be not often equalled. Her maiden name was Odile Dorion, and she and her husband, Cleophas Mallis, are each thirty-two years old. In 1886 she gave birth to twins, both of which died. In 1887 she again presented her husband with twins, and these, together with two children afterwards born singly, are alive and well. As it is to make up for lost ground and maintain the pace on which they started in the "fruitful and multiply" business, the couple had the three little strangers—two boys and a girl—added to their home on Friday last. The family are French and live in a single-roomed house this side of Tracadie settlement—Adelaide.

Literary Notes.

The leading article in the September Harper's will give the impressions received by Mr. Richard Harding Davis during a recent overland journey in Honduras, undertaken for Harper's Magazine and Harper's Weekly. The title is "Three Gringos in Central America," and the paper will be attractively illustrated. Besides Honduras, Mr. Davis's travels included Nicaragua and Venezuela, and other things he saw in this interesting quarter will be told in subsequent numbers.

A capital feature of Harper's Weekly in the immediate future will be a series of humorous papers entitled "A House-Boat on the Styx," written by John Kendrick Burt Foster and illustrated by Peter Newell. Adventures and conversations in the lower world are the themes attacked by this brace of humorous talents, and the delusions of the infatuated persons whose doings and sayings are recorded leaves nothing to be desired.

Beautiful toilettes for the latter summer will be given in the August issues of Harper's Bazar. Everything will have a light, bright, charming outdoor effect, befitting the season. "A Suburban Episode," a clever and timely story by Anna Westworth Sears, will appear in the Bazar dated August 17th. An illustrated article on ice-making will be a feature of Harper's Round Table for August 19th. The same number will have a description of the meeting of the world's navies at Kiel, and a view of the Light-house home of the brave Light-keeper. There are two bright true stories also: "How Dick Drove Mail Coach," by Everett Jack Appleton, and "How Little Betty West Swamming," by Elizabeth Robinson, as well as other interesting reading matter with several poems, jingles, pictures, and original comic. Price $1.00 a year, 10 cents a number. Specimens (book number) free. Alpha Publishing Company, Boston.

him he quickly set to work to re-build. His story, as told a reporter of the Wingham Advance, who recently had occasion to visit his history, will prove of interest. "I was helping to dig out the cellar," he said, "and in the dampness and cold I contracted rheumatism which settled in my right hip. It got so bad that I could sit in a chair without dozing my leg back at the side of the chair, and I could sit in a buggy without letting the affected leg hang out. I suffered a great deal more from the trouble than anyone who has not been similarly affected can."
