Interesting Story of Junior Chautauqua Every Boy and Girl Should Read.

The Lucky Number Parade, this year is going to be a parade. We want you to make it the largest children's parade ever held in your town. How can you do this. Now let us make a few suggestions: then you set your minds to work and get up some scheme that will be even better.

First look at some of the pictures of parades. You will see what some other towns have done in past years. What? You can beat it? Well, we believe that would make you go some; but nothing is impossible, and we hope you will do your level best.

Why not have the Boy Scouts all in line in the Lucky Number Parade? Let them put on their navy uniforms and full equipment and let them carry their big Scout flag, too. The more the merrier. Have every scout out that day.

And the Girl Scouts, too. Nothing ever makes a prettier sight than the Girl Scout uniforms, when they are worn by the type of girls we know you have in your town.

And the Camp Fire Girls, and the various other boy and girl organizations in town. Get them all to turn out for the Lucky Number Parade.

Decorate your bicycles and get on your dandiest pony.

How about floats? Don't you think that you and five or six others could get up a dandy float. Let it represent "Canada," "Chautauqua," or "Junior Town" or "A Mother Goose Party" or "The Wop," or any one of a dozen or two different things that you will think of.

Ask your father and mother to help. We doubt that will be glad to lend his car or his horse and wagon and that what fun you can have decorating it and planning the costumes. Perhaps some store in your town would like to be advertised in the parade, and would agree to let you use their delivery truck to decorate. Ask your teacher to help, too.

But you and your friends don't have to depend on an auto or a horse and wagon. Just get a bunch of live-wire boys and girls together and plan some simple costumes of bright color. Dress up like Indians, or Clowns, or Milkmaids, or Shepherds, or your favorite historical characters; anything—just get on some fancy costume (use your last year's Halloween costume) and join the ranks of the Lucky Number Parade.

And now for the good news! We are going to give to the group of boys and girls (or girls and boys) who get up the best set of costumes for the parade, free admission tickets to Children's Afternoon at Chautauqua.

Don't you want to be in that lucky bunch? Of course we will have the six free season tickets, too, for the holders of the Lucky numbers, as we did last year.

Now get busy. Think, and then act. All out for a jolly good time. Join the Jolly Juniors at Chautauqua.

HARTLAND SCHOOL NOTES

Last year Hartland school garden, C. D. Dickson, principal, took first position, obtaining a neat certificate, which will be framed and placed in the school. A prize of $3 was also obtained from the Director of Elementary Agricultural Education to be used for the purchase of something useful in nature or science study. This year the garden should win again as it seems to be in first class condition under Mr. Dickson's care.

Also Mr. Dickson has just stated that the school has won the first prize of $12 (for graded schools) awarded for physical training by the Strathcona Trust. The teacher retains two-thirds of this and the balance will be used to purchase some book or picture or other memento or trophy of a patriotic nature as suggested by the Trust, with approval of inspector and trustees. Mr. Dickson deserves hearty congratulations on his success along these lines and his future career will certainly be watched with interest. The school officials wish him every success in his new field of labor.

It has just been discovered that when Miss Jane McBeath, one of the new teachers, took the High School entrance exams. She won the Lieutenant Governor's medal and had the additional honor of being 3rd among over 1100 pupils of the province. She only missed 2nd place by three marks, being led by pupils from St. John and Fredericton. Miss McBeath was a pupil of L. R. Hetherington, one time principal of Hartland school.

The pupils, parents and ratepayers should note with increasing interest, pride and loyalty, all these things relating to the success and progress of their school. Remembering, pupils, it is your school; parents, they are your pupils and ratepayers you are putting your money into a real business proposition that will pay the very best and highest dividends.

HAY CROP IS FAIR AVERAGE

In spite of the drought, doubting and fears, the hay crop throughout Carleton and Victoria will be a fair one. Some farmers told The Observer they never had a heavier yield or better weather conditions. Of course the crop is better on low, flat lands, and the report that many farmers will have to dispose of their herds to prevent them from starving to death is not at all applicable to the upper St. John valley.

The grain crop is certain to be very light as the stock is short and the heads were stunted before the drought broke.

On the whole potatoes are looking good, and those who have opened hills in large fields report many potatoes to the hill, good size and good formation. Bugs and the dry weather favorable to their well-being, and they are therefore abundant. On the other hand farmers and the dry weather favors the speedy action of their spraying solution so the war between bugs and poison is evenly waged. There will be no danger of rust as long as the weather keeps dry.

CHAUTAUQUA TICKETS TRANSFERABLE

Chautauqua tickets are transferable. In spite of the fact that an article last week stated they were not transferable, it has since been learned that they are transferable to members of a family or to a number who have clubbed together and bought a season ticket. One thing must be thoroughly understood: two people may not enter the tent as one ticket, but if a family or a group of friends go together, another tomorrow afternoon, John in the evening and sister Sue the next day—all on the same ticket. But none may go together on the same ticket. Remember that the price of a Chautauqua season ticket—$2.50, pays for the admission for 12 entertainments; and remember that if you were to hear the Bohemian girl or any of several other beautiful numbers in a large city the price for such entertainment and instruction would for a single admission cost you as much as a whole season ticket would in Hartland. If you buy a season ticket and attend only one or two of the entertainments you have enjoyed those entertainments cheaper than you could have in any other way.

Large cities have entertainments equal to our Chautauqua almost every day in the year. Single admission cost from $1.00 to $4.00. This year there has brought to Hartland the most classical, musical and hi-tonic entertainment it is possible to get together and you are brought in touch with this rarely exciting and educational atmosphere: 12 seasons for only $2.50—12 times for a trifle more than 26 cents for each entertainment. Secure your seats at the earliest opportunity, don't delay. Seats will never be cheaper, but good seats will be more difficult to be obtained if you put the matter off. Ask any ticket seller, or communicate with A. W. Kyle, Hartland, N. B.

WHAT GRAND FALLS SAYS

The Hartland team came here Monday night for their regular league game and lost it by forfeit. In the fourth inning, of what was to be a seven inning game, Kyle, the Hartland centre-fielder, came to bat with two men down and a man on first. The F. F. pitcher tossed up a doozy to him and Kyle, thinking it an easy one decided to take it on the shoulder, which he did. The umpire decided he shouldn't take first on the play, and Kyle objected to the decision. It looked to all present as if Kyle took the ball intentionally and didn't get out of the way of it when he could have done so. At any rate the umpire motioned Kyle back to the plate and he refused to stay there. Then the umpire gave the Hartland boys five minutes to continue the game. They refused to carry on and left the field after which the umpire awarded the game to Grand Falls, 5-0.

FARMERS PICNIC AT GRAND FALLS

The First Annual Picnic of the United Farmers of New Brunswick August 3 and 4, 1921

At Grand Falls Wells-in-Rocks picnic grounds—a heavy welcome is extended to all, old and young. There will be all kinds of old time features to make things interesting. A dancing contest of old-time French jig dancing will take place, open to all, ladies and gentlemen. Three prizes will be given to winners. You will see dancers from 10 to 65 years of age. There will be platforms erected for dancing and waiting, which will continue all day and evening. Good music will be in attendance.

An old-fashioned tug-of-war will take place—eight on each side. Grand Falls is open to all comers. This will be exciting. Base-ball games each afternoon.

There will be speakers to interest the farmer, who will tell of the progress and future possibilities of the farmers of New Brunswick.

Prof. Morrell has been engaged to perform on a wire fifty feet in the air. He will perform difficult feats while in the air. This man performed on a wire across the gorge at Grand Falls in 1904.

All are requested to bring their lunch baskets the same as an old fashioned picnic, but we will be prepared to accommodate those who cannot bring their lunches. Good beans baked in a bean hole will be on sale. Admission to grounds will be only 25c.

KNOCKED OUT BY LIGHTNING

On Monday a severe electrical storm passed over accompanied by fierce wind, in some localities hail. Little damage is reported, but one mighty bolt appeared to encompass Hartland and knock the out of everything that was metal.

George Moores, employed in a bridge construction, was sawing a stick of timber when the flash came and he was completely knocked out and remained unconscious for the space of 15 minutes. He was carried to the company's office and Dr. Belyea was summoned. After half an hour Mr. Moores was able to be driven home.

NEW ENGINE WORKING

The new Fairbanks-Morse engine recently purchased for the town has been installed in the pumping station and is working in first-class manner. This engine is after the Diesel type, and does not require batteries or magnets. It is of 15 horse power capacity and operates the pump easily, forcing into the mains 14,500 gallons per hour. In the present dry conditions 8 hours operation of the pump each day keeps the reservoir filled. The cost of operating the plant with the new engine is just one half that of the old.

WINDSOR WHISPERINGS

The Farmers' picnic on Orser's hill was well attended and a decided success.

A concert given by the Missionary Society on the evening of June 28 was good. Nearly $50 was raised, making it possible for us to send $100 to India to help the work on there.

On June 30, Mrs. C. P. Wason arrived home from Woodstock where she underwent an operation at Dr. Prescott's hospital. She is gaining nicely.

On July 13 Raymond Dickinson and Miss May Stoddard were united in marriage. The people of Windsor gave them the usual hearty welcome. They will reside here.

Our genial young blacksmith had the bad luck of losing his home by fire, so we are out of a blacksmith shop for a while.

Whooping cough is the order of the day. Mrs. Henry Smith has been real ill with it, having taken a cold as well. Manzer Prosser's whole family has it—his wife, mother and six children; also, Wm. Forrest's three children, Clifford Dickinson's two, J. E. Tedford's two, one at Frank Orser's and two at Robert Faulkner's. Several others seem to be taking it.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson of Wakeke spent several days here with his mother, Mrs. Geo. Robinson, and relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Orser made several days visit with their daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Dickinson calling on old neighbors and friends.

Mrs. Porter is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Shaw, and sister, Mrs. D. McKinnis.

Buy an oil stove at Carr's and save money. It's cheaper than burning wood, and Oh! the comfort.

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" Made Her Well, Strong and Vigorous

MADAME ARTHUR BEAUCHER
806 Carleton St., Montreal.

"I suffered terribly from Constipation and Dyspepsia for many years. I felt pains after eating and had gas, constant headache, and was unable to sleep at night. I was getting so thin that I was frightened and saw several physicians who, however, did not seem able to help me.

At last a friend advised me to take 'Fruit-a-lives'. I did so and soon I felt some relief. I continued with 'Fruit-a-lives' and in a short time, the Constipation was banished, I felt no more pains or headache or the disagreeable sensations that follow dyspepsia. Now I am well, strong and vigorous."

Lloyd George Says—

Lloyd George referred to Mr. J. Hugh Edwards, the future speaker of the approaching Chautauque, as "one of the most brilliant orators in the land." Coming from Lloyd George, who knows from experience what effective speaking means, this is high praise.

Coming directly to America especially for this Chautauque engagement, Mr. Edwards will bring a most intimate report of the English viewpoint on affairs of international interest and especially on those pertaining particularly to the British and American peoples.

Mr. Edwards' position as a member of parliament and the official biographer of Lloyd George puts him in direct contact with British affairs and makes him peculiarly qualified to discuss with authority his subject—"Wanted a New World."

TENNIS CLUB TEA

On Friday evening on the lawn at the home of Martha McCollom, a most enjoyable tennis tea was held. Those present were the following: Misses Mary Carr, Helen Plummer, Clara Hagerman, Hilda Boyer, Sarah Tedlie, Mabel Morgan, Kathleen Kennedy, Ruth Boyer, Jennie Boyer, Martha McCollom, Sarah Currie, Evelyn Tedlie, Viola Britton, Ada Boyd; Messrs. After tea all adjourned to the tennis court and a number of sets were

Nervous Breakdown

The effect of poor health is disastrous to an ambitious body. Many a man has failed in his life's aim through the inability of his system to stand the strain. His nerves give way—confidence leaves him, and he becomes a physical wreck.

HAWKER'S NERVE & STOMACH TONIC

is the reliable remedy that builds up the nervous system, increases the richness of the blood and gives new vitality, vigor and strength to the body.

A bottle of this wonderful remedy will prove to you its curative powers.

Better Than—

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"

If you remember anything about last year's Chautauque program, you have not forgotten how "Red" and everybody else in the tent laughed and laughed, and left over the play, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." And you said, "I wish I could see it over again." You didn't mean that; you meant, "I wish I could see another one just as good."

Well, it's coming! "It Pays to Advertise" has more laughs than "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." Do you believe "it pays to advertise"? Some people don't. Do you eat hens' eggs? The leading character in "It Pays to Advertise" says you eat hens' eggs because when the hen lays an egg, she advertises her product, and when a duck does the same thing, she keeps quiet about it. Hence, you know about hens' eggs and eat them. Anything in that? Come see the play before you decide.

A competent cast, under the personal direction of Elizabeth B. Oliver, whom you all remember for her parts in the "Fortune Hunter," "The Man from Home," and "Rebecca," will present it. Special scenery and costumes will add the artistic touches. Have your plans made not to miss it. It's a big feature of the entire week's program at Chautauque.

DEATH OF WILL TOMPKINS AT EAST FLORENCEVILLE

On July 12 East Florenceville lost one of its oldest and most respected residents in the death of William Tompkins. Mr. Tompkins, who was predeceased by his wife, Sarah, nine years ago, was born April 15, 1846, in East Florenceville, where he resided all his life. He was married in Woodstock by Rev. Mr. McKee, father of Judge McKee, who was a witness at the marriage. He joined the Baptist church at East Florenceville about forty-five years ago and was deacon for a number of years. He also taught the Young Men's Bible class for about thirty years and was always a very active and faithful member of the church to which he belonged.

Mr. Tompkins represented the Parish of Peel at the Municipal Council for twenty-five years and was presented with a gold headed cane in token of appreciation of his valuable services in this respect. He was a liberal in politics until the Riel rebellion, which, together with the railway and land policy of Sir J. A. McDonald, had the effect of changing his political views and he was always a staunch supporter of the conservative party afterward. He was always found very active in anything pertaining to the welfare of the community in which he lived and to know Mr. Tompkins was to like and respect him. He leaves to mourn, one son, Frank L., and three daughters, Mrs. W. W. Melville, Mrs. L. A. Simonson and Mrs. J. A. McIsaac, all of East Florenceville. Rev. E. B. McLatchey, B. A., B. D., of Moncton, conducted the funeral service.

Cataract Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarrhal Deafness requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE LIFE

A Dangerous Period Through Which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

to carry women safely through the Change of Life.

"It is with pleasure that I write of you, thanking you for what your wonderful medicine has done for me. I was passing through the Change of Life and had a displacement and weakness so that I could not stand on my feet and other annoying symptoms. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the first bottle helped me, so I got more and I am now doing my housework. Your medicine is certainly woman's friend and you may use this testimonial as you choose." Mrs. Mary Lister of Adrian, Mich., adds her testimony to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is said that middle age is the most trying period in a woman's life, and going to modern methods of living set one woman in a thousand passes through this perfectly natural change without experiencing very annoying symptoms.

These annoying spells, the dreadful hot flashes, that send the blood rushing to the head until it seems as though it would burst, and the faint feeling that follows, as if the heart were going to stop, these sinking or dizzy spells are all symptoms of a nervous condition, and indicate the need for a special medicine.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It acts in such a manner as to build up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the common ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative and often prevents serious troubles.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

The fire in the grate burned happily, purring away just as if coal didn't cost somewhere around $10 a ton in Kenboro, and Lucile watched the thin blue flames that quivered over the top of the fire like dancing furies.

Roger Frear watched her adoringly. They had only been engaged a short time and each day he discovered new and entrancing beauties about his betrothed. He offered her a bright penny on the end of his finger and she flipped it away and turned bright, serious eyes upon him.

"I'm thinking about Aunt Barbara," she said. "She's not so old and she is still sweet and pretty in her own way—and she ought to get married."

"Of course she could if she wanted to," agreed Roger, who was in the state of mind where all of Lucile's relatives shone in the girl's reflected glory. "I heard my Uncle Don used to be sweet on Miss Barbara."

"Really?" gasped Lucile. "I believed I was the only one who guessed there was an old attachment between them. I wonder what parted them?"

"Perhaps he was scared stiff at the idea of proposing to a girl, and it died a natural death," said Roger, wise in his own recent experience.

"Were you afraid to ask me, Roger?" asked the girl shyly.

He shook his handsome head. "You helped me out a bit, you know," he confessed.

Lucile stiffened into hauteur and moved to the other end of the old sofa. "I was unaware that I helped one teeny bit," she protested. "Are you sorry that I didn't discourage you—or refuse you? It is not too late now!"

Roger slid along the sofa until his arms went around her proud young form. "Darling, you were perfect," he said, and she knew he meant it, "but don't let us quarrel over some foolish word, and perhaps be like Miss Barbara and Uncle Don, lonely and unhappy."

The girl's face changed to one of eagerness. "You are right, dear, our love is great and we must not fail to measure up to it. How can we help those two old young people to be happy? You really, really believe Mr. Trevor cares yet?"

"Seems to, somehow. Barks out something now and then about her being a fine woman, and even said you did not measure up to Miss Barbara's beauty when she was your age—rot like that!"

"It's not rot and you know it, Roger Frear! I am proud to look like Aunt Bab and I should love to grow into a sweet middle-aged like her. Suppose—you send her a valentine and I'll send him one—they might think—you know?"

"Fine—let us go down to Mr. Potts' shop now." Bundled in furs the lovers walked briskly down the village street to a tiny stationer's shop in the center. Mr. Potts' shop had stood there for forty years, and the little old man had dispensed valentines and writing paper and other stationery to several generations of his fellow townspeople. Lucile and Roger found the old stationer all alone amid his depleted stock of valentines.

"The choicest have been selected, Mr. Frear," he explained.

"Haven't you got any old ones in stock? Not last year's or the year before that, but twenty or thirty years back—those dear old lace paper things?" asked Lucile with a winning smile.

Mr. Potts became thoughtful. "I desay I have," he admitted. "I don't sell out every year and there's a big box up in the loft here with a hodgepodge of valentines and greeting cards and such; there's cards with silk fringe all around, real beauties!"

"Let us see the box," said Roger. "I'll fetch it down, Mr. Potts."

"You'll get considerable dusty," said the old man, "but you're welcome to pull it down. Go up that ladder in the back room."

Presently Lucile and Roger were poring over cardboard boxes filled with old valentines which had not found a customer. The different layers marked the changes in the taste of the people, but at last they came to the ones they wanted. Delicate and fairylike in structure, with rather stilted verses, the old love missives had a tender appeal. They picked out a dozen, and paid lavishly for them. Mr. Potts was so pleased that he put the remainder on his counter to help out his thinning stock.

"Let us go home and each select one to send—I hope the dears will be pleased," chattered Lucile as they passed the front of the shop window to look at the display.

"Look here!" whispered Roger as some one entered the shop. Lucile stared at the trim, dignified form of Mr. Donald Trevor approach the counter and poked a gloved finger among the valentines.

"He is! He is buying one—that great lace butterfly one—you know Aunt Bab is fond of butterflies!" whispered Lucile. "Oh, Roger—see—it is Aunt Barbara and she is going in—"

Barbara Near met Mr. Trevor in the middle of the shop and there was a moment's hesitation, and then a little formal greeting, which seemed to melt at once for Mr. Trevor displayed the valentine he had bought. Barbara blushed as he showed her the address on the envelope and she suddenly snatched the envelope and hugged it close to her heart. Donald stared incredulously, and then with a defiant glance at Mr. Potts, he tucked Barbara's hand under his arm and marched out of the store. The matchmakers fled down the street and landed breathlessly at either end of the sofa in the library.

"They won't want our valentines now," sighed Lucile happily.

"Let us send 'em to each other," declared Roger. "You can see it's never too late to send a valentine!"

The highest hill of England is the very noble gift made by Lord Leconfield to the men of Cumbria who fought in the war, and as a token of gratitude to those who gave their lives for the cause of the world's liberty. Truly a gift in the spirit of Ruskin and one which caused the Manchester Guardian to utter deepest appreciation—a gift, it says, through which "even we common people may get a momentary entry into the ecstasies of the poets and see the earth and everything in it mystically apparelled with the glory and the freshness of a dream." Scaw Fell Pike has the venerable distinction of being among the most ancient mountains of Europe, outdistancing the Alps in point of years.

Let us go home and each select one to send—I hope the dears will be pleased," chattered Lucile as they passed the front of the shop window to look at the display.

"Look here!" whispered Roger as some one entered the shop. Lucile stared at the trim, dignified form of Mr. Donald Trevor approach the counter and poked a gloved finger among the valentines.

"He is! He is buying one—that great lace butterfly one—you know Aunt Bab is fond of butterflies!" whispered Lucile. "Oh, Roger—see—it is Aunt Barbara and she is going in—"

Barbara Near met Mr. Trevor in the middle of the shop and there was a moment's hesitation, and then a little formal greeting, which seemed to melt at once for Mr. Trevor displayed the valentine he had bought. Barbara blushed as he showed her the address on the envelope and she suddenly snatched the envelope and hugged it close to her heart. Donald stared incredulously, and then with a defiant glance at Mr. Potts, he tucked Barbara's hand under his arm and marched out of the store. The matchmakers fled down the street and landed breathlessly at either end of the sofa in the library.

"They won't want our valentines now," sighed Lucile happily.

"Let us send 'em to each other," declared Roger. "You can see it's never too late to send a valentine!"

HAS THROWN HIS CRUTCHES AWAY

Halifax Man Was Unable To Walk For Rheumatism When He Began Taking Tanlac

"I had quit work, was unable to walk and thought the rheumatism had laid me out for good, but since taking Tanlac I have thrown my crutches away and simply feel like a new man entirely," said John Olsen, 44 Dresden Row, Halifax, N. S., who has been a seafaring man for the past forty years.

"For three years I was troubled with rheumatism. My legs ached from my knees to my feet and for weeks at a time I was unable to walk a step. My knees were swollen and stiff and at times my legs were as stiff as a board. My ankles and feet would swell up so bad I couldn't get my shoes on and the muscles in my legs felt like they were tied in knots. I had sharp, shooting pains all through my legs and a good night's rest was almost impossible. Whenever I was on the ship they had to lift me out of my bunk and carry me around like a child. Last September when we arrived in Sydney I had them carry me ashore and put me on the train for Halifax, and when I reached home there I couldn't walk a step.

"Well, while sitting around the house all the time I took to reading a good deal and each day I noticed the statements about Tanlac. So finally I decided to try it myself. The swelling and stiffness began to leave me and I was able to walk with the aid of crutches. I kept right on taking Tanlac until now I have thrown my crutches away, can walk as good as I ever could in my life and the pains and aches have all disappeared. My appetite has improved and I have picked up several pounds in weight, and am feeling better and stronger than I have in many years."

Distributing Immigrants

Settlers in Canada

A family group of settlers in Canada.

Two thousand immigrants have arrived in a single day at the port of Quebec. They have landed from three Canadian Pacific Ocean Liners; they have been inspected, examined and docketed by officials and inspectors — governmental and railway; their foreign money has been exchanged for Canadian currency; what remains is the process of distribution and assimilation?

Two thousand crowd the Government Immigration Hall, waiting to make another leg of their long journey.

They have come from Everywhere and are going to Everywhere. The map of Europe and of the British Isles are represented in this mass of humanity — sturdy Scandinavians from Northern Europe, dairy workers from Denmark, Poles by the group and family, fleeing from their war-torn country; all the new Little Lands created by the League of Nations have contributed their sons, as all the Central European countries in Ukrainian, Ruthenian, Czech, Slovak, and Russian. Switzerland and Italy are also represented in the composite crowd, all making a human inflow of a day that illustrates the mixture of races in this land of promise.

Another shipload follows those of the Corsican and Tunisian. The Melita brings an exclusively British army of immigrants, the latter covering the British Isles as the foreigners do Europe, while all the way from John O'Groats to the Land's End is heard from.

The Government is through with them and the Canadian Pacific Railway practically takes charge. Both unite in directing the big crowds to their respective trains. Long lines of cars — tourist, colonist and coaches — parallel the Hall, each clean and well-served for their occupation. Big panting locomotives are ready for their task. A large staff of officials and train men are on their job, keeping their heads as well as their tempers under strong temptation to lose both. Some of the newcomers are nervous and frightened, some are excited and fussy, and some are "feckless" in the word of a Scotch observer. Perhaps we would be, too, if we were in their place, a long way from home and not quite sure of tomorrow.

Carefully and cleverly the passengers are stowed away — the westward-bound in trains that will head direct for Winnipeg and all beyond to the going down of the sun; the Ontario ones are in trains billed to Toronto, for redistribution from that centre. Families are given cars to themselves, women folks are treated the same, and the single men have other cars to themselves, flocking together like birds of a feather. Many groups formed during the voyage and that have the same destination, are also permitted to keep in tact.

The women-filled cars are in charge of trained Government "conductresses" who render a sympathetic service in a hundred ways that only travelling women and girls can appreciate, especially where babies are present, as they are most numerous. This train after train is filled, but not more than to capacity, and started — a new experience in a new land for a majority of them, and as Quebec city is circled, and the old Province entered, the largest in all Canada, passing the quaint farmsteads of the habitants, all eyes are centred on the landscape and the New World. — F. Y.

Columbus Stood An Egg On End

But there is no record that he was much of a juggler otherwise. To stand an egg on end is quite a stunt, but not if you know how, as Columbus did.

To keep half a dozen or more hoops rolling about the floor in different directions is some stunt, even if you know how. To make these hoops roll about the floor as though they were in grooves is no mean stunt, even if you do it every day in the week, except Sunday.

And that is what John Mangels, the hoop-juggling jester, who is the big attraction on Children's Afternoon at the coming Chautauqua, does. And that's not all he does by any means, but it's enough to make you and all other children from six to six-six want to see him do it. Be there at the Chautauqua tent on the last afternoon.

And before he begins his juggling there will be the big Junior Chautauqua Pageant by the children themselves. Their new pageant, written especially for this year, and especially for Chautauqua, will be the best yet. It is called "Junior Holidays" and it's a winner.

Will you be at Chautauqua on the last afternoon? We hope so, for your sake.

What is a Recommendation Worth?

That depends very much upon who gives it. For instance, we recommend Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes" as the cheapest mileage you can buy.

And we know a lot about tires. We have to in our business.

Hence our recommendation should carry some weight, apart from the fact that we are benefiting to some extent by your custom.

We know that if you buy once, you will buy again—because you will find that our recommendation saves you money on mileage.

We will give you a guarantee with Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes" too—a guarantee that protects you against any defect in material or workmanship which may arise at any time in the life of the tire. And we will get you an adjustment on that basis should necessity arise, without quibble or red-tape. Drop in and let us show you Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes" to-day if you can.

BROKE ALL MULISH RECORDS

Animal Committed Suicide He Is the First of His Tribe Thus to Shuttle Off.

We are not prepared to accept without mental reservation the story from Brooklyn, that a mule, perhaps an expensive mule, committed suicide by plunging through the plate-glass front of an undertaker's office, after imbibing freely of 2.75 per cent beer. We know the mule, have known him from an early age, and we know the decimal stuff that passes for beer. That is to say, we have heard about it. No self-respecting mule—particularly if he came from Missouri—would drink 2.75 in the first place, and in the second place, if he did drink it it would not go to his head. It might go to his legs, his hindlegs, which are naturally of a nervous temperament, and likely to reach out every time. We can imagine no better way to put a "kick" in a brew than by first putting the brew in a mule.

The average mule is looking for an excuse for kicking, anyway. Feed him up on the beer of commerce and leave the rest to his natural predisposition. He will register disgust in the obvious way.

And then again mules never commit suicide. We have heard of men committing suicide by twisting the mule's tail, but the hybrid himself is much in love with life. There's even a rumor in the South and Southwest that mules never die; that, barring accidental dissolution, they live forever. Be that as it may, we do not recall that we ever saw a mule suffering from age, or that was feeble in his right hind shoe. —New York Morning Telegraph.

MAGIC IN GOLD AND HUMOR

How Happy Combination of the Two Put End to "Run" on Famous English Bank.

A story is told, with some reservation, by a London paper, concerning the grandfather of the well-known Quaker peer, Lord Peckover. The story goes that, during a run on the bank of which he was a principal, at one time known as that of Gurney, Birkbeck, Peckover & Co., he exhibited, within sight of the counter, bags full of gold, surmounted by a peck measure, also filled with sovereigns. "You see," he explained to the depositors anxious to draw their balances, "that there is enough money for you all, and a peck over." This is said to have terminated the run. Such is the magic of gold, and of humor. One feels by no means certain that stacks of "sovereigns" would have achieved the same happy result. Or, to revert to the time of George III, when the sum of twopenny was represented by a solid two-ounce coin, would a large pile of these weighty "cartwheels" have allayed the fears of the small depositor? Not even a ware houseful! —Christian Science Monitor.

Hope Not All Abandoned.

Miss Threepence was watching the grizzly bear in his new cage to the northwest of the lion house. A recently constructed chain of bear and other animal cages there has added immensely to the attraction of the place.

Somewhere threw the old grizzly a peanut, and then another, but both nuts hit the bars and fell just outside the cage. The bear reached his paw through and tried to scoop the tempting nuts in, but his long, yellow claws seemed to be in his way.

He had to use his claws as a sort of rake, and the spaces between the prongs of his rake proved too wide, so the peanuts slipped through.

Miss Threepence was most sympathetic. The poor bear couldn't get his peanuts. But there was yet hope. The keeper would be around shortly with the bear's dinner, and then— "Maybe he can get it with a fork or a 'poon," she said.—Washington Star.

Didn't Work Out Right.

A languid swell was visiting a charming young society lady, and as they sat on either side of the fire his heart was full of the burning desire to say something not only complimentary, but brilliantly flattering. So, after revolving the matter in his mind, he said: "Ah, Miss Little, why are those fire-tongs so like me?"

He meant her to guess, or ask him to tell her, "because they were prostrate at her feet," or something of that kind. Miss Little, looking solemnly demure, said she didn't know, unless it was because they had two thin legs and a brass head.

He was groping blindly for the front door before she had recovered from the shock of her own volley.

"The Woman Who Fed London."

One of the most interesting figures brought into the limelight of publicity, during England's great railway strike was Miss E. M. Hopwood, now called "the woman who fed London." Miss Hopwood was secretary to a large commercial firm in the north of England, and her business ability was so well recognized that when the ministry of food was organized, she was called to the service of the government. She scored such success in her emergency warwork that she was appointed at the beginning of the railway strike as food distributing officer for the whole metropolitan area.

Depends on the Result.

"Don't you admire determination in a man's character?" "It depends. If it brings success I praise it as splendid perseverance. If failure, I denounce it as confounded obstinacy." —Boston Transcript.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Saturday evening was a gala one for Centreville and a record breaking crowd in attendance. In addition to the usual large crowd of frequenters that throng a Saturday night town, large number were attracted by the ice cream carnival put on by the members of the U. B. church. The town green had been specially arranged for the occasion and a provision of Japanese lanterns placed through the grove made the place both cheerful and attractive. The Bridgewater Cornet Band under the able leadership of Rev. O. Clark had offered their generous services for the evening and how they did spend their good old Yankee wind! They played extraordinarily well and any of our local bands had better look to their laurels or they will be outclassed. Everyone had a good time and got full of ice cream and angel cake. Had any of them passed hence on Saturday night, they would have been transferred not to the land of angel cake but to the ultimate home of the gutton. At any rate all were happy and went home satisfied. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the visitors who said they were well repaid for their visit by the most hospitable treatment that was accorded them and added that they were coming again.

The ladies of the W. W. G. will hold another pantry sale on the square on Saturday evening, July 30, at 8 o'clock.
A fine opportunity to procure the finest sort of cooking of all kinds.

FINE "GRIDIRON" AT COBLENZ

American Soldiers Stationed There Have Facilities for Almost Every Kind of Sport.

Elaborate preparations were made at Coblentz, Germany, for the football season. Grounds and stadiums which were only partly finished a year ago have been made permanent playing fields, and many of them compare favorably with the best college gridirons in the United States.

The most elaborately finished ground is in Coblentz, known as "Carnival Island." It was on this ground that the Third army championships were decided last season, but the ground at that time was not in as good condition as it is today. Neither were there proper facilities, such as dressing rooms.

plause.

Rev. B. C. Bubar of Blaine, Me., exchanged pulpits with the Rev. H. R.
Bell on Sunday and preached here in the morning and evening. His efforts were well received. At the evening service Miss Hilda Page sang a solo.

ment on Saturday, 30th inst.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Gallagher and Miss Helen Gallagher returned on Tuesday from Cortland, N. Y. where they have spent some time on a visit gave a birthday party for her on her lawn Wednesday afternoon and evening. A most enjoyable time was participated in by all present.

Suitable bleachers to accommodate 5,000 spectators have been built, and there also are a large number of prop-

Not only at Coblentz are there grounds available for the soldiers, but at Andernach, Montabaur, and Neu-

PROBABLY THOUGHT A LOT

But Really, Under the Circumstances,
There Was Nothing the Actor-Manager Could Say.

The late Oscar Hammerstein, who had a genius for advertising his theatrical enterprises, used to tell a story about an English actor-manager's attempt to follow his example.

"My conferee," Mr. Hammerstein would say, "was having a new theater built in London. Casting about for some good way to advertise it, he decided that an admirable scheme would be to have the workmen while excavating for the foundation come across Roman antiquities. So he stole down to the operation at dead of night and deposited a number of costly, genuine Roman antiquities just below the surface of the spot being excavated.

"The next morning he arrived in haste to hear the news of the great find and report it to the journals. Seeing that the men had already dug well below his hidden treasure, he said:
"Good morning, foreman. Anything interesting this morning?"

"No, sir, not a thing, sir," the foreman answered.

"The actor-manager looked at the bulging pockets of the workmen and said nothing. What could he say?"

Isn't One of 'Em Rich?

"Never married, eh? Well, my boy, some day the girl will come along whom you can love."

"That isn't the trouble. I know four or five now."—Boston Transcript.

Too True.

"Should a girl marry for love or money?"

"Well, it's a question. You get married on both propositions."
