PREDICTS BLOODY REVOLUTION THE SCHEDULE A FAIR ONE

Remarkable Oration of Russian of Nihilist Kalaieff.

St. Petersburg, Wednesday, June 21 .-The following is a literal translation of the speech delivered by M. Ivanhoff, the celebrated Russian lawyer, at the trial of Kaleieff, the murderer of the Grand Duke Sergius. The proceeding was before a special tribunal composed of members of the ruling senate and was held behind closed doors at Moscow. Ivanoff was subsequently arrested for discussing the trial at a meeting of barristers. His speech has been circulated by hundreds of thousands by the Social-Revolutionaries.

"Senators, in this trial two great events stand out before all else, the death of the Grand Duke Sergius and the penalty to which Kaleieff must submit. The facts are only too clear. They admit of no argument. I desire only to submit a few observations upon the character of Kaleieff's act, May Kaleieff, whose life is in your hands. pardon me if I lack the words and moral force to fulfill the duty assigned

"It is, senators, in a peculiarly difficult moment that you are called upon to judge this case. An unrestrainable political movement, as a result of the economic, political and military system, has produced the present condition of affairs in Russia. Every section of the empire is in revolt; workingmen have perished by hundreds in the streets of the capital. In the smoke of burning estates the peasant is looking for the solution of the conditions which are grinding him down. The in-telligentsia is martyrizing itself. Two great forces are at war; the old re-gime, established centuries ago, and young Russia, which aspires to liberty. Hope that this struggle can end paci-

But it is not cowardly murder. The social revolutionaries understand very-well that it is impossible for the masses people with pitchforks and flails In their hands to destroy the bastile defended as it is in our time. Jan. 22. with its bloody story, furnishes eloquent confirmation of the impotency of the people against bayonets and bullets. The social revolutionaries can only oppose machine guns with re-volvers and bombs—the barricades of the twentieth century. It is true they implacable enemies of the present regime, and they do not ask for themselves mercy. They face death sentences as men court death on the field of battle. The procurer is right, They do not only menace the lives of others, but they throw away their own question for consideration was that of with the recklessness of madness. They make others perish, but they perish themselves. Kaleieff will die also, and I have only one request to make of you: do not look upon him as a criminal, but as an enemy after the battle, and in pronouncing your verdict, remember that in the future, the bloody sunrise of which is already up-on the horizon, all the past will be weighed in the balance. Do not make that balance too heavy; it already contains enough blood.'

WHITE PLAGUE IN ONTARIO

Dread Disease Claimed Almost 200 Victims During May. Toronto, June 20.—The report of the nedical health officer for the Province of Ontario was issued this morning, show-ing that the general health of the people was slightly better this May than last, A slight decrease in mortality is noted, as is also the terrible work of the white plague—tuberculosis. Below is Dr. Hodgett's report: The total deaths from all causes reported from 738 municipalities are 2 epresenting a population of 1,980,887, mak ing the mortality rate 13.1 per cent in 1,000, and for the corresponding period last year we received 759 returns from a population of 2,038,033, which reported 2,331 deaths, making the death rate 13.7 per The number of deaths from all the infectious diseases was 40 less than in May last year. Diphtheria and scarlet fever showed but little change, while small-pox returns gave an increase of 20 cases. Measles have prevailed to a greater extent than any of the other diseases, and in some places have become epidemic, the number of cases running as righ as 400 in one municipality. Typhoid has reached a very low point, only 18 deaths being re-The extent to which tuberculosis exists in the Province is most appalling, when we consider it has caused 196 deaths for the month of May, or 36 more than all the cluding typhoid, and these figures by no means include all the deaths that this fatal disease has caused, as some division registrars fail to make their returns in time to be tabulated. ELEPHANTS IN A CREEK

Pete Barlow Takes Out Seventeen and Gets Two Baths Himself. New York, June 20.—There was a great tide in Coney Island Creek yes-

The last stragglers from the Saturday night crowd were just making their way New Yorkward and the early when silently and stealthily in single file seventeen elephants with Pete in Luna Park and headed for the creek at Neptune avenue. With each elehant was a keeper. The procession nearly developed into a stampede when the animals got near the water. Little June, the baby of the herd, gave Mayhard, her keeper, a particularly interesting trip. When the kid reached Sea Breeze avenue she started, with a trumpeting that could be heard for lered to shoot all dogs, running at blocks, across country on a run, with Maynard hot on the trail. A branch of the creek crosses Sea Breeze avenue, and into it June, trunk first, fell with a splash. Maynard, in his excitement, est his foothold on the bank and fol-owed. Both emerged wet and dripping in the other side. They say that the elephants all love Barlow, and this was plainly evidenced when on getting into the creek the seventeen simultaneously filled their trunks with water and turned seventeen streams on their little trainer. Pete says that this proved the unselfishness of the elephants. They did not vant to bask in the water themselves and have him stand dry and solitary on the bank. The elephants' bath lasted for perhaps an hour and before was finished every one of the seventeen keepers had been well and thoroughly ducked. Barlow announces that

The Imperial Commercial Congress.

The party of Canadian manufactur ers, delegates to the congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire were welcomed by King Edward on Monday at Windsor Castle. They will have a good time in the old land. They will be dined and wined with the elaborate rites of British hospitality, which is the finest thing of its kind. If the delegates keep their eyes open they may see many things in the world's France and Great Britain with the obworkshop which will be of practical value to them. They will meet many of the British captains of industry. There will be a fine display of fraternal feeling, and much after-dinner oratory on the theme of imperial unity. When the congress gets down to business, however, British and Canadian manufacturers will find that while they are brother Britons, they are also commercial rivals. Preferential trade is sure to be the piece de resistance. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has assured Mr. Chamberlain of its Franco-German rapprochement. He sympathy and moral support. But sees France's ally, Russia, is a condiwhat if some blunt Britisher puts this tion of helplessness, and he feels himsympathy to the test by asking the self for the time being master of con-Canadian delegates how far they are tinental Europe. France's one prop is prepared to widen the opportunities of the friendship of Great Britain, and British manufacturers in the Canadian ordinary good faith requires that Great market? We can see the congress Britain shall lend moral support to her splitting on the rock of the quid pro quo. What answer, for instance, would the representatives of the Canadian woolen industry give? Or the repre sentatives of the Canadian cotton industry? Both are bemoaning British competition and clamoring for higher barriers against the products of Lancastershire and Yorkshire. Is there a Canadian manufacturer in any line willing to lower the duties against his British rival? The majority of the Canadian manufacturers believe in a tariff for protective purposes. This probably explains their admiration of Mr. Chamberlain, whom they hail as a convert to their faith, and the arch-enemy of Cobdenism. The object of their regard is Mr. Chamberlain, the protectionist, not Mr. Chamberlain, the advocate of imperial preferential trade. It will be well if that point is made clear to the British people. Many of them have been misled by Mr. Chamberlain's rhetoric and believe the colonies are ripe for exploitation by the British manufacturers. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and various boards of trade and other organizaons, have encouraged this delusion by passing resolutions which have only a sentimental value.

The British Cotton Industry.

Mr. Chamberlain's tariff commission has issued its first report on the textile trades. It deals with Britain's greatest industry the cotton industry. The gross value of the output in 1904 was £98,000,000, and the exports, exclusive of yarns, have increased 25 per cent in value since 1891-95. The increase of cotton exports from other countries has averaged 66 per cent in the same period. The export of yarns from Great Britain has diminished 33.1 per cent to all countries. The report notes a diminution in the number of persons engaged in the British cotton industry, but it is admitted that this may be due to the fact that operatives can now tend more lcoms and spindles on the average than formerly, while fewer children are working half time The commission finds that foreign competition of an unfair kind has as yet only made itself felt in the home market, except in certain classes of finished goods and small wares. Here are some of the conclusions reached by the com-

(1) While trade with the continent is declining or stationary, trade with British colonies and dependencies is increasing, and has been encouraged by colonial preferential tariffs. (2) While the home trade shows no sign of permanent and substantial increase foreign competition in the home market of an unfair character has not so far assumed such proportions as to call for remedial measures, except in regard to certain finished products. (3) No considerable expansion of the trade in cotton goods can be looked for with those foreign countries which manufacture for themselves and impose tariffs; in existing conditions the decline which has commenced, is likely to become more marked; but a moderate reduction of foreign tariffs would do much to increase the volume of our trade. Such reductions can only be secured by using a general British tariff to obtain concessions from foreign countries. (4) In regard to neutral markets, some decline of trade is, in existing conditions, unavoidable. This decline may be postponed and perhaps prevented by remedying the adverse conditions of competition between the United Kingdom and foreign countries. These conditions are largely the result of the tariff policy of foreign countries and tend to increase costs to the British manufacturer by restriction of his output and his consequent inability to keep his machinery running full time. (5) The British colonial markets are capable of almost indefinite expansion, and, in our opinion, the adoption of a satisfactory scheme preferential arrangements within the Empire would secure the largest proportion of this growth for British

How do Canadian cotton manufacturers like the last clause? The commissioners, elsewhere in the report, express the opinion that the markets in British colonies and possessions "are the only markets open to British cotton spinners and manufacturers which are capable of great expansion." But the Cantain market will not be open the Canadian market will not be open to them if the Canadian cotton manufacturers have their way. Undoubtedly, there will be a great expansion

TWO EDITIONS DAILY - WEEKLY. in taking a position which ignores the protectonist sentiment of the colonies?

The Moroccan Question.

The Moroccan situation is more reassuring. It seems now certain that France will agree to Germany's demand for a conference of the powers. The French Government is endeavoring to restrict the scope of the convention, or obtain from Germany some recognition, in advance, of France's paramount position in Morocco. It is said that Germany concedes France's special rights, but desires a formal guarantee of the integrity of Morocco and an equality of commercial opportunity for all nations.

The general impression is that the Kaiser has deliberately affronted ject of straining the Anglo-French entente. He might have raised the Moroccan question at a more seasonable time and in a less flamboyant manner. He chose to wait for a year after the Anglo-French agreement, when it could be reasonably assumed that the policy outlined in that agreement would meet with no obstruction. There is a shrewd suspicion that the Kaiser is piqued by the growing amity between Great Britain and France, which has defeated his cherished design of a neighbor in the present crisis.

The Undone Things.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.] Tisn't the thing you do, dear, His the thing you do, dear,
Which gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write, The flower you might have sent, dear, Are your haunting ghosts tonight.

The stone you might have lifted Out of the brother's way, The bit of heartsome counsel You were hurried too much to say; The loving touch of the hand, dear, The gentle and winsome tone, That you have no time nor thought for.
With troubles enough of your own.

The little acts of kindness, So easily out of mind: These chances to be angels Which every mortal finds. They come in night and silence, Each chill, reproachful wraith, When hope is faint and flagging, When hope is faint and flagging, And a blight has dropped on faith.

For life is all too short, dear. And sorrow is all too great To suffer our slow compassion That tarries until too late. And it's not the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone Which gives you the bit of heartache At the setting of the sun.

Cause. The same trouble will therefore recur again till that Cause is removed permanently. The chief cause of Constipation and Indigestion is a weakness of the Muscles that contract the Intestines and Bowels. This contraction is what propels Food onward, and squeezes into it the Digestive Juices formed by the body to digest food naturally. When these Contractile Muscles become weakened from lack of Exercise, or other reasons, Constipation sets in, and will grow more rapidly the more Cathartics are given to relieve each emergency.

The best cure for Constipation, or Indigestion, is simply lots of Out-door Exercise, to stimulate the Muscles of the Bowels as well as the Muscles of the Legs and Arms. But, few people have the time, or Inclination, to take sufficient of this Athletic Exercise.

Cascarets are practically to the Bowel Muscles what a Massage and Cold Bath are to the Athletic Muscles.

They stimulate the Bowel Muscles to contract, expand, and squeeze the Digestive Juices out of food eaten. This contraction is what propels Food on to its

THE MACHINERY OF THE CAMP

Smooth Running as Well Oiled 1898 Piece of Mechanism—Some Gossip From the Heights.

The casual observer in civilian attire who wanders through the big camp on Carling's Heights does not realize how complicated and vet how smoothly-running is the machinery that moves the whole and keeps it in order. No government, imperial federal, provincial or municipal, has such a complete and orderly system under its control as has the commandant of large army. And a military camp, of

The main reason for this fact is that there is no such thing as representative government in an army, and th rank and file have no responsibility further than to obey orders, whether these be right or wrong. One man is at the top, and he, supposed to be the most competent of all, is unchecked in his actions by any advisory board, parliament or ballot, He, in theory at least, has supreme sway over every individual in his command.

From the office of Col. Peters. D. O. C. and camp commandant, there are issued every morning what are called "divisional orders." These are distributed around among the various corps. and guide the actions of the camp for the day. The divisional orders are incorporated in the brigade orders, issued from the quarters of Col. MacDonald and Col. Davidson, commanders of the infantry and cavalry brigades, respectively. Each of the three infantry regiments and the three batteries has a regimental staff clerk, who goes to the brigade headquarters each afternoon about 4:30 o'clock and gets the brigade orders, which are then taken to the various corps. and incorporated ir the regimental orders. The latter are read to the soldiers before they are dismissed at the close of the day.

Moscrip and his staff worked hard and successfully to get the regiment into first-class shape before entering camp. The Twenty-eighth is favored by having in its personnel many energetic business and professional men from the towns of St. Marys. Mitchell, Listowel and Stratford. Many a word of praise has been heard from the other bell, manager of the Merchants' Bank at Stratford, who although in camp for the first time, has the running gear of the regiment in first-class order. Everybody Busy.

This morning the Thirtieth and Twenty-ninth Regiments went through some good regimental drill on the heights, while the Twenty-eighth was practicing at the cove ranges. The Thirtieth, or the Wellington Rifles, as it is better known, is by far the largest regiment of the two camps. Nearly all the men have service uniforms of blue canvas, and look very cool when on drill. Most of the Twenty-ninth were still wearing their red serges, but all have wide straw hats of a very comfortable make, around which red bands are worn. The clause recommending the appointment of a field secretary for the diocese evoked considerable discussion, taken part in by Ven. Archdeacon Young, Dean Davis, Rural Dean Hicks, Archdeacon Richardson, Rev. Dr. Mc-Kenzie, Canons Downie and Craig, On the clause referring to normal lectures, the grant was continued for next year. On a subsequent clause, Rev. Dyson Hague referred to the great problem of how to get children to church and Sunday school, There was a great lack on the part of parents, who should accustom their children to attend. He had lately visited a Sunday school in Wingham in the parish of Rural Dean Lowe, which was a model in all respects, and the best he had seen. He referred to methods adopted for bringing in scholars. He was informed that in a school not five miles from his own, in order to increase the attend-
