TRUE LOVE'S PASSION.

CHAPTER XIV.
True Love's Passion.

"The earl," he said, "your father, does not like me?"

She was silent, and he sat for a moment looking on the ground.

"He has forbidden you to know me—speak to me?"

"Yes," she said, painfully. "I am—sorry—"

Her lips trembled, and she could not continue.

"Why?" he said. "Ah, I know! I had forgotten—forgive me—the difference between us; but he has not forgotten. You are the daughter of an earl, and I—"

He broke off, for she had turned to him at last, a look of entreaty on her face.

CHAPTER XV.
The Teeth of the Tiger.

"I do not think of that!" she said, almost inaudibly.

He rose and stood beside her, all his soul in his eyes.

"Ah, how can I help loving you?" he exclaimed. "You do not think of that! No! And, if—suppose that some day I could overcome the earl's dislike to me; suppose some day that I could induce him to consent—"

He saw the color rise to her face, saw the light glowing in her eyes, and the restraint he had put upon himself gave way.

"Norah," he said, in a low voice, "it is not for him to dispose of our lives. Give me your answer! Will you let me love you? Will you try and love me in return? Will you be my wife?"

"It is impossible," she faltered, as if the words cost her an almost superhuman effort.

He stood still, his eyes bent on the ground, fighting for self-control, fighting down the passion that threatened to master him; then he sank down on the seat again.

Norah did not dare to look at him, and, with a whispered "Good-by," was turning to leave him, when a brush slipped from the front of the easel. He stooped to pick it up, forgetting his injured arm, but Norah bent and got it, and was placing it on the easel when he caught her hand and looked up at her.

"Ah," he said, "I cannot let you go without some word less hard, less cruel than that!"

She had withstood his pleading voice, though every note of it had found an echo in her heart, but she could not withstand the touch of his hand. As he looked up at her he saw her face change, a wave of passionate tenderness seemed to pass over it, her lips quivered, and, with a gesture as if she were obeying an irresistible impulse, she held out her other hand to him, and, seeing that he could not take both, she let it fall with the simple eloquence of love upon his arm.

"You love me," he murmured.

"Norah?"

She met his ardent gaze with her frank, trustful one, and steadily, though her face crimsoned.

"Yes—I love you!" she whispered.

He put his arm round her, and drew her toward him, passionately, yet reverently.

"My darling, my queen!" his voice seemed to sing. "In spite of all, you love me! Oh, my darling, if you knew how full of love my heart is, how happy—"

He broke off, and, raising her hand, kissed it passionately, tenderly; then, as her head fell upon his shoulder, he pressed his lips to hers.

Norah did not shrink, but her face grew pale, for it was the first time a kiss of love such as Cyril's had touched her lips, and she trembled.

"Give me one kiss in return!" he pleaded, and, after a moment's pause, she touched his cheek.

Casper, lying beside them in the bracken, watched them sleepily, the great trees above them turned the gentle breeze into a song of love, the sunlight fell upon them like a benediction, and all nature seemed to be standing by, witnessing and approving the compact of their young and loving hearts. To Norah, as she knelt, with his arm round her, her head upon his shoulder, earth seemed to have become transformed into paradise. She had not loved till this moment, she had not known what love meant—but now!

Cyril was the first to speak, and it was almost like sacrifice to break the heavenly silence, to snap the spell of enchantment which their happiness had woven round them.

"Do you know what you have done?" he asked her, with mock gravity, as he kissed the red-gold hair that brushed his cheek.

"Norah started slightly, as if awakened from a dream, and stroking his hand with a caressing movement, looked up at him with a smile, half shy, half grave.

"What is it that I have done?"

"Plighted your troth—you, the Lady Norah Arrowdale—to a worthless, poverty-stricken artist," he said, but there was the shadow of a smile in his eyes, and the tone of his voice was not so solemn as the words.

"Not worthless," she murmured, her eyes bent on his hand.

"Not altogether, if you have found something worthy, dearest!" he said.

"But a poor and struggling man, anyway. And you are not afraid?"

"Afraid!" she echoed.

"Afraid of what the world—the earl—will say?"

She raised her eyes to his.

"Why should I care what the world says—and my father—"

She stopped, but her lovely eyes were full of courage. "He may be angry, but he cannot separate us."

The tone in which the words were spoken thrilled him, and he kissed her reverently.

"My brave darling," he said, in a low voice. "No, no one on earth shall separate us now that you have said

Two Cases of Eczema and How They Were Cured.

Further Proof That Dr. Chase's Ointment is a Positive Cure for Chronic Eczema.

If you read these letters you will find that Dr. Chase's Ointment is not to be classed among ordinary salves and ointments.

By actually curing itching, stinging eczema in many thousands of cases it has stood the most severe test to which any ointment can be put.

Mr. J. Brice, Temperance road, Parry Sound, Ont., writes: "Just a line to praise Dr. Chase's Ointment for what it has done for my wife. She has been suffering with eczema in her head for two years, and has spent no end of money with doctors and for ointments, which did her no good. She had about given up hope of ever being cured, when someone told her to try Dr. Chase's Ointment. By the use of this Ointment the trouble has left her entirely, so we have unbought faith in it. I have told several people about the Ointment."

Mrs. W. G. Dowden, Greenspond, Bonaville Bay, Nfld., writes: "I suffered with eczema on my hands, and for eighteen months was so bad that I could not use a needle to sew or do anything. I could scarcely dress myself. Though I had lots of salves from doctors, I could never get much benefit from them. Then I sent for a sample of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and found it very different in action. It was not long before my hands began to heal, and four six boxes made them well. I cannot praise Dr. Chase's Ointment too highly, and frequently give some to others to get them using it, for I know that it will cure."

In the home Dr. Chase's Ointment is of almost daily usefulness, for by relieving chafing and irritation of the skin it prevents eczema and similar itching skin diseases. Applied to all cuts and wounds, it prevents blood poisoning and heals the skin. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

you love me. No one! As for the earl!"—he paused a moment, as if he were struggling with a desire to say something and were keeping it back—"well, even he may in time give his consent. Listen, dearest; I am a poor and struggling artist now, but I may win the good fight, may win a name which, though it will never be worthy your acceptance, may make me seem less unworthy in your father's eyes."

She listened with an interest, a delightful feeling that his life belonged to her, the feeling which brings so great a joy to the heart of the woman who has just received the avowal of her lover's love. The slightest, most trivial thing in his life would be hers to share with him now!

"Yes, you will be famous," she murmured, with sweet confidence, and again her tone thrilled through him.

"Tell me so often enough," he responded, "and I shall be, Norah, now that I have won your love, now that it is for you I work"—he drew the letter from Jack Wesley from his pocket and gave it to her—"see, dearest, here is the beginning. I cared very little about it before to-day, but now I welcome it. It is an earnest of the success that your love will bring me."

Norah read the short note, and he told her something of the man who had written it.

"The best friend a man ever had," he said, warmly; "and he will rejoice in my joy."

"Your friend," she murmured. "He shall be mine, too, if he will. I shall love him for your sake, Cyril."

He heard the name from her lips for the first time, though she had called him by it in her thoughts often enough.

"Dear old Jack," he said. "Yes, he will be glad. And, Norah, you have no regrets; you will not mind when your great friends tell you that you have thrown yourself away? That you, a peer's daughter, have acted unwisely in loving an artist?"

He looked into her eyes with a strange earnestness, and with the same shadow of a smile upon his handsome face.

Norah touched his hand with her lips as she thought how great, how noble, how altogether perfect he was to her.

"No one will say that who knows you," she said, simply. "And those who do not—ah, why do you ask me? You know, you know!"

"Yes, I know," he echoed, with a long breath of delight and joy; "and the knowledge makes my happiness all the greater. I have won you without the aid of a title, or wealth, or fame. Norah, you cannot guess, not even you, how sweet the knowledge is to me!" and he threw back his head as if he found some mysterious satisfaction in the thought. Some day, when you and I are together in the world, and you are surrounded by men of title, your equals in rank, I shall say to myself: 'She might have chosen from among these, but she chose me, untitled, poor, unknown!'

Norah gazed at him thoughtfully.

"I have never thought of these things," she said. "I care nothing for rank. Why, it is only a short time ago that I knew I was the daughter of an earl, and"—she smiled—"the knowledge has not made me any the happier. It would have made no difference to me if you had been noble—I mean, titled, if—if I had not loved you." She breathed the last words almost inaudibly.

"Then you would leave the Court and be my wife, and live with me in some little cottage and be content?" he asked, fervently, holding her face in his hands with a tender caress.

"Content!" she echoed, softly. "Is that the word?"

"I may try you some day, dearest; and yet—"

He paused, and she regarded him, waiting for him to finish. But he did not; instead, he seemed to thrust the thought from him, whatever it was. "No," he said, "let me enjoy the delight of feeling that you love me for myself alone; that your love is strong enough to make a sacrifice for me."

"What sacrifice can I make for you?" she said, slowly, as if she would have liked to have it in her power to do so.

He was silent for a moment, as if thinking deeply; then he said: "Norah!"

She turned her eyes upon him with that rapt devotion which is love's sign.

"Will you think it strange if I ask you to keep our engagement a secret for the present?"

She did not remove her eyes from his face.

"I will do everything you wish," she said, simply. "Whatever you wish will be good to me, Cyril! Why should we tell any one?" She stopped as she remembered her father.

"See, dearest," he said, "I ought to go to the earl this evening and tell him all, but I know what would follow. He would refuse to give you to me—and little wonder!—and would forbid me to see you."

Her face went pale, and her hand closed upon his as if to protest against the mere suggestion of such a terrible calamity.

"He would say that I had taken advantage of your ignorance of the world, and won your heart before you had a chance of seeing other men more worthy than I am. And what could I say? Dearest, it is so true! Now, let me tell you all that is in my mind."

"Tell me everything," she said, in a low voice, pressing his hand.

Cyril returned the pressure lovingly.

"You have read what my good friend says, dearest," he went on; "the little picture is a success. But there are others ready, and those—well, I am hoping great things for them. I should like to go to the earl and say: 'I am all unworthy of your daughter; I claim to be no more than an artist, but I have made good that claim, and—'

"Yes, we will wait," she broke in, softly. "How clearly you see things, Cyril, and she beamed upon him proudly. "My father will consent then."

Cyril's face did not reflect her confidence.

"Well, dearest," he said, "if he should not?"

With downcast eyes she slid her arm round his neck and rested her head on his shoulder.

"Nothing shall separate us!" she murmured.

Surely if the gentle wind among the leaves echoed their former love vows, it echoed this tender, resolute declaration of hers; but it found no echo in the heart of Gullford Berton, who, cowering behind a huge oak, listened to every word. He stood close up against the tree, one hand thrust behind him, the other stretched up and grasping a branch with a convulsive, painful clutch. His face was white, and his lips so tightly compressed that he seemed scarcely to breathe.

Everyday Etiquette.

"I was introduced to a very nice young man last winter and he has asked permission to walk home with me from the office several times. What should I do," inquired Edith.

"Give him an invitation to call at your home but if he does not, I should be very careful about carrying the acquaintance any further," replied her sister.

DID YOU KNOW RILEY?

James Whitcomb Riley, of whom Mary E. Wilkins Freeman said: "One might as well try to make a home attractive without dowry as without the grace of James Whitcomb Riley's verses."

Of whom Booth Tarkington said: "He was the first and the foremost distinctly American poet and at the time of his death he was the greatest American."

And of whom a Poet has sung: "The world was getting dreary, there was too much sigh and frown In this vale of moral striving, so God sent Jim Riley down."

An' he said: "Go there an' cheer 'em In your good old fashioned way With your songs of tender sweetness, but don't make your plans to stay Coz you're needed up in Heaven, I am leavin' you to men."

Just to help 'em with your music, but I'll want you back again."

An' Riley came, an' mortals heard the music of his voice An' they caught his songs o' beauty an' they started to rejoice; An' they leaned on him in sorrow, an' they shared with him their joys An' they walked with him the pathways that they knew when they were boys. But they heavenly angel missed him, missed his tender, gentle knock Or making people happy, an' they wanted Riley back.

Here are his Poems:—
Riley Old Rhymes—A collection of the favorite child-rhymes, including "Little Orphan Annie," etc.
Riley Love Lyrics—The favorite passionate and tender love poems, including "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," etc.
Riley Farm Rhymes—The many poems by Mr. Riley in which is mirrored his love of the great outdoors.
Riley Songs o' Cheer—A collection of the favorites of Mr. Riley's poems of gladness, content and consolation.
Riley Songs of Summer—The loveliest and best-loved poems about summer and the out-door summer land.

Day of Illusions Over For Germany

Observer Notes Sad, Anxious Faces in the Streets of Berlin—Confidence is Departing.

"No one who has studied the German press lately could fail to be struck by certain indications of the progress made during the first month of the third year of the war toward the final disillusionment of the German people."

Thus writes the correspondent, who from month to month has supplied the Pall Mall Gazette of London with a review of the internal affairs of the Central Empire. In his summary of the economic situation in Germany during August:

Reference is made to crowded meetings in various part of the Empire, at which resolutions in favor of "a speedy peace without any annexations" are enthusiastically adopted. The underground political controversy directed against the Government, it is asserted, is becoming increasingly bitter, the attacks on the Food Director grow more and more violent as his failure to achieve the impossible becomes clearer, and considerable latitude is now allowed to the Socialist press in discussing the causes and effect of food scarcity. There is also a spread of revolutionary tendencies.

A neutral diplomatist of strong pro-German sympathies has written a letter in which he remarks that "the sad and anxious faces one meets in Berlin make one think that happiness has fled from the world." After admitting that the confidence in victory is no longer what it was, he concludes his letter:

"They are still putting a good face on things and some even believe that Verdun will be taken soon, but all the same my impression is that the morale of the German soldier has become weakened, and that he no longer has his old confidence in the utility of the efforts demanded of him. Germany's strength can grow greater, but has reached its apogee."

A Dane who has resided in Berlin for six or seven years, writes:

"There is little talk of the final victory. The military authorities, of course, that they will fight to the last man, but the common people hunger after peace, as also do most of the soldiers."

Robberies and plundering are common, and would be much more so were it not that many of the shops are empty, in fact about half the restaurants also. Drinking is of daily occurrence, both in the city proper and the suburbs. Crimes are increasing rapidly, murder, robbery, and assault are common, also suicide. It seems as if the town were struck with madness."

An American doctor who has been studying in Berlin for some years describes the growing difficulty of obtaining the necessities of life, even when one possessed the money to pay for them. "Till September, 1915," he writes, "there was no hardship, but then the thumbscrews began to tighten, and now the people of Germany are slowly but surely being starved out. . . . It is a riddle to me how the poor families have managed, and conditions must be much worse now."

The war-be-gone tone of documents found on recently captured prisoners is amazing. They tell of hunger being rife, of the impossibility of obtaining sufficient food, of the scarcity and exorbitant cost of clothing and boots, of the countless food tickets, of the long waits in the food queues, of the frequent failure of supplies, especially of meat, fat and potatoes. There are constant allusions to growing discontent among the masses, to strikes, anarchy and to collisions with the police.

Many of the writers express the opinion that things cannot last much longer as they are, and there are ominous murmurings against the rich and the "food usurers." That the suffering among the masses is real no one who reads these letters can doubt, and the knowledge of this suffering cannot fail to exert a depressing influence on the soldiers at the front.

The entrance of Roumania into the arena of course must have a most serious effect on Germany. It is possible that the full effect of the cutting off of Roumanian supplies may not be apparent at first, in view of the German harvest, but before the end of the winter Germany's position should, again, become critical. The yield of the harvest, however, is a good average one. The entry of Roumania into the war will also deprive Germany of her principal supply of mineral oils.

"What the result of failure in the war will be on the finances of Germany," says our correspondent, "I hesitate to prophesy, but others are better qualified to express an opinion than I am unable to see any outcome of the present financial position in Germany other than bankruptcy in some form or other."

There is good evidence, he adds, that our strangle hold on the throat of Germany is far more effective than it was a year ago in preventing supplies of food coming in from the outside.

Use "Cascarets" for Liver and Bowels When Constipated.

When bilious, headachy, sick, for sour stomach, bad breath, bad taste.

Get a 10-cent box.

Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

ECONOMY.

There is a message today from London which may make a slight feeling of surprise in the minds of many, who may not have noticed that we have lately been going in England. It forebodes action by the British Parliament in connection with food regulation which will be even stricter measures. The conservation of the supply of white flour should not cause either astonishment or uneasiness. It is a precautionary policy fully justified by the existing state of affairs. The wheat crop this year has been far below the average and well below, we believe, the average. Canada's output is all bespoken, that of the United States insufficient for much beyond her own needs. Add to this the great shortage in shipping and the enormous demand for food for the troops at the front and elsewhere, and the need of systematic supervision and control of the supply is obvious. The ban, too, upon fancy cakes and pastry is natural enough and one of the first and most obvious steps in an effort towards economy. The restrictions on the sale of meat suggest another aspect of the subject, and in that direction also the London papers have prepared us for something of the sort. The report of the Board of Trade upon the greatly increased prices of different foods indicates that the situation, if not critical, is serious enough to demand intelligent action. These things should not be without a lesson to us in Newfoundland, for we have long felt the pinch here and are likely to feel it more severely as time goes on. The great difficulties of food, containing so many and so various factors, have been brought out, if nothing else, by the extensive inquiry lately held in England by some of her ablest men. Beyond the primary and self-evident causes of advances in prices, there is constantly alleged as another one the manipulation of the supply by private individuals or combines, and it is suggestive that the only recommendation made by Mr. Runciman was the appointment of a special commission of inquiry. Here, thanks apparently to the foresight of our importers, there is little likelihood of a shortage of flour, our most vital necessity, and the fact is a good answer to the charge made against them of increasing the price, which has only kept pace with the foreign market.

The important moral, however, of the British action lies in the fact that it represents a compulsory saving, which can, and should, be supplemented by voluntary saving. So it is with us. We should remember that the grocers' and butchers' bills, made a sinking of the heart, the true savior, usually attributed to the late James Hill, that the high cost of living is too often the cost of high living. We have no patience with the man who complains that he must spend $4 more than formerly for a barrel of flour and wastes several times that amount on unnecessary purchases or other expenditure. This duty of economy is owed not merely to the self but to the nation, and no principle of economics is more firmly established and less generally recognized than that he who saves to himself saves to the nation. Paradoxical though it may seem, one who, from selfish motives, saves his money and gives nothing to the cause does more for it than one who does subscribe but on generous impulses wastes much more in one way or another that is unnecessary. There are not too many or too gratifying evidences of the desire to economize among us, and where it is seen it is more often due to "appearances" than to a recognition of its real value. And an observer is forced too often to the conclusion that it is only the absence of more opportunities of useless expenditure among us that prevents its extension. We have, however, taken a long step in the right direction in the adoption of prohibition, and whatever may be said for or against that measure on moral grounds, its enormous saving value to the country cannot be gainsaid and will become quickly apparent. The same principle should be applied voluntarily to many other things, the consumption of food not the least of them. If the whole world would conive to shorten its food bill, the further and natural result would be a diminution in the price of the items that make it up.

Death of Rev. Samuel Snowden.

News was received yesterday of the death in Kettleby, Yorkshire, on Nov. 3rd of the Rev. Samuel Snowden, whose passing will be regretted by a very wide circle of friends and admirers in this country. Born in Yorkshire, he came many years ago to Newfoundland and laboured here as a Wesleyan Methodist clergyman for close on half a century. The scenes of his ministry were Bay Roberts, Fortune and Placentia Bays, Topsail, Etaples, Hear's Content and several other districts, in all of which, and indeed among all with whom he came in contact, he was greatly beloved. In 1907 the Methodist Conference at Grand Bank conferred on him a deserved honour when it elected him its President, though to his modest and unassuming nature it came unthought and unexpected. After a life-time of labour, the reverend gentleman left with Mrs. Snowden on a visit to his birthplace in Yorkshire. This was in 1914, and falling health and advancing age forbade his return. He has passed to his rest full of years and honours and will long be held in remembrance in this Colony. His wife, who survives him, was a Miss Oldford, of St. John's. He leaves also a daughter, Mrs. Atkinson, of Bay Roberts.

Patriotic Sale of Work

A distinct success was the Novelty Sale held in the Presbyterian Hall yesterday afternoon and night. The affair was formally opened by Lady Lavigne in the presence of a large gathering. Artistically erected booths containing a splendid assortment of goods, occupied spaces in the hall and the ladies in charge did a brisk business and at remunerative prices. An enjoyable concert was held during the evening, which pleased our subscribers were contributed by Mrs. Geo. Ayre, Mrs. Stranger, Miss Mare, Geo. Corporal H. Mewa, Messrs. C. Hutton, Willar and J. Williams, the accompanist being Messrs. C. Hutton, Pte. R. Kendall and G. Christian. The proceeds, which amounted to $1,000, are for patriotic purposes. Much credit is due the promoters, namely, Miss M. Mackay and Mrs. G. Knowling, assisted by the members of the Sewing Circle, on the success that attended their efforts.

St. Mary's Bible Class Meet

IN BOTWOOD HALL. The St. Mary's Bible Class held its regular weekly session at Botwood Hall, Hutching's Street, last night. Addresses were given by the Rector, Rev. H. Uphill, and the Curate, Rev. H. L. Pike. Next week the newly purchased structure will be officially opened by His Lordship the Bishop of Newfoundland. In connection with the social work of the church there is being formed a men's club to be known as the Botwood Club. Both Club and Hall are named in memory of the late Archbishop Botwood who as Rector of St. Mary's took a deep interest in the congregation.

Prospero Back From the North.

Brought Many Recruits. The S.S. Prospero, Capt. Keen, arrived back from the Northward at noon to-day, having been as far as Quirpon, brought a full freight and these saloon passengers:—Messrs. Elliott, L. Biles, W. French, C. Field, H. Dean, J. Stuckless, M. Wilcox, F. Brown, J. Dower, H. H. Reih, J. Reeves, W. W. Blackall, J. P. Crotty, R. B. Peel, W. Blackler, A. Campbell; G. Guy, S. Gatehouse, F. Brine, M. Foley, S. Walsh, A. Lane, G. Howse, T. Green, C. Norris, F. Green, H. Hobbs, Malmont, White, S. Hussey, D. Ryan; Misses Dower, Bridge, Miles, Anstey, Struckless, LeDrew, Harie, Green, Baster; Mesdames Dower, Dower, Row-sell, Vincent, Howse, Winsor, Sainsbury, Way, Keen and 57 in steerage. Going north very rough weather was experienced. The ship had to remain longer than usual at several ports and a few places were not visited at all, owing to the running of mountainous seas, similar to those which prevailed here ten days ago. Coming south conditions were civil and the Prospero made the ports that she omitted going north and landed freight at each place. Fifteen young men came along on the Prospero from places in White and Green Bays. They have offered themselves for enlistment in the army and navy and are of splendid physique.

Grand Complexion Improve! Better Than Cosmetics

When it's so easy to bring back the bloom of youth to faded cheeks, when skin disfigurements can be removed, isn't it foolish to plaster on cosmetics? Go to the root of the trouble—remove the cause, correct the condition that keeps you from looking as you ought. Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and very soon you'll have a complexion to be proud of. How much happier you'll feel—pimples gone, cheeks rosy again, eyes bright, spirits good, joyous health again returned. Never a failure with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, get a 25c. box to-day.

Train Notes.

Tuesday's outgoing express reached Port aux Basques at 10 p.m. yesterday. The incoming express is due at 6:30 p.m. to-day. The local from Carbonear arrived in the city at 1 p.m. to-day. The Trepassey train reached town at noon to-day.

Will You Take Two At Our Risk?

So many customers who suffer from run-down nervous condition with its consequent fits of insomnia, indigestion and general debility are being greatly helped by Zoetic—the nervous tonic, that we wish to have every ailing person in this town try this really famous remedy. It is all that a tonic should be and more than any other tonic is. It combines the most precious of health-building substances, Glycer Phosphates and the essential element of the human body in most assimilative form. You know the value of God Liver Oil and the invigorating effects of tonic wine. In Zoetic these are combined into an exceedingly pleasant tonic which in two weeks will work quiet wonders in your health. If at the end of two weeks' honest trial you cannot report real progress toward health we will refund the purchase price. Doesn't this convince you that you should start trying it to-day? Sold by T. Germany is Doomed 'Treasury Romances.'

Boston Transcript.—Field Marshal Von Hindenburg could not deny that the Entente Allies are in a better position to wage a thirty years' war, if necessary, than are the Germans and Austrians. Does he think that the people in Germany are in a position to stand another thirty years' war? How did the last one leave Germany? The idea is impossible. No nation can fight thirty years on a diet of sawdust. If the war settles down to a question of mere endurance—and that is what Hindenburg confesses that it is on the western front—Germany is doomed. Meantime, the world will shudder at the invocation of the spectre of another Thirty Years' War. Of that war, history tells us that it "reduced Germany to a state of misery that no historian has been able to describe," and that it kept the whole land for 150 years in the stillness of exhaustion. Philadelphia Ledger.—Part of the touching literature of the war is a little tract that has just appeared in London of quasi-official inspiration, named "Treasury Romances." James Douglas, who has compiled it, explains that often the patriotism of those who give to Britain's war fund is "buried five fathoms deep in the treasury files." He has brought to light with reticence and discretion a few typical instances of sacrificial loyalty. Here, for example, is a miner who sang at seventeen workmen's clubs and linn "for the benefit of the war," and thus gathered in dribbles twenty pounds. An old woman writes: "I have much pleasure in sending you the pound" which leads the compiler to add: "Her particular and probably her only pound." A child of seven sends a shilling, a poor man transmits ninepence. From lonely Fanning Island, in the South Seas, come two contributions from natives of the Gilbert Islands at work there. A donkeyman aboard a ship bringing meat from Australia writes at the close of an impassioned letter: "Do not mind the grammar. Grammar does not count as a rule with gentlemen. I enclose a pound as a start." And so it goes. The imperial hope of England is in such hearts as these. PERSONAL.—Maurice F. Fitzgerald who has been home on furlough visiting his friends and relatives left on Tuesday to join H. M. S. Royal Arthur. His many friends in St. John's wish Maurice bon voyage. As a climber Jack Sheppard, ten years old, of London, compares favorably with Jack of the beanstalk, famous by the former has been sent to an industrial school for six years as a sequel to some queer escapades on his part. In recent months Jack has escaped from the Huddersfield Detention Home on three occasions. Twice he got out of the third story window and climbed down the water pipe at the side of the home. After he was captured the second time he was returned to the same room on the third floor without clothing. The following night he escaped, taking with him his "birthday suit." Jack had climbed down the water pipe again and on reaching the ground had walked off, shivering for the want of wearing apparel. When he had gone a mile from the home he picked up a short coat and continued his journey. Two miles further he was arrested. He had been detained in the home on a theft charge. VISITING THE CITY.—Mr. J. B. Martin, Bell Island, is now visiting the city.

PRODUCE CARGO.—The s.s. Viking, Capt. W. Barlett, arrived to-day from Summerside. She brought a load of produce to Bowring Bros.

REACHED NAPLES.—The S. S. Kalford reached Naples on Tuesday, after a passage of 22 days from this port. She took over twenty thousand quintals of fish from here.

SAGONA REPLACES MEIGLE.—The S. S. Sagona is due at Port aux Basques to-night from North Sydney where she will take up the Cabot Strait service, replacing the S. S. Meigle which is now at North Sydney loading freight direct for this port.

THAT HAS LIGHT.—The famous gas light at the junction of King's Bridge and Circular Roads which gives so much trouble, was up to its old tricks again last night, and as a consequence darkness reigned supreme in that vicinity.

POLICE COURT (Before Mr. Hutchings, K.C., J.P.).—Two seamen for fighting many rounds on Water Street were each fined $2 or 7 days. A native of St. John, N.B., who was arrested for vagrancy was released. Two ordinary drunks were let go without fine.

HERE FROM NEW YORK.—The s.s. Wellington, 5 days from New York, arrived here this morning, bringing a general cargo consigned to C. F. Bennett & Co. Capt. Mitchell, who was chief officer on the ill-fated Stephano, is in command. The barq. Alembic, Capt. Coward, also reached port to-day from New York to Job Bros. & Co. The passage was made in eight days.

THE SISU ARRIVES.—The s.s. Sisu reached port at 9:10 a.m. to-day from the Fogo mail service with the following first class passengers: Rev. H. Laiter, Messrs. C. J. Worrell, W. J. Tulk, S. Parsons, Samson Parsons, L. Watton, Samuel Newman, C. S. Head, Private Eliza Thompson, Anthony, Mrs. Peter Mullet, Mrs. F. Saunders, Misses B. Whiteway, Collins, Mason and 10 steerage.

THE WRONG POST OFFICE.—A domestic in the West End of the City, who to all appearances has not been here long enough to know where the Post Office is situated, is accustomed to post her letters and post cards through the letter slot in door of an uptown business office. The practice which has become a daily occurrence is a source of annoyance to the clerks in the office in question who find it difficult enough to get through their own mail without running a private post office.

Heroic Girl
Saves Father.

Aids Him in Water After Launch Burns.

Peterboro, Ont., Nov. 4.—Miss Besse Thompson and her father were out in a gasoline launch on Stoney Lake on Tuesday near nightfall. In the darkness the launch struck a rock, jarring the batteries and killing the spark. Miss Thompson lighted a match and at once a fire broke out. With great presence of mind she directed her father to follow her example and remove his heavy clothing. She then filled two lifebuoys used as fenders, and with her father jumped into the water.

Half-way to the shore of Nell's Island her father became exhausted, and he says he would have been drowning but for the courage of his daughter. She slowly swam ashore with him, about the length of a city block. Leaving him played out on the bank of the island where she had dragged him, she broke into Nell's cottage, found matches, lit a fire and soon had a hot drink prepared for her exhausted father, whom she helped to the cottage. Dry clothing was found, and the pair spent the night there. Next day they were rescued. The launch burned to the water's edge and sank.

Danny Maher Dead.

London, Nov. 9.—Danny Maher, the American Jockey, died at the Nursing Home in London early to-day after a lingering illness, which caused his retirement from the turf three years ago, previous to which time he was one of the most prominent jockeys on the English turf. He won three Derbys, with Rock Sand in 1903, Cleora in 1905, and Spearmin in 1906. He won the Two Thousand Guineas with Neil Gow in 1910, and Sweeper II in 1912; the Thousand Guineas with Alda in 1901, the St. Leger with Rock Sand in 1903, and Bagrada in 1909; the Oaks with Keystone II in 1906; the Epsom stakes with the Duke of Devonshire's Cheers in 1902; Darley Dale, 1904, Langibly in 1906; Bayardo in 1909, and rode Nell Gow in dead heat with Lemberg in 1910.

Sensational Arrests
Among Baker Heirs.

Chairman Chase and Another Member of Baker Association in Custody in Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—A sensation was created at noon to-day when Lawyer Chase, chairman of the Baker heirs association, and John Moorehouse, another member of the association, were arrested on a charge of conspiracy to defraud.

There are about 150 members of the association, who claim to be the heirs of one Baker, who owned a valuable piece of land, now part of the site of Philadelphia, worth $700,000,000. The members were holding a meeting in St. George's Hall this morning when detectives appeared on the scene and made the arrests.

Your Boys and Girls.

For the very small girl whose hair is cropped straight across the back a ribbon bow must be depended upon to tie the front locks and this can be arranged at either side or directly on top of the head, as it is most becoming and comfortable for the child. One bow is more fashionable than two for the short hair, and as a rule better suited to the baby face.

Braids are almost a necessity for the older girl—not because they are easily arranged, but because they keep the hair in a nice condition.

The small girl can have her hair braided and coiled around just back of and over the ears and a flat bow of wide ribbon adjusted at each side of the head. A soft fringe of hair over the forehead is often needed to make this style a very becoming one.

Prohibitionists
Add Four New States.

Chicago, November 8. — Oliver W. Stewart, national prohibition campaign manager, in a statement on results on prohibition in various states to-day, said:

"Returns indicate that the drys have added four states—Michigan, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Montana—to the dry column."

"We saved Arkansas to the array of nineteen dry states, with which we entered the campaign. The election of Barberger, the governor of Utah, a democrat, favoring prohibition, I think means prohibition by statute out there. We are particularly pleased with the victory for woman's suffrage in South Dakota, for that means the election of officials who will make the prohibition law effective."

They Mean Well.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A friend of ours had tried to do a kind thing and had blundered. "She meant well," said the Lady-Who-Always-Knows-Something. "The Authorman's Wife laughed. It wasn't a very pleasant laugh. 'Seems to me that's damning with faint praise,' said she.

And then the Wants-To-Be-Cynic took the floor with an aural bound, and surprised us by being the opposite of cynical—a tendency he had displayed several times lately. "Lovers are never cynical, you know. I reckon that's one reason why all the world loves them.

The People Who Don't Even Mean Well.

"I don't like that," he said, "I've been sick of it for a long while—that line of talk about it's being something against a person to mean well. The way people talk you'd think it was a lot better never to try and do anything decent than to try and make mistakes. The person who first ranted against meaning well as an excuse for everything was trying to make people see that just having good intentions enough that you'd got to make good instead of lying back on your good intentions. He didn't mean that it was better not to try at all than to try and blunder. But the kind of people who don't ever try to do generous things caught up the idea and used it as a justification for themselves."

"She Thought He Was Personal." "It seems to me you are getting unnecessarily excited over a little thing," interrupted the Authorman's Wife, "I didn't say anything like that."

"I didn't say you did," retorted the Salonika.

As for the Salonika expedition, which the French Minister of War is now investigating, it may be illuminating to those who desire to know why it has not struck to read Dr. Dillon on the subject in the October "Fortnightly Review." He says:

"As for Sarrail's army, it may be relied upon to play its part—an important one it would be to-day—as soon as the General in command deems the moment for action opportune. Everybody knows how unwilling certain Powers were to provide him with the wherewithal for the offensive. Only quite recently Great Britain assented to the proposal that the indispensable supplies should be transported, and very few persons are cognisant of the state of the heterogeneous army there to-day from the point of view of munitions, health, and means of locomotion. Sarrail's critics are numerous and severe, but whatever strictures the present state of things, including his inactivity, may seem to call for, should in justice be directed to those who, despite reiterated appeals, telling arguments, and friendly suggestion, left him in command of an unequipped band of international troops, surrounded by covert enemies and paid spies. When the history of the Salonika Expedition is written, it may wreck the writer's reputation for veracity, so incredible are the denseness, obstinacy, and scorn of logic and common sense which it will reveal."

"There is a very bitter and pointed arraignment. We would not have ventured to print it if it had not passed the British Censor. But it is a reminder that it is possible to so concentrate our attention on the Western front as to at least greatly prolong the war by neglect of Eastern opportunities—and so, incidentally, cause very much more of the costly fighting in the West.—Montreal Daily Star.

FOR ACTIVE SERVICE.

The many friends of the Rev. W. E. R. Cracknell, Curate of St. Thomas's Church, will be pleased to hear that the Rev. gentleman has, after patiently waiting, received an appointment as Army Chaplain and will be leaving England for active service on the 21st inst. Since leaving here some months ago the Rev. Cracknell has been engaged at church army work in the Old Country. His Excellency the Governor received a cable from Mr. Cracknell yesterday informing him of his appointment in the Army.

Laying of Corner Stone

A meeting of St. Joseph's Institute took place last night. Rev. Dr. Kitchin, P. P., who presided over a large attendance, addressed the members on the subject of the laying of the corner stone of the new church. The ceremony will be performed by His Grace Archbishop Roche, on Sunday next, at 3.30 p.m., and the occasion will be a memorable one. Work on the new church is progressing rapidly.

Fish Alive!

"Frozen For Transportation" Parocess

Just now there is a demand for a process whereby foods of all kinds may be kept cold and in the case of fish kept alive. Living fish bring much higher prices in the markets than dead fish.

M. Pictet, a Swiss scientist, has succeeded in bringing forth a process whereby fish may be kept alive for an indefinite length of time by freezing them solid in blocks of ice. The fish was first put in a tank full of water, rich in oxygen, and the temperature of the water gradually reduced until it froze.

At the end of two months the blocks of ice were thawed and the fish, it is said, were found alive. It is necessary, according to the scientist, to freeze the water gradually and to have pieces of ice in the water of quite a large size before the entire mass becomes frozen.

The process of thawing must be even slower than the process of freezing in order not to endanger the life of the fish by a too rapid change of temperature.

The reported experiment has a commercial value. Through this process it is believed that Siberian sturgeon and Alaskan salmon can be exported alive to distant markets.

Floating, Not Frozen.

From American sources the "Railways News" learns that a new car for the Bureau of Fisheries, designed for carrying live fish long distances, has lately been completed and is receiving its special equipment preparatory to being placed in commission. The car is entirely of steel, and is thoroughly insulated to insure against heat and cold. The weight of the car with equipment is 150,000 lbs., and is designed to carry a load of 35,000 lbs.

In the centre, running lengthwise on each side, are insulated tanks with a total capacity of 130 ten-gallon cans, in which fish are held. During transportation the fish will be furnished with oxygen and fresh water by means of air and water pumps, operated by a six h.p. steam engine. The lighter will also furnish heat to the car, but in addition to this independent heating system, the usual train attachment for heating from the locomotive is provided.

Tanks for carrying a reserve water supply are located beneath the car, and an ice-box having a capacity of one ton is provided. In addition to the facilities for the transportation of fish, the car is fitted with living accommodation for a crew of five men, a cook's galle, an office, and a space for a dining table.

SWEEPING FRANCHISE CHANGES.
THE HAGUE, To-day.
By a unanimous vote Parliament has passed a resolution providing for an amendment of article 80 of the constitution so that henceforth there will be universal manhood suffrage. No plural votes or compulsory voting; sex disability of women is also removed by a resolution. The actual granting of the vote to women, however, is still distant, as it depends on the passing of an electoral bill which at present is unlikely.

THE SIXTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
Incomplete canvasses of the vote after several close Congressional districts to-day, brought no changes in the unofficial election results, which indicate 217 Republicans, 212 Democrats and six other parties elected to the sixty-fifth Congress.

GREAT INCREASE IN FOOD PRICES.
LONDON, Nov. 15.
Retail prices of foodstuffs as compared with a year ago have increased on an average twenty-seven per cent., says a report of the Board of Trade. They have increased seventy-eight per cent. over the prices before the war. The prices of sugar, eggs, fish and potatoes, however, are more than double the pre-war prices.

WHAT DESPATCH IS THIS!
PROVIDENCE, R.I., To-day.
Persons familiar with wireless operations expressed a doubt on the message picked up by the Howard. It came from a British cruiser, it was said, but although British warships are presumably off the coast high powered wireless stations in Canada and the Bermuda had heard a number of similar messages for the last month, it was probably from one of these stations that the Howard's despatch came.

BRITISH EXTEND THEIR GAINS.
LONDON, To-day.
A bulletin from the general headquarters issued last night reads: During the day we further advanced our front north of the Ancre. The prisoners taken since Monday morning have reached a total of 5,818. The troops employed have shown conspicuous skill and dash and fortitude. Our success was not won without a hard struggle, as the enemy resisted strongly, and as the conditions of the ground greatly increased the difficulty of the attack. Our losses, considering the extent of our gains were not high. One division advanced a mile and took over 1,000 prisoners at the expense of 450 casualties. South of the Ancre we established the positions won yesterday east of Butte-de-Watincourt. The enemy masses at one point for a counter-attack were dispersed by our artillery fire. Yesterday our airplanes did much useful work; last night they made successful bombing attacks on an enemy aerodrome, railway lines, stations and rolling stock.

WAR SUMMARY.
LONDON, To-day.
While the British were further advancing their front north of the Ancre River or consolidating their newly won positions, the French and Germans have been engaged in violent combats both north and south of the Somme. In both regions the Germans made gains, in the northern corner of the western outskirts of St. Pierre-Vaast Wood north of the River, and in the eastern part of the village of Pressoirs south of the stream. A French official statement admitting the loss of this ground says the Germans obtained only limited advantages at the price of very heavy losses. In the north the German attacks extended from Les Boucais to the south of Bouchavesnes on a front of five miles. South of the Somme on the front from Abaincourt to Chaulnes Wood of about three miles, attacks were launched after violent artillery bombardments. Berlin, reverting to the British attack which gave them the town of Beaucourt, says that except at Beaucourt all the British attacks broke down with heavy casualties. According to London 5,818 have been made prisoners on the Ancre front since Monday. The British losses, considering the extent of the gains, is declared not high. The Transylvanian front, aside from the line in France, is furnishing the most sanguinary engagement. Here almost everywhere, the Austro-Germans are gaining ground against the Roumanians and Russians. In the Pirgilly, Alt and Jui Valleys the Teutonic Allies have forced their antagonists still further back. In the Dobruja region, Bucharest reports the occupation by the Roumanians of the town of Boasac on the Danube. The royal palace at Bucharest has been bombed by Teutonic Allied aircraft. The Queen and royal princesses were not in the building at the time. Berlin admits that on the Cerna River bend in Serbia, the Entente Allies captured some heights, and that in the Valley the Teutonic Allies' forces has been drawn back by pressure on its flanks. According to Petrograd, in Galicia the Russians have driven the Austro-Germans from the former Russian trenches in the Narayuvka river region. Berlin admits, however, that attacks by the Russians in this vicinity were repulsed. East of Gorizia the Austrians by heavy bombardment have compelled the Italians to give up some of their trenches. On the Carso front the Italians made advances at several points.

CUNARD CO. WINS IN LUSITANIA CASE.
NEW YORK, To-day.
Exceptions to the petition recently filed by the Cunard Steamship Company for limitation of its liability resulting from the torpedoing of the Lusitania off the Coast of Ireland on May 7th, 1915, were overruled by a decision of the Federal District Court here to-day. The effect of the decision, it sustained, will be to limit the amount of the Company's liability to about $91,000. It was said that suits aggregating nearly $5,000,000 for damages were filed against the Company. The claimants for damages asked the court to strike from the Cunard Company's petition the statement that the Lusitania was unarmed and should have been immune from attack, and other passages tending to relieve the Company of responsibility for the disaster.

CONTROL OF FOOD IN BRITAIN.
LONDON, To-day.
With respect to the possibility of the Government's taking measures to limit the food consumption, Runciman said it was imperative to cut down the luxurious use of sugar, especially with regard to costly confectionery. The excessive consumption of potatoes, he declared, must be stopped; potatoes must not be used for feeding animals. Unless the consumption was reduced voluntarily, recourse to potato tickets might be necessary. The Government would take steps to prevent undue profits being made from potatoes. Foreshadowing the appointment of a food controller who must have powers greater than the existing department, to co-ordinate all activities, the Minister announced that powers would be conferred by an Order of Council to-morrow for the purpose of proceeding against wasteful and destroyers of food. Pure white flour, from which the best qualities were extracted, would not be allowed to be milled in the future. Steps would be taken for the control of imported flour, also for the sale and distribution of other articles of food in order to prevent cornering. If it became necessary, food tickets would be introduced. The Government has been driven to ask for these powers against its will but they were only temporary and expedient.

GERMANY'S AERIAL BOARD.
LONDON, To-day.
General von Hoepfer has been placed in command of the new aerial force board of Germany, according to an Amsterdam despatch quoting an official Berlin announcement. The new board has control of all aviation and air craft requirements of the German Army and has been formed in recognition of the increasing importance of aerial warfare.

FOOD CONTROL WELCOMED BY HOUSE.
LONDON, To-day.
The speech of Runciman in Parliament yesterday outlining the Government proposal for dealing with food problems was welcomed in all parts of the House. Sir Edward Carson, on behalf of the Opposition, and George J. Wardle, for the Laborites, agreed that the House was ready to grant the power asked without the formality of a bill. The debate on a resolution of Williams Herwick, Unionist member from Hereford, declaring that it was the duty of the Government to adopt further methods of organization in the increase and conservation of the food supply was not concluded when the House adjourned. It is understood Asquith will make a statement next week with regard to the appointment of a food controller.

POPE PROTESTS.
ROME, To-day.
The Pope has sent a stent protest to Austria in connection with the aerial bombardment of Padua.

SHORT OF FATS IN GERMANY.
BERLIN, To-day.
The newspapers to-day print a lengthy appeal by Field Marshal von Hindenburg to Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, Imperial Chancellor, for an active propaganda among agriculturists to induce not only the greater production of fats but also greater willingness voluntarily to give up all available food supplies for the benefit of industrial workers, particularly in munitions-making centres. The appeal declares that it does not appear to be sufficiently appreciated in some circles that it is a question of life and death for the German people and Empire, and that it is impossible to keep workers on an efficient basis unless they have a justly apportioned and sufficient amount of fats.

THE TIMES ON THE SUBMARINE MENACE.
LONDON, To-day.
The Times commenting to-day on the submarine discussion in the Lords yesterday, endorses Baron Sydenham's reference to public uneasiness over the menace. The contents of the nation in the Navy and its commanders is boundless, says the Times, but it does not extend without qualification to the Board of Admiralty. The new German submarine campaign has been an obvious and growing menace for a considerable period, and the country is by no means satisfied that the Admiralty has been alive to it.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES.
OTTAWA, To-day.
Canadian casualties to date show that 9,457 have been killed in action, 3,477 died of wounds and 3,272 are missing. There have been over sixty thousand casualties reported.

BULGARIA ADMITS DEFEAT.
SOFIA, To-day.
The retreat of the GOM, a Bulgarian force in the Cerna bend under the assaults of the Serbians is admitted in an official statement issued by the War Office to-day.

GERMAN COMMENT ON BRITISH GAINS.
BERLIN, To-day.
Several military critics, discussing the British gains on the Ancre in the newspapers, recognize that they result in part at least, in a betterment of the tactical position for which the British are striving. Major von Schreiffshofen, writing in the Mittagszeitung, says the German supreme command reckoned upon such developments when it decided to concentrate its efforts in the Roumanian theatre and leaves in the west only forces absolutely necessary to maintain the defensive. Major Morant in the Tageblatt finds in the events a text for a timely effort to stimulate the production of munitions. He says the general strategic situation in the west is not decisively affected, but the possibility that the British may succeed in breaking a breach is not without importance.

ENEMY ARTILLERY ACTIVE.
LONDON, To-day.
During the night there was a considerable enemy shelling of our battle front north and south of the Ancre, says a statement from the war office to-day; otherwise there is nothing to report.

GERMANY'S POLISH ARMY.
LONDON, To-day.
The Morning Post's Budget correspondent says the Polish army which is to be raised during the next two months under the administration of the army department of the National Council at Warsaw, is expected to supply another half million men for the army for which many thousands of workers who have not yet been forced to do war work will be available. These having been already sent to Germany in small parties, not by the military government, but by the Polish National Provisional Government, which began work the week before the Independence Proclamation appeared.

Despite the chill in the air last night hundreds of people turned out to hear the address of Sergt. Jack Robinson, a returned veteran of Gallipoli and France, who has been invalided home, and also Mr. H. E. Cowan, one of our foremost platform speakers.

Previous to the meeting the squads of Naval Reservists and Volunteers headed by the S. A. Band paraded up and down Water Street.

Sergt. Robinson in addressing the big crowd briefly described his experiences while at the front and pointed out the grave necessity of every young man of military age and fitness coming forward and enlisting. It was up to the young men of the country to get even with the Hun and avenge the blood of their countrymen who had gone under on July 1st and October 11th and 12th.

Mr. Cowan in his usual free but forcible manner outlined the principles for which Britain and her Allies were fighting, and in the strongest terms condemned the barbaric actions of the German War Lords, who not only permitted but instructed their subordinates to outrage and insult the women of Belgium, France and Serbia.

"Blackies" would have no show when peace was declared, for the Empire was determined to make room for her defenders and those who failed to serve or offer themselves would have to get out and fish for themselves.

At the close of the meeting several young men came forward and gave in their names for the Army and Navy. The T. A. Band will head to-night's parade and the speakers will be Lieut. Cyril Carter and Hon. J. Alex. Robinson.

Killed in Action.

Joseph Kennedy, a well known young man of Holytown, was killed in action on the Western Front last month, word to that effect having been received by relatives here. The deceased soldier and hero left here three years ago. Shortly after the outbreak of the war he enlisted with the Canadians in Halifax and it was with a Canadian Regiment "Somewhere in France" that he sealed his devotion to the Empire. Although it is with regret that those who knew him in St. John's East will learn of his death, yet the fact that he laid down his life to uphold the cause of righteousness and justice will be consoling.

Zam-Buk

The above represents the number of years spent in fruitless efforts to cure a bad case of eczema with ordinary ointments, compared with the time it took Zam-Buk to effect a complete and permanent cure.

This was the experience of Mr. H. C. Buckley of 461 East Broadway, Portland, Ore. Writing to the Zam-Buk Co., he says: "For fifteen years I suffered with a bad case of eczema, and used all kinds of so-called 'cures' and treatments, but nothing was capable of curing me until I tried Zam-Buk. This wonderful balm, however, completely cured me in less than a year, and not only so, but I have had no return of the disease. I strongly recommend Zam-Buk to anyone afflicted as I was."

This is but one of the hundreds of cases where Zam-Buk has effected a cure when everything else failed. The reason is easily explained. Zam-Buk being unusually refined—containing absolutely no animal fats or mineral drugs such as are contained in ordinary ointments—is capable of penetrating to the underlying tissues where skin diseases have their roots. Ordinary ointments, on the contrary, never get beyond the surface skin and so are incapable of effecting permanent cures. Zam-Buk is just as good for salt rheum, ringworm, boils, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, burns, scalds and all skin injuries. GERMANS ATTACK WITH BURNING LIQUIDS.

PARIS, Nov. 15. An important German counter-offensive began at six o'clock this morning against the French positions south of the Somme between Ablaincourt and Chaulnes Wood. After three days of intense bombardment the Germans attacked desperately, the war office announced, using burning liquids. The official announcement says the Germans were repulsed everywhere, excepting east of Pressoir where they reached a group of ruined houses.

ENEMY DISPLAY NOTABLE ACTIVITY.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 15. On the south front of the Danube there has been an exchange of infantry fire and artillery bombardment all along the river. In Dobruja we occupied the village of Boasic on the Danube and progressed along the whole front. During the last two or three days the enemy again has displayed notable activity. Enemy machines have flown over Turnu, Magarele and Zeminita region, and Giurgiu, Tulcea, Campulung, Sinal and Roman, and dropped bombs causing slight damage. They dropped bombs on the capital streets and environs killing and wounding peaceable inhabitants, especially women and children. A great number of bombs were dropped over the palace, where the Queen and Princesses of Roumania were formerly living. Fortunately they had left after the death of Prince Maurice. On various occasions yesterday, enemy aviators flew over small towns and villages, descending to a very low altitude with their machines, and fired with machine guns on the peaceable population in the streets or working in the fields.

RUNCIMAN'S MEASURE.

LONDON, Nov. 15. According to the morning newspapers, Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, will to-day present to Parliament a measure providing first, the compulsory use through the British Isles of whole wheat flour, instead of white flour. Second it ban on all fancy cakes and pastry, and third, the institution of meatless days on which neither shops nor restaurants will be allowed to sell meat.

RUSSIAN REPRISALS.

LONDON, Nov. 15. A communication from the Russian War forwarded by Reuters' Progress correspondent states that measures of reprisal are to be enforced against captured German officers. A communication says the German Government has transferred a large number of Russian officers to a special concentration camp and subjected them to particularly severe treatment, owing to alleged ill-treatment of German prisoners in Russia. The Russian Government drew Germany's attention to what it characterized as the injustice of this measure, adding that if by November 14th this severe treatment had not done away with all German officers held prisoners in Russia would be subject to similar regime.

ROMANIANS FORCED BACK.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 15. From the border of western Moldavia to Sianic and Otinz valleys in Transylvania, the Austro-German forces are attacking, according to an official from the Roumanian war office to-day. In the Jial valley the Roumanians have been forced back to their second line trenches.

TRYING TO STIR UP DISSENSION.

LONDON, Nov. 15. German propagandists are making every effort possible all over Russia to stir up dissension among the Allies, and influence Russia to consider separate peace, but there are no signs of success of this persistent movement. This was the statement made to-day by Arthur Ruhl, an American writer, who has just returned here from a trip through Russia and Roumania. Mr. Ruhl added that there was no execution in Russia of this end of the war for another year at least. Though Russia's losses have been exceptionally high this year, the supply of soldiers seems inexhaustible.

CONSOLIDATING GROUND.

LONDON, Nov. 15. The British troops north of the Aisne were engaged last night in consolidating ground won in the new offensive movement, and no further important operations were undertaken.

BRITISH TONNAGE.

LONDON, Nov. 15. Of the total British tonnage of merchant ships of 100 tons or over, at the beginning of the war, the net loss to Sept. 30, 1916, was slightly over 24 per cent. Thomas J. Macnamara, Financial Secretary to the British Admiralty, told a questioner to-day in the Commons. This, he said, includes losses from all sources, whether war or marine risks.

MOBILIZING LABOR.

BERLIN, Nov. 15. The finishing touches are being given to the new law providing for a general election for all able-bodied Germans behind the front. The exact details of the measure are not yet given out, but the newspapers indicate that it will apply to all classes, rich and poor alike, affecting particularly the idle classes living on private incomes and those engaged in activities not connected with the prosecution of the war, which may be conscripted without injury to the body politic. This form of compulsory service, it is understood, will not apply specifically to women, but a consistent campaign will be made to utilize to the utmost this

TRYING TO STIR UP DISSENSION.

LONDON, Nov. 15. German propagandists are making every effort possible all over Russia to stir up dissension among the Allies, and influence Russia to consider separate peace, but there are no signs of success of this persistent movement. This was the statement made to-day by Arthur Ruhl, an American writer, who has just returned here from a trip through Russia and Roumania. Mr. Ruhl added that there was no execution in Russia of this end of the war for another year at least. Though Russia's losses have been exceptionally high this year, the supply of soldiers seems inexhaustible.

CONSOLIDATING GROUND.

LONDON, Nov. 15. The British troops north of the Aisne were engaged last night in consolidating ground won in the new offensive movement, and no further important operations were undertaken.

BRITISH TONNAGE.

LONDON, Nov. 15. Of the total British tonnage of merchant ships of 100 tons or over, at the beginning of the war, the net loss to Sept. 30, 1916, was slightly over 24 per cent. Thomas J. Macnamara, Financial Secretary to the British Admiralty, told a questioner to-day in the Commons. This, he said, includes losses from all sources, whether war or marine risks.

MOBILIZING LABOR.

BERLIN, Nov. 15. The finishing touches are being given to the new law providing for a general election for all able-bodied Germans behind the front. The exact details of the measure are not yet given out, but the newspapers indicate that it will apply to all classes, rich and poor alike, affecting particularly the idle classes living on private incomes and those engaged in activities not connected with the prosecution of the war, which may be conscripted without injury to the body politic. This form of compulsory service, it is understood, will not apply specifically to women, but a consistent campaign will be made to utilize to the utmost this

ATTEMPT TO OUST HUGHES.

LONDON, Nov. 15. A despatch from Melbourne, Australia, says that the attempt of the malcontent section of the Labor Party to overthrow Premier Hughes has caused a serious split in the party and as a consequence the Premier has been obliged to reconstruct his ministry from his remaining followers so that he can carry on the government with the assistance of Liberals until a general election is held. The new ministry includes Hughes as Premier and Attorney General, C. F. Pearce, Minister of National Defence, J. A. Jensen, Minister of Marine, and Mr. Peyton as Treasurer. The Labor recruits include 15 Senators, and 25 members of the House of Representatives. Among these are M. Omalley and H. Mahon, who resign from the Hughes ministry and formed the new Labor Party with Charles McDonald, Speaker of the House of Representatives, as its active leader. There are three parties now in the House of Re-

RESERVOIR OF LABOR POWER.

The measure will be submitted by the Government to the Bundesrat within a few days. The Reichstag which adjourned only last week, will be convened in Berlin on Monday. The American Government has approved it. All indications point to its speedy passage.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

PARIS, Nov. 15. The British steamer Sarah Radcliffe, 3,333 tons, was sunk by a submarine which torpedoed and bombarded her according to the announcement to-day. The crew was saved by a Norwegian steamer.

THE UNITED STATES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. The announcement last night of the State Department's actions, instructing the organization to Germany, at Berlin to communicate with the German Foreign Office on the subject of the deportation of Belgians, brought out a flood of enquiries to-day for details in explanation of the department's action. Secretary of State Lansing repeated that the department's action was set out in last night's despatches, and made the statement that the United States has not made any official protest to Germany, but suggested to her what a bad effect on neutral opinion, particularly in the Liverpool Regiments has been appointed to command the Chinese Labor Corps. This is the first announcement of the organization of such a corps in the British Army.

GERMAN FORCES ATTACK FRENCH

PARIS, Nov. 15. Strong German forces attacked the French to-day north and south of the Somme River, but according to the bulletin issued by the war office to-night, they were only able to gain limited advantages at a cost of heavy losses. The Germans gained a footing in French advanced positions in the northern corner of the greater outskirt of St. Pierre-Vaast Wood. They also made progress in the eastern sector of the villages of Pressoir.

KILLED AND WOUNDED.

PARIS, Nov. 15. A despatch to the Havas Agency from Padua, Italy, says the total number of persons killed or wounded by a single bomb dropped by an Austrian aviator on Saturday night aggregated 90, of whom 32 were killed. The despatch adds that all the persons were non-combatants, most of them women and children. An Austrian official on Sunday said that on Saturday night, Austrian sea-planes attacked Padua and dropped heavy bombs, making direct hits on military headquarters, buildings, railway stations and infantry barracks.

RUNCIMAN'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 15. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, to-day announced the Government intended to bring about a pooling of the engineering resources of the country in order to expedite shipbuilding. Measures would also be taken, he said, to prevent growers from making an undue profit on potatoes. Runciman also foreshadowed drastic government action to prevent the use of sugar as a luxury.

DISCUSSES BRITISH SHIPPING.

LONDON, Nov. 15. The matter of the destruction of British shipping by German submarines, came up in the House of Lords this afternoon. Baron Sydenham invited the Government to make a declaration in the nature of a tonnage policy, on behalf of Britain and her allies, as a reply to the monstrous proceedings of the German submarines. He declared there was an uneasy feeling in this country that the submarine menace was more serious than the authorities were willing to admit. Admiral Lord Beresford said Britain had arrived at a serious crisis, calling for energy and foresight. It was time for plain speaking, because the Commons and newspapers had been misled by the most autocratic government since the time of Pharaoh. Had the blockade been properly enforced from the first, he asserted, we should not have been faced by this submarine menace. Marquis Crewe, replying for the Government, said it was useless to make such declarations as Lord Sydenham and Admiral Beresford demanded, without the power to enforce them. The only voices which could speak with influence now were the voices of the cannon on the various fronts. It is useless, said Crewe, to threaten to exact particular reparation as terms of peace until we are able to impose those terms by obtaining complete victory. The Admiralty, continued the Lord President, had been singularly successful in the destruction of enemy submarines, but

Home-Made Remedy that Saves You $2.—Does the Work Thoroughly.

The prompt and positive action of this simple, inexpensive home-made remedy in quickly healing the inflamed or swollen membranes of the throat, chest or bronchial tubes and breaking up tight coughs, has caused it to be known as a more honest than any other cough remedy. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness, cough, phlegm, hoarseness, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The nasal throat and chest tubes are completely healed in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough, influenza, asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 3/4 ounce of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. You then have 16 ounces—a famous cough remedy. A much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.00. Keeps perfectly and indefinitely.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with galsolol and is known the world over for its penetrating, soothing and certain in effecting asthma coughs and chest colds. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "3/4 ounce of Pinex with 16 oz. of sugar syrup." There are three parties now in the House of Re-

Germany Hates the United States.

Believe that they would have won the War Long Ago But for the Aid Given by America to the Allies.

New York, Nov. 6.—Herbert Bayard Swope, staff correspondent of the New York World, who recently returned from Germany, tells in the World of Germany's hatred for the United States and the reasons inspiring it. Mr. Swope says in part:

"Throughout Germany to-day the hatred for America is bitter and deep. It is palpable and weighs you down. All the resentment, all the blind fury Germany once reserved for England alone have been expanded to include us, and have been accentuated in the expansion.

"The Germans have an outlet for their feelings against England—they express themselves on the battle-field, and through the Zeppelins and submarines, but against America they lack a method of registering their enmity.

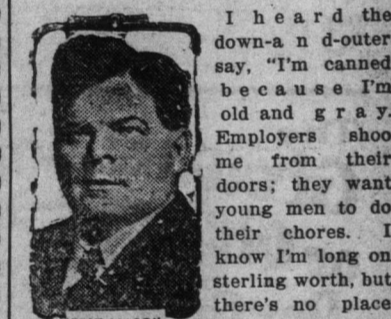

"And so, this bitterness that cannot be poured out has struck in and saturated the whole Empire.

"The chagrin and humiliation of their failure to end the war before now through victory are visited upon America. The failure gave birth to hatred. Through the length and breadth of Germany the belief is certain and unqualified that had it not been for America's moral and physical help to the Allies the war would have been long since over.

"With magnificent disregard of the checks and reverse, both military and economic, Germany has suffered at the hands of the Allies; her sons, from top to bottom, say that only America is to blame for the fact that the war is now well into its third year, and the more pertinent fact that as times goes on the German chances are bound to grow less.

"It is a common thing to hear in Germany that America has a secret alliance with England, under which she is operating now. It is even more of a commonplace to be told that America is deliberately seeking to prolong the war and circumvent peace for the 'blood money' she is making out of the struggle."

OLD AND OUT.

I heard the down-a-n-d-out-ness, "I'm canned because I'm old and gray. Employers shoo me from their doors; they want young men to do their chores. I know I'm long on starting worth, but there's no place for me on earth, no job for me beneath the moon, for I was born some years too soon. Youth must be served, and age must slide down where the dump is yawning wide." I've often heard this dismal spiel from gents panhandling for a meal, but in my daily walks I find that old boys do not fall behind, if they still keep their smiles on straight, and keep their habits up to date. Too many old men sing this song that every modern thing is wrong. They're always talking of the past, and so they're also rans at last. A man's gray hair will cut no grass, if he can make things come to pass, if he will blithely do his stunt with cheerful and undaunted front.

Dictionary is Growing

Sir Ernest Shackleton is given credit for the invention of more new English words than any one else, Colonel Roosevelt has a goodly number to his credit, as has also Gifford Pinchot. The European war has introduced many new ones which will be permanently retained, says the Pathfinder.

An average of about 5,000 words are added to the English language each year according to the measure of the dictionaries during the past three centuries. Bullock's "Complete English Dictionary," the first in the language, published in 1616, contained a little over 5,000 words. "The New World of English Words," published in 1658, contained 13,000 words. A dictionary published in 1720 by Nathan Bailey surpassed this by 32,000. Twenty-five years later Dr. Johnson's famous dictionary, containing 50,000 words, came out.

In 1828 Webster's "American Dictionary," with a vocabulary more than three times as great, appeared. In the latter part of the nineteenth century the "Imperial Dictionary," with 200,000 words, and the "Century Dictionary," with a still larger number were published. Then, in 1894, came the "Standard Dictionary," edition has been followed by others, the latest of which contains some 450,000 words.

The apparent growth of the language as indicated by the dictionaries results largely from improved means of compilation.

The Growing Boy or Girl must have Perfect Feet and Ankles to be Strong and Healthy

Do you know how severely their joints and muscles strain the ligaments and muscles of the feet and ankles? Do you know statistics show that 33 per cent of the school children have "Flat Feet"? Do you know the result of this affliction as it develops through carelessness and ignorance while the child is growing?

Do you know that early injuries like turned ankles, sprained insteps, etc., frequently cause deformity because Nature is not assisted at the proper time by such a simple appliance as

Scholl's "Foot-Eazer"

Scholl's "Foot-Eazer" should be placed in children's shoes at first detection of rotating ankles—turning in or out—and wearing of the heels of the shoes on either side. Shuffling with dragging feet, weak ankles, pain in the limbs and back attributed to "flatness" or "growing pains," are frequently caused by weak insteps or flat-foot, all of which Scholl's "Foot-Eazer" instantly relieves and permanently corrects.

A complete line of Men's and Women's Arch Supports.

Men's Women's and Children's Ankle Supports just opened. Drop in and be fitted correctly if you have any foot troubles.
