LADY IRIS' MISTAKE;

Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER X.

So by dint of thinking of it all day and dreaming of it at night, he came to look upon it as a certainty that he should be accepted when he should have the courage to ask for her hand. He contrived adroitly to keep himself always before her—to consult her about plans and schemes for the benefit of others. He blinded her completely as to his own feelings with regard to her.

"That he should presume to love her and one day ask her to be his wife never occurred to proud Lady Iris; but that he, a parvenu and the son of a man sprung from the ranks of the people, should seek the advice of a noble high-born lady; and receive it, when given to him, with gratitude, seemed a mere matter of course. She thought it an act of charity when she gave him half an hour of her time for the purpose of listening to and advising him. He was very cautious during those interviews; he never alluded to his love. He paid her every compliment, and she accepted his homage as a queen accepts that of a subject.

At length he grew bolder. The party at Chandos were so happy that Lord Caledon said it would be a great pity to break it up, so the invitations were extended, and John Bardon, amongst the number, remained. Lady Iris herself did not notice how much of the time he occupied, as he managed it so cleverly. He was like her shadow. If he saw her in the grounds, the library, or the drawing-room, he joined her at once; but it was always with the air and manner of one seeking a favor. At last she became accustomed to his deference and his humility, and accepted the homage offered to her rank and beauty as a natural and becoming tribute. He grew more and more elated; and one day he said to his sister—

"Marie, you see that I am making progress, do you not?"

His sister's calm face grew sorrowful as she answered—

"No! Pray do not be angry with me, John! I see that Lady Iris is kind to you, but, believe me, my dear, she does not treat you as her equal—she does not, indeed. It is just as I have told you—her voice takes quite a different tone when she speaks to you. If I were to say frankly what I believe, it would be that she patronises you.

"It is not true!" he cried. "You are neither just nor reasonable. Why did she reject all the grand offers she had when in London? Why did she refuse that dandy Sir Fulke? Why does she treat with such perfect indifference all the men visiting her now? Shall I tell you why, Marie?"

"If you can," she said slowly.

"I will," he cried, with a fierce triumph. "It is because she cares for me! You will find my words come true—she cares for me; and very soon I shall ask her to be my wife. Oh, how I love her, Marie. There is no limit to her power over me; she can do what she will with me. I cannot live apart from her."

"Heaven help you, John!" said Marie, sadly. "Nothing that you tell me changes my opinion."

"Heaven help me, and Lady Iris also. If she sends me away, if she refuses me! I have not thought of that yet. As I feel now, I swear that she will never live to marry another man!"

The earl was very kind to him, so John Bardon became more hopeful still. One morning, when Lord Caledon and John Bardon were out together, they saw Lady Iris in the distance, her white dress gleaming amongst the trees. John Bardon saw her first, and the earl's attention was drawn to him. He stood quite still; his face lost its ruddy hue and became pale, then flushed crimson. He took off his hat and remained bareheaded for some few minutes until she passed out of sight. Lord Caledon continued his conversation, but John Bardon no longer gave rational answers.

"What is the matter with you, Mr. Bardon?" asked the earl. John Bardon turned his burning face to him.

"I might make twenty false excuses," he replied; "but I will not. There is nothing the matter except this—that I have seen Lady Iris."

"It seems to be quite enough," said Lord Caledon.

"It is almost too much for me, my lord," replied John Bardon. "That one spot where she stood then will be one of the most precious on earth to me—just as she herself is more precious to me than anything else in the world."

"You love my daughter then?" he said, quietly.

"Yes, my lord. 'Love' is a poor word. I worship her. All the strength of my manhood has gone into my love. Are you angry with me? Does my love displease you because of my humble birth?"

"No," replied the earl, his countenance changing. "I am not displeased. I have nothing to say about it. If my daughter loves you in return, I will raise no difficulties. I have resolved that in the matter of love and marriage she shall please herself. To my thinking, the greatest and indeed the only happiness in this world lies in love, and I hope that my daughter will marry for love."

"Then, if I can win her consent, I have yours, my lord!" said John Bardon gladly.

"Yes, if you win it," answered the earl; "but—mind, I warn you—I do not think you will win it."

John Bardon turned hastily to him. "May I ask, my lord, why not?" he said.

"Because the idea of marriage is not very pleasing to her."

"You do not think she will refuse me because I am not so—so well-born as herself; do you, my lord?"

"I cannot say. I should never object on that score. But I think it will be better for us not to discuss the subject. My daughter knows that she will have my sanction—within the bounds of reason of course—in respect of any marriage she may wish to make."

"Thank you, my lord," was the reply. "But it is a case of life or death with me. I worship her. I had not thought of saying anything about it to you; perhaps though, it is all for the best."

"I hope so," said the earl calmly. "One thing is certain, Mr. Bardon—the disclosure will make no difference. I shall not mention it to my daughter."

During the remainder of that day, whenever Lord Caledon thought of John Bardon, he said to himself, with a deep sigh—

"Poor fellow—I am sorry for him!"

CHAPTER XI.
John Bardon's adoration was ignored by Lady Iris Payne. His love she never even dreamed of; it was something far beneath her. She was kind to him from a sense of pity, and because she saw that his inferiority galled him. When with her, he never assumed any airs, never talked of the power of money, but always complained that he was at a disadvantage on account of his inferior birth.

"How many generations do you think it requires to make a gentleman?" he asked her one day, when they were talking together.

She looked at him gravely, and said—

"I do not know; I have never given the matter a thought."

"How many should you think, Lady Iris?" he persisted. "Supposing a man begins life as my father did, how many generations must elapse before his descendants become gentlemen?"

His lips were white and puffed, his face was in a quiver of suspense, as he waited for an answer. She forgot his great personal interest in the question, and spoke just what she thought.

"It is a matter that puzzles me. I should say that, if the descendant of an honest, honorable, humble born man who had made a fortune married into good families, they would become gentletalk in time."

His lips were white and puffed, his face was in a quiver of suspense, as he waited for an answer. She forgot his great personal interest in the question, and spoke just what she thought.

"In how long or how short a time?" he inquired.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Frogona" on an itching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Frogona" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

"I hope so," said the earl calmly. "One thing is certain, Mr. Bardon—the disclosure will make no difference. I shall not mention it to my daughter."

Bad Breath
Is Usually Due to Constipation.
When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's Lubricating Liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus relieves it.
Nujol is a Lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot grip. Try it today.

Kemal Pasha's Note is Hostile.

Demands That British Withdraw From Asiatic Side of Straits -- General Harrington Has Full Support of Government -- Madeline Constance Burnt at Sea.

SITUATION EXTREMELY SERIOUS. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29. The situation between the British and Turkish Nationalists was extremely serious tonight.

KEMAL'S OBJECT. LONDON, Sept. 29. The opinion expressed here is that Pasha is trying to provoke the British to fire on the Turks, so that he can turn to the Mohammedan world and claim he was attacked by Christians.

OPERATIONS WOULD BE LIMITED. LONDON, Sept. 29. Should circumstances lead to the prosecution of war against the Kemalists, military experts believe that for the present winter it would be limited to the Straits and the defence of the Imdid Peninsula.

PATIENCE BECOMING EXHAUSTED. LONDON, Sept. 29. The events of the next few days will largely be influenced by the outcome of the meeting that Franklin Bouillon, the French Envoy sent by the Paris Government to Asiatic Turkey, has just had with Kemal Pasha.

Our Dumb Animals. N.S.C. and Olympic Games. WOULD SEND NEWFOUNDLAND TRACK TEAM TO PARIS IN 1924.

KEMAL WILL MEET HARRINGTON. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29. Mustapha Kemal Pasha, in reply to General Harrington's telegram of Wednesday, has sent a message declaring his troops would not advance further and he would meet Harrington as soon as possible.

MADLINE CONSTANCE GONE. NEW YORK, Sept. 29. News of the destruction by fire at sea of the Barque Madeline Constance of St. John's, Nfld., was received in a wireless message to the Naval Communications Office from the Mauritania tonight.

NEWFOUNDLANDER KILLED. NORTH SYDNEY, Sept. 29. Matthew Whalen, a native of Newfoundland, was killed by a fall of stone in Jubilee Colliery this Friday afternoon.

KEMAL AND FRENCH ENVOY GO TO ANGORA. ADANT, Asia Minor, Sept. 29. Mustapha Kemal Pasha received M. Franklin Bouillon, French Envoy, on Thursday evening at Smyrna.

JOIN REVOLUTIONISTS. ATHENS, Sept. 29. The Greek army in Thrace has definitely joined the revolution, also the army corps in Epirus.

NOT YET BURNED. PARIS, Sept. 29. The abdication of Mohammed VI, Sultan of Turkey, is not yet accomplished, but the Sultan has expressed a desire to abdicate in favor of his cousin, according to an Angora correspondent of the Havas Agency, who attributes the news to a Constantinople despatch to Angora.

STILLMAN LOSES. NEW YORK, Sept. 29. James a Stillman, former President of the National City Bank of New York, has been denied a decree in his suit for divorce against his wife Annie U. Stillman, and boy, Guy Stillman, who is declared legitimate in the finding of the referee filed this Friday morning.

BOLSHEVIK TRIPLE ALLIANCE. SHANGHAI, Sept. 29. Sun Yat Sen, President of South China, today admitted the authenticity of letters published by the Hong Kong Telegraph, taken from Sun's private safe, after his flight from Canton, disclosing his connection with a project to form a Triple Alliance composed of China, Germany, and Moscow Soviet.

S.P.A. Tag Day.

GENEROUS SUM REALIZED. $675 was the amount collected last Saturday, when a Tag Day was held in aid of the S.P.A. Scoutmaster R. E. Furlong acted as Treasurer for the day and supervised the collection of the boxes, which were later handed over to C. E. Hunt, the Society's Treasurer. The result of the Tag Day will greatly help the work of the Society.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF THE S.P.A. AGENT FOR WEEK ENDING SEPT. 30th.

Shot a horse for Mr. James Dunn, the animal falling on LaMarchant Road and breaking his hind leg, due to the Tarrin on the streets making the road slippery. Was asked to humanely destroy a dog for John Feneion, Esq., Torbay Road. Another for Mr. Hafey, Freshwater also a dog at 24 Barter's Hill, also one at A. E. Hickman's upper premises. Received word of an old horse which fell on the street belonging to Mr. Geo. Cross on Blackmarsh Road. Went and saw the horse and advised the owner to have the animal shot, to which he consented, but the horse died during the night. Was asked by James Cook, Butcher to use the humane killer on a large pig. I went to the slaughter house accompanied by the President of the S.P.A., who watched the proceedings with Mr. Cook and they were perfectly satisfied with the work of the humane killer, which takes the place of striking the animal's skull. It was so satisfactory that Mr. Cook asked me to come the second time to painlessly kill another animal and the humane killer being so satisfactory he ordered one from the Society for his own use as the improved method is so superior and humane. Received a report of a pony on the South Side Hill owned by a man named Hurley. This animal got into an enclosure belonging to a man named Niel who fired a load of shot at the animal, the shot lodging above the fore shoulder and around the back. The pony was in a very bad condition. I had it brought down and examined by Vetry Surgeon McNaime, who prescribed treatment but could not tell the extent of the injuries yet. I had the man Niel summoned and he was fined ($10.00) ten dollars and costs. Attended to the landing of 3 car loads of cattle and saw that all were watered and fed properly. Several complaints have come about cattle and horses being out on fields where there is no shelter or the pasture from cold or rain. Horse and cow owners are particularly requested to keep in their animals from this date. Many owners of dogs are not feeding their animals regularly or keeping them properly housed at night and I ask that dog owners kindly see to this as the public are complaining. Last Sunday morning a morning school kind school boys of Holytown picked up a dog with a broken leg and carried it to a lady in Devon Row who promptly called me to put the dog asleep as it was incurable.

Killed in Collision. MOTOR DRIVER DIES FROM INJURIES. Charles Somerton, a motor driver of Portugal Cove, died last evening from injuries received when his car collided with a long cart, near Winsor Lake. Somerton fell against the steering wheel and was severely hurt internally. Death ensued a few minutes after the accident. The body was removed to Portugal Cove. How the accident occurred, the eyewitnesses do not appear to know. Both car and cart were on the left side of the road and it can only be presumed that Somerton lost control of his machine. The impact knocked him unconscious and when Dr. Campbell and Supt. O'Neill, who were summoned, arrived on the scene, life was extinct. The driver of the long cart was Joseph Neary.

What Do You Think of a Fluid

That will draw roaches and ants out of every hole, crack, or crevice before killing them and not poison food?

That will kill bugs instantly and not leave an unpleasant odor?

That will knock flies off the wall and not harm paint or paper?

That will keep the bedroom, kitchen, or verandah clear of flies, mosquitoes, etc. for several hours after a few sprays?

That will take fleas off a dog and not harm the dog?

That will destroy chicken lice without any injury to your stock?

That applied in small quantities to the exposed parts of the body will insure you from Mosquito bites?

That as a general disinfectant is stronger than the ordinary carbolic solution.

THAT FLUID IS SAN-O-SPRAY.

No insect can live where San-O-Spray is used. Yet San-O-Spray is non-poisonous to human beings and can be used with perfect safety in nursery, kitchen, dining room, and cellars, more-over San-O-Spray has an agreeable and delightful odor, removing all foul or unpleasant odors. In addition San-O-Spray is a disinfectant and germicide. Keeps the home sanitary and free from infectious diseases.

N.S.C. and Olympic Games.

WOULD SEND NEWFOUNDLAND TRACK TEAM TO PARIS IN 1924.

To send a Newfoundland Track Team to participate in the Olympic Games which will be held in Paris in 1924, is the latest ambition of the National Sports Committee. With this end in view sports, both indoor and outdoor, will be held throughout all seasons. By this means, sufficient to pay the expenses of the proposed team would be on hand, the N.S.C. believe. The Committee, at its meeting last night, made a presentation to Mr. W. Burke, the treasurer, who leaves to-day by the Rosalind. Next month the N.S.C. will be absorbed by the N.A.A.A., which is to be affiliated with the English A.A.A.

Cavalry Charge Film.

ENGLISH CANAL AS RIVER JORDAN

The wonderful charge of Lord Alenby's Yeomanry Brigade in the Jordan Valley against the Turks during the war was re-enacted at Adershot recently for film purposes.

The 13th Hussars, with drawn swords, waded the Basingstoke Canal which had been renamed the River Jordan, and charged across the valley. Many "casualties" occurred in the wild gallop under enemy fire, riders less horses and "dying" soldiers being snapped in realistic positions.

GOLD MEDAL

JAMS & MARMALADE

WHEN all the ripe and perfect fruit—Strawberries from Kent and Hampshire, Plums and Black Currants from Worcester, Apples from Devon, Oranges from Sunny Spain—are packed carefully into baskets and cases, they come by direct motors, special trains and steamers, to the model factory.

THEN all the fruit is again carefully looked over, to see that no damage has occurred in transit, by an army of skilled girls, and only that which is perfect is allowed to be used for 'Sunrise' Preserves.

Fatal Accident at Cape Race.

RIGGED FELL 60 FEET WHEN TACKLE BROKE.

As a result of a fall from a mast at Cape Race Station, John Lake, a former resident of Fortino, met his death yesterday afternoon. The following particulars of the accident have been received by J.J. Collins, Superintendent of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, Lake, who was 22 years old, had recently been employed by the Canadian Government, and arrived here by last steamer in company with Mr. Robert Lake, to undertake some work at the Cape. At the time of the mishap the victim was engaged painting one of the aerial masts, and was about 60 feet above ground, when a rope, attached to his boatman's chair snapped, precipitating him to the ground. The tug Hugh D. was despatched to Cape Race at 6 o'clock last evening to bring the victim to hospital, but he expired before the tug reached the scene. Lake was 22 years old and unmarried.

Lewis's New Punch.

FRENCH BOXER KNOCKED OUT.

(By Trevor C. Wignall, in Daily Mail, Sept. 3rd.)

At Premierland, London, last night Ted ("Kid") Lewis, the welter-weight and middle-weight boxing champion of Great Britain, knocked out Marcel Thomas, the ex-middle-weight champion of France, in the fourth round of a 15-rounds contest.

Ten minutes of thrills is the only adequate way of describing the affair. It differed from the ordinary boxing contest in that it started at a gallop and finished at a pace that was positively gale-like in its violence.

Thomas must have realized from the earliest seconds that his only chance of success lay in forcing Lewis out of his stride, and for quite four minutes his forcing tactics paid so well that Lewis was often on the retreat as he was on the aggressive.

Towards the end of the second round Lewis produced a punch, that, so far as I am aware, is absolutely new. It was always delivered in a clinch, but the right arm was swung round to such an extent that the glove invariably connected with the Frenchman's jaw.

The punch is not exactly of the 'rabbit' variety, and yet it has its characteristics. It does not hurt so much as annoy, and Thomas's irritation was plainly demonstrated in the third round. But then he was somewhat the worse for wear, while Lewis was boxing with a coolness that clearly denoted his confidence.

TERRIFIC BLOWS.

The fourth round was on a par with the one seen at the Crystal Palace, when Wells fought Goddard. It was packed with action, with terrific blows with sheer, primeval battling. Thomas threw discretion to the winds; separating his feet, and standing perfectly still, he rained blows at his opponent, both hands working like hammers. That is the kind of thing Lewis enjoys. Imitating his antagonist, he too stood flat-footed, but as he was the quicker thinker of the two the inevitable was not long delayed.

Thomas received a clipping right on the jaw which put him down for a count of seven. Hardly had he risen, when he went down again, this time for a count of eight. He managed to scramble up, but Lewis, measuring him with accuracy, drove in a short right and Thomas went down like a log. Almost before the time-keeper raised his voice, the towel was thrown into the ring. It was a virtual knock-out, for it is inconceivable that the Frenchman could have got back to his feet in under ten seconds. A better or more stirring contest would be hard to imagine. This was Lewis's 22nd fight—he is still only 27 years of age—but last night he was as good as he had ever been during his long and strenuous career.

Obituary.

Mrs. Mary Coffin, of Haystack, P. B., died at her home yesterday morning at the advanced age of 82 years. Up to a few weeks ago the old lady was as active as if she were only half that age, and could converse on general topics with perfect ease. She leaves to mourn her demise two brothers, William Coffin of Haystack and Henry Coffin, well known in St. John's; also one sister, Mrs. George Wareham, of Haystack, to whom general sympathy is expressed.

The Meeting of Collectors in connection with Belvidere Oratory called for next Sunday, is indefinitely postponed. The Mother Superior and Sisters are deeply grateful for assurances of support so freely given, but it is felt that further consideration of the matter in hand will be more advisable at a later date.—sept15, 21

UNIVERSITY CONSOLIDATION.

By W. E. Maclellan, LL.D., in the Halifax Morning Chronicle.

There need be little, if any, doubt that the solution of the College Union problem, about to be submitted to the people of the Atlantic Provinces, will depend on the existing spirit of religious denominationalism as it has always depended in the past. I am using the phrase "Atlantic Provinces," and not "Maritime Provinces," for two reasons. First, because "Maritime Provinces" has come to have a particular, although not quite accurate, political rather than geographical significance. It is commonly used to denote the three Eastern Provinces of the Dominion; so used, it is defective, because British Columbia is quite as distinctly a Maritime Province of Canada as are they or any of them. Secondly, I use "Atlantic Provinces" to include Newfoundland in connection with the University question; it being as deeply interested in the right settlement of the question as any of the other Provinces concerned. I use the word "denominationalism," and not "sectarianism," because it seems to denote division without suggesting an improper underlying spirit which I hope, as manifested of old in the form of group self-satisfaction and the contending of those not of one's own group, has died a natural death. With these possibly necessary and certainly advisable explanations, I repeat that modern denominationalism will be directly on trial in the University issue, and that the outcome of the trial will depend mainly on the character revealed by that denominationalism. If it comes into open court with clean hands, a judicial mind and a pure heart, seeking not its own but the good of others, there will be no difficulty in effecting an arrangement and a settlement such as the best interests of general education, and therefore of the public, demand.

Much to be Gained.

I wish to point out clearly that, apart from tradition and vested material interests, denominationalism has absolutely nothing to fear and much to gain in connection with the proposed College Union. No one religious body is at present less interested in education than another. No denomination is opposed to the extension of secular education as far as possible. All are concerned that, under proper safeguards, the youth of their membership should be given the very best available opportunities and facilities for learning and for the acquisition of knowledge which tends to individual and social betterment. All must and do know that such opportunities and facilities are not being, and cannot be, afforded by the existing Colleges. Therefore, all are, or should be, equally concerned in providing fuller and better opportunities and facilities. All must, and I believe, do know that this can only be done by means of the combination and co-operation of existing institutions.

Between us and the end which we all desire to attain, there exist, except for local, or purely material obstacles, only vague religious doubts or apprehensions. It may as well be frankly stated, because it is a well known fact, that the proposed Union, which alone I am considering, can only be effected by an agreement to establish the consolidated University in the City of Halifax. There is no other satisfactory site available. Dalhousie University has a foundation in this city that it is willing to contribute to the Union, which unmistakably and undeniably weighs down the scale in its favor. A city of some size, with its ordinary equipment and special advantages, is universally recognized as an absolutely necessary adjunct of any effective modern university. The question of College Union is hardly worth discussing seriously apart from the preliminary acceptance of Halifax, with Dalhousie's contributions, as the site of the suggested new University.

No Real Cause for Fear.

This will naturally evoke expressions of alarm from some with regard to the alleged temptations and dangers of city life. That there will be no real cause for fear need scarcely be argued. It is only necessary to remember the situations of practically all the great colleges and universities of the world, most of them in cities far larger and much more seductive than Halifax, and few, if any, of them better policed, or as morally and religiously, peopled, as this city. Few who have had personal experience of life in the small town as compared with the city will be found contending that the small town is a safer place for youth than the city. Intemperance, or "drinking," as it is popularly called, is the temptation feared more than any other for their sons by most parents. From my own observation I can assure them that there is and has been less "drinking" in Halifax since Prohibition was enacted, in proportion to population, than in any considerable town in the Province that I know of. The law has been and is being as well enforced here as such a law can be. The other temptations to which young folk are susceptible are, so far as I am aware, at least no greater in Halifax than in the present sites of any of the existing Colleges.

The opportunities for each denomination to watch over and safeguard its students would be much better and more effective here, if the proposed plan of Consolidation were adopted, than they can be in present circumstances. Each College, all grouped around a common centre, semi-isolated from the city, would be a place of residence under the immediate special care of chosen representatives of its own denomination. Each would bring with it and retain, if it chose, its own name, its own traditions and its own internal management. During the first two years of their course, it would teach, as well as directly watch over all the interests of its own students regularly registered as its residents. Its students so enrolled would remain as its residents during their whole course, and would be required to attend only classes approved and arranged by representatives of its authorities in the councils of the University.

Indefinitely Multiplied.

Residents of the denominational Colleges would have around and in close touch with them in Halifax, far larger bodies of people of their own denominations than are to be found near their present sites. They would have opportunities for attending services of their respective churches and meeting and hearing distinguished clergymen of their respective denominations, which they do not now enjoy. They would find the active influence and protection of their denominations, everywhere around directing and protecting them. They would in addition be under the constant observation, and under the stimulus of the generous emulation in well-living and well-doing, of the students of sister Colleges, all owing common loyalty to a central institutional government of which their representatives would be competent members. to the new University itself, with which the fortunes of all the Colleges would be inseparably linked, would at once spring up, be fostered and strengthened by elevating rivalry in education culture and achievement with other great universities in Canada and the United States. All the surroundings would promote moral and spiritual elevation. Every worthy and noble influence, which properly directed education can exert, would be made effectively operative in both Colleges and University. The opportunities for learning and the means of education, in its true sense, would be in definitely multiplied.

And such a University, surrounded by such Colleges, can be secured and made available for Atlantic Province students if only our denominations of to-day are sober, if they prove themselves wise as serpents as well as harmless as doves, if they lay aside passing prejudices and petty self-seeking for the greater general good not only of their children, but of their children's children and successive generations yet to be, and so for the exaltation of these historic Provinces to their rightful place in the world of education, intellect, morals and genuine religion.

MIRNARD'S LINIMENT FOR WARTS

Evening Telegram

The Evening Telegram, Ltd., Proprietors. Saturday, September 30, 1922.

Still Harping.

Our evening contemporary still continues harping on the string of the Fish Regulations, and insists that their removal is the cause of present conditions and prices. Not only that but with characteristic inveteracy it alleges that the Opposition newspapers — Telegram and Daily News — feature the news that Labrador fish has now dropped to four dollars, and no one is anxious to buy. All this with the ulterior motive of gulling the fishermen North that had the Fish Regulations been kept on, prices would be booming to-day. The Telegram does not apologise to either the Advocate or the fishermen for giving in its news columns day by day all the information it can secure on the price of fish. It is the right of the people to know this. To keep them in the dark — as our contemporary does — is nothing short of criminal. Fishermen desire to know everything that transpires concerning their products, and it is the duty of the press to supply all the information it can secure from the trade to these men. The Regulations for which so much was claimed by their foster parents, simply did not do all that was promised for them and their effect on foreign trade, Newfoundland sailed to windward of herself — to use a well known expression — in sticking to these fatal rules for so long as she did. But not till after the mischief was done were they removed. Prices had slumped, merchants had been ruined and trade paralysed by the enforcement of these same regulations and by the prohibition placed on exporters. Had the Regulations been of such benefit as is now contended, why were they removed? It could not have been to satisfy popular clamor, nor yet in the interests of the fishermen, who in the fall of 1920 when the Regulations were in operation were obliged to hawk their fish from premises to premises, and were ultimately compelled to sell at whatever prices they could negotiate. "The poor fishermen," wails the 'umble Advocate, "must bear the burden," meaning by that the loss in returns due to the low price of fish. But there is not a word about the other burden of taxation that he has to bear, taxation piled upon him by those who have so long posed as his friends; taxation that takes seventy per cent. of his earnings to satisfy the most expensive and extravagant administration that ever afflicted a free and independent people. Coaker's policy was knifed by himself. He, as quickly as any person, saw the irreparable damage his Regulations were doing, and withdrew them — but too late. The fisherman must hark back to the year when the Fish Regulations were placed on the statutes, if he wishes to find the date from which the price of his products began to go down hill. All the Machivellian processes that the Advocate can invent, all the casuistry that its language can conceal, will fail to prove to the fishermen that the notorious Regulations were his sheet anchor. Newfoundland has had a period of Coakerism, and it has been an experience that the people will not be anxious to repeat.

Promenade Band Concerts.

As will be seen by their advertisement in to-day's paper, the C.C.C. Band are holding their Grand Opening Promenade Concert and Dance in the Prince's Rink on Monday next at 8.30. These Concerts proved a wonderful success last season, and no doubt this season's will prove equally as popular. Superintendent O'Neill has again kindly given the Band the use of four police officers, who will look after the vast crowd who attend the Concerts, so that perfect order will be maintained throughout the Concert season. These entertainments begin at 8.30 and finish about 10.30. Slogan: "Follow the crowd" Prince's Rink Monday night.

Caught in a Flood.

LINESMAN'S NARROW ESCAPE. On Sunday, Sept. 24th, Wm. Abbott of Burin, an assistant telegraph line repairer, had a narrow escape from drowning by the fogging of a camp in which he slept, according to Mr. Joseph Penny, chief line repairer. Mr. Abbott, who is over 60 years old, was sleeping in a camp situated at the side of a river, when an unusual downpour of rain turned the brook in on the camping ground. He was caught in the rushing water and washed up amongst some brush wood. After some difficulty the cook and other members of the camp succeeded in getting the old man to safety. It was some days before Abbott recovered sufficiently to resume work.

Painting Stations.

MORE RAILWAY IMPROVEMENTS. A gang of painters and builders will begin work soon on various stations along the line, painting those that need it and making repairs where necessary. This is following up the policy of line improvements advocated by the present management. The steam shovels, which have been engaged in getting material for ballasting, have now been taken off, as the trackmen have all they need to ballast the track for this fall. In all, 75 miles of the main line were ballasted this year.

Carbonear Service.

ONE TRAIN ONLY WILL OPERATE. Beginning Monday next, only one train a day will be run to Carbonear instead of the two which have been running on every day except Sundays during the summer months. The one train will leave St. John's at 8.45 each morning. The only exception to this regulation will be Saturdays, when a morning and evening train will be run for the convenience of those going to points between St. John's and Carbonear for the week end.

The Day of Atonement.

The Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur as it is named in Hebrew, falls due this year Monday, October 2nd, and is observed by the Jewish people in all parts of the world with unvarying solemnity from sunset Sunday evening, October 1st, until sundown on October 2nd. No other holiday of the Synagogue is invested with such importance as is attached to this day of soul-searching and repentance. It is perhaps the most distinctly Jewish holiday of the Synagogue, one that is most pervasive and states in fullest measure the ultimate goal and purpose of Israel's striving. The Messianic fulfilment of the Jews as well as humanity's destiny is foretold in the liturgy of this service.

The ceremonial observance of the Day of Atonement requires the worshipper to withdraw from all worldly cares, and forgetful of the workaday affairs which have occupied him during the year, give himself unto God in thoughts of prayer and repentance. The devout tarry in the synagogue from morning till evening, abstaining from food and drink, so that by affliction their souls may be the better purged themselves of sin. Under the severe discipline of this inspection and fasting the worshipper exercises a larger degree of self-control in his relations with humanity and thus becomes reconciled to man and God.

Set high as life's great throbbing star, the ideals for which the Jews have lived and died are on the Day of Atonement again proclaimed. In the poetic ritual of the service, some passages of which are acknowledged to be of unparalleled sublimity, this confidence is vouchsafed that all men and women as well as the children of the house of Jacob are factors and processes in the hands of the Creator of the Universe who fashions the careers of men and women according to a divine plan whose ultimate goal is the establishment of an era of peace and good will among men. To impress upon each individual worshipper the responsibility of his life and action and make him duly conscious of his importance as an agent in furthering the purposes of God on earth, is among the many lofty concepts embodied in the liturgy of the Day of Atonement.

Yom Kippur has a long ancestry, and like many of the holidays and ceremonials of the Synagogue has undergone changes during the centuries of unbroken historical existence in which the Jews have sojourned among men. In the Mosaic Code, for example, on this day the high priest in the Temple performed the important function of expiation for the sanctuary, the priesthood and the people.

In contrast to this priestly monopoly of service with its external forms of expiation, the rabbis of the Synagogue clothed this holiday with the mantle fallen from the shoulders of the prophets of Israel and invested it with the doctrine of God's mercy and paternal love. It is due to the teachers of the Synagogue that the Day of Atonement was divested of its sacrificial features as those detailed in Leviticus 16: 2-24 and Ezekiel 45: 16-20. According to their preaching the conception of atonement was altered to enforce on the worshipper the truer verdict that all repentance must be effected in the heart and soul of the sinner, the individual worshipper. Only thru his own efforts could a genuine reconciliation with God and man be obtained.

One phase of the ritual in the modern synagogue is devoted to the remembrance of dear ones called to their eternal reward. The memorial services usually held in the afternoon of the Day of Atonement are solemn and impressive and are intended to remember not only those members of the Jewish community who have passed away but to commemorate all good and noble men and women who have served the cause of humanity and increased peace in the world.

From Cape Race.

Special to Evening Telegram. CAPT RACE, to-day. Wind N.N.E., fresh. The schooner Harry & Verna passed in yesterday afternoon. A very sad accident occurred yesterday, at the D.F. Wireless Station, when a young man, by the name of Jack Lake, fell from a mast, a distance of 50 feet and died about a half hour afterwards. He was an assistant to his brother-in-law, Robert Lake, who is in the Naval Service of Canada. Both belong to Fortune Bay and had been here only a few days. The young chap was only eighteen years old. To his sorrowing parents we offer our heartfelt sympathy. The tug Hugh D. left here at 7 a.m. for St. John's, Mr. R. Lake accompanying the body. No shipping sighted to-day. Bar, 29.85; Ther, 64.

War Memorial.

LETTER FROM PADRE NANGLE.

The National War Memorial should be ready for unveiling on July 1st next, says Padre Nangle in a letter recently received by a member of the War Memorial Executive Committee. All preparations are being hastened and designs for the statuary will be soon ready to be submitted to the Committee for approval. Major Green here, is giving his services gratis and is at present in Italy securing granite for the base of the memorial. This granite, it is hoped, will be shipped direct from Italy as ballast in local fish carriers. By this means, a considerable saving will be made on the freight charges. The granite will be prepared before it is shipped and will be ready for placing in position as soon as it arrives. The monument will have to be of bronze as this is the only material of which it can be constructed to withstand local climatic conditions. Arrangements have been made with the Commercial Cable Company, whereby His Majesty the King may, by pressing a button, perform the unveiling ceremony. Further particulars are promised later.

Barque Madeline

Constance.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

The Barque Madeline Constance, which according to to-day's New York dispatches was destroyed by fire whilst on the passage from Falmouth, England, was commanded by Capt. Coward, and carried a crew of ten men. The vessel left Falmouth after receiving repairs on Sept. 2nd. She carried a part general cargo which was loaded at Rotterdam. The Minister of Shipping received a message to-day from the station, via Cape Race, somewhat to the effect that the Canadian Press dispatch in the position of the vessel when abandoned was given at 48.03 N. latitude, 37.45 W. longitude.

Personal.

Mr. M. S. Sullivan, M.H.A., arrived in town yesterday from a successful shooting trip.

Mrs. J. B. Murphy motored to Hr. Grace this morning to spend the week end with friends.

Mr. R. E. Bennett, son of Mr. J. R. Bennett, left by the Rosalind to resume his studies at McGill University.

Mr. Bennett was second in all Canada in last year's work. He is taking Arts and obtained 771 marks out of a possible 1000.

Mr. Hedley Wareham, who recently returned from the United States is at present in the city on a vacation. Since leaving Newfoundland Mr. Wareham has made good sailing as Chief Officer on a large ship between New York and ports on the West Coast of South America. After a short visit to his friends here he will return and take up his former position.

The Rev. Henry Gordon is preaching at St. Thomas's tomorrow morning and leaves for England, via Canada, by the Sable L. on Tuesday. Mrs. Gordon accompanies him. They will not return here until the spring.

Unique Finale.

ORPHANASID CLUB CLOSURE SUCCESSFUL DRIVE.

The motor car lottery conducted by the Orphanasid Club for the last few weeks was brought to an unique and successful finale last night by a grand promenade concert and dance at the Prince's Rink which attracted over four thousand people to that spacious building. Although the night was a rather uncomfortable one, very large numbers were waiting for the opening of the doors at a quarter to eight. When the opening number was played at 8.30, all the available accommodation was pretty nearly filled, while there were many dancers on the main floor. An hour afterwards there was scarcely room to move about the promenades or galleries of the building. The programme opened with a concert number the Catholic Cadet Corps Band and thereafter for an hour and a half, Captain Arthur Bulley's splendid organization, ably assisted by the skilled little musicians from Mount Cashel, provided the music of many concert numbers and dancing items which kept the big gathering in the greatest of good humor and effectively vanquished the slightest tinge of tedium or monotony.

During the whole evening two wheels of fortune were operated by teams of Orphanasid Club members and when the hand played, "God Save the King," they had disposed of a large number of books of tickets. The two teams were in charge of Councillor Reg Dowden, Secretary of the Club, and Mr. Andrew Carnell. As a result of the energetic and unceasing work of the teams, all but a few of the remaining books of tickets were disposed of before the program was finished and the teams tied in their sales on the door Mr. B.B. Stafford Hon. Dr. Mosdell and Mr. John J. St. John had a very busy evening coping with the crowd as it streamed in. All who entered had to purchase one ticket on the motor car for admission and a large number of books were disposed of in this way. Most of those who came by the racket gave practical encouragement to the charitable activities on the Club by buying tickets in lots of five, ten and twenty.

Last night's event was the idea of Captain Bulley and Mr. E. Furlong who offered the services of the C.C.C. Band to the Orphanasid Club, an undertaking enthusiastically and unflinchingly endorsed by the bandmaster and approved by the commanding officer of the Corps. Brother Ennis and his superiors and associates kindly placed the Boys' Band of Mount Cashel at the disposal of the Club for the same event and the result was one of the most enjoyable musical evenings such a large gathering of St. John's citizens have experienced for a very long time. The members of the Orphanasid Club, too, were delighted with the spontaneity with which volunteers came forward during the evening, as need arose, to undertake any duty, from selling ice cream and tickets, to managing the dancing events on the program. It is utterly impossible to mention them all by name. Every helper was an enthusiastic worker and Hon. Dr. Mosdell and his associates were especially grateful to them for their kindly work and for the splendid financial results it assured. Special mention must be made of the management of the Rink who gave the Club the use of the building free. During the evening, a solo rendered by Mr. Carl Trapnell, and a recitation by Mr. Tom O'Neill, each in his own inimitable style, delighted the thousands of auditors present. After the concert, the members of the Orphanasid Club met at the house of Mr. B. B. Stafford and decided to hold the drawing for the car at the C.L.B. Armory on Wednesday of next week at 8 p.m. The public will be welcome to witness the proceedings.

The Feildian Club Dance will be held on Wednesday, October 18th. Be sure and reserve the date. —sept2011

Blue Puttee's Reunion.

FINAL MEETING ON MONDAY.

The final meeting of the Blue Puttees to complete arrangements for the anniversary of sailing from St. John's on that eventful day October 4, 1914, will take place in the G.W.V.A. rooms, Water Street on Monday night next, October 2nd. This celebration marks an epoch in the historical and patriotic Association of Newfoundland with the Empire, and it is hoped that every R.P. who can make it convenient will attend this meeting. October 4th is a Red Letter Day in the annals of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, and the hope is expressed by the Executive of the Veterans Association that a grand rally will follow this announcement for Monday night's gathering. The celebration will be held at Donovans, and all who wish to attend should make their appearance at Monday night's meeting. Who can forget General Sir Aylmer Hunter-Weston's tribute to the sons of Terra Nova, "Better than the best."

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

GREAT SPORTS.
GLOUCESTER, Sept. 30.
Barring the schooner Mayflower by Canadian trustees will not prevent her American participation in the cup series. It was announced by the American Race Committee at one-thirty this morning, after a six hour session. United States body wired the Canadian trustees a suggestion that this year's race be free for all fishing vessels with a suitable special trophy, leaving the cup series over to next year, but adding that in the event that this suggestion is not favorable, United States challenger will be chosen in the usual way.

RELIVING ON BRITAIN.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.
Large forces of British troops are landing here from the transport Glenorm Castle. So encouraged and relieved the vast mobs of Greeks and Armenians who had been storming passport bureaus in crowds, melted away, saying, "we won't bother with passports now the British are sending men and ships."

YIELD TO THAT IMPULSE.

A New Fall Hat.
I told an English hatter—"send the latest," and he did.
You'll agree.
A tip-top, enlivening style with smartness born into it.
Has all the pretensions of a high-priced hat without the high price.
Four dollars.
Indoors. Society says "on with the dance."
For the new Season, Dancing Pumps, half price.
Ever think of asking for our two for a quarter handkerchiefs?

The New Novel

By James Oliver Curwood.
Never has Mr. Curwood written a more virile, gripping or swiftly moving story than "The Country Beyond," in which he tells of the outlaw, for Nada the "foster-girl" of Jed Hawkeye and of their enforced separation through the tracking down of Jolly Roger by Cassidy of the Royal North West Mounted Police. "The Country Beyond" is one of the most spacious and fascinating stories that has yet come from the pen of this brilliant writer. Price $1.50.
Garrett Byrne, Bookseller and Stationer.

Relocating Track.

IMPROVEMENTS NEAR KELLIGREWS.
The work of relocating and relaying four and a half miles of track between Kelligrews and Holyrood is now under way and should be completed shortly. This section of the line is exposed to constant danger from heavy seas and the rails are being moved more inland. The rails taken from the abandoned Fortune Bay branch are being used to replace those which are discarded from the section which now is being relaid.

In Self Defence.

WAS PROVOKED TO FIGHT.
Two men were summoned to appear before the Magistrate this morning charged with disorderly conduct on New Gower St. but only one turned up. He stated that the missing defendant, who was apparently drunk, had attacked him and he was forced to defend himself. Under the circumstances he was discharged and a warrant was made out for the arrest of the other defendant.

Warlike Cousins.

AN EXPENSIVE BLOW.
A resident of Nagle's Hill had his cousin brought before Judge Morris this morning charged with common assault. Accused pleaded guilty but said he had been provoked to hitting his relative, who bore the signs of combat on his face. The Judge told the assaulter that the provocation he had received was not sufficient to justify the attack he had made and fined him $5 and costs.

Shot by Wireless.

Interesting novelties were shown at the Wireless Exhibition at the Central Hall, Westminster, S.W., by Major Raymond Phillips, inventor of the wireless-controlled airship.
By a simple wireless signal tapped out on an ordinary Morse key Major Phillips sets in motion a motor-horn and a flash-lamp for taking indoor photographs, while another signal works the trigger of a pistol and fires a shot.
The point about the apparatus is that it is unaffected by other wireless signals in the building.

Forty-Three Years in the Public Service--The Evening Telegram

Thistledown Frae Scotland.

HUMOURS OF DRAM-DRINKING.
"Lesse me on drink, it gie's us mair than either school or collage; It kindles wit, it waukens lea; It pangs us fu' o' knowledge, Be't whisky gill or penny whoop, Or any stronger potion. It never fails, in drinking deep, To kittle up oor notion By night or day."
So sang Scotland's greatest, Scotland's sweetest poet, and whether in his heart of hearts he believed the sentiment which in those lines we find so vigorously expressed, he has undoubtedly reflected therein, for the enlightenment of his countrymen through succeeding ages, the popular notion of his own time regarding the potency of the "dram." In Burns' day, and for some time thereafter, happy days and whisky were regarded as almost synonymous terms; deep drinking was fashionable, and "the last beside his chair to fa" was verily the hero of the social community. "We're happiest when we're fou," is a well-worn proverb.

"We'll aye sit an' tittle owre a wee drapple o' croons" as an old song-writer evidently impressed with the conviction that a man could not be better occupied than in consuming malt liquors. "Freedom and whisky gang together—'a' o' your dram!" shouts Burns. Yes, but the same sweet singer has fervidly prayed:—"Oh, wad some power the gittle gie us To see oursel's as ithers see us."

The old school people had sublime confidence in the "dram" as a revivifying agent, and no mistake about it. Indeed, it was regarded in some quarters as a necessity to existence. And "be carfu' o' the mercies" was a stock phrase relating to it. The Highlander, content to pray for "a mountain o' snuff," wanted "oceans o' whisky." It was called in to act as an "eye-opener," and to serve also as a "night-cap." So regularly had a certain Scotch laird used it in the latter capacity, that once in his lifetime—so he said himself, he "got an' awfu' fricht." "We ran short o' the mercies," said he, "and I had to gang to my bed sober. I dinna feel ony the war the day, but, Lodsake, man I got an awfu' fricht."

A well-known Scotch laird of the old school, Dean Ramsay tells us, expressed himself with great indignation when someone charged hard drinking with having actually killed people. "Na, na," said he, "I never knew onybody that was killed wi' drinking, but I was kenned when I was in the training." So have we all, laid—a great many, and yet the students have been numerous and persistent. That Highlander who, when the minister shook his reverend head towards him, and said, "Whisky is a bad, bad thing, Donald," replied, "Ay, sir, especially bad whisky," thought, no doubt, that he had made a concession in opinion that would greatly mollify his clerical mentor.

Many of our tipplers possessed a rough and ready wit, and from that fact a little humour has sprung. A Perthshire blacksmith, was once remonstrated with by the Free Church minister who lived nearby amidst his frequent and excessive indulgences. "Was ye ever drunk, sir?" inquired the smith. "No, Donald," said the minister, "I am glad to say I never was." "It thocht as muckle," said the smith, "for, man if ye was ance richt drunk, ye wad never like to be sober a your days again."

"It's an awful thing that drink," exclaimed a clergyman, when the barber, who was visibly affected, had drawn blood from his face for the third time. "Ay," replied the tonsorial artist, with a wicked leer in his eye, "it mak's the skin tender."

"You are reeling, Janet," remarked a country parson, meeting one of his parishioners carrying more sail than ballast, as a preliminary to lecturing her on the evils of her conduct. "Troth, an' I canna see be apin, sir," returned she, casting anchor in the middle of the road, and leaning on the side of the road, and leaning on the side of the road.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES
Itched and Burned. Lost Rest. Cuticura Heals.
"My skin became irritated by using different kinds of ointments and when I scratched the pimples formed on my face and forehead. The pimples itched and burned and I scratched them, and my face was disfigured. I lost rest at night because of the irritation."
"The trouble lasted six weeks before I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using four cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment I was healed in one month."
(Signed) Miss Elizabeth Stevens, 1111-1113 St. Colburn, Calif.

blantly, up into the face of her interrogator. "You do not seem to catch my meaning clearly, Janet," continued the divine. "Do you know where drunkards go?" "Indeed, they generally gang whaur they get the whisky cheapest and best, sir."

"Yes, Janet, but there is another place where they go. They go where there is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth." "Humph," sneered the case-hardened old sinner, "they can gnash teeth that have teeth to gnash. I hain't a bad but a'se, stump, this forty year."

And yet there are instances to show that some of those old tipplers repented somewhat of their folly. The celebrated teetotaler, the Rev. Dr. Ritchie, of Potterrow, Edinburgh, once went to form a teetotal society at Peebles, and a man and wife who heard the speeches were conscientiously smitten, and after they went home they asked simultaneously. "Never, tho' the minister, 'unless for a medicine.'"

Nothing daunted by this the old couple took the pledge, and went home taking a bottle of whisky with them, the which Janet stowed away in the beer-house press to wait on cases of emergency. More than a fortnight elapsed before drink was again mentioned by one to the other, when one night John complained of an "awful pain in his stomach," and suggested that it might not be safe to go to bed without taking just half a glass or so "O, man, John, it's a pity ye have been sae lang o' speaking," said Janet, "for 'odsake, I've had sae many o' these tows mysel' this aucht 'ays thae there's no a drap o' you to the fore."

An old woman, who was a rigid total abstainer, was very ill. The doctor told the nurse that she must give her a little toddy the last thing at night, so when night came the nurse said to her patient. "The doctor says ye maun ta' some toddy."

"Oh, no, no!" whined the poor old body, "it's against my principle." "But, remonstrated the nurse, "the doctor says ye maun tak' it." "Aweel," replied the old woman, resignedly, "I suppose we maun use the means, but mak' it strong, and gar me tak' it—gar me tak' it."

It is remarkable how strongly the practice of dram-drinking had established itself in the social life of Scotland. It is the sore spot in it's national character—a distinct characteristic (happy in the way)—and the inducements to participation have been often novel and therefore humorous. "Well-to-do individuals long ago frequently gave instructions to their relatives likely to survive them to be sure and have plenty of whisky at their funerals. A Montrose tradesman, feeling the near approach of his dissolution, signalled his wife to his bedside and very gravely said, "Ye'll get in a bottle o' whisky, Mary, for there's to be a sad change here this night."

upon to take the pledge. Shortly afterwards she called upon a rather "dronklike neighbor," who was not aware of his visitor's reformation. The bottle was at once, as usual produced, and the recent convert to total abstinence was sorely tempted. She made, however, a gallant effort to remain true to principle, and, holding up deprecating hands, she said:—"Na, thank ye, Mr. Mitchell, 'Twa la'en the pledge, I have made a solemn vow not to pit han' or lip to glass again!" But then seeing Mr. Mitchell was about to remove the spirits, she hesitatingly said, "I daur say if you wad put a wee droppie in a tea-cup I could maybe tak' it."

Just Folks

BY EDGAR A. GUEST.

WHEN OCTOBER COMES,
When old October comes along
And sees the work all done,
The children gathered in a throng,
The old folks in the sun,
Just resting up a little while
And dozing in their chairs,
The mother with a patient smile
Forgetting all her cares,
And grateful to the God above
That she has lived them through,
Perhaps he sees a little of
The tasks we've had to do.

He never knows the April snows
And rains that battered down,
He never sees the garden rose
Or tulips in the town,
He never sees the pansies bloom
Or the robins sing,
For old October spells the doom
Of every growing thing,
He finds the trees complete for him
To take with red and gold,
But never feels the struggles grim
That comes with growing old.

And yet perhaps he understands
How patiently we've wrought,
And sees our worn and wrinkled
And knows how hard they've fought.
He never sees us in the fields
Beneath the paint October winds
When brush and paint October winds
The work has all been done;
And yet, as every maple glows
With wondrous beauty rare,
I think perhaps October knows
How much we've had to bear.

When comes October's angel down
To summon us away,
To robe us in his fairest gown
Although he has not seen us here
In times of grief and woe,
Struggling and toiling, year by year,
I think perhaps he'll know
He'll find us with our labors done,
And with his red and gold
Will hint the trials, one by one,
That come with growing old.

Try to Sell Water at $27,000 to Dry.

When the alleged owners of thirty-six barrels of what purported to be 108 proof whisky refused $35,000 for the lot, contending for $20,000 more, Federal Prohibition Agents Charles Guttman and Harry Drencher walked out of the Williams Storage Warehouse, 637 West 125th Street, recently and went to the office of United States Commissioner Hitchcock in the Federal Building, and procured a search warrant. They had been permitted to sample the whisky in course of the negotiations and were certain that it was pre-Volstead stuff.

Returning to the warehouse yesterday morning with a search warrant, the agents seized the barrels, which had been swollen in number to thirty-eight. Closer inspection disclosed to the amazed agents that it would take all of the thirty-eight barrels to yield one gallon of whisky of the kind they sampled on Friday. This amount was contained in the false top built into one of the barrels from which the samples were drawn on Friday for the agents. The rest of the contents of this barrel and the others was water.

Disclaiming any part in the attempted swindle, the owners of the warehouse said the barrels had been offered for storage as containing pickles and they had no knowledge to the contrary until the second visit of the prohibition agents. Dave Williams, manager of the warehouse, is said to have told the agents that he rented the ground floor of the warehouse recently to two men calling themselves Lewis Brothers, and gave their address as 214 East Twenty-ninth Street. Although Williams promised co-operation in running down the men who stored the barrels, he was given a summons to appear this week before Commissioner Hitchcock and explain all about the renting of the space to "Lewis Brothers."

The agents said that in an office building in Times Square, where a great many bootleg transactions are reported to be taking place now, they were introduced Friday afternoon to a whisky salesman, whose first name they recalled was "John." The salesman in turn introduced them to a man who was known as William Daly. After negotiating with him and agreeing upon a price of $30.50 a gallon for whisky, the agents said they went with him to the warehouse, where they saw the "merchandise" and sampled it. They made a lump offer of $35,000 for the liquor, but were coolly informed that nothing less than $27,000 would move the stuff. The search warrant was then procured.

Besides the barrels, the agents found a complete Government liquor testing instrument, together with a manual. The instrument had been used by Daly the day before in proving to the agents that the whisky was as represented—108 proof. It is understood that the testing instrument will now do legitimate service at prohibition headquarters. The agents are looking for Daly and the two "Lewis brothers."

Boll Weevil Does Immense Damage.

HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS LOST.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington estimates that boll weevil prevented the production in 1921 of cotton valued at $152,500,000. This is the greatest instance on record of destruction by boll weevil—lint and seed worth $40,000,000. It infects the boll and unrings cotton pod, and it is the maggot, not the perfect insect, which does the damage.—De Mall.

What to Your Best?
If one does his best every day, it is soon noticeable that what was best at one time is not now his best by any means. Practice in hard work never fails to enlarge the capacity for hard work. It is a natural law that to be strong one must not possess muscles but must use them constantly.

There is an immense "shake-up" and "shake-down" going on in commerce and industry all over the world. To-day the time of trial individual efficiency has arrived. The bricklayer who lays more bricks than the "average" bricklayer, the man who can raise his level a little higher every day is the man who will weather the storm.

Splendid Settings in "The Gilded Lily."

MAE MURRAY AT THE NICKEL MONDAY.

The Cafe Royal is a Times Square club where Broadway rounders go to break speed records on the fast life track and to watch the dancing of "The Lily" who has many admirers but no lovers. She is content to take what is offered her but gives nothing in return. One of her friends is a wealthy man about town, another is a young chap from New England who has left a sweetheart at home and is going the pace with the best of 'em at the Cafe Royal. He imagines that he is deeply in love with the dancer and his earnestness so impresses her that she gives up the false glitter that surrounds her and is ready to live for him alone. The boy soon tires of this and gets her to promise that she will go back to the jollity of the Cafe Royal. In the meantime young Thompson's mother has learned of her son's career in New York and of his engagement to "The Lily." She hurries to the city and has a scene with the girl which influences the dancer's decision.

Before her first dance is completed "The Lily" realizes that she cannot go on with the old life. She returns home and is followed by the intoxicated Thompson. There is a violent quarrel and the girl is saved by Cressington Howard, her wealthy admirer. He takes her to his mother and introduces her as the woman who is to be his wife.

Last Night's Concert. OVER 4,000 PEOPLE AT PRINCE'S RINK.

It is estimated that over 4,000 people attended the promenade concert and dance held last night in the Prince's Rink in aid of the Orphanaid Club Lottery. The O.C.C. and Mount Cashel Bands were in attendance and rendered very pleasing selections. Two teams of members of the Orphanaid Club disposed of a large number of lottery tickets. During the evening Mr. Karl Trappell and Mr. T. H. O'Neill contributed some pleasing numbers to the programme. To Captain Bulley and the members of the two bands great credit is due as it was a voluntary offering on their part which brought about the concert. The drawing for the car will take place on Monday evening.

Join the crowd and come to the Dancing Class in S.U.F. Hall every Monday and Thursday. Sept 29, 30.

Is The Child Less Than the Dumb Animal?

A PROTEST AGAINST JUVENILE BIRCHING FROM JULIA SALTER EARLE, PRESIDENT OF THE LADIES' BRANCH N.L.W.A.

For some time past my blood has been boiling as I have read the daily reports of the Police Court in the press, and found therein on several occasions sentences handed down from the bench that juvenile violators of certain laws had been ordered "birchings" by the presiding magistrates. These sentences have been carried out and upon the bare backs of youths physically unable to stand the cuts of the rod, have fallen the stripes imposed by the majesty of the law. And some of those receiving this barbarous form of punishment have been children of the workingman. In every instance the children of poor parents. Do we not know, can we not realize that our children and our brother workingman's children are not physically capable, because

For decades tea plants were imported into India from China. Later it was discovered that this was carrying coals to Newcastle, for tea was found growing wild in India superior to the imported.

This tea, improved by cultivation, and wedded to the cream of Ceylon tea, is the source of Blue Bird's goodness.
