EDUCATION IN ENGLISH

The fear is gaining ground in these days of technical knowledge and practical training, the basis of all education is being neglected. The technical schools and colleges of science are year by year turning out thousands of young men whose ambition is to engage in engineering and industrial undertakings of all classes. In order to prepare students to enter upon successful careers in the various departments of engineering, these technical schools have arranged their curricula with reference to teaching the largest amount of science and engineering that can be compressed into the time at the student's disposal. The schools have found it necessary to omit from their courses many studies which were formerly regarded as essential to a liberal education. Chief among these are the languages and English composition.

A knowledge of the modern languages is no doubt necessary to a highly successful career in many departments of science; and, in any event, it is clear that a liberal knowledge of English is absolutely essential to the engineer or scientist who hopes to ever make any great headway in his profession. An engineer may possess over so much practical knowledge, but what good will it be to him if he cannot write a presentable report or put his ideas into clear, concise English?

The technical journals on the other side of the line have awakened to the seriousness of the situation, and The Electrical Review raises its voice thus: "The value of an engineering report does not depend so much upon the erudition and the familiarity with the subject exhibited by the engineer making it, as it does upon his ability to make clear and explicit his reasons, to show logically the origin of his deductions, and to impress upon others his conclusions. It is precisely this art which has been neglected. Facility in the use of language is a tool in the hands of a competent man with which he can accomplish much. More knowledge with out this facility is practically useless."

The lack of instruction in English is no doubt more marked in the United States than it is in Canada, but we require, nevertheless, to pay attention to the warning. It is evident to the observer that in the eager rush after what is called "practical knowledge," the deficiency referred to has been allowed to extend more or less through the whole educational system on this continent. We have young men leaving school and college crum full of special knowledge, but yet unable to appreciate their mother tongue, or to write a coherent letter.

There is a good deal to be said after all in support of the old system of imparting knowledge. In the old time Public schools, spelling matches, training the young idea in the mysteries of orthography and the study of "Latin roots" laid the foundation for an appreciative understanding of our own language. And in the old time grammar schools and colleges the principle followed in the primary schools was carried out in order to give every student first of all a "liberal education."

Nowadays, except in the university arts courses, everything is sacrificed to the special training of pupils for practical life.

A VENERABLE OLD PARTY

DISBURBED.

The London Times is in a state of peculiar mood these days over the spread of socialism. Municipal ownership it holds to be a fraud. Britishism in the United States is a public danger. The efforts of the people to hold their own against the trusts is rank communism. In short, according to The Times, there are no urgent social and economic problems pressing for settlement. The condition of affairs to-day in the world is the best possible.

The Times is making a determined stand in behalf of the things of the nineteenth century as against the things of the new century. The Times speaks for wealth, for capital, for aristocracy, for government, for the select, for exclusiveness, for tradition, for the few. But there are others who are speaking for humanity, for progress, for the many, for a righting of existing wrongs, and who seek to improve the lot of all. Forty per cent. of the people in England are insufficiently fed, judged by a very low standard of living. And the same thing obtains in many other countries. Improvidence has much to do with this; but so also have had economic conditions, and it is to improve these conditions that the new movement is taking way. And it is this new movement that gives The Times its fearsomeness.

AID THE PRISONERS' AID.

The Prisoners' Aid Association, as their name signifies, are working for laudable ends, and the City Council will be justified in rendering the organization every service in their power. The association's recommendation that the jail be so equipped as to facilitate the segregation of frat offenders is worthy of full support from the city fathers. Under present conditions, which necessitate the commingling of those young in sin with the most hardened criminals, the jail is, as has been claimed, a school of crime. And the municipal authorities must do more than endorse the plans of the association in this respect. They must see that the jail is forthwith fitted out with the new separate cell system asked for.

The Council will likewise have the support of the public in voting the as-

CONSUMPTIVE HOSPITAL. Editor World: Will you kindly inform me thru your columns if there is any consumption hospital in or near Toronto? If not is there any talk of one being established? Can it be possible that in this city of 250,000 population, and the scores of wealthy men and women, a poor man's wife is left to die of want of some small article? Can it be possible that the ambulance rules are so important that a poor man's wife must die on the street for want of a vehicle to convey her to a place where her life might be saved? May God have mercy on those who have it in their power to help such cases as the one mentioned in the evening Star of November 3, and do not do so. Another Poor Man. There is a consumptive hospital at Gravenhurst, conducted on phisiatric lines.—E. A Paolney Exposed. It has been said that "the evil which men do lives after them, but the good dies with them." In one sense this is true, for the sins of one person affect many and leave their traces in the world for many years. But it cannot always be said that the good that men do dies with them, for the man who at his death holds a policy in the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, whose head office is in Toronto, leaves behind him at least one testimonial which will redound to his credit for the years to come.

PREPARE FOR THE TAX BILL

Amusement Forthcoming Over the Collection of the Supplementary School Rate.

MANY BILLS FOR ONLY ONE CENT.

Seventy Thousand Ratepayers to Pay Their Share of $110,000 for the Extra Tax.

The first payment on the supplementary school tax was made at the City Treasurer's office Wednesday afternoon.

There will be a lot of merry thoughts over this levy of tax, which is the outcome of the action of the School Board against the city, which resulted in a judgment that the city must pay what the School Board asked for maintenance of the school and increase of teachers' salaries.

They All Look Worried. The City Treasurer's office is in a mixed state of panic and disgust over the situation.

Mr. Coady takes a rather pessimistic view of the chances of getting the whole tax in.

Special bills have been printed and everyone who pays taxes to the city will get one.

More Trouble Than Ever. Mr. Coady candidly admits that there will be more trouble collecting this $110,000 than the department has had in getting in the $3,000,000, which is the annual tax collection for Toronto.

The fact that it takes 16 clerks one month to prepare the tax rolls gives an idea of the enormity of the undertaking.

Where the Blame Lies. The feeling is that the whole matter might have been averted had it not been for the action of the School Board.

That nasty feeling of "WHAT A DIFFERENCE IN THE MORNING" will soon vanish if you take "Club" Old Tom Gin.

WELDING THE CAR RAILS.

Expansion of Contraction Doesn't Count—Dupont-St. Next.

General Booth and His Staff Ride on Passes Over All the Railroads.

And Only a Small Charge is Made—Inquiry Answered by an Officer.

Some speculation has been aroused as to the manner in which General William Booth, head of the Salvation Army, travels: whether he rents a special car himself and staff officers during his tours or receives free transportation.

Editor World: According to newspaper reports General Booth is traveling in a special car. A few days ago I inquired of the general's secretary, Mr. J. G. Shearer, whether he rents a special car himself and staff officers during his tours or receives free transportation.

By welding the rails instead of using fish plates and bond wires the company expects to save 25 per cent of power.
