ENEMY SHIPS ARRIVE IN NEW YORK

Fine Grim Reminder of War Have Anchored in the Hudson.

Five grim reminders of the war, ships of the former German Imperial Navy allotted to the United States, were towed to anchorages in the Hudson River late yesterday afternoon. Four of them, a cruiser and three destroyers, had been so badly damaged that they had been unable to cross the Atlantic under their own steam and were towed by army transport Hancock.

By the terms of the peace treaty all of these ships must be destroyed within one year of the date of their arrival here. Hundreds of naval engineers and officers are to examine the dreadnaught, the cruiser and the destroyers. The Oostriesland, Frankfurt, V-43 and G-102 were at the Battle of Jutland, in 1916. The three destroyers were among the vessels sunk at Scapa Flow by their own German crews.

The Frankfurt reported the presence of Beatty's fleet at Jutland and sank two British destroyers. Water in the engines at Scapa Flow permanently ruined this craft. After Jutland the Frankfurt, still in good condition, was almost constantly at sea, a menace to British fishermen and the ships sailing between New York and Liverpool. She probably caused more worry to the Allies than any other single ship of combined Central Powers.

A HOLIDAY RAMBLE.

The summer of 1920 found us on board the train bound for Gaspe to gaze once more on the charming scenery and catch new glimpses of the marvelous beauties of the Gaspé Peninsula of which travellers never tire to write about.

One of the most attractive spots along the route is New Richmond. Here the Meigs Pulp Company is giving employment to a large number of people and paying many thousands of dollars for pulpwood every year.

Mr. R. H. Montgomery, President of the Montgomery Co. Limited is an interesting gentleman to meet. His eighty years he carries lightly and his quick and active mind is still normal. His account of the early settlers of New Richmond is most interesting. It sounds like a novel. But it is stranger than fiction. These early pioneers passed through many hardships. In summer they lived on eels and fruit and in winter on rabbits and caribou. And when neither could be obtained buckled their belts a little tighter until food was obtained.

The land was divided off into concessions and the farms are in tiers one after another, stretching for many miles from the sea coast. The present population is almost evenly divided between Catholics and Protestants. The first Protestant church was built at Black Cape, the members being mostly Scotch. The Presbyterian Church at New Richmond is about 80 years old. The present pastor, Rev. Mr. McKay, has a delightful home by the side of his church and is very popular.

Among the many attractive stores in the place is that of Starrak & Co. Mr. Starrak lately passed his reward. He is spoken of as a good man with splendid ability, honorable and upright in all his dealings. Mr. John Cail a capable and energetic man has charge of the business and is a popular merchant.

Perhaps the most historic spot in New Richmond is the Stanley House. This house was built on a beautiful point of land—Stanley Point, which thrusts itself out into Bay Chaleur, by Lord Stanley. This for many years was a resting place for a number of Governor Generals of Canada. Here Lord Stanley, Mr. Aberdeen and others spent some happy weeks in summer fishing, swimming and shooting. There our noble King George V spent part of a summer when he was Prince of Wales and declared himself to the people by his many gracious acts.

The place is now owned by Mr. Lanctot of Montreal who spends his summers here. Mr. Lanctot is a very genial gentleman to meet and his wife, who is an American by birth, is equally pleasant. We were invited to go into the Stanley house and were shown through it. It has many attractions and is especially dear to a Canadian because of its connection with a visit from our gracious King. In my next letter I want to speak of a love-making scene witnessed en route and of a wonderful discovery which has been made.

All the village knew Mrs. Jackson was not exactly generous. In fact, her few activities were things to avoid, if possible.

But when she invited Mr. and Mrs. Binkins to supper one evening they felt that they had to go since Mr. Jackson was their landlord.

During the forenoon of the great day Mrs. Jackson met the Binkins' maid of all work, in the local grocery store.

"Good morning," said she with a gracious smile. "I hope your master and mistress are bearing in mind that I expect them to come to supper with me this evening at 8 o'clock?"

"Indeed, an' they're remembering all right!" replied the girl frankly. "Sure, an' haven't they ordered a substantial meal at home for six o'clock?"

His Past.

"Yes, mum," answered the par-hander. "There was a time when I rode in my own carriage."

"My, what a come-down!" sympathized the Kind-Hearted Woman. "And how long has it been since you rode in your own carriage?"

"Just forty-five years, mum," replied the Par-hander, as he pocketed the proffered dime. "I was a baby then."

Adrianople

City Is Beautiful Even in Ruins

The decadence of the two continents, present political and economic disintegration, wars without end, and an uncertain future, have been unable to destroy the ineffable charm the Turks originally gave to Adrianople, a city of eighty odd thousand souls. Adrianople is still a holy city in faith and in appearance. Romance still abides there.

"The Orient is the only place left to Europe where cities seen at a distance are beautiful," remarked Jules Sebutin, a French aviator, while visiting the most beautiful of all mosques, Sinan's masterpiece 'in Adrianople, the mosque of a thousand windows but one, erected at the order of Sultan Selim II. in the sixteenth century.

The first impression of the city had been one of infinite beauty. Arriving from across the lofty Balkans in an airplane, the city had been seen with a rush, a place of spires and minarets, domes and red roofs, situated at the intersection of three rivers. It had been a welcomed sight. It had come at the end of a four hours' ride, and it was journey's end to a tired aviator.

Seen from afar, the city, surrounded by poplars at its outer rim, its house gardens within the city streets, green vines and figs, its outlying fields bare, aroused memories of Mardin, on the mountainside, Diarbekir by the Tigris and hosts of other Turkish cities, always gleaming in beauty, whether visited by sunshine or moonlight.

The longer the stay in Adrianople, the more the charm of this beauty grows, a charm that is as great as that of a city.

Adrianople is a city that has the tone of country friendship about it, not unlike a country seat of the south. The centre of the agricultural exchange business of Eastern and Western Thrace, it is frequented by peasants and 'baba's' of Turkish, Greek, Bulgarian, Jewish and Armenian nationalities. There is record of but one American ever having done business in the city, and he came from Paris and bought up all the land.

While no day knows what the next may bring forth in the way of political strife and crime, today the city preserves this tone of friendship and order. Strangers as they go along the streets, or visit the mosques, are treated with kindly concern. The Turkish officers salute courteously and the soldiers with a hint of hostility in the eyes of the Turkish soldiers carrying their new rifles, recently distributed by Col. Dieder Turner Bey. His martial law is administered with gentleness, though there is no doubt that the strictest law is the law.

The decadence of Adrianople goes at a dignified pace. There is little or none of the shouting and shouting and noise and bustle of Constantinople. There is some of the elegance of Constantinople's streets, but the ragged bazaar children who beseege the stranger, but for the most part the city endures its shabby gentility with pride and calm. Here there are none of the fallen houses and dusty streets which characterize the majority of the cities of Asia Minor.

Any day the city may surprise the world by its appearance. Few war-ships come here but on the dreary Friday afternoons, when the Muslim's day of worship, come a devoted band of musicians and singers. The aviator stumbled upon this group as he turned to go away. One of the red fisted hands came and saluted with the lovable simplicity of the Turk, and said, "Allah omrah-lahik" ("May God abide with you.")

Iron Clothes With Feet.

In Cairo men employed in the native tailoring establishments iron their clothes with their feet. Extent for the long handle, the irons are shaped like an ordinary flat-iron, but are larger. A solid block of wood rests on the top of the iron, and on this the men place one foot, holding the iron in the desired direction by means of the handle. For the sake of convenience, ironing-boards are raised only a few inches from the ground, and, however strange the method may seem, the work is done well and expeditiously.

An Ingenious Machine.

A machine has been built which will shape masts up to 100 feet in length and three feet in diameter. The timber is set up in the machine and turned at a speed of fifty revolutions a minute, and it is shaped by a cutter head which is electrically driven at the rate of 700 revolutions a minute.

MRS. FRED SMITH

SUFFERED 10 YEARS

Says the Good Tanlac Did Her Is so Wonderful as to be Almost Unbelievable.

When the Tanlac representative called on Mrs. Fred Smith of Power's Court, Glen Falls, St. John, N. B., he got a most hearty reception from both her husband and herself. "We are so glad to see you," said Mrs. Smith, who is a bright little Yorkshire woman.

"Anyone on Tanlac, business is welcome here, for if it hadn't been for that marvelous medicine I shouldn't be up and about the house to-day." Then was related a story which did the representative's heart good to listen to.

"You see I have suffered from dyspepsia and a disordered stomach for quite ten years. No one knows what I have gone through during all that time. I could never enjoy a meal even fish used to upset me. I had fits of dizziness and often I would jump up from the table with a feeling that I was going to faint. Some times my heart would palpitate so terribly I feared I had heart trouble, but I know now that it was only caused by the pressure of the gas which used to form on my stomach. I got so weak at last that I could scarcely get around, and it was quite a task to climb a flight of stairs. For the last two years my condition has been almost chronic, for in addition to my other troubles I have suffered terribly from rheumatism. The muscles at the back of my knee would knot up into great lumps causing me intense agony and the joints of my fingers used to swell up so that I could scarcely use my hands. For two months last winter I was in bed and my daughter had to stay at home and help nurse me. I was a pitiable sight I can tell you."

"It seems almost unbelievable but it was Tanlac which rescued me from this deplorable condition. My husband had read in the papers the statements of other people who had greatly benefited by its use, and it was he who bought the first bottle. That first bottle did me so much good that I cannot the present and it was not long before my rheumatism left me entirely and it has not returned. I got such an appetite and to my surprise found that my food agreed with me and was doing me good. I quickly got stronger and to-day I am so well that I can do my own housework and think nothing of a two-mile walk. Everybody who suffers as I did ought to know about Tanlac as it is for the reason that I give you this statement."

TANLAC is sold in Campbellton by THOMAS WRAN, Druggist; in Jacquet River, by S. McALLISTER, in Archibald Settlement, by M. SKEARER; and in Chandler by ARTHUR NADEAU.

RETURNED SOLDIER

LOST IN WOODS

Was Three Weeks in Forest Alone—Lived on Berries and Was Nearly Dead.

After being lost in the wilds of Algoma for twenty-three days William E. Davis, who went overseas in the Sixty-ninth battalion, which remained one winter in St. John, has been rescued by prospectors who happened to find him lying on the ground in an emaciated condition and unable to help himself. Davis was wounded in France and bears a battle scar. He is thirty years of age, of Irish descent and was born in Montreal.

Last month Davis, who was in the employ of Clifford Miller, a pulpwood contractor, operating in the Michipicoten district, lost his bearings while packing to camp the dishes from which the crew had lunched. He got mixed on trails, and followed the wrong one, which ended in a cul de sac. He was unable to locate himself before night fell.

When the crew returned to camp and learned that he had not turned up, a search party started out but found no trace of him. They fired a few shots to give him the direction, but Davis, although he heard the shooting, could neither make out the direction of the shots, nor make himself heard. The search was kept up for several days by parties of from ten to thirty men, including Indian hunter fashion. The weather turned quite cold at night, and the search was abandoned. Davis was believed to be either dead or to have quit his job, and headed for Algoma Central Railway track.

The latter theory gained evidence as the time went by. But as the sequel showed he was neither dead nor had he quit his job willingly for he is now at work where he left off.

Story of Endurance.

It is a story of almost incredible endurance. Davis "chucked" the dishes on the second day, but hung on to the pack-sack. As he had no coat, and only one shirt, he cut a hole in the bottom of the pack-sack which he slipped over his head at night. This afforded him some protection from cold and rain. Although a smoker, he happened to see a person when he wandered off. He gave neither tobacco nor matches on lived entirely on partridge berries for the first two weeks. When the blueberries began to ripen he fared better. He drank little water.

A day or two before he was found he became very weak and felt that the end could not be far off. By this time, however, he was lying on a hill top within sight of Lake Superior, not over two miles from the shore. Although he heard motor launches pass, he was too weak to cross the scrubby broken country that intervened between his resting place and the water.

Providence finally came to the rescue. Two prospectors, "Doc" Lovell and Mike Rowan, happened to be negotiating a difficult portage. They decided to drop the canoe which they carried and hunt up some easier route. While doing so they separated, but kept in touch by talking loudly one to the other. Davis fortunately heard them, and summoned enough strength to make for the prospectors immediately made for the energy to raise a shout. The prospectors and found a pitiable object, he was at first from sheer weakness unable to accompany them. One of them had knocked over a partridge just a little while before. They cooked it and made a bouillon which gave the poor man enough strength to accompany them to Michipicoten River village only two or three miles distant. There they left him in the kind hands of a party of river drivers employed by the Lake Superior Paper Company.

When the writer saw Davis three days after his rescue he was eating four meals a day—a three man portion to each meal. The boys had replaced his shreds with becoming raiment, and he was a very happy and grateful man.

Davis attributes his wonderful endurance to his four years' experience in the army.

DROP IN MOLASSES.

The situation in the molasses market locally is normal. Supplies are not exceptionally heavy. The demand has fallen off considerably and very few sales have been made. Whole salers reduced the price to $1.50 per gallon yesterday and retailers are asking $2 per gallon. The wholesalers say that in reducing the price, they have cut their margin of profit so that it actually does not exist and they are losing by the transportation. —St. John Telegraph.

The former infantry major, now in civies, sauntered into the barber shop. Eight barbers snapped out of restful postures and stood stiffly by their chairs. The major hesitated, feeling there was something he should do about it. Then: "As you were!" he belted.

THE RIGHT WAY.
THE secret of SUCCESS in shopping lies in being able to LOOK at the garment before you pay for it. You not only LOOK at it. You try it on. You have the chance to try on several. If one does not suit, another WILL. If alterations are needed, the fitting can be done on the spot. There MAY be other ways to shop. But this is the only RIGHT way. This is the "trade-at-home" way. And it brings not only SUCCESS to you, but adds prosperity to your town as well. Every purchase you make in this way creates a permanent value in your community, apart from the value and pleasure YOU get out of it. And you become a community builder. Then why shop any other way? Keep this picture in mind and you will not fail in your duty to yourself and your town.

HAS NECESSARY POWER.

Now that Campbellton needs an engineer there is a strong feeling that when such an official is appointed he should be made town manager.

The Council has, under its incorporation act, power to appoint such a manager is freely expressed by His Worship, Mayor Murray who, we all must admit, has a very wide knowledge of the rights and privileges bestowed upon this town by the legislature. But to make matters doubly sure His Worship had the Town Solicitor go fully into the matter.

Mr. Carr's opinion was that no special legislation would be required for the appointment of a town manager.

As to whom said manager would be responsible, it must naturally follow that as he would be appointed by the Council, to the Council he would be amenable, and thus indirectly to the ratepayers, as the Council are amenable to these.

It is freely suggested that the town employ such a manager for a term of two or three years with the understanding that he must make good to hold his position. Matters can hardly be worse, and it is felt that there is room for vast improvement in the general management of the corporation, which one man, devoting his whole time to civic matters should be able to effect.

He might also be appointed Secretary of the School Board with general supervision over all expenditures in this department.

The Graphic and those who favor the appointment of such a manager are sincere. They, individually, have nothing to gain, but are endeavoring to work in the best interests of the town.

If you, Mr. Ratepayer, are interested either way let your voice be heard. By our past lack of interest in civic

ANCIENT POETRY.

Oriental Wrote Clever and Satirical Verse.

Walter Bynner, the American poet, seems to have a taste for curiauties in literature. Mr. Bynner is going to China for the purpose of working on an anthology of Chinese poetry. He will endeavor to reproduce in English, not a literal rendering of the poems, but an emotional equivalent, using the English idiom that is as familiar to our ears as the quaint phrases were to the Chinese. His method of procedure is to be very simple. He will be accompanied by Prof. Kiang Kang Hsi, formerly head of the Chinese University in Peking and more recently connected with the Chinese Department of the University of California. Prof. Kiang Kang Hsi will make a literal translation of the poems that Bynner wants to use, and then the poet will turn the material into English verse.

Of course this is not the first time that Chinese poetry has been turned into its English equivalent. Sometime ago a little volume entitled "170 Chinese Poems" appeared, of which Mr. Arthur Waley was the translator. The collection was a mixed one, as several of the poems dated back to seven hundred years before Christ. Mr. Waley did not try to make good poems out of the Chinese verse, but attempted to catch their ideas and their spirit. A translation of a satire entitled "On the Birth of His Son," which sounds not unlike the ironical verses that are now making Stripped Sassoon famous as a poet of marked originality. Here it is:

Families, when a child is born
Want little more than a crackling
I, through intelligence,
Having wrecked my whole life,
Only hope the baby will prove
Ignorant and stupid.
Then he will crown a tranquil life
By becoming Minister.

That little poem is not the only amusing bit of satire in the volume. Po Chui, who was born somewhere about A.D. 750, had a talent for taking dyes in the form of epigrams and other writers. In some ways, his thrusts to right and left make you think of Edgar Lee Masters, except that the Chinaman seems to have had a healthier viewpoint. There is a poem by Po Chui entitled "The Philosopher":

"Those who speak know nothing;
Those who know are silent."
These words, as I am told,
Were spoken by Lao-tzu.
If we are to believe that Lao-tzu
Was himself one who knew,
How comes it that he wrote a book
Of five thousand words?

Offhand one cannot recall any more pungent and well directed bits of satire by our modern English-speaking poets than the two examples given above from the pen of the Chinaman, who lived almost before the dawn of our modern civilisation.

Playing Cards.
The invention of playing cards has been variously attributed to India, China, Arabia and Egypt, but there seems to be little doubt that they originated in Asia, and were introduced into Europe about the close of the thirteenth century. There is a historical mention of the game of use in Germany in 1275. In Italy in 1299, but not in France until 1393. In the sixteenth century the manufacture of cards was a flourishing business in England, and under Edward IV, their importation was forbidden to protect the home industry.

The marks upon the suits of cards are believed to have been chosen to represent symbolically the different classes of society. Thus, the hearts stood for the clergy, clubs for the soldiers, spades for the nobles, and diamonds for the merchants. In the early French cards the kings were pictures of David, Alexander, Caesar and Charlemagne, representing the monarchies of the Jews, Greeks, Romans and Franks. The queens were Esther, Judith, Argine and Pallas.

The suits of the earliest German cards were designated by bells, leaves and acorns. Italian cards had swords, batons, cups and money. The court cards at first were the king, chevalier and knave, the queen being first substituted for the chevalier by the Italians. The English cards in the seventeenth century were embellished with heraldic designs, the king of clubs bearing the coat-of-arms of the pope of Rome, and those of hearts, diamonds and spades being adorned respectively with the armorial device of the kings of England, Spain and France. The club of modern cards derived its form from the trefoil, a French design.

Protecting Seals.
The protective measure adopted by the Government for the benefit of the seals in our waters has been entirely successful, as indicated by the great number of animals seen to be migrating to the Arctic seas. The migration was three weeks earlier than usual, and an unusually large number of animals were noted on their way to the north.

A "Strong" Room.
To prevent thieves from getting at the bank's vaults by the tunneling method, the foundation of the strong-room of the Bank of England extends for sixty-six feet below the level of the street.

Manual Feeling.
"Are you a careful driver?" asked the aged old man, Arthur old "Yes, m'm," replied the chauffeur. "I don't want to get hit by a railroad train any more than you do."

Cannot Break Habit.
Maid—Her husband is always running around in circles at home.
Cook—His wife tells me that it's from force of habit. He uses a swivel chair in the office.

Entirely Qualified.
"Do you know the nature of an ooth, madam?"
"Well I ought to. We've just moved, and my husband has been laying the carpets."—Stray Stories.

"A few," answered the traveler. "The most interesting thing I ever heard, however, was a story I got in Africa. It seems that a year or so ago a representative of a rubber stamp house went through there and lost his sample case, containing all kinds of office stamping apparatus. It appears that some ostriches found the case, broke it open and swallowed the samples."

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstructor which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

You will like Lantic fine!

For BAKING. For pound, tea and sponge cakes, coffee cakes, angel cake, layer cakes, fruit cakes, coconut cakes, pork cakes, nut cakes, short cakes, macaroons and biscuits, crullers, rolls, buns—ALL cakes—Lantic cream is quicker with the butter—because it's FINE.

For BEVERAGES. For tea, coffee, cocoa, lemonade, root beer, orangeade, lemon pop and fruit punch—in fact for all home-made beverages—use LANTIC. There will then be no wasted spoonful left at the bottom of the cup or glass—because it's FINE.

FINE in granulation—finer than all other sweeteners in actual use—finest in results obtained. "Fine" has many meanings to the Lantic user! In snowy glistening crystals of pure cane sugar—all sugar and nothing else—Lantic brings you concentrated sweetening. And because each crystal is fine and even, Lantic dissolves at once—it instantly delivers its great sweetening power without hesitation. Of course it goes farther. Of course it costs less. Of course you will like it fine.

In PRESERVING late fruits such as pears, plums and peaches, it eliminates the danger of over-cooking, which robs fruit of its natural color and shape, and some of its flavor.

In BAKING, Lantic creams quickly with the butter—which makes the cake light and dainty. Creaming need not be tedious.

In CANDY-MAKING fine granulation gives candy a soft velvety quality. Most of the highest grade chocolates and finer candies are made with Lantic. The exquisite "velours" of the best chocolate creams comes from Lantic fineness.

In TEA or COFFEE, in fact in all beverages (hot or cold), every Lantic crystal dissolves at once, yielding readily the full sweetening of the purest cane.

A COMPOSITE TYPE.

Louis C. Minette, recently accepted for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps at Tulsa, Oklahoma, said that his mother was an American who married a Frenchman in Italy. He was born on a ship flying the Spanish colors while lying in the English Channel. At the age of five his parents died in Sweden, and he was adopted by a German, who brought him to the United States. His adopted father is not a naturalized citizen. "Would you class him as 'the man without a country,'" said the recruiting sergeant. "Man without a country nothing," said the sergeant. "I'd class him as a league of nations."

ROD AND GUN

The many readers of Rod and Gun in Canada who are interested in the fiction section of the magazine will be pleased to note that George Gilbert the well known short story writer has written an absorbing romance staged in the great outdoors entitled "Waters Of Rejoicing." This along with ten other stories and articles together with the various Departments make up the September number of Canada's greatest sportsman's publication. With the coming of the autumn the "gun man's" thoughts turn to ducks and deer and this number contains several good stories telling how the other fellow got his quota of Canada's water fowl and big game. ROD AND GUN IN CANADA, is published monthly at Woodstock, Ontario, by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

"Goodness me," he exclaimed, "it's raining, and I haven't my umbrella! May I borrow yours, sir, to keep me dry while I run to the station?" "Young man," said his fond parent, "I do not trust anyone with my umbrella!"

"Daddy, why did everybody cry at Molly's wedding yesterday?" "Because most of them had been married themselves, my boy."

PREHISTORIC BEASTS

GIANT REPTILES EXISTED THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO.

Remains That Have Been Discovered by Scientists Indicate That These Animals Were Much More Terrible Than Anything That Has Existed Since the Coming of Man. The Lizards Were the Most Feared of All.

NO animals alive to-day on the earth possess weapons all so comparable to those of many of the gigantic reptiles that prowled over this country a few million years ago.

Take, for example, the lizards. This creature when alive weighed perhaps two tons and stood about twenty-five feet high as it walked erect, like a kangaroo. It could not walk on all-fours, because its forelegs were relatively very small.

Its hands, however, were armed with huge and frightful claws, which, it is surmised, were used to tear out the eyes of the animals, often much larger than itself, on which it preyed. The above-mentioned skeleton is mounted in such wise as to represent the beast in the act of devouring the remains of a brontosaurus, which in life may have weighed twenty tons.

The lizards were probably the most formidable creature that ever existed in the world. Incredibly agile, with the activity of an antelope, it could leap 100 feet at a bound, its vertebrae and leg bones being hollow for the sake of lightness. Its tremendous jaws were furnished with saberlike teeth half a foot long, and probably the great claws on its hind feet were employed for tearing open the belly of its luckless victim.

There were in those ancient days many species of carnivorous monsters, mostly built on the kangaroo plan. They preyed (as do the carnivora of nowadays) on plant-eating animals. Just as the tiger assails the elephant in the jungle, so did the lizards attack the brontosaurus or its even larger relative, the diplodocus.

Brontosaurus and diplodocus were stupid, helpless reptiles, eighty feet or more in length, which browsed in the shallows of lakes. They possessed no weapons of defence, and it is a marvel how they escaped extermination. On the other hand, there were many species, likewise plant-eaters and huge of bulk, which were fearfully armed and also armored, so as to be able to put up a very decent fight if attacked.

A typical armored lizard was the huge ankylosaur, whose entire back was covered with ridged plates of impenetrable bone. Low of stature, with a short, blunt head, it carried on the end of its short, heavy tail a great triangular club of bone, which was a dangerous weapon. Each of its feet was provided with a cup-shaped bony shutter, like the visor of a helmet, which could be closed over the eye.

The Stegosaurus, about twenty feet long, had the smallest brain of any known vertebrate relatively to its size. But in its pelvis it had a sort of secondary brain, ten times as big as the one in its skull, which was a power station actuating its tremendous tail, the latter being armed with two pairs of mighty spikes. One well-aimed blow with those spikes and it was all over with the adversary.

The most remarkable feature of the Stegosaurus's anatomy, however, was a series of immense plates of bone standing erect along the back of the animal from head to tail. The biggest of them were four feet across. A sheathing of armor protected the body and throat.

By no means so well provided with means of defence was the hadrosaur, which measured thirty feet from the tip of its nose to the end of its tail. As it walked erect on its huge three-toed hind feet the top of its head was fifteen feet from the ground. A good part of its length being represented by a long neck, which was nearly a yard long and the forepart of its skull was expanded into a broad beak covered with horn, in shape very unlike that of a duck. Its jaws resembled great salad spoons, being appropriately formed for cropping the aquatic weeds on which it fed.

These amazing jaws were furnished with no fewer than 2,000 grinding teeth arranged, so to speak, in magazines. In each jaw were forty-five to sixty rows of teeth, ten to fifteen of them in each row.

One of the most amazingly armored reptiles was the stryconosaurus, the rear part of whose skull extended backward in the shape of a great frill, after the manner of a knight's helmet. The frill terminated picturesquely in half a dozen long horn-like processes, and the beast's nose carried a mighty horn resembling that of a rhinoceros, but far bigger and more dangerous as a weapon. On the end of the nose was a horny cutting beak, very powerful and not unlike the beak of a snapping turtle, magnified.

Not distantly related to the stryconosaurus was the triceratops, which was as tall as a big elephant and twice as long, including the tail. Its skull, one-third the length of its body, was provided with the same kind of bony "frill," meant for the attachment of the enormous head, which weighed half a ton. It had the same sort of cutting beak, and its head bore three horns—a short one on the nose, and two that were each a yard long on the forehead, projecting forward. The two great horns were sharp as daggers.

That the triceratops was a fighter, and often engaged in combat, is proved by the finding of many broken and healed bones of reptiles of this species. Evidently they lived to recover from their wounds and fight again another day.

"The Bible says there will be no marriage in heaven," said Willie. "I wonder if that is true?" "Of course it is," replied his little sister Hazel. "How can the woman marry when there are no men in the place?"

There was a young lady from Siam Who had a bold lover named Prim; "I don't want to be kissed," But if you insist, Heaven knows you are stronger than I am."

THE JEWISH PEOPLE

Only 15,450,000. Altogether All Over the World.
 The population of the earth just before the war, according to statistical authorities, was 1,643,800,000, and though the loss of life in the war has been very great, the American Jewelle is inclined to think that this has been offset by the natural increase. So, when it learns that David Friedson, the Jewish statistician, has estimated the present number of Jews in the world to be 15,450,000, it observes that "the percentage of Jews to the world's population is approximately nine-tenths of one per cent. It would seem that, all things considered, they are very much heard from."

According to the figures presented by the Cincinnati weekly, the Hebrew population of the world is distributed as follows:

Poland	3,300,000
Ukraine	3,200,000
United States	3,100,000
Russia (including Siberia)	2,000,000

Where Men Are Veiled.

We have gone far along the road of feminine emancipation, but we have still a long way to go before we overtake the stage reached by the wild Tuaregs of the Tripoli desert. Among the Tuaregs woman's way is absolute. She does not rule by hereditary right, but by outright command, and, though our own women may have the men twisted round their little fingers, the Tuareg ladies can only be said to have them well under their heel.

Among the Tuaregs the woman shows her face to all the world; it is the men who go coyly veiled. Decent is traced entirely through the female line, and what little teaching is given to the young is given by the women.

In order to obtain a wife a man has to pay a price that, in view of the Tuareg standard of wealth, is nothing less than sheer profiteering. Indeed, the ladies have put on the screws so tightly that the young men who keeps to the narrow path of honesty and pursues the only peaceful occupations known to the tribe—camel-rearing and carrying goods for the Arab traders—will have, perforce, to remain a bachelor as the occupations will never yield him a sufficient surplus to provide him with his marriage portion.

Consequently, the young bloods are forced to join the razzias, or robbing raids, which have destroyed the trans-Saharan trade, in order that they may appear the rapacity of their lady loves. The ladies are quite aware as to the source of the dowries their husbands bring, and, indeed, not infrequently, it is the women in the case who decide upon the right amount and place for the raids.

The tribute brought by the adoring husband becomes the absolute property of the wife, and the stick he carries and the wooden box in which he puts what his wife gives him are all the personal property the male Tuareg possesses, and all he retains, should the lady divorce him.

World's Largest Telescope.

The largest telescope in the world has just been built at the Mount Wilson Observatory in California, at a point nearly 6,000 feet above sea level, says Tit Bits.

It is a quarter of a million times more powerful than the human eye, and will enable astronomers to see thousands of million new stars. They hope, with its help, to find out the limits of the universe.

This telescope is a permanent one for solar research. It is fixed in a tower 164 feet high, and has an outer tower as a protection against wind vibration.

The tube of the telescope has triple walls with air spaces between to prevent heating. The reflecting mirror and the second mirror in the dome are silvered on the front surface, and are one foot thick.

There are three lenses. The largest, at the top, is a 12-in. objective of 150 feet, focal length, giving a sun image nearly 17 inches in diameter. The three lenses are mounted on brackets that are swung out of the way when not in use. The movements and adjustments are effected by electric motors controlled by the observer. An electric lift facilitates communication with the summit of the tower.

There are photographic dark rooms where plates are developed, and there is a midday dining room attached to the structure for the convenience of astronomers.

She Was Waiting, Too.

Tramp—Madam, is your husband up yet?
 Wife—I guess he is.
 Tramp—Well, I'd like to say a few words to him.
 Wife—So would I. He hasn't come home yet.

The Latest Request.

"What's the matter with the maid now?"
 She says she won't stay here unless you agree to build a double garage. She's got to have some place to keep her car."

A GIVE AWAY.

"What makes dinner so late today, money?" asked the summer boarder at the place where only home-grown food was served.
 "Mother lost the can-opener," replied the landlady's boy.

Grown-ups may learn something from little Johnnie. On the morning of his birthday this notice was found pasted on the door of his room:
 "Remember my birthday; give till it hurts."

To the People of Canada

THERE are many things which you need not buy unless you choose. But footwear is not among them. You must have shoes. From the standpoint of your health, as well as for comfort and appearance, good shoes are a necessity. And that fact alone places upon the manufacturer of shoes a responsibility which he must at all times appreciate.

That responsibility to the Canadian public is shared by the 158 manufacturers of shoes in Canada, from whom you buy nearly $50,000,000 worth of footwear every year.

The fact that we have built up an industry of such magnitude is the best evidence that we do appreciate this responsibility. One may think that our responsibility ends when we have produced footwear of honest value and sincere workmanship, and have placed it on the shelf of the retail store where it is accessible to you. That is one essential service which our industry is called upon to render.

But we cannot dismiss our responsibility quite so easily. We believe that we should do more than that.

Good shoes are of such daily importance that we ought to make public certain facts and conditions which govern the quality of the product we make, and the value which you receive for your money. We ought to point out clearly, the part which you play, and the influence which you exercise, in establishing those conditions. We should urge upon you, your own responsibility in the matter, and show you just how you can help to maintain the quality of the footwear which we offer you.

This is the first advertisement of a series which will be devoted to that purpose.

Canada produces footwear of every desirable type, and of standard quality in all grades. When you buy shoes in Canada, Footwear you are assured, at fair prices, of the utmost that modern skill can produce in Comfort, Service and Style.

WHO OWNS A BUSINESS

A Few Truths Which Should be of Interest to All in These Times.

There is a man, for example, who owns and operates a large farm. He bought it with his own hard-earned money; on it he works ten to fourteen hours a day.

Giving his whole time and strength to the work, he finds it necessary to employ three farm laborers to assist him in getting the maximum production. He agrees with them for wages and pays what they are willing to work for.

These three men ought to control the farm, decide how much money and produce should go to the theoretical owner and keep all the rest themselves. These men are giving their lives for the work.

If you deny them control of what they give their lives for, you deny them justice. The owner is also giving his life for the farm, but of course that is different; he is capitalist, and exploiter of labor.

Does labor in and by itself give the right to control the profits? Surely not, unless the labor itself furnishes a title to ownership. Is this true?

If you own a valuable gold watch and take it to a skilled watchmaker to be repaired, whose watch is it after he has repaired it? Does it still belong to you, or does it now belong to the man who worked on it, by virtue of his labor?

To whom does the control of the watch belong? Does the man who worked upon it, by that labor gain the right to decide whether he will send it back to you or keep it himself, or sell it and divide the proceeds with you?

The laborer surely has a right to a fair, even a generous, return for his labor. He has a right to reasonable hours and good working conditions. But certainly his labor gives him no right to control the industry since it gives him no title to ownership.

We are losing sight of elementary economics. We live under democracy, and it may be possible to nationalize the railroads by legislation. We might then nationalize the mines and all other industries, finally nationalizing our farms and giving all the profits to the hired farm laborers.

But let us not forget "industry democracy," for "industrial democracy" is concerned with the welfare of all classes.

It is not even true Socialism. It is really turning over the control and profits of industry to a single class in industry for the sake of that one class alone. We would call it American Bolshevism were it not that those whose doctrine it is have their feelings hurt when called Bolsheviks.

CHAPMAN—COOK.
At St. David's Church, St. John, N. B., on September 1st, the Rev. Mr. McKeigan solemnized the marriage of Miss Louella B. Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Chapman, of Bloomfield Station, N. B., and J. Edwin Cook, of Charlottetown, N. B.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of a wedding march rendered by the organist, Mrs. Gunn. The bride was attired in her travelling costume, a navy blue tailored suit, with satin hat to match, and a handsome grey opussum scarf. She wore a corsage bouquet of roses.

The bride is well known in New Brunswick as a successful teacher, and especially in St. John, where she has been a member of the teaching staff for several years.

Mr. Cook is a returned soldier, who served his country with distinction during the late war.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook have many friends throughout the province who will extend to them their best wishes on this occasion. They left for a visit to Prince Edward Island before proceeding to their home at Charlottetown, N. B.

A youth dropped into a grocery department, yesterday, and asked for a dozen black hen's eggs. The puzzled clerk stared at him. "I can't tell a black hen's egg from a white one," he said.

"I can," said the boy.
"All right," responded the clerk, "go to it."
The customer began to pick through the case.
"Here," exclaimed the clerk a moment later, "you can't do that, you know. You are picking all the big eggs."
"Sure I am," said the other. "That's the way to tell a black hen's egg."

Off to Poor Start.
Rastus had indulged in a dice game that had ended in a free-for-all cutting scrape. "Why didn't you run away when you saw trouble coming?" one of Rastus's white acquaintances inquired.
"Boss, Ah did run away," asserted Rastus.
"Then you didn't run fast enough. I take it," said the acquaintance.
"Yes, sah, I done run fast enough too," insisted Rastus. "Do trouble was Ah didn't start soon enough!"

Sandy McNab took a cheap ticket in a raffle for a pony and won it. Was he pleased at his good fortune? Not a bit. When the pony was led up to him he looked at the animal gloomily and said: "I tell ye the whole thing was a swindle."
"What's the matter?" asked his friends.
"Why, whur's the whip?" asked Sandy.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC DEVELOPMENT

Work to be Undertaken Soon—North Shore Operations Stand for Present.

FREDERICTON, Sept. 2.—It is understood that the New Brunswick Hydro-Electric Commission at their meeting here yesterday decided not to proceed with any power development on the North Shore at present, but will at once call for tenders for the construction of dams and other works at Shogomoc, York Co., and Musquash, St. John.

The North Shore, it is explained, will be taken care of by an arrangement which has been entered into with the Bathurst Lumber Company, under which power will be secured from the surplus development on the Nepisquet River. The details of this arrangement will be worked out upon the return of Angus McLean, general manager of the Bathurst Lumber Company, who has gone to Europe.

The Shogomoc development will provide for the St. John River valley from Fredericton to Bath in Carleton county, a district more than 100 miles in length, while that at Musquash will be for the St. John district, extending east towards Sussex and west towards St. Stephen, and up to the St. John river to Gagetown. Both of these developments call for the construction of large dams of earth as well as power houses, but because of present prices of cement it is proposed to use as little concrete work as possible.

At Shogomoc, in addition to the large dam there will be an extensive canal and pipe line running from the dam to the power house site, which will be immediately below the Mediac's Rapids on the St. John river, about a mile or so from the site of the dam. Excavation of this canal will be a steam shovel job for a railway construction outfit, and it is understood several contractors have already looked over the work, plans of which have been prepared.

Tenders for this work will be called for at once, and it is hoped to have a commencement made this fall. Tenders for the wheels, dynamos, and power house construction will not be awarded until the details have been worked out by Henry Holgate, Montreal, the consulting engineer.

The development at Musquash will also be started this fall and will involve bringing the water from the west branch over into the east branch much in the same way as is being done at Haffax, where the Indian river is being taken into the North East. The power house at Musquash will thus be located on the east branch.

TURNED TO PEACEFUL PURSUITS

Woolwich Arsenal Now Coining Nickle Five Cent Pieces.

Even the great Woolwich arsenal has turned from the manufacture of war material to the peaceful pursuits of trade. Ten thousand butter churns have been manufactured in the great building which during the war sent out vast quantities for use against the Germans.

The nickel purchased to manufacture bullets is being used in the arsenal to make five-cent pieces for British Honduras currency. There is a world shortage of locomotives and railway cars. To meet this it has been decided to manufacture these articles in the arsenal and work already is underway there on orders for 2,500 cars, 100 locomotives and for repair work on 700 cars.

This serves a double purpose. Thirty thousand persons now are employed in the arsenal where 110,000 were at work in war time. Thousands of these men are skilled munition workers. By keeping these busy making locomotives and other peaceful products, the government not only gives them work but retains their services. In event of another war they could return immediately to the munition works in which they are skilled.

One of the side-line products of the arsenal since the armistice has been the striking of 6,000,000 war medals.

An Accommodating Man.
Boston Transcript:—Young Freshleigh drew his car up at the rural garage, and with a wink at his young lady passengers, he said to the proprietor, "Got any gasoline?"

"I calc-ate I have," said the countryman.
"How do you sell it, by the glass or the spoonful?" asked Freshleigh.

"Wa'al, that all depends, misted," was the calm reply. "Mostly I sell it by the day, but when some good-darned jackass from the city comes along and wants it by the glass, I generally accommodate him. How many glasses do you want?"

Turned Down Best Sellers. The literary beginner is apt to be disappointed when his pet production is returned with a cold printed intimation that it is not acceptable to an editor or publisher. But he is in good company, says Sir George Meredith when publisher's reader for Chapman & Hall.

That famous sensational novel, "Called Back," was published by the Bristol publisher Arrowsmith, and just when it was at the height of its success a young man sent some new stories from India, with a letter which made the publisher imagine the writer thought too much of himself, so he rejected the stories. He regretted it to the day of his death, because the young man was Rudyard Kipling.

Rider Haggard said that "Dawn" was sent back to him at least six times before it found a publisher.

W. W. Jacobs had a similar experience with "Many Cargoes." He tried it all around London until another humorist, Jerome, took pity on it and ran the stories in "Punch."

J. J. Bell actually had to publish "Was Macgregor" himself. He got John Hensell to draw the famous cover and became his own publisher with excellent results to himself and the public.

One publishing house has the record of having declined Stevenson, Barrie, Kipling, and Crockett!—certain it is that R. L. S. did not find it easy to sell "Treasure Island."
