

EARTHQUAKES WRECK SOCORRO, NEW MEX.

FIFTY-TWO SHOCKS SINCE LAST SUNDAY

One Section of the State Has Been Rocking and Reeling Daily. Since July 2—Thousands Homeless and in Great Distress—Volcanic Eruption Feared.

Paso, Texas, July 19. — Socorro, south of Santa Fe, has been damaged by an earthquake. Fifty-two shocks have been felt since Sunday morning. The courthouse is wrecked. The building of the school of mines is cracked and nearly every residence in the city is destroyed or much damaged. The town is built largely of adobe or brick. The Santa Fe Railroad has sent box cars to Socorro to take the people away and many have already fled to other towns. Huge boulders have been jarred down on the railroad tracks and trains cannot enter the town. They stop several miles outside the place.

The water in the hot springs near Socorro has increased several degrees in temperature, and the inhabitants fear that the extinct volcano ten miles from the town will become active again.

The entire surrounding country has felt the shocks and much damage has been done, especially at San Marcia and Magdalena.

Albuquerque, N. M., July 19. — Refugees in large numbers are arriving here from Socorro, N. M., where great damage has been wrought by a succession of daily earthquakes since July 2. In that time not an hour has passed without one or more quakes. The center of the disturbance is a zone 30 miles long by about 10 miles wide, running from the Ladrone Mountains, southeast, through Socorro, San Antonio and San Marcial. This side of the belt the shocks have been hardly felt. Each one is preceded by a loud rumbling, like heavy thunder, which can be heard approaching from the northwest before it reaches Socorro.

Many in Distress.

Senor Bana, of Socorro, until recently district attorney, is here, with his family. He says that people are leaving on every train, and those who cannot ride on the railroad are leaving by wagon. About two thousand persons are camping out in tents, and no one dares to go indoors. Practically every residence and business block in the town has been damaged. There has been much distress among the people who are camping in the open, as heavy rains have fallen in the last two days, one being the heaviest for fifty years.

Most of the people are going to El Paso, although many are coming to Albuquerque and Santa Fe.

Short, Sharp Jerks.

The shocks generally occur as short, sharp jerks, the ground seeming to slip violently. It is believed that the adjustment of rock strata in the rugged Ladrone and Magdalena Mountains is the cause of the continued shocks. Provisions are growing scarce and real distress is feared for the refugees.

"The noise and the quakes are frightful," said Mrs. J. L. Leeson, a refugee from Socorro. "I have experienced earthquakes at Los Angeles and San Francisco, but never anything so sickening as these prolonged rockings and jerking of the earth at Socorro. Water placed in a bowl will show continuous vibrations from the greater shocks, showing that the earth is never still. Not a house in the town is safe to enter, and chimneys and walls topple with each recurrent tremor."

SWEPT OVER FALLS

Strenuous Experience of Two Women and Boy at Merrickville.

Brockville, Ont., July 19.—From the Rideau, near Merrickville, comes the story of a thrilling incident. Mrs. Churchill and Mrs. Hoskins and the latter's son were rowing above the dam, when they lost control of the boat by the dropping of an oar and the skiff was carried rapidly down the current. The occupants cried frantically for help. When the boat was at last whirled into the rushing stream just above the waterfall the girl, placed the pier that stands above and essayed to stop its progress. He hung to the pier and was pulled out of the boat, which went crashing over the dam with the two terrified women.

The fall is about ten feet, and below the waters are broken by boulders until they strike the level further on. Mrs. Hoskins jumped out and was swept over the rocks until about 40 feet below she was flung on top of a big rock, where she lay quite insensible. Meanwhile the boat, with Mrs. Churchill in it, had gone bumping along, but staying right side up and holding together until it was caught below by the boy, who had climbed the pier and run around by the land to the lower level.

Mrs. Hoskins was rescued in a state of utter collapse. Mrs. Churchill also suffered from shock. Both ladies are now recovering. The boat is damaged beyond repair.

Syzran, Russia, in Flames

Samara, Russia, July 19.—The whole town of Syzran, Province of Simbirsk, is in flames. The inhabitants are fleeing to Samara and Saratoff.

Syzran is situated on a river of that name, near its confluence with the Volga, and 70 miles south of Simbirsk. It is a busy commercial and industrial place, having a population in 1897 of over 32,000.

The conflagration is reported due to political disorders.

BE AT CITY HALL FRIDAY NIGHT

AND HELP START CANADIAN CLUB

The meeting called for tomorrow evening at the city hall to organize a Canadian Club should be attended by citizens of all classes.

The promoters of the movement have met with the greatest encouragement. Already hundreds have signified their desire to identify themselves with the organization, and included in their numbers are many of the leading professional and business men of the city.

THE NEW SEVENTH BAND ORGANIZED

Large Number of Applications by High-Class Musicians—Prospects Are Very Bright.

The new Seventh Band was organized at a meeting held in the Armories last night.

Major Hays, Capt. McCrimmon and Bandmaster Slater were present, and they found no difficulty in securing good musicians.

A large number of applications were received, both from members of the old band and other city musicians, and all are now in readiness for the commencement of practices under Mr. Slater. It is the intention to have the band number 35 or 40 musicians.

An agreement satisfactory to the men was drawn up and signed by all who joined, so that there may be no trouble in the future.

Prospects for the new organization are very bright. Numerous engagements are in sight, and it is hoped that within a short time the Seventh Regiment Band will be heard in public, delighting Londoners as of yore.

"The band will be on easy street, so far as money is concerned," a gentleman said to The Advertiser today. "The officers and men will push it for all it is worth. There is no difference of opinion as to the coming popularity of the new organization."

EXPORT OF FALLS' POWER

U. S. Limits Use of Canadian Energy to 25,000 H. P. Daily.

Washington, July 19.—In accordance with the granting of authority by the Secretary of War to regulate and control the waters of Niagara River for the power of the United States, the Secretary of War has announced that temporary permits will be granted power companies to take of electricity generated in Canada by Niagara Falls Power Company, 3,000 cubic feet per second; Niagara Power Company, 4,000 cubic feet per second; Lockport Hydraulic Company, 500 cubic feet from the Erie Canal and 233 cubic feet from the lower level of the same canal at Lockport.

The Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company is granted permission to receive into the United States electrical current equivalent to 25,000-horsepower daily from the Ontario Power Company, of Niagara Falls, Canada, and the Niagara Falls Power Company is authorized to receive from the Canadian Niagara Power Company not to exceed 25,000-horsepower of electrical current daily. These two last permits are the only ones granted for the taking of electricity in Canada into the United States, and the Secretary of War states that it will be necessary for him to make a thorough investigation before granting permanent permits for such transmission. Consequently he has designated Charles W. Ritz, of the Engineer Corps, who, under the direction of Gen. Mackenzie, chief of engineers, will make a full report on Canadian power and submit it to Secretary Taft, who will lay it before the American members of the International Waterways Commission.

FATAL JUMP.

Boston, July 19.—Mrs. Samuel J. Piza, of New York, who jumped from a window on the sixth floor of the Hotel Touraine shortly before midnight, striking the glass-covered porch cohere at the main entrance, died today at the hospital of her injuries. Her husband was at the hospital when his wife died. Mr. and Mrs. Piza registered at the Touraine yesterday afternoon.

CZAR'S AID ESCAPES.

St. Petersburg, July 19.—An attempt was made yesterday to assassinate Count Todeleben, aide de camp to Emperor Nicholas, the revolver bullet grazed his head. The would-be assassin escaped.

GREY OFF FOR A TRIP.

Ottawa, July 19.—Earl Grey will start on a trip down the St. Lawrence. He takes the Government steamer Minto at Quebec and will visit the governor of Newfoundland before he returns.

BRICKLAYERS TO TALK OF UNION

It is felt that the success of the movement is assured.

At the meeting in the city hall tomorrow night, Sir John Carling, Hon. C. S. Hyman, Mayor Judd, Rev. Father Aylward, Rev. Canon Dann and Rev. W. J. Clark are expected to deliver addresses.

The public are cordially invited. Let there be a gathering that will completely fill the hall.

KING MAY YET COME

Times Does Not Think the Obstacles Are Insurmountable.

London, July 19. — Commenting on the genuine regret occasioned by the King's decision not to visit Canada, the Times says that the answer being in the negative is in no sense due to a lack of interest on the part of the sovereign in the welfare of the great Dominion, which has made such marvelous strides since the days when he visited it as Prince of Wales, nor from any want of appreciation of the spirit of affectionate loyalty in which the invitation was conceived. The obstacles to the Canadian visit, indeed, are of so purely practical a nature that one may venture to express the hope that the obstacles which have proved too serious on this occasion may yet at some future date be surmounted.

Last Spring's Strike.

Last spring the bricklayers went on strike, but it is understood they did so without the consent of the international body, and were, therefore, debarred from securing strike benefits.

Mr. Izzard came here at the time, and after looking into the case, advised the men to go back to work.

They did so, and some of them claim that they were given to understand that no obstacle would be put in the way of the non-union men of the city entering the union. However, there has been no rush of applicants for union cards, and some of the bosses are blamed for influencing bricklayers to keep out of the union.

To clear the air, Mr. Izzard was sent for, and it is likely the matter will be brought to a head at once.

Easy To Get In.

"We will make things very easy for the non-unionists to get into the union," he said to The Advertiser today, "and if they take out cards, trouble will be avoided. If not, I believe the union bricklayers will not longer work with non-union men."

Local bricklayers say that great difficulty is found in bringing old countryparties into the union, and they further allege that the majority of non-unionists in London are late arrivals in this country.

So far as known, no question of wages is involved.

Mr. John Tweed, of Toronto, organizer of the "Arpenters' Union," is also in the city today on business connected with the brotherhood.

The visit, it is said, is only an official one for the good of the order. Several new members are to be initiated shortly.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMS

Two To Be Established in Alberta and One on Vancouver Island.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 19. — The Dominion Government will establish two branches of the experimental farms in Alberta. One of these will be located at Lethbridge on the dry belt, where crops are produced by means of irrigation. The other station will be at Lacombe in the north. Saskatchewan has now got an experimental farm at Indian Head. It is also the intention to locate a station at Vancouver Island.

GRAND SENIOR WARDEN

Masons Elect Mr. Harry A. Taylor, of Toronto, to the Position.

Toronto, July 19.—The grand lodge of Masons this afternoon decided to hold the next annual meeting in Ottawa. Mr. Harry A. Taylor, of Toronto, was elected Grand Senior Warden this afternoon.

Toronto rumors connect the name of Mr. S. J. Radcliffe, principal of the London Collegiate Institute, with the principalship of the normal school to be established at Stratford.

Mr. Radcliffe is out of the city, holidaying, and could not be seen by The Advertiser today.

Samuel J. Radcliffe, B.A., is a graduate of Toronto University. He secured his head master's certificate in 1894, and is a specialist in English history, French and German.

He taught in the public schools for two and a half years, and had eighteen years' experience in teaching in high schools.

He was appointed to a position in the London Collegiate Institute in November, 1891, and was made principal upon the resignation of Dr. Merchant to accept the principalship of the London Normal School. The salary attached to his present position is $2,200 per annum.

Set Signal, Suicides

South Berwick, Maine, July 19. The unnecessary setting of a danger signal against a freight train at the local station of the Boston and Maine Railroad was followed today by the discovery that Lawrence Fairfield, the night telegraph operator, was dead at his post. A revolver was clutched in his right hand and there was a bullet wound in his head. It was believed at first that he was the victim of foul play, but an investigation satisfied the coroner that he had committed suicide. The police are of the opinion that the operator set the red light to prevent the possibility of accidents.

BIG FIRE AT LEVIS

Midnight Conflagration Does Forty Thousand Dollar Damage.

Quebec, July 19. — A disastrous fire broke out in Levis shortly after midnight. The damage done amounts to $35,000 or $40,000. The fire broke out in the lumber yards of Paradis, Commercial street, on the river front, about 12:45 a.m., shortly after the passing of the Ocean Limited on the Intercolonial, and is supposed to have started from a spark from the engine of the train. The flames destroyed the sawmill of Mr. Paradis, his office, four other buildings, and stock of lumber. Mr. Paradis estimates the loss on his six buildings, which were burned, at $6,000, and he has some insurance.

HOLDS ASSESSMENT FAIR

Proof Line Road Company's Appeal Dismissed by Judge Elliott.

Judge Edward Elliott went to St. John's this morning and heard the appeal of the Proof Line Road Company against the assessment made on their road for 1907 by London township.

The assessment is for $9,000, and the company appealed on the ground that it is excessive.

However, Judge Elliott held that the assessment was fair and the appeal was dismissed.

HE WAS IN A HURRY.

Elmira, N. Y., July 18.—With only a couple more months to serve, Ernest Hoffman, sentenced to the reformatory from New York City for burglary, walked out of the front door of the superintendent's residence, where he was employed in the kitchen, last night, and has not yet been captured. Hoffman, before escaping, stole a diamond stud belonging to Col. Scott, the superintendent, a sum of money from a woman in charge of the kitchen, a gold watch and a revolver.

Girl Assaulter Thinks He Will Be Liberated

Preliminary Hearing of Lavigne, Set for Tomorrow, To Be Postponed.

An idea that he may be released at the hearing.

Lavigne has been placed under arrest on the charge of attempting to assault Miss Dobson, the 15-year-old daughter of a farmer near Hyde Park, but this formality will be gone through.

The preliminary hearing of Arthur Lavigne on the charge of attempted criminal assault on an 8-year-old girl at Stratford, was set for tomorrow at that place, but owing to the absence from the city of Crown Attorney McKillop, it will likely be postponed for another week.

Lavigne does not appear to realize the serious nature of the offense, and he has been making inquiries during the last two days regarding the action of the Stratford magistrate. He has

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND; LIBERAL M. P.'S DEMAND IT

Scottish Members to Ask for a Single Chamber to Handle Purely Scottish Legislation, With Edinburgh as Seat of Government.

London, July 19.—Irritated by the lack of opportunities to discuss Scottish questions in the House of Commons, and somewhat jealous of the promises of greater control of local affairs made to Ireland, in the King's speech at the opening of Parliament, the Scottish members have selected Mr. Perie, Liberal member for the north division of Aberdeen, to introduce a bill providing for the establishment of a parliament for Scotland. The bill, the text of which was issued today, provides for the creation of a single chamber legislature, to deal with purely Scottish legislation. Peers will be eligible to membership, and the executive power will continue to be vested in the crown. The bill also provides for a revival of the old Scottish city council, as it existed prior to the union. It is proposed that the Scottish parliament shall have power to impose taxes, except customs and excise duties, the King to be represented by a lord high commissioner, and the seat of government to be at Edinburgh.

Outside of the friends of Mr. Perie, who favors local self-government for all nationalities of the United Kingdom, the project is not taken seriously. There is no demand among the people of Scotland for a local parliament.

A NEW REGALIA FOR GRAND LODGE

Masonic Convention at Toronto in Favor of Move by a Huge Majority.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, July 19.—The business of the Masonic Grand Lodge was this morning confined to routine matters and the discussion of the motion by M. W. Bro. J. Ross Robertson, Past Grand Master, for the authority of the Grand Lodge to leave it optional with the members whether they should wear dress or undress regalia. The proposition was defeated by 90 to 1 in a gathering of about 800. The recommendation of the board of general purposes that a new Grand Lodge regalia be purchased was carried. R. W. Bro. Aubrey White, Toronto, moved Bro. Robertson's motion and the principal respondent was W. R. White, of Pembroke.

The total registration is 1,458 members.

Ottawa was the only applicant for the next meeting of grand lodge, and it will go there.

The question of allowing Algoma the privilege of an increased number of proxies was turned down.

SORROW AT SIMLA

Death of Lady Curzon Keenly Felt Throughout India.

Simla, Punjab, British India, July 19.—The news of the death of Lady Curzon of Kedleston, wife of the former viceroy of India, caused a great shock here, and from all parts of India come expressions of keen sorrow. Her splendid work in behalf of the natives, especially the women, endeared her to all the Indians.

London, July 19.—Lord Curzon of Kedleston was the recipient today of a continuous stream of messages of condolence on the death of his wife, from India, America and Great Britain, including expressions of sympathy from King Edward and other members of the royal family.

CHARLES HAWTREY'S GOLF.

[Golf.]

Charles Hawtreys, the English actor, tells how a golf caddy completely upset him on one occasion. Hawtreys and some other actors were playing a match game. At the first hole he got into a bunker, and while he vainly tried to extricate his ball his caddy, a little elderly man with a scrubby beard, took out a clay pipe and began to fill it. At the fifteenth stroke the caddy struck a match on his trousers, whereupon the actor paused. Well, said the caddy, as he lighted his pipe, "it's a fine day, anyway."

SUMMER SCHOOL

ARRANGED FOR

Park in Lambeth Secured for Campers—The Programme—
Village News.

Lambeth, July 12.—As the time for the summer school is drawing near, the interest is deepening, and we are anticipating a very profitable time. The beautiful, spacious park to the east of the village, belonging to Mr. W. F. Robinson, has been secured for the purpose, and the sessions will be held every morning and evening in the church.

Rev. Dr. Douglass, of Walkerton, will lecture every morning on the Book of Exodus, and the mission study class will be conducted by different returned missionaries. On Friday morning the place of the study class, a missionary impersonation will be held, and a very interesting time is expected. Every afternoon will be spent in recreation, which will tend to bring all who attend together in a social way. On Sunday, Aug. 12, we expect a feast of good things. The committee has been fortunate in securing Rev. James Henderson, D.D., associate secretary of the general board of missions, to preach both morning and night. A League choir, consisting of members of the different district Leagues under the able leadership of Mr. F. H. Talbot, of London, will assist in the service of song every night and on Sunday. We extend a most cordial welcome to all who are interested in the study of the Bible and missions to attend one summer school to be held Aug. 6 to 12, inclusive, in this place.

The Willing Workers of the Methodist Church held their regular meeting at the residence of Mr. Vandendine on Tuesday. Arrangements have been made to hold a "Basket Garden Party" on the paragon grounds on Monday, July 30. A good programme will be given, and it is hoped many will attend. Admission 15 cents; double tickets 25 cents.

Miss Ada M. Harris, of the public school staff in Winnipeg, is making a visit at her home in the Methodist Parsonage, Lambeth.

Misses Mabel and Winnifred Harris have returned, after a pleasant three-weeks' visit with friends in Lucknow.

The Misses Shepherd, of Clinton, spent a few days recently with Mrs. J. W. Woodruff, of this place.

Miss Nell Vandermade is the guest of Miss Jenn Mann, of this place.

The many friends of Miss Grace Shepherd, of Clinton, will be glad to know that she is to return in August as teacher in the public school in Lambeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Plater, of Hamilton, and Miss Roy Moore, of Toronto, are the guests of Mrs. D. Lown, of Lambeth.

WORLD ORANGEMEN

Dr. Sproule Made President of Imperial Grand Orange
Council.

Toronto, July 12.—Dr. T. S. Sproule, M. P., East Grey, Supreme Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America, was honored with the presidency of the Imperial Grand Orange Council of the World at its closing session here tonight.

Liverpool, England, was chosen for the next triennial meeting in 1909. This year's gathering was brought to a close with a banquet tonight in Victoria Hall.

These are the new officers:
Immediate Past President—Robt. Burns, Toronto.

President—Dr. T. S. Sproule, M. P., Markdale, Ont.

First Vice-President—W. J. Calvin, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Second Vice-President—Col. R. H. Wallace, C. B., Belfast, Ireland.

Imperial Grand Chaplain—Rev. G. M. Black, Newry, Ireland.

Deputy Chaplain—Rev. William Walsh, Brampton, Ont.

Imperial Grand Secretary—Wm. Lee, Toronto.

Imperial Grand Treasurer—Fred Dane, Toronto.

Imperial Grand Auditors—Baillie W. McCormick, Glasgow, Scotland, and J. O. McDonald, Massachusetts.

Imperial Grand Lecturers—Thomas Gilday, Montreal, and P. Helne, Moncton, N. B.

Imperial Grand Secretary—Jas. Davidson, Dublin, Ireland.

To keep up with the times and meet the changes that have taken place since 1886 a committee was appointed to revise the constitution.

The committee was instructed to get recommendations from the Supreme Grand Lodges of England, Ireland, Scotland, British America, the United States, Australia and British South Africa.

SEIGEL, COOPER FOR TORONTO.
Toronto, Ont., July 12.—It is again rumored that Seigel, Cooper & Co., the big departmental store firm, of Chicago and New York, are seeking for a site for a big store in Toronto. It is said that negotiations are now going on between the trustees of Broadway Methodist Tabernacle, at the corner of College and Spadina, and the representatives of the company. The trustees of the church obtained the consent of the conference about a month ago to open negotiations for the sale of the property, as they found that the corner was too noisy for a good hearing in religious services.

THESE TWO desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effective, are to be found in Mother's Worm Expeller. Children like it.

AIRSHIP PARTY AT DANE'S ISLE

Final Preparations Now Under Way for the Aerial Dash to the North Pole.

Dane's Island, via Digermulen, Lofoden Isles, Norway, July 12.—The Wellman-Chicago Record-Herald Arctic expedition had a quick voyage from Tromsø to Dane's Island. Good weather favored us for the entire distance, and the Frithjof did not suffer any mishaps from floating ice.

Dane's Island was reached July 9. The work of discharging the cargoes of the Frithjof and the King Heide, the vessel which carried the additional supplies, was started immediately by means of rafts.

The great balloon case and the other delicate parts of the airship party have been brought ashore without accident.

I found the shore of Virgo Bay dotted with structures when the ships steamed to anchorage. The members of the expedition who preceded me to this point have accomplished much. The ice-bound cove has the appearance of a new western mining town.

The best house ever built in the Arctic zone is ready for occupancy during the final preparations for the airship flight. It also will be the home of all members of the expedition, except the five who will be in the airship during its voyage.

The machine shops are completed and in working condition. The construction of the gas works is nearly completed. The material for the immense balloon house is now all on the ground, and its erection is progressing as rapidly as possible.

The twenty-four member of the expedition are well and enthusiastic. The outlook is favorable. However, the task of preparation which remains to be accomplished is tremendous.

I hope to have our wireless station here completed and communication established with Hammerfest before the end of this month.

An enterprising European newspaper chartered a steamer and sent here a staff of special correspondents and artists. They will remain at Dane's Island to report the progress of the expedition. A present they are living in a tent on the site where once stood the balloon shed of the fated Andree expedition.

Dane's Island is about 600 miles from the North Pole, and during the flight to the Pole, calculated to take 100 hours the wireless station will be in constant communication with the five men on the airship. The five who will make the voyage are Walter Wellman, Major Henry B. Hersey, representing the United States Government, and the Geographical Society; Gaston Hervieu, a celebrated French aeronaut; Maxwell J. Smith, wireless telegraph expert, and Paul Courdeau, in charge of the motors.

Mr. Wellman and his principal assistants have just arrived at Dane's Island. The Frithjof was preceded a month ago by the others of the expedition, who at once started the erection of the necessary buildings.

Mr. Wellman now expects to have the airship tested and readjusted to the frigid temperature by August 1. If he accomplishes this the party will start for the Pole by the middle of the same month. He calculates that the scientific experiments and investigations in the Arctic region will be completed and the return voyage accomplished by September 1.

MASONS ELECT DEPUTIES

Grand Master Re-Elected—Bishop of Huron Named for Chaplain.

Toronto, July 12.—The Masonic Grand Lodge elections were held yesterday afternoon.

The present grand master, deputy grand master, secretary and treasurer were elected by acclamation.

For grand senior warden, two Toronto brothers are in the field. For grand junior warden, four brethren will contest the office.

The Bishop of Huron was nominated for grand chaplain, and, in the event of his non-acceptance, four others will run for the position.

Six nominations were made for grand registrar. Thirty-two brethren have been nominated for the board of general purposes, five to be elected.

In the evening the election of district deputy grand masters took place.

The brethren chosen from the western section of the jurisdiction are: Erie, No. 1, Dr. Fraser, Thamesville.

St. Clair, No. 2, S. McWhorter, Petrolia.

London, No. 3, Frank O'Neill, Thamesford.

South Huron, No. 4, J. S. Holly, New Hamburg.

North Huron, No. 5, S. J. Cameron, Warton.

Wilson, No. 6, J. W. Dutton, Woodstock.

Wellington, No. 7, J. W. Jardine, Hepler.

Hamilton, No. 8, Lyman Lee, Hamilton.

Georgian, No. 9, W. H. Wright, Owen Sound.

Past Grand Master Col. Stevenson, of Montreal, was presented with a gold medal on the occasion of his jubilee as a Mason.

A resolution was passed empowering a committee to procure a new set of grand lodge regalia.

Ottawa secured the next grand lodge meeting without opposition.

MRS. CAREY'S CAREER

Woman Under Arrest at Toronto Has Varied Past.

Toronto, July 12.—A circus girl up to eighteen years of age, playing on the English stage for nearly ten years after that, then off to Australia as a dancer.

This was the early career of Mrs. Robert Carey, alias Alice Foster, whose arrest one week ago at the instance of Provincial Inspector Greer threw more than a flutter of excitement into the quiet of Wychwood hamlet, and thrilled the province with a tale of dark suspicions of the murder of infants.

The police believe they are weaving a strong chain of evidence against the woman upon numerous mysterious disappearances.

BAMBAATA DECAPITATED

Head of the Zulu Rebel Chief Necessary for Identification.

London, July 12.—Under Colonial Secretary Churchill imparted to the House of Commons this afternoon the official reply to the Government's inquiries into the alleged atrocities perpetrated on the wounded Zulus in Natal during the operations against the rebel chief Bambata.

According to a telegram from the governor of Natal, 3,000 natives were killed throughout the operations and 2,000 made prisoners, including the wounded.

The Natal Government had no information about wounded natives being killed by native levies.

The telegram confirmed the official version of Bambata's head being cut off for identification, owing to the decomposition of the rest of the body, and of its being subsequently buried with the latter.

In reply to further questions asking what steps the Government proposed to take in view of the practical admission of the charges in connection with the treatment of wounded Zulus, Premier Campbell-Bannerman said there was no disposition either to excuse or to admit such practice.

The Natal Government had no knowledge of the killing of wounded natives, and was greatly surprised at the extraordinary telegrams sent out from Johannesburg imputing a wholesale massacre or ill-treatment of the native wounded.

WILL USE ONE DEPOT

Canadian Northern and Govt. Will Share
Winnipeg Terminal.

Ottawa, July 12.—Owing to the securities taken in the proposed Canadian Northern Railway Company's new terminal facilities in Winnipeg, it is impossible for the National Transcontinental Railway Commission to acquire a satisfactory title for the property, which it is desired to utilize for the G. T. P. An agreement has been reached accordingly, whereby the Winnipeg terminals will be owned jointly by the Government and by the Canadian Northern.

The route of Mackenzie & Mann's proposed line of railway from Georgian Bay to Montreal has now been approved by the Minister of Railways with the exception of the portion into Ottawa.

An application of the Erie and Ontario Power Company for the approval of the lines it proposes constructing in the Niagara district came before the Minister of Railways for approval, and was held over for further consideration until the company states how much water it wishes to utilize.

The route maps of several proposed lines in the Niagara valley were also before Hon. Mr. Emmerson yesterday, but were held over for further information.

WAS BEIT WEDDED?

Dead Millionaire Had Policy Made Out
Favoring "Intended Wife."

New York, N. Y., July 12.—Speculation as to whether Alfred Beit, the South African financier, who died in London Monday, left a widow, was aroused today by the discovery that in making an application to an American insurance company for a policy on his life in 1890, Mr. Beit named as the beneficiary of his policy, "My intended wife, Elizabeth Bennett Beit."

Whether this intended marriage was ever consummated is not stated in the statistics furnished to the insurance company, which showed that at the time he submitted to a physical examination Mr. Beit was unmarried. Although sixteen years have elapsed since the policies were taken out in favor of Elizabeth Bennett and during that time Beit has been constantly brought to public notice, yet he has always been regarded as a bachelor.

WOMEN'S FARM INSTITUTES.

Toronto, July 12.—Miss Laura Rose, provincial organizer of Women's Farm Institutes, has just organized an exceptionally large institute at New Liskeard. During her trip Miss Rose has organized twenty institutes in the Temiskaming and Rainy River district.

Mr. Andrew Elliott is doing similar work in the same territory for farmer's institutes, and is meeting with much success.

New Ontario promises good things agriculturally, as well as in minerals. The Government's intention to establish an experimental farm in the district which is thought, prove a great impetus to farming development.

Lord Cadogan is known as one of the best landlords in London. When North street, Chelsea, was remodeled recently, a syndicate wanted to buy his property. He said, "I will sell it, but I must insist upon your granting new leases to everyone who is in that street, so that no one is turned out in five years and so that they will all have ample notice." It made a difference of $250,000 to him.

Encourage the 6 p.m. Saturday
Early-Closing Movement

It really rests with the citizens to decide whether or not the stores of this city shall close their doors at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Put yourself in a clerk's position, ladies. Saturday is the busiest day of the week. Imagine how tired you would feel if you waited on people until 10 p.m. or later on the busiest, hardest day in the week! Wouldn't you feel like encouraging the early-closing movement? What will you do next Saturday? Shop early, before 6 p.m. and discourage late-in-the-day shopping.

100 FAT TO FIGHT,

That's Position of Champion
Jim Jeffries—Refuses to Enter Ring Again.

San Francisco, Cal., July 12.—James Coffroth has been to Los Angeles several times recently in the hope of inducing James J. Jeffries to again take up the fighting game, but without success. In an interview this week Coffroth said:

"Jeffries has grown too fat to fight, and too lazy to train. He has a fine ranch, but talk to him about fighting someone, eh? You haven't a chance. All the guys who have written to him, tell you the same thing. He must have forgotten that. Now it's all the motor and so many inches of water. I'm going again about the first of the month, and if the belt hasn't been won by that time I'll risk opening the conversation on pugilistics."

"Things in 'Frisco are coming around nicely. We will pull off some small goos soon, and then go to the big ones. 'Cockie O'Brien, who was manager out here before the fire, is in the junk business. He was caught trying to move the St. Francis Hotel the other night, and said in explanation that he thought it was condemned."

"Morris Levy has a band of refugee musicians on the road, and is copping the gilt like a glue pot."

MOVATT AND HYLAND MATCHED.

GIANTS' HOPES RISING

New York, July 12.—Hopes for the pennant for the Giants are rising since McGraw put through the deals by which New York secures the services of "Si" Seymour and Spike Shannon, to say nothing of Danny Shay, who may not report until next season. It can not be denied that the batting of the champions was weak during the last few weeks. The accession of Seymour and Shannon has caused a brace in stickwork with the two new recruits as leaders. In the games played since they joined the team Seymour has made four hits in twelve times at bat, a percentage of .333, and Shannon has clouted the ball safely six times in fourteen times at bat for a .429 percentage.

As inventor of the firecrackerless fourth of July the small boy can prove an alibi.

First Shipment of New Lace
And Net Dresses For Fall

Has just come to hand and will be found at the Silk Section.

These dresses portray the latest fashion ideas—are stylishly effective and handsome.

Reasonable in price, too. Indeed, we do not know how you could figure on making up anything nearly so handsome at anywhere near the price, if you bought goods by the yard and had your dressmaker make them up.

These dresses are semi-made with material enough to make the full skirt with train, if desired.

Have them in
Black, White, Cream and Paris Ecu

They are already trimmed with applique and fine silk braids—artistically, becomingly.

Waist parts are beautifully designed and shown in the newest Bolero styles.

Very full graduated flounces to the skirts. Here's a short summary for your guidance:

Black Silk Net Dresses. Handsomely trimmed. Very full skirts.

Paris Ecu or linen shade. A beautiful selection of styles. Very full waists and skirts. Made of splendid quality net. Bewitchingly trimmed in latest style.

White Net Dresses. Very dainty for young ladies' wear. Neat designs. Net is strong and serviceable.....$14.00 and $22.50

LONDON, THURSDAY, JULY 19.

THE PENMAN SALE.

The sale of the Penman woolen mills at Paris is of more than ordinary interest at a time when many woolen manufacturers are in a complaining mood. The $100 shares of the company have realized $246. This handsome figure cannot be reconciled with the statement that the Canadian woolen industry is not receiving fair treatment. The success of the Penman Company suggests that if some Canadian woolen manufacturers are not prospering the fault cannot be laid at the door of the tariff. The Penman goods have a reputation for the Atlantic to the Pacific, and have no difficulty in meeting British competition, which other Canadian woolen men are praying to be delivered from. What is to prevent these complainants from doing what the Penman people have done? If their methods and their machinery are not up-to-date, why should the Canadian taxpayers make good the deficiency? The duty on British woollens is 30 per cent, which is fairly stiff protection for the Canadian woolen men. The Penmans have found it sufficient, but the Penmans have used brains and enterprise.

The fact that British or German inventors have purchased the Penman mills and that the same syndicate is acquiring other interests in Canada, is one of many signs that this country is about to experience a great inflow of European capital.

THE WORLD'S SUPPLY OF COAL AND GOLD.

Periodically there is an alarm in Great Britain over the supposed imminent exhaustion of British coal mines. The prohibition of the export of coal has been advocated as a measure of self-preservation. Two years ago a British royal commission appointed to consider the matter, made a very reassuring report, which throws the question into the remote future. A number of German statisticians, whose inquiries covered many coal-producing countries, have lately published their conclusions, which agree with those of the British commission, so far as Great Britain is concerned. They think the British Islands have 193 billion tons of coal, or sufficient to last 400 years. Germany is credited with 280 billion, Belgium 23 billion, France 19 billion, Austria 17 billion, Russia 40 billion, and the North American continent 681 billion. How much of the latter is set down to Canada's account is not stated. This country has deposits which have not been touched, and their extent cannot be estimated. Siberia and China have also untold riches in the same mineral. The world has no need to shiver premonitously over the fuel problem. Before its supply of coal begins to contract, human skill will have found a substitute. Water power and electricity are already banishing it in favored localities.

A few years ago the matter of the world's gold supply was also a bugaboo. The whole case for free silver rested upon the assumption that no great increase could be looked for. In the year 1895, at the height of the agitation, the output was $198,763,690. Despite the setback given the industry in South Africa the world's output of the precious metal in 1904 was $346,822,200. No wonder Mr. Bryan is compelled to admit that "the increase in gold production has for the present removed the silver question as an issue."

ENGLISH LAND LEGISLATION.

The new British Government has not reposed on its election laurels. It is proving a radical government, with a constructive programme. One of its progressive measures is the land tenure bill, which is designed to improve the position of English tenants. It will assure to them compensation for improvements; an unrestricted right to grow what crops they please and sell all farm products; and compensation for disturbance. A tenant, on the termination of his tenancy, will be entitled to obtain from his landlord, in consideration of any improvements he may have made, such a sum as shall fairly represent its value to an incoming tenant. Under the present law the tenant has no compensation, and is naturally reluctant, especially when the termination of his lease draws near, to spend money in developing another man's property. The protection to be afforded him will encourage good farming.

In England many tenants are compelled to farm in accordance with the wishes of their landlords. For the most part they are obliged to follow a system of rotation which binds them to grow, first grain, next clover, or clover and grass, then grain again, and finally roots, in four consecutive years. Not only are they prohibited from growing what they please, but they cannot sell what they choose. Of the four crops just mentioned they can sell nothing but the threshed grain; all the other products they must buy live stock to consume, whatever price these products may command in the market, or whatever may be the tenants' need for money. How this pinches will be plain enough when we point out that meadow hay brings in the London market from $17 50 to $19 50 a load of 36 trusses, of eighteen hundredweight, whereas the manure derivable from that hay, if all of it were consumed on a farm, would be worth only $7 14. Straw brings from $5 50 to $8 50 per 36 trusses of 36 pounds each, whereas its value as manure is only $2 50. In other words, the manurial value of hay or straw, which most tenants are constrained by their leases to content themselves with, is trivial compared with the market value. By clause 4 of the pending bill it is provided that, notwithstanding any contract or agreement, a tenant shall have full right to cultivate, crop or dispose of the products of his farm, without incurring such penalty as may be imposed by his agreement, provided he takes adequate care to protect the holding from injury or deterioration. If in the exercise of such new privileges a tenant injure his farm the landlord is entitled to recover damages or to obtain an injunction restraining the infliction of injury.

The bill before the Commons provides also that if a landlord refuses to renew his lease, a tenant will be entitled to compensation for disturbance, if he can show that ejectment from his home and the sundering of old associations would be a hardship, or that the transfer to another locality of his business, such as the sale of milk and butter or meat to local middlemen, with whom he has built up a trade, would cause him pecuniary loss. In a word, the land tenure bill now pending treats the English tenant farmer as a human being possessed of rights, material and moral, which his landlord is bound to respect.

It is curious to note that these privileges were accorded Irish tenants by the Gladstone Government 25 years ago. The influence of the squirearchy has hitherto prevented a like measure of justice in England. The new law will be something to remedy the abuses of landlordism, but the great estates will have to be broken up before English agriculture is on a solid foundation.

Rev. Robert Johnston, of Montreal, formerly of London, pays a high compliment to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, he says, has forfeited lifelong friendships in his native province by his courageous support of the Lord's Day Act.

The London Free Press quotes the Brantford Examiner, edited by Mr. T. H. Preston, M.P.P., as approving the dismissal of Mr. Bastedo. Here is the Expositor's opinion: "The Government was insincere in allowing Mr. Bastedo to practice in its behalf a policy for which it eventually dismissed him. And while in the dismissal it condemns the policy in principle it deliberately continues it in practice to the disadvantage of the province."

The Montreal Star a few years ago held up the Dingley tariff as the pattern upon which Canada should model her fiscal legislation. The Star has since seen new light. It says: "There is not any great uneasiness over the matter in the country. The Government is expected to leave well enough alone. Some changes the changing conditions of native industry render necessary, but this is hardly a time for experiment. The tide is with us, and we must not risk dropping any obstructions in the stream."

Some newspapers are sneering at Mr. Bastedo as being sure of a federal appointment. It is true that several of the officials dismissed by the Whitney Government have been compensated by federal positions. But the Laurier Government might have taken another course. It might have retaliated by dismissing Conservative officials, with as plausible a pretext as the Whitney administration has invented. It has preferred to let the Whitney administration have a monopoly of the dirty work.

CUT IT OUT.

[Ottawa Free Press.]

The Canadian Associated Press, the cable service subsidized by the Dominion Government, wastes good money to send through a dispatch summarizing a story published in Reynolds' Newspaper to the effect that "the friction between the French and British Canadians is increasing, and it looks as though the Imperial Government will have to interfere."

Reynolds' Newspaper is the most irresponsible journal published in the British Isles. It has for years delighted in publishing defamatory articles about Canada; it has gone out of its way, as in the present instance, to make lying statements concerning the country, its administration and its people.

The Canadian Associated Press might very well decide not to give the proprietors of Reynolds' the satisfaction of getting free advertising from those so maliciously maligning.

INTERFERING WITH ELOQUENCE.

[Liverpool Post-Mercury.]

Hot words are best absent from the mouths of preachers and those who listen to them. A Scotch minister was expounding the miracles, and considered the swallowing of Jonah by the whale. He was one of those gentlewomen who takes a very long way round for a short cut, and was proving first of all that it could not be this or that or the other fish. "It couldn't have been the shark," he was going on, when an old lady from the pew cried out, "Meenister, meenister, wasna th' boat a whale?"

The good man was speechless with indignation for an instant, then in tones of thunder, he retorted, "A whale? A whale? Ye bletherin' auld deevil, what dae you ken about it? What d'ye mean by takin' the word o' God out o' my mouth!"

SO THE OLD FOLKS SAY.

[Pall Mall Gazette.]

The old folks say the times are changing. The bygone years were surely best; O'er land and sea, for ever ranging. Men wander now in vague unrest; And faded are the green romances. The morning light has died away. The world has lost its golden chances. So the old folks say.

The old folks say the days are duller. The sweetest songs are left unsung. The spring was full of scent and color. Long, long ago, when we were young. Above our heads the sky was clearer, And warmer was the sunlight ray; Yet heaven is now a little nearer. So the old folks say.

The old folks say 'tis Maytime weather. Play, children, to your heart's desire. But leave us hand in hand together. Beside the swiftly falling river. For earthly chains are near their breaking. And eyes are dim, and locks are gray. But love's a dream that knows no waking. So the old folks say.

"SIR" TO THE KING.

[Ladies' Field.]

The Queen is addressed as "ma'am" by all the members of the upper classes, the term "Your Majesty" being rarely used except on formal occasions. The King, the Prince of Wales and the other English princes are addressed as "sir." Yet foreign princes and princesses bearing the title of "Serene Highness" must not be addressed as "sir" or "ma'am," but as "prince" or "princess." A letter to the sovereign must begin thus: "His Majesty the King," and below the single word "Sir." The conclusion of the letter would be worded somewhat as follows: "I have the honor to submit myself Your Majesty's most humble and devoted servant."

A letter to the Prince of Wales should begin thus: "To His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," on a lower line "Sir," and then the letter would be proceeded with.

When the King and Queen play bridge or other games and gamblers fresh from the mint must be provided, and when any member of the reigning family joins in a game of cards new money is usually supplied.

THE THIN LADY OF LYNN.

[Exchange.]

There was a young lady of Lynn Who was so exceedingly thin That when she essayed To drink lemonade She slipped through the straw and fell in.

CANADA AS A TUTOR.

[Washington Post.]

Although in some respects more or less important this republic is somewhat in advance of the British provinces lying to the north of us that constitute the Dominion of Canada, there are other matters of great importance in which our country is as a little child sitting on Canada's accommodating knee and absorbing wisdom.

THE BRITISH PREMIER AND HIS FOLLOWERS.

[Yorkshire Post.]

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman returned to the parliamentary scene to-day—his first since the Easter recess. His radical followers were glad to see him and signified the fact in the usual manner. But there was no sprightly response from the Prime Minister. The weight of years and the burden of responsibility are combining to weigh him down, and those who watched him saw a pair of troubled, weary eyes looking out listlessly from a face worn and pinched. Since he became the First Minister of the King "C.B." has lost the rubicund countenance which he wore in the days when he had more kick than his pace, but when life was still a holiday compared with what it is today. The radicals and the labor men are very fond of their "C.B." There is no gainsaying that. The cheer they gave him was spontaneous and sincere, and was repeated when he rose later to answer some questions.

SHE'LL TAKE HIM DOWN A PEG.

[Saturday Night.]

Man was not meant to live alone. Instances may be found here and there in which mere men avoid the same error of live lives that appear to be successful and satisfactory, but as a rule a man needs a good, honest wife, who, in the sanctity of the home and in the intimacy of holy wedlock, will tell him that he is a born fool with a tendency to blather and blither of himself. Nobody can do this for a man as effectively as his wife.

A FORM OF SPEECH.

[The Bohemian.]

Suttor (nervously)—Sir, I ask your daughter's name? Father (quizzically)—Well, you can't have it. Do you suppose I'm going to have a one-handed girl hanging around me for the balance of my days?

FREE SPENDER.

[Chicago Chronicle.]

An industrial journal correspondent tells of seeing three $2-a-week young fellows, all smoking cigars, all sitting in a row in a shoe-blacking place, each having a "shine" and all going thence to a barber to be shaved. Then it figures out that neither of the three things was a necessary life. Smoke might wait on better ability to pay, and each might "shine" his own shoes and shave himself. At least, or $2 a year, which is more than 5 per cent interest on $400. This is a fair illustration of the difference between American wastefulness and the thrift anyone may see in nearly every civilized country on the globe save our own.

NOT AS BAD AS IT SEEMS.

[New York Mail.]

Don't be discouraged because the ice trust says there is a famine. There's plenty of ice. All that the trust means is that prices are to be higher.

A JOLT FOR JOE.

[Kingston Whig.]

Did you read the report of Commissioner Judd on the Bastedo case? There was a complaint and an inquiry and evidence. But the finish was the feature—the partisan rambling up and down of Bastedo, while Webster, the real trouble, was screened and saved.

THE KNOCKER

[From the Milwaukee Sentinel.]

In London they have an anti-scandal league the members of which promise to combat "the prevalent custom of talking scandal."

What Milwaukee needs is an anti-knocking league dedicated to the destruction of "knockers" and the end of so-called "knocking." This habit is so prevalent as to amount almost to a menace.

It isn't criticism; it isn't mere difference of opinion as to this thing or that. It is a little wasteful effort by little natures to detract from credit due to others; an effort, by innuendo and suggestion generally, to hurt some one in some way—either through envy, jealousy or simple "cussedness."

It is not with the larger affairs of life that "knocking" really has to do. It is with the smaller things—the smaller things which go far, however, to make life worth living. In many natures this despicable practice springs from a natural meanness of spirit—sometimes from jealousy and envy and hate—but most often from the meanness in the narrow creature whose soul is satisfied when he can detract by slurs and sneer (and sometimes he has the courage to speak out openly, but very seldom) from some success achieved by someone else, or to spread a false construction of some word or act, so that as so construed it may tend to injure and hurt. "Knocking" is the practice of the coward.

We have men and women right here in Milwaukee who wait and watch for opportunities to drive home the arrow of the "knocker." They use it to estrange friendships between others—to bring pain and sadness into others' lives.

We have men right here in Milwaukee who would be almost willing to go down in ruin if by so doing they could prevent a business rival from gaining the success he seeks. This is the "knocker" of an aggravated type, but he exists.

Can we not learn to spread the good report with the same zeal with which we speed the evil, or circulate the "rumor" which detracts from the good report? Can we never learn to be delighted in the success of others? Can we not learn to stop "knocking" and to substitute for it a broad, high-minded spirit of co-operation and friendly interest not only for our city's sake but for the sake of each other?

Let us put away this habit of "knocking." It is a miserably "little" thing. It is true, but it makes for trouble and suffering. Let us not sit idly by and tolerate the mean little wisp who always disparages—who even seeks to place a stain upon some escutcheon. If we refuse to tolerate the "knocker" the habit will soon die. A few words lightly spoken by the tongue of slander—a significant expression of the eyes—a cruel shrug of the shoulders and then, friendly hands grow cold, and the accustomed smile is displaced by a sneer and one stands alone and aloof with a dazed feeling of wonder at the vague intangible something that has caused it all.

Dr. Jordan speaks of some of the ways and means employed and the result effected by the type of man we call "knockers." ONCE QUEEN, KEEPS SHOP

Marie, Duchess of Parma, Sells Silks in Paris Store.

Paris, July 18. — Mame, Duchess of Parma, once Queen of the Two Sicilies and of Jerusalem, a Bavarian duchess, now keeps a shop in Paris.

Enter it who will, at any time of the day, the former queen is always there. Like any honest bourgeoisie, the duchess, who numbers many tourists among her friends, takes her luncheon in a little room back of the store. But from this room she emerges at the call of "Shop!" to pull from her shelves bales of silks and cloths and to use all her eloquence to coax a visitor to buy.

Most of her customers have no idea that they are dealing with the widow of Francis II., King of the Two Sicilies, and at the few times when she is disturbed by the Vanderbilts and the Belmonts delight to honor her.

Often the ex-queen has to toll without making a sale. Sometimes she must hear rude criticisms of the goods she offers.

At first she employed an English interpreter, through whom she dealt with her American and English customers. But she has improved so much that, having dismissed the interpreter, she prattles her goods in English, very broken, but sufficient for the purpose. In truth, her shop is a monument to her charity, for all its profits she gives to the peasants of Calabria, who, ruined by the earthquakes, were left to bear their ruin unaided after the first shock of public sympathy dried up.

Many articles of feminine coquetry and for beauty's decoration which she sells are the work of the former queen's own hands; more are made by her society friends, and most by the peasant women of Calabria. Another notable who is working hard at a charitable task is ex-President Loubet, who, at his home in the Rue Dante, is busy arranging for an equitable distribution of money among those widowed and orphaned by the "knocking" disaster at Courrières.

After making grants to relieve their immediate wants, Loubet still has at his disposal about $12,500,000. He has made arrangements with the Government to deposit the money still in his hands in the postoffice savings banks, with the provision that no beneficiary shall withdraw more than $20 a month. Loubet calculates that some miners' widows will be better off financially than they were before the disaster.

TANGLED THREADS

"Oh, Uncle Hal!" cried the young man, springing to his feet with the most remarkable revulsion of feeling. "Helen not married!—she is not Alton's wife!"

"No, something fortunately intervened almost at the last moment to save her from a fate that would have blighted her whole life as well as yours."

"Thank heaven! But, really, the news seems too good to be true," said he, as he settled wearily back into the chair from which he had just arisen. "What happened to prevent a marriage?"—ah, but she was to have married to him, he interposed consolingly, his face losing all its light again.

"Well, my boy, that can all be satisfactorily explained, and shall be later—she was simply driven to it by circumstances beyond her control," his uncle observed. "The match was broken off by the discovery of the man's total unworthiness; that also will have to be explained to you later, for I have another important piece of news that I must first confide to you, and that is—I have learned within the last hour and a half that she whom you have hitherto known as Helen Seymour is my own daughter."

Rob started erect again and stared blankly and anxiously at his uncle. "Really such a statement as he had just made was almost sufficient to make him doubt his sanity."

"The man standing there before me with a proud and happy expression, handsome face, with a tender, radiant light in his dark eyes, could he have never seen there before, such a man?"

Advertiser Patterns

Designed by Martha Dean.

A PRETTY STYLE FOR THE BOY OR GIRL—4035.

Brooks for the little people are so simply made these days that every mother feels that she can keep her young folks well clad. A small frock of blue linen is shown here which is not only very youthful and attractive, but easily made. The garment is in one piece with a removable chemise. Two box pleats relieve the severity of the front and back and give extra fullness for the skirt. The broad sailor collar, chemise belt, and cuffs are of white pique, and offer a pleasing contrast to the sombre tone of linen. For the medium size 2-5-8 yards of 44-inch goods are necessary. Age, 3 to 8 years.

could hold Helen once more in his arms and hear from her own lips that she still loved him—that she had never wavered in her heart-allegiance to him. "Helen was free! He felt that he had never really known the meaning of that little word until now—she was free and would soon be his wife, for there was nothing now to hinder their early marriage."

He was thinking of this as he ascended the stairs at Mrs. Forsyth's and sought the little room on the right of the landing, where he had been told to wait for his dear one to come to him.

Presently a light step sounded in the hall, the next moment Helen entered the room and swung the door to after her.

Her face was pale and still showed traces of the tempest that had so recently swayed her; but the love-light in her eyes assured him that her heart still beat steadfast and true for him.

He sprang forward with outstretched arms. "My darling!" he whispered, too deeply moved to do more than that, and the next instant she was lying upon his breast, weeping from mingled joy and pain.

But joy was the stronger emotion, and the comfort of finding herself once more in Rob's arms, with the assurance that they would never be separated again, soon calmed her excited nerves and brought forth smiles to chase away the rain of tears.

Of course, when they were able to converse coherently there was much to be talked over—the history of the two years in connection with each to be related and discussed, and this took a long time.

Helen was amazed at what Rob told her regarding Marjorie's insinuations and reports about her, and of the fictitious stories she had pretended were in the letters she had written her, especially in connection with her contemplated marriage with Hubert Alton.

"I never wrote her one word upon the subject," Helen affirmed. "After she confessed to me her regard for you, hinted at your devoted attentions to her and her hope of winning you, I dropped all correspondence with her."

It was not that I was jealous or cherished any ill will toward her; I was simply heartbroken because I believed that your love had been won from me and I could not have the wound probed every now and then by having her love affairs rehearsed to me."

"But how could she have known about the Alton affair—even to the very date and hour?" queried Rob, in perplexity. "She may have been corresponding with Alton himself for aught I know," he added. "I could believe almost anything of her in the line of deception if she could pretend to read what she did apparently from an old letter of yours—for it certainly was your handwriting."

"She may have heard your uncle mention the fact," suggested Helen, as she remembered the correspondent that had passed between Mr. Lancaster and Hubert Alton, and the fact of Marjorie's intimacy with the former; "you know that Mr. Alton was a clerk in his employ."

"That," Rob assented, "but Uncle Hal never breathed a word to me if he knew it. I suppose, however, he would not, knowing what he did of our previous relations. But, Helen, why do you speak of him so distantly as 'your uncle'?"

"Why do you not say 'my father'?" and he searched her face earnestly as he put the question.

She flushed hotly beneath his gaze.

"It seems so new—so strange," she faltered.

"And you have not seen him yet! How selfish of me to keep you here so long," the young man added remorsefully. "Come! come down with me now to greet him."

But the fair girl shrank visibly at the suggestion.

"No," she cannot, Rob—at least, not tonight," she replied, with an unmistakable shiver.

"Helen, dear, I am afraid you are not feeling quite right toward Uncle Hal," said her lover gravely. "You still feel aggrieved over his old distrust of your mother, and he is not so."

"And, oh, Rob! he tried his best to separate you and me!" she burst forth passionately.

"I know—he confessed to me this afternoon that he hoped, by taking me abroad, to wear me from you; but he is truly sorry now and he is ready to make all possible restitution," her lover returned. "Cannot you forgive him, Helen?" he pleaded earnestly.

"Oh! shall I tell him?" queried the girl of herself, as she pressed her hands upon her breast, where she had concealed those two fatal papers, until she could decide what final disposition to make of them; for it had occurred to her that if her mother should happen to go to her desk for anything but her own papers, her peace of mind would be destroyed.

But something held her back from disclosing the secret to Rob—something seemed to tell her that it would be weak and cowardly to destroy the young man's love and respect for him who had been so faithful to her mother to him—who had been his ideal par excellence.

Rob was grieved by her silence, little dreaming of the terrible struggle that she was having with herself.

"Uncle Hal is a noble man, dearest," he continued, after a while, "one of the noblest I have ever known. I do not claim that he may not have made mistakes during his life—he has done not—but I am sure that he has made fewer than most men."

Then he went on to relate instances of how the man, with his great, generous heart, had relieved the poor, lifted up the fallen, and thrown himself into many a breach to prevent foul wrongs in both public and private life.

Helen listened quietly to it all, but when he begged her again to go down with him she shrank as before.

"I cannot tonight, Rob—indeed, I cannot," she said again, and he did not urge her further.

LOST MINES OF THE SOUTHWEST

Romantic Stories of Abandoned Treasure Pits of Mexico.

London, July 18.—Among the rich mines worked by the Spaniards was the Tarasaca, in Sonora, of which Humboldt writes so fascinatingly and Ward and other historians mention favorably. The history of Tarasaca is one of evil deeds, of duplicity, of theft, of greed, and all the base passions incited by the love of gold. The mine was worked long before the Spaniards arrived in Mexico, and the gold and silver fashioned into ornaments by the aborigines. A family in Guaymas has a necklace of flying fish purchased from a Pima Indian chief, who stated that the metal was dug from Tarasaca. The mine was worked by various Spaniards and later acquired for the Crown of Spain. It was extensively worked, barring certain periods during the Apache wars, until the close of the French intervention, when the shafts and tunnels are said to have been concealed by the administrator, Don Juan Moreno, an imperialist, who was forced to seek safety in flight. After the restoration of peace Tarasaca was looked for in vain, and at present time no one is certain of its location, though the mine now known as Ubarbo is believed to be the Tarasaca. Ubarbo has been extensively worked when rediscovered years ago, and the shafts and tunnels concealed under earth and brush. Rich pillars of ore were found in the drifts, and the mine corresponds with the description in the archives of the American consulate at Guaymas.

But the lost mine about which tradition gathers thickest is Talapa, supposed to be located in the Sonora district, in Sonora. Little documentary evidence exists to prove Talapa's reality, and that has evidently been manufactured by unscrupulous manipulators. A wealthy Mexican gentleman recently made a trip to Madrid, and after mining search at great expense found absolutely no data to prove that such a mine was worked for the crown of Spain and no reliable data in the Mexican archives or elsewhere to prove that such a mine was ever known. But quite as trustworthy as most written records are the traditions gathered from the Pima Indians. They stoutly maintain that Talapa exists, and a few claim to know its locality. Small quantities of very rich ore are occasionally sold at the mountain mining camps, and all attempts to follow the Indians to the spot where it is found or bribe them to reveal it have failed. Wanting but little in addition to the corn they grow, they are imbued with a superstition that if they reveal the locality of a mine they will inevitably drop dead. To one unacquainted with the Indian character, this statement may seem incredible, but any prospector or miner in the Sierra Madre will affirm its truth. Large sums of money have been offered the Pimas to tell where the lost mine is. They scorn money, and the only open sesame is mesquite, by the liberal use of which the Indian may be made to disclose many things, but so far he has held inviolate his vow to reveal to no man the famous Talapa.

And on Day Washerwoman Would Enjoy It Falls Dead at Tub

Kankakee, Ill., July 19.—"I'll quit work soon and begin to enjoy life," Mrs. Diedrich Einfeldt, a washerwoman who had saved $15,000 by years of arduous toil, remarked Sunday, when a friend remonstrated with her for conducting at her work. Today she dropped dead over her tubs, robbed by the dark angel of her long-anticipated holiday.

Many have lived lives like Mrs. Einfeldt's; accumulated money with the same pertinacity; expressed the same purpose of "enjoying life"—some day; and died, like this obscure woman, in the harness. The woman and her husband had been bondslaves to their pursuit of the dollar. He is a railroad employee earning a salary large enough to allow them to live in some degree of comfort. Yet in addition to his regular duties he did odd jobs by night in order to increase their hoard, while his wife bent her back at the scrubbing-board six days in the week. They had no pleasures, no recreations, beyond counting their interest. And just when Mrs. Einfeldt was ready to "enjoy life" she was stricken with heart disease.

Mrs. Einfeldt was working at an unusually heavy day's washing when the final summons came. Not wishing to lose time in preparing luncheon, she and her little grandson went into the kitchen to bring her a "cold snack." When the child returned with the food he found her writhing upon the floor, seized with heart failure. She died before medical aid could be summoned.

Equipments with Wireless

U. S. Installing Stations Full Length of Pacific Coast.

Washington, July 18.—Soon the United States navy will have the Pacific Coast equipped with wireless stations over sea as much as possible from one station to the other. Stations are now being constructed at Table Bluff, Cape Blanco, North Head, and Cape Flattery. Any ship sailing along the Pacific Coast and equipped with wireless will be able to communicate with the land at all times from the northern to the southern boundary of the country.

THE COURSE OF TRUE LOVE, ETC.

He's Thirteen and She's Eleven, But Alas the Lady Can't Be Seen.

Toronto, July 18.—Mr. J. J. Kelso, Provincial superintendent of neglected children, has long favored legislation prohibiting children under a certain age attending theaters, particularly those where melodrama is the constant bill of fare. In his work cases have often come to his notice of the evil influence of the attendance of children at such shows. One instance, of a less serious nature than most, he brought to the attention of the newspaper men at the Parliament buildings yesterday in the following statement:

A young street boy of thirteen, with imagination fired by frequent attendance in the top gallery of the theater and hours of eager perusal of five-cent thrillers, chanced a short time ago to meet a girl of eleven. With him it was a clear case of love at first sight, and his wooing became most persistent. He was at last informed that the little girl was a ward of the superintendent of neglected children, and that if he did not let up his destiny would be the Industrial School. Not at all deterred by this threat, he inquired the address of Mr. Kelso and wrote him as follows:

"J. J. Kelso, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. Dear Sir,—I am well and happy for one thing, which you can put right. I am in pure, honest, deep, unmovable love with a girl who lives with old Mr. — her name is Laura. I have been worrying about her, and have passed nights of no sleep. I want you to say yes or no to this question. I hope you will say yes. Will you please send her to me. I will be a happy and contented boy. But if you say no, I will be a heartbroken, desperate boy. I hope you will send her to me. I can keep her, as we are all at home and settled. If you send her to me you may be sure she will be well used and looked after. I pity (the) anyone ever hear of ill-using her, for I will seek vengeance on them; it is their life or mine. Please send her to me, her true lover. Please answer soon. Yours sincerely,

To the girl he wrote as follows: "Dear Laura, I hope you are well and happy. I am keeping my promise to you. I am also trying hard to get you home with me. Be a good girl, love; I will come and see you as soon as I can. When you are tempted to do wrong remember your loving sweet heart, darling, and think of promises to him. That is the way I do; I am always thinking about you. I have a good home, and everything I want or need; if I can get you, love, I will. Tell me if anyone tries or harms you. I will surely seek vengeance on them with my life. I am writing to Mr. Kelso to get you. Write soon. Your loving sweetheart,

I can tell time now and have a splendid watch; the best in the store. HOARDS $15,000

EVIL MOTOR 'BUS TERRIFIES LONDON

Its Murderous Whims Make
It an Object of Hate.

HAS CAUSED A NEW DISEASE

Besides, It Is Tearing Down Westminster
Abbey, and It Killed Ten Persons
Last Week.

London, July 18.—Public opinion in favor of that increasing terror of London streets, the motor omnibus, with its nerve-racking whirr and nauseous smell, is not likely to be increased by the lamentable calamity which befell the Vanguard bus on the ride to Brighton last week, when ten people were killed and all the other passengers, numbering 24, were more or less injured.

When the motor bus was first introduced the public hailed it as a perfect godsend as a means of speedy locomotion, and the days of electric tramway cars were foretold as numbered. But as the motor omnibuses increased in number, and the breadths became so common, public delight in them changed to terror. Every day these buses can be seen standing with broken-down machinery, blocking traffic in London's narrow thoroughfares. It was only yesterday that I counted four such standing empty, awaiting the arrival of mechanics, between Ludgate and Charing Cross, a distance of about three-quarters of a mile, while another went on fire from leaking petrol, and burned itself out, leaving nothing but the chassis.

Amuck in Piccadilly.
But that is trifling compared with the danger to life and limb through the unreliability of the steering gear. I saw one myself not long ago running amuck in Piccadilly, with a broken steering gear, right through cab ranks, disaster being avoided by a mere hair's breadth. Talking with an expert automobilist on the dangers of the motor bus he gave it as his opinion that few people seemed to realize that of all the vehicles for public conveyance the motor omnibus is by far the most dependent on its brakes for safety on a down grade. The motor bus, be it said, is the most helpless vehicle on wheels, and only a miracle can save its occupants from destruction. A locomotive or a railway carriage running wild down hill has at least the safeguard of its wheels on iron rails. Provided the rails are clear there is more than an even chance that the runaway will not jump the track, but will eventually pull up after reaching level ground. Even the tramcar is usually safe so long as it keeps hold on the rails, and even to that extent is not absolutely at the mercy of a broken brake.

Most Helpless Vehicle.
But the motor bus is absolutely helpless, much more so than an ordinary automobile, when the brakes fail to work on a down grade. The weight of the bus, its height, more especially its outside load, and the contributing factors to its helplessness. Driving a motor omnibus through the streets of the city is a feat requiring special skill, and many automobilists who have driven big racing cars have declared they would rather drive a 100-horsepower car over the "Coupe Internationale" course than a motor bus from Hammersmith to Bow.

But contributors to the Lancet have discovered another charge to lay to the door of this "motor driver's sin." This is "motor driver's spine," which practically paralyzes the limbs and upsets the nerves. Dr. W. J. Burroughs, of Oakley Square, details a case which came under his treatment. He was called to attend a strong, healthy-looking man, 34 years old, 6 feet in height, 14 stone in weight, who was a motor omnibus driver.

Doctor Advised An Operation

Mrs. Charles F. Smith, of 9 Wallace avenue, Toronto, is so grateful for the remarkable cure she obtained from Dr. Chase's Ointment that she states her experience for the benefit of sister sufferers. Mr. Smith writes as follows: "I was in continual torment for nineteen years with that terrible disease, itching, bleeding piles, and, notwithstanding all the remedies and doctor treatments I tried, was unable to get any but slight temporary relief. The doctor advised an operation, but my husband objected, and it seemed as if I was to suffer for all time to come, when I was told of the wonderful effect Dr. Chase's Ointment had on that complaint. "I have since used it and found it really marvelous in its action, soothing and healing very quickly, for since using two boxes the parts are entirely healed and the itching and bleeding permanently ceased. Considering the length of time I suffered, the change and freedom from pain is a great relief. I honestly believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only positive cure for piles."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only positive cure for piles, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A MINISTER OF WALES

New Portfolio Named for the British Cabinet.

London, July 18.—The Government sprang a surprise in the House of Commons today by proposing, without giving warning, the creation of a Minister of Wales. In the course of the debate on the education bill, Mr. Lloyd-George, president of the board of trade, announced that the Government accepted the principle of an Opposition amendment aiming to give Parliament more control of the proposed Welsh Education Council, provided a minister and a separate department be established.

Ex-Prime Minister Balfour angrily denounced the casual way the announcement of a great constitutional change was launched in the House. He declared that such an insult as nobody had ever heard in the whole history of Parliament, adding: "The way this thing has been thrown at our heads without notice and without excuse is a deliberate insult to the House, such an insult as nobody in my recollection has ever dared offer before."

A long wrangle followed, which ended in the adoption of the Government's proposal by a vote of 273 to 50.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Bohemian, presents an attractive list of stories in the July issue. The American Magazine, long known as Leslie's Monthly, has been sold to the Philadelphia Publishing Company. He declared that such an insult as nobody had ever heard in the whole history of Parliament, adding: "The way this thing has been thrown at our heads without notice and without excuse is a deliberate insult to the House, such an insult as nobody in my recollection has ever dared offer before."

The Methodist Magazine for July contains five articles describing Canada, its resources and its outlook, from Sable Island to far Vancouver, illustrated with 68 engravings. "The Switzerland of Canada," "The New West," "Early Days of Canada," and "Stirring Canadian Legends" give a thoroughly patriotic character.

Volume XI of the Four Track News, begins with July, and opens with "Shore Dinners," showing the joys of the Thousand Islands. "The Picture House of the Sea," "An Old City in Spain," "The Sea," "The Antient Flow," "Courteous Copenhagen," "On the California Trails," "The Shrine Path of Sassa Par," "Chautauqua," "Paris, City Beautiful," are among its other interesting sketches.

"America at Flood Tide"—the opening article in the July issue of Pearson's, is one of James Creelman's, who gives a character sketch of Speaker Cannon. Other biographical articles are: "The Romance of Aaron Burr," and "A Sailor of Fortune" (Capt. R. S. O'Brien). In fiction there are articles by P. H. Cogges, Wm. H. Osborne, Mauchline Muir, P. G. Wodehouse, and others. The July issue of the Atlantic begins with the first installment of "The Autobiography of a Southerner," by Nicholas Worth. Among other papers are a discussion of "Some Aspects of Journalism," by Rollo Ogden, "An American View of British Railroads," by Ray Morris; a paper on "The Grading of Sinners," by E. A. Ross, and a discussion of some of the evils of "Our Unelastic Currency," by G. von L. Meyer. These form only part of the interesting budget.

Arthur Colton contributes the opening article of the July Reader, in which, under the title "The Country God Made," he travels with pack and staff through the land just over the Sierras, moralizing and philosophizing so delightfully that a memory of Stevenson is unavoidably awakened. Brander Matthews contributes a discussion of racial characteristics under the title "Americans and British." Thomas R. Shipp talks of "Forestry," and William Archer of "Ibsen as I Knew Him." A charming whimsical idea is the series of "Letters to Heroines." In this number, one is addressed to Marian Devereux, heroine of Meredith Nicholson's "House of a Thousand Candles," the other being written to Lily Bart, of Mrs. Wharton's "House of Mirth." The July Reader is replete with fiction.

"Talks by an Old Storekeeper," by Frank Farrington (Merchants' Helper Publishing Co., N. Y.), has the ring of actual experience. It is in fact the fruit of Mr. Farrington's years of store-keeping. The "Old Storekeeper" is Tobias Jenkins, who has made his pile and has sold out to a younger man, John Barlow, whose mistakes in management are such as any merchant is likely to make, though such a book as this is calculated to render them unnecessary.

In his long and strenuous business life, Tobias has picked up a lot of shrewd, hard-headed philosophy. This is imparted in energetic and pithy language which goes straight to the mark in these "Talks," through which runs the thread of a story, making a book not only valuable, but thoroughly interesting from cover to cover.

The Old Storekeeper's views on store management, on advertising, on window display, on special sales, etc., together with his ideas regarding the treatment of the men behind the counter, the clerks who handle the money, and his keen insight into human nature make this book one which will appeal to every practical merchant.

THEY WANT DUMOULIN.

Kingston, July 18.—Rev. Frank Dumoulin, of St. Peter's Church, son of the Bishop of Niagara, a preacher of power and a man of popularity, has been offered the rectorship of St. George's, the salary reaching well up to $4,000. Should the position be accepted, Mr. Dumoulin would also be made Dean of the Diocese of Ontario.

HOW BEIT BECAME A BILLIONAIRE

Remarkable Career of South African Croesus.

FOUNDED THE DIAMOND TRUST

Owned Stupendously Rich Mines All
Over the Globe—Man of Simple
Tastes.

London, July 18.—Alfred Beit, who died last week, was by far the financially greatest of those amazing multi-millionaires who have raised themselves on mountains of money from the gold and diamond mines of South Africa. He was inculcably richer than Barney H. Rhodes, and he was the wealthiest mine owner the world has ever seen, unless it be that King Solomon's mines conferred vaster treasure upon their possessor. Probably Beit himself could not have stated within millions of dollars the exact amount he was worth, but the figure most generally accepted by financiers as representing his fortune was $1,000,000,000, though some estimates run as low as $400,000,000.

But Beit was remarkable for other reasons than that he possessed one thousand million dollars. He was noteworthy because he had no point of similarity with those numerous wealthy men who have made great fortunes, largely through chance, through speculation or through acts of graft. Beit was not one of those. He made his money by sheer ability—the ability to see a situation, the ability to comprehend what he saw and the force to make his vision become fact.

Organized Diamond Trust.
The basis of Beit's wealth may be summed up in a very few words—the organization of the South African diamond industry. It was Alfred Beit who perceived, on his arrival in South Africa in 1875, that a fabulous fortune awaited the man who would organize the industry, gather into one combination a controlling interest in the diamond properties and become master of the diamond market of the world.

Although the credit has frequently been given wholly to Cecil Rhodes, who actually Beit—who arrived in South Africa years before Rhodes—who first combined and then systematically the diamond mining industry. This statement is not to be taken as implying that Rhodes did not have a large part in the building up of the industry, but a result which means a genuine trust in diamonds. Rhodes did have a great part in that achievement. But young Beit was the first in the field, he was the first to realize that diamonds might become so cheap as to be profitable to mine, he was the first to begin the quiet buying up of scattered and conflicting claims; the first to see that there was wealth beyond the fables of antiquity only in the event that the production of diamonds could be kept down to the point where they would be scarce and valuable by the nations at the old standard prices.

Beit went to South Africa with everything in his favor to undertake the work he began shortly after he reached the diamond fields. He had plenty of money, he was well educated, he was not a millionaire who sprang from pauperism. He was the son of a large merchant in Hamburg, where he himself was born in 1853, and he was destined for a position as partner in the old-established firm of his father. Beit was given a classical education, sent to a university, and then taken into the office of his father. Just as he began his business career, however, there was a sudden commerce with the new South African town of Kimberley.

A Financial Feat.
It was in 1889 that this diamond trust was formed, still spoken of as one of the boldest financial feats of modern times. For a time the risks taken and money borrowed were sufficient to spread ruin over all South Africa if the deal had failed. But it did not fail. The final decision to form the De Beers consolidation was taken at a famous all-night meeting of four of the richest white men in South Africa which lasted about 20 hours. At that meeting were Beit, Rhodes, Barnato and one other, and when it ended the diamond war had ended with it, and the control of the world's supply of diamonds lay with the De Beers Company. The company was capitalized at $40,000,000 and has for years paid huge dividends. Its capitalization has since been enormously increased. Of the three chief men at that meeting, Rhodes died worth about $300,000, and Barnato died worth about the same amount; it was Beit alone who went on to the billion mark.

Beit, however, by no means confined himself to diamonds. There was gold to be mined in South Africa and gold mines to be consolidated. Beit turned to the yellow metal. He obtained absolute ownership or control of most of the chief holdings in the Johannesburg gold fields and made a consolidation under the name of the well-known Rand Mines, Limited. At one time it was said Beit contemplated the formation of a gold trust, similar to his diamond trust, and he was reported to have made overtures to American gold mine owners on the subject.

Beit further secured control of the big copper mines in Rhodesia, while one of his firms held 2,000,000 acres of the most valuable agricultural and mineral land in the Transvaal. Beit, however, did not confine his interests to South Africa, and his possessions extended all over the world. He owned gold and silver mines in South America, Siberia and Korea; he bought the Onida and Mariposa mines in California, and from Mrs. Hearst he share in the Anaconda copper mine at Butte, Montana. He also owned controlling interests in electric street railway systems in South Africa, Mexico, Chili and Portugal.

Had Simple Tastes.

Although a man of simple tastes, Beit lived in very good style in London, where he knew some of the very greatest men in the kingdom. Among Beit's friends were the Duke of Fife and the present King of England, at the time when he was Prince of Wales. Another intimate was Prince Adolphus of Teck, while Beit also used to be seen several years ago with Lord Rosebery, who is said to dabble occasionally in Kaffir stocks. Beit's expenditures in London were about $5,000 a day, besides which he gave a good deal of money for charitable purposes. He lived in Park Lane, known as a thoroughfare of millionaires, and his house spread over a large amount of ground on this very expensive street, having attached to it also a winter garden.

No man in London was more temperate than Beit. His table was ice water and his head drink tea. At dinner he sipped claret, but often fell back upon the water carafe. Beit's excesses, if he had any, were in the line of smoking, and it used to be said he consumed numerous cigars, of the finest tobacco and specially made, every day. Beit was much below the average height, blonde, with prominent eyes of steel blue. In apparel he was so dapper as to be almost a dandy, yet he dressed in good taste. He entertained little in London.

In his appearance Beit was said to have been none the less "almost anything" satisfied him. Nevertheless he had one of the most highly paid chefs in England, and kept a superb table. Beit's chief amusement lay in music, and he subscribed large sums to musical entertainments of various kinds. He also had a taste for art, and Beit's collection of pictures was one of the finest in England. His whole Park Lane house showed every evidence of artistic taste.

In manner Beit was quiet, courteous and unassuming. No hint of the financial genius which he possessed was obtainable from a casual contact with him, and his personality was extremely deceptive. A summary of the way Beit impressed those who met him casually for the first time is contained in a letter a military authority who came across him in South Africa a few years ago, wrote home. "That he is a millionaire and a great financier I am informed on good authority and he has granted," wrote the authority. "I had been in ignorance of his identity. I should have taken him for a nonentity, and certainly not have given him the credit for being either millionaire or financier. He is a most unassuming and unassuming man of wealth and as kindly, quiet and courteous as it is possible to be. Very ordinary and meager in his ideas and commonplace in his conversation, he is one of the last men I should have picked out a crowd as able and capable."

Don't Dose the Stomach

Cure Catarrh by Breathing
Hymel.

There is one treatment for nasal catarrh which is upon common sense, and at the same time, is thoroughly scientific.

Hymel is not a cure-all. It is a specific for catarrh of the nasal cavities. Breathing through the nasal pocket, the aromatic healing of Hymel penetrates to the most remote part of the nose, throat, and lungs, healing all inflammation and killing the catarrhal germ wherever present. The complete Hymel outfit sells for $1, and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest-pocket, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hymel. The inhaler lasts a life-time, and if more Hymel is needed, extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that treats this disease without stomach dosing, applying the medication and healing where the disease germs are present.

Do not dose the stomach to cure nasal catarrh; breathe Hymel. If you cannot obtain Hymel of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write today for consultation blank that will entitle you to service of our medical department without charge. The T. R. Booth Company, Hymel Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

SNAPSHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

Umpire Hurst has been having a riotous time. In every American League city the chubby official is greeted with invitations to go behind the grandstand. "Tubby Tim," the Cleveland critics call him, but Timothy may make a call there some day which will result in explanations.

That age is no curb to a fighting player has been proved again. Ducky Holmes, the old major leaguer, recently assaulted Umpire Slat Davis after the Western League official had given an unfavorable decision. The player continued his attack after the game. At nightfall he met the poor ump and pummed him fearfully.

The story that Joe Kelley would be manager of the Giants was too good to think about. Kelley never could manage himself.

Baseball players' excuses are very ingenious. Cleveland's Spikes, recently, the new Giant, has a splendid explanation for not hitting well this season. He suffers from "granulated eyelids."

Cleveland has lacked team work all season. The grounds of Lake Erie, a manager is due to the fact that he shows his mates how to bat. Fifteen games have been lost by Cleveland by a single run, and in a majority of these a managerial blunder was responsible.

Four in the .400 List,
But Not Batting Leaders

Did Not Participate in One-Half of the City League Games—The Averages.

Joe Dewan, the secretary of the City Baseball League, has completed the team and individual fielding and batting averages for the first series of games. There are four players in the .400 batting class, they being McHugh, 462, Sippl, 429, and W. Wilson and Coulter, 400. None of these, however, participated in enough of the games to entitle them to be called the leaders. O'Rourke, with eleven games played, has a percentage of .341, while Ball and Ward, with twelve games each, have .332.

The real leaders in fielding are: Catchers—Mines, .978.
Pitchers—Wilson, .931.
First Basemen—Wanless, .980.
Second Basemen—Hosie, .944.
Third Basemen—Ward, .939.
Shortstops—Gregory, .847.
Left Fielders—Dewan, .900.
Center Fielders—Jeffries, .929.
Right Fielders—Lockridge, 1.000.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT WILL BE GREATEST

Fifty More Entries This Year
Than Last—112 Rinks Competing—Aylmer Sends Six.

The big tournament of the Western Ontario Lawn Bowling Association opens on the greens of the London Rowing and Canoe Club on Monday next.

"I don't know how we are going to handle the bowlers this year, so many are coming," said a member of the executive committee to The Advertiser this morning. "Last year we had nearly 400 bowlers at the tournament, but this year we expect nearly 450. We are making provision for 112 rinks, and this will tax us to the limit. But I guess we will manage."

Soma idea of the enthusiasm which the tournament is creating may be formed from the fact that the town of Aylmer is sending no less than six rinks, while other towns of the same size are doing just about as well. Toronto is going to make a strong bid for the Clabatt trophy, now held by the Ridgeway club, and the same may be said of London. Should the trophy be won again by the home players it will become the permanent property of the club.

A rink from Westmount, Montreal, is this week at the Niagara tournament, and an effort will be made to have it come to London and participate in the greatest of America's lawn bowling gatherings.

The London rink to be skipped by Jim McDougall may be seriously handicapped by the illness of Jack McNe, who plays second. Jack is now confined to the house with an attack of appendicitis, and if he is not in condition to play on Monday it will be necessary to secure a substitute. This, however, will not be an easy matter, as Jack McNe is one of the best of the local bowlers, and his absence from the McDougall rink will mean its weakening.

RYAN—PHALEN

Wedding of Popular Young Londoners Yesterday Morning.

A very pretty wedding, in which two popular Londoners were made one, took place in St. Mary's Church yesterday morning when Miss Katie Phalen, daughter of Mr. Thomas Phalen, of 846 Ellis street, became the bride of Mr. Peter Ryan, also of this city. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, by Rev. Father McKeon, the rector.

The bride, who was assisted by her sister, Miss Margaret Phalen, was charming in a suit of cream Bedford cord, over tulle, with a white hat, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Margaret looked very dainty in white Swiss muslin, trimmed with Valenciennes lace. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. J. Ryan, of Walkerville. Mrs. J. P. Murray presided at the organ, and played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the bride entered the church. After the ceremony the guests adjourned to the home of the bride's parents, where they were fringed with the young couple.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold chain, and to the bridesmaid a pearl pin.

Very many handsome presents were received by the bride from her many friends.

RAIDED A RESORT

Notorious Egerton Street Place Broken Up by County Authorities.

County Constables McCall, Shaver and Barclay last night made a raid on the house on Egerton street which for a long time was conducted by May De Milie, but which lately passed into new hands. Four persons were rounded up—the keeper, a woman of 50 or 60 who gave the name of Jessie McMaster; a young girl who said her name was Esther Lyons; and two men, William Johnston and William Brown.

The quartet was brought before Squire Taylor, and all pleaded guilty. The keeper was fined the maximum provided by the bylaws of the township—$20, and the inmate was fined $10, while the frequenters were allowed to go on the payment of $2 and the costs of the court. Squire Taylor gave the keeper to understand that he would give her until Saturday night to leave the neighborhood and that if she did not comply she would be rearrested.

The names given by the two women are known to be assumed. The keeper is Jessie McMaster, who recently came from Berlin. The young woman found in the place is the daughter of a leading resident of a town within twenty miles of this city. She promised to return to her home.

DISCUSSED SITUATION

Street Railwaymen Held a Meeting in East End Last Night.

The members of the local street railwaymen's union held a meeting in the Forsters' Hall, East London, last night and again discussed the differences between the men and management. Action was deferred, accordingly, until Saturday night, one of the employees stated today.

Manager King has not as yet heard from President Everett on the subject, though he is expecting an answer every day.

Farmers down in Richmond County, on Dry Creek, North Carolina, are plying up coins. On the south side of the creek copper pieces bearing the name of George Washington, are being found, and on the north side the coins unearthed bear the names of kings of England.

CONDENSED LOCAL NEWS

—Dr. Piper purchased a fine driving horse from Mr. T. Reeve, of Iderton, this morning for $300.

—John Brake has taken out a building permit for a two-story brick house on Horne street.

—Alexander Warwick this morning at the police court was fined $10 or 10 days in jail for being drunk.

—The London clearing house business for the week ending Thursday, July 19, totaled $1,204,846.

—Mr. M. C. Wood, superintendent of the car department of the Grand Trunk Railway, is in the city today to make the regular inspection of the local car shops.

—The meeting re the Canadian Cutlery Company stock subscriptions will be held in the city hall at 8 o'clock tonight. The board of works will meet at 7:30.

WILL START THE PAVEMENT.

Contractor Ben Hole last night wired power of attorney for a member of his company to sign a contract with the city for the construction of the York street pavement, and work will be commenced tomorrow.

—A unique feature of the Irish Benevolent Society picnic at Port Stanley on Aug. 9 will be a three game football match between the local team and a prize-winning team playing for the members of ten years' standing will be eligible to play. The game will be played with three tables on the dancing pavilion, on the beach.

SPRINGBANK THEATER.

Tonight the roaring farce comedy, "Jane," will be produced by the Lyceum Stock Company at Springbank Theater. A large crowd last night greatly enjoyed the performance. The mingling of the two worlds is worth a ride to the park to see.

SELLS ENGINES TO G. T. P.

The Grand Trunk is disposing of a number of its old engines to the Grand Trunk Pacific to be used in the construction work on the new road. A number of locomotives have been sent from here.

A MERITED PROMOTION.

Mr. T. A. Rowatt, teller in the Sovereign Bank here, has been transferred to Montreal, and his place has been taken by Mr. C. H. Wickert, of the local branch, who thus received a well-deserved promotion. Mr. Wickert is succeeded by Mr. J. F. McCallum, of the Belmont branch.

GRAND TRUNK EXCURSIONS.

The Grand Trunk has a number of excursions on Saturday, one being under the auspices of the locomotive department. Toronto's annual excursion of the London car works will likely be held on Aug. 25 to Detroit. This date has been applied for and it will in all probability be granted.

GOING TO GRIMSBY.

Rev. Dr. Rawel, the gifted Maori missionary, bid goodbye to his many new-found friends in the east end at the mid-week meeting in Adelaide Street Church last evening. Dr. Rawel made a very impressive address, and sang two hymns of which he is the author, playing his own accompaniment on the guitar. The New Zealanders and his family are about leaving for Grimsby, where their London friends bespeak for them a hearty welcome.

EPWORTH LEAGUE PICNIC.

The local union of Epworth Leagues of the city will hold a picnic at Lambeth on August 6, in connection with the summer school. It is expected that between 600 and 700 young people will attend, and at night join in the rally service to be held in the church. Rev. Daniel Norman, late chaplain with the Japanese forces at the front, will address the leaguers, while a large volunteer choir will assist with special numbers and in leading the singing.

FRIGHTENING LADIES.

An unknown man for several evenings past has been terrorizing ladies living in the north end of the city. On Tuesday night he ran out of a lane on Thornton avenue and chased two ladies with a club. The ladies sought shelter in a nearby house, and when the occupant of the place put in an appearance and attempted to remonstrate with the fellow the latter was very impudent and refused to leave for some time. The police have been notified of the actions of the man, who is supposed to be mentally weak.

EKFRID TOWNSHIP'S APPEAL.

The appeal of the township of Ekfrid against the assessment of the township made by the county council at its June session, will come before Judge Macbeth at the court house tomorrow. The township will make a hard fight to have the assessment reduced. Last year the equalization committee of the council fixed the assessment at $2,050,877, which included all land and personal property. The rate per acre was $38. This year, however, the assessment was raised considerably, the rate per acre being fixed at $40. The township claims that this is exorbitant.

FOR CONVALESCENT HOME.

A handsome donation to the Convalescent Home is promised from the proceeds of a musical entertainment which will be given shortly at the Auditorium by Mr. Owen Smiley, and which is being arranged for by Miss Gilmore, of Nebraska. It is with this understanding that the young lady agents carry a note of introduction signed by the president, which authorizes them to sell tickets, but does not include the permission to solicit contributions. This is mentioned to prevent any misunderstanding which might interfere with gifts which might come to the president or treasurer of the Convalescent Home in the usual way.

YACHTING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

Dr. Hutchinson, medical health officer, started some time ago in his yacht Nancy, intending to go east as far as Kingston. He was accompanied by three other Londoners—Messrs. George C. Jolly, Dr. Jarvis and Wilfrid Clarke—and a fine time was anticipated. But the trip has not been as pleasant as anticipated. The party managed to get as far as Port Hope, after sailing for five days against a direct east wind, which necessitated them covering 150 miles whereas under favorable conditions 50 miles would have sufficed. Disappointed at their luck, the Londoners decided to turn back to Port Stanley from Port Hope, owing to the continued winds, and no sooner had they changed their plans than the wind changed also, coming from the west. The Nancy has not reached Port Stanley yet, and if that west wind continues it is not likely to for some time to come.

WON LOCKET AND MEDAL

Most Popular Boy and Girl at St. Mary's Church Picnic.

At St. Mary's Church picnic yesterday at Port Stanley, a contest for the most popular boy and girl was held. The children voted early and often with the result that Clifford Patton was declared the most popular boy, and Aggie Peiton the most popular girl.

The former won a gold locket and the latter a gold medal.

IN FOREIGN COMMERCE

Uncle Sam's Trade Last Year Amounted to $2,907,000,000.

Washington, July 19.—A statement issued today by the department of labor and commerce, says the foreign commerce of the United States in the fiscal year just ended aggregated $2,907,000,000. If the trade with Mexico and Hawaii, which was included in the foreign commerce prior to their annexation, were added the total would materially exceed three billion dollars. Both imports and exports exceed those of any earlier year.

The total imports were $1,226,000,000 and exports $1,744,000,000.

GOOD NEWS FOR WORKERS

Substantial Increase in Salary Through-out New England Cotton Mills.

Boston, July 19.—The announcement of an advance to be made in the wages of cotton mill operatives in Maine and New Hampshire extends the wage increase for cotton mill workers practically all New England, as advances for the cotton mill workers have previously been made in the mills of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Southern Massachusetts, while in Lowell, one of the most important centers of the industry, an advance has been offered though it has not yet been accepted. In Maine, the Bideford, Lewiston and Waterville mills, employing nearly 10,000 hands, have announced an increase amounting to about 5 per cent, and in New Hampshire, the Amoskegon mills, employing 10,000 hands, have announced a similar increase.

The Lowell Manufacturers' Association offered a 5 per cent increase, following a demand by the Textile Council, representing all the cotton mill unions of that city for an advance. The council has postponed action thereon until Monday evening. It is expected that the Maine and New Hampshire mills will be accompanied without question, as it was apparently voluntary.

CZAR AND PEOPLE CLOSE TO GRIPS

Civil War Specter Hovers Over Russia—Germany and Austria May Intervene.

St. Petersburg, July 19.—The belief that the adoption of the Lower House of Parliament today of a proclamation to the nation on the agrarian question will precipitate the long brewing conflict and plunge the country into civil war is profound. All hope of reconciliation between Parliament and the Government is vanishing, and the Government is evidently preparing to take up the gauntlet of battle when it is formally thrown down. At the council held at Peterhof last night, the Camarilla came out strongly in favor of dissolving Parliament, but according to the best information, the Emperor hesitated and at the moment of adjournment refused to agree to a dissolution, though his final decision was postponed. Nevertheless the more moderate faction of the Constitutional Democrats, comprehending that the Government can hardly avoid the issue, shrink from making the appeal to the country which may involve a climb down. They seriously believe that the advocates of a dissolution of Parliament, realizing that making the appeal would be equivalent to a declaration of civil war, count upon the active intervention of Austria and Germany, which according to the official Russia, have agreed in principle on sending troops across the border to aid in the suppression of an agrarian uprising, should the Russian Government formally request it. The Russia's announcement created a tremendous sensation. It is stated that the decision of the two neighboring powers was based on fear that the execution of principles of the confiscation of property in Russia would constitute a danger to them.

The Reich, which joins in the appeal to Parliament not to take a step which might seem to warrant the government taken by Mr. C. H. Wickert, is attempting to usurp the executive power, declares that if the Government adopts the desperate expedient of calling in foreign troops to put down a civil war the result will not be the same in 1848 when Russia looked for the Hapsburg dynasty. The paper declares that the people will rally under the banner of Parliament, as they did in England under that of the English Parliament at the time of Charles I. "With probably a similar result," namely, the loss of the king's head.

MONUMENT TO CHAMPLAIN

One Now Making Landing of Great Explorer on Desert Island.

New York, July 19.—A dispatch to a morning paper from Bar Harbor, Me., says: A monument to mark the discovery of Mount Desert Island by the French explorer Samuel de Champlain on Sept. 5, 1604, was dedicated yesterday.

Among those who participated in the dedication were the Right Rev. Alexander McKay Smith, Bishop Coadjutor of Pennsylvania; the Right Rev. Wm. Crosswell Deane, Bishop of Albany; Seth Lowe and President Daniel C. Gilman, of Carnegie Institute.

The monument is a moss-covered boulder placed just east of the Seal Harbor, facing the open Atlantic. On one side of the stone is a bronze tablet with the following inscription: "In honor of Samuel de Champlain, born in France, 1580, died at Quebec, 1635; soldier, explorer and administrator, who gave this island its name."

On the reverse side of the stone, the inscription which is an extract from Champlain's diary, reads:

"The children voted early and often with the result that Clifford Patton was declared the most popular boy, and Aggie Peiton the most popular girl."

SMARTENS UP THE U. S. TROOPS

English Tailor Models a New Outfit for Army of Uncle Sam.

New York, July 19.—The World this morning says: George B. Winter, the English tailor, of No. 39 Condit street, London, who was summoned here by Secretary Taft to remodel the uniforms of the American soldiers, sailed for home yesterday on the Oceanic. He has been liberally criticized, but said he left with feelings untroubled. "When I came here I expected antagonism," said he, "but I am happy to say I have not met with any. I think there is an idea that I was to take a contract for making uniforms, but my whole idea was to cut designs. If England can learn anything from America we are always glad to do it. Why should you not learn from a European tailor as well as from a painter or an architect?"

Mr. Winter has been at work ten days in the war department, holding many conferences with Brigadier-General C. F. Humphrey, Quartermaster-General. Before sailing yesterday he spent several hours with Gen. Humphrey in the army building in Whitehall street.

"With the exception of a few changes all my designs have been accepted," said Mr. Winter. "For one thing the United States cavalry may look forward to peg-top breeches." "All the uniforms will have a better appearance," said the London tailor. "They will be smarter and more comfortable. The trousers of the cavalry will be cut a little larger and fuller around the thighs. The general lines of the uniforms, colors, designs and trimmings will be very much the same as at present. Such changes as are made are in lines around and over. They will make the men look more soldierly in service, or on parade, and in dress parade. There will be no change in the campaign hat. I think both officers and men will be pleased. There is no reason why a great country like this should dress her soldiers like a lot of messenger boys."

HIDES IN "DEVIL'S DEN"

Tennessee Murderer Hidden Away in Wild Mountain Valley.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 19.—John McPherson, who killed two men on Sunday, and who has been located in Devil's den, and according to his father, Dr. "Big" McPherson, who is a prisoner at the jail here, it will be impossible for the officers to capture him. A posse of Sevier County officers left on Monday for the den, but had not returned tonight.

Dr. McPherson said this afternoon that he spent a year scouting in Devil's den, and was never bothered by officers. This was the year following his killing of Dr. Thomas Pickens, nine years ago.

The den is located in the widest section of the mountain region. It is in a deep gorge of about forty acres, and the gorge is filled with boulders, some of which are of immense size.

There is but one route through it, and there are many places where one has to crawl, so that a ten minutes' start at the beginning is still a ten minutes' start at the end. One familiar with the den can find the route to the "devil's chimney." In the top of a cave, perfectly inaccessible to the novice.

The Forest City Bazaar and Shortland College closed June 30 and reopens Sept. 4. Plan for that course you intended taking last September. Young people of Good Education, Character and Address were never in greater demand.

AT CHARLEMAGNE'S TOMB

Kaiser Has Sarcophagus Opened to Examine Precious Cloths.

Aix La Chapelle, Prussia, July 19.—The sarcophagus of Emperor Charlemagne, who ruled Europe eleven centuries ago, was today opened at Emperor William's wish and in the presence of high dignitaries of the Catholic church and provincial officials for the purpose of examining the two precious cloths. These and other relics were found to be in good condition.

Three documents were found, dated 1481, 1483 and 1481. The oldest of the two fabrics dates back to the second half of the tenth century and contains figures of four elephants. The other is of the twelfth century.

The fabrics will be taken to Berlin with Cardinal Fischer's permission by Prof. Lessing, director of the Royal Museum of Industrial Art, will be photographed, and then returned and replaced within the sarcophagus. Emperor William took a lively interest in having the documents removed for examination.

The sarcophagus was first opened in the year 1050 by Emperor Otto III.

The Grocers' Picnic.
Mr. S. H. Palmer, of St. Thomas, the genial ticket and passenger agent of the Michigan Central Railway, was in the city yesterday to complete arrangements for the grocers' excursion to Niagara Falls next Wednesday, July 25. He assured the committee that the train service would be of the very best, the coaches first-class; in fact, equal in every particular to the express train.

For the convenience of the citizens, tickets have been placed with the following grocers: T. A. Rowat & Co., J. C. Treblecock, P. Harley & Son, Geo. Loveless, F. H. Robinson, and at the Richmond street ticket office. This will be a fine opportunity for citizens, seeing for themselves the much-talked-of Niagara electric power plant, now under construction and nearly completed. The works are to be seen just now as they never will be again.

LONDON AND DISTRICT

—Past Grand Master R. K. Cowan, of the local Oddfellows' Lodge, is attending the 32nd annual meeting of the Oddfellows' Relief Association, which is being held in Kingston.

—A garden party was held last evening on the grounds of Mr. McCann at Dorchester Station, under the auspices of the Dorchester Methodist Church. The Newsboys' Band of this city furnished the music.

—The many friends of Mr. Heber S. Wilkinson, of Adelaide street, will be sorry to hear that he is in Victoria Hospital, suffering from appendicitis. He underwent an operation, and is doing as well as can be expected. Mr. Wilkinson had just returned from a two-years' trip in the Southern and Western States.

—The board of the London Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses met on Wednesday morning at the city hall for general business and to arrange for the nurse's holiday which will take place during August, a month when her services will be in somewhat less demand. Miss McLean has paid 325 visits in the five months of her stay in London, and so many expressions of appreciation have reached the board that its members are greatly encouraged to continue their efforts to carry on the good work so auspiciously commenced.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. William Orme, of 372 Ontario street, and Miss Elizabeth Pacey, daughter of John Pacey, of the firm of Plummer & Pacey, wagonmakers, of this city, were united in marriage on the 16th day of July, 1886, hence Monday last was the fiftieth return of the eventful day. A few of their intimate friends, aware of that fact, in a very quiet way (owing to Mr. Orme's rather delicate state of health), gathered at their home to spend a few hours in social intercourse and tender congratulations to the happy couple on reaching this milestone in life's eventful journey. After events of past years and passing incidents of the present time had been talked over, and daintily prepared refreshments had been partaken of, Miss L. Orme read an original poem prepared especially for the occasion by the Rev. L. W. Wickett. A number of those present followed with congratulatory remarks, to which Mr. Orme responded very aptly. Mr. and Mrs. Orme have spent the whole of their lives in and about London, and are now living in quiet retirement, honored and much respected members of the Centennial Methodist Church. A representative of each family received a photo of Mr. and Mrs. Orme taken on the eve of the golden wedding.

These are delightful evenings for a drive in Euston's carriages.

LABOR DAY PARADE HAS BEEN CUT OUT

Trades' Council Will Devote the Money to Better Purposes This Year.

The Trades and Labor Council met last night and decided to cut out the usual parade in Labor Day.

It was argued that the parade cost a great deal of time and money, and that it is not worth the trouble and expense.

This year, it is the intention to put on a first-class entertainment in Queen's Park in the afternoon, and a band concert in Victoria Park at night.

All the energies of the council will be bent toward making this year's Labor Day one of the greatest pleasure for all classes of citizens.

A report was made to the council that certain employers in London are hiring children under 14, the age laid down by the law, and it was decided to inform the factory inspector at once of what is going on. He will be asked to come here and conduct an investigation.

The council last night agreed to do away with the numerous committees which have hitherto conducted the business of the labor men, and instead have but three committees in the future. The committees are composed of one representative from each union. They were named last night.

LOST HIS FINGERS

Painful Accident Befell Robert Northmore Yesterday.

Robert Northmore, employed at the works of the London Show Case Company, had all the fingers of the left hand amputated while working at a machine yesterday afternoon.

The fingers were taken off below the second joint. Dr. John D. Wilson was called and had the patient removed to Victoria Hospital, where the injury was dressed. No serious results are anticipated.

PICNICKED AT PORT

One Hundred Catholic Children of London Had a Fine Outing.

The Girls' Sodality of the Immaculate Conception, with the boys of the Altar Society, and the altar boys of St. Mary's Church, picnicked at Port Stanley yesterday, and a most enjoyable time was spent by all. There were about 100 children in a special car, provided by the Pere Marquette. The picnic was in charge of Rev. Fathers McKeen, and Tobin, of London, and Father West, of St. Thomas. In the afternoon a varied programme of sports was carried out, greatly to the delight of the children. All returned at 7 o'clock, tired, but very happy.

PICNIC PROMOTES UNION

The Sarnia and Point Edward Sunday Schools at the Lakeside.

Sarnia, July 18.—Yesterday the Central, Parker and Point Edward Methodist Sunday schools met at Lake Huron Park for a picnic that is pronounced to have been the most enjoyable in the history of those schools.

There was an excellent programme of sports, and about $25 in prizes was distributed among the happy children.

Capt. Thos. B. Armstrong, of the schooner, Erie Stewart, was loading lumber at Owen Sound, when he was stricken with paralysis necessitating his removal to the hospital where he died on Tuesday. Capt. Armstrong had been sailing the schooner for some time. He was about 58 years of age, and lived in Sarnia. The body will be forwarded to Hamilton for burial.

A sailor, named W. Webster, on the steamer Donacona, at the G. T. R. wharf, Point Edward, received painful injuries this morning by falling into the vessel's hold. His injuries consist of a broken nose and several bruises and cuts on his face and chest. He was taken to the General Hospital, where his injuries received attention. His home is at Oil Springs.

Mrs. Anna Finch, who has begun suit in the circuit court for a divorce from George Finch, maintaining that her husband deserted her for another woman. He owns a house and lot in Sarnia and household goods in Port Huron, which he is trying to get possession of. Judge Law has granted an injunction restraining Finch from taking possession of the household effects. The couple were married in May, 1880, at Point Edward, and have seven children.

Miss Beatrice Cattanch, of Sarnia, and John McIntyre, formerly of Port Huron, were married at Glendive, Mont., on the 14th inst. Mrs. Cattanch, who accompanied her daughter, will return home Thursday.

Miss Edna Boyd, daughter of G. T. R. Agent John Boyd, of Sarnia, secured the highest number of marks in Lambton county at the recent promotion examinations, receiving 570 out of a possible 650, or 88 per cent. This has not been equaled in the entire county in recent years.

To Muskoka Lakes, Lake of Bays and Parry Sound.

The new G. T. R. express, with new, handsome buffet parlor car to Toronto, serving meals, a la carte, connects with Muskoka express trains for all ports on Muskoka Lakes and Lake of Bays, also to Parry Sound (Round Point). Round trip tourist tickets on sale daily, good for season.

ELGIN PROUD OF BIRTHPLACE

British Colonial Secretary on Duties of Motherland and the Colonies.

London, July 18.—At the Dominion Day dinner here, July 2, the Earl of Elgin said he had the privilege of replying both as Secretary of State for the Colonies and as a Canadian. (Cheers.) He felt that he had a right to claim to share with his brethren affection for the land of his birth. (Cheers.) He would not attempt to say what they meant by the Dominion of Canada. The subject was too vast, the progress had been so unprecedented, its expansion was so unparalleled that it would be impossible for any one speaker to do justice to it. Dominion Day might well cause reflection to the Secretary of State. They in Canada had for a period of 38 years enjoyed the largest amount of autonomy of any colony within the empire. That fact was of great significance to this country. It must modify in some respects our relations and responsibilities of each other.

It was of the essence of the whole transaction that there should be nothing to impair the bond which united us as parts of the same empire. How was that to be done? In his judgment it must be done by a spirit of mutual confidence and by a steady adherence to the compact on which our relations depend. What did he mean by a compact? He did not think there was any real doubt as to its interpretation. We in this country had, through a succession of generations and centuries, built up for ourselves self-government. When we granted self-government to a colony we granted it as we knew it ourselves, subject to the conditions of the instruments by which it was conferred.

The right of a colony to self-government was irrevocable and complete, and the mother country could not interfere except by an act of force, which brought with it the risk of a penalty if it was unjustly exercised—the penalty of the forfeiture of allegiance. We in this country, were bound to recognize that those of our own race and of every other race who assumed the privileges of British citizenship, had a right to our full trust and confidence in the privilege of self-government, which we conferred upon them.

But he thought they would agree that there was a correlative duty. We were all parts of the same empire, and it is the duty of the colony, as of the mother country, to be true to the traditions of the empire. It might not be so easy in a sentence to define what the traditions of the empire might be, but he would refer to the flag. The British flag was the emblem everywhere, of the hatred of wrong and oppression. (Cheers, hear.) It was the emblem everywhere of justice and protection of the weaker races and of national and individual freedom. (Cheers.)

WITH EYES AFIRE

Leslie Carter Has Vehement Interview With Belasco's Man.

New York, July 19.—A scene not to be found in any prompt-book was put on by Mrs. Leslie Carter-Payne at the Belasco Theater yesterday morning.

The scene, which was in the actress' most emotional vein, neither confirmed nor discredited the rumor afloat since her very sudden marriage while on an automobile tour to William Louis Payne that the marriage had caused a breach between Mrs. Carter-Payne and Belasco.

Mrs. Carter-Payne drove to the theater early yesterday. As she alighted from her carriage, her appearance gave every indication that she was at a high pitch of excitement. She passed at once into Mr. Belasco's private office where she made a protracted stay. Mr. Belasco was not in New York yesterday. It was said, and was represented at the theater by Benjamin Roeder, his general business manager.

Mrs. Carter-Payne's interview was with Roeder. Its details remain undisclosed, but on the part of the actress it was vehement. So vehement that in the course of it she is said to have slightly injured her hand by bringing it in contact with some article of furniture in Mr. Roeder's office. Observers noted what appeared to be blood upon the white skin when she entered her carriage and drove away. Mr. Roeder left the theater hurriedly shortly after, but soon returned. It is supposed he went to report to his chief.

Mrs. Carter-Payne's departure was followed within a short time by the appearance at the theater of her husband. He came in a cab, and before the vehicle was well at the curbstone, he was out and across the sidewalk into the private office. After a fifteen minutes' interval he emerged, a spectacle of a man wrought up. With a succinct order to his driver he sprang into his cab and was gone.

Yesterday's visit was the second Mrs. Carter-Payne has made to the theater on Forty-second street. She was there on Monday evening to see Mr. Belasco, but failed for the reason that as she arrived, Mr. Belasco, who was in the act of leaving, slipped out of her sight and when she had fairly passed him hurried out and away.

In order to test a Chinese witness' qualification for taking the oath an English magistrate asked him the other day where he expected to go when he died. He replied, "Peking." He was disqualified. Once in another English court a little girl in answer to that question said: "I don't know." The horrified counsel called the judge's attention to the answer. "Oh, I don't know," said the judge; "swear the witness."

TRIAL PROVES ITS EXCELLENCE.
The best testimony one can have of the virtue of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the treatment of bodily pains, coughs, colds and affections of the respiratory organs, is a trial of it. It not only cures, but it is reputed to be so good that it may be rejected as useless, and all that has been said in its praise denounced as untruthful.

17, THRICE WED, TWICE DIVORCED

Kentucky Bride When 14 Left First Husband at Once, Second in Seven Months.

Louisville, July 18.—Barely 17 years old, Mrs. Clara Minor Deuser Clegg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Minor, of Charlestown, Ind., has, for the third time within less than three years, become a bride. Last week before the license issued for her to wed H. Coley, Mrs. Clegg was divorced from William Clegg, of Louisville, to whom she was married on Nov. 14, 1903.

The girl bride was 14, though large for her age and exceedingly pretty, when she was first married on Sept. 11, 1903, to Charles Deuser, of Charlestown. The wedding took place at Jeffersonville. The bride's parents accompanied the couple on their way back from Louisville. On reaching the Kentucky side of the river, the bride and bridegroom parted and two months later a divorce was granted.

One week later Mrs. Deuser became Mrs. Clegg. She lived with him until July 11, 1904, when they separated, and on Dec. 28, 1905, the girl-wife filed suit in Jeffersonville, alleging cruelty. The case came up for trial last February and Mr. Clegg did not appear. Mrs. Clegg testified that she had gone from Charlestown to Louisville and attended the theater with her husband after the separation. The case was about to go against the plaintiff and was dismissed by her without prejudice. In June Clegg filed suit in Louisville and the decree a few days ago was granted to him.

BLOCKS FAST TRAINS

Pittsburg Suburb Plays Ducks and Drakes With Flyer Schedules.

Pittsburg, July 17.—Orders given today to the chief of police of Wilkinsburg to arrest the engineers of all trains which pass through the borough at a speed of more than ten miles an hour threaten to disarrange the schedules of the fast trains on the Pennsylvania Railroad between New York and Chicago. Unless the trouble between the railway and the borough can be patched up this order will mean a clear loss of nine minutes to through trains, as the borough is a mile and a half long. In addition there will be so much further loss in slowing down before the borough is reached and getting up speed after it is passed, that an eighteen-hour train will have a hard time in keeping up to its schedule.

Alleged blocking of the crossings by freight trains and disregard of other ordinances by the railway caused the passage of the drastic ordinance now to be enforced, which calls for the imposition of a fine of $25 on every engineer who exceeds the speed limit.

Burgess Arthur Stuart today gave the order for the enforcement of the ordinance, saying that even President Cassatt would be arrested if trains did not comply with it. "I don't care how the Pennsylvania Railroad likes it," he said. "We do not make our ordinances for the benefit of the road. It must be for the benefit of the public and the safety of the people."

Wilkinsburg has a reputation for enforcing its ordinances. It is a stubborn little borough, which always has opposed coming into greater Pittsburg, and when there is a greater city Wilkinsburg will be entirely surrounded by the corporate limits, but will not be governed by the city.
