AN EIGHT HOUR ARMISTICE TO BURY DEAD AT TCHATALDJA

SOFIA, BULGARIA, NOV. 19.—THE ALLIED BALKAN NATIONS TODAY ASSENTED TO THE TURKISH PROPOSAL TO DISCUSS THE TERMS OF AN ARMISTICE AND EVEN-TUAL PEACE.

London, Nov. 19.—An eight hours' armistice has been agreed to between the Bulgarians and Turks at Tchataldja, so that both armies may bury their dead, according to a news agency dispatch from Constantinople.

FERDINAND'S REPLY. Sofia, Nov. 19.—The reply sent to the dispatch of the grand vizier to King Ferdinand of Bulgaria says:

"The Bulgarian Government, after agreement with the allied cabinets of Servia, Montenegro and Greece, informs the Porte that plenipotentiaries have been appointed with instructions to arrange with the commander-in-chief of the Turkish armies the conditions of an armistice, and subsequently to point to the conclusion of

SATIATED WITH VICTORY.

London, Nov. 19 .- The nations of the Balkan confederacy, satiated with victory, today signified their willingness to treat for terms of peace, at the request of the vanquished Turkish Empire.

The lustre of their success has been only slightly dimmed by their temporary failure to overcome the rallied Turkish army at the gates of Constantinople, and enter the Ottoman capital.

TOOK POWERS' ADVICE. The stubborn defence encountered by the Bulgarians at the line of fortifications at Tchataldja, and the realization that enormous slaughter would be necessary to pierce them at the point of the bayonet, with every prospect that their ranks would be decimated by cholera before they had attained success, doubtless proved deciding factors in inducing the conquerors to listen to the urgings of the great powers and refrain from pressing home their victory to AND ALL BIG CHETOMERS. MEDIATION NOT NECESSARY. Simultaneously with the dispatch to the Grand Vizier of their agreement to appoint peace plenipotentiaries, the allied Balkan nations notified the European powers of the step they had taken, and thanked them for their offer of mediation. High Constable Hughes and Constable Alex. Shaver, of the county police, arrested Joseph Davies, of this city, on King street, between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning on a warrant charging him with assaulting and robbing William Wilkinson, of West Nissouri, on Saturday evening.

The warrant was not issued until late on Monday afternoon, but as the police already had a good description of the alleged assailant he was rested in a short time. The accused was walking on King street, between Talbot and Richmond streets, and was arrested without any resistance. It is understood that the pelice recovered a large portion of the money, and also took possession of some goods that had been puchased on Monday.

THE PRISONER. Davies is well known in the neighborhood in which the robbery took place, as he had been engaged by a farmer for some time in harvesting the crops. He is a married man, about 32 years of age, having come to this country at the age of nine years. Some time ago his wife left their home at 136 Bathurst street, claiming that he would not support her, but only a few days ago they patched up their differences and resumed housekeeping.

The accused was released on parole from Kingston Penitentiary some two or three months ago after serving parts of two concurrent sentences of five years for stealing some harness and grain near Birr in December, 1908.

Expert direction at the outset is Spectator is evidently not clear on the point that the education of adolescents is to be mainly occupational.

But apart from the industrial aspects of the matter, it is absurd to suppose that a child of 14 is educated for citizenship. Along with the effort to make him a good workman will go a certain continuation of the more liberal subjects adapted to each case, to the advantage of individual and state. One good thing about this adolescent study will be its greater elasticity in being freed from the paralyzing grip of machine centralization.

A STARTLING ELECTION CASE.

One of the most sensational election cases in the history of Canadian politics will now come up in the Manitoba courts. The petition filed against the return of the member-elect in Macdonald charges not only the ordinary corruption, but directly against Messrs. Robert Rogers, Sir Rodmond Roblin, Colin H. Campbell and W. H. Sharpe, M. P., acting as agents for Mr. Morrison, that they grossly misused the police power of the province.

It is charged that these gentry paid justices of the peace, constables, detectives, etc., to arrest and confine in jail Mr. Richardson's canvassers and advocates, and that the instructions were carried out in a number of cases by means of warrants issued in blank and other warrants illegally issued the result of illegal police activity being the prevention of free speech and the intimidation of Liberal workers.

These are most serious charges against the politicians named, including one of Mr. Borden's chief lieutenants and the Premier of Manitoba, It the charges are true, much as they may reflect on the good name of this country, the accused have deserved severe penalties. The Macdonald scandal must be probed to the bottom. Not even the suspicion of such misdeeds has breathed upon the Government of any other province than Manitoba. Abuse of police power is one of the lowest and meanest forms of tyranny Citizens concerned for their fundamental rights and the fair fame of the country will await anxiously the truth.

THE SATIRIST AND THE GERMAN BOGEY.

Mr. Max Beerbohm has brought out a book of parodies on the popular authors that is creating amusement in Old London. Parodies may be like puns, condemned by reason, yet they appeal to human nature. Mr. Beerbohm makes a fine art of his work, such as it is, some of his skits amounting by their delicate intimacies and good humor almost to appreciations.

The parody on Kipling is not so happy as some, but it is a deadly thrust at the school of jingoism of which Kipling is the banjo bard. The German war scare is mercilessly satirized. We quote from a review of the

THE EVER-RISING FLOOD OF BOOKS GOOD AND BAD

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.] I received a letter from the manager of one of the great publishing houses of England the other day, and noted with interest his proud observation to the effect that this is the busiest season they have ever had. Putting it in another way, this is the record-breaking season for the number and variety of new books published. The tone of his letter seemed to be optimistic; he seemed to be exhilarated at the thought that all these ew creations were tumbling from the press. But I thinking of all the human hopes and fears and disappointments represented by this busy season of book-making. Think of the novelists whose novels pure enjoyment which can be found in will have a pitiful sale of 300 or 400 cess. LOCAL OPTION FIGHT OPENS AT PETROLEA

Campaign Was Largely Attended.

Petrolea, Nov. 18 .- On Friday night the first local option campaign meeting of the season was held. When his Worship Mayor Pollard took the chair, the large audience stood and sang "God Save the King." A male quartette composed of Messrs. Wismer, Cocks, Scarbrook and Burgess kept the meeting interested by rendering campaign music. Rev. W. M. Kannawan, of Strathroy, was the first speaker. He is a ready speaker, and in a logical way demonstrated the working of ocal option in Strathroy. He showed that ocal option is largely responsible for the unprecedented prosperity of Strathroy. The second speaker was Rev. T. Beverly Smith, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, West Toronto. In a masterly Church, West Toronto. In a masterly address he supported local option. West Toronto has had local option for over eight years. The great improvement of West Toronto is largely due to local option. Other men on the platform were Rev. Messrs. McNair, Moyer and Bingham, Mr. John Baily, field secretary, and Mr. Wm. Peatt, president of the local committee.

Stuffed shell, and after cutting in half, remove the yolks; mix a little vinegar, pepper. If you have room, squeeze in a few pieces of home-made fudge, also.

The Silent Barrier

(BY LOUIS TRACY.)

The American saw again in his mind's eye the scene in the crevasse when Bower had raised his axe to strike. "Quite serious," he replied, and the gravity in his voice was so marked that Helen placed a contrite hand on his arm for an instant. "Please, I am sorry if I was rude to you just now," she said. "I have had a long day, and my nerves are worn to a fine edge. I used to flatter myself that I hadn't any nerves; but they have come to the surface here. It must be the thin air."

"Then it is a bad place for an American."

"Ah, that reminds me of something I had forgotten. I meant to ask you how you came to remain in the Maloja. Is that too' inquisitive on my part? I can account for the presence of the other Americans in the hotel. They belong to the Paris colony, and are interested in tennis and golf. I have not seen you playing either game. In fact, you moon about in solitary grandeur, like myself. And—oh, dear, what a string of questions!—is it true that you wanted to play baccarat with Mr. Bower for a thousand pounds?"

"You really meant to play in the first instance?"

"Yes."
"Wesl, it was very wicked of you. Only the other day you were telling me how hard you had to work before you saved your first thousand pounds."
"From that point of view my conduct was idlotic. But I would like to carry the story a little further, Miss Mynton. I was in a mood that night to oppose Mr. Bower for a much more valuable stake if the chance offered."
"It is rather shocking," said Helen.
"I suppose so. Of course, there are prizes in life that cannot be measured by monetary standards."

He was not looking at the Orlegna now, and the girl by his side well knew it. The great revelation that flooded her soul with light while crossing the Forno came back with renewed power. She did not pretend to herself that the words were devoid of a hidden meaning, and her heart fluttered with subtle ecstassy. But she devoid of a hidden meaning, and her heart fluttered with subtle ecstasy. But she was proud and self-reliant, so proud that she crushed the tumult in her breast, so self-reliant that she was able to give him timid smile.

"That deals with the second head of the indictment, then," she said lightly. "Now for the first. Why did you select the Engadine for your holiday?"

"If I could tell you that, I should know something of the occult impulses that govern men's lives. One minute I was in ondon, meaning to go north. The next was hurrying to buy a ticket for St.

"But—" She meant to continue, "you arrived here the same day as I did." Somehow that did not sound quite the right thing to say. Her tongue tripped, but she forced herself to frame a sentence of the same and the s tence. "It is odd that you, like myself, should have hit upon an out-of-the-way place like Maloja. The difference is that I was sent here, whereas you came of your own free will."

BOARD OF CONTROL VOTE

People Will Have a Say on the Proposed Change in January Next-Last Night's Council Meeting.

The butchers in the market house may continue to grind bones and ren-der tallow for a few days at least. At the meeting of the council last evening, No. 3 committee recommended that such work be prohibited.

"Tell you what," he said in a low voice, "if this storm has blown over by the morning, meet me after breakfast, and we will walk down the valley to Vicosoprano for luncheon. There is a diligence back in the afternoon. We can stroll there in three hours, and I shall have time to clear up this swallow proposition." However, some of the aldermen thought it would be an injustice to the butchers to compel them to refrain from this in view of the fact that the rent was recently raised, and the matter was sent back for further considsition."

He did not seem to understand her meaning. Apparently he might have forgotten that Stampa still lived. Then he roused his wits with an effort. "Not humbled, but elated," he said. "Have I not led you to feats of derring-do? Why, the Wragg girls will be green with envy when they hear of your exploits."

He swung around the corner to the bridge. After a smiling glance at Spencer's impassive face, he turned to Helen. "You have come out of the ordeal with flying colors," he said. "That flower you picked on the way up has not withered. Give it to me as a memento."

To Engage an Expert.

An expert on heating will be engaged by the council to revise the construction of a steam pipe from the incinerator to Victoria Hospital. Ald. Richter insisted that this be done, pointing out that it would be more economical in the long run. It was wrong to allow the firms to fender according to their own specifications. Why Bread is Better Baked in Some Ranges Than in Others

It is all a matter of the way the heat gets into the oven. Some stoves have ovens that heat easily and quickly and remain

Others have ovens that require a wasteful amount of fire in the fire-box before baking heat is reached.

These are the two extremes. For some things each type has advantages. But for all your requirements neither is really

SNOW BYLAW LAID OVER

Ald, Blandford's Scheme Declared To Be a Hardship. The city council had rather a lengthy session on Monday night, but there was no long discussion on any of the questions presented. Ald. Blandford's motion to amend the snow bylaw to compel every property owner to shovel the snow from the walks was sent back for further consideration. He pointed out, on introducing it, that it was time that London took a step forward, and got abreast of the times. The snowplow system was antiquated, Hamilton, Toronto and other cities had abolished that method and compelled property owners to keep their wals clean. Ald. Richter objected to it, saying that it was an injustice to the workingman. He had to leave early for work and the task of shovelling the fell to his wife and children. snowplow was giving excellent satisfaction.

Some of the other aldermen thought it would not be justice to the workingmen, and the matter was sent to the board of works.

"I want $500 for Rowe," he told Mr. O'Neil, and he further stated that he would not take a cent less.

Rowe a Good Man.

"Rowe is one of the best men I have on the Ottawa team," he explained, "and I will need him badly for next season. He is worth the price I am asking for him to me and if you do not want to pay that sum, then I can use him here very nicely."

Five hundred dollars for Rowe is a big price, and as there are lots of good ball players who would make just as sood managers, and even better than the Ottawa catcher, and could be secured for half the amount, the London directors will not entertain Mr. Shaughnessy's proposition.

A New and Valuable Book on the Sulject of DEAFNESS Ringing Noises in the Head.

When one is gradually becoming deat or is troubled with those miserable noises in the head, which are so often allied with deafness, he seeks in vain for a plain, easily-understood book upon the subject that is so all important to him. He can get no nearer than the purchase of a medical work, which is so technical that it cannot be understood. To meet a long-felt want, an able physician (formerly a county medical society president of New York), has written a president of New York), has written a treatise in simple, clear language, explaining deafness and head-noises, showing how they develop, how insidiously dangerous are the causes, and, best of all, the details of a home treatment which has restored the hearing of legions of persons of all ages who thought they were doomed to lasting deafness.

This book points out the way to better health and to placidity of mind, including the elimination of nervous troubles. The author holds that over nine-tenths of all the cases of deafness are amenable to thenew home treatment.

Remarkable cures are being reported

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home,

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take two cups of granulated sugar, add one cup of warm water and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 21/4 ounces of Piner (50 cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps per-fectly. Any housewife can easily pre-pare it in five minutes.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually stops the most severe cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect, and taste is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. It is a splendid remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, hoarseness, asthma, hest pains, etc.

Pinex is the most valuable concentra-ted compound of Norway white pine ex-tract, rich in gualacol and all the healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has often been imitated, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this recipe, if the genuine Pinex is used. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you, if you ask him. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Department of Education of Ontario Assists the Work in London.

The board of education have received check for $2,750 from the Ontario deparement of education, as a grant for the day industrial school in London. This sum will go a long way towards paying the expenses of this class of work, being only about $50 less than the salary list. Chairman W. W. Gammage, of the industrial committee, and the other members, were highly pleased today with the grant. "The Government are realizing the importance of the work done here," said Mr. Gammage. "It is producing re-

Both schools according to the report should be abandoned. The suggestion is to buy land back from Richmond to Wellington street in the north and erect a new school to accommodate Richmond school district, and a portion of Taibot territory. This rearrangement would mean that Princess avenue would have to take care of another portion of the Talbot district. The building is badly located from a public school standpoint, but is ideally situated for technical school students Another story could be built upon the Alexandra, said Mr. Dennis, and London would then lead in practical training. Among the wounded who arrived in It was recently suggested that the Dominion Government might consider a plan to give $1 for each person in Canada. This would mean a total of $8,000,-000 for technical training, and London would be entitled to her $50,000 grant. This proposition appealed strongly to Mr.

A MEETING TO CONSIDER SEWERS

Will Be Laid Before the Board of Works.

SCHEME IS A BIG ONE

West London is Not Yet Provided For in the Plans, But the Engineers Are Working on Idea. The report on storm sewers will be presented to a special meeting of the oard of works to be called this week, possibly on Wednesday evening. City Engineer Brazier has it practically completed, and could have handed it in last week, had the board been ready to receive it. Mr. A. E. Macgregor, of Toronto, has made all the surveys, prepared the maps and data, etc., and worked out the estimates. He is a young engineer, who has made a specialty of sewer work, and was highly recommended to former City Engineer Geo. W. Wright After the completion of his work here e will be associated with Mr. Willis Chipman, of Toronto, who has prepared a report on the sewer system During former Mayor Samuel Stevely's regime, Mr. Chipman made an extensive report on general conditions, which is now in the city Totally Inadequate. In it, the statement was made that the sanitary sewer was totally inadequate to handle storm water. It was never intended for that purpose in the first place, being designed to take away sewage from buildings alone. Mr. Chipman pointed out that the connec-tions made for storm water had impaired the efficiency of the present system, and he recommended a separite system for storm water.

The city engineer has had that report for some years, and it was on the recommendation of this report that Mr. Wright insisted that a topographical map be made to show the best method of getting rid of the storm water. Mr. Macgregor was engaged to take the levels, etc., on the recommendation of Mr. Chipman, and he has now practically finished his work. results will be submitted to the ratepayers in a few days. Divided into Sections.

The city is divided into sections for storm water purposes. The natural watersheds are followed in practically watersheds are followed in practically every case, as affording the easiest and most feasible way of draining the various sections. A separate system for South London, two for the southeast section, and one or two smaller trunks for the downtown district have been planned. nk starts at the southeastern section of the city, near the present limits, and follows a zigzag course he River Thames on Ridout llowing the watershed of Carling's Creek Of course, it will be laid on the city streets as the creek is on private property, and the council have no ower to go on this land. It will drain all the northern portion of the city, and will empty the drainage into the Thames. The tile will be 42 inches to begin with, and 8 feet or more at the end.

In South London the main trunk will run down the Wortley road. Another will be laid, a small one, to the western side of the suburb.

Not Yet Provided For. West London has not yet been provided for, Mr. Macgregor and Mr. Brazier are working out the ard problem, and it will have to be dealt later. So far as the east and southern portions of the city are concerned, one trunk run down Wellington street another down Adelaide street, and another further east on Rectory street.

These various trunks will be connected to every street. The size of the tile and will, it is expected, effectually take care of all the storm water in the city. "The system is laid out in sections," said City Engineer Brazier. "A section at a time can be built. When the system complete, every portion of the city will be drained, not a portion being omitted.

Of course we did not go over the newlyannexed districts, as that was not in
