3 Foe Destroyers Sent To Bottom In Channel Fight

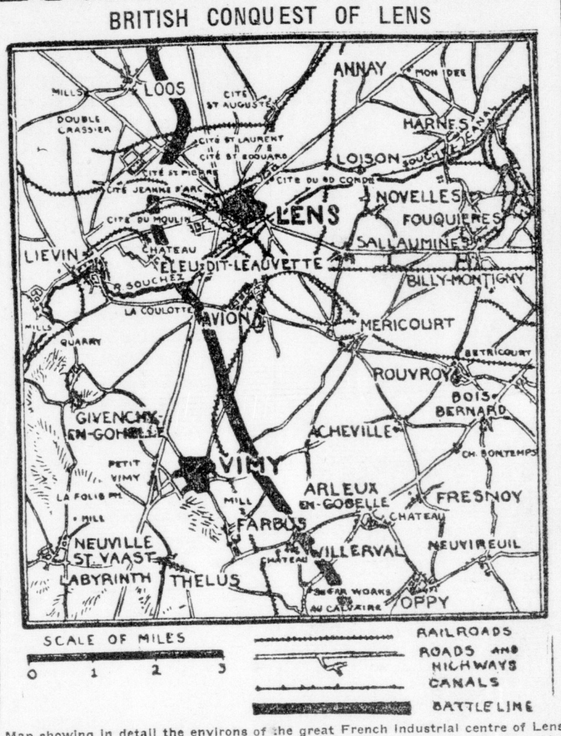

Five German Destroyers Raid English Coast and Three Are Sunk by British Patrol Vessels — One Hundred and Five Germans Saved.

London, April 21.—The admiralty announces that two German destroyers, possibly three, have been sunk in the course of a German raid near Dover.

Five German destroyers took part in the raid. They were engaged by two Dover patrol vessels. The British suffered no material damage.

The British casualties were slight in comparison with the results obtained. One hundred and five Germans were saved.

BRITISH CONQUEST OF LENS

Map showing in detail the environs of the great French industrial centre of Lens. Lens and La Bassess, six miles north, are the principal outworks of Lille, which in turn is the key to the whole German position in Flanders. The British are at the very gates of Lens, having fought their way beyond Lievin and Cite St. Pierre, two suburbs.

TEN THOUSAND STRIKERS BATTLE WITH SOLDIERS AT MAGDEBURG; ATTEMPT TO PLY THE TORCH

Furious Fight Between Soldiers and German Munition Workers, in Which Many of the Latter Are Killed or Wounded—Startling News From Interior of Germany.

London, April 21.—Ten thousand strikers, mostly munition workers, tried to burn the town hall at Magdeburg on Friday, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Oldenzaal, Holland. Soldiers fired on the rioters, killing and wounding many, and the town is now in a state of siege.

Madgeburg is the capital of the Prussian province of Saxony, and one of the strongest fortresses in the German Empire. It is 75 miles from Berlin, and is the seat of immense steel works and machine shops, forming part of the great Krupp works. The city had a population in 1900 of 229,663.

BRITISH AND FRENCH MAKE FURTHER GAIN

Nivelle's Troops Have Won Ground by the Use of Grenades.

BRITISH TAKE A VILLAGE

Great Artillery Duel in the Vicinity of Craonne and Rheims.

Paris, April 21.—Noon.—French troops made further gains last night in grenade fighting south of Juvincourt and east of Courcy. A German attack against Mont Saut failed, the war office announces. The artillery was very active over the front of the French offensive. The battle of guns raged with particular violence east of Craonne and north of Rheims.

THE FRENCH REPORT.

The statement follows:

"North of the Aisne, the artillery fighting was active in the regions of Nanteuil-le-Fosse and Hurtebiz. We took 100 more prisoners yesterday on this part of the front.

"East of Craonne and north of Rheims the night was marked by violent artillery actions. We made progress in grenade fighting, particularly to the south of Juvincourt and east of Courcy.

"In the Champagne we inflicted losses on enemy troops which made an attack on Mont Seut, west of Maisons-de-Champagne. French detachments penetrated the German lines and brought back forty prisoners.

"The night was relatively calm over the remainder of the front."

BRITISH TAKE GONNELOU.

London, April 21.—British troops last night captured the village of Gonnelou, on the front between St. Quentin and Cambrai, it was officially announced today. A number of prisoners were taken in the sharp fighting here.

HAIG'S REPORT.

The text of the statement reads:

"We captured the village of Gonnelou last night after sharp fighting, taking also a number of prisoners.

"An enemy party attempted to enter our trenches in the neighborhood of Fauquissart, but was repulsed.

"Artillery fire continued on both sides at a number of places during the night."

THE WAR SITUATION

General Nivelle maintains his unrelenting pressure against the enemy at the most vital point of his defences—the sharp angle at which the German line, running south from Lens turns towards Rheims. This angle has already been crushed to an appreciable extent, and is in imminent danger of being entirely shattered.

German Morale Breaking.

The heavy toll of prisoners taken by the French mounts steadily day by day, giving strong support to the claims made in London and Paris of the deterioration of the German morale.

Three great obstacles stand in the path of General Nivelle. The first is the formidable and sinister Brimont plateau, the height from which the German guns have poured their shells on the Rheims cathedral. The French are at the foot of this plateau, and by a double flanking movement are endeavoring to cut it off on the main German line.

A Second Barrier.

The second great barrier is the almost similarly situated Fore De Malmaison, which stands between General Nivelle's troops and Laon on the road from Laffaux. The third obstacle is the Upper Coucy forest, a densely wooded plateau, which held up the French in their initial drive from Soissons.

While the French guns thunder against these three German strongholds there is comparative inactivity on the British front. That General Haig is preparing for another blow is taken for granted, and London believes that this blow will not be long withheld now.

REVOLUTION IMMINENT IN DUAL MONARCHY; CITIES ARE IN STATE OF SIEGE

New York, April 21.—A news agency dispatch from Rome published here today says:

A revolution is imminent in Hungary, according to Vatican advices today.

As a result of various disturbances, the information here asserted, Budapest and twenty-five other cities and towns had been proclaimed in a state of siege.

Interest in the great French offensive on the Aisne today is second only to the startling news from the interior of Germany. Veiled though the situation is in the mists of a rigid censorship and obscured by the shackled condition of the German press, sufficient has leaked through to indicate that the German Empire is facing a great economic and political crisis.

TRIED TO BURN HALL.

The latest information received is that 10,000 striking munition workers have been engaged in a bloody riot in the great Prussian fortress town of Magdeburg, and were only prevented from burning the city hall after a sharp clash with the military. This story comes from the Dutch frontier with sufficient detail to make its claims to authenticity impressive. On its heels arrives the account of demands made by the leaders of the Berlin strike, demands of such a revolutionary character that compliance with them would mean a prompt ending to the militarist regime in the German Empire.

WANT LIEBKNECHT FREED.

Similar demands have not been voiced publicly in Germany since the imprisonment of Dr. Karl Liebknecht on a charge of treason. It is significant that they include a requisition for the release of all political prisoners, which would include, of course, the noted Socialist leader.

The exact status of the strike movement in Germany is unknown, but it is certain that a very considerable portion of the munition workers have been affected. There are reports of a new strike at Essen and Magdeburg, the site of an important branch of the great Krupp establishment. An indication of the seriousness of the situation is afforded by the fact that Field Marshal von Hindenburg has considered it necessary to make a personal appeal to the workers, in which he denounces strikes as inexcusable crimes against the fighting forces.

PREMIER WARNS EMPIRE AGAINST HUN EFFICIENCY

Borden Sees Great Commercial Struggle After the War.

PRAISES UNITED STATES

Believes British and Americans Can Command Peace of World.

Manchester, April 21.—Sir Robert L. Borden, premier of Canada, was given the freedom of the city of Manchester today. In his speech of acceptance, he predicted that after the war German industries would be supported and developed by the most thorough and powerful state organization ever known. He said that if the militarist autocracy remained in control the possessions and integrity of the British Empire would not remain unchallenged. Referring to the entrance of the United States into the war, he said:

Tribute To States.

"The great kindred nation adjoining the Dominion from which I come has been impelled by the relentless and overbearing arrogance and aggression of Germany to take up arms in a common cause of liberty and humanity. From the very foundation of the republic, the traditions of American policy have been consistently opposed to intervention in any European war. They would never have committed this fateful step save for the overmastering cause of honor and right.

"Our neighbors are peace-loving people, as we are, but those who imagine they are more greatly influenced by material considerations than other nations, fail to realize or comprehend the true spirit of the people of the United States. Their astonishing progress and industry and their remarkable capacity in affairs may have led to a false conception—possibly they have some misconception with regard to us.

"I hold that the self-governing nations of the British Empire are as truly and thoroughly democratic in their purposes, ideals and aspirations as any nation in the world. It has been wittily said that the United States might be regarded as a monarchy under an elective king and the British Empire as a republic under an hereditary president, and it is perfectly true that the president has much greater executive power than the King. In all essentials the ideals of Government are the same in both countries and the spirit of the two nations is the same.

"In this conflict thousands of American citizens have enrolled in our forces and have fought gallantly and heroically side by side with Canadians. It will be a glorious day when the Union Jack and Old Glory advance together in the same cause on freedom's battlefield.

"I have spoken of the responsibilities of our Empire; let me emphasize even more strongly the joint responsibility of the American Republic and the British commonwealth. Inspired by the same ideals, united in a common purpose and acting in unselfish and loyal co-operation, they possess a power, both moral and material, which can command the peace of the world. May they exercise that power for this, the highest of all purposes."

LONDON MADE AN OFFER TO GET AERIAL CAMP

Mayor Stevenson has heard nothing from the militia authorities relative to the establishment of an aeroplane base in this city. Some time ago, he made a proposition to the Government, but has not heard any thing from the authorities since. "We should have a base here," said Mayor Stevenson. "We made a good offer to the Government, and I am hoping that it will be accepted.

PORTUGUESE CABINET OUT.

New York, April 21.—The Evening Sun publishes the following dispatch from Lisbon.

"The Portuguese Cabinet has resigned, it is announced today, because the Chamber rejected its decree instituting a national economic council.

NOT SEEKING SEPARATE PEACE, SAY RUSSIANS, IN ANSWER TO LONDON

Petrograd, April 21, via London.—The official news agency today gave out the following statement:

"Replying to Congressman Meyer London (of New York), who asked for a denial that the Russian Socialists favored a separate peace with Germany, the executive committee telegraphed:

"As has been stated in a declaration of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, the entire Russian revolutionary democracy does not seek a separate peace but favors international peace without annexations or indemnities, real or disguised, on the basis of the free development of nations and considers that the proletariat of every country should do its utmost to bring about peace on the above basis."

It was announced in Washington on April 19, that Representative London, the only Socialist member of Congress, had cabled N. C. Tcheidse, a Socialist member of the Russian Duma, for authoritative information regarding the rumors that Russian Socialists favored a separate peace with Germany.

FORMER LONDONER NAMED CANDIDATE IN THE WEST

Calgary, Alta., April 21.—W. M. Davidson, editor and proprietor of the Calgary Albertan, has been nominated as Liberal candidate for the provincial riding of North Calgary.

Mr. Davidson is a former Londoner, and edited the London News for many years. When that newspaper was absorbed he went West, spending some time in Vancouver and Victoria. Later he went to Calgary, where he established the Calgary Albertan. He has been most successful.

BLEW THE VAULT.

Lardner, B. C., April 21.—Burglars blew the combination of the vault of the local branch of the Royal Bank yesterday. It is not believed they secured any money.

BALFOUR'S PARTY LANDED IN U. S.

Washington, April 21.—The safe landing of the British foreign minister, Balfour, and his party, was announced today by the state department.

WATCHING HIM CLOSELY.

New York, April 21.—No German citizen, unless he carries a pass issued by the federal authorities, will be permitted to cross the Brooklyn, Manhattan or Williamsburg bridges in any vehicle other than an elevated train or a street car after June 1, under orders issued today by United States Marshal Power. The basis of the order is the fact that the Brooklyn ends of the bridges come within the prohibited zone for alien enemies, which had been drawn around the navy yard.

LIEUT. FARR KILLED.

Stratford, April 21.—Official word was received today of the death in action, April 12, of Lieut. Cecil J. Farr, who enlisted at Winnipeg.

SECOND OF A SERIES ON BILLY SUNDAY WRITTEN ESPECIALLY FOR THE LONDON ADVERTISER.

New York, April 21.—Next to Billy Sunday himself, the most interesting things about a Billy Sunday meeting is a Billy Sunday crowd. I'm not sure but what the crowds are the most interesting thing of the two.

It is vastly interesting to see twenty-odd thousand people swayed by one mind, which is so persuasive, after a fashion, so thoroughly in earnest, after all fashions, so intent upon doing the job in hand after any old fashion at all, that those twenty and more thousands are moved and governed by a common will and a common impulse until they become a great harmonious instrument to be played on by this master musician of emotionalism, this harpist of the heart strings, this arch-performer upon human nature.

For, all exaggeration aside, the Rev. William Sunday is, beyond peradventure, all of these things. If I am one to say, he has, in a very considerable degree, the gift which Martin Luther must have had and which William Jennings Bryan used to have and which—meaning no disrespect to anyone—P. T. Barnum had, too. It is the instinctive gift of kneading and moulding the psychology of the multitude and out of that mass-psychology to distill sympathy and enthusiasm. It is the gift of putting one's own personality to leavening the whole great group—one pinch of powerful human yeast working in one vast batch of human dough. And, for all his crudity of expression, his grotesqueness of manner, his lack of intellectual background, his disdain for real logic and real argumentation, and —greatest handicap of all— his strained and discordant speaking voice, the Rev. Sunday must surely has that gift to an extent which only a few men out of each generation of men ever have it. If you have genius, you don't need grammar.

Billy Sunday Supreme Evangelist.

If he were a salesman, Billy Sunday could sell spinning wheels in a New England factory town or flint-lock muskets to the German army. If he were a general he could hold a last ditch to a fare-you-well and turn forlorn hopes into victories. If he were a politician, he could always hold office and cigars and steamboats would be named for him. Being none of these, but some of at least three of them—part a salesman, part a leader, part a

FLETCHER COMMITTED.

GLOOM AMONG THE "LISTERS," THEIR BOOZE TO BE CUT OFF

New Era of Dryness Gave Them Access To Supply of Liquor, But Board Will Adopt Regulations To Prevent Inveterates From Purchasing.

The establishment of a prohibitory list to include persons who will not be allowed to receive liquor by express or any other means, the scheme being to replace the "Indian list" of licensed days, and the compulsory keeping of a separate record book of liquor shipments by all transportation companies, are two of the important proposed amendments to the Ontario temperance act.

Inspector J. E. Keenleyside received from the Ontario License Commission today a copy of the proposed amendments, these to be submitted to the Ontario Legislature by the Ontario License Commission at an early date. The commission will press hard for the adoption of the amendments, claiming that the act has been violated on many occasions because of the failure to have such measures included in the working of the act.

To Reduce Drunkenness.

Should the "Indian list" be made law it is claimed by the commission that drunkenness would reduced 50 per cent or even more. Statistics as compiled by the commission based upon reports of shipments show that a great many men who under licensed conditions were unable to procure liquor in hotels because they were "Indian listers" now are able to get it by express.

The penalties for infraction by the "listers" was much more severe than now.

Under the Ontario temperance act men who were originally "Indian listers" have been able since September 18th last, to procure liquor by the case having it shipped to their homes. The procedure has been perfectly legal, but the commission now sees the flaw in the act, and will urge for the amendment. Many of these men who were listers are claimed to have gone extensively into the blind pig and bootlegging business. The amendment would reduce this to a minimum.

Keep Separate Records.

The amendment with respect to express, railway and transportation companies will make it necessary if adopted, for the companies to keep a separate record book of liquor shipments. At present liquor shipments are entered with other consignments. The "Indian list" would be placed in the hands of the transportation companies and they would be legally bound to report shipments and hold such bearing in the names of prohibited persons to the license inspector.

Other amendments are under consideration, but the above two will be urged upon the Legislature at an early date.

RAID PRIVATE FOOD RESERVES

The Hague, April 21.—In view of the serious situation in Germany, the food dictator again ordered a complete house-to-house round up of all private food reserves in the towns, villages and hamlets of the whole of Germany.

Commissioners, with Berlin reservists, descended on the farms, large and small, and the old farmsteads, even those with waste lands. They searched all buildings, not neglecting the humblest habitations.

Sacks of corn and potatoes and sides of bacon were found hidden in garrets, cellars, and apparently unused outhouses. The authorities were amazed by the quantities of food collected in these raids.

TURKEY BREAKS OFF RELATIONS WITH U.S.

Basel, Switzerland, April 21—Via Paris.—A dispatch from Constantinople dated today says the Ottoman Government has notified the American embassy that following the example of its ally, Austria-Hungary, it has broken diplomatic relations with the United States.

EXPECTED AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, April 21.—The Turkish embassy here early this afternoon had no information regarding the reported severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Constantinople Government. Such action by Turkey has been expected, however, and officials of the embassy expressed no surprise when informed of the nature of the dispatch from Basel.

The Bulgarian legation also was without advices defining the attitude of Bulgaria toward the United States.

CANADIANS ARE 'MARK TAPLEYS'; EVER CHEERFUL

Working Up To Their Eyes in Mud, But Are as Happy as Larks.

WHEN GUNS MOVE EAST

[By Stewart Lyon, Canadian Press Correspondent In France.]

Canadian Army Headquarters, April 21.—This is an army of Mark Tapleys. Its cheerfulness is invincible. Though up to their eyes in mud during the last ten days, the Canadians and Imperial troops, with whom they are associated in the operations at Vimy Ridge, labored incessantly in making a way for their guns across the desert the guns themselves had created. The adverse weather but spurred the men to greater exertions. After working till dark they came "home to their wet trenches—the captured dugouts or shelters by the side of some pile of ruins—and before turning in made the night vocal with songs and favorite choruses, such as "What's the Use of Worrying."

Worried By Artillery.

As their work progressed the men had the satisfaction of seeing the guns that had done so much to drive out the enemy go east once more. The enemy's artillery out on the plain had been actively shelling our working parties, and though his heavies have been moved back to avoid capture as well as to operate to greater advantage against our positions, his mobile artillery was a thorn in the flesh of the men on the eastern slope. Our own guns have now come up, the situation of the infantry has improved materially, and the men have begun to push out our front line to explore the enemy's positions, extending in irregular lines from Lens south through Mericourt, Acheville and Arleux.

Getting Near Douai.

The present German defences seem to be intended as an aid in delaying an action, rather than to form a nucleus for a permanent front for the troops driven from Vimy. Douai is only ten miles to the east of our most advanced post, and the line taken by the enemy for the present covers that city, which is one of the most important railway and road centres in Northern France.

The Prussian Guard has been sent to this part of the front to take the place of the Bavarians, whose withdrawal must be galling to Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, leader of the army group in this area.

Raids Fail.

Since the Prussians came there have been several attempts to raid our posts at night, but all have been sorry failures. On each of the last three occasions, the enemy left some of his dead in front of our lines, and failed in any of these raids to inflict a single Canadian casualty.

German losses by shellfire have been very heavy since the semi-open warfare began. The enemy sorely misses his deep shelters on Vimy Ridge prepared by the patient toil of so many months. Our men know now from experience that they can depend implicitly upon their guns when it comes to a show down, and that is why, as the guns go east, they sing in their trenches and shelters while the interminable rain makes everyone look like as if clothed in caked mud.

TWO MORE NORSE SHIPS VICTIMS OF THE ENEMY

London, April 21.—A dispatch to the Central News from Copenhagen says an official Norwegian communication announces that the steamer Bergengut has been sunk by a German submarine and that eight of the crew were killed.

It is also reported that the Norwegian steamer Norden, 766 tons gross, has been captured by Germans and taken to Cuxhaven.

ARGENTINE DEMANDS SATISFACTION FROM BERLIN FOR "SUBBING"

No Evasion or Delay Will Be Tolerated.

Buenos Ayres, April 21.—The Government has sent to Germany an energetic note demanding complete satisfaction for the sinking of the Argentinian sailing ship Monte Protegio. The Argentinian minister is instructed to immediately break off relations if Germany attempts to evade responsibility for the loss of the vessel.

The instructions sent to the minister are to the effect that Argentina will permit of no evasion or delay on the part of Germany. He is informed to instruct the Berlin Government that if a prompt satisfaction is not granted Argentina will follow the course of the United States and Brazil, and will arm its ships against submarines.

RELIEF SHIP KONGALI SUNK BY A SUBMARINE

Amsterdam, April 21, via London.—The relief ship Kongsli has been sunk by a mine or submarine. One member of the crew is missing, the remainder having been rescued.

The Kongsli was a Norwegian steamer of 5,226 tons gross. She was originally the steamer Artisan, built at Sparrows Point, Maryland, in 1916. She sailed from Portland, Me., on March 21 for Rotterdam, with supplies for the Belgian Relief Commission.

THE RINGHORN GONE.

London, April 21.—Officials here of the commission for relief in Belgium have been advised that the steamer Ringhorn, outward bound from Rotterdam with a safe conduct, has been sunk.

THRILLS ANEW WITH GLOWING NARRATIVE OF YPRES DEFENCE

Corp. Donald Campbell Visualizes Great Deed of Canadian Valor Two Years Ago, When Road to Calais Was Saved in Five-Day Battle.

By Corp. Donald E. Campbell, who served with the first Canadians in France, and was wounded at St. Julien. Specially written for The Advertiser.

The morning of the 22nd of April, 1915, broke clear and warm. The first light breath of spring was in the air. A midsummer silence brooded over the "Valley of Death." The occasional shell in bursting echoed back from the shattered walls of St. Julien. All was peace, the peace of death.

The 1st Canadian Division, claimed by competent observers to be the "Flower of the British Army," held the apex of the Ypres salient. It was known to be a danger point on the Allied line. Gen. Sir Horace Smith Dorien had warned the men that their endurance might be tested to the uttermost in holding it. His words came true.

The 3rd Brigade held the left of the Canadian line. First came the 13th Battalion (5th Royal Highlanders of Montreal), and the 15th Battalion (48th Highlanders of Toronto). To the left again lay the North African troops of the French. The 16th Battalion, Canadian Scottish, lay in billets on the outskirts of Ypres.

During the morning word leaked through that the Germans would bombard Ypres in the afternoon. The 16th was therefore moved to the White Chateau on the banks of the Yser Canal, for greater safety.

All Quiet and Peaceful.

The warm day drew to a close. Contrary to orders, some of the men of the Canadian Scottish had gone into Ypres. In the little estaminets they whiled away the time. The intermittent shelling held no terrors for them. All was quiet and peaceful.

Suddenly all the world seemed to spring into life. The air trembled. The city rocked and groaned on its foundations. The universe seemed filled with a roaring, a whirring and a throbbing. Shells burst in the streets. The men rushed from the estaminets. A frightful roar and a house collapsed. Houses and cellars vomited people, old people, young, cripples, crippled women with crippled children on their backs. An agonized scream went up. Shells burst everywhere. The city was mad with fear. The German guns were getting in their work.

"To the billets, to the billets," was the cry, and the Canadians ran. Houses to right and left crumpled into nothing. Great buildings burst into sudden flame. On ran the men.

The crowds of frenzied people rushed madly down the street. They converged at the corners, screaming. Four shells, four holes in the cobbled road, an arm, a head in the gutter, a sudden silence; then the crowd rolled on screaming.

Somehow the Canadians won through. On the outskirts of the town officers and sergeants gesticulated wildly.

Drive on the Canal.

"Hurry, hurry, the battalion is falling in," was the cry.

On the banks of the Yser all was orderly activity. The men, their suppers half-finished, were donning equipment. Soon the order came to line the canal. Shells were bursting in unusual places. The men laughed and joked.

In the open air, away from the houses, the long deep roar of many guns was heard, and then, as an undertone, the spiteful, crackling rattle of rifle fire, constantly growing in intensity.

The sinking sun thrust long pinions of light over a world turned yellow, green and sickly red.

"What was happening?" No one knew. Suddenly a sergeant ran up from headquarters. A dozen voices called "What's happening?"

"What's happening? Hell. The French have broken; the Germans are coming through in thousands; we have to hold the canal.

An instant's silence. Then one man laid his gun on the ground behind a hillock.

The First Gas Attack.

Over the rise, across the canal, dim figures appeared. There were scores of them. They reeled and staggered as they came. The vanguard reached the bridge. They coughed and wept, turning agonized faces to the Canadians. Now and then one dropped, writhing. It was the French Turcos. German gas had done its work.

The order came to fall in on the road behind the canal. Darkness was coming on. The men obeyed silently. Extra ammunition was issued, and the battalion moved silently off. Along the Canal and through the outskirts of Ypres until it reached the St. Julien road. The darkness was thinned by the glare from burning Ypres and the flash of bursting shells.

At a dark corner of the road stood Gen. Alderson and his staff. "Give them the bayonet, men," he called as the boys passed.

"You bet we will," they answered as they hurried along, laughing and talking. All were in good spirits. It was to be a fight at last, a real fight.

Forward to the Fray.

Down the St. Julien road they passed, almost at the double. The road was lined with transports and drivers called out words of encouragement and admonition. Before St. Julien was reached the line branched off into the open fields. There another battalion was found. It was the 10th Canadians.

Lieut.-Col. Leckie in command of the 16th called a halt. The two battalions were formed up in battle array, each four lines deep, the men at one-yard intervals. The 10th Battalion, under Lieut.-Col. Boyle was in the lead.

Word was given to advance, and the lines moved forward quietly in the dark. Another halt was called. A quarter of a mile ahead lay a dark patch on the horizon. It was a wood. Then word came back that the Germans were entrenched there. Orders said that they must be removed by dawn.

Again the lines advanced. From somewhere behind, a lonely gun was throwing an occasional shell into the wood ahead. Away to the right, beyond St. Julien, the battle still roared, though somewhat diminished in violence. Ahead at intervals, German flares rose from the wood.

Still another halt was called. This time orders were issued to discard packs and greatcoats and to fix bayonets.

Lines of Jagged Flame.

"Advance," came the order, and the wood began to loom close. The ranks moved stealthily. The front rank was not more than 150 yards from the trenches—

Then it happened.

With a roar like a great forest afire, the whole front of the wood and hundreds of yards on either side burst into lines of jagged flame. Hundreds of flares shot into the sky, laying bare the earth like a noonday sun. The front lines melted. Down went the men. There were no more orders. None could be heard in that awful blast. The men, hugging the earth, watched, watched, watched ahead. When one line rose, all rose and rushed.

They seemed to fall like leaves, but none paused to inquire a comrade's fate.

How did any win through? The air seemed filled with rifle and machine-gun bullets. The roar was constant. Shrapnel burst overhead. Up again and on, through ditches, wire, over hedges that offered no shelter, men falling everywhere, on they rushed. With a wild yell the trench was reached. The firing broke suddenly off. Grey figures darted away through the trees. Those who remained were simply killed in passing. On into and through the wood went the Canadians.

Germans Cleared Out.

The place was won. The Germans had been removed.

The wood was wide and the undergrowth thick in places. From the left broke out a heavy rifle fire. The bullets ripped through the trees. The Canadians headed them out. They were hunting Germans, and they toyed with death. Many fell.

Lieut.-Col. Boyle of the 10th was dead. Lieut.-Col. Leckie of the 16th collected the men and took them back to the captured German trench. This they lengthened and consolidated. When dawn broke they were partly dug in.

Then commenced a day of horror. Two thousand men had rushed to the attack. The roll-call at dawn revealed a scant 600.

To the left of the wood and for a mile beyond stretched a German trench. In front of it not a single Allied soldier. The Canadian trench extended beyond the edge of the wood. German machine guns played upon it constantly. Many of the defenders went down.

Then the German artillery, somewhere over on the right, got the range. All day long the great shells swept the Canadian line from end to end. Horribly accurate was their fire. By noon the trench was filled in places. To move one was forced to crawl over dead and dying. One's comrades breathed their last in a roaring, crowded solitude. Scant help could be rendered. A shell lighting in a pile of dead and wounded, red flesh and gory heads streaked the air.

Fired on Wounded.

In the open lay hundreds of Canadians wounded. If a man rolled, groaning in his agony, the Germans saw him and a fusillade of shots ended his misery.

But the Canadians hung on. The thought of retreat simply occurred to no one. They waited the German onslaught. It was sure to come. But it never came. Men's nerves were worn thin and ragged. But they hung on.

During the morning the roll of rifle fire coming up from the left showed a battle raging there. It was the 1st and 3rd Canadians attacking the new German line in broad daylight. The men of the Canadian Scottish did not know that then. Not for days did they hear the story.

Finally night drew on. The enemy fire slackened. Still the attack held off. No sleep for weary men though. All night long they stood to arms. A little food was brought up. The men felt somewhat refreshed. The night ended, and when day broke the 2nd Battalion was in support in rear. About 5 o'clock in the morning orders were given to evacuate the trench and let the men of the 2nd Battalion in. The movement was carried out in broad daylight and with considerable loss.

Mile Hole in the Line.

Then some news of the battle began to leak through. The Germans had attacked with three army corps, about 120,000 men, and immense quantities of artillery. This and the new asphyxiat- and Canadian lines caused the French to break, forcing the Canadian left to retire. A gap of more than a mile was made in the line. The 48th Highlanders ing gas which they hurled at the French and 5th Royals of Montreal were almost surrounded.

With the exception of the Canadian Scottish and the 10th Battalion not a man lay between the Germans and Calais. They might have marched through. Those two units were hurled at the German line, were sacrificed, but they forced the Germans to pause, believing the British must be in force or they would not dare attack.

The Canadian Scottish, in reserve trenches, worked like mad to solidify them against the further German advance. At noon 80 of them were collected and marched to the relief of the hard-pressed 13th and 15th Battalions in St. Julien. But that village was almost totally obscured from view. Huge 17-inch shells were falling on it. None could approach. The men were retired, leaving the defenders to their fate.

The reserve trenches lay along the crest of a low ridge. The Germans had the range. Their shells were bursting low and along the ridge a perfect cyclone of flying steel kept the defenders close to the ground.

Bringing Up the Shells.

If a man peered over the parapet, he saw nothing but an almost lifeless, sunlit countryside; almost but not quite lifeless it was. The Canadian artillery was working. Down the road through that hell of shells, swept the ammunition columns. Horses almost lying flat on the ground, carts, leaping and plunging, men flat on the horses' backs, arms rising and falling as whips lashed the devoted animals to constant effort.

Four shells, lighting all at once, and horses, men and carts flew into the air. The following teams drove madly through and over them.

And so for days the battle went. Each night the roar of fire died down. Each dawn the roar of fire rolled up. Then the reserve commenced to come, a straggling unit at first, but in a day or two the face of the earth was below and blue with British and French uniforms.

Then the Canadians got some sleep. Five days and nights they went, and many of them had not four hours' sleep. Now came a chance to rest at night. But still they stayed in the trenches.

From one part of the field to another they moved, sometimes "digging in" three times in one day, now behind the British, and now in support of the French. Always under the galling fire they stayed in the battle.

At last human endurance reached an end. The boys could stand no more. On the night of the 4th of May, after twelve days of constant effort at high pitch they were taken out. That night they marched 20 miles to billets near Balleul.

REPLENISH YOUR BLOOD IN THE SPRING

Just now you are feeling "out of sorts"—not your usual self. Quite exhausted at times and cannot devote real energy to your work. Sleep does not rest you and you wake up feeling "all tired out." Perhaps rheumatism is flying through your muscles and joints, or may be your skin is disfigured by rashes, boils or pimples. Headaches, twinges of neuralgia, fits of nervousness, irritability of temper and a disordered stomach often increase your discomfort in the spring.

The cause—winter has left its mark on you. These troubles are signs that your blood is poor and watery, that your nerves are exhausted. You must renew and enrich your blood at once and restore tone to your tired nerves, or there may be a complete breakdown. The most powerful remedy for these spring ailments in men, women and children is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, because these Pills cleanse bad blood and strengthen weak nerves.

New, rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring—is plentifully created by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and with this new, pure blood in your veins you quickly regain health and increase your strength. Then your skin becomes clear, your eyes bright, your nerves strong, and you feel better, eat better, sleep better, and are able to do your work.

These Pills are sold by most dealers, but do not be persuaded to take "something just the same." If you can't get the genuine Pills from your dealer they will be sent you by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

ALDERMEN AGREED THAT SUNDAY CARS MUST KEEP GOING

No Trouble Anticipated Over Removal of Franchise.

NO EXTENSIONS ASKED

City Fathers Believe Lines Extend Far Enough at Present Time.

The finance committee of the city council, which has charge of railway matters will meet on Wednesday evening to discuss the Sunday street car proposition.

The board of control will deal with the recommendations of this committee on Friday morning, and it is probable that a special meeting of the council will be called to pass the necessary bylaw.

Manager C. B. King has sent a letter to the city council, agreeing to operate Sunday cars on the present agreement. There will be no change in this, aldermen say, although some concessions will be sought from the company.

There will be no extensions asked for this year. The aldermen are convinced that the street car service extends far enough into the country now, probably too far for the real good of the city.

However, there are some concessions to be demanded, such as pavements, and these will be dealt with.

The council will have the cars running on Sunday, May 6th, if a bylaw granting only a month's extension has to be passed.

CAT PELTS DRUG ON MARKET HERE; PUSSY IS SAFE

USED TO LINE GLOVES

Impending Tax On House Pets May Yet Mean a Slaughter.

"Skinning the cat," the favorite gymnastic stunt of every school boy for generations past, may soon have a double meaning if the persons who are agitating for cat taxes succeed in having legislation to that effect put through. In the households where poor pussy's popularity is not so great as to insure a threatened tax of one or two dollars being paid for her it is possible that she will depart for other realms and that her sleek glossy hide will find its way into the winter clothing for her lords and masters.

Skins at 50 Cents Each.

Indications that this tragedy has already happened in many American homes are to be found in the report of the International Fur Auction at St. Louis. The skins of 21,850 former pets of the household were sold there at a little less than 50 cents each. This is considered by furriers here to be an exceptionally large number although the price is only an average one. The fact that it is not higher is taken by the fur-men to mean that there is a supply fully equal to demand.

Not Much in Demand.

If cat taxation goes into effect it is thought that many householders will part with kitty for even the small amount of 50 cents rather than pay a portion of their hard-earned salary to the tax collector. London cat lovers however, need not grow alarmed as local fur-men have expressed no great anxiety to obtain the pelts of this kind, yet and it is still considered safe for pussy to walk around abroad. Cat skins are used chiefly for glove lining; there is no substantial local demand. Skins of the skunk, minx, marten, beaver, fox and muskrat are chiefly in demand in this portion of the country.

CREATION OF BEAUTY NOT HIGHEST PURPOSE OF ART

Rev. Dr. Silcox Lectures On Pictures and How to Enjoy Them.

Rain did not prevent a large number of art lovers from attending the lecture on "Pictures and How to Enjoy Them." given by Rev. Dr. J. B. Silcox, in the First Congregational Church last night. Stereopticon views of many of the world's famous paintings and pieces of statuary illustrated the talk.

"Views of Egypt, the first art centre of the world, were followed by pictures of Athens and Rome and later by pictures of the art of each country. Many of the views were reproductions of the sixteenth century masterpieces, although the modern painters had their place as well.

The lecturer pointed out that art had a higher purpose than merely the creation of beauty, although many pictures existed only for that reason. The greater pictures, he said, had behind them a religious or moral theme, although study was often required to discover this. The human face and form, he characterized as the most perfect objects which the artist could paint, and claimed that the nude in art was not necessarily something immoral and from which the eyes must be averted. There were specimens of the nude which he had seen in modern exhibitions which were disgusting, but in the majority of cases he claimed that a person received from a picture only what he brought to it. The artist painted the picture because of the color and form. He had no immoral motive.

The artist, he claimed, always saw more clearly than other individuals. It was through him that we were able to grasp the beauty of objects which surround our daily lives. Many people, he said, did not appreciate the beauty of places which they passed every day until they had seen them depicted by the brush of the artist.

He characterized the Mona Lisa as the greatest portrait in the world. It had taken the artist four years to bring it to the stage in which it is nowseen, and he had not completed it when he died.

8-YEAR-OLD BOY IN COURT FOR SMOKING CIGARETTES

Magistrate Secures Promise From Soldier's Son.

Police Magistrate Graydon's duties were light this morning. An 8-year-old boy, the son of a soldier overseas, was summoned to explain why he had smoked cigarettes. The magistrate gave the boy some fatherly advice and warned him not to smoke again. The boy promised he would smoke no more.

LOSS OF APPETITE

Most Successfully Treated by Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Loss of appetite is accompanied by loss of vitality, which is serious.

It is common in the spring because at this time the blood is impure and impoverished and fails to give the digestive organs what is absolutely necessary for the proper performance of their functions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old reliable all-the-year-round medicine, is especially useful in the spring. Get it from your druggist today. By purifying and enriching the blood and giving vitality, vigor and tone, it is wonderfully successful in the treatment of loss of appetite and the other ailments prevalent at this time. It is not simply a spring medicine—it is much more than that—but it is the best spring medicine.

JEANETTE RANKIN'S FATHER ONCE LIVED IN DISTRICT

First Woman To Have Seat In Congress of Canadian Stock.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, the first woman to sit in the American Congress, representing Montana in that house, comes from Canadian stock, the family being well known in this district.

Her father, John Rankin, was born at Appin, Ont., where some of the family still reside. Hugh Rankin, a brother, still lives there, and there are many relatives.

John Rankin went west when a young man, finally settling in Montana, where Miss Jeanette was born. He returned to Appin every few years, but spent only a few days.

Dr. George S. Weir Has Made a Formal Application.

One application for the position of assistant medical officer of health for the city has been received by City Clerk Baker, from Dr. George S. Weir, truant officer of the city.

Dr. Douglas made an informal application some time ago, but he has not written his application as yet.

It is doubtful that there will be more than these apply.

SHARP AERIAL COMBAT

Austrians Driven Off In Battle Above the Adriatic.

Rome, April 21.—Via Paris.—A sea and air battle near Venice on April 17 is reported in an official announcement by the war office. The statement says:

"A number of airplanes, aided by torpedoboats, approached Venice on April 17 in order to effect a reconnaissance in force. A rapid counter-attack by Italian and French airplanes and the fire of our batteries prevented the enemy machines from flying over the city. In a series of aerial battles one enemy plane was shot down. Two Italian hydroplanes have failed to return to their bases.

SILVER WEDDING WAS HAPPILY CELEBRATED

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Arnott fell on December 8, 1916, but owing to the illness of Mrs. Arnott, they were unable to celebrate as they had intended. However on Thursday, which was the birthday of Mrs. Arnott, the silver wedding celebration was held. More than 25 couples were present, spending an enjoyable evening as they participated in music and games. At 11:30 o'clock supper was served, and the bride and groom of 25 years' standing, were wished many long and happy years to come. Many presents were also bestowed on the genial host and hostess.

Miss Norah Clark contributed three vocal numbers of old time and patriotic significance, Miss Ella Arnott acting as accompanist. A clarinet solo by Master Lawrence Arnott was also much appreciated by the guests. At an early hour the party broke up by the singing of the National Anthem.

CLEANSE THE LARGE INTESTINE

Present War Cry of Advanced Physicians.

Some of the leading surgeons of the world have gone so far recently as to remove part of the Large Intestine in cases so serious as that of Tuberculosis and restored the patient to perfect health by so doing.

The New York American has recently said:

"During Constipation the poisons in the Large Intestine often become so great as to form a serious menace to health and even to life. Through the walls of the Intestine they enter the blood and consume the healthy blood cells, impoverishing the blood, and if this process is continued long enough an acute poisoning is produced.

It is impossible under our present-day mode of living for the Intestine to rid itself of all waste, and it is easily proven that there is an accumulation, no matter how regular we are.

Drugs, if taken regularly, form a habit, but Internal Bathing by means of the "J. B. L. Cascade" cleanses the Lower Intestine its entire length with pure warm water and makes it clean, sweet and healthy.

At the same time it regulates the system and makes one feel that every function is working smoothly and naturally—and indeed this is so.

This letter will convey a message of good cheer to many:

Welland, Ontario.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell,
163 College Street, Toronto, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—We heartily indorse the J. B. L. Cascade, as we find in our work that a loaded colon means a poisoned system, which, in turn, means ligamentous contraction of the spinal muscles, against which our work is directed.

Anything helping us in gaining relaxation we consider a boon, both to ourselves and our patients.

Most sincerely,
Drs. Hoxsey and Garland.

Over five hundred thousand are now enthusiastic users of the "J. B. L. Cascade," which is now being shown and explained at any Standard Drug Company store in London. Ask or write now, while you think of it, to Chas. A. Tyrrell, M.D., 163 College street, Toronto, for free and interesting booklet, "Why Man of Today Is Only 50 Per Cent Efficient."

PROVINCIAL COUNCIL OF ANGLICAN CHURCH FORMED

Will Look After Business Between Meetings of Synod.

The Bishop of Huron, Rev. Dr. Tucker, rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, Dean Davis and Mr. Jenkins this week represented the Diocese of Huron at the meeting of the provincial council of the Anglican Church, which has been appointed to transact business between meetings of synod.

Owing to the fact the meeting was the first one held of the council, considerable time was devoted to organization. The Archbishop of Algoma presided. A meeting was also held this week of the Sunday school commission of the Anglican Church in Canada, of which Dr. Tucker is a prominent member. The preparing of the lesson scheme for the coming year was an important item of business.

ORIENTAL WHIRL AGAIN DELIGHTED BIG CROWD

Winner of the Auto Will Be Announced Tonight.

The Oriental Whirl, which has been in progress at the Masonic Hall since Wednesday, under the auspices of the I. O. D. E., will close tonight. One of the chief features of the entertainment will be the announcement of the winner of the Chevrolet car, for which tickets have been sold at the whirl. A model boat will also find a new owner tonight, and a variety of other prizes will go to those who are present.

Rain prevented a large attendance last night, but the evening was highly successful in spite of that. All the booths were well patronized, and there was a good demand for all the articles offered. They range from home-made cooking to fancywork and embroidery. Refreshments of all kinds are obtainable, and there is in addition an infinite variety of games. Fortune-telling is one of the features.

The "whirl" will open today at 4 o'clock.

NEW HEAD TAX AT BORDER MADE CLEAR IN ORDER

With the approach of the enforcement of the new United States immigration act with respect to the increased head tax from $4 to $8, travelers between Canada and the States are wondering how drastically the new regulation will be enforced by the United States authorities. United States Custom Officer Chase received a ruling on the point from Washington a few days ago, in which it is pointed out that legitimate transient travel by Canadians to the States would not be curtailed by the new measure. This will be overcome by refunding the tax or by having means of identification afforded, so that Canadian travelers will be put to a minimum amount of inconvenience.

Local railway ticket agents do not anticipate any trouble after May 1, when the new act becomes effective, and all believe that the United States authorities will exercise the utmost discretion in enforcing the regulations.

Following is a copy of the new regulation:

"That the said tax shall not be levied on account of aliens who enter the United States after an uninterrupted residence of at least one year immediately preceding such entrance in the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, the Republic of Cuba or the Republic of Mexico, for a temporary stay, nor on account of otherwise admissible residents or citizens of any possession of the United States, nor on account of aliens who have been lawfully admitted to the United States, and who shall later go in transit from one part of the United States to another through foreign contiguous territory, and the commissioner-general of immigration with the approval of the secretary of labor, by agreement with transportation lines as provided in section 23 of this act, may arrange in some other manner for the payment of the tax imposed by this section upon any or all aliens seeking admission from foreign contiguous territory."

WILLIAM SCOTT DEAD

Was Pioneer Merchant and Businessman of Clinton, Ont.

Clinton, April 21.—After serving the public in the capacity of general storekeeper and grain buyer for over fifty years at the village of Brucefield, William Scott, died this morning in his eighthieth year. He was born in Selkirkshire, Scotland, and settled in Huron County on his arrival in Canada and was the pioneer merchant of Brucefield. Up to a few weeks ago he took an active part in the business which has been of late years conducted jointly with his son, Andrew, and has always enjoyed the highest respect of the community. He was a prominent member of the Presbyterian church. His wife survives him also his only son, Andrew, who is postmaster of Brucefield.

STANDARD HOTELS GIVEN LICENSES 50 IN THE COUNTY

Twenty London Hostelries Are On Register.

"DRY" PROVINCE CERTAIN

One Hotelkeeper Says He Is Certain Bars Will Never Be Opened.

Inspector J. E. Keenleyside today received the standard hotel licenses allotted to Middlesex County and issued by the Ontario License Commission. There are 50 licenses in the county, 30 of these in the county proper and 20 in the city.

The licenses will be distributed in the city today and mailed to the county holders.

Number Cut Down.

The number in the city is two less than last year, although four hotels have closed. Two that did not have licenses last year, the Duke of York and the Queen's Park Hotel, have made applications this year and have been granted standard licenses.

The hotels that have closed and still remain closed are the London House, the Queen's (now a restaurant and rooming house), and the Western Hotel.

The Cecil Hotel closes its doors tonight at 8 o'clock, and on Tuesday the furnishings will be sold by auction.

The proprietor, Thomas Oke, claims he cannot operate his hotel with any degree of profit without the licensed bar. The majority of the hotelkeepers claim that, although they cannot make the money they did under licensed conditions, it is better to operate their places of business at a reduced profit than close up and suffer a greater loss.

Adaptation to Conditions.

Several of the hotel owners who have made applications and been granted standard licenses are of the opinion that prohibition has come to stay and have decided to adapt themselves to present conditions.

"I own my hotel, and even if I cannot make as much money as I did in other years, I intend to stay in business, because I believe prohibition will be a permanent thing," said one hotelkeeper to The Advertiser today.

FIVE THOUSAND PUPILS OF U. S. COLLEGE OFFER SERVICES TO MANITOBA

Winnipeg, April 20.—Five thousand students of the agricultural college at Champaign, Illinois, have been offered for service on the Manitoba farms and the department of agriculture is trying to place them. The offer was made by Dean Davenport, head of the college and a noted authority on agriculture. The dean states the students offered their services voluntarily. The offer was made through the director of national service in Manitoba.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE DICTIONARY ENTERPRISE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Just a line to say how pleased I am that The Advertiser is again offering dictionaries to the public. If they are anything like those of 1912 I should consider a copy priceless.

I have used the copy The Advertiser so kindly presented to me constantly, besides loaning it to different people, for five years and each day I wonder how I managed to get along without it so long. Sincerely,

BESSIE JAYNES.

FAREWELL TO AVIATOR.

MAPLETON, April 20.—On Tuesday evening the members of the Church of Christ and other friends gathered to bid farewell to Aviator H. E. Thompson, who is about to go overseas. A splendid social time was enjoyed, after which an address of appreciation was read by Miss Mabel White and Mr. Thompson was made the recipient of a wrist watch.

SUFFERED WITH HEART FOR TEN YEARS

WOULD NEARLY SMOTHER

There is nothing that brings with it such fear of impending death as to wake up in the night with that awful sense of smothering. The uncertain and irregular heart action causes the greatest distress of both mind and body.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the only remedy that can give prompt relief and effect a complete cure in cases of such severity.

They strengthen and invigorate the heart, so that it beats strong and regular, and tone up the nervous system so that the cause of so much anxiety becomes a thing of the past.

Mrs. M. O. McCready, Wapella, Sask., writes: "I am not much of a believer in medicines, but I feel that it is only right for me to let you know what your wonderful remedy has done for me, and in a very short time, too. I had suffered terribly with my heart for nearly ten years, could scarcely do any work, and would nearly smother at times. I had many remedies, some only relieving me for a time. I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and felt so much better that I kept on using them, and can truthfully say I feel like a new woman.

"I would advise anyone with heart trouble to use them."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NOTICE!

Cash Prizes for Amateur Gardeners

To encourage the greater production movement and to create a healthy, friendly rivalry among the citizens in this good work, The Canada Trust Company, 446 Richmond street, will give twelve cash prizes for the best vegetable gardens in the city.

Four Prizes of $15.00 Each

ELATIVES NOT NOTIFIED, BUT 3 LONDON MEN LISTED KILLED

Names of 142nd Men in Official Casualty Lists.

NO WORD SENT HOME

All Had Been Previously Reported Wounded—Most Serious Anxiety Caused.

Three London men, Ptes J. E. Pugh, F. Thompson and J. Robinson, all of whom enlisted with London's Own, are reported to have died of wounds in casualty lists received from Ottawa today. In addition eight Londoners have been wounded in the recent fighting, according to official messages received by their relatives in this city. Pte. Pugh is a son of David Pugh, 153 Madison street, and left here with the 142nd Battalion being later transferred to the 4th Reserve Battalion in England. He was employed by the Grand Trunk Railway previous to his enlistment. In addition to his father three sisters, Lillian, Isobel, and Mary, and one brother, Wilfred, survive him. Pte. F Thompson is also a former member of the 142nd Battalion, and his father, Joseph

PRIVATE PUGH.

H. Thompson, resides at 867 Adelaide street. He was an employee of Gamage's, and later of the post office before he joined the 142nd.

Another 142nd Man.

Pte. J. Robinson, whose wife and three children reside at 505 Ontario street, also left London with the 142nd Battalion. While the names of the three men have appeared in the casualty lists issued to the press at Ottawa, no notification at a late hour had been received by the families of the men The names appeared a few days ago among those wounded, and notification was received by the relatives to that effect. As no further word has been received by them the publication of the names in the casualty lists in the newspapers as having died of wounds has proved a great shock to the members of the families atected, and much anxiety has been raised in the minds of those concerned as to whether, since they have not been notified, the information is reliable and accurate.

Not a Clerical Error.

They feel that great injustice has been done them if the information is correct; and if not, that unpardonable laxity on the part of those who are in charge of the records, has allowed the names to be published in the wrong list. The fact that the three men were concerned, is evidence that it was not a mere clerical error in compiling the lists.

HEAD STRIKES PAVEMENT; IN A SERIOUS CONDITION

Westminster Farmer Thrown From Wagon When Team Shies.

Gilbert Dixon, a Westminster Township farmer, was injured about the head at 7 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the team he was driving became frightened at a passing auto on King street and in making a sudden lurch threw the driver to the pavement.

He was removed to Victoria Hospital in a semi-conscious condition and today is still in a critical condition.

BABY DIES IN COURT AS MOTHER WINS SUIT

Detroit, April 21.—The tiny cause of a case in Judge Davis' court died at the threshold of the courtroom ten minutes after the verdict.

A jury had found Stanislaus Pesta to be the father of little baby Lawrence Neroska, and Judge Davis had fixed $300 as the sum to be paid to the infant's mother by Stanislaus. The cash had just been paid into court by the convicted father when the infant died.

For three or four days while the case was pending the slight mother had walked up and down the corridor adjoining the courtroom with the baby in her arms, and the latter was a most important factor in the trial.

LOWER SCHOOL EXAMS.—Inspector Edwards has been notified that the lower school examinations for the lower school will commence on June 12, and the middle and upper school examinations on June 7th. Applications must be in his hand by May 1 for lower school examinations and by May 15th for the upper school. It is expected that three hundred students will write.

EX-CONTROLLER TO SPEAK.—Sunday is an important day in Askin Street Methodist Church. The speaker at both services is ex-Controller McCarthy of Toronto, a layman noted as an orator. He represents the social service and evangelistic work of the church. His morning subject is "The Mission of the Church to the Age." The evening subject is "The Mission of the Man to the Age."

JOHN COTTAM TO SPEAK.—What promises to be one of the best Sunday evening concerts yet arranged is that to be held at the Majestic Theatre on Sunday night under the auspices of the Overseas Chapter, I. O. D. E., for the benefit of the 7th Regiment, C. E. F. Company. John Cottam, whose son, Lieut. Bart Cottam, was killed in action a short time ago, will be the speaker. The 1st Hussars' Band, under the leadership of Roselle Pocock, will furnish an extensive instrumental program, and Miss Margaret Blakesley, the child violinist of Buffalo, will be a feature. The vocal soloists will be Miss Eula Kennedy and Corp. W. G. Scott.

EMPLOYEES HAVE GAY TIME.—On Thursday evening, under the auspices of the girls' dining-room committee a very pleasant evening at euchre was enjoyed by a large number of the McClary employees and their friends. The euchre was held in the York street dining-room, which was suitably decorated for the occasion. The contest being keen for the prizes, considerable credit is due to the winners, who are as follows: First prize, cut glass bon-bon dish, Miss Tingey; second prize, half-dozen linen handkerchiefs, Mr. Jack Smith; third prize, box of chocolates, Mrs. Matthew James; fourth prize, one box toffee, Mr. Stinson. The members of the committee in charge which was responsible for the success of the evening were: Miss Patton (convener), Mrs. Ellah, Mrs. Mascara, Mrs. Anderson and Miss Leslie.

WENT TO SEARCH FOR SON; NOW RETURNING

Mrs. Groshow Has Given Service as Nurse While in England.

Mrs. Walker, 440 English street, had a happy surprise today in receiving a telegram from Halifax from her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Groshow, which read: "Just arrived. On duty. Wiring later."

Mrs. Groshow went to England more than a year ago to try to obtain definite information in regard to her son, Sergt. "Billy" Groshow, who had been missing from the time of the battle of Ypres.

Finally convinced that he had lost his life, she decided to remain in England for a time to render war-service as a nursing-sister. She was attached to the Canadian Army Medical Corps, and for seven or eight months was stationed at Ramsgate in charge of a military convalescent home. She has recently been with the Duchess of Connaught Hospital at Taplow. The wire of this forenoon was the first intimation received that she was coming to Canada. It is understood from the telegram that she accompanied patients, and the members of her family are eagerly awaiting to hear if she will be able to obtain leave to come to London.

IS STRIPPED TO THE SKIN, TICKETS FOUND IN HIS HAT

Drastic Search Was Made in Superintendent's Office.

Stripped of his clothing to the skin, after being called from his run to the office of the superintendent, a Grand Trunk conductor is said to have been revealed as a "ticket worker," when tickets were found concealed in his hat.

In all six or seven conductors have been discharged from different divisions of the service.

Little information regarding the case was given out by the authorities, except a statement to the effect that the free rides on a certain run were so numerous as to make detection certain. When the "search" was made it was made thoroughly.

CARD OF THANKS.

WIRE TAPPER ARRESTED HERE GOES TO THE JACKSON PRISON

Kindy, Alias Yocum, Alias Howard, Likely To Serve Five Years—Local Detectives To Secure Reward Within Few Days.

ALBERT KINDY, alias Harvey Yocum, alias C. R. Howard.

Albert Kindy, alias Harvey Yocum, alias C. R. Howard, arrested in the city some weeks ago by Detectives Egelton and Down on a charge of misuse of His Majesty's mails, and later handed over to Detroit authorities, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Connolly of the Detroit recorder's court, to an indeterminate term in Jackson prison for fraud.

The sentence was made from two and half to five years, with a recommendation that he be kept in confinement for the longer period.

Kindy has a Canadian prison record having served two terms in Kingston on charges of fraud. He was last tried at Cayuga.

Working Fake Scheme.

He was arrested at 428 Park avenue on Sunday evening, March 18th last, and was arraigned in police court the next morning charged with using the mails to defraud. His scheme was to advertise a motorcycle, valued at $210 offering it for sale for $100, agreeing to ship it by express when the person remitted $10, the balance to be payable in installments.

He collected several hundred dollars by the scheme, and after his arrest $1,200 in money orders and currency was awaiting him at Paris postoffice, to which replies were directed. This money has since been turned over to the owners, Kindy having signed over all the funds the night he was taken back to Detroit. He used the name C. R. Howard here.

Detectives Saw Resemblance.

Local detectives compared a circular issued by the Detroit police department with Kindy's description. A photo was taken and sent to Detroit, and Detectives Ried and Frahm of Detroit arrived in the city on Wednesday, March 21st. They put Kindy under a severe examination at the jail in their efforts to get him to admit he was connected with the murder of Patrolman Emil Schmidt. He was taken to Detroit and pleaded guilty to obtaining $185 from the Pontchartrain Hotel on a worthless check.

Owing to insufficient evidence Kindy was not brought to trial for murder.

Accused as Wire Tapper.

A charge of conspiracy to defraud the American Express Company out $6,500, growing out of the tapping of telephone wires leading into the Grand River avenue branch of the Detroit Savings Bank, still stands, but will probably be nolle prossed. The case of John Andrews, Kindy's accomplice, awaits disposition.

Detectives Robert Egelton and Harry Down will receive a $1,000 reward offered for the arrest of Kindy. The amount will be paid over, it is expected, in the course of the next week the Detroit police auditors having to pass the account first.

Kindy is a Canadian, the son of well-to-do parents, residing near Hamilton. He is a brainy criminal, whose downfall is attributed to "high life" and drink.

YEAR AND HALF IN FRONT LINE, NOW ILL IN ENGLAND

Word was received recently by Mrs. W. J. White, 506 Grosvenor street, states that her husband, Sergt.-Major William White of the 18th Battalion, is now in No. 2 Western General Hospital, Manchester, England, suffering from a severe attack of inflammation of the kidneys.

Sergt.-Major White was for eleven years a member of K Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, at Wolseley Barracks, and before he left here he was given the rank of warrant officer. At the outbreak of war, he was sent to

SERGT.-MAJOR WILLIAM WHITE.

Halifax, but was called back to London by Lieut.-Col. Wigle on the eve of the departure of the 18th Battalion for service overseas as battalion sergeant-major with that unit.

Long Spell in Trenches.

After having been in the trenches about one year and a half, Sergt.-Major White was removed on March 20 to No. 16 General Hospital at Le-Treport, France, on account of illness, and a few days later to the hospital in Manchester.

The latest information received by Mrs. White was to the effect that he was improving, and it is hoped that he will soon be able to resume his duties again.

Members of "K" Company, R. C. R., who are still in the city, expressed themselves as sorry to hear of the illness of Sergt.-Major White.

Highly Regarded Soldier.

Sergt.-Major D. Vaughan of the Corps of Military Staff Clerks at Wolseley Barracks, when informed of the illness of Sergt.-Major White, said: "I knew him well, and I am very sorry to hear of his illness. He is a good soldier, and was well liked by both his fellow-soldiers and his fellow-citizens generally. During the time he was sergeant-major-instructor here, many of the officers who have since won promotion at the front, and are now senior officers, received their instruction from him."

MILITIA OFFICERS MUST QUALIFY OR BE STRUCK OFF

Incidental to the general work of overhauling the clothing and equipment of the militia units in this district, which has been going on for some time under the direction of the district headquarters here, the lists of officers have been revised, and efforts are being made to put both the equipment and the personnel in first-class shape.

The work of going over the equipment and clothing is now practically completed, and the lists of officers are now being taken up with a view to making them up-to-date. In many cases nearly the whole staff of a regiment was found to have gone overseas, and new regimental staffs were appointed. Officers who were on the reserve list, and had not reported within the year, are according to the regulations, being struck off the strength. At present the cases of junior officers are being dealt with. The regulations require that an officer must qualify for his commission within one year after he receives his appointment as lieutenant, but this rule, along with the rule regarding senior officers on the reserve list reporting, has been held in abeyance during the past two years owing to the disorganization which followed the outbreak of war. Unless these officers obtain their qualifications, their appointments will not be confirmed, and will instead be cancelled.

LONDON HAS SENT 50 MEN TO FARMS, 300 BOYS READY

More Men Avaliable Than the Farmers Will Take.

FARMERS NOT CONSULTED

Probably for This Reason Few Manifest Much Interest in Campaign.

The labor bureau under the direction of Miss Harvey and the greater production committee, with Gordon Philip as secretary, and chief organizer, have placed about 50 men on the farms in this district, and are daily sending more to help with the seeding.

It is expected that fully 300 boys from the schools will go out on the farms. Yesterday was the first day on which they could apply, and today about a dozen strong healthy lads offered to go out at once.

"We expect good results from these boys," said Miss Harvey. "They are applying readily now, and are most enthusiastic about the work. We will be able to take care of them all. The farmers as a rule are more anxious to get boys, preferring them to men. However, we will be able to get places for a number of men."

"The farmers were not consulted in the early stages, and for that reason we are up against all kinds of difficulty," said Mr. Philip. "We have men ready to go, but the farmers apparently do not want them. They are going to do all the seeding possible themselves, without the assistance of laborers. The majority who want help are looking for boys.

"There seems to be a lack of enthusiasm on the part of the farmers, for some reason or other, probably if they had been consulted earlier in the year better results would have followed. We have more men now than we can get places for. The agitation will produce good results. The acreage will be increased, and we will have plenty of men to take off the harvest, if it is as bountiful as we expect."

The advertising campaign under way is developing enthusiasm, and is getting the results. More will follow.

BATTERY PREPARING FOR DEPARTURE OF DRAFT

Men Remaining Will Have Four-Day Trip to Lake and Return.

The members of the 63rd Depot Battery are having their final gunnery practice at Port Stanley this afternoon, and the last detachment of men chosen by Major Cameron for target practice went down to Port this morning.

Following the practice today the detachment will return via the L., and P. S. R., and a four-day "leave" possible, be arranged, in which the battery will take part about the middle of next week. The men, it is expected, will bivouac in St. Thomas one night, in Port the next night, and in St. Thomas the following night, on the return trip. The horses will haul the guns back to London. Instead of their being shipped back by freight.

The members of the battery are busy getting things in shape for the departure of a draft from their ranks for an eastern training point, which it is expected will leave in the next few days.

Recruiting for the battery has continued at a good rate during the last half of this week, most of these volunteers being from points outside London.

I. B. S. WILL CHOOSE OFFICERS ON TUESDAY

Contest for Third Vice-Presidency May Be Feature.

The Irish Benevolent Society will meet on Tuesday evening in the Tecumseh House to elect officers for the year, and make arrangements for the annual picnic.

George H. O'Neil, the retiring president, will occupy the chair. It is expected that Ed. J. Carty will be named president; Dr. W. M. Shoebotham, first vice-president, and Joseph F. Nolan second vice-president. Several names are mentioned for the third vice-presidency, George S. Gibbons, J. H. Fowler, Fire Chief John Aitken being among the number.

It is expected that Frank Hughes of the city treasurer's office, will be named secretary. P. F. Boyle will again be chosen treasurer. The chairmen of the various committees will be chosen.

YPRES DAY TAGGERS REAP LARGE CROP OF LONDON CHANGE

At Least $500 Secured Before Rain Falls.

A FEW MEAN PEOPLE

Ask "What Do You Get Out of It?" and Drop Tobacco Tags in Boxes.

A new era is inaugurated in the city of London today. It is the first tag day of the season. Moreover, the object is one which makes a special appeal. The little pink tags, which are going like ice cream cones in dog days, bear the magic words, "Ypres Day." The proceeds, to be equally divided between the C. E. F. Chapter, I. O. D. E., and the Returned Soldiers' Association, will be used for the benefit of returned soldiers who need assistance, and wives, widows and children of those who have given their services for King and country.

Under the circumstances, it was not surprising that at a few minutes before 2 o'clock, Mrs. W. G. Coles, regent of the C.E.F. Chapter announced: "We have so much money, we cannot count it." By the time the rain began to sprinkle dismally, it was known that at least $500 had been taken in by the taggers. Let the weather do its worst, there were still several hours in which to do business and the returns could not be regarded as a failure under any circumstances.

Catches Early Coins.

By 8 o'clock, a number of taggers were on duty with their long boxes with money slots, intent upon catching the early business people. And the business people, shoppers and everyone else practically walked cheerfully to be tagged with never a demur.

To be sure, there were some mean people, some who accusingly asked the taggers what they were getting out of it. One woman having her first tag day experience announced, "It takes a lot of nerve, I can tell you." She had just conversed with one of the mean people.

But there were other taggers, dozens of them, who thought that human nature was a beautiful thing, and that the public heart was wondrous kind. Hadn't they fifty-cent pieces, dollar bills, two dollar bills, and even ten dollar bills, as witness of generous

Some Counterfeit Money.

Two or three counterfeit pieces of money, a damaged nickle, a dime that had served the purpose of a stick pin at one time, and three or four tin tobacco stamps, were "exhibits" which bore mute evidence of ways that were queer and tricks that were strange, practised even on a tag day for the benefit of men who have been willing to give up their lives for their country and the families of these.

The other chapters of the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire rallied splendidly to the assistance of the C. E. F. Chapter and Returned Soldiers' Association to make Tag Day a success.

Mrs. Coles, regent of the C. E. F. Chapter; Sergt. Struad, secretary of the Returned Soldiers' Association; Mrs. Hallam, secretary of the C. E. F. Chapter; Mrs. A. A. Campbell, organizing secretary of the I. O. D. E. of No. 1 Military District; Sergt. and Mrs. Lee, and Sergt. Rawlings counted the money and bundled it up into regular bank parcels.

Minstrels Will Help.

It is expected the tag day returns will be largely increased by this evening and substantially augmented by the minstrel show to be put on in the Masonic Temple on Monday evening by the Shriners. Among the large ticket holders for the minstrel show is Major Osborne, provost marshal, who has bought up $25 worth of tickets for distribution.

MADAME RODGERS COMES FOR CLOSING CONCERT

Famous Contralto and Prominent Londoners Will Appear at Music Club.

For the closing concert of a successful season, to be held next Tuesday evening, April 24, at 8:15 o'clock, in the Normal School, the Woman's Music Club has been fortunate in securing a singer of unusual merit, Madame Bertha Lansing Rodgers, contralto, a pupil of Oscar Saenger.

The Lockport Sun and Journal of February 3, 1916, said of Madame Rodgers: "Her voice is a pure contralto, remarkable for its brilliancy and at the same time rich and compelling in quality. The middle and lower tones are of rare and luscious sweetness." The Buffalo Express of the previous day had given her this praise: "Additional assets of the singer are earnestness, intelligence and a charming personality."

Madame Rodgers is singing three groups, several charming songs and an aria from "Samson and Delilah" (Saint Saens).

Several of London's most prominent artists are also taking part in the program: Miss Florence Eggleston, violinist; Thomas G. Mitcheltree, pianist; and the London instrumental trio, composed of Miss Florence Eggleston, violinist; Gladstone Paul, 'cellist, and F. G. Killmaster, pianist. Mr. Cowan, violinist, will assist the trio in a delightful Debussy suite, "The Children's Corner."

Charles E. Wheeler will be accompanist for Madame Rodgers.

The concert will be free to members of the club and others wishing to attend can obtain visitors' tickets from members of the executive.

DODGING THE GIRLS

One Advertiser reporter, not a mean man, but anxious to land a story, tried his hand at dodging the girls selling tags on the street today. He managed to bluff his way through for half an hour, and then surrendered to a particularly pretty girl, who was patroling her beat near The Advertiser office. He came through with a whole half dollar when caught, which is some donation for a typewriter puncher.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

TAX THE LAND; DON'T KILL THE CATS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Having read in your Friday evening issue of The Advertiser, a letter on the cat and dog subject, to say the least, it made very interesting reading. Evidently "A Lover of Flowers" would allow nothing else to live, dogs, cats, or any other domestic animals. All I can make out of the correspondence is that God Almighty must have been a fool to have created such animals. He should have left such matters as that to any big-headed, hair-brained evolute of the monkey. Evidently from his letter, he hates every other animal in the universe but himself. What animal is of more use or of greater value in ridding the house of vermin and also a kind pet and true companion as a well-cared-for cat? If we are short of money why not tax the land not occupied. Land is the source of all wealth and should not the source of all wealth pay all taxes. This is the job for the press and the council to educate the masses of the people to emancipate themselves from all improvement taxes that tend to make it cheaper to live in a hogpen than a house. I would say if all the vacant land was taxed to its full market value it would be used for productive purposes and not as a breeding ground for field mice, ditch rats, dandelions, oxeyed daisies, burdocks and other beautiful flowers too numerous to mention and then the average householder would have less use for the cat and the dog.

Help for the Farmers

Boys from the London High School are now offering their services for work on the farms through the Provincial Government Employment Bureau

Boys between the ages of 14 and 18 from the Ontario High Schools, who last year volunteered to work on the farms were, with very few exceptions, decidedly successful, and it is found that the farmers who employed them are demanding this class of help again this year. The number of boys is limited. Call, write or telephone today.

VICTORY OF CANADIANS FREES GREAT COAL FIELDS FOR INDUSTRIES OF FRANCE

Capture of Vimy Ridge Will Make Unnecessary Shipping of Coal From Wales To France, Making Ineffective Part of Submarine Campaign.

[By Stewart Lyon, Special Correspondent of the Canadian Press.]

Canadian Army Headquarters in France, April 21.—Success seems to have crowned the efforts of the Canadians on this front, not only in the military operations, but in the secondary object of freeing one of the most important industrial districts in France from the control of the invader. So long as the Germans held the Vimy Ridge, the only mines producing on a large scale left in French hands were those of Bruay town, to the west of Lens, but on our side of the ridge. This coal had to be taken to Paris and points south. The result was serious, causing loss to industry all over France, because of the scarcity and high price of coal.

In a few weeks the victory of Vimy Ridge will result in a marked lessening of the freightage of coal from Wales to France and to that extent make ineffective the enemy's campaign.

The mines were controlled in some cases by German capital and operated in part by German workmen. Now German guns, used by Canadian gunners against their former owners, are doing no small part in restoring this rich mining region to French control.

MISS MACROBERT TO TAKE CHARGE OF PROVINCIAL BUREAU

Appointed by Ontario Government To Secure Labor.

ACTIVE IN WAR WORK

Has Been Assisting in Work of Getting Men On the Farms.

Miss Ethel MacRoberts of this city has been appointed to take charge of the Government Employment Bureau, which is being established here in the immediate future, the fourth in the province, and one of a chain of six, two of which are still in prospect, to adjust employment, supply and demand problems in every section of Ontario.

Dr. W. A. Riddell, superintendent of trades and labor for the province, is the originator of the plan, and organizer, and is the chief with whom Miss Macobert will be associated in the important post.

Member of a prominent family, Miss MacRobert is a daughter of the late E. J. MacRobert. She is a graduate of the London Collegiate Institute and an honor graduate of Toronto University. Since the outbreak of war, she has been a devoted and efficient worker in the Red Cross and Canadian War Contingent Association, taking charge until a few months ago of the knitting department.

During the past two weeks, she has been assisting Miss Winifred Harvey of the trades and labor department in securing farm help for London district. Miss Harvey has been in town to help in the solution of this pressing problem, and also to lay the foundations and do the organization work in connection with the employment bureau.

Miss MacRobert brings to her new responsibilities exceptional ability, and the advantages resulting from higher education. The fact that she is so well-known and appreciated in this city should prove a valuable asset in a position of the nature of the one to which she has been appointed. All who have been associated with her in the past, in school, the university, in the Canadian War Contingent and Red Cross, and other patriotic or philanthropic work, feel assured that under her management the Government Employment Bureau established in London will prove a success.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MRS. WATERS.

The death of Miss Mary E. Waters occurred here today in her 56th year. The remains will be forwarded to Mount Brydges on Sunday, and interment will take place at Troop's Cemetery there.

FUNERAL OF MISS LAWTON.

The funeral of Miss Hazel M. Lawton, who died on Thursday, was held today from the family residence, 53 Oxford street. The services, which were of a private nature, were conducted by Rev. J. D. Richardson. Interment took place at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The pallbearers were Trevor Holmes, William Parker, Reginald Fowler and Clifford Drew.

SOLDIER'S CHILD BURIED.

Majorie Edna Teraglia, infant daughter of Pte Teraglia, who is now thought to be serving with the Italian forces, was buried today at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. Canon C. R. Gunne.

The little girl died on Thursday and because the patriotic fund authorities would not advance money for the funeral without first investigating the case, a collection was taken by B. G. H. Wright, secretary of the Associated Kin, and the expenses were defrayed with that. Twelve dollars was later offered from the patriotic fund.

FUNERAL OF MRS. FAIRBAIRN.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Fairbairn, who died on Thursday, was held today from her late residence, 547 Colborne street. The services were conducted by Rev. D. C. MacGregor of St. Andrew's Peshyterian Church, of which she had long been a member.

Interment took place at Woodland Cemetery, and the pallbearers were F H. Butler, Gordon Butler, Charles Hunter, E. Waller, Marshall MacGregor and G. E. Ollerhead.

JOHN A. SELLS DIES.

John A. Sells, a carpenter well known here, died at his residence, Chesley avenue, South London, today. He was born in Adelaide Township, but had resided in the city for some time.

The funeral will be held on Sunday Interment taking place at Strathroy.

CAME FROM STRATHROY.

Following a stroke which he sustained Thursday, John A. Fells, aged 66, died at his home in Kensal Park yesterday. He was a resident of Strathroy for many years, and the funeral will be held there on Sunday afternoon.

YOUNG ORGANIST DEAD.

Benjamin D. Moulton, aged 26, for some time organist in St. Matthews' Church, and in the Hill Street Methodist Church, died at his home, 138 Barker street, yesterday. He had been ill for some time. Besides his parents he is survived by one brother, Rev. Wm. Moulton, of Clinton. The funeral will be held on Sunday to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

TWO ARGENTINE SHIPS BELIEVED SUNK BY GERMAN SUBMARINES

Definite News of Oriana and Curumalan Eagerly Awaited.

BUENOS AIRES, April 20.—There is a persistent rumor in circulation here that the Argentine sailing ship Oriana has been sunk by a submarine in the Mediterranean. Confirmation or denial of the rumor is awaited with great eagerness.

There is a report also that the Argentine steamer Curumalan, a vessel of 1,872 tons, has been sunk. No news of her arrival at her port of destination has been received thus far.

A Buenos Aires dispatch April 11 said there was a report in Buenos Aires that the ship Oriana had been sunk by a German raider off the coast of Brazil.

35,000 Women Are Enrolled for Duty Behind the Lines

National Service Scheme Has Provided Britain With Sufficient Plowmen.

LONDON, April 20.—(Through Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—An official report of the national service scheme for March shows that the number of volunteers enrolled increased from 92,000 in February to 288,000 last month. The agricultural section provided sufficient ploughmen to meet all the ascertained requirements of the farmers; the trades section ordered restrictions in the use of labor in certain trades of least national importance; 35,000 women registered for service behind the lines in France; 12,450 enrolled for the women's land army, that is, for labor in agricultural, dairying and other rural industries. Good progress was made with the work of substitution national service volunteers for men withdrawn from important trades for service in the army.

19,000 PRISONERS AND OVER ONE HUNDRED GUNS TAKEN BY FRENGH DURING WEEK

Further Progress North of the Aisne, In Champagne and the Argonne Forest Recorded In Official Statement.

PARIS, April 20.—Hard fighting continues between the French and the Germans all along the southern front in France. The French war office, in its latest communication, issued this evening, records further progress for the forces of General Neville north of the Aisne, in Champagne and in the Argonne forest.

More than 19,000 Germans have been made prisoner, and guns in excess of one hundred have been captured by the French since the offensive began last Monday.

HAMMERING AT ST. QUENTIN.

PARIS, April 20.—The French war office communication issued tonight is as follows:

"Between St. Quentin and the Oise there has been great activity by both artilleries, patricularly in the region to the north of Grugies.

"The day was calm south of the Oise.

"Near the Aisne our troops, pressing the enemy, have continued to progress toward the Chemin-des-Dames. We have occupied the village of Sancy. At 6 o'clock this evening, after very violent preparation by their artillery, the Germans launched an attack with large effectives on the region of Ailles and Hurtebise, which was broken by the fire of our artillery and machine guns, and completely repulsed. The artillery fighting in this region continues very active.

Important Gains In Champagne.

"In Champagne we have captured several important points of support in the grove of Moronvilliers, despite the stubborn resistance of the enemy.

"We have made since the 16th of April between Soissons and Auberive more than 19,000 prisoners. The number of guns we have captured during the same period, and which have been counted up to the present, exceeds one hundred.

"In the Argonne, after sharp fighting, our detachments penetrated up to the second enemy trench. They found a great number of German dead.

"There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

"Belgian communication: A reconnaissance attempted last night by the enemy, in the region of Stuyvekenskerke, was dispersed by our fire. Prisoners remained in the hands of the Belgians. During the day the artillery has been active in the region of Dixmude and Steenstraete."

CONCENTRATION OF FOE ON THE WESTERN FRONT ONE OF WAR'S RECORDS

Finds Out He Cannot Avoid Battle—Quiet Day on British Front.

LONDON, April 20.—The official statement issued by the war office this evening says:

"Beyond mutual artillery activity at a number of places along the front there is nothing of especial interest to report."

"We gained ground during the night in the neighborhood of Villers Guislain," says today's early official statement. "Elsewhere there was nothing especially interesting."

One of the correspondents at British headquarters in France, in a dispatch today says:

"The cardinal fact of the battle in France is that the intense concentration of the German troops exceeds anything known during the war. That concentration is being intensified, now that von Hindenburg's effort to avoid a battle is known to have failed.

"The German morale perhaps has fallen since the reduction in rations. There is great anger among the infantry against the artillery, but the enemy is fighting stiffly and working feverishly at his defences."

WARNS GERMANS NOT TO TALK OF FOOD MATTERS

Amsterdam, via London, April 21.—In the place of the familiar public notice in the German newspapers warning the people not to talk of military matters because of spies there, now appears a new notice which reads: "Citizens, your duty is not to talk of food conditions. Every word thereon helps the enemy and endangers the fatherland."

Count von Reventlow, writing in the Tages Zeitung, says that the German statement there that there is no U-boat in the West Atlantic, and that therefore there was no attack on the American destroyer Smith must come as a regrettable assurance of safety to enemy shipping. He regards the purpose of the statement to be to tell Americans that Germany has not opened hostilities and is not ready to do so. He adds:

"Why, this fuss, seeing that a state of war has existed for weeks? It looks as though on the grave of German-American peace hope must be planted; that we are not so bad after all, which is hardly sound propaganda."

MME. SARAH BERNHARDT IS EXPECTED TO RECOVER

NEW YORK, April 20.—While Sarah Bernhardt still is in a serious condition, her physicians said in a bulletin issued tonight that there is every reason to hope for her recovery. The doctors held a consultation early tonight, and announced afterwards that there had been no change in her condition since afternoon, when some improvement was noted.

DAVE MONTGOMERY DIES

Famous Comedien, Ill More Than Year. Expires at Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 20.—David Montgomery, the comedian, long a member of the famous theatrical team of Stone and Montgomery, who had been ill in a Chicago hospital for more than a year, died shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Montgomery appeared in London a number of times, taking the part of the Tin-Woodman in "The Wizard of Oz," and also being seen in "The Red Mill."

UNITED STATES WILL COPY CANADA IN AVIATION

NEW YORK, April 20. — A dispatch from Washington to the Tribune says that as a result of a report made to the war department by Lieut.-Col. John B. Bennett and Major B. B. Foulers, who have just returned from Toronto, where they made an investigation of Canada's aviation schools, the United States will adopt the Canadian system, which is described as a model of efficiency.

JUDGE HOLT BURIED AT GODERICH FRIDAY

GODERICH, April 20.—The funeral of Judge Holt was held this afternoon. A Masonic service was conducted at the house, after which the body was taken to St. George's Church, where the Church of England service was held, Rev. J. B. Fotheringham and Rev. Mark Turnbull, former rectors of the church, assisting the present rector.

Mr. Fotheringham gave a short sermon. He paid a glowing tribute to the late judge, who was ever faithful to his church and fellowmen.

The pallbearers were: D. McDonald, Sheriff Reynolds, W. L. Eliot, M. G. Cameron, K.C. Charles Garrow, K.C., John Galt, Dudley Holmes of Wingham, and Joseph Kidd of town, were honorary pallbearers.

Maitland Lodge, No. 33, A., F. and A. M., marched in a body and performed the last rites at the graveside.

DIES IN BUFFALO.

DORCHESTER, April 20.—Miss Nellie Smith, who resided with her brother, Rev. John Smith during the five years that he was pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, died Thursday afternoon in Buffalo.

During her stay at the manse she made many friends, and when Rev. Mr. Smith left here two months ago for his new charge in Greysville, Man., she went to live with her brother William, in the hope that the change would benefit her health.

The funeral will be held in Buffalo Saturday. She is survived by three older brothers, Rev. David Smith, a missionary in India; James of Orkney, Scotland, and Robert of Dorchester.

Benjamin Godwin, aged 77 years, died Thursday at the London Home for Incurables. The funeral will be held from the Anglican Church Saturday afternoon. Rev. H. Sutton will conduct the service. He is survived by a widow.

Uruguayan Troops on Brazil Border Because of Trouble

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, April 20. — The machinery of the German steamers self-interned here has been disabled by their crews.

The Government has sent troops to the Brazilian frontier on account of trouble in Rio Grande Do Sul.

SERBIANS REPULSE TWO ATTACKS EAST OF CERNA

French Troops Recapture Some Elements Lost Thursday.

PARIS, April 20.—The official report on operations in Macedonia says:

"Orient—After brilliant counter-attacks our troops recaptured a few elements of trenches which had been lost on the 18th at Tsrvena Stena. Numerous prisoners, most of them Germans, remained in our hands. To the east of the Cerna the Serbian troops repulsed two enemy attacks."

C. N. R. IS IN TROUBLE WITH THE BROTHERHOOD

Reinstatement of Crew, Dismissed After Wreck, Demanded.

SASKATOON, April 20.—There is trouble here between the Canadian Northern Railway and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers over the dismissal by the former of the crew of a Canadian Northern freight train which crashed into the rear of a snowplow last February, near here, causing the death of three men.

The brotherhood claims the men were not to blame and demands their reinstatement, threatening to take the matter to Ottawa if necessary. J. R. Cameron, general superintendent of the Canadian Northern, says the dismissal of the train crew was justified and necessary to the preservation of discipline.

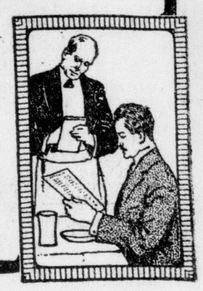

21,850 HOUSE CAT SKINS BRING $10,000 AT SALE

Opossum Pelts Bring $1.50 Each—Otter Set $700.

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—Nearly $350,000 was paid for 304,359 skins at the international fur auction here today. Of this amount $200,000 resulted from the sale of 250,000 opossum skins. An increase of 15 per cent over the January price for this skin was recorded, the highest price paid today being $1.50 a pelt.

Next to the opossum, the highest price paid for a type of fur was $110,000 for 5,520 otter skins. Fifteen thousand dollars was paid for 6,500 grey fox skins, $1,000 for 675 swift fox, $3,500 for 1,760 patagonian kitt fox and $3,000 for 3,600 Argentine grey fox skins. A lot of 21,850 house cat skins brought $10,000, and a set of otter skins of rare quality sold for $700.

HOSPITALS IN WAR AREAS TO CHECKMATE HUN ATTACKS

LONDON, April 20.—The war cabinet decided today that every physician and surgeon and every man of medical training, of military age, must be called up to the service at once. In reference to the calling up of the physicians and surgeons, the following official explanation is given:

"The enemy, in total disregard of the accepted tenets of civilized warfare, has deliberately instituted a submarine campaign against hospital ships, and it has, therefore, become essential that a large number of hospitals should be established overseas in the various theatres of war for the treatment of sick and wounded. In order to allow this to be done with great rapidity it is essential to secure the services of every doctor that can possibly be spared from the United Kingdom."

INGERSOLL BOWLERS ELECT 1917 OFFICERS

Studebaker Established 1852

The Best is Cheapest in the Long Run

WHEN you finally select your new car, your ultimate satisfaction of that car will depend upon the comfort you get out of it.

As far as the actual price of the car is concerned, $100 one way or the other makes little difference to you financially. But—to pay less than Studebaker prices for your car may mean a sacrifice of safety and comfort; a constant source of expense and endless trouble.

Experience has built perfection into the Studebaker. Studebaker has spent four years in refining, improving and perfecting this one basic design, selecting the right material, developing the right manufacturing organization.

If it were mechanically possible to produce a car that would give the maximum of comfort and satisfaction for any less than Studebaker prices—Studebaker is better equipped to do it than any other maker.

The beauty of a Studebaker goes beneath its beautiful paint and varnish work, beneath its conservative, dignified lines—beneath its luxuriously soft upholstery. The beauty that makes the Studebaker a joy forever is the beauty of quality—the quality that gives durability, that gives uninterrupted usage, that makes your car as good at 50,000 miles as it was at 5,000.

CANADIAN Chalmers

A sensible test

WHAT do you demand from a motor car? How would you test a car—for ease of control, for motor agility, for economy, for general soundness of construction.

Wouldn't a hard run through city traffic put the car to a sensible test? The many stops, the slowing down, the jumping from low to high speed. That tries a motor. Tries it for flexibility, gives it a real fuel test.

Here then is a sane test of the Chalmers. It's official from the American Automobile Association.

A Chalmers 7-passenger taken from stock ran for 24 hours on high gear through Chicago's dense traffic. The engine never stopped. Four passengers were carried. The driver was an amateur. A total mileage of 586.8 was piled up, breaking every previous test by 228 miles.

This gives some idea of the amazing flexibility of the car. Its perfect cooling. Its ease of control.

But note. This run was made on 14 miles to the gallon of gasoline.★

There is a surprise awaiting you when you step in behind the wheel of this smart car.

Come in and put this Chalmers to the test.

WESTERN ONTARIO GIRLS APPOINTED TO CHINA MISSIONS

Dearth of Young Men Owing to Enlistment.

PRESBYTERIAN BODY SITS

Board Anxious to Secure Two Doctors for Service in China.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, April 20.—The financial statement as presented at the semi-annual meeting of the Presbyterian foreign mission board, which has just closed after a three days' session, showed an adverse balance of $21,333 on the 1916 account.

All young men who are volunteers for the foreign field are on war service, and therefore there were only lady candidates to be appointed. Miss Anna McDougall of Mitchell and Miss Grace Patterson of Thamesford were appointed to India; Miss Lillian Bryden of Eramosa to Honan; Miss Alice Bligh of Lakeport, N. S., to Korea. Others formerly appointed to sail this year are: Miss Kathleen Anderson of Swan River, Man.; Miss Winnifred Warren of Walkerton, and Miss Christena MacDougall, daughter of Rev. Dr. MacDougall of Keady, to Honan, China; Miss Fannie Nugent, daughter of Alexander Nugent of Ujjain, India, to India.

Great Changes in Asia.

The business concerning the eight overseas missions was transacted, the predominant note from all the fields being the changed attitude on the part of the people of Asia toward the missionary. Whereas years ago they regarded the missionary with suspicion and his message with prejudice, they now welcome him, and are very responsive to his efforts in their behalf.

It was reported that 15 of the 31 men on the Honan staff have left for Europe to enter upon war service. As only one doctor is therefore left on the field, the board is anxiouse to hear from two medical men who may be unable to serve their country in Europe, and who would be willing to spend a year or two in China, and thus enable the mission to keep tis hospitals open.

Welcome Chinese.

It was noted with great satisfaction that the Dominion Government at the present session is likely to amend the Chinese immigration law so as to admit without head tax Chinese students to Canadian colleges. The removal of the restriction will, it is thought, mean the entry into Canada of some of the brightest young men from the Government colleges.

The session was fittingly closed by the board honoring Rev. Dr. R. P. MacKay, who for the past 25 years has been secretary of the board of foreign missions, at a banquet in Knox College.

TORONTO PAPER SAYS RIETHDORF CASE IS REPROACH TO COUNTRY

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, April 20. — "Professor Riethdorf has enlisted as a private soldier in the Army Medical Corps in this city, and will, it is expected, proceed overseas in that service at an early date," says the Star.

"Pte. Riethdorf was a professor in Woodstock College when the war broke out, and at once began in the press and on the platform advocating the cause of the Allies, directing his arguments to Canadians of German birth or descent. He is himself a Canadian citizen of German, but not of Prussian birth, and with a much better informed antagonism to Prussian autocracy than it is possible for most Canadians to possess.

"It might have been supposed that when a man like Professor Riethdorf took the public platform as he did as a Canadian citizen, and incurred the enmity of pro-Germans because of his activities, that the people and the authorities here would have upheld him in his course. It was not done. He was allowed to be crowded aside by influences that must be bluntly described as pro-German. It is a reproach to this country that such influences were allowed to operate. Professor Riethdorf is now a private in the ranks of the army, and is about to leave for the war. He is now in a spice where, it is to be supposed, enemy influences have not the nerve to intrude, and where democratic principles and scholarly abilities will be turned to useful account."

GIVEN MANY GIFTS.

LAMBETH, April 20.—Billy Anderson, son of the Rev. S. Anderson, was the recipient of many serviceable gifts on the eve of his departure for overseas on his appointment to a commission in the aviation corps. On Monday night a number of his chums gathered at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Routledge and presented him with a traveling bag, at the same time Dr. and Mrs. Routledge gave him a luminous-faced wrist watch.

On Tuesday night at the Epworth League an inspiring address was read by the president, Sharon Kelly, after which Miss Reta Evans on behalf of the Allied Bible class and the Epworth League presented him with a bank credited of $25. "Billy" replied in a suitable manner.

The members of the Girls' Verdun Club gave him a fully equipped "housewife." He also received a knitted khaki sweater from Mrs. C. F. McGuffin.

THERE IS A MESSAGE IN THIS LADY'S STORY

She Tells What Dodd's Kidney Pills Do for Women.

She Was Troubled With Weakness and Her Daughter Had Nervous Trouble—Dodd's Kidney Pills Proved the Remedy They Both Needed.

Hamilton, Ont., April 20—(Special)—The story told by Mrs. H. Dickens of 70 Tom street, this city, carries a message of hope to every suffering woman in Canada.

"After my baby was born," Mrs. Dickens states, "I used to suffer with my back and had no heart to do my work around the home. But I read about Dodd's Kidney Pills and what they have done for others, so I thought I would get a box and see what they would do for me.

"I am pleased to say that after taking two boxes I found such great relief I would not be without them in the house.

"My daughter, too, had been very sick on and off for a long time. Her nerves got so bad we were afraid we would see her in the hospital. But I am pleased to say she is better through taking Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I never thought Dodd's Kidney Pills could have done such good work, and I am telling all my friends about them."

Women's troubles, or nearly all of them, come from sick kidneys. The cure for them is the old established remedy for sick kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

ITALIANS SHELL GALLIANO STATION AND ENVIRONS

Enemy Seaplanes Bomb Lower Isonzo With No Damage.

ROME, April 20.—"In the Trentino, the artillery was active in the Camonica, Gudicaria and Lagarina valleys," says today's war office report.

"The railway station of Galliano and its neighborhood were again shelled by our batteries.

"On the Julian front yesterday there were lively artillery duels in the northern sector of the Carso.

"Last night enemy seaplanes dropped bombs on various places on the Lower Isonzo. There were no casualties or damage. One of our airships bombed with good results the railway station and lines at Opoina, returning safely."

RUSSIAN WORKMEN REJECT SEPARATE PEACE

PETROGRAD, via London, April 21. —Delegates from seven of the Russian armies conferred today with the council of workmen's and soldiers' delegates and asked the council whether it favored a separate peace. M. Seyoloff, on behalf of the council, replied:

"The council rejects any idea of a separate peace."

BABY'S OWN TABLETS USED TEN YEARS

Mrs. W. J. Wilson, Carp, Ont., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the last ten years and can highly recommend them for babyhood and childhood ailments. My baby boy was very delicate; in fact, we never thought he would live but, thanks to the Tablets, he is now a fine, healthy boy." Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are small children. They regulate the bowels and stomach and never fail to cure the minor ills of little ones. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Submarine Visions Conjured When Ferry Hit by Lightning

Windsor-Detroit Craft Struck —Flag Staff Shattered, Deck Ripped Up.

WINDSOR, April 20.—Visions of a torpedo attack came to 500 passengers of the ferry Pleasure at 6 o'clock this evening while the steamer was making a trip to Windsor. The forward flagstaff of the boat was struck by a bolt of lightning which spent its force after splintering six feet of the staff and in tearing a hole in the upper deck. The upper cabin was crowded with women. When the flash came the boat seemed to stop for a moment and careened as if struck by a heavy body, some of the passengers said.

Roderick Belliveau, a passenger, who was standing at the foot of the stairway leading to the upper deck, described the flash as "a ball of fire, which, after hitting the flagstaff, disappeared in the water ahead of the boat."

Some members of the engine-room staff said the bolt entered the engine-room and passed out by one of the portholes.

The fluid, after knocking the top off the flagstaff, ran down an iron stay to the combings of the upper deck, which were ripped off for about five feet.

WHICH IS YOUR TOWN?

EACH TOWN AND CITY has its own particular individuality and character. If you don't believe it, all you have to do is to travel up and down the length and breadth of Canada to find out. A trip through Western Ontario with your eyes open will be sufficient to convince you.

The towns, like two twins, may look as much alike as two peas at a casual glance. But study them more carefully and you will soon be impressed by striking points of difference. In Ontario, for example, each town has its natural features, recognized, ignored, or just overlooked.

In a number of towns the streets are laid out in a peculiar manner. There are towns which, even in a country new as this, and the newer part of it at that, look as if they had reached the limit of their capacity for development, and long ago made up their minds to sit down and do nothing more about it. Sometimes they appear merely sleepy; other times dejected and dispirited. It depends upon the day.

There are towns which give the impression of going down the hill. Their industries may be making a good record, but there are fine houses with shuttered or staring vacant windows, fences failing to decay even on occupied lots, buildings of every description sadly in need of paint, sidewalks broken or crumbling, stores shabby-genteel at best and sadly down at the heel, mud holes in the streets. There are always a few fine residences, but these have a detached appearance and merely accentuate the contrast with the general slovenliness.

There are other towns which call to mind the wife of one of H. G. Wells' heroes, Mr. Polly. Like Mrs. Polly, they are always cleaning up and never getting done, with the result that eternal confusion prevails. Their intentions are good, but intelligence and system are lacking to carry any job through successfully.

Then there is another kind of town, brisk and alert-looking, public buildings a credit so far as condition, if not architecture, is concerned; schools an indication of the educational ideals of the community; churches bespeaking the fact that they hold an important place in the public life; streets and sidewalks properly laid and kept in good repair; business houses that do not need a "welcome" sign above the door; store fronts and windows painted, shining-clean and attractively dressed; parks and boulevards, lawns, gardens and the little strip in front of the door revealing artistic appreciation and practical care. And the houses? Why to be sure, however humble they must live up to the general character of the town. The spirit of the town is one of thrift, industry and progressiveness. On all sides are evidences of genuine civic pride.

In which type of town would you prefer to visit, settle down, invest money or establish a business? One that is living on the reputation of "better days," the one that is obviously mismanaged, or the real, live town with a future?

RUSSIAN PROGRESS.

A CABLEGRAM announces that the Russian Congress and Council of Workmen and Soldiers' delegates, passed a resolution favoring the suppression of classes and titles and confiscation of all lands belonging to the crown, church and also the monasteries. They also made provision for the transfer of lands to the use of the peasants.

This would seem to be a very long step towards democracy. Evidently the intention of the resolution is that the people shall have the use of the lands, and that it is not to be held either by the Government or the church, so that the people cannot have every use they desire to make of it.

These resolutions are quite in line with the memorial of congratulations to the new Russian Government sent by the Columbia University to Russia, the last clause of which reads:

"We rejoice that our country has cast its lot with you and with your allies in the unparalleled struggle for liberty that is fiercely raging. May the successful outcome of the conflict mark the ending of the last great attempt of the dark forces of the world to exploit and oppress humanity. It is the sacred cause of the peace and brotherhood of the world and humanity, and in this cause we are at one with you."

The professors and people appear to have joined in one object, the advancement of the people's rights.

NEUTRALS AROUSED.

IF NORWAY AND SWEDEN do not enter the war on the Allied side it will not be because sympathy for the cause or detestation of Germany and her methods is wanting. Until recently Sweden has looked askance at Russia, and has been inclined to show more friendship for Germany than for the eastern monarchy. But with the revolution in Russia has come a change in Sweden's attitude, and the sinking of a Scandinavian vessel by a German submarine, attended by the most callous cruelty on the part of the submarine's crew, has enraged the neutral countries.

Dispatches assert that the Germans brought their craft to the surface after firing the torpedo into the steamship, and watched 29 members of the crew drown without attempting rescue.

Commenting on this the Norwegian Shipping Gazette says: "All neutrals ought voluntarily to break off commercial relations with Germany." The suggestion is worthy of note, mainly as showing the feeling that exists in the lands which are still neutral: the utter abhorrence of Germany's methods which exists, although the nations do not believe it good policy to declare war upon their neighbor, probably fearing immediate disastrous results. There is not much hope that the idea will bear fruit, but it is not impossible.

Did the neutrals of Europe decide to take the step advocated, the end of the war would be clearly in sight. It would be almost equivalent to a declaration of war, because Germany would either deliver this herself or take such reprisals as to force the neutrals into doing so. Possibly she may find, even now, that Spain, Norway and Sweden have reached the end of their endurance and are prepared to resist the bully. The temper of the press is a fair indication of the national attitude, and, to say the least, this is threatening.

RUSSIA'S TRIALS.

SINCE the first news of the great Russian revolution was given in the press, there has crept into the tone of a good many papers, both in Canada and Britain, a faint distrust, a hesitation about placing too much dependence on the new regime, lest it should turn out to be in favor of a separate peace, or at least a half-hearted support of the war. This has not gone unnoticed in Russia, and has occasioned comment which is unfortunate at a time when fullest trust in each other should be the attitude of all Allies.

Writing to an English publication, a Russian alludes to this, not in bitterness, but in a helpful spirit, seeking to prove that there are no grounds for suspicion. He points out that Russians well understand the old British newspaper doctrine of non-intervention in other nations' affairs, and realize that this precept prevented criticism of the monarchy, but what they cannot understand is that now, when democracy is coming into its own, this attitude has been abandoned, to some extent, and the criticism which was never in evidence when it might have done good is now appearing, when only harm can result.

The danger, he says, is "that Russians may be misled into thinking that some great English newspapers have a deeper feeling for the czar and his tragic position than for the people and its century-long tragedy."

He particularly objects to the labeling of a section of the Russian people as "Extremists," and asserts that these are only men struggling for the realization of the highest ideals of Russian democracy, and are, no less than the Liberals, the apostles of Anglophilism in Russia. He begs for the full sympathy of the British people in this, his country's great hour of trial and opportunity.

How far from just is some of the distrust seems to be shown in Thursday's dispatches regarding the doings of Russian socialistic representatives at Stockholm. It was feared that they were working for a separate peace, being influenced by the Teutons' cry of universal brotherhood of workingmen. Now it appears that they had no such ideas, but were strongly urging their German and Austrian fellow-socialists to rise and upset the monarchies of their countries, and institute true republics in their place. This is a very different matter, and an aim with which the Allies cannot quarrel.

Suspicion seldom does any good. Russia has passed through a change whose import we in Canada and those in Britain can only dimly realize, and has done it in a manner to bespeak respect and admiration for those who have led and directed it. Would it not be only fair to show her, in every way possible, the sympathy of the British nation, and cast aside all distrust until there is some real, tangible basis for it?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

West Zorra Township council urges Dominion-wide prohibition. Can there now be any objectors?

German commanders have lost their heads, says a headline. May it be permanent and may the epidemic spread.

Count that day lost whose low descending sun,
Sees not some hospital ship sunk by Hun.

One-third of a loaf of bread per day for each German soldier is not much ammunition for an army which "fights on its stomach."

Strange, that the exiled Russians Germany is permitting to return home from Switzerland are nearly all extreme peace apostles.

There is danger of world hunger! This cannot be repeated too often. Everyone must be made to realize the danger and the prevention—more production.

The men and women of the United States are demanding that the boys who go to fight have efficient leadership, yet no call has been sent for Sir Sam Hughes.

What's this? Canada to build steel steamships for Great Britain to be used for transatlantic service. Didn't the Borden Government vow it couldn't be done when warships were in question?

It looks rather weird to see pictures of two American women in a semi-military costume, one with fashionable two-colored boots and the other with high-heeled slippers, learning to work motor machine guns.

CULTIVATING, FERTILIZING AND SPRAYING GRAPE-VINES.

Grapes grow best on warm soil, where they are not subject to too great extremes of heat and cold. They do well in Western Ontario without any protection during the winter. Cultivation is most important, and should be begun as soon as possible in spring, the earth being loosened up about the vines. Be careful not to disturb the roots which may be very near the surface. Work the soil away from the vines with a hoe. This cultivation should be repeated every two weeks during the summer. Cultivate frequently in very dry weather, and always stir up the soil after a very heavy rain. By the first of August, however, all cultivation should cease.

The grape-vine does not need to be fertilized very often. Manure applied every three or four years is sufficient. Commercial fertilizers are not usually needed in Ontario. In some districts a cover crop is thought necessary, but usually the grape ground is left clean. Some growers mulch the young vines with strawy manure in the autumn, and it has been found to be very useful in protecting the young plants.

Grape-growers have usually considered it unnecessary to spray the grape-vine, and in this they have made a great mistake. Grapes are very apt to be attacked by mildew and rot, which can be awarded off by spraying. The first spray should be applied when the third leaf is appearing. Spray again just before the blossoms open, and a third time just after the fruit is set. For all of these sprays use Bordeaux mixture. If a period of damp weather is expected, the vines may be again sprayed, but always before the rain, if possible, not before. The spray mixture, if it has been given a chance to dry, will not wash off with the rain. A mature vine will require from one-quarter to one-half gallon of spray mixture to cover it for the first spray. For later sprays, when there are more leaves on the vines, from three-quarters to one gallon will be required. Be sure and always spray thoroughly, for that alone will exterminate the pest. If powdery mildew should be troublesome, dust the vines with flour of sulphur.

The grape is indeed worth the care which it is necessary to put on it, for not only is it a very fine fruit when raw, and makes delicious jam when cooked, but it also may be turned into most healthful and pleasing beverages. Home-made grape wine and grape juice are excellent assets to the housewife's cellar.

DOING HER DUTY.

[By Louise Corby.]

A man, somewhat middle-aged, sat on the back steps of a house in the outskirts of the town of Royalton, and whistled as he put an edge on his axe with a whetstone.

In the kitchen behind him a middle-aged woman was clearing off the breakfast table and putting things to rights. He whistled and she sang, for there was no trouble in the minds of Mr. Harris and his wife. Their only child—a daughter of 19—had been married to Lawrence Marion three months before, and was a happy bride.

The latch of the gate clicked, and the man called to his wife:

"Susan, someone is coming."

"Let 'em come," she replied.

"Hello, Nettie," they both called out as the daughter turned the corner of the house.

She walked past them into the kitchen, sat down and put her head down on the table and began crying.

"My stars, Nettie, but what is it?" exclaimed the mother.

"Has Lawrence broken a leg?" asked the father.

"I—I can't talk now," Nettie sobbed.

The father and mother went out on the steps, and he whispered in her ear:

"Do you think he came home drunk last night?"

"He never even drinks ginger ale."

"They might have had a quarrel about the cat—or something."

"No use guessing. Wait till she has had her cry over."

It was ten minutes before the bride raised her head and wiped away the tears, and said:

"I guess Lawrence and I are going to part!"

"Now, Nettie, what's it all about?" said her mother. "Does Lawrence find fault?"

"No, not in words—not to me. But he told Mr. Riker the other day that he thought a young man a fool to marry."

"If he doesn't find fault in words, what does he do?"

"He hardly eats a thing. He has got in the habit of going out nights."

"Where to?"

"He plays billiards, I guess."

"But he never speaks harshly to you?"

"It's in his actions. Sometimes I think he looks at me with contempt. There is no question but that he is sick of his bargain. If Lawrence doesn't change I don't think I can live with him much longer," sobbed the bride.

"But he's going to change."

"What's going to change him?"

"You are. Let me tell you something. This is no surprise to me. I've been expecting it every day for a month."

"Then you knew that Lawrence was—was——"

"I knew that he wouldn't stand for it."

"Why, mother!"

"Oh, this is going to be plain talk. From the time you were 16 you were always thinking of dress and beauty and gadding around. Instead of mending your own clothes, you put the work off on me. You wouldn't help me about the housework so much as to sweep a floor or set the table. You didn't make your own bed half the time."

"But I was a girl, mother."

"Yes, and you are getting your reward. I wanted to teach you housework for your own good when your were married, but you had an excuse every time."

"But Lawrence said he would be glad to live on cheese and crackers," pleaded the young wife.

"I don't blame you for believing him, but all young men of his age are soft. At any rate, in his case, he has turned from crackers and cheese, and you've got something coming to you."

"She's coming home!" said the father.

"On the contrary, John Harris, I am going home with her to stay at least two weeks!"

"Do you mean it, mother?"

"I do. You are not making a home for Lawrence Marion, and he realizes the fact. I am going to stay long enough to show you how to do it, and your father must cook his own meals and make his own bed."

"But—but—" began the daughter.

"Not a word, Nettie. I'll be ready in twenty minutes."

Of course the mother had been in the daughter's house at lease once a week, and each time she could have found fault with the way it was kept, but on this occasion it looked worse than ever. She looked around with a sigh, and then took off her hat and said:

"We have got to wash the dishes and sweep up, the first thing."

"But Lawrence never seems to notice how the house looks."

The dishes were, nevertheless, washed wiped and put away, and the floor was swept. Then the mother asked:

"When did you mop the kitchen floor last?"

"Why, I never mop it. Lawrence said he'd hire a woman some day."

"Pin up your skirt and get at it."

The mopping was done with many a sigh and a groan, but it was done. While the wife worked at it, the mother overhauled the pantry and the bread box, and found a basketful of scraps to throw away.

"Does Lawrence like steak for dinner?" she asked as they sat down to rest.

"Not very well, I guess."

"Probably not, the way you cook it. Do you know a porterhouse from a round?"

"Why, I always tell the butcher a pound and a half of steak."

"And he probably sends you a neck piece. You telephone him for a porterhouse, and if it's anything else back it will go. What's the matter with that clock?"

"I forgot to wind it."

"Then do it, now. We'll go and inspect the flour box as we are to have hot biscuits for dinner. Have you tried to make any yet?"

"Yes, but they were like lead."

"Easiest thing in the world to have light ones. Half a pan of flour and your shortening and baking powder. Watch me mix and roll."

When Mr. Marion came home that evening he had so many surprises in store for him that he had to take them one by one. The house was clean, light and airy. He had the best dinner he had eaten since he left his mother's table. He took a peep into the kitchen and smiled. He was talkative and smiling, and, after the meal, he said to his wife:

"You are dressed up as if you were going somewhere."

"We are going somewhere," she laughed.

"I promised to play billiards tonight, but will cut it out if you want to go to the lecture at Royal Hall. You see, you are in the habit of sitting down with a book in the evening and as I am no bookist I have had to turn to something else. Yes, we'll go to the lecture and have a good time."

Lawrence did not have to get up next morning and prepare his own bite of breakfast. It was ready for him, and opposite him sat a wife so primped up that he opened his eyes in wonder.

Next day the mother gave her daughter more lessons in cooking. She made her wash windows and beat rugs besides. She hunted up things that needed mending and she sent for groceries and meats and gave advice about buying.

The next day was something else, and the next was pastry and puddings. Everything was done over and over until the young wife had the knack almost as well as her mother. And, strangely enough, at least to her, she liked most of the work and was anxious to improve. She had to admit that Lawrence was a different man, and the cottage was fast becoming a home in the true sense.

At the end of a fortnight, when Mrs. Harris returned to her own home, her husband greeted her:

"Why didn't you stay a whole year?"

"Didn't have to," was the reply.

"Well, is there to be a divorce?"

"When a husband is kissing his wife about twenty times a minute it doesn't look much like a divorce, does it?"

"Humph!"

"Yes, humph. I owed a duty to that girl, and I've been paying it."

RE THE FEDERAL SQUARE RATS.

If those rats that have their dugouts
On our costly federal square,
Could be, by some "Pied Piper," lured
To come out of their lair;
And to follow him 'cross Dundas
To our city's council hall
Our aldermen would furnish gas,
I'm sure, to kill them all.

Thus we'd save the cost of generating
Murderous sulphur fumes,
Which Doc Hill told us yesterday
Would seal the said rats' dooms;
And our aldermen would preen themselves,
We can't help but expect,
That they'd spoken to an audience
On whom they'd had some effect.

How Uncle Sam Will Recruit His Army

Raising armies is more difficult, as well as more important, than raising flags, and one of the chief difficulties in the United States is the feeling against conscription.

"There is enough patriotism in this country to get a volunteer army, and until that is demonstrated untrue we should not resort to conscription," declares Senator Thomas of Colorado, while Senators Stone of Missouri and Gallinger of New Hampshire are among those who think the recruiting problem can be best solved by increasing the soldiers' pay. Among southern congressmen, also, we find opposition to universal service on the ground that it would be inadvisable to give thousands of negroes training in the use of arms. Samuel Gompers is also reported to be against conscription.

On the other hand, a recent canvass of 476 newspapers by the National Security League revealed 270 of them in favor of universal military training, 49 opposed to it, and 157 non-committal.

The Milwaukee Sentinel may be said to reflect the consensus of argument in favor of obligatory military training: "Under the voluntary system in time of war, the serviceable manhood of the nation is divided into two parts. There are the patriotic young men who volunteer to go to the front and, if need be, die in order that the nation may live; and there are the slackers who are perfectly willing to sacrifice the other fellows on the altar of patriotism. That is not a democratic arrangement. A democracy which offers equality of opportunity, has a right to exact in return equality of service."

"The Digest" Policy in War and Peace

The entry of this nation into the war will have no effect upon the general policy of THE LITERARY DIGEST to give all the news from all sides. Every loyal American and Canadian will be anxious to know what the enemy is saying and doing, to understand his viewpoint, and to forms as clear an idea as possible of the trend of public feeling among the nations arrayed against us. To the extent, then, that this is compatible with the interests of our country, THE DIGEST will continue to print the news, from whatever point it may come, holding it to be the desire of every true patriot to know the exact situation. To crystallize the viewpoint of the day in all lands, including our own, and to present it as accurately as possible to the reader, is the aim, now as ever, of this foremost of news-magazines. Read it and judge the result for yourself.

Let Smallman & Ingram Help You With Your Spring Cleaning and Furnishing

THIS STORE'S forces are well organized to help you in the many tasks that suddenly confront you in the spring. New curtains to buy, slip covers, draperies and floor coverings; furniture for indoors, porch and lawn, a dozen and one house-cleaning and renovating requisites, wall paper and paint, screens, awnings, porch shades, window shades. 'Tis now past mid-April, and we'll help you get your spring work done in an orderly manner, with the assurance of satisfactory service and moderate cost. Special displays next week in departments where house furnishings and house-cleaning necessities are carried—new, modern appliances to make the spring cleaning easy by lessening your labors.

Housecleaning Needs and What to Use

The Living-Room or Library

This should be the cosy room of the house. Your walls done in a plain fabric weave, blend or grass cloth, brightened up with a touch of color in your border or decorations, makes a beautiful background for your pictures, bookcases, etc. Your woodwork may not match the furniture—this can be remedied. Our decorators are at your service. The mantel grates are soiled—one coat of flat black lacquer would make these look like new. Our gold bronze would work wonders with those picture frames.

The Bedroom

Make it cheerful with a chintz paper or one of our new plain effects, with cut-out bird borders. Your woodwork can be renewed with a coat of our undercoating, finished with ivory or white enamel. Clean up the clothes closet with Sani-Flat in some light sanitary-looking color. Ask our salesman about changing the oak furniture in this room to white.

The Bath Room

Where cleanliness reigns, should be white, using a blue and white tile, in either paper or Sanitas on your walls. The woodwork requires an undercoating of zinc, finished with gloss enamel.

Stick-Fast Paste Powder

for any purpose where paste is required, made instantly with cold water—1-lb. packages, 15c; 2-lb. packages, 25c; 5-lb. sack 65c

Wall Papers in Stock From 6c Roll Up

SMALLMAN & INGRAM LIMITED

Wall Papers, Paints, Varnishes, Moldings

Let us enter by the back door into the kitchen; the walls are soiled and the ceiling smoked. One of our washable papers will not only renew the old paper but give you a sanitary, washable finish. The woodwork looks cheerless and careworn, the iceman has abused the refrigerator. Just give this one coat of our interior varnish or one coat of our colored lacquer and all scratches and scars will vanish.

The Dining-Room

There is a peculiar fascination about a dining-room that one cannot resist, especially at meal time. Your furniture will look better and the room more cheerful with a change of background. One of our choice selection of tapestry papers would look good. If your ceiling is high, use something plain or a fabric weave around the upper portion of your walls. The ceiling would look best plain in either paper or muresco. That margin around your rug would look good with a coating of our special ground color and one coat oak lacquer, or, if it is an oak floor, use C. and B. Floor Wax.

HEALTH AND EFFICIENCY DEPEND ON SURROUNDINGS

Shrewd Businessmen Recognize This in Building Factories —Housekeeping Is Also Becoming a Business Affair.

Apart entirely from New Thought and the sanitary side of the question, health and efficiency are undoubtedly promoted by clean, bright surroundings, because of the reactionary effect of these upon the mind and the moral nature. Why, otherwise, was it written that cleanliness is next to godliness?

Shrewd businessmen recognize this principle in building their new factories, warehouses and shops, or remodeling the old ones. They know if they are to hold their own in the business world, backed by their employees, they must keep pace with modern ideas and ideals, founded upon the old axiom that cleanliness is next to all-knowledge, all-wisdom and all-virtue.

Half a dozen years ago, the most familiar expression upon the lips of domestic science agitators was that housekeeping was the most backward of all sciences. Unless the statement were largely true, it would not have met with such general acceptance as it did, though, naturally, not without protests in some directions.

Housekeeping a Science.

In any case, the housewife is more and more making a business and a science of housekeeping, adapting and adopting the methods of the progressive business world. She calls to her aid in dirt-chasing and germ-swatting the modern tools of her calling which save time and lighten labor.

The thorough overhauling her rooms receive at more frequent periods than in former years is not due to greater extravagance, but to a better appreciation of the importance of refusing crack-room as a dwelling house for germs.

After a bedroom has been used as a temporary hospital for the treatment of a communicable disease, she can't feel satisfied until she has made sure that every last, lingering germ has been exterminated. Dusting down the walls isn't enough. Unless they are the kind that can be scrubbed, the one satisfactory thing to do is to have them scraped and washed and all chinks filled in, then entirely new decoration applied.

Similar vigorous treatment is required for the woodwork and floor, after which the room emerges sweet, wholesome and "fresh as paint."

The girl or boy who is given that kind of a room for his or her own, cannot fail to feel a certain pride of possession in it. It is an incentive to orderliness, and to give more attention to one's personal appearance. It is a place where one is not ashamed to take one's friends.

A Compelling Influence.

A cosy, inviting living room is a great inducement to spend spare hours at home, instead of seeking all diversion and companionship outside.

It is a wise house-mother who weaves a web to hold the affection for home of the members of her family by calling to her assistance attractive wall and floor coverings and cushion tops and draperies, paint and enamel and varnish. Because she is wise she sees that her choice falls upon things not too fine for the purpose intended, upon draperies that can be cleaned or renewed at small expense. The most attractive room will not hold long if there are prohibitions on every side in regard to the use of chairs, tables, cushions and even walking on the rug.

WELCOME WINGHAM SOLDIER.

WINGHAM, April 20.—On the arrival of the evening train from London the Citizens' Band and council were at the station to meet Pte. D. Currie, a returned soldier, who was sent back from England. A torchlight procession marched down Josephine street to the town hall, where a meeting was held, and many speeches delivered, after which Pte. Currie was driven home.

WELL-KEPT TOWN IMPRESSES VISITOR

Cleanliness and Neatness a Valuable Asset.

BUSINESS STREETS FIRST

Pavements and Store Fronts Reflect Personality of the Citizens.

A visitor to a city intent upon sightseeing, usually sees the business streets first, and it is these which create the first impression of the character of the town. If the pavement has an accumulation of dirt and the sidewalks are unswept, the store fronts dingy and goods displayed without either order or taste, if office buildings are dilapidated and factories dirty and forbidding of exterior, it will take many streets of fine homes and beautiful lawns and rare glimpses of natural scenery to blot out the unpleasant memory. It is pretty hard to admire a place that reveals such a sharp contrast between the workshop and reception-room.

The refreshing memory is recalled of arriving in a certain Canadian city on a blazing hot August day. There was a wait of some hours between trains, and, even in the big station, the heat was insufferable. A trip down the main street with prospects of a visit to an ice cream parlor was welcomed as a diversion.

The discomfort of the long railway journey and the warm afternoon were almost forgotten in the vista that opened up, a long street with imposing buildings on either side, the majority of cool, grey stone, painted in harmony, window glass polished, and, swinging from ledges and balconies, boxes filled with plants of gorgeous bloom.

It was possible to believe everything publicity pamphlets told of that town and to understand the enthusiastic loyalty of the citizens.

The rest of the town was a reflection of the main street, it was discovered a few days later. Even the tiniest house had an ambitious look and there was evident effort to make it as pleasing as possible with resources at command.

One of these recognized resources was the paint can, and few other towns have been discovered which present such a thoroughly-painted and well kept appearance.

The city in question is one which really accomplishes "things," and in one or two important instances has set an example the rest of Canada.

London has many features which lead visitors to designate it as one of the most attractive cities in the Dominion. It has many natural features of which it has not taken advantage and it has winked at making dumps of ravines and river banks and allowing vacant lots to grow rank with weeds.

The vacant lots and backyards garden campaign of this year will doubtless go a long way towards the beautification of the city, which boasts fine homes and magnificent avenues of trees, splendid churches and a number of up-to-date schools. Some kegs of nails, a hammer chorus and a shower of fresh paint wouldn't at all detract from the charms of London town. Paint isn't a war-time extravagance. It is a stitch in time to save nine, a precaution to preserve woodwork against the wear and tear of all kinds of weather.

It is just as utilitarian as artistic, and it makes a vast difference in the self-respect of a properly-constituted town.

YEA, EVEN CRUELTY.
[Montreal Gazette.]

When some boys were brought before Mayor Stevenson of London, Ont., for creating a disturbance in the street, he sentenced them to go to night school for an indefinite term. The chief magistrate in question seems to be a believer in stiff punishment.

SAFETY FIRST.
[Guelph Mercury.]

As a matter of fact, the safe way to get a drink is to order a case in Montreal, take it down cellar, darken the windows, then make sure no person is around, and then leave it alone.

LEAVE KAISERS TO THEIR PEOPLES.
[Fortnightly Review.]

If the German peoples choose to continue in submission to the vulgar and insolent tyranny of the half-crazy Hohenzollerns, and if the agglomeration of races in the Austrian Empire prefers to remain under the rule of the feeble, vicious, and priest-ridden Hapsburgs, it is their affair, not ours. . . . As soon as the fear of invasion of physical violence is removed and the terrible price of military absolutism is realized by nations not deficient in knowledge or intelligence, the two emperors will probably be either cashiered or transformed into monarchs "limited and reduced." . . . There is only one policy that may possibly save the imperial dynasties of Central Europe, namely, the proclamation by the Entente Allies of an intention to depose them.

WHO IS THE JUDGE?
[Montreal Gazette.]

Four physicians have been fined at London for breaking the provisions of the Ontario law by giving too many prescriptions for liquor to patients. The number ran into hundreds, and created a suspicion that the patients liked the medicine they got. The question raised, nevertheless, is a somewhat delicate one. Is the physician or the magistrate the judge of how much treatment a sufferer needs to thoroughly ease his ailment.

WHAT FLAGS STAND FOR.
[Stratford Beacon.]

Two vaudeville artists appeared on the stage of a California theatre. Said one to the other, producing a French flag: "What does that stand for?"

"It stands for liberty, politeness and kindness."

Then, producing a British flag, he asked: "What does that stand for?"

"It stands for justice, liberty and equal rights to all."

Then, producing an American flag, he asked: "What does that stand for?"

"I do not know, but I do know that it has stood for a good deal in the last two years."

MIGHT FOLLOW IT HERE?
[Detroit Journal.]

We have a friend so calm nothing less than an axe would ruffle his disposition. He suggested to us the other day that the newspapers should put a damper on the public excitement. "Now if ever," he said, "the press could show its power by advising folks to keep their heads on straight."

Acting upon such good counsel, we do our little share by recommending an orderly pause, a placid mind, to all subscribers. The prescription may seem difficult seeing that the world is experiencing its greatest war, that our own nation is virtually at war, that a powerful dynasty has just fallen, another autocracy is wobbling a bit in the legs, the supreme court is charting a new governmental course and spring, long delayed, is coming in on the wings of the morning. Nevertheless, reverse your human nature and don't let your heart go thumping.

CLEAN THE WALLS BEFORE TINTING

COLORS LIABLE TO RUN

It Is Possible, However, to Apply Some "Tinters" Over Old Paper.

It is an actual fact that certain modern "tinters" can be successfully applied over old paper. It is done all the time over light colors. But the result is disastrous where dyes have been used to produce strong colors in the paper. These under colors run and mix with the tinter. Again, all tinted walls must be washed and thoroughly cleaned before retinting, otherwise the old tint will work up with the fresh one and give a muddy effect. But even if it is possible to get good artistic effect from tinting over old paper from a sanitary standpoint the practice is not a good one.

So important is the thorough cleansing of walls considered from a sanitary standpoint in some states of the American union, that it is compulsory to remove all old paper before repapering or otherwise redecorating walls.

According to a local dealer of experience extending over nearly twenty-five years in the wall paper and decoration business, "all old paper should be removed and the walls thoroughly washed and cracks or holes in the plaster filled with plaster of paris before being re-decorated. This is much more satisfactory to both the client and the decorator. For one thing, it is impossible to know the condition of the walls and ceiling underneath unless the paper is removed.

Again, a job cannot be guaranteed that is done over old paper which may come loose. All tinting must be removed from a wall about to be papered, otherwise the paper will not adhere."

Of recent years tinting the ceiling of rooms where good paper is used for the walls has become the rule. The ceiling is first papered with a "lining," after which the tinting is applied. The advantage of this is that there are no joints in the ceiling finish as would be the case with paper.

One reason for the popularity of tinting at present is that it is somewhat less expensive than papering. Less time is required to apply it. This, however, is not the case in tinting ceilings of rooms, where high grade paper is used for the walls. The process here is a double one, lining paper first applied, then the tinting afterwards.

FAMINE'S EFFECTS.

If famine in the sense of destruction of great masses of people has not yet arrived, it is certain that a substantial deterioration of vitality is threatened in all the countries save, perhaps, Russia. Children are especially susceptible to insufficient feeding, and the devitalizing of women is even more costly sacrifice. If in the present generation the effects are not obvious owing to the fact that the fittest will survive, the next generation is certain to show an unfortunate deterioration. How much damage already has been done we cannot estimate, although we know that tuberculosis has increased in both France and Germany to an alarming extent. But if the war continues much longer the effect upon the white races of Europe will be serious. If, as many believe, a great conflict is some day to be fought between the white races and the yellow, between the west and the east, an impaired vitality among the occidental peoples may prove to be the decisive factor. In any case, whether in war or peace, the ills of a weakened vitality will increase the heavy burden which civilization carries.

GLORIOUS FESTIVAL TO COMPLETE SEASON OF MUSICAL ART SOCIETY

MOST UNUSUAL TREAT

When nearly a year ago the directors of the Musical Art Society announced the program which had been planned and which will be completed on May 1 and 2 in a glorious musical festival, there were some who doubted that a city the size of London could support so vast an undertaking, but from the opening concert in November, when one of the world's greatest artists sung her way into the hearts of the audience, the progress of the Musical Society has been one succession of artistic triumphs. Each concert has been voted more enjoyable than the previous one. This is as it ought to be and in the climax of the series, when three wonderful performances will be given in succession, the citizens of London will realize more than ever that this city is making a place for itself as a centre of refinement and culture.

Naturally most interest in the coming concerts is being centred on the appearances of the Russian Symphony Orchestra. Although it is the youngest of the great symphony orchestras in America, it has outstripped all the others in the development which it has shown during the fourteen years that it has been in existence. Importance may be attached to the fact that at the outbreak of the war most of the members who are reservists in the Russian army fully expected to return to fight for their native land, but were excused by the Russian military authorities on the ground that until the need was greater that they were rendering their country most valued service by their efforts to make known the wonderful music of Russia, which was almost unknown till the last decade.

Famous Compositions.

The programs here will include compositions by Moussorgsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff, Tschaikowsky, Liadow, Ilyinski, Cui, Ippolitoff and other Russian composers, many of whose names will shortly take the place of those of the German school which have for so long monopolized our concert programs. These concerts will provide a liberal education in Russian music played as it ought to be.

The Musical Art Choir will be heard in Handel's martial oratorio, "Judas Maccabaeus," which was written to celebrate the victory of the Duke of Cumberland at Culloden. The spirit of grief, of struggle, of victory are all embodied in this work, and when the great chorus and orchestra join in the thrilling strains of "See, the Conquering Hero Comes," the thoughts of all will be carried to the day when our own boys come home victorious. No work could be more opportune than this immortal music drama.

Well-Known Artists.

In keeping with the policy that the best is not too good for London audiences, the soloists are all distinguished artists and all come to the city for the first time. Miss Dora Gibson, the great English dramatic soprano of the Covent Garden Opera Company, Miss Virginia Shaffer of the Chicago Opera Company, whom critics compare with Mme. Schuman Heink; Mr. George Harris Jun., the favorite pupil and accompanist of Jean de Reske, and one of the most popular American tenors, and Mr. Edgar Schofield of the Boston Opera Company, one of the few American basses to make a success on the English stage. Mr. Schofield's concerts in Covent Garden and at Queen's Hall have stamped him as one of the great artists of the present day. This quartet is superior to any other quartet appearing in London.

Festival Chorus.

And last but not least, London is again to hear its boys and girls under the baton of Mr. E. G. Quantz, when the public school children's festival chorus will present Matthews Slave's Dream for tenor solo, chorus and orchestra. It will be a novel experience for the "kiddies" to have one of the finest symphony orchestras to accompany them and an education as well.

Already application for seats and for information are coming from the surrounding points, and London will doubtless be the "mecca" for all the musical enthusiasts of the western part of Ontario on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 1 and 2. Come to London for the biggest musical treat in the Dominion.

GREAT PART PLAYED BY THE ENGINEERS IN THE GREAT WAR

Their Task at the Front Little Understood.

OF TWO-FOLD NATURE

Men Are Trained in the Technical Duties and Receive Military Training.

Canada's army in this great offensive has written a wonderful page in Canadian history, and no small part of this is due to the Canadian Engineers. A huge army steadily advancing, such as ours is at present, necessitates a stupendous amount of engineering work. This is the splendid task that the Canadian Engineers are trained for, and are now accomplishing with such splendid results.

The status of the Canadian Engineers is, however, often misunderstood in Canada. The sapper, as a private in the Engineers is called, gets the necessary training before he goes to the front, to enable him to be a supervisor of and a consultant for work that is to be done. The work itself is carried out under his instruction by parties drawn from other units. A returned Canadian Engineer officer says:

"I have not yet found any one in Canada, not a returned soldier, who knows the status of the Engineer in France. It is a mistaken idea that the sapper in France does the actual work involved in construction of trenches, roads, etc. The sapper in France has no time for that. All he can do is to guide and instruct working parties from infantry and other units. One sapper will have the handling of from 50 to 100 men nearly every day of his life. A field company may be handling in working parties drawn from other units up to 1,500 men in a night at two or three assembly points. The sappers are there as consulting engineers, to lay out the work, to set the task and report on the amount of work done by the working parties under his direction, and to report whether this work is satisfactory. If the sapper's report shows that working parties have not done what they should have done, then division headquarters brings pressure to bear so that the unit that supplied that working party will not have such a thing occur again."

This makes it quite plain that the Canadian Engineers are not diggers of trenches, etc., but supervisors of such work which is done by working parties from other units. The same thing holds as regards road-building and the many other forms of construction and engineering work carried on by the Canadian Engineers in France.

The tradesmen in the Engineers, such as harness-makers, blacksmiths, carpenters, framers, bricklayers, masons, electricians, engineers, machinists, plumbers, painters and others such as teamsters, linemen, etc., will practice their various trades or supervise working parties in their trades.

The Canadian Engineers training depot is at St. Johns, Quebec, in wintertime, and at Valcartier Camp in summer. The length of time spent at the training depot depends upon the progress made, but usually after from two to three months members will be ready to proceed overseas.

The nature of the Canadian Engineers' work in France is such that they carry on their operations from the sea-coast to the firing line. Moving as they do from place to place, theirs is the opportunity to see and experience the many huge undertakings that this struggle entails. It is this, among other things, that makes the Canadian Engineers a most enviable unit to belong to. It is attracting numbers of young men, too, because the experience that one gets at the front makes him a much more valuable man in his particular trade after the war is over.

Great numbers of young men from this district have enlisted in the Canadian Engineers. Major R. W. Bishop, Wolseley Barracks, London, Ont., is in charge, and it is largely due to his wise supervision and management that the Canadian Engineers has been such an attraction to prospective soldiers in this vicinity.

THE MINISTRY OF NEWSPAPERS.

[Methodist Recorder.]

"It is by the ministry of the newspapers that the nation is united, informed, summoned, and led."

"So many people take the newspaper for granted, they never think what the sheet is doing for them, or for the land we love. The universality of the newspaper is the sign of its vast utility. The development does not rest merely on a craving for the distraction of news; it is less so now than ever, though the news today is beyond anything in the history of the world.

"At bottom, the craving is the will to live in realities. That is why newspapers should be clean, never playing a mere game. If we do not live now in the realities, we may never recover our hold of them. No matter what bread costs, we must know a little of where the world is."

COONS BLOCKED DRAIN

Crawled Half Mile Through Pipe, Only to Meet Death.

WABASH, April 20.—A Wabash farmer, Wallace Burwell, had a peculiar experience this week in connection with one of his tile drains.

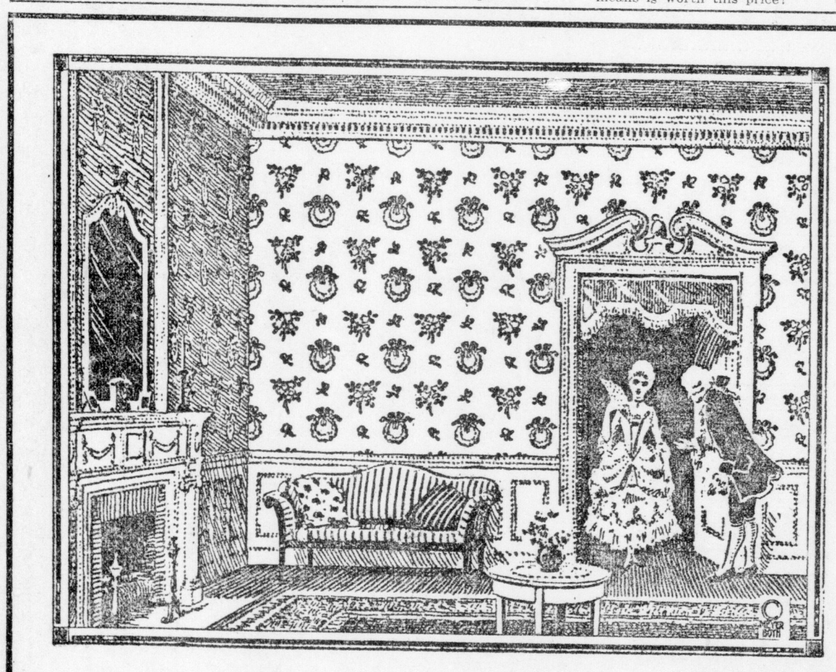

At a certain spot he noticed that the water instead of being carried off was bubbling up over the surface. In order to find the cause of this he dug down and took out about a dozen tile, when he found two large dead coons lying at full length in the drain.

They had crawled from the opening at the creek to a distance of about half a mile through six-inch tile, and on coming to where five-inch tile were placed they were prevented from going any farther. They were no doubt unable to squeeze through the smaller tile and thus were imprisoned.

THE HUN MOURNS HIS LOST CAKES

[Berlin Vossiche Zeitung.]

Oh! ye ancient cake-glories, whither have ye flown? Where, oh! where are those sweet objects of our hearts' longing, the cream puffs, the great turban pasties, the chocolate and whipped cream tarts that melt in the mouth, the raisin and almond "hearts," the punch-tarts, the cheese-cakes, the pancakes filled with jam, the "love bones," rock-macaroons, almond horns, "pigs' ears," "bee-stings," "Napoleon sandwiches," and so many more of the tribe that used to exercise their alluring spell over us every afternoon at our favorite resort? Henceforth we shall be restricted to one sole variety of cake, and that, too, at the price of fourpence apiece! Many there are among us, respectable and dignified sweet-toothed ones, who are actually asking themselves if the war and all it means is worth this price?

THE BERLIN-BAGDAD SNAKE

ALAS! MY POOR DEAR SNAKE IS DEAD."

The kaiser's dream of a German railway running from Berlin to Bagdad and thus securing for Germany domination in the East has been hopelessly shattered by the capture of Bagdad by the Anglo-Indian army under General Maude. In this cartoon Raemaekers has symbolized the kaiser as a Turkish magician mourning the loss of his favorite snake.—(Copyright, Canada, 1917, by the Public Ledger Company.)

Germany's Terrible Creed and Britain's Ideals

The following eloquent tribute is taken from a sermon by Professor Robert Law, contained in a book of sermons published by McClelland, Goodchild & Stuart, and dedicated to his three soldier sons, Robert, Ralph and Ronald. His subject is "Politics According to Christ":

Here, then, is the basal political principle upon which men and nations must act if they would acquire the enduring reality and not the empty phantom of power: Men are governed by love; the path to power is service; the true rulers of the world must ever be those men and those peoples that show most of the will and the capacity to serve.

That is the Christian ideal, and, while the nations have come short of it, it is because one of them has adopted the opposite ideal that the world is plunged into this devastating strife. Germany stands deliberately today as the incarnation of government by fear. Her aim has been to make herself formidable, to inspire terror, and, in the words of her prophet, Nietzsche, to "live dangerously." What we are fighting is really a creed of arms, a philosophy, a theory of life that has poisoned the wells of German civilization. Germany has been in the past one of the great servant-nations. The people that gave us Bach and Beethoven, Goethe, Kant, Schleiermacher and all the host of scholars and scientists whose marvelously patient and unselfish labors have so enriched the world, the Germany that produced such men and regarded them as its national heroes, we can never cease to reverence. But modern Germany has gone after false gods. A philosophy of life that is aggressively anti-Christian has been ardently embraced, in all its practical consequences at least, by the Prussian war lords, and has filtered down into the minds of the multitude. The divine doctrine of love, the Christian ideals of pity, service and self-sacrifice, it proclaims to be the greatest of delusions, and the most fatal of hindrances to human progress, a slave-religion devised by the weak and helpless for their own protection. Men are to deny the will to serve and to assert the will to power. Pity is not humanity, but a crime against humanity. The great man is not he who is in sympathy with his fellows, but the ruthless man who can inflict the greatest suffering without heeding the cries of his victim. Men are governed by fear: that is the creed of German militarism, and one result already secured by the war is the damnation of this creed by facts. Why is it that in all the civilized world Germany has not an ally except the Turk, that not one nation has lifted up a voice in her behalf? It is because Germany has chosen to live dangerously. Why is it that all her calculations have gone awry? Why is it that Belgium refused her passage? that the revolt in India and Egypt and South Africa she counted upon practically failed to happen? that on the contrary the Boers and the people of India have so splendidly rallied to the aid of the Motherland? Because they knew how the military potentates of Germany lord it over Germans themselves, and what the German doctrine of ruthlessness means for the weaker nations. Why is it that the Allies are so utterly resolved to fight this war to their last breath? It is because Germany has made herself to be so much feared by all peace-loving, freedom-loving men, because her victory would rivet upon Europe the chains of a military despotism the most crushing the world has ever seen. Germany has trusted in the power of fear; and already she knows, when she sees the whole world in moral alliance against her, and contrasts with her own friendless condition the marvelous unity of our Empire, an empire held together by little else than the silken cords of love—she knows, or at least must learn, that Christ's is the eternal truth, and that antichrist is doomed.

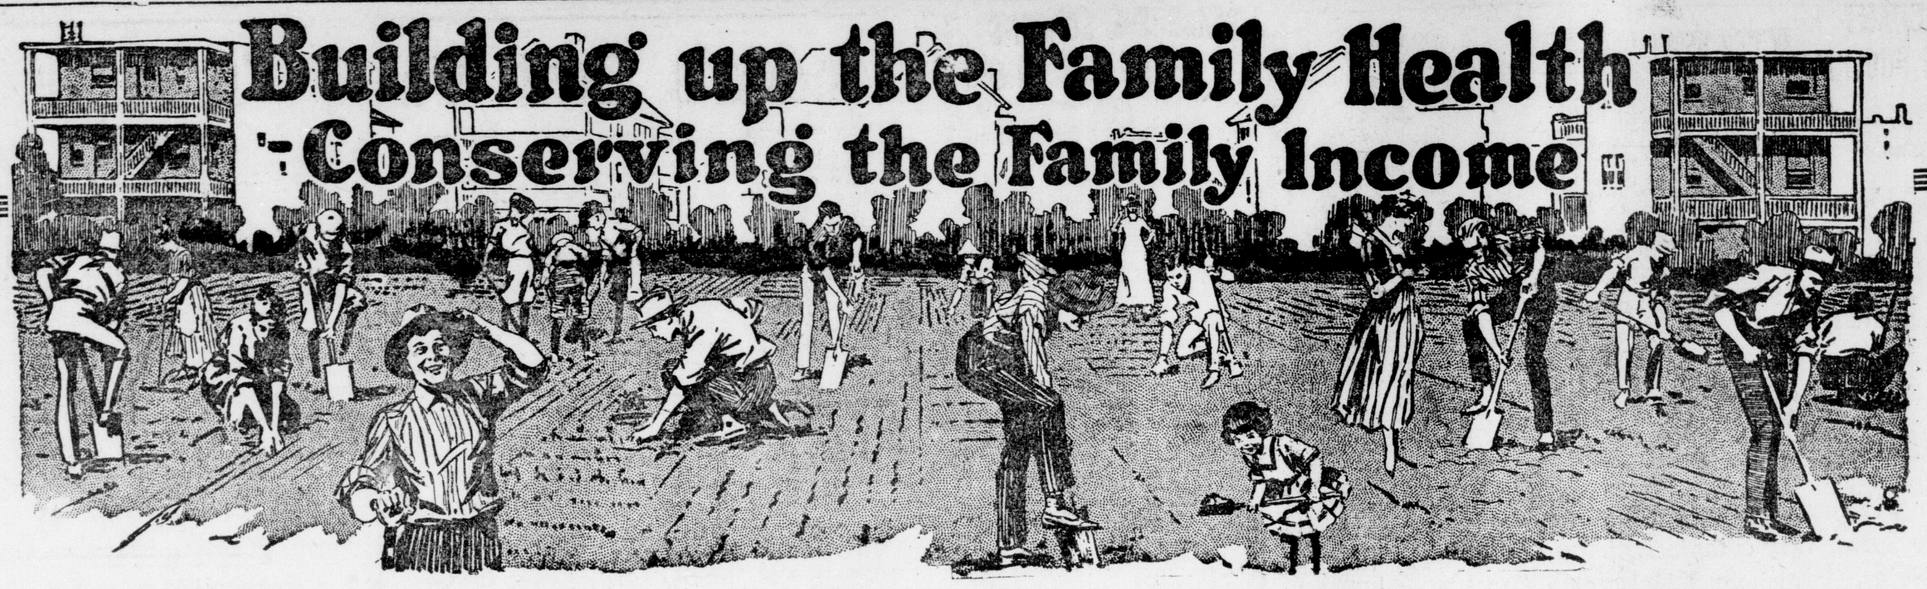

But while it is true Germany has chosen to stand for the falsehood of the magisterial principle, that power belongs to the "mailed fist" and to the nation that "lives dangerously," can we with truth say that our own Empire stands for the truth of the ministerial principle that the source of power is service? There is nothing in our record of which we can speak boastfully—there is many a blot upon it; yet in this thing, we may humbly say, lies Britain's truest title to greatness. She has served humanity as no other people has been privileged to do. Far indeed from having attained to the Christian ideal of empire, either at home or abroad, yet more and more consciously and resolutely Britain has set her face toward that ideal. To whichever of her dependencies you may look—India, Egypt, the Sudan, Uganda, Nigeria—you find her coming, not to steal and to kill and destroy, but to bring life more abundantly; not to enslave, but to liberate; to bring out of confusion, order; instead of oppression, justice; instead of danger and fear, security; to shepherd her many flocks in the path of material and moral progress. To this noble task she has devoted the flower of her manhood. And when I think how at home and in her colonies the British nation, with all its slowness of movement, has been seeking to follow the higher ideals of national life, the amelioration of the lot of the weak and the poor, the more equal distribution of opportunity to all, as well as what it has done and is doing abroad to impart the blessings of civilization and Christianity to the more backward races, I cannot but claim that with all its defects and failures, our Empire is the most widely beneficent of all secular institutions in the world today. And I am filled with humble confidence for the future. Britain's sun cannot set until Britain's work is done; and God has yet a great work for us to do. And if we are obedient to his call, if ours be the will to serve, if we baptise our gifts in the spirit of Christ, he will not remove us from our place, but will still lead us in the van of the nations, and still lay upon us "the white man's burden," the spiritual leadership of the world. Firmly trusting in him whose work we are here to do, let us be strong and of a good courage while we take up the awful burden of our present cross, the "Arduous strife, the eternal law,

To which the triumph of all good is given."

[New York Tribune.]

"Armed neutrality" will normally be succeeded by "acts of war," "acts of war" by a "state of war," and "a state of war" by war itself. "Drifting into war" is the figure of speech most constantly used in Washington to describe what is happening to this country. It is on all lips. Even members of the Administration use it—to state a fact, not to criticise a policy. Fault-finders alter it into being 'dragged into war" or being "kicked into war" by Germany. But a satirist revised it after listening to the debate in the House today by saying Congress was for "crawling into war."

HOW ONE MERCHANT PLEASES THE PUBLIC

"Shiner's Dress Suit" Applies Also to Store.

BELIEVES IN BRIGHTNESS

Keeps His Place of Business Shining Both Inside and Outside.

Brightening up the store front with paint is just like Skinner's Dress Suit. It is an effective means of making the public sit up and take notice, which is the beginning of business success.

Remember about Skinner? Or perhaps you haven't read him. Skinner was the shabby, plodding person of undoubted ability whom nobody noticed. Then he got a dress suit to accompany his wife to a certain festive event, and people suddenly awakened to the fact that he was good-looking, which also made him appear interesting.

Skinner was a person of real brains and merit. Following the dress suit episode, he did some hard thinking about the business asset of presenting a good appearance and otherwise putting one's best foot foremost. Skinner groomed himself for every day to correspond to the dress suit, and his firm discovered he had been hiding his light under a bushel. Of course, Skinner took the fortress of Dame Fortune by storm. That was a foregone conclusion.

The dress suit was the best investment Skinner ever made.

A Good Front Pays.

The paint which a merchant uses in making attractive his store front soon pays for itself a dozen times over. So does every improvement made upon the interior, provided it is preceded by careful figuring to determine the amount that can be legitimately invested.

A prominent Dundas street merchant, whose business has trebled, quadrupled, yes, and ever further multiplied in the past dozen odd years, is an enthusiastic advocate of the "smiling, shining front" principle as applied to his store.

"It has been my experience," he says, "that a bright, shiningly clean and attractive store front inspires the confidence of the public. It is taken as an index of the kind of business carried on inside. Bright, attractive people don't want to look for goods in a dingy place, and it cheers up gloomy people to find themselves in bright surroundings.

"I have been noticing that the paint front of my store is winter-stained in places. I'm going to have a fresh coat as soon as I can get the painters to do the work. I feel for the reputation of the firm. I can't let it go a month, let alone a season. The war interfered with business for a time, but I'm getting the benefit now of the extensive improvements I made prior to three years ago, and have been keeping up ever since.

Inside and Outside.

"I couldn't feel satisfied to make a good appearance outside and disappoint people with the interior of my store, even if I am able to give them the goods they want at the prices they would pay elsewhere. I have made it a rule to try as far as possible to keep the whole store in equally good condition throughout. I had the first floor done over thoroughly last year, walls cleaned and re-tinted, wood-work and furnishings touched up. I have had the third floor done over in the past few weeks and if things keep on going well, I will probably be able to have the second floor done before autumn.

"I am canny enough to count the cost before I start, but so far as I can afford redecorating within reason, I consider it a safe and sound investment and also an indispensable one.

"There is a still further argument for keeping a store bright and sanitary because of the effect it has on the clerks. Naturally, it is beneficial to their health to be employed in a clean, bright, cheerful, well-ventilated place. I notice they take an interest in keeping their departments orderly and attractive. They try to live up to the dignity of their environment. I have seen girls come in to work who were bright, but inclined to be slangy and careless in their manners. It wasn't long before they began to take notice of the conduct of clerks of longer standing, and to improve themselves accordingly. Customers like to be treated with courtesy and consideration, whether they buy or not, and this is an obligation which devolves upon a store putting up a good front and trying to live up to the standard set by shining windows, fresh paint and clean mosaic entrance floor."

THERE'S A DUTY FOR EVERYONE.

[People's Journal, Dundee.]

Today our duty is, whatever be our rank or our calling, to make every sacrifice we can in the cause. Victory is not far off; every day brings it nearer. Is it money we can loan to our country—half a million pounds or merely half a sovereign, according to our means? Is it service on the land, in the factory, or in an office? Can we tend the wounded, can minister to the anguished? Is it in our power to cut off this or that little luxury, or what we had thought to be a necessity of our lives? Is it anything whatever we feel we can do to bring a successful peace nearer by a day, an hour, or a minute? Whatever it is we can do, in the name of humanity do it. No need to talk of the Empire, or the blessings of peace, or of many other great truths. Think of our soldiers in the frozen plains of France, of our seamen in the wintry seas, of the millions of our brothers and our sisters across the world who will know no real rest or security until our cause is secured. Think of them; on bended knee pray for them, and God knows you will do your bit.

THE GARDEN CRAZE IS HEALTHY.

[Pictou Advocate.]

On the sunny side of a barn on Prince street one day this week, there sat two Pictou suburbanites, deep in the pages of a seed catalogue. They were all aglow with enthusiasm and ambition and they were picking out, with the greatest care, the varieties of seeds they were going to purchase. The prospective buyer of an automobile never derived more pleasure from the advertisement of his favorite car than did these two "buffers" from the pictures and descriptions of giant tomatoes and early beans.

In their employment on that sunny afternoon and in the zeal which they gave to it these two men were typical of hundreds of Canadian men and women. The amateur gardener has come into his own in these days of war and high prices. He can no longer be stung with the taunt that his vegetables cost him more than he could buy them for in the market. Even the plebeian spud, which will grow in almost any soil if the planter will only give two or three hoeings to his crop, promises to become a remunerative investment. Anybody can grow string beans, peas, tomatoes or lettuce and a space as big as an ordinary dining-room table will suffice for an abundant crop of any one of them.

The chief requisites for successful gardening for the suburban dweller or the town man with a sunny back yard are fertilizer, patience, and "elbow grease."

LLOYD GEORGE'S "LAZINESS."

[The New Europe, London.]

Lloyd George's critics say of him that he is the "laziest" minister on record, and that he cannot be got to work. This merely implies that he refuses to wear away his strength by performing punctiliously all the routine duties of a departmental chief; that red tape has no attractions for him, and that dispatch boxes do not strike awe into his soul. He has been known to "idle away" hours on important days in thinking out the fundamentals of a given problem, and in discussing them with unofficial acquaintances, instead of "working" in his department. Thanks to his "laziness," he is almost the only minister who has solved the problem of being at once a member of the Government and an independent mind. His long years of office have scarcely dulled the freshness of his outlook, and, despite the keen anxiety which he has felt about the progress of the war, he is probably less jaded than many unofficial members of Parliament. All this should tend towards vigor and comprehension, clearness of decision and rapidity of action.

PLACE THE SCREENS BEFORE FLY COMES

Health Officer Gives Citizens Valuable Hints.

CLEAN THE BACKYARD

Campaign Now in Progress to Get Rid of Outhouses.

"The only reason the people of London escape fly typhoid is because we haven't the typhoid to start with here," was the statement made to The Advertiser a few days ago by Dr. H. W. Hill, medical officer of health for the city.

The obvious moral is banish the fly and with it the epidemics which the ruthless insect spreads.

Apart from the aesthetic value of a general spring clean-up for the city, the one special reason which the practical medical officer recognizes for such a drastic (?) measure, is to remove all breeding and foregathering places for germ-bearing, disease-carrying flies.

May-time may be spring-time, the pretty ring-time, flower-time and romance-time, but it is also the beginning of fly-time. So is the end of April for that matter, provided the weather is warm enough to make frost-nipped wings an impossibility.

The psychological moment to aim an effective blow at the festive fly is immediately, before he has had time to gather together his forces for the grand summer campaign against humanity.

The usual breeding-place of the species is the manure heap, hence the necessity for enforcement of the regulations of the provincial board of health of Ontario respecting proper receptacles for and removal and disposal of manure. These regulations which apply to London read as follows:

1. In cities, towns and villages, no more than two loads of manure shall be allowed to accumulate.

2. All manure shall be kept inclosed in a fly-proof receptacle. All manure shall be removed from the receptacle and properly disposed of at least once a week between the first of May and the first of November.

Permanent "Clean-Up" Needed.

Along the lines of a spring, and in this case permanent clean-up for London, Dr. Hill is engaged at present in a grand campaign against the out-door toilets.

"London has some 12,000 or 14,000 families," he states in explanation of his swat the fly crusade. "Of these 6,000 or 7,000 families have out-door toilets. London isn't a city at all, but a country village in this respect. Where not properly fly-proofed, these toilets are a serious menace to public health. Our campaign is directed against these danger centres in an area from Oxford street south to the river and from Adelaide street west. Outside the sewer zone, we investigate cases reported to us and see that action is taken to improve conditions. It is disgusting to think of the filth which we eat with food touched by flies, filth carried from these out-door toilets which are non-fly proof.

"The trail of the fly from the garbage can to food exposed for sale, or inadvertently left uncovered by the housewife, isn't an especially inviting subject to ruminate upon.

"Where a crack is left open in the garbage can or a bit of food or peel or juicy bone dropped overboard, there the flies can be relied upon to hold a party. Given twelve days, a little bit of garbage overlooked in the grass can be responsible for whole battalions of flies."

Coupled with the recommendation to clean up early is the warning to "screen-up" betimes.

Screen-Up, Too.

Don't wait till the flies are nosing about in an apologetic, early-season manner in the kitchen, alighting experimentally in the pantry or taking a survey of the dining-room.

Order those screen doors and windows or yards of mosquito netting at once.

Having swept and polished and garnished the house to bring it into harmony with the freshness of the out-doors world in spring, protect its cleanness and sweetness. Don't allow the last state of that house to be worse than the first state because of open doors for a fly visitation.

Clean up, screen up. Protect the health of your own family and thus help to raise the standard of public health in London.

AIRY FAIRY TROUBLES.

Two girls in a street car were in animated conversation.

"Whatcher gona wear?"

"My striped skirt."

"What else?"

"My pink shirtwaist."

"Gona wear a hair ribbon?"

"I dunno. Are you?"

"I will if you do."

"I ain't certain."

"I ain't either."

"I think I'll ask ma."

"I'll ask my ma too."

"Got a red hair ribbon?"

"Uh huh."

"I have, too."

"Gonna wear it?"

"I dunno."

"You wear yourn and I'll wear mine."

"Awright."

One man in the seat behind the girls turned wearily to his companion.

[London Daily Chronicle.]

The situation, indeed, is, in the deepest sense of the word, desperate. Every item of information reaching Holland on Germany's situation increases anxiety here, for it is being asked how ling Germany can continue in her present state, knowing that in Holland there is plenty, and even luxury. Moreover, much of this smoldering and occasional bursting into flame of hunger and desperation is actually taking place at points which can almost be seen from Dutch territory. Indeed, there is growing up here the opinion that Germany is really seeking an occasion to break with Holland in order to take whatever chance there may be of getting food by some sudden descent.

WHITEWASH FIRST, THEN WALL PAPER

How Advertising Changes Housewife's Customs.

NEW FINISH ON MARKET

Tons of New Article Being Used as Result of the Publicity Given.

"We'll give it a coat of whitewash."

That was grandmother's final way in grandmother's day of making the kitchen bright and sweet and clean at housecleaning time. The cellar, the henhouse and the backyard fence were frequently fortunate enough to enjoy the same rejuvenating process. Then came a step in advance—kalsomine, in a variety of tones, elegant enough for any room in the house, barring, perhaps, the best "parlor."

After that, there was a reaction in favor of paper until the past four or five years, during which tinting of walls has again come into vogue.

Does it pay to advertise? Ask the manufacturers who turns out tons of a standard brand of wall finish. He is the man who puts up the article that is to accomplish the transformation process, but it is the wily advertising person who has created the demand in the first place on the part of the public.

Then Mrs. So-and-So, who has read about it until she has fairly ached to use it, tries, and finds it up to representations. She recommends it to Mrs. B., and Mrs. B. is so enthusiastic she can't wait till a paperhanger or painter is free to do the job. She does it herself with marked success. She does everything that way. Then she tells Carrie C., and Carrie C. tells her mother and her sister-in-law, and soon the whole family connection of Carrie C. is engaged on an energetic house-tinting campaign. Carrie's aunt discovers that the particular brand of tinter works like a charm over her old bedroom paper, and sets half a dozen others a-tinting their walls, because it is so much simpler than going to all the trouble of having the same walls scraped before they are done over.

Carrie C. has imagination, and a bent for literature. To hear her talk about the wall-tinter Mrs. So-and-So discovered through whole libraries of advertising is like listening to a poem on sunset. It becomes a noble, uplifting and soulful thing to manufacture, advertise and use or engage to be used a tinter so aesthetic in its effect upon room to which it is applied.

"It is so wonderful, the discoveries that are being made," says Carrie. She doesn't care a bit whether the room has been done plain or stenciled. The perfect, soft, even color is the thing.

Carrie feels proprietary every time she sees a full-page, colored advertisement of her "discovery" by tinting. So do all the others who have tested its merits and have been enamored of the results.

Once upon a time, the paper on the wall was wall paper, and nothing more. It served the purpose of a covering, and was chosen for its own "intrinsic worth," without much regard for its relation to the room as a whole and the furnishings thereof.

A leading London dealer in wall paper, paints and kindred merchandise the other day commented upon the more general appreciation of artistic values on the part of the public in recent years, the higher standard of taste.

He attributed this to education along the lines of household art in the schools, and the methods adopted by manufacturers and merchants to bring their wares to the attention of prospective customers.

The artist is called to the assistance of the salespeople. The artist fits up a room, or, perchance, a whole interior of a house, in order to demonstrate what can be accomplished in the way of achieving harmony through the right choice of colors, fabrics, and suitable furniture. The woman who is not quite sure of the correctness of her own taste has this as a guide, or she can call to her assistance the advice of the expert.

Advertising has done its important share in the educational campaign.

Pictures of rooms and suites of rooms attract attention in pages of newspapers and magazines, while catalogues and circulars are literally teeming with helpful suggestions. Even the colleges are dividing attention between "food values" and "household art."

Given a moderate amount of money to expend, there isn't any longer excuse for making serious artistic errors in the decoration and furnishing of a home.

To get back to the wall paper or other wall finishing chosen, the education in household art has awakened an appreciation of the fact that when a room is well decorated it is half-furnished. The walls and ceiling are not only the frame of the picture, but an integral part of the picture itself, hence the importance of choosing or adapting the rug, furniture and hangings, which will harmonize with the decoration or strike a relief note. Where only new wall decoration and touching up of the woodwork can be afforded, such care must be exercised in choice that the old furniture and rug will appear to still better advantage against the new background. The modern home-maker has the advantage over the one of former days in the advice of experts employed by the firms with which she deals, and the assistance offered by catalogues, pamphlets, advertising circulars, articles in newspapers and magazines and college bulletins.

WHAT IS LOVE?

[Journal of Commerce.]

A New Orleans paper offered prizes for the best answers to the question, "What is love?" There were 23,761 persons who thought they could answer it, but the first prize went to an Alabama woman, who wrote: "Love is the doorway through which the human soul passes from selfishness into service, and from solitude into kinship with all humanity." The second prize was given for this offering: "Love is a chisel that carves into soft outlines the graphite block of stern reality." The sentiment: "Love is what makes red hair golden, white hair silver, and no hair a noble brow," won third prize.

The Home Beautiful

HOME—YOUR HOME—the haven of rest and contentment for you and your family, can only be the "Home Beautiful" when it really is YOUR home—one that you actually own.

Paying rent always carries with it a dread of uncertainty which mars that complete enjoyment absolutely necessary to happiness.

And why don't you own your own home? Surely you will not be foolish enough to try to excuse yourself by saying that it isn't your fault.

In these days of modern finance anyone who has a backbone instead of a wishbone can own a home. A small down payment on your home will let you move into the place that suits you.

Just for a moment pause and turn to the Want Ad pages of The Advertiser and read there the "HOUSES FOR SALE" column. Call up the builder or broker who is advertising the particular property that strikes your fancy and explain your circumstances. He will work out a plan for you to buy it "on time" so quick it will make your head spin.

[New York Evening Sun.]

In war time it was the custom among peoples claiming to be civilized to minister to wounded enemies. That is, until the coming of Kultur into the world, kultured from such sentimentality.

Certain German-American minds are thoroughly saturated with Kultur.

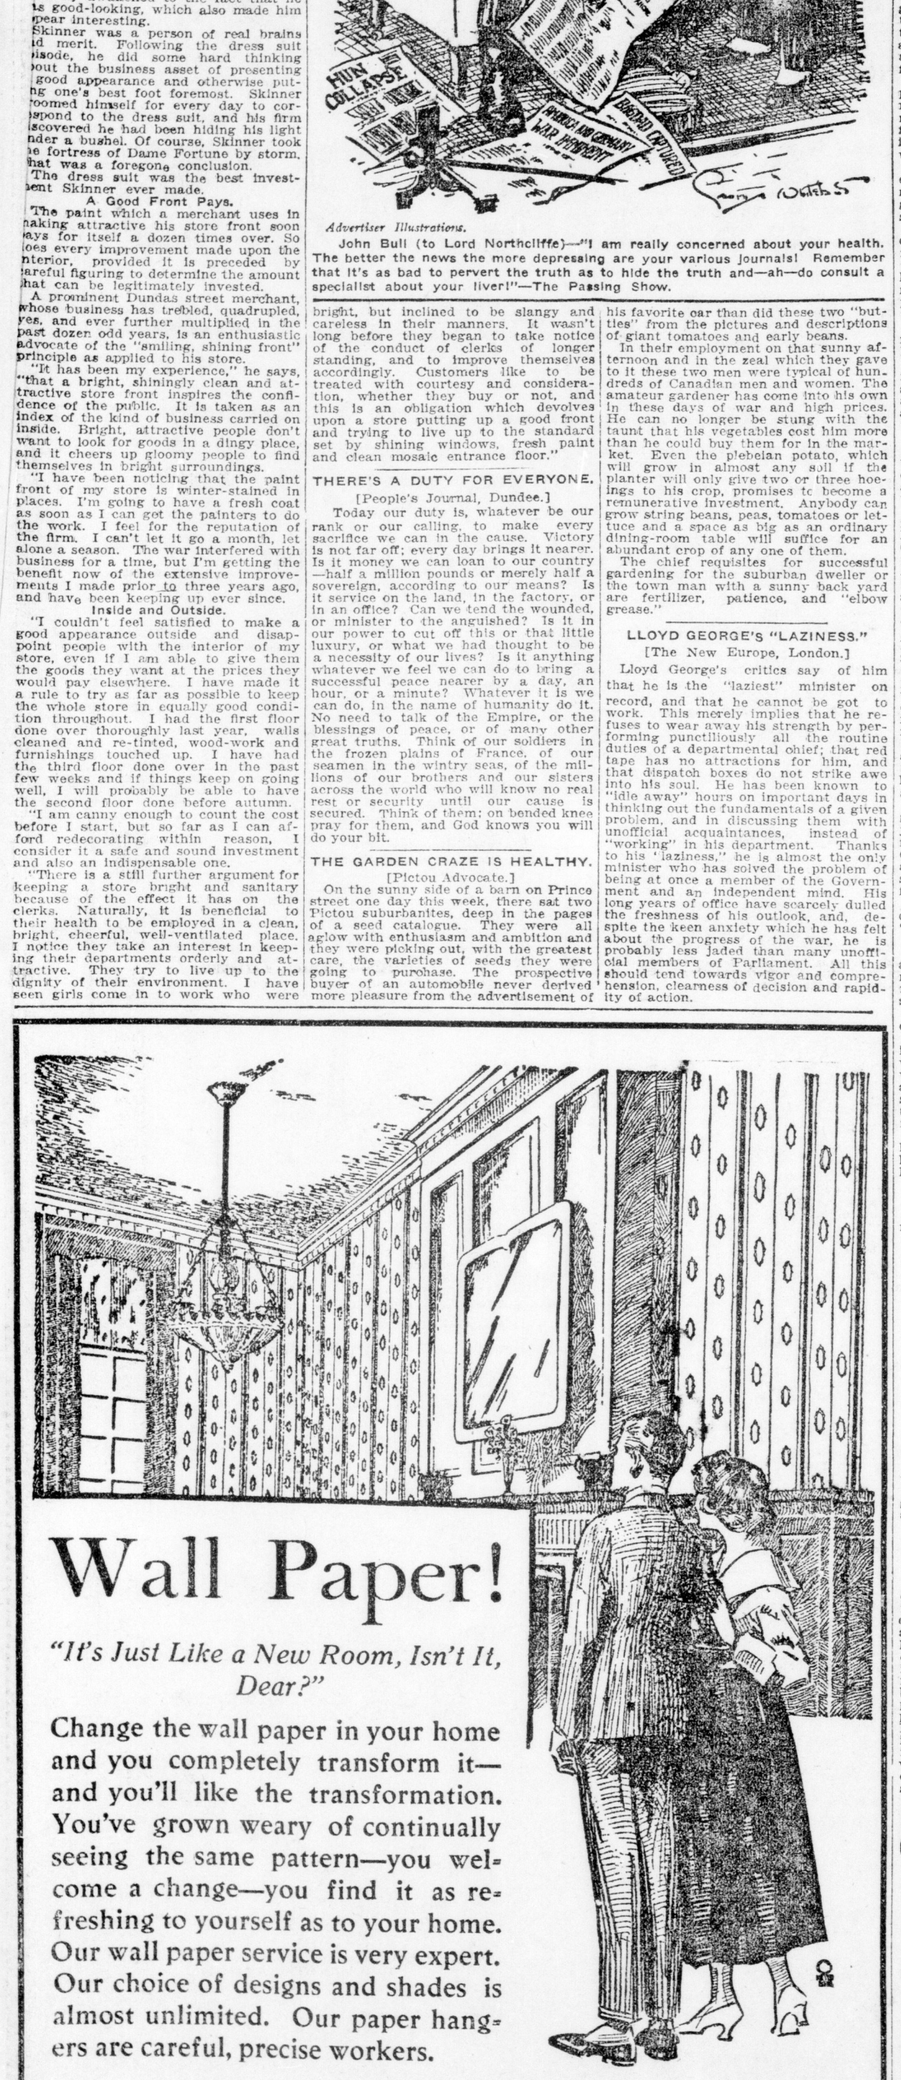

Albert Staub, director of the Atlantic division of the American Red Cross, addressing a Philadelphia branch of the organization the other day, gave a warning against German agents who had insinuated themselves into the Red Cross for the purpose of filling bandages with ground glass, which would cause suppurating wounds. Mr. Staub says:

"In one town I knew of a certain woman, a leader in social activities, who made more bandages than any other member of the branch. Her work was so neat that she was pointed out as a model. We got more supplies from this town than from any other of its size in the state. By chance several of these bandages were opened and ground glass was discovered in them. An investigation showed that this woman had German connections."

The cold-blooded malignancy of such actions passes beyond anything that had been conceived of as possible until Kultur made its appearance in the world. No comment that could be made could heighten the horror felt by every really human creature at the bare recital of the fact itself.

SOUNDS BELGIANS' PLEA.

CHOCOLATTA

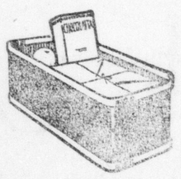

contains the chocolate, milk and sugar in powdered form

Add boiling water and serve

for Breakfast—

Time saved in the morning often means the difference between comfort and rush. Chocolatta is the quickest drink to serve, for all it needs is boiling water. It has all the nourishment of pure chocolate to which is added milk and sugar in powdered form.

for Lunches—

Chocolatta is comforting and warming. It is to be greatly preferred to cold tea, which is a far from palatable drink in zero weather. A tin of Chocolatta takes up little room in the lunch box, and with the addition of boiling water makes an instant and nourishing drink.

in the Trenches—

It isn't necessary to speak of the advantages of an instant drink such as Chocolatta. One officer wrote home and said: "All the chaps who sampled my tin said it was 'top-hole,' and asked where they could buy it."

Include a tin or two in your next parcel to the front and make somebody happy.

THE NUTRIENT FOOD COMPANY, TORONTO, CANADA.

PURE FOOD SHOW OPENS TODAY

Princess Winter Garden Is Tastily Decorated for the Event.

EXHIBITORS ALL READY

Grocers Expect Big Crowds to Patronize the Second Annual Show.

The place to see your friends next week will be at the second annual pure food show, under the auspices of the London Retail Grocers' Association, which will be formally opened in the Princess Winter Garden at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening, April 23, by His Worship Mayor Stevenson.

This undoubtedly will be the popular rendezvous all week for the housewives of London and district who are making a serious study of thrift problems, and the obtaining of the purest and best food value for money expended. Moreover, home keepers are especially interested at the housecleaning time of year in the comparative value of cleaners. These will be shown in variety, with demonstrations of their merits.

The larger demand for space on the part of manufacturers of pure food and kindred products this year is the most convincing proof of increased interest in, and recognition of, the exhibition in the second year of its history. Not only will the walls of the immense building be entirely lined with booths, but it has been necessary for the committee in charge of arrangements to appropriate a part of the dancing floor space as well for the purpose of displaying exhibits.

In the imposing list of exhibitors are included well-known London names, and also prominent firms in New York, Montreal, Toronto, Chicago, Windsor and the far east provinces.

Cereals, prepared foods, choice breads, jellies and jelly powders, bacons, hams, shortenings, biscuits, candies, cleaners, marmalades, canned and preserved fruits, salad dressings, will vie with one another in the originality and novelty of the manner in which they are displayed. The proof of the pudding is undoubtedly in the eating, especially when it happens to be pure food, and with all the delectable nibbles offered for demonstration, there will be surely enough to make a varied meal before the grand tour has been completed of the auditorium. In some cases, a still further demonstration will be given of the entire process of manufacture.

Apart from the foods proper, the latest cooking devices, gas and electrical, will be displayed and demonstrated. And even at this, the end will not be reached of the variety of interest. Visitors to the Princess Winter Garden next week will find two shows in one offered for their edification, a pure food show and an automobile exhibition.

While Mrs. Housewife lingers inquiringly where she is obtaining a whole store of new ideas for the feeding of her family, Mrs. Housewife's husband will have an opportunity to improve his education in regard to the motor car, of which he is an owner, prospective buyer, or longing admirer. Breathes there a man with soul so dead or digestion so impaired that he is not interested in things to eat? And breathes there a woman in this automobile age who is not capable of being stirred to interest in a gasoline car of finish and style, such as she would be proud to own? Prospects are everybody will want to take in every section of the "two great shows in one."

A uniform plan of decoration of the show is being carried out, in which white and blue bunting will be conspicuously used, symbolic of the purity and reliability of the wares displayed and demonstrated. At the same time, there will be no monotony, owing to the fact that each booth will have the individual touches which please the fancy of the owners for the week.

The Princess orchestra will furnish enlivening music each afternoon and evening all show week, and each evening will be wound up with a dance. Secretary Harley and his associates are modest in their prophecies, but they admit the belief that those who come once will walk often during the week in the "Great White Way" of the pure food show.

McLAUGHLIN'S PATRICIAN CARS.

One of the larger exhibits undoubtedly destined to attract much attention at the Pure Food and Automobile Show, in the Princess Winter Garden all next week, is that of the McLaughlin Carriage Company. Located in a strategic position, immediately in front of the orchestra on the south side, a space with a fifty-foot frontage has been secured in which to display half a dozen of the fine art automobiles of which the firm boasts. Four colors are shown in the "45 Special," khaki, most patriotic; dust-defying grey; brewster green, one of the season's favorites, and the standard black. A classy roadster and one of the new four-cylinder cars, known as "Challenge," of the 1917 series, complete the attractive group, distinguished by grace of outline and beauty of finish. The booth itself is being tastefully decorated as a background for the patrician occupants.

During the Pure Food Show, "open house" will be kept at the mammoth showrooms of the McLaughlin Company on Richmond street, corner of Bathurst, and a special exhibit of cars is being arranged there for show-week visitors to the city. The warerooms will be open for inspection every evening next week, as well as during the day.

WAR OF ARTILLERY HACKNEYED PHRASE, BUT TELLS THE TALE

Phenomenal Guns Introduced Into Mobile Action.

MOVEMENT DRAIN ON MEN

[Canadian Press Correspondence By Stewart Lyon.]

It is only by spending a considerable time behind the battle front that the visitor to the war zone begins to understand the complicated machinery of modern war and learn why it is that Canada with four hundred thousand enlisted men is able to keep only about fifty thousand infantry soldiers in the trenches at any given time, and maintain the four divisions represented by these men at their full strength.

The Canadians at various times have held here and there parts of the western battle front ranging from a little over a mile on the Ypres salient during the fierce fighting of the spring of 1915, or the 6,000 yards maintained in June, 1916, by three divisions against the assaults of Germany's picked men, to perhaps twelve or fourteen miles during the Somme offensive last fall, when all four divisions were at some point of the front contemporaneously.

The result of the recruiting of four hundred thousand men in Canada is the holding of probably a little over a fortieth of the entire western front.

At a distance this may seem an altogether inadequate contribution in comparison to the effort made and the expenditure involved.

Big Organization.

This is not the view held by men out here who have been "through the mill" and know something of the problems of administration, supply, munitioning, and maintenance of communications—even in a friendly country—which are involved in modern warfare.

The reduction of strength from death in action and wounds is not likely to be less during the coming season's operations than in the past and the casualties recorded since war began must now be well over seventy thousand. This does not mean a net loss of seventy thousand in fighting strength, for many men are slightly wounded several times and still remain fit for service. Shell fire and bayonet wounds are the chief of the more serious wounds.

The bullet, when it does not kill makes a wound that is usually not difficult to heal. In a recent trench raid where rifle and machine gun fire caused most of the Canadian casualties, three-quarters of the wounds were slight and almost all the wounded will eventually return to duty.

The greatest loss in fighting power results from the new transportation and construction problems that have arisen from the introduction of great guns—formerly regarded as of use only in fixed positions or in warships—into field operations.

A War of Artillery.

"This is a war of artillery."

The phrase is on every tongue, but it is only out here that one understands what a war of artillery actually means. The first problem to be solved is road building. The French Government maintains a system of main roads known as "Routes National," but the roads by which the great guns reach their positions and are fed with projectiles are made and maintained by the armies that use the guns. There are tens of thousands of men not only near the front, but far back from it who fight, not with rifles against the Hun, but with picks and shovels, and stone crushers and consolidating machinery, against the mud that comes oozing up through roads first built by the Romans two thousand years ago and used daily ever since. White fighting men are so much needed at the front that both France and Great Britain are employing an ever increasing army of blacks from all parts of Africa in road making, particularly in quarrying and stone crushing. A Canadian officer has much to do with road making in the area in which his fellow countrymen operate.

Use of Light Railways.

The light railway has been used a lot by the Germans, somewhat less by the French, and till recently not nearly enough by the British and overseas troops. This backwardness is now being made good, and much railway work goes on all the time behind the lines. In this Canadians, who have just finished at home a tremendous railway construction program, and have their hands in, can be of great service to the Allied cause. It is doubtful if any system of roads would suffice to bring up the supplies and munitions used in a modern battle, timbers for trenches and dug-outs, small arms ammunition, food for thousands of men, and shells for the big guns can be handled far more expeditiously by light railway than by wagon. The railway is perhaps the more vulnerable to shell fire, but it is quickly repaired. Near the front material is brought up chiefly at night, and the darker the night the better.

Hosts for Clerical Work.

Besides the transportation branch in its manifold activities there are many others that reduce the number of actual combatants. In the war area there are thousands of men keeping books, docketing official papers, typewriting and doing general clerical work. It is hoped to reduce the number greatly by the employment of women volunteers from Great Britain. Many are offering for this work. It has been proposed that they drive motor cars also; but few women have the physical strength required for this on roads so badly cut up and congested as those of Northern France.

The examples here given indicate why only about one man in four fights while the other three fetch and carry for him, providing everything he needs, from fifteen-inch guns to carrier pigeons.

With the weapons and the material supplied the man at the front on a busy day makes a combination of noises, like thunder, bridge builders rivetting (machine guns), and, if shells are coming freely toward you—an express train passing through a station. LYON.

HOLMES & POPHAM TO OPEN NEW STORE AT 190 DUNDAS ST.

Will Handle Books, Stationery and Fine Leather Goods.

HAVE WIDE EXPERIENCE

Wendell Holmes Has Built Up a Big Business Here.

Winning and holding the confidence of the public has been one of the important secrets of the success met by Wendell Holmes, a prominent young London businessman, in building up one of the leading book and stationery retail trades in Western Ontario.

Early in May, the firm of Holmes & Popham, dealers in books, stationery and fine leather goods, will throw open its doors to the public at 190 Dundas street, opposite The Advertiser, successor to Wendell Holmes of 150 Dundas street.

Every little move in business has a meaning all its own, and the move on the part of Mr. Holmes a block or so east, coupled with the forming of a partnership, is the sequel to business development within six months, remarkable even in a city that has been striding ahead commercially in seven-league boots.

Had Fine Training.

Nine years ago Wendell Holmes came to the city from Toronto, and opened a small book and stationery business on Dundas street, east of Wellington. He had received a thorough training in the two unimpeachable preparatory schools, in the Methodist Book and Publishing Company, and in the leather and stationery department of Ryrie's, of which he was latterly manager.

To both his own business, and subsequently the managership of the Mallagh Book Shop, he brought valuable experience and the advantage of having been closely associated in a business way with the heads of the majority of the large Toronto publishing houses.

Last November he launched out in business for himself once more at 150 Dundas street, in time for the Christmas trade, taking along with him as clerks experienced associates who understood and appreciated his methods. He was followed by the good-will and patronage of scores of customers.

Venture a Success.

The venture was a success from the start. People liked the "library" arrangement of the Holmes Book Shop, where books could be examined on the tables and in shelves without the barrier of counters or the interference of a too solicitous staff. Accessibility made book-buying a pleasure and an education in what would be suitable for each of a list of friends and occasions.

And so, the Wendell Holmes book business in the first six months of its existence expanded entirely beyond its original plan of living to the extent of imperatively demanding more elbow-room. The solution of the "growing pains" difficulty has been found in the larger quarters at 190 Dundas street, and the strengthening of the firm by the alliance with Mr. Popham.

Wide Experience.

H. G. Popham has for seven years been traveling Canada in the wholesale stationery business. He was with A. R. MacDougall & Co. until two years ago, when he became the right-hand man for the highly-successful manufacturers' agent, W. E. Coutts of Toronto, representing the makers of the celebrated Sanford & Bennett autopen and other fountain pens, and one of the biggest greeting card publishing houses of America, that of A. M. Davis & Co. of Boston.

Wide awake, alert, progressive, possessed of broad experience and high business ideals, and already holding the respect and confidence of the public, Holmes & Popham cannot fail to have a leading part in the great commercial development which is in store for London and Western Ontario.

"CONTINUOUS SHOWER" FOR INVALIDED SOLDIERS.

The management of the Pure Food Show has granted to the Isabel Hampton Chapter, I.O.D.E., space for a booth, next week where a demonstration will be held of the work done by the chapter in the way of making bandages, etc., and supplies will be sold which should have a place in every family medicine chest. These will be in the form of splints, bandages and other "first aids" for emergencies.

During the exhibition, the chapter proposes to hold a continuous shower of delicacies and comforts for the patients in the Central Military Convalescent Hospital and the tuberculous soldiers at the Byron Sanatorium, and also for any returned soldiers who are patients in their own homes. The chapter will be glad to receive the names of any of the last who are not known to them. For the purpose of receiving donations, one or two boxes will be conspicuously placed in the booth. Mrs. Joseph, wife of Sergt. Joseph, is regent of the chapted.

UNCLE SAM SPECULATES.

[Montreal Star.]

Meantime our American cousins seem to be having a hard time deciding whether Congress should declare war or merely declare that a state of war exists. To most of us it will occur that it really matters very little what Congress does or does not declare, so long as it provides what is needful. Americans will find, as we have found, that very much which seemed tremendously important before the war will become scarcely worth thinking about after the first shot is fired. So long as the practical men go on preparing until Congress can meet, there can be no harm in speculation as to how the war is to be fought by people who are not going to be consulted about it. When Uncle Sam has once "seen his dead"—and Germany will make sure that there are plenty of American dead to see—we believe that he will discover, all for himself, that he, too, must be in this fight "to a finish."

HYDE PARK

HYDE PARK, April 20.—The regular monthly meeting of the Young People's Union was held in the Methodist Church on Thursday evening. Owing to the busy season only a medium-sized crowd was present. After the opening exercises Rev. Mr. Irving gave a short talk on missions in general.

Dick Durnford of this village was conducting technical examinations for the Grand Trunk technical schools in Montreal and Portland, Ore.

The public school reopened this week with almost a full attendance.

Owing to so much unsettled weather little seeding has been done in this district as yet.

Abe Steinhoff, who was removed to Victoria Hospital a week ago, was taken back Thursday afternoon to Mr. Shean's, little improved in health.

The Newest Idea In Hosiery

We paid a big sum to obtain new and improved machines to knit seamless, full-fashioned hosiery—the most up-to-date in the world. We control these machines—no others can use them.

Mercury Hosiery

knitted on these new machines has the narrow ankle that fits without a wrinkle—something that women have long wanted in Canadian-made hosiery. We get this by fashioning the hose at the sides (see 2 in the picture).

The toe also is perfectly turned and fits without a wrinkle (see 3).

The dotted lines at toe and ankle show how much wider ordinary hosiery is.

Ask your dealer to show you this new "Mercury" hosiery.

Why is the Blood Impure in the Spring?

The artificial life of the winter—the artificial foods—the impure air of indoor life—the sedentary habits—the lack of outdoor exercise—all tend to make the blood thin, weak, watery and impure. The nerves are starved, exhausted and wasted—the nerve force required for the proper workings of the heart, the lungs, the stomach, the liver, the kidneys and other organs is not forthcoming and the whole system becomes weakened and run down.

When spring comes vitality is at low ebb, and nine persons out of ten require restorative treatment to form new, rich blood and revitalize the nervous system.

Disease lurks on every hand in the spring time, and finds lodgment in the weak, run-down and exhausted system—you can protect yourself by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The spring air is often laden with disease germs. The waste and decayed matter of winter is thawed out, and forms a regular hotbed of disease, from which arise poisonous gases and germs of disease.

People with rich blood throbbing through their arteries need have little fear, for disease seeks out the weak and exhausted for its easy victims. For such there is no season more to be dreaded than spring.

Is this spring to be pleasant or disagreeable to you? Are you to feel invigorated by the fresh Spring air; to rejoice in the opening bud, the sprouting blade, and chirping of the birds? Or will you be overcome with languor and weakness, suffer from headaches and body pains, and drag yourself languidly about as though you had no interest in life and had lost all vigor and energy?

It is for you to decide this question, for the difference is in the state of your health, the richness and purity of your blood, and the vitality of your nervous system. After the debilitating influence of the artificial winter life, nine people out of ten require some restorative treatment to put their systems in order for the enjoyment of life.

As a means of enriching and purifying the blood, building up the system, and revitalizing the wasted nerves, there is yet to be discovered a preparation in any way equal to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure is composed of the most powerful restoratives to be found in all Nature's realm. It actually forms new, red corpuscles in the blood, feeds and builds up the shrivelled nerve cells, and gives new vigor and activity to every organ of the body.

ASKING PROHIBITION OF SLAUGHTERING OF ALL YOUNG ANIMALS

Essex Production Committee Wants Federal Order Made.

MEANS MUCH FOR EMPIRE

Conservation of Food Supply by Saving Calves, Lambs and Young Pigs.

WINDSOR, April 20.—In an organized effort to assist in conserving the food supply of the British Empire, a local committee, recently formed to help Essex County farmers increase food production, will recommend to the Dominion Government that an order prohibiting the killing of lambs, calves and young pigs, be made at once.

The committee estimates that at least 100 pounds of meat is lost every time a lamb is slaughtered. The same ratio applies to calves and milk pigs. Millions of pounds of meat can thus be saved this summer in Canada if such an order was made effective, the committee believes. With warm weather coming, there is no necessity for families using meat every day, a member of the committee stated this afternoon. "It is far better and more economical to use vegetables and fruits during the summer months.

"As for slaughtering lambs, calves and pigs, that should be made unlawful, for it is nothing less than a luxury to use such meat."

The committee is unanimous about these recommendations, and will send a deputation to Ottawa if necessary to present the matter to the Government.

NURSING SISTERS FIRST PATIENT IS WOUNDED BROTHER

Curious Coincidence Reported in Cable to Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, April 20.—A curious coincidence was reported in a cable message just received here. Miss Mary Pollock, assigned to Orpington Hospital, was sent to attend her first patient. He proved to be her brother, Pte. Stewart Pollock, a member of a western battalion, whom she had not seen for some years, and of whose wounding she had received no intimation.

SIX WOUNDED AT ST. THOMAS.

ST. THOMAS, April 20.—Six St. Thomas and three men residing in this district are reported as wounded in today's casualty list. They are as follows:

Pte. Frank Morton Cutler, 15 Erie street.
Pte. Joseph Skelding, 25 Eagle street.
Pte. Frank Andrews, 33 Yarwood strtet.
Pte. C. Baker, Belmont, Ont.

ESSEX, April 20.—Miss Lydia Valode, who went west last August, returned to Essex this week for a few days' visit with relatives previous to reporting at Montreal for overseas service as a trained nurse.

NOVELIST H. G. WELLS SUGGESTS MAKING BRITAIN REPUBLIC

Says It Would Be Agreeable to Allies.

LONDON TIMES HITS BACK

Says Crown Is Indispensable Keystone of British Empire.

LONDON, April 21.—The Times today prints conspicuously under the heading "A Republican Society for Great Britain" a letter from H. G. Wells, the novelist, who is equally prominent as a socialist propagandist. Mr. Wells suggests "that the time is now ripe, and it would be a thing agreeable to our friends and allies, the republican democracies of France, Russia, the United States and Portugal to give some clear expression to the great volume of republican feeling that always has existed in the British community."

Mr. Wells in his letter admits that the general republican feeling has hitherto been satisfied with the idea that Great Britain is a "crowned republic" and doubts whether even in Ireland there is any considerable section of the people who would be disposed to go beyond the implications of that phrase.

Mere Historic Inheritance.

The writer contends, however, that "it will be an excess of civility to the less acceptable pretensions of royalty and grave negligence of our duty to liberal aspirations throughout the world if the thinking ones of the British community do not now take unambiguous steps to make clear to the republicans of Europe, Asia and America that these ancient trappings of the throne and sceptre are at most historical inheritances and that our spirit is warmly and entirely against the dynastic system that so long has divided, embittered and wasted the spirit of mankind."

The writer does not contend directly for the establishment of a republic in Great Britain, but looking to the future, he argues in favor of the encouraging the adoption of a republican form of government for Poland and Greece.

Advocates Societies.

"To begin with," the letter continues, "it might take the form of a series of loosely affiliated republican societies, organized in our chief towns, which could enroll members and organize meetings of sympathy with our fellow-prisoners abroad and form a basis of more definitely purposeful activities. Such activities need not conflict in any way with one's free loyalty to the occupant of the throne of this crowned republic."

The Times devotes its chief editorial to the Wells' letter for the purpose "of showing the absurdity of republican manifestations in this country" the letter it says, "Shows that a clever man can sometimes write very foolishly."

Democratic; Not Republican.

The Times contends that republican feeling never was general in Great Britain, not excepting the time when Great Britain was nominally a republic, and it is quite confident that no great volume of republican feeling exists today. The general feeling, it declares, is democratic, but not republican, and satisfied perfectly with the existing constitution.

The Times argues lengthily that the acme of freedom is enjoyed in Great Britain, owing to the supreme power of the people exercised through the House of Commons, and that the British monarchy has nothing in common with the autocratic monarchies on the continent.

"We know and feel that the crown is the indispensable keystone of the British Empire," says the Times, which seeks by examples to show that "this golden link is the surest bulwark and pledge of democracy over a great part of the globe."

LET a woman ease your suffering. I want you to write, and let me tell you of my simple method of home treatment, send you ten days' free trial, postpaid, and put you in touch with women in Canada who will gladly tell what my method has done for them.

If you are troubled with weak, tired feelings, headache, backache, bearing down sensations, bladder weakness, constipation, catarrhal conditions, pain in the sides, regularly or irregularly, bloating, sense of falling or misplacement of internal organs, nervousness, desire to cry, palpitation, hot flashes, dark rings under the eyes, or a loss of interest in life, write to me to-day. Clear Thinking

CLEARNESS of head depends upon cleanliness of body—inside and out. If men of active minds were as active with their bodies, the chances are that they would not suffer from biliousness, sour stomach, constipation and kindred disorders. It is to such men that Eno's Fruit Salt proves its value as a gentle, safe and unfailing regulator of the digestive and eliminative system.

Being a natural aperient—that is, composed of all cleansing and tonic elements of ripe fruit juices—it performs its work in a normal way without irritation or harmful reaction. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to activity, and produces a delightul feeling of liveliness and vigor that can only arise from a sound, active physical condition.

Give Your Wife One

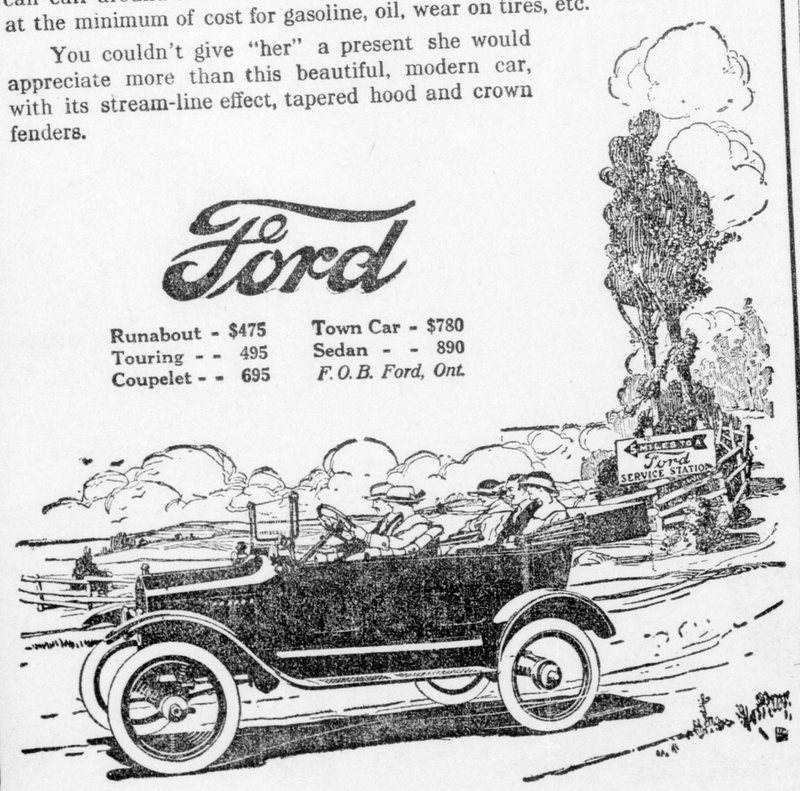

THOUSANDS of wives and daughters run their own Ford cars. They use them for shopping, calling, attending the theatre, taking the children for a run in the country or to school.

The Ford is as easy to operate as a kitchen range, no knowledge of mechanical details being necessary. Inexpensive to operate. A woman can call around town all afternoon, or take a 25-mile spin in the country, at the minimum of cost for gasoline, oil, wear on tires, etc.

You couldn't give "her" a present she would appreciate more than this beautiful, modern car, with its stream-line effect, tapered hood and crown fenders.

Toronto Barber 40 Years Says Duplex Cuts Hair Better Than Eight Barbers Out of Every Ten.

PATENT PENDING

The Duplex Automatic hair cutter
Price to introduce only $1.00

READ WHAT HE SAYS ABOUT IT.

371 Wellesley Street, Toronto, April 9th, 1917.

Duplex Manufacturing Company, Barrie, Ont.

Gentlemen,—I bought one of your Duplex Hair Cutting Machines, and I wish to say that I have been a MASTER BARBER IN TORONTO OVER FORTY YEARS, and my experience since I bought is that it is a perfect tool. It requires no experience to use it. A woman can, in a few minutes cut her children's hair BETTER THAN EIGHT OUT OF TEN BARBERS, and men while combing their hair can also cut it, saving time and money.

I am pleased that I have retired from business, because this machine will certainly have a great sale on account of its price, and will have an effect on the barber business.

JAMES MARREN.

(Signed)

This is only one letter out of dozens we have received from pleased users of the Duplex within the last few weeks. You, too, will be pleased if you get one. Get one for yourself at the wholesale price of $1.00. The price is going up to $1.50 immediately. Get a Duplex and send it to your friend, brother, or husband in the trenches. It will be more than welcome now that the warm weather is coming.

You Can't Go Wrong With a Duplex. The Slanting Teeth Won't Let You.

The Duplex is made of the very best quality steel and silver plate. The blades are double edged, oil honed and double tested. You can comb your hair any style you wish and the Duplex will cut it smoothly and evenly. It cuts while you comb. Cuts the front hair long and the back short. It will last a life time. Figure out how much you can save. The regular price of the Duplex is $1.50, but we will allow you 50c cash for this ad. Cut it out and send it to us with only $1.00, and we will send you the Duplex complete attached to the comb ready for instant use. Five minutes after you receive the Duplex you can have your hair cut better than it was ever cut before. We can only afford to make this liberal offer because we know that you will show the Duplex to your friends and we will get dozens of orders from your district. Agents Wanted.

The foundation is not the most important thing

True, you can't have a good barn without a good foundation but don't forget either that the roof has to stand most of the punishment. Upon it falls the burden of resisting the destructive influences of weather and changing seasons.

Now, the question is "Where am I going to find a roof which will meet these conditions?" Certainly not in wooden shingles which have rapidly deteriorated during the past few years. Not in anything so perishable as wood, nor yet iron, which lets in driving rain, but rather in a permanent mineral composition such as Brantford Roofing.

Now, let us look at a section of Brantford Roofing. First, you notice it has a pure, long-fibred felt base. This is thoroughly saturated with a filler coat of asphalt or mineral pitch. Then it is given another coat. Finally, the surface is thickly covered with crushed slate. You can imagine what a job rain, snow, fire or heat would have penetrating a roof like that. As for comparing with shingles on the score of permanency, or protection, or appearance, or even economy, there is no comparison. You put a Brantford Roof on once, and it will last as long as the building; it will always look well and it will never need repairing.

Brantford Roofing

Why not let us send you samples, also a copy of our booklet which explains how Brantford Roofing is "always on the job!" Or, if you will give us the dimensions of your barn or house roof we will gladly submit estimates without charge or obligation.

"I Owe My Life To Gin Pills"

Every one who has suffered from Kidney and Bladder trouble should read this letter from a gentleman in Port Midway:

"I was once a terrible sufferer with Kidney and Bladder troubles and at times got so bad that I would lose the use of my legs. I could not go away from home without someone with me. My son advised me to take Gin Pills and after taking the first two or three doses I got relief. I continued to take them until I got completely well. I owe my life to Gin Pills.

Yours very truly,
F. M. Kempton.

DELCO-LIGHT

ELECTRICITY FOR ANYONE-ANYWHERE

Wilton Grove, Ont., R. R. No. 1,
April 19, 1917.

Mr. Alex. Pollard, London:

Dear Sir,—It is now some four months since we had the Delco-Light System installed in the house and barn. It has given complete satisfaction and is so easily managed that Jack, our 10-year-old boy, operates it.

We found it particularly convenient during a siege of sickness just after we had it installed, and the safety with which children can have light wherever wanted is a great recommendation.

We find it operates an electric iron with perfect satisfaction.

We are well pleased with our investment.

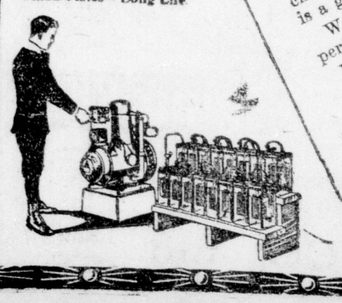

Yours sincerely,
G. B. LAIDLAW.

DELCO-LIGHT is a complete electric plant designed to furnish light and power to farms, country homes, summer cottages, yachts, houseboats, rural stores and churches

It betters living conditions and pays for itself

STUDY THESE FIGURES, MR. CITIZEN, AND FIND OUT WHERE YOUR TAXES GO

[BY J. H. FOWLER.]

The expenditure of the city of London will this year run considerably above a million and a half dollars, rather a big burden.

The citizen who fails to study the estimates prepared this year is making a mistake, as it will reveal to him just where the money to meet thns expenditure comes from, and also just where it goes.

The figures given below give an idea where the money comes from and where it goes. The details are not all set forth, of course, as that would require a regular book, but one can get considerable information from the figures.

Study them over, Mr. Citizen, and see what you think of them.

DECLARES CONTRACTORS SHOULD NAME THOSE TO WHOM BOODLE WAS PAID

Former Minister of Railways Refuses to Implicate Sir Richard McBride in Connection With Affairs of Pacific Great Eastern.

VICTORIA, B.C., April 20.—When the Pacific Great Eastern inquiry convened this morning, E. P. Davis, K.C., on behalf of the Foley, Welch & Stewart interests, said that his clients were prepared to hand over all their holdings in the Pacific Great Eastern and the subsidiary companies and were also prepared, if the Government wished, to undertake completion of the line under Government management. They would be willing to do this if the Government would release the company and its members from their obligations and personal covenant to complete the line.

S. S. Taylor, K.C., counsel for the Government, said that some consideration had already been given this matter. If the contractors wished to place themselves in the correct position they should first make repayment to the Government of over-payments made to them by the Government under the guarantee and payments resulting from the over-classification of some of the work by the contractor. They should also name the persons to whom boodle was paid, and should produce their private ledgers. No further action was taken regarding Mr. Davis' proposal.

Thomas Taylor, former minister of railways, was on the stand this morning, and a number of questions were put to him in an endeavor to show that Sir Richard McBride and not the minister of railways, had handled the Pacific Eastern affairs. Mr. Taylor replied that he accepted responsibility for what his department had or had not done.

SAFETY FIRST!

[London Star.]

"A morning paper says: 'The English prime minister sits on the floor of the House.' Less danger of falling off the front bench, perhaps."

CANADA'S NEW HALL OF FAME.

[Westminster Gazette.]

"The plans for the reconstruction of the interior of the Canadian Parliament Buildings include arrangements for a hall to be used for commemorating the great deeds of Canada and the Allies in the present war, and for the accommodation of the colors of the various regiments of the Dominion that have so gallantly participated in the fighting.

"This Hall of Fame, which will be practically a Canadian Westminster Abbey, will run the whole depth of the building. Along the wide and spacious corridor will be niches for the erection of statues. The walls are to be utilized for the portrayal of scenes associated with the cause for which the various nations are at present fighting."

WHAT THEY FORGOT.

[Daily Chronicle.]

"We know that there is a school of opinion, very vocal in the press, which regards it as almost the whole duty of a patriot in these days to cry stinking fish.

"But what those who think and act thus habitually forget is that there is such a thing as national credit, and that its conservation during wartime is of vital national importance, if our country is to carry its proper weight in the world's councils."

A DECISIVE TIME.

[Public Opinion.]

"What we do in the course of the next few weeks will decided whether we shall achieve victory in tht approaching fine season, or whether we shall have to undergo a fourth winter of hostilities," says Mr. Neville Chamberlain.

GET RID OF TURKEY.

[Evening Standard.]

"Turkey should be made to realize that a separate peace is the only alternative to complete ruin. The allied diplomacy, as well as the allied arms, should be directed during the next few months to the elimination of Turkey from the war."

PASTOR OF ARVA CHURCH IS GOING TO THAMESFORD

Farmers Are Very Busy All Through District With Their Seeding.

ST. JOHNS, April 20.—Rev. Mr. Hosking, pastor of the local Methodist Church for the past four years, has accepted an invitation to take charge of the church at Thamesford, and will leave in June.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church yesterday the following officers were elected for the year: President, Mrs. Homer Knapton; vice-president, Miss Minnie Hawkins; secretary, Mrs. George Rowell; treasurer, Mrs. George Walker.

Farmers have been very busy the past few days, and if the weather remains fine and warm the greater part of the seeding will have been completed by the end of next week. The farmers of the district are doing their share to insure maximum production, and not in many years has such a large acreage been sown to grain.

Miss Lela Ironsides is spending the week-end with Miss Una Mortimore of Ingersoll.

THREE ITALIAN PLANES FALL IN ADRIATIC SEA

LONDON, April 20.—An Austrian official communication received here from Vienna reports that three Italian airplanes which were trying to overpower an Austrian seaplane, were compelled to descend into the sea owing to damage sustained in the fight.

The fight, says the communication, took place in the Northern Adriatic, and the airplanes fell into the hands of the Austrian torpedoboats, which rescued their own airmen and captured three Italians officers and one non-commissioned officer.

TWO FROM GODERICH.

GODERICH, April 20.—Mrs. John McGratten received word today that her son, Pte Lorne McGratten, had been seriously wounded in the left arm and abdomen.

Duncan McMillan also received word that his son, Pte. David McMillan, had been slightly wounded and was in No. 14 General Hospital.

LAMBETH

George Vanstone, who has been ill for some time, has sold his valuable farm to W. Pack.

Mrs. D. Shaw of London was a visitor with Mrs. Carley on Wednesday.

Mrs. Charles Turner and daughter Marian of London were visitors with Mrs. Carley on Thursday.

TO EXPLAIN BYRON WORK.

HYDE PARK, April 20.—The regular meeting of the Women's Institute and Red Cross Society will be held at the rectory Wednesday, April 25, at 3:30. Dr. Craig of the Byron Sanatorium will address the meeting. He will be prepared to answer questions in regard to furnishing wards in connection with the soldiers' wards in the sanatorium.

LIGHTNING KILLS MAN AS HE CROSSES YARD

FOREST, April 20.—William Capes, a young Plympton Township farmer, aged 26, was struck and killed by lightning tonight as he crossed his yard shortly after 7 o'clock, on his way to the barn to do his evening chores.

The fatality occurred just as the storm was breaking over the sixth line, Plympton, on which the young farmer lived. He had just left his doorway when he was struck down and instantly killed.

Only a few months ago the young man was married to Miss May Geach of Forest. Besides his widow he is survived by his parents and one brother.

No damage to the building or stock has been reported as a result of the terrific electrical storm.

HAD VIOLENT COUGHING FITS

LOOKED LIKE CONSUMPTIVE

Mrs. Mary Whelen, North Forks, N. S., writes: "Having taken five bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine syrup, during the past few weeks, to relieve a chronic cough and general throat trouble, allow me to express my unbounded satisfaction and thanks to its sterling qualities. A short time ago I became subject to violent coughing fits at night and directly after rising in the morning. I began losing weight, and all my friends cheerfully informed me that I was going into consumption.

After taking the 'Dr. Wood's' I am pleased to relate that the cough has entirely disappeared and I have since regained the lost weight. I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup."

There are many imitations of "Dr. Wood's" on the market, so see that none of these so-called "pine syrups" are handed out to you when you ask for "Dr. Wood's". It has been on the market for 25 years, is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c and 50c.

ONE OF ZEITUNGS SAYS MAILED FIST WILL IMPOSE PEACE

The "Mailed Fist" Refers to Submarines.

AMSTERDAM, April 20.—Via London. —"Will the American fleet enable our enemies to break our submarine blockade? The answer is, most certainly not," says the Koelnische Volks Zeitung, which adduces a curious and cumulative argument which it evidently considers final, that "the submarine cure has not been invented. Therefore it cannot be invented, because there is none."

"It will be painful for us," the newspaper continues, "to sink good German ships, but we cannot be sentimental in this respect, and will dispose of America's seizure in fifteen to twenty days. The loss of German capital in that connection will hardly equal three days of our war expenditure."

The newspaper then enters into technical details of American battleships, and boastingly concludes: 'All in all, if our high seas fleet faced the American fleet in open battle we would beat them very quickly and thoorughly. But this is unlikely, because before that is possible our submarines, with the mailed fist, will have imposed a law of world peace on the enemy and also upon America."

BACK TO FINISH COURSE.

OWEN SOUND, April 20.—Another Owen Sound boy returned to town this week in the person of Corp. D. H. Nicol, son of Mrs. Nott, of Owen Sound North. He has been with the Army Medical Corps for two years in Egypt, France and England. He was a Queen's medical student when he enlisted, and will finish his course.

EAGLES OF BRITISH IN FLANDERS WAR A WORRY TO FRITZ

THRILLING AIR COMBATS

German Scouts In Hawk-Like Endeavor To Catch the Enemy.

BY STEWART LYON,
Canadian Press Correspondent with the Dominion's Forces.

Canadian Army Headquarters, France (by mail).—Out of the fleecy clouds that fleck the blue of the sky comes the hum of an aeroplane flying at a great height.

The sound is fainter than that made by a British observation plane flying up and down the front "spotting" for the Canadian heavy guns, which are ranging on the enemy's gun positions, roads and railways.

Fritz mightily dislikes to have anyone up there registering hits, correcting the range and directing the line of fire. Guns so coached are terribly effective weapons.

That increasing hum coming from behind the clouds means that the enemy has sent over some of his fast new chasers to attack the "spotter."

Nothing is visible from the ground. The birdman has developed the faculty of taking cover in the air by using every bit of cloud traveling his way. He is probably behind that lovely mass now approaching the observation aeroplane. Nothing could look less like war than that cloud with its gorgeous convolutions and its immaculate purity.

Where Death Lurks.

Yet there death lurks, prepared to swoop down and strike, for a heavier report is added to the boom of the heavies, and our anti-aircraft guns begin to fire directly into the snow-white cloud. It is difficult even for the experienced officers who watch the duel in the clouds to tell the height at which the shrapnel is bursting but, they are sure it is not less than ten thousand feet.

Still there is no sign of the German plane. The bursting shrapnel forms a barrage to the north of our aviator. In an incredibly short space of time forty or fifty slowly dissolving little clouds made by the explosion of the shells, begin to float before the approaching cloud-bank like skirmishers thrown out by an advancing army.

Still there is no indication of the spot from which the increasing drone of the enemy comes.

As we search the sky with our glasses there is a sudden change.

"Here he comes!" shouts someone, and dark against a patch of blue we see an incredibly small object emerge from the hitherto concealing cloud, and, in a long downward glide, make straight for our plane, which sheers off, and, in its turn, comes nearer the earth.

Indifferent to Shelling.

The gunners, no longer firing at random into the clouds, plant shells all around the approaching enemy, but he is apparently as indifferent as is a hawk following its prey.

Hawk-like in every line is the swooping plane, that with red-brown wings showing against the white of the clouds rapidly approaches, growing in vision from a dot in the sky to a well-defined object with whirring fore propeller. The rattle of rapid fire from its machine gun is added to the babel of sound, and our anti-aircraft companies redouble their exertions as the space between pursuer and pursued lessens. There must be a couple of very angry young birdmen up there in the British machine. To stay and fight would be to disobey instructions, and that may not be done lightly. Their business is not only to obtain information, but to bring it back, and to fight only if fighting is unavoidable. In pursuance of orders, they turn back from the front, leaving the artillery for the time being blind, save for such observation as can be carried on from points of vantage on the ground.

The drone of a second enemy plane is heard, and it emerges from a cloud-bank well ahead of its consort, and seeks to get between its quarry and the British fighting planes that are coming up against the wind.

Manoeuvre Too Late.

The manoeuvre is too late to be effective. The duel is not to be to the death this time. The audacious raiders have stirred things up all along the front, and shrapnel is busting so thickly around them that safety is to be found only in immediate flight. Before the oncoming British battle planes can join in the fray, the Germans sheer off, spiral up out of the area where the shells are bursting most frequently, and are off to the east. The "Archies" cease fire, the shrapnel clouds dissolve, and in a few minutes the British observation plane is once more patrolling its beat and recording and correcting the hits of our artillery.

The incidents recorded are part of the daily experiences of the flying corps of both armies. Far too often such aerial battles have a tragic ending, and some bright young lives are snuffed out in the twinkling of an eye. Man has not yet become habituated to the awful death of the victims in an aerial duel. A group of us were sitting the other day in a dugout near the firing line, when a young subaltern appeared in the entrance. With a shaking voice he told of seeing a burning aeroplane shooting to earth, and added: "It made me sick at the stomach thinking of the fellows in it." To death in the dreadful forms in which it comes to the man in the trenches, he was probably indifferent, but the flaming aeroplane, dashing meteor-like from the sky, was a new form of horror.

The Air Scouts.

Despite the heavy loss of magnificent manhood involved in the use of aeroplanes for scouting purposes, they are increasingly used and have become indispensable. The photographs taken while flying over the enemy's lines show every trench and road, and—when carefully examined with a magnifying glass after enlargement—even cunningly concealed gun positions.

An officer whose duty it is to study these photographs, says that he has been able at times to determine whether certain trenches were in regular or merely occasional use by careful examination of photos taken at different times. The main German lines of trenches are almost as well known in the drafting rooms of the Allies as in the war office at Berlin. Thanks to the splendid devotion to duty of the fearless young eagles of the flying corps and the sister French service.

In life and in death they bring back the days of chivalry. Even the German becomes again a gentleman and an honorable foe when he soars into the sky alone with God and Nature.

FINE OF $200 IMPOSED.

STRATFORD, April 20.—A fine of $200 and costs or three months in jail was the sentence imposed by Police Magistrate Makins on William Thair for having liquor in other than his private dwelling house. The case was heard yesterday and adjourned until today.

The information was laid by James Martin, who claimed Thair had got him drunk and then beat him in a horse deal. Thair claimed Martin provided the liquor, which was consumed in Thair's barn.

ENTRY DATE FOR CANADA TRUST COMPANY COMPETITION EXTENDED UNTIL MAY 1.

Owing to cool weather, many householders have not, as yet, completed plans for their vegetable gardens, and the Canada Trust Company consented to extend the date by which entries in their Patriotic Garden Competition are to be filed with them, to May 1. This will enable many to take advantage of the competition who may not, as yet, have laid out their gardens.

The cash prizes being offered by the Canada Trust Company total $120 in all; $30 being distributed for the best three gardens in each of the four city wards.

Mr. Clarke, Manager of the Canada Trust Company Main Branch, reports that notwithstanding the handicap of bad weather, a large number of entries have already been received.

The judging will be entirely in the hands of the London Horticultural Society, and competent men are being chosen by the society to do this important work.

Free Booklets, together with Government pamphlets giving information as to the best methods of vegetable gardening, will be supplied at the office of the Canada Trust Company, across from the Postoffice. b showman—he is the supreme popular evangelist of his day and a revivalist whose revivals always live up to their name.

After my first visit to the vast pitch-pine tabernacle which the rich men, who are behind his New York campaign, built for his use, up yonder in Harlem where the American League ball park is used to be, I decided that Sunday was a wonder and I said so. After my second visit, one week later, I decided he was a wizard, and I now say so. During that week, he had transformed his audience, for plainly it was the original audience, the one which he has had from the start, and the one which he will have through to the end of his meetings two months and two weeks hence—the same individual personnel, largely and assuredly the same in type and in temperament.

On the second trip, I recognized the same faces, the same ministerial collars, the same white lawn ties, the same soberly-dressed women, from the moderate-priced apartment houses, that I saw on the first trip.

If Mr. Sunday makes any dents in the consciousness of the Broadway and Fifth avenue folks, he will do it, I think, by indirection—not by personal contact so far as one may judge he has not hurt the patronage of any lobster palace or cut down the attendance on any steam-heated roof garden. For one thing, he is too far uptown to attract and enlist the interest, let alone the presence of those who believe that nothing of consequence ever happens north of Seventy-Second street; and, in the second place, his slang is too old fashioned to excite the admiration of those educated in the smart school of two-dollar vaudeville.

Gatherings Largely Made Up of Church Goers.

In great measure, the people who are flocking to his services are the people who have the church-going habit anyhow—people who come from towns where Wednesday night is for prayer meeting and Saturday night is for taking a bath. They live in the biggest city on earth, but they do not live big-city lives, according to the common understanding of the term. A great many of those he will convert were converted before now and will merely be undergoing the process all over again for the good of their spiritual well being. They won't have to get religion, they've had it all along. There were fewer automobiles parked outside the tabernacle last Sunday afternoon than there were lined up outside of any one of the three big downtown moving picture palaces last Sunday night.

As I said just now, the audience I saw on the second visit was substantially the same audience which I saw on the first trip, but, within a week, it had been transformed. Then it had been restless; waves of nervousness ran through it in ripples which almost were visible to the beholding eye, looking from the press stand out and down from above the level of its heads. One felt exuding from it, at times, a radiation of disappointment, almost of resentment, due I am sure, to the fact that the methods of the evangelist had not been so sensational nor his behavior quite so grotesque as the advance notices had led it to expect but instead, intentness. First, Sunday had caught these people; then he had tamed them; now he was training them. Indeed, they already were trained. As one man, those twenty odd thousands sang when he sang, prayed when he prayed, enthused when he enthused, thrilled when he willed them to be thrilled. To me, it was a marvelous exposition of the power of a single man, who is full of magnetism his clothes won't hold it in, so full of personality that he sweats it out through his pores like perspiration, so full of a sincere belief the message which he brings is a true message, that sometimes the words he strives to utter congest in his throat and almost choke him. To win for him, Sunday has all of this, self-contained, plus the machinery of a business organization which is so perfect that, were it devoted to rounding up dollars instead of rounding up human souls, would pay an extra dividend every month.

His Organization Big Aid.

It would be unfair to give all the credit for the success of Sunday revivals to Sunday himself. His organization divides it with him, fifty-fifty. He may garner in the sheaves when the harvest day comes, but his hired helpers have fallowed the soil and planted the seed and drilled the local volunteer workers against time of getting up the crop. And, of these paid aides, the greatest is Rodeheaver—Homer of the trombone. Better than any man I ever saw since the long gone days when Sankey played Sankey to Moody's Moody, this stocky, black-haired Rodeheaver, knows the trick of pumping spirit into a crowd with music—knows just when to start 'em singing and just when to stop 'em again. A student specializing in the effects of harmonic reactions upon human beings could get enough material out of watching him during one evening to write a whole book.

Rodeheaver was born in the highlands of the Southern Cumberlands down in East Tennessee, but he has done a lot of traveling about since first he took his trusty slip-horn under his arm and left his native ridges. He must have spent quite a spell of time in Boston for he has amalgamated the Bostonese broad A upon his southern mountaineer's flat drawl—and sometimes the results of this fusion are peculiar. For instance, when he speaks the word "afternoon," he pronounces it like this: "Artfer-nune." The first half of that word is true Bostonese, but the last half belongs to East Tennessee.

There was one moment, though, on the last night I was there when he was all southern. It happened after Mr. Sunday had finished his sermonizing and had tilted a great silver water bottle up to his lips, demijohn fashion, and let a quart of ice water go sluicing down his throat to cool his tortured vocal chords and had been led away, limp as a dish rag, to be rubbed with alcohol and thumped back into condition again by his private bath rubber. Rodeheaver was rounding out the service with more music—music by Rodeheaver, music by two thumping-good pianists, music by the big choir, music by the crowd. At one side of the platform an old negro woman stood waving both her brown hands aloft to catch his eye.

Cobb Praises Rodeheaver's Work.

"Hello, Mistah Rodeheaver," she shouted in a lull. "Don't you 'member me?"

For all I know, the whole thing may have been planned and rehearsed beforehand, for as it may, Rodeheaver's face registered surprise and joy as he looked her way and saw her and recognized in her an old friend.

"Come up here, Aunty," he clarioned.

Up she came, and they shook hands and then together, standing side by side, they sang old-time darky camp meeting hymns—"Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and "Chain the Lion Down, Good Lord," and "Get on the Gospel Train," while their northern-born hearers sat under the spell of the lingering African cadences and the eyes of an occasional Southerner grew moist with recollections of his childhood.

Oh, yes, Sunday may be the star, but when it comes to stage-managing the production, this man Rodeheaver just naturally out-Boscos Belasco. His costume is that of a prosperous undertaker; his platform manner is the half-confidential, half-paternal manner of a veteran high school principal; his voice is as sweet as a chime bell, and he could seduce a graven image into trying to chant a gospel tune.

But you forget how cleverly Rodeheaver has paved the way when his superior officer goes into action— which is a compliment to Sunday's magnetic quality, without in the least reflecting upon the capabilities of the other man. Watching Sunday at close range, and training upon him your faculties rather than your emotions, you marvel that his methods should be so effective. In his mannerisms, he is as elemental as a new laid egg. In the choice of his words, he is as raw as raw beef. He pours out a sentence as long as a freight train, a sentence made up of blaring adjectives with the verb bumping away, away back at the tail-end, like a very small caboose.

Nouns are for those who deal in logic, but adjectives are the exhorter's meat. He grimaces until his face is twisted into a jig-saw puzzle. He leaps from floor to chair and from chair to pulpit top and then, quick as a cat, leaps back again to the floor. He dances from side to side of the wide, green-covered platform, which is empty except for him and the pulpit and the chair and Rodeheaver's trombone lying across the pulpit with its shining gullet aimed at the audience like the bell mouth of a loaded blunderbuss, holding the crowd in subjection. He dances on his toes like a ballet master. He whirls and pirouettes like a trick pony. He makes a windmill of his arms and bow springs of his bent and quivering legs. He says the things which a hundred other evangelists have said before him and he doesn't say them half so well as they said those things.

And, presently turning from the speaker to study the countenances of his auditors, you cease from wondering about his methods, for now it is a fact which confronts you instead of a theory or a surmise—a great incontrovertible fact reflected back at you from all those rows of faces. And you realize that Sunday has got 'em where he wants them. He always does get 'em.

Nuxated Iron Should Be Used in Every Hospital and Prescribed By Every Physician

Says Dr. Howard James, Late of the Manhattan State Hospital of New York, and Formerly Assistant Physician Brooklyn State Hospital.

It quickly enriches the blood, strengthens the nerves and puts most astonishing youthful power and vigor into the veins of both men and women. It often increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down folks 100 per cent in two weeks' time.

Opinions of Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York, Dr. A. J. Newman, and other physicians who have tested Nuxated Iron in their own private practice.

In a very interesting and instructive discourse on the great value of plenty of iron in the blood. Dr. Howard James, late of the Manhattan State Hospital of New York, and formerly assistant physician, Brooklyn State Hospital, said:

"A patient of mine remarked to me (after having been on a six weeks' course of Nuxated Iron),

"'Say, Doctor, that there stuff is like magic.'

"Previous to using Nuxated Iron, I had been prescribing the various mineral salts of iron for years, only to meet complaints of discolored teeth, disturbed digestion, tied-up, hardened secretions, etc., when I came across Nuxated Iron, an elegant, ingenious preparation, containing organic iron, which has no tatining organic iron, which has no destructive action on the teeth—no corrosive effect on the stomach, and which is readily assimilated into the blood, and quickly makes its presence felt by increased vigor, snap

"Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how out it, no matter what you eat, much or what you read, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become a weak, pale, and sickly-looking, just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron.

"As I have said a hundred times over, organic iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only take Nuxated Iron when they feel weak or run-down, instead of dosing themselves with habit-forming drugs, stimulants and alcoholic beverages, I am convinced that in this way they could ward off disease, preventing it becoming organic in thousands of cases, and thereby the lives of thousands might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, kidney, liver, heart trouble and other dangerous maladies. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition brought on by a lack of iron in the blood.

"If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-gain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals, for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. From my own experience with Nuxated Iron I feel it is such a valuable remedy that it should be kept in every hospital and prescribed by every physician in this country."

Dr. E. Sauer, a Boston physician, who has studied both in this country and great European medical institutions, was asked what he thought of Dr. James' remarks. In reply, he said: "I fully agree with Dr. James. People need more iron. There can be no strong, vigorous men and beautiful, healthy women without iron. Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20, and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact, a young man he really was, notwithstanding his age. The secret, he said, was taking iron—Nuxated Iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 he was careworn and nearly all in—now, at 50, after taking Nuxated Iron, a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth."

Dr. Howard James, late of the Manhattan State Hospital of New York, and formerly assistant physician, Brooklyn State Hospital, tells physicians he believes that more Nuxated Iron should be prescribed to meet the great problem of iron deficiency, with its attendant symptoms of weakness, nervousness, lack of vitality, paleness, and generally run-down conditions.

Warns against use of ordinary metallic iron so commonly taken by most people.

Dr. A. J. Newman, formerly House Surgeon, Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, in commenting on the value of Nuxated Iron, said: "This remedy has proven through my own test of it to excel any preparation I have ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerves, strengthening the muscles and correcting digestive disorders. The manufacturers are to be congratulated in having given to the public a long-felt want, a true tonic supplying iron in an easily digested and assimilated form. A true health builder in every sense of the word."

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York, was also asked what he thought of Nuxated Iron. In reply Dr. Jaques said:

"I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication, as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron I feel I would be remiss in my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising and satisfactory results. And those who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

The next to be consulted was Dr. Ferdinand King, a new York Physician and Medical Author, who said:

"I heartily concur in all that Dr. James has said, only in some respects I would go further. Dr. James forgot to mention how foods lose their iron value by improper methods of cookery. In the most common foods of America, the starches, sugars, table syrups, candies, polished rice, white bread, soda crackers, biscuits, macaroni, spaghetti, tapioca, sago, farina, degerminated corn meal, no longer is iron to be found. Refining processes have removed the iron of Mother Earth from these impoverished foods, and silly methods of home cookery, by throwing down the waste-pipe the water in which our vegetables are cooked, are responsible for another grave iron loss. Therefore, if you wish to preserve your youthful vim and vigor to a ripe age, you must supply the iron deficiency in your food by using some form of organic iron —Nuxated Iron—just as you would use salt when your food has not enough salt."

NOTE.—Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, in such a great variety of cases, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists, and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100 to any charitable institution if they cannot increase the strength of any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 100 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Standard Drug Company, Limited, and all good druggists.

"Nature" chose Assam

Scientists tell us that Assam in northern India was the original home of the tea plant. Thousands of years ago "Nature" chose the climate and soil of this favored region as most suitable for growing tea.

It is, therefore, natural that the hillside gardens of Assam (see picture) grow the teas which to-day are famous for their flavor, fragrance and rich strength.

It is of these Assam teas, skilfully blended with choice Ceylons, that Red Rose Tea consists. It is this rich Assam strength that users of Red Rose Tea must thank for its splendid economy—for the greater number of cups it yields to the pound, fully one-third more than ordinary teas.

To make certain that these Assam qualities are fully preserved for you we put Red Rose Tea into dust, odor and air proof sealed packages. Red Rose Tea reaches you pure, fresh and full strength—we guarantee it.

THE STORY OF THE REAL JACK AND JILL

BY EXTORRIS.

"Jack and Jill went up the hill
To bring a pail of water;
Jack fell down and broke his crown,
And Jill came tumbling after."

So the old nursery rhyme tells us. I have used the version current in England, but there are variants, with which we need not concern ourselves. Another story tells us that a certain man persisted in gathering firewood on Sunday, and for his sins was snatched away to the moon, where he may be seen, with his bundle, peeping over his shoulder. The two stories do not seem to have any relation one to the other, but wait a bit, and we will see that they have. In telling you this story, remember that in the childhood of the world the simple people were in the habit of giving miraculous explanations to happenings that were beyond their understanding, and that most of these stories have come down to us in a form which can scarcely be recognized when placed beside the original.

Hjuk and Bil.

In the year 559 King Ella ruled Deira, and one of his chiefs was Vidfinn, a mighty sea rover. When the Angles (or English) first advanced beyond the River Ouse they were led by Vidfinn and his brother Brand of Ulfskelf, and here Vidfinn founded his home. He brought two children, a boy and a girl, with him, named Hjuk and Bil, and called his burg Bilbrough, after the girl, and the tribe took the name of Billingas. It so happened that the spring beside his dwelling was fouled by cattle, and for a long time they had to carry water from a spring on the top of a hill. This well was called Byrgir. One day Hjuk and Bil "went up the hill to fetch a pail of water." They took a pole called "Simul," to which they slung the bucket "Saeg," and away they went, Bil in front and Hjuk behind, laughing and singing, and all the people heard them. But they never returned. The pole Simul and the bucket Saeg were found lying near the well Byrgir in such a position as to lead the people to believe that Hjuk had fallen down the hill, and Bil must have tumbled after him. But they were both gone. Vidfinn grieved much, until, in looking up at Mani (the moon in the Teutonic tongue), who is seen on the face of the moon, and directs its course. Vidfinn thought he saw two children behind him, and he became convinced that Mani had taken Hjuk and Bil up from the earth as they were coming from the well. They help Mani by presiding over the tides of the ocean; Hjuk looks after the flow, while Bil directs the ebb, and both together send the long, high waves up the rivers. Vidfinn hung the pole Simul and the bucket Saeg over the carved doorpost of his hall, and was consoled. Years after Vidfinn was killed in battle with the Britons, and a "tumulus" was raised over him on the very spot where the pole and bucket were found lying in the grass.

We cannot, of course, explain the disappearance of the children, but I want to assure my readers that the name of Vidfinn is no myth, and that the story has some foundation. I said miraculous explanations were given to puzzling occurrences, and yet a simple solution is quite probable. The coasts of England, and the rivers were infested with sea rovers—pirates or robbers, we would call them—and it may well have been that the two children were among the slaves exhibited in Rome who attracted the attention of Gregory the Deacon, who afterwards became pope, and sent Augustine to England.

Some day soon I may compare the language of our ancient forefathers with our own, as shown in the game of "Scarf," still played in parts of Yorkshire. EXTORRIS.

Ed. Note—I am sure all Pageites will read the above with keen interest and enjoyment, and look forward to more from "Extorris" pen.—C. G.

Advertiser Patterns

A DAINTY SUMMER FROCK.

1690—Figured organdie with "Val" insertion and lace is here shown. The dress is also nice for dimity, voile, lawn, nun's veiling, marquisette, crepe, embroidery, batiste, silk, chiffon and crepe de chine. The skirt is finished with a wide tuck over sides and back, and has a panel over the front, finished with a plait extension at each side seam. The waist fronts are lapped at the closing, and the neck edge has a deep and pretty collar. The long sleeve is in bishop style, with a deep, straight cuff. In elbow length the finish is in "bell" effect.

The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 28, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 8½ yards of 44-inch material for a 36-inch size. The skirt measures 3 2-3 yards at its lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipts of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

ADVERTISER PATTERN DEPT.

Please send above-mentioned pattern, as per directions given below:

Red Cross Column

RED CROSS AND C. W. C. A.

Those who have interested themselves in the care of our soldiers imprisoned in Germany will be glad to read the following extract concerning the prisoners' department published in the last Red Cross monthly bulletin.

"There is no doubt that the new British war office regulations brought sorrow to many a loving heart, to whom the preparation of the weekly or fortnightly parcel had afforded some small consolation in the captivity of some dear one, but in war time it is the greatest safety of the greatest number that must be considered. We may be sure that the eagle eye of the German secret service or spy system was not blind to the chance of sending both news and food into blockaded Germany by means of "fake" parcels. Notes and news can be baked into the cakes and loaves, or soldered up in innocent-looking tins of meat. Some prisoners received so much food that a German family could be sustained upon it; other men so little that they were on the verge of starvation. In some cases the friends of prisoners smuggled in their parcels all kinds of forbidden goods. One lady described to the writer just how she packed newspapers into her prisoner-son's parcel, forgetting that the newspapers would be read by the German captors, and might cause the death of other Canadian boys through giving the enemy information as to the movement of troops or ships.

"We may fairly suppose that the action of the war office was based on two principles:

1. To prevent food and news reaching the enemy and prolonging the war.

2. To insure the proper feeding of all Canadian prisoners so far as this is possible.

The article goes on to assure the friends of prisoners that there is now every evidence that parcels are being received regularly. But the drain on the resources of the Red Cross Society is very heavy, and the public is urged to lighten the burden by "adopting" prisoners. Money sent to Miss Gunn, 136 Kent street, secretary of the prisoners' department of this city, will be forwarded to Red Cross headquarters, to be spent upon anyone named who is being held in the enemy's country. The personal touch would mean much to a lonesome prisoner at this time.

"How do the women in the country do it?" cried a city worker at the Red Cross rooms, when she surveyed the parcels of socks, wonderful socks, piled to the ceiling, which the country women had sent in. Well, no one knows how their busy fingers find time for all the sewing and the knitting they have done, but love always finds a way, and it is love of their country and their boys who are laying down their lives that brings such heroic efforts from our women. But now the busy days are coming for the women on the farms, and the women of the towns and cities must do double work. For in the spring the hands of the farmer's wife are more than full, and the Red Cross cannot expect from her the contribution she gave in the winter.

It is a pity every woman who has sent in work to Hyman Hall in the past months could not have been present at the executive meeting to hear the reports for March. Why, everyone wanted to get in and sing the Doxology or God Save the King, or something just to relieve their strained feelings. The president of the C. W. C. A. showed in her report that the number of socks for March, 1917, had more than trebled the number for March, 1916. Just think of sending overseas something over 10,000 pairs of socks in one month! And this is but an index of the work in all departments. We are into the spring drive sure enough. The women's brigade is advancing, sweeping all before it at the point of the needle. The enemy may have fortifications in the shape of spring sewing and horrible barbed-wire entanglements called housecleaning, but the women's brigade marches right through them. Let us watch the April report, and see if, in spite of all the work, spring is bringing, it won't be just as good as March!

Shipments for April 17, 1917: Red Cross—11 boxes shirts, 20 boxes pyjamas, 2 boxes convalescent suits, 2 boxes dressing gowns, 2 boxes bed jackets, 6 boxes sheets, 2 boxes pillow-slips, 3 boxes towels, 1 box mattress covers, 1 box bed socks, 2 boxes day socks, 1 box kit bags, 1 box comfort bags, 3 boxes surgical supplies, 2 boxes old linen.

C. W. C. A.—4,032 pairs socks, 324 day shirts, 520 towels, 63 trench suits, 32 scrapbooks, 338 pounds candy, 680 handkerchiefs, 146 pounds loaf sugar, 10 jars vaseline, 11 cakes soap, 1 large tin insect powder, shoe laces.

Sure! High Heels Cause Corns But Who Cares Now

Because style decrees that women crowd and buckle up their tender toes in high-heeled footwear they suffer from corns, then they cut and trim at these painful pests which merely makes the corn grow hard. This suicidal habit may cause lockjaw and women are warned to stop it.

A few drops of a drug called freezone applied directly upon a sore corn gives quick relief and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out without pain. Ask the drug store man for a quarter of an ounce of freezone, which costs very little, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callous from one's feet.

This drug is an ether compound and dries in a moment and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. Clip this out and pin on your wife's dresser.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letter can be answered privately.]

Re Cement Cisters.

Dear Miss Grey and readers,—I did not intend to write again so soon, but here I am again. I enjoyed "March Wind's" letter in the paper of the 12th. I, too, think the country the better place for children, though there has to be children in the city as well as the country, but with the strict, careful influence of Christian parents they can be shielded from many snares, but there is a great responsibility on the parents.

"True Canadian" (I think it was), I just passed my opinion on dancing and prayer meetings, but another writer asked about. Yes, I believe they do have some good meetings in your part of the country. I attended one over Sunday last August in the village of F——, a few miles north of Thamesville, though I live some less than 50 miles east of there.

Can any of the readers tell if cement or concrete cisterns are good? Have heard they turn the water hard. Also of a way to make the rings on sealers hold when sealing fruit, as the rings seem to get larger and will not catch or hold sometimes. As before,

JUNE PEARL.

P. S.—Enjoyed "Little Mother's" letter in page of March 5.

Ans.—1. I have heard this about cement cisterns, too, but do not know for certain, so appeal to Pageites.

2. By "rings," do you mean the rubbers, or the zinc rings? The rubbers can, of course, be replaced by new ones, but can some housewife tell us what may be done to the contrary zincs?

A Mother of Four.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is the third time I have visited your Mail-Box. The others were so pleasant and helpful that I just can't help it; I must come again. The Mail-Box has dispelled the blues for me time and again; it is like having a chat with a number of real friends. I would like to be some help to someone. I saw where a mother asked what to do for a little girl's arm that had been burned. One of our little cherubs had a nasty burn. At the same time we had a guest who was a graduate nurse and the supervisor of the children's ward in a large hospital. When appealed to, she said if we had that child in the hospital, we would just use baking soda, with just enough water to dissolve it; make a swab, and apply it every hour or two. We did as she said, and I never saw anything heal so quickly. But this mother says her little one has been burned over a year. Surely there is something wrong with the child's blood. I can give her a home-made recipe which I know is both good and harmless but somewhat slow. It is equal parts of cream of tartar, salts and sulphur, mixed dry, a small teaspoonful, moistened with milk or water, being given in the morning before eating.

Now, Miss Grey, I wonder if you or any of the many readers could give me any information as to how boys and girls between the ages of 15 and 25 spend their lives in China, Japan and India? I am very anxious to get it, as it is a paper for the Young People's Society. I want it to be as interesting as I can make it, and I have very little time to study up on those subjects.

This granting of the franchise has made me sit up and scratch my head, for I am going to vote now, but not until I know who and what I am voting for.

Best wishes to yourself and all the Mail-Boxites.

A MOTHER OF FOUR CHERUBS.

Ans.—The Pageites—whose letters it is that make these columns interesting—will be pleased to know that one of our number finds such encouragement in them. I hope you will pardon me, "M. of F. C.," for condensing your letter. I couldn't but laugh over your mental picture of me; it seems so funny to read the various "guesses."

Re the life of children and youth of the foreign lands you name, if you had sent your address, no doubt someone could have supplied you with missionary literature from which you would gain considerable information. You could get this from the secretary of the local church society, where you attend, or if you are near the city, why not go to the free library for an hour or so, and glean what you could there?

Home Troubles Not All.

Dear Miss Grey,—I do enjoy "The Page." It is crowding the Mail-Box door open with splendid things, yet sometimes you have to shut the door real light to keep out the ill-will. I rather think now that all our discontented Pageites must surely be looking at the greater things of life rather than our really smaller troubles, for, oh, Miss Grey, do not our simple home troubles look so small compared with this other great struggle for the sake of our country, and all that is right and true? If we could all look upon life and our troubles in that way, and realize that others are suffering more than we. But we can't, and so we are just as God made us—each seeing the world in our own way. Don't you think that God means this world to be better—far better—after this awful war? We will all hope and pray that it will be.

I sincerely hope that those fine, helpful city gardeners will not meet with any great disappointment, for it does hurt when one is so anxious to help.

Miss Grey, I wonder if any of your readers can possibly let me have a crocheted tie pattern? My brother is so anxious for a crocheted tie that he is going to pay me for it, so don't all scold after what I said in the first part of my letter, and say I should be knitting socks. My mother knits, but I can do more at crocheting and earn money. What, then, if I give the money to the ever-waiting Red Cross that is working so hard? Do not our soldiers need those things which money provides? I humbly try to help, so if any of your readers has a pattern, my brother and I will be so thankful. I will return it if they wish. I leave a stamped envelope with Miss Grey.

EVERYBODY'S SISTER.

Ans.—I hope someone can send a tie pattern, so "Sister's" brother need not be disappointed. Your postscript taken in good part, "E. S." Thanks!

We Know But Little.

Dear Miss Grey,—Hello, there! How does this weather suit you? It won't be long till we get the nice warm weather, will it?

Say, Miss Grey, can you send me "Twenty-One's" address? That is, his address since he went to France. I have his address here when he was in England.

Would you mind sending me "Just One Girl's" address?

I had a letter from France a couple of weeks ago from an officer over there, and some snaps of the buildings that were destroyed by the Germans. It certainly is fierce. Really, we know nothing about it, do we?

If you have any soldier's address there, why just send it along. I will try and send him a box.

So, "Laurie" has enlisted. I was quite surprised when I saw his letter in the page. IN THE DUST.

Ans.—Welcome once again. The addresses you ask for have been mailed. As to the weather—well, we really know that "somewhere the sun is shining," and don't the snowflakes remind you of the dear apple blossoms that are going to shower us ere long?

Cream Window Blinds.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending the recitation asked for by "A Huron Jockey." Re the bedbug hint, as no one has sent in any answer, thought I would send in mine: Carbolic acid and coal oil; it is good. Could anyone tell me how to clean the cream-colored window shades? Would like to know as soon as possible.

MOTHER OF THREE BOYS.

Ans.—Perhaps the patent wall paper cleaner spoken of by a reader the other day as purchasable at the 10 and 15-cent stores, would clean the blinds. To rub with a stiff dough made of flour and water, is good to remove ordinary soil and dust from blinds. Wipe free of loose dust, before beginning to rub.

Bleaching Sheets.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you or some of the readers tell me how to bleach cotton sheets, and oblige. ME.

Ans.—Soak the cotton in cold water for an hour or two, then wash, boil, and without rinsing lay out on the grass to bleach in the sun. Keep dampened well every day. If no nice grass for bleaching is available, soak the sheets in a weak solution of chloride, wash and rinse, then hang on the clothes line; each morning, wring them through clear water and hang out again.

Mother's Furniture Polish.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you kindly answer me a few questions?

1. On what day did the following dates fall on: November 24, 1912; April 2, 1881; August 15, 1876?

2. Will you tell me the meaning of the following names: Cora, Emma, Effie, Fannie, Charlotte?

Here is a recipe for furniture polish. Mother has tried it, and found it very successful: Equal parts of coal-oil, white wine vinegar and linseed oil. Shake well before using. TANTPLIZER.

Ans.—1. Monday, Saturday, Tuesday.

2. The name Cora means a maiden; Emma, energetic; Effie, mild-spoken; Fannie, free; Charlotte, feminine form of Charles, which means strong or manly.

Dear Miss Grey,—We have organized a Red Cross Society in this locality, and very few know the correct way of making the heel and Kitchener toe of the soldiers' socks, and as our members are scattered in a country place, it makes it somewhat difficult to get started. The Advertiser is generally taken in this part of the community, and would ask you if you would please publish the full instructions of socks as soon as possible? Yours truly,

Ans.—I certainly is a pleasure to do so again, to help on the good work among the ladies of your vicinity. You will note the instructions on this page. Might say, too, that by writing the secretary of the London Red Cross Society, copies of instructions for work (sewing, knitting and hospital supplies) will be sent you.

(All Rights Reserved.)

The six daily studies for this week constitute the International Sunday School Lesson for next Sunday. Read the Bible Story on which this study is based, as you ponder the following questions:

"Jesus Anointed at Bethany."—John, xii., 1-11.

Golden Text—"She Hath Done What She Could." Mark, xiv., 8.

17. Verse 8—Which class of persons give more to the poor, those who spend money to minister to spiritual needs, or those who ignore such needs?

18. Verses 9-11—Upon what psychological, or spiritual, principle can you account for the moral degradation of these high priests?

19. Why is such religious intolerance not as bad as murder?

Lesson for Sunday, April 29, 1917—"Jesus Welcomed as King." John, xii., 12.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The Giants opened their home season here today with a defeat at the hands of Boston, which won a brilliant 14-inning game 4 to 2. It was a splendid pitchers' battle, first between the veterans Tesreau and Ragan and later between two youngsters, G. Smith and Nehf. Smith, a former Columbia pitcher, weakened in the fourteenth inning, when singles by Massey and Collins and a pass to Konetchy filled the bases. J. Smith forced Massey at the plate, but Kelly singled, sending in Collins and Konetchy with the winning runs.

WILLARD WOULD FIGHT WHOLE GERMAN ARMY

Jess Willard, heavyweight champion of the world, is telling Philadelphians that he'd like to meet the entire German army—one soldier at a time.

"If they bring on the German army, one at a time," he said, "I'll end the war myself. If any man says I'm afraid to enlist and fight for my country, tell him for me that he's a liar.

"About three weeks ago in Chicago I went to the recruiting station and told them I was ready. They told me my bulk was too great, and that they were not taking married men just then. I went away satisfied. I don't know much about muskets, but I'm ready if my country needs me. I'm willing to do anything I'm told to do."

CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES OFF

No Golf or Tennis Finals To Be Played While War Is On.

New York, April 20.—A statement issued today by officials of the Amateur Athletic Union, the Intercollegiate Athletic Commission and the national amateur organizations of golf and lawn tennis advocates the elimination during the war of championship contests, but urges competitions that will interest all citizens in systematic exercise to improve their physical condition and make them better prepared for military service.

A BASEBALL YARN

Some years ago the Sox had a young catcher, who has since gone to the minors. Both the regular backstops had been injured, so he was selected to catch in an early season championship game.

This chap had been out the night before and was all in. The effects of the drink had not worn away, but he didn't dare to tell Jimmy Callahan, who was managing.

Jim Scott was the pitcher. He threw four balls, two over the heart of the plate, and the others a tiny bit on the inside, and every one went clean through the catcher and hit the scoreboard.

Callahan, not being in on the secret, thought Scott was wild and sent him to the shower, leaving the catcher in.

YOUNG'S HOME-RUN WINS FOR DETROIT

Ninth-Inning Drive Puts Three Across.

SENSATIONAL PITCHING

Boland Holds Hard-Hitting Indians to Four Bingles.

CLEVELAND, April 20.—With the score tied in the ninth, two Detroit men on the bases and two out, Young's drive over the third base got by Allison and went for a home run, Detroit winning, 7 to 4. Boland held Cleveland to four hits, but three of them were bunched with passes and a Detroit error. Morton was hit nard in the first and sixth innings. Score:

Cleveland	0	2 0 2 0 0 0 0 0	4	4	1

PRES. WILSON ABSENT, SO WASHINGTON LOSES

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Washington opened the season at home today by losing to Philadelphia 6 to 4, in thirteen innings. Singles by Thrasher, Bates and Schang and a sacrifice brought in the winning runs. British and French flags flew over the grandstand and before the game Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department raised the Stars and Stripes on a pole in centre field, while the Washington players gave an exhibition military drill. Vice-President Marshall threw out the first ball. Score:

EDDIE COLLINS MAKES SUPERB RUNNING-CATCH

CHICAGO, April 20.—Chicago bunched hits in the second inning and won from St. Louis today, 5 to 2. Cicotte, who pitched a no-hit, no-run game against St. Louis last week, was touched seven times, but was given perfect support, a running catch by Eddie Collins being a feature. Score: R. H. E.

ROYAL CITY BOWLERS ELECT 1917 OFFICERS

George M. Yates to Skip the Opening Game for Bowman Challenge Cup.

GUELPH, April 20.—The annual meeting of the Royal City Bowling Club was held here today when some 70 enthusiastic devotees of the game were in attendance. The secretary's report for 1916 showed that year to be the most successful in the history of the association, culminating with R. Kogan and J. B. Hoover winning the Scotch doubles, which included the Sir John Willison shield at the Dominion tournament and the capture of the Butt trophy by Dr. Creelman's rink, which is emblematic of the championship of Canada.

The treasurer's report showed that the club had a small balance on hand at the end of the year. The question of holding an open tournament in Guelph this summer, was discussed, but the matter was left in the hands of the executive.

The following officers were elected for 1917: Honorary president, G. H. Chapman; hon. vice-president, Wm. McLaren; president, C. L. Nelles; vice-president, Fred Smith; secretary, E. H. Johns; treasurer, J. A. Lillie; greens secretary, E. H. Johns; executive, W. H. Jones, J. J. Whaley, J. Eaton, R. Aitken and H. Mahoney; games committee, R. Logan, J. B. Hoover, R. Mahoney and J. M. Purcell; grounds, R. Harcourt, Dr. Savage, Arch Leitch.

Representative at different bowling associations: O. B. A. at Toronto, C. L. Neles; W. O. B. A., J. B. Hoover; Dominion, Dr. Creelman. It was also decided to send three rinks to the central tournament at Preston in June. The skips appointed were J. B. Hoover, C. L. Nelles and R. Mahoney. The club decided as an inducement to secure new members to reduce the fee for new bowlers to $5. Geo. M. Yates was appointed to skip the first game of the season in defence of the Bowman challenge trophy, he having skipped the last game of the 1916 season at Orangeville last October, when the cup was brought back to Guelph.

LORNE AVENUE BOYS TRIM ST. GEORGES, 17—11

The Lorne avenue public school baseball team defeated the St. George's nine 17—11 on the latter's diamond yesterday afternoon. Hoover in the box for Lorne avenue proved a miniature Walter Johnson, as he had the Saints swinging like the garden gate.

Hoyt of the winners did some great batting. He got a home run and two three-baggers. Chapman, the St. George's twirler, was knocked out of the box in the fifth inning.

The baseball records for the season 1916 just issued, show that in the International League Frank Shaughnessy hit .301 in 75 games, Frank Dolan .289 in 77 games, Dusty Bullock .275 in 83 games, Pete Powers .263 in 75 games, and Frank Smykal .251 in 58 games. Bobby Roberts won 7 and lost 7, while Lou Peterson won 2 and lost 4.

LES DARCY WILL NOT FIGHT AT WINDSOR

E. J. Baxter, chairman of the publicity committee of the Canadian and Red Cross patriotic funds, Windsor, made an absolute denial of the statement attributed to Grant Hugh Browne that the latter's offer to have Les Darcy box under the auspices of the organization was being considered. "The proposition was never considered by the committee," said Mr. Baxter. "Browne was told that if Darcy wanted to fight he could go to France, where he was needed."

SWIMMING RECORD BROKEN

Pittsburg, Pa., April 21.—Five seconds were clipped from the world's record for 200-yard breast-stroke swimming in the national championship meet in that event here last night, when Mike McDermott of the Illinois Athletic Club, made the distance in a 75-foot pool in 2:39 3-5. The new time represents about the biggest cut into existing swimming records made in recent years, and was possibly largely through the elimination of trial heats.

SPEAKER GETS AWAY TO A FLYING START

TY COBB IS SEVENTH

Benny Kauff of the Giants Is Slamming the Ball at Rate of .553.

Chicago, April 21.—Tris Speaker of Cleveland, champion batter of 1916, got away to a flying start in the race for hitting honors in the American League, unofficial average for the first six games of the season being .400, twenty-five points ahead of Peckinpaugh of New York. The averages include games of Wednesday, April 18. Cobb of Detroit is seventh in the list, with an average of .333. Leibold of Chicago and Hoblitzel of Boston lead in stolen bases with three each. Cobb has two. Barry of Boston tops the list in sacrifice hits with four and in runs scored with eight.

Six are tied for home-run honors with one each. Walker, Boston, leads in total bases with 17. Chicago is leading in club batting with a percentage of .258 and in fielding with .938.

With the National League season little more than a week old, batting averages published today show that the leaders of last season have not yet struck their stride. Many of the new men in the league have gone to the front. Hank Gowdy of Boston leads the batters with an average of .600, and Benny Kauff, New York, is next with .558. Baird of Pittsburg leads in runs scored with six, Rousch of Cincinnati leads in total bases with 20. In the home-run department six players are tied with one each. The stolen base record shows five players tied with two each. Ward, Pittsburg, leads in sacrifice hits with four.

"Y" JUNIORS AFTER BASKETBALL TROPHY

Final for O.A.B.A. Championship in Toronto This Afternoon.

The London "Y" Juniors, under the leadership of Manager A. T. Taylor, left at noon today for Toronto, where they play the Kingston basketball artists in a sudden death game for the championship of the O. A. B. A. The match will start at 4:30 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A., with McLeod of Hamilton as referee.

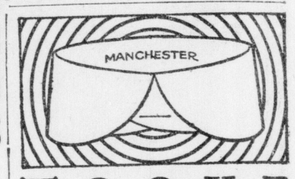

The locals will play the same team that showed up the St. Catharines five in Brantford last Tuesday night, and can be counted upon to put up the game of their lives against the lads from the Penitentiary City.

Manager Taylor stated last night that the boys were all in excellent condition and confident of bringing home the first basketball championship that London has had for some time.

Seven players will be carried down for the game. They are James, Lightfoot, Gillies, Mascara, Cline, McGeoch and McLean.

The locals will not want for rooters as a number of basketball enthusiasts will accompany them

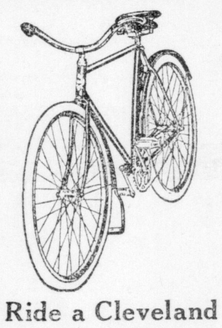

Hank Gero, former Ottawa pitcher, won 13 and lost 7 with Springfield and Hartford in the Eastern League.

The Overland Big Four—again improved and refined—is the car that built Overland.

This car for nine years has undergone steady development and refinement with the help and advice of an army of owners which now totals over three hundred thousand.

It should be, and we believe is, especially notable for its balanced greatness.

The unprecedented accumulated experience in building this type of car has taught us true balance as nothing else could—the value of right weight—the right ratio of power to weight—the true tire, gasoline and oil economy—the utmost attainable riding comfort—the lines that truly express refinement and beauty.

It is produced under conditions which permit remarkable economies of administration, manufacture and distribution.

It should be, and we believe is, better value than any car of similar specifications.

The price is $1190 until May 1st—thereafter $1250.

The Light Six is the same model with changes conforming to approved six-cylinder construction and is likewise an excess value car at the price, $1380 until May 1st—thereafter $1435.

These cars represent a safe purchase at a very considerable saving on a basis of comparative values.

WESTERN ONTARIO'S GREATEST CLOTHIERS

HISTORY PROVES FOUR PITCHER SYSTEM IS THE BEST

When the National League baseball season is well under way, Manager Fred Mitchell may have eight or ten pitchers on the Cub staff, but all of them will not be given opportunity to perform as regularly on the rubber as they would like. At least five of the men will be compelled to adorn the bench in the dugout while the other five are receiving the honor and applause from interested fans in the grandstand and bleachers. Mitchell, although he has yet to win glory as a manager, is of the old school of leaders, and does not believe in working eight or ten pitchers during the season.

"History of baseball as far back as you want to go proves that a pennant is never won where a manager tries to work a big squad of pitchers," said Mitchell. "In my experience in the game four men used regularly can obtain better results than six or eight men can. Therefore, after the season opens I expect to have four twirlers to use in rotation, and who will have to do nearly all the work if they can stand it, and win. The rest of the men will have to keep in shape by working in practice, and to be ready in the event one of the regulars falls into a slump.

"While with the Boston team in 1914 we had only three pitchers—Rudolph, Tyler and James—they won the championship for us by their steady work. Of course, they were assisted by some remarkably clever baseball that Evers, Maranville, Schmidt, Gowdy and our outfielders played. But those three flingers going through the season as they did that year was not the first time that it was impressed upon men that a small group of pitchers can get better results than a larger one."

Before the American League came into the field as a major league, the clubs in the National did not carry more than three or four pitchers. Some clubs had more, but the twirlers often were outfielders, too, and played in the field when they were not on the rubber. After Ban Johnson came forth with Charles Comiskey and Charley Somers, and forced the National League to enter into a peace compact, the teams seldom carried more than four or five pitchers until the player limit was incresed to 25, and the modern managers thought better success could be procured with six or eight flingers. But the records show that the pennant winning teams did not depend on more than four slabmen to win the flag, and that is why Manager Mitchell will strive to have three right-handers and one southpaw sufficiently effective and strong to work regularly.

In the years that Frank Chance won the championships with the Cubs his trustworthy hurlers were Mordecai Brown, Ed Reulbach, Orvie Overall and Jack Pfiester. Connie Mack had on the Athletic, Jack Coombs, Chief Bender, Eddie Plank and Jimmy Dygert. He also had Joe Bush after Dygert was turned loose. The Giants in the days of the battles with Chicago, Brooklyn and Pittsburg, had Christy Mathewson, Dummy Taylor, George Wiltse and Joe McGinnity. After that Mathewson, Marquard, Tesreau and Ames did the bulk of the pitching. The Phillies had Alexander, Mayer, Demaree and Rixey in 1916, while last season Wilbert Robinson used Cheney, Marquard and Smith most of the time.

The success of these clubs prove that the four-pitcher system is the better one. Manager Mitchell contends it is the only method to follow, because the men who work consistently know how to pitch to the batters, keep their arms in fine condition, and the fielders behind them know just how they are going to pitch, and can play their positions accordingly. He adds that the game can be played with more science with few pitchers than too many.

TRAVIS DAVIS A COMER

Biddy Bishop Believes He Is the Boy to Whip Welsh.

"Biddy" Bishop, manager of Billy Weeks, a Canadian middleweight now performing in the ring in this country, believes that one Travis Davis of Memphis is the lad to whip Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion.

"Davis has not been traveling very far in the ring game," said Bishop, "but he has shown enough to convince experts that he is possessed of the real goods. He can punch like a welter and has the quickness of a bantam. I believe he is just the type to take Welsh's measure over any kind of course. I hope to match Davis with Welsh in the near future."

Weeks' poor showing against Len Rowlands at Memphis a week ago brought this from Bishop:

"Billy should have been in the hospital the night of the fight. He was in no condition to box such a man as Rowlands, but I let him go on because he begged so hard to do so. He felt that as he had whipped Len before he could do so again, but it was not long before I realized he had no business boxing then."

IN LAST STRETCH.

Nome, Alaska, April 14.—With Leonard Seppala in the lead, but with the teams of Victor Anderson and Fay Delzene following but a few minutes behind him, the tenth annual all-Alaska sweepstakes dog team race entered upon its last stage today. With the departure of the three racers from Council, 85 miles from the finish at Nome, there was expected to be no more resting for any of the teams until the finish line is crossed.

TIM HURST HAD NERVE

"I never saw an umpire display more nerve in a critical situation than the late Tim Hurst did one day in Cleveland years ago," said John McGraw.

"I was with the Orioles, and at the time we had to dress in a shack under the grandstand, adjoining another in which the Cleveland team dressed. In the Cleveland dressing room a small space had been set apart for Hurst to dress in, which led to a rather ticklish situation.

"In an important game we had Cleveland beaten, 2 to 0, when they went to bat in the ninth and filled the bases with two out. Pat Tebeau was at bat, and he jumped out in front of the batter's box to smash a slow drop which the pitcher delivered to him, driving the ball to the fence in left centre for three bases. The runners scored and it looked as if the game was over, but Wilbert Robinson, who was catching for us, called Hurst's attention to the fact that Tebeau had stepped out of his box, and Tim called him out, at which there was a near-riot.

"The Cleveland players were in a rage and threatened Hurst will all kinds of bodily harm, but Tim calmly walked down to their dressing room, donned his clothes and as calmly walked out without so much as glancing at the home team. It took real courage to do that, but Tim never flinched."

PLENTY OF FIGHTING FOR DARCY IF HE ENLISTS

Chicago, April 20.—Les D'Arcy, the Australian pugilist whom the American authorities have barred from engaging in fights on the ground that he was a slacker, sent word from Memphis that he would enlist under the American colors if permission was given him by the military authorities to engage in several fights booked for next June and July.

"Tell Les D'Arcy that if he will enlist first we'll promise him no end of fighting afterwards," Captain F. R. Kenny, in charge of recruiting in Chicago, replies, when informed of the proposal.

BENNY KAUF DOING BETTER THIS YEAR

Little Benny Kauff has not been press-agented to death this spring.

As a result Benny is showing up to much better advantage with the Giants than he did at this time last year, and all because the baseball public is taking him as a matter of course and not expecting too much of him.

Throughout the spring training trip of the Giants Kauff exhibited batting and fielding ability that is natural with him, and he looked 50 per cent better because he did not have a worry in the world.

The knowledge that the baseball public was watching every move he made hurt Kauff last year. It hurts his hitting most of all, and column after column that was written about him got to be a subject of no little amount of "kidding" directed at Benny by the members of his own team.

Some writer of baseball quoted Kauff last year as having said he would show up the Giant sluggers. He would show 'em how to hit that pill.

And some of the players took it to heart.

As a result, every time Kauff failed at the bat some of the boys reminded him of "what he had said" and the thing got on his nerves.

But Kauff is "broken in" now, and he has learned that one tip from McGraw is worth all the scattered advice of a many-minded baseball public. Following McGraw's orders will probably make a .300 hitter out of Kauff this year.

Two former Ottawa players were with champion teams last year. Old Red Rowe was with the Charlotte club champions of the North Carolina League, while Freddie Payne won the Virginia League pennant with Newport News.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN DARCY AND WILDING

Commenting on the difference in Anthony Wilding, the great Australian sportsman who lost his life while leading a landing party in the Dardanelles campaign, and Les Darcy, an Australian writer says: "It was just as natural for a man like Wilding, a gentleman, to do what he did, as it was for Darcy to do what he did, perhaps. The one instinctively ran towards his duty, as the other ran away from it. I do not blame Darcy for the lack of imagination which prevents him seeing things as Wildfang saw them. But, in the name of the God of Things That Are Fit, why should Darcy be called a fighter?"

MISSING YOUTH FOUND ON CHATHAM TP. FARM

CHATHAM, April 20.—The Ontario License Commission has notified License Inspector T. M. French that 20 standard licenses have been granted in this county, including twelve in this city, four in Wallaceburg, two in Tilbury, one in Wheatley and one in Pain Court. The only new licenses granted in the city was to William Bordeaux, who will open the Park House, recently closed.

Missing Youth Found.

Samuel McAleece, the 15-year-old son of Samuel McAleece of Ridgetown, who has been missing from his home since Sunday last, has been located on the farm of Nelson Faubert, Chatham Township. The lad walked from his home to the farm, several miles distant, arriving there Monday afternoon. He applied for work, which was given to him, and it was not until yesterday that it was learned that the farmhand was the missing youth.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

CHATHAM, April 20.—Dewey Boyle, a resident of Dresden, was arrested late last night as he was leaving the Griffin Theatre, on a charge of stealing $50 from the automobile of Harold Western while the car was standing on the main street of that town. He was arraigned in the county police court this afternoon, and remanded to jail for a week for sentence.

Old Joe McManus spent the summer down in the North Carolina League with Durham and Raleigh winning 7 and losing 8 games. Raleigh was a hopeless tail-ender all the season.

MUCH MONEY BEING SPENT IN PUSHING PEACE PROPAGANDA

Activity Seems to Centre in Pro-Germans.

STOCKHOLM, April 19.—Via London, April 20.—M. Stauling, minister without portfolio in the Danish cabinet, has arrived here for a conference with the local Socialists over the approaching meeting of the Socialist International committee to be held in Stockholm.

The peace propaganda is being actively carried on, but it appears to be almost entirely supported by the Activist and other pro-German papers and elements, with the exception of a few of the most radical ultra-Socialists, whose activities are inspired not by partisanship for one or the other groups of belligerent nations, but by general brotherhood of man ideas. The newspapers which formerly headed the Activist movement for Sweden's entry into the war on Germany's side are eagerly grasping at every peace rumor and publishing it.

Much money also is being paid from some source for pro-peace circulars, which are being widely distributed by mail over Sweden.

One of these circulars, captioned, "Shall the War Be Prolonged to Starvation, or Shall We Have Peace Quickly?" attacks the parties of the Left, especially the Socialists, as the most bitter enemies of peace, and declares that they desire "war to the uttermost against hated Germany."

RETURNED CHAPLAIN HONORED.

OWEN SOUND, April 20.—A cordial reception was tendered Captain Rev. Thurlow Fraser, the returned chaplain, by his congregation at Division Street Church last night. An address was presented to him and an armful of roses went to Mrs. Fraser.

AVIATION RECRUIT.

STRATFORD, April 20.—Harry Teur, son of William Teur, of Mitchell, has gone to Toronto and enlisted with the aviation corps. He was formerly employed in the Merchants Bank.

WAR FOOD PRODUCTION LEAGUE AT BRANTFORD

Whole City Being Organized to Secure Available Farm Help.

BRANTFORD, April 20. — A Brantford war food production league was formed here today at a combined meeting of manufacturers, professional and commercial men, for the purpose of enlisting all the available help in the city for work on the farms throughout the county this summer. Pressure will be brought to bear upon the young men who have escaped service at the front to give their holiday time for service on the farms. The merchants and manufacturers will supply the committee named with names of their employees who will be available for this work. Badges are to be secured for those who help.

The Six Nations Indians have organized a production league, and will strive to speed up production. The league will ascertain what land is available and if the farmers can farm more land than at present. Farmers without seed will be supplied with it.

Chief Harry Martin is president, and Chief A. G. Smith secretary, and the directors of the agricultural society, the chiefs and the missionaries form the committee to get information. Upwards of 500 of the Six Nations Indians have enlisted.

READY TO SERVE U. S. AS ARMY SURGEON

STRATHROY, April 20.—Dr. A. G. Wright, a well-known Strathroy doctor, and son of the late James Wright, merchant of this place, has offered his services to the United States Government as an army surgeon with the United States army. Dr. Wright is now practicing in Penton, Michigan.

The Bell Telephone staff of Strathroy made a presentation of an ivory dressing case to Miss Helen Ashwell, one of the members of the staff, who has resigned to go to St. Joseph's Hospital, London, to train for a nurse.

The Methodist Church choir is arranging a benefit concert for the local corps of the Salvation Army in order to secure funds for the rest huts being erected by the Salvationists in France. The date of the concert has not yet been determined.

SEVEN YEARS' TORTURE

Nothing Helped Him Until He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

ALBERT VARNER.

Buckingham Que., May 3, 1915.

"For seven years, I suffered terribly from Severe Headaches and Indigestion. I had belching gas from the stomach, bitter stuff would come up into my mouth after eating, while at times I had nausea and vomiting, and had chronic Constipation. I went to several doctors and wrote to a specialist in Boston, but without benefit. I tried many remedies, but nothing did me good. Finally, a friend advised 'Fruit-a-tives.' I took this grand fruit medicine and it made me well. I am grateful to 'Fruit-a-tives,' and to everyone who has miserable health with Constipation and Indigestion and Bad Stomach, I say take 'Fruit-a-tives,' and you will get well.

"ALBERT VARNER."

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double-strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

25 cent bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

OFFICIAL STORY OF VIMY BATTLE CANADIANS WON

FIERCE CLASH IN CENTRE

By Night All Objectives Won and Consolidated Save One.

GREATEST VICTORY YET

Boys of Dominion First to Look on Douai Since 1914.

LONDON, April 20.—The following official communique is issued by the Canadian war records office, on the capture of Vimy Ridge:

Again the Canadians have "acquired merit" in the capture of Vimy Ridge on April 9. As in the lesser action of Courcelette in September of last year they have shown the same high qualities in victorious advance as they have displayed in earlier days in desperate resistance on many stricken fields.

Preparations for Easter Monday's attack had been extensive and thorough. The actual infantry assault and final deluge of shells were but the logical and irresistible conclusion of an offensive which had been maintained against Vimy Ridge for months by the Canadian corps. The tactical importance of this position had increased recently to a marked extent, owing to the withdrawal of the enemy before the third army, to the south.

"Heavies" Open Attack.

At half-past five on Monday morning, April 9, the great attack was launched with terrific fire from our artillery and from many field guns in hidden advanced positions. Our "heavies" bombarded the enemy positions on and beyond the ridge, and trenches, dugouts, emplacements and roads, which for long had been kept in a continual state of disrepair by our fire, were now smashed to uselessness. An intense barrage of shrapnel from our field guns, strengthened by the indirect fire of hundreds of machine guns, was laid along the front. At the same moment the Canadian troops advanced in line in three waves of attack.

Flurries of snow drifted over the battlefield as the Canadians left their jumping-off trenches. Behind the rolling barrage the light was sufficient for manoeuvring and yet obscure enough to obstruct the range of vision and lessen the accuracy of fire of the German riflemen and machine gunners.

Charge Over Awful Ground.

The first stage of the advance was made over ground indescribably tangled with obstacles of all sorts, with great mine craters, many of which were impassable, with thousands of shell holes which had churned the whole field into a vast puddle of mud, with crumbled trenches, coils and hedges of torn entanglements of barbed wire. But over this difficult ground, over and around gaping craters and clawing tangles, into and under the fire of the enemy the lines of Canadian infantry moved forward unbroken behind our rolling curtain of shell fire.

The men on the left were soon confronted by a strong and constantly strengthening opposition. The advance of these troops was checked between its first and second lines of objectives by heavy fighting which was more formidable against the centre of the line than against the flanks. A dip in the ground caused a change of direction which swung the troops off their central objectives. They reached their goals on the flanks only to find themselves subjected to heavy, close range fire of machine guns and rifles.

Enfiladed on Three Sides.

To be enfiladed from the centre and the north was bad enough, but to add to the situation, caves, or a tunnel of the hostile line over which we had already advanced, now disgorged Germans, who promptly reoccupied their old front line and opened fire on our rear. The enemy at these points fought with unusual vigor and resolution.

The troops on the extreme left fought all day against the surrounding Huns and by 10 o'clock at night succeeded in dispersing the enemy in their rear and capturing the major portion of the enemy trenches in their centre. The "Pimple" to the north still remained to the enemy, but by then snow was falling heavily and it was decided to consolidate the hard-won gains and prepare for a counter-attack rather than to undertake a further assault that night. "The "Pimple" would keep for the morrow.

In the meantime the other troops fought forward from one line to another without serious loss, but with many brisk encounters. Most of the casualties were the result of shrapnel fire. Only a small percentage of these were fatal and the majority were of a minor character. From the fall of the first man our battalion stretcher-bearers and every grade and unit of the Canadian Army Medical Corps were on the alert. The work of the officers and men of the "twining serpent" was one of the splendid, outstanding achievements of this great day.

Dash From Second Line.

On the German second line the troops drew breath nd consolidated their position. Our barrage was laid before them steadily as a wall. Fresh troops came up and deployed into position. They waited for the barrage to lift at the ordained minute and lead them on. The enemy's artillery fire, their counter-barrage and bombardment of our gun positions was not strong, as strength in such things is considered today. Prisoners were already hurrying to our rear in hundreds. They surrendered promptly and willingly.

The barrage lifted and the troops on the right followed in forward to the German third line. Here again they paused for a time, then advanced again behind the ever-ready and unslackening barrage for a distance of about 1,200 yards. This advance included, covered and captured several villages, Hill 140, a number of fortified woods and several trenches and belts of wire, and still the enemy surrendered by hundreds and scuttled to our rear to safety. Their resistance grew feebler, their hands more eager to relinquish their weapons and ascend high above their heads at each stage of our advance.

At 10 o'clock snow fell heavily from black clouds sweeping low across the ridge. Half an hour later the snow ceased, the clouds thinned and the sun shone fitfully over the battlefield.

Cheery News Received.

Word was received at the advanced headquarters that the British division on our immediate right was enjoying a degree of success in its operations equal to the Canadians' success. Events continued to develop with rapidity and precision. By one o'clock the third line had been reached and secured. By this time the troops on the right had consolidated their gains and advanced strong patrols. From their new positions they commanded a wide view of enemy territory to the eastward. They reported a massing of Germans on a road in their new field of vision and our heavy guns immediately dealt with the matter. The Canadian corps was soon able to state that the prisoners already to hand numbered three battalion commanders, fifteen other officers and more than 3,000 non-coms and men, with plenty more in sight making for our cages as fast as their legs could carry them.

The final stage of the attack of the troops on the right was now made. They passed through the wide belts of enemy wire which fringed the plateau, by way of wide gaps torn by our heavy artillery at fixed intervals.

First Glimpse Since 1914.

So they issued upon the eastern slopes of Vimy Ridge—the first Allied troops to look down upon the level plateau of Douai since the German occupation in 1914. They saw the villages of Farbus, Vimy and Petit Vimy at their feet, and beyond these the hamlets of Willerval, Bailleaul, Oppy and Mericourt. From that distance the little clusters of houses and gardens showed nothing of the devastation and ruthless occupation they had known so long, and the wide quiet fields displayed no scar of battle.

The hearts of the Canadians were lifted by this sight. In this sudden widening of their horizon they felt and saw the fruits of their victory; something of the fatigue of the long strain, of the day's perilous action slipped away from them. This sight of a new countryside did them more good than the sight of dead Germans, prisoners and captured guns, but they pressed on to Farbus wood, Goulot wood for all that, and possessed themselves of several hostile batteries and much ammunition.

Most Objectives Gained.

By an early hour of the afternoon all our objectives save those to the left of the attack, were in our possession, and the task of consolidating and strengthening our gains was well in hand. During the afternoon and evening many reports were received from various units of the massing of large forces of the enemy here and there as if to deliver counter-attacks, but, thanks to the alertness of our infantry, the energy of our artillery and the discretion of the enemy these counter-attacks did not materialize.

Throughout the day the most courageous and devoted co-operation was rendered to the Canadian corps by a brigade and squadron of the Royal Flying Corps. The night was clear and lighted by a full moon, and the work of patrols, carrying parties and working parties went on without interruption. The night saw all of the Vimy Ridge with the exception of a few trenches on Hill 145 secure in Canadian hands.

And so the first day of the greatest of Canadian advances came to a successful and glorious close.

Lloyd George Confers With High Officials of France and Italy

PARIS, April 20.—Premier Alexandre Ribot and the British premier, Lloyd George, returned today from Savoy, where they held a conference with the Italian premier, Paolo Boselli, and the Italian foreign minister, Baron Sonnino, concerning cooperation between the Entente Allies.

FAT POSITIONS GO TO MEN WHO HAVE NOT BEEN OVERSEAS

J. D. Turriff Cites Patenaude Appointees.

27 M. P.'S ARE IN KHAKI

All But Two Have Drawn Regular Military Pay Until Quite Recently.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, April 20.—There has been some criticism of the Government for giving the better posts of the civil service to persons who have not gone to the front and returned. Hon. Mr. Patenaude, who has jurisdiction over the large employment list of the printing bureau, has been charged with this pratcice.

When the estimates of the state department were being considered in Parliament today, J. D. Turriff asked Hon. E. L. Patenaude if he had adopted the rule of appointing returned soldiers to vacancies. Mr. Patenaude having replied in the affirmative, Mr. Turriff declared that F. J. Dugas, an Ottawa grocer, had been appointed superintendent of distribution of printing, at a salary of $2,500 per year, while E. J. Laverdue, a tinsmith and plumber, had been put in charge of advertising at a salary of $1,800 per annum.

Neither Has Served.

Mr. Turriff said that neither of these men had ever been at the front.

Mr. Patenaude, in reply, said that he believed these appointments had been made. He would give reasons for them later.

Sir George E. Foster, acting premier of Canada in the absence of Sir Robert Borden, leaves for the United States to represent the Dominion at the war conference in Washington, which is to be attended by Right Hon. Arthur Balfour and General Joffre. Sir George will go unaccompanied by diplomatic or military advisers.

Twenty-Seven M. P.'s In War Service.

According to a return tabled in the Commons today, twenty-seven members of Parliament are either serving now or have served with the expeditionary forces in the present war. Twenty-two of them, including Lieut.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, are put down as having served overseas, and thirteen of the twenty-two have returned to Canada. One member, Lieut.-Col. G. H. Baker, fell in action. Eight members of Parliament, not counting Hon. Dr. Beland, are still overseas.

According to the return, 25 of the members have been in receipt of the regular military pay of their rank. The two members put down as not accepting either pay or separation allowance being Sir Sam Hughes and Lieut. W. F. Carroll. Nine of the members have been in receipt of separation allowances, and thirteen are still in receipt of pay.

Those Who Get Pay.

Those who went overseas and received pay and separation allowance are: Lieut.-Col. James Arthurs, Col. J. A. Currie, Lieut.-Col. G. W. Fowler, Lieut.-Col. B. R. Hepburn, Major E. N. Lewis, Lieut.-Col. W. R. Smyth and Lieut. L. P. Gauthier.

Those who have gone overseas in receipt of military pay, but who did not take separation allowance, are: Lieut.-Col. G. H. Bradbury, Hon. Capt. J. H. Burnham, Col. J. J. Carrick, Lieut. S. J. Donaldson, Lieut.-Col. H. F. McLeod, Capt. D. B. Neely, Lieut.-Col. Sam Sharpe, Lieut.-Col. W. H. Sharpe, Lieut.-Col. John Stanfield, Lieut.-Col. J. D. Taylor, Lieut.-Col. H. B. Tremaine and Lieut.-Col. Gerald V. White.

Some Not Overseas Paid.

Those who have served exclusively in Canada are: Brig.-Gen. H. H. McLean, Capt. F. L. Schaffner, Major D. Stewart, Hon. Col. W. F. Cockshutt and Hon. Capt. J. A. Douglas. The first three received pay, but not separation allowance, while Messrs. Cockshutt and Douglas are put down as receiving both pay and separation allowance.

The return notes that some of the members mentioned above are no longer on the payroll. Their pay was stopped on the following dates: Col. G. H. Bradbury, January 1, 1917; Hon. Capt. J. H. Burnham, January 9, 1917; Col. J. J. Carrick, September 30, 1915; Hon. Col. W. F. Cockshutt, January 9, 1917; Col. J. A. Currie, January 9, 1917; Lieut.-Col. S. J. Donaldson, February 9, 1917; Lieut. L. H. Gauthier, January 19, 1917; Capt. D. B. Neely, January 4, 1917; Col. W. H. Sharpe, January 1, 1917; Col. John Stanfield, December 8, 1916; Col. J. D. Taylor, January 6, 1917.

M. P. P. KILLED IN ACTION.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD, TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds, and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once, or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

If you feel bloated after eating and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you need Pape's Diapepsin to stop food fermentation and indigestion.

It neutralizes excessive acid, stomach poison; absorbs that misery-making gas and stops fermentation which sours your entire meal and causes Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your real and only trouble is that what you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer in five minutes that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that relief is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

From Youth to Old Age

The physical changes in a woman from youth to old age are fraught with many dangers.

The young girl, the young wife and mother, the middle aged woman struggling with the trials of "change of life," all have new physical conditions to contend with that only the hardiest withstand. The majority fall victims to some distressing feminine disorder that makes life a misery.

When a woman feels that some disease peculiar to her sex is developing in her system she should immediately profit by the experience of others and begin taking

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For three generations this famous remedy has been helping sick women

Just as it helped these three women.

Girlhood.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and every month I had to stay at home from work and suffer a long time. One day a woman came to our house and asked my mother why I was suffering. Mother told her that I suffered every month and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. I am in good health now, and have told lots of girls about it."—Miss Clarice Morin, 22 Russell St., Taunton, Mass.

If all young women who are not well could see in our library the great file of letters like above they would be convinced our medicine would help them.

Womanhood.

Miller's Falls, Mass.—"Doctors said I had displacement very badly and I would have to have an operation. I had a soreness in both sides and a pulling sensation in my right side. I could not do much work the pain was so bad. I was also troubled with irregularity and other weaknesses. My blood was poor. We had been married four years and had no children. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I became well and strong and was saved from an operation. We are now the parents of a big baby girl, and I praise your remedies to others and give you permission to publish my letter."—Mrs. Joseph Guilbault, Jr., Bridge St., Miller's Falls, Mass.

Change of Life.

Englewood, Ill.—"While going through the Change of Life I suffered with headaches, nervousness, flashes of heat, and I suffered so much I did not know what I was doing at times. I spent $1900 on doctors and not one did me any good. One day a lady called at my house and said she had been as sick as I was at one time, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her well, so I took it and now I am just as well as I ever was. I cannot understand why women don't see how much pain and suffering they would escape by taking your medicine. I cannot praise it enough for it saved my life and kept me from the Insane Hospital."—Mrs. E. Sheldon, 5657 S. Halsted St., Englewood, Ill.

The great number of unsolicited letters like the above prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is all that it is claimed to be. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

U. S. WARSHIP WARNS STEAMER OF SUB DANGER

NEW YORK, April 20. — The Associated Press carries the following: Passengers on a steamship which arrived here tonight declared they had not slept for two days because of a submarine warning given them by a United States warship as they approached the American coast.

According to the story, the warship steamed alongside the steamer, and the captain megaphoned the information that there was a report that two enemy submarines were lurking between the steamship and its destination. The captain of the merchant vessel then gave directions that a zigzag course be followed, it was said, and the passengers were directed to be ready for a sudden call to the lifeboats.

DR. JOHN L. DAVISON DEAD.

TORONTO, April 20.—Dr. John L. Davison, one of the most widely-known physicians of Toronto, died today at the residence of his brother, W. S. Davison, in Napanee, where he had gone to spend the Easter holidays. Dr. Davison had been in indifferent health for some years, due to a serious and slowly progressive heart affection. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia, contracted some days ago.

VETERAN OF UNION FORCES SENDS FLAG TO CITY TO HANG FROM PULPIT

The star-spangled banner is floating today side by side with the Union Jack in the First Congregational Church. The flag was received this week by Dr. Silcox from Samuel Harris of Chicago, who served as a captain with the Michigan Cavalry during the American Civil War.

He was captured during one of the smaller engagements, and because of an attempt to escape was sentenced to be shot. His life was saved by Mrs. Jefferson Davis, wife of the president of the Confederate states. She intervened several times to have the sentence of death for desertion on Confederate soldiers commuted, but only in the case of Capt. Harris did she use her influence to save a soldier of the Union. This was because while fighting in the Confederate states Capt. Harris had given protection to a Confederate family whose men were with the army and unable to look after the home.

As an old soldier, Mr. Harris has been enthusiastically pro-Ally since the beginning of the war, and was delighted when his country entered the conflict, as evidenced by the large-sized flag which he sent to Dr. Silcox.

SENATE BEGINS DEBATE ON CONSCRIPTION BILL

Washington, April 21.—Debate on the Administration army bill, providing for selective conscription, began in the Senate today with friends and opponents lining up for the impending fight over the draft and volunteer plans. Administration leaders were determined to press the bill for final disposition and expressed confidence that it would pass with a safe majority.

The military committee in voting to report the bill to the Senate stood ten to seven in favor of the selective draft system.

ELIHU ROOT MAY HEAD COMMISSION TO RUSSIA

Washington, D. C., April 21.—President Wilson probably will name within a few days a group of distinguished Americans as a commission to be sent to Russia to confer with members of the new Provisional Government there. Elihu Root, former secretary of state, appeared today to be the probable selection for chairman of the commission, although officials said that a final decision had not been reached. The president has discussed the question twice with his cabinet, and is understood to have about made up his mind on the names of the principal members of the commission. Secretaries McAdoo and Lane have both been mentioned.

3,000 GERMANS ARE BEING WATCHED IN THE UNITED STATES

Close "Tab" Kept On Small Army of Suspects.

Washington, April 20.—Approximately three thousand German residents of the United States are under close surveillance, department of justice officials announced today, because of their activities in behalf of the German Government before America's entry into the war or because of pro-German sympathies.

The department's field force of investigators, now grown to formidable proportions, is keeping so close a watch on the small army of suspects that it would be possible, it is authoritatively stated, to arrest virtually every man under suspicion within 24 hours. The suspects are located in every state of the Union.

To meet the demands of the unceasing watch upon these individuals, the department's bureau of investigation has been greatly enlarged since the beginning of hostilities with Germany and recruits are added daily to the staff. Most of the suspects had been under surveillance prior to the entrance of the United States into the war, but hundreds of names have been added to the list as the grist of the great mill of auxiliary workers have been added to the service.

The Senate recorded itself today in favor of press censorship during the war.

A censorship clause of the administration espionage bill, after decided moderation, was retained in the bill by a vote of 43 to 33, in which partisan division was disregarded. The vote came after three days of sharp debate and was regarded as definitely forecasting final retention of the censorship provisions.

500 GERMAN SAILORS AND SOLDIERS TRY TO REACH HOLLAND

Amsterdam, April 20—Via London.—More than 500 German fusiliers, sailors and landsturmers on Monday evening tried to cross the Dutch-Belgian frontier from the environs of Knocke to near Gadzand, Holland, says the Handelsblad, but the attempted desertion was frustrated after the party had been pursued and attacked by Uhlans.

The deserters were fired on by the Uhlans with machine guns, and in a fight which lasted a half-hour 38 of the deserters were wounded. The mounted guards along the frontier, the newspaper adds, have since been doubled.

RECRUITING IN DAKOTA SENDS WOMEN TO FARMS

Bismarck, N. D., April 21.—Women are working in the fields of North Dakota because of an acute labor shortage which has developed to some extent through recruiting, according to state officials here by Senator Thos. Pendray, who was at the state capitol today to discuss the situation.

WIND PLAYS "HOB" WITH ROOFS AT OIL SPRINGS

Oil Springs, April 21.—A terrific wind and rain storm which swept over this district at 6 o'clock last night did considerable damage in the east end of the town. The roofs of J. W. Anderson's garage and James Hillis' barn were lifted and sections of sidewalk sent flying in all directions. Many derricks are reported blown over. So far as is known nobody has been injured.

HAIL STORM ALREADY REPORTED AT FLORENCE

FLORENCE, April 20.—The seeding is in progress in this district. Farmers are working with every advantage that they can possibly obtain. Help continues scarce. A light shower fell, accompanied by some hail and also thunder and lightning last night. The few previous fine days have put land in a splendid dry condition and a little rain would do practically no harm. The verdure has appeared quite green and a warm shower would set it growing. The fall wheat is looking good, considering the past cold winter and backward spring, and meadows are reported good.

Bread has come up to the eight-cent mark again, while eggs are 30 cents per dozen.

Beef cattle are reported scarce and butchers sometimes have a scant supply on hand.

The circuit executive of the Epworth League is making arrangements for the coming convention, to be held here next month. When it receives word from the speakers it can then complete all arrangements for the coming sessions.

CONFIDENT OF NORTHERN ROUTE

STRATFORD, April 20.—Members of the local deputation which interviewed the Government in regard to the proposed provincial highway, returned to the city more enthused than ever over the prospects for securing the road by the notherly route. They were, they say, given a most attentive hearing by the Government. If the Government is sincere in its assertion to place the road where it will serve the greatest number of people to the greatest general benefit, they contend that the northerly route must be selected.

PRINCESS PATS VETERAN RESTING IN THE CITY

CAPT. HAMILTON BINGLE of the Middlesex Regiment is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Blandford, Norwood House. He fought with the Princess Pats for many months and has been in the war almost since the outbreak. He has a short period of convalescent leave, which the English authorities have allowed him to spend in Canada. Capt. Bingle is a nephew of Capt. Booker and during his stay in the city will spend part of the time with him.

ADOPTING FOUR PRISONERS.

STRATFORD, April 20.—At the regular meeting of Sir John French Chapter, I. O. D. E., it was decided to adopt four prisoners of war in Germany. A grant of $10 was made to the Belgian relief fund and $25 to the Red Cross. The bale for the month consists of 83 pairs of socks and 15 flannel shirts.

The S. S. No. 4 Chapter in Downie appointed Mrs. John Bruce as delegate to the annual convention to be held at Victoria, B. C.

To the Belgian relief fund $10 was given. It was decided to send forward boxes every month to the boys from that district who are overseas.

Financial, Market and Commercial Section

THE LOCAL MARKET

Potatoes were exceptionally scarce on the local market today, and the price was firmer as a result. None sold for less than $2.75 a bag, and a few brought as much as $4.10. By the peck they sold for 70c to 75c. Cabbage had a good sale at $1.50 to $2.50 a dozen, single heads selling for 15c to 25c. Radishes and onions sold for 5c a bunch, a dozen bunches bringing from 40c to 50c. Dutch sets sold for 35c a quart, and seed onions for 20c to 25c a box. Spinach sold for 30c a peck. Carrots and parsnips had a brisk market at $1.50 to $1.75 a bushel.

Eggs were firmer, 31c to 32c a dozen being paid for crate lots. Single dozens retailed for 34c. As expected butter was decidedly firm. Creamery brought 46c to 47c a pound, dairy butter in rolls 43c to 44c, and dairy butter in crocks 42c a pound. There was only a slight demand for maple syrup, as there has been a good supply since the season opened, and the run during the week was large. The highest prevailing price was $1.75, while some brought only $1.50. Honey was sold at $1.30 to $1.40 in ten-pound pails. The poultry market was quiet.

Hay prices were unchanged, loads selling for $12 to $13.50 a ton. Straw was steady at $8.50 to $9.50 a ton. Wheat was firm, although the price has risen on larger markets. Oats were unchanged at $2.20 a cwt.

Hogs were easier, only $16.25 a cwt. liveweight being paid. This price is expected to prevail throughout the week. Sales of fat sows were made at $12.75 a cwt. Small pigs brought $11 to $15 a pair. Dressed hogs were steady at $20 a cwt. and there was no change in the price of other meats. Prices in the hide market were steady.

GRAIN.

Chicago, April 21.—Sharp breaks in wheat prices resulted today largely from unconfirmed rumors of revolutionary outbreaks in Hungary and of disturbed conditions in Bulgaria. Reports of serious strike rioting in Germany also had a bearish effect, and tended to give more credence to the Hungarian and Bulgarian rumors. Trade was light and the market easily influenced.

Opening prices, which ranged from 4½c decline to ¾c advance, with May at $2 32@2 33, and July at $1 98@2 01, were followed by rallies in some cases of 5½c, but then a drop that reached an extreme of 7½c, the latter in September, which fell to $1 72½, as against $1 80 soon after the opening.

Close.—Dealings in stocks during the day's short session were almost too circumscribed for specific comment. The small turnover was limited to desultory offerings of professionals, who renewed their attacks upon individual issues, mainly munitions and equipments. Early losses of 2 to 4½ points in Bethlehem, Sloss-Sheffield, Air Brake, Industrial Alcohol, Ohio Gas and Pittsburg Coal were accompanied by smaller recessions in shippings, metals, motors, oils and some of the prominent rails, including Pacifics, New York Central and coalers. Rallies were general in the later trading, some stocks making full recoveries. The closing was steady. Sales approximated 225,000 shares. Bonds were irregular.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

New York, April 21.—Trading in stocks during the week denoted little more than an extension of operations on the part of an increasing short interest whose activities centred largely around special issues of the class which may be expected to bear the brunt of heavy taxation involved in the Federal Government's program of war revenues.

Pressure upon these stocks was severe enough at times to provoke liquidation of representative securities, including standard rails and industrials, but recessions in that quarter were relatively moderate, although minor steels and various munitions and equipments fell to lowest levels of the past fortnight. The action of the interstate commerce commission in granting a provisional freight rate increase of 15 per cent imparted only slight and irregular strength to rails, probably because of the strenuous opposition offered by shippers. General conditions affecting the railroads are vastly better, however, than those of the early months of the year, both as to earnings and crop prospects.

In the larger domain of finance discussion dealt mainly with the financial appropriations to be made by the Government as measures of relief for the Entente Allies. The decision of the treasury officials to increase the rate of interest on $200,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness from 2½ to 3 per cent is naturally calculated to make that offering more attractive to investors.

General industrial and mercantile conditions reported by leading authorities are somewhat tempered by concern regarding tax problems, as noted by the executive of the United States Steel Corporation. Sealing down of profits on war contracts and the likelihood of immediate regulation of the commodities markets also entered largely into the week's dealing.

WALL STREET.

New York, April 21.—Wall Street, 10:10 a.m.—Shippings, coppers, United States Steel and rails were fractionally lower at the opening of today's trading. Dealings were light and narrow.

10:30 a.m.—Selling of special stocks was resumed at the opening of today's market, pressure being again most pronounced in the war group. Bethlehem Steel (new stock) yielded 2½ points, with 3 for the old shares. Industrial Alcohol broke 4 points, New York Air Brake 3¾, and Crucible Steel and Utah Copper a point each. Recessions in United States Steel, Central Leather and Marines amounted to substantial fractions. Ohio Gas fell 3 points, and most rails were slightly under yesterday's final quotations.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

London, April 21.—The stock market today displayed the usual Saturday quietude, with most of the business in oil shares, exchequer bonds and Japanese bonds at steady prices. Shipping shares also had a good tone, but Brazilian transactions were still weak features on the opening. American securities were but little affected by the freight rates decision, and closed quiet.

The £50,000,000 treasury bills offered last night were allotted at higher rates, and open market discounts remained firm today, while money supplies were diminished by payments for the treasury bills and repayments to the Bank of England.

STRICTLY NEUTRAL IS SPAIN'S STAND, SAYS NEW CABINET

But Will "Spring to Defence of Nation's Honor."

Madrid, Via Paris, April 21.—The new cabinet has had its first meeting and has issued a note announcing that it will maintain strict neutrality toward all the belligerents. The text of the note follows:

"The cabinet meeting was devoted to a study of the questions which now principally concern the country; the home and foreign policy, problems of food supply and imports and exports.

"As regards the foreign policy the Government declares itself in full agreement with the crown address, and the answer given thereto by parliament. While being guided by the policy observed by the Dato and Romanones ministries the Government will maintain toward the belligerents the same strict neutrality, and will persevere in the same line of conduct hitherto followed by Spain, remaining faithful to the obligations of the treaties in force and being always inspired by the defence of the honor and vital interests of the nation.

Will Consult Parliament.

"As under the present circumstances any government, and more especially a Liberal one, must remain in close touch with public opinion, the new cabinet will render an account to the country of its acts of an international character. If it finds itself faced by some grave event of a nature to modify its present attitude, it will take no decision without consulting parliament."

The note concluded with an announcement that constitutional guarantees will be restored. It adds that severe punishment will be meted out to all who attemp

CITY BREVITIES

ON OVERSEAS UNIT.—The appointment of Lieut. Marshal J. Andrew of the 108th Regiment to the 108th Overseas Company at Kitchener, is approved in camp orders today.

BADLY DAMAGED—A vacant frame house at 40 Dundas street, West London, was badly damaged by fire last night. The blaze started in the back from unknown causes, and worked its way up into the attic. The building is owned by Wm. Scarrow

PURSE OF GOLD—H. J. Holladay, foreman at the Spramotor shell factory was presented with a purse of gold and an address on Thursday evening. The presentation was made on behalf of the employees by D. Mills, and the address was read by C. Norman.

GUESTS OF MOTHERS' CLUB.—A number of returned soldiers were entertained by the members of the Simcoe Street Mothers' Club at the Simcoe street school Thursday. A brief address was made by one of the returned men, and an excellent musical program completed a pleasant evening. During an intermission in the program refreshments were served.

ANOTHER FORESTRY UNIT.—In addition to the forestry draft which is to be organized by Major Taylor of the 30th Wellington Regiment, another forestry draft is authorized in today's camp orders. This draft will be recruited by Capt. R. L. Graham, formerly of the 227th Battalion, and he will have under his command two lieutenants and 172 rank and file. This unit will be recruited in Western Ontario.

TO HELP CHILDREN.—Mrs. A. T. Edwards of this city, treasurer of the local Belgian relief fund, Thursday evening addressed a patriotic meeting in Ailsa Craig, the proceeds of which are to go to Mrs. Edgar Adamson's fund for the relief of Belgian children. Provision is being made by the fund for 900 Belgion refugee children in England between the ages of six and fourteen years.

CARS COLLIDE.—Charles Swazie, a local taxi driver, crashed into the rear of an auto driven by Manager Richards of the Goodyear Tire Company, near the corner of Queen's avenue and Maitland streets last evening. Some damage was done to Mr. Richards' car. A car was approaching from the opposite direction, and Mr. Swazie claimed it was aosolutely impossible for him to see the car ahead of him owing to the glare of the headlights.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES. — The anniversary services of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church, Dr. McCrae, minister, will be continued Sunday and Monday. On Sunday Rev. Dr. Silcox of the First Congregational Church will preach in the morning, and Rev. J. E. Holmes of the Ridout Street Methodist Church in the evening. On Monday evening the full choir of St. Andrew's Church will give a concert, and addresses will be given by Rev. D. C. MacGregor and Rev. James MacKay and others.

NEARLY $2,500 SENT FOR POOR BELGIANS

Mrs. Boomer Has Just Forwarded the Tenth Donation.

At a meeting of the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon the president, Mrs. H. A. Boomer, reported that she had just forwarded the tenth donation of £50 to headquarters in England for the relief of destitute Belgians. This means almost $2,500, and Mrs. Boomer has $31.74 already towards another £50 which she hopes to send soon as the need is very great.

It was decided to ask the National Council to request the Government to make arangements so that men who are imprisoned can be put at some useful work, for which they can be paid regularly, the money to go towards the support of their wives and children. Under present conditions many of the women and children are left practically destitute and many suffer severely for long periods through no fault of their own.

A resolution was passed requesting the National Council to take action to adequately express to Mrs. Willoughby Cummings of Toronto, the deep gratitude that all members of the order feel toward her for the 26 years of continuous work she has done, and the National Council will also be requested that she be made a permanent member of the executive and one of the vice-presidents.

At the meeting of the National Council resolutions will also be considered asking for supervised immigration, supervised playgrounds and better regulations for public health.

ELECTED OFFICERS.—At a meeting of the choir of the Centennial Methodist Church last evening, officers for the year were elected as follows: President, V. Atkinson; vice-president, Miss Gladys Gower; secretary, Miss Gladys Stanfield; assistant, Earl Schott; treasurer, Howard Ferguson; librarians, Ernest Mills and Mr. Thomas; executive committee, John Wilkey and Bert Weir.

PHOTOPLAY NEWS

AT THE PATRICIA.

In keeping with the progressive policy of his theatre, Manager Stewart of the Patricia has secured George M. Cohan's first photoplay, to be released by Artcraft Pictures, "Broadway Jones."

"Ever since the early days of the motion picture, George M. Cohan has been approached by various big motion picture interests with flattering offers but it was not until a few months ago that he finally decided to branch out into this field. At the head of his own company he commenced activities in the motion picture art with the same enthusiasm and energy that has marked his great success in theatricals. Selecting "Broadway Jones," conceded to be his biggest stage hit, and which was written and produced by himself, he makes his bow as a screen star, and that the film version of this play will even score a greater success than the original play is freely predicted. Next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

YOU CAN REDUCE YOUR COST OF LIVING BY USING PARNELL'S BREAD

This is an absolute fact, and one that should be of considerable interest to every housewife during these strenuous days. Bread is the most economical item of foodstuff used today, and yet the most nourishing. It contains all the body-building nutriments found in any other food, and in a great many instances in greater quantities than in foods costing five and six times as much.

Physicians, Dietitians and Hospitals Recommend Bread for Building Up a Run-Down System. It Is Just as Efficacious in Keeping You Well

Children should be given all the bread they will eat. If parents insisted upon their children eating bread and butter with syrup and jam, or bread and milk or bread puddings, the number of delicate, pale children would decrease materially. One of the big reasons for illness and anaemic conditions is mal-nutrition, which is caused by eating foods the system cannot digest. Bread is easily digested—that is, if it is made of proper ingredients under sanitary conditions.

PARNELL'S BREADS ARE THE RESULT OF NEARLY FORTY YEARS' EXPERIMENTS. They are made of the finest grade of flour, sugar, salt, yeast and malt extract it is possible to obtain, from a formula worked out by us after years of baking experience.

Use More Bread and Your Living Expenses Will Decrease.
Use More Bread and Your General Health Will Increase.

Another Way to Reduce the Cost of Living is--- use every particle of bread you buy. A great many people waste crusts and slices that have gone slightly stale. That is wrong at any time, but particularly now when the nation is short of foodstuffs, it is a crime. There are hundreds of dainty dishes that can be made from bread.

We have a booklet telling how to prepare those dishes. If you write us for it, mentioning name of this paper, we'll send it to you free.
