A MAP OF P. E. ISLAND, COLOURED so as to show the Electoral Dist. For sale at Gas. T. Hassann's Rock St PADDY o DOUGHERTY.

A More rough looking picture of the human form diviue, was naver, probably, presented to Timothy Brown than Paddy O'-Dougherty, as he applied to Mr. Brown for a day's work on the High Bridge; and our aketch was taken at this period. Now, Timothy was a smart, driving Yankee—keen as a brier, determinate, shrewd and persevering. He had taken a contract for certain portions of the mason work, to finish out an abutment at the end of the bridge. He had calculated on employing workmen at the lowest price, and had calculated to meet, many honest Irishmen, at that low price, who would rather work than starve. He would have been disposed to have paid more, but, in the face of sharp competition, he was chliged to make his bid very low, in order to procure its acceptance.

When spoken to by Paddy, his eye glanced hastily over his stalwart figure, and Timothy's judgment pronounced him a good man. He thought he would be willing to pay such a man one dollar per day, but his Yankee shrewdness tempted him to make a much lower offer at first, expecting some chaffering on Paddy's part, after which he could increase his offer according to circumstances. Accordingly, he offered him forty cents per day, and was surprised upon its immediate acceptance by Paddy.

Stripping his shoulders, Paddy was at work instantly. There was a quiet alacrity in his movements, and a gleam of intelligence from his eye, that spoke of self-confidence on Paddy's part, mere than Timothy Brown had calculated. Paddy kept steadily at work, and proved the best hand employed.

His savings were carefully treasured, and PADDY O'DOUGHERTY.

His savings were carefully treasured, and none spent on drink or smoke. Every cent of these, his first earnings in America, were of these, his first earnings in America, were devoted to a sacred purpose—that purpose to bring out his wife and child to the country of his adoption. Paduy had left home a pauper, made so by the unfeeling treatment of a harsh landlord. But he had a stout heart, and rather than mourn over his demolished hut at home, he determined that his own right hand should win him a competence elsewhere. Alone, one night he departed from his native place, and sought a scaport town. Unknown and unfriended, an honest countenance procured him employment as a stevedore on a vessel friended, an honest countenance procured him employment as a stevedore on a vessel loading for America. As payment, he was given a free passage in the steerage. And thus Paddy stood, with his bundle on his back, not an hour off the ship, when he heard of the opportunities of work at High Bridge. He lost no time, but quietly inquired the way, and walked from the city the same afternoon.

red the way, and walked from the city ine same afternoon.

And now, pursuing the even tenor of his way, minding his own business, working hard, but his wages being gradually raised, we see Paddy fairly afloat in the New World. Six months after, Paddy remitted home the money for the passage of his wife. Nine months from the day he landed he moved his wife and family into a humble little dwelling, entirely used for an humble little dwelling, entirely paid for by his earnings.

Soon after, he left Mr. Brown's employ, being offered situation as porter; he did not hesitate to accept it. Hera, his honesty, hesitate to accept it. Here, his honesty, willingness and integrity, soon made him a general favorite. Once favored with opportunities for exercising his intelligence, he soon proved that not the accident of birth makes a truly smart man. In five years he was the best business partner in the house which he entered as porter.

IS GOLD BETTER THAN FARM PRODUCE.

The Ohio Farmer, in commenting upon the letter of a California correspondent, makes some very sensible remarks about the mania which has possessed the people of this country to forsake the golden fields of their own State, to die in the stool fields.

of their own State, to die in the "gold fields" of California, where they often gather more disappointment than produce.

It has ever been our opinion (says the Farmer) that the ultimate prosperity of California, or any other State, must be influenced more by its adaptation to agricultural pursuits than by any or all the gold mines that have been or may be found therein. There can be no sort of doubt but that the greatest source of wealth which California possesses, is found in the rich valleys, table lands, and the mountain slopes so graphically described by Fremont, and now so ally noticed by Mr. Kelly When these resources are developed, as they will be very sone, its gold diggings and quartz rock will sink with comparative insignificance — Look at it. It is said that the yield of gold from the California mines for the current year will reach the enormous sum of fifty-five or sixty millions of dollars! An enormous sum truly; and yet we venture to say that the value of the hey crop along of the State of New York will fully equal it! Six counties of that State produced, in 1850, 809 000 tone of hay which, at $7 per ton, would be $5,900,000.—This they do year after year, with a gradual increase; year after year, with a gradual increase; and yet, how few are seen rushing to the modewas of Oueida, Jefferano, Chenango, Delware, Chautanque or, Lawrence. The wheat and corn fields of Ohio produce The wheat and corn fields of Ohio produce annually more dollars than the gold mines of California. Yet there is no noise undeabout it; and instead of thousands rushing to them in the hope of growing suddenly rich, thousands have been fleeing from them in search of gold—gold—gold. We hazard nothing in saying that had the emigrants to California, since the discovery of gold there, gone instead to the rich lands of our Western States, they could have produced double the amount of all the gold dug from the mines of that El Dorado. The capital necessary to place a man in working condition in the California mines would have settled him comfortably on an eighty acre lot in Idwa, in a good cabin, a team, farming utensile, provisions, &c., and insured him, instead of a chance for little gold, the certainty of an independent position in life, without the sacrifice of home friends, health, morals, and indeed all that, Irtends, neath, morats, and indeed all that, men should esteem valuable in life, Thank heaven, the "gold mania" is in its decadence, and the time is near when it will be seen and known, that every ounce of gold dust dug. from the mines of California, has cost twice its market value.

GAMBLING INDEED.

GAMBLING INDEED.
One night last week says the N. Y. Sunday Courier a celebrated steamboat owner, railroad builder, and general contractor, walked into a highly, respectable gambling house on Broadway, and plumped down fitness thousand dollars on a card, and won, the then staked a thousand dollar bill and won that, and then another, whereupon the bank broke, and the sport of the evening was spoiled.

Another celebrated New Yorker, as well know in the sporting world as the other

Another celebrated New Yorker, as well know in the sporting world as the other gentleman, and equally in favour of a higher-law went into another gambling house and won nearly the same amount, with the same result—breaking the bank, for the time being, and spoiling other people's pleasures. We have not seen any allusions to these two breaking the noney articles. time being, and spoiling other people's pleasures. We have not seen any allusions to these two breaks in the money articles of the daily press; but the facts are as we have stated them; and we might state a good many more interesting particulars, growing out of those operations, if it was contrary to our principles to meddle with other people's affairs which do not come properly before the public. But we have a remark to make on the facts we have disclosed, for the benefit of the public at large. Let no extravagant, young man about town, closed, for the benefit of the public at large. Let no extravagant young man about town, who is impatient to grow rich in the twink-ling of a knave of diamonds make an experiment at a gambling table, with the expectation that a similar piece of good luck might befall him. Such turns only happen once or twice in a thousand years; and none but a double distilled dunce will appear to the benefit of the country with all most the hazard of a dis-venture his all upon the hazard of a die.

In the first of the instances which w which he entered as porter.

Eight years from the time in which he first engaged himself to Timothy Brown at forty cents per day, Paddy O'Doughetty was worth one hundred thousand dollars, owned a country seat within sight of his first day's labors, and employed Timothy Brown as superintendant of it, at two dollars per day; and, though rough be the name, few gentlemen more affable, polite, or intelligent, or more gentlemantly in appearance, can this day be seen in Water street than this same Paddy O'Dougherty.

In the first of the instances which we have given, the gambler had a million or two of dollars to fall back upon if he had lost, and he would probably stake two or three hundred thousand dollars in his anniable attempt to break the bank. In the other case, the adventurer played with borrowed money, and if he had lost his thousand dollars, would have been compelled to retire with his hands in his empty pockets. The present is a gambling age, can this day be seen in Water street than this same Paddy O'Dougherty. led to retire with an analysis of the present is a gambling age, and there are Pat Hearns in Wall Street as well as in Broadway. Brokers gamble in stocks, merchants gamble in clipper slips, in stocks, merchants gamble in clipper ships, builders in houses, jobbers in calicoes, publishers in books, speculators in cottom, and politicians in principles. Gamblers, whether with cards or merchandise, are slike a curse to the community; they add nothing to the common prosperity; and whenever they make a gain it must be to the loss of some other person. The only valuable members of society are the slow and patient producers—mechanics, the farmers, and regular trades, who work hard, save a little, live consistently, and die happy.

CUTTING THE BIRTH OF PIECES.—A young man, a soldier, who was leading a dissolute life, was often reproved by a pious friend, but to no purpose. At last his friend gave bim a Bible; the young man immediately said, "I will cut it in pieces before your face:" which he instantly did with his aword, and over after shunned his friend's company. About two years after this occurred, he was brought to a sick and dying hed, and cent fee his friend, and expressed a wish to have a Bible brought to him. He received it, and read it; and one day he clasped the book with both his hands, and exclaimed, "O that ever such a wretch as I should be permitted to read this blessed book, which I once cut to pieces! This book has now cut my sins in pieces, and led me to Christ as my Saviour. O that I could recall my property and murdered time! all, all should be spent in distributing this blessed book!"

REVERSE OF FORTUNE. -- In Midsumme last year, A merchant fitted out a vessel from the Clyde for Melbourne, he being owner of both ship and cargo. She carried from the Clyde for Melbourne, he being owner of both ship and cargo. She carried out a number of passengers, and among the crew was a poor boy who was taken out free for his labour. When the vessel arrived at Melbourne the owner sold the cargo, and shortly afterwards the vessel, and remitted the proceeds to his frends at home. This poor boy got employment in one of the numerous lighters that ply between the large emigrant ships and Melbourne, carrying a cargo, a very profitable twen the large emigrant ships and Mel-bourne, carrying a cargo, a very profitable trade, and he last week remitted £10 of his savings, accompanied by a letter, in which he says—"1 am well employed, and saving money. You may, perhaps, be aware that the ship I came in was sold here, and the owner is driving a cart through Melbourne; the captain is employed as a labourer about the wharfs; while a young gentleman, a relative of the owner, is carrying a hod in a brick store."—North British Mail,

ADVICE.

Read, work, and study. Yes, young men, read and study earnstly, determinedly, bravely. It is the only way to get along in this rough and tumble world.

Who is it that gets statiou, honour, emolument, who occupies the high and golden places in every community? The man who reads, studies, and works of course; it could not be otherwise, from the very nature of things. That man who does very nature of things. That man who does not read, work, and study, who is he?— Look at him! What is he? Men of sense shun him! Women of sense cut him! WHERE ARE THE SHIPS BUILT .- Withwhere are the sairs built.—within five years, the commerce of the Pacific and the increase of our trade with foreign nations generally, have created such a demand for ships as was never before known. More than 530,000 tons of vessels of all classes, were built in the United States, in the wear ending June. 1853. Of these of all classes, were built in the United States, in the year ending June, 1853. Of the ships built there, 54,000 tons were sold out of the state, at a value of nearly three million dollars. In the tonnage built, Maine million dollars. In the tonnage built, Maine has quadrupled in the last seventeen years, increasing from 27,000 tons in 1836, to 110,000 in 1852, and making a gain of more than 30,000 tons in the very last year. The character of their ships has very much improved, and under the present demand wages have so risen, that every man who swings an axe—and there are but few who can't in Maine—is induced to enter the yards.

In ship owning, Maine is, also increasing upon her sister states. She has half as much tonnage as New York, three-fourths as much as Massachusetts and twice as much as any other State.—Newburypert Union.

In the Mother Country, it is not uncommon to bear of Coachmaker to Her Majesty. Perfame? Harness maker, and we think we once heard of Leather Breeches maker to her Majesty. So the situation of Queen's Printer is a very respectable, and a very lucrative appointment, as we helicite the present occupant continues to make it, but, it requires no extraordinary talents we believe to fill it. And we are fully of opinion, and we believe that most people are so likewise, that Mr. Ings or Mr Haszard Juncould execute the duties of the situation, that is, print, what they were codered to print, and charge the highest possible price for it as well as Mr. Whelan, and we venture to think as well as Mr. Whelan, and we venture to think as well as he express the hought that the Government Printing might be more expeditionally, if not better done by a tradesman who was in his place of business presiding over his workmen, than, grasting his time—though at the public expense—night after night in making fustian speeches and self laudatory orations. And of one thing we are sure, that a mechanic who is paid for his work by the piece has no business sitting with his employers, he and they alternately passing one anothers accounts. Not is the Collector of lamport and Recise, Mr. Fraser, a head of a department for in truth there is no department of excise, every district being totally independant each of the other and every district collector in his many who keeps a check upon him and to whom he is amenable. Ms. Hassand, Sir,—Among the new lights thrown out of late in elheldation of the theory of Government, we have had a lesson as to what constitutes interference with the Prerogative, and the remonstrance of certain Magistrates addressed to the Lieut. Governor, on the subject of a recent appointment to their body, has, with no small amount of tergiversation, been represented as liable to that construction. I know not if the Lieut. Governor reads the Advertiser or would suffer his mind to be misled by the assertions it contains, any more than by similar ones which occasionally appear in the Royal Gazette. He is doubtless too well acquainted with the matter of the Prerogative, and the limited exercise of it entrusted to him by his Sovereign, to allow himself to be influenced by such doctrines.

The remonstrance or "Memorial," as it is termed of the Magistrates, which preceded their resignation, as also the resignation itself, have both been before the public. We are therefore at liberty to form an opinion of them, and none can deny that they are couched in language, respectful towards his Excellency, and with becoming regard to the dignity of his station. Now this is the main essential to the matter, for there can be no doubt that the Magistrates had a perfect right to make that remonstrance, and an equal right to resign their offices, on its unfavorable reception, if they thought file, without subjecting themselves to the silly imputation of attempting to dictate to his Excellency, or to interfere with the exercise of the Prerogative:

'4t may be observed in reference to this doctrine that the creation of Perevis one of those exclusive privileges of the Crown which from lime inamemorial has been jealously guarded by the Sovereigns of Rigiand: and by none more so than George the Third.—Yet we find that on the 7th, of February 1782, when it was announced in the House of Cords that Lord George Germatice was to be raised to the Peering by the title of Viscoant Scieville; a motion was made by L

Sir.—I notice that in the correspondance published in the newspapers as having taken place between His Excellency the Lieut. Governor and the gentlemen who have I think with credit to themselves resigned their Commissions as Justices of the Peace, that Sir Alexander states that nothing against Mr. Wholan's character since he became an Exceutive Councellor and was placed in the Commission of the Peace nearly two and a. half years ago, was ever brought to his notice. Now Mr. Editor will you inform the public if it is not the case that when the present government came into power and Mr. Whelan with the other members were sworn into, office, that Hen. Mr. Rope (who had for some time previous voted with the present government party) for some days refused sworn into, office, that Hon. Mr. Pope (who had for some time previous voted with the present government party) for some days refused to be sworn in, an Executive Councellor alleging as his reason the charges known to exist against Mr. Whelan, and which had never been cleared up to his satisfaction, and will you also inform the public if the Hon. Mr. Haythorn was not also some time since offered a seat in the Executive Councel and refused to take it alleging as a reason that he would not sit at the Board while Mr. Whelan was allowed to retain his seat there. An answer to these queries would at the present moment give satisfaction, for iff Mr. Whelan is not guilty of the crime attributed to him he ought to be acquited before the public which certainly is not the case. Notwithstanding I presume that he in this last paper dares the magistrates to do that which I presume they will now do via. bring forth the other circumstances affecting his charter in this community to which they allude in their letter to the Lieut. Governor.

The stock has been much enlarged by are now som for cash at the book store of sir. 0. T. Haszard. The stock has been much enlarged by recent importations, and many works of the best English divines will be found on their shelves—The Parent Society has also entrusted this Committee with six Libraries to be sold at half price to Sanaday Schools. These libraries anumbering from 80 to 1000 volumes, can thus be purchased for £25 cy. As it will materially advance the interests of religion amongst our scattered population to have grants of hooks towards the formation of libraries and the establishment of Sanday Schools, especially in the country, parts; it is carnestly hoped that Christian friends will help as with their subscriptions. A few pounds ambierited now, would enable the Committee to do much towards supplying the most destinut settlements with sound, wholesome religious reading.

Under the Patronage of His Excellancy

The Paironage of His Excellancy Sir ALEXANDER BANNEMAN, Enight.

CEORGE LORD, begs leave respectfully to intimute to his friends and the public in general, that he has resumed his practice in the VETERINARY LINE, under the patronage of His Excellency Sir ALEXANDE BRANNEMBAN, Knight.

After a successful practice of 27 years—14 in England and 13 in America—in the course of which he has been directly instrumental, through his skill, in saving, for their owners, the lives of many valuable Hobbers and Cows; he hopes that, in now soliciting a renewal of Public Patronage, he may be permitted to say that he considers himself to be as well qualified to prescribe MEDICINES and preform OPERATIONS, in the capacity of a Hobber and Cow DOCTOR, as any individual who has ever practised in that line in this Colony; and, he, therefore, presumes that he may confidently look forward to a renewal of that patronage which he formerly enjoyed in this land.

COMMERCIAL VALUE OF HONESTY .- An old trader among the Northern Indians, who had some years ago established him-self on the Wissers, tells a good story, with a moral worth recollecting, about the first trials of trading with his red customers. The Indians, who evidently wanted goods, and had both money (which they called shune ah) and furs, flocked about his state. they called shune ah) and furs, flocked about his store, and examined his goods, but for some time bought nothing. Finally, their chief, with a large body of his followers, visited him and accosted him with, 'How do, Thomas, show me goods, I take four yard calico, three coonskins for yard, pay you by,m-by—to-morrow," received his goods and left. Next day he returned with his whole band, his blankets stuffed with coon skins. "Amfollowers, visited him and accosted him with, 'How do, Thomas, show me goods, I take four yard calico, three coonskins for yard, pay you by,m-by—to-morrow," received his goods and left. Next day he returned with his whole band, his blankets stuffed with coon skins. 'American man, I pay now," with this he began counting out the skins, until he had handed him over twelve. Then after a moment's pause, he offered the trader one more, remarking as he did it,—"That's it," 'I handed it back," said the trader, "telling him he owed me but twelve, and I would not cheat him." We continued to pass it back and forth, each one asserting that it belonged to the other. At last he appeared to be satisfied, gave me a scrutinizing look placed the skin in the folds of his himbar and accosted him with a first proof celler, also a garden attached, part of the above buildings are new and the remainder easily so and in good order, all of these premises are pleasently situated in that little and fast growing town Summerside, further information may be had on applying to Mr. P. Power on the premises or to Charlottetewn, Nov. 10th, 1885. a scrutinizing look placed the skin in the folds of his blanket, stepped to the door and gave a yell, and cried in a loud voice: "Come come, and trade with the pale face, he no cheat Indian; his heart big." He then turned to me and said: "You take that skin, I tell Indian no trade with you-drive you off like a dog-but now you Indian's friend, and we yours." fore sundown I was waist deep in fors, and loaded down with cash. So I lost nothing by my honesty .- Western pa-Doing WHAT I LIKE WITH MY OWN .-

Crossing Hampstead-heath, Erskine saw a ruffianly driver most unmercifully pummelling a miserably bareboned packhorse, and on remonstrating with him received this answer- Why, it's my own; mayn't I use it as I pleuse?" As the fellow spoke he discharged a fresh shower of plows on the raw back of the beast. Erskine, much irritated by this brutality, laid two or three sharp blows of his walkingstick over the shoulders of the cowardly offender, who, crouching and grumbling, asked him what business he had to touch him with his stick? "Why," replied Erskine, "My stick is my own; mayn't I use it as I please?"—Campbell's Life of the Lord Chancellor.

THE AUTHOR OF "SWEET HOME."-The life of J. Howard Payne, the author "Sweet Home," was one of remarkable vicissitudes. "Of an evening," says one who knew him, "we would walk along the streets, looking into the lighted par-lours as we passed. Once in a while we would see some family circle so happy, and forming so beautiful a group, that we would both stop, and then pass silently on. On such occasions he would give me a history of his wanderings, his trials, and all the cares incident to his sensitive nature and poverty. "How often," said he once, "I have been in the heart of Paris, Berlin, London, or some other city, and heard persons singing, or the hand organ playing, 'Sweet Home,' without a shilling to buy the next meal, or a place to put my head! The world has, literally, sung it until every heart is familiar with its melody. Yet I have been a wanderer from my boyhood."

ARCHIBALD SCOTT, Esq.

SIR,—As the Agent of various Fire Insurance Componies, I beg to bring under your notice my PATENT ARTIFICIAL SLATE. This composition has been upwards of, three years extensively used in New Branswick, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, the Canadas and Nova Scotia, principally for covering shingled roofs, as you will perceive by the accompanying circulars of certificates. It has been severely tested, and proved most successfully its fire-proof qualities under most extraordinary circumstances; so much so, that I am of opinion that Fire Insurances are much so, that I am of opinion that Fire Insurances are much so, that I am of opinion that Fire Insurances are the solid to be such as he back walls of dwellings in the city, out houses, ware, houses, stee, as well as the roofs) by lowering the premium of insurance on such buildings as are covered.

I have the honor to be, sir,

I have the honor to be, sir,,
Your obedient servant,

Sin,—In answer to your note of the 12th inst. I consider the use of your "Artificial Slate Paint" on shingled Roofs, as greatly diminishing the risk against Fire—I have frequently reduced the premiums on Buildings in the Country, upon its application,
I am, sir, your ob't servant.

WINNOWING MACHINES. HAVING now permanently located myself one mile from New Ginsgow, on the New Ginsgow Road, the farmers in the surrounding country may depend upon being supplied with anything in my line, got up in the very best and most substantial manner. I do not profess to sell—as cheap as some others do, or offer to do. No first-rate article can be beaght as low as poor common ones can. But I do profess to make the best the very decidedly best, FANNING MILLS made on the Island.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for au effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accompliahes the purpose designed. It is casy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have uone of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been attempted here, and riping pain and revalision in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no fritation or pain, unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harin can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been specific quered by then, we may mention Liever Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundico, Indigestion, Languer and Loss of Appetite, Listiesances, Irritability, Billous Headache, Billious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side
