CHAPTER XV.

Arthur Carrollton and Maggie.

After this manner he reasoned as he walked up and down his chamber, while Maggie, on her sleepless pillow, was thinking, too, of him, wondering if she hated him as much as she intended, and if Henry would be offended at her sitting up with him till after twelve o'clock.

It was near half-past nine when Maggie awoke next morning, and making a hasty toilet, she descended to the dining-room, where she found Mr. Carrollton awaiting her. He had been up a long time; but she made a living, glowing picture, such as any man might delight to look upon. Breakfast being over, Mr. Carrollton proposed a ride, and as Anna Jeffrey at that moment entered the parlor, he invited her to accompany them. There was a shadow on Maggie's brow, as she left the room to dress, a shadow which had not wholly disappeared when she returned; and observing this, Mr. Carrollton said, 'Were I to consult my own wishes, Maggie, I should leave Miss Jeffrey at home; but she is a poor girl whose enjoyments are far less than ours, consequently I invited her for this once, knowing how fond she is of riding.'

"How thoughtful you are of other people's happiness!" said Maggie, the shadow leaving her brow at once. "I am glad that wrinkle is gone, at all events," returned Mr. Carrollton, laughingly, and laying his hand upon her forehead, he continued: "Were you my sister Helen, I should probably abkiss you for having so soon got over your pet; but as you are Maggie Miller, I dare not," and he looked when Anna Jeffrey, blessed with an uncommon appetite, fretted at the delay of breakfast, and suggested calling Margaret, he objected, saying she needed rest, and must not be disturbed. So, in something of a pet, the young lady breakfasted alone with her aunt, Mr. Carrollton preferring to wait for Maggie.

"I am sorry I kept you waiting," said Maggie, seating herself at the table, and continuing to apologize for her tardiness.

But Mr. Carrollton felt more than repaid by having her alone with him and many were the admiring glances he cast toward her, as with her shining hair, her happy face, her tasteful morning gown of pink, and her beautiful white hands which handled so gracefully the silver coffee-urn, earnestly at her, to see if he had spoken the truth.

Coloring crimson as it became the affianced bride of Henry Warner to do, Maggie turned away, thinking Helen must be a happy girl, and, half wishing she, too, were Arthur Carrollton's sister. It was a long, delightful excursion they took, and Maggie when she saw how Anna Jeffrey enjoyed it, did not altogether regret her presence. On their way home she proposed calling on Hagar, 'whom she had not seen for three whole days.'

"And who, pray is Hagar?" asked Mr. Carrollton; and Maggie replied, 'She is my 'old nurse—a strange, crazy creature, whom they say I somewhat resemble.'

By this time they were near the cottage in the door of which old Hagar was standing, with her white hair falling round her face.

"I see by your looks, you don't care to call, but I shall," said Maggie, and bounding from her saddle she ran up to Hagar, pressing her hand and whispering in her ear, that it would soon be time to hear from Henry.'

"Kissed her, I do believe!" said Anna Jeffrey. "She must have admirable taste!"

Mr. Carrollton thought so, too, and with a half-comical, half-displeased expression, he watched the interview between that weird old woman and fair young girl, little suspecting how nearly they were allied.

"Why didn't you come and speak to her?" said Maggie, as he alighted to assist her in again mounting Griddy. "She used to see you in England, when you were a baby, and if you won't be angry, I'll tell you what she said; it was that you were the cross-trest, ugliest young one she ever saw! There, there, don't set me down so hard!" and the saucy eyes looked mischievously at the proud Englishman, who, truth to say, did place her in the saddle with a little more force than was at all necessary.

Not that he was angry. He was only annoyed for what he considered Maggie's undue familiarity with a person like Hagar, but he wisely forbore making any comments in Anna Jeffrey's presence, except, indeed, to laugh heartily at Hagar's complimentary description of himself when a baby. Arrived at home, and alone with Maggie, he found her so very good-natured and agreeable, that he could not chide her for anything, and Hagar was for a time forgotten.

That evening, as the reader knows, they went together to the depot, where they waited four long hours, but not impatiently; for sitting there in the moonlight with the winding Chicompe full in view, and Margaret Miller at his side, Arthur Carrollton forgot the lapse of time, especially when Maggie thinking no harm, gave a most ludicrous description of her call upon Mrs. Douglas senior, and of her grandmother's distress at finding herself so nearly connected with what she termed "a low, vulgar family."

Arthur Carrollton was very proud, and had Theo been his sister, he might to some extent have shared in Madam Conway's chagrin; and so he said to Maggie, at the same time fully agreeing with her that George Douglas was a refined, agreeable gentleman, and as such entitled to respect.

Still, had Theo known of his parentage, he said, it would probably have made some difference; but now that it could not be helped, it was wise to make the best of it.

These words were little heeded then by Maggie, but with most painful distinctness they recurred to her in the after time, when, huddled in the very dust, she had no hope that the high-born, haughty Carrollton would stoop to a child of Hagar Warren! But no shadow of the dark future was over her now, and very eagerly she drank in every word and look of Arthur Carrollton, who, all unconsciously, was trampling on another's rights, and gradually weakening the fancied love she bore for Henry Warner.

The arrival of the train brought their pleasant conversation to a close, and for a day or two Maggie's time was wholly occupied with her grandmother, to whom she frankly acknowledged having told Mr. Carrollton of Mrs. Douglas and her daughter Betsy Jane. The fact that he knew of her disgrace and did not despise her was of great benefit to Madam Conway, and after a few days she resumed her usual spirits, and actually told of the remarks made by Mrs. Douglas concerning herself and the fight she had been in! As time passed on she became reconciled to the Douglases, having, as she thought, some well-founded reasons for believing that for Theo's disgrace, Maggie would make amends by marrying to her the girl whom she had acknowledged having told Mr. Carrollton of. Mr. Carrollton, whose attentions each day became more and more marked, and were not apparently altogether disagreeable to Maggie. On the contrary, his presence at Hillside was productive of much pleasure to her, as well as of a little annoyance.

From the first he seemed to exercise over her an influence she could not well resist—a power to make her do whatever he willed that she should do; and though she sometimes rebelled, she was pretty sure in the end to yield to the contest, and submit to what was evidently the ruling spirit. As yet nothing had been said of the hat ornament which, out of compliment to him, her grandmother wore every morning in her collar, but at least, one day Madam Conway spoke of it herself, asking "if it were, as she had supposed, his grandmother's hat?"

"Why, no," he answered, involuntarily; "it is a lock Maggie sent me in that wonderful daguerreotype!"

"The stupid thing!" thought Maggie, while her eyes fairly danced with merriment, as she anticipated the question she fancied was sure to follow, but did not.

One glance at her tell-tale face was sufficient for Madam Conway. In her

Why Not be Well and Strong

When weak and run down DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will help you back to health.

This letter tells of two women who have proven this. "But, Sir, Cobourg, Ont., writes: 'After recovering from typhoid fever I was left in a very low state of health. I was weak, nervous and not fit to do any work. A friend of mine, Mrs. G. M. Brown, had used DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD and told me that it benefited her wonderfully. I look courage and began the use of the medicine. After taking the first box I began to feel an improvement in health and now after using four boxes I am completely cured. I now feel like myself once more and believe that I can attribute the cure to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.'

Life is too short to spend weeks or months dragging out a miserable existence of weakness and suffering. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures by forming new rich blood and building up the system. You can depend on it to benefit you, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates, & Co., Toronto.

whole household there was but one head with locks as white as that, and whatever her thoughts might have been, she said nothing, but from that day forth, Hagar's hair was never again seen ornamenting her person. That afternoon Mr. Carrollton and Maggie went out to ride, and in the course of their conversation he referred to the pin, asking whose hair it was, and seemed much amused when told that it was Hagar's.

"But why did you not tell her when it first came," he said; and Maggie answered, "Oh, it was such fun to see her sporting Hagar's hair, when she is so proud. It didn't hurt her, either, for Hagar is as good as anybody. I don't believe in making such a difference because one person chances to be richer than another."

"Neither do I," returned Mr. Carrollton; "I would not esteem a person for wealth alone, but there are points of difference which should receive consideration. For instance, this old Hagar may be well enough in her way, but suppose she were nearly connected to you—your grandmother, if you like—it would certainly make some difference in your position. You would not be Maggie Miller, and I—" "Wouldn't ride with me, I dare say," interrupted Maggie; to which he replied, "I presume not," adding as he saw slight indications of pouting, "and therefore I am glad you are Maggie Miller, and not Hagar's grandchild."

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair.

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats which is due entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proved that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proved every day. The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale. This preparation is called SALVIA, and is being sold with a guarantee that it is the first to import this preparation into St. John's and a large generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

9181. — A JAUNTY BLOUSE SUIT.

Boy's Russian Blouse Suit with Knickerbockers.

This jaunty Russian model was made of dark blue serge with stitching for a finish. The special feature of this style is the "body and sleeve in one," but it has a shoulder seam that extends over the sleeve, to the cuff. The design is a simple one and is appropriate for all suitings. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 2, 4, and 6 years. It requires 3 3/8 yards of 36 inch material for the 6 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Suitable materials for any of these patterns can be procured from AYRE & SONS, Ltd. Samples on request. Mention pattern number. Mail orders promptly attended to.

9212. — A SIMPLE PRACTICAL DRESS FOR THE LITTLE MISS.

Girl's Dress in Kimono Style, with Gored Skirt, and Band Trimming (with Front Closing).

Striped galatea in brown and white with bands of white was used for this design. The front closing is a good feature, and the gored skirt will not fail to please. The dress may be finished with a back closing if preferred. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 27 inch material for the 10 year size.

A pattern of this illustration will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

In a Cottage Hospital

by George Trelawney is the book that the reading public in Great Britain is most enthusiastic about now, although just published a second edition in paperback. It is a epoch-making novel. It is hoped that this book will do for the sick poor of Britain what "The Jungle" did for the Chicago "tinny meat" packers. This is not a novel for little people nor for fools. Extra special edition in cloth only 60c. sent post paid on receipt of price only.

The Happiness

BY BUTH CA

So long as we love, we serve; so long as we are loved by others, I would almost say that we are indispensable; and no man is useless while he has a friend.

—Stevenson.

Once upon a time there was a young woman who wished she were not needed so much.

"I wish I were free," she said, "to follow my own will. If my father and mother did not feel they would be too burdensome without me, and my little sister did not need my financial help, I would not be bound by any ties, but I should be at liberty to make and mould his life as he wished; but not sometimes I wish I were not needed so much."

Wonder if there was ever a man who was loved by many ties who has sometimes felt that way—"I wish I were not needed quite so much."

There were ever a number of people who were not bound by any ties, but who were not free to make and mould his life as he wished; but not sometimes I wish I were not needed so much."

How The Body

Germs that get into the body are killed by the blood, and by a germ-killing substance is, we do not know. The blood of a germ-killing substance in it; to ward off the attack of the germ, a man who has a fever does not properly digest his food, will soon get impoverished, and that his whole body is affected. To put the body in healthy condition, and throw out the poisons from the body, Dr. Pierce's excellent Dr. Pierce's glyceric extract (with seal and Oregon grape queen's root with blackberry leaves, and other ingredients) impure blood," writes Dr. K.C. "He had a scab which would not go away for a long time. He tried many medicines, but Golden Medical Discovery has stayed cured now in valuable medicine for the stomach, liver and bowels."

Household Notes.

Never shoes should be stuffed with paper before putting away. It will dry the moisture and prevent the leather from becoming hard.

Some people use the whites as a wash for the whites as in the yolks of eggs in making meringues. Just before serving the meringues the whites of the egg is whipped stiff and beaten into the meringue.

A reliable cement for glass ornaments is found in white of egg, which is so neatly that the breakage may be easily detected. This article of egg is suitable only for articles to be washed.

To shade lace, mix 5 cents worth yellow ochre with an equal quantity of rice powder and put into a tin. Put in the lace and shake it up. Wash off all the powder possible. It will be a fast color.

To fill floor cracks, get a pound of putty, let it stand over night covered with water. Then pour of the putty and stir it into a pound of corn meal. Fill the cracks with this and smooth off with a knife.

After frying doughnuts, place the oil of the grease out of doors and if a little cold water, enough to make the grease bubble. This will break out the burnt taste, and the oil may be used again.

The Happiness of Service.

BY RUTH CAMERON. So long as we love, we serve; so long as we are loved by others, I would almost say that we are indispensable; and no man is useless while he has a friend. —Stevenson. Once upon a time there was a young woman who wished she were not needed so much. "I wish I were free," she said, "to follow my own will. If my father and mother did not feel they would be too burdensome without me, and my little sister did not need my manifold help, and my married sister did not depend on me so much, I think I should go far away and seek my fortune. Oh, dear, I do love my people very dearly, but sometimes I wish I were not needed quite so much."

They are that, but not in the sense you think them. Everyone who needs you is a golden chain that binds you to happiness. And furthermore, any chain of this sort is an ornament. The women of the orient wear chains of gold, sometimes encrusted with jewels, as ornaments. They are not half so great an adornment as these chains you wear, for these are forged in the workshop of human needs out of the precious metal of your unselfishness and your usefulness.

The most tragic thing in life is not to be needed, not to have any of these more than golden chains to wear. You will notice that almost everyone who finds himself, by force of circumstances, robbed of these precious adornments, immediately tries to forge new chains of one kind or another. The woman who has no children tries to make herself necessary to some club or philanthropy or to some social group. And, believe me, my friends, these artificial chains which she forges with so much effort, are not half so beautiful as the chains which have been forged for you in the workshop of human needs.

Says a wise writer, "Only the selfish and the useless are ever free. Those who are worth anything in this world are bound by a hundred chains upon them." Remember this when you hanker for independence, and remember also that every one of the hundred chains are golden chains binding you tight to happiness.

How The Body Kills Germs.

Germs that go into the body are killed in two ways—by the white corpuscles of the blood, and by a germ-killing substance that is in the blood. Just what this substance is, we do not know. The blood of a healthy person always has some germ-killing substance in it to ward off the attack of disease. The fountain head of this is the stomach. A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished. To put the body in healthy condition, to feed the system on rich, red blood and throw out the poisons from the body, nothing in the past forty years has excelled Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a pure glyceric extract (without alcohol), of bloodroot, golden seal and Oregon grape root, stone root, mandrake and queen's root with black cherry bark.

Wet shoes should be stuffed with paper before putting away. It will absorb the moisture and prevent the shoes from becoming hard. Some people use the whites, as well as the yolks of eggs in making marmalade. Just before serving the marmalade the white of the egg is whipped stiff and beaten into the marmalade. A reliable cement for glass ornaments is found in white of egg, which dries so neatly that the breakage may easily escape detection. This, of course, is suitable only for articles that to be washed. To shade lace, mix 3 cents worth of yellow ochre with an equal quantity of rice powder and put into a bowl. Put in the lace and shake it up. Wash off all the powder possible. It will be a fast color. To fill floor cracks, get 1/2 pound of glue, let it stand over night covered with water. Then pour off the water and stir it into a pound of corn meal. Fill the cracks with this and smooth off with a knife. After frying doughnuts, place the little of hot grease out of doors and pour in a little cold water, enough to make the grease bubble. Do you find out if you have kidney disorders—Also make this test: Do you have pain in the back over the kidneys? Do you suffer from severe headache, dizziness or defective eyesight? Do you have skin dry and harsh? Do you suffer from rheumatism, or swelling of the limbs? Do you have a few of the symptoms of disease, and here is the test: Urine after standing for twenty-four hours is cloudy, milky or has particles floating about in it. If there is a sediment in the bottom of the vessel, your kidneys are diseased. There is no time to lose in beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills. will drain out of them and they will quickly dry. If they are laid on their backs the water will soak into the wood, loosening the bristles, whether they are glued or wired. Hold the feathers by the stems and swish them gently in the suds for a few minutes. Rinse in the same manner and shake gently in the open air or in a warm place indoors until they dry.

The Umpire.

BY H. L. RANN.

The umpire is a mild-mannered individual with the fear of sudden death constantly before his eyes, and a wide like an alligator purse. Off the field he is as conciliatory and approachable as a high-license candidate in a prohibition town, but when in action he is as haughty and reserved as a lady barber. When the home team is ahead, the umpire is a high-minded gentleman of unimpeachable veracity and courageous purpose. When the home team is behind, he is a peak-headed brigand with the moral turpitude of a shoot. If the umpire undertook to keep a scrapbook containing all of the humane and soothing references to his physique, eyesight and past life that are handed to him after a close decision at the plate, he would be kept busier than a cross-eyed man at a three-ring circus. The umpire is usually a graduate from some team which has grown tired of carrying excess baggage. His spare time is employed in reading up on the rules and applying a caustic liniment to any bumps or contusions that he may have picked up during the day. Very few umpires go out at night without leaving word as to where they would prefer to have the funeral held. On account of the hazardous nature of his occupation, the umpire is not looked upon as an insurable risk by anybody but a tornado mutual, and sometimes he has hard work breaking into that. Every now and then some umpire forgets that he was hired to favor the home team, and utters a line of decisions which cause staid business men to rise up and paint a dark brimstone fringe on the grandstand, after which he is followed to his hotel by excited fans and the reproachful voice of the soft-boiled egg. There is a great demand for umpires who can please people who judge balls and strikes from the grandstand, from behind a cement post, but so far none has been found this side of the pearly gates.

In mixing mustard, use warm, never hot water. If the water is too warm it will make the condiment flat. A delicious mustard is made by mixing the dry mustard with equal parts of olive oil and tarragon vinegar. In cold weather put the clothes pins in a pan and set in the oven until they are hot. Then the fingers will not suffer when hanging out the clothes, especially if the clothes are rinsed the last time in warm water. To thoroughly clean a porcelain sink, take equal parts of chloride of lime and a good soap powder, rub well and then follow with lemon juice and salt. Let this remain on for several hours, and all rust spots will disappear. A clever device for letting the oil drip slowly from the bottle when making a salad dressing is this: Cut two grooves in the cork on opposite sides; one groove admits air, while the other permits the oil to run slowly and evenly. To cook canned corn without burning, remove the paper from the can and put in the kettle to boil for fifteen minutes. Then open and pour the corn into a hot buttered dish. Season with a dash of salt and pepper and a little cream. To clean white marble, wash it thoroughly with soap and water; then brush it over well, especially in the crevices, with whitening mixed with a little blue, as used for ceilings. Allow to dry thoroughly and then rub with a clean dry cloth. White felt hats can be successfully cleaned with a paste of magnesia and cold water, which should be applied with a brush and allowed to dry on. When the magnesia is perfectly dry it can be brushed off, and the hat should be perfectly clean. To wash chamois leather, make a weak solution of soda and warm water, put in the leather and let it soak for two hours. Rub well with soap and rinse thoroughly in warm scapy water. Wring in a rough towel and dry quickly in the open air. Pull until soft. Vinegar flavored with different herbs will be found a delightful adjunct to various salads. Put fresh dry herbs in a clean bottle, cover with vinegar, corking tightly. Put the bottle in a kettle of water and remove as soon as the water boils. Let stand for a week. Scrubbing brushes, when not in use, should be put in an airy place, bristles downward. Thus the water

Somebody's Darling.

Into a ward of the whitewashed walls, Where the dead and dying lay, Wounded by bayonets, shells and balls, Somebody's Darling was borne one day. Somebody's darling, so young and so brave, Wearing yet on his pale, sweet face, Soon to be hid by the dust of the grave, The lingering light of his boyhood's grace. Matted and damp are the curls of gold, Kissing the snow of that fair young brow; Pale are lips of delicate mold; Somebody's Darling is dying now. Back from his beautiful blue-veined brow Brush all the wandering waves of gold, Cross his hands on his bosom now; Somebody's Darling is still and cold. Kiss him once for Somebody's sake; Mourn a prayer soft and low; One bright curl from its fair mates take. They were somebody's pride you know. Somebody's hand had rested there; Was it a mother's soft and white? And have the lips of a sister fair Been baptised in those waves of light? God knows best. He was Somebody's love; Somebody's heart enshrined him there; Somebody watted his hand above Night and morn on the wings of prayer; Somebody wept when he marched away, Looking so handsome, brave and grand; Somebody's kiss on his forehead lay, Somebody clung to his parting hand. Somebody's waiting and watching for him, Yearning to hold him again to her heart; And there he lies, with his blue eyes dim, And the smiling childlike lips apart. Tenderly bury the fair young dead, Pausing to drop on his grave a tear; Carve on the wooden slab at his head; "Somebody's Darling slumbers here."

Pert Paragraphs.

Men regard helpless women as young girls regard babies—very sweet as long as they don't have to take care of them. Some girls choose a husband as they do a book—by the title. Any man is happy after a good dinner, but it takes a commitment to cheer up a woman. A man fears he may get what's coming to him, a woman fears she won't. It is hard to be true to a man who can't be true to himself. The trouble about lies is you never know when they are around. Some women think themselves such good company that they never get lonesome. A man who has an upright character seldom worries about his reputation. Love may drive a man crazy, but it seldom drives him to work.

Another View.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—In a late issue of the Western Star and by the way printed on paper as green as its author, appears a little lawyer's twaddle under the heading of "Alliance between Coaker and Bond. What is the next?" The writer attempts to prove that Coaker is now willing to hand the F. P. U. bag and baggage, over to Sir R. Bond, and that this bodes the destruction of the F. P. U. It has been wisely said that fools boldly venture where angels fear to tread, and always proves the saying is a truism. Cannot the author of that verdant twaddle discern that Coaker would show wisdom, and his sincere desire to ensure a successful campaign to his Union brethren if he could consummate such an alliance? Coaker is surely too wise to venture his F.P.U. ship on the untried-seas of politics without appointing a tried and trusty master to safely navigate his craft amid the rocks and shoals of such an uncharted sea; and the F. P. U. are to be highly congratulated on having a President so unselfish, so earnest in his desire at all cost to benefit the F. P. U., as to think of placing his candidates under the leadership of such an astute statesman as the Right Honourable Sir R. Bond, K.C.M.G., P.C. "Coaker unmasked!" and what appears simply "Coaker," a plain, unpretending gentleman, working for the uplift of our hardy fishermen—not attempting to barter away their rights, not working sly games behind their backs, but openly and with their full knowledge and consent, straining his every nerve of mind and body to conserve their interests and ensure the success of their desires both politically and otherwise, and such an alliance if consummated would simply and surely spell fullest success to the F. P. U. and its wise, unselfish President.

Light, Warmth and Food.

These three words embrace the most urgent necessities of Life, and it is an extraordinary thing that in each case our thoughts turn to Gas; this, after all, is but natural. We want Light, gas gives us the best, cheapest, and healthiest artificial light known. Again, we want Warmth, and the gas fire is at hand to give it in its best form; and, lastly, we must have Food, and here the gas cooker never fails us. All this is absolutely true, as we have shown over and over again. If, however, any of our customers are in the least doubtful on any of these points, we cordially invite them to consult us. In the meantime, our advice is to get good burners and buy manful of well-known makes, to use modern gas fires and cookers, and, above all, to keep your gas appliances (whether old or new) in good order, for in this is the true secret of efficiency and complete satisfaction. ### Wasteful Management

The reading of the Poor Asylum Report is distinctly depressing. It illustrates broadly the excessive cost of wanton waste and evil economy. Before the Morris Government had entered upon office the pressing need of the abolition of the present Poor Asylum and a more humane provision for the aged who were too poor to provide for themselves was impressively and conclusively shown by the report of a Grand Jury, presided over by Mr. Gosling. The People's Party avowed they would take up the matter immediately they came into power but they did not do so, and the matter is now definitely deferred until a new Asylum for the insane is built, and the building at present utilized for the latter, can be converted into an institution for the poor. The result of the policy of delay shows how evil economy may result, in wanton waste. On account of the delay in providing a new Poor House, the expense of an electric lighting outfit has already been incurred. The Superintendent reports that further improvements of the present building have been determined on which will entail large expenditure. Here are the words of his report in that connection "I understand the Government have in contemplation the providing of a new home for the poor. This is a progressive step and most timely and necessary. It is a matter of public knowledge that the present building is entirely unfit for the purpose it is now supposed to fulfil. Improvements that entail any serious expenditures have been postponed for quite a while past owing to the probability of the building being abandoned in a short time and the inmates removed to new quarters. It is now apparent that two or three years must elapse before such change can be made, and in view of this the Board of Works have recently resolved to give immediate attention to requirements that can no longer be delayed. Accordingly, the following improvements have been recommended and ordered to be given attention at once viz:—the installing of a hot water service for the upstairs section of the building, providing a new cooking range, baths, water basins, etc."

First Whale Captured.

The whaler Cabot, Capt. Bull, which is operating in the waters around Balena, captured her first whale a few days ago. This is the first of the leviathans to be taken anywhere for the season. Capt. Bull reports stormy weather with dense fog prevailing but thinks that the outlook for a good whaling catch is bright.

Here and There.

COUNCIL MEETS.—The regular weekly Council meeting of the Board of Trade takes place in their rooms to-day.

HERE FROM HARBOR BRETON.—Mr. Henry Elliott, Job's agent at Harbor Breton, arrived in town by last night's train.

BRUCE EXPRESS.—The Bruce express is due to arrive here this midnight, the delay being owing to the softness of the roadbed.

CLYDE RETURNS.—The S. S. Clyde which had been doing the Glencoe's route on the South West Coast, returned to St. John's at 11 a.m. to-day.

RECOVERED.—Mrs. Ryan, of Cochrane Street, who was seriously injured at her home several weeks ago, is now practically recovered and able to sit up.

LEFT CHANNEL.—The Kite, Capt. Carroll, left Channel at 8 o'clock this morning for here. The vessel was delayed landing the members of the crew who belonged to Codroy.

The series of wrestling matches to take place in the C. L. B. Armory to-night promise to prove of intense interest. A large number of tickets have been disposed of, and stiff contests are looked forward to.

MAYOR ELLIS'S EXPERIENCE.—Mayor Ellis, who is due here to-night on the express after an extended trip abroad, met with a rather unique experience. He was on the I. C. R. express which was derailed on Monday last going to North Sydney, and was on the incoming Bruce express when she left the rails crossing Cook's Brook.

Algerine Arrives

The S. S. Algerine, Capt. Bishop, passed Pouch Cove at 11:30 to-day and entered port at 2 o'clock, returning from the sealfishery. Her catch has been already reported, namely, 3,500 young and old. This will barely cover expenses and the crew will not make any bill. Owing to the time of the day no word of the Erik, now the last out on the front could be ascertained.

A GOOD AVERAGE.—Up to last midnight the S. S. Lloydson had landed 600 bedlamers and 900 old haps, the former averaging 74 lbs. and the latter 114. Her cargo is valued at about $22,000 and her crew will make about $35 a man.

DELAYED BY FOG.—The Prospero arrived at Salvage last night going north, and was delayed there by fog.

Taft's Letter to Roosevelt.

"CANADA ONLY AN ADJUNCT OF THE STATES."
Special to Evening Telegram.
HALIFAX, To-day.
In January of last year, ten days before Taft concluded negotiations for Reciprocity with representatives of the Laurier Government, he wrote Roosevelt in private. The most significant paragraph in this correspondence has reference to the ultimate results of Reciprocity for which Taft looked. He wrote: "It might at first have a tendency to reduce the cost of food products somewhat but it would certainly make the reservoir much greater and prevent fluctuations. Misestimate the amount of Canadian products we would take would produce a current of business between Western Canada and the States that would make Canada only an adjunct of the States. It would transfer all their important business to Chicago and New York, their bank credits and everything else, and it would increase greatly the demand of Canada for our manufactures." Another significant statement in Taft's letter is the carefully prepared plan he disclosed to secure the passing of the measure through both Houses of Congress and the bait which was thrown out to secure support of the United States Press. He writes: "The proposition is to make an agreement by which we shall present to both Houses of Congress an identical bill and pass it as an agreement for joint legislation. In this way we would avoid the necessity for two-thirds in the Senate and would secure at once the consent of the House, which in tariff matters is generally regarded as necessary. At any rate this will cause a great commotion, I presume."

ORANGES

Just Arrived
JOHN B. AYRE

It will be unpopular in New York because of lumber interests. It will be unpopular in Minnesota because of wheat; but on the other hand free lumber will be popular in some places, and as it includes free paper and free wood pulp, we may count on the fairly good support of the Press. I shall be glad to hear from you," writes Taft to Roosevelt in conclusion, "as soon as you conveniently can write on this subject, because the matter is just at hand and it is quite likely that within ten days we shall reach on an agreement."

Claims $50,000.

Special to Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, To-day.
Papers in the first suit for damages brought by relatives of the Titanic victims filed in the Federal District court here to-day. The suit in Admiralty was brought by Mrs. Robins, widow of Victor Robins, Col. Astor's valet, who lost his life when the Titanic sank and is that in which the testimony of Ismay and the officers of the sunken steamer is desired. Charges of negligence on the part of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company are made. The plaintiff asks $50,000 damages and costs.

Warnings of Her Tragic Fate Came to Empress Elizabeth.

In "My Royal Clients" M. Paoli, the famous French detective, writing of the unfortunate Empress Elizabeth of Austria, who was so foully murdered in Geneva in 1898, says that two strange incidents incline one to the belief that the empress received a presentiment of her tragic end. On the eve of her departure for Geneva she asked Mr. Barker to read her a few chapters of a book by Marjion Crawford, entitled 'Coricone,' in which the author describes the detestable customs of the Sicilian Mafia. While the empress was listening to the harrowing story a raven, attracted by the scent of some fruit which she was eating, came and circled round her. Then she rapidly walked away, for she knew that ravens are harbingers of death when their ill omened wings persist in flapping round a living person. "Again, a lady in waiting told me that on the morning of that day she went into the empress' room, as usual, to ask how she had slept and found her imperial mistress looking pale and sad. "I have had a strange experience," said Elizabeth. "I was awakened in the middle of the night by the bright moonbeams which filled my room, for the servants had forgotten to draw the blinds. I could see the moon from my bed, and it seemed to have the face of a woman weeping. I don't know if it is a presentiment, but I have an idea I shall meet with misfortune." LONDON, This Morning. Lord Mersey, in his capacity as Wreck Commissioner, with five assessors, who will advise him in his questioning as to Naval affairs, yesterday morning held the first session of the Board of Trade Enquiry Commission into the loss of the Titanic. Scarcely one hundred people attended at the opening. From a series of twenty-six questions, which the Attorney General announced he would take up, it is evident the enquiry will cover the same ground as the Investigation Committee of the American Senate, but would be conducted more in accordance with precedence of Court law. Eight questions, Sir Rufus Isaacs said, would relate to happenings before the calamity; six as to warnings given the Titanic and the precautions taken; ten regarding the casualty itself and consequent events; one as to equipment of the vessel, and one as to the Merchants' Shipping Act. A twenty-foot model of the Titanic, carrying sixteen miniature lifeboats and a large chart of the North Atlantic, are prominently displayed before the Investigation Committee's front platform. One hundred members of the Bar, representing as many interests involved, and a like number of press representatives were present. Sir Rufus tendered feelingly, on behalf of the Government, sympathy for all those who mourn the loss of relatives and friends among the passengers, officers and crew of the ill-fated vessel. The accident, he said, exceeded in magnitude and was accompanied by more harrowing incidents than any disaster in the history of the mercantile marine. In concluding he paid high tribute to those whose devotion to duty and heroic self-sacrifice maintained the best traditions of the sea.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, May 2. Under the caption of "Taft's plot against Canada," the Daily Mail comments editorially on Taft's letter to Roosevelt concerning Reciprocity with Canada. It says: "Englishmen will ask themselves what wrong the British Empire has done to the United States that the American Government should deliberately set to work to plot the absorption of the splendid Dominion which our nation is so proud of? At the best, it was an unfriendly act of Taft, and his letter proves how serious was the danger, and how warmly we should congratulate the Canadian people on their insight and determination which enabled them to escape." The Post says all Englishmen ought to think well over this, that the Americans pressed for Reciprocity in order to make Canada an adjunct of the States, and that Asquith and Bryce, the British Ambassador, supported them in this policy. The Post continues and says, it shows the danger the Empire runs while politicians are neglecting the questions of state for questions of party; and that the incident should serve to remind the Unionist party, if they need reminding, that the matter of tariff reform is urgent.

DEBATE HOME RULE.

LONDON, To-day.

Special to Evening Telegram.

Balfour and Grey held the stage in the debate on the second reading of the Home Rule bill in the House of Commons yesterday. The former Premier showed little of his old time fire. He complained the bill did not contain even a germ of finality and that its adoption would work great injury to representative institutions in England, while creating in Ireland an assembly which no Irishman could regard with pride or respect. Grey contended the constitution was becoming increasingly unworkable and that devolution throughout the kingdom was necessary. The usefulness of the Imperial Parliament could not, the Foreign Secretary added, be sacrificed to the feeling of Ulster. The Foreign Secretary admitted the settlement provided in the bill was complete in some respects. The presence of 42 Irish members in the Imperial parliament was an anomaly, but he did not mind that because he believed it would participate further arrangements which, while not endangering Imperial Unity, would relieve different parts of the kingdom. If Ulster defied the solution the Government proposed, or made it impossible, some other solution would have to be found which would relieve the overburdened Commons of the present monstrous congestion of business and put the control of Irish affairs in Irish hands.

ON TAFT'S LETTER.

LONDON, To-day.

Some members of the House of Commons are preparing to question the Government regarding what they characterize as Ambassador Bryce's reasonable act in supporting the proposal by Taft in the matter of Canadian Reciprocity and as to whether the Government proposes to recall the Ambassador. Arthur Bann is anxious to know if Bryce was aware that the object of Reciprocity was to make Canada an adjunct of the States, if his acquiescence therein was not reasonable and whether in view of the published correspondence between Taft and Roosevelt, it is the intention of the Government to recall the Ambassador. Questions will also be addressed to the Premier directing attention to the letter on Reciprocity written by Taft to Roosevelt a year ago last January and recently made public suggesting the urgency in view of the policy of imperial preference to defeat American designs. Another question of which notice will be given will ask whether the Government was aware of Taft's intention to make Canada an adjunct of the States when they instructed Bryce to assist the passage of Reciprocity.

Camille.

This highly emotional play afforded much scope for the histrionic talents of Miss Gertrude Arden, and she rose to the occasion, made a favourable impression and earned warm encomiums. Her role was the title role, Camille, and the success of the play depended mainly on her capacity for a role which has tasked the powers of the greatest actresses in the world. Mr. Joseph Selman and Mr. George Monseratt portrayed their parts with fidelity. The play will be repeated to-night and to-morrow. On Monday "The Merchant of Venice" will be staged. To suit the convenience of those who will begin next week to work at night, the performances on Tuesday's and Friday's will begin at 9 p.m. in future.

As Titanic Went Down—Tragic Story of the Death of the Allison—Mother Stepped Back Out of Boat.

LONDON, April 23.—The Daily Mail's New York correspondent sends details of the saving of the seven-months-old Allison child brought home on the Carpathia by his aunt, Miss Sadie Daniels. The Allison had two children, the infant who was saved and a daughter, Lorraine Ellen, aged two. After the Titanic struck, the nurse took the infant and tried to find the mother, who was on the deck. The mother meanwhile returned to her cabin to find that the infant had gone, and she only recovered him after an agonized search.

At length Mrs. Allison was forced into a lifeboat, but sprang up, crying that she preferred to die with her husband. She placed the infant in the arms of her sister, and turned back to lift her little daughter in also, but the boat was full.

Mrs. Allison then went back to the Titanic's deck, and Ellen held the hands of her father and mother as the Titanic went down.

RUNNING SORE ON HIS LEG

Egyptian Liniment Quickly Healed It.

Mr. S. Moore, of Port Perry, Ont., is very glad he took his friend's advice and tried Douglas' Egyptian Liniment. He writes:

"Some time ago I had typhoid fever, was confined to bed for four months, and left with a running sore on my leg. I tried every remedy I could lay off, but found none to help me. I was prevailed upon to try Egyptian Liniment by my friends. Although thoroughly disheartened, I decided to give it a trial, and am very happy to say that the result was marvellous. The sore was soon entirely healed. To anyone suffering from ailments of a similar nature Egyptian Liniment is certainly a boon."

It is really wonderful the way Egyptian Liniment cures all running sores and festering wounds, removes the unhealthy conditions, and permanently heals. It's just as good, too, for Sprains, Bruises, Rheumatism—in fact for everything which liniment can cure.

Mission Concert

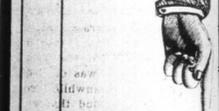

In spite of the unfavourable weather last evening there was a city audience at the Methodist League Hall to listen to the cantata by the Gower Street Church Mission Band. The concert opened with a speech by Miss Sophie and Mr. Edgewood, followed by a dialogue in which the following took part: Misses Roper (2), English (2), Misses Johnson, Squires, Jay, Lewis, Grouchy and Master Edcombe. Then came the cantata, titled "Sir Money's Crusade." It was written by Sir Money, assisted by F. Lewis, F. Joyce, H. Perrett, R. Barrett and C. Woods. The cantata's Chorus, which included combined efforts of forty voices, boys and girls—was perhaps the best received item for the evening. The leaders were Misses Barrett, Son English, Moore and Soper. The programme of drills, choruses and songs was well carried out. Tears were shed at the conclusion by the ladies of the Gower Street Mission Band by thirty boys enrolled, and is the Band that admits boys. During the evening Mrs. Butt played the accompaniment. Mrs. H. Wyatt, assisted by Miss Way, trained the performance.

Going to Lewisport

Two men belonging to Twillingate left there yesterday in a boat for Lewisport to meet the magistrate who was trained there yesterday. #### Mission Concert.

In spite of the unfavourable weather last evening there was a capacity audience at the Methodist College Hall to listen to the cantata of the Gower Street Church Mission Band. The concert opened with a speech by Miss Sophie and Mr. A. Edgcombe, followed by a dialogue in which the following took part: Misses Roper (2), English (2), Haynes, Johns, Soper, Squires, Janes, Lewis, Grouchy and Master Edgcombe. Then came the cantata, entitled "Sir Money's Crusade." Jack Warnell acted as Sir Money, assisted by F. Lewis, F. Joyce, H. Peters, R. Barrett and C. Woods. The Nation's Chorus, which included the combined efforts of forty voices—boys and girls—was perhaps the best received item for the evening. The leaders were Misses Barrett, Soper, English, Moore and Soper. The programme of drills, choruses and solos was well carried out. Teas were served at the conclusion by the ladies. The Gower Street Mission Band have thirty boys enrolled, and is the only band that admits boys. During the evening Mrs. Butt played the accompaniments. Mrs. H. Wyatt, assisted by Miss Way, trained the performers.

Sale of Work.

The Sale of Work conducted by the Girls' Friendly Society, in the Synod Hall, last evening, attracted a goodly gathering. The interior was nicely decorated and the stall holders were kept busy and consisted of: Tea—Mrs. Easton, Misses M. Reid, L. Cooker, Ewing, Hall, O. Cooker, Randall, Harding, B. and E. Fahey. Candy—Misses Rowe and Daymond. Apron and Plain Work—Mrs. Bell and Miss Reid. Fancy Work and Handkerchiefs—Misses West and Ryall. Jumble—Mrs. Berg and Miss Andrews. Fruit, Cake, Etc.—Mrs. Gardiner and Miss Clarke. Book—Mrs. Williams. Interesting features of the event were a candidates and surprise table and character reading. Gramophone selections were rendered which added to the enjoyment of the evening. The proceeds realized $200, and all connected with the affair are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

Bankers Are Doing Well.

From parties who arrived by last night's train we are told that nearly all the South West Coast banking fleet have left the western ledges and gone on to the Grand Banks to fish. The schooner Lucy House arrived at Harbor Breton on Tuesday last from the Grand Banks. She had been operating in the vicinity of Quero and hauled for 600 quintals of fish; she reports cod very plentiful but the weather is continually stormy which is a great drawback to trawling. Several bankers were fishing in the neighbourhood of the Lucy House. They have secured good fares and are expecting to return to the home ports shortly. The Lucy House will proceed to the Grand Banks within a week to begin her second voyage.

Viking Has Only 500 Pelts

The sealing steamer Viking, Capt. Wm. Bartlett, returned from the Gul seal fishery yesterday afternoon with only 500 pelts stowed below. The Viking was ice-bound for weeks at the beginning of the voyage hence she missed the young seals. She was engaged the past few weeks going after old ones but the weather conditions were not at all favourable. About a fortnight ago Capt. Bartlett saw a ship on the Labrador side of the Island and believes it was the Neptune. The spring was one of the roughest on record.

St. John's Branch Invited.

A letter was received recently by a gentleman in the city from the Secretary of the Metropolitan St. John's Ambulance Association of London, requesting the presence of a company of our local division there as guests to participate in the grand review to be held in Windsor Park by their Majesties, the King and Queen, during the coming summer. From various aspects the trip has been found unfeasible by the local brigade who will not be able to fill the invitations.

LECTURED TO DRUGGISTS.—Mr. A. E. Perkins gave a most interesting lecture to a large number of druggists at the Board of Trade Rooms last evening. The theme of his discourse was "Opium."

Fighting a Mud Rush.

A Perilous Rescue in the Diamond Mine Pits of Kimberley.

Miners in the diamond pits of Kimberley need not fear fire or falling rock, suffocation by choke damp or sudden death by explosion, but they have perils to face nevertheless, as is shown by this thrilling story of the rescue of a party of native miners by the Englishmen who were in charge of them. One morning a band of natives hard at work in a corner of the mine were startled by a dull noise, as if a few tons of some soft substance had been hurled against the high door that separated the spot where they worked from the long tunnel that led to the shaft. "The mud!" they cried, and dropped their picks in an instant. A mud rush means certain death to all in its track. It gives no warning. It comes silently, like an ugly, wriggling snake. It works its way swiftly, spares nothing, covers everything. The Englishmen at the opening of the tunnel roared out, "Climb to the top of the wall!" which the natives promptly did. There, for the time at least, they were safe. "Stay where you are!" the Englishmen called. "If you jump down you will be sucked in and suffocated in two minutes."

Soon the tunnel was a tunnel no longer, but a mass of quivering slime. The mud flowed for hours. Then it gradually slowed and ceased. The Englishmen outside sat round on a neighboring rock and looked down helplessly into the pit. All manner of suggestions were made, most of them worthless, but in the end it was decided to try to reach the men, not by removing the mud, but by passing over it. One man laid a plank upon the mud and stretched himself on it. A little spade was handed to him, with which he began to cut into the mud and pull himself along as a man face downward in a canoe might pull himself forward with a paddle. He worked bravely on, half inch by half inch. Then another man put down a plank and followed him. In half an hour six men were laid flat on six planks in the midst of the mud. There was sixty-five feet of mud, and between them and it were those thin planks that might heel over at any moment and send them to a suffocating death. And behind was the hidden spring of destruction that might let loose its slime again, flood the tunnel and capsize the planks like cockleshells on a turbulent sea. When the man on the first plank reached the wall on which the natives were huddled, he called to them: "You've seen the way I've come. Well, I'm going back, but I'm leaving the planks for you to follow on. Crawl along the planks as much like a snake as you can."

Slowly the men on the planks slid back, leaving the wooden line behind them. Slowly the natives followed. Nobody spoke. The black mass underneath looked as hard as a rock, but was as soft as porridge and trembled horribly. As each man reached the end plank he was hauled into safety and carried, half fainting, out of the tunnel. The rest dragged themselves wearily on. When the last native arrived his mates thought he was a stranger. His hair was perfectly white.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Our old friend, Mr. Selby Parsons, of Grand Bank, is in town on a visit. These visits of Mr. Parsons are a source of pleasure to his friends, and we hope to see the day when he will "forget to go back," but spend the balance of his days here amid the scenes of his boyhood.

Mrs. Thomas O'Neill, the obliging assistant station master here, who had been confined to his home through sickness for several days, is again at his work, and will soon be all right again.

Mr. W. H. Butt, the genial druggist of Carbonear, intends to visit the lower part of the Bay this week in the capacity of eye specialist. Mr. Butt has much skill in this capacity, and with the latest apparatus for eye testing, he has captured a lot of the trade of the Bay.

A man going through the street with a cart load of splendid coal today was viewed by many people; (of course we mean the coal was viewed) as that article has been so scarce here for some time. On investigation we found it came from the premises of Messrs. Murray & Crawford, the general agent, Mr. Chafe, arranging to let some of our townspeople have a little to tide them over the coal-famine period.

Mr. George Whelan lately decided to remove his barn from its old site on Military Road, to the site of his new house on Bennett's Lane. The distance is considerable, and Mr. Whelan was at a loss to know how the work could be managed. He went to work to prepare the building for removal, getting rollers and everything ready. When all was in readiness a bright idea struck him, which worked like a charm. He called on Colonel Kennedy, of the C. C. C., and asked if the lads would give him a hand. Mr. Kennedy thought they would be glad to assist. Accordingly the lads were notified and at 7 o'clock last evening they left their Armoury and marched, preceded by their drums, to the scene. Ropes were attached, and at the order from Major Grouchy to "quick march," the barn was seen to fall in line, and seemed to be inclined to go at "double quick" time. Along Military Road, down Garland Street, up Harvey Street and down Bennett's Lane to its new site, that barn went "with nobody showing it," but of course a lot of willing hands hauling. By dark the building was placed on the intended site, much to the satisfaction of the owner. The lads are deserving of many thanks for their valuable assistance and kindly action. CORRESPONDENT.

Strange Salt Eaters.

Idiosyncrasy often takes the form of a special craving for, instead of an objection to, certain foods. Many people possess an extraordinary relish for common salt, and will eat it by the teaspoonful when opportunity admits. This sometimes leads to obesity and dropsy, but it has also the peculiar effect of increasing the weight. One young lady who devoured immense quantities of salt on every possible occasion and emptied all the salt cellars on the table at each meal, would increase as much as 10 pounds in 24 hours, and was frequently unable to wear a dress which was quite loose for her on the previous day. If your child has an impression on the chest, mix equal parts of "St. John's Liniment" and Olive Oil in a saucer and apply every two or three hours. Relief is obtained at once. ap27.11

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

N. CURRY, President Canadian Car and Foundry Co., Ltd., Director of Bank of Nova Scotia, etc.
HON. M. G. WINTER, of T. & M. Winter, St. John's, Newfoundland.
G. A. MOULTON, Secretary Canadian Investors Ltd., Director Scotia Foundry Co. Ltd., Halifax.
PERCY C. BLACK, President Amherst Boot & Shoe Co., Ltd., Amherst.
J. W. MCKAY, Managing Director Nova Scotia Carriage and Motor Car Co., Ltd., Halifax.
JOHN W. REGAN, Manager Canadian Investors Ltd., Director Wentzells Limited, Halifax.

BANKERS:—The Canadian Bank of Commerce.

OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY.—To take over as a going concern, The Nova Scotia Carriage Company, established 1868, at Kentville, and erect large new works at Amherst to carry on the business of manufacturing Carriages, Sleighs and Motor Cars on an extensive scale.
This is the only concern manufacturing Motor Cars and Carriages in the Maritime Provinces, and its market embraces Newfoundland, the West Indies, the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Western Canada and British Columbia, with a promising overseas connection.
The present works at Kentville are overtaxed, and in order to meet the growing demand it became necessary to reorganize to obtain additional capital.
Amherst was selected as the new home of the company, owing to its great advantages as a distributing centre.

THE BUSINESS AT KENTVILLE.

The success of the Nova Scotia Carriage Company is due mainly to the able management of Messrs. J. W. and D. C. McKay, practical carriage builders, both of whom are large shareholders in the new concern, and who are under contract to serve the new concern for a period of five years.
The success of this concern can be best judged by the following comparative statement for three years:—

Year.	Assets.	Liabilities.	Net Surplus.	Net Profits.
1909	$86,206.21	$19,068.47	$67,137.74	$37,949.35
1910	108,126.48	17,928.29	90,198.19	22,860.45
1911	184,803.69	39,557.43	145,246.26	54,848.07

OPERATIONS.—While the new plant is being erected at Amherst this year, the manufacturing operations at Kentville will be carried on without interruption. The goods manufactured enjoy a high reputation. This year's output will be approximately 250 Motor Cars, 2,000 fine Carriages and 1,500 Sleighs and Slovens, representing an aggregate value of $475,000 or thereabouts.
The manufacture of Carriages and Motor Cars under the one roof ensures a busy season all the year round and is invaluable from an economic point of view and assures stability and permanency in times of depression. The company enjoys the advantage of cheap raw material, water transportation and good labor supply.

THE MANAGEMENT'S ESTIMATE OF BUSINESS AND PROFITS.

Messrs. Canadian Investors Limited, Halifax:
Gentlemen,—We beg to hand you an estimate, herewith, of our business and profits from November 30th, 1911, to November 30th, 1912, at Kentville; also from November 30th, 1912, to November 30th, 1913, at Amherst:—

	1911-1912.	Profit.
At Kentville, Nova Scotia	$475,750	$90,650
1912-1913.
At Amherst, Nova Scotia	$1,089,500	$166,800

We might state that the output for 1912 is already booked, and we will have no difficulty in selling that of 1913, as we have turned down over $100,000 worth of business during the last three months. Our goods are sold and well known all over Canada, Newfoundland and the West Indies.

(Signed), NOVA SCOTIA CARRIAGE AND MOTOR CAR CO., LTD.
J. W. McKay, Managing Director.

THE NET EARNINGS OF $54,848.07 for the year 1911, are sufficient to pay bond interest and sinking fund charges and dividend on the issued preference stock of the company, and leaves a surplus. According to Mr. McKay's estimate the net profits for the current year on orders and work on hand will pay the bond charges and preferential dividend and leave a surplus of $40,150,—more than 4 per cent. on the issued common stock. The surplus earnings for the current year would really be nearer $50,000 than $40,150, as the new capital will not be entitled to a full year's dividend.
By the foregoing estimate the net earnings of the company next year will show a surplus of $116,300, after paying bond interest and sinking fund charges and preferential dividend. This is equal to more than 12 per cent. on the issued common stock.

THE FUTURE OF THE COMPANY IS ASSURED.

Under the management of the McKay brothers, and with the growing demand for Motor Cars and Carriages, the new business can be expected to assume steadily increasing proportions. In this connection the following letter from Mr. Nathaniel Curry will be of interest:—
"Canadian Investors Limited, Halifax:
Gentlemen,—I have your favour of the 6th instant, asking my opinion as to the future prospects of the Nova Scotia Carriage and Motor Car Company, to be located at Amherst.
I consider this company is doing a wise thing in locating at Amherst and getting practically all the business men of that place financially interested. This, of itself, would mean success for any legitimate enterprise. Amherst men pull together and have long and successful experience in manufacturing. There is a great future in Canada for the Automobile, also the Motor Truck for freight purposes.
I understand that the above company has an excellent management and I see no reason why this industry should not in a few years be one of the largest and most prosperous in the Maritime Provinces."
(Signed), N. CURRY.

AUDITOR'S CERTIFICATE.

(Canadian Investors Limited, Halifax):
Gentlemen,—I have examined the books and accounts of The Nova Scotia Carriage and Motor Car Company, Limited, and certify that the amount of Net Assets, comprising Real Estate, Buildings, Machinery and Equipment, Inventories, Accounts Receivable and other current assets, less Liabilities, at November 28th, 1911, after including the proceeds to be received from the sale of the present Bond and Preferred Stock issue, are $578,746.26.
The Net Earnings of the Company for three years ending November 28th, 1911, after making sufficient provision for depreciation, bad and doubtful debts and Bills Receivable, but before charging interest on borrowed money, have been as follows:—

1909	$37,949.35
1910	22,860.45
1911	54,848.07
	$115,657.87
An average of	38,552.62

The inventories have been valued at approximate cost as certified by Messrs. McKay brothers.
The orders on hand at the beginning of the year were $940,000.00. During the present year the orders have increased very rapidly.
Halifax, April 23, 1912. (Signed), B. CAFFER.

DEED OF TRUST and matters in relation thereto approved by Messrs. McInnes, Mellish, Fulton and Kenny.
INTERIM CERTIFICATES will be issued pending delivery of engraved bonds and stock certificates.
DIVIDENDS ON PREFERRED STOCK payable quarterly on following dates:—July 1st, October 1st, January 1st and April 1st.
Application will be made as soon as possible to list the securities of the Company.

Music Was an-Anaesthetic.

Toronto, April 25.—Under a sub-head, "Religious anaesthesia," the Rev. Father Minehan, in an article referring to the Titanic disaster in the current issue of the "Catholic Register," says: "But amid so much that was noble and thrilling there comes this discordant piece of stage play. We are told that the band kept playing until the waves were washing over the sinking vessel. What was the meaning of this performance? It was intended to lull the passengers into a false sense of security, to keep them from realizing the real nature of the disaster, to hide from them the face of death."

"It may be said that this was done to avert a panic. What does this mean? That to keep up bravely it was necessary that an anaesthetic should be given. A very different scene was witnessed as the French ship "La Bourgoigne" went down years ago. In that case the crew were far from exhibiting the same splendid discipline which has honored humanity in the case of the "Titanic." But there was one never-to-be-forgotten closing scene in the former wreck: A large group of passengers knelt on the deck as a priest with stole around his neck, exhorted them to prepare to meet their God. And the last glimpse of the sinking steamer caught by the survivors showed them the priestly figure silhouetted against the sky, in the act of making the Sign of the Cross after imparting absolution. There was no band music, no attempt to cover the situation by bravado, no soothing deceit here. Calmly, heroically, cheerfully, men and women looked into the face of death, knowing what it meant."

Belle of Winnipeg Strangled.

Winnipeg, Man., April 15.—With her hands tied behind her back by a towel, her feet knotted securely, and a towel wound around her throat, the body of Giselle Roberts, the belle of the segregated district, popularly known as Mignon, was found lying on her bed this morning.
The case is one of the most mysterious murders that the police have known in a decade. The unfortunate girl was strangled by a towel wrapped around her throat. According to physicians she had been dead about an hour when found.
This afternoon the police dragnet is stretched over the city in an effort to locate the murderer. Although but a meagre description has been furnished the department of the murderer, it was said that the police have already a good idea of the identity of the slayer, and that an arrest is expected hourly.
Robbery appears to be the only reason. All the girl's money was taken, boxes and dressing tables being ransacked.

Great Balloon Disappears.

Dresden, Saxony, April 2.—Great anxiety was caused here by the disappearance for three days of the large spherical balloon named the "Count Zeppelin," which made an ascent on March 31, carrying in the basket three Danish officers who were training for the elimination contests on April 25, in connection with the international balloon, however, descended this morning, after being driven first to the North Sea, and then to the Baltic at Stralsund, Pomerania.
The "Count Zeppelin," which is to take part in the international race, has a gas capacity of 77,695 cubic feet.

King Edward's Politeness.

The irreproachable politeness of the late King Edward was not only individual and relative to persons, it was human and general as well. Once at Marienbad His Majesty and a few friends were having tea in a restaurant in the pine woods near the town. At a table close by sat another party, the host of which was a well-known German prince.
The work of attending to the guests at both tables devolved upon a young English waitress, and the King did not fail to notice the rude, blustering manner of the royal German, who threatened to report the terrified girl every time she had occasion to answer his summons. Annoyed by this most unjustifiable behavior, the King said to Sir Stanley Clarke:
"You are to convey my thanks to the proprietor here for the prompt and admirable manner in which my party has been served at this restaurant."
The command was instantly obeyed, much to the disgust of the adjoining table, a disgust which was intensified when the King gave the timid young waitress a gold piece.

Boy Went Down in the Ship.

Philadelphia, April 23.—Two young Philadelphia lads who were saved when the Titanic went down will never forget their experiences in that great tragedy of the sea. Each told a graphic story of that terrible night. One of these boys was "Jack" Thayer, the fourteen-year-old son of John B. Thayer, second vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He and his father parted from his mother when the latter left the Titanic in one of the small boats. Later father and son jumped from the sinking ship into the sea. The lad was picked up, but the father perished. At his home in Haverford young "Jack" said yesterday "An officer caught hold of mother and carried her to one of the lifeboats. She caught me by the arm and led me toward the man who was doing the lifeboat service. By this time men and women were bidding good-by to one another. I heard the shouts of the crew that all men must stand back, and as mother was placed in a lifeboat I freed myself from her grasp and told her not to worry."
"All men must remain," I called to her, "and I will stay with father." Mother implored me to come so her, and as she spoke the lifeboat was lowered. I waved my hand in farewell and returned to father's side.
"For the next hour father and I remained together, and when we all knew that the boat was going to sink he put a life preserver around my neck, and told me to jump for my life."
"I will follow," he said, and a moment later I was flying down the side of the sinking ship. I struck the water and floated among the wreckage until I was almost frozen to death. A big stick of wood came within my reach and I caught hold of it. "My body was numb, and I still thought of father, and my thoughts seemed to relieve the terrible pain made me think now and then that I was going to die. I must have floated around many hours, because it was daylight and I was far from the boats when a small boat came out and picked me up."

"I do not remember being carried aboard the Carpathia, but when I awakened mother was leaning over me, crying."
"Where is father?" I asked, but he did not reply. "I remained until the last mother, and tried to be a man. I told her."
"No one on the Carpathia knew anything about father. I wanted to stay with him until the end, but could not."
The other boy rescued from the Titanic was William T. Carter, ten years old, whose father, mother and sister were also saved. Their home is in Bryn Mawr, and there the little fellow told his story of the wreck: "Mamma woke me up just after it happened. She came to me just as I opened my eyes and told me there had been an accident. She told me to be a brave boy and to dress myself as quickly as I could. While she and sister were dressing I dressed myself and then we all went on the deck where we had been told to go. Up there we found the women all crowded around one part, while over on the other side were the men, all kept back by men with revolvers. All the boys and girls were with the women, and while the people were getting into the boats a man would try to break through the line and then there would be some shooting, and some of the men fell on the deck, while every one cried out very loudly. One of the men stood still for some time and all of his jaw was shot away. I was watching him, holding on to mother's skirt, when it came our turn to get into the boat."

WHAT CARMANVILLE SAYS.

Editor Evening Telegram,
Dear Sir.—Will you kindly allow me space in the columns of your valuable paper for a few remarks. As there seems to be a fierce battle raging against the F. P. U. and its noble President we avail of the opportunity of letting the Government know that we are the salt of Newfoundland, and those of us who are in Foggo District are determined to vote for our noble President, W. F. Coaker, at the next elections, for he has exposed more of the wrong-doings of the Government than any other man in the Colony. W. F. Coaker is the man we have been so long looking for and we pledge ourselves to stand by him no matter what stands in the way. An unkind word to Coaker is an unkind word to us, and when you strike Coaker you strike over 100 (one hundred) members of the F. P. U. in Carmanville. Mr. Editor, let the present Government send their best man to Foggo District at the next elections to oppose Coaker and let his lectures be silver and his promises gold we will throw them to the four winds.

The present Government was going to give us a free breakfast table by taking duty off sugar, etc., etc., but we find sugar to-day dearer than ever and instead of our burdens lighter they are heavier than they were four years ago. We are anxious to mark our X opposite our leader's name.

The Dream.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—My duties as Travelling Agent for the _____ Co. again brings me to the hospitable shore of good old Newfoundland, and during my visit to _____ I had the pleasure of becoming acquainted with Uncle Joe _____, a splendid specimen of the fast dying out class of "Vikings" to whom the mountainous waves are but a cradle, and the howling storm a lullaby.

During the course of a most interesting conversation I had with him, in which he carried me in imagination from the "Polar ice" chasing the musk ox, the white bear and the walrus, to the tropical scenes of the "Essequibo River" with its mosquitoes, snakes, etc. covering between while the intervening lands of Canada, United States, and the West Indies.

After relating many thrilling episodes and half breadth escapes from danger and death, afloat and ashore, he suddenly broke out with: "Do you know, Mister P., that Wednesday night last I had a most remarkable experience. I slept soundly, and like Pharaoh of old, I dreamed a dream. Methought that in the spirit I was crossing the trackless deep, when suddenly I came to a large island with many rivers issuing from it to the sea, and deep green woods with trees of many kinds therein, and wild deer and other animals and birds in great numbers, and all seeming very tame and gentle.

Scated on a rocky point that gutted a distance into the green waves that loved the shores of the Isle was seated a most lovely maiden, engaged in the fascinating pursuit of fishing, and quite an expert she was, too, in the art, as whilst I was watching, she caught many fish and with little apparent effort, throwing them behind her as she caught them, and methought shadowy figures gathered them up, and putting them through various processes, piled them in great heaps, and shadowy ships from many nations came and bought them, some leaving huge sums in gold as payment, others, cargoes of various merchandise, and all seemed to be in harmony and peace, especially "the lone maiden."

Methought I was now whirled off to other and more distant scenes, and years intervened before I again in the spirit visited the Island of the "Lone Maiden." Many and great changes had taken place in the interval of my absence. There are now many fishers all around the coasts of the Isle and the "maiden" no longer indulged in the piscatorial art but sat in state in a large palace surrounded by sycophants and flatterers, who had already by their fulsome arts changed the maiden's nature, and also as I saw in the spirit the nature of the birds, animals, fishes, and every living thing within or about the compass of the Isle was changed, all were now wild, intractable, timid, unapproachable, hard to capture, and to hold, but the gold in the Treasury had greatly increased.

I watched a while the antics of the creatures who now surrounded the no longer "lone" but proud maiden and saw that she listened to their flatteries and their mean beseechings some begging for grants of land to search for minerals, others, for large tracts of woodland, to all she gave a gracious but alas! too willing assent.

Amongst the many I noticed a group that appeared to be weighed down with matters of grave import, and who approached the "Proud Maiden" in a body, putting forward one of their number to express their wishes. The chosen one was tall, with a rather large head, dark, straight locks of hair rose from a rather low overhanging brow, above a big blunt nose, a coarse mouth partially hidden by a long drooping moustache and a receding chin. This face was lit up by a pair of fierce fleshy looking eyes, the expression of which if 'twere possible to send down to the crannies of the rocks on ocean's bottom would scare the lobsters out of their mally jackets, in much quicker time than is generally done at certain seasons of the year devoted to that operation. Whatever request he had presented to the Proud Maiden had evidently been favourably dealt with, as when his audience ended he was almost overwhelmed by the congratulations and back slapping of his supporters.

At this moment I was again in the spirit carried away to distant lands, and 'twas years after ere I again visited the Isle. When that time arrived oh! how great the change and lamentable. The "Lone" Maiden, proud no longer, sat with dishevelled hair in an empty palace. Its treasury now was bare of gold, her once beautiful Isle now little better than a bare rock, its green woods swept away, its streams devoid of fish life, its countless herds of animals now represented by but a few scattered remnants of their kind, and in its place, What? The snow and ice lay many feet thick over the desolate face of the Isle, a narrow circuitous track of steel with many octopus like arms stretch its sinuous course from East to West—appearing here and there from out the snow a few smoking engines vainly endeavouring to crawl along the line which snake like crept around every trifling eminence met with, that it was possible to avoid. In spirit I visited the various settlements drained by this "monster" and heard nought but complaining and deep curses invoked on the heads of 'he Powers that ruled their yet idolized Island. In spirit I visited the "Capitol, and lo! the saturn visaged creature I had seen put forward to beg favors from the "Lone Maiden" was no longer a servant, but ruled with a rod of iron the whole fair Isle. No longer was Wisdom seated at the Council Board, but folly, extravagance and grab reigned supreme. Amongst the many faces I beheld one big, fat, richly clad being who with a florid face, in loud tones demanded of the Evil visaged Ruler, what are you doing in the matter of my desire of seeing this Lone Maiden wedded to my eldest son. The evil-eyed ruler with a diabolical smile, replied. She is most obstinate, stubborn as the rock-bound coast of this her stronghold, your greatest and richest offers she has refused with scorn, I have tried by robbing her of her most cherished possessions to bring her to view your son's wooing with complaisance, but 'n vain; I am now going to play my 'last card to ruin and beggar her, if your son then comes to her rescue, gratitude may compel her acceptance of his suit, falling that, I submit that only force can avail, and that must be exercised.

Flying in spirit to the emptied palace I was troubled much to find the poor Maiden gazing with wondering eyes at the very legend which had so troubled my waking hours. "Tory times are hard times." Alas! she cried, with Wisdom banished from our Councils, recklessness at the helm of state, and waste, extravagance and junketings the order of the day, who can rescue me from this thralldom. In spirit I bade her look to the North, and lo! a star, brilliant and clear shone out in brightest radiance, an one of its bright beams were jencilled in letters of shining gold, this legend: Fear not, sweet Maid, thy thralldom is nearly ended, the aftermath of thy sorrow shall yield a glad harvest of rich blessing, and none shall force thee to forsake the paths chosen for thy happiness, fair "Maid of the Mist," till by thine own clearly expressed wish thou becomest consort of another, none shall ever force thy desire, a little while yet must thou endure, then shall dawn on thee and thy fair Isle an era of everlasting peace.

I now awoke, Mister P., said my friend Uncle Joe _____, and I tell you that between the vision and the dream I am almost demoted.

I don't wonder, I answered, I don't indeed. You are going off by the train now due, Mr. P., or I would relate Molly Griffin's interpretation. Molly is an old Irish lady, from Wexford, but now fully 73 years resident in our Island, but I will tell you about it if you return this way.

I assured him that if possible I would do so; bade him good bye and entered the carriage bound east. If I do return I'll write you Molly's interpretation.

Yours truly,
WANDERER.

At this moment I was again in the spirit carried away to distant lands, and 'twas years after ere I again visited the Isle. When that time arrived oh! how great the change and lamentable. The "Lone" Maiden, proud no longer, sat with dishevelled hair in an empty palace. Its treasury now was bare of gold, her once beautiful Isle now little better than a bare rock, its green woods swept away, its streams devoid of fish life, its countless herds of animals now represented by but a few scattered remnants of their kind, and in its place, What? The snow and ice lay many feet thick over the desolate face of the Isle, a narrow circuitous track of steel with many octopus like arms stretch its sinuous course from East to West—appearing here and there from out the snow a few smoking engines vainly endeavouring to crawl along the line which snake like crept around every trifling eminence met with, that it was possible to avoid. In spirit I visited the various settlements drained by this "monster" and heard nought but complaining and deep curses invoked on the heads of 'he Powers that ruled their yet idolized Island. In spirit I visited the "Capitol, and lo! the saturn visaged creature I had seen put forward to beg favors from the "Lone Maiden" was no longer a servant, but ruled with a rod of iron the whole fair Isle. No longer was Wisdom seated at the Council Board, but folly, extravagance and grab reigned supreme. Amongst the many faces I beheld one big, fat, richly clad being who with a florid face, in loud tones demanded of the Evil visaged Ruler, what are you doing in the matter of my desire of seeing this Lone Maiden wedded to my eldest son. The evil-eyed ruler with a diabolical smile, replied. She is most obstinate, stubborn as the rock-bound coast of this her stronghold, your greatest and richest offers she has refused with scorn, I have tried by robbing her of her most cherished possessions to bring her to view your son's wooing with complaisance, but 'n vain; I am now going to play my 'last card to ruin and beggar her, if your son then comes to her rescue, gratitude may compel her acceptance of his suit, falling that, I submit that only force can avail, and that must be exercised.

VOX POPULI.

By WALT MASON.

When I'm triumphant at the polls and my majority uprolls, I know the people rule; the people, in whom virtue lies, the high souled people, who despise corruption's noisome pool. When I have beaten t'other crowd, the people's voice is ringing loud, the voice that nobly dares; I am their emblem and their sign, their voice is just the same as mine, my voice the same as theirs. But when I get it in the neck, and leave the polls a dismal wreck, vox populi is still; the cohorts of the money kings have formed conspiracies and rings to thwart the people's will. Oh voters who for pure things yearn, say, will you never, never learn to vote for none but me? When I'm defeated Freedom groans, and Virtue weeps o'er mouldy bones, Vice wins the victory. I am alone the People's Voice, and when I win the stars rejoice, and all the spheres are glad; but when I lose our sacred Vox is like a ship cast on the rocks, and righteousness is sad.

Advertising Our Advertisers.

THE BEGINNING OF MAY IS THE GREAT BUYING SEASON FOR ALL MEN.

Custom, which is responsible for Kings and Presidents, is also responsible for coats and pants. Style may dictate the cut and pattern, but Custom orders the thing itself.

And Custom in the solemn tense has issued this edict in no uncertain tones: Thou shalt not wear thy winter suit nor thy winter overcoat; neither shalt thou wear thy heavy shoes nor thy battered hat after the first of May.

Every man instinctively knows this edict, and every man obeys it if he can. For a man to wear his winter clothes up to the first of May is merely a measure of his carelessness; after the first of May it is a measure of his pocketbook.

Wherefore every store that deals with men will be crowded to its full capacity now. And every store that deals rightly with men will have its advertising news in this paper for you to read to-day.

No shrewd merchant is going to overlook the tremendous buying capacity of all the readers of this paper. Therefore you may be sure that all the merchants who value your trade are represented here.

This advertising news which appears to-day will save you many a dollar and many a weary step. For the best merchants are always the ones who advertise and the best merchants always advertise their best. If it is style you are looking for, you will find it here. If it is price that interests you most, these columns will give you a list of all the good values to be had.

This is your paper. You may depend upon it, not only for general news but for advertising news as well.

So study every page of this advertising carefully. Read the little ads as well as the big ones. Very often the small store may have the very things you are looking for. Read the big ads with equal care. For these big merchants are trying to do big things in a big way.

Advertising has long since ceased to be in the catch-penny class of former years. To-day it is the most carefully studied, carefully written matter that appears. It is created solely to give you greater service, and it gives you greater service by creating greater volume for itself.

Turn to this advertising news with new eyes. Spend your money through these columns and you will be saving money as well.

 Is your house really lighted from top to bottom or do you still have to take a candle or lamp when you go to the attic or cellar at night?
 A great many people who have electricity in the rest of the house have no light in the cellar or attic because it is seldom needed; but, when you do need it, you need it badly.
 One Incandescent Lamp set in a Holophone Reflector will give sufficient light for the darkest cellar or attic. Holophone Reflectors are especially adapted to lighting places of this sort as they control the light rays so that every ray is utilized. Wouldn't it be a convenience if you could turn a switch and light your cellar or attic before entering? That means an end to dangerous matches and flames—it means that you no longer need stumble against misplaced boxes and bark your shins in the dark.
 We would like to tell you more about electric lighting and more about the wonderful light-saving Holophone Reflectors. May we send a representative to see you?
