A Terrible Tangle.

CHAPTER XII.

David's Messenger.

"I did not tell you, Ellen," she said, "but a week ago I wrote to me. She begged me to let her come. I have taken a long time to answer that letter, but finally I have decided that I must meet her. Indeed," added Elizabeth, with a rush of emotion, "I feel I want her. It is only right we should be united."

Mrs. Griffin gave back the note without a remark, but as she saw Elizabeth direct the envelope, and then ring the bell, and gave the letter to the servant to be posted at once, she scowled, then she sighed audibly.

"I am the last woman in the world," she said, "to say a word against family affection, but there are exceptions to every rule. You have given Lillian a most amazing love, and she has given you nothing in return. You would do better with her outside your life, Beth, and from my heart I grieve that you are going to have anything more to do with her."

CHAPTER XIII.

MY HEART ASKS HIM.

Early the next morning Elizabeth interviewed the new addition to her household.

Mary had told her that the girl's condition was poor in the extreme; that she had no cloths except she wore, and no possessions except a little box which she had brought from her wretched lodging the preceding night, and to which she clung as though it contained some great treasure.

It was a labor of love to Elizabeth to drive out quite early and to buy this girl all the things she needed.

A strange little excitement fluttered her heart the while.

"I will send him news," she said to herself.

She had drawn from the girl a full account of what had passed that summer night, and her heart had leaped as she had listened, and more especially when Mary—who had heard the girl's story—had spoken warmly of David Barostan.

"It's no small thing," Mary had said, "strong man though he is, to plunge into the river to save another person's life!"

So it was that Elizabeth resolved that she would write to him.

Mr. Gooch had given her his address abroad, and this matter would afford her an opportunity of approach-

Reduced in Flesh Sleepless Nights

Kidney Disease and Gravel Caused Keenest Suffering—Cured by
Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Dr. W. Smith.

That diseases of the kidneys cause the greatest suffering is well known, and when stone or gravel is formed in the bladder the torture is almost beyond human endurance.

The disease should never be allowed to reach this dangerous stage. Pains in the small of the back, pain or smarting when passing water, frequent urination, loss of flesh, and weight tell of the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate and invigorate the kidneys and restore these organs to health.

Mr. W. Smith, Port Dalhousie, Ont., writes—"For some years I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water, accompanied by the most dreadful agony. As the disease wore on me I became reduced in flesh and passed sleepless nights. No doctor was able to do much for me, and I used many medicines without obtaining more than temporary relief. My attention was directed to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by using this treatment the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well, and feel better than I have for twenty years."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

ing him naturally. The mere thought of expressing some kind words to this man seemed to change the very outlook of life for Elizabeth. Here, too, was something which could be discussed congenially with Mrs. Griffin.

The story of David Barostan enforced the conviction in Ellen Griffin's mind that the man she had prepared herself to fight and despise was one who disarmed her before an encounter.

Mary herself proposed that she travel to the North with girl, who, when asked for her name, first hesitated, and then feebly said she was called Mabel White.

"She is hiding her real name," Ellen travel to the North with the girl, who, is a tragedy written on that poor child's face."

When Elizabeth said farewell to her protegee, she held the girl's hand tenderly.

"Now you must make me a promise," she said. "You are going to try and get quite strong, and to forget, if possible, everything that has been sad and dark in your life. Perhaps it may be a little lonely for you at the White Farm, but if this should be so, all you have to do is to write to me. But I want you to go up there for a time, because I know that the air will do you great good."

The girl could not speak; her emotion was too great even for tears.

Dressed in her new, neat garments, she looked extremely ladylike, and, though she was so delicate and slight, she was undoubtedly vedy pretty.

When Mary and she had gone, there was a slight silence between Mrs. Griffin and Elizabeth for a minute or two. It was the older woman who spoke first.

"She reminds me of somebody, but I don't know who it is," she said, in her abrupt fashion.

"I can tell you," Elizabeth answered, in her low voice; "she has something of Lili about her, and, if I am quite honest with you, Ellen, it was this something that drove my heart toward my sister last night. I fancied to myself, when I saw her, that it was Lili before me—Lili, heartbroken, and poor, and suffering. This girl's coming seemed to foreshadow a time when Lili might need me. Not that she will ever want bread or clothes, but charity is not the only way in which we can help one another."

Mrs. Griffin grunted.

"Well, now that I have settled you here," she said, "I'm off on my travels for a little while. I want to see the sun. I have forgotten what it is like."

"I am sorry, dear," said Elizabeth, wistfully; "what shall I do when you have gone?"

"Oh, you will have Lili," said Mrs. Griffin, gruffly.

Elizabeth was silent.

In her heart there lurked a suspicion that her cousin's outspoken objection to Lili was based on truth, yet she could not steel her heart against her sister's entreaty for friendship. At any rate, she would meet Lili generously, and if sorrow was to come from this, then she must bear that sorrow bravely. It was strange how the fear that Lili really might have need of her lurked in the background of her thoughts.

She began to feel excited and nervous as the hours drew near. When she sat alone at luncheon, and a mere was brought to her bearing Lili's handwriting, she had one moment of acute disappointment at the mere suggestion that Lili and she would not meet. But Lady Garland wrote confirming the engagement for the afternoon, only she asked Beth to go to her, as it seemed she was not very well.

"I have one of my tiresome colds," she wrote. "You know they always prostrate me. Come any time you like, dear."

Elizabeth was ready to go to her, but the letter was so short that the visit was postponed.

Mr. Gooch arrived unexpectedly, bringing her certain papers which required her signature, and eager to discuss with her a matter which, at Elizabeth's suggestion, he had undertaken a week or so before; this was to buy back, if possible, the Glen Farm estate.

Already Elizabeth had made more than one little journey down to the churchyard where Basil Barostan was buried. She had taken this small duty from Mr. Gooch, and so the grave was carefully tended and fresh flowers were laid on it every other day.

And it had seemed to her a positive duty when all this money had come to her that she should try to show some outward mark of appreciation, and the repurchase of this old place appealed to her strongly. Mr. Gooch had to report a great many difficulties in the way, and the matter was one that interested Elizabeth so much that the afternoon was far advanced before she found herself free to go to her sister.

However, when she got into the carriage, its pair of beautiful horses took her rapidly through the streets, and she was quivering with excitement when it drew up at Lady Garland's door. A private hansom was waiting there already.

Before admitting her, the butler spoke to Elizabeth.

"If you please, ma'am," he said, "his lordship begged me to say he would be so pleased if you would go and see him before you left. His room is downstairs, at the back. His lordship is anything but well, ma'am," the servant added, involuntarily. Then he opened the door, and Elizabeth was ushered into Lili's pet apartment.

It was a low-roofed, old-fashioned room, and could have been made charming; its chief impression now, however, was one of confusion; there were so many cushions and so many tables and chairs, the air was heavy with scent, and the light was dim.

As she advanced toward the fire, Elizabeth saw Lili arise rather rapidly from a chair, and at the same moment a man's figure arose from another chair, which seemed very close to the other.

It was the Lili of old, and yet a new Lili, who flung her arms about Beth and kissed her excitedly.

"Oh, you dear, dear thing," she said, "how sweet of you to come! But you are very late. I have been expecting you all the afternoon, and did not know what to do with myself. Mr. Mark came. You know Mark—Lord Ottershaw, I mean—don't you? but of course you do; he had to console you, I remember, at my wedding."

Elizabeth had a dazed feeling upon her.

She had kissed her sister, and held that slender, graceful figure in her arms for one moment. But, as Lili halted, and as she had quickly recognized the man standing beside the fire, her heart had been suddenly chilled.

She felt half suffocated.

The room was too hot; there were too many flowers, and Lili's appearance, with her mass of yellow hair waving loosely upon her shoulders, garbed in white, clinging drapery, that might very well have done for the robes of Ophelia, jarred on her.

The suggestion of intimacy between Ottershaw and Lili brought back, with a rush of pain, all she had suffered that bygone day up at the White Farm, only this time the pang of personal suffering was absent. Instead, her thoughts went with a rush to the sick man below, whose condition, while it could arouse sympathy in his servant, obviously did not touch his wife in any way.

Gradually, but surely, the love she had felt for Lord Ottershaw had died away from her. Their last meeting had shattered every illusion, revealing the true man beneath the glamour.

As Ottershaw came forward now with outstretched hand, she put hers into his. Though she hotly resented his presence, and was touched and saddened, Elizabeth was mistress of the situation.

"I did not recognize you at first," "the light is so dim."

Lord Ottershaw smiled as he merely touched her hand, and uttered something conventional in his turn.

Elizabeth's presence made a note apart in this kind of hothouse apartment. She was simply dressed, wearing black, as usual, but there was something fresh and cold about her beauty, something dignified, that not only set her far apart from all the Lillians of the world, but made her infinitely more desirable to himself.

He had, of course, known that Lili expected her, and he had purposely planned this little rencontre.

His mood toward Elizabeth during these weeks of silence had been increasing resentful. The cold, calm way in which she had dismissed him and refused obedience to his will was something he could not forgive or forget. It was generally recognized that Ottershaw was changed, and the man himself was only too conscious that this was a fact, and was doubly embittered in consequence.

When the news came to him that Elizabeth was a very rich woman, when he realized that she was resolute in her determination to openly declare herself the wife of his successful rival, Ottershaw took a vow to punish her. It was his will against hers, and he would win. The general admiration of her beauty, the knowledge that she was destined to rise, that the world sought her, all served to keep alive this savage intention of dealing harshly with her.

The Story Tellers.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Did you ever pause in your employment of some wonderful novel or absorbing short story to think to yourself what a tremendous debt we all owe to the story tellers?

The other evening I knew at seven o'clock that I was to receive some important news at ten.

"How can I ever wait these three hours?" I said to myself; and the first hour, during which I wandered about the house and tried to occupy my mind with household duties and with conversation, the seconds seemed like minutes.

Finally I sat down with a book; at first I was restless and inattentive, but soon the great master whose story I was reading had laid hold on my mind; in a few moments I had forgotten to watch the clock, and in a few moments more it was a quarter of ten, and my vigil was almost at an end.

From how many cares, how much impatience, what sorrows and what anxieties the great story tellers free us all; not indefinitely, of course, but for a precious little while that makes us able to go back and take up the burden afresh.

Just think of the hours of tedious waiting for trains and appointments and all the rest, which the story tellers have beguiled in your life.

Think how absolutely unendurable your days of convalescence from sickness would have been without the story tellers.

Think of the periods of sorrow and anxiety into which the story tellers have brought moments of blessed distraction.

I know a man who sat and read voraciously all the morning long the day his beloved mother was to be buried; read even to the very moment of the funeral. Some people thought him heartless but I knew he was far from that, and I thought him very wise to try to put his mind on something that would keep it from going over and over the thought of his loss.

I doubt if he knew much of what he read. It simply served to benumb him a little and for that blessed numbness he had the story teller to thank.

God bless the story tellers. "To have done things worthy to be written," says one of the greatest of them all, with that wonderful modesty that helps to make him a beloved figure, "is a dignity to which no man makes any approach who has only written things worthy to be read."

It is very daring for me to differ with Sir Walter Scott, and yet I must, for it seems to me that in many cases he who "has written things worthy to be read" has conferred a benefit on humanity more enduring and more widespread than that which comes from many great deeds.

God bless the story tellers. We could do without many wiser and greater men more easily than without them.

Ruth Cameron

A WOMAN'S GOOD LOOKS.

Depend on her general health and freedom from pain. Many a woman looks old before her time because of those irregularities which are essentially feminine. Starting from early womanhood, she suffers from frequently recurring derangements that upset her womanly health. If she be beautiful she grows into that mellow age without wrinkles and crowfeet about the eyes or the blue circles underneath. It is invariably the rule that such women suffer little, or not at all, from womanly derangements which sap the health and leave in the face the tell-tale story of pain and suffering. Dr. R. V. Pierce, the famous specialist in the diseases of women, found a prescription in his early practice that soothed the organism peculiar to womanhood—oiled the machinery, as it were, of the human system—and helped the woman to pass those painful periods that scar-lined and aged her face. This remedy became the well-known Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which has benefited thousands of women and saved them from misery and suffering at different periods in life.

Mrs. PIERCE.

Max HANCOCK, E. France, of 244 Bridge Street, Sarnia, Ontario, writes: "I am now a well woman after suffering for three years and doctoring with several different doctors, each one saying it was something different, and the last one, after putting me through a thorough examination, said I was suffering from a growth, which, in time, would result in cancer, and said I would not live more than two years if not operated upon right away. I became hopelessly discouraged but would not consent to the operation as I was too weak and too much afraid, but at last, through the advice of a friend, I tried Dr. Pierce's medicine, and after using two bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I immediately felt a change. I also used two boxes of 'Healing Suppositories' and eight boxes of 'Lotion Tablets,' and can safely praise the name of Dr. Pierce's medicines to the skies. These medicines are all they are claimed to be, and I hope will help others as they have helped me."

Household Notes.

When peeling a pineapple always leave the top on to hold it by.

Rub a little lemon juice on tarnished faucets to brighten them.

If you wish to store silver so that it will not tarnish pack it in dry flour.

Save the fir needles of the Christmas tree for sweet-smelling pillows.

Lemon and orange rinds may be dried, grated and bottled to be ready for use.

Rub the butter paddles with salt if you have any trouble making butter balls.

Put cream and bread crumbs into hamburger steak and it will be delightfully juicy.

Windows are most easily washed with a cloth first and then rubbed with a chamouis.

Heat the knife or dip it into hot water and dry it before cutting fresh bread or cake.

Pour boiling starch over ink or iodine spots and they will come out in two or three hours.

To prevent chapped hands in cold weather always dry them very carefully after washing.

Use old catalogues for pads for the kitchen table or cupboard or to try the flatirons on.

Scatter grated white potato over the carpets if you wish to clean them and freshen their colors.

To take ink spots out of colored materials cover with tallo before sending to the laundry.

To freshen a refrigerator, clean thoroughly and paint with white enamel, giving two coats.

Use a bicycle pump to clean such parts of the sewing machine as you cannot reach with a cloth.

To keep thread or silk from knotting as you sew, try soaping it with a bit of pure white soap.

Shrink woollen darning yarn in the steam of a tea kettle before mending the stockings with it.

Before peeling onions, let them stand in water, then peel, and the eyes will not smart so badly.

To keep clothespins from freezing to the clothes put two handfuls of salt in your bluing water.

To take castor oil easily, put orange juice in a glass first, then the oil, then more orange juice.

Sponge black silk with clear coffee to freshen it, and iron on the wrong side when partly dry.

Mend the boys' trousers on the sewing machine and the patch will not pull out as if done by hand.

Freeze candles before using them to light your dinner table. They will not run and will last much longer.

When cleaning with gasoline stand the gasoline bottle in a basin of hot water until the gasoline is warm.

Dried out toast dipped in boiling hot salted water and buttered is a pleasant change from the usual kind.

When cutting fur never use scissors; use a razor or very sharp pen-knife to cut through the skin at the back.

Put raisins and other small fruits in a corn popper when you want to wash them. Put them in it under the faucet.

Put a little salt in the starch and it will not "freeze out" of the clothes when they are hung out to dry in cold weather.

All milk puddings intended to be eaten at luncheon should be prepared as soon as breakfast things are cleared away.

A Noble Sentiment.

The little I have seen of the world, teaches me to look upon the errors of others in sorrow, not in anger. When I take the history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered, and represent to myself the struggles and temptations it has passed through, the brief pulsations of joy, the feverish inquietude of hope and fear, the pressure of want, the desertion of friends, I would fain leave the erring soul of my fellowmen with Him from whose hand it came.—Longfellow.

Stowaways.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Permit me to complain through the columns of your valuable paper about the trouble the boys who are allowed to stow away are causing their parents.

On the 15th inst. three boys left here on the S. S. Bonaventure, and their anxious mothers sought their boys in vain, when some young lad told one of them he saw them on the steamer Bonaventure. She telegraphed and received an answer that they had left at Sydney. Captain Randall might at least have given them in charge of the Chief of Police, and not have let children of their age go at large in Sydney. How do those mothers know what will be the fate of their boys. They have heard no word of them since. The Captain should at least report them.

Thanking you for space, I remain,

Complaint From North Harbor.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Please allow me to place a your valuable paper to make a few remarks on how things are here.

When Mr. Devereaux visited us in September he told us he was going to send the steamer here and this settlement would be a port of call. We had much doubt of it coming off. We didn't expect the steamer would call here, because we don't expect one thing. We have to get in boats to get from one house to the other, if not we would be bogged. We are expecting we will have Mr. Coaker here next and then we will get the steamer and money to make our roads.

We don't know the reason that we don't get our share of the money like everywhere else. It is not because we have the sum of $20 for a ferry here. The steamer is not much good to us at St. Joseph's because we can't get to her, and it is only two miles to come in to North Harbor, which she passes.

About Playing Cards.

Quite apart from their use in various games, playing cards are an interesting study from historic and pictorial points of view. Take first their numerical arrangement. Fifty-two cards, 365 pips or dots and 13 tricks, representing the weeks and days in the year and the lunar months. There are four suits, representing four classes of people as they were divided at the time the pack of cards we now use was devised by the French. The "spades" stood for pikemen or soldiers, the "clubs" for clover, typifying farmers, the "diamonds" for building titles, representing artisans, and the "hearts" for choirmen or ecclesiastic.

The "Kings" and "queens" of the time were more or less correct likenesses of certain royal and noble personages. Even in our modern packs it is said that one of the "queens" is a conventionalized portrait of Elizabeth of York, who was engaged to the Dauphin of France. The "knave" were then the King's jesters, and even these cards may be portraits. All the court cards, in fact, retain their sixteenth century characteristics. Cards are amongst the few things that have not changed with the centuries.

Our Local Hansard.

We have before us the first volume of our local "Hansard." It is published in two parts: One is entitled "Proceedings of the House of Assembly of Newfoundland—Session 1912," and the other has a similar title in regard to the work of the Legislative Council for same session.

In reality, it is the publication in book form of the reports of speeches which have already been published in the city and outport Government organs.

The patronage for this work was given to Robinson & Company, Limited. The paper is good and the print clear. The binding is, however, too much like the binding of the annual Acts of our Parliament, and we would suggest that a different binding should be used in future, and that a title be printed on the back in order to distinguish from the volumes of annual Acts and from one another when placed in the usual way on a book shelf.

For purposes of references, the publication of parliamentary speeches in volume form is a great step in advance. The old way of hunting through a bound copy of newspaper issues for six or twelve months was vexatious, difficult, and wasteful in time and energy. We have already found the new system a great improvement.

Now that the great improvement of publishing the speeches in a compendious form has been made, we would suggest other improvements, not already mentioned, which in our opinion would be of advantage in making a record of the proceeding of our Parliament.

The first suggestion has no reference to the book form of publication, it relates to omissions from the proceedings of Parliament. We have noticed in the publication of these matters in the newspapers, Parliament is the great Inquest of the Nation. One of the main functions of members is to ask questions. Curiously enough the questions are recorded in these proceedings verbatim. But the replies of the Minister who answers are not recorded. In place of the verbatim answer, a stereotyped form is used, such as "I beg to table the statement asked for." This is highly unsatisfactory, and in this respect the Proceedings of Parliament contains no record at all. This should be seen to in future.

The other suggestion relates to the Index of the Assembly Proceedings. Our suggestion has reference to the unsatisfactory indexing under two heads—Petitions and Questions. We will give two instances of the little assistance of the references under these heads on the Index we have mentioned, taking the first example in each case.

Under the title Petitions, we find first on the list, "Hon. Minister of Agriculture and Mines, 112, 146, 198, 202, 233, 254, 272, 286, 305, 310, 326, 327, 329, 346, 358, 390, 462, 470, 497, 507, 508, 529, 566."

Under the title Questions, we first find on the list, "Mr. Kent, 30, 77, 79, 81, 82, 113, 115, 146, 199, 224, 233, 234, 255, 275, 288, 305, 433, 465, 472, 473.

HONEST ADVICE.

Practically every fisherman admits he should have a motor engine that a motor will reduce labor and increase earnings.—A large percentage in every district will buy engines within six months—to these we want to give a word of honest advice. So many are selling engines, all claiming the best, it must be confusing and hard for the buyer to know which really is the best, and the advice we want to give you is that the FRASER is a big, strong, powerful and reliable engine and very simple and easily understood, practically every fisherman we have sold engines to put them in boats themselves and ran them the entire season without a hitch.

Every man we ever sold a FRASER to is satisfied and thinks there is no engine so good—ask any owner.

At the Battery, St. John's, this year our FRASERS and six other makes were operated. Ten engines have been bought there for next spring delivery. These ten buyers knew every engine sold and advertised in St. John's, they knew the records and merits of all, they saw all work and buy the best, and not together but one after the other during September and October every man of the ten bought a FRASER. This should be a satisfactory answer as to which engine is really the best. The FRASER is not expensive. Terms of payment attractive—write us. Do it now.

Hope for Safety of Morien.

SYDNEY, To-Day.

Hopes for the safety of the steamer Morien was strengthened yesterday when a steamer arrived at Louisburg with news that she had passed a steamer with lights, but no steam up, about 60 miles east of Louisburg. The steamer was the Mexicana, a Norwegian passenger and cargo boat from Norway to Mexico. The Mexican signalled the steamer, but go no answer. Knowing nothing about the search for the Morien, she passed on her way. At Louisburg the captain heard the Morien was missing and got into touch with the Lady Laurier which had gone towards Sable Island to continue the search. Lady Laurier returned and got full information as to the steamer's location, and she started out yesterday afternoon. The Mexicana captain's description of the steamer, which appeared to be loaded, tallies fairly well with that of the Morien.

Sunday School Anniversary.
GOWER ST. CHURCH.
 (I. C. M.)

Whilst all Christian work is important there is perhaps no department of it of greater importance than that of the Sunday School, and so it proved yesterday at Gower St. Church, at the Anniversary of the Sunday School, when large congregations attended, and bright and impressive services were held.

In the morning the Rev. J. W. Bartlett, the respected pastor of George St. Church, delivered a very practical discourse upon the subject of Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the image with the golden head; and drew many timely lessons from the topic, and illustrated them by choice quotations from the poets. Mr. Bartlett is certainly one of the best versed of preachers in the poetical writings that we know of; and his preparation must indeed entail deep study.

In the afternoon the service was presided over by Mr. A. W. Martin, the energetic Superintendent of Wesley Sunday School, and also an old time scholar of Gower St. Sunday School. The meeting was enthusiastic all through, and was very helpful. A special feature of the meeting was the address of Mrs. R. A. Sprules, who in choice words imparted to the scholars many excellent lessons, all of which were particularly adapted to Sunday School work. Among other features of the meeting, the singing of the children, and the solo by Mrs. Cockerham, were very well rendered, and in a manner highly creditable to those who took part.

The evening service was in charge of the Rev. Dr. Rogers, the pastor of the Church, who, in his usual devotion and zeal, carried out the closing numbers of the programme. His sermon was based upon the story of the finding of Moses in the river Nile, and the child's mother as to his training, The Child, the Home, the Teacher, and the Scholar were, there, the subjects of discussion, and each phase of it was treated in such a spirit, and with such a kindly touch, and with such adaptation to the occasion, as only a Master in Israel could do. It was a discourse for a Sunday School anniversary truly, and among the vast audience present, whether parents or scholars, those who were present, and there were lessons for all; and while everybody must have felt the importance of Sunday School Work, they must also have felt the inspiration and encouragement of the preacher's remarks.

Gower St. Church may be called the mother of Newfoundland education, as untold influences for good have radiated from its pulpit and platform, and many able and devoted men have occupied the positions of pastor of the church, and superintendent of the Sunday School; and we are pleased to be able to say that those who fill these positions at present have proved themselves worthy of the best records of the past. The Rev. Dr. Rogers was a scholar in this school sixty years ago, and Mr. Albert Soper, the Superintendent, was a scholar there thirty years ago. They are, therefore, both graduates of the Sunday School, and have come up through all its stages of study and toil, and by faithful work and devotion they have won the highest position within the Church's gift; and they must certainly have felt encouraged yesterday with the instruction of the services and the loyalty of the people.

Had Narrow Escape.

The six men of a crew and a woman passenger of the schr. Fannie C., of 28 tons had a terrible time of it according to the crew of the Ingraham. The vessel was bound from St. John's to Broad Cove, T. B. and left here Thursday at midnight. She was in Bacallien Tickle all Friday until 3 p.m., but strange to say though it was terribly stormy here she had it quite calm until 3 p.m. when a snow storm burst upon her and an effort was made to reach Carbonar. In doing so most of her canvas was blown away and the three anchors which were let go broke away and she was driven on over the shoals at Mosquito Point and went ashore. The rudder was torn away and soon she filled with water and went over the cabin floor. She was driven in under the cliff and death stared all on board in the face. They took to their boat and were two hours rowing and were drenched with the spray and snow and suffering terribly from cold before they could get a place to land. They got ashore at a beach near the entrance to Mosquito and most of the people had to remain in their wet clothing until they landed in Harbor Grace yesterday. They had a terrible time of it, but cannot understand how the vessel after striking did not go to pieces in the heavy sea running. At daylight yesterday the Ingraham towed the vessel off and brought her to Harbor Grace. She was submerged with only 10 feet of her masts above water and in this condition was towed along and beached at Harbor Grace. Yesterday two of her crew narrowly escaped drifting in on the breakers at Harbor Grace and being drowned. Two staples in the bow and stern of the boat gave out as she was being launched and she drifted away without oars on board. Oars were thrown in the water by the tug and seized by those in the boat but for which the boat would have been swept in on the cliff.

Hit With Stone.

At 11:30 Saturday night as Mr. Robert Clare was standing on New Gower Street, near Haggerty Street, he was hit with a stone over the left eye and dropped to the ground unconscious. He was picked up and brought into a nearby house where he revived, after which he was taken to Dr. Tait's surgery. The wound received was deep and dangerous and Dr. Tait had to insert several stitches to close it. Had the missile taken effect a little further back the man would have been killed. He knows who threw the stone and will prosecute him.

Special Evening Telegram.
ABERDEEN, Nov. 30.
A suffragette was arrested in a hall where Lloyd George was to speak. She carried a box of fire crackers, and with two of her companions was hiding behind the organ, but they were captured before the doors were opened. Another of the kind hurled a stone at autos occupied by the Chancellor's party, presumably to injure Lloyd George, but she picked out the wrong car. This person was also arrested. In his speech the Chancellor said that a great change in the iniquitous land laws was imperative. Statistics showed that numbers of robust fellows were emigrating each year; and this would be stopped by a free land system.

BOMBAY, Nov. 30.
Three super-Dreadnoughts and nine first-class armoured cruisers will shortly be presented to the British Government by the independent rulers and nobles of India, if their plans mature. It is suggested that these ships be stationed in the Red Sea and Indian Ocean.

MONTREAL, Nov. 30.
The London Star correspondent came in glowing terms by the British press. The cost will be $140,000,000 and is a striking evidence of contentedness with British rule. It is pointed out that on our supremacy in the Mediterranean our position in the Far East depends.

HALIFAX, Nov. 30.
S. S. Lady Laurier has returned from an unsuccessful search for the steamer Morien. She scoured 800 miles of sea without a trace of the missing ship. It is now thought the Morien foundered with all hands after cooling at Louisburg. The Laurier will make a final search.

ABERDEEN, Nov. 30.
Suffragettes, on Saturday, brought about two scenes of extreme violence, in which women's shoes and horse-whips were used as weapons. The first outbreak occurred when three women—Joyce Locke, Fanny Parker and Mary Pollock—who had been caught on Friday evening in possession of explosives at the Music Hall, where Lloyd George was to speak, were brought before the magistrate, who, after hearing the evidence, remanded them for further enquiry. As he informed them of this, the Locke woman removed her shoes and hurled one at the Magistrate's head, throwing the other at the Clerk of the Court. The second outrage was committed by one of a party of suffragettes who were waiting at the Railway Station for the departure of the Chancellor. She mistook the Rev. Forbes Jackson for Mr. Lloyd George, in disguise, and lashed the clergyman across the face with a horsewhip. She was at once arrested.

LONDON, Nov. 30.
A despatch from Vienna says that a message received there from the Serbian capital states that Belgrade has been mined, and may be blown up on the entrance of foreign troops. The majority of the residents, by order of the Government, have removed to Nish and Leskovatz, and others are preparing to depart. The capture of Dibra has been greeted with popular enthusiasm. The opinion is that tension between Serbia and Greece is lessening, and that peace is in prospect.

LONDON, Dec. 1. I am informed on unimpeachable authority, says the Times' correspondent at Saloniki, that the Bulgarian irregular troops, left in charge of Kavala, after its surrender some time ago, alleging that the Moslems had plotted a massacre, arrested 150 Turks and slaughtered them mostly with bayonets outside the town. This action was taken in spite of promises to protect the lives of citizens. A further excuse for the massacre was the allegation that the Turks had burned several villages before the entrance of the Bulgarians into the town of Drama, and that 150 Christian families had perished. A number of leading Jews have been arrested. Grave fears are entertained for their safety. They also allege that when the Bulgarians entered Servia, they were fired on by the Turks and an officer and two soldiers were killed. Thereupon the Bulgarians began to clean up the town, massacring a hundred persons by the Moslem process.

LONDON, Dec. 1. George Renwick, the correspondent of the Daily Chronicle at Constantinople, telegraphs:—"I learn on excellent authority that the Balko-Turkish Conference has reached a solid basis of agreement which augurs well for an early resumption of negotiations. The delegates are now at work on the following points: (1) Adrianople to remain Turkish territory under certain stipulations, including the reduction of fortifications; (2) Turkey to enter the Balkan confederation for customs purposes, the exact condition of this partnership is not definitely fixed; (3) Autonomy to be granted to Albania, under control of the Allies; (4) Macedonia and Mussulmans of any territory annexed by the coalition to receive certain privileges.

LONDON, Dec. 1. Whilst the danger that the belligerents may fail to settle their differences and hostilities be resumed looms large, the fact that both armies before Constantinople have practically reached a deadlock is the strongest force making for peace. Military experts consider that it would be almost impossible for the Allies to break the Tchalatala works, while it would be equally impossible for the Turks to succeed in an offensive movement. Bulgaria has come to the end of her resources in men, and has called out the drafts of 1913 and 1914, who are youths of 17 and 16 years, while one Army Corps in front of Adrianople consists of old men.

CONSTANTINOPLE, 2.30 a.m. The Cabinet has approved of the protocol of an armistice, which will be signed to-morrow. An armistice has been issued sanctioning the protocol which will be signed by Turkish and Bulgarian on behalf of the Allies. It will thus apply not merely to Tchalatala and Adrianople but to all Turkey in Europe. The armistice will last as long as the preliminary negotiations for peace continue, and it is stipulated that the position of the belligerents shall remain exactly as at the time of signature. Up to the present there have been no 'pour parlers' on the subject of peace, therefore statements in reference to the LONDON, To-day. The terms of the armistice, according to the Constantinople correspondent of the Standard provide: (1) The armies shall remain in their present position and cease trenching, reinforcing and bringing up ammunition; Adrianople and Scutari shall not be evacuated, but their garrisons shall receive rations daily.

PARIS, To-day. The Constantinople correspondent of the Temps gives under reserve the main lines of the Peace scheme, as outlined by Turkish Semi-Official sources. Greece gets Epirus, Serbia gets Old Servia and Novipazar; Bulgaria gets Thrace following frontier from Midia to Dedagatch on the Kavala, but excluding Adrianople which remains connected with Constantinople and the Dardanelles; autonomy is granted Macedonia with Saloniki as capital; Albania minus the part ceded to Montenegro is also a province purely under discussion; the sovereignty of the Balkans. The final condition is the admission of Turkey in Balkan League.

VIENNA Dec. 1. The majority of Vienna newspapers view the situation with more hope, chiefly on account of a report that Russia has given assurances to Austria that she does not intend to support all the Serbian ambition. Most of the Journals think that the crisis is past, but there is a sign that Serbia has abandoned her attitude on the question of an Adriatic port.

Who's to Blame For This?

That somebody has bungled is evident. I, Jack Rossley, proprietor of the Star Theatre, booked by wire a coloured Trio, engaged at the King Edward Theatre, Halifax, offering them three weeks' work at a big salary. I went to Rejo's, and sent them first class fares on November 22nd, and up to Saturday night, Nov. 29th, had not heard from them, though they were billed to open for me Dec. 2nd. I wired Mr. George Couture on Saturday night about them, and this is a copy of the telegram received Sunday morning, December 1st.—

"Mr. Jack Rossley, Star Theatre, Patterson trip left Halifax last Thursday for Boston. They waited here till then for tickets from you. Not hearing from you they could no afford to wait any longer. "GEORGE COUTURE."

Now that's a nice thing after me sending tickets for these performers over a week ago. Wherever the mistake is, I think it shameful that a man's business is spoiled through the neglect of someone. I therefore take his opportunity of letting the public know the Dora Patterson Trio will no appear.

The schr. Occident, Stewart master arrived yesterday after a stormy passage with a cargo of fish to James Baird, Ltd. The craft left Harbour Breton on Thursday morning last and the following day experienced a strong S. E. gale which forced her to harbor in Placentia Bay. On Friday night the Occident continued the passage when a N. E. gale and snow storm raged. Later the wind veered to N. W. with a heavy sea. The craft got a bad drubbing and after a while had to put out to sea under bare poles. It was the hardest time Capt. Stewart ever experienced in his 45 years of seafaring.

The death occurred at her residence, Barnes' Road, yesterday, of Mrs. Johanna Carew, widow of the late Joseph Carew, cooper, of King's Road. ## Christian Bros' Collection.

THE BEST ON RECORD.

At all the Masses in the Roman Catholic Churches of the city and Mt. Cashel and Kilbride the annual collection for the Christian Brothers was taken up yesterday and right liberally did the people respond making it the largest taken since the advent of the Brothers in the Colony. Considering the many demands on the people the splendid collection of yesterday is the best evidence of the appreciation of the excellent work the good brothers are doing in St. John's. The total collected yesterday was $4,023.59 which is $142.16 in excess of last year's contribution. The people of St. Patrick's did exceptionally well considering the fact that $4,000 was last week realized by the bazaar for their church. They donated $1,768.67, or $107.24 over last year's collection. After last Mass at St. Patrick's Mr. E. M. Jackman with the collectors went to the Deanery and presented Rev. Bro. Cashman, of Holy Cross Schools, with the amount collected at the church. Brother Cashman and Brother Ahearne were present and the former in an eloquent manner thanked the people of the parish and made special reference to the aid given by the pupils.

The following is a summary of the amounts taken at the various churches—

Cathedral	$2,827.12
St. Patrick's	1,068.67
St. Joseph's	76.50
Mount Cashel	37.50
Kilbride	13.80

Total $4,023.59

A Pleading Function.

The collectors at the different churches after last Mass assembled at Mount St. Francis, the residence of the Christian Brothers, where Hon. J. D. Ryan presented to Rev. Superior Ryan the splendid total collected and in a happy address complimented the Brothers on the splendid work they have done and are doing in our midst. Rev. Brother Ryan thanked the people for the handsome collection, praised the generosity of the people of all creeds and particularly referred to the kindly interest taken in the Order by the Hon. J. D. Ryan. Rev. Bro. Kennedy, the retiring Superior, referred to the work done by the Brothers and the encouragement they received from the people of all denominations during the past 37 years. He descanted on the philanthropy of the Benevolent Irish Society and coupled with this the name of an old friend in the person of Mr. John L. Slattery. In concluding he heartily thanked all for the assistance given to the Superior and the splendid collection taken up for the Brothers.

Mr. E. M. Jackman, for the people of St. Patrick's, joined in the eulogiums paid the Brothers, praised the liberality of the people of St. Patrick's who for church purposes had raised $22,000 the past two years.

Mr. John Fitzpatrick, Rt. Hon. Sir Edward Morris, Mayor Ellis and Hon. P. T. McGrath (for the Press) made complimentary references to the Brothers and praised the generosity of the people after which this very pleasing function concluded.

Obituary.

REV. FR. WALSH.

The news was received in the city yesterday to the effect that Rev. John Walsh, P. P. of Renewes, who had been critically ill of heart trouble, had succumbed to his ailment, and to-day we note with deepest regret his passing, which sad event occurred Saturday night. Deceased was seventy years of age. He was born in Tipperary, Ireland, in May, 1842, and was educated at All Hallows College. He was ordained a priest in 1879 in which year he came to this country. He was appointed then as Curate to his late brother, Rev. James Walsh, at Placentia. His valuable labours there were only brief when he was appointed to Renewes where he has laboured quietly and indefatigably for nearly forty years. Rev. John Walsh was the last of the veteran priest and was noted for his large-heartedness and gentleness. His funeral takes place at Renewes to-morrow morning and a special train will leave the city this afternoon with a number of citizens, clergy and Christian Brothers to attend the obsequies.

Following this His Lordship was escorted through the institution by the Superior, Rev. Bro. Ennis, and was favourably impressed with what he saw.

To Jail for Short Weight.

For short weight on a wagon load of coal, Eher J. Ernest, of Ernest Bros., 109 Street and Second Avenue, New York, was sentenced yesterday to twenty days, with an addition of thirty days or a $500 fine. Inspector of Weights, John F. Carroll, had the firm's driver arrested on November 18th, in front of the house slip for 4,000 pounds. Carroll could where he was tendering a delivery slip for 4,000 pounds Carroll could only find 3,310 pounds on weighing the wagon.

Ernest had been arrested four times before, but never convicted. Lawyer Steinkamp pleaded the ruin of his business, and his wife and little children.

Forget the praise that falls to you
The moment you have won it.
Forget the slander that you hear
Before you can repeat it.
Forget each slight, each spite, each sneer.
Whenever you may meet it.
Remember every kindness done
To you, whatever its measure.
Remember praise by others won
And pass it on with pleasure.
Remember every promise made
And keep it to the letter.
Remember those who lend you aid
And be a grateful debtor.

Remember all the happiness
That comes your way in living.
Forget each worry and distress.

The Telephone

It is indeed a wondrous thing, this modern telephone, that will across the distance bring a speaker's lightest tone. Sometimes I sit and contemplate its weird, surprising plan, and bless the scientist so great who gave this boon to man. And then again I rant and rave about its many faults, and tear the blamed thing from the wall, and on the pieces waltz. Your mirthful lips are stricken dumb, sealed are the fountains of song, when central (busy chewing gum) gets all the numbers wrong. I sometimes wonder what we'd do if we should lose our phones. We'd be a helpless helpless crew! We'd fill the world with groans. To get back to our fathers' ways would fill our souls with aches! A message then would take three days, that now a minute takes! And then again it seems to me that life would be more gay if all the telephones that be were burned or shipped away. For when in haste I'd use the phone to gossip with my man, I hear a stern central's monotone: "The line is busy now." It is a nuisance and a boon, a blessing and a curse; perhaps they will improve it soon, perhaps they'll make it worse.

Cable News.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Nov. 30.
Constantinople reports to-night the probability of a fortnight's armistice being signed by Sunday. From the Bulgarian side there has been no news, excepting vague statements as to satisfactory progress. The news of the surrender of two entire divisions of Turkish reserves to the Bulgarians at Demotika, after severe fighting, shows that they are still large isolated numbers of Turkish troops unaccounted for, and which must be considered in arranging negotiations. The Allies are said to have a large number of men who are proceeding in Greek transports from the Gulf of Saloniki, either for the peninsula of Gallipoli, separating the Dardanelles from the Aegean Sea, or to join the allied troops at Tebatjia.

LONDON, Nov. 30.
There are no fresh developments concerning the dispute as to the occupation by Serbia of an Adriatic port. The Telegraph's correspondent says that the Turkish Government is actively preparing for a possible rupture of the peace negotiations and a resumption of hostilities. The streets are swarming with soldiers, and the Lile Burgas veterans are preparing to return to the front. The great square in front of the War Office is a veritable camp, where thousands of recruits are awaiting marching orders. The Government is absolutely silent as to the peace negotiations, and even the ambassadors are kept in ignorance.

LONDON, Nov. 30.
At a speech at a banquet given in his honour, Winston Churchill to-night said that while strong feeling naturally existed between Russia and Austria, a resort to war would be a horror utterly disproportionate to any cause or possible compensation. Christian civilization, he said, looks across the tangles of diplomacy to the sovereigns

Keen Judgment.
The judgment of all keen buying fishermen is that the FRASER ENGINE for Simplicity, strength, reliability, and endurance is the "KING OF ALL ENGINES." Any fisherman can install the FRASER, any ten year old boy can operate it. Terms easy. The FRASER is not expensive.
FRANKLIN & Co.

of those august Empires, and asks whether Kingship in these democratic days may not win for itself new lustre, and proclaim to the multitudes that monarchy is the bulwark of Peace. A general war might plunge Europe into the desolation of the Middle Ages, and the only epitaph history could write would be that the whole generation went mad and tore themselves to pieces.

LONDON, Nov. 30.
A despatch from Sofia says that the most conciliatory spirit prevails at Baghchetsch, where the peace negotiations are in progress. The Turkish delegates declared that the terms of the Allies were very severe, upon which the Bulgarian delegation enquired as to what concessions would satisfy Turkey. The Turks then presented counter-proposals, the tenor of which is unknown. The correspondent says that no fighting has occurred around Adrianople for two days. It is stated at Constantinople that the Bulgarian delegates made an alternative proposal that the fate of Adrianople should not be treated with in the armistice negotiations, and that operations there should not be affected by the proposed armistice, or that the Turks should surrender the town, in which case the Bulgarians would be willing to discuss its future destiny.

On Second Thought.

You can tell pretty well the sort of people they are by looking at their picture frames.

Tank Beverly, who in addition to his work in the Bon Ton barber shop devotes much time to the study of art, says Cupid is too old to fool with a bow and arrow and should be permitted to carry a gun.

No wife will lead her drunken husband home. If she has any style about her she will call a taxicab.

When a man hates a man he hates him. But when a woman hates a man she hates him one day and admires him the next.

A woman will endure privation, hardship and physical suffering without a murmur. But she often cries out in pain when compelled to give her property in to the assessor.

Eph Wiley says he has noticed that the anti-saloon league turns out some mighty good ball players.

Mrs. Tugg Watts dislikes the former Sultan so much that she habitually refers to him as "Old Ab."

Rhubarb pie probably owes its standing largely to the fact that it is in season at a time when there is no competition in that line.

Corns.

BY H. L. RANN.

The corn is a painful attachment to the human foot which is always just where it can be bumped with great freedom. You can always tell a person who has corns by the furtive and distrustful manner with which he handles his feet in a street car.

Our early ancestors did not wear corns and could stumble against a chair without yelling in high staccato accents. This was because they went without shoes except on festival occasions, like quarterly meetings or the Old Settlers' reunion. If it were not for the pernicious habit of breaking in shoes four sizes too small for the victim, the deceptive soft corn and the high-arched bunion would never have been heard of. The American Indian never knew what a corn was until he became civilized and traded a quarter section of land for a pair of hob-nailed boots.

People begin to make the acquaintance of corns about the time they first succeeded in screwing a pair of broad, beaver tail feet into a double A last. This treatment produces very satisfactory results, and will make it impossible for a man to move about the room in his stocking feet without first piling the furniture on the bed. Yet we never hear any complaints about corns in China, where women lace their feet with the aid of a power windlass. You can travel all over Africa, too, and not meet with a corn doctor except in the form of soup. This should cause us to hesitate before laying the profane hand of civilization upon the cornless heathen of foreign climes.

The feet would be much more useful and ornamental if corns had never been invented. After a man has had a fervent corn stepped on three or four times in succession by anybody who has no sense of direction, he will feel like backing into a secluded corner of the conservatory and resting them on the bosom of a potted plant.

The bunion is an elder brother of the corn, and grows wherever it can get a foothold. You never can tell when a bunion will pring up and destroy the classic outlines of a chiselled foot. Some people come down to old age without having a bunion or a law suit, and then wake up some morning to find their right foot decorated with a pink protuberance which shadowed their declining days with deep melancholy and shooting pains.

Bruce Passengers.

The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 8.05 a.m. yesterday. Her passengers were T. B. Orr, A. H. Rockwell, F. T. Stratton, E. L. McDougall, F. Kennedy, W. McKinnon, A. W. Nicholl, W. C. Messervey, E. King, S. Perlin, J. A. Choquette, Miss A. Maher, Miss D. Burridge, L. March, Rev. J. and Mrs. Antle and Miss E. O. Watson.

A Sour, Gassy, Upset Stomach.

"Pape's Diapepsin" regulates your stomach and ends indigestion in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in revolt, if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astounding. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.
