Convicted of Murder.

Dan and Leo Murphy, who were held on suspicion of having killed their father on the night of July 6th at Mars Hill, had their trial at Houlton this week. The younger boy, Leo, and the mother, who also was held in custody, were acquitted. But Dan, or "Pat," as he is called, is convicted of murder in the second degree. Doubtless he will be sentenced to a number of years in the State prison. There has been a great interest manifested in Aroostook and Carleton counties over this case. It will be remembered that the murdered man for a considerable time resided in Hartland.

The Post Office

New regulations with regard to our post office are as follows: Opens at 8 a. m.; closed for noon, 11.30 to 12.30; closed for tea, 5.30 to 6.30; closed for day at 8 p. m. Registered matter for the north must be mailed not later than 12.35; for the south not later than 3.40 p. m. Mail for Coldstream and the back districts closes at 11.30 on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. On these days the incoming mail from the south will not be distributed until the back district's mail is dispatched.

A FEARLESS KICKER.

Concerning the state of Main street a correspondent signing himself "Tax payer" writes:

Will you allow me through the medium of the Advertiser to call attention to the proper authorities, whoever they may be, to the disgraceful state the public highway is in between Richardson & Porter's store and C. C. Proctor's establishment. I don't refer to the mortar bed, lumber, etc., where the new buildings are being erected, but to the holes and washouts in the road, also to the traps, I can call them nothing else, in front of the post office. If a handier chance for a person to break his or her neck is to be found in the village, I should like to be shown it. How long are we to put up with the inconvenient way of getting off and on the platform in front of C. H. Taylor's and the sidewalk to the south of it?

A few loads of gravel would make it easy to step up, whereas now one has to step up some 12 or 15 inches. And how long are the loose planks to be left lying around? A commissioner with half an eye should have seen these things long ago and remedied them. But 'nough said this time.

TAXPAYER.

The Plebiscite.

Ottawa, Oct. 6—Official figures of the plebiscite for the whole Dominion will not be known for three or four weeks yet. Writs are made returnable for today under the law but returning officers have, in many districts, not yet made up their full returns and by law are supposed to wait six days in case of possibility of a recount being asked before sending the figures to Ottawa. Returns will accordingly be published in the "Canada Gazette" each week as they are received. Only three are in today.

Millinery Opening.

The Misses Thornton will have their Fall Millinery on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 13, 14 and 15 of October. All are invited to call and examine goods and enquire prices. We wish to thank our customers for their liberal patronage in the past and hope for the continuance of the same.

To all who find themselves with health gradually slipping away, Kidneys and Liver so disorganized that they are incapable of keeping the the system free from poisonous waste material, Stomach Disordered, Bowels Constipated, Head Aching, Back Paining, take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The way they help you back to health will surprise you.

Ladies' and gentlemen's visiting cards, box of 50, finest stock, neatly printed in latest engraver's script, for 50 cents. Wedding printing prompt and secretly done.

Treats of Politics and Strikes From the Shoulder

MR. TIZER:

Ma is a grit and so am I. You therefore can perhaps fancy how mad ma was after tending the political meetings at Hartland when she read the next week's "Press." Ma sez the "News-boy" is likely to cut out his editor-in-chief. What she means is that he's likely to please the stockholders of that Company more by the lies he tells against the Government, than the editor can do by dressin up such addresses as that delivered by J. T. A. Dibblee, disgruntled ex-Government supporter. What struck ma funny was to see Mr. Dibblee chaperoned by Mr. Pinder. This must be one of the greatest indignities Mr. Dibblee will ever have to submit to. Not but what Mr. Dibblee requires someone to explain his actions and help cover up the shady ones, but that he should be patronized by the man whom of all the Opposition members he loved the least.

Mr. Dibblee's story about Mr. McAvity's bill being exhorbitant sounded all right, and ma was just going to turn with the Moncton Convention when she found out about Mr. Dibblee charging a private customer more for putty than McAvity charged the Government. Now ma sez in a minute, "There's a question in the rule of three—if Mr. Dibblee charges a private customer more for putty than McAvity charged the Government, how much more would Dibblee have charged the Government than McAvity charged; or, if McAvity charged $22.45 too much on a bill of $1400.00, how much would Dibblee over-charge on each road machine?" Ans. He would buy them for the county for $250 each when they had been offered for $185; and if he could not get the full charge for each he would "snuggle it in somewhere else."

Anyhow as ma sed last winter, "It serves 'em right for trying to make a Grit of a Tory."

TIM.

News In A Nutshell.

Two men were killed on Saturday by an explosion at the Laffin & Rand Powder Company's works at Mountain View, near Paterson, N. J. The accident was caused by some foreign substance getting into the machinery with the powder as it was being reduced.

Samuel Greenwood, president of the Coatesville National Bank of Coatesville, Pa., was on Saturday robbed of a valise containing bonds amounting to $10,000.

The body of Otto C. Elsbaugh, receiver of the New England Trust Company, was found floating in the North River, opposite Hoboken, N. J., on Saturday. Chronic dyspepsia and nervousness, coupled with business worries, is credited with having driven him insane.

A girl named Etta Seburn, aged twenty-one, was found dead in her room at St. Catharines, Ont., on Saturday morning suffocated by gas. It is thought deceased had turned the gas out and then without knowing it had turned it partly on again.

Richard W. Davis, a North Augusta farmer, was convicted of arson on Saturday and was sentenced to five years in the Kingston penitentiary at hard labor.

Last Monday Grace Moote disappeared from her home at Owen Sound, Ont. She had threatened to go into the woods and die rather than perform certain work and this led to a vigilant search being made in the bush, but without avail. On Saturday two hundred citizens formed a search party and body of the girl was found in the river about a hundred yards from her home. It was so clear a case of suicide that an inquest was considered unnecessary.

Pulp Mill For Woodstock.

The Woodstock business men are talking of forming a company to run a pulp mill, securing part of the capital among themselves and the remainder in England. Shortly a representative will visit the old country in the interest of the project. It is understood a charter will immediately be applied for.

DOCTORS FAIL WHEN THE GREAT PHYSICIAN CURES.

THREE YEARS IN BED

From Kidney Disease—Although a Man of Three-Score and Ten, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Gave Him Back Perfect Health.

This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me.

JAMES SIMPSON,
Newcomb Mills, Ont.

If the Kidneys are not in a perfectly clean and healthy condition, the blood becomes impregnated with impurities and a decay of the Kidneys soon takes place. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Inflammation of the Bladder, and a long list of Kidney diseases become seated, and sooner or later in so many instances end fatally. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure all Kidney troubles. Sold by all dealers, price 25 cents per box.

Highest prices paid for good, clean Oats, Hay, good Butter, etc. I very strongly recommend that farmers see that they get good threshing that will well clean the grain. It will pay you well to let us try and work up a better reputation for our produce.

Certainly we can do it. I claim that shippers have been to blame largely for the low prices we have been receiving for our Oats and Hay, especially as well as some farmers. And now, gentlemen, since the produce is to be graded, I believe it will in time be profitable to the farmers. I cannot look at it from any side, but it looks favorable.

Remember, you get 5 cents per bushel more for clean grain than for unclean grain.

Death Of An Old Resident.

Mr. T. H. Noble an old and esteemed resident of Carleton County died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. A. W. Phillips, Bristol, on Sunday morning at the age of 78 years. Mr. Noble had been ill for some time but his death was quite unexpected at the time. He was born in Lower Brighton and lived there for a number of years, afterwards moving to Woodstock where he was a well known figure. He was an ardent member of the Reformed Baptist church being one of the very first in this county to accept the doctrine of that body. He leaves a widow and five daughters: Mrs. A. W. Phillips, Bristol, Mrs. Jno. Palmer, Franklin Park, Mass., Mrs. C. H. Sweeny, Westbrook, Me., Mrs. E. Robertson, Swanville, Me. and Mrs. H. Birmingham, Victoria Corner; and three sons: J. W. Noble, T. H. Noble of Boston, and Harry G. Noble, of the firm of Noble & Trafton, Woodstock.—Dispatch.

The funeral was held at Bristol on Tuesday, and interment took place at Lower Brighton, the remains having been brought here by train.

Good Crops.

Not for many years have the farmers of Charlotte county reaped such bountiful harvests as have been produced this year. The hay crop was exceptionally good, though dull weather interfered somewhat with the gathering of it. The acreage sown in potatoes was somewhat smaller than usual, but the yield has been very great and the quality excellent. Rot has not affected the crop to any considerable extent. Last year the town of St. Stephen imported twenty thousand bushels of potatoes, but our farmers can supply all demands this year. All other crops have yielded well.—St. Croix Courier.

Knowlesville.

We are happy to say that South Knowlesville is in the position to do business with all honest customers, but I wish to say to the writer of South Knowlesville items, that there were fourteen couples, minus twenty, to greet Hattie, on her arrival home after ten months absence. But however this was due to him having his speets on upside down.

Has Committed Suicide.

London, Oct. 1.—A despatch from Shanghai published today says telegrams furnished by the Taotai or local governor, to a Chinese paper there allege that the Emperor of China committed suicide on September 1st, after signing the decrees which placed the Dowager Empress at the head of affairs in China. This, it is added, is understood to mean that the Emperor was assassinated. All the English-speaking secretaries and the principal members of the Chinese foreign office, it is further announced, have been seized and banished.

PROHIBITION.

(Written for the ADVERTISER)

On the twenty-ninth day of September, Every man to the Poll should come, With his hands uplifted to heaven To put down that demon called Rum. Let him show to the world he's a man. Regardless of Favor or Fear, And a respect to the soul God has given, And to all his surroundings that's dear. Yes, step up to the Poll like a man, And boldly maintain his position, And when requested to vote, Answer "Yes, Prohibition!" It is an act he will never regret, And one that will never cause him shame; And one that will rebound here in life As long as he has a name. Now the Government has given us a chance And says it depends how we vote; Let them spurn the request that we make, And we'll treat them like a dishonest vote. When they ask our support to return, They will know in our hands is the power. So they'd better use wit in their anger; Take a thought on that perilous hour.

During last month J. A. Morrison shipped from his mill at Fredericton between 12,000,000 and 13,000,000 cedar shingles. Sixteen shingle machines are kept constantly running at Morrison's mill, each turning out 13,000 shingles a day, or 832 bundles every 10 hours.

Prof. Cohen, the spectacle-fitter, stopped four days in Hartland but did not meet with great success as this village has local dealers who can amply supply the demand. However, we have reason to believe Prof. Cohen is fully competent for fitting spectacles. He has a splendid equipment and carries a diploma from the Philadelphia Optical College. He will be at Andover today and Monday.

Mr. Ellicott, a civil engineer, is here making a final report on the feasibility of using the power of the falls for the manufacture of pulp and paper. He has made an exhaustive survey and examination, and is just about completing his report. Though no work will be done this fall, it is probable that spring will find a big crew of men at work here. When the Grand Falls pulp mill does come, it will be the biggest in the world.—Despatch's Grand Falls correspondence

Vixen And The Panther.

Horse-flesh as an article of diet is not in high repute in this part of the world. The panther, however, has no deep-seated prejudice against it; but probably there are few panthers in a generation that could place their paws on their hearts and declare that they had had an opportunity to indulge their fondness for such diet.

In the little Aroostook camp where I worked the winter I was sixteen years old there arrived an unusual kind of visitor. It was nothing less than a fine colt. Now it is seldom such a thing happens in camp, for a mare who is to be a mother is generally left at home in snigger quarters than the camp affords.

The mother of this unlooked-for visitor was bay mare called Vixen. She had fine intelligence and great working qualities, but she was bad-tempered to all but her master who thought the world of her. Just now she was in a worse temper than usual, for she thought her foal ought to be in more civilized quarters than those of the camp stables.

The mare and her baby, however, were cared for with a solicitude that should have softened her heart. It was spring weather, warm in the sun at midday, and besides the roomy corner of the stable which had been fitted up for my lady's accommodation, the men had built her a wide pen in the yard, on the south side of the stable wall, where she could sun her offspring at all convenient seasons. The snow was trampled down hard in this enclosure, and then liberally spread with straw; and altogether Vixen had very little to complain of.

One day, in the early afternoon, when the men had gone far off to their chopping, the cook and I found ourselves alone in camp.

A week or so before this I had had the misfortune to sink my axe deep into my left foot. The cut was a bad one, and since the accident I had not been able to walk a step. But this particular day was unusually warm and sunny, and as I had been shut up in camp sometime and was eager for a breath of fresh air, the cook early in the afternoon took me up in his arms and carried me to the edge of the clearing, ten or fifteen rods away. Here I could sit on a big log in the sun, with the thick woods at my back to shelter me from the wind.

I was sitting there very still, enjoying the warm sun and clear air after my irksome confinement, when some slight sound attracted my attention. Glancing toward the camp, my eye caught a glimpse of a lank, tawney creature stealthily creeping between the trees on the other edge of the clearing. His belly dragged the snow, so low did he crouch. He had not seen me, and he took the utmost pains to escape observation. He was eyeing Vixen and her foal over the low fence of their pen, and was deciding on the tactics best calculated to give him colt for supper.

He crept slowly round the clearing, unobserved, as he thought, till he had the stable between himself and the pen; then he left his cover. But he had underrated Vixen's keenness. Her eye had been upon him from the first, and the moment he disappeared from her view she set up an excited whinny, which was intended to summon help from the camp. She did not like the looks of the stranger, and she was uneasy as soon as her eye was no longer upon him.

The cook heard her call. He ran to the door and took a glance toward the pen. The mare looked all right, the colt was prancing about merrily, and there was no sign of danger or trouble that he could see; but before he could go back to his work I shouted to him and told him what was the matter.

Without waiting for more than a glimpse of the panther, the cook started on the run for the chopping where the men were at work. I knew he had gone for his gun, the only one in camp, which Jean Batiste had taken with him after dinner. I had to stay there, helpless, on my log.

Seeing no help come from the camp, Vixen took her colt to the middle of the pen, and stood with it right under her nose, while she kept a ceaseless watch on all sides. The colt seemed to realize, from its mother's alarm, that there was danger astir, and huddled itself apprehensively together. It followed its mother's every motion, remaining close by her head.

Presently round the corner of the stable crept the panther, a tawny shadow, flat on the snow. The moment he saw through the openings of the fence that the eye of the mare was upon him, he bounded to the top of the fence and made one bold spring for his prey; but the mare was no less lightning-swift than himself. At the first glimpse of him she had whirled so that her heels were toward the enemy, and had waited in a crouching attitude that one might have taken to indicate the extreme of terror. As the panther sprang, her iron heels met him with a thud that forced out of him an involuntary snarling gasp, and he fell against the pen fence. In an instant he flashed over the fence and lay down in the snow to recover his breath.

After a short rest the panther, deciding to try a new mode of attack, leaped over the fence just out of reach of Vixen's heels, and darted straight across the pen; then swift-r almost than thought, he doubled and sprang at the colt; but quick as he was, the mare's heels were there to meet him, and he was knocked in a heap against the fence. He didn't wait for another such greeting, but slipped over and lay down in the snow in his old place at the corner of the stable.

Instead of making another direct attack the panther next rose to the fence and thence sprang to the roof of the stable, where he crouched down and snarled fiercely.

The colt was still the object of his heart's desire. The moment he mounted to the roof Vixen had withdrawn to the farther edge of the pen, and now she stood hunched together, with her head turned backward, so as to let no movement of her foe escape her eye.

Paine's Celery Compound Saves a Life after failures with other medicines.

Mr. McMullin says: "Paine's Celery Compound Worked Miracles For Me."

The Only Safe Medicine for Sick and Diseased People.

WELLS & RICHARDSON Co.,

Gentleman:—For over four years I have been in poor health, and received treatment from two doctors besides using seven kinds of patent medicines. I also sent to New York and got month's treatment of a special medicine, but no good results come from it. I was run down, suffered terribly, could not rest at night, and every morning had a severe pain in my back, dizziness in my head, and vomited bitter green matter, and had no appetite. I heard of Paine's Celery Compound and decided to give it a trial, and am happy to report that it worked wonders. The pains are all gone, I rest well at night, my appetite is good, and my health is now splendid. Paine's Celery Compound has worked miracles for me. I recommend it to all sick people as the best medicine.

Vixen And The Panther.

From his superior height the panther fancied he could escape her heels and reach the mare's back. Then the battle would be his and afterwards he could see to the colt at leisure. It was well devised, but this was his first attempt to dine on horse-flesh, and he knew not the omnipresent faculty of a horse's heels. It was upon this rock that his scheme went to pieces.

As he sprang from his vantage-ground, the impetus of his attack was tremendous and almost irresistible. Vixen almost stood on her head, and her heels met him fair in the stomach, so that he shrieked under the blow; but the mere momentum of his leap overcame the resistance of Vixen's hoofs to the extent that he reached her back, and bore the brave mare to the ground with his descending force. She nimbly recovered herself, however, and shook him off, and by this time the cook came running toward the pen with his gun cocked, expecting to see the panther at her throat. But no; there was little fight left in him. He looked very sick as he tried to crawl out of the yard, and the cook was on the point of finishing him with a charge of buckshot, but Vixen intervened.

Leaving her colt she darted forward and tore his neck fiercely with her powerful teeth. The beast rolled over on his back, screaming madly; and as Vixen trampled him down with her front hoofs, he doubled and sank his claws into her neck and shoulders.

There for a moment he snarled and clawed while the brave mare's neck streamed with blood, and the cook sought a chance for a shot. But Vixen's plunges gave him no opportunity. It was plain to the cook that the mare would kill her adversary in a minute or two more, but he dreaded lest meanwhile she should be seriously injured.

With some misgivings as to the reception he might have from Vixen herself, though he was going to her assistance, he dropped his gun, drew his long knife and jumped into the pen. As opportunity showed itself he drove the knife with all his force straight through the beast's backbone, dividing the spine. And the lauk carcass straightened out on the snow.

The brave mare stood over her fallen adversary and whinnied triumphantly; and she made it plain to the cook that she appreciated his assistance. Then the cook got water in his dish pan and washed her wounds. The dressing of them he left for his master to do on his return; but ever afterward Vixen was as gentle to the cook as toward her owner, though with the rest of mankind she would have naught to do.—C. G. D. ROBERTS in Youth's Companion.

TAPS.

(Theodore Roberts in the Independent)

Carry him out and put him away,
Reveille no more wakes him now;
We've sounded his last "Lights out" today.
And the dust has fallen on lips and brow;
So leave him there, leave him there, resting still

With heed no more for retreat or drill,
Lead his horse back to the camp again,
Lead the beast kindly, for don't you see
He frets at the guidance of other men—
He misses the press of the familiar knee:
So lead him back over the glaring sand
Kindly forsake of the other hand.

Three volleys over the trooper's grave,
And he moved no eye'ld at noise of the three.

"Ave" the first to the soul of the brave,
And the second "godspeed" from the company,
And the last said "Vale" and then we turned

And left him waiting what peace he had earned.

We shed no tear and we made no moan
For the man who has left us to rest awhile.
We pity him, lying there all alone,
We recall old gesture and quiet smile;
But why should we weep for him now, when he Wanted "Lights out" through eternity?

Vacation For Farmers.

Take a week off and go picnicing with your family and neighbors. The farmer is about the only man who does not take a vacation in the real sense of the word. He has his cows to attend to and his hogs to feed, and this or that crop to look after, and while he may not work at his hardest gait every day in the year, he has these things on his mind. He gets to thinking after he has kept this up year after year, that the world can not get along unless he is on hand every morning, and this satisfies him and convinces him that a week away is among the impossibilities.

If such a man will take a week for real rest and get so far away from home that he can not hear his pigs squeal, and stay there for full seven days, he will come back so refreshed in mind and body that he will think he has taken several steps back in the number of years that has been credited to him.

We have a friend who has worked all his life on the farm, and never until recently, in all that time taken a real vacation, although he is not a man who feels impelled to work with a rush from daylight until dark. This summer he concluded to take a little rest. He got a tent and took his family seven miles from home to a beautiful place, and there they went into camp. The hired man was instructed to milk the cows and give the milk to the pigs and chickens. This was all he was required to do besides taking care of the live stock on the farm.

Then our friend sat down in his tent and rested. He says it took him two days to get used to doing nothing, and after that it suited him so well that he staid two days overtime.

When he got home his house and barn live stock and hired hand, were all there, and the world had not stopped a minute. The butter that would have been made from the milk was lost, but the pigs and chickens profited by it, and the price that would have been received for the butter was trifling in comparison to the good derived by the family.

Our friend says he never knew how good it was to sleep in a bed and eat at a table and work on a farm as he did after he came back from that vacation. The cause of all this was that he had had a change.—Farm News.

Feathers to Stockings.

Economical Suggestions for Women and Girls

The hat and bonnet, with its trimmings of feathers, ribbons or velvet, the silk neck scarf and tie, the cape, jacket, blouse, waist, skirt, sash and stockings, are all outward articles of feminine attire costing considerable money, and demand close attention, so that daily neatness and good taste be maintained from day to day.

When articles of everyday wear such as we have mentioned become faded and dingy, they are usually cast aside by the inexperienced and careless, who forget that the garments are still whole and yet serviceable. A few suggestions at this time will be useful.

Thrifty, wise and economical women and girls know just what to do when confronted with such a problem. They have a full knowledge of what can be done with the wonderful Diamond Dyes, those marvellous money savers, and they act accordingly. They use Fast Black Diamond Dyes prepared specially for feathers, which give a deep, rich and lasting black, make the feathers equal to new ones. Their dull and lifeless silk ties, scarfs, sashes and gloves are quickly made new creations by the Diamond Dyes. The faded jacket, cape, blouse, skirt and stockings are magically transformed to suit the taste of the wearer.

Wise women know well that failures are impossible when the popular Diamond Dyes are used, as the manufacturers provide a special black dye for feathers, and special dyes for silk wool, all cotton, and for every make of mixed or union goods.
