HON. F. B. CARVELL

Death Came Suddenly Saturday Afternoon—A Great Shock to All Canada

Frank B. Carvell, chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada, was stricken very suddenly at his home on Saturday evening and was found dead on his farm shortly after 5 o'clock. He had arrived from Ottawa at noon and was apparently in the best of health. At 3 o'clock he set out to walk through the fields, telling the numbers of the household that he would return at 5 o'clock. As he did not return they went to look for him and found him lying as he had fallen. They believed him unconscious but a doctor who was hastily summoned said that the position of the body indicated that he had died almost instantaneously, and had been dead about an hour. Death was considered to be due embolism.

The funeral of Hon. F. B. Carvell which took place yesterday at Woodstock was attended by the largest concourse of people that was ever known to have been in attendance at any like occasion in that town. Prominent people from many points of Canada were present.

Rev. R. F. Fulton, Methodist, of St. John, and a close friend of Mr. Carvell for more than twenty years, gave the address, while Rev. T. C. Cavers, pastor of the Woodstock Methodist church, and Rev. H. F. Rigby, Church of England, assisted in the impressive service. The pall bearers were Hon. W. E. Foster, W. P. Jones, Donald Munro, W. S. Skillen, A. G. Bailey and G. W. Bailey. There was no music.

The service was held at the late home of the deceased, a beautiful bungalow situated by the side of the stream under the most wonderful elm trees. Truly a most restful place for a busy and hard working statesman to retire for recuperation.

The remains lay in state in the large living room, surrounded by banks of flowers—silent tributes and expressions of sympathy. The large concourse filed past and took their last look of the familiar face. Then the casket was carried to the spacious veranda from which the service was held—most of the people being on the lawn. It truly was a quiet and impressive good bye.

Hundreds of automobiles followed the cortege to the Methodist cemetery where the interment was made beside a loved only daughter who preceded her father just a comparatively short while. Thus we say Goodbye with a hope for eternity.

One of the Best Tributes
Halifax, Aug. 12.—The Herald, in its editorial columns tomorrow will say of the late Mr. Carvell:

"Up to the period of the Great War Frank Carvell was best known as a politician and a most uncompromising party man. But when the testing hour came he proved that a politician can be a patriot. In 1917 men rose to the heights of that great argument, and while Canadians unfortunately cannot look back to a time when men were for the party and all were for the state, they do remember with feelings of admiration and gratitude the stand taken by those who made Union Government possible. Frank Carvell was one. It is something to have done that. It is something to have to posterity the memory of the sacrifice of party and private principles for the public good."

To Carvell Funeral

J. M. Woodman, New Brunswick district superintendent of the C. P. R., left last evening for Woodstock in his private car, New Brunswick, which was attached to the second Montreal train. He will attend the funeral of Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada, there today. The Railway Commission car, Acadia, will come to Meckham from Montreal this morning on the Montreal train and will later go up to Woodstock carrying members of the commission and their chief. The private car No. 55 of W. U. Appleton, general superintendent of the Atlantic region of the Canadian National Railways, will go through here this morning carrying C. N. R. officials from Montreal to the funeral. The flag in the green opposite the Union depot will be flown at half-mast today as a tribute to the memory of Mr. Carvell.—Telegraph-Journal.

Was Born in Bloomfield
Frank Broadstreet Carvell was born at Bloomfield, Carleton county, Aug. 11, 1852, son of A. Bishop and Margaret (Lindsay) Carvell. He is survived by his widow, one brother, Robert Carvell, of Lakewood, and two sisters, Miss Elizabeth, who is in Europe with the teachers' party, and Miss Bertha, of Boston. Mr. Carvell has been sorely afflicted during the last few years. His only child, Mrs. (Dr.) A. M. Fisher, passed away about a year ago. Her husband a promising young physician, gave up his life on the battlefields of France shortly after his marriage. Within a year his brother, Councilor Harry P. Carvell, of Lakeville, died in a Boston Hospital. (Continued on Editorial page)

HON. F. B. CARVELL

Just eight weeks ago it lay the Observer was called upon to mourn the passing of its editor and publisher. And now, the sad occasion arises in which it shares in grief with all Canada the passing of one noted man, who also was a member of the Observer Newspapers, Ltd., namely, Hon. Frank B. Carvell. These words will be brief, but they must not seem less sincere, when we say that all tributes paid to his memory by the newspapers all over our land and the tributes paid him yesterday at the last meeting with all that remained mortal of him are our tributes too. To Mr. Carvell in her bereavement we offer our most sincere sympathy, and trust that the memory of a strong, straight and upright man will give her strength and comfort in her sorrow; and we feel sure it can be said of him "Well, done, good and faithful servant."

TOURISTS ARRIVE MOSTLY AT NIGHT

The majority of touring automobile parties arrive in St. John between 5 o'clock in the evening and 11 o'clock at night, to judge from the difference of people registered in the afternoon and the sum total for the day. Last night illustrated this very clearly. Had it not been for the cloudy weather, which later developed into rain, perchance some of the many who from supper time onward might have continued on their journey. They stayed here, however, with the result that the hotels were once more fairly well crowded.

One explanation of their late arrival might be found in the fact that the persons visiting them, mark out for each day a reasonable day's drive, and St. John is one terminus.

One other feature of the tourists warrant the manufacture of these articles on a large scale, that Canadians may yet in the future be gashed in wooden garments. Motion pictures in the open air drew a large and interested crowd in the evening. A comedy was first screened, animal life in New Brunswick held every one interested until the screening of "The Red Evening" depicting the giant forests of the Pacific coast, lumbering operations and fire fighting methods employed in the subjugation of that most terrible of all demons. Another reel "motoring in Cleveland" struck a responsive chord in the heart of every automobile owner. This picture showed glimpses of the New England Windermere Highway, found one alive. NEWS FROM BATH

A Column of Real Live News—Base Ball and Other Events

A thriller! a corker! was the way in which the fans described the baseball game on Wednesday, August 6, when the Juniper team met the Bath nine on the local diamond. Bath teams worked like Trojans, the score being tied up until the last of the fourth inning and standing 4-4 at the seventh. Stevens tallying the winning score for Bath, game ending 5-4. Batteries: Bath—Shaw p., Gibson m.; Juniper—C. Turnbull p., J. Turner c. Bath vs. Centreville—On Tuesday, Aug. 5, the Centreville aggregation met the "Monarchs" on the local diamond which was a pleasure to both fans and players. The special feature of this game, as also in the Bath-Juniper game, was the superb hitting by players of both teams; no pitcher could have wished for better support. Bath won, score 5-4. Batteries: Bath—Estabrooks p., Shaw c.; Centreville—White p., McKenzie c.

On Friday evening, Aug. 8, a return game was played at Centreville, score—Bath 11, Centreville 5. Batteries—Bath—Estabrooks p., Shaw c.; Centreville—Brown p., Semple c., White p., McKenzie c.

This marks three wins for the Bath team in one week. Truly a very creditable showing, and the brand of ball exhibited being in the opinion of many equal to that put out by many semi-professional, if not professional, clubs. The first meeting of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers of this district at which the President, E. J. Manion of St. Louis, Miss., attended was held last Tuesday evening, Aug. 5, at Hotel Cyr. St. Leonard's, when a most enjoyable and profitable evening was spent by the 64 members of the order who were present.

G. S. Larlee, Assistant General Chairman (C.P.R.) Bath, was the chairman of the evening. President E. J. Manion first addressed the meeting, dealing with labor matters in general, but in particular as to their application to the O. R. T. Others present who also addressed the meeting were Hon. Senator G. D. Robertson, 3rd vice-president Ottawa; Gen. Chairman James Trainor, Charlottetown, P. E. I. (C. N. R.); Asst. Gen. Chairman G. S. Larlee (C. P. R.); Bath, N. B. Mr. Larlee when interviewed stated that the meeting which was most instructive, was a grand success in every way, socially and otherwise, and that but not least commented upon the wonderful luncheon, which was served, immediately following the adjournment of the meeting.

On Monday evening of this week The Poverty Educational Exhibition Car arrived in town from Bristol where it had spent Sunday. A large number availed themselves of the opportunity during the afternoon to visit the car and were very much impressed and perhaps for the first time realized what an important part the forests play in our national life. One of the most interesting exhibits, showed the different steps in the manufacture of wearing apparel from wool; chips, floss, a necktie and a lady's blouse, were sufficient to make one realize that should the cost of production warrant the manufacture of these articles on a large scale, that Canadians may yet in the future be gashed in wooden garments. Motion pictures in the open air drew a large and interested crowd in the evening. A comedy was first screened, animal life in New Brunswick held every one interested until the screening of "The Red Evening" depicting the giant forests of the Pacific coast, lumbering operations and fire fighting methods employed in the subjugation of that most terrible of all demons. Too Good to Cut

Recently a birthday cake was ordered on behalf of a revered old lady of ninety years. She kept the last one intact because it looked "too good to cut."

A cake was also ordered this month for a centenarian residing in the Province. The number of instances of this kind seems to show that Nova Scotians are a hardy lot.

Since today seemed to be devoted to the old, it may be of interest to say that a member of Mdr's organization called on a nonagenarian lately and that this represented the first time he had seen a motor car close at hand. He was offered—but refused firm—a trip in the car.

The beauty of the Baptist church has been greatly added to by the handsome concrete steps and walks that have recently been laid from the church to the sidewalk. It can be safely said that the Baptist church is the handsomest church in the village both inside and outside. Rev. O. C. Howlett deserves great praise and credit for making both the church and parsonage and grounds two of the most beautiful places in the village of Andover.

"DOES CHARACTER PAY?"

A well known writer, H. C. Offerman, in a recent magazine article discusses the question, "Does Character Pay?" and concludes that character is the present whirlwind of the world. It is the highest paid thing anywhere. He says:

It's not easy to find; it's not so easy to buy, and that's why it commands so high a price.

Often it passes understanding that so much power and wealth, and even great glory, should be showered on plain honesty, and on narrow, very strict morality, and on outspoken, old-fashioned truthfulness, and on dogged perseverance, and on hard courage.

Character, for some, is not hard to get, not hard to keep, and not easy to lose.

Its tremendous money-drawing powers, its uncanny ability to attract responsibilities in this day of uncertainties, the average citizen's trust in its benefits for him, and its general acceptance everywhere at its face value, makes it easily without a peer, anywhere, as an instrument of power in the hand of man.

In the acquisition of character, wealth often acts as a hindrance, and culture may tend to dull the sense of character; it grows more easily in a small town than in the big city; it is nurtured more easily among humble folk, than among the gay lights.

In all generations it is success; in all generations, real bliss and happiness follow it; in all generations, it has great praise and honor, and glory.

SAYS MARITIME PROVINCES NOT ADVERTISING ENOUGH

That we are sleeping the sleep of the dead in the Maritime Provinces as far as advertising our country and making most of it is concerned was the statement made by Dr. J. Clarence Webster, of Shediac, in the course of an address before the Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon at the Brunswick Hotel. In the Maritime Provinces we have neglected the past.

The American tourist does not travel here for our scenery or to see our factories. He has that at home. He travels because he is tired of that home and is in search of novelty. That is what attracts greater numbers to Europe and for example in London the average tourist first goes to see Westminster Abbey or the British Museum; in Paris he visits Napoleon's tomb and so on. In that continent one is tempted to stop at this place and that place to see some object or scene of historic interest. They have learned in a quiet way the value of history. Here we have good hotels and more will come. We have improved the roads but we have forgotten the novelties.—Telegraph Journal.

MRS. MISENER'S ACHEs AND PAINs

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Branchton, Ont.—"When I wrote to you for help my action was mostly prompted by curiosity. I wondered if I, too, would benefit by your medicine. It was the most profitable action I have ever taken. I heartily assure you, for through its results I am relieved of most of my sufferings. I have taken six boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and I can honestly say I have never been so well before. I had suffered from pains and other troubles since I was fifteen years old, and during the 'Great War' period I worked on munitions for two years, and in the heavy lifting which my work called for, I strained myself, causing pelvic inflammation from which I have suffered untold agony, and I often had to give up and go to bed. I had doctor for several years without getting permanent relief, when I started to take your medicines."—Mrs. GOLDWIN MISENER, Branchton, Ont.

LIGHTNING BURNS BUILDINGS

One of our two last big showers did considerable damage in this vicinity. Occurring in the evening it sent a bolt which grounded in a large barn of Roy Green's at Tracey Mills, killing two of the three horses in the stable instantly and soon reducing the building and contents to a heap of smouldering ruin. Another fire occurred at Allie Reid's, Knoxford, last week. Sparks from a fire burning out set fire in the roof of one of the barns, and despite heroic efforts on the part of the neighbors, the fire spread and when it subsided, it had razed all the buildings belonging to the property. The furniture and contents although damaged were salvaged.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AT BATH

On July 28 there was a very pleasant social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Kearney, the occasion being the seventy-seventh anniversary of Mrs. Mary E. Gibson's birthday, widow of the late Ralph K. Gibson. There were four of the children present, Mrs. Alonzo Gibson, Mrs. Geo. Kearney, Mrs. Asa Davenport and Mrs. Melvian Elliott. Mrs. J. S. Hodgdon of Waterville, Conn., daughter, and Ransford C. Gibson of Fort Fairfield, Me., son, were unable to attend. There was a large number of other relatives and friends, also, who join in wishing Mrs. Gibson many more happy birthdays like the one just passed. About 5.30 a very nice supper was served in the open. Among those who helped to serve were Mrs. Glasier Gibson, Mrs. Herbert Hay, Mrs. John Wiggins, Mrs. Willodge Oakes, Mrs. Melvian Elliott and some others. Mrs. Gibson is real well and able to help with all the household duties.

Vision as Applied to Railroading

Are you color-blind? Short- or long-sighted? Slightly deaf? You may be, without knowing it, if you have never been tested.

These physical deficiencies, in some walks of life, are of little importance. But in railroading certain responsible positions require perfect vision, color-sense and hearing.

The examination of aspirants to positions as engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, watchmen and others directly concerned with the safety of trains, and the periodical re-examination of successful candidates, in these vital matters is the business of the railroads. In the Canadian Pacific, which provides an outstanding example of the care with which they are conducted, there is a special department charged with this work. It is called the Time Service and Vision, Color-Sense and Hearing Department. There is a Chief Examiner for Eastern lines and one for Western lines, each with a separate office.

All applicants for the positions already referred to, which demand a high standard in vision, color-sense and hearing, are required to pass an applicant examination and, if successful, must pass a further examination at least every two years thereafter, and in some instances more frequently, according to the diminution of their vision or hearing. They are also re-examined after any accident in which they are either directly or indirectly involved and which may have been caused by defective sight, hearing or color-sense. In addition, following any serious injury or illness or severe inflammation of either the eyes or eyelids, they are again re-examined and, not content with this, the regulations of the Canadian Pacific require them to face the examiner whenever they are slated for promotion.

Caution and regard for the public safety could hardly go further than this!

The tests employed are exhaustive and are so arranged as to approximate as closely as possible to actual conditions likely to be met with in their work by those examined. Applicants for positions as engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and others similarly employed are required to pass the near and far vision tests without glasses. If, at one of the periodical re-examinations, employees in these positions are found to be in need of glasses, they are allowed to wear them, provided they bring the vision up to the required standard. Applicants for other positions may wear glasses for near or far vision, depending on their work. All glasses must be approved by the company and every employee using them is obliged to carry a second pair for emergencies.

The vision test, which is held indoors, involves the reading of Snellen test types, including letters of varying sizes, at a distance of twenty feet or less, and the reading of an American Railway Association standard reading card for testing near vision.

Applicants and employees examined for hearing must have normal hearing in each ear. They are obliged to repeat correctly train orders given in a normal voice at a distance of twenty feet. How important this is will readily be recognized by those who recollect the difficulties of making out conversation through the noise of a locomotive with steam up or through the clamour of wind or rain. A mistake in a few all-important syllables under these conditions may easily be made unless one has perfect hearing.

Most interesting of the examinations is that for color-sense. The men are asked to identify colors displayed by a Williams lantern and to pass a Holmgren or Thompson color-selection test. The latter test is held in broad daylight. A large number of skeins of wool of varying colors, called confusion colors because they are specially selected with a view to confusing the color-blind, are placed before the examinee. The examiner tells him to pick out all the wools which have red, green or some other color in them or perhaps to match them for shades. The man obeys and in a moment reveals his weakness, if he has any.

In the Williams lantern test the applicant is taken into a dark room. At one end of this room, twenty feet away, is the apparatus, consisting of an electric lantern on the front of which is a revolving disc containing a number of segments of glass, each in a varying shade of red, green, yellow, purple or blue, as well as white, all colors employed by the railways in their signals. The examiner switches on the light and turns the disc, requiring the man to name the colors displayed as the segments pass before the lens. In turn, small red, green, yellow, purple, blue or white circles of light, in varying shades, singly or in combinations of two or three, become visible. "What are they?" asks the examiner. "White—blue and red—light green and dark green," says the applicant, and so on, naming the colors as he sees them. These wool and lantern tests reveal to an astonishing extent the prevalence of color-blindness. Fully four per cent. of the applicants are color-blind without knowing it and will not believe it when the examiner gently but firmly points out the fact. As it is, of course, vital that all men whose positions involve or might involve the reading of signals and all applicants for those positions should have an accurate color-sense, no color-blind person has the slightest chance of passing.

The number of men, applicants and employees, examined on a system so enormous as the Canadian Pacific is very great. Approximately nine hundred appear before the examiners every month on the Eastern lines alone, and between 13,000 and 15,000 employees on the Eastern lines come up for re-examination every two years. The figures for Western lines are approximately the same.

It will readily be understood that the entire system would be disorganized if these men, many traveling long distances, had to report to the offices of the Chief Examiners for their tests. The Canadian Pacific therefore retains two special cars, one of the Western and one of the Eastern lines, which are specially fitted as travelling-test rooms and are continually on the move. It takes these cars two years to make the round of the stations within their jurisdiction, examining applicants and the employees of the company. So, year in and year out, the Canadian Pacific continues these exhaustive tests which have as their object the maintenance of safety and efficiency.

HOW SHOULD I WEAN MY BABY?

This is a serious problem to many mothers. Weaning should always be done gradually, beginning about the seventh month, giving one or two bottle feedings during the day, increasing the number of bottle feedings gradually until weaning is accomplished. Borden's Eagle Brand Milk is so like mother's milk in taste and ease of digestion that it can be given alternately with breast milk without causing abrupt weaning.

In this paper from time to time you will find an advertisement of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, a food that has raised more healthy babies than all the prepared infant foods combined. Cut out the advertisement and mail it to The Borden Company Limited, Montreal, and they will send you, free of charge, instructions for feeding your baby, and a Baby Welfare and Baby Record Book. Or, just write the Company, mentioning this paper, and they will be sent.

SEWING CIRCLE GOSSIP

There was some discussion at the Sewing Circle this week about the delights of a holiday trip to England. The wife of the Radio Operator, who has lived nearly all her life in Boston, said that she would like to go just to see what kind of coffee one gets over there. She had heard that they used the very best quality at Buckingham Palace. The wife of the new Bank Manager stated that when her husband was in England, he did not find a coffee anywhere that tasted more delicious than LUXOR, which is the kind used in the homes of all Circle members at the present time.

Excited Passenger—"Can I catch the five o'clock train for Winnipeg?"
Official (calmly): "That depends upon how fast you can run. It started three minutes ago."

"So you collect the rates in these parts, do you? Don't you find a rate-collector's job makes you unpopular?"
"It doesn't seem like it; they nearly all ask me to call again!"

Doctor: "Well, how are you feeling this morning?"

Invalid: "Better, thanks doctor—the only thing that troubles me is my breathing."

Doctor: "Ah, yes! We must see if we can stop that!"

TOBIQUE RIVER ITEMS

The construction work in connection with the erection of the new bridge on the Tobique river road at the mouth of Trout Brook is progressing rapidly now with Manzer Caldwell, Bristol, as contractor, and David Boone, South Tilley, as inspector. Both piers are already up and the workmen are now engaged on the grading of the roadbed to and from the bridge of which there is a great deal to be done since the new bridge is to be much higher than the old one as there is a possibility of a dam being built near this point on the river. Mr. Caldwell expects to have the work entirely completed in about three more weeks.

Mrs. A. C. Smith, who has been quite ill for the past few days, is now improving in health.

Mrs. David Currie is spending the week-end at McAdam the guest of her sister, Mrs. Fred Bloodworth. She is accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Wright of Andover.

The C. P. R. workmen who for the past few weeks have been relaying the rails on the Tobique Branch railway, have finished their work. The condition of the road bed is much improved by having these larger rails.

The other Sunday Rev. H. A. Shipprell, pastor of the Riley Brook Baptist church, occupied the pulpits on this end of the Tobique. He was very acceptably received and it is quite probable that he will take up the pastoral work of this field this fall. This end of the Tobique has been without a permanent pastor since Mr. Long left the field in August last.

The haying along the river is late this summer. However a few of the farmers have finished, while others

Mounted Mountaineers Pow-Wow at Yoho

Early last July a small party of riders was encamped on the plateau which lies between Tumbling Creek Glacier and the gap in the Vermilion Range of the Canadian Rockies known as the Wolverine Pass. The day was warm and conducive to sleep, and, because on this account one of the party dozed and dreamed and later caused the other members of the party to enthuse over his dream, there gathered in the Yoho Valley of British Columbia a week since, two hundred and six prominent Canadians, Americans and Europeans, calling themselves Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies. Each had qualified for membership in the Order by riding at one time or another not less than fifty miles through the Rockies on horseback.

This unique gathering, recording as it did the first attempt to form an association of mounted mountain climbers was characterized by Dr. Charles W. Walcott, head of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington and honorary president of the Trail Riders, as a step which will prove one of the greatest international attractions.

The attendance at the First Annual Ride of the Trail Riders exceeded by far the most sanguine hopes of the organizers, but fortunately, Yoho Camp, that beautiful village of chalets a mile above the sea, had been reinforced with twenty Indian teepees and a huge Sun Dance Lodge which had been erected as camp headquarters by Stony Indians under the supervision of Chief Walking-in-the-road.

Only one trail rider left this camp with what could be termed a legitimate grouse. This was Dr. Walcott who believes that bears stole the side of mutton which was hanging at the back of his chalet when he last saw it.

Riding was, of course, the order of the day, and many of the riders, enchanted by the scenery, fell far behind the main group and lingered on the heights till night fall. In the evenings the mountain enthusiasts gathered in the Sun Dance Lodge to talk over the day or to sing and dance and otherwise amuse themselves. After the white-mans pow-wow on the second night a real Indian pow-wow was danced by Chief Walking-in-the-road and Chief Buffalo-child Long Lance, to the accompaniment of Indian singing and the beating of tom-toms by a group of Stony braves.

Altogether the first annual pow-wow of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies was a huge success, and the organizers believe that henceforth the Canadian Rockies will receive the recognition and appreciation which is their due.

YOUNG N. B. PEOPLE MARRIED IN LOWELL

At a pretty mid-summer wedding at Lowell, Wednesday afternoon, Clyde Dixon Dickinson, 46 Wilmington street, this day, took for his bride, Miss Ella Marilla Lawson of the same address. The ceremony was performed in Lowell Methodist Episcopal church by the pastor, Rev. John U. Horton. The attendants were Mr. Charles M. Horton, friend of the bride as matron of honor, and Avon G. Lawson, New Brunswick, Canada, brother of the groom, as best man.

The wedding itself was a very pretty affair. The bride took the arm of her brother in the procession to the altar, where she was given in marriage. She wore a suit of sand point twill with hat and shoes to correspond. Her bouquet was of white carnations and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor was attired in a suit of blue with hat to match. She wore a corsage bouquet of sweet peas. The double ring ceremony was used.

Following the ceremony the party returned to this city where a wedding supper was served in their honor. In the evening a reception was held in the parlor of the bride's home.

Stipemasters of pink and white were decorations. The young couple were assisted in receiving by their attendants. About 25 friends of the newly wedded couple attended the reception. The gift of the groom to his bride was a Dodge sedan. To the best man he gave gold cuff links. The matron of honor received a carved ivory neck lace set with sapphires. Included among the many presents received by the young couple was a check from the father of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson are planning to leave soon on a motor trip to New Brunswick, Canada, and other points.

On their return they will reside in this city.

The bride is the daughter of George Lawson, New Brunswick. She was born and educated in that province, graduating a few years ago from the Normal school. She came to Brockton last September. Up to that time she taught in grammar schools in Canada. While in this city she has been employed as cashier at the Brockton Public Market. Mr. Dickinson is the son of Cook S. Dickinson, also of New Brunswick, where the young man was born and educated. He is an automobile mechanic by trade.—Brockton Paper.

LOST ALL NIGHT

The many friends of Miss Helen Hallett were quite anxious about her Sunday night. A party had gone to the Canton, as it is called, to pick blueberries. Miss Hallett, being one of the party. She became separated from the others and was out all night. All the men, about, from town and Burgess and Davis mill crews were out searching for her. She was found about 8 o'clock Monday morning about six miles from town.

OBITUARY

George J. Quick of Lansdowne, died May 16 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Howard Sargent of Bridgeville, Me. He was in his 81st year. Death was due to a complication of diseases. He was of English birth, having come to this country years ago and made a home for himself when it was all a wilderness.

In his early days he was aboard the British man of war for a number of years and was in the Canadian Militia for over forty years. He was a shrewd, honest citizen and much respected by all who knew him. He was a great reader and delighted to read especially the news from his homeland.

He gave his heart to God in his early days and was a devout member of the United Baptist church at Mount Pleasant. He leaves to mourn his loss an aged widow, four sons and two daughters; Henry and Austin of Edmonston, Alta., Samuel and Howard of Lansdowne, Mrs. Howard Sargent of Bridgeville, Me., and Mrs. Robert Fransko of Winnipeg, besides a number of grand children and one great grandchild and a number of relatives in England.

Funeral services were conducted by Revs. Hennie Bubar and Burrows. Interment was made in the Bridgeville cemetery. Much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing ones in their loss. There were many pretty floral tributes, a lovely broken circle by the family.

Father, thou art gone to rest, Thy tolls and cares are over, And sorrow, pain and suffering now, Shall ne'er distress thee more.

Father, thou art gone to rest; Thy sins are all forgiven, And saints in light have welcomed thee To share the joys of heaven.

FIRE SETTERS WILL LOSE JOBS

An excellent method of punishing intruders of the forest fire law by employees of lumber and pulp and paper companies working in the woods has been adopted by the Eastern Division of the Southern St. Lawrence Forest Protective Association.

This body of limit holders has decided to place on a special list the names of any persons working in the bush in the employ of any member of the Association who has set or caused to set a forest fire through negligence or carelessness. This list of careless employees will be sent to all members of the Association and no further employment will be given to any of the guilty parties.

The fire offence automatically means a suspension from employment for not less than two years and no more.
