New Rotary Power Job Press.

We have added to the Standard Office an "Alden New rotary power Job Press," and having tested its merits, pronounce it a No. 1 machine, capable of throwing off upwards of a thousand sheets an hour. With an addition of fancy type, we are prepared to execute with neatness and despatch, orders for blanks, bill heads, envelopes, cards and other printing, and solicit a share of public patronage.

VISITORS TO ST. ANDREWS and travellers generally, will be pleased to know that Mr. A. KENNEDY has opened the building formerly called the "International," on Water Street, opposite the Manchester House. The hotel has been newly painted and papered, and a large oil erected, which affords increased accommodation. As usual, this house is supplied with the best from Provincial and United States markets. The popular character of Kennedy's Hotel will be maintained; and the genial disposition of its proprietor, will render his house as deserving of patronage as heretofore, as he spares neither pains nor expense to accommodate his guests. my21-ly.

A special correspondent of the London Daily News writes in one of his letters:—Kwama was reached on the 11th July. It was really refreshing to rest our eyes on the one spot in our march through Zululand which bears traces of the hand of civilization. Plantations of times, aocinas, several sorts of fir and fruit trees surround the remnants of the church, school, and a few shattered dwelling houses. Paths run through the plantation from these houses to the church. Roses, laburnums, marigolds, and many flowering shrubs border the paths, and larger timber flourishes both in the plantation on the spurs, and in the grassy knolls of the surrounding hills. Twenty years ago the place was as bare as the surrounding country; so the present beauty bears ample testimony to the capabilities of Zululand, as well as to the loving care of Bishop Wilkinson and the Rev. Mr. Robertson, the founders of the mission station. The people wished to spare the buildings, and it was not until we had used the church and buildings of Ekowe as fortifications that Cetewayo ordered the Kwama Mission Station to be destroyed. The bell in its wooden belfry alone stands intact, all the buildings being completely demolished.

UNSAFE SHIPS.—From a Parliamentary paper as to ships ordered to be detained as unsafe, under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, from the 1st of January to the 30th of June, it appears that the total number of vessels stopped was 427. Of these 421 were detained by reason of alleged defects in hull, equipment of machinery, and of this number only 5 on survey were found to be improperly detained. Thirty nine of the vessels were reported by the crews. The number of ships detained for overloading or improper loading was 96, and they were all pronounced unsafe. Only one of them was reported by the crew.—London News.

CALIFORNIA Wednesday elected a Governor and other State officers, a Legislature and four Congressmen. The returns to-day are extremely meagre, but indicate the election of Perkins, the Republican candidate for Governor. There is a possibility that Kallach is beaten for mayor of San Francisco, though he runs ahead of the Workingmen's ticket.

The Provincial Dead Lock.

What the House of Lords have never dreamed of attempting the Legislative Council of Quebec have actually done. "The Lords," says May, "have no voice in questions of expenditure, save that of a formal assent to the Appropriation Acts. They are excluded from it by the spirit and by the forms of the Constitution. It remains to be seen whether the fifteen Lords in Parliament assembled have never attempted—put an effective spoke in the wheel of the Queen's Government, and leave it whenever they please helpless and impotent, without funds and without officials, without any excuse for the proceeding, but that the Government has a small majority, and without any authority for it but the sic vobis sic jubeo of unscrupulous partisans.—Toronto Globe.

A MEXICAN HOLY MARRIAGE is recorded in a Philadelphia paper last week.

Mr. E. Dixon Reed, a promising young clerk in a large mercantile establishment was betrothed to Miss Carrie Perry, daughter of Rev. Jos. Perry, last year. Soon after he was attacked by consumption, and lingered on. The time of his marriage had been settled when he was engaged, and it took place on Tuesday evening in the sick room. One day later the newly made husband breathed his last.

The Grand Industrial Exhibition, at Toronto, was opened last week, by the Governor General and the Princess Louise. The building, grounds, &c., cost about $300,000. A large multitude were present, and the opening passed off happy as a marriage bell.

The St. Andrews Standard.

SAINT ANDREWS, SEPT. 10, 1879.

END OF VOLUME FORTY-SIX.

The STANDARD has reached the ripe old age of forty-six years, the present issue completing the forty-sixth annual volume, and the writer and compositor of the present article, also set up paragraphs in its first number, published on the 10th September, 1833. He has kept at his post all those years, through evil report and good report—through many discouragements, maintaining the people's rights.

How many of those in St. Andrews who welcomed its initial number, are now living? Out of upwards of a hundred subscribers in town at that time, but four are alive; a whole generation has passed away, among the number, its first editor and proprietor, our respected father, the late Geo. N. SMITH.

A former representative for this county, the late James Brown, in his addresses from the hustings, used to inform his constituents that their grandfathers and fathers had supported "him at every election, and he hoped their descendants would follow their example;" we can use the same language to our subscribers and assert, that their grandfathers and fathers patronized the STANDARD, and their descendants are following their example. But alas we miss the old familiar faces of the Raits, Wilsons, Wyers, Whitlocks, Campbells, Babcocks, and other old residents, many of whom have not left even one of their name residing in the town.

Forty-six years appears a long time to look forward to, yet, when it is passed, it does not seem so very long, and it is difficult to realize the fact, that the youth of 1833 are now called with "the old folks" of 1879, well, be it so; the vigor of youth is generally succeeded by the wisdom of mature years. We do not purpose taking a lengthened retrospect of affairs, political or social, but prefer to deal with the living issues of the day, and will continue to promote in our humble way, the interests of the Province and welfare of its people.

Many and great changes have taken place within the half century. The number of newspapers published in New Brunswick in 1829, was, if we are correct, but six, in 1879 there are upwards of twenty, an increase, which gives evidence of the growing intelligence of the people. The Government and Council governed the country, now we have not only Responsible Government, with a local Legislature and Legislative Council, and the people through their representatives have a voice in the government of the Province, but also since Confederation, a Parliament for the Dominion, of which this Province is one of the Electoral divisions.

Then there were only two steamers, and no railways; now there are several steamers and hundreds of miles of railways intersecting all parts of the Province, and connecting with the United States and the Upper Provinces. Then there were no manufacturing industries, now there are several, and they are increasing yearly, and the trade of the Province and its population and wealth have also increased. Agriculture and stock raising have also made rapid strides, and there are many Public Works. There have also been great political changes; party lines have been defined, and political discussions at times, are conducted, we regret to add, with considerable acrimony. The debt of the country is assuming huge proportions; but we must hasten to a conclusion, lest we are led into political issues, which are foreign to our purpose in the present article.

During the long years since the first issue of this journal, the leading men of the Province—men of education, ability and wealth, have passed away—"their memory and their name is gone," and their places taken by the young men of these days, many of whom, of humble parentage, have risen to positions of trust and power by the aid of their abilities, application and industry; and may we not add by the good will of the people to political influence, and titles. Several of them have also distinguished themselves in the pulpit, at the bar, on the bench, in the army and navy, in the Councils of the country and the domain of literature. And last but not least, are they not directing and controlling that helm of State—the Press—a study of the leading dailies, and many of the weeklies, will convince the most skeptical, that these journals are conducted with ability, and exercise a power which can make and unmake any government. There are many other evidences of change and the progress made by the Province, which may be referred to at another time. We conclude by hoping for a continuance of patronage, with the desire to be worthy of it, and to use our best efforts to advance the interests of the country.

We omitted to mention that we have continuous files of the Standard from its first issue up to this date, and its yearly volumes furnish an amount of local and general information which is truly interesting. Its record of marriages, births, and deaths; or as a facetious contemporary has it—"The altar, the cradle, and the tomb," tell tales of interest to many in this County, one record we may not pass over.

—the marriage of a grand child, the descendant of a wedded pair in 1834.

During all these years, it has been our good fortune to be on terms of amity with our respected contemporaries, who invariably treated us with respect; and whom we congratulate on the success of their arduous labors as journalists; to them we return our best thanks for their many kindly notices. It has been our lot to have seen seven or eight papers started in this County, which were short lived. Now, Charlotte County has three papers, where it had only the Standard for several years. We conclude by wishing all our confederates, without distinction of party, a prosperous and happy career.

Topics of the Week.

The Church bells were ringing, and the village was gay, and Miss Tilley was decked in her bridal array—on Thursday morning last, on the occasion of her marriage to Mr. John D. Chipman. The wedding was one of the most fashionable held in St. Andrews; the ladies dresses were rich and tasteful, and all Saints Church was filled in every part. After the ceremony, the invited guests partook of a wedding breakfast at the mansion of Sir S. L. Tilley. The bride and groom, soon after departed by special train for New York, amid the congratulations of their numerous friends. In the afternoon, a Pic Nic was given at Chamcook by the bride's father, to the wedding guests. The lengthy descriptions of the nuptials, given in the daily and weekly papers, last week, leaves us only the privilege of wishing the happy pair, a pleasant and prosperous journey through life.

The shooting this year at the Provincial Rifle Competition, Sussex, was above the average. St. Andrews' boys carried off some prizes, and one of them who resides in another County, is one of the Dominion team, to take part in the contest at Ottawa.

Dr. J. W. McWhinnie, a native of Woodstock, Ont., but for some years a resident of New York, was presented a few days ago, with two costly and rich masonic gifts, upon being appointed a District Deputy Grand Master. The gifts were a jewel of his office, in gold and diamonds, and a Grand Lodge Apron in purple and white silk, with gold trimmings. These gifts will be coveted by the very highest politicians.

THE LATE SIR ROWLAND HILL.—All the leading British journals contain lengthy obituary notices of the late Sir Rowland Hill, K. C. B., the author of cheap postage, in his 85th year. The tributes are as just as they are admirable. Sir Rowland was truly a public benefactor.

From a variety of causes, there appears to be a very unhappy state of feeling in the Mother Country at present—arising from the partial failure of the crops from a succession of storms, the depressed state of trade—farmers are unable to pay rent, and the taxes are so heavy, that they doubt even if their farms could be worked profitably, they could realize sufficient to pay for labor, the prices for produce are so low. It is to be hoped that matters will turn out much better than anticipated.

C. F. BOURNE, Esq., Warden of Northumberland County, died at Newcastle, on the 1st inst., aged 80 years. He was a Lieutenant in the N. C. Battery. The Miramichi papers contain lengthy eulogistic obituaries of Mr. Bourne, who was deservedly respected by the whole community where he resided. On Sunday evening last, Rev. Mr. McCullagh, who knew the deceased intimately, at the close of his sermon, spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Bourne, as a man, a true christian, and useful member of society. His remains were interred with Masonic and Military honors.

A late number of the Winnipeg Daily Times mentions that a son of our friend Capt. STREET, John Aubrey, after shooting a number of duck and plover, and while returning with the game, stumbled and fell, the gun went off, carrying away one of his fingers. John the paper says "stood the loss well," for a boy of thirteen.

WHAT NEXT?—The got-money-somehow people, are trying a new dodge in Canada, viz—"Kidnapping" for the purpose of demanding a ransom. A story is afloat of their attempting to kidnap the Hon. George Brown, from his residence in Toronto, in which they failed, as the Senator was too wary to be entrapped. They succeeded however in decoying a Mr. Jeffreys and driving him out of the city to a lone spot. But when requested to alight from the carriage, he refused, and after having been hustled out, made his escape to a dwelling, and aroused the inmates; the kidnappers made a rapid retreat.

Local and Other Matters.

HARVESTING has commenced in some parts of the County, and cereals and roots exhibit evidence of a large yield: Wheat is particularly good, and many farmers will raise sufficient to breed their families for twelve months. We noticed on the farm of Mr. Benjamin Johnson, a short distance from town, that he has a fine crop consisting of 2½ acres of buckwheat, 1½ of wheat, 6 acres of oats, 2 of barley, 3 of turnips, and 2½ of potatoes. He cut 15 tons of hay which is stored in his barns; and his stock consists of 4 cows, three heifers and three horses and two colts.

CHAMCOOK FLOUR MILL.—One of our most successful farmers informed us, that the grain grinding at Mr. Davidson Grimmer's mill, surpasses any he ever saw done at Chamcook in former days, or indeed any other mill in the County. And he accounts for the fact from the thorough and systematic manner in which the grain is ground by Mr. Grimmer, who not only understands but attends to his business. From the large quantity of wheat and oats sown this season, it is probable that the Chamcook Grain Mill will be kept running day and night for some months, making flour and oatmeal, as well as Indian meal from imported corn. We congratulate our young friend, Mr. D. Grimmer, on his popularity and success as a miller, and the satisfaction he has given to his customers.

SEIZURE.—We read in St. John dailies, a notice of a seizure of six packages of goods not entered in the cargo book of the Charity, King, from St. Stephen. The mate stated that the goods were shipped during Capt. King's absence; and the mate supposed that if they were entered in the cargo book before the vessel arrived at St. John, the law would be fulfilled. The Customs authorities however seized the goods, and the vessel is detained. Capt. King left by train for St. John, yesterday, Tuesday.

STOCK RAISING.—Would it not be a paying speculation for the farmers who possess large grazing fields and meadows, to turn their attention to stock raising, now that the English markets are so largely supplied with Canadian beef and mutton. This could be done by raising better stock and more of it. It has been established that a paying market can be found, for oxen, cows and sheep of superior grade; and also for horses—all of which can be bred in New Brunswick.

Samuel Johnson, Esq., of St. George, left here by steamer on a flying visit to Manitoba. Mr. Johnson is an old traveller, having been for some time in California and adjoining States. We wish him a pleasant trip.

MELLEE.—On Tuesday morning two fishermen at the Market Wharf, named Haggarty and Chambers were disputing about a woman; Haggarty applied an improper epithet to her, which was resented by Chambers, and resulted in a stand-up fight. Mr. Hicks separated the combatants—not however before Haggarty was punished by his opponent.

The N. B. & C. Railway Co., are pushing forward the work on the new line, two miles of rails were laid last week. They have ordered another cargo of steel rails, which are to take the place of the old iron rails between Debeck and McAdam.

SEASONABLE GOODS.—Upwards of twenty-five cases of Fall and Winter Goods have just been received and are opening at the "Manchester House," (Odell & Turner). The fabrics are of the latest and most fashionable designs, of superior quality, and are being sold at reasonable prices.

A FISHING PARTY, including the Minister of Finance, enjoyed themselves on Saturday last, catching mackerel in the Bay.

LANDRY'S MUSICAL JOURNAL for September, has a number of pieces of music, with articles of interest to the musically disposed. The Journal is a Provincial production, and entitled to patronage.

His Honor, Judge Fisher, and Mrs. Fisher were in town on Friday last, and left for Woodstock next day. His Honor will preside at the Circuit Court here in November.

MACKEREL are becoming numerous in the Bay. Mr. J. McLaughlan caught some No. ones last week, one of them measured 17½ inches in length and 10½ in girth.

T. T. Odell, Esq. and daughter returned from the United States on Thursday last.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.—Those indebted for subscriptions to the STANDARD for one year and upwards, whose bills have been presented, are notified that unless the amounts due are paid by the 1st October, the bills will be placed in legal hands for collection. We cannot afford to send a collector year after year at considerable expense, without receiving some remuneration.

YELLOW FEVER.—It is appalling to learn from Quebec papers that yellow fever has been imported to Canada—three cases having been noticed on board the barge, "Laura Donna" at Gross Isle, Quebec. It is to be hoped the authorities there will enforce the Quarantine regulations that the fell disease may not obtain a foothold in our Dominion.

CUBA.—Spain which claims that fertile Island of the Antilles seems unable to obtain constitutional government for that Island—it has proved a failure, and the best move the Spaniards can make is to cede Cuba to Britain for a consideration—then the Cubans may rest assured there will be an end to insurrections.

We are happy to learn that Speaker Stevenson is improving though still confined to his house.

Some of our riflemen continue to practice at the range, following the old adage that "practice makes perfect."

There is a capital take off on "Muscular Christianity," and the walking and rowing mania in a New York paper.

The farmers are busily engaged harvesting; the weather is so uncertain, one day heavy rain, the next warm and fine, that they have to work hard to secure their crops of grain, which are of excellent quality and quantity.

The markets are well supplied with country produce, potatoes, beans, peas, carrots, turnips, &c., all of excellent quality; lamb, beef, butter and eggs. Fresh haddock, codfish and mackerel, are also to be had.

THE ATTACK ON THE BRITISH EMBASSY at Kabul, by the Afghan regiments, and the butchering of the inmates by the blood-thirsty scoundrels, is another instance, if such were wanting, of the treachery of the natives. The Viceroy had ordered troops to the assistance and protection of the Embassy; and the Amoor had sent assistance to the besieged, but the mob overpowered the men, and a fire broke out in the premises. Major Cavagnari was killed as were his officials.

Nothing short of Unmistakable
Benefits conferred upon tens of thousands of sufferers could originate and maintain the reputation which AYER'S SARSAPARILLA enjoys. It is a compound of the best vegetable alteratives, with the lodices of Potassium and Iron, and is the most effective of all remedies for acro-nial, mercurial, or blood disorders. Uniformly successful and certain in its beneficial effects, it purifies the blood and cures of Scrofula, Scurvy, Boils, Humors, Pimples, Eruptions, Skin Diseases and all disorders arising from impurity of the blood. By its invigorating effects it always relieves and often cures Liver Complaints, Female Weakness and Irregularities, and is a potent restorer of vitality. For purifying the blood this is equal; it tones up the system; restores and renews the health, and imparts vigor and energy. For many years it has been in extensive use, and is today the most available medicine for the suffering sick, every-

THE GREAT CAUSE OF HUMAN

MISERY.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY of the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, impediments to Marriage, etc.
resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 8 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' experience, that alarming consequences may be regularly cured, without the dangerous use of internal medicine, or the application of the knife.

pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, pertain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and man in the land.

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

Recipes.

CORN OYSTERS.—Grate one dozen ears of corn; beat five eggs light, and add to the grated corn, with a little salt and a dessertspoonful of flour. Fry in lard with a little butter added.

BOILED SALT FISH.—Cut a square the size desired from the thickest part of the fish, take off the skin, wash clean and broil for ten minutes on clear coals, then dip in boiling water, butter and serve. This is a nice relish for breakfast and tea, and with potatoes makes a palatable and economical dinner.

LEMON AND RAISIN PIE.—Two small lemons, one coffee-cup sugar, one egg, a small piece of butter, three large tablespoons of flour, two and one-half cups boiling water, one coffee-cup raisins, a little salt. Stir the flour in cold water, and stir the beaten egg in after the mixture is cool enough not to scald it. This makes three pies.

CUCUMBER PICKLES.—Take good-sized cucumbers; slice thin, cross grain, on a vegetable cutter, and let stand overnight in a weak brine; drain; then take enough vinegar to cover them, and put on the stove, and to a gallon of vinegar put a quarter of a pound of celery seed and a quarter of a pound of white mustard seed; boil half an hour, and pour over the pickles; put a weight on them.

TO COOK SPINACH.—It requires great care in washing and picking. When this is done throw it into a saucepan that will hold it, sprinkle with a little salt, and cover close. The pan must be set on the fire and well shaken. When done add to the spinach a little butter; it must come to the table pretty dry. Boil an egg hard, cut in slices, and lay on the top. If one egg is not sufficient, use two.

PEACH PRESERVES.—To every pound of peaches that have the stones and pits removed, add three-fourths of a pound of loaf sugar, and let them remain overnight. The next morning pour off the syrup that has been formed and let it cook for an hour; then put the peaches in, cook until the fruit is thoroughly done, but not cooked to pieces; put in an air-tight jar and it is ready for use at any time.

DROPPED EGGS ON MILK TOAST.—Toast as many slices of bread as you need for the family, and put in the oven to keep hot. Have a pint of milk boiling hot, and drop into it, one by one, as many eggs as you have slices of bread. As each one becomes set, skim it out and place it upon a slice of bread until all are cooked. Then add a little butter to the milk, boil it up again, and turn it over the eggs and bread. Serve them on a hot platter.

Sweet Apples as Food.

There are very few people who seem to know what a healthful nourishing, appetizing and satisfying use can be made of this fruit. Baked and served with cream, they make a light and most delicious dessert. Sliced and used in puddings of various sorts, they save other sweetening, and give a grateful element of freshness to the dish. And his suggests that one reason why baked apples of any kind fall into disfavor in many families is because they are not fresh. A tinful or two is baked up to "save time" and they come upon the table more and more dead and dilapidated, brimmed and slippery, until the very sight of them discourages and sickens the family. A baked apple over one day old is past its prime; and an apple like an egg, that "has seen better days," we don't want to exercise our charity on; but it is in putting the finishing touch to a bowl of bread and milk that baked sweet apples find their highest mission, given milk that is pure and fresh; bread that is both fresh and perfect; and grace for such a use, which means one-made, milk-rising bread, a little salt, but light, moist and sweet; and a late of apples just done through, and not long enough out of the oven to have lost their heat without getting really cold; and you have a lunch fit for a king; too good, indeed, for most of the men who are in "the king business." This dish has the three elements of nutrient found in bread, milk and fruit; and if there is anything better than this combination the fact hasn't leaked out, through science or experience, one meal day of bread and sweet apples, would be better than the food which costs much more in time and money, that of many men now indulge in. A pinch of salt or a spoonful of lime water will prevent the unpleasant effect which milk has on some stomachs. No appetite is required to give relish to such a lunch, and no digestion that is good for anything has any trouble with it after it is eaten.—Exchange.

Influence of the Stock and Grain.

In budding or grafting trees it is folly to use a diseased stock, as it will, in nine cases out of ten, communicate the disease to the graft. Also avoid all unhealthy buds, as a graft taken from a diseased tree is liable to infect the stock; for instance, a bud from a peach tree having yellow will convey the disease to the stock.

The following general rules contain the whole matter in a nutshell: In a favorable climate and soil, where the greatest growth, duration and development in any fruit is desired, choose a stock of a closely similar nature to the graft, as an apple seedling for an apple, a pear seedling for a pear. If, however, dwarf trees that come into bearing early are required, then employ a stock of an allied species of slower growth, and if the soil and climate be unfavorable, use a stock adapted to the soil, or one which will, by its hardiness, endure the cold.—New York World.

The Fate of Wedding Presents.

Duplicates and superfluous wedding presents are a great source of annoyance to many a newly-married pair in England as well as America, says an English fashion journal. In the latter country, however, with characteristic cleverness, they have known how to turn even this fact to account; and there are reported to be at present at least half a dozen persons in New York alone who have engaged in the business of purchasing or exchanging wedding presents. Of course, the transactions must be carried on in the most private manner and with no little ingenuity, so as to avoid giving pain to the kindly donors. Half a dozen opera-glasses, biscuit boxes, butter-dishes, or sugar-bowls is no uncommon number, and as for smaller articles of electro-plate, they pervade every collection of wedding presents to such a dreadful extent that the poor bride positively groans over the sight.

The method of conducting the new business is of itself ingenious. The buyer or exchanger watches the marriages as their respective announcements are published in the daily papers, and collects the names and residences, and when the wedding is that of well-known people, a list of presents is invariably given; this list is carefully read and thought over, and about three months after the wedding the pair have settled down in their new home a gentlemanly stranger makes his appearance, and inquires for Mrs. So-and-so, and at the same time sending in his card. The lady repairs to her drawing-room and gives audience to her visitor, who opens his business in the most circumspet manner, for, of course, until he knows with whom he has to deal, the bare suggestion may be considered offensive. Generally, however, women are very weak where bargains are concerned, and the visitor obtains a hearing for his proposals. The presents are produced, and while the bride considers her requirements, the dealer offers either exchange or purchase, as may be most acceptable. At first the objection is made: "Oh, dear! I cannot sell Aunt Mary's opera glass, or Aunt Lucy's butter dish; what will they say?" But a different opinion is soon arrived at when once she thinks of the remaining five or six articles of the same description.

There is another side to this new business, however, and that is that people are beginning to seek out the wedding present dealers with a view to obtaining cheaper presents for their marrying friends. Of course, they are as good as new, and as they are purchased cheaply enough from the bride, they can be sold at moderate prices. The latter idea is not entirely new among ourselves, for just as soon it was known that many firms in London marketed "suitable articles for wedding presents," second-hand, that intending purchasers might think them cheap. Every one seemed so anxious to find effective-looking articles for next to nothing; in fact, the "wedding-present" business is becoming too heavy a tax for people with slender resources.

Biannual Science.

"Why, five years ago," said a noted New York physiologist to a reporter the other day, "a man in Ohio sent me photographs of his daughter and of her sister. He wrote that the young man had been courting her for six months, that his business prospects and character were good, and that he gave promise of being an unexceptionable husband; but that, nevertheless, he wanted to know whether their dispositions and temperaments were such as would conduce to happiness in married life. I looked at his photographs and then wrote in reply. I informed the father that as regarded temperament and certain other inherited characteristics the young couple might properly be mated; but I also told him that the young man was lacking in conscientiousness, that he was selfish, tyrannical and inclined to immorality. Three years afterward the young woman called on me in New York to thank me personally for saving her from life-long unhappiness. At her father's request she had broken her engagement, and not long afterward the young man's true character was made plain to all. He robbed his employer of a large sum of money and ran away with a woman of low character. After living with him a few months in Canada, this woman quitted him because he was in the habit of abusing her, and she returned home her face still showing marks of his brutality. She betrayed his whereabouts to the police, and the young man was sent to State prison for the robbery."

Easy Lessons in Composition.

FOR BEGINNERS.—Hawthorne, who is acknowledged to have been a master of style, never used an italic letter in any of his books. His emphasis was in the sense of what he wrote. He used almost entirely words of few syllables. There are no big, heavy words in his works.

FOR GRADUATES.—Hawthorne never used any other than plain English language. There are no foreign words or phrases, either ancient or modern, to be found in any of his literary writings. None of you can be Hawthorne, but then you may all profit from his example.

FOR ALL WRITERS.—Find a subject and stick to it. Go at once to the point of the question. Never dally with a live subject, but take hold of it. Never write for newspapers on dead topics. Do not write long articles. Do not use a heavy and cumbersome style. Put all the sense you can in what you write, but let it be alive.—Quincy Modern Arg.

FOR THE FAIR SEX.

Fashion Notes.

Undressed kid gloves are still in high favor.

The new patterns of Hosiery lace braid are wide.

The veil worn on a journey should match the dress.

Wide scarlet sashes are worn with dresses of any color.

Cotton stockings with printed figures are a Parisian fancy.

A mixture of colors will be the rule in millinery this winter.

Untrimmed skirts are worn with many short costumes.

Feathers are to be much worn next winter and also beads.

White satin gowns are trimmed with a great deal of shirring.

Bows replace the butterflies of feathers that were worn last year.

Wrappers opening from the waist down are again in vogue.

Raveled fringes mark a bunting dress as a product of last season.

Tidies for garden chairs are made of coarse plaid handkerchiefs.

Bows and knots of diamond ribbon are worn as pins for lace cravats.

Asters and salvia are the blossoms to be used by the milliners for autumn bonnets.

Colored velvet shirred into rays, outlined by strips of satin, is a new facing for the rim of a bonnet.

Blue serge-vests lined with cardinal have been introduced by an enterprising English tailor for ladies.

The suits imported for fall costumes are of an amaranth, golden brown, the changing blue called duck's breast, and Rembrandt green.

Opalescent beads are used in Paris to trim evening bouquets, and it is said that they will be retained throughout the winter for the decoration of fine fets.

It will be possible to obtain felt and plush bonnets in gendarme blue this winter, which is good news to women who tried in vain to find them last season.

Feather ornaments are to be extravagant in design this winter, and each one will represent a reckless destruction of bird life. Small motted feathers, either bright or neutral tinted, are massed together to make a background for a cluster of small humming birds; two tanagers are placed bill to bill with their wings extended and their bodies slightly flattened.

Honeymoons are dear little clouds, crafty little swindlers, against which no revenge was ever known to be treasured. Deceitful as they may have been and still will prove, not a mortal who has undergone their hallucinations but looks back with painful longing to that charming era.

Yes, the honeymoon state is delightful; it is the time when Susan Jane dashes out fret, John Henry cares not to scold, and the politician forgets his politics!

Sweet, short and hypocritical as these honeymoons may be, men strive for them, women dream of them. Alas, what strange it is that men will, to tell and act lies in security for four weeks; and women will struggle so hard in order to have the pleasure of swallowing those very falsehoods during that time! Yes, and the silly creatures will ever remember with pleasure those days in which they buried as they thought all sorrows, little dreaming that ghosts might appear some day in the shape of divorcees. Honeymoons, typical words, honey reminding us of sweetness (the stinging bees in the form of cares come afterward); moons—recalling to us our own large moon that so lightens our pathway at night (not to speak of its dwindling to almost nothingness). Honeymoons are the temporary union of our souls, opposing natures, causing the most opposite natures to blend, converting a sinner into a saint, rendering the disheveled locks of an editor who during his life has run his fingers through his scant crop of hair, that is fast losing its capability of covering a cranium filled with brains wild with "heavenly" truth the pressure of editorial thoughts and pecuniary troubles, apparently to luxuriate under its magic influence.

Still honeymoons are not always false, but rather symbolical of what we should be, samples of the little good there may be in us; delicate, invisible roots that if well nourished with love will be enabled to spring up sturdy trees of protection, rich in foliage, that, as so many affectionate thoughts, will shield us through life from troubles which, like the scorching rays of the sun, so often wilt us.

CARRIE RAMIREZ.

Snow is shoveled out of a large granite building in Boston every morning, and the boys may play at snowballing at a temperature of ninety degrees, if they are quick about it. This building is a warehouse for the storage of perishable provisions, and the air in it is kept at forty degrees by refrigeration with ammonia. The snow gathers constantly in the machine-room.

Easily Incurred, Terribly Obstinate. In rheumatism. Even at the outset, the ordinary remedies are frequently powerless to cope with it. This is more particularly the case when a tendency to it is inherited. It should be combated before it becomes chronic. When the first twinges are felt, recourse should be had to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a dependent which expels from the blood those irritating principles which, by contact, cause inflammation and pain in the muscles and joints. Poisonous medicines which are usually administered for this disease, but which, in a slight overdose, may terminate it by destroying life itself, should be avoided, and this safe and more effective medicine used instead. Those disorders of the bowels,

A Hint to Workmen.
The honest workmen of the country, many of whom have large and increasing families to support, have been the chief sufferers from the great financial pressure under which we have labored for the last few years. Diminished wages have not been attended by a corresponding diminution in price of everything which the workmen need. Rent, fuel, food and clothing are cheaper, but these do not constitute all the necessities. If it is sometimes necessary for a laborer to employ a lawyer or physician, yet the fees of physicians and lawyers are as high as they were in "flush" times. Yet cheap medicines are as necessary as cheap rent or fuel. Cheap medicines are not necessarily poor medicines. It must be obvious to every intelligent person that medicines, compounded and put out at wholesale, can be sold at much lower rates than when retailed from the doctor's pill box. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pills have completely restored persons who have spent hundreds of dollars in vainly seeking relief from private practitioners, and all at a very slight expenditure.

To develop healthy and harmonious action among the organs of secretion; digestion and excretion, take Dr. Mott's Vegetable Liver Pills, which healthfully stimulate the liver, give tone and regularity to the bowels, counteract a tendency to constipation and purify the blood. Their cathartic action is uncomplicated by griping, and is never violent and abrupt, but gradual and natural. These pills are of the greatest assistance in overcoming scrofulous tumors and eruptive maladies. All druggists sell it.

Only one American Cabinet or Parlor Organ maker has ever succeeded in bearing off the highest honors at any world's exposition, and hence they come in competition with the best European makers, and this is the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., who have taken first medal or highest honors at every such exhibition for twelve years ending with the Paris exhibition of this year, where they were awarded the highest gold medal.
