UNIONS OPPOSED TO ONE BIG UNION IDEA

(Special To The Record)

VICTORIA, B. C., April 28. (By Main Johnson).—It has not taken the Industrial Relations Commission long to see for themselves the labyrinthine and tangled web of labor affairs. They have learned for one thing that a detachment of royal northwest mounted police has just been sent to reinforce the provincial police at Princeton, a smelting town in the interior of British Columbia, where a disturbance is reported to be in progress.

They have also learned that the Trades and Labor Council of Victoria, following the lead of Vancouver, has decided not to appoint delegates to appear before the commission, and has reaffirmed its resolution that the aim of labor, as represented by the council, were the abolition of the present system of production for profit and the substitution of production for use.

They have also found labor men keenly interested in the action of the international association of machinists in cancelling the charter of a local union in Vancouver which had voted $5,000 for the "one big union" idea.

Legal action has been threatened if this money is paid over and the officials of the revoked union have been ordered to pay all the funds in their treasury to the International. This incident is arousing great interest among Victoria labor men, for several unions here too have authorized payments of money for one big Union propaganda.

Local men are waiting to see if similar cancellations will follow here, or whether the Vancouver case is being made a test. At all events it looks like the beginning of a "show-down" between international craft and the new industrial "one big union" idea.

The commission also heard from evidence presented to it officially of increasing unemployment in Victoria and surrounding districts. The present number of unemployed was given as 2,500, of whom 1,050 were said to be returned soldiers. Of the items mentioned, only the last was brought to the attention of the commission officially. In its first sitting in the Empress Hotel on Saturday night, No representatives of the Board of Trade were on hand, but will appear on Monday. There were a few labor men present.

forty four charters for branch lines and extensions in the west. The Opposition is claiming that the provision is designed to keep other companies out of the field and that in any case the principle has been laid down in later years that ancient railroad charters shall not be revived. The Opposition has further desired to know who owns the real estate along the projected right of way?

It is understood that the Canadian Pacific Railway company has several applications for charters in the west pending before the Railway Commission and that the company is deeply interested in the closure under dispute. The government takes the view that it is necessary that provision may be made for the reviving of these charters and that the reviving of them in this manner does not necessarily mean that construction will be proceeded with in all cases.

Hon. Arthur Meighen's bill, providing for the perpetuation of existing orders-in-council under the War Measures Act, for the duration of the session is bound to be controversial. The Opposition takes the ground that unless validated by parliament such orders-in-council should pass away with the declaration of peace. The Opposition has called a caucus for tomorrow. At this gathering the details of the national convention will be worked out.

The Titles' Commission will sit again tomorrow and will have its report ready for the house at an early date.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 28.—A request for eight hour day is not granted, seventeen hundred and twenty men on the Hydro and Welland Ship Canal will likely go on strike. The men agree to work at the present pay but want two hours shorter day.

This move was agreed on at a meeting of the Federation of Trades and Labor of the Niagara district here last night. A deputation will see Sir Adam Beck on Wednesday but the Minister of Railways and Canals has not yet promised to see the ship canal delegates.

TORONTO, April 28.—The Minister of Labor has appointed a Board of Conciliation to settle the dispute between the Hull Electric Railway Co. and its employees, who are asking an increase in wages. G. D. Kelly, barrister of Ottawa, has been appointed representative for the Company and Fred Baneroff of Toronto will be the employee representative. The chairman of board has not yet been chosen.

Persons accused of violations of the laws and customs of war, according to another section of a proposed article, will be brought before military tribunals and if found guilty "sentenced to the punishments laid down military law. All persons accused of having committed an act in violation of laws and customs of war who are specified: either by name or by rank, office or employment which they hold under German authorities," will be demanded of the German government for trial by a military tribunal of the nation against whose nationals criminal acts were perpetrated.

Article 4 is as follows: "The German government undertake to furnish all documents and information of every kind, the production of which may be considered necessary to insure a full knowledge of incriminating acts, discovery of offenders and just appreciation of responsibility."

BLIND MAN TESTS EGGS BY TOUCH.—Like all blind people, Capt. F. P. Pierson-Webber, an Englishman, has a very highly developed sense of touch, and he has just given a demonstration showing how he can tell any breed of fowl by its shape and the age of any egg to a single day. The picture shows how with his sensitive lips he determines the air-space of an egg.

that both Solomon and Hinsh, the two spotters employed by the government, were to maintain their departmental connection even while employed by Duncanson.

Dr. H. H. Huchenshaw was summoned. He arrived soon but life had fled. The injured man had lived only a few minutes after the accident occurred. It was found that the injuries received by the deceased were severe contusions on the skull, spine and the left side including the hip. The blow crushed the hip and lacerated the flesh and the abdomen. The spine was crushed and the skull fractured. The nature of the injuries was evidence that there would probably be no recovery although hope was not despaired of. Dr. J. H. Huchenshaw, the coroner, was notified. He visited the scene and after examination he decided to hold an inquest into the death. He notified Chief O'Neill at about noon. The latter and P. C. Blivins served the following gentlemen with subpoenas notifying them of their selection for the jury:

J. K. Mester, Geo. Doer, E. O. Ritz, John Truett, David Knudsen, P. K. Weber, A. C. Bender, Geo. Potter, Ed. Stolt, Harry Wiesend and William Bernhardt.

The jury met at about 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon at the city hall. In a body they went to the tire plant where they viewed the body and also the scene of the accident. Adjournment was then decided on until 7.30 o'clock Wednesday evening.

The deceased was in his 34th year. He leaves a bereaved wife and four children. He was born in Bloomington, Ind., and was a son of William Snyder of that place. The citizens sympathize with the stricken wife and children.

Mr. Snyder was highly respected and had many friends. His death is mourned by them as by the family.

The funeral will be held at 2.30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the Bloomingdale cemetery.

Beam Breaks Loose and Man at Windlass Loses His Life

Mr. Melville Snyder Accidentally Killed at the Dominion Tire Plant. Inquest Into Death Will be Held.

A sad accident, which caused a fatality occurred in the city shortly before eleven o'clock Sunday morning in which Mr. Melville Snyder of 84

Manston street lost his life. The unfortunate man at the time was engaged in his work at the Dominion Tire plant.

With others he was engaged in lifting a heavy heater, used in curing tires, from the second to the fourth floor of the main building. In this operation a beam was used, Snyder and another man being at the windlass on the ground about seventy-five feet away from the building. The beam projected about ten feet out from the roof. About twenty feet of it was over the roof, fastened down by steel rods. Apparently the weight of the heater pulled out. The beam fell to the ground, turning a complete somersault, and which had been on the roof struck Snyder unawares.

The other gentleman who was on the other side of the windlass was not hit and therefore was uninjured.

Dr. H. H. Huchenshaw was summoned. He arrived soon but life had fled. The injured man had lived only a few minutes after the accident occurred. WILL CLERKS GET WEEKLY HALF HOLIDAY

While all other lines of Employment are adopting the shorter hour schedule the Clerks will most likely be next in line with their petition for the usual weekly half holiday. Last year it was the custom to start the movement in May but so far, while a start has been made it is hardly likely that it will be unanimous. This is due to the fact that a certain merchant while signing last year did business behind closed doors much to the justified chagrin of those who closed their businesses up tight. To make a success of the weekly half holiday each and every merchant must enter into the movement whole heartedly and abide by the intention of the petition. The Clerks put in all the way from 58 to 60 hours per week and the little recreation gained by the half holiday is well deserved.

BIG CROWD AT PRINCESS

Saturday night closed a record week of business at the Princess Theatre the class of pictures shown being the best yet put on. So large was the crowd on Saturday evening that every seat was taken and as Manager Edgington did not wish to take any chances in allowing people to stand on the isles and thus break the law many were turned away.

When other towns and cities are making preparations for a grand reception to the returned soldiers when all have returned home which will be about July, or August the town of Waterloo will get busy at once. Reeve Bohlender is enthusiastic and believes in giving Waterloo a reception such as they will never forget and at Monday night Council meeting he will introduce the question so that an early start can be made and committees appointed to go ahead with the preliminary work.

WATERLOO TOWN AND THE COUNTY CLERK

While there are many questions of importance to engage the attention of our town fathers at this particular time there is one uppermost in the minds of our citizens and this is, How the Equalization Committee of the County Council will deal with Waterloo's appeal against the increased assessment levied this year?

As was stated in these columns in our issue of April 18 a deputation from the town of Waterloo waited on the county Council and appealed against the Business and Income taxes being levied, a procedure that had not heretofore been done.

The case for the town was ably presented by the delegation and the county Councillors were of the opinion that something should be done since it looked as if the town was getting a raw deal. As was pointed out at the meeting the idea of assessing business and income was something that had not been done before and while the figures appeared in the report the Equalization Committee took it for granted that the same procedure as in former years would be followed. One can imagine their surprise when the information appeared in the press that Waterloo would enter an objection and if not treated fairly withdraw from the County or amalgamate with Kitchener.

That the question is a live one in Waterloo is evident by the comments one hears among our business men. One of our town officials expressed himself on Friday on the question in no uncertain manner. He said that while the report which appeared in our issue of the 19th inst was good, it did not cover all that took place at the meeting. He strongly condemned the action of the County Clerk in taking the stand he did. Let us quote one statement he made that did not appear in print:

"Years ago I fought tooth and nail to have the town's business and income assessments added to the County but was voted down, because Kitchener and Galt were then in and the town had a majority. Now it is different and the rural districts have a majority, and, while I regret that I am not in the council now I can see the results of my efforts bearing fruit."

"Further more" said this town official, "the remarks of the County Clerk during his explanation of why the figures had been added showed that he had it in for the Town of Waterloo for some reason or other. In my own opinion he overstepped his authority. The Clerks duty is to see that not only the rural districts but that the towns and villages as well get a square deal. When speaking on the question his very actions showed that not for a minute, if he had anything to do with it, would Waterloo's case be considered. Continuing I can only say he showed his preference only too plainly towards the rural districts, forgetting for the moment that he is a paid servant not only of the rural districts but of the towns and villages as well and the Waterloo delegation would have been perfectly in order had they demanded a ruling from the chair calling the clerk to order and showing him his place and position. I might say in conclusion said the town official that I feel that the Equalization Committee will consider the question carefully and will not allow any spirit of revenge to enter into their deliberations."

REV. MR. MACLEOD AGAIN AT HIS POST

The services of the First English Lutheran Church were well attended by large congregations both morning and evening. The pastor for the first time since the last Sunday in January occupied the pulpit. He took his text from Hebrews 11:6 from which he treated the subject of faith in line with the gospel and epistle lessons for the day. He is fully recovered from his serious operation and preached with his old time vigor.

At the evening service the Rev. W. M. Weaver pastor of the Lutheran Church, Halifax, occupied the pulpit. He preached a very acceptable sermon from 2 Cor. 5:14, "The Love of Christ Constrains us". The sermon was very appropriate as it harmonized with the morning discourse most fully. After the sermon he gave a graphic description of his personal experiences in the great explosion of Dec. 6, 1917, which was listened to by the large audience with rapt attention. While all this happened more than a year ago and had been fully described in the daily papers, yet the story being told by one whose house had been shattered and whose church was badly wrecked and many members of whose congregation had been killed or maimed, made a much more vivid impression than the mere reading in cold print could have produced.

Regarding Letters to Paper

This newspaper welcomes letters from its readers, wherein questions of public interest are discussed. It is the rule that all such letters to the editor be either signed or accompanied by the writer's name, as a guarantee of good faith. An extension of this rule is that anyone naming a private person or firm should sign his letter with his own name. When anyone is criticised in our columns and named, he is in fairness entitled to know who is making the charge or attack.

One of our readers has written a letter making complaint regarding a theater. Since he does not sign his letter nor furnish his name, it cannot be published but we are ready to hand it to the theater criticized.

MERCHANTS MUST BUILD 'BACKFIRE'

Can Beat Mail Order Houses at Their Own Game if They Will Do It.

ADVERTISING ONLY WEAPON.

Catalogue Concerns Spend Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Annually to Create Demand for Their Merchandise.

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

The forest ranger and the prairie farmer have learned that they must fight with fire. They know that when the all consuming forest or prairie fires are sweeping toward them their only hope of safety lies in the "back-fire." By kindling and carefully controlling a fire of their own they force the bigger fire to burn itself out, finding no further fuel on which to feed.

The merchants of the small cities and towns are learning that in waging their fight for existence they must adopt the tactics of the men of the West. The great mail order houses of the cities are the consuming flames which threaten to wipe out the retail merchants of the small towns unless the latter, realizing their danger, take steps to remove the menace. The retail merchants, as a whole, are beginning to realize that they must fight fire with fire and that to save themselves they must build a "back fire."

Advertising is the weapon with which the mail order houses conduct their warfare on the retail merchants of the small cities and towns. The mail order houses do their advertising through their own catalogues and through certain publications which are known as mail order advertising mediums. A big mail order house spends hundreds of thousands of dollars merely on the preparation and publication of its bulky catalogues.

The catalogue houses also spend thousands upon thousands of dollars in advertising in the mail order publications which look for their circulation to the people of the small towns and the rural districts. Advertising in some of these mediums costs as much as from $40 to $85 for a single inch, yet the mail order houses find it profitable to pay these high rates. Their business is built upon advertising and if they were denied the use of the mails for their advertising for a single month their business would be destroyed.

In advertising, the local merchants find the only weapon with which they can beat the mail order houses at their own game. This does not mean necessarily, only newspaper advertising, although that is the big gun in the battery employed by the successful merchant in his battle for trade. Advertising is a big word and it covers a big field. There is no longer to be found the man who does not believe in advertising. Every merchant believes in advertising of some sort. The placing of a display in a show window is advertising. The only difference between that kind of advertising and advertising in a newspaper is that where the one reaches dozens the other reaches hundreds. Attractive window displays are, of course, an important adjunct of any retail store. They serve their purpose but their purpose is only to attract the attention of those who may be passing by the store. There are other forms of advertising, such as personal solicitation but printed matter must always continue to be the chief reliance of merchants in attracting customers to their store.

The buying public has learned that the store which takes the people into its confidence through its advertising is the one in which it may expect to get the best bargains and the most satisfactory treatment. It has learned that the store which advertises consistently and regularly has the best and most up-to-date stocks because this store sells its goods more rapidly than the one which does not advertise and, therefore, is not forced to carry over old stock from one season to another. The public knows that the store which advertises can place lower prices on its goods because it turns over its stock often than the store which does not advertise and therefore does not have its capital tied up in slow-moving merchandise.

The mail order house does not get its business by merely letting the public know that it has dry goods or hardware or groceries or some other commodity to sell. It creates a demand for its goods by placing in its catalogue attractive pictures and detailed descriptions of the articles which it has to sell. The lure of the mail order catalogue lies in the fact that the merits, or alleged merits, of the merchandise offered are placed before the prospective purchaser in the most graphic manner. The local retail merchant has the same opportunity to do this that the mail order house has and can do it much more effectively than the mail order house can. The retail merchant can talk to the people of his community through his home newspaper and that is something which the mail order houses as a rule cannot do, for the local newspapers through a sense of loyalty to their communities and their home merchants will not accept the advertising with which the mail order houses would flood them if they had the opportunity.

WHAT CHEAP FOODSTUFFS MEAN.

In discussing the tariff, the Toronto Globe contends that there should be free food in Canada. This cry appears attractive on the surface. There is no family which would not welcome a reduction in the cost of living. As a matter of fact the Canadian tariff is designed to admit either free or at a low rate of duty such foodstuffs as cannot be grown or produced in Canada.

Practically everyone pays a tax to the municipality in which he lives, to enable the business of the city or town to be carried on. A stated amount is payable in cash every year. Similarly the country needs a large revenue, more than $350,000,000 during this fiscal year, to conduct its public affairs. The tariff provides a large proportion of this, by levying a tax on the foodstuffs, and raw and finished materials that other countries sell us.

This is called indirect taxation. It averages say 20 per cent, and being paid in small sums the country secures the money with which to conduct its business and no one feels the tax burdensome.

The Globe enumerated imports of $54,000,000. The taxes on these, including the war tax, was $7,000,000. This is less than $1 per head. The principal articles included in the list were sugar, tea, coffee, oranges, lemons, bananas, raisins and the like. Articles which it is obligatory to import.

Free trade Britain, is obliged to tax its imports much more heavily than we do. Its excise tax on sugar, tea, coffee and cocoa, produces a revenue of $173,000,000. This represents a tax of nearly $4.00 per head of population, or four times as much as Canadians are taxed on like foodstuffs.

When the Globe looks to Britain for an example in a trade policy, it misses two salient facts: the one that Britain is the market for the surplus wheat, meat and other foodstuffs of the world, much of it produced in countries like India, Russia and the Argentine, where labor is cheap; the other that its manufacturers and their employees are, under free trade, obliged to meet world competition in their own market.

Were free trade to guarantee both cheap living and steady employment at good wages, it would be advisable to adopt it. But it does not. In pre-war days, Britain had a cheap loaf but low wages. Early in 1918, the Labor party there formulated a program which called for a minimum wage of $7.50 per week. To Canadian eyes this appears extremely low.

A local business man, who recently spent several months in Britain, on being asked whether there were any indications of a change in its fiscal policy, replied that there are. Hereafter its leaders have sought to give the workmen cheap food and clothing in consideration of their working for low wages, which in turn enabled the manufacturers to compete, in both open and closed markets, against nations which had protective tariffs.

With its labor demanding better pay, better housing and better general living conditions, its business men foresee that a change in trade policy will be necessary. They are thus turning to protection, as the one means of giving them first call in their home market.

That the United States and Germany, for example, both protectionist countries, were, before the war, able to export manufactured goods to Great Britain goes to prove that free trade, with cheap food and low wages is not the deciding factor in world competition. Instead production is the main thing. And well trained and well paid workmen are able to give both qualitative and quantitative production.

It would be turning back the hands of the clock for Canada to admit all foodstuffs duty free, since it would be followed by a demand on the part of grain growers for the free admission of foreign manufactured articles. In bumper crop years, food would be cheaper but for Canada to compete in her own market against the bigger manufacturing nations, would necessitate a lowering of wages and living conditions. On top of it would come direct taxation.

It was the war which caused the abnormal rise in the cost of living. Things will right themselves in a year or so. While we must presently grin and bear it, the principal duty is to preserve the Canadian market for Canadian factories, their employees and farmers. No one here desires to see a $1.25 a-day minimum wage standard set. Yet free trade would undoubtedly reduce wages. He who had not steady work at good wages would find it very difficult to buy anything, no matter how low his cost. A cheap country is not a good country to live in.

A NEW POLITICAL PLANK.

Since the Independent Labor party has adopted as a plank in its platform the idea of having the province make a grant of $50 for every birth and to bear the medical expense in connection therewith, the suggestion becomes a public topic.

In 1917, the last year for which official returns have been made, there were 62,666 births in Ontario. This was, by the way, a decrease of 2,398 as compared to 1916.

On the other hand the natural increase, this is of births over deaths, was 29,882, which was an increase of 9,698 more than the natural increase in the preceding year, due to a decrease in the number of deaths.

The census of 1911, showed that Canada has only 1.93 persons per square mile of territory. Ontario had 9.67, as compared to 21 in the United States. There is yet plenty of elbow room in this province.

Were this plank adopted as a social measure to increase births, for this would probably be its effect, and $50 cover the amount paid for every visit of the stork, it would on the 1917 basis, entail a public outlay of $3,133,300. It may safely be assumed that there would be an increase in the number of births, in which event the annual birth grant would exceed the sum named.

Other provinces and countries have granted gifts in case of triplets arriving. But as far as our knowledge goes, no general money grant for single births has been paid by any country.

Considerable discussion has arisen over the point whether bachelors should be taxed, as a means of increasing the number of householders and taxpayers. Were the birth bonus to be adopted, it may be suggested that they bear the burden of paying the birth recompense to mothers.

WAX WORKS IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

After four years of hiding during the period of the war, the waxworks which used to be in Westminster Abbey have now been put on show again. These waxworks are full-sized wax effigies of certain kings and queens and other famous people, dressed in the actual garments they used to wear in real life. Queen Elizabeth, Queen Anne, Charles II., and William and Mary are among the most famous of these wax figures which are on view free of charge to all visitors to the Abbey.

Plans will be laid for an extensive advertising campaign to bring before the American public the advantages of buying the necessities of life from the independent retail stores and those goods made by independent manufacturers.

Says She Feels Different Now

Mrs. Dean Declares She Will Never Cease Praising Tanlac

"I'll never stop praising Tanlac for it has built me up till I feel better than I have in a good many years," said Mrs. Jean Dean, of 93 Fuller Avenue, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

"I was in a dreadfully rundown condition for several years," she continued, "and was getting worse all the time. My nerves were in a wretched state and was so restless I could hardly sleep and would get up in the mornings with a raging headache, that worried me all day. The least little thing would upset me and any exertion at all would exhaust my strength so I would be unable to do my housework."

"My first few doses of Tanlac proved it to be just what I needed. My nervousness is entirely gone, I never have a headache now. I sleep like a baby and get up in the morning feeling fit. I have gotten rid of that old tired worn-out feeling and have improved so wonderfully that I feel like a different person."

AT THE CHURCHES

Fervent Appeal For Peace Readjustment

To Employers and Employees In Patriotic Address by Noted Irish Orator.

A distinguished minister who is in the city and who addressed congregations here on Sunday is Rev. W. T. Boal, the noted Irish orator, who is here in the interests of the Navy League.

At a mass meeting held in the Trinity Methodist Church at 8.15 o'clock last evening the noted visitor among other things eloquently reviewed the glorious achievements of the British army and navy including the merchant marine, to whose work the allied victory was due. He reminded his audience of the millions and millions of soldiers that the navy had transported to the various fields of action, the millions of tons of foodstuffs that were carried to the men overseas who were thereby given the necessary sustenance and to the unprecedented shipments of munitions that were carried across the water. All this was made possible through the gallantry of the men in the navy and those with the merchant marine.

In urging upon the hearers the value of British liberty and British traditions he said every man who has been making his living in this country regardless of nationality should appreciate these. And if he could not he should get out and leave the country.

In conclusion Rev. Mr. Boal turned to the future. He urged for those united efforts in peace time which characterized Canada's war efforts. He urged that all Bolshevik influences be weeded out just as the junkers were weeded out, so that now that the war is won everything that has been held in high regard by civilization will be maintained. He urged employers of labor to cooperate, as also the employees. To the returned soldier he also appealed with the wish that they maintain those ideals and principles of practice which they showed overseas, thereby guaranteeing the preservation of the high standard of citizenship.

The speaker reminded his audience that a collection in aid of the Navy League would be received. As the result of his appeal quite a sum was received. He further invited the public to the Navy League meeting to be held this evening.

During the course of his address Rev. Mr. Boal spoke with that Irish eloquence and fervor, characteristic of his race. He spoke as a father who has experienced the sacrifice of his own son who went to do his bit at the Dardanelles. He passionately delivered a patriotic message he believed to be a duty assigned him by God. His remarks were interspersed with characteristic wit and humor.

In the morning Rev. Mr. Boal spoke at King Street Baptist Church.

CHAPTER XXIV.
 Love yoh, machin—dare to love yoh—
 To yoh endless desolation and yoh impotent disdain.

Whoever it is, is approaching her rapidly. At first the figure had been motionless, but as she stopped and made that nervous gesture that had brought her hand to her bosom, it had started into motion. Already the shadows of the trees round it are growing less dense, and at last the tall figure of a man stands revealed.

A rather unreasoning sensation of fear rises within her. After all, she is but a few yards from the house and there lies safety. But there are sometimes moments when we forget to reason, and Vera is oblivious of everything except that it is night, that she is alone, and that a possible blight, might not be a pleasant person to meet under the circumstances. The man now every instant drawing nearer she at last shrinks backwards still overwhelmed by the blight idea, and puts out both her little slender white hands as if to ward off his further approach.

"Don't be frightened. It is I, Seaton," says a most unwelcome voice, and as if ashamed, and indignant at her betrayal of cowardice she drops her hands and turns an eager face to his.

"Ah," she says. She is angry beyond doubt and still further angered by the knowledge that there is more of relief than coldness in the simple exclamation. As she speaks he lays her hand on the old sun-dial near her, as if to steady herself. It is the first time they have met face to face since that memorable night in Seaton's room, and the memory of what had happened then, being now full upon them betrays itself in a certain constraint that shows itself perhaps more openly in her.

"At this hour And I had no idea you were here at all," she says at length faintly, after a pause that has grown sufficiently long to be awkward.

"I am afraid I have startled you. If I had known I should not, of course, have come here, but I imagined you—"

"Asleep? Naturally," as he hesitates. "My head ached however, and I came out here to try and clear it. I should not have been startled of course. But I did not hear of your arrival this evening."

"I dined in town and came down here by the last train. You would not have heard of it, of course. I hoped you would not."

"He pauses and looks away from her. "I must come to see my father something," he says slowly, apologetically as it seems to her.

"The hot blood flames into her cheeks, and she draws her breath sharply.

"You make it very hard for me," she says, with a touch of passionate impatience.

"That is unjust," says he, roused in turn. "To make your life easier is my heart's desire."

"Are you sheeving or do you think? Does it with gathering scorn. "Make my path smoother when you compel me to see that you stay away or only come here at hours inconvenient to yoh, because—because of me!"

"I am sorry I said that. I must regret that we have met at all," replies he calmly "asacoth thing I say seems to offend and hurt you. "Yes, it seems to me just now as if I should explain to you why I was here—an absurd feeling. I know, as my movements cannot possibly concern you."

"They do, nevertheless," with an angry intonation "You force me to regard them. Life here is surely difficult enough without being driven to think that I am the cause of separating father and son. It is intolerable, yoh taking such a view of all this late unpleasantness. Why should you try to place me in such a position? Is it kind generous?"

"It is useless my arguing the point with yoh. You are determined to see me in nothing but the worst light."

"You shall not put it upon me," says she vehemently. "I shall not submit to that. As you make me out, I am the discordant note that jars the harmony existing between you and your father. I refuse to be so regarded. Come here when you will, as often as you will, yoh absence of presence is alike indifferent to me."

She breaks off suddenly, and then as suddenly thras upon him. "Why should you not come here as often as you like?" she asks aggressively.

"Why should I come here at all—to make yoh uncomfortable?" retorts he immovably.

"Yoh imagination misleads yoh," says the girl, after a moment that has left her pale. "It is not in yoh power in influence me in any way."

She turns aside sharply and walks a step or two away from him. Some how at this instant the growing chill of the early night seems to strike more sharply on her senses, and a shiver not to be suppressed stirs her whole frame. Seaton, watching her with wrathful eyes, sees that slight mark of physical discomfort, and on the instant all his righteous anger dies within him.

"You are cold," he exclaims coming up to her with a hasty stride. "What madness it is, yoh being out at this hour. Why are you not in bed? What brought you here?" He has evidently forgotten all that happened in that first strange moment when she stepped from shadow into light.

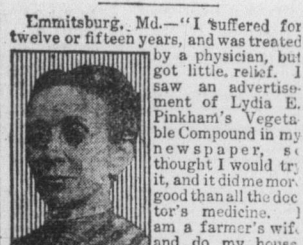

"I told yoh," he says, "I had a headache. I fancied the air would revive me; I was restless."

"You were unhappy, you mean," pointedly "Well that may have to be endured, but a severe cold should be avoided if possible. Come, come back to the house."

"An appeal is made on behalf of the starving millions of India."

WOMAN SUFFERED 12 YEARS

Finally Made Well by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Emmitsburg, Md.—"I suffered for twelve or fifteen years, and was treated by a physician, but got little relief. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my newspaper, and thought I would try it, and it did me good. I am a farmer's wife, and do my housework all the time for years. I am never without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house and have recommended it to several of my friends. You are perfectly welcome to publish my letter for the good it may do other women."—Mrs. ERNIE WARREN, Emmitsburg, Md. Backache and nervousness are symptoms or nature's warnings, which indicate a functional disturbance or an unhealthy condition which often develops into a more serious ailment. Women in this condition should not continue to drag along without help, but profit by Mrs. Warren's experience, and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

Why Chilly Weather Brings Rheumatism

Says Skin pores are closed an uric acid remains in blood

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. It is not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat dress warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the blood and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the uric acid to do damage, they become weak, and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast every morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia and sodium bicarbonate results by them.

BY SPEEDING THE LIVER
 DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS
 BRING GOOD HEALTH.
 Good For Men, Women, Children

No curse seems harder to bear than the downright weariness and despondency that comes from a slow liver.

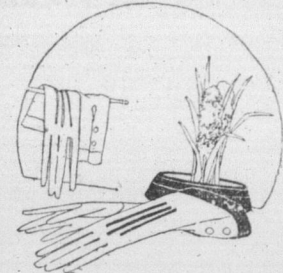

The man or woman who is pale, listless, depressed, and out of sorts usually has a Liver Complaint. Such people continually suffer from headache, constipation, ringing ears, lack of appetite, and poor digestion. What a world of good Dr. Hamilton's Pills will do in such cases! In one hour this smooth working medicine changes half sick folks into different looking and feeling people. No chance for headaches or constipation when Dr. Hamilton's Pills get to work. Taken at night they restore normal conditions while you sleep, morning finds you fresh and hungry, headache all gone, cheeks rosy, eyes bright, spirits good.

Impossible to feel dizzy, to have weak back, to be nervous, depressed, sleepless, or out of sorts if you tone, regulate and cleanse the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Good for men, women and children. Sold every where in 25c boxes.

Unless the peoples of the world pour help into India the conditions there of the next three or four months will be appalling. Owing to the lack of rain since last May the crops have been a failure and the people are faced with worse famine conditions than in 1900, when help was sent from all over the world and almost every child in Great Britain was giving a penny a week to help to feed these people.

TWO IN OLD SOUTH ATLANTIC FIELD
Two minor leagues have blossomed out, rather belatedly, in the South-eastern section. One will be called the South Atlantic, a name comprehensive enough to include five Carolina towns, and possible one in Georgia, just across the line. The other will be the Georgia State, to include Macon, Albany, Brunswick, Columbus, Cordale and Griffin, making a real state circuit, pretty compact and with towns that should get by. It has elected E. G. Jacobs of Macon as president and will start its season May 8, with a schedule of 100 games. The salary limit will be $1,800 a month and each club can carry 12 players. The South Atlantic—or South Carolina—organization will include Columbia, Charleston, Charlotte, Greensboro, Spartanburg and either Augusta or Orangeburg. It will have the same salary and player limits as the Georgia State, will open its season May 19 and close September 1.

"Hop Off" Expected to Occur for Weather Conditions

Weather Conditions Ocean Have Improved

RIVAL AIRMEN PREEN THEIR WINGS

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 27.—The trans-Atlantic airplane race expected to start from St. John's some time this afternoon.

Reports received here this morning were that weather conditions over the ocean were favorable, and that Frederick P. Raynham British aviator, and Harry E. Hawker, his rival, each had his belongings packed and the wings of his machine preened this morning for flight that evening.

AVIATORS MAY FLY THIS AFTERNOON

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 27.—Weather at 10 o'clock this morning bright and clear but the wind blew from the eastward, with a drizzling rain. The Martinsyde aviator will fly this afternoon if conditions are no worse than at present. The Sopwith aviator says his action depends upon form.

BAD WEATHER POSTPONE FLIGHT

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., (Noon).—On account of increasing fog and rain prevailing locally and over the western sea of the Atlantic, all hopes of a flight being made today were abandoned.

Sir William Meredith Summing up

The Liquor Inquiry Matter.

ACCEPTS MR. AYEARS' STATEMENT

(Special To THE RECORD)

TORONTO April 27.—"I have no hesitation," said Sir William Meredith at the conclusion of his investigation of the charges against the Ontario Liquor Board, "in coming to the conclusion that only were the charges not proved they were disproved. I believe Mr. Ayeard, the chief inspector, who has been suspended, has led an honorable life and to be a zealous and faithful public servant. I thought it better to make this statement now at the conclusion of the investigation rather than in order that Mr. Ayeard might receive the benefit of his public trial. The ultimate tribunal of course is the public and they will be the final judge as for me I have no hesitation in affirming the correctness of my judgment."

"It is surprising to me that any should suggest that a man of Mr. Ayeard's character would come and commit perjury and get out of a superior officer to borrow money from his subordinate."

"I think it is disapproved that agreement was ever entered into between Mr. Ayeard and Hinch Solomon to share in the money which the latter received from the Detective agency. It is established to my satisfaction that Mr. Ayeard never entered into any hope of share in the money and I find that he never was an agreement that he should share. I also find it was contemplated by Hinch and Solomon to give Ayeard one third of the money which was probably non-existent under the impression, Solomon had had his own reason for not deceiving his chief. I find that an agreement was made to Mr. Ayeard and he refused to the any part of the money."

"I entirely discredit the evidence of Duncanson as to the manner in which he said he employed Solomon Hinch. I think that it was a clever thing for Ayeard to allow to work with Duncanson's agency, enabled them to allow his men to make men in illicit liquor business through conductors on trains. This is nothing unusual in allowing him to do his work."

"I accept the statement of Solo that the money was intended to be kept together. The money was deposited with an agreement with Ayeard, with a clear understanding that there was nothing in the statement that the fees were deposited for Ayeard's benefit. Ayeard had told them they would not take the money and personally made a present of it to Solo and Hinch. It is suggested that Solo got his share. No doubt, what happened the money was withdrawn from the account under circumstances to which Ayeard testified."

"Then regarding the $400 do I find there was a division made why in name of common sense didn't Ayeard withdraw his share and put it in private account?"

"Two sums were returned by Ayeard to the special accounts after the explosion in the house. It has been conceivable that Ayeard, if he was wrong would have put the money back after the Dewar charges. suggestion of perjury that Mr. Kay tried to impress on me is surprising to me. The whole charges are rejected out of whole cloth. Su
