Were in the Thickest of the Shelling,

But Fortunately They Had No Casualties-91 British Prison ers Rescued on Sunday by a Brave and Brilliant Action-Boers Concentrating Around Bloemfontein-

Mateking All Right on March 20.

"Bloemfontein, April 2.-The Canadians returned to Bloemfontein today from Bushman's Kop, where, as part of Col. Smith-Dorrien's brigade, they had been ordered to the support of the column under Col. Broadwood. There were no casualties to the Canadian troops in the fighting at Bushman's Kop, although we were in the thick of the shelling, which was continued between the British and Boer batteries after the ambuscade.

"The Canadians are now back in their old camp, outside of Bloemfontein. The defenses of the town are being greatly strengthened, and the railway line to the south is strongly guarded. "It is reported that a very large force of the enemy is advancing from the north. Whether this is true or not, it is evident the burghers have taken heart with their recent successes, and are once more trying to assume the aggressive. "We expect some severe fighting

on the British side. CLEMENTS NEAR BLOEMFONTEIN London, April 5.—The Bloemfontein correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing, says: Gen. Clement's force traversed Petrusberg Saturday morning and is now encamped a day's march from here. London, Thursday, April 5-5 a.m.-It looks today as though the Boers had conceived the audacious plan of at-tempting to invest Lord Roberts at Bloemfontein, or, at least, to endeavor to delay his northward advance by harassing the British lines of communication. On his side, Lord Roberts is concentrating his forces and preparing to take every advantage of the bold but risky tactics of the enemy. He is not likely to strike at any of their forces until he is certain of delivering crushing blow.

TO SURROUND THE TOWN. A Bloemfontein dispatch, dated the 4th, says: There are numerous indications that in pursuance of their boast that they will recapture Bloemfontein the Boers are trying to surround the town and cut our line of communication to the south. Large forces are reported east and south, which are supposed to be making for the railway. They still hold Thaha Nchu and the waterworks. Lord Roberts is completing his concentration. Four 4.7 guns and four mayal 12-pounders have been mounted on kopjes commanding the plain. The cavalry camp has been moved to a better position northeast of the city. Special pre-cautions are being taken to protect the railway southward. The railway to the north is in possession of the Boers as far as Karoo Siding. MAFEKING SAFE. special dispatch announces that Mafeking was still besieged, but safe, on March 27.

MORE CASUALTIES. London, April 4.-A further list of the casualties sustained by the British officers at Kooru (Karee Spruit), March 31, adds eleven missing and one wounded, making the total thus far AN UNPOPULAR PREMIER.

Details received of the scenes on Tuesday, when Premier Schreiner encountered an English demonstration, show the premier, fearing personal violence, sought refuge in a restau-rant. He was hooted and tried to reach Parliament House, protected by police. The people shouted "Traitor!" but he succeeded in reaching the ## Lord Rosebery.

Edinburgh, April 4.-Lord Rosebery, in a speech in this city last evening. said: "Although the prospects of the war in South Africa are brigher we must remember that we have still an arduous, although probably a prosperous and victorious task before us. I do not desire to touch upon any of the political aspects of the war, but rather to remember that we have gained at honfe. In the first place I think the countless incidents in which the Queen has identified herself with the people in the matter of the shamrock, in her visits to London and to her majesty handed Lady Roberts a liftle package, with the injunction not to open it until she had returned home.

Montreal, April 5.—The Star's South | an object of reverence and affection, African correspondent cables as follows: "Even if the war shall as follows: "Even if the war shall result in great extension of our empire, all our sacrifices will be in vain if we are too swollen by the pride of triumph to profit by the sad lessons of November, December and January, and to revise in the times of peace in the light of what we learned in those dreary, dismal months."

Lord Rosebery, referring to the "desire of Great Britain's continental enemies to stamp out this pestilential country," said he thought her enemies had failed to grasp what a free trade empire meant to their merchants, or how important to the world was the fact that whenever the balance lay between peace and war Great Britain was always on the side of peace. His lordship concluded with the significant expression, coming from a statesman whose return to power is probable, that he hoped before long that he would see the empire united, not merely in sentiment, but in constitution

The Boers.

Ottawa, April 5 .- W. Finlayson Johnston, late of Johannesburg, is here. He is a relative of Edward Seybold, with whom he is staying for a few days. He is an old Montrealer, who, prior to the declaration of war by the Boers, had lived for six years in Johannesburg. On leaving Johannesburg on Oct. 11, along with other British residents, Mr. Johnston went to Delagoa Bay, sailed thence for Durban, went to Ladysmith and acted as one of the smith, and acted as one of the British ambulance corps after the battle of Elandslaagte. A few days later he had to leave Ladysmith, along with other civilians, at the commence-ment of the siege, and went to Durban, where he remained until he recently sailed for England and Can-Mr. Johnston, in Johannesburg. was accountant with Drs. Davis and Rogers, the leading medical firm there. At the outbreak of the war Dr. Davis went into the Imperial Light Horse the first volunteer corps raised, which has since lost over 300 of its 900 men, and Dr. Rogers joined the South African Light Horse. Like hundreds of other British residents of Johan-nesburg, Mr. Johnston was turned out of Johannesburg with nothing but the clothes he stood in, by the Boers, last October, together with all other British subjects who refused to take up arms in the Boer defense. They made the trip to Delagoa, most of them in open coal cars. It rained most of the time. In the bottoms of some of the cars the water stood two or three inches deep upon arriving at Delagoa. "Don't talk to me of the hu-manity of the Boers," said Mr. John-"they sent hundreds of women and children off in these open cars, while their own troops took covered ones. On that journey there were several women who had children born in the rain. All the babies died, and some of the mothers." Mr. Johnston said Johannesburg people did not see much of the Boers prior to the war, although feeling their unjust government on every hand. But there were few living in Johannesburg itself. Those who came into the market to sell their produce were fine men, physically, but to all appearances born lazy and tired."

REVENGEFUL REITZ.

Cape Town, April 5.-Considerable anxiety is felt by the uitlander com-munity here. A trustworthy inform-ant, who has just arrived from the Transvaal, states that before March 23 drill borings for dynamite were made in the shafts of several of the mines, and that similar preparations have been made for destroying the machinery all over the Rand, by direct orders of Reitz, countersigned by Kleynhans, the minister of mines. President Kruger and Commandant Botha are said to be opposed to the sian attache that the English would find Johannesburg as bare as it was when they left in 1881. DELAGOA BAY RAILWAY. Lisbon, April 4. - In the House of Peers Senor Birao announced that the Lorenzo Marquez Railway (Delagoa Bay Railway), would remain the property of the Portuguese Govern-scheme, but Reitz is madly bent upon it. It is reported that he told the Rus-

HID IN THE GRASS. A dispatch to the New York Tribune from London says: Further details of the British reverse near the Bloemfonten waterworks tend to show that greater cohesion exists among the burghers of the Free State than had been imagined. The Standard's correspondent illustrates the "slimness" the Boers by mentioning that they con-cealed themselves in the long grass, and further deceived Col. Broadwood's troops by deputing some of their num-ber to appear unarmed, as merely uninterested spectators. The Boers were at first forced back by the fire of the artillery, but were quickly reinforced and resumed the offensive, pursuing the British for some distance. THE QUEEN'S GRACIOUS ACT. London, April 5.—It is related that just before Lady Roberts left the Queen on the occasion of her recent visit before departing for South Africa, her majesty handed Lady Roberts a

The contract will amount to nearly half a million

A substantial sum was added to the hospital ship Maine fund by a concert given at the Crystal Palace, London, England, by the pupils of the Normal College for the Blind, of which an Am-erican, Dr. Campbell, is the founder and present principal. The pupils gave a remarkably varied programme surprisingly well. Madame Albani also volunteered her services, and sang several times. Queen Victoria and Princess Louise gave their names as patronesses, and all the well-known Americans in London attended the performance.

Distinguished Guests Attended Wednesday's Dinner.

Mr. Chamberlain Denies That He Offer -Death of Nubar Pasha.

London, April 5.-There was a large attendance at a most successful dinner at the Canada Club, held at the Albion Tavern last night. Lord Strathcona presided, and among those who responded to the toasts were the Marquis of Hertford, who has just returned from Canada, and who has a son serving in Strathcona's Horse; Lord Norton, who conducted the Dominion bill through the House of Commons 33 years ago; Mr. Austen Chamberlain, son of the colonial secretary; Major-General Henderson; Mr. Edmund Burton, the Australian federation delegate; Sir Walter Peace, agentgeneral for Natal. In all 150 persons were present. In the discussion in the House of Commons on Mr. Hederewick's resolu-tion suggesting direct representation by the colonies, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain gave a final quietus to the story that he had offered preferential trade to Canada. He said: "I have never done anything of the sort. It is one of those mistakes of which I am so largely the victim, and which, perhaps, it would hardly be worth while to contradict until the occasion becomes ur-the Would-Be Assassin Speedily Arrested-Russia Balked in Her Designs on China.

Brussels, April 5 .- The would-be assassin of the Prince of Wales jumped upon the footboard of the prince's saloon car, as the train was starting, and fired into the car, aiming at the prince. The miscreant is a tinsmith named Sipido, a resident of Brussels, 16 years old. His pockets were found to be full of Anarchist literature. He fired two shorts at the prince. The bigs of the train. Later he entered a neighboring cafe and loaded his revolver in the lavatory. Sipido refused to give the name of his companion, who, he said, was a young man, some years of the train. and fired into the car, aiming at the fired two shots at the prince. The Princess of Wales and others were in the car, but no one was injured. When examined by the railroad station officials Sipido declared he intended to kill the Prince of Wales, that he did not regret his action, and that he was ready to do it again if given a chance to do so.

Hearing the shots, the station master rushed to the scene and knocked down the would-be assassin's arm as he prepared to fire a third shot, and a number of persons threw them-the confusion, a second man, who was quite innocent, was seized, roughly handled and beaten. After the prince had ascertained that the man who fired the shots had been arrested, he declared himself and princess uninjured, and the train sipido subsequently said he wanted to kill the Prince of Wales "because he caused thousands of men to be slaughtered in South Africa."

Intense excitement prevailed for the moment, as it was feared the prince had been hit. The railway carriagedoor was hastily thrown open, and great relief was felt when the prince himself appeared at the window unhurt. Both the prince and the princess had a very narrow escape. An eye-witness says that the train was already in motion, and when the engineer heard the pistol he shut off the steam, applied the brakes and stopped the train. As the train restarted, after Sipido's arrest, the public loudly cheered the prince, who acknowledged the demonstration from the car window. The prince appeared quite unaffected by the incident. He asked whether the revolver was loaded, and on being informed in the affirmative, smiled, and begged that the culprit might not be treated too severe-

THE CULPRIT.

The police on duty took Sipido in charge. The latter appeared proud of his exploit, and seemed quite calm.

An examination of Sipido's revolver owed that four chambers had been discharged, but that two of the cartridges had missed fire. Sipido told the prities that he lived on the Rue de la Forge, at Saint Gillies, two miles south of Brussels.

At the examination before the magistrate, it was ascertained that Sipido had purchased a penny ticket in order to reach the departure platform, where he walked up and down awhile at the same time that the prince was prom-enading. Persons who attended the Melson du Peuple say they heard Sip-ido declare that if the Prince of Wales came to Brussels he ought to have a bullet in his head, and they also heard him offer to bet 5 francs that he would fire at the prince. Sipido appeared at the station in his best clothing, having explained to his father that he was going to seek employment.

The attack is condemned even at the bor headquarters here and at the daison du Peuple, where the extreme carchists meet. A leading member the young Socialist guard was loud in his denunciation of Sipido's action. Patriote, in a special edition, denounces the attempt as "cowardly and senseless." and says: "It will create general indignation, and the worst enemy of Belgium could not have dealt her a fouler blow."

THE FEELING IN LONDON. London, April 5.—The news of the at-tempt on the life of the Prince of Wales created the most intense excitement, and the most officer indignation among all classes. The Prince and Princes of Wales started for Copenhagen yesterday for the purpose of attending the celebration of King Christian's birthday, which occurs April 8. The fact that the attempted assassination occurred in a city where Dr. Leyds, the diplomatic agent, makes his head-quarters, was generally taken to indicate that the would-be assassin was a Boer sympathizer, and this so inflamed passions that the most bitter invectives were hurled at the Boers and everything connected with them.

The government was wholly ignorant The government was wholly ignorant of the attempt on the life of the Prince of Wales until the press dispatches were communicated to the foreign

Some fears were expressed as to the effect which the occurrence may have in Dublin. It was pointed out that such attempts are contagious. On the other hand, it was held that the only effect would be to increase the deter-mination of the Irish that no untoward incident should mar the success of the Queen's visit.

The news of the attempt on the life of the Prince of Wales was immediately telegraphed to Queen Victoria.

A PREMEDITATED ACT. Brussels, April 5.—The attempt at the assassination of the Prince of Wales was the sole topic of conversa-tion on the streets and in the cafes and theaters last evening. Regret and indignation was manifested, and satisfaction at the failure of the criminal attempt was unanimously expressed.

The Patriote says: "Investigation proves premeditation. The interrogation of the prisoner lasted four hours, and it shows that he was instigated by an unknown that he was instigated. and it shows that he was instigated by an unknown person, who persuaded him to buy a pistol on Sunday in the old market for 3 francs. Accompanied by this person, Slpido went on Tuesday to a meeting in the Flemish Theater, and then to Maison du Peuple, where they had drinks. Then they went to a wine shop, where Sipldo wrote a letter, saying he had obtained employment. He then went to the railway station, and asked the hour of the arrival of the train. Later he entered a

The magistrates are convinced that Sipido does not tell the whole truth, and wishes to save someone. Sipido passed the afternoon in the Chamber of Representatives. When he went to the station he asked the first passes of Representatives. When he went to the station he asked the first person he met where the prince was. The person answered: "That gentleman with the hat on." At the same instant the prince took a seat and a servant handed him a cup of tea. Sipido wait-ed until the servant departed, and then pushed towards the prince's carriage rushed towards the prince's carriage. It is believed that this event will Leopold, who is now at Wiesbaden.

Dublin Wild With Delight Over the Queen's Visit.

A Warm Welcome Awaited the Royal Visitor Hverywhere-No Incident Marred the Joyous Occasion.

Dublin, April 5.-Yesterday a slight shower marred for the moment the prospects for the day, but it was soon over, and the weather remained splendid. No sooner had the Queen arrived at the vice-regal lodge and lunched, than she drove out in Phoenix Park, being much cheered. It is understood that she expressed herself as wonderfully pleased with the reception, and as having suffered no fatigue. Dublin

WILD WITH DELIGHT over the excellence with which the arrangements were carried out. Not one black flag or disloyal object marked the line of march, and the popular enthusiasm buried all political feeling for the time. Before landing, the Queen, who looked remarkably well, asked for a bunch of shamrocks. They were secured, and throughout the day she wore them pinned upon her breast.

PROUD DAY FOR IRISHMEN. The Duke of Abercorn, premier peer of Ireland, who with the rest of the castle party went to the vice-regal lodge after the royal party arrived, and wrote his name in the visiting-book, said: "It is the most wonderful, chiv-alrous and spontaneous exhibition I have ever seen, and I am immensely proud of being an Irishman. Neither the weather nor the crowds could have been more propitions. The demonstra-tions show that despite all political differences Ireland is a loyal portion of the empire." These sentiments are echoed by all the Irish nobility, who are gathered in Dublin in numbers never seen before.

NO DISTURBANCE. From the pier at Kingstown to the royal residence at Phoenix Park is about nine miles. Crowds lined the entire distance, but there was practically no disturbance, the police and military preserving order with less effort than would have been necessary in London. Thanks to brisk wind and sunshine, the forests of bunting had regained freshness after yesterday's soaking.

A most interesting ceremony took place at the city limits, where an ancient gate and castle towers had been reproduced for the occasion. On the city side of the gate were the lord mayor and council in their scarlet robes, the mace-bearers in blue, silver, and several hundreds of the best known Irish, who were provided with seats on stands. The Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers lined the road as a guard of honor, while behind them were cor-dons of police, lancers and militia. sten the return to Brussels of King Thousands of spectators eagerly awaited the coming of the Queen.
QUAINT CEREMONY.

Shortly before her arrival, the pursuivant-at-arms, wearing a gorgeous cape of royal heraldry, galloped up to the lord mayor and asked permission for the entrance of the Queen. Gravely. and in quaintly worded terms of courtesy, the lord mayor granted the request. Back galloped the pursuivant-at-arms, the gate banging behind him. whole scene was a counterpart of a sixteenth century play. Then from the ramparts of the gate came a fanfare of trumpets. The Queen was in Out upon a scarlet cloth, laid Raleigh-like upon the muddy road, stepped the lord mayor and the corpora-tion, their robes glowing in the bright sunshine and their wands and maces flashing brilliantly. The gate creaked open. The Earl of Denbigh rode through, and then came the Life Guards. Ireland had not seen Life Guards for over 30 years, and many were the curious comments as they galloped past. Behind them were carriage containing the home secretary, Sir Mat-thew White-Ridley, the Duchess of Connaught and her daughters, accompanied by members of the court and attended by mounted equerries, and then more Life Guards.

ENTHUSIASM BROKE LOOSE. Finally, amid almost perfect silence save for the echo of cheers and cries of "God Save the Queen" from outside the city limits, came the Queen her-self. Opposite her in the carriage sat Princess Christian and Princess Henry of Battenberg. The moment her ma-jesty passed the gate, enthusiasm broke loose, bands played, men cheered shout-ed and sang, all bareheaded, and the women waved their handkerchiefs and struggled to get a better view, many of them even weeping. Beside the Queen's carriage rode the Duke of Connaught, commander of the forces in

FRANTIC CHEERING.

During the five minutes when the Queen was receiving and answering the address of welcome, there was scarcely a lull in the frantic cheering from the crowds. Frequently her majesty nodded. In fact, she scarcely ceased nodding during the entire nine-mile drive. Princess Christian also took a prominent part in the ceremony, helping the Queen to take the sword, keys and oasket containing the address; for despite her ability to go through these functions, it was evident that the Queen was really very frail and weak.

After the lady mayoress had presented a bouquet to the Queen the pro-cession moved on. Behind her majesty more Life Guards and Dragoons, and finally the Inniskillings, who were loudly cheered as they moved into line. It was a pageant such as had never been seen in Ireland before. Compared with the Queen's recent visit to London, when she was practically unattended, the scene offered

A VIVID CONTRAST. Deafening and continuous cheers marked every stage of the route, Dur-ing the evening the Queen, through Sir Arthur Biggs, her private secre-tary, sent the lord mayor a message

tary, sent the lord mayor a message saying that she was not over-fatigued by the morning's drive, and had been deeply touched and gratified by the welcome she had received. The message concluded as follows: "Her majesty looks forward with much pleasure to her stay in Ireland."

Later, through Sir Matthew White-Ridley and Earl Cadogan, the Queen officially conveyed to the lord mayor the following: "Convey to the lord mayor the following: "Convey to the lord mayor the following: "Convey to the lord mayor and citizens of Dublin the sincere thanks of the Queen for the loyalty and enthusiasm of the greeting which her majesty received during her progress through the beautifully decorated route. The Queen is happy to be once more among her Irish people, from whom she has gained and received so warm a welcome."

The Queen was not informed of the assault on the prince, the dispatches to her majesty on the subject being held over until Thursday morning.

Old London Outdone.

BY DUBLIN. Dublin, April 5 .- Queen Victoria yesterday was received with an enthusiasm exceeding that which marked her recent appearance in London, and which wellnigh eclipsed the vaunted glories of the jubilee. The lord-lieutenglories of the jubilee. The lord-lieutenant had been taken at his word, and the whole country has risen superior to political prejudice. No single circumstance marred the royal entry into Ireland's capital—in fact, the most optimistic loyalists explained themselves surprised at the warmth of the greeting. The extent of Dublin's orderliness can be gauged from the fact that the police made no arrests during the entire day; and, although about 1,000,000 persons crowded the narrow streets, only a couple of accidents occurred.

Until midnight the crowds surged through the thoroughfares watching through the thoroughfares watching the illuminations; but by 1 a.m. Dublin was as quiet as any country town.
Along the line of march from Kingstown to the viceregal lodge were stretched

SEVEN THOUSAND TROOPS, chiefly militia. These had little to do, chiefly militia. These had little to do, and instead of creating the hostility that the military sometimes create, they were at various points the subjects of wholesale kissing and hugging by the women, who, after catching a glimpse of the royal procession, could find no better way to express their enthusiasm and excitement.

Nine-tenths of those in Dublin yesterday had never seen the Queen before, and they characteristically expressed themselves upon her appear-pressed themselves upon her appear-ance, as "My! but she's grand!" When she passed all bared their heads.

A GREAT DAY FOR IRELAND. On every side it was admitted to be a great day for Ireland, the Loyalists saying under their breath: "Pity it did not come sooner"; and the Nationalists partaking sufficiently of the prevailing authorities to be sooned by the sound of the prevailing of the prevailing authorities to be sooned by the sound of the sou ing enthusiasm to subordinate political considerations, which officially, and by the Queen's own declarations, had no part in the greatest day in the history

LONDON TIMES' COMMENT. London, April 5.-The Times, com-menting editorially upon the reception her majesty has met with in Ireland, says: "The hearty and generous welcome, unbroken by any discordant voice, which the Queen has received in Dublin, stands out all the more conspicuously in view of the dastardly at-tempt upon the life of the Prince of Wales. The Irish people will rejoice that political passion does not take the form of continental anarchism. In their hearts they will be glad to know that the evil traditions of former days have gradually died out. While venomous denunciations of Great Britain are being spread broadcast over the conlinent, it would perhaps be prudent and dignified for those in the highest places in the state to refrain from putting themselves in the way of insult or something worse." These sentiments of the Times represent pretty accurate-ly the tone of the editorials generally.

Others are the outcome of years of study and a real con-ception of the tastes, and needs, and ception of the tastes, and needs, and instincts of the musician. Lord Roberts arranged for the occupancy of one wing of the sanitarium for the use of wounded British officers. London People Are Face to Face With Facts.

When a resident of this city comes forward and makes a public state-ment, unhesitatingly indorsing the workings of "The Little Conqueror," no better proof can be had.

The timid and doubtful, the scoffer and the skeptic are brought face to face with facts which cannot be disproven. The testimony of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them and told here in their own words is the positive evidence of merit that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the history of this case: Mrs. Deven, a middle-aged lady living at No. 59 Cartwright street gave the following statement to our representative:-"I have had kidney disease off and on for a number of years past. At times I would have great weakness in my back, accompanied by pain between my shoulders. No remedies I took seemed to be of much benefit to me. At last I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and I have no hesitancy in saying that they did all that is claimed for them. They strengthened my back, took away the pain, and started my kidneys acting naturally.

If others who are afflicted with kid-ey trouble would only take Doan's Kidney Pilis at the outset, I believe they would be saved many dollars and a great deal of needless suffer-

Work and Worry.

It has been well said that it is not work, but worry, that kills men, and there never was a time when the saying had more point than in our somewhat feverish, fretful age. We are told that in some parts of the Englishspeaking world, clubs have been formed to combine against worry, but this fretfulness, which wears away the nervous energy, is rather a peculiar enemy to be fought by clubs and pledges. Indeed, we venture to say that the man Who can deliberately join a society of abstainers from worry is already on the high road, if not to salvation, at least to some measure of safety, for he has recognized the nearness of a subtle toe, and has promised to be on his ruard. In this case, too, to be forewarned should mean to be forearmed. During the last few months the British people have had a worrying time. The war which began with blunders and disasters worked upon the nerves of a great many people, who would not be ordinarily classed among nervous folks: Some got into such a state that they scarcely dared to open a newspaper. Well, this anxiety over the national welfare, and concerning great issues, in which the precious lives of our fellow-men are involved, is perhaps more dignified than being consumed by small personal worries. But even then the penalty has to be paid. The English doctors tell us that there was very much sickness in the great city of London that was brought on or aggravated by the fact that so many people had their physical tone lowered by such a period of worry. It is wonderful the amount of work that a man with very limited strength can get through by going on steadily and having now and then a healthful change of work. The busy and really successful man must learn that if his life is to be without rest, it must also be without hurry. There must be me-. thod and arrangement and a chance for varied faculties to play,

There are many people to whom the advice not to worry sounds like a counsel of perfection. They are harddriven, they live their lives under feverish conditions, they have many cares, and to meet all obligations means the straining of every nerve. For some in such positions we have great pity, and we feel that it is the great problem that confronts our Christianity and civilization is to see that our social conveniences and comforts are not produced at the cost of grinding slavery for the great masses of men. etimes labor is regarded as a curse We know, of course, that idleness is greater curse, but the way in which some have to toil to maintain a bare existence has very much the appearance of a curse. Still we stand by our original statement that, as a rule, useless worry is more wearing in its effects than useful work. But the worker as the worthy woman who rules the to maintain his strength must learn to do his work in such a way that it does not burn quickly into the very nerve and fiber of his soul. There must be a change of spiritual atmosphere one day in the week, and there must be moments of recreation, when a man studies for at least a little while the art of forgetting, and loses the feeling that the world will stop if he does not chase himself to death.

The Sin of Witchcraft.

Kipling's article, under this strange heading, is a remarkable production You cannot say that it is sensational unless that charge can be brought against the title; but there is a strange, subtle power in the style, and, while strange things are said, one can feel quivering behind them a real of responsibility. The sin against which he aims his shaft is evidently disloyalty; and we must admit that when men have been fairly treated rebellion is both a crime and a sin. We find here the question re-echoed that Steevens also found quivering on the lips of suffering men. "Does it pay to be loyal?" Loyalty is something deeper than a question of payment, but yet there seems to be something wrong if the lovalists suffer pain and loss, and rebels, with blood amon their hands, come out smiling on the top. Difficult as the circumstances are, delicate as the problem is, there te at least some improvement, and there & not quite so much likelihood that men will again mistake magnantrnity for weakness. 'The Cape Town clubs are lnot quite so ful of members who personally shot Cooley at Majuba, and two years ago there were several. In many ways, not to be too optimistic. It seems as though there is growing, if not toleration, at least, a certain respect for Englishmen." Cape Town has certainly had a remarkable experience, and there is no wonder that we are told "The first fine careless rapture of the war died out long ago. It takes something very special in the way of troops to stir Cape Town nowadays. Dimly and distantly Cape Town realizes that that thing called the British Government is now in earnest."

There is much in this article upon which we would like to comment, but we must now confine ourselves to Mr. Kipling's reference to the impression likely to be made upon the soldiers from the colonies. It is a good specimen of his way of looking straight at the facts and expressing the essential point. He says "a few of them are now nursing wounds which they owe to early and accurate information received by the enemy from the registered voters of the border districts." "What the colony thinks of them as terday. The small insurance of $1,250 they pour north in the laboring train, will not begin to cover the loss. It is or, all new to Adderley street, buy the South African News, in mistake for the Cape Times, is a matter of no importance. What they think of her matters a great deal not today, but the day after tomorrow." His description of the colonists shows that he understands their life, and has rightly taken their measure, and we must feel that there is sorrow as well as indignation in his tones as he expresses the fear that Cape Colony may, through the disloyalty of some, lose caste among the members of the Imperial family.

"Do you see, therefore, that the long-enduring scorn, the terse, striking contempt, the happy epithet spat out in a dusty camp, to turn up double-leaded in a journal of 80,000 circulation on the other side of the world, will not come from England? The colony will be branded by her own brethren, by the open-air men who voted regularly since their mafority, and who own the houses they live in. She dare not say that they have been bought by the capitalists. influenced by the press or prejudiced by their insular training. It is her own caste in Punchayet who will strip the colony of her caste. She will be left with her climate and her geographical advantages, but her place among our peoples will go over to little Natal, while her honor is trailed round the world at the heels of these returning horsemen. This is unjustbitterly and cruelly unjust."

This is perhaps sufficient to show that the article is in Kipling's finer, more subdued style, and that the conflicting forces now at work in South Africa make the work of the statesman even more difficult than that of the soldier.

Coal mining is developing rapidly in this great Dominion of ours. In Nova Scotia both the areas worked and the number of mines show a great increase. The coal areas of Canada are estimated at 972,000 square miles, not including areas known but as yet undeveloped in the far north.

The Presbyterian Review, of Toronto, is out with a new dress of type, and is very much improved in many respects. Under the new order of things Rev. Dr. Hossack is president and managing editor, and Mr. Alex. Fraser business manager. If the Review can only keep up the gait it has now struck it will prove an influential and very readable paper.

of the sincere bond of loyalty and sympathy existing between Queen Victoria and her subjects, says: "However much experiments, the company procured the services of expert chemists, Boers, and however much we may hold our form of government above a monarchy, we must all admire the unanimity with which the British people honor their Queen sovereign. And at the same time cherish the hope that so long as monarchy prevails among any section of the Anglo-Saxon race, it will always find a sovereign who is as close to the hearts of the people destinies of the British Empire."

A Fire in Toronto Does $40,000 Damage.

Kansas City Convention Hall Destroyed in Half an Hour-Other Conflagrations. Toronto, April 5 .- Shortly before 7 last evening fire broke out in an unoccupied room on the second floor of the Bryant Press Co,'s premises, Nos. 44 and 46 Richmond street west, and spread to the upper floors of the building and to the two adjacent ones. After two hours of steady work the flames were confined to the two upper stories of 44 to 46, and to the top flat of No. 48. The lower flats of both buildings, however, were deluged with water, while in 44 and 46 the upper floors went crashing through, destroying the plant and machinery. The oc-cupants were—in 44 and 46, the Bryant Company; Clatworthy & Co., fixtures and forms; Keen's Manufacturing Company, blouses; and the Imperial Manufacturing Company, overalls. No. 48 the occupants were the Hill Printing Company, and Eakins and Ferris, photographic supplies. The total damage is estimated at $40,000, the heaviest losers being the Bryant Company, whose bindery was on the third floor and typesetting machines on the first. The bindery is completely burned out and the type-setters badly damaged. The presses were saved. About 300 work people will be thrown out for a few days.

Kansas City, Mo., April 4.—Convention Hall, the mammoth auditorium, in which the Democratic convention was to be held on July 4, was burned to the ground in less than half an hour today by a fire that started in the building at 1:10 p.m. Within a few minutes after the fire caught the whole structure, taking in half a block each way on Thirteenth and Central streets, was a mass of flames, and twenty minutes after the first alarm was turnutes after the first alarm was turned in, the great roof fell in with a crash. At 1:30 the fire jumped two ways, attacking a half block of three-story residences in the rear of the hall on Twelfth street, and across Central street, where it seized upon the second Presbyterian Church, one of the finest edifices in the city, and the Lathrop public school.

Of the Forest and Mineral Resources in Northern Ontario.

Mr F. H. Clergue Tells of Algoma's Industrial Progress. Before the Toronto Board of Trade-Richness and Great Extent of Ontario's Natural Resources.

[Toronto Globe.] The varied richness and great extent of Ontario's natural resources have been most interestingly demonstrated by Mr. F. H. Clergue in an address before the Toronto Board of Trade. The enterprises with which Mr. Ciergue is connected, and which promise soon to build up a populous center of industry at Sault Ste. Marie, could scarcely have developed in any other part of the con-tinent, and it would not be an exaggeration to question the possibility of such a development in any other part of the world. The first enterprise was a water-power scheme, which was to at-tract various power-using industries. The invention of electrical transmission has made water-power available for many uses, and the great amount of energy going to waste at the outlet of Lake Superior attracted the attention of a number of American investors. The necessary works were constructed for the development of water-power, but offers to lease factory sites and supply power produced no satisfactory re-sponse. The failure of patronage led the water power company to cast about for some method of profitably using the power they had developed. After considering the pine, which Mr. Clergue regards as constituting only 1 per cent of Ontario's forest resources, and the hardwoods, which were not conveniently situated, it was decided to utilize the power in the manufacture of ground pulp from spruce. The mill, started on a small scale, was increased to a capacity of 150 tons per day. dry the pulp for shipment necessitated the construction of new machinery, and for that purpose a foundry and ma-chine shop were built. The next en-terprise was the manufacture of sulbusiness manager. If the Review can only keep up the gait it has now struck it will prove an influential and yery readable paper.

The Pittsburg Dispatch, in speaking of the sincere bond of loyalty and sympathy existing between Queen Victoria and her subjects, says: "However much speaking terprise was the manufacture of sulphide pulp, a more fibrous grade, necessary for paper making. The cost of bringing sulphur and other necessary chemicals to the pulp mills was a serious drawback, and efforts were made to induce the managers of the nickel mines of Sudbury to save the sulphur which was wasted in the roasting process. Not discouraged by the unfavorable results of former experiments. attitude in her present war with the who devised a scheme for saving the sulphur formerly wasted in the nickel ore. The next move was the purchase of an ore deposit for $100,000, and the development of a mine, the ore being roasted and the sulphur saved for use at the pulp mills. There were still some by-products to utilize and some chemicals to obtain, and the ore was found to contain a combination of nickel suitable for the manufacture of nickel steel. Some of the ore was found to contain copper, and to separate it a refining plant was established with adequate capacity.

The manufacture of nickel steel required a supply of iron, and it was believed that this metal did not exist in large quantities north of Lake Super-tor. But, having already found so much in Algoma, Mr. Clergue and his associates had confidence in the resources of the district, and the result of prospecting expeditions showed their con-fidence to have been wisely placed. They found a deposit of iron ore containing several million tons. To reach this iron deposit and to increase the supply of pulpwood it is proposed to extend the company's railway, the Algoma Central, to Michipicoten, some 200 miles in all. It is intended to have this line completed in two years. The nickel and iron have been brought to the attention of the Krupp firm, and a market with the famous gunmakers is assured. To utilize some of the byproducts and to procure the alkalis necessary in the pulp and reduc-tion works, it was decided to establish a chemical works, and to undertake the manufacture of bleaching powder. This important product is used in treating the sulphide unique feature is that all these industries are supplied by material

HALF BLIND FROM ECZEMA

Three Children Afflicted. Whole Bodies and Faces Sore, Raw and Bloody Mass.

Tried Doctor after Doctor for 20 Months Without Slightest Relief. Crying Constantly.

Couldn't Sleep. Tried CUTICURA. First Application Gave Relief. Cured in Fourteen Days.

My second child got eczema when seven months old. Three months later my first child got it, and following him, the last one, two ars old, fell a victim. For twenty months ey suffered fearful agony. Their whole bod-s, especially their faces, were so sore and ies, especially their faces, were so sore and raw that the little ones were blind half the time. No words can describe the suffering of my second child, whose whole body was one bloody mass. He was constantly crying, could get no sleep, and he actually did not look human. I tried doctor after doctor, but none afforded the slightest relief. I decided to try CUTICURA. The first application brought relief in each case, and after fourteen days' treatment with CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA (ointment), the worst case was cured, and the whole neighborhood is surprised at the wonderful effect of CUTICURA. I continue the use of CUTICURA SOAP for the children, a it makes the little ones look splendid sociated with Mr. Clergue are New York and Philadelphia capitalists. They have already spent some $5,000,000 in developing the various industries they have undertaken, and it is estimated that they will spend about $20,000,000 in five years. Another feature of these enterprises is the cash basis on which they have been launched. The railway has not been bonded, nor has it been helped by the promiscuous sale of share central All the other enterprises or other features of the glant enterprises have been established in the same way, and the absence of bonds and floating capital speaks well for the confidence of the promoters in the resources of the district. The lesson impressed by this development is the great value or our natural resources and the folly of being in haste to alienate them. If we have the wealth in the forest, in mineral deposits, in the wasted energy of great waterfails, or even in agricultural land, it is certain to be developed as the world's demands and the discoveries of science make such development remunerative. A large industrial population will soon be gathered at Sault Ste. Marie as the result of the varied in attural resources of the district and natural resources of capital. All the other enterprises or other features of the giant enterprise have been established in the same way, produced in the district. The only important ingredient not obtained in Algoma is salt, and that is a product of Southwestern Ontario. The men associated with Mr. Clergue are New York Philadelphia capitalists. They means of securing reciprocal advantages. Already there is at Sault Ste.

Marie the largest pulp-producing works in the world, and a complete organization of many important industries, by which all by-products are utilized, and the advantages of nature's bounties retained within the province.

Local Market.

London, Thursday, April 5. Marketing was an agreeable occupation this morning, and a fairly large number of purchasers found their way to the square. Although unrivaled weather prevailed, the condition of the roads had a counteracting influence upon the attendance of farmers. Generally speaking, the supplies were not large, with the exception possibly of maple syrup, the price of which has not dropped below $1 per gallon. It is enticipated that it will be offered in smaller quantities this year than has been usual, on account of the lateness of the gasson. Purchasers who were the season. Purchasers who were looking for poultry had no abundance of choice, the supply being small and prices unchanged. There was the usual large amount of meat offered. A number of butchers attended from Ingersoil, Woodstock and St. Thomas. During the past week the local retail trade in butter has not been brisk, notwithstanding the lower prices, al-though in wholesale markets it has been moving easier at the decline. In all probability there will now be a gradual lowering in the price of butter. There is little doubt but that the price will be 12c per lb wholesale, and about 14c retail within three or four weeks. Eggs are none too plentiful, although greatly more so this week than last. The price will rise, in all probability, and there will be no doubt about the Easter supply being too

In a few minutes the mother returned and inquired for the baby, and when search was made she discovered its clothes in the ecistern. What a Bane-But Dr. Agnew's Oint ment is a Sure Cure.

Chas. H. Lilly, 412 Luzerne avenue, W. Pittston, Pa., writes: "I am a barber and meet many people troubled with pimples. I have tried many preparations claiming to cure such, and without success, until I used Dr. Agnew's Continent. Within the last few weeks I have used it on three very stubborn cases, and in each case it has made a cure; has cleaned off all the pimples and blotches, and left the skin clear and soft. It's the greatest skin remedy I've heard of and a boon to 'pimply' faces." Sold by C. McCailum & Co

Boer Reports of British Reverses Near the Town.

Gen. Roberts Has Been Waiting for Horses Which Are Now Arriving in Large Numbers - Second Canadian Contingent Sent to the Front.

London, April 5-1:55 p.m.-A specia dispatch from Lorenzo Marquez says sharp fighting occurred April 2 in the neighborhood of Mafeking. The garrison made a sortie, while Col. Plumer's cavalry attacked the Boers at Ramathlabama. Both attacks were re-London, April 5.-A Lorenzo Marquez dispatch says that after the attack by Plumer's cavalry, 20 of his men were found dead on the field, and six others were made prisoners. The federal losses were small.

WAR OFFICE REPORTS.

Mafeking, Friday, March 23 .- There has been little excitement during the past week. The Boer shell fire comes in fitful gusts and has little effect. The British casualties are also nil. The Boers seem to be breaking up their a relief force. The sharpshooters keep up a steady interchange of fire. It is rumored that relief is near. The usual Sunday truce enables the garrison to continue playing cricket matches. Mshete, a native chief southward, has broken out against the Boers. There was heavy fighting in the direction of his chief kraal March 22. An Irish-American trooper, of the protectorate regiment, has deserted to the Boers. A reward of £50 has been offered for his capture, dead or alive. RECONNOISSANCE BY PLUMER. Gaberones, Bechuanaland, Wednesday, March 28.—Col. Plumer, with a force of British mounted infantry, started on a daring march on Sun-day, the 25th, with the object of threatening the Boer lines of communication. After two rapid night marches through the territory they ar-rived, at dawn, March 27, within 12 miles of Zeerust, and distinctly heard the bombardment of Mafeking. Having reconnoitered the country with a view to future operations, without sighting a single white man, Col. Plumer crossed the railroad south of Lobatsi, which he found in possession of a Boer force, and returned. Thence, finding the railroad hence damaged by Gen. Snyman's main force, he returned to the vicinity of Mafeking.

Rumors reach here that a relief col-umn is approaching Mafeking from the south.

REVIEW OF THE SITUATION. London, April 5.-Detached bodies of Boer horse, numbering from 500 to 1,000 each have appeared at several places to the southward and eastward of Bloemfontein, threatening the railroad, but communication by wire and rail is not in the least affected. One of these forces is near East Springfontein, on the Bloemfontein railroad, and Gen. Gatacre's forces are reported to be about to engage it. Lord Roberts, ex-cept to safeguard the railroad, seemingly declines to send columns chas-ing the Boer bands. He is reserving his cavalry and transport animals for the forward movement. Explanations having indirect origin in the war office es to why Lord Roberts is inactive are that there has been a lack of horses for remounts. Now horses are arriving by train hourly. The pressure on the railway is so great that private parcels and the officers' newspapers have not been forwarded from Cape Town for three weeks.

The situation in the Free State remains far from clear and is unsatisfactory to British observers. The sickness among the Boer prisoners at Simontown continues to increase. Five men died April 3. The prisoners who were on board the troop ship Mongolian have been transferred to Spore Camp. Unless the sickness abates it is not likely that more prisoners will be sent to St. Helena.

A dispatch from Cape Town, dated yesterday, announces the departure yesterday, announces the departure for the front of the second contingent of Canadian mounted infantry. Rudyard Kipling has returned to Cape Town.

SOLDIER'S GOOD FORTUNE Gunner Napoleon Comtais, of the R. C. A., Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Quebec, April 2 .- Napoleon Comtais, gunner, No. 2 Company of the Royal Canadian Artillery, stationed at the citadel here, considers himself a lucky man. He will wear the Queen's uniform for years yet. He expected at one time that kidney disease would necessitate his quitting the service. But he heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Gunner Comtais received a letter re-cently asking about his cure. He replied as follows:

Royal Canadian Artillery Library.

Dear Sir,—I received your letter, and hereby certify that I was cured of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. By them I can be a soldier a few years yet. GUNNER N. COMTAIS, No. 2 Co., R. C. A., Quebec.

TRACING THE MURDERER

Definite News Concerning Missionary Rijnhart's Disappearance.

The Christian Worker contains the following letter concerning the murder of Rev. Peter Rijnhart, in Thibet.
Mrs. Rijnhart and her sister, Dr.
Jennie Carson, are well known here:
Ching-tu, Jan. 10, 1900.

Bear Pastor Roffe,—A short time ago I learned through Mr. Laughton that definite news of Mr. Rijnhart's murder had been received. I expect you have received particulars before this, but in case you have not I send you what I have learned.

A lama from Kum Bum-I have not heard his name; from the description I believe it to be Mr. Rijnhart's old teacher, Ahsi Ni Ma. On hearing of Mr. Rijnhart's disappearance he set out on a pilgrimage to find out what had happened to him. First, he came to where the baby died and was buried, then to where they were turned back, and later to where he disappeared. As he was a pilgrim he heard the story as to how he was killed, and, on finding out the man who did the deed, he returned to Kum Bum, and at Sining applied to the missionaries, giving them the full story. The official took it up, and offered money to get the man. He refused the money, say-ing it was not for money he did it, but because he loved Mr. and Mrs. Rijnhart, and showed the skirt which he wore, saying Mrs. Rijnhart made it for him on the sewing-machine. He said if the official would send an escort of soldiers, he would get the man, so the men were supplied and the party started. I believe the head men in the lamasary tried to persuade the Si-ning officials that the man was an imposter, and out of his mind, but the official paid no heed. This dear Ti-betan knew something of what lay be-fore him—two long journeys. Not only the risk of losing his life by the robbers and the people where Mr. Rijn-hart was murdered, for they hold up the man who slew the foreigner as a hero, but the people in his own mon-astery will kill him if they can catch All this he knew when he set out on his second fourney.

If all this is true, as we believe it is, then we may ask what more could a man do for his brother than this follower of Buddah has done for a foreigner?.

If he is the man I take him to be, more than four years ago he professed to believe that our religion was the true one, and wanted to get out of the monastery, but the question arose Where would his support come from? and he had not wet faith to come right out and trust God. This is no oubt the secret of his present action. Yours truly,

It matters little how recklessly brave be the private soldiers of any army, if they be not properly led. The officers should be, not alone brave, but wise and keen. To have healthy bodies and clear brains, proper food is necessary, and no food is as health-giving, and as body-building, and as brain-feeding as our Granose and Granola. Read what Major-General Nelson A. Miles, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army, says of our foods:

Sanitarium Health Food Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Gentlemen-I have examined you health food (Granose) and to some extent have tested and used it, and, as far as I am able to judge, it is a very excellent and healthful food. By your method of preparing this food, you seem to have retained the sustaining qualities and removed the objectionable elements, in a way that makes the food very desirable and valuable. Your great work of charity is also most commendable.

A MAKESHIFT SUGGESTED.

According to the recommendation made at the last meeting of the public library board, plans have been prepared for such changes in the library building as would permit of the use of the present space. According to this new plan the reading room would be placed where the art club's rooms are; the present reading rooms would be made stack rooms, and the present stack rooms would be changed to a ladies' reading room and a reference room. An addition would be built for the secretary's office. The total cost would be about $2,500, and $180 per year rent would be lost. The rearrangement would allow of only 4,000 extra books, and at the present rate of increase this space would be utilized in three or four years. It is possible that the idea of change may be abandoned for this year, as the proposed rearrangement plan is not considered

ART EXHIBITION. To those who are interested in the advancement of art, the exhibition that will open tomorrow at the Women's Art Club rooms will be of rare interest. For the past few days paintings have been arriving from Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and nearer places, and have been arranged by the ladies of the club, who anticipate an exceedingly successful exhibi-bition. There will be included oils and water-colors, sketches in black and white, wash drawings and illustrations. Among the exhibitors, very many of whom recently exhibited at the Ontario Society of Artists' show in Toronto, are Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Reid, Miss Laura Mantz, Miss Tulley, Gertrude Spurr, Miss Heaven, Miss Windeat, Miss Haggarty and Mr. Windeat, Mass Haggarty and Mr. Knowles, Mr. Manley, of Toronto; Miss Hawley, of Paris, France; Miss Florence Carlyle, of Woodstock; Miss Galbraith, Miss Brierly, and Miss Barrie, of Hamilton. The exhibition opens to-marrow aftermoon at 2:30 o'clock and norrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and will continue for one week, including Good Friday. It will not be open in the evening, the hours being from 10 to 6 o'clock.

AT THE BARRACKS

London's New Boy Corps Booming-Some Promotions-New Regulars.

Sergt. Major Munro now has 96 names upon the roll of his new corps, "London's Own." Since the scheme was first made public some three weeks ago, he has been swamped with applications from sturdy boys eager to enlist. The utmost care is being taken in choosing the lads, and none but those who are absolutely up to the necessary requirements are accepted. The boys already accepted are bright, intelligent and well-educated, the very class that is desired for such an organization. The military men in the city are delighted with the proposition, and especially so because it is being carried out by Sergt.-Major Munro, who is recognized by them as one of the finest soldiers in the city. It is the intention to have four companies of 73 boys each. After preliminary instruction in theory and practical work, an examination will be had, and the best qualified will be made officers. They will have to procure their own uniforms, which will be the regulation khaki suit.

A number of promotions were posted at the barracks yesterday. Hence, Sergt. Kibbler was made sergeant; Lance Corporals Beals and Hawthorne were made corporals, and Privates Edton were made lance-corporals.

City Hall Notes.

So far this year the work of the engineer's department has gone along more smoothly than ever before. The adopted recommendation of no aldermanic interference in his department has been followed to the letter, and consequently there have been none of the little differences that were so annoying in former seasons. For the Graydon has prepared estimates for 1900 as follows: City hall expenses and repairs, $2,000; parks and salaries, $2,200; pounds, $25; exhibition buildings, $750; London West breakwater. $1,000; sewer repairs and culverts $4,000; town hall, $75; militia camps $150; registry office, $200; storage building, $50; streets and general improvements, $25,000; street cleaning, $1,000; total, $42,850. This is an increase over last year's estimates of more than $8,000, largely made up of $3,000 more for street improvements and $4,-000 for sewer repairs and culverts-the latter mostly in No. 4 ward. The 300foot culvert at the corner of Oxford and Waterloo streets must be replaced, and Mr. Graydon estimates the cost of the change at $1,000.

The members of the board of works have made a tour of the above ward to satisfy themselves of its requirements and they do not agree with the engineer in this particular. estimates will not be considered by the board until next Thursday, when their inspection will have been completed.

Engineer Graydon is firmly convinced of the utility of the "little can" plan, and intends to have it tried, notwithstanding the lack of aldermanic support. He believes that the citizens recognizes its value if the council does not. He has therefore procured ten cans at his own expense, and will place them about the principal streets. From the use already made of the sample can there is little doubt of the scheme's successful operation. Mr. Graydon has notified the council that the plan of stencilling "Please, don't spit" on cement walks is contrary to the bylaw. He is having a sample sign made, also, at his own expense, aldermen who vote to spend $650 in lighting the northern pastures of No. 4 ward and yet refuse the paltry $40 necessary to develop a plan that would add materially to the city's cleanliness seem to have strange conceptions of economy.

It has been learned at the assessment commissioner's office that a num-ber of objections to the laying of proposed cement walks will be made when the court of revision meets.

ANXIOUS HOURS

Spent by the Two British Officers Who Escaped From Pretoria.

London, April 5. - Further details just received from Lorenzo Marquez, in regard to Capt. Haldane, of the Gordon Highlanders, and Lieut. Le Mesuer, of the Dublin Fusiliers, who recently arrived there after escaping from Pretoria, and encountering perilous adventures, show that their experiences were very similar to those of Winston Churchill, the war correspondent, who escaped from Pretoria in December last. After hiding in swamps during the day, having narrow escapes from Boer patrols, and traversing 100 miles of country, Capt. Haldane and Lieut. Le Mesuer at length reached Watervalcover, in the South African Republic, where they hid in an open rolly and truck extend that the country of the south and the country of the south and the country of the south and railroad truck, covered with a tarpau

Continuing the narrative of their ex periences, the two officers said: "At daybreak, the train moved off. After eight hours we arrived at Komatipoort, but were dismayed by the switching of our truck to a siding, while the re-mainder of the train moved on into the promised land, only a mile distant. After half an hour, to our great consternation, we heard someone unfasten the tarpaulin; the darkness of the truck changed to brilliant daylight, and a Dutchman looked over the contents. For hours we did not move, and were cramped and stifled by the heat. Then to our intense delight the truck was coupled to a goods train and we soon crossed the line into Portuguese territory.

Capt. Haldane added that he and Lieut. Le Mesuer hoped soon to join their regiments, and face the Boers again. The two officers show signs of the hardships they have endured, their long hair and unshaven faces being particularly noticeable.

BASEBALL. Hamilton Herald: Should all go well with Hamilton at tomorrow's meeting of the Eastern League, the next move will be to secure a team, one that will be capable of holding up its own in the league-for it is very necessary that Hamilton and London shall be represented by an aggregation that will adorn some other spot in the championship ladder than the bottom rung. Good players are by no means scarce, and, with the assis-tance of the other clubs in the league, the combination should have no difficulty in gathering together a team of championship caliber. Of last year's Hams the only players who will be positively retained is "Shorty" Conwell, than whom a harder worker or more conscientious player never donned a catcher's mask. Conwell and Pete Lohman will divide the honors behind the bat, and Lohman, who is an excellent disciplinarian, will be intrusted with the management of the boys. In the pitching division it is likely that either Sievers or Cooper, of the Londons, will be retained, and Geordie Bradford may be given an opportunity to show what he can do providing that he looms up at all well in practice work. London also has under reserve Mohler, its clever second baseman of last season; and Howells and Jones, outfielders, all of whom might prove available. These men were all fairly active with the willow last year, Mohler batting at a .325 clip; Jones finished the season with an average of .288, but Howells fell down, finishing

These players would furnish the nucleus of the Hamilton-London Eastern League team, and the management has its eye on several other good men whose signatures will be secured just as soon as the franchise is assured. Darchineseria (2000) On, until-who shall say how it happened—there came a terrible shock, a terrible noise, a hissing of steam, a crashing as of broken carriages, a rushing, blinding, bewildering shock, as two trains met with deadly force, and one forced the other over the employees the strong was the strong to the strong was the strong trained to the strong was the strong bankment into the vine-wreathed val-was dire confusion and dismay; then those who had escaped to collect themselves. In less than an hour help came from Sedi, and the dead, the dying and the wounded were extricated from the wreck of broken carriages and laid side by side.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Help came at last, and in the sweet, dewy dawn of the morning the ghastiy row of dying and dead lay with white faces turned to the rising sun. Then came a cry that some one was lying, face downward, in the brook that ran through the valley.

Strong men hurried there. They saw a mass of fair hair, a fur cloak, and a traveling-bag heid in a stiff white hand. They raised the body-it was that of a woman, young and fair-but from those strong men rose a cry of dread, as they saw what had been a face, crushed and mangled, ail semblance of humanity marred and deadened. For on that face the weight of half a carriage had fallen. They who saw it turned shuddering away; one, stronger in heart than the others, took a white handkerchief and covered it. That covering was never re-

They looked at the costly fur cloak, then whispered one to another that it must be a lady of rank lying there, for the cloak was of suble.

Then came the doctor who had been attending to the wounded, an English-man, who had been traveling in the same train. No need to move the white handkerchief; no need to place his hand on the stilled heart. Death had been merciful there, giving no time

The doctor looked at the fur cloak, and the same idea came to him-it must be a lady of rank who lay there, crushed and mangled beyond all recog nition. When the first hurry of the terrible accident was over, Dr. Sheene bethought himself of the fair, dead woman. It was time to learn who she was, and send for her friends.

They examined the fur cloak first, and in the little pocket of it they found | there. a letter, addressed to

was a purse, containing banknotes and gold; that, too, was marked with her name. There seemed every reason to believe that the golden-haired woman lying dead in the waiting-room was Lady Selwyn. Some one there had met the family, had dined at the villa, and had visited Lord Selwyn—a Signor di Luna; and he, the moment his eyes fell upon the mass of golden hair, cried out:

"You must telegraph to Lord Sel-wyn; this is Lady Selwyn!" So Dr. Sheene, feeling true sympathy for a fellow-countryman in deep dis-tress, sent a telegram himself. It was worded thus:

"From Dr. Sheene, railway station, Sedi, to Lord Vivian Selwyn, Villa Pisani, Florence.—Come at once, with-out delay. There has been a dreadful accident at Sedi, and Lady Selwyn was in the train."

There had never been a more brilliant fete than that of which Beatrice reigned queen. The guests seemed unwilling to depart. Every-thing was so beautiful; the grounds, fountains, odorous flowers and colored lamps; the cool, fragrant conserthe magnificent suite of rooms; the chivalrous, handsome, attentive host; and, above all other attractions, the queen of the revels— Beatrice Leigh!

It was not until the dawn flushed red

In the sky, and the birds began to sing, that the carriages were all of-dered, and the ballroom deserted. Then it was 3 o'clock, on a fine, clear, dewy morning. Lord Vivian remembered his wife's message. She had gone to her room with a bad headache. A kindly impulse seized him to go and see if she were better. The last of the guests had gone; Mrs. Selwyn and Miss Leigh had ordered a cup of tea In Lady Selwyn's boudoir; they were tired out, and longing for rest.

Lord Vivian joined them.
"Shall I send a cup of hot, strong tea to Violante?" he said to Mrs. Selwyn; "she has gone to bed, really ill with a headache."

"Sleep will do her more good than tea," replied Mrs. Selwyn, carelessly. "She will hardly thank you for waking her up at this hour."

"It was a very convenient headache," laughed Miss Leigh. "The next time I am tired of a ball, I will have the same, and so secure myseM from

She looked dangerously lovely. brilliant bloom of her exquisite face had somewhat faded with the late hours; the languor of her smile, the slight semilance of wearings in the bright eyes, the gentle, subdued manner, made her more attractive than ever. She lay back upon the crimson velvet couch; her dark hair and dark eyes rendered doubly piquant. Jewels flashing on her white breast, with tender gleams of love and light playing over her peerless face, she looked like what she really was, a Circean queen; and Lord Vivian lingered by her until Mrs. Selwyn declared it was too late for them to remain another moment. Again, as he passed his wife's room.

Lord Selwyn felt strongly inclined to ask if she were better. He would have done so, but that last sneer from Miss Leigh rose up before him, and he said to himself that perhaps the headache was very trifling after all. So he went to his own room, never dreaming but that his wife lay sleeping near him. He smiled as he saw the dawn in the sky, and heard the birds singing in the trees.

"It is terribly late," he said to him-"but in good truth, under these bright Italian skies there is no night." So Lord Vivian fell asleep with the song of the birds in his ears. He dreamed of the glories of the night, of the star-like face of Beatrice Leigh, of the music that had seemed so sweet, of Countess Satani's bright, gay words, and of the pale face of his wife Vio-frightened, shy little wife. I will take her for a long drive in the morning. Perhaps, after all, we shall get on better alone."

Then he fell asleep again, and dreamed no more. The sun was shining bright, and the birds were singing gayly, when he was roused by his valet Nicoli, who stood by the bedside with a paper in his hand.

"What is it, Nicoli?" asked his lordship. "Why have you disturbed me?"
"There is a telegram for you, my lord," said the man, "and I thought you had beter have it at once."

"A telegram!" said his master, sleepily; "who can have telegraphed tome? Read it, Nicoli."

But the valet hesitated; his white face and trembling hands might have told his master that he had already

"Perhaps," said Nicoli, "it would be better if the signor would read it himself; it may contain bad news." "Nonsense!" said Lord Vivian, with a smile, rousing himself. "What bad news can come to me?" He took the paper from the man's hand and read. Bewilderment and unutterable surprise came over him first -no fear. Of course, it was a mistake. Far from being in the train at Sedi. his wife was sleeping near; that he knew. For the accident he was sorry; but it was not his wife who was

"I must get up, though, and set it straight. Get me some coffee, Nicoli."
The man went away. Still, silent and trembling. Lord Vivian dressed himself hurriedly.
"How could such a mistake arise?" he asked himself. "How could such a foolish error be made?"
He went to his wife's room and turned the handle; the door was locked.

Rochester, N. Of Unfounded Charges Made by Opposition Members.

In the Ontario Legislature Mr. Pres ton's Labor Resolution Discussed.

Toronto, April 4.—In the legislature yesterday, while discussing the estimates, on the vote of $829,092 for the maintenance of public institutions, Mr. Matheson declared that the syste purchasing for some of the asylums was unsatisfactory

Hon, Mr. Stratton gave a lucid and interesting explanation of the estimates for public institutions, and the reason for certain increases. He announced that recently the department had received very many pressing applicaasylums, and were now meeting them in order as rapidly as possible. Replying to Mr. Reid (Addington), Mr. Stratton pointed out that $8,300 profit had been made in three years from the cattle at the London asylum.

In reply to Mr. Robson (East Middlesex), Mr. Stratton pointed out that the receipts in the last three years at the London asylum farm from products of the farm and garden were $57,972, and the expenditure $29,025.

Mr. Wardell (North Wentworth) re fused to believe the statement Mr. Stratton gave of the profits at London asylum farm of 130 acres, saying no ordinary farmer could make more than $400 or $500 profit a year on that amount of land.

Hon. Mr. Gibson pointed out that if the opposition doubted the figures given they could call the officers of the institution before the public ac-counts committee, as Mr. Stratton had ffered, and endeavor to show there was an inaccuracy. He was convinced the statement was a reliable one, and it evidenced careful and thrifty work.

Matheson characterized statement as a fictitious one, where-upon Hon. Mr. Stratton indignantly and told the opposition critic he would not allow him to make any such remark. The statement was accurate every detail, and he defied Matheson to show one iota of evidence to the contrary. He had gone into all the details himself, and challenged the opposition to show any inaccuracies in it. If Mr. Matheson could demonstrate that any official had pre-pared an incorrect statement that offi-cial would not be retained longer than it would take to write his dismissal. The items passed.

LABOR RESOLUTION.

In moving his resolution to prevent buses which may arise from the subletting of government contracts, Mr. Preston, the new member for South Brant, went exhaustively into the subject. He pointed out that his resolu-tion was identical with that introduced in the Dominion house by the postmaster-general, and applied to every department of the public service, and to all parties now performing service for the government. He pointed out the temptations of the contract system for employers to reduce wages, and if it were continued it should be only on such terms as would protect the interests of labor. The government should set an example to private employers paying a higher rather than a lower standard of wages.

Mr. Carscallen expressed the hope la be concurre in by both sides of the house.

Mr. Graham said opposition concurrence in the resolution was illogical with the Conservative argument in favor of the tender system. (Cries of "Not at all.") That system had a tendency to cut down wages. Mr. Hoyle pointed out that one the chief arguments in favor of the tender system was that it did away with the spoils system. The premier supported the resolu-tion, and said if it were passed the government would use its best endeavor to carry it out to the letter.

Mr. Whitney said he favored to principle laid down in the resolution, but thought it did not go far enough. He moved in amendment that the following words be added to the resolution: "And that the opinion of the house in these respects be inc in an act of this legislature. be incorporated

The premier characterized Mr. Whitney's proposal as a catch-penny am-endment, introduced for political pur-poses. In view of the government's assertion that the resolution would be carried out, the amendment was entirely unnecessary.

Attorney-General Gibson said a bill such as that called for by the amend-ment would be impracticable, and he moved in amendment to the amend-ment "that this house is further of the opinion that in all appropriate cases the legislation of this house should be in harmony with its resolution."

Mr. Whitney said the amendment to the amendment was a truism, and would have no more effect than the original resolution.

The amendment to the amendment was carried on a division by a major-ity of 9. James Tucker (West Wellington) voted with the government. The house went into committee in the evening, and advanced a number of private bills a stage.

A deputation representing the Retail Merchants' Association of Ontario waited upon the ministers and presented a petition with several thousand signatures. This for pegislation against account from the several thousand they proposed was a license fee on each distribution of business conducted by such stores. The premier said he sympathized with the retail trade under present circumstances. The petition, he said, ought to receive consideration. The demands to receive consideration. The demands of the association will be embodied in a bill to be introduced by Mr. Conmee.

Every drop of the Saranparillian Resolvent communicates through the blood, sweat, urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigorof life; for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, consumption, syphilis, uncured and badly-treated venereal in its many forms (send it cents for illustrated book, "Radway on Venereal") glandular diseases, ulcers in the throat, meuth, tumors, nodes in the glands and other parts of the system, sore eyes, strumous discharges from the cars, and the worst forms of skin diseases, cruptions, fever sores, scald head, riag worm, salt rhoum, crysipelas, acne, black spots in the flesh, tumors, cancerous growths, female complaints, and all weaknesses and painful discharges, night sweats, nocturnal lesses and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this Wonder of Modern Chemistry and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them. If the patient daily becoming reduced by wastes and decompositions that are continually progressing succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood, and this the Sarsaparillian will and does secure, a cure is certain, for when once this remedy commences its work of purification and succeeds in dimanishing the loss of wastes its repairs will be its work of purification and succeeds in dimin-ishing the loss of wastes its repairs will be rapid, and every day the patient will feel him-self growing better and stronger, the food digesting better, appetite improving and flesh and weight increasing.

SCROFULA FROM BIRTH. SCROFULA FROM BIRTH.

Dr. Radway,—Dear Sir: It is with pleasure I take my pen in hand to inform you of the great cure effected by your medicine called sarsaparillian Resolvent. I have a girl 3 yearsold last September, who has suffered from scrofula ever since she was 2 years old. In fact, the doctor told us sine was born with it. We had our best local doctors with her, and it seemed like all hope was gone, for they told us if the disease settled on her lungs she could not be cured. This frightful disease scated or seized upon her lungs severely. I began to think that our little girl could not live very long, our physician's medicines doing no good. think that our little girl could not live very long, our physician's medicines doing no good. In the meantime I received a copy of your medical publication, called "False and True," which you sent me. After seeing the accounts of so many cures effected by your treatments. I at once resorted to them, and by the time she had used one bottle she was most well. The ulcers that were making their appearance on her body are entirely gone, her lungs almost healed, or, at least, she has quit coughing. She has begun on the second bottle, and I believe that by the time she uses all of it she will be well. She had a very bad cough. I am yours, with respect. SAMUNLS, BARKER.

LIFE A BURDEN. Dr. Radway,—Dear Sir: For a long time past I have been suffering in the most distressing manner from a long train of symptoms which have baffled the skill of all the medical men down here, and which, I feared, if not arrested in their progress, would terminate in the total prostration of my strength. Loss of appetite and desire of atimulating and artificial means of sustenance at irregular times, want of healthy sleep and consequent depression on arising in the morning rendered life quite a burden to me, until a friend induced me to try your medicine. So I got a bottle of Radway's Sarsaparillian and a box of Radway's Pills and took them according to directions. I soon took them according to directions. I soon found relief. I got three boxes and three bottles more, and I am better in health than ever before. I remain your humble servant,

There has just been issued a copy of their latest publication by the advertising department, and which is a very handsome piece of work and an artistic brochure. The title of the pampalet is "Kawartha Lakes" and it deals principally with that portion of Canada in the counties of Victoria and Peterborough, which lie, north of Lake Ontario and which embodies the chain of lands reaching from Lakefield to Cobeconk, known as Trent Valley Water Route. Judging from the illustrations, which are direct reproductions from photographs and engraved in the half-tone process, the country is a magnificent one, and there is no doubt that with the usual energy which is displayed by the Grand Trunk management this district will become a very popular one with the tourist. The fishing is without equal, and weighty maskinonge of from 20 to 30 pounds are a daily catch, while the black bass are numerous and run

Verdict of Coroner's Jury. in the Harris Case.

Better Protection Needed at Crossings -Instruction in First Aid to Injured Recommended.

The coroner's jury empaneled to inquire into the death of John Harris. who was struck by a section of a train at Wellington street crossing of the G. T. R., resumed its sitting at the police court last night. The jury was composed as follows: W. P. Turner (foreman), Edward Foster, Wm. Green, Harry Rolfe, W. F. W. Carstairs, F. J. Smallman, Job Short, Thos. Kelly, Robert Burleigh, John Fletcher, Chas. Castle, Moses Cox, John Abraham and Henry Kerr.

P. C. Rowell, driver of the ambulance, told of going to the scene of the occurrence about 8:30 p.m., and resciousness.

Dr. Williams went to the hospital and examined Harris. His left foot was completely severed, the left thigh bone was crushed above the knee; there was a large wound on the inner side of the thigh. The left arm bone was denuded of flesh from the thumb to the elbow and there were two scalp amputated the left leg, and dressed the wounds on the arm and head. Harris died about 10:15, the cause of death being loss of blood. Dr. Williams spoke strong-ly on the advisability of policemen, street car employes, railroad employes and others receiving instruction to enable them to improvise a tourniquet by tying a handkerchief or scarf around an injured limb and twisting it

George Watson, a yardman, was on the front of the van which struck Harris. The van was being taken up the yard by the yard engine to be attached to train No. 78. He saw Harris, shouted at him, and gave the engineer the signal to stop, but it was too late. Harris stepped directly in front of the car and was struck. The car went three lengths before being stopped. Harris was found lying on the north side of the track, with the foot inside the rails. The gates were down at the time. Witness' duty on the van was to look out for the switches. People walking over the crossing were supposed to look out for themselves. The car was not going more than six miles an hour. Warren R. Waters, another yardman, was with the previous witness on the van when it struck Harris. He first saw Harris about ten feet north of the track. Harris paid no attention to warning shouts, and stepped in front of the van, being struck by the corner. The van went the length of two vans, a combination car, the engine and a car length beyond before being stopped—about 125 feet in all. Wm. Carswell and Wm. Stevenson, driver and fireman, respectively, of engine No. 628, which was attached to the van, which struck Harris, told of receiving the signals from the yardmen and stopping the train as soon as pos-sible. Both agreed that the engine was not going more than six miles an hour.

Jos. Larkin, crossing watchman, first saw Harris about 40 feet north of the track. Witness shouted at Harris several times, but he took no notice. Harry Nolan, yardman, and Richard Dunn, an employe, who happened to be in the vicinity of the accident, gave corroborative evidence.

Frank Galbraith, of 421 King street, was the only witness of the accident called, who was not a G. T. R. em-ploye. He came out of the switch ploye. He came out of the shanty as the engine went by and saw

John J. Doyle, of the Britannia House, testified to Harris coming to his hotel about 8:15, and wanting something to eat. Witness told him he was not wanted around, and Harris then left. Harris did not appear to be excessive-

P. C. Frank Darville saw Harris on Richmond street between King and York streets about 8 o'clock, on Mon-day night. Harris was staggering slightly under the influence of liquor. Harris went east on King street, This concluded the evidence, and the jury, after an hour's deliberation, returned the following verdict:

"That John Harris came to his death on Monday evening, April 2, at the Wellington street crossing of the G. T. R., by being accidentally run over, while attempting to cross the track in front of moving cars. We would strongly recommend additional protection as to watchmen and light at crossings. We would also suggest that the employes of railways be instructed in first aid to the injured.' and be provided with emergency appliances." ed with emergency appliances.

THE PARNELL-DEAN STEAM BAKING COMPANY,

Ottawa, April 4.-In the house today Mr. Bennett's transportation resolution was further discussed, and finally withdrawn. Dr. Montague's motion for papers in reference to the beet root sugar question, after a discussion of a couple of hours, was passed.

Dr. Montague moved for copies of all correspondence during the year 1899 between the government of Canada and all parties asking for the encourage-ment of the beet root sugar industry in Canada, together with copies of any reports made at any time by parties selected by the government of Canada for that purpose. Eighty-five per cent of the sugar used in Ontario was made from beets, and he asked if it was not desired to produce that raw material in Canada. The soil of Canada was perfectly adapted to the growing of these beets, and, experiments showed, would produce more than the soils of the European countries.

Mr. Charlton said that investigation would show no cause for the giving of a bounty for sugar. He had had some experience with the sugar industry in Michigan, where, under a bounty system, the industry grew so rapidly that it became evident that the bounty would became evident that the bounty would bankrupt the state, so the law was repealed except for factories already established, but still large factories were being established. He mas quite willing to have a commission to investigate the matter; if this was done, and the true facts brought out, it would be unnecessary for the government to give a bounty as the eviernment to give a bounty, as the dence would be sufficient to induce capitalists to embark in such a profitable undertaking.

This team consists of three welltrained black-flaced lambs, namely, Shabby, Shoddy and Shady. They were taken when three months old, and by kind treatment and gentle usage were made perfectly obedient and as responsive to the reins as well trained horses. The father of this lit-tle driver is a large stock owner, and spent much time in the training of his daughter's pets. They have been driven as far as seventeen miles in one day, and after their long jaunt did not seem the least exhausted. There have been wilder teams, however. In the same enterprising State of Maine an eccentric hunter has driven a bull moose to harness. Lord Rothschild, in England, has a famous team of zebras, and Buffalo Jones has made some experiments with harness buffaloes, but none of these would be sentle enough for a child driver.
