your past record, you have discharged its duties with singular ability. Your indefatigable industry, your unwearied activity, your ready apprehension of the real needs of varied localities and situations, your unquestioned integrity in all public transactions, may well constitute an honorable and enduring certificate of character. More especially do we recognize your invaluable services in dealing with the hopes and prospects of our people. We earnestly trust that, as the years pass by, the practical accomplishment of the policy you have adopted may succeed beyond the most sanguine expectations, and give a mighty impetus to the agriculture, the manufactures, the trade and commerce of the Dominion.

And now, honorable sir, we are glad you are with us. We hope, though a French-Canadian, among so many thousands of other races, you will feel entirely at home, and thoroughly enjoy your visit. On our part we shall be delighted to have you here, and like us as a community, and so like the evidences of our skill and industry, here displayed, as to carry away pleasant memories of the day and its events, and repeat your visit on some future occasion.

Signed on behalf of the West Middlesex Union Fair,
JOHN P. GRIGG, President,
DAVID EVANS, Secretary.
Dated at Strathroy, the 25th day of September, 1922.

HON. MR. TARTE SPEAKS

Makes a Plea for a Canada Which Shall Be All for Canadians.

As the popular member for West Middlesex concluded reading the address, the crowd loudly applauded, and renewed their plaudits as Mr. Tarte rose to reply. Mr. Tarte thanked them for what he termed their all too flattering remarks, and assured them of the pleasure which he felt in being with them. He expressed his regret at being late, and said that as the crowd knew that he was not the one at fault, he knew that he would be forgiven for not being punctual. Referring again to the remarks in the address, he mentioned particularly their expression of the hope that, though a French-Canadian among so many thousands of other races, he would feel entirely at home, and thoroughly enjoy his visit. That, he said, was what he intended to do, and what he should do for every Canadian had the right to feel it.

home in Canada, whether he were a French-Canadian or a Scotch-Canadian. Canada was a free country, a splendid, free country, where any man could feel at home. He believed it to be the freest country in the world—all who traveled much acknowledged it to be. (Applause.) It was a pleasure for him to be there, he said, for more than one reason. When at the Strathroy fair he was in the center of one of the finest agricultural districts in the country, in the company of some of the best farmers in Canada. Mr. Tarte said that in his early days he himself was a farmer. He farmed on a big scale. He could not say that he made a pile of money.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

A Great Strain.

No one disputes the fact that we are living in a "strange" age. It is a rush, rush, rush, from morning until night, and competition is so fierce that the struggle does not cease until the machine is worn out. Women, too, even when surrounded by every comfort, become infected by the common spirit, and what with their clubs and many social duties, have no time to give thought to their physical well-being, until they are suddenly brought to a sharp realization of the fact that nothing in their lives is so important as attention to correct or rational living. It may surprise the readers to learn that women are more prone to piles than men, and in most cases, because it is difficult to impress upon them the importance of regular movements of the bowels; irregularity means straining at stool, and straining means piles, with the certainty (under the usual method of treatment) that the sufferer will "have them always with her," by "usual methods" is meant the application of ointments and lotions, or, as a last resort, a surgical operation. If there is a complaint which entails more distress and suffering upon those afflicted than piles or hemorrhoids, it is not known to the writer; fortunately, however, these are learning that there is a remedy that effectually cures all forms of piles. It is known as the Pyramid Pile Cure; it is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts, and does its work quickly and painlessly. It is sold by druggists for 50 cents a package, will be mailed my the makers to any address, upon receipt of price. Mrs. John H. Castana, 2842 Arch street, Chicago, says: "I must write the Pyramid Pile Cure. I was cured of a very aggravating case of itching and bleeding piles by the use of the great remedy Pyramid Pile Cure. Even after several physicians had claimed there was no cure except by an operation. I am well now, and owe all to this valuable remedy. I cannot say enough for it." Write the Pyramid Pile Cure Company, Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the cause and cure of piles.

while he was at it, but he could say and do more than that in 1871 he exhibited at Quebec and captured nearly all the prizes there. (Laughter and applause.) "So you see," he added, "I could become a farmer even now, and live decently by it, but as it is, I am simply the Minister of Public Works." (Renewed laughter.)

THE TRANSPORTATION QUESTION.

Mr. Tarte went on to say that farming was intimately associated with transportation, a matter in which he and his department were very closely interested, and in which his hearers and all other farmers in Canada should be interested. It was a question which concerned all classes in Canada, manufacturers, farmers and all classes. Why should they grow crops if it was impossible to market them properly? Why should manufacturers try to increase their output if it was impossible to get their products to a place where they might be sold? It was an important question, this question of transportation. Its proper solution meant great things for Canada. When he went into his present department, he thought that he knew something about it, but he had found that he does not know it all. He believed in traveling and learning. Some people, he said, believe that he travels too much, even as some say that he talks too much. He said that he believed in knowing the country, and in speaking out as he thought. "I am always so," he said. "This is a big country, and one may speak freely. I am not infallible, and I am ready to admit that others are not infallible, either."

Mr. W. S. Calvert, M. P., chief Liberal whip in the Dominion House, who was largely instrumental in the success of the fair.

A CANADIAN CANADA.

Mr. Tarte made no reference during the course of his speech to any criticism of himself, but he did make an appeal for a more thoroughly Canadian Canada, and promulgated the idea that Canadians should know their country and each other better than they do. He, for one, he said, is prepared to help the great Canadian exhibition at Toronto, because it helps Canadians to know their country. Canadians do not know Canada, he said. Yet it was necessary that they should know it, and they should know each other better. (Applause.) British-Canadians should know the French-Canadians better than they do. "And when you do know them," he said, "you will know that they are a good, decent lot of loyal citizens just as you are." (Applause.) British-Canadians had an idea that the men in Quebec were a rather low people. He assured them that the French habitant is not a fool. "He knows a good man when he sees one," said Mr. Tarte, "and also a fair lady." (Laughter.) Mr. Tarte said that governments could do a great deal for all classes. For the farming class the local government could do much. The present Government in Ontario, he said, had done a great deal for the farmers, as well as every other class of people. (Applause.) He was glad of the chance to congratulate the farmers, and he mainly stand he had taken upon the question of the export of wood. (Applause.) He had been glad to see it.

THE CALLER

"Let us be Canadians, all the time," he said, "we have a right to be proud of our country. It is a land of magnificent possibilities. Let us work them out ourselves." (Applause.) Mr. Tarte spoke of the splendid prosperity of the country, and of the progress which had been made in all the provinces, not only in agriculture, but in all the industries. He said that we have the privilege and honor of having one of the best agricultural schools in America. They in Quebec envied the people in Ontario this possession. It was but one of the methods taken by the Ontario Government to assist the farmers of Ontario to raise better crops, to get better results, and to increase the wealth and prosperity of the country.

QUESTIONS OF TARIFF.

Mr. Tarte said that two very important questions now confronting Canada were the question of transportation, and of the tariff. He said that on behalf of his colleagues in the Government he could assure them that the Government is now doing its best, with a view to the advancement and future greatness of Canada. (Applause.)

plause.) "We may have made mistakes," Mr. Tarte said, "but we hope that we shall not make too many." (Laughter.) He said that the country is progressing, and should in ten years show marvelous things. We have a big and prosperous neighbor, he said, in the country to the south of us, but while America is big, he was afraid that it is suffering somewhat from swelled head. (Laughter.) It was making a mistake, he thought, when it believed that it could choke Canada. It could not do it, we as Canadians are true to ourselves. (Applause.)

Mr. Tarte again thanked them for their invitation to visit and open the fair. "I like to travel in an English province," he said. "So much has been said of me that I'm afraid people think that I'm not exactly a good boy. (Laughter.) But I am a true Canadian," he continued earnestly, "a solid and firm Britisher." (Continued applause.) And what I was sad for myself, he added, "I can say for all my fellow French Canadians. (Applause.) They are as true, loyal men as I know in this country—loyal through and through to the British Empire and the noble King who presides over our destinies." (Renewed applause.) "I had the honor to speak before the King and Queen when they were in Europe some years ago. It was at the grandest banquet I ever attended. Some of the most distinguished men in the empire were there and among them the King, who was then Prince of Wales. It was shortly after the Brussels incident, when an attempt was made to assassinate him, and at this banquet the Prince thanked God for having saved his life. It was a noble example for all Britons when he said, 'I am a Sovereign Being, acknowledging him as king of the whole universe. As long as we in turn yield loyalty to him, we are on a solid ground.' Continued applause.)

THE PREMIER OF ONTARIO

Splendid Canadian Sentiment Pervades Hon. G. W. Ross' Speech.

Premier Ross was next called upon and as he arose to speak he was given a rousing reception by his friends in his old constituency. He remarked, on beginning his speech, on the enjoyment which he always experienced while visiting the Strathroy fair. He said that he had not intended making a speech. He had been there on previous occasions, when it was his official duty as well as his pleasure to address them. Yet for two reasons he felt that he should be with them again yesterday. In the first place he felt that it was his duty even as it was his pleasure, to welcome the honorable Minister of Public Works to his own constituency. In the second place he knew that he would meet there his old friends and whenever it was possible he liked to do this. It was gratifying to him to note the prosperity of this western part of Ontario. In many ways, he said, it was one of the best parts of the province. (Applause.)

AN ADMIRER OF MR. TARTE.

Mr. Ross, in welcoming the Minister of Public Works, said that he admired him for his insight into the necessities of his department, for his energy and for his force of character. (Applause.) He was a man of enormous energy and Mr. Ross said that it behooved all Canadians to apply themselves with proper energy to what ever came before them, if they wished to make the most of their great country. (Applause.) We were slow to believe in our country, he said, yet we had come to here what the statesmen of Britain had not done. He had reconciled two antagonistic races. He had said in England while there recently that he was a Canadian. The Government had never been able completely to reconcile Ireland, yet we in Canada had settled our troubles of exactly the same kind upon perfectly constitutional grounds. (Applause.) We were all out of gear, he added, unless we took a proper pride in our country. "We are all Canadians," he said, "and very glad to think so—ever a Scotchman." He added, amidst laughter, to make the most of their great country. (Applause.) We were slow to believe in our country, he said, yet we had come to here what the statesmen of Britain had not done. He had reconciled two antagonistic races. He had said in England while there recently that he was a Canadian. The Government had never been able completely to reconcile Ireland, yet we in Canada had settled our troubles of exactly the same kind upon perfectly constitutional grounds. (Applause.) We were all out of gear, he added, unless we took a proper pride in our country. "We are all Canadians," he said, "and very glad to think so—ever a Scotchman." He added, amidst laughter,

CANADA'S MAGNIFICENT FUTURE.

Mr. Ross went on to speak of the magnificent future which is promised Canada. He declared that we are just on the fringe of Canadian development. He spoke of only 2,000,000 acres of land, and said that we were producing something like 80,000,000 bushels of grain, and said that before five or ten years more are gone Canada will be producing all the wheat and all the flour which England will use. (Applause.)

Like the honorable Minister of Public Works, the Premier declared that the question of transportation was one of the most important now facing the Dominion. In the last year the Canadian exports of cattle alone had increased from $2,900,000 to $3,900,000, and it was the same with all other products. He illustrated the necessity of an improvement in the transporting facilities of the country by recounting an instance shown him recently by a friend in Toronto. This gentleman told him that it cost him $1.40 per barrel to ship apples to Windsor, and only 60 cents per barrel to ship them to Liverpool. When this was possible, something was wrong, Mr. Ross said. It was the duty of the Government to see that excessive profits should not go to transportation companies, more especially when it is necessary to ship goods by an unsatisfactory route and to a doubtful market. (Applause.) What we as Canadians wanted was to look over our field—the whole world was our field, he said—and to consider how we might get it for our products. (Applause.) There had been enormous export of apples, he added, all the Canadian industries in the last few years in manufactured as well as agricultural products, and we should adopt means to give our own people employment, so as to increase our population and strengthen our country and increase the manufactures and wealth of our Dominion. (Continued applause.)

A SUITABLE TARIFF.

"To this end there must be a tariff suitable to Canada," and added Mr. Ross, "I trust to the statesmanship which is now guiding the country to make a readjustment of the tariff if a readjustment is necessary. We may need it higher on one article and lower on another. It will not then be a finality, but it must be made to suit the Canadian people." (Applause.) Mr. Ross spoke of the campaigns which had been fought out upon the free trade issue in his own constituency. He said that he acknowledged that if we could have free trade, all the better. The nearer we are to free trade the better, he said, "just as the nearer we are to Heaven the better; but free trade in its entirety is impracticable. What I want is a tariff to suit ourselves—one which will give the highest prosperity for ourselves. (Applause.) That is what you want. That is what the manufacturers want. That is what we all want. It does not matter about anyone else. It does not matter about the Americans. All we want is to keep them where they are, on their side of the line, and we have shown that we can do it. We must protect ourselves against the competition. If your neighbor's cattle comes into your yard and you build a fence to keep them out, that is not retaliation. But if you take his fence down and procure cattle from his yard, that is a different thing altogether. (Laughter and applause.) Let us manufacture our own materials, develop our resources, and keep our population here. When we have done that, we have done all that we as good Canadians can do." (Continued applause.)

A MONTREAL VISITOR.

The Premier was followed by Mr. Miles, ex-president of the Montreal Board of Trade, who was a visitor to the fair, who said that he rejoiced in the good strong Canadian sentiment which he had just heard from the lips of the Minister of Public Works and the Premier of Ontario. He added his testimony, as a resident of Montreal, to that of Mr. Tarte in saying that there is no better place in the world for a British subject than the French Canadian. He said, too, that the people of Montreal were heartily with all westerners in their wishes for a greater market for Canadian goods.

VOTES OF THANKS.

A vote of thanks was unanimously presented to the honorable gentlemen who had made the addresses of the day. It was moved by Mr. Gough and seconded by Mr. Alfred Brock. The crowd thereupon dispersed to amuse themselves as they chose. The entertainment committee had gone to unusual expense to provide first-class features, but it was impossible to hold races scheduled because of the condition of the track.

NEITHER SICK NOR WELL,
Just Weak, Nervous and Out of Sorts—Why Not Build Up Your System With

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Do you belong to that vast army of people who are suffering from general weakness? You do not get much sympathy, as much as you deserve it. And what is worse than feeling drag on yourself as you go about your daily duties?

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food seems to be peculiarly suited to such cases. It instills into the blood a nervous system vigor and life. It enriches the impoverished blood and creates new nerve force. It is, above all else, a restorative.

Mrs. C. Fitzgerald, 718 Princess street, London, Ont., states: "For some time I have not been feeling at all well. I was troubled with general weakness. My nerves were very unsteady, and I did not sleep well. THE DEED OF A BASTARD TOO THICK WITH DOWIE

Explanation of Dynamite Outrage at Washington.

Attempted Murder Followed by Suicide—30 Lives Imperiled.

Washington, Sept. 25.—In connection with the dynamiting of the Golden Eagle Hotel here early this morning, by which the proprietor, Louis Brandt, and his wife were injured, the following statement is made:

The proprietor gave a banquet in honor of his wife, who had just returned from Germany, and Frank McKie was a guest.

McKie had boarded at the hotel four years and had been treated as a member of the Brandt family, which includes a daughter, Sophie, with whom McKie is said to have been in love. Brandt denies that there was any understanding between the two. McKie remarked last night that he was going to wait until Sophie returned from Germany with her mother and then was going to his old home in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Brandt and her daughter returned about 8 o'clock last night. The attempt at wholesale murder followed this morning. McKie, with a pistol in his hand, was seen by an employee of a lunch room opposite the hotel just before the shots were fired. When the explosion occurred a slight blaze sprang from the debris, but it was quickly extinguished.

Brandt and his wife were rescued before many of the 30 guests of the establishment had reached the part of the building in which McKie's room was located. McKie, with revolver clutched in his hand, was found lying on the floor with his head in a pool of blood. A bullet hole near the right ear had caused instant death. Brandt was bruised about the body and shaken up badly and received a severe cut on the left leg.

Mrs. Brandt sustained bruises about the body and an out hand. When the wrecked building was searched today enough dynamite was found in McKie's trunk to blow up a block of buildings. There were six whole sticks and parts of two or three broken sticks, together with a box of caps and a quantity of wire for long distance explosion. He had at least nine sticks of dynamite in his possession.

McKie was about 25 years old. He was formerly of Philadelphia, and had relatives in Chicago. His brother, Harry McKie, was killed in Chicago last year, according to a telegram found in the dead man's room today. McKie was a machinist in the navy yard here, but resigned about four years ago. This amount he is said to have lost on the races and his act is accredited by some to this loss.

No Room for Them.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—Archbishop Duhamel has rejected the application of some eight religious orders desirous of leaving France to locate in Ottawa diocese. They seek refuge from the law of associations. His grace says there are as many orders here now as can be supported.

MR. PICKWICK II. NOW IN CHICAGO

He's the Man Who Worries Mr. Chamberlain.

NEVER KNOWN TO LOSE TEMPER

Alfred Davies, Welsh Member of Parliament—Punch Renamed Him.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Pickwick the Second, read of Chicago yesterday, says the Tribune. In appearance and stature, in unflinching serenity of temper, in the famous creation of Dickens, in plain nomenclature, Pickwick the Second is Alfred Davies, Welsh member of the British Parliament, leading Radical and thorn in the side of Secretary Chamberlain. Davies, who is head of a big international express company, and a favorite subject of the Punch cartoonist. Mr. Davies is making a trip through the United States, and came to Chicago last night where he promised that Wales would send a good exhibit to the exposition.

"I have often been asked why I am called Pickwick, and I always have to answer that I do not know," said Mr. Davies. "Punch started it, and that settled it; I have been Pickwick ever since."

THIRDS JOKES ON CHAMBERLAIN. Perhaps it is partly because I don't lose my temper and like to crack a joke. That sort of thing, you know, aggravates a man like Joseph Chamberlain, who can't take a joke. You know he hates to be worried by having a man keep on asking him questions, as I have done, until he is forced to make some sort of answer. He likes to silence you with a frozen stare. But they can't silence me in that way, and I keep after them till they have to say something."

Mr. Davies has been a thorn in Mr. Chamberlain's side ever since he entered the House of Commons. He took issue with his especially in regard to the Jameson raid.

"Now, on my return to England," said he, "I am going to devote my time and energies to doing the best I can for the educational bill, which would compel the people to support the denominational schools without having control of the schools. This bill is making some of the Tory members of parliament shake in their shoes."

ABOUT POLITICS IN ENGLAND. "The Government party has already lost the district of Leeds and had its majority at Seven Oaks cut down 4,000 on account of the snap and gas, and are to come. It has lost the district of Bury on account of the tax put on the poor man's bread. In fact, there are evidences about the Tory influence is steadily on the wane now that the war is over. If Balfour doesn't withdraw his educational bill his party's influence will shrink still more."

Speaking of his visit to Chicago, Mr. Davies said: "I am only here for 24 hours, but I am seeing all of your city that I can. I am amazed at the snap and gas, and wonderful activity of people everywhere in the city. I am also amazed at the immense stores. Chicago is certainly the root of the matter."

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomach Trouble, by Getting Down to First Principles.

A man of large affairs in one of our prominent eastern cities by too close attention to business, too little exercise and too many club dinners, finally began to pay nature's tax, levied in the form of chronic stomach trouble. The failure of his digestion brought about a nervous irritability, making it impossible for him to apply himself to his daily business, and finally deranging the kidneys and finally deranging the stomach.

In his own words he says: "I consulted one physician after another, and each one seemed to understand my case, but all failed to give me relief. I was brought to the attention of a well-known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I had often perused the newspaper advertisement of the remedy, but never believed it could be of any use. I bought a couple of packages at a drug store, and took two or three tablets after each meal. I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improvement, and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Tablets were going to cure me completely, and they did every symptom. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and cigar, and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors of dyspepsia."

"Out of friendly curiosity I wrote to the proprietors of the remedy asking for information as to what the tablets contained, and they replied that the principal ingredients were vegetable peptin (government test), malt diastase and other natural digestives, which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach."

The root of the matter is this, the digestive elements contained in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the nervous system receive the nourishment which can only come from food. Stimulants and nerve tonics never give real strength, they give a fictitious strength, inevitably followed by reaction. Every drop of blood in the body and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets you will have no need of nerve tonics and stimulants.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in use for only a few years, yet probably every doctor in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them and considers them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach trouble.

The coal question, the shipments to this country of coal from Wales on account of the anthracite strike, he also discussed.

"Yes," said Mr. Davies, "that will help still further to stimulate the industry in Wales. But I have not heard of any large amounts of coal being shipped from there to the United States. I was informed by a joking friend of mine that enough Welsh coal would be brought here to cook four Welsh rabbits."

MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT

Ex-Chief Johnson Badly Wounded—Killed With a Stone.

Forest, Sept. 25.—Ex-Chief James Johnson, of Sable Indian Reserve, township of Eganville, while in the woods near Port Frank last evening, received a charge of buckshot in the back, the neck and the back of the head. Thirty-six shot have been received and the doctor in attendance moved and the doctor in attendance moved and the doctor in attendance moved.

KILLED WITH A STONE. Highland Falls, N. Y., Sept. 25.—An unknown party, a heavy rock at Anton Packer, an Austrian, striking him on the head and killing him instantly. The negro escaped.

PLAN TO KEEP WARM.

Business Men Will Build a Big Central Heating Plant.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Cleveland's big storekeepers and manufacturers have a plan to build a central heating plant and incidentally they will establish a novel heating, lighting and power plant.

Who own the largest business blocks down town have formed a combination to reduce the cost of power, heat and light, and incidentally to get rid of the cloud of smoke that hangs over Cleveland all the time.

Plans will be completed in a few days for an enormous central plant. It will burn slack coal at $1 a ton, and circulate heat, light and power to surrounding buildings over a radius of half a mile.

It is figured that the saving of fuel and labor by the big concern will amount to at least $1,000,000 a year. Smoke consumers eager to approve of the scheme. The scheme has grown out of the agitation to clear Cleveland of its pall of dense black smoke, through which the sun can rarely be seen.

If the experiment is satisfactory it will doubtless result in the plan being adopted all over the city. It is said it would be quite practical for a central company to furnish the power, heat and light for the city, including heat for cooking.

WELSH COIL IN NEW YORK. New York, Sept. 25.—Four thousand tons of Welsh coal, chiefly large size, anthracite, reached here today. None was offered for sale as all had been contracted for before the order was placed by the local company which made the importation. All day the coal dealers were besieged by coal buyers eager to obtain some of the coal or to place orders for shipment to be made hereafter. The price at which the Welsh coal is quoted could not be learned.

GRAND TRUNK EXTENSIONS

West of Chicago May Parallel the Canadian Pacific in Manitoba.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—The Chicago and Grand Trunk has very comprehensive plans for making that line a trans-continental system.

Chas. M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk, has been quietly perfecting a programme of extensions west from Chicago. He returned here last week from London, where his plans were submitted to the Grand Trunk board, and it is said that they have been approved by the directors. The plan is to extend the Grand Trunk through Wisconsin and Minnesota to St. Paul, thence northward to the Canadian Pacific, thus practically paralleling the Canadian Pacific.

This report comes from one of Mr. Hays' assistants, who says there is no question that active work in the way of construction will begin within twelve months.

MATRIMONIAL TRUST RAIDED

Chicago Detectives Swoop Down on Nest of Gamblers.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Five matrimonial agencies and two "commission" offices visited by a detail of detectives were looted of their contents and three men were placed under arrest.

Three other men and one woman for whom warrants were issued, evaded arrest. Another woman saved her matrimonial office from being raided by locking it up and going away.

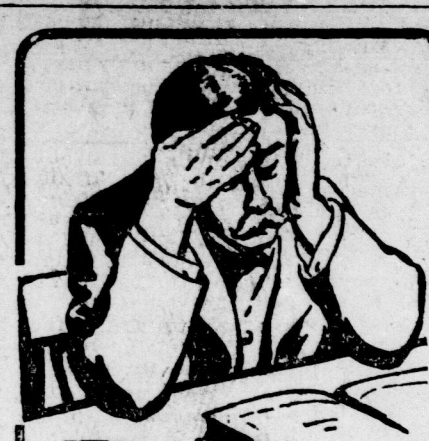

Detective Woodbridge, in charge of the raid, says that the matrimonial and gambling "trust" controlled by the same men and operating many branches under various names have been assumed, and the literature issued states that these concerns are incorporated.

The "trust commission" offices raided were those of the Armstrong-Haldwin Company and the Douglas-Daly Company. The matrimonial agencies visited were the Bell Advertising Agency, O. L. Wells, alias O. L. Weller, Unity Publishing Company, Loreto Publishing Company and J. S. Main.

The literature of the "trust commissions" was similar, and each concern accused the other of stealing its circulars and testimonials. The letters found in the various matrimonial offices were all so similar as to suggest a common author, and the same photographs of handsome women and prostitution were found in each.

A memorandum found in one of the "trust offices" showed the receipt of from $65 to $193 daily.

Uncle Sam Satisfied. Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—It practically has been decided to regard the misuse of the American flag by the Venezuelan Government warship Restaurador as a flagrant incident. The ample apology made by the Venezuelan foreign office and the hoisting and saluting of the American flag by 21 guns is taken as a sufficient explanation.

Headache.

Pain across the forehead or at back of head is dangerous. It slowly but surely weakens the intellectual powers, impairs the vitality and will. Headache is sometimes from the eyes but more frequently is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and digestive organs. Do not suffer. The pain can be cured by the harmless remedy

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

It never loses its effect. Cures by driving out the poison, and does not simply deaden the pain as do so many preparations containing narcotics. Abbey's in the morning will make you well and keep you well.

$20,000 for a Seat.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 25.—A seat on the Montreal stock exchange has been purchased by Burnett & Co. for a client for $20,000.

Spider Poisons Three People.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Magdeline W. Rode is dead and Dr. Walter H. Morris, her physician, is suffering from blood poisoning, as is E. J. Williams, the undertaker, as the result of a spider bite received by Mrs. Rode three weeks ago. Mrs. Rode died at 12 o'clock last night. Dr. Morris is confined to his room, having contracted blood poisoning from contact with his patient, and Undertaker Williams is similarly stricken.

The Cabinet Principle.

In the German Reichsrath the Government is in deadlock with the majority of the house. A British Government under such circumstances would resign and a new election would be held. In the United States the executive at the present time advocates a policy—reciprocity with Cuba—which the Senate rejects. In Great Britain the executive would carry its measures through parliament, or, failing that, immediately go to the country. Under the American system the executive and legislative branches are separated, and the two are frequently in conflict. The British constitution is superior in this respect, that the administration may at any time refer its policy to the electors for their judgment, and the mandate of the electors at once prevails. Today President Roosevelt has undoubtedly the support of the great majority of the American people on at least two questions—Cuban reciprocity and Congressional control of the trusts—but he has no constitutional means of imposing his will on the legislative branch, even though he should win the next Presidential election on these issues.

The Cabinet principle, by which the legislative and executive functions are so happily combined in the British system, is like other elements of the British constitution, a growth, not an inspiration. Originally Cabinet ministers were arbitrarily chosen by the sovereign, but they were not necessarily members of the House of Lords or House of Commons, and were of all shades of opinion. In the words of Macaulay: "Under the Plantagenets, the Tudors and the Stuarts there had been ministers; but there had been no ministry. The servants of the crown were not, as now, bound in frank pledge for each other. They were not expected to be of the same opinion, even on questions of the gravest importance. Often they were politically and personally hostile to each other, and made no secret of their hostility." It was not until the reign of King William the Third that the present conception of the Cabinet took shape. The King saw that a ministry constituted of rival factions could not command the respect of parliament or exercise an adequate control over its deliberations. He gradually came to the conclusion that it was necessary that the ministry should be acceptable to the majority in the House of Commons, as the popular chamber was becoming more and more the seat of power. In 1694 the first Cabinet, based on the party theory, was formed. It was composed mainly of Whigs, but not exclusively so, the King still desiring to share his favors between the two parties. However, in two years the last Tory was eliminated, and it was a purely Whig ministry. Since then, with some interruptions in the eighteenth century, the parliamentary majority has determined the complexion of the Cabinet. The principle of ministerial unity is the corollary of ministerial responsibility. Cabinets are constructed upon some basis of political union agreed upon by the members when they accept office together. So long as they continue in the ministry they are jointly and severally responsible for each other's acts, and it is necessary that they should be a unit in prosecuting any course of policy, whatever their private and individual opinions may be.

The New Trust Peril.

According to advices from Chicago, the proposed beef merger is already an accomplished fact. Despite Judge Groscup's injunction forbidding the great packing houses "to monopolize or attempt to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce in fresh meats," the houses especially enjoined are said to have consolidated their interests in a new corporation, the capitalization of which will amount to $190,000,000, or more than three times the present capitalization of the firms combined. The merger agreed upon, says the report, goes into effect at the close of the present week. All this, it is true, is still unverified by official statement, but the credence it has received in the centers of the meat-packing industry, makes it a matter of wide concern across the border. The estimate made of the possible savings to be effected by consolidation, is probably an exaggerated one. The firms combined will be able to reduce the number of men traveling for them, and they may also be able to effect some saving by concentrating their business in still fewer establishments. But it is hardly possible that they should thus save $5,000,000 annually, when, according to the census of 1900, the wage payments of all the packing houses and slaughter houses in the United States only aggregated $33,000,000. As a matter of fact a point may be reached in any manufacturing industry beyond which the further concentration of business in a single plant will bring no further economy, and meat packing may already have been carried to this point by the Armour and the Swifts. However this may be, the gains that are possible to meat packing monopoly through the lowering of prices to the cattle raisers on the one hand, and the raising of prices to consumers on the other, are such as make the temptation to consolidate almost irresistible, in the absence of effective public statutes to prevent the evils of monopoly. Not even the anthracite coal combination will so directly arouse attention to and indignation at monopolies, as will this attempt to control the prices of meat.

The Missionaries and the Boxers

Letters received at the State Department in Washington last week from Mr. Conger, American Minister at Peking, indicate that China is on the verge of another Boxer rising which may equal that of 1900. For some weeks it has been evident that the Boxer uprising, involving thousands of insurgents, in the distant Province of Szechuan, was an accomplished fact. The reasons for the rising appear to be, first, a continued resentment against the presence of missionaries, and second, the extortionate taxation which has been introduced since the signing by the powers of a convention providing for the payment of indemnity for damage to life and property resulting from the Boxer atrocities of 1900. The most serious riots have occurred near the city of Chong, a very important commercial center on an arm of the Yangtze River. On receipt of the news of these riots, Mr. Conger impressed upon the Chinese officials the importance of immediate and effective action, and through his representations some of the local Chinese officers were removed. Prince Ching, in a letter to Mr. Conger, informs him that some of the leading criminals among the local outlaws in the province have been arrested and executed; he admits the destruction of the Anglo-American Church at Tien-chuachou, the killing of the native pastor and seven of the church members, and the burning of some of the residences of the native Christians. That this report of affairs vastly understates the truth would be indicated from another report which, it is to be hoped, equally overstates it—namely, that from 200 to 1,000 converts have been killed by Boxers in the province, and that the disturbers have warned the Chinese Government of their intention to kill all the foreigners and to exterminate all the Christian churches in China. The crisis has been accentuated by the fact that there has been famine in the province. The imperial treasury has had to dole out large sums to alleviate the suffering. Coincidentally with this information comes the news of the murder of two English missionaries in the Province of Hunan, Messrs. Lewis and Bruce, belonging to the China Inland Mission. This event is believed to be not so much due to an organized Boxer campaign as to a sudden outbreak of fanaticism. The missionaries had been warned, however, of impending injury. Though the local governor offered refuge to them in his yamen, or fortified inclosure, they decided to remain in their mission. The news of this double murder is the more shocking because so unexpected; although uneasiness has been felt since last May concerning Szechuan, little has been felt about Hunan. The British Government has ordered one of its gunboats on the Yangtze to be sent in the direction of Chenchau, where the murder occurred.

The Toronto Star arrives at the illogical conclusion that the demand for Canadian brides in the United States is occasioned by the absence of so many American girls who are ransacking Europe for titled husbands, thus compelling the American youth to seek abroad for a wife. The real reason of the Canadian girls' popularity is herself.

Must Buy in Exchange.

[Guelph Mercury.] Canada exported last year nearly 200 millions of farm produce. How is Canada to provide a manufacturing population at home to consume that quantity of stuff? How is Canada to avoid receiving imports in exchange for that produce?

A Sure Cure.

[St. Thomas Times.] Many a young man has been cured of palpitation of the heart by marrying the girl.

His Observation.

[Washington Star.] "Why don't you try to do something for your country?" asked the earnest citizen. "Young man," answered Senator Sorghum, "I have read history, and I have observed that all the troubles countries ever have are made by people who claim to be trying to do something for them."

A Sure Sign.

Not to be Fooled.

[Philadelphia Press.] "Both these samples," said the customer, "smell like cheap goods to me." "Those whiskies," replied the distiller, "are the best on the market. They're both over ten years old." "Then they're old enough to have better scents."

Poems the World Has Read.

Wellington.

[Benjamin Disraeli.]

Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield, novelist, statesman and Premier of Great Britain, was born in London, and died there in 1881. He entered Parliament in 1837, and became Prime Minister in 1868, and again in 1874, retaining that position until 1880. He was raised to the peerage in 1877. His novels, "Coningsby" and "Sybil," revolutionized certain political methods of the time and gave him a brilliant reputation as a novelist of politics and high life, which he maintained to his closing years. "The Wondrous Tale of Alroy" appeared in 1823, the "Rise of Iskander" and the "Revolutionary Epic" in 1824, the "Tragedy of Count Aracoz" in 1829, "Lichfield" in 1870, and "Endymion," his last novel, the year before his death.

Not only that thy puissant arm could blind
The tyrant of a world; and, conquering Fate,
Enfranchise Europe, do I deem thee great;
But that in all thy actions I do find
Exact propriety; no gusts of mind
Fifful and wild, but that continuous state
Of order'd impulse mariners await
In some benign and enriching wind.

Australian Spread-Eagleism.

[Exchange.]

The Daily Express of London, England, gives this sample of Australian eloquence, perpetrated recently by an orating pedagogue in an antipodean town: "King Edward is sovereign over a continent, 100 peninsulas, 500 promontories, 100 lakes, 300 rivers and 10,000 islands. He waves his hand and 900,000 warriors march to battle to conquer or to die; he bends his head, and at the signal 1,000 ships of war, and 100,000 sailors perform his bidding on the ocean. He walks on the earth, and 200,000,000 human beings feel the least pressure of his foot. "The Assyrian Empire was not so populous. The Persian Empire was not so powerful. The Carthaginian Empire was not so much dreaded. The Spanish Empire was not so widely diffused. The Roman Empire was weak in comparison, and Greece was a small village."

Earthquakes Have Opened Great Chasms in Mont Chullapata.

Lima, Peru, Sept. 26. — Word has just been received that Mont Chullapata 18 miles from Celenid, has been erupting volcanic dust and smoke for the last fortnight. There is no record that Mont Chullapata ever was believed to be a volcano. Loud noises are now heard 10 miles away as the result of the volcano's action. There have been several earthquakes around the mountain, and great chasms have been opened in the side of the volcano.

CHILDREN KIDNAPPED

Two Disappeared Suddenly From Windsor School at Recess.

Windsor, Sept. 26. — A nerve kidnapping case was brought to light in Windsor yesterday, by the appearance of A. D. Wolferton, of Hartford City, Ind. He had his children boarding at the home of Charles Johnson, on Ferry street, Windsor, and on Tuesday afternoon received a telegram that they had disappeared. He at once came to Windsor and learned the following facts: The children were attending the Pelletier street school, and while the pupils were enjoying recess in the forenoon Tuesday, the children were approached by a young woman, and after talking for a few moments, the children departed with her. She was joined at the ferry dock by two men and the five crossed to Detroit. This was the last seen of the children by any person who knew them. Wolferton told the police that he is having some trouble with his wife and that they are not living together. Divorce proceedings are now pending. About six weeks ago he brought the children to Windsor for fear the mother would secure possession of them and he engaged their board and told Mrs. Johnson to send them home. Their names are Archie and Izah, 9 and 6 years respectively. After placing Chief Willis in possession of the facts Wolferton left for home. He says that his wife's relatives may have taken the children back to that part of the country.

U. S. Secretary Root has issued an order establishing schools at every post in the army for officers, including all lieutenants and captains of not less than ten years' service as commissioned officers. These schools take the place of the former method of training in the officers' schools and lycums.

When a woman is nervous her imagination gives fantastic and threatening shapes to the most familiar objects. By day she starts in fear at every sudden or unfamiliar sound. By night the furniture of her room takes on affrighting forms of ghost or goblin. You can't reason with the nerves. Neither logic nor love can quiet them. They must be nourished and then the outcry of the nerves will cease as naturally as a hungry child ceases to cry when fed.

For nervous women there is no better tonic and nerve than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the diseases which produce nervousness in women, irregularity, debilitating drags, inflammation, ulceration and general weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite, and induces refreshing sleep.

"When I began taking your medicine I was not able to stand on my feet for minutes at a time," writes Mrs. Katie Borradale, of 113 Spring Street, Nashville, Tenn. "I had failing of uterus and kidney and liver disease, and was so weak and nervous I could not keep still. I would take nervous spells and almost die at times. I had several different doctors attending but they could not do me any good. The last one I had said I would never get well again. I told him that I was taking your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' He said, 'You might as well take that water each day.' But I thought I would give the medicine a fair trial. Before I had finished the first two bottles I was able to get outside the house and walk around the yard. I kept on taking the medicine and they cured me."

WILL STAND BY THE BANKS

United States Treasurer Will Try No Experiments.

Government Obligations Will Be Anticipated in Certain Cases.

Washington, Sept. 25. — Secretary Shaw, of the treasury department, issued the following statement today: "Money once covered into the treasury (and this, of course, includes the sub-treasuries), cannot thereafter be deposited in banks. All custom receipts are by law payable to the treasury and the sub-treasuries. The only fund therefore available for deposit in banks is international revenue and miscellaneous receipts before they have been actually covered into the treasury. These amounts to about half a million per year, and since the stringency arose to its fullest extent, have been steadily returned to circulation. This policy will be continued for thirty or sixty days, if needed, and longer, if necessary. "In the meantime national bank circulation has been increased about $7,000,000, largely induced by the distribution of deposits, and the further increase to the amount of eight millions is assured. All rumors of expropriation of the treasury department by the treasury department. It is to be hoped that the public will place no credence in vagaries reported by irresponsible and ill-informed persons. The treasury department is also hoping that the country will understand that the treasury department to the extent of its ability will stand by the banks, east and west, north and south, and it is hoped also that the banks will stand by every business and every interest that is worth protecting. "The only way to get money out of the treasury into circulation after it has been actually covered in, is by the payment of legal obligations of the Government. These may be anticipated. The department did anticipate the October interest. It now offers to anticipate all interest maturing between Oct. 1 and the end of the fiscal year, if presented within 60 days, at a rebate of 2-10 of 1 per cent per month, which is at the rate of 2.4 per cent per annum. "In other words, these obligations will be prepaid at such a rate as to allow the holder to make a profit thereby at 2.4 per cent per annum. "The amount maturing before June 30, 1902, in round figures, is $20,650,000. The profit of the Government, if this offer should be accepted, will be in round figures $220,000. There will be no experiments tried and no policy adopted until after mature deliberation. The contrary should be discredited."

VERY MANY PERSONS die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

Manchester's sanitary committee is contemplating a scheme of public improvements, the most important of which are calculated to prevent the spread of tuberculosis. DO NOT DELAY.—When, through debilitated organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assist the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

Japanese schoolboys when they wish to protest against unpopular masters go on strike. Three cases of such open mutiny occurred recently during one week. DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera, summer complaint, seasickness and complaints incident to children teething. It gives immediate relief to the sufferer from the effects of indigestion in eating unripe fruits, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Billiards as a game is decreasing in popularity in France, where the number of tables in use fell from 96,000 in 1889 to 89,000 last year. ARE YOUR CORNS harder to remove than those that others have? Have they not had the same cure? Have they not been cured by using Holloway's Corn Cure? Try a bottle.

The remains of the man found near Stanley, Ont., have been identified as those of Donald Renie, a carpenter, well known in the district. In the Lisgar election trial, to void the election of D. A. Stewart, M. P., George Wainman asked the protection of the court and swore that he had received $5 for his vote from A. C. Smith, a Liberal party worker.

Her Recompense.

Grace's merry laugh rang out like old times at this information, and then she told him the story of her lovely suit-mittens.

"I have them now," she said, in conclusion, "and I should really like to see the quilt little body again; for, if you will believe it, I am more disappointed than I can tell you that you cannot go with us; but you must come and dine with us before we leave; you surely will grant us that much."

"We shall be very happy to do so," Audrey said, while Rich bowed his head and acceptance; "and, believe me, I am very sorry that we cannot go on the trip with you. Rich really has been changed more than I do, for he has been working very hard, and now, as he says, that it will be impossible for him to get away this summer, so I must stay and take care of him."

"Well, we must resign ourselves to stern fate," sighed Mrs. Campbell, regretfully. "I am sure that if we had not been so busy, we should have been able to go with you. I promise myself that I shall see a good deal of you after our return. About our dinner—will Tuesday suit you?"

Audrey said it would, and it was arranged that the Campbell carriage should be sent for them on that day, after which the ladies would leave for home.

"I must confess, Rich, I am glad to renew this acquaintance," Audrey remarked, after her friends had been saying good-bye to her. "I always admired Mrs. Campbell, and she is tenfold more lovely now than she was before she went abroad."

"She certainly is a very delightful lady," Rich admitted. "And Grace—she is charming!"

Miss Walden bent a penetrating glance upon "Rich" and then said: "Miss Campbell is a beautiful girl, and her manner is very polished," he answered quietly, while he drew the evening paper from his pocket and began to unfold it somewhat absently.

Miss Walden smiled, and forthwith a pretty little romance, in which Grace Campbell and Rich figured as conspicuous characters, began to weave itself in his fertile brain.

But the young man himself was thinking of a fair, pure girl, with deep blue, appealing eyes, surrounded by bewitching waves of golden hair, which was lovelier to him than the more brilliant beauty of Grace Campbell.

It was a "faded conclusion" that Richmond Walden had that day lost his heart to beautiful Annie Hunting, although, as he himself admitted, he had not made the discovery, nor would he have been willing to confess to more than a friendly interest in her.

But the next morning, on his way down town, he went directly to the corner where he had told him his former mentor was in the habit of waiting for him, and introduced a policeman who was stationed there.

He related something of what had occurred the previous day, and asked the young lady and the fellow, and asked him to be on the lookout at a certain hour and use all his influence to bring the young girl from further annoyance.

The officer was good-natured and obliging, and promised to attend to the matter, and in the afternoon he was not all right.

But for the next few days Annie Hunting rode home, and John Crouch, who had lingered round the corner watching for her, had his trouble for nothing.

PEACE IS FAR AWAY.

New York, Sept. 25.—At the conclusion of the session of the National League, Sept. 25, the National League, said: "We spent the entire session in a general discussion of the situation, and not a single action was taken that would interest the public. As a matter of fact our hands are tied in certain respects, and we can do nothing in the line of what the public expects." Mr. Brush admitted that they had discussed the situation, but he also admitted that his followers were completely baffled as to what to do.

According to James A. Hart, of Chicago, there is absolutely no chance of peace between the two big leagues. Mr. Hart, in answer to "Peace," repeated: "There is no chance of it. There certainly have been no advances made by the other side, and none by us. The American League, to my mind, does not want peace just at present. They will never be satisfied until they have placed their hands on the National League. Then they think they will be able to talk terms to the major league." Mr. Hart declared that the over carefully, and that they would be surprised when they learned how few players would jump their contracts this year on either side.

THE TURF.

THE O. J. C. MEETING.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—A special race train from Windsor, which arrived today, brought in over a hundred race horses for the big O. J. C. meeting, which begins on Saturday. The best horses racing at Windsor came along, and with the best horses at Buffalo, ready here, and a judicious sprinkling of good ones from New York and Chicago, there should be some of the most exciting racing ever seen at the Woodbine. Among the Windsor arrivals was the stable of Lamassey Bros. of fourteen horses. The Seagram horses were shipped from New York yesterday, and a special telegram says they are all in fine order and likely to reflect credit on the black and yellow jacket that they will carry for the first time under the direction of Trainer Barry Littlefield. Half a dozen horses from Bel Air, including King Tom, Beau and Red Monks, have arrived. The veteran Canadian horseman, Jonathan Scott, one of the oldest hands on the turf, also arrived from Montreal.

IT IS AN OFFICER OF THE LAW OF disturbance it searches out the hiding place of pain, and like a guardian of the peace, lays hands upon it and says: "I arrest you, and in the name of the law I hereby impose a sentence of perpetual banishment on pain, and Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was originated to enforce that sentence."

If very persons who purchased a lot in the new survey, "Home-Hurst," during the past ten days, builds a dwelling thereon, the survey will be truly a thicket of happiness, as the law of health imposes a sentence of perpetual banishment on pain, and Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was originated to enforce that sentence.

The special prices which prevailed during the great land sale will be withdrawn on Saturday evening next at 8 o'clock, and the prices of any lots remaining unsold after Saturday night will be advanced 10 per cent, and in addition the 10 per cent discount for cash will not be allowed.

This sale has certainly presented to those who either wished to buy for the purpose of building a home, or to make money, one of the grandest chances that the citizens of London have ever had presented to them, and from the large number of sales made, it would seem to indicate that the people are not slow to appreciate a meritorious proposition.

Engineer Cautions No. 2 To Be Careful With Funds.

Repair of West London Breakwater Caused Overdraft of $500.

Engineer Graydon reported at last night's meeting of the board of works that the funds of No. 2 committee were so low that it would be impossible to do any more work this year, beyond the necessary repairing. The breakwater in West London would make an overdraft of about $500, so that the remaining funds would only be sufficient to provide for the foremen's wages, and any snowplowing expenses that may arise before the first of the year. The letter was filed.

The engineer also reported that the bridge crossing over Carling's Creek on English street opened in about a week ago, and that the street had to be closed to traffic. He said it would be necessary to either construct a new timber bridge or replace the old one with a 43-inch concrete tile drain.

His recommendation was that only 20 feet of tile, sufficient for a roadway, be laid this year, the remainder, some 86 feet, to be laid next year.

The matter was disposed of by a motion that a concrete tile drain be put down from the sidewalk on the west side to the ditch on the east side.

A humorously-sarcastic misfire from Mr. Cy Warman, the well-known story writer, complained of a patience-tiring stretch of walk on E. 4-7-23 street, which Mr. Warman alleges is unfit for pedestrians or any other purposes.

A new walk will be advertised on the initiative.

The petitions of C. E. L. Pratt, for a sewer on St. George street, between Central avenue and Hyman street, and of Alex. Anderson, for a sewer on Charlotte street, from Dundas street, to a point opposite the south side of Lorne avenue, were ordered to be advertised on the initiative, as was that of John S. Walker for a five-foot cement walk on the south side of Maple street, between Richmond and Talbot streets.

Warren Bros. & Co., who have the contract for the Talbot and Peter street pavements, asked for an extension of time owing to the unfavorable weather experienced since starting work. They asked that the time for completing the Talbot street pavement be extended to Oct. 15, and that of Peter street to Oct. 30. Their request was granted.

The matter of W. H. Bartram's proposed indictment against the city was laid over, as were several matters of unimportant nature.

A sewer on High street, which was repaired a short time ago, nevertheless backed up and flooded the cellars of Messrs. Smith and Bradshaw. They appeared before the board and protested vigorously against the nuisance. A motion was passed providing for a larger tile being put in place of the old one.

Family Reunited After Being Lost to Each Other Sixty Years.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 25.—An advertisement in a paper at Marseilles, Ill., was the means of reuniting the families of two brothers, who had been lost to each other for 60 years. The late F. J. Sadler, one of Joliet's early settlers, was one of the brothers, and E. T. Sadler, the newly found relative, was the other. The late F. J. Sadler, who had been missing for so long and devoted time and money to the search, T. J. Sadler, entered the land of the dead at Seventy Illinois in the civil war and afterward moved to Iowa. Two sons live in Bloomington. The surviving members of the family held a reunion in Joliet yesterday.

A Far-Seeing Statesman.

The Dominion of Canada has been of late much in men's mouths and in their thoughts. The presence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, in the land of much sentiment that may have a practical and useful outcome, might perhaps, with a little suggestion of things that may come to pass. Such suggestions, however, have not been due to Sir Wilfrid, who is right in his own mind as the happiest example of the happiest arrangement in the history of civilization. With a sincere and unmistakable affection for the land of his race he combines the truest allegiance to the British throne and Government, overlaying each attitude with great qualities of genuine and far-seeing statesmanship. Each of these points have been marked very strongly in the speech which he delivered at the banquet in his honor at the Palais D'Orsay Hotel in Paris.
