MONG THE REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Pacaud, M. P. P. for South Essex, is been very ill in Toronto with congestion of the lungs.

Hon. David Mills returned to Ottawa his afternoon. Mr. Mills does not think the prorogation of Parliament will take place before the first week in May.

Mr. Garson, M.P.P. for Lincoln county, was renominated at the Liberal Convention on Saturday. The Captain has made a most useful member, and he will no doubt be re-elected.

Mr. Donald Chisholm, M.P., whose death at New Westminster, B. C., has just been announced, was one of the few men who have had the gratification of reading their own obituary notices. A few months ago he was reported to be dead and eulogies of him were published in many newspapers. Deceased was a native of Nova Scotia, and his remains will be interred at Antigonish.

Dr. Montague, whose return to the House of Commons a few weeks ago, was looked upon as a most suspicious incident, in view of the past record of the constituency, is likely soon to find himself in the cold. His return has just been petitioned against, and charges of personal bribery against him as well as against the returning officer, Peter Reicheld, and his agents are made. The election trial will no doubt bring out some strange developments. Reicheld is a strong Tory partisan, and was no doubt selected as returning officer because of that fact.

In Peel county, the Tories have offered their nomination to School Inspector Hughes, of Toronto, who recently declined to lead the forlorn hope of that arty against Hon. G. W. Ross, the member for West Middlesex. Mr. Chisholm olds Peel by a strong bond of mutual teem, and he is pretty certain to be cted by a large majority. Meanwhile, . Hughes hesitates to either accept or cline nomination in that county. He see by this time that he is treated by arty as was the late James Fahey, who ver given a chance to run in any where there was a fair chance of South Wentworth Reform Convenet at Hamilton on Saturday when las Awrey was re-nominated to seat for the Ontario Legislahe coming campaign. Mr. Awrey eloped into a first-class Parliamend has proved a most useful legisdoes not astonish us to find that rative opponents have met time and tried to get some one to enter against him. Up to date, howr, the attempt has been unsuccessful. his testimony to Mr. Awrey's strength is well-founded. Ungerrymandered South Wentworth has never gone Tory.

THE WEATHER.

ORONTO, April 6.—11 p.m.—A general decrease in pressure is taking place over the Lake and Eastern districts. Local rains are falling in Ontario and Eastern Quebec. Elsewhere the weather is fair. Moderate temperatures are general throughout the country. Maximum temperatures: Calgary, 54°; Qu'Appelle, 42°; Winnipeg, 40°; Port Arthur, 44°; Toronto, 48°; Kingston, 42°; Montreal, 46°; Halifax, 42°.

LOCAL TEMPERATURES YESTERDAY.

For 24 hours ending 8 p.m.—(Observations taken at 3 a.m., and 8 p.m.: Highest-47°; lowest, 30°; mean (daily), 42°.

PROBABILITIES.

For the next 24 hours for the Lakes: Partly cloudy to cloudy; mild weather, with local rains.

W. S. Darling and $1,000,000 Missing.

NEW YORK, April 7.—It is generally believed that W. S. Darling, the partner of John F. Plummer is in Canada. There are various rumors about $1,000,000 which apparently has disappeared from the assets of the firm.

Ran Into a Landslide.

UTICA, N. Y., April 7.—A landslide occurred on the West Shore Railway last evening, about half way between St. Johnsville and Fort Plain. A freight train ran into the obstruction, badly wrecking the freight and breaking the leg of Hiram Miller, the engineer.

Miss Wiman's Narrow Escape.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Miss Mattie Wiman, daughter of Erastus Wiman, had a narrow escape from being burned to death at her home at Tantalion, St. George, S. I., on Thursday evening. While striking a match the lace on the drapery of her dress caught fire from a flying spark, and before the flames were extinguished Miss Wiman's throat and wrist were seriously burned.

Kemmler's Vision.

NEW YORK, April 7. An Auburn dispatch says: William Kemmler, the wife-murderer, of Buffalo, has suddenly claimed to have evinced a change of heart. Last Wednesday morning, just after midnight, he claimed to have a vision of Christ, and from that vision he has found conversion. Hundreds of persons are filing applications for permission to witness the execution. All the scientists in the country want to get in, but the sheriff is limited to 92. Kemmler has not asked to see a clergyman.

Judge Botsford's Fatal Fall.

MONCTON, N. B., April 7.—Judge Botsford fell through a second story window in the Monton club Saturday evening and struck the sidewalk, fifteen feet below, on his back. He was putting on his coat, and is supposed to have fainted. No bones were broken, but his internal injuries consisted of paralysis of the bowels, heart and spine. Deceased was 77 years old, and weighed over 200 pounds. He was a pioneer member of Royal Arch Masons, belonging to the lodge bearing his name. He was subject to fainting fits, to which cause his fall is attributed. Judge Botsford was born at Sackville, N. B. He represented Westmoreland in the Assembly for many years, and was speaker and surveyor-general. His wife, three daughters and a son survive him. He was a brother of Senator Botsford.

Outrageous Treatment by the Turks of the Cretan Christians.

Racing in England.

LONDON, April 7.—The Kempton Park Easter handicap race was won to-day by Dover's Brucea.

Perturbed St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 7.—The Russian Minister of Education and Prof. Mendiliff, of the St. Petersburg University, have resigned. The disorders among the students continue, and the prisons are overflowing with inmates.

"Darkest Africa."

LONDON, April 7.—Stanley has finished his book, "Darkest Africa," and will leave Cairo for Brussels to-day in response to an invitation from the King of Belgians. He will spend five days in Brussels, and then come to London.

Emin Pasha at Zanzibar.

ZANZIBAR, April 7.—Emin Pasha has arrived here. He shows less eagerness concerning the proposed expedition than his employers desire, and it is reported he wishes to cancel his engagement to return to Europe before deciding as to his future plans.

Contingencies Provided for.

LONDON, April 7.—Coming events cast their shadows before. The Duchess of Fife, the Queen's granddaughter, has just received as a presentation from the Scottish women on her husband's estates 50 tiny hand-knitted woolen jackets.

Lighthouse Accident.

LONDON, April 7.—A fog signal prematurely exploded last night at the famous Bell Rock lighthouse, off the east coast of Scotland. The dome was shattered by the explosion, and the light was extinguished for the first time since the lighthouse was built in 1811. After the explosion a passing steamer had a narrow escape from being wrecked on the reef, owing to the absence of the light. She was warned just in time by fog signals.

Cretan Christians Insulted by Turks.

CANDIA, Crete, April 7.—Bodies of Turkish troops have pillaged Christian churches and insulted Christians in the Province of Candia. At the request of the foreign consuls Chakir Pasha, the governor, has ordered an inquiry to be made into the outrages. The mixed comissions will inquire as to the extent of the damages the Christians have suffered and the Turks will be compelled to compensate them.

Le Caron the Spy.

DUBLIN, April 7.—The Freeman's Journal says: Le Caron, who became notorious because of the testimony by him for the Times before the Parnell Commission, is living in a suburb of London. He has grown a grey beard and mustache, which have so completely changed his appearance that his most intimate friends could not recognize him. The Journal also says he has been promised a further Government engagement in Australia.

Queen Victoria in France.

PARIS, April 7.—Queen Victoria continues to take long drives often in a donkey chaise in the neighborhood of Aix les Bains, and her rheumatism is steadily subsiding. In her absence the ancient royal charities, known as the Royal Maundy, were distributed on Thursday in the Chapel Royal, Whitehall, by the Lord High Almoner to 71 men and 71 women, the number of each sex corresponding with the Queen's age. The quaint ceremony has not altered for hundreds of years.

French Losses in Dahomey.

LONDON, April 7.—The French losses in Dahomey are more serious than has yet been officially admitted. This is unfortunate for the new Government, as the Boulangists are certain to make a violent attack upon its policy. It is a similar attitude in reference to Tonqin which brought such odium upon the Ferry Government, and a persistency in thus withholding information may well bring upon Freycinet the fate which befell Ferry. Meantime another expeditionary force for Dahomey is now being talked of as something certain to take place.

Bismarck.

BERLIN, April 7.—It is reported that the Emperor has again refused to consent to the publication of Prince Bismarck's letter of resignation. The public still decline to believe that the retirement of Bismarck is final, it being urged that he is by five years the junior of Gladstone and may still county upon a decade of activity. The Cartellers have offered to resign two seats in the Reichstag in favor of Prince Bismarck and Count Herbert Bismarck, but it is certain that the ex-Chancellor and his son will not accept them at present, whatever they may do later. The opening of the Reichstag and the royal speech are awaited with the keenest interest. Dr. Windthrost claims three indispensible concessions in return for his support of the Government. The return of all religious orders, religious teaching in the schools, and the removal of a discretionary, revocable character from all concessions.

Looking After His Army.

BERLIN, April 7.—Emperor William has issued a decree to the effect that, in view of its incompleteness, the reserve infanty military officers' system hitherto pursued, which provides that officers must come from the ranks of the nobility, must be extended to include those noble by character, in order that the sons of honorable middle class families may hold appointments in the army. The same rule will also apply to the civil service. The Emperor further disapproves the holding of commissions being dependent upon the private income of aspirants. He therefore decrees that the pay of officers of rifles, foot artillery and pioneers shall be increased by 45 marks monthly; that of officers of field artillery by 75 marks and that of officers of cavalry by 150 marks. He enjoins commanders to set an example of self-sacrifice to officers, and to check indulgences in unnecessary luxuries, the habit of making costly presents and giving frequent banquets and so forth. The Emperor has also issued regulations looking to the suppression of dueling in the army.

Imperial Visiting.

LONDON, April 7.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times says Emperor William will meet Queen Victoria at Darmstadt April 20.

It is stated Emperor William will visit the Empress of Austria at Wiesbaden this week.

Emperor William charged Major Liebert before the latter's departure for Zanzibar to make every effort to induce Emin Pasha to enter the German service.

A Hangman's Golden Opportunity.

LONDON, April 7.—Mr. Berry, the hangman, has had an opportunity to make money. W. W. Kelly, the enterprising American manager of Grace Hawthorne, who is playing "Theodora" in the English provinces, telegraphs to offer him £50 per week to play executioner in the tragedy, and let him off whenever there was anybody to be hanged. Berry, instead of being flattered by Kelly's offer, sent an indignant response, informing the audacious manager that it would be a violation of the code of ethics governing officers of the English Government for him to go upon the stage. As none of the "Theodora" company, from Miss Hawthorne down, would have remained upon the stage if Berry came on, he lost a fine opportunity to sue Kelly for breach of contract.

England's African Policy Keenly Criticised.

LONDON, April 5.—Sir Samuel Baker, the African explorer, has written a letter to the Times, indicting the British Government for its policy, which, he declares, has led to the loss of all the positions gained in Africa by the enterprise of individual Englishmen. He justifies the alliance between Emin Pasha and Major Wissmann and says it was only natural that Emin should join the German Government Expedition which will never imitate the fatal example of the English forces of advancing only to retreat. Sir Samuel points out how the Germans may in a few months regain the Equatorial Province by founding stations at Victoria, Nyanza, and forming an alliance with Mwanga, King of Uganda, thus eventually securing control of the White Nile at Gondokoro, while Italy will become master of the situation by gaining possession of Berber and Kassala. Khartoum will then naturally fall. He concludes by declaring that the Equatorial Province is of no commercial value, and England, he declares, may well be content to be an onlooker in that section of Africa.

Old World Wirelets.

Major Serpa Pinto, the African explorer, has started for Lisbon.

The Hamburg correspondent of the London Times says that in contrast with Bismarck's policy Emperor William intends to pave the way to an entente with France, and thus isolate Russia. The Austrian alliance, it adds, will remain unchanged.

CURRENT CONDENSATIONS.

Victor A. Robertson, a prominent lawyer, of Portage la Prairie, died Saturday of inflammatory rheumatism. Deceased was the second son of Judge Robertson, of Hamilton, Ont., was about 35 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children.

Constable Hay, the latest addition to the Hamilton police force, while arresting a drunken man on Saturday, was attacked by the drunk, who drew his knife and stabbed the officer in the hand and thigh. Hay was taken to the hospital. His assailant, John McNeil, was arrested.

Prof. Dawson says: If the indications of oil near Athabasca are correct Canada has the largest oil-bearing district in the world, comprising nearly 150,000 square miles, and as the indications extend down the McKenzie River below Athabasca the above area may only be a part of the oil-bearing country. Some of the lakes and rivers in the north are covered to a depth of several inches with oil.

THE ONTARIO HOUSE.

Winding Up the Business of the Session.

Mr. Meredith and the Premier on the School Question—The Opposition's Parting Shots Fall Short.

It was after 2:30 o'clock Friday morning when the separate school debate closed. There was some discussion as to whether or not the House should then adjourn and hold a session in the afternoon, but some members objected to going on during Friday, though the Attorney-General and the leader of the Opposition both avowed they had no scruples on the subject. After a short recess the supplementary estimates were given notice of and passed, and the Treasurer introduced a bill embodying the railway resolutions, which were read the first and second times without discussion.

Upon the motion to go into Committee of Supply on the bill, Mr. Balfour moved in amendment—

That this House regrets that in continuing the aiding of the building of railways out of Provincial funds, a more just, equitable and satisfactory scheme has not been submitted for its consideration; that while approving the policy of granting liberal aid to deserving colonization railways, the House is of opinion that Provincial aid should also at the same time be granted to deserving railway projects in the older counties.

The amendment was lost 31 to 50.

The debate on Mr. Craig's bill respecting the language of instruction in public and separate schools was continued by Mr. Meredith, who discussed the question for over an hour. He resented Mr. Ross' reference to Mr. Craig's loss of his convention, and spoke of that gentleman in the highest terms as a pure and high-minded Christian gentleman. He denied that the Opposition were endeavoring to stir up strife, and charged in return that the Liberal party were endeavoring to alienate the French-Canadians of Ontario from the Conservative party. He insisted, however, that he did not care what might be the result of this policy of the Opposition. It was intended for the best. Mr. Meredith closed by defending Mr. Craig's bill in detail and in arguing that that honorable gentleman had been perfectly persistent in his course throughout.

The Attorney-General, on rising shortly before 2 o'clock, was greeted with loud cheers. He said that at that late hour it would not be becoming on his part to occupy the attention of the House very long, nor did the speech of his honorable friend, heated although it was and excited, and impassioned as its delivery no doubt was, contain much that required an answer. It was absurd for the leader of the Opposition to say that the Government did not desire the French population to learn English. If his honorable friend really seriously meant any such statement as that he must be pretty nearly approaching absolute idiocy. (Cheers and laughter.) His honorable friend was not in that position—he knew very well how the matter really was, but he thought just now it was to the interest of his party to represent things as being different to what they were. The Government were as anxious as he was to see their French fellow-subjects speak the English language; but the difficulty was how to bring about that result. The plan proposed by his honorable friend was a very bad one, and if carried into effect, not more English would be learned, but less. Nothing could be gained by proscribing the French language in the schools, but a great deal was to be gained if they recognized to a certain extent the use of that language. The French population contributed to the support of the schools, and the object sought could be secured a thousand times more effectually by respecting their prejudices, by respecting their love for their language, by respecting their desire that their children should be taught their own tongue, than by adopting a coercive policy. (Cheers.) The honorable the Attorney-General then went through the instructions seriatim as regards the use of French in the schools and the directions for the teaching of English, pointing out that the French children were not to study French only, but to study English also. The policy of the Government was to have English taught in the schools, and to adopt the best methods of teaching. There no doubt was in some counties a scarcity of teachers qualified to teach English, and the Government wanted to remove that state of things as speedily as possible. The Attorney-General quoted from correspondence previously used by him in his recent speech at Woodstock to show that Dr. Ryerson and the whole Council of Public Instruction had regarded the use of French in the French schools in the East much as they regarded the use of English in the English public schools, and showed how this condition had gradually changed until the recent regulations of the Education Department had been issued, by which English was to be thoroughly taught and teachers thoroughly trained in English in every school in those counties.

Mr. Evanturel expressed his regret that the lateness of the hour precluded his continuing the debate, and correcting the numerous inaccuracies which the speeches of Mr. Meredith and Mr. Craig contained. He felt bound, however, to point out to the honorable gentlemen that this "syllabaire," which he and Mr. Craig had condemned so vehemently on account of its alleged Roman Catholic teaching and prayers, did not contain one single Roman Catholic prayer or doctrine. If the honorable gentlemen had been able to read French they would have seen this.

Mr. Craig's bill was defeated 51 to 30.

Mr. Meredith then moved in amendment to the motion to go into supply:

That this House doth declare that the rights guaranteed by the B. N. A. Act to the supporters of separate or dissentient schools are civil rights appertaining to them as citizens, and that the assumption that any church organization or body or the bishops, priests or ministers thereof are entitled to control the ratepayers in the exercise and enjoyment of such, his individual right, or to command obedience to its or their direction, by them or by the trustees of any such schools, in the exercise by them of such rights or the performance by them of the duties delegated to them by the State, is wholly unwarranted and dangerous to the State and ought to be resisted, and this House doth further declare that it is within the constitutional rights of the Legislature through the Department of Education to regulate such schools and particularly to prescribe the text-books to be used in them, and that the said department ought in the exercise of that right to make provisions regulating the text-books to be used in the said schools, except those employed in giving religious instruction, when and where such instruction is permitted by law.

Mr. Meredith said his main reason for introducing this resolution was that the Attorney-General had last session stated that he did not believe the Government had a right to deal with the question of text-books in separate schools, and that this session he had told the House he was mistaken. The rest of the resolution referred to a matter which he had already discussed in the House, the position of certain of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in connection with separate schools, and that was not well understood to be the condition of things at the time the Separate School Act was passed.

The Attorney-General said that as regards text-books in separate schools, what he had said last year as to the power of a Provincial Government to deal with these text-books, was that he was not then prepared to say that a Provincial Government had such a power. The point was sprung upon the House upon a motion against going into supply. He had not had occasion to consider the question before, and was, therefore, not prepared then to affirm that the power existed. He had considered the subject to some extent since and was of opinion that such a power existed in regard to this class of text books, and in regard to these it was extremely difficult to draw the line between the two classes. There was a difference of professional opinion on the subject. If he had been contemplating legislation in regard to it, he would have thought it his duty to bring the subject before the courts previous to such legislation. Mr. Meredith's motion to go into supply precluded any amendment by which the House could express what his exact views were. The motion was one of want of confidence, and was meant to be so. The resolution suggested that law as recognized by the Government gave to the hierarchy such a power, but the fact was entirely otherwise. The law gave no power whatever in the matter to bishop or priest. The power was given to the ratepayers and supporters of separate schools. Bishop or priest had no more power under the law in the matter of separate schools than a layman had. The degree of deference or obedience which the Roman Catholic laity gave was for themselves to chose, according to their sense of what duty or convenience required. It was not founded on any law of the Legislature. No law had given it, and, if a Roman Catholic chose to render what we might think an excessive amount of defense or obedience, no law which could be made would prevent his doing so. Mr. Meredith and all his party knew perfectly that nobody on the Government side of the House would favor a law giving to bishops or clergy any control over the laity. It must always be a matter of their own choice.

Hon. Mr. Fraser remarked that it would have been more manly on the part of the leader of the Opposition, if he had brought forward his motion in a different manner. The honorable gentleman had not done the bravest kind of a thing in moving a resolution affecting the minority, as this did, as a want of confidence motion. The amendment was lost, 51 yeas, 49 nays.

Mr. Hudson moved in amendment to supply that the grant to the Provincial Exhibition having been withdrawn, the grants to local agricultural societies should be increased. Defeated, 50 to 29.

On motion for the third reading of Mr. Ross' bill to amend the Public and Separate Schools Act, Mr. Ingram moved to strike out the fifth and sixth clauses of the bill. One of these gives to public school sections who have adopted the use of the ballot the option of returning to the system that previously prevailed should they wish to do so; the other makes the mode of voting adopted permanent for three years, whether the ballot system is adopted or the open voting system reverted to. The amendment was defeated 50 to 49.

Mr. Hardy's Municipal Amendment Act was read a third time and passed, and then several bills were withdrawn, among them Mr. Garson's measures to provide for the examination of stationary engineers and the inspection of stationary boilers.

When the speaker called the order for resuming the adjourned debate on Mr. Graham's motion that the Legislature petition the Dominion Parliament to take steps to secure unrestricted reciprocity, Mr. Graham said that, realizing that in the last throes of the dissolution of the present Parliament, it would be impossible to give the resolution that consideration which its importance demanded, he must ask leave to withdraw it, which was granted and the order discharged.

On the motion for the adoption of the report of the Public Accounts Committee Mr. Meredith objected to the wording of the report as not borne out by the evidence submitted to the committee. Col. Clarke, chairman of the committee, contended emphatically that the report was borne out in every respect by the evidence, and he repeated that the Conservative members of the Committee had shown opposition to no more than a very few points of the report. Hon. Mr. Hardy, who was present at the meeting at which the report had been presented, supported the contentions of the Chairman, as did Mr. Awrey. The report was adopted—50 yeas, 29 nays.

Mr. French moved to amend by repealing the existing exemptions as to colleges and other incorporated seminaries of learning, not being universities and not schools sustained in whole or in part by a Legislative grant or school tax. Negatived 50 to 30.

Mr. Ingram moved to add the following:

Sub-section 25 of section 7 of the Assessment Act is here repealed, and the following substituted therefor: The annual income of any person derived from his personal earnings to the amount of $700. The effect of this would be to exempt all incomes from taxation up to $700.

The amendment was negatived by 56 to 23.

Mr. Meredith moved to amend by providing

That no bylaw for substituting a business tax for the present mode of assessing personal property shall be passed unless or until a bylaw of the municipality declaring that the section shall go into effect therein shall have received the assent of the municipal electors of the municipality, and by providing that such vote may be taken at any municipal election.

The amendment was negatived by 50 to 29.

Mr. Creighton moved—and this was the end—that the following words be added to the motion:

But this House regrets that a measure of a more comprehensive character dealing with anomalies and inconsistencies in the mode of assessment of property for the purpose of municipal taxation has not been submitted for consideration.

The amendment was rejected by 50 to 29.

Upon the motion for the third reading of Hon. Mr. Ross' bill respecting exemptions from municipal assessments Mr. H. E. Clarke moved an amendment to provide that land, not including the buildings thereon, on which a place of worship is erected, or used in connection therewith, shall be liable to be assessed in the same way and to the same extent as other lands. Lost—50 to 30.

Mr. H. E. Clarke next moved to amend section 4 (the business tax clause) so as to extend its provisions to persons carrying on a trade or business. Negatived 50 to 30.

It was 6:30 o'clock when this succession of divisions were put on the records, and the Attorney-General then moved "that this House do now adjourn until Monday next at 2:30 o'clock." The motion was carried amid deafening cheers. Before separating the members heartily joined in singing "God Save the Queen" and "Auld Lang Syne."

WORK AND WAGES.

Fifteen Hundred Men Involved in the Toronto Building Trade Troubles —The Situation in Europe.

TORONTO'S LABOR TROUBLES.

TORONTO, April 7.—The labor disputes which have engaged a considerable share of attention in the city during the past week, are not yet settled, despite the meetings held on Saturday. The men still hold by their demand for more wages. The employers still refuse the increase. The bricklayers on Saturday resolved not to work for the masters who refused the increase, and another meeting has been summoned for today to consider future action. The stonemasons and laborers have also stopped work, and will remain idle until a settlement is arrived at. About 1,500 men are affected by these decisions.

LONDON, April 7.—The Berlin Labor Conference agreed on certain conclusions which would have practical value if there were any power to enforce them. Women and children not to work in mines, no Sunday labor unless necessary, women to do no night work nor work over eleven hours daily, coal mines to be scientifically protected—such are the more important recommendations of this distinguished body. Its adjournment was promptly followed by strikes on a large scale in various parts of Germany.

As one English strike ends another begins. The Liverpool dockers have gone back to work on their employers' terms, the London bootmakers having come out. Their stand is against "sweating," which means low wages for 90 hours' work weekly. The employes of the Government arsenal at Woolwich, numbering about 10,000, have formally protested against the present scale of wages and threaten to strike to enforce their demand for an increase. The highest wages now paid to artisans in the arsenal are only 21 shillings a week, much less than is paid to equally skilled workmen in many machine shops conducted by private parties. A deep feeling of discontent also pervades the metropolitan police force regarding the question of the pensions, and there are rumors that a strike is imminent. John Burns, the famous labor agitator, has interested himself in the matter and has offered to organize an agitation in the interest of the police, provided that two officers of the force will actively assist him. Secret meetings have been held to discuss this proposition, but with what result it is not known.

THE CHICAGO CARPENTERS.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The journeymen carpenters of Chicago held a gigantic mass meeting yesterday and unanimously ratified the action of their executive council ordering a general strike for an eight-hour day and minimum wages of 40 cents an hour. Five thousand men are expected to strike, and the leaders predict that 1,000 more will follow in a few days.

QUARRYMEN SUCCESSFUL.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 7.—The strike among the quarrymen at Point Ann has been settled. The men have returned to work at the increased wages of $1 50 per day. The strike at the Cookston quarry was also successful, the pay of the stone cutters being fixed at $2 50, $2 75 and per day.

5,000 TO 6,000 CARPENTERS GO OUT.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 7.—The carpenters' strike took place this morning according to programme. It is estimated between 5,000 and 6,000 men are out. No disturbance reported so far.

"MACHPELAH."

Dr. Talmage's Discourse Deals with Easter Thoughts.

What Resurrection Day Will Do for the Cemeteries—The Skyward Procession.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 6.—The subject of Dr. Talmage's sermon to-day was "Machpelah, or Easter Thoughts." It was based on the words in Genesis, xxiii, 17 and 18: "And the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made sure unto Abraham."

Here, said the preacher, is the first cemetery ever laid out. Machpelah was its name. It was an arborescent beauty, where the wound of death was bandaged with foliage. Abraham, a rich man, not being able to bribe the King of Terrors, proposes here, as far as possible, to cover up his ravages. He had no doubt previously noticed this region, and now that Sarah, his wife, had died —that remarkable person who at 90 years of age had born to her the son Isaac, and who now, after she had reached 127 years, had expired—Abraham is negotiating for a family plot for her last slumber. Ephron owned this real estate, and after, in mock sympathy for Abraham, refusing to take anything for it, now sticks on a big price—400 shekels of silver. This cemetery lot is paid for, and the transfer made, in the presence of witnesses in a public place, for there were no deeds and no halls of record in those early times. Then in a cavern of limestone rock Abraham put Sarah, and, a few years after, himself followed, and then Isaac and Rebekah, and Leah. Embowered, picturesque, and memorable Machpelah! That "GOD'S-ACRE" dedicated by Abraham has been the mother of innumerable mortuary observances. The necropolis of every civilized land has vied with its metropolis. The most beautiful hills of Europe outside the great cities are covered with obelisk and funeral vase and arched gateways and columns and parterres in honor of the inhumated. The Appian Way of Rome was bordered by sepulchral commemorations. For this purpose Pisa has its arcades of marble sculptured into exquisite bas-reliefs and the features of dear faces that have vanished. Genoa has its terraces cut into tombs; and Constantinople covers with cypress the silent habitations; and Paris has its Pere-la-Chaise, on whose heights rest Balzac and David and Marshal Ney and Cuvier and La Place and Moliere, and a mighty group of warriors and poets and painters and musicians. In all foreign nations utmost genius on all sides is expended in the work of interment, mummification and incineration.

Our own country consents to be second to none in respect to the lifeless body. Every city and town and neighborhood of any intelligence or virture has, not many miles away, its sacred enclosure, where affection has engaged sculptor's chisel and florist's spade and artificer in metals. Our own city has shown its religion as well as its art, in the manner in which it holds the memory of those who have passed forever away, by its Cypress Hills and its Evergreens and its Calvary and Holy Cross and Friends' cemeteries. All the world knows of our Greenwood, with now about 250,000 inhabitants sleeping among hills that overlook the sea, and by lakes embosomed in an Eden of flowers, our American Westminster Abbey, an Acropolis of mortuary architecture.

A PANTHEON OF MIGHTY ONES ASCENDED

elegies in stone, Iliads in marble, whole generations in peace, waiting for other generations to join them. No dormitory of breathless sleepers in all the world has so many mighty dead. Among preachers of the Gospel, Bethune and Thomas De Witt, and Bishop James and Tyng, and Abeel, the missionary, and Beecher and Buddington and McClintock and Inskip and Bangs and Chapin and Noah Schneck and Samuel Hanson Cox. Among musicians, the renowned Gottschalk and the holy Thomas Hastings. Among philanthropists, Cooper and Isaac F. Hooper, and Lucretia Mott and Isabella Graham, and Henry Bergh, the apostle of mercy to the brute creation. Among the literati, the Careys, Alice and Phoebe, James K. Paulding, and John G. Saxe. Among journalists, Bennett and Raymond and Greeley. Among scientists, Ormsby Mitchell, warrior as well as astronomer, and lovingly called by his soldiers, "Old Stars"; the Drapers, splendid men, as I know one of them my teacher, the other my class mate. Among inventors, Elias Howe, who, through the sewing machine, did more to alleviate the toils of womanhood than any man that ever lived, and Professor Morse, who gave us magnetic telegraphy, the former doing his work with the needle, the latter with the thunderbolt. Among physicians and surgeons, Joseph C. Hutchinson and Marion Sims, and Dr. Valentine Mott, with the following epitaph which he ordered cut in honor of the Christian religion: "My implicit faith and hope is in a merciful Redeemer, who is the resurrection and the life. Amen and amen." This is our American Machpelah, as sacred to us as the Machpelah in Canaan, of which Jacob uttered that pastoral poem in one verse: "There they buried Abraham, and Sarah, his wife; there they buried Isaac, and Rebekah his wife; and there I buried Leah."

A NOVEL QUESTION.

At this Easter service I ask and answer what may seem a novel question, but it will be found, before I get through, a practical and useful and tremendous question: What will Resurrection Day do for the cemeteries? First, I remark, it will be their supernal beautification. At certain seasons it is customary in all lands to strew flowers over the mounds of the departed. It may have been suggested by the fact that Christ's tomb was in a garden. And when I say garden, I do not mean a garden of these latitudes. All the flowers we see to-day had to be petted and coaxed, put under shelter, or they would not have bloomed at all. But at this season, and through the most of the year, the Holy Land is all ahlush with floral opulence. You will find all the royal family of flowers there—the daisy and hyacinth, crocus and anemone, tulip and water-lily, geranium and ranunculus, mignonette and sweet marjoram. In the college at Beyrout you may see Dr. Post's collection of about 1,800 kinds of Holy Land flowers; while among trees are the oak of frozen climes, and the tamarisk of the tropics, walnut and willow, ivy and hawthorn, ash and elder, pine and sycamore. If such floral and botanical beauties are the wild growths of the fields, think of what a garden must be in Palestine! And in such a garden Jesus Christ slept, after, on the soldier's spear, his last drop of blood had congulated. And then, see how appropriate that all our cemeteries should be floralized and tree-shaded.

THE REAPPEARANCE OF THE DEPARTED.

"Well, then," you say, "how can you make out that the Resurrection Day will beautify the cemeteries? Will it not leave them a plowed up ground? On that day there will be an earthquake, and will not this split the polished Aberdeen granite, as well as the plain slab that can afford but the two words, 'Our Mary,' or 'Our Charley?'" Well I will tell you how Resurrection Day will beautify all the cemeteries. It will be by bringing up the faces that were to us once, and in our memories are to us now, more beautiful than any calla lily, and the forms that are to us more graceful than any any willow by the waters. Can you think of anything more beautiful than the reappearance of those from whom we have been parted? I do not care which way the tree falls in the blast of the judgment hurricane, or if the plow-share that day shall turn under the last rose leaf and the last china-aster, if out of the broken sod shall come the bodies of our loved ones not damaged, but irradiated. The idea of the resurrection gets easier to understand as I hear the phonograph unroll some voice that talked into it or sung into it a year ago, just before our friend's decease. You turn the wire, and then come forth the very tones, the very accentuation, the very cough, the very song, of the person that breathed into it once, but is now departed. If a man can do that cannot Almighty God, without half trying, return the voice of your departed? And if he can return the voice why not the lips and the tongue and the throat that fashioned the voice? And if the lips and the tongue and the throat, why not the brain that suggested the words? And if the brain, why not the nerves, of which the brain is the headquarters? And if he can return the nerves, why not the muscles, which are less ingenious? And if the muscles, why not the bones, that are less wonderful? And if the voice and the brain and the muscles and the bones, why not the entire body? If man can do the phonograph, God can do the resurrection.

WILL IT BE THE SAME BODY

that in the last day shall be reanimated? Yes, but infinitely improved. Our bodies change every seven years, and yet, in one sense it is the same body. On my wrist and the second finger of my right hand there is a scar. I made that at 12 years of age, when disgusted at the presence of two warts, I took a red-hot iron and burned them off, and burned them out. Since then my body has changed at least a half-dozen times, but those scars prove it is the same body. And we never lose our identity. If God can and does sometimes rebuild a man five, six, ten times, in this world, is it mysterious that he can rebuild him once more, and that in the resurrection? If he can do it ten time, I think he can do it eleven times. Then look at the 17-year locusts. For seventeen years gone, at the end of seventeen years they appear, and by rubbing the hind leg against the wing make that rattle at which all the husbandmen and vine-dressers tremble as the insectile host takes up the march of devastation. Resurrection every seventeen years

PERFECT IN THE RESURRECTION

Another consideration makes the idea of resurrection easier. God made Adam. He was not fashioned after any model. There had never been a human organism, and so there was nothing to copy. At the first attempt God made a perfect man. He made him out of the dust of the earth. If out of ordinary dust of the earth and without a model God could make a perfect man, surely out of the extraordinary dust of the immortal body, and with millions of models, God can make each one of us a perfect being in the resurrection. Surely the last undertaking would not be greater than the first. See the gospel algebra: ordinary dust minus a model equals a perfect man; extraordinary dust and plus a model equals a resurrection body. Mysteries about it! Oh, yes; that is one reason why I believe it. It would not be much of a God who could do things only as far as I can understand. Mysteries? Oh, yes; but no more about the resurrection of your body than about its present existence. I will explain to you the last mystery of the resurrection, and make it as plain to you as that two and two make four, if you will tell me how your mind, which is entirely independent on your body, can act upon your body so that at your will your eyes open, and your foot walks, or your hand is extended. So I find nothing in the Bible statement concerning the resurrection that staggers me for a moment. All doubts clear from my mind, I say that the cemeteries, however beautiful now, will be more beautiful when the bodies of our loved ones come up. They will come in improved condition. They will come up rested. The most of them lay down at the last very tired. How often have you heard them say: "I am so tired." The fact is

IT IS A TIRED WORLD.

If I should go through this audience, and go round the world, I could not find a person in any style of life ignorant of the sensation of fatigue. I do not believe there are 50 persons in this audience who are not tired. Your head is tired, or your back is tired, or your foot is tired, or your brain is tired, or your nerves are tired. Long journeying, or business application, or bereavement, or sickness have put on you heavy weights. So the vast majority of those who went out of this world went out fatigued. About the poorest place to rest is this world. Its atmosphere, its surroundings, and even its hilarities are exhausting. So God stops our earthly life, and mercifully closes the eyes, quiets the feet, and folds the hands, and more especially gives quiescence to the lungs and heart, that have not had ten minutes' rest from the first repiration and the first beat. If a drummer-boy were compelled in the army to beat his drum for 24 hours without stopping, his officer would be court-martialed for cruelty. If the drummer-boy should be commanded to beat his drum for a week without ceasing, day and night, he would die in attempting it. But under your vest-ment is a poor heart that began its drum-beat for the march of life 30 or 40 or 60 or 80 years ago, and it had no furlough by day or night, and, whether in conscious or comatose state, it went right on, for if it had stopped seven seconds your life would have closed. And your heart will keep going until some time after your spirit has flown, for the assumption says that after the last expiration of lung and the last throb of pulse, and after the spirit is released, the heart keeps on weak-ing for a time. What a mercy, then, it is that the grave is the place where that wondrous machinery of ventricle and artery can halt! Under the healthful chemistry of the soil all the wear and tear of nerve and muscle and bone will be subtracted and that bath of good, fresh soil will,

WASH OFF THE LAST ACHE,

and then some of the same style of dust out of which the body of Adam was constructed may be infused into the resurrection body. How can the bodies of the human race, which have had no replenishment from the dust since the time of Adam in paradise, get any recuperation from the storehouse from which he was constructed without our going back into the dust? That original, life-giving material having been added to the body as it once was, and all the defects left behind, what a body will be the resurrection body! The dust of the earth being the original material for the fashioning of the first human being, we have to go back to the same place to get a perfect body. Factories are apt to be rough places, and those who toil in them have their garments grimy and their hands smutched. But who cares for that, when they turn out for us beautiful musical instruments or exquisite upholstery! What though the grave is a rough place, it is a resurrection-body manufactory, and from it shall come the radiant and resplendent forms of our friends outside, and that Jesus shall lay hold of, and opening, will say: "Good morning! You have slept long enough! Arise! Arise! And then what flutter of wings, and what flashing of rekindled eyes, and what gladsome rushing across the family lot, with cries of "Father, is that you?" "Mother, is that you?" "My darling, is that you?" "How you all have changed! The cough gone, the croup gone, the consumption gone, the paralysis gone, the weariness gone. Come, let us ascend together! The older ones first, the younger ones next! Quick now, get into line!

THE SKYWARD PROCESSION

has already started! Steer now by that embankment of cloud for the nearest gate!" And as we ascend, on one side the earth gets smaller, until it is no larger than a mountain, and smaller until it is no larger than a palace, and smaller until it is no larger than a ship, and smaller until no larger than a wheel, and smaller until no larger than a speck. Farewell, dissolving earth! But on the other side, as we rise, heaven at first appears no larger than your hand. And nearer it looks like a chariot, and nearer it looks like a throne, and nearer it looks like a star, and nearer it looks like a sun, and nearer it looks like a universe. Hail, sceptres that shall always wave! Hail, anthems that shall always roll! Hail, companionship never again to be broken, and friendships never again to part! That is what Resurrection Day will do for all the cemeteries and graveyards from the Machpelah that was opened by Father Abraham in Hebron to the Machpelah yesterday consecrated. And that makes Lady Huntington's immortal rhythm most apposite:

When thou, my righteous judge shall come
To take thy ransomed people home,
Shall I among them stand?
Shall such a worthless worm as I,
Who sometimes am afraid to die,
Be found at thy right hand?

Among thy saints let me be found,
Whene'er th' archangel's trump shall sound,
To see thy smiling face;
Then loudest of the throng I'll sing,
While heaven's resounding arches ring
With shouts of sovereign grace.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—[Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Brevity in Speech.

If there be anything in the idea that short speeches are the most impressive, the following and direct testimony respecting Humphrey's Family Specifics are to the point and convincing: Cresco, Ia., Plain Dealer: Humphrey's Specifics are almost as staple in the family of the editor as meat or flour. Nothing can excel their Nos. 1 and 7 for coughs, colds and sore throats. Burlington, Ia., Saturday Evening Post: We are never without Humphrey's Specifics. Why? Their No. 10 for dyspepsia and bilious stomach, and No. 16 for malaria, have saved us hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills. Schenectady, N. Y., Gazette: We desire every member of our family to use these Specifics. They are safe, sure and economical. Hampton, Va., Home Bulletin: Thousands of our leading families are using No. 16 for malaria and No. 10 for dyspepsia. Shasta, Cal., Courier: We doctor all our friends along the coast with these Specifics, and find Nos. 27 and 30 infallible remedies for kidney diseases. Knowing the above to be almost identical with the opinions of personal friends we cheerfully present them to our readers, upon the principle if you know a good thing tell it and let your friends have the benefit.—[Chicago, Ill., Western Broker. bd&w

A Startling Truth!—Thousands die annually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal diseases of the lungs; when, by the timely use of a single bottle of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, their lives could have been preserved to a green old age.

London to Washington and Return via Grand Trunk, New York Central and Northern Central Railway Lines.

The special excursion to Washington announced by the Northern Central Railway for Tuesday, April 8, presents doubtless the best opportunity ever offered to London's citizens of paying a pleasant visit to the national capital of the United States. The rate of $16 20 from London for the round trip, going and returning direct, or $3 additional to return via New York and the N. Y. C. and H. R. R. R., is very low, and the return limit of ten days makes the trip peculiarly desirable. Pullman sleepers will run through from Suspension Bridge. Train leaving London at 11:30 a.m. will arrive in Washington at 9 o'clock the next morning. For full information and a description book of Washington address E. DE LA HOOKE, city passenger agent G. London, Monday, April 7.

PENAL laws for the obliteration of a language have been passed and cruelly enforced in Ireland and Poland, but they can have no place upon the statute books in this country.—[N. Y. Sun.

Nor in any country where legitimate freedom has been established.

THERE will be a very brisk contest for the Lord Rectorship of Glasgow University. The Liberals have chosen the Earl of Aberdeen, the most popular Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in recent times, and the Tories have selected Irish Chief Secretary Balfour.

THE only way that the United States Senate can be reformed is to make every senator pay 50 cents a line out of his salary for the publication of his speeches. That would fix them.—[Lapeer (Mich.,) Democrat.

Not a bad proposition. If carried out in the Dominion House of Commons, Orator Hesson would be bankrupted in one session; and silent Mr. Coughlin would continue to be money in pocket.

THE Toronto Monetary Times rightly concludes that the proposal to increase the tariff taxes on both sides of the border, if carried into effect, will be seriously detrimental to both Canada and the United States. Of course it will. The higher the taxes, the less trade; the less trade, the less profit. How the new retaliatory taxes will operate against the Canadian farmers was ably shown by Mr. Charlton, in a recent speech in the House of Commons. The honorable gentleman placed before the House the following statement of the value of articles exported to the United States last year as compared with the value of the same articles which we exported to Great Britain:

	Exported to United States.	Exported to Gt. Britain.
Eggs	$ 2,159,725	$ 18
Horses	2,113,782	26,975
Sheep	918,334	303,609
Poultry	110,793	1,127
Hides, etc	454,105	7,070
Wool	216,918	470
Barley	6,454,603	3,838
Beans	405,534	.....
Hay	822,381	84,610
Malt	105,183	.....
Potatoes	192,576	245
Planks and boards	7,187,101	158,443
Totals	$21,141,035	$585,885

It will be seen at a glance that the sale of these articles to the United States is over 35 times greater than to Great Britain, our next best market, yet we have politicians who assert that it is the duty of Canadians to ignore every opportunity to make better trade relations with the United States, and to look for new markets elsewhere.

TAKE THE VOTE FIRST.

April 15 is the date fixed by the City Water Commissioners for cutting off the water supply now provided to 108 residents in the suburb of London South. The policy of the Commissioners, declared some months ago, is that no water shall be supplied to persons living outside the city limits; and in view of what has taken place since last midsummer we cannot say that it is an unreasonable one. It seems to us, however, that the Commissioners could very properly give the consumers of city water in London South another week and permit the voice of the people to be heard on the 21st inst. before taking the step of which they have given notice. The suburban consumers have so far failed to provide themselves with water for domestic purposes. Two interpretations can be placed upon this inaction. Either the suburbans believe that the Commissioners were not in earnest when they resolved to cut off the water supply to outsiders; or they have assumed that amalgamation will be indorsed by the majority of the electors. We have every reason to believe that the Commissioners are really in earnest, and that they mean to stick by their decision. Suburbans need not rely on the decision being reversed. But we can well understand that these London South water consumers have felt the pulse of public opinion, as our representatives have done, and have reached the conclusion that the opinion of the city and suburb will be decided by the electors on the 21st inst. In that case, their inaction is easily accounted for. Under all the circumstances, we would suggest to the Commissioners that they stretch their decision a little at the meeting to-morrow night and give the suburbans another week of grace. By that time the vote will be over, and the future of the people decided.

In the meantime, there can be no serious objection to Mr. Hutchinson and his friends voluntarily cutting their connection with the civic water supply, and resuming consumption of the clear-flowing fluid which, as has been pictured by the imaginative compiler of the circulars laid before the Legislature, is to be found anywhere for the digging.

The eleventh official census of the United States will begin on the 1st of June next. The work must be completed in fifteen days in the cities and thirty days in the country. The director of the census, Mr. Porter, hopes, by means of the new electrical counting machines, to be able to give the principal results to the public in twenty days after the reception of the last report. This will be a feat unexampled in census taking, if it is accomplished.

THE BARLEY QUESTION.

"Anything is good enough to make swill," and the American beer-drinker has begun to realize that there are other and cheaper ways of making beer than from the malt of Canadian barley. There has been some increase in the growth of American barley recently, more especially in the Northwestern States, but this does not account for the falling off in the demand for Canadian barley and the decline in its price. The fact appears to be that experiments made with corn have shown that beer may be made much more cheaply from that grain than from fine and bright barley, and as the beer-drinker is not a man of nice taste as a rule, the brewers have concluded that a more flourishing business is to be carried on by using corn than using barley. They have had two years of experience now, and the fact that Canadian barley has fallen from 65 to 45 cents per bushel is evidence of the satifaction which corn-brewed beer is giving to their customers. Circumstances of this kind cannot easily be changed, and even if the duty of 10 cents per bushel imposed by the United States was kept on, the farmers of Ontario could not afford to grow barley at the price it is likely to command. With the duty off and with free access to the markets of the continent they might hope to realize a small profit upon the cost of production, but not more than 10 or 15 cents per bushel at the outside. Let the United States, however, impose a duty of 30 cents per bushel, as recommended by the McKinley Committee, and the outlook will become utterly hopeless. Ontario barley will then be shut out of the United States as effectively as if a stone wall a hundred feet high were built up between the two countries, mounted and guarded for its whole length day and night by six legions of customs officers. Had the Canadian Government shown a disposition three or four years ago to treat with the Government of the United States for the establishment of free commercial relations, as they had a good opportunity of doing, it is almost certain that satisfactory terms might have been made. But instead of doing so they kept up an irritating and aggravating method of dealing with affairs, especially in regard to the fisheries question, until they succeeded in estranging almost every friend that Canada had in the United States, and their language was more offensive than their acts. The insolent tone of such braggarts as Col. Denison, of Toronto, and the bravado of such Government organs as the Toronto Empire have provoked a feeling of resentment across the borders, and in New York and other influential quarters there is a desire to make Canada feel that uncalled for offensiveness ought not to go unnoticed. And added to this sentiment is the political situation growing out of the necessities of the Republican party to strengthen themselves with the farmers, or rather to prevent a general secession of the farmers from their ranks. The protective system in the United States, as is well known, has got into bad odor with farmers and the working class; and while a bolt was averted at the last Presidental election by promises of tariff revision, it clearly commenced at the state elections of last year, as evidenced by the results in Ohio and Iowa. The Republican party are now persuaded that tariff revision has become to them a matter of death or life, and so the McKinley Committee is proceeding on lines which are likely to please many farmers who believe in the protective system. This committee does not care what the effects of high duties may be upon Canadian farmers. It does not care, apparently, if the farmers of this country are ruined by exclusion from the American markets. Its only regard is for the interests of American farmers and American citizens generally. And this is natural enough. But the circumstances have made this disposition all the stronger; the conduct of the Canadian Government and the utterances of such Government organs as the Toronto Empire have incensed the Americans to such a degree that the carrying out of the policy indicated by the report of the McKinley Committee is become an easy and a pleasant task. It is a poor satisfaction to be able to say, "We told you so," in the face of a critical situation; and when it is evident that the carrying out of the proposed amendments will inflict upon the farmers of Ontario a yearly loss of about $7,000,000 in one article of produce alone we can form a conception of what the general effect will be. Had our Government in the face of what is threatened shown that it possessed a reasonable discretion the outlook might not be so hopeless; but knowing what course was likely to be pursued at Washington, even while there was a strong desire in Congress for the establishment of close trade relations between the two countries, they have been infatuated enough to propose a very considerable increase in the customs duties for the express purpose of shutting American products out of the Canadian markets. The Congress at Washington will no doubt use this increase of Canadian duties as an argument in favor of the increase recommended by the McKinley Committee, and we know with what effect such an argument will appeal to the conscience of men who have been trained for a generation to believe in the virtues of a protective tariff.

Meanwhile the farmers of Ontario are being told by Minister Carling, the Free Press, the Empire and other authorities of the same genus that they may save themselves by growing two-rowed barley for the British markets. Minister Carling had gone so far as to import 25,000 bushels of this variety of barley to furnish seed grain for the Canadian farmer, and it is being furnished to them at the goodly price of $2 per bushel. We should be very glad if the experiment turned out satisfactorily, but it is worth remembering that two-rowed barley has been grown in Ontario before to-day. It was tried more than 30 years ago, and abandoned. Only last year Minister Drury sent a number of the best samples of Ontario growth which could be collected to England, to be tested by maltsters, and the invariable report was that the grain was too light for their use. Most of the samples were under 50 pounds per bushel, while the British standard is 56 pounds, and it is very doubtful if even in the most favorable season two-rowed barley grown in Ontario will reach the British standard. Our barley season is usually short, and hot, and dry, so that the grain has not the same opportunity to develop that it has in the more favorable climates of England and the European continent. We shall be glad if the most sanguine expectations of Minister Carling are realized; but we greatly fear that the farmers who are led to try his experiment will meet with disappointment.

The reasonable policy in the premises has been rejected; we mean the policy which would give to our farmers access to the markets of their own continent.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Anna Fuller will contribute to the number of Harper's Bazar, to be published April 11, a story entitled "Old Lady Pratt." It is a sequel to her story entitled "Aunt Betsy's Photograph."

Bishop Potter will contribute to Harper's Young People, to be published April 8, a paper on "David and Jonathan." This is the first in a "Bible story" series of articles by prominent divines of different denominations. The articles are to be accompanied with illustrations specially drawn for Harper's Young People by well-known French artists."

Outing for April is splendidly illustrated It includes articles on "English Yachts in 1889," "Fox Hunting in the Shires," "The Antelope on the Flats of Western Texas," "Alaskan Notes of a Fly Fisherman," "Duck Shooting on Lake St. Francis," "Bird Catching at Glengariffe," "Lawn Tennis—Some Improvements," "Bowling," and other timely subjects. 239 Fifth avenue, New York.

AMONG the unique methods of benefiting local charities, Detroit inaugurates one of April 22 which is especially striking. It consists of a floral and musical festival, in which are represented the 23 principal charities of the city. Each charity has a booth built in the architecture of the country it has chosen. More than 300 ladies of high social standing take charge of these, dressed in costumes appropriate. The orchid feature of the floral display and the trained chorus singing will be especial attractions. The festival was organized and is being managed by the Detroit Journal and lasts three days.

HOURS OF LABOR.

Will They be Lessened? Some Facts to Think About.

The desire to obtain something for nothing is ever present in the human race. And to the careful observer the movement to reduce the hours of labor has its rise partly in this desire. No one wants to work less hours for less pay; all the labor agitators demand the same money for shorter days. If this should be obtained, as we sincerely hope it will, after a short time the result will be lessened value of money; money will not buy so much, and wages will be as low as before. Benefit the workingman, but do nothing that will lower his wages.

What, then, can be done? It is easier to ask such a question than to give a correct answer. But all will agree in saying that the healthier a man is the better off he is. Who can be happy when nervous, sleepless or with poor digestion? "A fit of the blues" is the sure result. Prof. Phelps did more for humanity in discovering Paine's Celery Compound than many a noted philanthropist. This wonderful medicine makes the weak strong, builds up new nerve tissue and strengthens the vital forces. It is perfectly pure. It is a scientific preparation. It has curative powers in brain and nerve disorders such as no other medicine possesses. The most remarkable testimonials to its wonderful effect are shown at the laboratory on Mountain street in Montreal. It is a unque medicine, like nothing else.

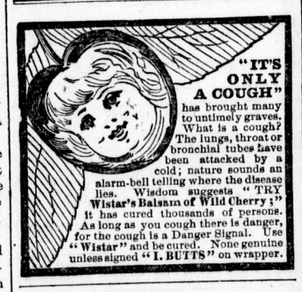

When the headaches, the face flushes, rheumatic or neuralgic pains appear and life becomes a burden, use Paine's Celery Compound. That hollow-eyed, sallow-skinned, prematurely old look disappears. Deep sleep comes like a balm to the irritated nerves. Strength of mind and body return, and sickness and suffering are driven away by health and happiness. The best citizens of Canada are using this medicine regularly, and its great popularity is the result of unquestioned merit.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY.

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST:
MONTREAL, Sept. 9, 1887.
GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar Refining.
The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99.90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

A SISTERHOOD LEAGUE.

Rochester's Female Baseballists Propose to Organize a League—General Sporting News.

BASEBALL.

A SISTERHOOD LEAGUE.

The two female baseball teams now organizing at Rochester will organize a Sisterhood League. There is a chance for Brotherhood teams to get exhibition "dates."

THE LONDON ACTIVES.

The Active Baseball Club held a meeting Saturday night for the purpose of organizing for the coming season and to decide whether the club should keep its old name or be called the Grand Trunk Railway Baseball Club. It was decided in favor of the latter on account of the members all being employes of the G. T. R. They intend to put a strong club in the field, and are ready to compete with any club in Western Ontario. All correspondence should be sent to E. Harrison, G. T. R car shops, secretary. The following officers were elected: Honorary president, Wm. McWood; president, J. D. McIlwain; vice-president, J. A. McHarg; manager, R. A. Drennan; secretary-treasurer, E. Harrison.

FLYS.

Martin Sullivan, who was wanted by Toronto, has been signed by the Boston League team.

Denny Connors has recommended Fred. O'Neill, an old London player, to the Toronto management.

A league, with Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston and perhaps Ogdensburg in it, is talked of, to be called the Eastern International League.

Like the American Association, the International League has made a game fight for life, and although somewhat disfigured, is still in the ring. It has but six clubs now, and those not of the strongest, but it lives, and that is a matter for congratulation. If it should survive the season it will be stronger than ever next year. Mighty changes are likely to take place in baseball before that time.—[Philadelphia Sporting Times.

Manager Bacon, of the Buffalo International Club, says: To-day signed Pettee for second and Coughlin for third base, both of last season's Londons. I think by to-morrow will get Hamilton, first base. Have been dickering with him and is now within reach. What will be the matter with our infield? Hamilton, first base; Pettee, second base; Coughlin, third base; Sayles, shortstop; our outfield, Andrus and Rooks. These, with Oldfield catcher and Conway and one other pitcher, will be all the men I shall bring on.

CRICKET.

THE LONDON CRICKET CLUB.

In order to encourage the playing of cricket among the schoolboys under 15 years of age it is proposed by some members of the London Cricket Club, who have the welfare of the juveniles at heart, to donate to any boys' club which shall have a paid-up membership of say twelve members at not less than 50 cents each, with a proper organization and a sufficient play ground, a sum equal to their subscription list and not exceeding $10, towards the cost of proper material. Boys or masters who wish to take advantage of this offer can obtain full particulars from the Secretary of the London Cricket Club. Junior members between the ages of 15 and 18 will again this year be admitted by the London Cricket Club on payment of the reduced subscription of $2 each. The efforts of the club to popularize this manly and elevating game among the younger members of the community is deserving of the recognition of all good citizens, who may aid the club in its work by becoming honorary members or active members themselves.

BYES.

W. Goodwin, a well-known amateur bowler in Philadelphia, thinks that if the American plan be adopted ten-ball overs will help rather than injure the bowller's average. He strongly favors a trial of it in one-day matches.

THE WHEEL.

Major Knox-Holmes, the veteran of English cycling, the Major being over 80 years of age, and yet capable of showing a stiff pace to many a younger man, recently collided with a man standing in the middle of the road and has been laid up in consequence.

THE TURF.

Mr. W. G. Gerow, of Whitevale, Ont., has purchased from Mr. Milroy, of Brantford, the young stallion Grit Wilkes by Dillard Wilkes, dam Lily by old Clear Grit. This young stallion has only received six weeks' education, yet he can show better than a 50 clip.

Every follower of the turf in Canada will regret to hear of the death of the famous Province-bred stallion Terror, by Rurie—Maritana, by Flatcatcher, son of Touchstone. He was a rare good turf performer, and has sired such cracks as Disturbance, Marquis, Williams, Fanny Wiser, Vice-Chancellor, etc. He has also sired a large number of half-bred saddlers and hacks that have commanded quick sale on account of their superior quality and jumping powers.

Half-a-dozen dare-devil riders recently indulged in the wild freak of a cross-country race at midnight, in England, and on the following Sunday the Vicar of Melton, preaching in the parish church of Melton Mowbray on the words "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them," said: "I shall not fulfill the precept of our text if I do not express the strong feelings of shame and disapprobation with which the bulk of our people regard the proceedings which disturbed and discredited our town on the night of Monday last. Position, wealth and influence, to say nothing of the manly art of good horsemanship, have been degraded and discredited among us."

A mare called Polly, and claimed to be Irish-bred, has for several years been the most successful trotter in Europe. She is owed by a Dublin man named McDonald, and is a winner at all distances from three-quarters of a mile up to five mile heats. Last year it was pretty well established that the Irish-bred Polly was really the American-bred Utopia, and this has been officially determined as the result of the award of several medals in Russia to her breeder, who is shown to be a Minnesota man named La Due. Polly, or Utopia, is trained and driven by J. W. Raymer, who won about 36 races with her last year. Raymer is a Canadian and at one time lived in Toronto. Canadian horsemen have been very successful with trotters in Europe, Harry Giddings and Dan McPhee being two others from the land of the maple leaf who have made their mark there. Raymer says he has a 3-year-old son of Amber that is the second best of European-bred trotters. Amber, it will be remembered, is a son of Clear Grit, and was formerly the property of Mr. P. J. Pilkey, of Brantford. He is now owned by the Italian Government.—[Toronto Globe.

THE RING.

A New York dispatch says: It is practically settled that Champion John L. Sullivan and James J. Corbett will fight four rounds within three weeks.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE.

A Richmond, Va., correspondent writes under date April 3: No little stir was caused here to-day by the report that, under the privileges of a bill recently passed by the Legislature, incorporating the Sporting and Athletic Association of Norfolk, which allows the club to have prize-fights, Sullivan and Jackson would be invited to fight without molestation in Virginia. The move has been started in sporting circles. Opinions are divided among the citizens as to whether the fight ought to be permitted. Sound lawyers assert that any interference on the part of the police with the fighters would be illegal, as the law clearly gives the association a right to have these fights on its grounds. Advocates of this move argue that it will attract thousands from all over the States. They think when the people learn the fight is to take place in a State whose latest law gives a club the right to have prize-fights, and that therefore principals and spectators need have no fear of arrest, a crowd is sure to come from all quarters. Of course the Sporting and Athletic Club of Norfolk will make tremendous profits from gate fees alone. It is conceded that the Norfolk club has a big monopoly until the Legislature meets and repeals the law.

Quebec Elections.

MONTREAL, April 7.—It is announced that the Provincial elections will be held within the next 60 days.

The Capsized Yacht Idler.

TORONTO, April 7.—It has transpired that the yacht Idler, found capsized in the lake off the Exhibition Grounds, on Good Friday, belonged formerly to G. B. Shaw, of Parkdale. He sold her to Ernest Duval, who, with a couple of friends, went out sailing on Friday. The boat capsized but the occupants were rescued.

Poisoned the Entire Family.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The family of George P. Newland, a wealthy real estate dealer on Wabash avenue, was taken very ill after supper Friday night. Mrs. Newland died soon afterward. A servant is suspected of putting "Rough on Rats" in canned corn. The girl had been in the service of the family only one day, and no cause can be assigned for the crime if she committed it.

Drowned.

KINGSTON, Ont., April 7.—While Wm. King, his son George and his son-in-law were driving across Gull Lake Friday they broke through the ice, and the elder King and team of horses were drowned.

Two boys, A. Floyd and George Coulson, went sailing Friday, and have not been heard of since. It is supposed they were drowned through the boat upsetting in the gale.

A Barley Boom.

TORONTO, April 7.—The barley market is getting a boom on in great shape and prices are advancing, but unfortunately it is too late in the season. Farmers are about cleaned out, and many stocks are nearly used up. A lot of 10,000 bushels hardly equal to No. 3 extra is held outside at 40 cents, and some dealers say that round lots of No. 3 extra cannot be got for less than 42 cents at outside points, an advance of 4 cents in the past two days.

Lady Medical Students.

KINGSTON, Ont., April 7.—The following scholarships of the Women's Medical College are announced: The public scholarship of $40, open to students of the first year, has been won by Miss Gertie Hulet, of Norwich, Ont.; the McNee scholarship, $45, open to students of the second year, has been won by Miss Mabel Henderson, of Brockville; the Dr. Jennie K. Trout scholarship of $50, open to students of the third year, has been won by Miss Grace Ritchie, of Montreal.

Collision Near the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, April 7.—Saturday at 7:10 a.m., as a Grand Trunk train from Canada was crossing the New York Central tracks a short distance from the American end of the Suspension Bridge, it was run into by a Michigan Central train. The Michigan Central engine struck the Grand Trunk engine just under the forward truck, and the front part of both engines were thrown from the track, the latter engine being badly broken up. Thos. Slater, the fireman of the Grand Trunk engine, was standing at the engine brake when the collision occurred and was caught between the tender and the cot. When taken out it was found that his left leg was broken and he had received other injuries. He is about 58 years old and resides at Niagara Falls, Ont.

EASTER SUNDAY.

Interesting Special Services Among the City Churches.

The Seventh Fusiliers' March Out to London South.

Rev. H. C. Speller Takes His Place Among the City Ministers.

Temperance Evangelist Dunnett at the Grand Opera House—Notes of Interest to Every Denomination.

The services of special character in this city yesterday were numerous. The weather, for an Easter Sunday, was remarkably pleasant, and as a result congregations in all instances were very large. A special service was held at 3 in the afternoon at St. James' Church, London South, for the church parade of the reorganized 7th Battalion. Under the command of Lieut.-Col. Tracy and officers, the battalion, about 250 strong, marched to church with the full battalion band, as well as the bugle corps. Rev. Canon Davis preached a fine and stirring sermon on the words, "My brethren, be strong in the Lord and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armor of God that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." The preacher drew a forcible analogy between the life of the world's soldiers, and those fighting in the ranks of the cross. As the soldiers of the Queen must be loyal to her, so must the Christian soldier be faithful to his leader, Christ. In the whole of the description of the armor of the Christian there was no protection named for the back. They were always expected to face the foe. God had not provided armor for cowards. The sermon closed with a stirring address particularly delivered to the Seventh. In the past the citizens had been proud of their battalion, either in the quiet routine of daily life or on the field in active service. In that campaign, which all remembered so well in the Northwest rebellion, when the prayers of wives, mothers and sisters followed them, they had shown their worth. He concluded by exhorting them to be not only soldiers, but upright Christian men.

A TEMPERANCE ORATOR.

The series of special temperance services inaugurated by Joe Hess were so successful that the local committee has decided to continue them. The announcement that Mr. W. A. Dunnett, the well-known Royal Templar, of Hamilton, would speak in the Grand Opera House yesterday afternoon drew a great crowd there. A large choir was on the platform and rendered several selections, in which the audience joined heartily. Mr. Dunnett said he would consider himself amply requitted if he was the means of inducing a single soul to wear the blue ribbon. Doubtless there were many young men in the house already on the road to ruin. He himself had been on the highway to a drunkard's grave until checked by the kindly interposition of Rev. C. O. Johnston, and he could testify that the poor inebriate was deserving of pity and not contempt. It would be almost useless for a drunkard to sign the pledge without praying to God to help him to keep it, as human power was frail without the aid of a Father's loving hand. The pathway to hell was paved with good resolutions. The bars and the saloons were the curses of the country. What the temperance people wanted was men and women of backbone ready to take up their weapons and fight for the good cause; and there was never more need of them than at the present time. If the women had had the power of the ballot a great step forward would have been taken, and the banner of prohibition would have floated over the land long ago. At the close of the address about 100 placed their names on the pledge, receiving in return blue ribbon badges.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

The brightness of the Easter services of the Church of England is in striking contrast to the solemnity of Lent and Holy Week, and are toned throughout by the keynote given by the day which is commemorated. At St. Paul's the musical portion of the service was of a special nature, and the choir performed their part in a way which evidenced hard work and careful training on the part of the organist. In the morning the Bishop preached from St. John, ii., 18-20: "Then answered the Jews and said, what sin shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things? And Jesus answered and said, destroy this temple and in three days I will raise it up." It was the mission of the church to-day to tell it out among mankind that Christ was risen. The preacher proceeded to draw an eloquent picture of the apparent failure of Christ, dead and lying in the tomb, and the subsequent triumph of the first Easter. The triumphant claim of Christianity was that God had raised its founder from the dead. No other religion in the world had such a fact to boast of. The Jews asked Christ for a sign, and his answer was, "Destroy this temple and in three days I will build it up." The history of Jonah's death, practically, by going down into the whale's belly and his subsequent resurrection to preach to the cities, was a sublime type. The preacher then went on to draw an eminently practical lesson from the words of the text, showing the hidden meaning of the words and how they were understood by the Jews.

In the evening Rev. Dean Innes preached. During the offertory Dr. Sippi sang a solo, "Calvary," in magnificent voice.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH.

The usual Easter services were held yesterday in St. James' Church morning and evening. The little church was beautifully decorated, its most attractive features being some magnificent Easter lilies. The rector, Rev. Canon Davis, preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion and the singing was of an especially festival character.

The afternoon sermon to the Seventh Battalion by Canon Davis has already been referred to. In the evening Rev. Principal Fowell preached, the church being crowded to the doors.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Rev. Canon Smith preached both morning and evening in Christ Church. In the afternoon the Bishop of Huron held a confirmation service, when seventeen candidates were presented and received the rite. The Bishop addressed a few earnest words of advice to the candidates and impressed upon them the serious responsibility of the ceremony.

AT DUNDAS STREET CENTER.

Fitting Easter services were held in the Dundas Center Methodist Church yesterday morning and evening. The pulpit and choir gallery were embellished with floral decorations and plants and the singing of the choir was especially good. Rev. F. H. Wallace, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit at both services, speaking in the morning from the text: "Man born of woman is of few days and full of trouble." The speaker launched out in a stirring discourse on the immortality of the soul. He pointed out that the meaning of the text was general and that all would meet death sooner or later. In the face of which truth he asked if any person could stand by the grave of a departed friend and say that in its narrow bounds was the end of all. The speaker could not be led to believe that the grave was he goal of the hopes and the ears of the soul, because nature itself revolted from such a theory. The world to-day stood in the same position on the question of immortality as it did in the days of Confucius, Socrates and Cicero. There was no absolute or conclusive argument to prove the soul's immortality outside of the Scripture. Modern science had made no advance in that direction and could make none. There were, however, numerous witnesses to prove the resurrection of Christ and history verified their story; and as the Gospel taught that Christ died for every sinner, so it is as clearly taught that the grave was but the resting place of the body.

In the evening the church was crowded to the doors, and it was necessary to place chairs in every available spot to accommodate the vast audience. Mr. Wallace preached a powerful sermon on the necessity of the best possible preparation of the students entering the ministry. He took for his text the words, "We preach Christ crucified," Corinthians, i., 23. He showed that the preaching of Christ called for more than simply reciting his life and sufferings. He also showed by numerous examples that the qualification of a minister should be of the very highest order. He should be versed in the entire Bible, because to preach any part of it it was necessary that he should understand the whole.

The minister should be well informed in philosophy to successfully combat the parries of skepticism. The more education the preacher had the more influence would he possess over his people.

ADELAIDE STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

There was a large attendance at Adelaide Street Baptist Church yesterday morning and evening, when the newly-chosen pastor, Rev. H. C. Speller, preached his inaugural sermons. The reverend gentleman took his morning text from I. Corinthians, ii., 2: "For I am determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and him crucified." The preacher contended that no more sacred trust had ever been committed to a human being than the command of Christ, "Go ye into the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." There was no uncertainty about the work, nor was it left to man to decide the best kind of teaching. God had formed the plan; he pronounced it good and placed it in his servants' hands to carry out. In dealing with the immortal spirit, whom God knows best, the servants of Christ should reach up to the sacredness of the work. It must not be marred by the touch of man. The plan of salvation is a finished work from God's own hands, and committed to his servants as a sacred trust. The Christian is not only the carrier of the truth, but he should be its exemplifier. God's servants should go forth as an army with their lines well defined. We hear, said the preacher, a good deal about the non-essentials of Christianity, but there is such a wide divergence in the world from what is essential that it needs all our time to look after the essentials. He was glad the Baptists had no creed. The great question was not "Do I believe such and such a doctrine?" but "Do I believe in the crucified and now living Christ?" Do I live out that belief? Am I exemplifying Christ? The doctrines of baptism, election and the perseverance of the saints are grand doctrines, but they are nothing if they do not lead to a knowledge of Christ—the Christ that comes into a man and makes him lose himself. Paul was well fitted to handle the popular themes of the day; he could have tickled the people and attracted a great crowd of listeners at Corinth, but he was filled with the one thought of overcoming the powers of darkness—he determined not to know anything among them but Christ, and him crucified. His theme was a gory cross and a dead Savior. He did not wreath the cross with flowers, or hide its gory stains to suit the aesthetic tastes of his cultured listeners. He went to the root of the matter and did not attempt to tone down the Gospel. The preacher deprecated the lack of moral manhood and courage shown by many of the youth of to-day, who are afraid of self-sacrifice, and would have religion a path of roses. "Except ye take up your cross," says Christ, "ye cannot be my disciples." There is opportunity for heroism in the Christian life. We should aim at being not "society" men and women, but soldiers of the cross. There is a tendency nowadays to imagine that the simple statement of the Gospel has lost its power, and that the message must be mixed with some social or scientific subject as a bait to draw the crowd. The Gospel is the root from which all social reforms—even the great temperance movement—must grow. The love of God must be at the bottom of it all. Christ crucified is no narrow theme. It is applicable to everyday living. There is no aim or thought or action of life into which Jesus Christ does not enter. The Gospel cuts at the root of all selfishness and every sin. In conclusion the preacher announced his firm determination to enunciate only the great and glorious truths shown in Christ crucified—to repeat and reiterate the grand old story of Jesus and his love.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Speller took as his text the words: "For we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block and unto the Greeks foolishness; but unto them that are called—both Jews and Greeks—Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God"—I. Cor., i., 22, 24. The preacher showed how Paul in every epistle and in each discourse put a wonderful emphasis upon the crucifixon—it was his one great theme. His inimitable epistle to the Romans was written in the red characters of the blood of Christ. The miracle-working power of the Savior, his life of holiness and fidelity to his Father's work were grand topics which Paul could have treated with a master hand, but these he scarcely touched—all were overshadowed by Calvary. The philosophy of the day he passed unheeded; ignoring it for the one theme which was foolishness to the Greeks and to the Jews a stumbling-block. Paul had a keen sense of man's great need—a salvation that could only be accomplished by the death of Christ. What was the death of Christ for? God does not delight in the shedding of blood, but he must destroy that which would destroy man. In the death of Christ the destruction of the destroying power was accomplished. It was the antidote of the poison that is destroying man. It removes sin from the presence of the living God. The death of Christ manifested the love of God as no other act could do. God stopped not short when it took the best of heaven. The spirit in which Paul's theme is received determines its effect upon man. To the philosophical Greek it was foolishness. The Jews saw in the cross the symbol of their own subjection to the Roman power, and it was to them a stumbling block. But it was the power of God and the wisdom of God. The manifestation of God's power is explained by Paul in his letter to the Hebrews, ii., 14: "Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; that through death he might destroy him that hath the power of death, that is the devil." When the promise of the Savior was first made it was given to one man and to one woman. Christ says: "In my death I have put away sin forever." "Accept the death of Christ for yourselves individually," said the preacher; "live in it, and God will be satisfied." The reverend gentleman was listened to with marked attention throughout his earnest and practical discourses. The anthems sung by the choir were given with spirit and were well rendered. Miss Aggie McLeod, though not fully recovered from her severe indisposition, was able to occupy her position at the organ. After the evening sermon the ordinance of baptism was administered to three candidates, the services concluding with the Lord's Supper.

IN THE EAST END HALL.

In the East End Hall yesterday afternoon Gospel temperance services were conducted under the auspices of London Council, No. 193, Royal Templars of Temperance. Besides singing by a special choir the Caldwell Brothers sang a duet, "In the Book of Life," and Miss M. Lillywhite a solo, "Only an Armor-Bearer." Mr. M. S. Wymer, who is employed at Wortman & Ward's, but who is about to engage wholly in the temperance work, gave an interesting address, and took as the basis of his remarks Proverbs, xxiii., 29, 30: "Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath contentions? Who hath babblings? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek mixed wine." Mr. Wymer treated the subject in a very practical manner, showing his hearers how these words were applicable to cases coming under their notice every day. Rev. Mr. Courtice then spoke a few words in support of what the former gentleman had said, after which the pledge-book was taken out and over 50 names recorded.

At the evening meeting, which was largely attended, Rev. Mr. Millyard, W. A. Dunnett and Rev. C. O. Johnston (Toronto) had seats on the platform. The latter gentleman delivered a stirring address on "Moral Reform" to the young men. He said that they might as well try to build a castle out of pumpkins as to build a strong, moral character out of whisky, tobacco and late hours. If they wanted to stand the storm of temptation they must build on something else. Mr. Dunnett also spoke, dwelling on the evil of the liquor traffic and its terrible consequences. The Caldwell Brothers again sang a duet, "Throw Out the Life Line," which was a pleasing feature of the service.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH.

The customary Easter services were held in St. George's Church, London West. Rev. Canon Newman preached in the morning, and Rev. T. F. Kingsmill at night. The progress made since last year in this church is evidenced by the increased attendance, the communicants being 110 as against 74 last Easter, and the attendance 198 in the morning and 195 at night—a large increase on the previous years. Both services were of an interesting character.

CONFIRMATION AT MEMORIAL CHURCH.

The services yesterday in Memorial Church were of a very interesting character. In the evening the Bishop of Huron visited the church and conferred the right of confirmation on 34 candidates. In addressing those who had come forward to receive the rite the Bishop urged that as they now had put on the armor of Christ they would continue his faithful soldiers. He also pressed upon the candidates the necessity of reading a portion of Scripture every day—he would not say how much. They should ally themselves with the Word of God, and then they would be able to surmount all the difficulties of the earthly life. Another thing that was necessary was daily prayer. They should seek God upon rising in the morning; and always put God first, business after. The church was crowded at both services, standing room being unobtainable in the evening. The holy communion was celebrated at the close of the confirmation service. The musical part of the services was of a high order, the choir in the morning being assisted by the band from "D" school. The rector, Rev. Canon Richardson, conducted the morning service, and preached a powerful sermon from Philippians, iii., 10.

AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church was occupied morning and evening by Rev. W. J. Clark, freshly graduated from Knox College, Toronto. Mr. Clark is possessed of a good voice and an earnest, convincing manner. In the morning he preached a special Easter sermon, selecting as the keynote the query put to Peter by Christ, "Lovest thou me?" and his command which followed Peter's affirmative reply—"Feed my sheep." The speaker reviewed the lives of Christ and his disciples while he was on the earth, pointing out the many disappointments and persecutions which they endured, and showed that similar sacrifices were required of the Christians of to-day. He also demonstrated the necessity for Christians living up to, in their worldly affairs, what they professed in the church. Mr. Clark will preach in the same church next Sunday.

NOTES.

The services of the Salvation Army yesterday were very largely attended and of special interest. The evening parade was a large one.

Rev. Alex. Langford, of London South, and Rev. G. W. Henderson, of Wellington Street Methodist Church, exchanged pulpits in the evening.

Rev. C. O. Johnston, of Toronto, a Methodist minister of considerable ability and well known throughout Ontario, preached at the Congregational Church both morning and evening. The attendance was good.

Rev. G. M. Milligan, of Old St. Andrew's, Toronto, preached two powerful sermons to large congregations in St. Andrew's Church. In the morning particular stress was laid on the duty of Christians to combine the natural with the spiritual in the worship of God. God was the giver of all good, and "whether we eat or drink or whatsoever we do, we should do all to the glory of God." Rev. J. A. Murray was at Mr. Milligan's church in Toronto.

Mothers

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation; its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mother's friend. 25 doses, 35 cents.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, is ear-ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

VOICES OF THE PEOPLE.

READERS OF THE ADVERTISER.—Let us hear from you on all questions affecting the public. Make your communications brief and send your name as a guarantee of good faith.

"An Exciting Chase."

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

A short account of the above appeared in your paper of the 3rd inst, stating that some person took a red herring from in front of J. Guymer's store, Richmond street. Your informant could easily have been plainer and given Mr. Wilson's name as well as mine. He seemed to be very exact about the number of fish the gentleman took, but I think he made a mistake as to where they were taken and the number, too. The herrings were inside, not out. I did give chase and caught the thief, and thumped him, too; and if your informant had not promised to see me paid next morning I would have locked him up for his trouble. The pay did not come all the same. If the cultured gentleman choose to get under the influence of strong drink, that is a poor excuse for taking other people's goods without leave. Your informant spoke of the fun. If the miscreant were asked he would tell it was all one-sided, as he got the thumps and the fish too. By inserting this in your next you will greatly oblige JAMES GUYMER.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

LONDON AND PRECINCTS

The Grand Trunk shops at Montreal and London have turned out over 1,500 new box cars during the winter.

Dr. McCallum, of this city, leaves to-day for a three months' trip to Philadelphia, New York and Baltimore.

The office boy says he was at church yesterday and saw some Easter bonnets that were no bigger than a shinplaster.

Richmond street is receiving a much-needed scraping and about enough soil to make a small farm is being teamed away from it.

Mr. Hardy Nelles, of this city, has been transferred from the St. Thomas branch of the Molsons Bank to Montreal. He leaves to-day for the latter city.

Mrs. Storey (nee Miss Rose), of Denver, formerly of this city, who has been home on a visit to her parents in this city, returned to Denver last night.

A summons has been issued against T. Wells, of London, for spearing fish in the River Thames near Springbank. He will appear before Squire Jarvis.

This morning workmen commenced tearing down the frame buildings on the corner of Mill and Richmond streets. A large brick hotel is to be erected on the site.

Frederick Oven, the boy arrested at the G. T. R. station, came up before the Magistrate this morning. He said he was walking to New York and was allowed to go.

R. Kennett, charged with insanity, was committed to jail to-day by P. M. Parke. The prisoner was too ill to appear at the Police Court, so the Magistrate held the examination in the cell.

George A. Swann, L. D. S., of Glencoe, was married at Nassagaweya last week to Annie, youngest daughter of Rev. John Hough. The father of the bride officiated, assisted by Rev. F. Swann, brother of the groom and Rev. R. W. Williams. The newly-wedded couple will reside in Glencoe.

No. 1 Committee met this afternoon to consider the tenders for the purchase of the old buildings on the Central school property. Mr. George Everett's tender for the frame building at $21 was accepted. Mr. S. F. Glass gets the gymnasium at $60, and the open shed becomes the property of Mr. J. C. Smith for $20.

Six charges of drunkenness were recorded on the docket at the Police Court this morning. One of the offenders was out on bail and, failing to respond when his name was called, his case was laid over. Another was remanded for a week, two were discharged and two fined $2 and $5 respectively, with the option of spending ten days in jail.

Master George Fox, the Canadian boy-violinist, Miss Adele Strauss, mezzo soprano, well-known from her association with Theodore Thomas; Mr. Thomas Martin, pianist; Mr. J. M. Williams, basso, will be the soloists at the concert of the London Symphony orchestra on Friday evening of this week. The audience promises to be a select one. Among the subscribers' seats already secured are 40 for the ladies of a local college.

Among the graduates of the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto for the course just ended are Messrs. D. F. Parker, William Routledge and John H. Wilson, of this city; G. Bruce Brake, Robt. W. McCully and J. D. Oille, of St. Thomas; Peter Malcolm and J. H. Spence, of St. Marys; Wesley A. Mann, Strathroy; W. W. Kennedy, Woodstock; Spencer J. Jupp, Petrolea; J. Johnson Fyle, Brantford, and Peter Cook, Clinton.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

—Rev. Father Shea, of St. James' Church, Seaforth, has gone from that place to Cincinnati, Ohio.

—Mr. William Dixon, of Dixon's Corners, North Oxford, father of Dr. W. F. Dixon, of Ingersoll, died last week, at the advanced age of 78 years. The deceased was one of the earliest settlers of North Oxford, and was highly respected.

—Mr. Archie Dewar, jun., of Falkirk, met with a serious accident the other day, by which he narrowly escaped losing his right hand. As he was crossing the creek on a log carrying an axe he missed his footing and fell, the axe falling upon his wrist and almost severing his hand.

—One of the best known families in South Norwich has been sorely afflicted by the death of a wife and son. Mrs. Michael McNamara and her son had been ill some time with la grippe and although everything was done that medical science could suggest they both died on Good Friday within a few hours of each other. Mrs. McNamara was about 55 years of age and the mother of a large family. Her son also leaves a wife and family.

LONDON SOUTH.

The Westminster Township Council had a special meeting on Saturday for the purpose of making the necessary arrangements for the coming vote. The sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor not yet having been given to the bill the meeting was adjourned to Saturday next. The antis made an attempt to have five returning officers appointed to suit them, but the naming of these returning officers has always devolved on Deputy Reeve Pritchett, and the Council will probably maintain this precedent.

BASEBALL.

A DEAF MUTE CLUB.

A number of deaf mutes met on Saturday, at Brantford, in the Y. M. C. A. parlors, for the purpose of forming a baseball club in Ontario to compete with the Buffalo deaf mute's club. The Brantford delegates were J. Lloyd, Archie Smith, Robert Sutton, Robert McPherson. The president was not chosen, but Robert Sutton was elected secretary-treasurer. Arrangements have been made to play a match in Hamilton on the 24th of May with the Buffalo deaf mute club.

FLYS.

Pete Wood was invited by the 'Varsity club to accompany them on their spring trip, but owing to his probable re-engagement with the Tecumsehs will scarcely be able to go.—[Toronto World.

Twelve Negroes Drowned.

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 7.—A raft containing twenty negroes, who were trying to escape from the flood, was capsized on Friday in the mouth of the Bayou Falaya. Only thirteen of the crew reached the shore alive.

A later report says twelve women and children were drowned when the current dashed their crazy vessel against a tree.

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

BUILDINGS BURNED.

A Big Blaze at Waterford Ont.—Loss Over $60,000.

WATERFORD, Ont., April 7.—At 7 a.m. today the Beemer bloks on the east side of Main street was entirely consumed with most of its contents. The building was occupied by A. B. Walker, general merchant, and E. G. Christie, hardware store; A. M. Barber, dwelling; the Oddfellows, A. O. U. W., Home Circle and Forester and Masonic bodies. The fire quickly communicated to the adjoining block, occupied as a dwelling by Mrs. Beemer, and by shoe and barber shops. The livery barns and blacksmith shop of J. McCool were also consumed. The Beemer Hotel sheds and barns were burned and much damage done to the hotel and contents. The flames crossed Main street and partially destroyed the Green block. This building was occupied by D. Horning, jeweler, A. S. Bezzo and H. R. Smale, merchant tailors, and James Joyce, boots, shoes and groceries. The building owned by E. E. Slaght and occupied by J. F. Aitken, druggist and telephone office, L. D. Grover's brick building, groceries and crockery, and Elmer's brick building burned. Hatches' block, occupied as a hardware, A. N. Duncombe's law office and office of O. H. Duncombe, V.S., and Green & Co.'s tin shop and B. Deans' blacksmith shop on the west side of West street were much injured with their contents. The total loss of buildings, as far as ascertained, is $40,000, stocks and furniture $24,000, with total insurances between $40,000 and $50,000.

FIRES IN MICHIGAN.

BAY CITY, April 7.—Ross, Bradley & Co.'s planing mill, employing 150 hands, was destroyed by fire Saturday night. Loss on the mill, $20,000; on the lumber, $15,000.

OSCODA, April 7.—The Au Sable Lumber Company's mill here was burned Saturday night. It was owned by J. C. Gram, of this place, and E. T. Carrington and A. Chesborough, of Bay City, and was worth about $40,000. About 150 men were employed when running.

ISLANDERS IRATE.

Lord Salisbury's Modus Vivendi Vehemently Denounced in Newfoundland.

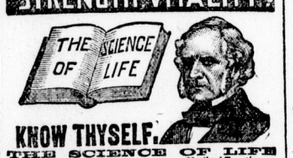

HALIFAX, April 7.—Advices received by mail to-day from Newfoundland show an existing state of affairs which it is almost impossible to describe. The cause is the fishery modus vivendi negotiated by Great Britain with the French. Mass meetings are being held all over the island, addressed by clergymen of all the Protestant denominations and by Catholic bishops and priests, at which denunciations the most pointed, bitter and personal that can well be conceived are hurled against the Downing street officials.

A mass meeting was held at Bannerman's Park, St. Johns, the other day, at which 40,000 persons were present. Business was wholly suspended, and a procession bearing banners and flags, 10,000 strong, marched through the city. The United States flag figured prominently in the moving line, and when the bands struck up the "Star Spangled Banner" the applause was tumultuous and the ringing cheers from 30,000 throats could be heard miles away. At this demonstration Hon. Thomas Talbot, M.L.C., high sheriff, opened the meeting, and the speakers were: Hon. James J. Rogerson, P. J. Scott, Q.C., Sir James Winter, and many other prominent men. Resolutions were passed to the effect:

That the claim of France involves in its consequences not only directly the deprivation of our people of a valuable maritime industry, but also indirectly the settlement of a new French population with a permanent footing upon our soil, the locking up of the territorial resources of the colony, the extinction of every valuable industry and source of wealth to our people, and the virtual concession of the sovereignty of the soil to a foreign power; that the claims now set up by the French in relation to the lobster fishery ought to have been met only by an absolute and unqualified denial, and that to no arrangement either for arbitration or otherwise involving even the consideration of any possible right or claim on the part of the French to catch and preserve lobsters on our soil or to hinder or interfere with the prosecution of that industry will we give our consent.

Sir James Winter, ex-premier of the colony, was Newfoundland's representative at the fishery treaty negotiated at Washington. In his address at the meeting referred to he held that the modus vivendi was illegal, monstrous and destructive to Newfoundland's most sacred interests, and must never be enforced. Newfoundland repudiated the French claim indignantly. Britain stepped in, yielded, and the people of Newfoundland are the sufferers. A burglar, he said, enters your house and seizes your plate. You threaten to yield him up to justice, and he proposes a modus vivendi under which he shall retain possession of the plate for three months, reserving your just right of possession to be adjudicated upon hereafter. That, said he, is the modus vivendi that Great Britain has foisted upon Newfoundland.

LOVELY MARY DONNELLY

Oh, lovely Mary Donnelly, it's you I love the best!
If fifty girls were round you I'd hardly see the rest.
Be what it may the time of day, the place be where it will,
Sweet looks of Mary Donnelly, they beam before me still.

Her eyes like mountain water that's flowing on a rock,
How clear they are, how dark they are! and they give me many a shock.
Red rowans warm in sunshine and wetted with a show'r,
Could ne'er express the charming lip that has me in its pow'r.

Her nose is straight and handsome, her eyebrows lifted up,
Her chin is very neat and pert, and smooth like a china cup.
Her hair's the brag of Ireland, so weighty and so fine;
It's rolling down upon her neck and gathered in a twine.

The dance of last Whit-Monday night exceeded all before,
No pretty girl for miles around was missing from the floor;
But Mary kept the belt of love, and O but she was gay!
She danced a jig, she sung a song that took my heart away.

When she stood up for dancing, her steps were so complete,
The music nearly killed itself to listen to her feet;
The fiddler moaned his blindness, he heard her so much praised,
But bless'd his luck to not be deaf, when once her voice she raised.

And evermore I'm whistling or lilting what you sung,
Your smile is always in my heart, your name beside my tongue;
As you've as many sweethearts as you'd count on both your hands,
Or myself there's not a thumb or little finger stands.

'Tis you're the flower o' womankind in country or in town;
The higher I exalt you the lower I'm cast down.
Should some great lord should come this way and see your beauty bright,
Rod you to be his lady, I'd own it was but Ca right.

O might we live together in a lofty palace hall,
Where joyful music rises, and where scarlet curtains fall!
O might we live together in a cottage mean and small,
With sods of grass the only roof, and mud the only wall!

O lovely Mary Donnelly, your beauty's my distress,
It's far too beauteous to be mine, but I'll never wish it less.
The proudest place would fit your face, and I am poor and low;
But blessings be about you, dear, wherever you may go!

—[The late Wm. Allingham.

COLONEL QUARITCH, V.C.

By H. RIDER HAGGARD.

[Copyrighted by Rose Publishing Co., Toronto, Ont., and printed by special arrangement, through the American Press Association.]

"'We know not if this be true, doubting if a man's memory be so long, but if so it be, then we hereby crave his pardon, and no more can we do. And now is one of grevious peril, and sorely do we need the aid of God and man. Therefore, if the heart of our subject, Sir James de la Molle be not rebellious against us, as we cannot readily credit to be, we do implore present his aid in men and money, of which last it is said he hath large store, this letter being proof of our urgent need.'

"These were as nearly as I can remember, the very words of the letter which were written in his own hand, and show pretty clearly how hardly he was pressed. It is said that when he read it, Sir James, forgetting his grievance, burst into tears, and, taking the paper, wrote hastily as follows, which last he certainly did, for I have seen the letter in the museum:

"'My liege—Of the past I will not speak. It is past. But since it has graciously pleased your majesty to ask mine aid against the rebels who would overthrow your throne, rest assured that all I have is at your majesty's disposal, until such time as your enemies are discomfited. It has pleased Providence to so prosper my fortunes that I have stored away in a safe place, until these times be past, a very great sum in gold, whereof I will place 10,000 pieces at the disposal of your majesty, so soon as a safe means can be provided for conveying the same, seeing that I would sooner die that that these great moneys should fall into the hands of the rebels to the furtherance of an evil cause.'

"Then the letter went on to say that the writer would at once buckle to and raise a troop of horse among his tenantry, and that, if other satisfactory arrangements could not be made for the conveyance of the moneys, he would bring them in person to the King.

"And now comes the climax of the story. The messenger was captured, and Sir James' incautious letter taken in his boot, as a result of which he, within ten days time, found himself closely besieged by 500 Roundheads, under the command of one Col. Playfair. The castle was but ill provisioned for a siege, and in the end Sir James was driven by sheer starvation to surrender. No sooner had he obtained an entry than Col. Playfair sent for his prisoner, and to his astonishment produced to Sir James' face his own letter that he had sent to the King.

"'Now, Sir James,' he said, 'we have the hive, and I must ask you to lead us to the honey. Where be these great moneys whereof you talk within? Fain I would be fingereing these 10,000 pieces in gold, the which you have so snugly stowed away.'

"'Ay,' answered old Sir James; 'you have the hive, but the secret of the honey you have not, nor shall you have it. The 10,000 pieces in gold is where it is, and with it as much more. Find it if you may, and take it if you can.'

"'I shall find it by to morrow's light, Sir James, or otherwise—well, or otherwise you die.'

"'I must die, Colonel; all men do; but if I die the secret dies with me.'

"'This we shall see,' answered the Colonel, and old Sir James was marched off to a cell, and there closely confined on bread and water. But he did not die next day, nor the next week.

Every day he was brought up before the Colonel and questioned as to where the treasure was, under the threat of immediate death, not being suffered meanwhile to communicate by word or sign with any one, save with the officers of the rebels, and every day he refused, until at last the inquisitor's patience gave out, and he was told frankly that if he did not communicate the secret he would be shot at dawn the following day.

"Old Sir James laughed, and said that shoot him they might, but he consigned his soul to the devil if he would enrich them with his treasures, and then asked that his Bible might be brought to him that he might read therein and prepare himself for death.

"They gave him the Bible and left him. Next morning at dawn a file of Roundheads marched him out into the court yard of the castle, and have he found Col. Playfair and his officers waiting.

"'Now, Sir James, for your last word. Will you reveal where the treasure lies, or do you choose to die?"

"'I will not reveal," answered the old man. 'Murder me if you will. The act is worthy of the holy Presbyters. I have spoken and my mind is fixed.'

"'Bethink you,' said the Colonel.

"'I have thought, and I am ready. Slay me and seek the treasure. But one thing I ask. My young son is not here. In France he hath been these three years, and naught knows he of where I have hid this gold. Send to him this Bible when I am dead. Nay, search it from page to page. There is naught within save what I have writ here upon this last sheet. It is all I have left to give.'

"'The book shall be searched,' answered the Colonel, 'and if naught is found therein, is shall be sent. And now, in the name of God, I adjure you, Sir James, let not the love of lucre stand between you and your life. Here I make you one last offer. Discover but to us the whereabouts of the 10,000 pieces whereof you speak in this writing—nd he held up the letter to the King—and you shall go free—refuse to do so and you die.'

"'I refuse,' he answered.

"'Musqueteers, make ready,' shouted the Colonel, and the file of men stepped forward.

"But at that moment there came up a furious squall of wind, together with dense and cutting rain, that for a while the execution was delayed. Presently it passed, and the wild light of the November morning swept out from the sky, and revealed the doomed man kneeling upon the sodden turf with the water running from his white hair and beard, praying.

"They called to him to stand up, and he would not, but continued praying. So they shot him on his knees."

"Well, said Col. Quaritch, "at any rate he died like a gallent gentleman."

At that moment there was a knock at the door, and the servant entered.

"What is it?" asked the Squire.

"George is here, please, sir," said the servant, "and says that he would like to see you."

"Confound him!" growled the old gentleman; "he is always after something or other. I suppose it is about Moat farm. He was going to see Janter to-day. Will you excuse me, Quaritch? My daughter will tell you the end of the story if you care to hear any more. I will join you in the drawing-room."

CHAPTER IV.

THE END OF THE TALE.

As soon as her father had gone Ida rose and suggested that if Col. Quaritch had done his wine they should go into the drawing-room, which they accordingly did. This room was much more modern than either the vestibule or the dining-room, and had a general air and flavor of the nineteenth century young lady about it. There were the little tables, the draperies, the photograph frames, and all the hundred and one little knick-knacks and odds and ends by means of which a lady of taste makes a room lovely in the eyes of a brutal man. It was a very pleasant place to look upon, this drawing-room at Honham Castle, with its irregular recesses, its somewhat faded colors, illuminated by the soft light of a shaded lamp, and its genuine air of feminine dominion. Harold Quaritch was a man who had seen much of the world, but had not seen much of drawing-rooms or, indeed, of ladies at large. They had not come in his way, or if they had come in his way he had avoided them. Therefore, perhaps, was he the more susceptible to such influences when he came in contact with them. Or perhaps it was the presence of Ida's gracious self which threw a charm about the place that added to her natural attractiveness, as the china bowls of lavender and rose leaves added perfume to the air. Anyhow, it struck him that he had never seen a room which conveyed to his mind such an idea of gentle rest and refinement,

TREED BY A BULL.

An Aged Farmer Kept Three Hours in a Tree. Nearly Dead from Cold.

BATH, N. Y., April 5.—Joseph Murray is a well-known farmer living over the Pennsylvania line in Tioga county. He is 70 years old, and has been in feeble health for some months. Monday afternoon he thought he felt well enough to take a walk and look about the farm that he hired about a mile from his own. He remained at the farm until nearly 6 o'clock, and, to shorten his way back, he struck out through the fields, one of which belonged to a neighboring farmer. As he was passing through this field he was alarmed by the actions of a ferocious bull that was kept in the lot. Murray was well acquainted with the fierce nature of the bull, but had forgotten about its being in that lot. The bull rushed from the opposite side of the lot toward Murray, bellowing savagely. The old farmer made for a tree near by, the lower branches of which were not far from the ground. He succeeded in climbing the tree and getting beyond the reach of the bull just as it came tearing to the spot.

Murray supposed that when the bull found that he was out of its reach it would go about its business, but the vicious animal showed no disposition to do anything of the kind. It remained under the tree, pawing the ground and giving vent to its rage in loud bellowings. Murray called loudly for help, but he was out of the hearing of anyone about there. It grew so dark that he could see nothing, and only knew that the bull was keeping up the siege by the noise it made. For three hours the bull kept the old man up the tree. Murray was nearly dead from cold and exhaustion. At last the animal grew weary of its unavailing siege of the farmer, and, when Murray had made up his mind that his time had come, he was overjoyed to hear the ugly beast walking away. Murray waited a few minutes, until he could hear the bull no more, and then let himself down from the tree.

When it became dark and the old farmer had not yet returned home his son James went in search of him. He went to the neighbor's farm, and to many other places without finding any trace of his father. He was returning home to get others to aid in the search, when he stumbled over something in the road. Stooping down he discovered that it was his father, lying there unconscious. It was then 11 o'clock. The son got the old man home, but it was a long time before he was able to explain anything. He remembered getting down out of the tree, but how he got to the road he had no recollection. The shock to his enfeebled system has been such that no hope is entertained that he will recover.

Barkwell's Sure Corn Cure

AS A GOLDEN OFFERING

And which he declares, after experience, is Worth More than its Weight in Gold.

This fluid is good, and I told you it would
Cure corns and bunions as well;
So now, Uncle John, just put it right on
And you will have wonders to tell.

I tell you again, 'twill cure without pain,
Though you may be loath to believe it,
But after my trial there can be no denial,
And as a boon I hope you'll receive it.

I have often been told 'tis more precious than gold,
And as such I submit it to you,
For as gold was the thing I'm expected to bring,
I think this present will do.

N.B.—This is the way the public show their appreciation of a genuine article, and we must commend it, and congratulate the proprietor, W. S. Bryers Barkwell, in being the possessor of an article that gladdens so many hearts, and upon which the public place so high a premium.

LONDON AND PRECINCTS.

Nellie Bly is seriously ill in Erie, Pa.

The policemen have donned their summer uniforms.

Joseph Murphy at the Grand in "Shaun Rhue" this evening.

The run of the London Hunt set for today was postponed on account of the soft condition of the ground.

Private Carrick, of No. 2 Company, 33rd Battalion, has entered for a course of military instruction with "D" Company, I. S. C.

Mr. Geo. Swanton, who moved to London last fall, has returned to town to take charge of Mr. Geo. McKenzie's broom factory.—[Wingham Times.

J. M. Williams, of this city; Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs. MacKelcan, Miss Nora Clench and others are announced to take part in a concert in Petrolea shortly.

Mr. D. W. Sutherland, of London, and formerly manager of Herod & Co.'s drug store here, is renewing old acquaintances in this city. Ward looks as if life in London agreed with him.—[Guelph Herald.

The date of the proposed banquet to Mr. L. K. Cameron has been changed from tomorrow night to Friday evening, 18th inst., the committee having found the latter date to be the most convenient to the majority of those intending to participate.

B. Stuart, the man arrested in this city charged with the crime of incest, came up before the Police Magistrate at St. Thomas on Saturday. The evidence of the daughter Jennie was most straightforward and the Magistrate committed the accused for trial.

Three brass bands parading to different places of worship was one of yesterday's occurrences in this city. The Seventh went to London South, "D" Company, I. S. C., to Memorial Church, and the Salvationists had three big parades headed by their band.

In contrast to the brightness of the Easter services last night the city had a fine illustration of the Egyptian plague of darkness. It was one of the "moonlight nights" on which the electric light companies could only turn on the current on an order from the Mayor or the City Engineer.

The construction of the iron work of the Bothwell bridge was awarded by the Middlesex, Kent and Elgin Joint Committee on Friday to the Hamilton Bridge Company. Mr. Whitebread, of Wallaceburg, was appointed inspector of masonry at $2 50 per day. The committee met in St. Thomas.

The new club rooms of the Young Liberal Club in Oddfellows' Hall have been nicely furnished and are far more commodious and comfortable than the old ones. The formal opening, to which all friends of the club are invited, will take place on Wednesday evening next. A good programme has been prepared.

A Kingston dispatch says: "John Dunlop, a missionary of Tokio, Japan, will arrive here on the 11th. He is accompanied by Dr. Eby's daughter, who is coming to London, Ont., to be educated. Mr. Dunlop will return to Japan in July, having been re-engaged by the Mission Board for seven years.

The attention of the police has been called to a large number of boys who have been in the habit of making a play-ground of the C. P. R. round-house now being built, thereby annoying the workmen and exposing their own lives to danger through passing trains. The other day several of these sportive youths boarded a gravel train and rode to Komoka, but did not enjoy the return trip as much, as they were compelled to walk back.

Robert Kennett, a Salvation Army officer, was arrested by Detectives Rider and Phair on Saturday evening on a charge of insanity preferred by Arthur Wisdom, another Salvation Army officer. The unfortunate man was stationed in India a short time ago when he was affected by the sun. Recently he has developed symptoms of insanity and has imagined that he was the Holy Ghost. He was to have sailed for England on April 15 to meet his mother.

The funeral of the late John Larkin took place from his family's residence, on Maple street, to the Roman Catholic Cemetery yesterday afternoon. It was largely attended by a host of friends and acquaintances, including a large detachment of the police force. The pall-bearers were Constables Wallace, Hobbins, Boyd, Crawford, Smith and Egelton. The funeral services at St. Peter's Cathedral were conducted by Rev. Father Tiernan.

See Him To-Night.

At the Grand Opera House this evening Joseph Murphy, the ever-popular Irish comedian, will appear in his well-known play, "Shaun Rhue," and every Irishman and his sons and daughters will no doubt make an effort to go, as well as a goodly portion of the general public. Murphy needs no introduction to a London audience or comment on the part of this paper. A thoroughly enjoyable time to those who listen to the bright dialogue of the piece is assured.

A Detective's Confession.

At the recent trial of a case in the Berlin, Ont., Police Court against F. C. Bond, druggist, for breach of the Medical Act, Detective Webb, of this city, made the following admissions while under cross-examination: "I am a detective for the College of Physicians in Ontario. It is my duty to look after all parties who are violating the Medical Act. In the course of my duty I go to drug stores—sometimes I have to color things very highly—in other words, I have to stretch the truth, and I have done this several times. I have led people by my statements to believe that I was worse than I really was." The case was dismissed. The detective's evidence has been published by the papers of Berlin as a curiosity.

"Alvin Joslin" Coming Again.

At the Grand Opera House to-morrow (Tuesday) evening Mr. Charles L. Davis (Alvin Joslin) will appear in his new play, "One of the Old Stock." The Syracuse Standard says: "Charles L. Davis appeared to a large audience last night at the Wieting in his new play called 'One of the Old Stock.' As Mr. Davis was seen in the character of Alvin Joslin, which he has made very familiar to the public by repeated performances in it, old friends and admirers were as usual delighted. The new play is better than the original and is presented with a great deal of pretension to scenic effect. Mr. Davis is, however, the feature of it which seems to go, and he certainly made his audience laugh all last night. The company gives adequate support."

A Veteran Gone.

On Saturday night shortly after 11 o'clock the veteran soldier, General Renwick, succumbed to the grim conqueror, Death. The General's demise adds another to the long list of victims, who have fallen from the effect of the grippe. When that contagion was at its height the General was attacked by it, but after a short indisposition he concluded that he had shaken it off and as many others have done he ventured out before he was fully restored to health. About a month ago he went to Lindsay on legal business, and while there suffered a relapse, from the effects of which he never recovered. William Turnbull Renwick was born at Berwick, England, in 1802, and was the oldest general in the British service. He attended school in England until 15 years old, when he entered the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich, where he remained for six years. From 1823 until 1851 he spent his time in surveying in Wales and Ireland. In 1851 he was ordered to the West Indies, and was there for about seven years. Thence he went to England and thence to Ireland. He came to Canada in 1841 as senior major of the Royal Engineers. On coming here he bought a large amount of land in Western Ontario, including property in this city. The General was somewhat eccentric and his holding such large tracts of unimproved land caused some unfavorable comment. While in Canada he was stationed on the New Brunswick frontier, in Montreal, Toronto and Quebec. From the latter place he went to the Isle of Jersey and later to Capetown, South Africa, leaving that place in 1864 for England, latterly returning to Canada, and has since resided in this city on Oxford street. The General was married to a Miss Gilpin, of Yorkshire, England. He had three children, two daughters, Mrs. Pigott and Mrs. Conolly, and a son named Henry, who died when but a young man. Both the daughters are still alive, and as they had been notified of their father's critical condition it is expected that they will arrive in this city from England to-morrow.

W. C. A.

At the recent meeting of the Woman's Christian Association the following members were present: Mesdames Carfrae, Roger, Perrin, Fysh, Wheaton, Kent, Murray, Hutchinson, Burns, Fraser, Ward, Wills, Complin, Whitehead, Cox, Hopkins, Hewitt, Allen, Pattullo, Misses Mason, Skinner, Kennedy and Mayor Taylor. The Treasurer's report showed receipts $627 20 and disbursements $493 92, leaving a balance of $33 28. Mrs. Kent gave report of Refuge and Infants' Home, stating that all were in good health and the home was as usual in a satisfactory condition. Number of inmates: Adults, 9; children, 13. Mrs. Murray reported for Aged Women's Home, that Miss Auld, the new matron, was feeling quite at home, and succeeds in getting the inmates to do a good deal of the work about the house, for which they are all the happier. Number of inmates, 16. Mrs. Hunt reported for Aged Men's Home, that the home was in good order and everything going on pleasantly. Number of inmates, 21. Mrs. Hopkins, on behalf of the Relief Committee, stated that 108 visits had been made during the month. Members of the committee have been kept very busy and have had more than the usual amount of work among the poor. Many applications for relief had been made, and in each case applicants had been found very needy. This was largely owing to the number of men out of employment. Garments had been distributed and relief to the amount of $57 given during the month. The Committee on Increased Accommodation for Aged Women reported progress. Mayor Taylor kindly addressed the meeting touching on various subjects in connection with association work, and stating that a part of the house adjoining the Aged Men's Home might be used as a temporary addition to the Aged Women's Home until some better arrangement could be made. A vote was then taken as to whether it was advisable to change the time of the annual meeting from the first Thursday in May to the third Thursday in October, 1890, the result being in favor of the change. Mrs. Pope was elected a member of the association and a committee formed to prepare for the annual sale of work for benefit of Aged Women's Home. The following donations are gratefully acknowledged for Infants' Home: Mrs. Shuttleworth, a high chair; Mesdames Hellmuth, Hudson and Taylor, clothing. For Aged Men's Home: Mesdames Kempt, Kent, Hudson and Miss Chisholm, reading matter; Mrs. Moorehouse, butter; a friend, teaspoons; Mrs. A. Thompson, quilt; J. S. Pearce & Co., catalogues. For Aged Women's Home: Mrs. Burns, books; Mrs. Perrin, cake; Mrs. Carfrae, preserves and pickles; Mrs. Fysh, chicken broth, friend, chloride of lime; Mrs. Hewitt, crocks; Mr. Sanborn, tea; a friend, lamp tops and can openers; W. F. McGinn, hot cross buns.

W. A. Brock, gunsmith, has removed to No. 192 Dundas street, between Richmond and Clarence, north side.

Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure."—Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.
