specific is not announced as a general specific for all human ills. It is merely commended as a desirable treatment for nervous disorders of a certain sort, which may be readily effected by the concord of sweet sounds. Its advocates regard it only as "one of those intangible but healthful properties through the nervous system." Harmony is designed to be used in such cases simply as a tonic, to strengthen the nerves and invigorate the overworked brain. Good music would doubtless have a very salutary general effect as a preventive agent.
 Judiciously administered to the public it may well form one of the sanitary precautions of every city, tending to soothe not only the savage breast but the harassed, careworn and discontented one.

The effectiveness of the new mental tonic in the treatment of insanity has been well tested with good results in the London Asylum for the Insane. During last year no less than 85 evening entertainments were given at that institution, of which dances and concerts formed the greater part. The average attendance at these entertainments was 254—about 28 per cent. of all the patients. There were also summer evening band concerts on the lawn in front of the main asylum. The beneficial effect of such innocent pleasures on minds diseased, though difficult to estimate, cannot be doubted.

PETROLEUM.

Statistics of the petroleum in the United States are interesting.
 Petroleum last year was produced in Canada, namely, Pennsylvania,
 New York, Ohio, West Virginia, Colorado, California, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas and Texas. The total production is shown to be 34,820,306 barrels, valued at $26,554,052. Of the total produced, 109,891 barrels were disposed of for lubricating, 12,350,813 for fuel, and 22,478,602 for illuminating purposes. Nearly the entire amount produced in California, Indiana and Ohio was used for fuel, while nearly the entire amount produced in Colorado, New York, Pennsylvania and West Virginia was used for illuminating purposes.
 The production by States was as follows:
 New York, 1,450,000 barrels; Pennsylvania, 1,450,000 barrels; Ohio, 1,450,000 barrels; West Virginia, 1,450,000 barrels; Colorado, 1,450,000 barrels; California, 1,450,000 barrels; Indiana, 1,450,000 barrels; Kentucky, 1,450,000 barrels; Missouri, 1,450,000 barrels; Kansas, 1,450,000 barrels; Texas, 1,450,000 barrels.
 In Canada, petroleum is produced in the Northwest region of the Northwest Territory, and in the Northwest Territory.
 It is produced in the Northwest Territory, and in the Northwest Territory.

SYSTEMATIC TREE GROWING.

According to the late United States census, the United States leads Michigan and Wisconsin in amount of standing pine.
 The Wisconsin cutting down of timber on both sides of the border, it seems, continues. By and by, the last timber lands will be removed from present cities.

CODDING REFORM.

The well-known writer on economics, Edward Atkinson, described some time ago in the Popular Science Monthly an entirely new system of cooking that he has made in the art of cooking. By means of a peculiarly constructed oven over a hearth he has been able to cook, boil and stew his daily food, not only far more economically than by the ordinary methods, but also more whole-somely and appetizingly. His ovens have been since adopted in various parts of the country, and in several charitable institutions, with satisfactory results. As under the new system a satisfying lunch for one can be enjoyed at a cost of only 2 cents, this movement toward cooking reform may be regarded as the most important, from a philanthropic point of view, that has arisen during the last quarter of a century. A lunch given by Mr. Atkinson some months ago, of which three persons partook, consisted of a meat pie, a lemon pie and a cup of coffee, each perfect of its sort, and all costing exactly 7 cents. Another practical test of the new method shows that a number of growing boys in a charity school, fed on food prepared in the new oven, have grown strong and healthy under the Atkinson system, and at comparatively small expense.

If it is now common, as Mr. Atkinson says, for the workman to spend 75 per cent. of his income for food, and under his methods this great outlay may be reduced to 10 per cent. of his earnings, it is obvious that the gain to health, comfort and morals would be incalculable. Crime and vice are diseases which may be traced often times to a general supposition to badly prepared food. Properly cooked and appetizing dishes, on the contrary, are a prime factor in lifting the people to higher moral and social planes, and it can be demonstrated that the poorly-paid classes can thoroughly nourish their bodies and satisfy their appetites at an expenditure of only a small part ## of their earnings, the temptation to steal

and to drink will be greatly decreased.
 Not wage-workers only, but all classes will be directly benefited by economic and wholesome cooking. As Prof. Youmans has said, our kitchens, abandoned to the control of raw servants, are the fortified entrenchments of ignorance, prejudice, irrational habits, rule of thumb and mental vacuity, and the consequence is that we are suffering from wasteful, unpalatable, unhealthy and monotonous cookery. In England there is no general acquiescence in this state of things. It is opposed by a number of excellent training schools of cooking. When will our Canadian women make a scientific study of that practical art which is a daily necessity in the health and life of every household?

WHAT THE "ADVERTISER" THINKS

ABOUT IT.

SEVERAL eastern heavy editorial writers have become all tangled up in a controversy on woman's sphere. The definition is short. It includes the whole of creation. (Grand Rapids Democrat.)

Yes; though woman is not a man and a brother, yet she is an indispensable aid to the male creation. Why should her sphere be restricted?

 Canada were cast down good land would nature intended it to be. (Detroit Free

Our contemporary hits the nail on the line had opportunity to buy and sell to best advantage they would increase in the next ten years by millions instead of by thousands.

The New York State officials are to have a great killing match next week. Six murderers are condemned to death in the Sing Sing penitentiary, and of these four have been sentenced to die during the be disposed of by means of electrocu-terrible details of which were tele-

A MAN'S LIFE SAVED

I WOULD not be doing justice to the afflicted if I withheld a statement of my experience with jaundice, and how I was completely cured by using Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery.
 No one can tell what I suffered for nine weeks, the third of which I was confined to my bed, with the least medical aid I could obtain in the city trying to remove my affliction, but without even giving me temporary relief. My body was so sore that it was painful for me to walk. I could not bear my clothes against my skin, my bowels only opened when taking purgative medicines, my appetite was gone, nothing would remain on my stomach, and my eyes and body were as yellow as a guinea. When I was turned on the street I was stared at or turned from with a repulsive feeling by the passersby. The doctors said there was no cure for me. I made up my mind to die, as I had lost all my chance. One day a friend called to see me and advised me to try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I thought if the doctors could not cure me, what is the use of trying the Discovery, but after deliberating for a time I concluded to give it a trial, so I procured a bottle and commenced taking it three times a day. I was anxious at the expiration of the third day to find my appetite returning. To my surprise I found it and I persevered in following the directions and taking Hot Baths two or three times a week until I had used the fifth bottle. I then had no further need for the medicine, and had saved my life—that had stored me to health—as I was radically cured. The natural color of my face replaced the dingy yellow, I could eat three meals a day, in fact the trouble was so cured that it will not recur.

(Signed) W. LEE, Toronto.

He Fell Among Thieves

"Inthia, dear," said Lady McCorquodale, "I have something to say to you."

Inthia slid an arm about the elderly lady's waist, and laid her tender cheek against that formidable bosom.

"I have something to say to you, auntie," she answered.

"I have the greatest news for you," Lady McCorquodale responded.

"You cannot have such news for me as I have for you," said Inthia. "Let me tell mine first."

"Very well, my dear," said the old lady, with a rather sickly look of the cheek.

She divined the news already, and it made her task so difficult that for all her ordinary strength and resolution she felt quite helpless.

Inthia put the other arm about the old lady's waist, and clasped both hands behind her, bending her head so as to hide her eyes, which she knew to be heavily heavy with the hot blush that mantled on her face.

She pressed her cheek closer to the black silk bosom, and told her story in half a dozen words.

"Harry proposed to me this morning."

On luckless coincidence! That the most brilliant offer in the world should come at such a time.

"And you?" said Lady McCorquodale, tremulously. "What did you say, dear?"

Inthia looked up sweetly and shyly for a mere second, kissed her swiftly, and then hid her own face again.

"I said 'Yes,' dear."

Lady McCorquodale gave a heart-breaking sigh. After all, what else on earth could have been expected? The young people had been absolutely thrown out of their family, open-eyed, had seen what was coming at last it was here. And one of the worst things about it was that there was nobody to blame. Not a creature was in fault from start to finish, and yet the condition of things was to her ladyship's mind almost catastrophic.

"My darling," she said, and she found herself so agitated that she spoke with difficulty, "if you had brought me this news yesterday I should have rejoiced to hear it, and have thought it the most fitting and proper thing to happen in the world."

Inthia had unlocked her hands, and now clasping them before her own bosom looked at her ladyship with a startled and even terrified air.

"There is nothing to be afraid of, my child. Nothing terrible has happened. On the contrary, there has just been offered to you one of the most brilliant positions in the world. Mr. Frost has laid before you a proposal for your hand."

"Mr. Frost?" Inthia repeated.

"Mr. Frost," said the old lady, "and you must know, my dear, that though we have always looked with the greatest kindness upon Harry, that if we had as much as dreamt of this splendid offer, we should never have encouraged his advances for a moment. Now, Inthia, there is nothing to be afraid of, and above all I beseech you not to make a scene. There is nothing I hate like a scene."

The girl's face had gone dangerously pale, and her eyes were wide with fear. Her ladyship was unusually patient at the provoking condition of affairs, but Inthia's look touched her, and brought her back to a moderate and persuasive tone.

"Nothing will be done," she said, "that is not fully and freely of your own doing. Harry will be told of the proposal which has been made, and will I trust have the good sense and right feeling to retire. I think Harry is a very manly young fellow, my dear, and I cannot for a moment believe that he will be so selfish as to stand between you and such a prospect. Mr. Frost, to whom I have hinted the position of affairs, is willing to wait for half a year for your decision, but I can tell you, Inthia, I have known Humphrey Frost all his life and there is no better young man in England. I can see that he loves you very dearly. He is a gentleman, and he will never give you any trouble. I shall not ask for a decisive answer now, of course, but I shall ask for your serious promise to think it over. I am getting to be an old woman now, and whatever little worldly feeling I may have had, I trust, long since left me. But I should be blind if I did not see the immense advantages on Mr. Frost's side, and I should certainly be grossly wanting in duty if I did not do my best to impress them upon you."

This harangue had given Inthia time to collect herself.

"I shall be sorry to disappoint you, auntie dear," she answered, "but I shall never marry anybody but Harry now."

"Inthia," exclaimed her ladyship, "I will not accept an answer of that kind at this moment. It is not what I ask for or desire. What I wish you to do is to consider Mr. Frost's proposal, and to prepare yourself to give him an answer in half a year's time."

"If Mr. Frost cares at all," said Inthia blushing, "it will be far better and kinder to tell him now. I esteem Mr. Frost very highly, and I think that his wife will be a very fortunate woman, but—"

The pretty face was sweetly obdurate, and as she looked at it her ladyship's hopes sank to zero.

"I shall tell Harry," she said, "and expect him to resign his pretensions."

"Auntie dear," the girl answered, with sudden tears in her eyes, "you have been everything to me. Don't let us be angry with each other, and suffer for nothing. If Harry is to be told of this I shall tell him of my answer."

"Inthia," said the old lady, "you are an ungrateful, disobedient child."

Then there were tears, not on one side merely, and then a reconciliation, and new beseechings on her ladyship's side, but no change on Inthia's.

"You come too late, Humphrey," said her ladyship, when at length she found courage to face the unfortunate suitor.

"That dreadful boy has proposed this very morning, and Inthia has accepted him."

"She declines to take my proposal into consideration."

His face had grown as white as Inthia's had been half an hour before, but his voice was calm and steady.

"She declares, my dear Humphrey, that nothing will change her."

"Tell her, if you please," said Humphrey Frost, "this nothing will change me either. My offer holds good for my lifetime."

CHAPTER V.

Lady McCorquodale's ideas with respect to Harry Wyndham underwent a rapid and most logical change. Her ladyship had lost no time in informing the young gentleman of the offer Mr. Frost had made, and she did not need him to remain for a moment in doubt as to her conception of what ought to be his sense of duty. His plain and obvious course, so Lady McCorquodale told him, was to retire at once from the field, and leave Inthia free to accept that magnificent offer. It was not unnatural, perhaps, that the young man should have quite another notion about his duty. There was a hot scene between them, and there were things said on both sides of which, in their cooler moments, neither of the dignitaries approved. Harry disavowed her ladyship to her face as a wicked old woman, and the phrase made her dislike him cordially for the rest of her days. It was not the epithet "wicked" which affected her so seriously, but the stinging and only too veracious one which followed it.

"If Inthia tells me to go I will go," Harry had said. "I will accept no dishonour from no hand but hers. What right have you to try to fasten and loose with her affections? Do you think Inthia doesn't care for me? There were scolding, tears from his eyes as he spoke, for her ladyship had shown clearly that she meant to be bitterly uncompromising, and his whole heart was against the sordid mammon worship she had preached to him.

"Do you think I don't care for Inthia? Haven't we been thrown together from the time when we were babies? Haven't we been taught to think always that we were led's honest sense of championing the cause of the girl he loved and of his own heart, of course there was some egotism in it all, but it was natural and just, and at least he was so firmly rooted in his own sense of right that the scolding verdict of the world could not have changed him.

Her ladyship knew to the full as well as he how right he was, but being set on her purpose, and having only a much smaller right on her side, she felt it all the more necessary to be angry. She told him that he was acting selfishly and despicably, and part in trying to bar Inthia's way to so splendid a fortune. He went pale at this, and stood up quite quietly.

"If her own heart does not stand in her way, Lady McCorquodale," he said, "I beg to assure you that I won't. Shall I ring and ask for Inthia?"

This was an altogether triumphant stroke, and as for her ladyship that there was nothing left for her but to march from the apartment with as fine a show of contempt and indignation as she could assume.

FUN FACTS AND FICTION.

A letter from Ceylon says that the pearl fisheries last season was the second largest on record during the present century. The amount realized by the government was more than 900,000 rupees, equal to $289,800.

A Taper Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a heavy dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Farnham's Taper Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the stomach and remove the food partaken of in a healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion, dyspepsia.

It is extremely difficult to convince most of the men who write verses for the daily newspapers that good poetry is scarce this year.

In Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, a sour stomach and backache; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in the late a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Diuretic. I need one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

"What why did he kick me?" asked the man who had just left the editor's room. "I never wrote an article for him before."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became a Woman, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

One of the maxims of the head of the Rothschild family was: "Pay your debts promptly." When a man is worth a hundred millions or so it ought not to be hard to write such maxims as this.

Hair Regs. A good name of Dr. Dorenwend's German preparation for the hair. It really works like magic. All who have used it pronounce it to be unequalled for remedying the loss of vitality of the hair roots, restoring gray hair, removing dandruff, etc. Just try it. It is first-class. All our agents sell it.

Good Papa.—I've brought you home an English pig, my dear. Enraptured Daughter.—Oh, you dear, good papa; it's just like you.

Many a wife would always be the same specially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they always say. There was a hot scene between them, and there were things said on both sides of which, in their cooler moments, neither of the dignitaries approved. For Dress and Her Essay.
"Your graduation dress is a perfect poem, I understand."
"Oh, it is just lovely! Why, the trimmings cost more than the dress itself."
"I heard, by the way, what is the subject of your graduating essay?"
"The Evolution of Fashion."

The Way to Dispel Gloom, and How to be Happy.
We are always refreshed and feel happier by the presence of cheerful people; why not make earnest effort to confer that pleasure on others? There are many who now look gloomy, and whose whole life and conversation throws a shadow and cloud over joy and happiness. In the majority of cases a close examination will at once convince that the gloomy in conversation, life and action suffer more or less from nervous debility, irritability, moroseness, melancholia, mental depression or dyspepsia.
Any one of these ailments is enough to mar and destroy a happy and joyous disposition.
Reader, if you are one of such victims, the fault is your own, if you do not effect a change.

Your effectual remedy is Paine's Celery Compound; its work is magical in cases like yours. It dispels all nervous feelings; it induces sweet rest and a flow of happy spirits; it lifts all mental depression, and gives a sound and harmonious action to the digestive organs, and great muscular power and vigor. You can be happy yourself and make others around you happy.
Keep the body, nerves and brain in healthy action with Paine's Celery Compound, and the world will be all the better for your life and the happiness you can spread around.

What Does It Mean?
"100 Doses One Dollar" means simply that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, because it gives more for the money than any other preparation. Each bottle contains 100 doses, and will average to last a month, while other preparations, taken according to directions, are gone in a week.
Therefore, be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier.

When the plumber sends in his bill the dancing and paying the piper are done by the same person.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.
Politeness has been compared to an air cushion, which, although there is apparently nothing in it, eases our jolts wonderfully.—George L. Carey.

Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

If the small boy who runs away to go swimming doesn't make a clean breast of it while he's in the water he won't when he gets out.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaints if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D.
Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use.
It corrects all looseness of the bowels, promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc. in the market.

WHY NOT?
You have corns, warts, bunions, piles or cancer. Why are they not cured? It is a reasonable question. It demands a candid answer. You have it here. You bought a corn cure. You thought you had Barwell's, but it was not the genuine. You got a counterfeit. It was no more use than water. We missed the sale of what you wanted so far.
It is your money gone; our money goes too.
You get another and think it is the genuine.
You have made a mistake, and we are disgraced. More of your money's gone; more of our money is gone. Your corns are not better; our reputation is no better. You make up your mind they cannot be cured.
We have lost a customer. You have got hold of the wrong end of the stick.
You have got hold of the wrong end of the stick. Our money is gone. Not our money is gone, but our options. One another are wrong. We don't know by sight or name. You don't know us. Think how dull you are to get an imitation when you might as well get Barwell's Sure Corn Cure. And you think "what fool the manufacturers of that corn cure are to do so." Let's get acquainted with one another. Let's get acquainted with Barwell's Sure Corn Cure. Let's get acquainted with the unhandsome pictures of that corn cure are to do so.
You call him by. And you can't help it. Someone. Nobody deals more handsomely. Nobody ever loses a cent by getting Barwell's Sure Corn Cure. Let them always lose a cent. We never have any trouble except from the infernal counterfeiters. Neither do you with Barwell's Sure Corn Cure.
