The Eastern War.

London, Aug. 31 .- A dispatch to the Times from Shanghai says: A Tien Tein dispatch from Chinese sources says that fourteen Japanese ships, with over 4,000 troops, are attacking Port Arthur. The Chinese garrison, numbering 5,000 men, and the Chinese fleet have been ordered to attack the Japanese.

Lunacy in London.

LONDON, Aug. 31 .- London is fast losing its head, according to the recent report of the English commissioners in lunacy. According to the returns made to them there were, on Jan. 1, 92,067 lunatics, idiots and persons of unsound mind in England and Wales. London showed the most surprising increase. In his annual address to the county council several weeks ago, Sir John Hutton pointed out this fact. In 1889 the number of pauper lunatics in London was 16,041, and the last report shows there are 18,058. The big increase last year is attributed by one London paper to the blazing hot months of the summer. This year the London sun is making mends by keeping under cover.

War in Samoa.

APIA, Samoa, Aug. 15, via San Francisco, Aug. 31 .- The ships of Great Britain and Germany have interfered in the troubles here. Skirmishes had taken place between the warring tribes, resulting in the killing of eight or ten persons.

The natives had become short of food, stealing from foreigners. Their mode of living had produced a great deal of illness and death, so that, in the interests of common humanity, interference by the powers became absolutely necessary, and the rebels were notified that they must disperse.

On Saturday morning the rebel fortifications were shelled by the war ships, and all but destroyed.

On Sunday morning the rebels and the king's warriors came together at Lufilufi. Several loyalists were killed.

Early Monday morning, Aug. 13, the war ships Cnracoa and Buzzard again opened fire on the rebels, killing and injuring a large number. Simultaneously the king's warriors attacked them on shore.

On Monday evening the rebels made promises of complete submission to Malietoa's rule, agreeing to pay their taxes, return to their homes and to deliver up 100,000 rifles.

Later on the Aana rebels joined the Atua party and these combined torces attacked the king's warriors.

Throughout the night the roar of the Buzzard's guns could be heard. This morning the Curacoa left for the scene of the trouble.

A London cable in regard to the stock market says: There was a bullish feeling everywhere today, but actual dealings were chiefly confined to South American securities, which were very strong. Accident to the Express From Montreal Bound for Troy, Fatal Runoff on the Chicago and-Western Road.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 31.-Passenger train No. 6, north bound, on the Chicago and Western road, this morning, was derailed by striking a herd of cattle. John Kobe, engineer, was killed and one lady passenger was also injured, but not seriously.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT. TROY, Aug. 31 .- The night express train from Montreal, due at Troy at 2:10 a.m. today, left the track at Port Kent, near Plattsburg. The train was well filled with returning passengers from the Adriondacks, but only three were hurt at all, while none were injured seriously. The locomotive, tender and baggage car were wrecked.

A DECISIVE BATTLE.

Reported to Have Been Fought Between Japs and Chinese.

The Result Yet Unknown-Many Thousand Warriors on the Move.

London, Sept. 1.—Central News Shanghai advices this morning say the result of the attack upon Port Arthur is not positively known. It is reported that 4,500 Japanese were landed and they with fourteen vessels took part in the attack. The Chinese Government has issued orders for 5,000 troops and a fleet to proceed to Port Arthur and attack the Japanese.

Eleven Japanese transports convoyed by five warships have landed 6,000 men, and 300 horses were landed at Chemulpo, whence the entire force marched to the northward. Thirty thousand Japanese troops in Corea are marching northward.

The Emperor of China has ordered four native banks to provide the Government with 10,000,000 taels, to be used in prosecuting the war. It was expected that a decisive battle would be fought yesterday, but no news of an engagement has yet been received.

Sale Return of the Low Exploring Party From Chilliest Labrador.

Harry Horsey, third son of R. M. Horsey, tinsmith, Kingston, went in swimming Thursday and was drowned.

The Rev. Frederic Wallis, fellow of Conville and Caius College, Cambridge, Eng., offered the provostship of Trinity College, Toronto, declined.

Phyllis Bell, daughter of R. Bell, photographer, Kingston, accidentally drank half a bottle of laudanum and died on Thursday from the effects of the draught. The following assignments are reported:

J. C. Campbell & Co., wall paper, Hamilton; Wm. McKeever, coal and wood, Hamilton; Henry E. Larone, baker. Cornwall; Mary A. Pettiman, grocer, Wiarton.

The news of the safe arrival at Gaspe, P. Q., of Mr. Low and his party, after one of the most extensive explorations ever made on behalf of the Dominion Government, is confirmed. Mr. Low and his party have been well nigh a year and a half traveling through the hitherto unknown territory of Central Labrador.

POLITICAL POINTS.

A Patron and Labor Candidate to be Nominated in East Elgin.

A meeting of the East Elgin County Association of the Patrons of Industry was held in the town hall, Aylmer, on Wednesday, Aug. 29, when the following resolution was passed unanimously: "That the convention be held in the town hall, Aylmer, Monday, Sept. 24, at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of selecting a candidate to represent the east riding of Elgin in the House of Commons, and that the labor element of the city of St. Thomas be requested to send 8 candidates, Aylmer 3, Port Stanley 1, Vienna 1, with proper credentials." J. C. LANE, secretary.

At the Patrons' picnic at Kingston Grand President Mallory said that if the day ever came when the Patron party became the tool of Mowat or Meredith in the Local House, or of either party at Ottawa, that day would see a Mallory leave the Patron party. He had called the seventeen Patron members to meet at Toronto in a few weeks, HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 31 .- D'Alton Mc-Carthy, M.P., addressed a large gathering at Truro tonight. Tomorrow afternoon he speaks at New Glasgow.

A Dastardly Outrage.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 1 .- A man named George Jewett is dying from the result of an outrage committed upon him today. He was standing outside the Salvation lighthouse when someone exploded a dynamite cartridge under him. His ear was taken off and his legs badly injured and part of the shell penetrated the head. No trace of the perpetrator can be found.

-In the matter of the Dominion Provident Benevolent and Endowment Association, which is being wound up under the Insurance Act by the master in chancery at Stratford, a judgment has just just been given by C. J. Armour, disallowing all the master's reports but three clauses. It seems that the master, in proceeding with the winding up, held that the directors were bound to repay certain sums, amounting in all to nearly $20,000, which they had paid over by direction of the certificate-holders, but which the master held should not have been paid out. Some of the directors and certificate-holders who did not believe this was right and who were represented at the Stratford proceedings by Mr. T. H. Luscombe, of this city, protested against the findings of the master, but he nevertheless made his report to the court, helding the directors liable. A meeting of certificate-holders in this city was held and Mr. Luscombe, who has made a specialty of friendly society law, advised the directors to appeal. This was done and the appeal was argued on April 17 last. The chief justice reserved judgment, and has only just given his decision, allowing the appeal and finding that the master had no power to make the directors liable. Conservatory Exams.

Thousands Delighted. It is impossible to exactly estimate the attendance at Victoria Park last night, but it was anywhere between 5,000 and 7,000. It was the first appearance of the Marine Band of the Young Liberal Fleet in this capacity, and the public hope it will not be the last. The band covered itself with glory. A better concert has not been given this season. The programme was a popular one, and tickled the ears of the huge audience, which broke into hearty applause after every selection. The monster street parade will start from the Market Square at noon sharp, inspiriting music being furnished by four excellent bands. The lead will be taken by a squad of butcher boys on horseback. The Patrons of Industry from lodges in the surrounding vicinity will come next, followed by the unions, and scattered through the ranks will be uniformed drill corps and fire companies. The programme at the park includes races and sports of varied description. The hose reel competition has already four entries, including the team from the G. T. R. shops in this city. The fancy drill competition will be a spirited contest, the prizes-$50 and $20 -drawing the Stratford Conclave, the Woodstock corps, and London's Robin Hood and Knights of Sherwood Forest.

The grand climax of the afternoon's sport will be a soul-stirring conflict between Chinese and Japanese warriors, who will struggle in Oriental costume for the conquest of Corea. The burlesque features of this original and novel effort will be excruciatingly tunny.

The evening's performance will be conducted in the Grand Opera House, where J. W. Bengough, the world-famous cartoonist of Grip, will give recitals and crayon sketches in his inimitable and mirth-provoking style.

HAD TO PAY UP. The Council Will Pay for the Election Booths,

So No. 1 Committee Recommends-The End of a Comedy-Other Business Matters.

The finance committee of the council finished the last act in a little farce comedy which the majority of the aldermen began before the last Provincial election. The returning officer, Sheriff Cameron, it will be remembered, finding the council had taken no action, prepared a list of the polling booths for the election, as the previous sheriff had always done. On the eve of nomination the mayor and a majority of the aldermen resolved to ignore the sheriff's list, and to name their own booths. After an all night session they succeeded in carrying a resolution to this effect. The sheriff proclaimed few days with his parents at Exeter, has his own list from the nomination platform and votes were polled at the places he Mr. Harry Gowman, South London, named. When the bill of expenses came in leaves for Belleville today to pursue his the same clique in the council declined to pay it, and asked the city solicitor's opinion. The latter replied that he thought the the guest of Miss Carey for the past three city could be compelled to pay the sums asked by the sheriff, but it was doubtful what view the court would take in the matter. The act in reference to the question he said was very obscurely worded. At last night's meeting of the finance committee the chief actors in the farce performed the feat of swallowing large lumps of mortification. "The city had better pay the account," said the mayor. "There is no use fighting unless we can win." Ald. Carrothers, who had opposed the

AN INTERESTING CASE

For the Kent Fall Assizes-Over Wm.

Pollard's Will-A Women in It. CHATHAM, Aug. 31 .- An interesting case is on the docket for the Kent Fall Assizes. It is that of Pollard vs. McRobert. The plaintiff, Geo. Pollard, is administrator for the estate of the late William Pollard, of Florence, and the detendant is Jane Mc-Robert, an hotelkeeper, of the same village. The alleged grounds of the action are that while the late William Pollard was alive, although over 70 years of age, he went to live with defe. dant, who rapidly secured a powerful influence over the old man. The latter took to drinking, soon got rid of his spare cash. About a year before his death he signed a deed conveying his farm, lot 16, con. 14, Dawn, to Mrs. McRobert on condition that she should support him for the remainder of his days, and give him $100 per year. Suit is now entered to set aside this deed as obtained from a man incompetent to transact business without independent advice, and undue influence was used by defendant to secure the deed. The defense claim it was a fair, honest transaction. Wilson, Rankin, McKeough & Kerr are acting for plaintiff; Meredith, Cameron & Judd, of London, for de-

A Sure Remedy for Neuralgia. Neuralgia is one of the most common and distressing complaints incidental to this climate. It is not confined to any particular season, for whilst most general in the winter season, yet many suffer its excruciting agony in the heat of summer. In late years this form of disease has become better known, and consequently the means of relief have greatly increased in numbers, as well as in efficacy. Among the most powerful and penetrating combinations placed within the reach of the public for the relief of neuralgia we can mention no remedy qual to or more certain than Polson's Nerviline. Its power over pain is something wonderful, and we advise a trial for neuralgia or any other painful complaints. A German paper states that 521,000 shells were discharged by their armies against the French fortresses in the war of

How to Cure All Skin Diseases. Simply apply "Swaine's OINTMENT." No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose, etc., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. -Hon. Wilfrid Laurier is promised magnificent reception in Winnipeg on Monday. He will arrive on a special train from Rat Portage, and after a demonstration in his honor will proceed with his fellow M. P.'s and Madame Laurier to the Labor Day picnic, where he has been invited to speak. In the evening the Liberal chief will address a mass meeting, and on Tuesday he will speak at St. Boniface.

-A popular candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor of Buffalo is Mr. John N. Scatcherd, well known to many of our London and Middlesex readers from the fact that he comes of a family who were pioneers in this neighborhood. He was born in Buffale in 1857, and has spent all his life in that city except the period during which he was receiving his education at Hellmuth College here. Mr. Scatcherd is a lumber merchant, and president of the Bank of Buffalo. He is a fine specimen of manhood.

Certainly, certainly.

-Mr. John Morley, one of the greatest literary critics and political philosophers of the day, is the guest of Mr. Andrew Carnegie. So money attracts brains. The English Liberals are said to be in want of funds just now, and wealthy supporters Ake Mr. Carnegie are too rare to be negleeted. - [ Montreal Gazette.

Here is one of the meanest insinuations we have seen for a very long time. Why should a leading Liberal not be able to visit a noted Scottish-American gentleman without having it inferred by a Canadian fournal that he is soliciting money for political purposes? When the politicians of Canada who are invariably supported by the Gazette, visit Boston and other United States cities, they are often the guests of prominent citizens of the Republic. Are we to infer that they first eat their supper and then begin to beg for funds with which to aid in keeping up the rate of customs tariffs in this country?

MONDAY'S CELEBRATION.

Labor Day comes on Monday next, which, according to the act of the Dominion Par liament passed at last session, will in future be as much of a holiday as is the Queen's Birthday, Dominion Day or Christmas. Though this is the first year in which the first Monday of September has been generally observed as Labor Day, it is no new thing in London. There have already been two such celebrations in this city-the first, two years since, of comparatively humble pretensions, and the second, last wear, on a greatly enlarged scale, though both were most creditable to the organfized labor of the city. This year, the Indications are that Labor Day will be celebrated in this city on a far more extengive scale than hitherto. The great street procession will contain members of the digarmakers, tinners, tailors, international machinists, railway firemen, amalgamated carpenters, trainmen, firemen, typographical, barbers, butchers, machine woodworkers, bricklayers, carpenters and joiners, fron molders, and amalgamated engineers unions. But it will have an additional feature of interest in that for the first time it will be led by a new union-the farmers' organization, the Patrons-who have promised to participate.

The Labor Day idea has come to us from the close association of our toilers with their brethren of the Anglo-Saxon race in the United States. In the neighbo. ing republic the first Monday of September has for a number of years been observed as Labor Day, and a publicholiday, in many States. It was from their fellowworkers in the United States that our leading trade unions got the idea primarily of celebrating a distinctively Labor Day be far advanced in consumption.

every year, and to emphasize the unity of the interests of the race the Canadian workers petitioned Parliament to name the day that is observed in the United States as the Canadian Labor Day. Parliament tion, and now not only London but many other places have celebrations of the day, and it is tolerably certain that as years roll by the day will come to be regarded as one of the most important and most generally celebrated of our national holidays.

REVISION OF VOTERS' LISTS. Conservative journals and Conservative talkers are everywhere urging their friends to aid in having names of persons known to be favorable to Sir John Thompson placed upon the preliminary voters' list. As the list now in course of preparation by the revising barristers is the one upon which the next Dominion contest will be fought, the reasons for the energy of the trade restriction supporters must be evident. It is important to get on the preliminary lists, as any name so placed is likely to remain on future lists. But little more than a month remains, during which young men voting on income, farmers' sons and new-comers in a constituency can have their names inserted on the first list by simple affidavit. All the spare time of those interested in the success of the men pledged to reduce the public taxation and to remove the barnacles that have retarded the welfare of the people should be used to perfect the lists by putting on good names. Then subsequent effort can be directed to the removal of every bad vote. Every name in each subdivision, whether of friend or opponent, should be scrutinized. At the last Dominion election more than one Liberal candidate was defeated by the staffing of the voters' list. This was notoriously the case in East Elgin and West Huron. Let it be remembered that elections are either won or lost in almost every constituency when the voters' lists are revised, and every intelligent elector will be prepared to lend a hand.

The Western Fair Will Soon Be in Full Swing.

Rare Instruction and Amusement for the Farmers-Displays in Every Department Will Be a Great Special Attraction.

"It leads them all; always new, instructive and educating, pleasing and entertaining."

the city streets. Entries are flowing in from intending exhibitors in all parts of Canada, and Secretary Browne and staff are working under full steam.

That the Western leads them all has been the conviction of the farming community of Western Ontario ever since its institution. The directors are well aware of this fact, and year by year they endeavor to make the tair more attractive for the farmers, and they have never yet failed. It was originally started to develop stock raising and stimulate the farming and dairying operations of this tertile district-the rich est and most prosperous in Canada. It has more than served that purpose, and at the same time has given manufacturers the opportunity of bringing before the farmers the latest devices for the saving of labor. It has also proved a source of instructive amusement to all.

The exhibits in every department promise to be more numerous and of a better variety than ever. The dairy shed will be one of the great centers for those engaged in that line. Ontario will be well to the front as before, but Prince Edward Island has launched into the industry, and is going to send a display of its dairy products which may surprise western operators. The eastern exhibit will be one of the main features of this department. The machinery hall will have another overflow display of implements of all kinds. Improvements innumerable have been made during the year.

As to the special attractions, which are no small feature of the fair, they are such as will fill the stands both afternoon and night. Saturday afternoon they will be opened with a bicycle meet, governed by C. W. A. rules. The prizes are by far the best ever offered in London, ranging in value from $45 (for the team race) to $5 (third prize in the half-mile for boys under 16 years).

Then there is Prof. Clifford M. Calverly. the most daring high wire artist in the world. Every person who saw Calverly last year will never forget his daring ex-

Five afternoon and three evening ascensions will be made on the same balloon, the couple descending by means of separate parachutes, and racing for terra firma. To describe every attraction is impossible-there are too many. The only thing that can possibly impair the success of the fair is the weather and J. Pluvius has always been kind to the Western.

> The Sympathy of the Trades and Labor Men and the Patrons Looked For.

TORONTO, Sept. 1 .- The domestic servants here are agitating for the formation of a union, similar to those existing in connection with other occupations, with the object of improving their position. A preiminary meeting of leaders in the movement was held last night, and it is probable that in the near future an effort will be made to secure the aid of the trades unions and of the newly organized city Patron ledges to promote the objects of the domestics. Their principal grievance at present is the prevalence of Sunday night suppers, served at 9 and 10 o'clock and later, which have alarmingly increased in recent years. In many households the Sunday supper is the great feature of the week. Many guests are fre. quently in attendance, and the festivities are prolonged to a late hour. The preparations necessitate hard work for the greater part of Sunday, and the after-duties often carry the toil of those in attendance on the diners into Monday morning. The domes. tics argue that they are as much entitled to reasonable rest on Sunday as any other class of workers, and while they do not object to prepare and serve ordinary meals at seasonable hours on Sundays, they hold that a united effort is necessary to prevent Sunday becoming their hardest working SPOKES. The London Bicycle Club will be well represented at the different meets on Monday (Labor Day). Radway, White, Little, Sweeney and Reid will be at Seaforth, Morehead, Holt and Berryman at Woodstock and Wade at Dresden. Radway, White and Little are the three named for the five mile team race at Seaforth.

Monday being a holiday a large number of the Londons are going to attend the Seaforth meet. They will leave by London, Huron and Bruce train from G. T. R. depot at 8:15 for Brucefield, and wheel from there to Seathforth, a distance of six miles. arriving at Seaforth at 10:30. The party will return by way of Stratford in the evening. A very pleasant day is promised for all who may attend. A rate of a fare and onethird has been secured. Get your tickets at De la Hooke's.

PYTHIANS FOR TEMPERANCE. A Proposal to Expel Saloon-Keepers and Bar-Tenders.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 .- The Supreme Lodge, K. of P., now in session here, discussed today the new ritual for the uniformed rank and the new constitution. The session will likely last at least ten more days.

The Washington News says: "The committee on the state of the order, which vesterday determined to prepare a report to the Supreme Lodge, recommending that saloon-keepers and bartenders should hereafter be ineligible for membership, have concluded to go a step further and include in their report a recommendation that all those who are at present members of the order and are engaged in the liquor business shall be expelled." The committee stands three to two on the temperance question, and the majority hope to win over another member before the report is completed, thus being able to go before the Supreme Lodge with a four to one report.

The decision reached by the majority of the committee is in line with the sentiments set forth in Supreme Chancellor Blackwell's biennial report.

Activity in Several Lines-Drop in the Loan Demand.

Decrease in the Number of Failures in the States-Canadian Suspensions Increased.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The activity which came with exhausted stocks and the pressure of delayed fall demand, which was increased by the removal of uncertainty about the tariff, has continued with heavy entries of foreign goods since the bill became a law, but people who know best are saying "Improvement will come" rather than "improvement has come." Presumably there has not been time to feel the full effect of the change and a gradual gain will be more healthy than a spasmodic rise. But the expansion of commercial loans has suddenly ceased. Prices of manufactured products show weakness rather than strength. and there has been a reaction in the stock market. The recent material increase in demand for commercial loans appears to have been due to payments for sugar imports, for whisky taken out of bond and or imported goods taken out of customs houses, and has dropped off sharply. The unavoidable conclusion is that the desired increase in domestic distribution has not reached such proportions as to influence the markets. Imports will be large it is clear, but for the past month have been 5 per cent lewer than a year ago.

The mils are not running full though the stoppage at Fall River looks every day more like an effort of the operators to force curtailment in production in order to lift prices and make a reduction of wages seem unnecessary. The volume of trade shows again over the worst month of last year. Exchanges at the principal clearing houses show a gain of 8.2 per cent for the month. The boot and shoe manufacture still finds highly encouraging orders, but mostly for low grade BRADSTREET'S. Bradstreet's says: At all but a few of the cities from which special telegrams are received favorable influences are shown to have been at work, resulting in still further improvement in the business situation since the settlement of the tariff question. New England woolen mills are now reporting orders for heavy woolens. Prints and dress woolens are selling freely, and there has been an increased demand for funds at larger eastern centers, not only for withdrawals of goods from bond, but to meet increased offerings of commercial paper. Thus far funds to move crops have not gone west as freely as anticipated.

Total bank clearances this week, $74,-400,000-8.5 per cent less than last week, and 14 per cent more than in the last week of August, 1893, but nearly 23 per cent less the corresponding two years ago.

Little Girl had to be Kept in a Dark Room. Could not See to Feed Herself. Remedies and Doctors All Failed. Cured in One Week by CUTICURA.

My little girl had very sore eyes. I tried everything, but nothing did any good. I took her to a doctor in Atlanta, who treated her for her to a doctor in Atlanta, who treated her for a year, but she kept getting worse. I brought her home; was almost out of heart; I just felt sure she would go blind. An old lady told me to try Cuticura Remedies. I had no faith in them, as I had tried everything. I commenced on Saturday and before the next Saturday her eyes were sound and well as any child's. She was almost blind and had been kept in a dark room for more than a year; could not see to feed herself; and they have never been as yet the least particle sore or even looked red from that day until this, and it will be three years the first of May. They certainly cured her, and I think they are the greatest remedies out. I only used half a box of Cuttoura, one cake of Cuttoura; so you see what wonders they did for my little girl. I have read of all of these most wonderful cases, but never before thought that they might be true; but I know this to be the positive truth.

Young Women as Pall-Bearers.

The custom of having women pall-bearers at funerals will probably soon be permanently established here. There have been several funerals of that kind in the past year. The pall-bearers who bore the re-mains of Miss Huber to her grave were eight young girls, dressed from head to foot in white. Miss Huber lived at Preston and Broadway, and died 'ast Wednesday. The funeral took place Friday afternoon from the residence. The young ladies wore white caps, gloves, dresses and shoes, the em-

DINNIE AND SUTHERLAND. A wrestling contest between Donald Dinnie and Sutherland recently was, says a New Zealand paper, a splendid exhibition and well worth witnessing. Both men hold unbeaten records in their particular styles. The difference in weight and strength to the credit of Dinnie was neutralized by Sutherland's youth and wonderful agility. The first and third falls in Cumberland style were won easily by Dinnie, the second fall in Græco-Roman style, after a struggle of eight minutes, went to Sutherland, and the fourth fall, in the same style, which lasted six minutes, was secured by Dinnie, winning him the match. Up to the present Dinnie has won 8,921 contests against all comers at all kinds of athletic sports. It is stated that there is no record of any athlete living who has won half the contests won by Donald Dinnie, who is now close on 60 years of age. THE TURF.

THE PORT HURON RACES. PORT HURON, Mich., Aug. 31 .- The unfinished 2:35 trot carried over, in which three of the horses had two heats each, and two of them a dead heat, was won by Rens McGregor (Bowling Green, Ohio). The 2:35 pace, with nine starters, was won by Billy C (Ohio) in three straight heats. The 2:40 pace was won by Palmetto in three straight heats. The talent nearly went broke on this race. The 2:25 trot had ten starters, with Johnnie Golddust, Woodstock, as favorite.

THE TROTTING QUEEN. Fantasy, the big daughter of Chimes and Homora, is generally regarded as the most promising candidate for the tretting crown hat now decks the forelook and cars of Nancy Hanks, the heroine of a mile in 2:04. Goldsmith Maid was 19 years old before she trotted in 2:14 in 1876. Dexter was 9 years old in 1867 when he made 2:174, and Maud S was 11 years of age when she covered the mile in 1885 in 2:082. Fantasy was only 3 years old when she duplicated Mand S's record at Nashville last October. This year she has gone her mile in 2:09, and will probably soon be moving down towards the 2:04 of Nancy Hanks. It is only for her owner to say so and the effort will be made to put the peerless mare over the track at her test possible speed. Her trainer be-lieves that she will capture the tretting crown easily and may be the first to get under the wire in two minutes. Fantasy began last season in the 2:40 class. She won her first race at Rochester in 2:21, 2:21 and 2:132, continued her marvelous performances, closing the year with her present mark.

INTERNATIONAL CONTEST. NIAGARA, Ont., Aug. 31.—At the Niagara international tennis tournament today Malcolm Chase, the intercollegiate champion, won the all-comers' match in the final from A. E. Foote, Yale. Chase beat Foote 2 sets-6-0, 6-1, and Foote then retired, giving Chase first prize. The finest game of the day was the match etween Chase and Avery, of Detroit. Chase gave Avery a point on each game, and Avery won the set, 6-1. In the second set Avery won 5 games and Chase had only 1. Chase then pulled himself together and won 3 games. Avery, however, captured the next two and the set, 6-2. Chase, however, after being 4 games behind all on the third set, pulled it out, 6-4. The last two sets were 6-3, 6-2, in Chase's favor.

The ladies' final was won by Miss Osborne, Canadian champion, after a close contest with Mrs. Whitehead, of Brantford, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.In the men's doubles, Chase and Foots beat Wilson (University of Pennsylvania), and Meadows, Buffalo, 6-3, 6-2. In the final novice match for the Wilkes cup, McMaster, of Toronto, beat Whitbeck, of Rochester, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4. In the handicap C. M. Pope, of Yale, beat

E. Rapelyea. F. A. Anderson, of Toronto, beat A. Coffey, of Buffalo, and G. Mackenzie, of Toronto; G. H. Meldrum, Toronto, beat Capt. Ferguson, Montreal, 6-4, 6-3.
In the mixed doubles R. Matthews and Miss Osborne, two Canadian champions, defeated E. S. Griffin and Miss Newman, 2 sets to 1.

MOTHERS

Always Obtain Grand Results From Lactated Food,

It Has Saved Thousands of Infant Lives.

"Ye shall know them by their works." The various brands of infant foods now efore the mothers of Canada are best judged by their works-their results. The vast majority of prepared foods are faulty in composition, and as a consequence their results are evil. For years it has been noted that Lactated Food possessed important and necessary elements that other foods lacked. Lactated Food in its composition embraces every element that tends to the babe's growth and development. It is a preventive of summer complaints, ad invariably keeps up strength and vitality.

When babies are teething, and when the infant appetite is capricious, it is found that Lactated Food is taken with a relish. Lactated Food is within every mother's feach, and is so inexpensive that no mother ever had a real excuse for not using it Lactated Food "saves babies' lives."

WE LIKE TO KNOW

That we are able to buy goods that sell easily, we like to know that our patterns please, we like to know that they make up tastefully and we like to know that the ladies always appreciate our endeavors to please. Half the pleasure in business life is to know that you are able to sell the articles you buy, and the other half is to sell them. We have always been able to do this and that is why our stock is always clean, nice and up to date. Never anything shopworn on our counters.

> Mr. Gladstone's Habits. Most English statesmen have been either free livers or with a touch of the bon vivant in them. But Mr. Gladstone is a man who has been guilty of no excesses, save perhaps in work. Ho rises at the same hour every day, uses the same fairly generous but always carefully regulated diet, goes to bed about the same hour, pursues the same round of work and intellectual and social pleasure. An extraordinary varied life is accompanied by a cer-tain rigidity of personal habit I have never seen surpassed.

COMMERCIAL.

Local Market. Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son. London, Saturday, Sept. 1.

Grain receipts were good as far as they went today, wheat and oats being the only kinds represented, with the exception of one load of very poor peas. There was no actual change in values, though the feeling in both wheat and oats was easier; the demand was good. Eggs showed more strength, baskets bringing 9c to 10c steadily, and the bulk of sales were made 10c steadily, and the bulk of sales were made at 10c. No change was made in the price of butter. Meats were quiet and unchanged. Apples, as usual, were offered in greater quantities than the demand could consume, and sales were again hard to make. Grapes were plentiful, at 35c to 50c per basket. Peaches, both home grown and imported, were plentiful, and sold all the way from 35c to 50c Plums quiet and steady, at 50c to 90c per to 50c. Plums quiet and steady, at 50c to 90c per basket. Tomatoes easier, at 40c to 50c per busket. Potatoes lower, at 75c to 80c. Hay sold off quick at $8 to $9 per ton. General values for the day were as follows: GRAIN.

Although some dealers and shippers found a little quieter feeling this week, they have since discovered that the boom is not off yet, as they received fresh orders Friday, and in order to fill them had to pay top prices. Excitement still runs high in the country, and we have just heard that contracts have been made in the west at 19ic for August, September and October. At Brockville 2.560 boxes August were offered, of which 378 were white and 2,122 colored. Sales were 168 boxes colored at 10ic, with 10ic bid for white and refused. A good deal of the present excitement has been caused by the English Co-operative Company being in the market for a large quantity of balance of season's goods. The English cable is 48s 6d, and is expected to be up to 50s next week. Cheese still retains its kingship. Prices are quoted at 10ic to 10ic for finest western white and colored.—[Montreal Trade Bulletin.

AQUATIC. A DEAD CALM AGAIN. DARTMOUTH, Sept. 1 .- The Vigilant and the Satanita started in a race this morning for the Bay Club prize, valued at £40. The Vigilant crossed the starting line at 10:30:10. The Satanita crossed at 10:30:21. Both had their jack yarders and jib topsails set and had a free reach to port for Torcross which they rounded in this order: Vigilant 11:09:45, Satanita 11:11:50. The Satanita being closer in shore she got a better wind than the Vigilant passed the American boat on the run home for the first round. After rounding the commodore's boat the Vigilant forged ahead and was 2 minutes in the lead when both ran into a dead calm. The Satanita gave up the race and was taken in tow for home. THE TURF. GOOD RACES AT PORT HURON.

There were five cows sold at the yards yesterday at about PORT HURON, Mich., Sept. 1 .- The last TORONTO.

TORONTO. Sept. 1.—There was a firmer tone to trade at the western cattle yards yesterday, owing principally to the higher offerings. There was a good attendance of buyers, There were 50 carloads in all placed on the market, which included 725 hogs and 425 sheep and lambs. About 6 carloads of butchers cattle were taken for Montreal. In the export cattle trade most of the stuff was cleared out, and day's races closed with a large attendance and splendid races. The unfinished 2:25 trot was taken by Golddust. Sir Rail, a Montreal entry, who finished the sixth in a race on Wednesday last, came out in good form and took the 2:50 pace with ease. Best time, 2:33. The 2:30 were taken for Montreal. In the export cattle trade most of the stuff was cleared out, and generally the price paid was 4c, choice bringing 4c and 4c per lb. There is an active demand for good export cattle, but poor quality is not wanted. In butchers' cattle quite a number of sales were made in the vicinity of 3c really from really good stock and some of the pace or trot was taken in three straight heats by Gertie B. The Custom of Handshaking. The handshake is a relic of homage, the lifted hat is a memory of the lifted helmet and a sign of peace. There are curious reasons for some of the customs of greetings and good-byes, which in times past have been a matter of importance, though they may seem trifling now as friends meet each other in the street or drawing-room. It seems a pity that the inconspicuous, friendly handshake should degenerate into Let Radway's Ready Relief be used anything so ungrateful, so peculiar as the present fashionable maneuver, which gives rise to many awkward situations. The pump-handle shake has nothing to recomreach the boure. mend it. At the best it is only a whim of the hour to please the fickle idler. It s an awkward attempt to shake two hands on the level of the face, with a curious sideways movement lower down, which finally ends in a ridiculous sawing of the air perfectly indescribable. It lacks all the spontaneity of the easy, cordial grasp of the hand, and bids fair to turn a customary act of friendship into ridicule. Ludicrous instances occur often in society, which leave a feeling of chagrin on the part of one, at least, for nobody likes to put forward the hand with a pleasing smile of recognition only to find the greeting ignored, because one does not happen to be familiar with the new pump handle action which the old friend has adopted. Vagaries of fashion change, and it is to be hoped this late style of hand-

The clothes were of a delicate shade of gray; looking remarkably cool and nice in conjunction with the white waistcoat. Captain Bohun was always well dressed; it seemed a part of himself. To wear the rude and rough attire that some men affect nowadays, would have been against his instincts. 'Don't sit on that stool of penitence; take the patient's chair," said the doctor, pointing to an elbow chair opposite the window. "But I am not a patient."

"No. Or you'd be at the opposite shop

over the way."
Arthur Bohun laughed. "It was of the opposition shop I came to speak to you—if I came for anything in particular. Where's Alexander? Is he keeping out of the way; or has he really gone to London as people

"I know nothing about him," returned Dr. Rane. "Look here—I was reading the account the givey in the newspaper. Is this last hint true?"-holding out the journal-"that a clue has been obtained to the writer of the letter?"

Arthur Bohun ran his eyes over the sentence to which the doctor's finger pointed. "No, this has no foundation," he promptly answered. "Atleast so far as the Hall is concerned. As yet we have not found do, if we had to cater for an insatiably curious public. But I fear I must be going

Arthur Bohun brought down the fore-legs of the stool, which he had kept on the tilt, rose, and said a word of apology for having detained him from his patients. His was essentially a courteous nature, sensitively regardful of other people's feelings, as men of great innate refinement are sure to be.

They went into the dining room, Dr. Rane having left his hat there, and passed out to-gether by the large bay window. The doc-tor crossed at once to a door in the wall that bound the premises at the back, and made its exit to the lane beyond, leaving Arthur Bohun in the garden.

A garden that on a summer's day seemed as a very paradise. With its clustering shrubs, its overhanging tress, its leafy glades, its shrubberies, its minature rocks, its sweet repose, its sweeter flowers. Seated in a remote part of that which belonged to Mrs. Cumberland, was one of the love lest girls that eye had ever looked upon. She wore a morning dress of light colored muslin, with an edging of lace at the neck and wrists. Slight, gentle, charming, with a peculiar look of grace and refinement, a stranger wor | have been almost startled at her beauty. It was a delightful face; the features clearly cut; the complexion soft, pure, and delicate, paling and flushing with every emotion. In the dark bown eyes there was a singularly sweet expression; the dark brown hair took a lustrously bright tinge in

A natural arbor of trees and branches had been formed overhead; she sat on a garden bench, behind a rustic table. Before her, at a short distance, a falling cascade trickled down the artificial rocks, and thence wound away, a tiny stream, amidst ferns, violets, primroses, and other wild plants. A plot of green grass, smooth and soft as the moss of the rocks, lay immediately at her feet, and glimpses of statelier flowers were caught through the trees. Their rich perfame came wafted in a sudden breeze to the girl's senses, and she looked up gratefully from her work; some small matter of silken embroidery.

And now you could see the singular refinement and delicacy of the face, the pleasant expression of the soft bright eyes. A bird lodged itself on a branch close by, and began a song. Her lips parted with a smile of greeting. By way of rewarding it, off he flew, dipped his beak into the running stream, and syared away out of her sight. As is the case sometimes in life.

On the table lay a handful of violets, picked short off at the blossoms. Almost unconsciously, as it seemed, her thoughts far away, she began toying with them, and insensibly into the French schoolgirl's play, telling off the flowers. "M'aime-t-il?" was the first momentous question; and then the pastime, a blossom being told off with every answer. "Oui. Non. Un peu. Beaucoup. Pas du tout. Passionnement." And so the round went on, until the last violet was reached. It came, as chance had it, with the last word, and she, in an access of rapture, her soft cheeks glowing, her sweet lips parting, caught up the flower and pressed it to her lips.

"Il m'aime passionnement!" Ah, foolish girl! The oracle seemed as true as if it had come direct fr " heaven. But can we not remember the e casy such necromancy once brought to ourselves!

With her blushes deepening as she woke, startling, into reality; with a smile at her own folly; with a sense of maidenly shame for indulging in the passame, she pushed the violets together, threaded a needleful of green floss silk, and went on soberly with her work. A few minutes, and then either eye or ear was attracted by something ever so far off, and she sat quite still. Quite still outwardly; but oh! the sudden emotion that rose like a lightning fiash within! and she knew the footsteps. Every vein was tingling; every pulse throbbing; the pink on her cheeks deepened; the life blood of her heart rushed wildly on, and she pressed her hand upon her bosom to still it.

He was passing on from Dr. Rane's to the other house, when he caught a glimpse of her dress through the trees, and turned aside. Nothing could have been more quieter or more undemonstrative than the meeting; and yet a shrewd observer, skilled in secrets, had not failed to read the truth —that both alike loved. Captain Bohun went up, calm as befitted a well bred man; shaking hands after the fashion of society, and apparently with as little interest; but on his face the flush also shone with all its tell tale vividness; the hand that touched hers thrilled almost to pain. She had risen to receive him; as calm outwardly as he, but her senses were in wild confusion. She began to go on with her work again in a hurried, trembling sort of fashion when he sat down. The day, for her, had turned to Eden; all things seemed to discourse weet music. True love-passionate, pure love-is not fluent of speech, whatever the world may say, or poets teach. Dr. Rane and Miss North thought they loved each other; and so they did, after a sensible, sober manner; they could have conversed with mutual fluency for ever and a day; but their love was not this love. It is the custom of modern writers to ignore it; the prevailing fashion to be matter of fact; realistic; people don't talk of love now, and of course don' feel it; the capacity for it has died out; habits have changed. It is false sophistry. We cannot put off human nature as we do a Captain Bohun was the first to break the silence. She had been content to live in it by his side forever; it was more eloquent, too, than his words were.

"What a lovely day it is, Ellen!" "Yes. I think summer has come; we shall scarcely have it warmer than this in July. And oh, how charming everything is!"
"Yes. Yesterday I had a ride of ten miles between green hedges in which the May is beginning to blossom. Envious darkness had shut out the world before I reached ome again.

"And I sat out here all the afternoon, she answered-and perhaps she unconsciously spoke in pursuance of the thought, that she had sat out waiting and hoping for "Where did you go, Arthur?"

him. "Where did you go, Arthur?"
"To Bretchley. Some of my old brother officers are quartered there; and I spent the day with them. What's that for?" He alluded to the piece of work. She smiled as she held it out in her right hand, on the third finger of which was a plain gold ring. A small piece of white canvas with a pink rose and part of a green leaf already worked upon it in bright floss silk. "Guess.

"Nay, how can I? For a doll's cushion?" "Ob, Arthur!" came the laughing excla-"If I tell you, you must keep council, mind that, for it is a secret, and I am working it under difficulties, out of Mrs. Cumberland's sight. Don't you think I have done a great deal? I only began it yester-

"Well, what's it for?" he asked, putting his hand underneath it as an excuse, perhaps, for touching the fingers that held it. "A firescreen for pretty faces?"

The young lady shook her head. "It's for "A kettle-holder! What a prosy ending!"
"It is for Mrs. Cumberland's invalid any clue whatever."

"I thought so. These newsmongers put forth lies by the bushel. Just as we might burnt her hand. I shall put it on some morning to surprise her."

When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she ared herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vege-TABLE DISCOVERY. ### AN HOTEL MAN'S STORY.

The Proprietor of the Grand Union, Toronto, Relates an Interesting Experience.

Suffered Intensely From Rheumatism-Six Doctors and Mineral Springs Failed to Help Him-How He Found a Cure-His Wile Also Restored to Health-Advice to Others.

(From the Toronto World.) One of the most popular officers at the recent meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada was Rev. L. A. Betts, of Brockville, grand chaplain for 1893-94. While on his way to Grand Lodge Rev. Mr. Betts spent some time in Toronto, and among other points of interest visited the World office. It seems natural to talk Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any one hailing from the home of that world-famous medicine, and incidentally the conversation with Mr. Betts turned in that direction, when he told the World that he had that day met an old friend whose experience was a most remarkable one. The friend alluded to is Mr. John

Soby, for many years proprietor of one of the leading hotels of Napanee, but now a resident of Toronto, and proprietor of one of the Queen City's newest and finest hostelries, the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Union depot. The World was impressed with the story Mr. Betts told, and determined to interview Mr. Soby and secure the particulars of his case for publication. Mr. Soby freely gives his testimony to the good done him by Dr. Williame' Pink Pills. A few years ago rheumatism with its attendant legion of aches and pains fastened upon him, and he was forced to retire from business. "For months," said Mr. Soby, "I suffered and could find no relief from doctors or medicines. The disease was always worse in the spring and fall, and last year I was almost crippled with pain. From my knee to my shoulder shot pains which felt like red hot needles. Then all my limbs would be affected at once. Half a dozen doctors, one after the other, tried to cure me, but did no good. The rheumatism seemed to be getting worse. As I tried almost everything the doctors could suggest, I thought I would try a little prescribing on my own account and purchased a supply of Pink Pills. The good effects were soon perceptible and I procured a second supply, and before there were gone I was cured of a malady six doctors could not put an end felt better in my life, and I give Dr. Wiltion. My wife, too, is just as warm an advocate as I am. A sufferer for years she has experienced to the full the good of Dr. Williams' invaluable remedy, and recommends it to all women." "From what trouble was your wife suffering ?" asked the reporter. "Well, I can't just tell you that," said Mr. Soby. "I don't know, and I don't think she did. It's just the same with half the women. They are sick, weak and dispirited, have no appetite and seem to be fading away. There is no active disease at work, but something is wrong. That was just the way with mywife. She was a martyr to dyspepsia, never in perfect health and when she saw the change the Pink Pills made in me she The marvelone improvethem ment was just as marked in her case as in my own, and she says that her whole system is built up, and that the dyspepsia and sick headaches have vanished. She, as well as myself, seems to have regained youth, and I have not the slightest hesitation in pronouncing the remedy one of the most valuable discoveries of the century. Let the doubters call and see me and they will be convinced. These pills are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a vitiated condition of the blood or a shattered nervous system. Sold by all dealers or by mail, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y., at 60 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50. There are numerous imitations and substitutions against which the public is cautioned.

BRUCE.

Bush fires are raging throughout the county of Bruce, and in the Tiverton district the air is hazy with smoke. On the 4th concession of Bruce township many hundred dollars' worth of valuable timber has been consumed, together with a number of stacks of hay. In the vicinity of Baie de Dore and the 10th concession of Bruce township fire has made considerable inroads into the cedar, and if rain does not come soon the whole swamp will be destroyed. Bush fires have done considerable damage in the vicinity of Ches'ey, and up north in the peninsula also. Farmers are forced to go many miles for water for their cattle. HURON.

Mr. Hugh Miller, druggist, 167 King street east, Toronto, says: "Eseljay's Liver Lozenges embody a new departure in medicine, and the idea is certainly a good one, as all unpleasantness is done away with, and a person gets an effectual yet gentle laxative without any of the nauseating effects produced by pills. They are an especially convenient way of administering medicine to children." Mr. Miller voices the opinion of druggists all over the Dominion.

More Popular Than Ever. The number of applications for the different subjects taught at the Conservatory of Music, even before the reopening, is greatly in advance of any previous year, and the institution bids fair to have twice as many students as last year. This is not to be wondered at when the staff of teachers engaged at the Conservatory is taken into consideration, Mr. Barron (the principal) equal footing with other conservatories, colleges, etc. The staff has been increased to twelve teachers, as follows: Mr. W. C. Barron (concert pianist) late of Germany, who studied with the great Review. German pianist and critic, Herr Martin Krause, Prof. De Jadassohn, and others. Miss Jessica Frances Ter-Williger, teacher of elocution, physical culture, etc. (late of the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston), known in the large cities as a superior elocutionist. Miss Belle Brown, teacher of singing (formerly pupil of the best singing teachers, such as Elliott Haslam, of New York), who has been very successful, as shown by her students at the closing exercises last June. Miss Barron and Miss Proudfoot, who are so well and favorably known as superier teachers. Mr. A. L. Lawrason and the Misses Steele and Paterson, accomplished pianists and successful instructors. Mrs. F. J. Moore, teacher of singing daughter of the great composer, J. L. Hatton) and herself a composer of celebrated works, such as "Aberdeen Waltzes." Mr. R. Pococke (late of Germany) teacher of many pupils of fame on the violin. Miss Katherine Moore (late of the Grand Conservatory of New York, and teacher at Hellmuth Ladies' College) will teach voice culture at the Conservatory this year. Mr. Barron considers himself very fortunate in having secured Miss Moore, Miss Matthews

A quiet but elegant wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Walker, of Clarence Street, Wednesday evening, Aug. 29, when their daughter Carrie was united in marriage to Mr. Aaron Wolf, by the Rev. Mr. Gundy. The bride wore a beautiful imported gown of cream corded silk, en train, with guipure lace trimmings. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses, ferms and smilax. Her bridesmaid, Miss Helen Savage, of Detroit, wore light blue crepe and silk, with ribbon trimmings, and carried yellow roses. The groom was assisted by Mr. Will Clarke. The house was tastefully decorated with palms and white asters. The ceremony was performed under a conopy of evergreens and white asters, banked with palms. The presents were beautiful and costly. Mr. and Mrs. Wolf will be at home to their friends after Sept. 15, at 81 Elmwood avenue, South London. Bengough on Monday.

The Boston Herald thus speaks of J. W. Bengough, the celebrated editor of Grip, who is to appear at the Grand Opera House on Monday night next: "To be a humorous lecturer, an opera singer, a comic artist and a popular reciter is a considerable task for any man to impose upon himself. That was, however, what Mr. J. W. Bengough, editor of Toronto Grip, tainment, and he did it very well." Repetition of Job's Great Affliction.

Mr. George Henry Drew, of this city, has been in very poor health for some time. His system was completely run down, and his blood so impoverished that "boils came out all over his body"—in short, it seemed but a repetition of Job's great affliction, for no sooner did they disappear in one part of the body than they returned elsewhere with more severity, and this condition of affairs seemed to increase, although Mr. Drew had tried no end of curcalls. On the 5th day of August he got one bottle of the Royal Crown Remedy and a box of Royal Crown Fills at Bark-well's drug store, of which he has taken half, and last evening he called at the above store to return thanks, and in the presence of eight witnesses stated that it did him more than $1,000 worth of good, as he had not felt as well for years, and the benefit derived from it could not be overrated, and in ought to be made known to either sufferers. It establishes throughout the entire system functional harmony, and supplies the blood vessels with a pure and bealthy current of new life, The skin, after a few days' use of the Crown Remedy, becomes clear and beautiful — pimples, bletches, black spots and skin eruptions are removed, sores and ulcers soon cured. Persons suffering from Screenla, Eruptive Diseases of the Eyes, Mouth, Ears, Legg, Throat and Glands, that have accumulated and spread, either from uncured diseases or mercury, or from the use of corrosive sublimate, may rely on a oure if the Royal Crown Remedy is continued a sufficient time to make its impression on the system. ****** Creat Affliction.

A Sea Serpent at Port Stanley (?) A sea serpent is reported to have been seen at Port Stanley yesterday morning. Several went out in a boat, it is said, but could not get a very good view of it as it was lashing the water into foam. They say it was about 40 or 50 feet long, of a mottled green or black color. Such a phenomenon was said to have been seen there about three years ago, but like all sea serpents nobody could get near enough to describe it properly .- [St. Thomas Times. Hoyt's "A Trip to Chinatown." The Grand Opera House will present as ts opening attraction on Friday, Sept. 7, Charles Hoyt's famous farce comedy, which has achieved the credit to itself of having surpassed all previous runs of any play of any character known to the stage of a metropolitan theater. For 656 consecutive performances, "A Trip to Chinatown," crowded Hoyt's Madison Square Theater in the city of New York. Author Hoyt brings to the Grand for this engagement the original New York cast in its entirety, including Harry Connor, formerly a member of the Holman Opera Company, as "Welland Strong," Geraldine McCann, Nellie Parker, Cora Tinnie, Sadie Kirby, Margaret McDonald, George Bean, jun., Julius Whitmark, George Sinclair, and Harry Gilfoil. Mr. Hoyt also brings to this city Bessie Clayton, a young and beautiful girl, whose dancing can best be described as startlingly sensational, and whose wonderful success has brought a swarm of imitators. Although Miss Clayton has never appeared in London her fame has spread to every part of the land. The management, in order to make this production perfect, will bring a carload of scenery from the New York house, making the production identical, even to the smallest detail, with that given at the Madison Square Theater. Among the new musical numbers that will be heard may be mentioned "The Pretty Widow," "Coons Are All a'Dreamin'," "How D'ye do Cholly Boy," "Ruben and Cynthia," "Harold" and many other selections original with this play, including, of course, the ever welcome "On the Bowery," written up to date. Many will remember the success this production had last season. The Grand was

HOUSEKEEPING ACCOUNTS.

Advantages Derived from Keeping Thom

Well-An Expense Book. The woman who is going to grow rich is she who keeps an expense account religiously and who cultivates assiduously the habit of putting away money in a savings bank. To deposit money merely for the sake of having a bank account and a fascinating little checkbook does not in itself help towards accumulating a fortune. Indeed, there are those who find that the possession of a checkbook is a temptation to extravagance. They cannot persuade themselves that merely signing their names to a bit of paper is equivalent to disposing of a sum of money. But the savings bank account has a different effect. The woman who starts such a one takes a pleasure in adding to her hoard. One of her delights becomes the computing of interest, and only dire necessity can induce her to withdraw her little pile.

The expense account book should be a substantial, sensible affair, not a leather-bound volume, almost small enough to tuck into one's glove. It should be ruled horizontally and on the left hand side of the page there should be a space ruled off vertically wide enough to contain dates. On the right hand side two spaces each, about an inch square, should contain the dollar and cents record. The wide intervening space on the left hand page should contain the names of the sources from which money is received, and the same space on the opposite side should be devoted to telling where the money is spent. All these spaces should be large enough to allow of large, legible writing.

An account book is extremely valuable to those wives whose husbands have the cheerful habit of inquiring what has become of sundry dimes and quarters. It also teaches frugality. The woman who has just written down in cold black and white what she has spent during the day is much less likely to spend as large a sum the next day than the woman who trusts all her accounts to the tablets of her memory. As a record, also, the account book is invaluable. There are times when it is really necessary or, at least, desirable, to know when one last bought a pair of boots or how much one gave to such and such a charity. The properly kept account book furnishes an immediate answer to these and all similar questions.

It is not necessary for the average woman, whose business dealings are impossible to treat an account book like vegetables. a diary and "write it up" whenever she has leisure. She will have to put down her expenditures every day. Even if she could remember all the details of be combined in making a stew or soup. ner spending for several days at a time -which she absolutely cannot-it would be a waste of mental strength to do it. Once a week she should balance her accounts. At first it will be her bitter experience that the income side and the expenditure side will not balance. She will find sums ranging from six cents to as many dollars unaccounted for. But the longer she persists in keeping the accounts the more nearly balanced the columns will grow, until finally there will come a happy day when they will balance exactly.

Their Wedding Journey.

Two families were recently greatly disturbed over a telegram. A son and a daughter of these families had married and gone away on a bridal tour of three weeks or a month, as the case might be. Two days after the three weeks were up the bride's parents received a telegram, which read: Have had a row with my husband. Am coming home.

To say this was not startling would be to say what was not true, and the bride's parents at once hastened to the home of the bridegroom's parents, only to find there a similar message, except that it read, "Have had a row with my wife." Messages were wired at once, but no replies were received, as the couple had evidently started home immediately after they had sent their communications. Then there followed an anxious waiting, and thirty-six hours later the facetious and happy couple turned up smiling, with the explanation that it was a row on the river they were talking about, and they weren't to blame if the telegraph didn't pronounce words correctly.

A Delicious Pudding.

To make peach cobbler line a deep dish with rich thick crust; pare and cut into halves or quarters some juicy. rather tart peaches, put in sugar, spices flavoring to taste; stew it slightly and put it in a lined dish; cover with thick crust of rich, puffy paste and bake a rich duick oven. brown. When done break up the top crust into small pieces and stir it the fruit. Serve hot or cold with a cream sauce.

Where Women Rule.

At first thought one would say that no State existed except in Mallockian fiction which had been entirely governed by women, and had flourished with-Yet there is such a state in Java, and though there is a rex de jure, there is onne de facto, the State Council consisting of three women. All State offices are held by women, and, if the authorities be correct, all that men are allowed to do is to exist.

Royal Tastes.

Queen Victoria has a great dislike to the present mode of colored underclothing, even of the most dainty tints, and always prefers a pure white. Her Majesty has also a well known antipathy even to colored borders to handWITHOUT A FREEZER.

Delicious Ice May be Made Without the Usual Apparatus.

Make an ice pudding without the aid of a freezer, thus: Pour half a pint of boiling milk, sweetened, into a basin containing two well-whisked eggs, stir the ingredients, put them into a clean sauce-pan and stir steadily over the fire until a thick custard is produced, taking care it does not boil, or it will be spoiled. Remove from the fire and put aside until cold, then add half a pint of whipped cream to the custard, and a teaspoonful of vanilla essence. Ascertain that the mixture is sweet enough, and add some dried cherries or pineapple cut into small pieces and a few drops of carmine, just sufficient to give a pale pink tint.

Put the mixture into a pudding mold with a cover, or an ordinary round cocoa tin that will hold a pint will do quite as well, providing it has a well fitting cover; stand the tin in a zinc pail, and pack it round tightly with equal quantities of rough ice, broken up into fairly small pieces, and freezing salt; about three pounds of each will be required; then cover the pail entirely with a thick blanket and stand it in a warm corner of the kitchen, near the fire, but not too close, for three hours and a half. Then turn the pudding out of the tin, knocking it on the table if necessary to loosen it, and serve at once.—New York World.

The Power of Children.

One man was making unkind remarks about his mother-in-law, and the other man was taking it all in. After awhile he put in his oar.

"You haven't any children, have you?" he inquired. "No," was the reply; "what's that got to do with it?" "More than you'll ever know until you have some."

"I fail to see it." "Yes, so did I, at first, and I talked just as you do. Then when the youngsters came and began to grow up and to learn who grandma was, and to look to her as their best friend; the one to shield them when they needed the parental spanking; the one to give them pennies when their parents thought they should not have them; the one who came and watched by them when they were sick; the one who was always good to them; the one grandma of all the world to the innocent, mischievous, all-pervading kids, blamed if I didn't forget utterly that she was my mother in-law, and I got to calling her 'grandma' just as the little ones did, and thinking about her just as they did, and finally, when the gray-haired old angel went to her rest, I grieved with the children and as sincerely as any of them."

Queer Sights in Mexico A visitor finds many things which surprise him in the City of Mexico. When the mail arrives at the postoffice the names of the people to whom letters are addressed are written on a slip of paper and posted on a bulletin board. Merchants go every morning to examine this announcement, and, if they find their names on the list, hand their cards to the deliver, clerk, who hands them their mail. No postage stamps are sold outright. Those having letters to mail take them to the postoffice and pay the postage to the clerk, who sticks on the stamps himself. In all public places men are found with pen, ink and paper, ready to conduct the correspondence of anyone unable to do it himself. Finally, everyone smokes, men, women and children, in the shops, in the street cars, at the opera and even in church.

Frosting Without Eggs. Take five tablespoonfuls of milk and one cup of granulated sugar. Boil five minutes. Flavor with lemon or vanilla. Beat it hard until it is cool enough to spread on cake. The frosting is ready to cut as soon as it is cold. It is very nice with the addition of grated chocolate or cocoanut.

Invented the Sewing Machine. After a long search the house in which Joseph Madersberger, who, the Austrians say, invented the sewing machine, was born has been found in Vienna. His birth occurred on March 6, 1768. The house is to be marked by a suitable inscription.

HANDY THING TO HAVE | = NEAT PIAZZA TABLE.

NO HOUSE SHOULD BE WITHOUT A FEATHER DUSTER HOLDER

Easily Made if the Instructions Giver Below Are Carried Out-But a Few Cents Needed to Buy the Necessary

The feather brush is as popular as ever as a useful ornament for a drawing-room, and there is, therefore no excuse to be made for dust upon brackets, pictures or knickknacks of any sort. The holder shown here is, as seen from the sketch, by no means elaborate, and most of the effect depends upon the colors and materials employed for it.

Of course it is made up on a foundation of stout cardboard, which is cut into a diamond shape and used with one point uppermost, the brush being slipped into a loop specially made for it. Cut a piece of moire, or of satin, or velvet, or plash, for the front, just about one-half larger all round than the cardboard. Cut also a band of buckram about two inches wide, and three inches longer than will stretch across the diamond horizontally from point to point. Cover this buckram with plush or velvet to accord with the rest of the covering, and line the middle of this band with a scrap of silk; the ends need not be thus lined. Sew a number of little imitation gems, or large spangles, at equal distances along the centre of this band, and add some small pompons or drops of some kind to the lower edge. Lay this band across the centre of the satin from point to point, sew it down firmly at each end from the wrong side, but leave the exact middle of the band slack so that the handle of the brush will slip easily into it. The reason for lining the middle part of the band is now obvious.

Now stretch the satin very tightly over the cardboard, drawing the raw edges together on the wrong side with lacing stitches of strong thread. Be careful to get the band in the middle quite straight. for the holder will be anything but orna mental if this is crooked. It is as well to add the cord round the edges below the band, the bow at the tip of the point, and the ring to hang the holder up by, before lining the back neatly with sateen or a piece of plain silk.

It is quite possible to make up the feather brush itself at home, if the worker is anxious for the whole thing to be of her own workmanship, or if she happens to have a number of fancy feathers that she would like to use up. A 'turned' stick is needed, which may either be gilded or enamelled. Take the shortest of the feathers and arrange them with the tips downward round the lower edge of the stick. Tie them firmly in place with some fine twine, and glue this well to prevent it from coming untied. Add a second set of feathers rather longer than the others, and secure them also with fine twine, gluing this as before. Continue this until the brush is full enough, and hide the ends of the last set of feathers with a "sugarpaper" shaped piece of velvet, secured here and there with a touch of glue, and having a band of wide gold braid tacked round the upper edge to hide the place where the velvet and stick meet. The lower edge of the velvet should be vandyked. It is a good plan to use kid or leather instead of velvet, and there should be no difficulty in getting this of a good and suitable color, as many bookbinders will dispose of scraps left over from their own work.

The Etiquette of the Fan.

There is an endless etiquette in the use of fans, and with the Japanese the fan is an emblem of life. The rivet end is regarded as the starting point and as the rays of the fan expand so the road of life widens out toward a prosperous future. It is also said that the Japanese ogi originally took its shape from their wonderful mountain, Fuji-san, which represents to them all that is beautiful, high and holy. When one begins to understand all this there comes a salutary feeling of ignorance, and we perceive that the Japanese may claim to be among the great symbolists in the world. A continuance of such study might turn the most hardened European into a Japonophile.

To Make Pulled Bread.

Tear the crust from a part of a loaf of baker's bread. Now tear the crumb of the loaf into long, thin pieces. Spread the torn bread in a pan and put in a hot oven to become brown and crisp. It will take about fifteen minutes. Serve hot with cheese. Pulled bread is also nice with chocolate or coffee.

Why Women Chew Gum.

Some one buying chewing gum at candy shop lately began to apologize for the plebeian purchase: "Oh, we don't think anything about it any more," replied the saleswoman. "So many women chew gum for dyspepsia that we always take it for granted that that is why it is wanted."

An Object Lesson. "I don't ever go fishing any more," said the small country boy. "Why not?" asked the visitor. "Tired of it?"

"No; but I was casting a fly on the pond one day and the hook caught me in the back, and it hurt so I've been sort of too sorry for the fish ever since."-Harper's Young People

Directions for Making This Indispensable Article at Home.

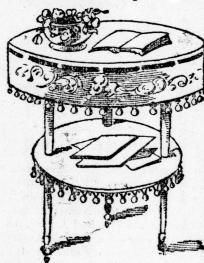

Where the piazza is used as a summer sitting-room, a table is necessary, as in a dining-room. A shelf hinged to the house and so 'arranged that it can be raised and lowered is quite serviceable, but it is not exactly an ornament to the house, and the difficulty of exactly matching the paint makes it even less so. Our illustration shows one that can be quite readily made by anyone who can drive a nail or fasten a screw. The top is of pine wood, three-quarters of an inch in thickness and twenty-four inches across. As it is difficult to find a board of sufficient width, two pieces will have to be glued together and secured with dowel pins. There must be two of them, driven into the edge of each piece two and one-half inches, after the edges have been carefully squared and straightened by planing. The holes must be bored with a quarter-inch bit, and an equal distance apart. Make the pegs of oak to fit the holes, and after dipping them into hot liquid glue, drive them into one piece; then glue the edges, and before it has time to cool, insert the pegs in the opposite piece and drive them tight together. The lower round or shelf of the table will probably have to be made in the same way. It measures twenty inches across. Set them away to dry till next day; meantime select three hardwood, straight-grained broomsticks of equal thickness, and saw them twenty-seven inches long. Prepare them by scraping off the paint and varnish and sandpaper them down smooth. The following day the work may be continued. Smoothly plane both sides of the boards. If you have not a large pair of compasses the circles may be described with pencil, string and tack in the way that every schoolboy knows. Saw along the lines carefully with a compass saw, holding it vertically. Through the smaller circle bore three holes through which the legs may pass, each one inch from the edge, equi-distant from each other.

Lay the shelf on the under side of the top, and mark the places for the upper ends of the legs. The broomsticks should fit tightly in the holes, and the shelf secured in place, thirteen inches from the floor, with one and one-half inch finish nails. The upper ends of the legs must be placed on the marks and the tops secured with one and one-half inch serews, the ends of which are sunken in the wood and the hele filled with putty. After it has been smoothly finished with sandpaper it may be stained or painted and finished with lambrequiu or fringe put on with brassheaded nails

Another way to finish it is to cover it smoothly with denim, or any preferred material, tacked on with an embroidered valance. The legs should be stained cherry or oak, and finished with brass claw-foot sockets.

How to Prepare Frozen Coffee. Measure four heaping tablespoonfuls of pulverized coffee. Put into a farina boiler and pour over it one quart of fresh boiled water, cover the boiler and stand it over the fire for ten minutes. Then strain through two thicknesses of cheese cloth, add half a pound of sugar, stir until the sugar is dissolved, and when cold drop in the white of one egg unbeaten, half a pint of cream and turn it at once into the freezer. Freeze as you would a sherbet, stirring carefully but continuously. Serve in glasses as quickly as frozen.-Household

Cornmeal as a Cosmetic.

Cornmeal, the yellow Indian meal of our pantries, is said to be one of the best of cosmetics. A jar of it should be kept on the toilet stand, and after the face has been washed in really hot water with a pure, unscented soap, the meal should be rubbed all over it, well and gently. Then it should be dusted out of the hair and evebrows, the face wiped lightly over with a bit of soft old linen, and the result promised by those who have tried it is a delightfully smooth and satiny skin.

A New Dress Material. A new dress fabric made of "peat fiber" is in contemplation, and the possibility of using aluminium for making drapery goods is thought to be very practical, since it can be drawn into wires finer than a hair, and yet so fine and supple that they can be woven with silk. It has already been used for silk bows.

French Salad Dressing. One tablespoonful of vinegar, one half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of black pepper. A dash of cayenne, three tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Put the salt and pepper in a bowl and add gradually the oil. Mix in slowly the vinegar, stirring rapidly the while. As soon as you have a perfect emulsion, that is, the dressing is well blended (the oil and vinegar), it is ready to use, and should be used at once.

Punctuality is a Virtue. The habit of being always a little late is so general that it might seem unavoidable, were it not that punctuality is secured from the very persons at fault when the occasions are as gnarded as in the wedding to which the foolish virgins failed to gain admission because "the doors were shut." It is better to train up children to order, punctuality, honesty in keeping engagements, as a part of keeping one's word, and to teach them not only selfreliance, but make them men and women on whom reliance may be placed.

U.S.'S GRAND OLD MAN.

THE AUTHOR OF THE "AUTOCRAT OF THE BREAKFAST TABLE."

Oliver Wendell Holmes the Only Survivor of a Notable Group-The 85th Anniversa ary of the Gentle Poet's Birth-His Work and How He Composes.

On the 29th day of August each year Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes celebrates the anniversary of his birth in his summer home at Beverly Farm, Mass. He was born August 29, 1809. While there is no publie expression on his own part in these later days he is never forgotten either by his many personal friends who send their contributions of love, or by the world of admirers who have constituted themselves a loving family to keep him in affectionate remembrance. Wherever he is, upon that day will be "home" to those who love and honor him. To those who have the privilege of being with him and of seeing his dainty hands open telegrams and letters from friends at a distance or from strangers, there will be an opportunity given of securing one more mental photograph against the time when their poet shall have climbed the hills of God. For he has long stood alone on those Alpine heights, the summits of fourscore, close to the tabernacles of the sky. Yet is there no sadness in his heart at the thought of other hunters who used to "speak" him from other heights with the ringing horn. Of these Whittier was the one he most missed, of whom he said while he lived:

"My dear and honored friend Whittier, whose heart is a cornucopia of blessings for his fellow creatures."

This was on the occasion of his birthday anniversary in 1892, when Whittier sent his friend Holmes two poems written for the occasion, the last he was to contribute. Dr. Helmes received also on that occasion a silver-framed Nautilus from a Chicago lady which he described as "an exquisite piece of work, fit for a young prince's heirloom rather than an old poet's."

Dr. Holmes regards "The Chambered Nautilus" as his finest inspirational poem. However, he does not himself believe in ealling anything inspirational and is credited with saying to an ambitious young poet who consulted him on his "methods" that inspiration was only another word for

"It takes hard labor to write good poetry," he said to the writer on one occasion; "you cannot go on writing verses as you would cut slices of bread and butter. No one knows the amount of work I do before I let my thoughts go on paper. I look at them in every light to see if they can be improved. You see, I am not much of a believer in Minervas or the brain of

The house in which "The Chambered Nautilus" was written and which was the birthplace of his children was a plain dwelling on Bosworth Place, which is off Tremont street, between Bromfield and School streets, Boston, It has been torn down to make room for modern buildings. He made several copies of the poem and finished it as it appeared in print, after which he read it to his wife, and remarked that he could never excel it and never wished to.

The home in which the poet has spent his later years is a brown stone house, covered with a luxuriant growth of English ivv. which conceals doorplate and bell handle from the too curious gaze of passers by. It is on the "water side of Beacon street," and the view from the poet's library covers the Charles river basin. Here. surrounded by the luxury that his poetsoul loves, on a commanding height betwixt town and country, and the profuse decarations of modern household art. Dr. Holmes spends the time when he is not at Beverly Farms communing with nature in her simpler forms.

It is worthy of record that while Oliver Wendell Holmes has been instinctively a society man all his life he has omitted the forms of society from his poetry. His wit and sarcasm have touched on many of the trivialities of social life; his genius, never. In an interview upon the subject he said :

"The disposition with very many-in the main with young men out of college—is to indulge in the lighter character of verse. which, where carried to a great extent, is shameful. Too much stress is laid on mere form also. The French school is being followed too much with us here. Now if one is to succeed in poetry he must give free swing to sentiment and imagination. and this he cannot do in the more mechanical forms of verse-building. Browning's best poetry is in a given sense devoid of form; it is simple and natural, and yet what tremendous power it has. It is so. too, with Tennyson's poetry, as in his two great masterpieces, 'Maud' and 'In Memoriam."

He tells young writers that he received ro pay for his first work but was glad to get it printed without any compensation. His fine poem, "Old Ironsides," was included in this unpaid list, which first appeared in the Boston Advertiser.

Dr. Holmes is very proud of a copy of his poem, "The Last Leaf," which he possesses in the peculiar handwriting of Edgar Allan Poe, whom he once met, and mated.

who he says made an impression upon him he can never forget.

Everybody has seen the little cheap stereoscope that is the accompaniment to the family album when visitors are to be entertained. How it brings out the lace in Aunt Hannah's dress and develops the watch chain Uncle Silas wears, besides giving a lifelike intensity to the features. Few are aware that it was the invention of the poet who wrote the favorite "Last Leaf" and "One-horse Shay." It was never patented, because Dr. Holmes said he did not care to be known as the patentee of a pill or a peeping contrivance. When Dr. Holmes sits down to compose he requires the actual contact of pen and paper. It may be that he will not need them, for of the fancies that crowd his brain, even now when he rarely writes for publication, none may be acceptable. If he is writing a stanza for a friend or the dedication of a book it must be done with the same exquisite care that has environed his best poems. His neatness and perfect order are against all traditions of the muse; the desk in his handsome library looks as if it were eternally new and nothing upon it had been disturbed by any approach to

The group to which Holmes belongs includes Hawthorne, Longfellow, Thoreau, Emerson, Lowell, Whittier and Margaret Fuller. He is the last of this great company, and it is perhaps too soon to fix with accuracy his relative place in that group. But it is not too soon to say that none of them has had more readers, and few of them have been so universally enjoyed.

is viceroy as well. Each of these viceroys and governors has an army of his own. Li Hung Chang's forces number about 35,-000 men. These have eleven camps within the province of Chili. They are armed with foreign guns and are well drilled, and will form the chief support of the government in the present war. Li Hung Chang has also eleven camps of men in the province of Chantong, and he is, as far as this war is concerned, practically commanderin-chief of the whole. At Nankin I found a vicerov who had 28,000 men under him. He controlled the big gun factory of Kiagnan. Some distance below Shanghai there is another great governor who has an immense military establishment. This is the governor of Foochow. His troops number more than 61,000 men.

Besides the archery corps of the interior there is: First the Eight Banner Corps, which includes the Manchus and Mongols, and which is supposed to have something like 300,000 men. Of this army there are in Peking 32,398 soldiers, and connected with them about 11,000 supernumeraries. In Mongolia there are 9.484 Manchus and 3.281 supernumeraries. There are kept about the summer palace of the king just about 5,000 of such troops. Just outside of Peking is the imperial hunting park. Four thousand soldiers are kept there. In addition to these in Peking there are artillegy and musketry to the number of 8,000, infantry 2,300 and other troops to the number of 6,000, making a grand total of Manchus surrounding and about Peking of 100,000 troops. These troops are supported entirely by the government. Their officers are of high rank, and about 700 of them have high positions as guards inside the forbidden city, where the emperor lives. Then there is Li Hung Chang's army, the best drilled and the best equipped of any in the empire. In addition to these there are the three great armies known as the army of Manchuria, the army of the centre and the army of Turkistan.

The Manchurian army contains 70,000. In addition to this there are the armies of the governors, which are scattered throughout the eighteen provinces of China, and which include all the large centres. In Shantung there are 20,000 men. In Shansi, 25,000, and in Foochow 30,280 men. The governor of Honan, one of the most anti-foreign provinces of the empire, has 13,000 soldiers. The governor of Nanking has 28,000. The governor of Foochow, 61,435. The governor of Chekiang, 38,000, and those of Hupe and Hunnan, 58,000 men. In Shensi. Kensuh and Ili there are 97,900 men, and in Szucheun there are 33,897. Kwantung has 68,000, Kwangsi has 29,000, Anhui, 9.000, and Yunnan and Kweichow 42,000, making a grand total, with one or two smaller provinces added, of 701,517. Just how many of these troops can be relied upon in case of war I don't know. The reports are those of the Chinese government, and many of them may be overesti-FRANK G. CARPENTER.

One Line to Be Selected and Completed Before 1898-Distances Varying from 6.030 to 8.625 Miles-Plans for Building

In calling for tenders for the construction of the Canadian-Australian cable, the Dominion Government has prepared a chart illustrating the several proposed routes for which offers are to be received. and from which the selection is to be finally made that may be adopted by the Governments interested. The resolution of the Colonial Conference provided that immediate steps should be taken to provide telegraphic communication by cable, free from foreign control, between Canada and Australasia. The Government has included in its invitation for tenders the Hawaiian route as well, although this is not the popular route with the projectors. Upon the accompanying chart are outlined the several routes for which tenders are invited.

The first route, classified as route No. 1. commences at Vancouver Island, the cab!

The time allowed for the completion of the cable is three years from the date of the contract; but as it is desirable to have telegraphic communication established as soon as practicable, proposals may state a shorter period, or the same parties may make two offers, one on the basis of three years, the other on the shortest period within which the undertaking may be accomplished. The northern terminus of each route is on Vancouver Island. The cable will land at some suitable point to be determined, probably at Port San Juan, near the entrance of the Strait of San Juan or at Barelay Sound. The calculated transmission speeds for each section of the cable shall in no case be less than twelve words per minute.

In order to obtain definite data to enable all the Governments concerned to consider and adopt the best means of carrying out the undertaking, the Canadian Government deemed it expedient to invite proposals for establish the cable in three different forms, viz,:

First-The cable to be owned and controlled by Government, to be worked under Government authority, and to be kept in repair by the contractor for three years. Cable manufacturing contractors to state the lowest cash price for which they will be prepared to supply and lay the cable, the terms and conditions upon which they will guarantee its permanency. and the annual payment for which they will maintain it in efficient condition for three years after the whole line shall have been completed and put in operation.

Second-The cable to be owned, maintained, and worked by a subsidized company. The contracting parties to find the capital, establish, work and maintain the cable in efficient condition, for a subsidy to be paid to them annually for a term of years by the contributing Governments, The offers to state the amount of subsidy to be paid yearly, and the number of years it is to be paid. The maximum rates to be charged on messages to and from Great Britain and the Australasian colonies to be as follows: Three shillings per word for ordinary telegrams, two shillings per word for Government telegrams, and one shilling and sixpence for press telegrams. The charges on messages between Canada and the colonies to be proportionate.

Third-The cable to be owned, maintained and worked by a company under a government guarantee. The contracting parties to find the capital, establish, work, and maintain the cable in efficient condition. The offers to state what guarantee of gross revenue will be required; the difference between gross earnings and the amount guaranteed to be made good each year to the company by the contributing Governments. The rates to be charged for the transmission of messages to and from Great Britain and the Australasian colonies to be as follows: Three shillings per word for ordinary telegrams, two shillings per word for Government telegrams, and one shilling and sixpence per word for press messages. Transpacific messages to be charged at proportionate rates. The tariff of charges to be approved by Government, and not changed unless by governmental sanction.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and Sandtord Fleming, C. E., have been prime movers in this scheme, having gone on a mission to Australia and having worked up the Intercolonial conference, spoken of in the opening paragraph. Both are enthusiasts in the project, especially Mr. Fleming, who makes this rosv estimate:

"Assuming," he says, "that the cost of the cable and its maintenance for three years will be, in round figures, £2,000,000, the revenue account for the year 1898 would stand as follows: Earnings as estimated. £110.000; interest on £2,000,-000 at 3 per cent., £60,000; staff and management, £30,000; interest and staff and management, £90,000; £90,000 from £110,-000-£20,000 surplus revenue."

Feeding Wheat, As feed for horses we know nothing better than whole wheat ground coarse and fed dampened and mixed with cut straw. and a little clover and timothy hay cut or uncut. At our experiment farm we have fed four strong, work horses no grain but ground wheat for more than a year, and less pounds per day of it than we formerly fed of oats; and our horses never looked better or were more spirited and tough for work. The nutritive ratio is almost identical with that of oats (wheat 1 to 5.8, oats 1 to 6.0) and the comparative value of wheat to eats is as $1.13 to 98 cents per cwt. In bulk wheat is more condensed and care must be had not to feed too much. If you would feed 4 qts. of oats at each feed to each horse, then you should feed only two quarts of ground wheat or even a little less. - Ohio Farmer.

Window Plants for Winter, A good selection of winter plants may be made from the following list: Geraniums, abutilons, coleus, ageratum, fuchsias, linums, Impatiens, sultani, Cypripedium insigne, calla, begonias, both the flowering and the foliage kinds, ferns, Oxalis cern ua, Catalonian jasmine, Cytisus racemos us, carnations, primroses, streptosolon. heliotrope, Ruellia macrantha, pansies and lobelias. Training the Child.

The daily life of the family, with its manners, conversation, occupations and interests, is now the main teacher; and as this is, so will the world and life of the child be. Though nothing can replace this, nevertheless it may be supemented by the employment of French and German governesses, who shall make their respective languages native to the child from the first. Such governesses ought always to be trained teachers, and, when employed, should be treated as members and trusted friends of the family. It is a great misfortune for a child who is to move in the higher walks of life not to have a complete command of the three world-languages. The lack of any of them greatly limits that free and easy contact with men which is essential to a practical knowledge of them. Moreover, each language represents a distinct form of consciousness, and the more of these forms one has the freer and more sympathetic he is. The naturally bilingual man belongs spiritually to two nationalites. But other things besides languages may be imparted unconsciously at this stage. Important among these are right sympathies and self-control. In any education whose aim is moral autonomy nothing is more essential than a correct distribution of sympathy or affection, or, to use the ancient phrase, than loving and hating well. And nothing is so much neglected in American education. The stupidly sentimental notion that the child must, under any circumstances, have a "good time" (as the vulgar phrase is) causes many parents to allow child-ren to follow their natural caprices, wasting their interest and affection upon trivial or even hurtful things, and disregarding those that are worthy and beneficial. There is nothing that the child is so thankful for in the long run as the careful and kindly training of his affections, there is nothing that contributes so much to his moral worth and happiness. Closely connected with the result of this training is that self-control which is the essential element in moral autonomy. In the child this takes the form of sustained attention, and courage to carry out his wishes in defiance of difficulties and instinctive shrinkings-forms both of which will be found of the utmost value in the subsequent course of education. - The Forum.

SUPPLEMENT TO DAILY ADVERTISER --- SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1894.

Motto for the Week:

"What ought not to be done do not even think of doing." - [Epictetus.

The Advocate, the organ of the liquor sellers of the Province, gives the following editorial item which is, no doubt, true in every particular. It makes suggestive reading to those wellmeaning people who still cling to the antiquated notion that the introduction of light and cheap wines will tend to wean people off from stronger liquors. The facts regarding France show quite a different state of things. The Advocate says: "It is interesting to know that while the statesmen of other countries are encouraging their people to drink the light wines of France, the French people are using them less, perhaps, as a contemporary suggests, because they know more of the process of manufacture. According to official returns they are beginning to prefer beer and spirits."

-Lord Salisbury, England's ex-Prime Minister, is not much of a moralist or a reformer in politics; he generally takes the anti side on nearly all proposals for moral reform legislation, but he is without doubt an able and thoughtful man. In a recent address before the Primrose League, made up of able women, he said: "What we need above all is peace and a close attention to the terrible social problems which beset us." That conviction is growing stronger among able statesmen. The old ruts and grooves into which political contests have so long run are being discarded by men of real ability. We will be glad indeed when the Canadian party leaders get more thoroughly of Lord Salisbury's conviction about the need of close attention to the terrible social problems which now beset us-the great prohibition question included. For the British House of Commons, and violations of the licensing laws, during our best known public men have been almost exclusively on the tariff question, to the exclusion of almost everything else. Surely the time has come when our "terrible social problems" ought to be grappled with or else men ought to be called to the front who will attend to them.

Lack for respect and reverence of law is one of the most serious dangers to the future well-being of the United States. The same spirit is growtoo prevalent in Canada. The public officer who fails to enforce a law merely because it is ununpopular, or even because, in his dea, it may be unjust, is an unfaithful and unworthy officer. Laws should be respected and enforced because they are laws. Abraham Lincoln was one of the greatest and wisest statesmen of his generation. He said: "Let reverence of law be breathed by every mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in the schools, seminaries and colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books and almanacs; let it be preached from pulpits, and proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice; in short, let it become the political religion of the nation."

Prof. Graham Taylor has evidently no sympathy with those goody people who always try to avoid "the dirty pool of politics," and generally succeed. That is an easy excuse for avoiding an important duty. He says: "Next to religion there is nothing more sacred than politics." Surely that is the true and right idea. The great Teacher said as truly render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's as he commanded to render unto God the things that are God's. Every true Christian should honestly, fearlessly and conscientiously perform his duties as a citizen of his country. The well-being tion of good educational temof the country demands it. The best interests of the country too often suffer because such duties have been shirked. Politics would never become such "a dirty pool" if Christian people-men and women-did well their share of

The Canadian brewing interests do not appear to have been in any such deplorable state as to have required the Dominion Government to have come to their relief by a reduction of $200,000 a year on the malt tax, as it did at the late session of On the other hand few business in all Canada seem to have been so prosperous during the last five being projected. One exchange last week mentions that the Walkerville Brewing Company are now engaged in making additions costing $25,000, and that a new joint stock brewing company is being established at Hamilton with a capital of $100,000. There are now three large brewing establishments at Hamilton and they have been mak- and a prosperous farmer. ing money of late and lavishing it out, as few others in any business can do. Out of these is springing up a gigantic new company. The brewers have a great deal to thank the present Government for. Their "thank offerings" may take a very tangible form when the next elections came round. Toronto is being held up by the iquor interests as a "horrid example"

ing millionaires. Some are largely extending their already extended business. Several new companies are now of just what may happen to a city largely ruled and controlled by "temperance cranks." For the past three years Toronto has had temperance men and avowed Prohibitionists filling the mayor's chair and the liquor sellers have been made observe the law as in few other places. The Advocate tells its liquor-selling readers that "Toronto is shunned now by many travelers on account of its Puritanism, but if the whole country is to be overrun by the stripe of Mayor Kennedy, heaven help us all." The prayer is sincere, no doubt. Toronto seems to be doing an end to it. very well, however. The Advocate has recently announced that some 3,000 American liquor dealers will soon visit the city in a body and they are promised a good time, too. In the drunken fellow," who was under the next few days tens of thousands will visit that city in connection with the Industrial Exhibition, where prohibition is enforced.

years and years the platform efforts of Under Secretary of State for the Home | the quarter ending June 30, shows a Department in the present Rosebery Government, has been recently giving an able address on "Christian Citizenship." He evidently differs in opinion regarding a true citizen's duty from some of our leading Canadian politicians who confine their entire ideas of "practical politics" to discussion of tariff revision, and very little else. He held that "no man could really be a Christian citizen who considered a candidate worthy of confidence and support who was not prepared to put what are commonly called "social reforms" over and above all mere political issues. The class who needed their active service are the poor, the suffering, the hungry, the over-worked. These are the people who cried to Christian citizens for help and it is to be hoped and believed that their cry would not fall on deaf ears." That sounds like true statesmanship. If our Canadian politics can be but raised to that level good people will begin to respect politicians more than they now do. Let us have a change.

Educative Work Needed.

The British Temperance Advocate, of London, Eng., writing of the recent debate in the House of Lords on the Bishop of London's license bill, remarks that "the whole debate was proof of the necessity of temperance teaching amongst the members of the Upper House." Nearly every similar debate in either branch of our Canadian Parliament has demonstrated a similar necessity among our own legislators. The fact is, some of the most important phases of the great temperance question have been but poorly taught to the public yet. The temperance organizations of today, as a whole, are not doing near the work as educators of the public mind that they should. The Sons, the Templars, the W. C. T. U. and the Alliance are none perance literature as they were years ago. Nor is the literature put in circulation well up to the requirements of the times. In these respects the Royal Templars are now doing much better than any of the other bodies.

It will yet become evident that the workers of to-day are not doing their best in this respect. There was never a period in the history of the temperance movement in Canada when a thorough practical educational campaign of both the electors and legislators, and of even the pulpit and platform speakers, was more urgently solved on having 'a good time." His as our own at Ottawa. Senator Kyle, needed than just now. Too many friends reside in the eastern townships. Populist, of South Dakota, recently who ought to be doing better work are languidly remaining in the same old ruts of a quarter of a century ago and threshing over and over again the same night. He had been drinking pretty asserted that, "Every senator knows past year. A temperance secretary is in England somebody would have years. Several brewers are fast becom I old straw.

-John Nightingale, a Toronto stonemason, received some terrible wounds during a drunken fight at a whisky dive on Victoria street one night last week aud was taken to the hospital in a very critical state. The fight seems to have been a general one.

-At the Perth district meeting of the Methodist Church, recently held at Almonte, a resolution was adopted against the permission at fairs and such gatherings of wheels of fortune and other similar devices. Such species of gambling are becoming much too frequent all over the Province.

-Charles Brown, a Toronto laborer, who seems to have been drinking a good deal of late, and got out of money and employment in consequence, ran away last week, deserting young wife and carrying off quite a sum of money, the hard earnings of her father. The family's disgrace and misfortune seems to have been entirely the result of Brown's intemperance in the first instance.

-Rev. Father Burke, Roman Catholic priest at Alberton, Prince Edward Island, found an illicit liquor seller plying his business among the members of his flock at a church picnic recently and went and destroyed the liquor in the tent. He was fined $8 for this offense while the liquor dealer was not proceeded against. There is a good deal of indignation in the locality over the way in which "justice is dispensed" there.

-The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail telegraphed last week that, "The liquor license commissioners met this morning and decided that no more licenses will be granted, since the Ontario Government had refused to interfere in the matter. Word was received from Toronto that the Government had refused to consider the petition of the six licensed victuallers of this city whose licenses were not renewed last spring, and who petitioned for a renewal."

-The Hamilton Templar says: "Liquor men and their friends are making strong boasts that they will clean out of the city council every alderman who voted for reduction of licenses, and that they will elect aldermen who will repeal the bylaw. They have a number of candidates already making plans for a campaign, but it is a 'still hunt' that is proposed, and as usual they expect to tool a lot of temperance electors by insisting that this is not the issue. Friends of license reduction will need to keep their eyes open." -On Thursday night of last week a much intoxicated man walked ont on the track of the Grand Trunk from the station at Montreal. It was then dark and the train hands tried to stop him but he brandished a revolver, threatening to shoot every body who came near. He was let go out in the dark, but within an hour was run over by a passing train and both legs cut off. He was carried to the hospital fast bleeding to death and died a few hours later. His name was Horner, a railway fireman, who seems to have refor Wolfe Island with his boon com panion, John Brown, in a small boat, both being intoxicated. Brown was picked up, clinging to the upturned boat, nearly exhausted. McKenny was the only son of his mother, a wellto-do woman, owning two or three farms in Frontenac county, and about 25 years of age. He seldom got drunk. That night the two men and John McCarty were prowling about some of the licensed restaurants. McCarty beat a Mrs. Nolan until she could not get up-stairs and was arrested and put in the cells. Kingston has had a good many object lessons like this, but goes right on issuing licenses, as before.

UNITED STATES. -Dr. Edward McGlynn, the noted New York Roman Catholic priest and reformer, was a speaker at Prohibition Park, near New York, on Sunday last, in which he favored the new Satolli decision on the liquor question.

-The Populists of California do not appear to favor prohibition. The recent State convention of the party, held at Berkley, declared for local option, which is now the law of the State, and nominated a wine manufacturer as candidate for governor, in the person of J. V. Webster.

-A bill has been before the United States Senate and favorably reported, providing that when pensioners are habitual drunkards—as too many of them are—or neglect to support their families, the pension moneys shall be paid over direct to their wives or families. Some such law has been long needed.

-A great wine trust has been formed in California of a number of the leading wine merchants, who will endeavor to control the grape and wine crop of the country. There will be a capital stock of about $10,000,000. About 80 per cent of the entire wine production is expected to be thus controlled. Prices will probably be increased -In the State of Nebraska lique license fees range from $25 to $1,500 a year in various localities. There are 451 towns in the State in which no licenses are granted. In Omaha and Lincoln, the two largest cities in the State, licenses are $1,000 each, and 269 are taken out at that rate. The combined population is about the same as Toronto, where but 150 are issued.

-A Columbus, O., dispatch of one day last week says: An evening paper today prints interviews with a large number of the Roman Catholic saloon keepers of this city upon Bishop Watterson's stand against the liquor traffic as engaged in by the members of the church in this diocese. Almost without exception they are defiant against the order and say they will neither leave the church nor quit the business.

-Some months ago Gov. Altgeld, of Illinois, exercised his official preroga tive and pardoned a number of noted Anarchists, then in prison, for crimes committed in Chicago. An American paper states that all these pardoned criminals are now in the saloon business, and their saloons are being constantly visited by large numbers of sight seers as well as Anarchists of Chicago. ### Nellie Bly and Muldoon on Cigarettes.

The crusade against cigarettes, long waged by the W. C. T. U., is now receiving support from all who are looking forward to a reconstruction of society upon a plane that shall make possible an innocent childhood, a manly maturity, and a vigorous old age. But aid in this direction from members of him so mad he would try to bite. the sporting fraternity is not so common as to pass without comment. We give below a portion of an interview published in a recent issue of the New York World, between Nellie Bly, that renowned woman reporter who made the famous flying trip around the earth, and William Muldoon:

Here is a short lecture on cigarette smoking et al., meant to keep small boys from hurting themselves and grown-up fools from annoving others. Drugs are put in beer as can be proved. Some say that in doctoring cigarettes the tobacco is soaked in a drug before the cigarette is rolled, but I believe the paper is drugged. I believe in this theory because I know men who buy the very best tobacco and roll their own cigarettes, and they have the habit as badly as those that smoke the made cigar-

"Why don't you try to reform people, then, by telling them what a dreadful thing it is to smoke the wee cigarette?" I asked.

"Reform?" he repeated, scornfully. "You and I know that it is all nonsense to talk about reform. You cannot reform people. They have always broken the natural laws of health and they will always do so. He contends that a woman should have the same right to sit in either the House of Commons or Lords as a man. The bill will not probably become law now, but the probabilities are that some such measure will pass before many years,

WOMEN LANDSCAPE GARDENERS.-An English peeress, Lady Carlisle, is training an entire staff of women to take charge of the fine grounds of her extensive estate in York. Women gardeners and women florists seem to be women in the right places, yet these occupations are only occasionally sought by women. It is interesting to observe that Miss Wilkinson, an Englishwoman, and one of the most successful women in the profession, should have recently received fresh and august testimony to her skill. Vauxhall Park, her work, and just opened by the Prince of Wales, has been pronounced by that accredited excellent judge to be one of the best pieces of landscape gardening he has ever seen.

AN NOTEL MAN'S STORY.

Suffered Intensely From Rhoumatism-Doctors and Mineral Springs Failed to Help Him-How He Found a Cure-His Wife Also Restored to Health-Advice

From the Toronto World. One of the most popular officers at the

ecent meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada was Rev. L. A. Betts, of Brockville, grand chaplain for 1893-94. from the home of that world-famous medicine, and incidentally the conversa-tion with Mr. Betts turned in that direction, when he told the World that he had that day met an old friend whose experience was a most remarkable one. The friend alluded to is Mr. John Soby, for many years proprietor of one of the leading hotels of Napanee, but now a resident of Toronto, a proprietor of one of the Queeu City's newest and finest hostelries, the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Union depot. The World was impressed with the story Mr. Betts told, and determined to interview Mr. Soby and secure the particulars of his case for publication. Mr. Soby freely gave his testimony to the good done him by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A few years ago rheumatism with its attendant legion of aches and pains fastened upon him, and he was forced to retire from business. "For months," said Mr. Soby, "I suffered and could find no relief from doctors or medicines. The disease was always worse in the spring and fall, and last year I was almost crippled with pain. From my knee to my shoulder shot pains which felt like red hot needles. Then all my limbs would be affected at once. Half a dozen doctors, one after the other, tried to cure me, but did no good. The rheumatism seemed to be getting worse. As I had tried almost thought I would try a little prescribing on my own account and purchased a supply of Pink Pills. The good effects were soon preceptible, and I procured a second supply, and before these were gone I was cured of a malady six doctors could not put an end to. I have recovered my appetite, never felt better in my life, and I give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills credit for this transformation. My wife, too, is just as warm she has experienced to the full the good of Dr. Williams' invaluable remedy, and re-commends it to all women." "From what trouble was your wife suffering?" asked the reporter. "Well, I can't just tell you that," said Mr. Soby. "I do not know, and I don't think she did. It's just the same with half the women. They are sick, weak and dispirited, have no appetite and seem to be fading away. There is no active disease at work, but something is wrong. That was just the way with my wife. She was a martyr to dyspepsia, never in perfect health, and when she saw the change the Pink Pills made in me she tried them. The marvelous improvement was just as marked in her case as in my own, and she says that her whole system is built up, and that the dyspepsia and sick headaches have have regained youth, and I have not the slightest hesitation in pronouncing the remedy one of the most valuable discoveries of the century. Let the doubters call and see me and they will be convinced.'

These pills are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a vitiated condition of the blood or a shattered nervous system. Sold by all dealers or by mail, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50. There are numerous imitations and substitutions against which the public is cautioned.

The most important features to be considered in judging of the merits of a life insurance company are: lst, the safety and equity of its plans and policy contracts; 2nd, the care and economy exercised in its selection of risks and general management; 3rd, the character of its assets and their relation to its liabilities.

Lifting first one toot and then another, stepping over and around them, she basely fled to a tree, where she surveyed with indifference the dismay of the kittens. ### Poet and Musician.

One of the most beautiful and interesting things to be remembered concerning Sidney Lanier, the poet whose life was full of promise and who nobly fulfilled it so far as time and disease would let him, is his love of music. A recent writer in the Independent quotes the words of another, saying:

"I have never cared for the flute, but to me Lanier did not 'play the flute;' I only heard a voice breathing unutterable longings and messages of joy and

His playing did not seem to present the bare melody. It was a creator of broken chords and of unexpected cadenzas, like those of a bird. The effect of this was illustrated during the winter of 1873, when he was called upon to play a solo at the meeting of a choral society in San Antonio. When he had finished the old German leader ran over to him, seized his hand and exclaimed:

"I haf never heart de flude accompany itself before!" In his youth Lanier was always improvising, and when a friend once asked him how he could invariably respond when asked to play, he replied that he was forever hearing a flow of melody and needed only to utter it in tone. His great difficulty was to keep from listening to it when outside matters demanded his attention.

"When he played before Dr. Damrosch in New York, he confided to him his wish to pursue the study of music. "Do you know what that means?" asked Damrosch. "It means a great deal of work; a thousand sacrifices. It is very hazardous."

"I know all that," said Lanier. "It is not a matter of mere preference. I must be a musician. It is a spiritual necessity."

But ill health fettered him, and the necessity of earning a living kept him too busy even to devote himself to his beloved poetry. He died young, but never to be forgotten.

Silver-Mine Rats.

brought to the Comstock towns from Island district. California in freight wagons, probably in big "prairie schooners," among boxes and crates of goods. Once there, they multiplied at a prodigious rate, especially after they discovered the mines. Underground there were no cats to trouble them; and man. who was their enemy on the surface, was here their friend and protector. He shared his meal with them, says the Engineering Journal, and they scampered about him with perfect impunity. The warmth, too, was very congenial to the rats, both old and young. Cold was a thing unknown. As it were, they had been furnished with immense hot-houses in which to breed. Any temperature they wished, from 60 degrees to 130, was at their service.

Rats are useful as mine scavengers. They devour all the scraps of meat and other food thrown upon the ground by the men, and eat even the hardest bones. As the decay of the smallest thing becomes unendurable in a mine, the miners never intentionally kill a rat.

The men have a high opinion of the rats' sagacity. From them they often receive the first intimation of coming danger. When a big cavein is about to occur the rats swarm out of the drifts and scamper about the floors of a level at unwonted times. The settling of the waste rock probably pinches the rats in their dens, and causes them to seek new and less dangerous quarters.

At times, when a mine has been shut down for a few weeks, the rats become ravenously hungry. Then they do not scruple to devour the young, old and weak of their own kind. When work is resumed the almost famished creatures are astonishingly bold. They jump upon the underground engines, even when they are in rapid motion. and drink the oil out of the oil-cups, quite regardless of the presence of the engineers.

A fire in a mine slaughters the rats by the wholesale. Few escape, as the gases penetrate every crarmy, often so suddenly as to asphyxiate the rats before they can make their way out.

Liquor and Poverty.

Commissioner of Labor Carroll D. Wright, has just forwarded to the president the results of his investigations, ordered by Congress, of the slum districts of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago. Two points have a most important relation. In definitely with masses of small stars the first he shows where saloons thrive: | and become part of them."

Adopted Names.

Authors are apt to become very fanciful about their names, as soon as the latter have received public approbation. J. C. Jeaffreson says that his friend, William Stigand, was uneasy about his surname until he had changed the spelling of it, so that it stands thus on the title page of one book and "Stigant" on another. William Hepworth Dixon did not receive his middle name from his parents but assumed it at his own discretion. Charles Shirley Brooks, formerly editor of Punch, had Mr. Whitewings-Say, I hear you've no right, except that of adoption, to his middle name, and, perhaps, had he foreseen that the satirical humor of the day would convert it into "Shallow," would have been willing to remain plain "Charles Brooks."

Abraham Hayward, a literary veteran, detested his own Christian name, but an essayist, who was ignorant of the fact, insisted on addressing him by it in an open letter on some public affair. Mr. Hayward died in a few months, and a remorseless joker worried the essayist by declaring that the deceased had merely been killed by this excessive use of his Christian

George Henry Thornbury, who has done such good work in general literature, was once asked why he had taken to calling himself "Walter."

"As my ballads have made so decided a hit," he explained, "I have decided to call myself Walter altogether. The questioner smiled, and Thornbury added:

"Surely you must see that Hen-e-ry, Hen-e-ry, is not a fit name for a writer of ballads, and that George is almost as bad, though, no doubt, Byron was a George. Walter is a much better name for a poet; so, henceforth be good enough to speak of me and think of me as Walter." A name seems so irrevocable a fact to some of us that we do not stop to consider how recently certain famous ones have been changed or modified. The Alcotts were not originally Alcott, but Alcock, and the Brontes, of good and great memory, were, not so many generations before the day of the famous Charlotte, an Irish family named Prunty. And thus have decided or eccentric men modified the spelling of their names, as they might change the fashion of their beards.

Strange Discoveries in the Heavens.

Great surprise was expressed nine years ago when the Henry brothers, of Rats are believed to have been mason, who still lives in the Goose Paris, discovered by photography a strange nebulous spiral, apparently at-Casey does not feel exactly at home | tached to the star Maia, one of the in the big house, but out of regard for Pleiades. The two commonly through a quarter of a circle, in a retire to the contractor's den, where sweep of hundreds of millions of miles, they chat and smoke to their hearts' finally became forked at the end like the tail of a comet.

Issuing out of one side of this great spiral sprang a nondescript mass, part of which swept backward parallel with the original spiral in such a way as to give to the whole object the appearance of eddying round the star.

Two or three years later the same astronomers made a photograph which "All right, Tim," replied Casey, "Oi showed that the entire group of the Pleiades, or Seven Stars, is mingled The contractor summoned a servant with fantastic nebulous shapes. In and had Casey shown to the "sphare this photograph several stars appear room." Since then a similar condition of things has been shown to prevail in "How's this, Mike!" exclaimed the other quarters of the heavens. One was made by Professor Barnard at the Lick Observatory last autumn.

Upon photographing what appears to the naked eye as a hazy speck near the wonderful red variable star Mu in the constellation Cepheus, he obtained a picture showing a huge nebula surrounding an irregular group of bright stars, and "distantly surrounded by vast multitudes of small stars." The nebula, according to the description of its discoverer, "seems to mingle in-

The New York Observer, one of the most able and thoughtful journals of its class in America, has recently contained a practical editorial article on "Tests of Good Citizenship," in which the importance of being thoroughly informed on the real facts about the country and the community is emphasized. It deplores the fact that "multitudes of native born citizens, well educated and financially and socially eminent, are satisfied with the prejudiced assertions of party organs, and content themselves with the barest smattering of knowledge respecting the actual political, industrial and social status of the country."

There is a similar deplorable state of things with a good many in Canada, and often, too, among an excellent class of people. Such cannot intel- My wife says it looks swell. ligibly perform their duties as electors, nor exercise that influence for good which might lie in their power.

The Observer goes on to assert that, "Ignorance is unpardonable where knowledge is so accessible. Careful investigation and honest discrimination is demanded. Nothing is so unanswerable as a fact. There is not a reform of our time that would not leap into prominence and success if people were in possession of facts regarding it." All of this is very true. Temperance and moral reformers should first "post" themselves well of the facts and also use their best endeavors to see that | two evening newspapers in the band, others become well informed. This can be done largely by placing in their hands from time to time such journals as our Home Guard through which reliable information of the facts and arguments are given.

The Observer goes on to urge that, "We cannot keep ourselves too well informed on the evils of the liquor traffic. The facts in relation to this curse and those which relate to the gambling evil, as well as those which was cheap and would have to be used prove the existence of unjust dealings I some time. between man and man should not be ignored by us. A great demand of our time is the widest possible dissemination of intelligence as to the living practices and conditions of the masses of our people. Flood the whole nation with facts. We cannot tell what legislation to assist or urge until we know the prevalency of corruption to be corrected and righteous causes be pro-

We, in Canada, have now reached a stage in our great temperance reform when the need of convincing the people by the logic of facts is greater the patent suspender buttons bought it is a serious question with me whether not neglect their own families in order than ever before. By all means let good, sound, wholesome literature be used during the coming fall and winter to a larger extent than ever before.

Temperance and Christian Work.

The Christian workers are constantly having more and more evidence pressed on them of the fact that until the evils of the drink traffic are removed the gospel cannot run and be found anywhere in the world. glorified as it should. The work both at home and abroad gives evidence of this important truth. We do not believe there is a town or city in Canada to-day where the drink traffic is legalized and protected by law but there are persons who do not come under the influences of our church work at all, simply because of the evil influences of the traffic. Some one has asserted that there is probably not a churchyard anywhere over the country of a dozen years use as a burial place that does who, in all human probability, would be today alive and active in our midst. but for the influences of our licensed liquor shops. So long as they continue our church doors will almost feiters of coin. surely be opened in vain, week after week and year after year, to some who cannot now be reached.

The effects on our mission efforts, at home and abroad, are hindered in just the same way. One of our Canadian missionaries to an Indian location declares it as his deliberate conviction that in his locality the liquor traffic has done more harm to the people than all mission efforts have done good. Archdeacon Jeffries, of England, after 31 years experience as a missionarv in India, declared that, "For one really converted Christian as the fruit of missionary labor, the drinking practices of the English have made 100 drunkards."

It is only a few years ago that the Emperor of Japan sent one of his ablest counselors to England to inquire regarding the propriety of establishing a Christian State Church in Japan like the Protestant State Church in England. The ambassador reported anfavorably because he found that the church in England had not been able to cope against the evils of intemperance. What a commentary is such a report on the relations of the church to the drinking system! If we are to rid ourselves of this evil it must now be put down by the strong arm of the law. Prohibition and moral suasion are both demanded.

Pale sickly children should use Mothers Graves' Worm Exterminator. Worms are one of the princip al causes expelled from the system.

A Victim of Bargains.

"I am a victim," began the man with the long hair as he unfolded the newspaper and dropped into a seat on a train beside an acquaintance, says the New York Herald. "I am a victim of my wife's taste, enterprise and economy.

"See the cuffs! Well, they are twelves, and my size is ten-and-a-half. They came off the bargain counter, too, at the rate of two pairs for 38 cents. Cheap? but I have to put tucks in them so they will fit inside my coat sleeves."

He gradually warmed up to the subect. "You ought to see my underclothing. Job lots, every piece; fragments. Some are too large, and some are too small. See this hat! It came home in a pink paper and cost $1 98. I wear a seven; this is seven and threequarters. There is one morning and so it will fit.'

"But it was a bargain, sure. My hats cost me $5. You ought to be glad you are married. You must be saving money at that rate."

Interview With the Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker in the Woman's Signal.

When one has known a great man only in his public capacity, there is something very interesting in meeting him in the quiet of his own home. Few public men relax themselves when "Say, I never saw you with a red out of harness more delightfully than does Dr. Parker. The same pathos and humor which have characterized his utterances at the City Temple for the last quarter of a century are apparent in his conversation, but they are touched with asofter, gentler tone. He is of æsthetic tastes, loves music, paintings and flowers, indulges in playful banter with his wife, and tells a north country story with a twinkling eye and with a mischievous chuckle. Seeing him thus gives a key to the magnetic individuality which has exercised so powerful an influence upon the religious life of London, and which has a remarkable testimony in the vast congregation which assembles each Thurs- to a womnn?" day, at noon, in the City Temple, WOMEN IN ECCLESIASTICAL ASSEMBLIES.

"Are you in favor of admitting women to church offices?" I asked the doctor, as he seated himself in his large armchair, and threw back his massive head against it.

"Certainly, I should be willing to admit all duly appointed women to an ecclesiastical assembly. I would not admit either men or women on the mere ground of sex. I would let everything stand on merit. If a woman can do the work, and is willing to do it, I would gladly let her do it."

"Can you understand the grounds upon which objections are raised to admitting women to ecclesiastical assemblies?"

"I cannot, except it is upon the ground of novelty. Some people are afraid of new things. I am perfectly sure that this age must have its experiments, and I think they are the wise people who welcome new ideas and ment prove itself. 'Handsome is that handsome does."

"What do you think, doctor, of the arguments that it is unseemly for women to take part in public ministrathem?"

"That is flat nonsense. I will oping preaching, should not be done by women. About this matter I have very serious conviction. When I look cannot but wonder whether so many able-bodied men ought not to be digging and plowing and otherwise getting an honest livelihood, whilst the sisters, wives and mothers were undertaking the culture of the spiritual life. It cannot require so many able-bodied men to reveal and exemplify the kingdom of heaven."

A LEARNING PRECIOUS ABOVE RUBIES. "Do you think women have suffiservice."

"To me the service of the church is less and less a question of erudition. There is a learning that is precious above rubies, but there is also a learning which feeds intellectual vanity, and gives the impression that the ministry of the Gospel is one of the learned professions. I want the Gospel to be revealed through the medium of sympathy, tenderness and co-operation, rather than through the medium of dictionaries, grammars and other academic apparatus. But even if it were a question of pure intellectuality versity lists have shown that women can go up to the top and hold their own in any competition."

"Then is not the emotional influence, so strong in women, of great value in religious work, doctor?" "You cannot say so more earnestly did not show the side of the padrone than I do. Emotion is often true genius in Christian work, I have never known that sawdust has done virtual slavery of tens of thousands of much towards helping the real progress

"You said in your sermon the other morning, doctor, that the old woman who preferred reading the BIRTHS, DEATHS, and MARRIAGES to the leading articles in the newspapers was not so empty-headed as some folks would say?"

"No, that is her way of taking an interest in human life. Births, deaths, and marriages are not small events in the eyes of the Almighty it is his way of keeping the world going. There may be some better way of doing it, mildly exciting the secretions of the but, however," added the doctor with one of his impressive nods, "what that better way is, I am in total ignor-

"Some good people think, Dr. Parker, that women are such great talkers that it would be dangerous to admit them to religious conferences."

"Great talkers? That is a phrase that requires definition. A man is not a great talker simply because he never holds his tongue. He may be a great chatterer and an intolerable bore, and yet be a thousand miles from being a great talker. : Dr. Johnson was a great talker, so was Edmund Burke, so was as being the best medicine sold for Lord Macaulay, and the greatest of all

ence as between flying and fluttering. | hold and rooted out the disease."

Women do not chatter more than men. I have heard more chatter in the pulpit than at the fireside. Do not suppose that imbecility has any sexual advantage one way or the other. Do not suppose that mere talking is a proof of unwisdom or of superiority. Some of the greatest men and women have been distinguished by a great gift of silence."

HAVE WOMEN LOST THEIR POSITION? "Do you not think that women have lost the position which they once held in life? In Biblical times women were prophetesses and leaders of the people." "Women have not lost their position in a highly organized church such as the Church of Rome. Rome is the wisest of all the churches in the employment of all sorts of service. The Anglican Church, too, is reviving sisterhoods. I should not be surprised if it is not found that women are doing more work in the church today than they have ever done. Speaking of my own ministry it has enjoyed immense collateral help in the form of womanly co-operation in all kinds of schools and societies."

"Would you be willing, Dr. Parker to offer the pulpit of the City Temple

"It is the glory of my pulpit that the last public address Mrs. Booth delivered was spoken from it. But I do not admit a woman because she is a woman, nor a man because he is a man. I admit the preacher without considering the gender. Many women have spoken in the City Temple pulpit. I have heard nothing about them but earnest commendation.'

"Then, doctor, you do not think it unwomanly to preach in a pulpit or speak upon a public platform?"

"Not after a woman has performed her work at home. That is the vital point with me. It is certain that the home must be attended to by somebody. It is perfectly certain that the man cannot do it; then who is left to do the work? I do not believe in a woman neglecting her own home that she may make a figure on the public platform. I am speaking of married women in particular, and especially of those married women who have to suitable opportunities. Let the experi- bring up children. MARTHA BEFORE DINNER, MARY AFTER." said the doctor with a knowing laugh. "On the other hand, what a splendid example of a wife and mother was the late Mrs. Booth, with all her public work! I think I could sustain my case in favor of women, with Mrs. Booth as my only witness. I will say a last word regarding women and may be new to some readers of the political life. To oppose giving the tranchise to woman seems to me simply stupid. So long as a woman is on the throne of the country it is at once discourteous and disloyal to say that a on account of which he was called woman ought not to take a share in politics. The Queen affords the most surrender of Porto Bello in 1739 he splendid instance of what a woman can do both domestically and politically. I should have thought that a country which had a queen; and such a queen, had got a long way past the frivolous saying that women should not intermeddle in educational, ecclesiastical, and political life."

THE LABOR PROBLEM.—The New York Voice, in an able article on the great labor problem, which has become one of the most important questions in the nation, says: "Labor's millennium will know no saloon. This is a fact, however blind the so-called leaders of labor may now be to the withes which the liquor Delilah is binding on the sleeping Samson. AMERICAN BREWERIES AND DISTIL LERIES.—The New York Wine and Spirit Gazette says: "There are now 1,930 breweries and 4,791 distilleries in the United States. New York leads in the number of both, Pennsylvania being second. In breweries Wisconsin stands third on the list, and California fourth. The first brewery on this continent was established in 1644, on Manhatten Island by Mynheer Jacobus, the first burgomaster of New Amsterdam, the present New York. OLD TIME LICENSES.—In England licenses for the sale of beer were of £90,000,000 nearly £30,000,000 were contributed by the liquor trade, beer yielding £9,000,000, spirits £15,-000,000, and £5,000,000 coming from custom duties.

After the introduced the use of rum and water to the ship's company. The drink became as popular as the admiral and received his nickname "Grog." +++

SPICED LIQUORS .- Spices designed to impart pleasant flavors to beer were used by brewers in the earliest ages. Grasse in "Beer Studies" says that in the thirteenth century the brewers of Flanders used a variety of spices, such as lavender, amber, laurel, sage, etc., and that the spiced beer of Cambray was justly celebrated for its aromatic quality. In the first half of the middle ages the Germans drank almost no other than spiced beer. The use of hops in the manufacture of beer was at the time deemed an adulteration (as, for instance, by Henry VIII. of England, in 1530), and even the cultivation of hops inhibited by Henry IV., in 1400, and Henry VI., in 1450, because using hops in brewing was considered a debasement of beer.

ALCOHOLICS AND THE VOICE.-The great singer, Madam Patti, who ought to be an eminent authority on the care and culture of the human voice, in writing on that subject once said: "Alcoholic stimulants of any kind tend to irritate the throat, and should be entirely abstained from. Even light wines are no exception to this rule. Most people are familiar with the hoarse voice of the hard drinker, and it is often said of such an individual that he has burnt his throat with drink. Even a moderate use of alcohol may, therefore, tend to make the voice

THE LATE COL. KENNEDY

THE STORY OF HIS DEATH BY A NILE VOYAGEUR.

A Fine Funeral Accorded by a Great Nation to a Brave and Gallant Soldier-A Hero That Was Not One only on Show

Jack rambled on, relating the incidents of his life in London, and in my wake state I was half lulled to sleep. I remember in a disconnected sort of way his saying, "The finest funeral ever man had and he deserved it, God bless his soul. Regiments of soldiers, the Queen and the Prince of Wales sent their noblemen, and thousands crowded the streets; old England doesn't forget a man that served her. Canada would have been proud to have seen one of her soldiers receive such honors from their Queen and from the old country." I re-member his voice dropped here. "Twelve of his own boys carried him and I was one of them." I was slightly aroused by the earnestness of Jack's manner and said, "Who was it, old man?' He looked surprised and before the sister could prevent it he said, "For God's sake, didn't you know that the colonel was dead? Colonel Kennedy died ten days ago." I remembered nothing more for two weeks. It knocked me out. I had a relapse. They pulled me through and when consciousness returned, in the long weary hours of convalescence I thought of him we all had loved so well, of him with whom we from the far West had listed and whom we had followed throughout the campaign, the gentle, kind-hearted man, the manly Christian, the gal-lant soldier. "Le bon colonel" of the French-Canadian and the personal friend of every Nile voyageur. In those days, with mind chastened by suffering, memory recalled the sparing meal shared by him when I was weak and hungry midst the toil of Ambigol, the words of encouragement during the hardships and difficulties of the cataracts above Handah, the kindness to the sick and wounded after Kirbekan. There was not one of the wild and reckless band who returned with him but loved him as a friend and respected him as a Christian gentleman. The curse and oath that were all too frequent on our lips would be husbed when the word was passed, "The colonel's here, boys." Yes, our colonel. It seemed a long time 200, but I remembered the scene at Montreal on the eve of sailing for Egypt, when it was rumored that he would return to Winnipeg, and Chief Prince and the St. Peter's Indians, as good boatsmen as ever worked in eddy, positively refused to sail without the man whose influence had induced them to serve and in whom they trusted. If he hesitated on account of personal affairs before, that with his high seese of duty decided him; he came. Again on the Nile when volunteers were called for, there was hardly a man prior to his re-enlist-ment but would ask "Is Colonel Kennedy going?" In the shanties of the Upper Ottawa, in the pineries of Michigan, along the mountain streams of British Columbia there are Canadian rivermen to-day

Few know what caused our colonel's death. On the Serapis one of our men showed unmistakable signs of small-pox. There were hundreds of invalid soldiers on board, and the hospital part of the ship was crowded to overflowplace a man suffering from such an infectious disease in hospital would result in such terrible consequences that it was not to be thought of. The matter was kept quiet, and Colonel Kennedy at his own request, got the Canadian placed in his own cabin, and there, isolated from the rest, personally nursed him. The man recovered. Colonel Kennedy contracted the fearful disease and died. That is all. It takes only a few words to tell it, but there has been many an epic written about smaller things. That is all that yet causes me to have a belief that hero-worship should not be banished altogether from our hearts. Again and again comes to me the memory of the last long talk we had, when I understood him as I never did before. The steamer and barges were tied to the bank just before sun-down, a few miles from Assiout, where we were to proceed by rail to Cairo en route homeward. It was our last night on the Nile. We noticed that before darkness came on, heliographic communication had been going on with the towing steamer on which the officers were. We were making down our "doss" for the night, when Colonel Kennedy came hastily on board and told us that news had just been received that war had been declared against Russia and that a rebellion had broken out in the Canadian North-West.

A cheer greeted the announcement of the war with Russia, for by this time every man of us was a Jingo at heart, and a shout of derisive laughter the idea of a rebellion in Canada. The news was exciting and the men gathered around in groups and talked about volunteering for Afghanistan, whether Canadian regiments would go, etc., etc., and very few thought of the rebellion, and none dreamt that there would be a Fish Creek or a Batoche. Col. Kennedy thought otherwise. As an old first expedition officer he knew the North-West, Riel and the character of the Half-breed and Indian. Charlie Manchard, Tommie A--- and I. who all knew him in Winnipeg in civilian life and were favored thereby with a certain amount of intimacy, sat with him and talked far into the night.

"The 90th will be at the front. That's my regiment, you know, boys," I remember his saying. "I wish I were with them or knew what was going on."

Our talk then gradually drifted into recollections of Canada, of Winnipeg and of home. The subtle charm of the Egyptian starlight night had its influence, and the knowledge that this was the last night on the mysterious river that has had for ages such a strange fascination to traveler and to Arab; the river that was all-in-all during our life thereon; the river that we fought and conquered in its angry moods, and on which we had sailed to a hoped-for triumph. The strange feeling of companionship which the Nile, flowing through its miles of rock and sand in its long journey, gives, is indescribable and made us faintly realize why the ancient Egyptian worshipped it as a god. Its murmuring flow could be heard around us, and the colonel, retigent though he usually was, talked to us then as I never heard him before. When we were about to part he spoke of our adopted home on the banks of the Red River in faroff Manitoba, the home where all he held nearest and dearest was, and about which only a few of us knew how often he thought.

"Well, my lade, we will return with the purest pride that man can have a consciousness of duty done. Good night. But to his last home he was called, and God knows it was after duty had been done. May it be with those that heard him that night that Whittier's beautiful lines may apply as they did to him:

And when the angel of shadow rests his feet on wave and shore.

And our eyes grow dim with watching and our hearts faint at the oar,

Happy is he who heareth the signal of his release. In the bells of the Holy City the chimes of eternal peace.

The Young Soldiers of France. The young Frenchman, if he choose the army career, at the age of nineteen goes into one of France's great military schools or into the Polytechnique, one of whose branches is scientific military education. Like all of the departments of France's educational system, it is open to all, and is free for those without means. It is strongest on the engineering side, and most of its pupils become the engineers of the massive chains of fortifications which France has thrown up between herself and Germany to prevent a repetition of the catastrophe of 1870. The artillery branch of the Polytechnique is at Fontainbleau. This school, though the most famous, is by no means the only one. Schools for various branches of military training are scattered over all France. To enter these schools the pupil must sign engagements for five years' active army duty. If he leaves before the five years are un he must serve out the remaining term in the common ranks. Here for two years he endures a life of constant drill and the scientific study under the best drill-masters and engineers in the world. He is given a thorough course in applied mathematics and military engineering, and this allows no trifling. When the young Frenchman has finished, he has thoroughly mastered the rudiments of the French system of warfare.

After this course another sorting is necessary, when choice must be finally made between cavalry and infantry, and the pupils then go to other special schools whose teaching is technical. There are several cavalry schools, and since Germany's late renewed attention to heavy cavalry tactics, France has laid great stress on this branch of her training. The most difficult feats of horsemanship are taught here, and tending of horses, broadsword practice and mounted and dismounted maneuvering are carried to a climax of precision. This is what makes the mounted squadrons of France the pride of her system. The greatest school for officers of infantry is St. Cyr. Here the pupils are honored with France's veterans, and at all reviews are given the first place in the line. They are called the 1st Battalion of the French Army, and are cited throughout the world as showing the perfection of marching drill.

His Slab of Starched Linen. A New York clubman has been expressing his thoughts on the burning question of men's shirts. Is there anything more absurd? A lot of men in evening dress are absolutely ridiculous, if you only think twice about their most conspicuous—their only conspicuous-article of dress. Each man has his distressed bosom flatly shielded by a stiff, ungainly, inartistic, useless, meaningless slab of starched linen. Fancy the relief to the eyes of all beholders and to the person of the determined weater if some bold. man should break away from the pestiferous conventional style and appear in evening dr'ss, wearing a very fine unstarched linen or soft white silk shirt, with a col lar of the same material, or of fine lace, and even a lace ruffle. I am as firmly convinced as I ever was of anything in my life that if some gentleman, with an absolutely secure place in the best society, untinged with any reputation for crankiness, should introduce such a change he would work a complete and speedy revolution in that respect. Such a man would be hailed as king, and if he had good taste could go on and reform the ugly dress of men in every garment worn for every occasion. The danger in suggesting such a thing, even, is that some fool of a man will undertake the revolution, not to reform men's fashions, but

Good Tea For a Pleasant Stimulant. Tea-drinking among men has all at once excited discussion. But it does not appear to be known that nearly all men of literary habits who exhaust nerve force take to tea-drinking. Edwin Booth used to have a pot of tea simmering in his stage dressing room. Preachers, orators and lawyers find a cup of strong tea the gentlest and most harmless of brain bracers, and it has no re-action. The reason why young men affect to despise tea-dwinking is that they associate it with declining power and old women. But the truth is that tea, if of a pure kind and properly "drawn," is about as innocuous and pleasant a stimulant as a young man can resort to after a long worry or a drain of emotional or intellectual force. If it could be made to take the place of champagne and absinthe, the coming race would be better off. Some Bits of Wisdom from a Recognized Fashionable Source. Beauty, as defined by Delsarte, is com-plexity, provided there is harmony in all the parts. One tone in color dwelt upon is as monotonous as one tone on the piano; range in color, with harmony, must exist in all beautiful dress and decora-

Plain surfaces in dress and house de-coration are to be avoided unless fashioned in great complexity, thus giving, in variety of graceful line, the requisite

The Oriental color scheme is generally red, blue and yellow, but ingenious use of complexity in design subordinates the primitive tints and gives beauty.

Do not be afraid of massing colors. Instead of spattering blue spots in old china, cushions or draperies about a room mass them in one corner. Have an Oriental corner if you choose, with pillows, screens, draperies and bric-abrac in those tones which form rich color chords.

In environment as well as in dress beware of non essentials. A cheap lace tidy on a $25 chair reduces the value of that chair to 10 cents; so non-essentials in dress minimize the personality.
Study occasion as well as garb; the commercial life of woman is pressing her into a uniform of tailor-made gowns and business dress which is deplorable. Receptions and social functions are injured in beauty by such dressing. Beautiful events should be honored by beautiful apparel. Street clothes should not be worn to social gatherings which promote culture. If we would pay as great a tribute to art as to society, culture would become society. Treasure and use your bits of antique jewelry and fabrics. We should mourn the loss of the high-type, old-time beautiful clothes, the old silks, satins, laces and ornaments which gave beauty and elegant personality to social assemblies. Beauty, not style, should be the standard for dress. If women who have original and intelligent ideas on dress would band in clubs of thirty they could emancipate themselves and dominate the dressmakers, who now rule them.

For evening wear choose colors which resemble the human flesh—the most beautiful thing in the world; pink in grayish tones and old ivory white are advised, as nearest the tint of healthy flesh. So much flesh is confined in tight corsets, stiff clothes and high collars that the average society man and woman are really not flesh all, but only canned meat.

Mme. Blavatsky was one of the bestdressed large women in the world. Instead of attracting attention to her outlines and accentuating her size by showing how she could burst out of a tailormade suit, she always wore large, loose gowns hanging from the shoulders, which, although she was massive gave her a form of pleasing, graceful lines.

Sugar and Mesele.

The subject of sugar as a food producing muscular power has been discussed by Dr. Vaughan Harely. From a brief summary of his paper we make the fol-lowing extracts: During a twenty-four hours' fast on one day water alone was drunk; on another 500 grammes of sugar were taken in an equal quantity of water. It was thus found that the sugar not only prolonged the time before fatigue occurred but caused an increase of 61 to 76 per cent. in the muscular work done. In the next place the effect of sugar added to the meals was investigated. The muscle energy-producing effect of sugar was found to be so great that 200 grammes added to a small meal increased the total amount of work done from 6 to 39 per cent. Sugar (250 grammes-about eight ounces) was now added to a large mixed meal, when it was found not only to increase the amount of work done from 8 to 16 per cent. but increased the resistance against fatigue. As a concluding experiment 250 grammes of sugar were added to the meals of a full diet day, causing the work done during the period of eight hours to be increased 22 to 36 per cent.

London Public Opinion.

Devil Worshippers in France. The French police have been instructed to take some steps against the sect of devil worshippers, whose strange practices are creating much angry comment. Apart from the stealing of consecrated hosts from the tabernacles of lonely churches and other unwarrantable outrages, the Satanists and Luciferians have organized a clandestine catechism class, to which children preparing for their first communion have been inveigled. A man in clerical garb was arrested on the 21st inst. at Clignancourt for disorderly conduct. He described himself as a celebrant of "black masses," that being the term applied to the rather blasphemous liturgy of the sect. Strangers are no longer admitted to the Conventicle in the Rue Rochechouart. The inside of the building resembles an ordinary Romish chapel. The cross over the altar is fixed head downward, another cross being placed at the door over which each worshipper walks as he enters. The motto of the Satanists is "Voluptas Peccati." apperents sing and utter imprecations. -Paris Letter.

Swimming Cavalry. Some very interesting exercises in swimming cavalry took place lately on the Cabul River at Peshawur. The Thirteenth D.C.O. Bengal Lancers have been practising their horses in a large tank in their lines and on the river for some time. One squadron took cover along the river bank and kept up a steady fire to protect the passage of the other squadron, who placed all their arms, accoutrements and clothes in large country boats, and conducted their horses into the water. Some horses seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves in the water, others became unmanagable from fear. However, the opposite bank was reached and war paint resumed, and the squadron was with most creditable rapidity taking measures to protect their comrades, who then crossed in like manner. - Broad Arrow.

CELERY COMPOUND

When Heaven sends to earth below A med'cine honest, true; 'Tis meet that all the cured should show Just what this boon can do.

I thank God that in time of pain And suffering severe, I was informed how I might gain New life, and strength, and cheer.

My shoulders pain'd each day and hour, My limbs were weak and frail; My nervous system lack'd in power, My cheeks were wan and pale.

In agony I lay each day, Enough to make one weep; While suff'ring o'er me held its sway, I cou'd not rest or sleep.

The doctors failed my case to cure; Relief I could not gain; And nostrums, labeled SAFE and SURE, I awallowed oft in valu.

When clouds of doubt, and dread, and fear Did darkly hover round; Twas then I heard those words of cheer. Paine's Celery Compound.

With faith I used the Compound great, Its virtues quick did show; Two bottles dragged me from a state Of misery and wos.

Then, full of hope, I still did use Paine's Celery Compound, Determined that I should not lose The strength that I had found.

To-day, in body and in mind I am renewed quite; I m sure that others too will find Results that give delight.

I'd say to every suff'ring soul, Use Celery Compound, And you will quickly reach the goal Where health and strength are found.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Oletment. THE FARM HORSES-14

Why They Should Have the Best of Care

How much of our success in farming is due to the long suffering labors of our patient farm horses. Hence, it is of primary importance that we handle and care for them in the wisest manner, both from a humane standpoint, and from a mercenary one as well, as we wish to extend their period of usefulness as long as possible, and thereby get as much work out of them as can be obtained. With good feed, regularly supplied, horses will stand steady weight marked on the pad in a column work through the entire day and yet keep an good condition, providing they are not worried by a senseless, thoughtless driver.

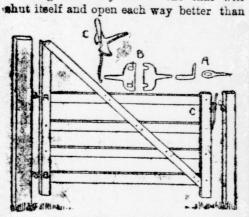

In the first place the farm horses should have comfortable commodious stables that are cool, airy and well-vertilated. Close. narrow stalls are an abomination. Every hard-working horse should at least be allowed a good wide box stall in which he can stretch out his legs, and rest in comfort. Of course comfortable bedding should be supplied. Not so heavy a bedding is needed now as in winter, but a thin Dayer of sawdust, dry loam, or straw is manded to permit an animal to lie easy, as well as to keep him clean. To keep air of stables sweet and wholesome, sprinkle Sabout a little land plaster occasionally.

The hard-working horse must have liberal rations. Oats seem best fitted for horses, but they are somewhat expensive, , and for slow-working farm teams, corn and bran may profitably be compounded with the oats. An excellent ration consists of one-third each, of cracked corn. bran and oats. Of this combination, the farm home may receive twelve quarts per day, or four quarts morning, noon and night. It is a mistake to work an animal all day, and then turn him out very hungry to pasture by the roadside, to get his living. Thus the poor beast must work both night and day. By all means feed the grain ration first, with a little good hay or cut grass, then if a cool pasture is available, the animal may be turned loose to rest in the open air.

Regular, thorough grooming, and welloiled, properly-fitting harnesses are further items upon which the good condition of the farm team depends. Grooming is the equivalent of a certain quantity of grain, and is it not reasonable that a horse whose skin is kept open, and the pores unclogged, should be more healthy and vigorous and capable of performing more work than one that received no attention in this direction?

Then there is no question but what a harness that is pliant and supple from regular applications of oil, is found to last longer and bear less heavily upon the means less chafing, fewer galls and sores. In conclusion, it may be repeated, that our farm horses deserve all the kindness and good care that can be given them .-M. Summer Perkins, in Ohio Farmer.

any I ever saw. A shows the irons for the upper hinge, B shows the lower hinge, which has double pinions, while C shows the catch driven into the post with the spring. To open and shut itself the gate must be hung about four inches out of plumb, having the lower hinge, B, project out from the post that much farther than the upper one. It shuts then just like a wagon relling down hill. The lower hinge. B, must be eight inches from slot to slot .-J. J. Wagner, in Orange Judd Farmer.

A Scientist's Investigations.

Heinrich, a German scientist who has given considerable study to the methods of applying commercial fertilizers recently tested the comparative value of mixing fertilizer with the soil and simply applying it to the surface. He experimented with sulphate of ammonia, ground meat, ground bone, pulverized leather, dried blood and ground horn. The crop grown was oats and with two exceptions (sulphate of ammenia and pulverized leather) the plants developed more vigorously where the fertilizers had been mixed with the soil. Except in the case of sulphate of ammonia and ground horn the yield of both straw and grain was noticeably larger when the fertilizers were mixed with the soil than when spread on the surface. In some cases the yield was fully one-third greater. It appears then that as a rule the results favor the mixing of the fertilizers with the soil. This condition of affairs apparently tends to produce a uniform distribution.

The Guinea for the Table.

There is no sale for guineas in the city markets, yet if the consumers in cities were aware of the luxury of eating guineas there would be a demand greater than could be supplied. Its flesh is what may be termed a "gamy" flavor, and it is well filled with meat, especially on the breast and thighs. In fact, a bird that is so active and which uses its wings and the legs without rest from early in the morning until late, must necessarily be covered with muscle on the breast and thighs. High prices are paid for prairie hens and other game birds that are in no manner superior to the guinea, and which do not arrive in market in as fresh condition as would the guinea if it was an article sought. So far as the farmer is concerned, he can at least use them on his own table and afford to allow the sity people to have the other fowls .- Mirser and Farmer.

HOW TO KEEP RECORDS.

Farmer Who Has Clear-Cut Methods of Doing Things. A correspondent of the Country Gentleman describes the method of recording the yields of milk of his cows, which he has found perfectly satisfactory in every way. A common pad hung behind each cow, with a pencil tied to it by a string, are all that are needed in the stable for the milk. not forgetting, however, a common spring balance hanging on a small gallows so as to clear the wall, for weighing the milk. The pails are made to weigh exactly the same by the addition of solder or lead soldered to the pail. The tinman who makes the pails will do this when they are ordered. The actual weight of the milk is thus easily got at, at the weekly addition of the milkings. Then, as soon as a cow is milked, the milk is weighed and the opposite the date. Each pad has the name of the cow plainly written on the top of the sheet. His pads are seven by five inches, and have twenty lines on each sheet. This makes the sheet last a week, and on the day fixed, which may be Saturday night, the sheet is torn off and taken to the house or office for entry under the cow's name in the account kept in the book. The sheets are filed as they are entered, and each week's product, as it is added and tared, is put down in a column kept for it. Another column may be kept for the butter made when any separate churning is made of that cow's milk, and this should be done at stated times. If a Babcock tester is kept and used once a week for special work, the portion of fat is entered in its column, and the quantity of butter by estimate is put in the next

Uses of Raw Hide. For wide usefulness, few things exceed raw hide, though it is not commonly understood in the East, or among civilized people as should be the case. The western pioneer through necessity learned the art of manipulating it long years ago, and its use has not been forgotten. A coil of sun-dried cowhide tied to the plow handle, turret ring or wagon stake, is security against breakdowns and many mishaps which are likely to overtake the farmer or teamster. Soaked in water, it becomes limber quickly and will tie a harness, wagon and other things together and hold them firmly, whether wet or dry. When it dries, it shrinks, binding more firmly than ever. On the treeless, rainless wastes of the Southwest, where the fiercest sun and constant drying winds would shrink the tire from any wheel used in moist climates, the raw hide tire is indispensable, because the dryer it gets, the closer it sticks. If after long wear a tire is found loose, a new one can be quickly whipped about the wheel at night, ready to start with in the morning. For belt laces, traces and other harness straps, chair bottoms, and innumerable other places where hard wear is demanded the raw hide with horses than one that is hard and stiff the hair exposed, or turned in out of sight, turough neglect. A well-oiled harness is valuable and could be used in the older states oftentimes with great advantage. Or these skins may be "tawed," as the process is called where the hair or fur is preserved, and no tannic acid is used. This s done by spreading a mixture of finely powdered salt and alum in equal quantities upon the moist flesh side and doubling one, or laying pairs flesh side together. The hides are left thus for several days. when they seem to have become something like leather. They are then stripped, scraped, rubbed with chalk and pumice

Kerosene Emulsion. Kerosene emulsion is prepared by dissolving half pound of soap in a gallon of boiling water and mixing this at once with two gallons of kerosene. This mixture is then churned evenly so as to form a creamy mass in which the oil and water do not separate. This may be done by by the use of an egg beater, and will require from seven to ten minutes of active agitation. This may be diluted when used with from nine to eighteen times its bulk of water and applied to plants by means will be found preferable to use soft water. Ordinary well or spring water, however, will in most cases answer the purpose, The oil and water will probably separate in case the water is very hard.

The Back Yard.

Improve the back vard. Plant a few shrubs and flowers for your own use. If they need a little attention a person can slip out in the back yard, look after plants, etc., when they would not think of going in the front lawns. A good rule is to plant something for the home folks.

Do not neglect the chores, even if other work seems to demand your whole attention. Study to save both step and time in doing the chores and do them in the same order every day

THE SHRUBS AND VINES.

THE BEAUTIFUL SPECIMENS WHICH FLOURISH AT THIS SEASON.

The Sweet Pepper Bush With Its Sweet Scented White Flowers-The Rose of Sharon-The Trumpet Vine and the Blood-Leaved Plum.

One of the shrubs which we always look for at this season of the year, and which never disappoints us is the beautiful sweet pepper bush, Clethra alnifolia. This is a native shrub, found in wet places, which bears numerous spikes of sweet scented white flowers. It is just the shrub for a wet spot on one's grounds where but few other sorts would grow. I have one of them in such a situation, and though the bush is but about five feet in height there are as many as 500 blooming spikes on it to-day. Like almost all fall blooming shrubs it gives but little promise in early spring of what it will be at this season. What a lovely yet neglected vine is the scarlet clematis! The flowers are about an inch in length, somewhat bell shaped. borne on long stems and in profusion.

The vine is deciduous, dying to the ground

every fall, but getting stronger and growing more vigorous every year. It ought

CLETHRA ALNIFOLIA. BIGNONIA RADICANS ing at the same time, though totally different in habit of growth and in the character of the flowers, is the European clematis, vitalba, called traveller's joy. This grows rampantly, soon covering a large space, and now it is full of sprays of white flowers. Still another one, and one resembling the last-named to some extent, is the flammula, called the sweet scented. It. too, is a European species. It is very much esteemed for its fragrance and beauty.

Succeeding the first blooming of the running sorts of honeysuckles there are now flowering some of the half shrubby sorts, such as flava, yellow; sempervirens, scarlet, and belgica, pinkish white. The latter sort is nicely scented, but, unfortunately aphis are very fend of the flowers.

And what splendid shrubs the Rose of Sharon or althæa bushes are for summer blooming! Some bloom early, others late, so that from this date, which sees the first opening flowers, till frost comes, blossoms had by a selection of about a dozen kinds. There are single and there are double kinds, and two varieties with variegated foliage, and these variegated ones stand the sun splendidly, which but few other variegated shrubs will do. There is hardly anything more showy at this season than the trumpet vine, Bignonia radicans. At the extremity of its long shoots made this season are huge clusters of scarlet trumpet-shaped flowers, and one after another the flowers come for several weeks in succession. For covering old buildings, decaying trees, etc., it is a splendid vine. It can be made into a beautiful lawn ornament by fastening it to a stake for a few years, by which time In felling leaning trees they generally it will have strength enough in itself to keep upright as a small tree, in which position it is uncommonly beautiful when in bloom-equally as handsome as the Chinese species, grandiflora. The flowers are even larger than in our native species, and they are of a yellowish-red color. I saw a large specimen of this one last week, completely covering the trunk of a decaved tree from the ground to a height of 20 feet. It was loaded with flowers, and the display was certainly unique.

Prunus pissardi, the blood-leaved plum. is universally known and esteemed for its blood-red leaves and its lasting color, there being little or no dimunition of color even at the last days of autumn. I saw a new use made of it last week. Some dwarf. though strong plants, had been obtained. and these were planted in a bed just as coleus are. It was a great success, the blood-red foliage being exceedingly striking. The plant or shrub bears clipping well, and this clipping forces out the young growth, which is always the highest colored

A good yellow-flowered shrub blooming now is Potentilla fruticesa. When let grow as it will, it makes an open, rather straggling bush; but cut it down in the spring, and it will sprout up bushily and bloom later and more profusely than when untouched. A bush pruned in this way is in flower now, and is greatly admired.

Calycanthus floridus, the eastern one, has been out of flower for some time; but another, the Pacific coast species, known as forcing the liquid through a pump into a occidentalis, has been flowering for several pail in which the emulsion is formed, or weeks past. These are the well-known sweet shrubs; and this western one is no way behind the other in its delightful fragrance, though scarcely as hardy.

Hydrangea radiata is a native of the mountains of Virginia and North Carolina. of a force pump or spraying machine. If While the flowers are not pretty, being of the well water available is very hard it an imperfect white color, the leaves are exceptionally so-their under side being of a beautiful silvery color, which, when exposed by passing winds, contrasts nicely with the green of the upper side.

In this period of scarcity of flowers in the shrubbery, the bright berries on the Tartarian honeysuckle and the cotoneasters must not be passed unnoticed. - Joseph Meeban, in Country Gentleman.

Notes for Gardeners. Prompt action on the first appearance of an insect pest will often so effectually destroy it as to prevent its becoming established.

Aconite of monkshood is a perennial weed. The root has been mistaken for horseradish with fatal results. It should be destroyed wherever found by cutting below the surface as soon as a leaf shows

MY INCUBATOR:

Valuable Hints in Running It By One Who Has Experimented. Incubators are not automatic in their operations so that with the best of them the inexperienced are liable to fail of success. For this reason there has been much complaint made against the manufacturers. and not always without abundant cause. Many people have purchased incubators on guarantees which have not been made good and yet in many cases the fault in the main lies with the purchasers. In their inexperience and bad judgment in the management, a writer in the Practical Farmer says: I think I promised to tell my experience with a 120-egg size incubator, and as I always like to make my promises good, here I am. I put my first eggs in the incubator the 4th of January, 1894, regulating the heat at 103 degrees by means of a regulator attached to the incubator. The seventh day I inserted the moisture pans as I was directed, but only got twenty chicks for all my pains and trouble taken with them. But, not discouraged, I filled it the second time and, thinking perhaps I had not moisture enough the first time. I inserted the moisture pans the fifth day, adding water as it evaporated, and got ten chicks at the end of twenty-one days. We broke the eggs that were left unhatched and found that two-thirds of them had full-grown chicks in them. In fact they had filled the egg so full they had not room to turn around and pick out. Now remember, please, that I followed the directions given with the incubator, in regard to heat and moisture, and also turning them night and morning with the egg-shifting frame. My neighbors all laughed at me for wasting time and eggs, and eggs at a good price, too; but I let them laugh-for I did not feel much like laughing myselfand went to work to get eggs to set my "old hen" the third time. But I didn't follow printed directions this time, but the old hen method. I kept the heat the same at 103 degrees, but instead of turning them with the frame, I took the egg tray out morning and evening, letting them cool while I turned each egg by hand, and did not put in the moisture pans until the twelfth day. Result, fifty-nine chicks, all as fine and healthy as could be wished for. Breaking the eggs we found a large per cent. had matured too fast, and were unable to pick out and so died.

A little better satisfaction with this hatch. I concluded to not put in the moisture pans until the sixteenth day, that is about three days before they pip for when hatched in the incubator they pip the nineteenth day, and by the end of the twentieth are all hatched out. The last week I cooled off the eggs three times a day, leaving the tray out from one half to one hour, and got eighty-four chicks from 120 untested eggs. The fifth and sixth hatches did still better; getting ninety-six the fifth, and 106 the sixth time, and now I have it full of eggs again, and expect a still better hatch. But I did not depend on the incubator all together, but as soon | HALIFAX, N. S. s the hens became broody, I gave them eggs; now have 700 young chicks, all thriving and doing well. And I had such good luck to keep what I hatched out, seldom losing any. The first week I fed them on light bread wet up with sweet milk, with a little beiled egg and chopped onions added and how the little things did grow! My first three hatches are all disposed of now, at twenty-five cents per chicken, and I am commencing to sell the fourth

I never feed much cornmeal alone, but mix it with two-thirds shorts and wheat bran. There is too much heat in cornmeal alone, and it should never be fed to chicks, if one wishes to keep them in a thriving condition. Besides the other food mentioned, I give them all the clabbor milk they will drink, letting them make their own curd. I think the main trouble in hatching in the incubator is too much heat and moisture, causing the little fellows to mature too fast, so as to be unable to turn in the shell when their time comes to free themselves. I think one would be safe in not putting in any moisture Entil the seventeenth day, and then have the water quite warm, so as to steam the eggs a little, in order to soften the membrane and not the shell.

The Bridge to Paradise.

Al Sirat is the name of an imaginary bridge between the earth and the Moammedan Paradise. It is not so wide as a spider's thread, and those laden with sin fall over into the abyss below. Just so narrow is the bridge between health and illness, and many there are who fall into the abyss of chronic invalidism, solely from the fact that they do not know what to do to get well. For so many women suffering rom diseases peculiar to their sex, Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved an invaluable boon. For prolaspus, inflammation of the uterus, suppressions and all diseases arising therefrom, it is truly unequaled in its powers of cure.
