are being pumped into Grand Trunk engines by the Horton street pumping station. The Grand Trunk pays the public utilities commission by the thousand gallons for the pumping.

Prior to this arrangement the railroad filled its engines with water at Strathroy and Dorchester. Now the filling takes place in the city and results in a considerable saving to the toad. When coal was but $3.50 per ton and labor was cheap, the old method of running pumps by steam was suitable, but the cost of operating the pumps rose so rapidly that it was considered far better to allow the work to done by the electric pumps at Horton street. ton street.

Must Not Get in Rut, Says WAR VESSELS ARE Agriculturist On

"You're a reporter, eh?" said a farm-er on the market today as a scribe hurried along. "Weil, I would like to tell you a few things if you have a moment to spare. Take the county tell you a few things if you have a moment to spare. Take the county council now. It seems to confine its efforts to building roads, looking after the poorhouse and the jail, instead of improving farm conditions to keep people away from the poorhouse."

What Others Do. "I noticed that one reeve elected at the last election rode into a power on a progressive platform, that of medical inspection in the country schools and hydro for farmers. Some county councils have made grants for medical inspection in the schools and have paid inspection of the salary of a demestic. part of the salary of a domestic science demonstrator in the county, science demonstrator in the county, whose work among the girls corresponds to that of the agricultural representative among the boys.

"Other counties encourage stock judging teams for the different shows by paying the boys' railway fare, while some councils get right behind 'farmers' tours' and help them right along. Never saw Middlesex do anything, though the county council says this is the banner county of Western Ontardo."

Going After Them,

"I'll tell you what we are going to do; get a big deputation from all the farmers' organizations, women's institutes and junior farmers around the countryside and meet the county council at its next session to tell them what we want in the way of reforms and better conditions all around. The county council doesn't want to get in a rut and be behind—all the other counties in the reforms that are coming thick and fast these days. Well, I guess that is all I want to get out of my system this morning. See you again some time." With this Mr. Farmer passed onto the weigh scales office holding a pleasant smile.

IRON TORTURE CHAMBERS FOR U.S. CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS

New York, Jan. 23 .- The charge that Iron torture chambers are used to imprison conscientious objectors of the absolutist type at Alcatraz Island, San Francisco, has been made by the national civil liberties bureau, which is placing the matter before the secretary of war at Washington. It is alleged that four of these machines were made at the prison shops under orders of Col. R. D. Johnson, executive officer. The torture chamber is said to be 6 feet high, 23 inches in length, and 1 foot broad. It is absolutely dark inside. The only air obtainable is from the top. The prisoner may neither sit, lie down, nor stand erect. Robert Simmons, who is serving a ten-year term as a conscientious objector, is said to be now confined in such a cage.

Commissioner Jared Vining said he did not consider the proposition fair to the city, although he thought the present rates were too low.

Mr. Buchanan contended that supplying fire protection demanded an expenditure of $320,000 additional in the waterworks department which would not be reded if the water were supplied only for ordinary uses. This additional cost resulted from larger mains and additional pumping machinery being required. He thought the city should pay for the fire protection, and staigd that Londen's hydrant charges were low compared to other cities.

"Any utility should high to reduce the tax rate. It doesn't hurt to increase the prices if the general tax rate is brought down," said Mayor Little.

SOCIAL SERVICE WORKER URGES CHILD WELFARE

Says Every Child Is Entitled To Chance To Be Good

James Gray Is Elected President-Speakers Discuss Vital Problems.

James Gray was elected president of the Social Service Council of this city at the annual meeting held in the Y.
M. C. A. last night, and Dean N. L.
Tucker honorary president. The other officers named were: First vice-president, Rev. W. Peever; second vicepresident, Miss B. Smith; secretary, T.
D. McCullough; treasurer, J. Egan
Marce.

Magee,

Twenty were elected to the executive committee. They are: J. Laughton, Rev. G. Quintin Warner, Rev. H. T. Ferguson, Rev. G. A. Leichliter, Adjutant H. C. Ritchie of the Salvation Army, Miss M. Hanson, Raymond Smith. Mrs. H. Ashplant, Dr. D. A. Craig, Lleut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore, E. H. Russell, Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae, W. E. Kelly, G. H. McKay, Mrs. H. S. Blackburn, Rev. D. C. MacGregor, Mrs. Gemmel, Mr. Nash and Rev. J. G. Stuart.

Stuart.
The meeting, which was largely attended, was addressed by Gilbert Agar of Toronto, general secretary of the Provincial Social Service Council. He outlined the work of the council throughout the province for the coming

He said that great stress was to be laid upon child welfare work. Every child had the right to be well reared as well as to be well born. No matter into what home a child was born, and under what circumstances, it was not responsible for its birth, and therefore had the right to be siven were the the right to be given every aid and op-portunity to grow up to be a good citizen.

the right to be given every aid and opportunity to grow up to be a good citizen.

To Fight Venereal.

He spoke also of the fight which is to be made against venereal disease throughout the province. The Dominion Covernment had promised a gift of $57,000 to aid in the fight, provided the Provincial Government would give an equal amount. This would bring the total amount of money to finance the campaign up to $114,000. The council in Ontario was considering means by which it could bring home to the people the vital value of this problem, and was ready to back the work to its fullest power. Community work was important. The speaker said that the local councils should aim to take in the whole community, and should avoid leaving out any section of it. Social matters should occupy their attention rather than religious ones.

Mr. Agar said that the provincial council would carry on its work in child welfare this year by holding two-day conferences in all centres, small as well as large, throughout the province. Lectures on every phase of child life would be given, and these lectures would be illustrated by motion pictures. The aim was to conserve the human resources of the nation.

F. N. Stapleford, president of the Neighborhood Workers' Association of Toronto, spoke on "Neighborhood Work." He showed that while the association was not in reality a part of the Social Service Council, yet it worked hand in hand with it. He added: "In order that the work may be a success, the condition of the community must be known to those who form the association. They should not theorize and take as examples the conditions prevailing in other cities."

The Neighborhood Association he

The Neighborhood Association, he said, was valuable, in that it did away with overlapping. He strongly advised that a clearing house or centre be established in every city, from which branch depots might be operated. To illustrate the work of the association as a whole, he took for example the activities of the work of the association as a whole, he took for example the activities of the one in Toronto.

In that city there was a centre from which nine depots were operated and directed. Each of these had an executive. The citizens of Toronto had awakened to the necessity of such an establishment, and had given it as strong backing. In eighteen months the organization had grown so that the amount of expenditure shown by the budget had increased from $5,000 to $33,000 within eighteen months.

The work of the association included family problems, problems presented by dilegitimate births, which he claimed were increasing rapidly; the question of the family broken. dilegitimate births, which he claimed were increasing rapidly, the question of the family budget, housing problems, desertions, supplying aid during sickness in needy cases, supplying fresh air outings to the children of the poor, and many other miscellaneous problems.

While it was necessary to have trained workers, and while the members of the staff in Toronto were all graduates of Toronto University who had specialized in social service work, the service of volunteer workers was not to be despised. Mr. Stapleford told of the great

This has been a wonderful season for the open air skating flends. Some idea of the number of people that use the big "Poverty Pond" rink in Victoria Park may be gained from the fact that over $700 has been taken in by the authorities for the checking of shoes and overcoats. and overcoats.

The checking rates are 10 cents a bundle, and at this rate over 7,000 people have handed over their belongings to the park officials for safe keeping. It is stated by the men in charge that for every person who checks an overcoat and shoes there are three that don't, which would bring the total attendance at the Victoria Park rink to date at some 28,000 persons, and winter about half over half over.

The biggest day financially was one beautiful Saturday, when over $50 was taken in by the rink caretakers.

The cities of this province should go to the Provincial Government and insist upon an act which would enable a municipality to dictate the kind of buildings to be erected, and also to state where they smhould be located, Mr. Adams stated. This country, he said, was a free and democratic country, but it also was just. It was not justice to permit any man to do that which imposed a hardship upon his neighbor. The city should have the power to prevent the erection of a factory in a purely residential district, when its erection meant that the real estate surrounding it was going to degree to the surrounding it was going to degree the surrounding it was going to degree to the surrounding it was going to degree the surrounding it was going to degree the surrounding it was going to degree to the surrounding it was going to degree to the surrounding it was going to degree the surrounding it was going to degree the surrounding it was going to degree to the surrounding it was going to degree the surrounding the surro estate surrounding it was going to de crease in value.

He considered it impossible to simply plan an industrial city, but an industrial district was proper. London, he said, shoud be interested in the surrounding country, for with the development of power it was no longer absolutely necessary for the manufacturer to locate in the city, where his growth was hampered. This city should develop the district between here and Port Stanley, Mr. Adams thought, and in the advancement of London it was spector George Tambling of this district declared today the Government was in a position to prosecute hundreds of people in this part of the country who had failed either to fill in their reports or had made false statements as to their income or in other ways ignored the law.

OUTLINES PLANS MADE

And Expresses His Idea of the Commission's Duties and Powers.

The need of Canadian cities for a town-planning scheme was outlined by Thomas Adams, town planning adviser for the Dominion Government, at a luncheon tendered by the members council of the local chamber of commerce, in the Tecumseh House at noon today. He pointed out that the scheme which the London ratepayers approved at the municipal elections meant much in the development of the city. He criticized the narrow streets in London and every city in the country, and impressed upon his hearers the importance of studying the plan of the city.

The cities of this province should go to the Provincial Government and insist upon an act which would enable a municipality to dictate the kind of huiding local provision and act which would enable a municipality to dictate the kind of huiding local provision and the city in the country and impressed upon his hearers the importance of studying the plan of the city.

National Need.

"Modern governments realize that the national spirit is not the individual, but the home. The nation is comprised of homes, and that nation is the greatest that has an adequate number of the best homes. Our own federal and provincial governments have realized that if Canada is to compete with rival nations, she must have a care also for the housing needs of her growing population, hence existing federal and provincial house legislation.

"If the city of London is to maintain its prestige and position of importance among Ontario cities, we must be at least as alert and industrious as they are in providing housing accommodation for our workers and citizens of moderate means.

"The function of this commission of the function of the second citizens of the function of this commission." tion for our workers and citizens of moderate means.

"The function of this commission is not to provide a house on easy terms for this deserving and that needy individual, but rather to increase and better the municipality's housing facilities, with a view, thereby, of promoting the larger and general welfare of the whole city, insuring its advancement, industrially, socially—in a broad sense—and in matters relating to the health and efficiency of its population."

Other extracts from the address follow:

"At the present time, we know that the supply of houses is decidedly inadequate. No houses are to rent. Practically no houses are to rent. Practically no houses are being built for rent. New families coming to the city are obliged to live in rooms, housed with one or more other families. Many families attracted to London by its multitude of advantages as an ideal home city, are deterred from coming here by the inability to procure houses. The storage warehouses of the city are overcrowded with household effects of families who cannot obtain houses. There are many dwellings in the city are are many Conditions Bad. with household effects of families who cannot obtain houses. There are many dwellings in the city that would not be tolerated were it not for the acute shortage. Manufacturers are expanding; new industries are in prospect; we have abroad the spirit of a greater London. People are looking to locate their residence in London. This city, because of its relatively great area, requires more population—the only means in prospect of lowering the tax rate."

"The question is sometimes raised that FUNERAL OF GORDON BUTLER.
The funeral of Capt. Gordon Butler, who died in Detroit on Wednesday, was held yesterday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery. Rev. Dean L. N. Tucker conducted the services. The pallbearers were: Major W. "All indications point to the prospect of another period of advancing prices during the present year. Our everpresent problem is the fighting and overcoming this tendency of rising costs by any and every available and legitimate means, through wholesale buying, mass production, planning, organization and adopting new standards."

"I am not yet convinced that the adoption of concrete construction will not, in a measure, reduce costs and facilitate rapid construction."

Not Self-Created. Not Self-Created.

"It must be borne in mind that this commission did not create itself. This commission was brought into being by the municipal council of the city of London, and the commissioners were appointed by the council and requested to act. I am sure that throughout the year the commissioners will receive the to act. I am sure that throughout the year the commissioners will receive the hearty support and co-operation of the council in its arduous and important duties, and in the spirit so admirably expressed by His Worship Mayor Little, in his inaugural address."

BEATS COMPETITORS GAINING BIG PRIZE

Dr. W. L. Denny Brings Honor to City.

Dr. W. L. Denny, a graduate of Western University, and son of A. J. Denny. 205 Cheapside street, came first in a recent competitive examination for the position of house officer of the Boston Infants' Hospital.

Dr. Denny made an exceptionally good showing, and has taken over the new position, which is one of the best which the children's service in Boston has to offer, and professors of the Western University are highly pleased that a graduate of the school should occupy it.

Dr. Denny competed against graduates of Harvard, Johns Hopkins and control of this country and the falling off of the value of Canadian money in comparison with that of United States.

CANADA CERTAIN TO WITHIN THE EMPIRE

Representative of U.S. Firm Says American Firms Will Manufacture Here.

"Whatever disadvantages Canada is indengoing as a result of the war disturbance of finance, it is certain that Canada is to reap enormous advantages from the trade within the British Empire," said Fred Gennett, secretarytreasurer of the Starr Phonograph, of Richmond, Indiana, who has been visiting the Canadian headquarters of the ing the Canadian headquarters of the company in this city.

Mr. Gennett believes that the building up of Canadian industry will come not only from the preferential duty within the empire, but because of the strong Britsh sentiment that will be a factor in the sale of goods.

"Whatever the present state of exchange, that is a passing thing, one of the inevitable results of the war," said Mr. Gennett. "It will be like the proverbial drop in the bucket when the benefits that are certain to be reaped by Canada are fully realized. American companies will come to Canada in greater numbers that before. Our own company at the present time is considering the manufacture of our phonographs in all details in this country for trade within the empire. Manufacturing by American firms for trade in all parts of the Britsh Empire will be cheaper and more advantageous in Canada than in the United States."

Discussing the tremendous advance of the phonograph and record business, Mr. Gennett stated that there was no doubt as to the bearing of the prohibition on the increased sales. The phonograph was providing home amusement and satisfied the intense demand for Berlin, Jan. 22.—Surprise is expressed by the Tageblatt that the credit of 200,000,000 florins recently extended to Germany by Holland had failed to cause a recovery in the value of the mark and that on the other hand, the depreciation had continued after the conclusion of the loan. The newspaper quotes Berlin bankers as explaining that this condition is due to the practice of permitting foreign credits for German experts to remain abroad, both because of a desire to conceal capital and also in order to have available future funds for the purchase of raw materials.

[Special to The Advertiser.] OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—Sir Charles Ross will receive the sum of $2,000,000 in cash will receive the sum of $2,70,000 in cash for the Ross rifle factory and its equipment. The factory, which had a large capacity for turning out rifles, was expropriated by the Government after the Ross rifle had been discarded by the Canadians. No effort was the reafter made to turn out the standhereafter made to turn out the standard weapon.

The big staff of experts was allowed to disband, and the equipment to rust, until finally the plant was leased to a firm which made pistols for the American army. Equipment to the amount of $1,770,000 has been sold by the Consequents. Government already, probably at "scrap" prices. The Government has the site and buildings on its hands, but the only small arms factory in Can-ada is out of business, and the Gov-ernment shows no disposition to put it to any other use.

In the meantime, Sir Charles will receive $2,000,000 in cash from the treasury.

receive $2,000,000 in cash from the treasury.

In Exchequer Court.

The case was pending in the exchequer court and was to have come up for hearing this coming spring, the court's award being limited to a miximum of $3,000,000, according to the terms of the order-in-council granting the flat. Sir Charles Ross, though advised by his counsel that the full amount allowed by the limitations of the order-in-council could be secured from the court, agreed to waive and accept the $2,000,000 offered by the Government, in view of a quick and over to him today.

ver to him today.

Government, in view of a quick and final settlement. The check was paid over to him today.

The valuating experts engaged by Sir Charles reported the actual value of the physical assets in plant, machinery, stock on hand, etc., taken over by the Government, to be upwards of $6,000,000, exclusive of the value of his franchise under the original agreement with the Government, exclusive also of business in sight at the time of expropriation. The factory then had an output of 1,000 rifles a day.

Large contracts were being negotiated for the manufacture of rifles for allied nations, and in view of prospective business, the complete equipment of the factory, going-concern and franchise values, etc., Sir Charles counsel filed two years ago a legal claim for some eighteen million dollars from the Government. The Government, however, in granting a flat for a reference to the exchequer court, placed a limitation of three millions on the amount of the ultimate award.

Government Experts.

It is understod that the Government's own experts, who valued the physical assets expropriated, reported an amount in substantial excess of the two millions which Sir Charles has now agreed to accept. About one million dollars, it is stated, have been realized by the Government on the sale of rifles, machinery, raw materials, etc., taken over, and that a fully equipped plant now remains in the possession of the people of Canada to be used according to the terms of the expropriating order-in-council "for the manufacture as a permanent government undertaking of the rifles and small arms required for the arming of the naval and military forces of Canada."

Sir Charles Ross retires from his top as exclusive purveyor of rifles for Sir Charles Retires.

Sir Charles Ross retires from Sir Charles Ross letters with such as exclusive purveyor of rifles for Canada's military forces, with what he says is only about half the market value of the assets actually taken over by the Government. He declares that in time of emergency he more than lived up to the terms of his contract with the Government, enlarged the plant at his own mancial expense and initiative in expectation of a long war, increased the output twenty-fold in a remarkably short time, and enabled the Canadian troops to proceed overseas without delay in time to save the day for the Allies at St. Julien. As the first war contractor on the ground at the outbreak of the war, with an exclusive contract for the manufacture of the rifles for the whole Canadian armies he makes the claim that the two millions he now receives cannot be rethe makes the claim that the two mil-lions he now receives cannot be re-garded in any sense as war profiteerdo not venture to make "I do not venture to make the claim," said Sir Charles Ross today, "that the full story of the so-called Ross rifle, when it all comes out, as I hope some day it well, will show that my factory was the only big war plant on this continent which did business at pre-war prices, voluntarily gave up the opportunity to export increased profits in time of national necessity, and was successfully financed under such conditions.

would palpitate so badly I had great difficulty in breathing. I had such pains in my stomach after every meal they would nearly draw me double. I also had intense pains in the small of my back, which made it almost impossible for me to stoop over. I was also troubled a great deal from constipation, and my head ached nearly all the time, and at times throbbed so bad it felt as if it would simply burst open. I was troubled a lot with dizzy spells, and at times I would have to grab something to keep from falling. I could not sleep well, and was so restless I would just roll and toss from one side of the bed to the other all night long and get up completely tired out, and I always felt nauseated in the morning.

"Seeing where so many people were being benefited by Tanlac I decided to try it, too, and I must say I was surprised at the improvement. I have just finished my sixth bottle, and I fele like a different man. I am hungry all the time, and can eat anything I want now without suffering any bad after-effects. THE BY-ELECTIONS. Hon. R. H. Grant. Ontario minister of education, announces that seats have been found for Mr. Drury, Minister of Agriculture Manning Doherty and Attorney-General W. A. Raney. Mr. Drury will run in Halton, and Mr. place February 16, the nominations being held on the 9th of February.

Throughout the province, amongst all parttes and classes, there will be a feeling of re-Her that a definite date has been set for poll ing, as the delay in bringing on the by-elections had caused considerable exasperation. To Mr. Raney there has developed a distinct hostility in some quarters. Naturally, Mr. Drury would have preferred that all three ministers run at the same time. Hence the long hunt for a seat. Mr. Grant explains that Raney's test will come later, thus enabling the party to concentrate against opposition to his election.

At the elections of 1914 Halton returned A W. Nixon, (Conservative) with a majority of 379. At the last polling Ford, U. F. O. candidata carried the riding by a majority of 250. In Mast Kent, Ferguson, (Liberal) was elected in 1914 by a majority of 371. Clark, Farmer fromface, carried it by 1,000 in November.

Mr. Dewart's attitude towards the by-elec tions is a reasonable and fair one. He considers that the ministerial contest should not be made a fight between Liberals and Farmers He holds that the electors of each riding should be permitted to say for themselves whether they desire to be represented by an out and out Inheral or Conservative, or by a Farmer or Labor candidate. That view will appeal to all fair-minded persons. It is good democracy and of the truest Liberalism.

CRITICISM AND THE CHURCH.

One critic writing to a Western newspaper complains of the church officials "who stand at the door and do the nump-handle act. Another declares that the church is cold and that no stranger is ever welcomed "by the kindly look, or the hearty handshake." There is always occasion for criticising the church. To men of querulous temper whatever it does is wrong, while, of course, "the carnal mind" is at enmity with its message and with the Divine Teacher who inspired it.

The object of the church should be, not to escape criticism, but to mind its business with I assiduity, to stimulate all its members to a realization of their responsibilities, and to make full use of its heritage of prayer. The Christian religion is a positive rather than negative force. Men are urged to do certain things rather than not to do certain other things. They are instructed to love their neighbors rather than to cease hating them. Too may folk get the notion that a churchman is a person whose temperament is expressed by a minus sign. If that were true, the gospel would inspire no man. On the contrary, Christianity is a definite program of things to be done; first in the individual character, then in the nation, and then in the world.

The Forward Movement, which is engaging the attention of the Anglicans, Baptists, Congregationalists, Methodists and Presbyterians, in Canada, is designed to do the Things-To-Be-Done NOW. By reason of the war, normal expansion of the work in Canada and in foreign lands was halted. In this Dominion, there are great districts not yet served by the ministry of religion, neighborhoods that have no place of worship, and not even a teacher to help forward the building of character among the children. The cities of the Dominion have grown so rapidly that they are "underchurched," not only in the over-crowded downtown areas, but even in the residential districts. The problem of rural depopulation and the readjustment of the country church to serve as a community centre is one that presses for solution. The depreciation of the dollar and the coincident rise in the cost of living make it necessary immediately to raise the salary scale for missionaries and the superannuation allowances for retired clergy. A larger income for the theological colleges is imperative. The appropriations for overseas missions are inadequate even to maintain the work already begun, and the opportunities for extending the work are more inviting than ever

In the past, the Canadian churches have not lacked members, but they have been short of active members. The Forward Movement is planned to strengthen the hands that hang down and to confirm the feeble knees. Instead of depending upon ten per cent of the membership to do ninety per cent of the work, and meet eighty per cent of the necessary expenditure, the minister of each congregation has hopes of seeing his church ardent, zealous and efficient. It is a fine ideal, worthy of the church and worthy of Canada.

THE MAN IN KHAKI.

On Dundas street a group of men with a big sleigh were removing the snow piled deep on the shady side of the street. In the group was a man who wore the riding breeches of the artillery service and a khaki overcoat on which ended. was still visible the little patch of color that identified him with a unit in France. The garments of war were showing signs of wear, the coat was frayed, the buttons were discolored, was still visible the little patch of color that the whole outfit would be gone by spring. Probably few noticed the man in khaki as the crowds passed by, for, after all, it is no uncommon thing to see khaki being worn out in daily work, and that very fact typifles the spirit of a large portion of the men who served in France, or elsewhere. There was a nasty bit of work to be done "over there" and the nation put its available men into suits of one color until the job was done. And now that | And you seldom have traveled on railroad trains the job is done the man who wore khaki is doubtless quite willing to see the old soldier suit serve its day as a working suit and then go into the past with all other reminders of experiences that to those who went through them have no glamor.

This country will never hear glorification of war from the men who actually saw service at the front. War has no bright sides for them. It was a dirty mess that they helped clean up and they don't want another job of the kind. The spread-eagle orators, whether in this country, the neighboring republic or elsewhere, are likely to be the fellows who got out of sight of their home neighbors but never in sight of the real work. We will have them with us for a long time to come, but the real fighters will be little heard from. The one class will keep their togs well pressed and shined ready to break into the limelight as Doherty in East Kent. Mr. Raney's seat will often as possible, but the fellows who went not be made public until the other ministerial through it all will more likely have worn theirs by-elections have been held. Voting will take out in good honest work before the armistice was a year old.

At last, the time complete, he once again shall In his soul's beauty as earth's happy flowers -Eric Ross Goulding.

In the Valhalla of brave men another warrior-soul has taken its honored place, and Eric Ross Goulding, soldier, poet, scholar, gentleman, and above all, a man, has gone (to quote his own beautiful words), to "lie a little space upon Death's kindly breast." May his rest be

One whose privilege it was to have known him somewhat intimately, first as a journalist and later as a soldier, would crave this opportunity to bid "ave atque vale" to one of God's noblemen, for so he seemed to those who tried to understand him.

It is a comparatively short time since he returned to Canada from the stricken fields of France bearing in his body wounds so cruel as to excite the compassion of all with whom he met. And yet, pity was the last thing he desired. Handicapped as he was, his brave spirit refused to be daunted, and his neverfaltering courage and cheerfulness were a constant source of wonder to his friends. In this, it is perhaps not too much to say, he was a worthy follower of One who was wounded for others, and Whose "visage was so marred more than any man, and His form more than the

But not only in his country's cause was Eric Ross Goulding tested in battle. Only struggle he waged in his personal life, and he bore scars of mind and heart which ever and anon were revealed in the pathos of some of his poems. Yet ever, with true poetic instinct. he followed the gleam, and many of his writings betray a beautiful faith and hope in that immortality which now he has happily attained. Let some of his own hitherto unpublished lines bear him that testimony:

"Souls live-I will not simply say they do-They must, or why this peopled world at

The singer has passed to his rest and to his reward, but to many the echo of his song will continue to be an inspiration, an uplift. and best of all, an ever-fragrant memory.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

For men raised on the farm, the new ministers seem to have found it a hard task to get into the saddle.

London and its suburbs now number 70,000 people. We ought to be good for 100,000 in five years if we pull together.

Householders fear that the unusual amount of snow this winter will mean damp cellars in the spring, but aren't most of the cellars 'wet' right now?

Through an error, an article on greater farm production, which appeared on this page a few days ago, was not credited to the Grain Growers' Guide, as it should have been.

The United States navy official who was as ready the fight Britain as Germany was probably a good two thousand miles from any fighting at all that the navy was doing.

The day when the new Legislature scrutinizes the coal bills for Government House will be interesting. That will indicate to what extent the provincial palace is one of the things that the people of Ontario "hold dear," as the lieutenant-governor puts it.

The Sims charges add just that much more to the political tension that always marks the year of a presidential election. His memorandum to the navy department and the accompanying charges will be used more to advance or retard the chances of certain aspirants than to bring about reform in the department itself.

Great Britain seems to be right on the ground floor as far as Russian trade is concerned. Since Russia has about 175 million people, the shopkeepers of the Old Land have a big contract to supply the needs of the vast nation. Already there are predictions that Russian trade will be as big a stimulus to British manufacturing as it has received since the war

From Here and There

POOR LITTLE FELLOW.

[Exchange.] Poor little fellow, your case is sad, You must go to school when you'd like to play And you want to be old like your doting dad, Who may come and go in his own sweet way And never alone may you wander far. You long to be done with your growing pains And get off there where the big men are.

Poor little fellow, your life is hard, There are so many things that you may not do So many pathways to you are barred, And so many rules that are made for you;

Oh, you see men come and you see them go, Old and battered and worn and grey, And to win the freedom you think they know You would fling all of your youth away.

Poor little fellow, time was that I Looked out on the world through the self-same

And the years seemed long, and I wondered why I couldn't be old and grown and wise; Then I used to dream of the days to be And the joys I'd claim and the things I'd do When the years had fashioned a man of me-Now I'd give them all to be just like you.

Poor little fellow, don't sigh for age. For the years are swift and their cares are great Bitter the battles that men must wage, As grown-ups learn when it's all too late: Oh soon, too soon, shall you come to see When the work of the world shall be yours to do Why, there's never a man but would gladly be A poor little fellow once more like you.

> POINTED PARAGRAPHS. is the most unsatisfactory word in the English language. Nothing tickles a man more than to be told that he looks like an actor. A short-sighted man always expects his neigh bor to look through his glasses. If time were money the average man would have his watch geared to run forty-eight hours a day. A short horse is soon curried if he isn't a kicker. A little brief experience on the stage stimulates lofty ideas as to salary.

Many a man has a great head from other than intellectual causes. The man who gets there acts as his own crutch: he doesn't lean on others. Think before you act, but don't spend too much time thinking. Actions count. Beauty may be only skin deep, but the impression it makes extends much deeper.

NEW CANADIAN HANDBOOK. Professor Alfred Fitzpatrick, B.A., principal o Frontier College, has compiled a handbook for new Canadians which is destined to become an important assistance to essential knowledge of Canada to foreigners seeking this country as their home. There is concise and complete instruction in geography, government, naturalization, history and language, and it should prove of real value in producing better citizenship among the non-Eglishspeaking people settling in Canada. The publishers are the Ryerson Press, Toronto.

THE SNOWSTORM. FFrom "Homeland Songs and Other Poems," by T. C. T. St. T.] Cold is the north wind, and harsh is the blast That sweeps like a hurricane loudly and fast, Through the forests and over the hills Down thro' the valleys and over the rills. Whirling, twirling went the fleeting snow

Flake upon flake the snow was hurled Into the depth with maddening twirl. Soon to be lost-then to be found-Into the drift of the stillness beyond. Fluttering, spluttering, on in their flight, Into the glocom of the darkness of night.

Away went the blizzard in its maddening might, Murmuring, sighing, all through the night; Drifting and sifting in the billowy blast, The snowflakes were falling gently but fast; Shimmering, shivering, an thro' the air, Dying, dying, o'er the silvery glare.

THINK IT THROUGH.

[Spanish River News.]
There is an epidemic of half-thought raging throughout the world. Now is the time for thinking things through to the end. Hasty and ill-advised action based upon a failure to get all the facts is unhealthy and dangerous. Now is the time to sit down in all possible calmuess, to think things through to the end, to move with even-tempered common sense. To be swept away by every wind that blows is not characteristic of Spanish River men, but we can all learn a lesson from daily events. A square deal all around is what we have and what we all want at all times. If a man tells you something as fact, don't take his word for it. Find out for yourself. If you feel that you want to say something about a certain matter or about a certain person, stop where you are and use your head. Ask yourself these questions regarding what you intend

First-Is it true? Second-Is it necessary? Third—Is it up to me?
If you can be square with yourself and answer "Yes" to all three questions, then go ahead. But if the answer is "No" to any one of the three, wait a while. It may sound different tomorrow.

BOOKLESS LITERATURE. [Washington Star.] My library is very small; In fact, I scarce need books at all. Since on each package that I buy Such splendid readings meet my eye. And all of it is good and kind, And neatly printed and refined oclaiming excellences rare, With no word of reproachful care. Why should I read of lands dismayed, Of people angry or afraid. When soothing sweetness I may win At hand on my tobacco tin; Or on the pasteboard box which 'round The soda cracker may be found? What poetry of subtle mood

My library is small indeed. THE EFFECT OF THRIFT.

I find unto each billboard glued! And so, for books what is the need?

[Ottawa Journal.] confronted with the high prices of today, are regretting that they did not foresee the continued increases and make advance purchases of their necessities in volume. If the prediction of Sir Herbert Holt as to prices is well founded, the same result may be achieved by economy and thrift at the present time. Sir Herbert declares that the advance in prices will not continue for long. It is only a matter of time, he asserts, until supply will be equal to the demand, when competition will exert its natural influence and prices will be lower. Economy now, therefore, will have a double effect. What money is saved will be worth much more in purchasing value than it is worth today. Those who saved to purchase Victory Bonds and Thrift Stamps will have added benefit from their thrift if prices are lower in the future. What they saved will be worth much more than it was

Our New Serial

Be sure to read the opening chapters of Archie P. Me-Kishnie's story, "Love of the Wild," which will commence in The Advertiser within a few days. Mr. McKishnie, who is a Western Ontario boy, has gained world fame through his graphic novels laid right here in our own country. If Great Britain and the United States see fit to acclaim him a master writer of historic fiction, surely we-of whom he is one-should treasure his stories. We are going to give our readers an opportunity to place Mr. McKishnie's books in their libraries.

In the meantime, do not miss the first of the serial story. Liberal installments will be run daily, and will appear in all editions.

"The Allies owe us 450 million dollars' interest on the ten billion other dollars they owe us, but we're not going to collect even the interest just at present. For two reasons: First, we're sorry for them, and, second, they haven't got it."-Kansas City Star.

Must England Fight Reds To Retain Hold on India?

"To make a wide impression" on the elements of discontent in the Punjab, according to their commander, Brig.-Gen. R. E. H. Dyer, British and Indian troops fired without warning last April on a meeting of Indians at Amritsar, killing five hundred persons and wounding about fifteen hundred in ten minutes. This action is now being investigated by a committee headed by Lord Hunter. The violent outbreaks of disorder in Calcutta, Bombay, and the Punjab, eventuated from the "passive-resistance" movement against the Rowlatt act, which is directed at revolutionary and anarchical crime, and is made necessary by the attempts to overthrow British rule in India. Agitators seized upon this measure, the London Morning Post tells us, to organize an agitation which "threatened the very existence of British rule in India." Events in Afghanistan, and even in Bolshevik Russia, "may or may not have had a connection with this movement."

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for January 24, there is an enlightening account of the unrest in India and how it menaces British rule in Asia. The article is accompanied with a map of the Indian trouble centre.

THE LADY'S REPLY.

Down beside the flowing river,
Where the willows bend and weep;
Where the leafy branches quiver,
Stranger, why this vigil keep?
Why go there alone and early,
These morning flowers to strew;
Did you love in truth so dearly,
Do you mourn as others do?

Stranger, I've been thinking sadly,
How you promised, wooed and won;
Innocent her love, who gladly
Heard fair words, built hopes thereon
How she's in her cold grave sleeping,
By the river's moaning wave;
How the willows now are weeping
O'er that maiden's early grave.

Stranger, I will heed the warning Stranger, I will heed the warning
Coming from that riverside;
Flowers you strew there in the morning,
I'll replace at eventide.
And we'll walk no more together,
For the gipsy tells me true,
Mourns her child in tears that smother
Every kindly thought of you,

ALLENBY CAMPAIGN SLIDES ARE SHOWN BY PROF. MORISON

Gives Vivid Description of Soldiers in Desert To Women's Canadian Club.

Photographs "stolen" from head-quarters staff in the General Allenby were of course altogether different from those on any other front. A great deal of the labor, such as digging, camel driving, etc., could not be done by the British soldier, and in doing this the Egyptian Labor Corps did gallant work. The railway ran from a point about thirty miles down from Port Said right through the desert to Bersheba. Here and there in the shelter of an oasis were little cities, just like pictures taken from the Bible, but most of the way it was the open desert, the greatest place in the world, where the sand glistens white like snow in the moon light. Its desolation and its splendor make life seem like a cheap thing.

Through the Desert.

"And it was into this desert the little bands of British soldiers went. All day they would march through the blazing sun with perspiration running down their backs. Then at evening, they would pause, kindle their fires, throw up their bivouacs and get dinner ready. Then after dinner they would lie about singing old songs and ever becoming faster friends. For we did become very fast friends out there. We had longer to I've than the men on the Western front.

"When General Allenby came, he de-

"When General Allenby came, he delivered blows in so many unexpected places that the Turks did not know what was going to happen next, and were overwhelmed. The capture of Jerusalem was one of the biggest moments of the campaign from a point of view of British prestige, for it had a hold on the religious imagination of the people. From a military point of view it was not important. The proclamation of religious liberty on the day of the entry into Jerusalem was one of the most solemn moments of the whole war," said the speaker.

Professor Morison has a fascinating sense of humor which bursts forth at intervals while he talks and charmed the audlence. Miss Grace Blackburn presided at the meeting.

The next speaker will be Explorer Steffanson on Friday, February 20.

Dear Cynthia Grey and Boxites,—For a long time I have thought of writing you. Your page in the 'Tizer has certainly been a helper to me—a young housewife.

The letters re country and city life are rather amusing to me. We have Bables.

Dear Miss Grey.—My main subject is "Bables." I think it an interesting subject. So many ladies nowadays prefer to raise dogs or cats—they are not so much bother.—But what is nicer in a home than a baby? I have two a girl and a boy. My little girl is five years old, and very bright and clever. (I hear someone saying "Hear her blow"), but she has one funny idea: she thinks everything real. If she sees a picture of a baby crying she wants to know why it's crying and why her mother don't come and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she sees an animal caught in a trap, she conders why someone don't some and take her up; also if she conders why some sees an animal caught in the take books."

let him out, and all such things. I think it's amusing. She memorizes little verses, and can count well. She has never been to school yet, but I will send her soon I think. My son is not two years old yet. He can talk very plainly, and loves a dog or cat to play with. Can anyone supply me with a white cookie recipe—eggless, of course? Eggs are so scarce, and it's so long since I saw one I forget what kind of an animal lays them. Can anyone enlighten me? HUNGRY HALLIE.

St. Thomas, Guelph and Galt and Chatham-Sarnia-Windsor Is Proposed Split.

IN TWO GROUPS

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 22.—The question of whether the city will be represented in a Canadian baseball league or not in the coming season appears to be entirely up to the Board of Trade. A. W. Hamer of Guelph was in the city today discussing the question of forming a league, consisting of two groups, in which St. Thomas, Guelph and Galt would form one, with Windsor, Sarnia and Chatham as the other. This would eliminate any long and expensive trips, it is thought. The Guelph Chamber of Commerce is backing the proposition in that city, and it is likely that the local Board of Trade will take some action toward having St. Thomas represented.

Intermediates Get Clear Title With a Win Tonight

The Intermediates will go through the district without a defeat with tonight. Watford had a workout at Forest last night and got worked into the baring their improved condition should go far in the semi-final wind-up, or at east be away from home quite a bit the next few weeks.

Watford had a workout at Forest gain. However, reports stated that they weren't trying against the Forest crew.

Manager Ferguson will use his regular line-up for the fixture tonight.

Watford Should Make It An Effort For Locals On Form in Past—London Lineup Is Unchanged.

The home fans have had very little opportunity to get a line on intermediate hockey. At the first of the season, the intermediates did not stage any exhibition with teams from which a line could be had on their strength, and their out-of-town games did not do them credit in several instances where they did not use a regular line-up.

Recent retirement of Frank Moran marks the passing of one of the "Stout Hearts" of the fighting game—one of that school of fighters who had all the qualities of truly great fighters, in heart and body, but lacked the controlling mind that determines the merely game from the wonderfully clever ring masters. Moran could take and give—take when he couldn't see for blood-froth what he was on the point of receiving, and give when it would seem to take superhuman tenacity and will to summon up the strength for a hard punch.

He takes his stand in the long dim line of departed fighters, who will always hear the plaudits of the populace for their sheer pluck and staggering gameness. Had Moran been instinctively a boxer, to what heights would he have climbed? There's hardly any need to speculate. He has some good fights to look back on. He stayed the limit with Jack Johnson. He stayed it with Willard. And he stayed it with Willard. And he stayed it with Willard. And he stayed it with Fulton, who had size, strength and a portion of the cleverness that Moran always lacked, in his last bow to the public, who always gave him a hearing in a tribute to his great fighting heart—and the hope that his punch would get

It is doubtful if Carpentier does come to this country that he will be allowed to fight, by his manager, Deschamps. With somewhere around $500,000 up for the main go, it would be taking a big chance to put the Frenchman in the ring with anybody, for there are no sure things—providing arrangements are on the square—in the ring. And some person might just slip some person might just slip over a lucky punch that would put Georges in a dreamland where there were no half million dollar

That was how Jack Munroe got his chance against Jeffries. The fact that the big miner scored a knockout over Jeffries, though not technically alstage of the huge champion's barnstorming career, but it did to his pride.
It also gave Munroe the slight idea that he had a chance. There have been other notable examples of where linknowns or practically unknowns. unknowns or practically unknowns have put crimps in reputations that had to be ironed out afterwards.

The latest example is Wilde The latest example is Wilde. Wilde's fight with Sharkey must have cost him somewhere around $100,000 in prestige. The big mass of fight fans still realize that the Briton is a wonderful fighter, but they've found out that he h'eats three meals a day like everybody else and that he's not infallible.

Fulton said some time ago that he'd fight any man of any color and every man if necessary, to get a crack at Dempsey. However, he isn't proving anything by taking on people no one over head of hefore

A bout that will interest a lot of people in Canada is the proposed meeting between Johnny Basham and Johnny Griffiths for the welter title of Europe. Basham is somewhat of an idol over in England and deserves the idolatry a lot more than Beckett did. He's clever, and can both give and take a lot of punishment. Basham and take a lot of punishment.

this week's workouts has fitted in better than usual.

The big crowd of fans who will take the 7:15 Grand Trunk train for the Baby City realize that the youngsters have a real night's work ahead of them, but if they don't take down a pile of money, they are taking a lot of hopes with them. BE PRETTY! TURN SETS FIFTEEN GREY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or grey. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bettle of this famous old recipe, improved, by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay grey! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small Almost everyone knows that Sage through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, and after another apbeautifully dark, glossy and attractive. tion as the outcome of the two-day used to write his books when he lived in Cambridge, it is all quiet and peaceful enough."

Prof. Dale is the author of a collection of cowboy poems, immortalizing long night watches over thousands of cattle loose on the range. He writes in somewhat the same rugged style as wrobert Burns. There is one, for instance, of the cowboy who is just a little weary of his sojourn apart from the nearest neighbors. The cowboy has reached the stage where he wishes to be "plucked"—matrimonially speaking. As he remarks in the following poem: he remarks in the following poem was onered to the Toung Men's Christian Association. Dr. Mott said that even Russia offered opportunity to the association. Thank God," he said, "ever since the revolution broke out there the Young Men's Christian Association has never forfeited faith in our old ally."

President Abner Kingman read a telegram from Gen. Sir Arthur Currie expressing regret at not being able to be present and stating that throughout the war he had regarded the Young Men's Christian Association as an integral part of the Canadian force, and that it had done incalculable service in maintaining the high morale of the troops.

A sympathetic message was also received from Premier Prusy.

Appeal for Help.

An appeal to the Young Men's Christian Association for assistance in the inter-church forward movement was made by J. H. Gundy this afternoon at the concluding business session of the national convention of the Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. Gundy characterized the forward movement campaign as an investment that should appeal to businessmen.

"Christianity is the best investment a nation can make," he said. President Abner Kingman of the Canadian Young Men's Christian Association gave assurance of support from the Y. M. C. A. in the movement.

Winnipeg was chosen as the next place of neeting, a hearty invitation from President Carter of the Winnipeg Board of Trade having been conveyed to the convention by General Secretary C. W. Bishop.

One of the outstanding resolutions adopted respectfully urged that the Allied Governments aid in the establishment of a stable government in Armenia, and assist in protecting the Armenia, and assist in protecting the Armenias from persecutions until such was effected.

AT WINNIPEG TODAY WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—Three daily newspapers have decided to resume publication tomorrow afternoon in order to relieve public anxiety for news of a reliable nature. What supplies of newsprint that arrived today have been pooled for the purpose, and each paper will issue a sheet large enough to give a fair resume of the events of the past and today for the first time since last Friday.

SAYS DEFENCE AIMS TO GET PUBLICITY

Court Makes Accusa-

J. Andrews, K.C., leading counsel for the crown, that the various motions which had been made by the defense, were for the purpose of getting publicity in the newspapers and for the purpose of getting before the jurymen now at home, a lot of material which should never be brought up in court. These allegations were not denied by the counsel for the defense.

Mr. Justice Metcalfe, presiding judge, stated that the defence would have to prove his jurisdiction in the various motions before him before he could permit the matter to be brought up in court.

permit the matter to be brought up in court.

Motions were put forth at the session of the court this afternoon questioning the jurisdiction of the judge to act in the present case on the grounds of prejudice and bias; a formal motion attacking the sufficiency of the indictment and motions on the part of others of the accused to challenge the entire array of the petit jury.

Motions to challenge the jury array with several others went over, the court giving notice that argument on them must be completed before Saturday night. Motions on which argument was concluded were all decided against the movers.

As a result of the advice given by Chief Justice of the Common Pleas Judge R. M. Meredith, an arrangement was made Thursday between counsel whereby Mrs. Margaret Scott was given $400 alimony in her suit against Thomas Scott, a motorman on the London Street Railway.

Frank P. Gray and his sister, Mrs. Mary Norris, both claimed their father's $1,000 insurance policy in the Catholic Order of Foresters. Counsel in this case also retired on the advice of the judge, and decided that an even division would be right. The court agreed to this.

SOUTHERN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH HAD BANNER YEAR

The annual business meeting of the Southern Congregational Church was held in the schoolroom on Wednesday evening, a good crowd being present to hear the financial standing and report of progress during the year. Never in the history of the church were the reports from the various societies so gratifying, starting the year 1920 with a perfectly clean sheet, free from debt. Much credit is given to the pastor, Rev. Mr. Claris, for his excellent report and faithfulness during the past year, also the church treasurer, William Walton, and the secretary, L. R. Anderson.

The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: Treasurer, William Walton; secretary, L. R. Anderson; deacons, Messrs. Walton Hargreaves, Claris, Eve and Anderson; board of managers: Bert Wherry (chairman), Wm. Walton, W. Claris, E. Ford, J. Bacon, E. Hargreaves, J. Eve, William Powell and S. R. Anderson: ushers: Messrs. Walton, Ford, Billings and Anscombe; organist, Miss J. E. Claris; press correspondent, Miss Sadie Osborne.

An increase of $200 was given in the pastor's salary.

At the close of the business meeting, the pastor, Mr. Claris (being overwhelmed with surprise) was made the recipient of a handsone gradent.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE

NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wrecks; thus conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation. Eminent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weak, thred people regain energy and the strength of the people regain energy and the sum of the people regain energy and the strength of the people regain energy and the strength of the people regain energy and

Writing Paper is a Necessity

Did you ever stop to think of the amount of writing paper used daily? Consider the number of letters written, circulars printed and cheques, drafts, etc. made out, and you will begin to realize the enormous quantity needed to fill this demand.

The manufacture of writing paper is an industry that is natural to Canada, as we have the forestsand the necessary water power. It is the duty of every Canadian to use Canadian made writing paper-which is the equal of any writing paper in the world-and thus assist in the development of our natural industries. Every Canadian can also assist in this development by Saving and Investing in the securities of well established and conservatively managed Companies, manufacturing the finished product from these natural resources. Write us for full particulars of the Preferred Stock issue of a leading writing paper

Announcement

Two of the greatest Canadian novels yet written-so say British and American critics-are "Love of the Wild" and "Willow the Wisp," by Archie P. McKishnie. It is the desire of the publishers of The Daily Advertiser to place these splendid books in the homes of its readers, and it is with pleasure that we announce that through special arrangements with the publishers we are able to do this at a cost scarcely exceeding the posting and boxing of the same.

Mr. McKishnie, who has found a place among the world's great writers, was born and bred in Western Ontario. These novels are authentic histories of the struggles and victories of our own ancestors, big, pulsating romances of our own Therefore, every home in Western Ontario should have them in its library. Let us tell you how you may secure them.

FEATURE PICTURE AT PATRICIA THEATRE IS FULL OF ACTION

Film Play Was Written by the Star, Harry Carey-Good Vaudeville.

Harry Carey in "A Gun Fightin' Gentleman" drew crowds to the Patricia on Thursday. The picture is full of action from start to finish, with many comic situations throughout. A feature of the film is that the story was written by the *star himself. Jack Ford was the director, and Kathleen O'-Connor plays opposite to Carey.

Few actors on the screen have been so successful as Carey in the portrayal of virile and vigorous types of the cowboy, and as his newest vehicle is from his own pen, the result is a role that fits the star like a glove.

Rugged and picturesque scenery, reckless riding scenes in and about the phiatial home of a Chicago millionaire and the wholesome acting of Carey and his supporting cast, including Kathleen O'Connor, Barney Sherry, Harry V. Meter, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Duke Lee. Joe Harris, Johnnie Cooke and Ted Brooks, are features of this picture.

The plot of "A Gun Fightin Gentleman" concerns the heroic efforts of "Cheyenne Harry" Buford to regain the ranch which has been forcibly taken from him by John Merritt, a Chicago packer, Finding the legal machinery of the local courts disrupted by dishonest officials, he taken the law into his own hands and finally not only makes Merritt see the injustice of his attitude toward the rancher, but gains favor in the eyes of the millionaire's daugh-Gentleman" drew crowds to the Patricia "Venus in the East," featuring Bryant Washburn and an all-star cast, and the washburn and an all-star cast, and elighted capacity audiences at the Majestic Theatre last night. The story of which the photoplay is an adaptation appeared in a weekly periodical. A synopsis of it follows:

Buddy McNair, a handsome young westerner, inherits a vast fortune from his father through a formula for reducing gold from tailings and low gradores. He is imaginative and when his sees a picture of Mrs. Pat Dyvenot, a beautiful New York society woman, in a Sunday newspaper, he calls her his "Venus in the East" and decides to be adding him of his money. When he reaches New York he gets a glimpse of Mrs. Dyvenot; he is charmed and ultimately becomes engaged to her. But while riding on an omnibus in Fifth avenue one day he encounters Martha, the girl has been their accomplice in ridding him of his money. When he reaches New York he gets a glimpse of Mrs. Dyvenot; he is charmed and ultimately becomes engaged to her. But while riding on an omnibus in Fifth avenue one day he encounters Martha, the girl he, had met on the train, and she amazes him by returning to him the money he had lost to the gamblers on the train, and which she had recovered in a queer way. It is then that Buddy realizes that he has hitched his wagon to the wrong star, and desiring to break his engagement with Mrs. Dyvenot he informs that woman that his fortune has been lost in wild spectulation. She cheerfully grants him his freedom, and Buddy and Martha come to a happy understanding.

DRIFTS WERE FOUR FEET DEEP.
ILDERTON, Jan. 22.— The roads through this district have been badly blocked since Friday, and very little rural mail delivery has been possible. The trains on the L. H. and B, have been few and far between, but the roads have nearly all been reopened by gangs of men and teams. On some of the Lobo concessions cuts four feet deep had to be shovelled out on Monday. On Sunday only 35 of the Ivan congregation were able to be present, but Rev. N. A. Campbell was present although he had to drive several extra miles to find a passable road to the church.
