SOME COUNTRIES ON ALLIED SIDE HAVE LOST THEIR TERRITORY BUT STILL KEEPING THEIR GOVERNMENT

The Serbians at Corfu Have 130,000 Men, With 20,000 Albanians, and Thus Can Join Anglo-French at Saloniki—Belgian Government Goes Forward Much as Usual.

London March 27 (correspondence of The Associated Press)—Four sovereign governments are just now having a somewhat transitory existence, Serbia, Albania, Montenegro, and Belgium, with seats of government outside their own territory, living at private hotels, much like tourists, as transient guests, owing to the ever-present prospect of moving on through the exigencies of war; and with that strange anomaly of complete governmental establishments, with rulers, prime ministers, cabinets, parliaments, and administrations, yet with no territory to administer.

Albania is the latest to pack the government archives in traveling cases. Essad Pasha, the nominal ruler, stopping first at Durazzo, then Brindisi, and going on to the Greek island of Corfu. The Serbian King, ministry and administration was already at Corfu, while members of the Skoptzina, or parliament, have been considering a session at Nice, with Premier Paschich joining them there. This would not be far from the Montenegro temporary seat of government at Lyons, in Central France, although three of the Montenegro ministers still remain at Podgoritz, Montenegro, so it is not quite certain whether the government is in Lyons, or Podgoritz. Belgium's administration is much more stable but is also outside home territory, at Bravre, France, where the work goes on in an extensive hotel at a seafaring suburb of the city.

BRITISH ADVANCED MONEY Premier Asquith recently told Parliament that about a billion dollars had been advanced to the Allies, and another billion to them through the banks at the government's request. He did not specify which allies, but it is understood that considerable of these large sums has gone to keep up the smaller governments in a full state of national sovereignty, for the significant reason that they would have a voice as nations, and perhaps over the war. This help from British coffers has been most opportune to the governments separated from their countries, with the usual revenues cut off from customs and internal taxes, and the tobacco monopolies, postal, telegraph and other sources of income in the hands of the enemy. Without revenue, the expenses of these smaller governments have gone on steadily; they have kept up their armies, foreign ministers and consuls, as well as ministries, royal establishments, and as much of the civil administration as circumstances would permit.

DEPENDS ON ALLIES. King Nicholas of Montenegro recently informed the Montenegro general here that he had ordered the three ministers remaining in Montenegro not to undertake any government business or negotiations under any circumstances, adding: "I am prepared for the moment to be king of Serbia, like the kings of Belgium and the fate of his government in the hands of the great Allies." These orders to the ministers indicate that King Nicholas considers the seat of government to be with him, at Lyons, and not back in Podgoritz. With him are his prime minister, Mischevitch, and his family, Queen Milena, Princess Vera, Xenia and Miliza, and the heir to the throne.

WHEN FEELING TIRED

Hood's Sarsaparilla Builds Up the Whole System—Makes Pure Blood.

That tired feeling that comes to you in the spring, year after year, is a sign that your blood lacks vitality, just as pimples, boils and other eruptions are signs that it is impure; and it is also a sign that your system is in a low or run-down condition inviting disease. It is a warning, which it is wise to heed. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old standard tried and true blood medicine relieves that tired feeling. It cleanses the blood, gives new life, new courage, strength and cheerfulness. It makes the rich, red blood that will make you feel, look, eat and sleep better. Be sure to get Hood's, because it is the best. There is no other combination of roots, herbs and herbs like it—no real substitute for it—no "just-as-good" medicine.

OBITUARY

Death of Mr. A. E. Wiles, of Wiles & Quinlan.

It is with very great regret, a regret which will be shared by citizens generally, that the Courier records the death of Mr. Albert E. Wiles, 181 Chatham street, member of the office of Wiles and Quinlan, of the Big 22.

Although not well, Mr. Wile, attended to business as late as Friday, and on returning home his symptoms became most acute. He was taken to the hospital and operated upon in a last chance to save his life, but did not recover from the shock, and slept peacefully away on Sunday morning.

Deceased was born in Brantford, and had resided here all his life. As a youth, he entered the employ of Mr. Jenkins, who many years ago ran a tailoring establishment here. Then he went to Stanley & Robertson's, of which firm he was for many years. Like Mr. Quinlan, a valued employee, and some seven years ago the two acquired the business from Mr. Stanley, Major Robertson having previously withdrawn. They had since conducted a most successful business together.

Mr. Wiles was a clean type of man, thoroughly conscientious in all his dealings, and he was deservedly held in the very highest respect by everyone. He was an ardent member of the Wellington St. Church, and a member of the Masonic fraternity. Lawn bowling was his favorite diversion in his leisure hours, and he was a very popular member of the Pastime club. A fine citizen, fond husband and devoted father, has been called to his reward.

He leaves to mourn his great loss a sorrowing widow and daughter, Helen, an aged mother, Mrs. Wiles, 135 Charlotte street, two sisters, Miss Hannah Wiles and Miss Hattie Wiles, both of this city, and four brothers, Stephen, Toronto; John, Brantford; Robert, Brantford and Charles, Chicago.

To Mr. Quinlan, his passing also comes as a severe loss, as in addition to partners, they were also very sincere and close friends.

The bereaved are in the very tender thoughts of a large circle of friends.

CANADIAN BIG GAME AT HOME

THE camera brings the features of big game and their haunts to our eyes. All along the Rocky Mountains strange wild beasts roam in abundance. Many of them are not familiar to the human eye at all, but there are others with which every sportsman is acquainted. Perhaps there is no place in the Dominion so interesting from the point of view of the hunter as the Canadian Pacific Rockies with their majestic snow-capped peaks, 45 of which are over 11,000 feet high. At Banff there is a big National Park where nobody may intrude in pursuit of game, for a wise Government has decided that big game must not be hunted indiscriminately, and has instituted laws for their protection. But outside the preserve the hunter is free to enjoy his sport, and there is plenty of it to be had: the grizzly bear, mountain goat, wild mountain sheep and lynx in these parts. In the open seasons many a party sets out with guides and ponies from Banff. The spring is the best time to hunt the grizzly bear when his fur is still thick after the winter's sleep. Often it is difficult to bag him, but his skin is a trophy of which any hunter may be proud. It is a pretty sight to watch a wild goat as he stands on some cliff seemingly admiring the picturesqueness of the landscape that lies beneath him. While in pursuit of the Rocky Mountain goat the hunter has to take some serious risks; he has to ascend precipitous crags hanging on almost by the skin of his teeth. The goat can dash along from rock to rock with the same graceful ease and velocity as that displayed by a bird travelling from twig to twig on some adjacent tree. But it is the danger and excitement of the chase that gives the hunter the greatest delight. It is as difficult to shoot the bighorn or wild mountain sheep. After feasting himself on the lowlands in the grey early morning the bighorn ascends to the fastnesses of the mountains. It is almost an impossible task for the hunter to get within range, and if ever he does get there he must not make the least noise or show himself for the bighorn is both hard to observe, and when he is startled once there is little chance of again coming into close quarters with him. The bighorn's flesh is pronounced by epicures to be most delicious and his horns make very beautiful ornaments. In its easy coat of soft ashy grey fur the lynx seems to be like a cat and he certainly is of the cat family. He is rather pretty, and though not such a prize trophy for the sportsman as some of the bigger forest neighbours, he is always welcome to a rifle bullet.

The Situation

Violent artillery duels are still the order of the day in connection with the Verdun offensive. Time was at the commencement of hostilities when the Huns had a marked preponderance in connection with this phase of operations, but it is not so now, and their big guns are answered in good style.

The Russian official report states that the troops of the Czar are forcing the Germans along the Dvina front. Berlin does not admit this, but concedes that very fierce assaults have been delivered by the foe. It is safe to take the Petrograd version as the correct one.

The French authorities have no doubt whatever that the Sussex was struck by a torpedo. Americans were among the victims, and some more notes from Washington may be expected.

British seaplanes have been busy off the coast of Schleswig-Holstein. This territory was at one time part of the Danish dominions, and was stolen from them by the Huns in 1864.

Lord Shaughnessy's Speech

The Courier elsewhere in this issue gives in detail what Lord Shaughnessy recently said before the Montreal Board of Trade with reference to recruiting in Canada.

There has been a good deal of criticism with reference to his utterances, and, the Courier thinks, just criticism. The President of the C.P.R. is a big man mentally, and has a plus quantity of determination and energy. It is equally certain that he is heart and soul with the Empire in this struggle, but a very great many will take issue with him when he claims that recruiting in Canada should have "moved more slowly."

Lord Shaughnessy thinks that the Dominion cannot produce the 500,000 men asked for by Premier Borden. Why not? This city and county have already done more than their proportion of such a total, and are now starting on still another battalion. It is true that Montreal, where Shaughnessy was speaking, and Quebec have not commenced to do their share, but that fact should not have jaundiced his vision with regard to the rest of the Dominion.

Lord Shaughnessy has proved himself a great business and railroad man, but his call to go slow in the matter of recruiting is, in the opinion of this paper, a jarring note sounded at a most inopportune time.

The Railway Matter

In an interview in the Courier on Saturday, Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., called attention to a matter of the utmost concern to Brantford. The outcome was the calling of a special meeting of the City Council this morning. The facts are these:

The Canadian Northern Railway are seeking the extension of the line of a charter for a line from Port Colborne to Fort Erie, from Fort Erie to the city of Niagara Falls, from Niagara Falls to St. Catharines, from St. Catharines to Welland, and hence to the city of Brantford, with an extension to the city of Toronto or near Hamilton. They have already spent some $2,000,000 on the enterprise and, as far as Brantford is concerned, have acquired the right-of-way to a point not far from Cainsville. Their well-known object is to secure important connections with lines in the States. However, war conditions have resulted in a halt in connection with the operations.

Along comes Sir Adam Beck with a Hydro-Electric Railway scheme, and he wants the renewal of the Canadian Northern charter refused because he desires a large part of the territory covered for his own project. The latter is an excellent scheme, but it ignores Brantford and BRANT COUNTY IN THEIR ENTIRETY. The proposed Hydro plan does not touch either one of them.

It is a case of another big railway for Brantford and a large part of Brant County, with this city as the terminus, versus another railway project in which both Brantford and Brant county are left out.

Yet under these circumstances Mayor Bowly (surely without due consideration) sent word to Mr. Cockshutt asking him to oppose the Canadian Northern renewal, and a night telegram to the chairman of said committee vigorously protesting against the C.N.R. proposal.

In other words, the messages authorized the knocking of a scheme of very great advantage to the city and county, in order to serve the ends of another project which ignores this city and county entirely.

It is the sulphuretted gas business over again, only in another form.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Kingston has decided on a tax rate for this year of 28 mills. Begins to look, after all, as if the rate likely to be struck for Brantford will be lower than for most of the smaller cities.

Even allied nations are conferring in Paris to-day. It will now be in order for some crank who delights in such things to claim that Wordsworth had the prophetic eye when he wrote the poem, "We Are Seven."

Help a scheme which ignores this community and knock another which recognizes it, has been Mayor Bowly's course in the railway matter.

The cowardly attack on the Sussex was fully worthy of the best traditions of Humanism.

CAPTAIN OF SUSSEX

Washington, March 27.—Definite information regarding the sinking of the Steamship Englishman and the damaging by explosion of the Channel Steamer Sussex were anxiously awaited by President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing to-day. This information was momentarily expected from American consular officers in England and France.

If it is established that either of the vessels was torpedoed by a German submarine, the United States would regard the act as a most flagrant violation of the rights of humanity, the principles of international law and of assurances given by Germany regarding the conduct of submarine warfare. Until all the facts do reach here, however, the administration will reserve judgment, although there is no attempt to minimize the gravity of the situation should it develop that either of the disasters was due to a submarine attack and that American lives were lost.

Latest official information at the state department was a despatch from the American embassy at London, forwarding affidavits from Edward S. Huxley and Francis E. Drake, New York survivors, swearing that the explosion on the Sussex occurred "without the slightest warning," and crediting the ship's commander with a BITTER COMPLAINT.

New York, March 27.—Germany's worthless word "if" is the heading of an editorial in this morning's World. It says:

"Is any statement of policy or assurance of regard for law emanating from Berlin to be accepted in good faith. Is the German government or any agent of the German Government to be believed? The submarine controversy has reached a point where the words of Germany, written or spoken, appear to be worthless. German disavowals mean nothing. German promises are disregarded. German excuses are cynicisms."

"By the recent destruction without warning of the channel packet, Sussex and other British, French and neutral liners, every pledge made by Germany to the United States has been broken. There is no pretense that these vessels were armed or attempted escape. Not one of them was stopped and searched and passengers and crew removed. Several of them carried American citizens, some of them lost their lives. Even admitting that mines may have caused a few of these disasters, the presence of submarines in most instances is well established, and, in any case, the mines having been sown by Germany contrary to law, the guilt is the same."

The Times says: "Self-respect and the imperative law of self-preservation will forbid further keeping up of the ghastly pretense that we are in friendly relations with a power that, notwithstanding our many protests and in violation of its own promises, continues to de-

GOOD SUGGESTION

Dear Sir:—Why is it that at our Canadian recruiting meetings we never hear that classic composition, "O Canada"? As a protection against forest fires in the Canadian Rockies the Canadian Pacific use oil burning engines beyond Field. The illustrations of "Lumbering in the Muskoka" tell their own story, but it will not be uninteresting to narrate that the lumbering season begins about the time the snow begins to fall. Then the trees are lightened by the loss of their foliage. When the trees are cut down and divided into logs suitable for the length of the boards into which they are to be sawed at the mill, the

CHAMPION WILLARD
BEAT MORAN EASILY

Title-holder Was Never in Danger, Although He Broke His Finger in Second Round—First Round Was Even,
But Others were in Jess' Favor—Moran Was Game,
But Was Outfought at all Points.

New York, March 27.—Jess Willard, the champion pugilist of the world by outfighting Frank Moran in Madison Square Garden Saturday night. He won despite the fact that he broke his right hand in the second round. Willard not merely too big and strong for Moran, he was vastly too clever. Round by round he jabbed and uppepercuted his smaller opponent almost at will, though unable to land a knockout punch. The first round, when Willard, much softer, faster and higher-stomached than his friends would have had the public believe, was a little nervous, was even, but every other round was the giant cowboy's by a big margin.

By no possible analysis could the result have been figured as anything but an overwhelming triumph for the champion. There were times when it seemed almost pitiful for Moran to keep charging into the pile-driver fists of Willard's. Moran never had a chance. In two rounds, so the experts believed, Willard, given two good hands, would have beaten Moran insensible to the canvas.

Second round.—Willard came up cool and jabbed two lefts to face and a right three times to the jaw. Moran refused to break ground and rushed in, swinging a right to head. Moran jabbed a left to the mouth. The men sparred for 30 seconds. Willard put Moran on the ropes with a solid right. Frank tried a rush, but Jess just stuck his left out and Moran ran against it. Moran never let up and kept forcing but the champion easily ducked and laughed at Moran. Jess hooked two rights at the bell. Willard's round.

Third round.—Willard let Moran come to him. When Frank tried a rush Jess blocked and planted a terrific right to the wind and put the challenger on the ropes. Moran sent the left and right to the face. Moran jabbed a few more lefts to the jaw. In-fighting followed, Jess getting in two left uppepercutes to the mouth and sending a terrific right to Moran's left eye, cutting it. Moran sent a left to the shoulder at the bell. Willard's round.

Fourth round.—Moran poked left to body, his second appearing apertly astonishing—almost macabrous, and the joy is its harmlessness. A large fifty-cent case of Fape's Diaprepain will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night, it's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.

CANADIAN LEAGUE
FUTURE UNCERTAIN

A Meeting Will be Held Here on Thursday to Take Definite Action.

London, Ont., March 27.—London and Guelph alone were represented at a meeting of Canadian League magnates called to discuss the prospects for next season here Saturday. Little progress was accordingly made, but another session is to be held on Thursday next in Brantford in response to a request of Tom Nelson of that city.

A scheme to bring some of the clubs of the old South Michigan League in with the west-end clubs of the Canadian circuit for a new six or club combination was discussed. This proposal is to use Hamilton, Brantford, London and Guelph of the Canadian circuit for a new six or club combination was discussed. This proposal is to use Hamilton, Brantford, London and Guelph of the Canadian circuit for a new six or club combination was discussed.

One of London's directors argued that the Canadian League should be allowed to rest for a year under the arrangement proposed a year ago by the governing body, which proposed to allow clubs to retain players and franchises for a year were such an interruption necessary. Players in the meantime would be allowed to sign up elsewhere, but would be compelled to return to their owners in the Canadian League upon resumption of operations.

Hamilton wired after the close of the meeting stating that the desire there is to look up the circuit for a year in the hope that the war would terminate before another season comes around.

President Fitzgerald, who has resigned to accept a commission on overseas service, communicated with the magnates by letter. He explained that the reserve of about $2,000 built up in the second and third years of operation had been used up last year, mainly because four of the clubs had failed to pay over the league's share of the gate receipts. There is a small deficiency which the clubs are expected to assume pro rata.

Nelson, of Brantford, in his message requesting a meeting in his city, Thursday, promised attendance of delegates from Brantford, London, Guelph and Hamilton. It is expected that the Michigan plan will be offered in definite form. Notwithstanding this move there is a pretty well defined idea in London that there will be no pro. ball here this year.

Stanley Cup Players
Will Divide $4,950

Montreal, March 27.—With the three games of the series for the world's professional hockey championship and possession of the Stanley Cup, from which the players received their share, decided the amount to go to the winners and losers can be estimated. The total receipts from the three games did not amount to as much as was looked for, the paid admissions amounting to $11,500, the receipts of the Saturday night game being far in advance of the previous two.

Canadiens Won
From Portland

Montreal, March 27.—By defeating the Portland Rosebuds at the Montreal Arena Saturday night the Canadiens placed to their credit two of the three games played so far for the Stanley Cup. The score Saturday night was 3 to 3, and the game was one of the liveliest ever witnessed in this city. The local team was on the aggressive from the start. The visiting scoring was confined to the first two periods, Canadiens having a one goal at the conclusion of the second, and easily outplaying Portland in the third. Besides being a good exhibition of hockey, the game developed into a free fight, which was stopped by Chief Moffat of the Westmount police force and one of his constables. Lalonde backchecked Irvine when Johnson knocked Lalonde down and went at him with his fists, being joined in the assault by Oatman. There was a sort of "come all ye," players of both sides taking part with their sticks until the police interfered. Oatman and Johnson were benched, and the game was resumed with Portland thus handicapped. The teams:

Portland—Goal, Murray; defence, Johnson and Irvine; centre, Oatman; wings, Harris and Tobin.
Canadiens—Goal, Vezina; defence, McNamara and Corbeau; centre, Lalonde; wings, Pitre and Laviolette.

Leafs Will Play Nine
Exhibition Games

Toronto, March 27.—President McCaffery announced on Saturday the following arrangement of dates for the Spring training trip of the Toronto ball club:
April 3—Report at Jersey City.
April 10—Brooklyn club at Brooklyn.
April 12—Easton, Pa.
April 14 and 15—Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
April 19—Springfield, Mass. (two games)
April 20—Hartford, Conn.
April 21 and 22—Bridgeport, Conn.
April 27—Opening season at Newark.

Monarchs Won 7 to 3
From N. Y. Crescents

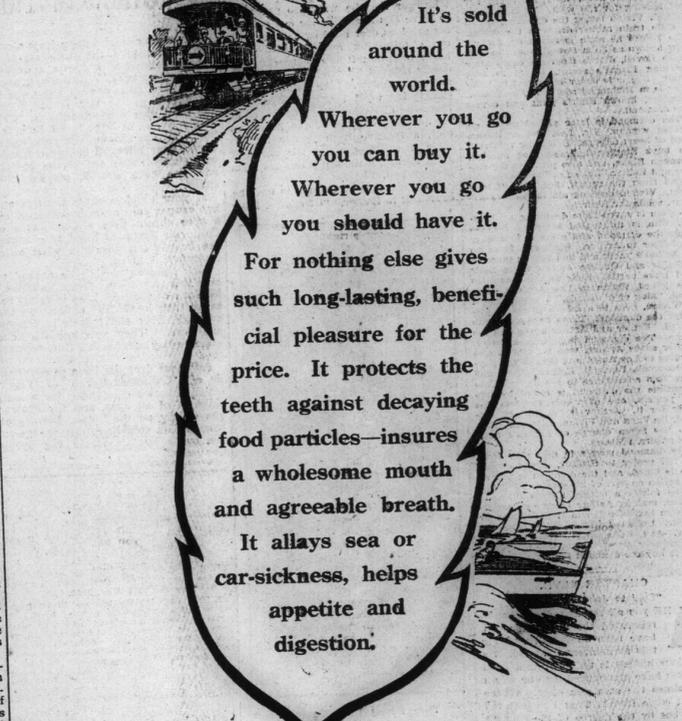

New York, March 27.—It would seem Canadian amateur hockey teams can still show the native variety of few points judging from Saturday night's game at the St. Nicholas rink, when the Monarchs, of Winnipeg, defeated the Crescent Athletic Club's seven by a score of 7 goals to 3.

The visitors outskated the New Mooners, handled their sticks with greater effect, and their goal shooting was more accurate. In addition, the Monarchs passed the puck with such speed, and with baffling frequency, that the Crescents never knew just where the disc was going next.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

A feud has existed between Colonel Arthur Stanley and his cousin, Judge Lane Stanley, over an heirloom, the diamond from the sky, found in a fallen meteor by an ancestor. Also, the succession to the Stanley estate in England may come to an American. When a daughter is born to the colonel and the mother dies, the colonel buys a gypsy boy and substitutes him. Three years later the gypsy mother, having had no part in this bargain, steals the girl, Esther, reared in secret, and leaves her son undetected as the heir. The gypsy has obtained possession of the diamond from the sky, and a document with the Stanley secret. Years later Hagar, Dr. Lee, the late Colonel Stanley's friend, adopts Esther. Arthur Stanley, son of Hagar, falls in love with Esther, and does his companion and cousin, Blair Stanley, rightful male heir of Stanley, stealing the diamond Blair causes the death of the doctor and tries later to put the blame on Arthur, who takes the girl. Arthur Stanley eludes his pursuers and John Hagar, who reveals his identity and absconds him for his wild life. Needing money, he pawns the diamond in Richmond. At a ball, at which an adventure, Vivian Marston, wears the borrowed gem, Luke Lovell, Hagar's gypsy guard, steals the diamond. Arthur leaves Richmond and goes to the west. Quasba, organ grinder, befriends Esther. Tom Blake, a detective of Richmond, who is hired by Hagar, produces finger prints convicting Blair. Hagar proposes silence to Mrs. Stanley as the price of Hagar's and Esther's being received in Fairfax society. Blair strikes down Hagar and steals the diamond again, leaving the gypsy queen, dependent, marmalade and a message, to announce Arthur's whereabouts to the deceased Earl of Stanley. Learning Arthur is a fugitive he seeks Blair instead. To save Vivian, Blair sends the diamond, later marrying her and leaving for the west. Their train is robbed, Vivian losing the diamond, which a slain train robber drops in the desert. The $100,000 he stole is found by Arthur, now known as John Powell, sheep herder. Luke Lovell, driven from his camp after learning Hagar's secret, leaves to seek Blair. Hagar is under treatment and Esther is in Richmond society. Abe Bloom, gambler, knows Blair's guilt and covets the diamond.

The diamond is later picked up by an Indian woman. Dr. Lee, Arthur learns, has been killed. Becoming very rich, he buys Stanley hall, sold at auction, through Blake, and also provides for Hagar and Esther. Luke Lovell, who has been freed from the squat, but loses it in a fight. Vivian, desiring aid to ensnare Arthur, needs for Blair.

Vivian is saved from drowning by Powell, who is infatuated by her. Smythe steals the diamond and gives it to Esther so deliver to Arthur. Blair and Luke go to Arthur's yacht and find Esther there. Esther and Quasba escape while Blair and Luke battle. Blair in the meantime has joined Vivian in Los Angeles. Durand, "king of diamonds", a crook known to Vivian, goes to a saloon to try to discover the diamond. There he meets Luke Lovell. Esther and Arthur appear on the scene. The diamond is lost in a melee. Esther saves Arthur, who is injured, and he goes to Los Angeles in care of the physician-crook, Durand. Esther follows and is refused admittance to see him in the meantime the diamond is found by two bill posters, one of whom murders the other for it. Arthur is "doped" by Durand, De Vaux and Vivian, although Blair, who has taken charge of Arthur's business affairs, protests.

The diamond passes in dice play from the bill poster to Santley, circus owner, who is killed, and the diamond is put up at auction as part of his estate. Blair and Vivian finally a resignation from Blake to Arthur, making Arthur believe he suffered from hallucination in thinking he saw Esther. Luke is "railroaded" to prison by Blair. At the auction is Homer Graydon, an aged admirer of Vivian, who has promised to buy the diamond for her.

CHAPTER XLVII.

"Sold to John Powell!"

"ARE you all through, gentlemen?" reiterated the auctioneer. "I have been offered $70,000 for this magnificent diamond. Its previous history is unknown, but local experts have pronounced it to be worth ten times the sum you offer. Where did it come from? That I cannot tell you, but by the decree of the court it is adjudged an asset of the Santley circus, bankrupt. As such the purchaser's title will be valid. Am I offered any more? Seventy thousand, seventy thousand, seventy thousand!" cried Homer Graydon, wealthy spendthrift that he was, gress ashen faced. Seventy thousand dollars would tax him to raise, but Vivian Marston gave him an alluring smile, and as his pride was also at stake, he made an effort to stifle back at Vivian and nodded to John Powell as if to say, "Go higher if you can!"

The rival bidder laughed recklessly. Once more he felt all the daring carelessness of his wild youth as Arthur Stanley of Stanley Hall.

"Eighty thousand!" he cried.

Vivian was in a flutter of unholly delight to realize she was the inspiration of the money mad rivalry between John

Powell and Homer Graydon as they eagerly bid for the bauble that had been a talisman of death.

"Eighty thousand I am bid by Mr. Powell!" chanted the auctioneer. "Come, come, Mr. Graydon. Do not let superstition stop you. The lion would have killed the lady and the jealous husband would have killed Sam Santley even had this diamond not figured in the case perhaps. All great diamonds have their dramatic history. Remember the Kohinoor and Orloff diamonds. This diamond may be a lucky stone for all we know despite what has happened."

Arthur knew better. Blair knew better, and so did Vivian and the English lawyer, Smythe. So did Durand, the international diamond thief and swindler, the dapper Count de Vaux. But Homer Graydon only knew that Vivian Marston's favor depended on the diamond.

"Eighty-five thousand dollars!" he cried; then he gulped and grew ashen. To raise $85,000 cash to pay for this bauble to give a woman would be his ruin.

"Ninety thousand!" cried John Powell.

Homer Graydon gave the auctioneer a negative jerk of the head in reply to his inquiring gaze.

"Ninety thousand! Ninety thousand! Are you all done? Ninety thousand, once! Ninety thousand, twice! Ninety thousand, for the last time!" He paused. "Going, going, gone! Sold to Mr. John Powell for $90,000!"

Arthur scribbled a check as the crowd buzzed and swayed around him. Vivian gave a hysterical laugh and clutched Arthur by the arm as the auctioneer handed him the diamond from the sky. Then as the purchaser and his little coterie of friends passed through the dispersing crowd Vivian deliberately and turned her back upon him.

In her room at her modest hotel Esther debated nervously with herself.

The rank injustice done Luke, who had been railroaded to prison by the influence of Blair Stanley and Frank Durand while Arthur had never interfered made her more bitter than she had been at the strange attitude Arthur had taken toward her since his recovery from his injuries. Rumors that his mind was affected as a result of his hurts were rife in Los Angeles, where those who had formerly called him "the golden man," now designated Arthur as "John Powell, the mad millionaire."

For herself she would never again intrude upon Arthur, surrounded as he was by sycophants and parasites who worked him evil. But for Luke Lovell, done a great injustice, she would make one last appeal before she returned to Richmond and Hagar. The remorse and contrition of Luke that he had never been distoyal to her and Hagar, Esther felt genuine. She determined to take the English lawyer Smythe into her confidence, and found occasion to send Quasba to Smythe with a message.

Lawyer Smythe was also preparing to leave Los Angeles. He had shipped his precious deer head by express with much misgiving and foreboding of harm befalling it ere it reached his dearly beloved England, where he was shortly to follow. Like Esther, the eccentric but loyal English lawyer was becoming discouraged and dismayed at the puzzling conduct of the American heir, a fugitive from justice in Virginia, flourishing under the name of John Powell, a thousand leagues from Stanley Hall, Virginia.

"I confess it is an enigma to me," he explained to Esther. "Of course, Blair

They Found Luke Contrite.

Stanley, as the next in succession, cannot become the Earl of Stanley so long as Arthur Stanley lives. That Arthur Stanley lives under another name only adds to the confusion of the whole badly thing!"

Then Esther told him about Luke, and because he had kindly heart in his queer body the English lawyer accompanied Esther to the prison on a visiting day. They found Luke contrite and tender both toward Esther and his gypsy sovereign, Hagar. He begged to be remembered to Hagar and that she be assured that once he was out of prison and had his revenge he would return to the tribe and serve Hagar faithfully as head man again. But

Willard and Moran Describe Their Battle

New York, March 27.—Willard showing the broken index finger on his right hand said: "That broken finger prevented me from stopping Moran in the fight. I broke the finger early in the second round when I started an uppercut which ended on Moran's elbow. After that it must have been noticeable that I did not use my right much except for defence. My left, however, seemed to do enough damage. I was not in distress at any time nor was I forced to extend myself. I found Moran easier than I expected. As I predicted before the fight, Moran could not reach me. I must get the hand fixed up now. I have no idea what plans I will lay for the future."

In his dressing room after the battle, Frank Moran said: "I think I am entitled to the decision. If it had not been for the fact that Moran had been there, that cut over the right eye was a glaring blow which took the skin off. It stung. In fact it was the only time during the fight that I was hurt. Willard is not a hard hitter. I took more punishment from Jack Johnson in four minutes than Willard gave me in the whole fight. Over a longer route nothing would suit me better, I am sure I could win handily in a longer fight. I feel I could keep right on going now."

Frank Moran, in his heart, still thinks Willard but a slight obstacle in his path to fame and fortune.

Fitzgerald Gives Up Canadian League Job

Toronto, March 27.—President J. P. Fitzgerald resigned on Saturday as head of the Canadian League. His chief reason for taking this step is that he has no time to look after the position on account of his military duties.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait, give the little stomach-liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or get any thing, or if he has a stomach-ach, sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food, will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has a cold, give a few drops of California Syrup of Figs to evacuate the bowels no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because it keeps their children's stomachs, liver and bowels in prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

DEMONSTRATES THAT AIR CAN BE BURNED

Many Citizens are Watching Demonstrations of New Heating Science.

A Courier man had a chance to look over the Bates air burner this morning in a little store at 10 Queen street. It is a stove of about the same type that they usually use in stations in the smaller places and the room is heated by suffocation. The door is open most of the time. The burner itself is a simple looking affair, just like a couple of coils-in fact it very much resembles a large gas burner, circular in shape. This is attached to the inside of the stove or furnace, over the fire pot, and in no way interferes with the putting on of coal. A pipe leads from it to the outside of the stove, through which air is drawn into the stove and sprayed over the fire, forming complete combustion with the gases being given off from the coal, and, which, in the ordinary way, simply pass off and go up the smoke pipe.

It is the claim of the inventor, Mr. Bates, that the coal burned in the ordinary way, gives to the consumer less than one-third of the heat that the coal really contains. Any man who has had much experience with a furnace will rise up to second that motion. He claims that by bringing in the air, as the burner does, he is
