You Can Make Better Foods For The Children With "Beaver" Flour Than You Can Buy

Next to a returning Arctic Explorer, the hungriest mortal on earth is a growing boy. He is always ravenous. "He will eat anything". But why should he?

Right now is the time when his parent should be most particular about his food—to prevent injudicious eating and to protect him against unsuitable food.

Good, home-made bread, made of "Beaver" Flour—light, flaky biscuits made of "Beaver" Flour—these are real foods for growing children. "Beaver" Flour is a blended flour. That is, it is made of exact proportions of nutritious, beautifully flavored Ontario Fall Wheat and a smaller proportion of the stronger Western Spring Wheat.

It is both a bread flour and a pastry flour—and makes the real nutty flavored home-made bread and delicious pastry such as cannot be made with any purely Western Wheat Flour.

Just try "Beaver" Flour—and see for yourself how thoroughly satisfactory and dependable it is for all kinds of baking. Your grocer sells "Beaver" Flour or can get it for you. Dealers—Write us for prices on Feed, Coarse Grains and Cereals.

Love a Conqueror

WEDDED AT LAST.

CHAPTER LII.

It was a weary time for all, this long struggle between life and death. Sir Hugh's constitution was naturally a strong one, or he would have succumbed long before, and his frame offered a desperate resistance to the inroads of disease. Neither Mr. Lipton nor the prison surgeon gave any hope, or had any fear—since by far the greatest mercy to him would be death—that he would recover; but there was an acknowledged dread in their minds that he might linger on until the sessions, and so stand his trial. Shirley had no such dread; she seemed certain that he would die before the time appointed for the next sessions, and that he would pass on to that wiser judgment which can never err.

Sir Hugh Glynn's arrest and imprisonment caused a great excitement in the fashionable world—a far greater excitement indeed than his supposed murder had caused. The whole story was so romantic and mysterious, so many rumors were afloat about the strange circumstances of his marriage and the reason of the unfortunate valet's power over him, that the sensational papers reaped a splendid harvest and their contributors were at no loss for matter. Hardly a day passed but some new and startling facts, facts which had but very slight foundation, were brought to light, and Lady Glynn's beauty and grace and strange disappearance and stranger reappearance were widely commented upon. It might have troubled Shirley had she read all these thrilling paragraphs; but she never glanced at a newspaper during these sad days. Her whole thoughts were given to the dying man, dying with such a stain upon a name which had been honored, dying the last representative of an ancient and noble family, in a prison cell!

But, great as the excitement was in the great world, it was hardly greater than Lady Eastwell's sorrow, at the thought that she had been indirectly the means of Sir Hugh's arrest. At first her knowledge of the circumstances of Shirley's marriage and of Latrelle's part therein had made her suspect that the latter knew more of the murder than had transpired. There had been no mention of his name at Guy's trial; but, after Major Stuart's acquittal, which had incensed Alice, who firmly believed him guilty, she had set the cleverest detectives to work to discover Latrelle's whereabouts. That he was an accomplice was not impossible, she thought; she knew him as a daring and unscrupulous man, and she felt sure that if he could be found he would throw some light upon the subject. How the detectives succeeded she now knew; they had thought to find Latrelle when Sir Hugh gave himself up as the murderer, and Guy's innocence was clearly proved.

Alice was almost despairing when the tidings reached her. She had loved Sir Hugh Glynn as well as it was possible for her to love anyone, and she had hated Guy as his murderer with a bitter vindictive hatred. That Shirley—who, after all, had done her cousin no wrong—should suffer troubled her little; and even at the time of the murder her sorrow at Sir Hugh's fate had been greatly lessened by the thought that the death should be atoned for. But now, when all had come to light, the wretched woman saw how greatly mistaken she had been, and how cruelly she had wronged Major Stuart and Shirley, and she saw in the full light of day into what a fatal abyss her jealousy of Shirley had plunged her, and her grief was very profound.

The thought of Sir Hugh dying in a prison haunted her day and night; and even a letter which, at her husband's request, Shirley wrote to her gave her but little consolation. In a few gently worded earnest lines Lady Glynn begged her, in her husband's name and her own, not to regret what she had done, for it had been Sir Hugh's fixed intention to give himself up to justice. She was in no way to blame, and she must not blame herself for a moment. Sir Hugh was quite at peace," the note said, and they sometimes talked of the old days at Fairholme Court. And the letter ended with an earnest entreaty for forgiveness for the shame he had brought upon all those in any way connected with him, and with every kind wish for her happiness and her husband's.

Alice read it with floods of bitter repentant tears and her agitation and excitement were such that they brought on an attack of low fever. As soon as she was convalescent, Lord Eastwell took her abroad; and the illness was the beginning of a happier life for him, for his imperious wife grew gentler and humbler, and her suffering did not bear only bitter fruit, but the flowers of charity and gentleness and patience bloomed in her heart.

At Easton the strange revelation was read with mingled feelings, and Lucie Grey—now the happy wife of her father's curate, an earnest, single-minded young clergyman of good means who worked as a labor of love but it was very pleasant to Shirley Ada was abroad with her husband; but it was very pleasant to Shirley to renew her old friendship with those who had been so good to her in her misery, who had seemed then to be her only friends.

So the days became weeks, and February set in, cold and snowy. In March the sessions would come round; but before March another visitor came to the quiet cell, a visitor the shadow of whose wings had hovered long above it.

It was drawing near the hour for Shirley's daily visit, and the fire was burning cheerily in the little grate. Guy Stuart was sitting by the bed on which Sir Hugh lay dressed—he always insisted on being dressed, although the process was a slow and exhausting one. He was raised upon pillows and breathing with great difficulty, and the dews of a great agony were upon his brow; but he was easier now, although the last paroxysm of coughing had been terrible, and had shaken him with horrible violence, and he was but half conscious for a time.

Presently he turned his languid eyes upon Guy, and a little gleam-like smile lighted them for a moment. Lighted them, then faded.

"It is almost her time, is it not?" he said feebly.

"Yes, dear old fellow, only a few moments more."

"It will be the last time, Guy. Nay, don't look so grieved, old friend. Why should you? It is better as it is. Lift me a little—I can talk more easily so; and I have something to say to you before she comes."

Guy raised him gently, with all a woman's tenderness in his strong hands, and as he did so Hugh's blue eyes went to his face with a look of grateful affection.

"Dear Guy," he said unsteadily, "how good you have been to me all my life long! I won't say anything more about forgiveness, old friend, because you have proved how completely you have forgiven. Let me tell you rather what visions I have seen, what dreams I have dreamed, while I have been lying sleepless here."

His weak hands clasped the strong fingers more closely, his eyes, with the same fond gratitude, rested still upon his friend's face; but Guy's own eyes grew very dim and his lips quivered as he listened.

"I have seen in the future, Guy," he said softly, "a vision which has brightened all this long dreary path which I have been treading—it has been long and dreary, even with your presence and her smile to lighten the road, Guy; so what would it have been without them? I have seen a happy home brightened by mutual love and joy and peace, a home where I am not forgotten, but where I am remembered sometimes with compassion and pity—ah, don't interrupt me, Guy! Is it not better to be remembered thus than recalled with execration, which I merited? I see in this home old friend, two persons whom I have wronged, oh, so cruelly, but whom through all my madness I have loved and honored, and I see them perfectly happy in their mutual love and perfect trust! I see the husband—he has your face, Guy—strong, brave and true, loving and protecting, striving by a tenderness which never swerves or falters, to make his wife forget the misery she has suffered through me. I see the wife—she has a face whose loveliness made me mad once, old fellow—loving and honoring, trusting and looking up to a man worthy of all her tenderness, and making the sunshine of his life. It is such a pleasant picture that I should like to linger over it, Guy, but—I dare not!"

"Hugh, dear old friend, cease," Guy said gently, the tears standing in his gray eyes, his lips quivering almost beyond the power of speech.

Beautiful Wrinkles.

By RUTH CAMERON.

man of forty without a line on her face, is, to my mind, quite as unattractive and unnatural looking as a woman of twenty-five with a net-work of wrinkles.

Which is more beautiful? A blank piece of white paper or a piece of paper on which a poet has written a wonderful poem?

Which is more beautiful? A formless block of marble, or the same block of marble when it has been chiseled into a marvelous statue by a great sculptor?

Would you have the passing of your life leave your face as blank as a piece of white paper, or as formless and meaningless as a rough block of marble? The lines which appear in the faces of men and women who have passed their first youth are carried there by character. If the character itself is ugly, they may be ugly.

But, if the character is strong and beautiful they will be strong and beautiful, too. Of course, we are all afraid of ugly wrinkles. But that is no reason we should be afraid of the lines which express a character that is not ugly. And the way to avoid ugly wrinkles is not to try to fill them up with lotions or smooth them out with massage, but to avoid an ugly character.

It is very interesting to study the lines on people's faces. If you have never noticed them before, open your eyes to-morrow and look at them. There is a language of lines which anyone with interest in character study should learn to read.

The fine lines going down from the corners of the eyes are smile wrinkles. Similar lines slanting out and upward from the eyes, I am told, usually show a keen sense of humor. The only humorist I happen to know possesses them, and the pictures of Mark Twain show them.

The commonest, and usually the earliest wrinkles, are those coming horizontally on the forehead. They are the result of vivacity and much change of expression. Nervousness will also bring them sooner than they would otherwise appear. Horizontal wrinkles between the eyes are always unwelcome because they give the appearance of ill temper. They are sometimes the result of a bad disposition, but they can also be caused by near-sightedness or by long continued pain.

If space permitted I might tell you a good deal more of this language of wrinkles, as I read it. But since space does not permit, suppose you take up the book of human life which is always open to you and read for yourself.

Ruth Cameron

Ponderous Personages.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Some men have been elected to public office because of their skill in oratory and some, because of their bravery in war. But Adrian Constantine Anson is one of the few men who have been elected to office because of their batting averages.

Anson was once only an ordinary boy playing ball in the pastures of Marshalltown, Iowa. This was in the early thirties, before the National Commission on the World's Series had been thought of and long before the doctor came down to Christy Matthewson's father and whispered "It's a boy."

Before Anson was twenty, he was batting the ball so far that only the most skillful pedestrians would consent to play in "fielders' positions" against him. He was often hired by ambitious towns to produce home runs at critical moments and soon took this up as a life work. In the early eighties he was captain of the Chicago baseball team and soon became more famous than President Arthur.

Year after year Anson presided at first base on this celebrated team, scooping up all balls which came within hailing distance of him. When not first basing, he was usually at the plate editing and publishing those celebrated extra base hits, which enabled the Chicago team to win the championship so often that your team, which took second place in the season against it, was considered to be the wonder of the year. Anson was big and wide in the shoulders and, after he had played a season or two, the buildings near the Chicago ball-grounds looked like Port Arthur after the Jap bombardment. They are still digging baseballs out of brick walls and trees where Anson used to drive them during the league season.

For many years Anson continued to lead the Chicago team and the rest of the world in batting. He grew so old and stout that they had to tow him around the bases on castors, but still he continued to bat 400 with ease and grace. Finally, in the nineties he retired because of old age and was elected City Clerk of Chicago as a fitting tribute to the feeble old veteran.

Almost twenty years have elapsed since Anson retired at a tremendous baseball age. He is now a lively and husky young, middle-aged man and has a fine business career before him. The most attractive feature about baseball is that it enables a man to retire of old age twice in a life time.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you as any drug store.

These large 50-cent cases contain enough Pape's Diapepsin to keep up the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.

University Bootblacks.

Columbia University publishes a report which illustrates one of the greatest differences between English and American college life. The report deals with the vacation earnings of students. It appears that 402 men made over $10,000.

One man was successively boot black, mason, plasterer and painter and agricultural labourer. Another worked in a land agent's office all day and over the counter of an ice-cream emporium by night. Another personally conducted a party to Europe. Another was mate on a yacht. Another looked after caddies on a golf course. Another worked as a milkman, and so on.

This habit is universal throughout the United States. Columbia itself is one of the best American Universities, and even at Yale and Harvard means is by no means the only means adopted by men who sometimes have to find all their college expenses, or at least materially to supplement an exiguous allowance.

Household Notes

To bake potatoes quickly, clean and pour boiling water over them, and let stand on the stove five or ten minutes before putting them in the oven.

Iodine is a healing remedy for wounds caused by rusty nails. Such wounds, however, should have the attention of a physician from the start.

If eggs are to be stuffed, they must be put into cold water as soon as they are taken from the stove. This will keep the whites in better shape.

It will be found a simple matter to mend a hole in a small boy's trousers pocket if a darning egg is slipped into the pocket and the darning done over it.

If salt fish is required for immediate use, it will freshen much more quickly if soaked in milk instead of water. Sour milk will answer as well as sweet.

An outdoor cupboard will be found useful and economical during the winter weather. It will do away with the necessity for ice for quite a long time.

Mix stove polish with equal parts of household ammonia and turpentine and apply to the cool stove. Rub off with a soft woolen cloth. It gives a high polish.

An ostrich feather that has become incured from dampness may be cured again by sprinkling it thickly with common salt and shaking it before a bright fire.

The white mayonnaise prepared by foreign chefs calls for cream. Lemons and the white of egg, instead of the oil, vinegar and egg yolks of the ordinary mayonnaise.

Boiling vinegar will soften paint rushes that have become hard and dry. Allow them to simmer in the vinegar for ten minutes; afterward wash them in soapsuds.

Lemon syrup, made by baking a lemon for twenty minutes and then squeezing out the juice in half a cup of sugar, is excellent for hoarseness and to break up a cold.

After the cork of the glue bottle has been removed, do not use it again, but in its place insert a stump of a candle. It will not stick and the glue will not spill or get dry.

A cheesecloth bag with a drawing string in the top will be found a very satisfactory thing in which to keep bits of dry bread. The bag should be hung in a dry, airy place.

The following appears in the "Long Lost Relatives" column of Lloyds, London Weekly News: "From Nova Scotia—Andrew Butler would be glad to hear from his brother, John Butler, native of Carbonara, who served in Boer war, and was invalided, 1901-1902."

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years' Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompany the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, N. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my housework with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Bishops Debabs Obedience.

An interesting discussion has taken place in the Upper House of Canterbury Convocation on the Bishop of Lincoln's suggestion that the word OBEY should be omitted from the Marriage Service.

The Bishop finally withdrew his suggestion, because he said he did not think he would carry a large majority of the House with him in making the proposed alteration.

The Suggested Change.

The Bishop of Lincoln's proposal was to assimilate the question put to the woman to the question put to the man—namely, for "Wilt thou obey him and serve him, love, honour, and keep him," to substitute "Wilt thou love him, comfort him, honour, and keep him"; and to assimilate the pledge made by the woman to that made by the man—namely, for "in sickness and in health to love, cherish, and obey," to substitute "in sickness and in health to love and to cherish."

The Man in the Home

The Bishop of Winchester said he had not heard altogether with satisfaction of the Bishop of Lincoln's wish to withdraw his amendment. The Bishop was such an intrepid champion of any cause he took up that he was not likely to do what he had done without good reason and without feeling the wisdom of the course taken. He agreed it was a matter which interested a very large and increasing portion of the public—very largely the female portion, but not exclusively so. He could not help thinking, after what he had heard in that House about the traditional position and authority of the word "obey," which had not a position of antiquity or universality, that it was a regrettable thing that the word should continue.

In an ideal Marriage Service what he would desire to see would be some reference to the leadership of the man in the home. That seemed to him a part of the natural and Christian ideal of marriage and perfectly compatible with the full and indestructible spiritual equality of the two partners. If that revision came to pass he supposed it would stand as an historical landmark in the Church of England for some time to come. He would therefore hope that they might have later on an opportunity of considering the matter more fully, and that it would not be said that the Convocation of this next, or the following year had reaffirmed and insisted upon the Marriage Service in its unrevised state.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said he yielded to no one in his sense of the immense importance of the questions which were raised by the proposed change, and the greater importance of questions which might be raised by such a change. Although he knew nothing beforehand of the Bishop of Lincoln's intention to withdraw his amendment, he thought he had acted wisely in regarding it as more desirable to raise the questions involved on another occasion and in another way than upon the revision of rubrics which were not primarily concerned with the handling of great social problems. They were undoubtedly face to face with a discussion of the whole subject, of which that was part.

Two Heads Inconvenient.

The Bishop of Hereford said he was very conscious of the great difficulties which might arise if the word "obey" was omitted. It was obvious to everyone that it would be inconvenient to have two heads of a family. On the other hand, they had to remember that our Marriage Service was drawn up in accordance with a state of things which was admittedly very different from that which existed at present; that the relation of wife to husband had very largely changed; and it seemed to him that the time was not far off when it would become their duty to discuss such a question as the Bishop of Lincoln had put before them.

"The Premier Line."

Some interesting facts regarding the London and North-Western Railway, "The Premier Line," as it has been termed, are given by Mr. Wilfred L. Steel, in his history of that railway. When the London and North-Western was formed in 1846 by the amalgamation of several lines, the united undertaking possessed a capital exceeding £17,000,000 and 420 miles of line. By means of amalgamations, extensions, and leases the railway has expanded in all directions, and to-day possesses nearly 2,000 miles of line and a nominal capital exceeding £129,000,000. Mr. Steel says that the nearly entire mileage of the railway is equal to a journey round the world in every three hours, to the moon in twenty-nine hours, and to the sun in about fifteen and a half months. Crowded engine works occupy 137 acres of ground, the covered area being forty-eight acres.

Sir Richard Moon, who was chairman of the London and North-Western Railway for nearly thirty years, was one of the greatest British railway administrators. When Sir Richard assumed the chairmanship, the company was paying 4½ per cent. on its ordinary stock; when he resigned it was distributing 7 per cent. When he took up the reins of office the gross receipts were £4,479,414 for the year; when he laid them down the gross receipts were nearly £12,000,000 for the year.

It is interesting, by the way, to learn that a now great London newspaper-selling firm had its start on "The Premier Line." It was in 1851 that Mr. W. H. Smith secured his first contract for the supply of literature at London and North-Western stations, and laid the foundations of the enormous business which bears his name and which brought him a big fortune. He refused to sell any books that were in the least questionable, and was so careful in his selection of works that he soon became known as the "North-Western missionary."

Vessel Reported to Evening Telegram.

CAPE RACE, To-day.
Wind est. light with snow showers; no shipping sighted to-day; bar, 55.62; ther. 30.—An item appeared in the Daily Mail of the 8th referring to Baine Johnston and Co. complaining of their barq. Lake Simcoe not being reported from this station on March 7th. This is not correct, as the vessel was reported to the "Evening Telegram" on that date, the best that could be done under the circumstances, owing to her position being east of the Cape, wind being west it was impossible to distinguish her house flag and therefore we could not report her to her owners. Inquiries were also made from the City of Sydney which passed the vessel near Cape Ballard, but she was unable to give any information about her. Capt. Wilson ought to know the difficulties in making out flags under these conditions.

A Fireman's Peril.

How Zam-Buk Delivered Him.
At 215 Fraser Ave., Edmonton, Alta., lives W. P. Mahy, a former member of the local fire brigade, who has wonderful cause to be thankful for the curative powers of Zam-Buk. He says: "A serious skin disease broke out on my face, and spread until I was in a terrible state. The spots and little ulcers were frightfully irritating, and yet when scratched or rubbed they bled and smarted. Shaving caused me agony, and sometimes I would have to go two weeks without a shave. I tried home-made remedies, herb salve, and various other preparations, but the sores got no better. When Zam-Buk was mentioned I had little faith that it would be able to do me any good. My case seemed such an obstinate one. I gave it a fair trial, however, and the first box made such a wonderful change for the better that it gave me encouragement to continue. I did so, and to cut a long story short, Zam-Buk, in the end, quite cured me. My face is now clear of all traces of the terrible disease, which troubled me for so long."

Thousands of sufferers from eczema, blood poison, ulcers, chronic sores, piles, ringworm, cold sores, cuts, burns and skin injuries, have been relieved and cured, as was Mr. Mahy, by Zam-Buk. As a balm for all skin injuries and diseases it is without equal. All druggists and stores at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

Would Bring Them Singly.

Madame Nordica, the famous prima donna, is said to be seriously ill with pneumonia as a result of her terrible experiences on board the Tasmanian which it will be remembered, went ashore recently in the Gulf of Papua.

The great singer once told us that the priciest compliment she ever received came from a cowboy when she had been singing at a concert in Texas one bitterly cold night. It was a comparatively small place, and the arrangements for the concert were rather primitive, but the audience were enraptured. The cowboy especially was charmed, and he sat spellbound during the whole evening listening to the singer's wonderful notes.

When the concert was over and Nordica was wrapping up to return to her hotel, she discovered that her warm overcoats had been forgotten. The cowboy offered to go for them, and he set off at once. By and by he came back with one of the missing shoes. "But you've only brought one!" exclaimed Nordica.

The cowboy looked embarrassed and, muttering something about bringing the other, he went off again. When he brought the second shoe, Nordica said:

"I'm sorry that you have had so much trouble."

"Not at all, madam," replied the admiring youth; "I only wish you were a centipede!"

Celebrated Norwegian Jigger

Fishermen should use these Jiggers and rig them with swivels same as in Norway, then the Jigger will strike like a minnow and when springing attracts the fish, so that instead of digging they really snap the Jigger and in this manner you never fail to catch them. Ordinary leads can be used but the Norwegian style seems to be simple and easily made. Our fishermen should try this great Norwegian fish killer.

J. J. Jones.

James Jimpson Jones drew fifteen bones each week where he was clerking; and this good soul deserved his roll, for he was fond of working. And every week he used to seek the bank and there deposit a few iron ones—and that, again, was foolishness—or, was it? The other boys, who sampled joys and pastimes free and airy, made fun of Jones, who saved the bones, and shunned diversions merry. "He never goes to picture shows, or hits the large decauter," they used to say. "The hopeless Jay! He should be canned instant. He has to whither with chorus girls, he does not back the ponies; he does not class at all, alas, with modern macaronis." The boys grew old who once were bold and full of pep and bossy, and worn and frayed asked public aid, dead broke and total-lossy. James Jimpson Jones, who saved his bones, is living in a palace, and he has bucks to throw at ducks, and diamonds on his gallus. In youth he work'd and never shirked, though hard was his employment; his life was clean, and now, serene, in age he finds enjoyment.

"Syrup of Figs for Constipated Child"

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "Fruit Laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

A Hero Of France in Forty Battle.

Remarkable Career of French Veteran Ends After He Had Passed His 100th Year.

Paris, March 2.—The hero of over forty battles, in which he was wounded over fourteen times and nine times mentioned in dispatches; Major Auguste Antoine Demeure has died in Paris in his bed at the age of over 100 years. He was born in 1813 at Biesheim, in Alsace, the son of a colonel who had served under Napoleon. At the age of 19, he enlisted against his father's wish, went through the siege of Antwerp, and in 1834 joined the African army. At the age of 28 he had already won the cross of the Legion of Honor and the Ribbon of St. Louis, a decoration of which he was the last surviving holder.

Offered a commission in the Guards by Napoleon III, he refused to leave the army in Africa, but in spite of his refusal the Emperor entrusted him with an important mission to the Emperor Francis Joseph. He served through the Italian campaign and was severely wounded at Solferino, where on the battlefield, he was promoted to Officer of the Legion of Honor. Hardly had he recovered from his wounds when he was back in Africa again where a stupid accident all but put an end to his career. He was thrown from his horse, and by great ill-luck, cut his tongue in two in his fall. Finding himself unable to articulate a word, he resigned his commission and was given a post in the Military Administration of Strasbourg. That was in 1863, when he was 50 years of age. It seemed that his days of active service were over for ever.

Celebrated Norwegian Jigger

Fishermen should use these Jiggers and rig them with swivels same style as in Norway, then the Jigger attracts the fish, so that instead of pulling they really snap the Jigger and in this manner you never fail to catch them. Ordinary leads can be used. The Norwegian style seems simple and easily made. Our fishermen should try this great Norwegian fish killer.

THOUGHT.

People and nations stand askance when a Marconi or an Edison come to view, but when a lady breaks loose inspired by love for the child-life irrespective of distinction, idiotic or otherwise, greater is the awe the world wonders at Doctor Maria Montessori, the little Roman lady of high rank and mental attainments who takes her stand to uplift and lead child-life into new channels of discovery and thought.

See the result. Her methods are reaching not only Rome, but Japan, America and who knows but what our native Nfld. Bishops will take inspiration while at the "Eternal City," and give our "Terra Nova" boys and girls its benefits.

'Tis the nature of the child to feel and see. Let us help it, and know you 'tis to the youth we have to look. The true wealth of the nation must be figured in terms of child-life. Reform and legislation for adults can be no more than remedial in effect. There is nothing in all the world so important as children, nothing so interesting. If ever you wish to go in for some form of philanthropy, if ever you wish to be of any real use in the world do something for children.

If we work upon marble, it will perish, if we work upon brass, time will efface it, if we rear temples they will crumble into dust, but if we work upon minds (souls), if we imbue them with principles, with the just fear of God, and love for our fellow men, we engrave on those tablets something which will brighten all thought for time and eternity. The cry now is "Go back (or sometimes celebrate where you are) the land that gave you birth."

The Lloyd George's Jewish and Scotch money magnates are alive to all the needs of the home-land. And why not we? Where are our universities, normal and technical schools and kindergartens? We must go abroad to find them or in some crowded city or cities. Let all our money and energetic powers see to it. Governments can do a lot, but we must do more. The gem lies nearer home. To be really great you must be brothers and sisters all; working for the common good.

Genius has no sex, and thought is everything and everything is thought. Where in all Terra Nova is a better place for the educational centre than Harbor Grace. The will-be-town council will tell you so and the great "Big Ben" of the town will tell you.

And answered back by three cheers more.

Jacob Kean, a sturdy chap. At eight he put her through the gap. And then the next to follow on Was stout John Parsons in the Bon. Then Capt. Randall in the Bell. A ship I hope he'll handle well. Special to the Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. The reconstruction of the Newfoundland Oil Fields Company, Ltd., was approved at a meeting yesterday. The proposal is for a new syndicate with £24,000 in shares of one shilling each, and arrangements providing that existing shareholders shall preserve a proportionate interest in new company.

Special to the Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. The high water mark in naval expenditures has been reached in the estimates of 1914-1915 as brought forward in the Commons last night, causing keen disappointment and concern to Liberal economists and pacifists. On account for year just ending is a supplementary vote of £2,740,000, bringing new estimates to £31,550,000. Not only is more money but more men demanded. The human increase is to 5,000, while the building programme will be composed of four battleships, four light cruisers, twelve destroyers. This programme is not more than what will adequately maintain sixty per cent. standard of superiority.

A swindler now under indictment in the United States advertised, "throw away your glasses." Those who sent him five or ten dollars received in exchange a small box of tablets which the United States mail officials found could be manufactured for twenty-five cents per thousand. There is no medical, chemical or mechanical means of restoring to normal an eyeball which is irregular in shape for such is the condition in most cases when glasses are worn for constant use. Hypermetropia, myopia, and the various forms of astigmatism are simply cases where the cornea, or clear front portion of the eyeball, is not absolutely spherical, and there is no other known means of overcoming such defect excepting by adjusting glasses. It is to be hoped that none of our Newfoundland friends have been duped by the swindler referred to above. You are always safe in consulting H. H. SECURED BODY.

Laredo, Texas, March 8.—Texas Rangers who secretly crossed into Mexico last night to-day brought to the American side the mutilated body of Clemente Vergara, Texas ranchman, and established the fact of his execution after he was seized by Mexican Federals. Vergara was shot twice through the head and once through the neck, his skull was crushed as by a blow from a rifle butt, and the charred fingers of the left hand indicated that he had been tortured before being put to death.

Identification was made by Vergara's son and by numerous friends, many of whom were in the party of ninety led by the State border patrol which made the grim journey to the Hidalgo Cemetery during the early morning hours to-day. The body was not badly decomposed, despite its three weeks burial. Recovery of the body was made by a force of Texans, largely friends of Vergara, acting with a troop of Texas rangers, under Captain Saunders, who have been investigating for Governor Colquitt the circumstances of Vera Gara's seizure by Federals. With their burden fixed on a stretcher carried by six of Vergara's friends, the procession started "marchallegre" on the return journey to the United States.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 9.—Three men were believed to have been killed and three fatally injured in a fire here early to-day. It destroyed the lower building and seriously damaged the ten story building of the Union National Bank of Clarksburg. The cause of the fire has not yet been determined. March Cannon, district manager of the Philadelphia Gas Company of Pittsburg, and Robert Hughlin, were trapped on the sixth floor of the bank building while endeavoring to save important papers for the company. They dropped a rope out of the window and had reached the fifth story when water, thrown by one of the engine companies, froze on the rope and they slipped off, dropping to the sidewalk. Another man jumped from the top story of the Lowe building and was crushed. The dead are believed to have been burned in the Lowe building. LINTROSE PASSENGERS.—The Lintrose arrived at Port aux Basques at 7.30 a.m. to-day, with the following passengers:—W. H. Dormity, Miss N. E. Purchase and D. Lerossengoul.

Chinese Confine Their Prisoners In Coffins.

London, March 6.—The contrasts of Mongolia—its strong attractiveness and gleams of western civilization, and its depraved morality and barbarity—were recently vividly sketched by Mrs. Herbert Bulstrode at a meeting of the Royal Asiatic Society. Mrs. Bulstrode accomplished a remarkable feat last year, when, with but a solitary companion, she travelled over 700 miles by caravan in Mongolia.

Describing the prisons of the capital, to which she succeeded in gaining admission, Mrs. Bulstrode said: "Within a small compound, fenced in by high spiked palisades, are five or six dungeons. There are human beings in those dungeons and among them quite a number of highly civilized, refined and gentle Chinese, who are shut up for the remainder of their lives in heavy, iron-bound wooden coffins, out of which they never, under any circumstances, move. They cannot sit upright. They cannot lie down flat. They see daylight but for a few minutes when their food is thrown into their coffins through a hole four or five inches in diameter twice daily.

"These coffins, of which I counted over fifty—and there were many others which I could not count—were scattered about on the fifty floors of the dungeons. Nothing I can ever see in the future will wipe out the memory of that terrible prison. A gruesome picture was drawn of the Mongolians' treatment of their dead. "They throw their dead," she said, "out into the hillsides, where dogs and vultures peck at them."

Catholic Labour Manifesto.

"A remarkable step has been taken by the Catholic hierarchy in Ireland as the result of the disturbed labour conditions in the country," says the Sunday Chronicle. "Instead of issuing the usual Lenten pastorals, the Bishops, headed by Cardinal Logue and Archbishop Walsh, issued a joint letter to the Catholics of the country, the whole of which is devoted to consideration of the labour position. It was read in all Roman Catholic churches on Sunday. Some strong pronouncements are made in favour of the claims of labour.

Office of Crushing Labour.

"It is the inhuman offence of crushing labour that is responsible for the cry against capital," the Bishops say. "It is the labourers who have a just claim on our consideration. As a rule labourers who toil at the heaviest work for the lowest pay have not received a fair share of the wealth they do so much to produce. The smashing of labour would be a wicked and barbarous programme, however it might be explained."

"The letter begins by reference to the Dublin labour dispute, and says whoever shares the responsibility for failure in the past to set up conciliation boards in Dublin has much to answer for. Had any reasonable system of arbitration or conciliation been in working order, it was more than likely that the strikes and lock-outs, with all their degrading consequences, would not have taken place. A paralysis of employment that was altogether avoidable," the Bishops say, "has left us the humiliating memory that in a year of plenty many thousands of the toiling masses in the capital city of our country were left for months in idle dependence on rations and strike pay from England, and that numbers of children had to be fed by charity away from their homes when not deported into strange fosterage across the channel. "The sense of misery caused by this deplorable strife was deepened by the fact that whatever is to be said about its instigation, the contest arose and went on between Irish employers and Irish workers to the serious prejudice of the nation's interests at a time when the near prospect of native government should have raised the hearts of true Irishmen and

Need of Conciliation Boards.

"The great lesson from this sad experience is the imperative need of well-informed conciliation boards, representative of both sides, to adjust differences as they arise. Masters and men have a common interest in industry, and that is the way to maintain it for the common good. For the requisite organization strong, just trade unions, conducted on sound principles, can do much in industrial centres, as they can likewise serve other useful purposes of kindred nature. A fair jury should have a chance of bringing in a verdict before the protagonists on either side let loose the horrors of war."

Extravagance Rampant.

We have been furnished with a list of the bills passed during the Session just closed. Outside the routine Bill and amendments of Laws which necessarily dictated, there is a quantity of Government measures, among the former there are of course such bills as the Public Service Bill, in which the approval of the votes for the different services are embodied, and over which considerable discussion took place in the Committee of Supply; and the Revenue Bill which enacts the extra taxation in the form of specific increases on tobacco, liquor and butter and the "oilious ten per cent." The latter was the eye-opener of the session, for it convinced everybody they had been led astray by the promise of Sir Edward Morris to carry out the plank of his Manifesto without an extra cent of taxation. The Loan Bills are matters of dire necessity to an administration which has gone to blinding in railway construction and the give-aways beyond what a legitimate revenue would permit at a time when trade generally is sooming. To-day everybody is asking what it will all lead to. People want to know whether it is all tending. They recognize to-day that no matter how good trade may be, no matter how buoyant the revenue, the Government spends all they receive, and make overdraws on every important account, even going into debt to the extent of $52,000 last December to meet the interest on the Public Debt in London.

It is high time to cry halt; but halt the Government will not. They mean to continue their policy of give-aways, no matter what may befall the country. Another feature of the session was the discussion of fishery matters. This arose from the fact that there was a large representation of fishermen in the House. There can be little doubt that ere long the staple industry of the country will receive the attention it deserves at the hands of the Legislature, and that the Fisheries Department will be reorganized and that the Minister in charge will be a leading, if not the leading minister in the Executive Council, as he should be.

M. C. L. I. Debate.

A very interesting debate took place in the M. C. L. I. Rooms last night. The subject was: "Do modern comforts tend to promote a stronger man, mentally, morally and physically?" and the arguments were so evenly balanced, that when the vote was taken the result was a tie. The leaders for the affirmative were Messrs. S. Woods, I. C. Morris and A. Dawe, while the negative side was ably supported by Rev. Dr. Fenwick, Messrs. Joseph Moore and H. Mitchell. During the meeting last night it was decided to have the annual dinner on April 26th. This year it will be held in the College Hall, and the ladies of the L. C. A. S. will attend to the catering.

Technical Education for Newfoundland.

The progress of the young lads attending the night classes, recently inaugurated by Capt. Saunders, has been so satisfactory, that a movement is on foot for the establishment of a permanent technical institution as soon as a suitable building can be secured. An average of 24 bright young lads have been in attendance at the sessions held in the ladies' waiting room of the railway station, which room was placed at their disposal through the courtesy of Mr. R. G. Reid. The young lads have made remarkable progress in mechanical drawing and practical mathematics, the drawings of many of the lads being very creditable. All the apprentices have manifested a deep interest in their work, and this enthusiasm shown by them has resulted in the desire to further their education by the establishment of a technical school on a permanent basis. Mr. R. G. Reid has personally guaranteed funds for the maintenance of these classes, started by Capt. Saunders, until the end of the school year, when it is expected some definite plans for the future will be materialized. The promoters of this commendable work have succeeded in securing the services of two capable teachers, Mr. James Davis and Mr. J. Mould, of the Methodist College. Communications are now being held with His Excellency the Governor with a view to securing a suitable class room. His Excellency, who at all times since his coming amongst us has shown a deep interest in all that pertains to the welfare of the sons of Terra Nova, is in sympathy with the movement and has promised the project his support.

How the Steel Fleet Went Down the Shore

To-day much interest was centred in the positions of the steel fleet as they went down the shore on the race for the whitecoats. At Cape St. Francis the Bellaventure was first, followed by the Nascopie and Bonaventure, which were abreast of each other. Next came the Adventure, Beothic, Florizel and Stephano in the order named. Passing Pouch Cove the positions were the same and the Bellaventure had increased her lead. Before going out of sight the Beothic, Stephano and Florizel were seen taking a S.E. cut. Evidently they are going down on the inside expecting to strike the seals there.

The Sunday Concert.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—I notice in this morning's edition of the Daily News, a letter signed by Rev. A. Whitemarsh, on the subject of Sunday concerts. I do not intend to be led into a discussion as to whether Sacred concerts on Sunday are the thing or not. I should however like to say a few words in reference thereto.
The primary object of these Concerts is not a commercial one, but to provide the people of St. John's with the highest class of Sacred music known and performed throughout the great cities of the world on Sundays. We are not finally able to do this without making a charge, and we moreover feel that any surplus over and above is merely a small recompense to the Conductor for months of extremely hard work.
I fail to see how it differs from the payment of Ministers, Organists, Soloists, Choirs, and the charge of pew rents in Churches. We feel in these productions that we are doing as much in this respect to glorify God as in any other way. We are not to be paid for our services in Churches. We feel in these productions that we are doing as much in this respect to glorify God as in any other way. We are not to be paid for our services in Churches. A MODERN INSTANCE.

It was something like a ringworm on his head, or rather at the back of the neck, just below the hair, and seemed inclined to spread. Washing with antiseptic solutions, and the use of common ointments scarcely availed to prevent its getting larger. He was puzzled. Then he saw an advertisement of Zylex and Zylex Soap, and decided to use them. Procuring a box of Zylex and a cake of Zylex Soap he washed the part carefully, and applied the ointment freely. The result was marked almost from the first. In a few days the spot had disappeared, and everything was as well as ever. Now he uses Zylex Soap regularly and keeps a box of Zylex always handy.
Have you such spots? Then use Zylex. You will soon forget that you have had any skin troubles. At all druggists. Zylex, 50c a box; Zylex Soap, 25c a cake.—feb26, eod, ft

Mass Meeting

In C.L.B. Armoury

Some 3,500 Sealers and Citizens Attend --- Addresses Given by Messrs. Kent, Coaker, Lloyd, Cowan and Grimes --- Unbounded Enthusiasm.

The third annual sealers' meeting since the F.P.U. was inaugurated in Newfoundland, took place in the Armoury of the Church Lads' Brigade last night, and to that splendid structure belongs the unique distinction of holding within its precincts the greatest and most successful political meeting ever held in the history of the country. The meeting had been only intended for sealers, but in view of the numerous applications for admission from citizens, some two thousand were admitted. A remarkable circumstance was the fact that the meeting was arranged under. There were only 1,700 sealers in the city, these belonging to the seven steel ships, yet in spite of this fully 1,500 sealers rallied in the Armoury. This number in addition to the citizens, who were present, swelled the gathering to some 3,500 or 4,000 persons.

At eight o'clock, the appointed hour, following a few lively airs splendidly discoursed by the C.L.B. Band, the meeting opened. Mr. Stone, M.H.A., presided, and on the platform with him were Mr. W. F. Coaker, M.H.A., Mr. J. M. Kent, M.H.A., Mr. W. F. Lloyd, M.H.A., for Trinity; Mr. G. Grimes, M.H.A., for Port de Grave; Mr. Clapp, M.H.A., for St. Barbe; Capt. Eli Dawe, H. E. Cowan and many prominent citizens. The Chairman, in his opening remarks, heartily welcomed the entire audience, on behalf of the F.P.U., pointing out that the presence of sealers in such large numbers, demonstrated their appreciation of, and loyalty to the principles of their Union. He then introduced as the first speaker, Mr. W. F. Coaker, the Union President, who rising from his seat on the platform, was greeted with vociferous cheering. When the applause had subsided, Mr. Coaker began an able, practical and humorous address, prefacing his remarks on the financial position of the country, how the Government were getting loans to pay for their wanton extravagant expenditures and were taxing the fishermen's articles of wearing apparel and luxuries to the tune of $700,000 in the way of increased taxation in order to meet the deficit in the current accounts. Are you going to stand for this? Mr. Coaker asked. And without a dissenting voice the reply was "No." The fishermen and the working classes generally, he continued, have made up their minds that they are going to get their just rights. They are going to play a prominent part in the future legislation of the country, and are going to see that the public monies will be spent honestly and economically and take the country out of the destructive and ruinous state it is in at present, by working hand in dealt with the default of Sir Edward Morris in promising a big policy without a cent extra in taxation. He emphasized the leading strategy of the electorate and the staggering blow administered to them by the Budget, which was throwing on the people an overload of taxation, which exceeded greatly the direst forebodings of the greatest pessimist. The extra taxation imposed was equal to the full extent of the net earnings of all the Merchants, Sealers and Fishermen in the total of the Seal Fishery and the Herring Fishery. Could anything exceed the enormity of what the Morris Government was inflicting on the people.

Mr. Henry Cowan was the last of the four principal speakers. He expressed the appreciation of the immense audience for the addresses of the three speakers who had preceded him. He told the story of the election contest in the city, and how Liberal candidates had been handicapped by the Socialist charges against Mr. Coaker, and how the cry was raised that should the Morris Government be defeated, grass would grow on Water Street. He also scored heavily the financial incapacity of the Government, and illustrated his points by telling an anecdote which he told in his inimitable way and which carried home his points.

On motion of Messrs. Callahan and Grimes a vote of thanks was carried for the chairman and the big meeting dispersing after the National Anthem and to the strains of the fine band of the C. L. B., which contributed largely to the success of the gathering.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.
At yesterday's meeting of the W.C.T.U., the petitions recently sent to the Legislature, were lengthily discussed. A largely signed petition from Exploits relative to the sending of liquor to local option districts, by subsidized conveyances, was received, and will be presented at an early date. It was decided to hold meetings at the residences of the members in addition to the regular sessions, in order to further advance the interests of temperance reform. On Sunday next the usual service will take place at the Pentecostal.

Steel Ships Off.
Hundreds of citizens were to be seen at points of vantage along the waterfront this morning watching the departure of the steel ships, which took place at 8 o'clock in the following order:—Adventure, Bellavente, Bonaventure, Nascopic, Beothic, Stephanie and Florizel. This order was chosen by special arrangements between the owners, so as to avoid accident or delay. As they steamed out the Narrows many conjectures were made by the enthusiastic spectators as to what order they expect to see them coming in.

He was thrown off the mat by his opponent and his head struck the floor inflicting an ugly cut just over the right eye. First Aid was rendered by Mr. H. Barnes, after which the lad was able to proceed to his home.

ROBERTSON MACAULAY, PRESIDENT. HEAD OFFICE: MONTREAL. T. B. MACAULAY, MANAGING DIRECTOR and SECRETARY. ALEX. BRYDEN, Manager for Newfoundland, ST. JOHN'S.

Every Cent Well Spent.

The first thing which strikes one on looking over those reports is the very evident desire on the part of the secretaries to place the powers that be, by a judicious mixture of fiction, facts and fancy. To achieve that very pleasurable result, the truth is often submerged. The reports are in some cases falsified, whether by design or otherwise I am not prepared to say. Let us hope it is unintentional. Of what value are those reports if not authentic in all respects. I venture to say that the great bulk of those reports is built up of hearsay, and are not the result of careful inquiry. Under the system it is impossible to compile statistics worth the paper they are printed on, and it is insulting to the intelligence of even ordinary readers to present them with a volume of such rubbish. And it is a waste of money ever to have them printed, but they please the Government and flatter the societies, so I suppose they serve their purpose, and all is well. But the people who pay the paper, what about those? Are they being led to believe that their hard earned money is being well spent? If they are then the reports are a crime, but I hardly think they are deceived, and when they get a chance, will speak for themselves. Looking over the reports one is painfully impressed with the fact that despite the large sums of money spent by the Morris Government on agriculture, that the industry has not expanded in any way, beyond the natural growth. That is one of the impressions to be gathered from the very unsatisfactory reports. In Burin, where an extra agricultural spurge was taken, and in connection with which there was some scandalous re-cattle, we find that further development is out of the question, because of the fact, that all available land has been subdued to the plow. There they have the boundless expanse of 66 acres under hay (and no more to be had). In answer to the question asked of the society, "Is the quantity of land under cultivation increasing?" the secretary says, "no, no more land here to cultivate." You who remember the big costly exhibition at Burin, consider that, and ask yourselves—Was the money well spent? The secretary also reports no election of officers last year, as nobody would come to a meeting. They are taking some interest in farming politics in Burin. I fear, Mr. Editor, this article is becoming too lengthy, so I will conclude for the present, but will ask your indulgence again later on.

I have copied some figures from various reports taken at random through the heap, which will furnish very interesting essays on the Morris Agricultural Fizzle. It is impossible for me just now to enter into details, but I intend to follow up my statements with pretty good buttresses in the shape of facts culled from the reports themselves.

Star of the Sea Lecture.
Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V.G., lectured to the members of the Star of the Sea Society and their lady friends at the Society's Rooms last night. The reverend lecturer took as his subject, "The Life of Gladstone," and for over an hour, in eloquent language, entertained his audience with the story of that great Statesman's career. At the close, a vote of thanks, moved by President E. M. Jackman, and seconded by T. Kelly, was heartily accorded the reverend lecturer for his brilliant, scholarly and educational discourse. Upon the invitation of the Chairman, Mr. J. J. Lacey, the Spiritual Director, Rev. Dr. Greene spoke congratulating the Society on its good work, and expressing his appreciation of the interesting discourse given by Mons. Roche, and was followed by Rev. Fr. Douthney, who also contributed congratulations to the reverend gentleman, and spoke in glowing terms of the advancement being made by the Star of the Sea.

Fond Memories of Tilt Cove.

Farewell, dear Old Tilt Cove. Fare you well once more. Many happy days I have spent While on thy tranquil shore. Those happy days I'll never forget No matter where I roam Forever to my heart will cling The scenes of dear old home.

How oft I think of days gone by And the plans we used to make Whilst admiring the beauty of thy hills Reflected in the lake. Oh! if those days could but return And bring to us once more The joy and pleasure we have felt While on thy peaceful shore.

Thy fertile hills and valleys I would like to roam once more And pluck the crimson berries As we did in days of yore. While sitting on the hill-side With daisies at our feet And trout abounding in the pool. Our happiness was complete.

Now, thy lonely woods and valleys Are bereft of echoes shrill. Where once many happy voices Did resound from shore to hill. And the little birds in ambush Watching the merry throng While perched on our evergreen. They joined in our evening song. M. A. PENNENNEY, Bell Island, March 7th, 1914.

SUNDAY CONCERTS.

Methodist Ministers Protest.
 Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir—I am instructed by the St. John's Methodist Ministers' meeting to forward you the accompanying resolution passed to-day, and to ask if you will kindly give it a place in the columns of your evening edition. The resolution was unanimously adopted.
 Yours sincerely
 C. A. WHITEMARSH,
 Sec. Ministers' Meeting.
 St. John's, March 12, 1914.

RESOLUTION.
 Whereas, notice has been given through the public press of a concert to be held in this city, on Sunday evening, for which admission fees are to be charged, thus introducing the element of a commercial transaction; and whereas, there is a danger that this may open the door for further encroachments upon the Sanctity of the Lord's Day; since, if the principle of Sunday entertainments for money-making be once established, it will be extremely difficult, if not impossible to draw the line between a programme more or less sacred, and one more or less secular.
 Therefore be it resolved that this Ministers' meeting place on record its respectful but firm protest against Sunday concerts, sacred or otherwise, conducted for financial considerations; and invite all who revere the Lord of the Sabbath and love the Lord's Day, to co-operate with us in resisting any attempt at making a convenience of the Christian Sabbath for pecuniary advantage.

HEALTHY AND UNHEALTHY LIGHTING

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this amongst other reasons that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being applied with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—Nov. 11.

Disturbance on the Bell.

Some members of the crew of the S. S. Bellaventure, who had imbibed too freely last night, created a disturbance on board with the result that one of them was injured, and a doctor had to be called. Upon medical examination it was found that the injuries were not of a serious nature, and the man sailed for the icefields to-day.

THE BEST OF THE BEST.
 Under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and His Grace the Archbishop, the annual entertainment in aid of St. Bon's College will take place in the Methodist College Hall on St. Patrick's Night at 8.30. Worth More Than A Bob.

In a newly published book of reminiscences a good story is told of the late Sir William Harcourt. He was about to get into a hansom when a friend passing in a brougham offered to give the right hon. gentleman, whose avoirdupois was considerably a lift to his town house.
 Sir William accepted the offer, and gave the disappointed Jehu a billing: "Only a bob, my boy," he asked ruefully.
 "Certainly," was the reply. "I never got into your cab."
 "But, gov'nor," responded the Jehu, "consider the fright you gave the boss."

The Sealing Fleet.

By J. C. CABBERY.
 Where vanguard bergs of peerless white
 Plunge through the gloom of polar night,
 The harvesting awaits,
 On prairies of the boundless sea,
 That burst the northern mystery,
 Through Greenland's icy gates.

The harp, the hood and white-coat bide
 Upon that ocean prairie wide,
 Where tree nor shrub is seen:
 Nought but the glint of ice and snow,
 The dreary winds incessant blow,
 And open "lakes" between.

The harvesters, who seek the fields
 Where stubborn Boreas treasure yields,
 Are sons of Newfoundland:
 The men who fare to Labrador,
 Who fear no voice in Ocean's roar,
 The sealing fleet have manned.

The men who quail not in the storms
 That rage tumultuous round their forms
 On every circling sea,
 These are the skilful, true and brave,
 Who dare all hazards on the wave,
 Where'er the quest may be.

The pulsing engines throb with power
 Repressed until the sailing hour,
 Then see the big ships go,
 Churning the blue sea white with foam.
 Racing to where amphibious roam—
 The nurslings of the foe.

"Good luck!" "Godspeed!" and ringing cheer
 Awake the echo as they near
 The headlands stern and high;
 Again we watch the fleet depart
 With eager hope and beating heart
 And tremulous good-bye.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, March 13, 1914.
 Cream of Lilies will keep your hands and face right; that is the real reason why it is in such demand. At every season of the year, but especially perhaps in the month of March, Cream of Lilies is a valuable preparation, and those in the habit of using it never suffer from chaps or sore hands, face or lips. Price 25 cents a crock.
 Do you need a tonic to help you over the Spring season? Nutritive Hypophosphites is, ten chances to one the thing you need. Why not try a bottle? Price 50 cents and $1 a bottle.

A Lifetime In One Employ.

Some extraordinary figures with regard to the large number of people who have spent a lifetime in one employ are given by Mr. Herbert Prently, the general manager of Messrs. Huntley and Palmer's, of Reading, the famous biscuit makers.

Of these facts the most extraordinary is that they have over 1,000 men each of whom has been with them for at least thirty years.
 "We have on our books," says Mr. Prently, writing to the Daily Mail, "fifty workpeople who have each completed more than fifty years of continuous employment with us, as follows:—

- 1 over 60 years. 5 over 52 years
 - 8 over 57 years. 15 over 51 years
 - 2 over 55 years. 2 over 50 years
 - 13 over 54 years. — over 50 years
 - 4 over 53 years. 71. 50
- "Of our clerical staff—
 "One man has completed fifty-six years with us.
 "One man has completed fifty-four years with us.
 "One man has completed fifty-three years with us.
 "Among our factory workpeople and our clerical staff combined we have exactly one thousand men who have each completed at least thirty years' continuous service with us. They range from thirty to nearly fifty years of service."

St. Patrick's Day at Rossley's

Last night there was a good big house at Rossley's, and those who attended were well repaid for their patronage, for a better show could not be found in any other city at twice the price of admission. Five elegant reels of the best pictures never seen here before, for it must be understood that Mr. Rossley is now importing all his films from England. The farce comedy had the house in roars, its very funny and Jack Rossley excels in this part. On St. Patrick's Day there will be a great Irish Musical Comedy, with all new songs, dances, reels, jigs, novelty numbers; also, a splendid Irish feature picture entitled, "Pat the Box-cr." The entire pantomime company will take part on St. Patrick's Day and they will give a great show.

 LONDON, March 12.
 Premier Asquith has announced in the Commons that he will make a general statement with regard to the Government's Home Rule proposals.

LONDON, March 12.
 Reports that England recently concluded an agreement with Germany, inimical to America's trade with Central America, have been denied in the Commons by the Foreign Minister.

WASHINGTON, March 12.
 A resolution calling upon United States Ambassador Page for an explanation of the Panama Canal speech which he delivered last night before the Associated Chamber of Commerce in London, was adopted by the Senate.

BERLIN, March 12.
 Efforts to spread a German propaganda throughout South America were extended to-day, when the announcement was made that a party of German agriculturists would leave for those countries on a study trip next autumn.

NEW YORK, March 12.
 What the District Attorney described as material for at least fifty indictments, alleging fraud against Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, President and Vice-President, respectively, of the Siegel Stores Corporation, was placed in the hands of the Grand Jury to-day. The men were arrested and released on $25,000 bonds for each.

LONDON, March 12.
 Speaking at a dinner of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, U. S. Ambassador Page assured the diners that the States had no intention to interfere with British investments in Central America. "I would like," he said, "to correct the impression held by a part of the British press, regarding the attitude of the States government, concerning the investment of Britain's colossal earnings in Central American States. I have sometimes read of the States entering upon a policy to discourage foreign investors, but what the States was anxious to prevent, was that investors, who put their money in these countries, should not get control of them. The Monroe Doctrine simply meant that the United States would prefer that no European government should gain more land in the New World. Amid laughter, Mr. Page declared that he would not say that the United States had constructed the Panama Canal for Britain, but that it had added greatly to the pleasure of building that great work to know that the British would profit most by its use.

NEW YORK, March 12.
 Efforts will be made to obtain from the Government at Washington and from the Canadian authorities, the assistance of meteorologists, in making observations from aeroplanes, which will be flown off the coast of Newfoundland during the coming summer, for the purpose of determining the force and direction of air-currents at various altitudes, at the starting point of the proposed flight across the Atlantic by the Wanamaker aeroplane.

At The Institute.

The concert at the Seamen's Institute last night, was largely attended. The programme consisted of solos by Misses Skinner, Creswell and Walsh; Messrs. C. Hatcher, H. Courtney, J. Pike and Williams, all of which were splendidly given and enthusiastically applauded. Miss Barnes acted as accompanist. Four interesting pictures were shown which were thoroughly enjoyed. Tonight the Merry Makers will be the entertainers, and pictures will also be shown. On Tuesday next, Mr. Jones will give an illustrated lecture on India, the proceeds for which will be for the Institute funds.
