Western Baptist Association

Successful and Enthusiastic Gathering at Bear River, One Hundred and Twenty-five Delegates Present, Good Progress in Missionary and Temperance Work Reported.

The meeting of the Western Baptist Association at Bear River, June 15th to 23rd, was one of the most enthusiastic and successful in its history. About one hundred and twenty-five ministers and lay delegates were present. The beautiful shores of Bear River were wearing their most charming aspect, and a unanimous welcome was extended to the delegates by its hospitable people.

Rev. J. W. Bancroft, of Hill Grove, was called to the chair to conduct the opening exercises and was elected permanent moderator. Mr. Bancroft delivered an excellent sermon on Friday evening from the text, "I am the Light of the World." Rev. H. B. Smith was elected clerk; Rev. H. S. Bagnall was elected assistant clerk; Deacon Edward Clarke was elected treasurer. Quite an amount of general business was transacted. A comprehensive resume of the doings of the Association is given in the following press report from the Halifax Herald:

Bear River, June 21.—About 200 have been added by baptism, one new church has been organized, and one new church building has been dedicated. An extended and fruitful discussion was taken part in by most of the pastors present concerning the associational letters. Formerly each church sent a short letter which was read without abridgment. As this took up much time which was wanted by brethren who wished to deliver addresses on many subjects, a change was made, so that the digest of all these letters was presented in a very condensed form. The matter was finally settled by requesting all the churches to write letters, and that the clerk make the largest possible digest, so that all the facts may come before the association.

On the afternoon meeting Rev. J. W. Bancroft, who was to report on obituaries, reported that many had passed away during the year. The reports from district chairmen proved very interesting. Rev. A. S. Lewis reported from Annapolis. The system of these district congregations reaches every detail of the district. The reports from Rev. C. S. McLeod reported from Lunenburg county. About sixty had been added to the churches in this county during the last year.

The report on Sunday schools was presented by Rev. C. H. Haverstock of Nictaux. The report declared that almost the Sunday school more than at any time in the past, is a Bible school. The machinery appears to be of the very best character. But there appears to be a lack of spiritual strength among the workers. In the whole association there are 622 Sunday school members in 74 schools. It is hoped and expected that next year's report will show a very large increase in membership. It was felt that at least the number in the Sunday school should exceed the church membership. The report received a very earnest discussion. Many of the leading clergymen spoke strongly in favor of a Baptist Sunday school convention in this association. It is evident that the bond and muscle of this association is standing very firmly for old line Baptist doctrine.

Mr. Spurgeon, of St. John, was also called upon and made a few remarks. Saturday evening was devoted to temperance. The Baptists, in common with all religious bodies are taking special interest in this great question. The report was presented by Rev. S. W. Schurman, of Middleton. According to this report, prohibition sentiment is growing all through the great republic, to the south, but in Maritime Canada, this sentiment is less pronounced. The first speaker was Rev. W. H. Warren, of Bridgetown, lecturer of

Tuberculin Test for Cattle

London, June 21.—One of the best known cattle breeders in Buckinghamshire is Richard Vernon, of Hutton's, which lies on a beautiful hill overlooking the Thames, about half an hour's drive from Henley, which is famous as the great rowing centre. Mr. Vernon does not believe in the infallibility of the tuberculin test for cattle, though he says that in the majority of cases it is extremely useful.

"In my own opinion," he said to the Herald correspondent, "the tuberculin test turns out all right in about seventy-five per cent of the cases in which it is applied. I have known of many cases where animals have reacted to tests, but which when slaughtered have shown no traces of disease."

"We have been very fortunate on this farm, never having had an animal react that for three or four years. One of the cows lived to be twelve years old and the issue of both were perfectly sound animals. Another thing which damages the value of the test—if an animal were far gone in consumption it would pass the test all right, whereas one could see by its eyes that it was unsound. Suppose a cow has caught a chill and, in consequence, her lungs are inflamed, if she were tested the chances are that she would react. Now, in a few days her lungs would heal, and she would be perfectly sound."

"I do believe that tuberculosis is more contagious than people generally suppose. If one has an animal which he thinks is affected it would be foolish to let it remain in a shed with others. In the open air it does not matter so much. I believe to a certain extent in the test, but must say it is not accurate. I could give many instances in which bulls that have reacted have afterwards been used in the herd. It is a question in my mind whether that ought to be done, but these bulls appear to have done so successfully."

"Then another thing: a perfectly sound calf may be born of a tuberculous cow. If it is taken from its mother, and she is not allowed to suckle it, the chances are it will turn out a perfectly healthy animal. Some time ago a man came to me wishing to buy a heifer to go to South Africa. When the veterinary surgeon came to make the tuberculin test I found that the animal was suffering from slight fever, that its temperature was 104. I knew that if it were tuberculous, and I felt sure that the animal was only suffering from a slight ailment. The veterinary surgeon, at my request, put off the test until the next morning, when the heifer's temperature was normal, 102, and, as I expected, the animal did not respond to the test and was declared to be all right."

"Another thing: the temperature of animals goes up on warm days. It also rises when the animal is in season. I would not consider a test made under these conditions as absolutely satisfactory. It is perfectly true that you may get sound animals that will react, and, on the other hand, unsound ones that will not react."

Farmers' Picnic at Truro

FARMERS' DEMONSTRATION FAVORED BY FINE WEATHER AND PATRONIZED BY GREAT CROWDS. SPLENDID PARADE OF LIVE STOCK.

Truro, June 28.—The picnic under the auspices of the Pictou Farmers' Association, which came off here yesterday, was a most successful affair. The attendance at the Agricultural college grounds was not less than 3,000 persons. Fifteen cars bringing people from Pictou were pulled into the Truro station, and from Kings county thirteen cars arrived over the D. A. R. The catering for this numerous throng was no light task, but it was satisfactorily attended to by the ladies of the Catholic church.

Principal Cumming, of the Agricultural college, occupied the chair, and speeches were made by Governor Fraser and Dr. Standish, V. S., of Walkerton, Ont., and S. A. Logan, superintendent, Truro.

One of the chief features of the day's outing was the show of live stock, which came out in good shape. The parade in the ring on the lawn was headed by the Clydesdale stallion Mantion, four years old, brought from Scotland last year, and followed by five Holsteins, led by a bull belonging to Logan Brothers, of Amherst Point, champion at Toronto, last year.

The Hackney stallion, Clive Rosendor of Ayrshire, and the Thoroughbred stallion, Lucifer II, Carriage gelding, sired by a Hackney stallion.

Grand Trunk Pacific Reaches Moncton

Moncton, N. B., June 24.—Ralls of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway have entered Moncton and the Transcontinental, connecting the Province of the Atlantic with the Pacific coast, is no longer a matter of the future, but a present realization. Quietly, without ostentation, the rails of the new continent railway were run into Moncton, and are now stretching within a few hundred yards of the I. C. R. depot.

Several surveys had been made by the G. T. R., engineers recently, but no one except the railway contractors knew exactly where the new line was to be located. In a single day rails were laid and now a steam shovel has been installed and is rapidly cutting away the earth. While a "dummy" locomotive carrying a string car is engaged carrying away the earth to fill a nearby hollow a rail is being run almost to the interlocking track and from there will parallel the I. C. R. to the depot. Work on this division of the Transcontinental is going ahead rapidly. Close by the place where the steam shovel of the gray contractors is tearing up the ground on the Transcontinental, the work in readiness for the permanent rails of the I. C. R. new shops is rapidly going forward and the Maritime Provinces today proudly present no two great undertakings, giving employment to thousands of men, being rushed forward. In addition to the hundreds of men employed on the building, work leveling the ground in readiness for the new yards and the opening up of new streets. It is a scene of tremendous activity.

BABY BOY DROWNED AT WINDSOR JUNCTION.

Carlton Russell, the sixteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kebo, Windsor Junction, was drowned in a small lake near his parents' home, on Saturday. The child had been playing around the house and had not been gone more than three or four minutes when it was missed. A search discovered the boy floating face downwards in the lake and although it had been only in the water a few minutes, and medical assistance was quickly secured, life could not be revived.

Rifle Association Notes

County Rifle Match at Nictaux—Presentation of Cups to Winners—Troops for the Quebec Ter-Centenary—Ward Cup Competition.

The annual county rifle matches were held at Nictaux last Friday and Saturday and were very successful. The weather was perfect and the attendance the largest for years. The merchants of Bridgetown, Paradise, Lawrencetown and Middleton contributed prizes in kind to such a generous degree that in the popular match at 200, 400 and 600 yards shot on Saturday every competitor secured a prize. Although shooting conditions were very favorable, there were no high scores and as far as making big scores was concerned the meet was rather disappointing. James Whyte won one cup, George H. Vroom another, and Henry Giffes (the third), while James Whyte won the grand aggregate. At the close of the matches, the various cups were presented by Mrs. G. H. Vroom, and prizes in kind by Miss McNeil, daughter of Major E. F. McNeil.

Still later in the afternoon, the team of eight, selected for the matches at Aldershot on Friday, had a scratch match with the next best eight at 600 yards. The team scored 232 points at this distance.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Vroom and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Dodge entertained the members from Round Hill and Bridgetown.

A Political Utopia.

Oregon is fast getting a corner on the Utopia of politics. The millennium of the ballot may not be here, but it has reserved a berth and paid for it. Hereafter, if the law is enforced it will cost a man anywhere from $5 to $100 to ask another man on election day to vote for any candidate or any measure—just to ask him, not to pay him or coerce him. In their State election the other day the people put their sanction on such a measure, and they did a lot of other things that make one think the old days of the politician are passing. Hereafter it will be "political criminal" punishable by a penitentiary sentence, to lie in a newspaper or a poster about a candidate for office. Candidates are forbidden to treat, to bet on elections, directly or indirectly, to promise any political appointments, to employ workers, except challengers, on new lines, to pay voters for time lost in going to the polls, or to give any voter a badge or button to wear on election day. If a candidate pays a newspaper editor to print something nice about them, the matter so paid for must be marked as advertising. Likewise if the editor "boasts" a public measure for cash his columns must bear the legend of sale and purchase. The corrupt practices act which the people have approved further says:

"No person shall pay the owner, editor, publisher or agent of any newspaper or other periodical to induce him editorially to advocate or oppose any candidate for nomination or election, and no such owner, editor, publisher or agent shall accept such payment."

In the case of political criminality, which is a new crime created by law, both the man who writes or prints the libellous matter and the man who knowingly conveys it to publication may be sent to the State prison. He has a defence if he can

At a meeting of the officers of the 6th regiment held here last Wednesday, it was decided to accept the invitation of the military authorities to send a company from the regiment to take part in the celebration of the tercentenary of Quebec. The company will consist of forty men to be drawn from the whole regiment and three officers. The officers will be Captain Walter Purdy and Lieutenants Harris and Miller. Each rural regiment in the province will send a company of the same strength as this, and the different companies will be formed into a composite regiment, but it is not yet known who will be in command. These troops will proceed by rail to Halifax on the 17th of July, and thence to Quebec by the S. S. Pontiac, and will spend about ten days on the trip.

A team from the 6th regiment will compete at Aldershot next Friday for the celebrated Ward Cup. The first competition was held last year and the Truro Rifle Club won the prize. The 6th team will consist of Col. LeCain, Capt. F. W. Bishop, Capt. J. E. Morse, Lieut. E. C. Schaffer, Lieut. F. L. Milner, Sgt. E. W. Saunders, Sgt. J. I. Foster, and Pte. G. H. Dixon.

show that he had good ground for believing the libellous charge or statement was true, but even as a vital part of that defence he must prove that fifteen days before the publication of the article, he submitted the charges to the candidate in question and that he did not receive any denial of or answer to them within ten days of their submission. In the matter of election law the law is sweeping. It says in part: "It shall be unlawful for any person at any place on the day of any election to ask, solicit or in any manner try to induce or persuade any voter on such election day to vote for or refrain from voting for any candidate or ticket of any political party or organization, or any measure submitted to the people."

For the man who chooses to obey the law it will not be an expensive matter to run for office in this State hereafter. A candidate for Governor, for instance, will not be permitted to spend more than fifteen per cent. of one year's gubernatorial salary, or $750, in a primary campaign and the maximum of his expenditures for a general campaign is limited to $500. Moreover, within fifteen days after the primary or election he must file a detailed report showing just how and where the money was spent. The candidate is not the only fellow for money is just as vulnerable to the law's vengeance.

A sad case of election took place at Sydney last week. One wholly to a worthless father failing to provide for his family and his refusal to even pay rent. While the rain fell in torrents on the scattered pile of old household utensils, with crying tots here and there, the father was being taken to the lockup on a charge of drunkenness. With the fifty cents given him by a neighbor with which to buy a few purchased liquor, it was a pitiful sight indeed.—Bacon.

THE GOSPEL OF THE HEREAFTER

Sermon by Rev. Dr. Patterson-Smyth, Rector of St. George's, Montreal, Late Professor of Pastoral Theology, University of Dublin.

"And He showed me a river of water of life. . . . And there shall be no curse any more, and the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be therein, and His servants shall do His service, and they shall see His face, and His name shall be on their foreheads. And there shall be no more, and they need no light of lamp, neither light of sun; for the Lord God shall give them light; and they shall reign for ever and ever."—Rev. 22:1-5.

Heaven has no meaning till the inward Heaven has begun in ourselves. I need not point out to you that our immortal spirits would find life and happiness in golden pavements and gates of pearl. People on this earth, who have their fill of gold and pearl, do not always gain much happiness from them. They are mere external things—they cannot give eternal joy, because that comes from within not from without. It depends not on what we have, but on what we are, not on the riches of our possessions, but on the beauty of our lives.

The gorgeous vision of the Apocalypse has its meaning, but it is not the casual literal meaning of foolish men. It tells of the bright river of the water of life—of glorified cities, where nothing foul, or mean, or ignominious shall dwell, of the white robes, the emblems of victory of our stainless purity, of the crown of temptation, of the throne which indicates calm mastery over sin, of the song and music, and staidness of our lives.

What is meant by Heaven? 1. What is meant by Heaven? 2. What can we know about the life in Heaven? 3. What is the way by which we enter Heaven?

First we discuss what is meant by Heaven and at the very start I want to strike the key note of the thoughts that follow, in the words of Christ Himself, "The Kingdom of God is within you." Heaven is a something within you rather than without you. Heaven means character rather than possession. The Kingdom of God is not meat and drink but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost.

This is the thought which I have tried to keep before you all through this Advent teaching. Heavens life is dependent on character. Judgment is a starting according to inward character. Heaven and Hell are temper or conditions of character within us. They are not merely places to which God sends us arbitrarily. They are conditions which we make for ourselves. If God could send all men to Heaven I suppose all men would be there. If God could keep all men in Hell, I suppose no one would be there. It is character that makes Heaven. They are states of mind that exist here, and are continued and developed there.

I pictured to you last Sunday a man in Hell here—that continued and developed would mean Hell there. I could picture to you sweet unselfish lives that I have known, that are in Heaven here—that continued and developed would mean Heaven there. You know how one could be in Heaven here. Do you remember those wonderful words of our Lord—"No man hath ascended into Heaven, only the Son of Man who is in Heaven." Not was, but shall be, but is always in Heaven because always in unselfish love—ways in accord and in communion with God. So you see a man enters the beginning of Heaven and of Hell within him, according to the state of his own heart. A selfish soul is man cannot have any Heaven so long as he remains selfish and godless. For Heaven consists in forgetting self and loving God and man with heart and soul.

1. Do you see, then, the mistake that people have been making in discussing what is meant by Heaven. In all ages—in all races—men have speculated about it, and their speculations have been largely colored by their characters and temperaments. The Indian placed it in the Happy Hunting Ground. The Greeks placed it in the Island of the Blest, where warriors rested after the Battle. The Northman and the Muslimman had his equally sensual Heaven. And many Christians have as foolish notions: as anyone else. Some think that they win Heaven by believing something with their minds about Our Lord's atonement. Some think they go to Heaven by soaring up through the air. Some of them talking in bold literal meaning the glorious imagery of the Apocalypse picture to themselves streets of beaten gold and walls of flashing emerald and jasper, and the wearing of crowns and the singing of Psalms over and over again through all the ages of eternity.

What is the fault in all such? That they do not understand what Heaven really means. They think of it as a something outside them which anybody could enjoy if he could only get there. They do not understand that Heaven means the joy of being in union with God—that the outward of the blessed life have come to us, for our teaching. We know—there shall be no sin there. It shall be a pure and innocent life. All who on earth have been loving and pure and noble and brave and self-sacrificing, shall be there. All who have been cleansed by the blood of Christ from the delinquencies of sin, and strengthened by the power of Christ against the enticements of sin, shall be there. There shall be no drunkenness, nor impurity there, nor hatred, nor emulation, nor ill-temper, nor selfishness nor meanness. Ah! it is worth hoping for. We poor strugglers who hate ourselves and are so dissatisfied with ourselves, who look from afar at the lovely ideals rising within us, who think sorrowfully of all which might have been and have not been—let us keep our hearts. One day the ideal shall become the real. One day we shall have all these things for which God has put the craving in our hearts today. We shall have no sin there. We shall desire only and do only what is good. We shall be what we have only seemed or wished to be—honest, true, noble, sincere, genuine to the very centre of our being.

2. And that will make it easier to understand the second fact revealed to us. No sorrow there. They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more. There shall be no more curse. No pain, nor sorrow, nor crying, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. That is not hard to believe. Sin is the chief cause of our sorrow on earth. If there be no sin there, if all are pure and unselfish, and generous and true and kind, and all these things, it is easily understood. But let us have no silly sentiment about it. It cannot be understood by any man who believes in that false popular doctrine of Hell that we dealt with last Sunday. The true doctrine of Hell is very different. It is silly to talk of "no sorrow in Heaven" to any who believe that at death by God's decree your erring boy has his destiny fixed unchangeably for ever—an eternity of infinite sin and infinite degradation and infinite misery where he never can repent, never can escape, where after ages and ages his misery will be but grown. If any one here can believe that and look forward to having no sorrow in Heaven—well, I think I would rather not make the acquaintance of that person.

3. No sin in Heaven. No sorrow in Heaven. What else do we certainly know? That the essence of the Heaven-life will be love. The giving of oneself for the service of others. The going out of oneself in sympathy with others. That at last will be realized St. Paul's glorious ideal. There it can be said of every man, He suffereth long and is kind; envieth not; is puffed up; seeketh not his own; beareth not uncharitably. He is like the eternal God Himself, Who beareth all things—hath all things endured all things.

4. We may well believe that there will be no dead level of attainment, no dead level of perfection and joy. That would seem to us very uninteresting. If we may judge from God's feelings here and from the many texts of Scripture, there will be an infinite variety of temperaments, of positions, of character. In the Father's house there are many mansions. Our Lord assumes that we would expect that from our experience here. "If it were not so I would have told you." I suppose there will be little ones there needing to be taught and weak ones needing to be helped; strong leaders sitting at His right hand in His Kingdom and poor backward ones that never expected to get into it at all.

And so surely we may believe, too will there be varieties of character and temperament. We shall not lose (continued on page seven.)

When the bread or cake or pastry comes from the oven light, crisp and appetizing, you are sure to say you have had good luck with your baking.

The "good luck" idea is a relic of the time when housekeepers prized their competency against poor flour.

To-day good baking isn't a matter of good luck in any home where Royal Household Flour is intelligently used.

In the hands of competent housewives it never fails because it is the whitest, lightest, purest and best baking flour to be had.

If the goodness of your baking is due to chance, your grocer is giving you the wrong kind of flour. Ask for Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour Mills Co., Ltd. Montreal.

The quiet town of Pugwash, N. S., had a fit of excitement on Saturday last by the appearance of a genuine wild bear on the public highway. A hunting party was at once organized and gave chase to brain, who sought to escape by taking to the harbor. The hunting party procured a motor boat and speedily overtook him. Attempts were made to capture him alive, but the bear put up such a stubborn resistance, that the pursuing party were compelled to shoot him.

SCOTT ACT AMENDMENT.

A bill has been introduced at Ottawa to amend the Scott Act, making it unlawful to send liquor into a county in which the act is in force from one where it is not. The Bill passed the Senate without amendment and will likely become law. This is the law concerning which a resolution was passed in the House of Assembly and, if enacted, will prove, so far as law goes, the most efficient temperance measure ever passed.

Has Canada's Century Begun?
(New York Sun.)
That the nineteenth century belonged to the United States and that the twentieth would be Canada's has been the jubilant attitude of the Canadians for ten years and more. Now the grain carrying trade of New York is suffering from the competition of Montreal, with the result that the White Star Line has withdrawn five of its freighters from the service at this port. Other lines have taken similar action. Two and one-half cents can be saved on each bushel by shipping by way of Montreal, and the grain trade will follow the line of least resistance. It remains to be seen what action can be taken to bring the trade back to the United States. The steamship officials want reductions in railway charges to overcome the present advantages Montreal. This presupposes the willingness of the shipping men to do their share. Yet the natural advantages are with the Canadian port the effort to compete with it by means of artificial stimulation is not likely to be successful in the long run. Has Canada's century begun?

THROW AWAY LINIMENTS

Here's the Prescription to Cure Rheumatism.
Liniments only reach the skin and the muscles directly under the skin. Now, liniments can't cure rheumatism. They simply deaden the nerves for a time. When the effect wears away, the pain returns worse than ever. If the cowles do not move regularly—self the kidneys are strained or weak—If the skin is dry or hard—the blood is sure to be filled with impurities or urea. This urea is changed into uric acid which is the poison that causes rheumatism. Now, the only possible way to cure rheumatism is to prevent uric acid from being formed. Logically, the only way to do this is to keep kidneys, bowels and skin in good working order and prevent the stomach from being too acid. And the only way to do this is to take "Fruit-a-tive". These marvelous tablets of fruit juices and tonics act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin—and put them in perfect condition. That is the only secret of their great success in curing rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago. See a bottle at $2.50. "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

HO FOR THE ARCTIC.

"Cap." Bernier the Bold is about to brave the rigors of the Arctic again, and, if the news were likely to thrill the Canadian public, recollection of the two-poled penicillin, the costly wines, liquors, cigars, tobacco, fur coats and feminine headgear, with which the intrepid explorer's vessel was stocked for a previous excursion, would abate rising public enthusiasm over another venture at the expense of the country. Bernier's ship is now being fitted out in Quebec. The avowed object of the cruise is "the interception of whalers, collection of duty, and annexation of any land they may encounter that is not already possessed."

OVERN THIRTY-FIVE YEARS.

In 1872 there was a great deal of diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera infantum. It was at this time that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was first brought into use. It proved more successful than any other remedy or treatment and has for thirty-five years maintained that record. From a small medicine its sale and use has extended to every part of the United States and to many foreign countries. Now, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is recommended by their opinion is asked, although they have other medicines that pay them a great profit. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by W. A. WARREN, BRIDGETOWN, W. W. WADE AND BEAR RIVER DRUG STORE, BEAR RIVER.

W. A. WARREN, BRIDGETOWN, N. S.

Nova Scotia's Summer Course for Teachers.

The following editorial from the "Farmer's Advocate," of London, Canada, the leading agricultural magazine of the Dominion, speaks for itself. Editorial systems must adapt themselves to the needs of the user, else they will fall to profit as they might, and on the other hand fail to fully enlist the support of those they are intended to serve. The present is an age of industrial activity, and the vast majority of public school pupils are interested in and will devote themselves to the so-called practical pursuits. Applied science ought therefore to occupy a prominent place in every school curriculum. The problem is how to secure a class of teachers who can present the various subjects of the school curriculum in such a way as to relate them to the practical pursuits of life—a problem more easily stated than solved. Nevertheless, there are men who, realizing the problem, are seeking means by which they themselves can learn more of those things which go to make up the environment in which their pupils' activities will be spent. Thus, briefly and pointedly, does the preamble of the initial announcement explain the need and purpose of the annual midsummer school for teachers which has been inaugurated at Truro, Nova Scotia, at the affiliated College of Agriculture and Provincial Normal School. The course this summer will last a month, commencing July 14th, and running to August 13th, comprising field excursions, laboratory work, and lectures in nature study, school gardening, agriculture, horticulture, biology, natural history, physics and chemistry, geology, and manual training. In addition, teachers attending will have an opportunity to take a special course under an efficient instructor in physical drill, qualifying them for a diploma of efficiency in teaching this subject. Should attendance warrant, classes in music and photography may also be provided, and facilities will be afforded for special or advanced students wishing to pursue any definite line of biological or chemical study.

By attendance at this summer school Nova Scotia teachers may qualify themselves to receive what is designated the "Rural Science Diploma," entitling the holder to an extra Provincial grant. In order to minimize the expenses of attendance the Nova Scotia government will pay transportation charges of all Nova Scotia teachers who complete the course satisfactorily; and furthermore, under Regulation 138 of the Nova Scotia government, one or two of vacation may be obtained. Tuition to all students will be free, the only necessary expenses being on board which may be secured at from $3.00 to $3.50 per week. While the course is arranged primarily for the teachers in the Nova Scotia schools, anyone from any of the Maritime Provinces who is interested in nature study may enter.

The personnel of the faculty is ample guarantee of success. Principal M. Cumming, of the Agricultural College, Dartmouth, is to be assisted by able members of the College and Normal School staffs, as well as by Mr. John Dearness, Vice-principal of the Normal School, London, Ont., who is to lecture on biology and nature study. The Director is to be particularly congratulated on securing the services of Mr. Dearness, who is a man of rare pedagogical experience and efficiency, as well as a pioneer champion of nature study and natural science, in the adaptation of which a more inspiring and helpful instructor is probably not to be found elsewhere.

The inauguration of this summer course marks another splendid forward step in Nova Scotia's educational policy. As the twig is bent in the tree's inclination. Without interesting the public school children in agriculture and rural life, all efforts at agricultural college and collegiate education can produce but a mediocre result. The root of the rural education problem lies in the training of teachers, and Nova Scotia in common with Ontario, Massachusetts, and other enterprising Provinces and States is going about it in the right way.

BOY'S LIFE SAVED.
My little boy, four years old, had a severe attack of dysentery. We had two physicians, both of them gave him up. We then gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which cured him, and believe that saved his life.—WILLIAM H. STROILING, Carbon Hill, Ala. There is no doubt but this remedy saves the lives of many children each year. Give it with castor oil according to the plain printed directions and a cure is certain. For sale by W. A. WARREN, BRIDGETOWN, W. W. WADE AND BEAR RIVER DRUG STORE, BEAR RIVER. Sample free.

Gas is liable to puff out of the front door of any furnace unprovided for gas escape. "Sunshine" Furnace has Automatic Gas Damper directly connected with smoke-pipe. Gas pressure sways damper sufficiently for it to escape up chimney (see illustration), but heat doesn't escape. What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" Furnace? Means protection to the furnace parts against evil effects of gas. What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" householder? Means furnace can be operated without fear as to "puffing" gas-furnace can be left without doubt as to whereabouts of gas. What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" coal account? It means, instead of owner with "ordinary furnace" fear having to keep check-draft indefinitely closed to "let off" gas—when there's two-thirds parts of heat-energy to one part of gas passing up chimney—draft can with all safety be opened, and coal saved for another day's duty.

The wedding march was played by Rev. Frederic Whitney Fitz, rector of St. John's church, Boston. After the ceremony luncheon was served at the residence of the bride's father, at which immediate friends of the family were present. The groom's gift to the bride was a bracelet watch, and to the bridesmaid a turquoise ring. The conventional gifts were numerous and included many of much worth. The bride's going away gown was of green Panama cloth, with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Tupper will visit close in the Eastern States, returning by way of Cape Breton and the Bras d'Or lakes to Digby, where they will reside. R. B. Viets, private secretary of the minister of finance, Ottawa, and Gerald D. Viets, of the G. T. R., brothers of the bride, came to Digby to attend the ceremony.

CONDOLENCES, BROTHER.

(Yarmouth Telegram.) The Digby Courier, in a mournful strain, prints the following in its last issue:

"OUR BROTHER-IN THIS WORLD -After publishing church notices, tea meetings, concerts, pie socials, and all other advertising local free for the last twenty years, the editor of the Courier was informed this week by an officer of one of the Digby churches that the reason an order for a year's supply of collection envelopes was being sent to St. John's, our price was 25 cents more than the city office, which made a specialty of envelopes."

This reminds us of an episode in our experience a while ago. A lady called to receive from us a subscription for a local benevolent institution, and when we told her that we were giving all advertising to it gratis, she let the exclamation escape: "Oh, we don't consider that anything." With that remark the conversation ceased, the lady having put her foot in it, and we rejecting to know that our labors were appreciated.

In The Fog

closed it. Then he rapped twice on the door of what was apparently the drawing-room. There was no reply to his knock, and he rapped again, and then timidly, and cringing subserviently, opened the door and stepped inside. He withdrew himself at once and stared stupidly at me, shaking his head.

"She is not there," he said. He stood for a moment gazing blankly through the open door, and then hastened toward the dining-room. The solitary candle which still burned there seemed to assure him that the room also was empty. He came back and bowed me toward the drawing-room. "She is above," he said; I will inform the Princess of the Excellency's presence."

"Before I could stop him he had turned and was running up the staircase, leaving me alone at the open door of the drawing-room. I decided that the adventure had gone quite far enough, and if I had been able to explain to the Russian that I had lost my way in the fog, and only wanted to get back into the street again, I would have left the house on the instant.

"Of course, when I first rang the bell of the house I had no other expectation than that it would be answered by a parlor-maid who would direct me on my way. I certainly could not then foresee that I would disturb a Russian princess in her boudoir, or that I might be thrown out by her athletic bodyguard. Still, I thought I ought not now to leave the house without making some apology, and, if the worst should come, I could show my card. They could hardly believe that a member of an Embassy had any designs upon the hat-rack.

"The room in which I stood was dimly lighted, but I could see that, like the hall, it was hung with heavy Persian rugs. The corners were filled with palms, and there was the unmistakable odor in the air of Russian cigarettes, and strange, dry scents that carried me back to the bazaars of Vladivostok. Near the front windows was a grand piano, and at the other end of the room a heavily carved screen of some black wood, picked out with ivory. The screen was overhung with a canopy of silken draperies, and formed a sort of alcove. In front of the alcove was spread the white skin of a polar bear, and set on that was one of those low Turkish coffee tables. It held a lighted spirit lamp and two gold coffee cups. I had heard no movement from above stairs, and it must have been fully three minutes that I stood waiting, noting these details of the room and wondering at the delay, and at the strange silence.

"And then, suddenly, as my eye grew more used to the half-light, I saw, projecting from behind the screen as though it were stretched along the back of a divan, the hand of a man and the lower part of his arm. I was as startled as though I had come across a footprint on a deserted island. Evidently the man had been sitting there since I had come into the room, even since I had entered the house, and he had heard the servant knocking upon the door. Why he had not declared himself I could not understand, but I supposed that possibly he was a guest, with no reason to interest himself in the Princess's other visitors, or perhaps, for some reason, he did not wish to be observed. I could see nothing of him except his hand, but I had an unpleasant feeling that he had been peering at me through the carving in the screen, and that he still was doing so. I moved my feet noisily on the floor and said tentatively, 'I beg your pardon.'

"There was no reply, and the hand did not stir. Apparently the man was bent upon ignoring me, but as all I wished was to apologize for my intrusion and to leave the house, I walked up to the alcove and peered around it. Inside the screen was a divan piled with cushions, and on the end of it nearer me the man was sitting. He was a young Englishman with light yellow hair and a deeply bronzed face. He was seated with his arms stretched out along the back of the divan, and with his head resting against a cushion. His attitude was one of complete ease. But his mouth had fallen open, and his eyes were set with an expression of utter horror. At the first glance I saw that he was quite dead.

"For a flash of time I was too startled to act, but in the same flash I was convinced that the man had met his death from no accident, that he had not died through any ordinary failure of the laws of nature. The expression on his face was much too terrible to be misinterpreted. It spoke as eloquently as words. It told me that before the end had come he had watched his death approach and threaten him.

"I was so sure he had been murdered that I instinctively looked on the floor for the weapon, and, at the same moment, out of concern for my own safety, quickly behind me, but the silence of the house continued unbroken.

"I have seen a great number of dead men; I was on the Asiatic Station during the Japanese-Chinese war. I was in Port Arthur after the massacre. So a dead man, for the single reason that he is dead, does not repel me, and, though I knew that there was no hope that this man was alive, still, for decency's sake, I felt his pulse, and while I kept my ears alert for any sound from the floors above me, I pulled open his shirt and placed my hand upon his heart. My fingers instantly touched upon the opening of a wound, and as I withdrew them I found them wet with blood. He was in evening dress, and in the wide bosom of his shirt I found a narrow slit, so narrow that in the dim light it was scarcely discernible. The wound was no wider than the smallest blade of a pocket-knife, but when I stripped the shirt away from the chest and left it bare I found that the wound, narrow as it was, had been long enough to reach his heart. There is no need to tell you how I felt as I stood by the body of this boy, for he was hardly older than a boy, or of the thoughts that came into my head. I was bitterly sorry for this stranger, bitterly indignant at his murderer, and, at the same time, selfishly concerned for my own safety and for the notoriety which I saw was sure to follow. My instinct was to leave the body where it lay, and to hide myself in the fog, but I also felt that since a succession of accidents had made me the only witness to a crime, my duty was to make myself a good witness and to assist to establish the facts of this murder.

"That it might possibly be a suicide, and not a murder, did not disturb me for a moment. The fact that the weapon had disappeared, and the expression on the boy's face were enough to convince, at least me, that he had had no hand in his own death. I judged it, therefore, of the first importance to discover who was in the house, or, if they had escaped from it, who had been in the house before I entered it. I had seen one man leave it; but all I could tell of him was that he was a young man, that he was in evening dress, and that he had fled in such haste that he had not stopped to close the door behind him.

"The Russian servant I had found apparently asleep, and, unless he acted a part with supreme skill, he was a stupid and ignorant boor, and as innocent of the murder as myself. There was still the Russian princess whom he had expected to find, or had pretended to expect to find, in the same room with the murdered man. I judged that she must now be either upstairs with the servant, or that she had, without his knowledge, already fled from the house. When I recalled his apparently genuine surprise at not finding her in the drawing-room, this latter supposition seemed the more probable. Nevertheless, I decided that it was my duty to make a search, and after a second hurried look for the weapon among the cushions of the divan, and upon the floor, I cautiously crossed the hall and entered the dining-room.

A WOMAN OF QUICK WIT.

Few lives so lend themselves to dramatic narration as Susan B. Anthony's, says the Delineator. It ranged from tragedy to comedy, with scattered bits of melodrama, she ever in the center of the stage. With her everything was always intensely realistic—not acting.

Miss Anthony had a peculiar facility of condensing a whole speech into a single sentence. For instance, when she heard men lamenting that the profession of teacher was not respected as much as the other professions, "Do you not see that so long as society says woman has not brains enough to be a doctor, lawyer, or minister, but has plenty to be a teacher, every man of you who consents to teach tacitly admits before all Israel and the sun that he has no more brains than a woman?" And when Horace Greeley said to her at Albany, "You know the ballot and bullet go together—if you vote, are you ready to fight?" instantly she retorted, "Yes, Mr. Greeley, just as you fought in the late war—at the point of a rose quill!" Again, when she was talking on divorce and the Rev. A. D. Mayo thinking to annihilate her, said, "You are not married; you have no business to be discussing marriage."

"Wall, Mr. Mayo," she answered, "you are not a slave; suppose you quit lecturing on slavery!"

Every time you surrender to doubt, anger, fear, jealous envy, or whatever you know to be wrong, you simply augment the fault you despise. You are adding more fuel to the flame, instead of putting it out. If you keep the fuel away from the fire, it will go out, because there will be nothing on which it can feed.

Chewing Tobacco

THE CIGARETTE'S BANEFUL EFFECT.

"Yesterday I had before me thirty-five boy prisoners. Thirty-three of them were confirmed cigarette smokers. I have made the gruesome discovery that two of the largest cigarette manufacturers soak their product in a weak solution of opium. The fact that out of thirty-five prisoners thirty-three smoked cigarettes might seem to indicate some direct connection between cigarettes and crime. And when it is announced on good authority that most cigarettes are doped with opium, the connection is not hard to understand. Opium is like whiskey—it creates an increasing appetite that craves with what it feeds upon.

A growing boy who lets tobacco and opium get hold upon his senses is never long in coming under the domination of whiskey, too. Tobacco is the boy's earliest and most direct road to whiskey. When opium is added, the young man's chance of resisting the combined force and escaping physical, mental and moral harm is slim indeed.

The above is a statement made by a New York magistrate quoted by Orison Sweet Marden in the Success Magazine. Magistrate Crane, of New York city, says—"Ninety-nine out of a hundred boys between the ages of ten and seventeen years who come before me charged with crime have their fingers discolored with yellow cigarette stains. . . . I am not a crank on this subject; I do not care to pose as a reformer, but it is my opinion that cigarettes will do more than liquor to ruin boys. When you have arranged before you boys honestly dealt through the excessive use of cigarettes, boys who have stolen their sister's earnings, boys who absolutely refuse to work, who do nothing but gamble and steal, you cannot help seeing that there is some direct cause, and a great deal of this boyhood crime is, in my mind, easy to trace to the deadly cigarette. There is something in the poison of the cigarette that seems to get into the system of the boys and to destroy all moral fibre."

A glass of iced "Salada" Tea will be found most refreshing this warm weather. As cooling as a summer breeze.

Grover Cleveland Is No More

Princeton, N. J., June 24.—Grover Cleveland, twice president of the United States, died at 8:40 o'clock this morning at his home, "Westland" in this college town where he lived since his retirement as the nation's chief executive, almost twelve years ago. When the end came which was sudden, there was in the deathbed chamber on the second floor of the Cleveland residence, Mrs. Cleveland, Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, of New York, Mr. Cleveland's family physician, and Dr. George Lookwood, also of New York, and Dr. John M. Carverman, of Princeton. An official statement given out after noon, signed by the three physicians, gave heart trouble, superinduced by stomach and kidney ailments of long standing as the cause of death. While Mr. Cleveland had been in poor health for the past two years, and had lost a hundred pounds in weight, his death came unexpected.

THEY SHOULD BE DISCOURAGED.

The country seems to be inundated at present, with travelling beggars. Some with briefs, some with cards and various other things, and all wanting largess. We do not believe in encouraging these travelling mendicants. They are trouble every one on the face of it. If anyone is needy and deserving in this country, he can receive all the help in his own neighborhood, and among those who know that he is worthy of it. The fact that these fellows find that a wandering and vagabond life suits their miserable style of beastly existence and so they make a business of it and proceed to gull the public, all beside a great many, in fact nearly all of them, are vicious, and reckless, and crime stalks in their tracks ready for any opportunity. They should be discouraged, and the best way to discourage them, is to withhold from giving to them or have them arrested, and sent back to their place of beginning, as it says in the language of Deeds. Instead of a hand out, give them a hand in—Advance.

Didn't Agree with Me

Mr. Arthur Tension, 88 London Street, Toronto, writes enthusiastically on the merits of Psychine for all stomach troubles. For seven years I have had indigestion and dyspepsia. I tried scores of remedies. My room resembled a drug store with nostrums which I had bought. Eventually I used Psychine, and every dose brought permanent relief. All the troubling and stomach troubles quickly cured by Psychine. It is the prescription of a great specialist. At drug stores, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto.

I KILLED A MAN.

(Montague Grover, in "The Booklet" of "The Sydney.")
 I killed a man at Graspas.
 I killed him fair in fight;
 And the Empire's poets and the Empire's priests
 Sweat and I acted right.
 The Empire's poets and the Empire's priests
 Make out my deed was fine—
 But I can't stop the eyes of the
 From starting into mine.

I killed a man at Graspas,
 Maybe I was a score;
 But this one wasn't a chance shot
 Home
 At a thousand yards or more.
 I fired at him when he'd got no
 With the cordite scorchin' his old worn coat
 As the bullet drilled his heart.

I killed a man at Graspas,
 I killed him fightin' fair.
 We came on each other's face to face
 An' we went at it then an' there,
 Mine was the trigger that shifted first.
 His was the life that sped.
 An' a man I'd never a quarrel with
 Was spread on the bonniers dead.

I killed a man at Graspas,
 I watched him squirmin' till
 He raised his eyes and chey met with mine.
 An' there they're startin' still.
 Cut o' me brother Tom, he looked Hardly more'n a kid.
 An' Christ, he was stiffen' at me feet.
 Because of the thing I did.

I killed a man at Graspas,
 My first an' God, my last;
 Harder to dodge than my bullet is
 The look that his dead eyes cast.
 If the Empire asis for me laive an'
 I'll ask for me in vain
 Before I reach to my handollie.
 To fire on a man again.

I killed a man at Graspas,
 I tof' the camp that night.
 An' of all the lies that ever I tof'
 That was the poorest skite.
 I swore I was proud o' me hand to hand.
 An' the Boer I'd chance to pot-an' all the time I ha' rave the eyes
 To never ha' fired that shot.

I killed a man at Graspas,
 An hour ago about,
 For there he lies with his startin'
 eyes,
 An' his blood still tricklin' out.
 I know it was either him or me.
 I know that I killed him fair,
 But, all the same, wherever I look
 The man that I killed is there.

HELP FOR THOSE WHO HAVE STOMACH TROUBLE.
 After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.

A number of the youngsters of the place have been caught stealing. This is not the first time, and unless more repressive measures than a tongue lashing are adopted the result will be a crop of criminals.

It is a question after all, whether or not it is advisable to fall in love or to be the more sensible course of letting yourself down gently. Those who prefer to fall often get stung and never get over the effects, as is evidenced by the exhibition they make of themselves in wrangles and separations.

Bishop Jaggars' summer residence here has not been rented. Seventy-five dollars per month is what the Bishop usually charges for the place and heretofore he has had no difficulty renting at this figure with the hard times accounts for its lying idle this season.

No community can afford to act the hypocrite and cover up wrong doing. It is too much the custom to appear mainly by treating with consideration those who are criminals, pure and simple. Moral backbone is the thing needed, and the sooner this is realized the better. There will be no improvement so long as people are allowed to do as they like. It does not pay to be cowardly.

If a clock goes totally, nobody knows the time of day, and, if your allotted task is a necessary link in the chain of another man's work, you are his clock, and he ought to be able to rely on you.—Blackie.

Just as good outdoors as indoors—and nothing else does so well for either. Why don't you get your floors disease proof?

Your dealer should have Floor-glaze. Let us know if he hasn't. You would find our Free Book interesting reading. May we send you a copy? Ask on a postcard. Imperial Varnish & Color Co., Limited, Toronto.
