Technical and Bibliographic Notes / Notes techniques et bibliographiques

may be of the signification	stitute has vailable for bibliograp images in t antly chan d below.	r filming, phically u the reprod	Featur nique, uction	res of th which r , or whi	his copy may alter ich may	which any				lui a exem biblio repro dans	été po plaire ograph duite,	ssible d qui sor ique, q ou qui	e se pr it peut ui peuv peuve	oci ar, Fêtre uni Vent moc Int exige	Les dé iques d difier u r une n	nplaire quetails de de la point de la poin	cet de vue e tion
1 1	Coloured co Couverture		ır									de cou
1 1	Covers dam Couverture	•	agée								_	damag endom		s
	Covers rest Couverture				ée									or lamın ou pellic
	Cover title : .e titre de :	_	e manc	lue					[_			tained o ichetées
	Coloured maps/ Cartes géographiques en couleur						Pages detached/ Pages détachées
1 1	Coloured in Incre de co											through parence
	Coloured p											y of pr é inéga		ies/ impressi	on
1 1	lound with Relié avec d			nts								nuous p	- al L	ight bindi long interi a reliure si istorsion l	or margin errée peut	/ causer	de l'on	nbre ou c						Comp	les inde rend un	(des)	index in from:	,
		-												provient	•
w []	lank leave within the teen omitte	text. Whe	never p lming/	ossible	, these h	sve						age of e titre		vraison
Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutées lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cela était possible, ces pages n'ont						Caption of issue/ Titre de départ de la livraison
p.	as été film	ees.								- {	Masthe Généri		riodiq	ues) de l	a livrai	ison
Additional comments:/ This copy is a photoreproduction. Commentaires supplémentaires:
	m is filmed iment est f					-
10X	ment est i	14 X		reducti	183 181		essuus.		22 X			:	26×			30×
													1				T-
	12X		1	16X		1	20X		L	L	24 X			i	 		32 X

Volume 1. Burlington Ladies' Academy, Hamilton, C. W., Thursday, October 9, 1848.

Number 24

Iv Father.'

" At evening time there shall be light."

Sacred the hour, when thou my sainted Father Wast of thy worn-out sinking clay undressed Sofily by his pale hands, who comes to gather Time's weart polygima home to love and rest.

Noisoless, and clear, and holiest of the seven That day, when thy last earthly and went down

That day, when thy last earthly sun went down?
Thy Sabbath, closing here, began in Heaven,
Whilst thy meek brow changed ashes for a crown.

Hush was the evening, not a zephyr swelling
Heaved the tree-blossom, or the woodbine leaves;
Silent the bird, which sung about our dwelling,
Slepr, where she nesiled close beneath its caves.

Cloudless the moon and stars above were shining,
When Time's last ray to thy mild sye was shed;
While Death's cold touch, lifes silver cord entwining,
Brought his chill night dew on thy reverend head.

Ninety full years of pilgrimage completing,
How did'st thou linger still one Sabbath more;
'Twas holy time, thy pure heart stilled its beating,
Pain, work, and warfare, were forever o'er!

Now, while the robin past thy window flying, Sends off her young forsaking here her nest, Constant the wild bird where thy dust is lying, Sings her sweet hymn a requiem to its rest.

There has it joined the ashes of my mother,
Faithful, re-wedded to its only bride;
And there thy latest born, my younger brother.
Thy fond heart's care, sleeps closely by her side.

Yet, angel father, over Jordan's water
Is it so far, that now thou caust not see
Back to the shore, where lonely stands thy daughter,
Sprinkling its rocks and thorns with tears for thee?

Art thou so distant, wissons of thy glory
May not be granted to her mortal sight;
When she so long watched o'ex, thy head so hoary,
Smoothing its pillow till that mournful night?

of the filmer of the

Since here so oft, in pain, the path of duty

Thy patient feet with steady steps have god;

Safe now they walk the golden streets of beauty,

And oh! thy blessed eyes see peace in God!

A Subscriber.

From the Christian Parlor Magazine.

Or all those historians who flourished in Fagland during the eighteenth century, Gibbon has acquired the name of being the most veracious and conscientious. His love for truth in history has become proverbial, and he went so far in his rigidity that he would have sooner abundaned twenty political projects, than al ter the slightest historical event. Voltaire gave rise to this new generation of misrepresenting authors, for certainly no one would presume to accuse him of having bound himself too closely. to the chariot of Truth. Many of his enemies, indeed, have declared that it was he who first introdued among us the art of blending history with romance. In a word, the author of the "Siecle de Louis XIV.," had just added to the series of his historical works, a collection of adventures and battles of the great hero of Sweden, and had decorated his work with the pompous title of the "History of Charles XII." Gibbon was filled with indignation at this prostitution of the name of history, and was not slow in manifesting his anger at the indelicacy of Voltaire. An article of the greatest severity and violence appeared in London, and was soon known throughout all Europe. Voltaire, whose literary susceptibility was easily aroused, became exasperated at his libeller, and vowed him an eternal hatred. An occasion for punishing him at last presented itself, and Voltaire did not fail to seize it. It was in this wise.

Gibbon was travelling in Switzerland. He was just about to give the last touches to his history of the Helvetian Republics, and he had resolved to come to that country in order to collect the documents which were indispensable for that important work. Already several years had elapsed since the scandal occasioned by his pamphlet against Voltaire.

At this period, as we have said, the court of Ferny was in all its glory; and Gibbon did not wish to return to his country without having seen and spoken to the prince of French philosophy. With this object in view he took up his abode at Geneva, and wrote to Voltaire asking permission to come to the castle. Voltaire was revenuelly he had not forgotten the writer who had abused him; consequently, an answer was sent to the latter, saying that he must abstain from visiting Ferney. Gibbon expected such a reply; but, like a true Englishman, he field on, and did not think himself con-quered. A few weeks passed. A new request was sent to Ferney, and the same answer returned. But obstacles excite the courage of high-minded beings. Gibbon is determined to see Voltaire. But he must find a new method. The way of negotiation cannot be pursued, he must carry the place by storm or by cunning. He resolved upon the latter method, for the first among philosophers was not practicable.

Therefore, one sunny morning, Gibbon filled his pockets with guineas, took his travelling stick, and set out for Voltaire's, dwelling. Ferney is but a few miles from Geneva. Gibbon was to arrive early at the gates of the castle. And now, while he is on the road, we will give you the portrait of the hero of our story.

Gibbon was of an ugliness difficult to describe; his enormous head, abundantly adorned with red hair-such as belongs to the most of Altion's children-was sunk down between two shoulders, more worthy of belonging to some quadruped than to a member of the human race. His fallow eyes glistened, it is true, with an extraordinary lustre, by which great men are always known; but this brightness was geatly lessoned by the inconceivable thickness of his eye-brows, which enaded the greater part of the upper portion of his face. Add to this a very round nose, with immense open nostrils; then a violet-colored mouth and a square chin; the whole covered with wrincles, and encased in a horrible thick garland of red and yellow whishers; and you will have, with great exactitude, the selucing portrait of our friend Gibbon. As to the fantastic hump, whose sinuous circumference occupied the place of three quarters of his spine, we will not say a word, nor of the strange inequality of his legs, which were miraculously placed almost in the middle-of his clavicular

Thus exquisitely shaped, Gibbon arrived at Ferney and range of the park. The porter hastened to open, and was about to plunge the key into the lock, when, O. fatal moment for Gibbon! he was recognized. And sure enough, who could mistake him? The description of our unfortunate hero had been given to Voltaire, at the request of the latter, by the Republic of Geneva, and all the domestics of the castle knew it. So Gibbon could not preserve his incognito. He must think of retreating ; but no. he is an Englishman, and will stand against the enemy. While the porter gives way to the cruel pleasure of repeating the orders of his master, and of examining the whimsical features of the stranger, the latter puts his hand in his pocket and makes his numerous guineas jingle; he takes them out, and displays them on his hand in the sun, and shows them to the astonished parter. This time adieu to Voltaire's orders; Gibbon will triumph. British gold has corrupted the porter's fidelity: the gues are mysteriously opened. Gibbon enter.... But his cumpaign does not end with the first victory; true, the first step is taken, perhaps the most diffi. cult one; but the next required greater courage and more skill; will Gil bon be able to overcome t e difficulties which attend it? The reader will judge from the sequel.

The porter, when he yielded to the generosity of our English. min, hid not assured him that he could have an interview with his mister. He had only agreed to let him come within the gates of the park and enter his lodge. Gibbon was to find out the way to see M. de Voltaire. In vain he ransacks his brain; in vain he strikes his forcheal; in vain he scratches his head; no idea came to his min l rowever, he must quit this critical position; but how shall be do so?

Voltaire owned a little English horse, of which he was very fond. He would permit no one but himself to feed him; it was he who daily filled the manger with the most tender hay; he who gave him to drink in a silver bucket which he had had made expressly for that object by one of the silversmiths of Ferney. For more gold, the porter will go and let loose the horse and will lead him to the great avenue of the park, leaving Gibbon to make as much of the disobedience as he can.

It was still early, as we have said, when the hero of our history arrived at Ferney, and the shutters of the castle were tightly shut; everything seemed to favor this hazardous enterprice; no inconsiderate witness was there to reveal Gibbon's conspiracy. When the bargain was struck and the gold paid, Gibbon hastens to the park, and hides hunself behind a large tree. The purter, on his part, goes straight to the stable, unties the colt, and runs off to his lodge. "The fresh morning air, and his unexpected liberty, act simultaneously on the petulant organization of the animal. He springs into the garden, jumping about, frisking and skipping in the midst of the flowers, neighing, and throwing the sand and gravel about with his feet. But suddenly a window is opened with a crash, and Voltaire's face is seen, white and trembling with the greatest rage..... Unfinished oaths and sentences are uttered; he curses his servants, sends them all to the evil one, and says he will drive them all away. At his voice the domestics of the castle run to him to see what is the matter, and wish to stop the horse; but Voltaire forbids their moving, and especially their touching him. He says he will himself come down and lead the animal to the stable, and endeavor to appease, by his paternal kindness, the impetuous disposition, which cannot fail to become fatal to his young disciple. And saying this, he runs down the steps, and follows the colt, calling it by its name, and coaxes it to return to its stable. But during all this time, Gibbon, hidden behind his tree, was able to examine the seatures of the great -writer whom he had so long desired to see. What was his astorishment when he saw the celebrated author of the ', Henriade," the immortal writer of tragedies, the prince of philosophy and infidely, fantastically accounted in a long red morning gown, his head covered with a tremendous wig "a la Louis XIV.," surmounting a ridiculous night-cap, which Mademe Denis had taken care the day before to ornament with a large yellow ribbon. Geest man! is it indeed you who are thus appearing. before the eyes of your antagonist, the colebrated Gibbon; before him, who, having ridiculad you as historian, will not fail to abuse you as philosopher! But it was not philosophy, history, Gibbon or scandal, that now occupied his mind! Voltaire was far from thinking of all these trifles; his horse had escaped; the morning dew would wet its hoofs, which might be broken against the stones. But alas! Voltaire little thinks that while he is trying to prevent his horse from catching cold, his cunning will be found in fault.... He continues his race, and soon finds himself apposite to the tree, from behind which Gibbon has been examining all his proceedings. All at once the English. man leaves the tree and walks with a firm step up to Voltaire, and with the phlegmatic nonchalance for which his countrymen are distinguished, announces his name, and declares that he will now return content to his country, since he has had the luck of seeing the great man.

Voltaire, stupified at the ugliness of our hero, and at the impudence of his proceeding, lost his wits, forgot his horse, and ran away as fast as he could towards the house, without even answering a word to the treacherous Gibbon. Several minutes elapsed: our Englishman, proud of his victory, has not yet left the park. Like a conqueror, he takes the liberty of surveying the field of battle which his enemy has just abandoned. However, he was thinking of returning to Geneva, when he was overtaken by a liverted servant, who bows to him, and begins by begging his pardon for the singularity of the message which h was about to diliver; but said his master commanded, he must obev.

Gibbon, curious to know the object of this errand, requests the domestic to explain it.

" My lord sends me to Mr. Gibbon," said he," to demand twelve guineas for having seen the beast"

"Here, my friend," replied the Englishman, "here are twenty-four: and tell your master that I have paid in advance for secing him again; I will here await your return."

The servant goes to deliver our hero's answer, and soon returns to Gibbon: but this time with a real invitation from Vol. taire to spend the remainder of the day at Ferney, and to par. take of the dinner of the chateau.

merits reprobation.

Gibbon congratulates himself on the happy effect of his wit, and promises himself much pleasure in the few hours that he is about to spend in the Voltairian court, with Voltaire himself But, alas! the philosopher did not, indeed, take seriously the pleasantry of Gibbon, which he had provoked by one of those caprices which were so common to him; but as the conduct of the Englishm in had offended him, he was not willing to allow a full victory to his antagonist. He did not show himself during any part of the day, and did not even come to dinner. Gibbon, however, consoled himself about that.

When the time for the dinner was come, he are enough for four persons, drank in like proportion, and appeared very jovial towards all the countiers and when the meat was finished, he tore a leaf from his pocket-book, and wrote the following impious lines, which he sent to his host: "M. de Voltaire is like the god of the Roman Catholics—he allows himself to be eaten & drunk, but does not let himself be seen." He then took his travelling stick and returned to Geneva by the same conveyance which brought him to Ferney, and the same week he left Geneva for London. A few months afterwards he published his History of the Helvetian Republic, which seuled his literary renown.

Por the Calliopean

The Accomplished Lady.

CONGLEDED.

These ladies of modern refinement, as I said before, are perfect strangers to domestic economy, domestic enjoyment, and to all those delights and pleasures, which are always to be found in a well regulated domestic circle. Ask them to descend with you for a little from their refined elevation, to survey and enjoy these delights and pleasures, and they will tell you at once, that it is not at all compatable with the station in which they move, and that they would not for worlds be seen thus degrading themselves; and if you ever were so fortunate as to possess a share in their estimation, you will now be totally discarded, for you have given such a shock to their refinement as has rendered them incapable of any longer enduring your society. They have cantoned out to themselves a sphere in which they intend to move, and all who are not confined within these bounds must necessarily fall under their contempt. But why is it thus? are the ladies of the present age possessed of a higher sensibility and genuine refinement than they were centuries ago, that they should be thus affected by the mention of the kitchen and of manuel labour? for then even princesses were taught all the mysteries of the distaff. No, but Fushion that tyrant mistress, into whose service they have entered has produced the change. Fashion, that enslaver of the human mind, has gained an unbounded influence over them, by which she keeps them constantly bowing before her shrine.

Mistress Passion, upon whose banner is emblazoned the motto "as well out of the world as out of the fashion," has touched them with her magic wand and metamorphosed them into birds of Paradise, beings too etherial for the every day matters of earth. All scientific and domestic pursuits having been excluded from their refined vocabulary of accomplishments, it is in vain to attempt conversation with them, for they will immediately ascend into the upper regions of modern accomplishments, and these are things wholly above your comprehension. But do these accomplishments so called, form any part of that noble, and at the sum: time, modest and humble bearing which ought to be the leading characteristic of every Lady? The wiser part of the community will answer, no To a sensible and elevated mind, nothing can appear more ridiculous and contemptible than the airs which are sometimes assumed by young persons on leaving school, and making their entry into the world of fashion. Far be it from us, however, to condemn music and other accomplishments; we have only been speaking of their abuse. We would say, in the language of another, "let these take their proper rank; they are pleasant, as interludes in the great drama of life's duties." If an actor in an inferior part should fancy himself the hero, and -nuff the candles, or perform any trifling service, as though it were an affair of importance, the beholders would consider it ludicrous; so to a reflecting mind must appear the muner of those who seem to think the singing of a song, or playing a piece of music, an occasion of the deepest interest." Many, in consequence of the servility with which some bow at the shrine of fashion, would deprive woman of all title to intellectual capacity, and consign her wholly to the sphere of passion and affection. But such conclusions are certainly uncharitable and without foundation, insomuch as many females have attained to eminence in science and literature. It is not, however, our present object to advocate woman's claim to the cha. racter of an intellectual being; still it must be acknowledged by all, that that kind of education which seems to regard the life of woman as consisting of one universal holiday, and that the only contest, is, who shall be best enabled to excel in the sports and games which are to be celebrated, is radically defective and

Females have been taught by the noble minded and well educated of their own sex, as well as by the word of God, that their Miker has assigned them places in society for higher and holier purposes, than to sparkle for a few hours like the dew-. drops in the morning sun-beam, and then vanish away as a thing of nought. They have been taught, that to be truly accomplish. ed is to have the mind stored with useful knowledge, to be able to converse intelligently, as well as pleasingly, to be usefully employed in domestic life, or in acts of charity and benevolence. Such was the character of a Hannah Moore, and of innumerable other Females whose names will be mentioned with respect and veneration, even to the latest generation. Nor can those acquisitions and qualities, above mentioned, alone constitute the truly accomplished Lady. To these must be super-added, piety to God. This is the brightest gem that can eradicate the brow of femile beauty; the foundation of all true excellence. Such is the accomplished Lady. Her great nim is to make others happy; so to make them happy as to win them over to a full perception of the loveliness of those Christian virtues, which her own life and conduct consistently show forth.

Place one of the butterflies of fashion beside that holy, self-denying Missionary, Ann Judson, and then say which is the accomplished Lady?

We repeat that piety is the greatest ornament of the Female character; without it all accomplishments will be like the gilding of a picture frame, which for a time adds to its beauty, but by degrees becomes turnished and, finally, only mars what would otherwise be really beautiful. Nothing, indeed, can compensate for the want of this 'Pearl of great price.' 'I hough she descend into the dark recesses of nature and explore her hidden mysteries, or though she ascend Parnassus' rugged height and become familiar with the Muses, and bind the wreaths Parnassian laureis yield upon her brow, or though she soar from this our lower world, and become acquainted with the magic of th starry heavens; if her life is not one of piety she cannot be called, strictly speaking, an accomplished Lady.

Additional Additional Additional Companies of the starry heavens; and accomplished Lady.

The First Steamboat.

In 1896, Mr. Fulton returned to America, having procured a steam engine, which was constructed according to his directions, by Messrs. Watt and Bolton, of England. He immediately commenced the building of his first steamboat at New York. In the spring of 1807, she was launched from the shippard of Mr. Charles Brown; the engine from England was put on board, and, in August, she moved, by the aid of her machinery, from her birth-place to the Jersey shore,

Great interest had been excited in the public mind in relation to the new experiment, and the wharves were crowded with spectators, assembled to witness the first trial. Ridicule and jeers were freely poured forth upon the boat and its projectors, until, at length, as she moved from the wharf, and increased her speed, the silence of astonishment which, at first enthralled the immense assemblage, was broken by one universal shout of acclamationand applause. The triumph of genius was complete, and the name of Fulton was thenceforward destined to stand corrolled among the benefactors of mankind.

The new boat was called the Clermont, in compliment to the place of residence of Mr. Livingston, and shortly after made her first trip to Albany and back, at an average speed of five miles an hour. The successful application of Mr. Fulton's invention had now been fairly tried, and the efficacy of navigation by steam fully determined. The Clermont was advertised as a packet-boat between New York and Albany, and continued, with some intermission, running the remainder of the season. Two other boats, the Raritan and Car of Neptune, were launched the same year, and a regular passenger line of steamboats was established from that period between New York, and Albany. In each of these boats, great improvements were made, although the machinery was yet imperfect:

The attempt has been frequently made, by those who were governed by narrow and unworthy motives, to deprive Fulton of the credit due for the greatest achievement of modern times—the actual establishment of steam navigation. The futility of such attempts is sufficiently evinced by the notorious fact, that, in 1907, he had put in practical operation the first steamboat that ever was built, and that no boat was launched in Europe which proved successful till five years after. This was constructed by Mr. Bell, of Glasgow, in 1812. At this time, four of Fulton's boats were running from New York.

It is not contended that Fulton is the first individual who conceived the idea of steam navigation, or sought by experiments to accomplish it. Rumsey is known to have attempted it in Virginia as early as 1787; Fitch made experiments in 1783; Oliver Evans in 1795; and Joulfray, in France, 1792. Indeed, the idea had been suggested by Jonathan Hulls, in England, even so far as the year 1736. But it was reserved for Fulton to perfect and bring into operation what had been conceived by others, but which had balled all human attempts to reduce it to practice.—

Parley's Benefactors.

For the Calliopean.

The Child's Droam of Paradist.

BY RUSTICUS

I saw a land of beauteous woods and fields,
A land of hills, with lovely vales between;
Where every tree its waited fragrance yields,
And stands rejoicing in its robe of green.
'the flowers around my path in beauty stood
Like a sweet band of linked sisters sleeping,
While the birds' songs within the dark-green wood
Came amid smiling, though I wakened weeping—

Mother! what land is that?

Was it a land where goodly trees are seen?
Where fairest flowers of every clime do meet?
And hast thou stood upon its hills of green.
To view its spreading beauties at thy feet?"
Tell trees were there; whose shadows fell like balm. Upon the flowers that round their bases grew;
And in the stillness of that deep, deep calm.
The music from their branches came like dew.
And there were silver streams within the vales.
Whose waters pure, the willows were embracing,
And Nightingales, that told net wondrous tales.
For finish the shade of palm, rees interlacing.—
Mother! what land is that?

"And was it brighter than thine own sweet home?

And were its flowers the ones thou lovest best?

And wert thou happy when thy feet did roam?

Far in the valleys, where thy dreams did rest?"

Methought our home was where the roses twine
A bower of bloom beneath those summer skies.
The sweet blue-bell, and lofty eglantine
Were there, with violets of a thousand dyes;
Upon the far-off misty hills of blue
A glory, as of countless suns, was shining,

And in my heart a gueb of fondness grewn with the wining Mother! what Land is that Tand

And did'st thou see the dwellers of that Land?
I saw them on the hill and in the grove.

And white-winged children led me by the hand.

And press'd around me with their looks of love?

They sweetly warbled in an unknown air

Beside a fountain that was ever flowing.

Till every singer seemed to me as fair.

o " It is the land of Paradise, my child! " it is it?" To Of every land the brightest and the best!

Where sorrow of its tears is all beguiled, And weary pilgrims had eternal rest.

"There may'st thou follow when my steps have gone Before thee, to that land beyond the skies;

And, waking, to behold a brighter sun Andrews Thou'lt softly murmur with a sweet surprise Andrews Mother! what LAND is This?"

St George, Dumfries. ...

For the Calhopean.

The Waverley Novels.

Bow as we may in universal homage to the genius of "the great magician of the North," the world has become too utilitarian in its views to rest adent under his fascination, and forget to call in question the great moral bearing of his works for good or evil. It no longer his at the foot of genius, and wor. ships it, alike whether ravaging the mental, moral and physical world, or throwing its vast influence in the scale of morality, and right. Witness the opinions of the first writers of the day on that most idolized of mortals, Napoleon. "He was as notorious," says William Howitt, "for his recklessness of human lite, for no possible end but his own notoriety; for his private cruelties and murders, as for his insolence and undignified anger; scolding those. who offended him like a tish-woman, boxing their ears, kicking them, etc.?, "It has always been wonderful to me," says Walter Savage Laudor," what sympathy any well educated Englishman can have with an ungenerous, in-manly Corsican." Or read that most eloquent and masterly essay of Dr. Channing on his character, in which, "shearing off, with stern and unfinching hand, all the beams of the false glory which encircled that long bead, he sees in it the head of a man full of blood, cruelty, and falsehood, like a red and rayless sun." Similar is the ordeal to which Lord Byron has been subjected and found wanting. "Year after year, and month after month, says Sheridan Knowles, the continued to repeat that to be wretched is the destiny of all; that to be eminently wretched is the destiny of the eminent; that all the desires by which we are cursed lead alike to misery-if they arenot gratified, to the interry of disappointment; it they are gratified, to the misery of satiety. His principal heroes are nien, who have arrived by different roads at the same goal of despair, who are sick of the, who are are war with society, who are supported in their anguish only by an unconquest? able pride, resembling that of Prometheus on the rock, or of Satan on the: burning marl; who can master their agonies by the force of their will and; who, to the last, defy the whole power of earth and Heaven." "His vulgar. Don Juan," says another, "has, perhaps, done more to corrupt the mind; and weaken the restraints of virtue, than any other book of the past century? and his Childe Harold, by na cheerless, but sublime misanthropy, has contributed to the most serious local ruptures, and taught thousands to regard every exhibition of generosity and friend-ship as heartless hypocrisy."

We mean not to say, that the moral turpitude of Sir Valter Scott is as great as that of Buonaparie or Byron, but that he possessed a kindred gents us with them, like their perverted it, and like them is answerable for the results.

The talents of Sir Walter Scott were undoubtedly great. In vivid desenphon of scenery, in life-like portraval of character, and in picturesqueness of narrance, he is almost unrivalled in the ranks of English literature. It has been well and a ait in suche battle Marinion is the most Homeric strife song since the song of Troy," and that ofew descriptions have a more complete resitty, a more striking appearance of life and motion, than that of the warriors in the Lide of the Like, who start up at the command of Roderic Dhu, from the reoncealment under the fern, and disappear again in an instant." His Poems, his Life of Napoleon, and his Scotish History, His Poems, his Life of Napoleon, and his Scorish History, possess these character.-in a m an eminent degree. So also, we as know. ledge, do his W werley Novels; if we did not do so, we should be liable to the charge of ex reme hierary ig torance. But though they are thus stamped with the impress of genius, they are guilty of the evils incidental to novelreading and novels, and which ching to them as inseparable as light from the sun. They are like the poems of Byron and the exploits of Napoleon, which we cannot, but admire, but the effects of which we deeply deplore. The are not indeed peculiarly immoral, and both in genius and morality, are far superior to the mass of novels that are flooding our country, but that they are not different from them in the essential points which make them in.

jurious, we shall undervor to show: We will mention the chief consideration, which are urged as giving them an exemption from the evils amendant upon ordinary novels:

lst. They are historical This is a great merit, but it abould not be estimated too high. All the information we gain in one of his three volumed novels, may be found in a few pages of Hume's History of England, told in a more polished style, and interspersed with more profound and useful remarks. The blending, also, of fictitious with real events, renders it difficult to draw a distinction between thom.

2.1d. They contain accurate descriptions of ancient manners and customs. These are ably portrayed, but in such a manner as rather to excite admiration than blame. The antiquated chivalry seems to be the beau ideal of his worship, and wonderful feats and lucky acculents are not wanting to give it a zest. Barbarous cust ins and shameful practices, are vividly described, but passed over without one word or conthet of disapproval. Such. for example, is his account of the tournament in Ivanhoe, the most fascina. of his novels. The splendor of the scene in which England's Beauty and Bravery were guthered together, the faurful onset of the steel-clad combutarts, the crowning of the victor by the Queen of Beauty, and the motley crowd of spectators, from the peasant to the prince, are painted with all the magic of his pen, and seem to rise up before the eye of the reader, and bocome endued with reality. At one time, some masterly horseman incets in full cureer his antagonist and hurls him from his seat; at another, large numbers mingle together in fearful, lite and death conflict, displaying prodigies of valor, and strewing the field with the wounded and slain. Such is the scene which he describes in such a manner, without a single comment on its cold-hearted barbarny, and false gluter of enjoyment. What youthful mind, or even one of mature age, would not be captivated by such a description, and consider this, this as the acme of human happiness and glory? In the same glowing colors he pictures the freedom, the justice, and the jollity of the furest robbers, with Robin Hold at their head; and the conviviality and daring mal-practices of the monastery priests. Such, in fact, is the manner in which he throws a false glory over almost everything, which the good sense or morality of modern times has abolished. Though such descriptions may not have as powerful an effect upon the sturdy phlegmatic minds of the English, as they would have upon the enthusiastic Germans, or my of whom are said to have become bandutt from reading Schiller's play of the Robbers, still bey could not but tend to confuse our ideas of right and wrong. This leads us to consider another characteristic for which the Waverly Novels are much landed, namely, their morality; but the examples which we have just given from one of the best of these works, will be suffi-cient on this point. His heroes, indeed, seem to have acted very much on the same principle which actuated Napoleon, that no action whatever was wrong, which contributed to his own interest. 3rd. They display superior talents. There is, however, a certain class of actions, in which the more an individual excels, the greater his guilt. Whoever imbrues his hands in the blood of his follow creatures is criminal; whoever injures the minds or the morals of mankind is still more so; and and whoever is pre-eminent in doing either is pre-eminently criminal. That novels are one of the most powerful agencies that have ever been employed in wasting the time, destroying the energies, and vitiating the minds of the young, is a truth of which we are firmly convinced, but which we have not time or space at present to substantiate. It needs, however, no arguments to prove it. Universal experience has shown them to be permitious. Whoever, then, excels in this department of writing, is a corrupter of the hama i race, and a criminal of the deepest dye. Yes! the most successful posclara as well as the ablest tyrants; the most telented infidely, and the most catted series of impute and atheistical poetry, are the very individuals who have the most to recount for at the bar of mankind, and the final tribunal of Heaven. Besides, by thus devoting his great talents to what was from a viry nature describer of the best interests of secrety, Sir Walter Scott has a nen to novels a popularity and a character, which they should not and would not otherwise possess. It was in this way, that Hume and Voltnire attempted to throw the cloak of their learning and cloquence over the shallow and debraing decremes of Infidelity; but are they not so much the more reprehensel? The Waverley Novels have a finer show of external ornareproblems 11.2 mens, a better dress, as it were, than other novels, but should they on this account be considered any the less injurious? Should they not rather be the more strenuously condemned, because they have thus cast the shield of their protection over the whole mass of corruption, and caused hundreds to read them & gian a tiste for them who would not have otherwise acquired it? the is a corollar time well number leated, but not generally known, he hace muts in a certain degree for the early popularity of the Waverly Notels. When they first appeared in 1816, the author himself reviewed them to the "Quarterly," praising them highly and bluming principally the st pa sag s. The terraed Dr. Parraud his popularity would not last; but allie seen the unbounded circulation of novels in our day, and the slugg den se of Christians with regard to them, we fear he would have changed

Editorial Department.

JUNIA.

his prediction.

This number completes our volume. Having endeavoured to fulfil the obligations assumed in the undertaking, we submit the result to that charry which "thinketh no evil." Guided by a reverence for the great truths of religion and morality, an ardent zeal for the intellectual elevation of our sex and an instinctive devotion to the great principles of social order and domestic happiness, it has been our was to deepen the impression and extend the influence of these feelings upon the minds of our readers.

Though in all respects our efforts have falled short of our decires, we are consoled by the reflection that, if the Calliopean has effected little good, it is at least free from the obloquy of having been the vitiator of youthful trate, and the corruptor of youthful morals.

By many it has been urged as a defect, and an objection to our Periodical that it is not adapted to the reading taste of the community, to which we have invariably replied, "Though we may not hope to do much towards correcting a vitiated public taste, we shall be free from the charge of catering to it."

The Calliopean was undertaken with the hope of its becoming a source of revenue to our Library. In this, however, we were soon convinced that we had misjudged, and must be disappointed; a circumstance which leaded, in no small degree, to damp our ardor and paralyse our energies.

Having fixed upon a scheme by which we findly hoped to be enabled, in some small degree, to accomplish for ourselves what the Public Treasury does for the other sex, our readers may imagine our disappointment, when it was ascertained that the immediate effect of our project would be to pull down by exhausting our resources, what it was intended to build up by in plenishing them. For this disappointment, however, we can blame only the too great enthusiasm and the too sanguine expectations of youth; as we are informed by older and experienced friends, that our circulation—nearly 700—has been quite as extensive as could reasonably have been anticipated for the first year.

Could Printing, in Hamilton, be done at as low prices as in those places where Power and Steam Presses are established, we could, with erra out present circulation, pay expenses and realize something additional for improving our Library. As circumstances are, however, a large increase of subscribers would be required to justify the continuance of the Calliopean another year. For these reasons we now take have of our Patrons and Friends, tendering them our most cordial thanks for their kindness in the encouragement given to our undertaking. To Gentlemen of the Canadian Press, who, by speaking kindly of our efforts, and throwing over us the shield of their protection, have done so much to cheer and encourage our minds—we desire to express the warmest grautude of our hearts.

For the convenience of these who may have filed the numbers for the purpose of binding, we have prepared an Index to the volume.

We hope, that amidst the duties and engagements of the domestic circle, you have not forgotten The Calliopean Library Society. We know that in imagination you must often revisit the Burlington Academy, and mingle again with former companions in the interesting routine of Academic hip. These associations and reminiscences can nover be efficied from your mind. Will you not then, while visions of the past are beaming o'er the ocean of memory, occasionally stay, in thought's rapid flight, her airy opinions to dwell upon the condition and wants of our Library? To the original members of our Association, it must be cause of gladness and congratulation to learn that the slender twig which they planted and anxiously watered, has already grown to a goodly tree affording refreshing shelter, and life giving fruit to many. Our Library now contains about 700 choice volumes, which are daily administering healthful, and invigorating food to more than a hundred immortal minds.

But shall we now fold our arms, and say it is enough? Shall we not rather, encouraged by the success which has thus far attended our efforts, address ourselves with renewed zeal and energy, to our noble undertaking? Will it not be a source of comfort, in coming years, when our Library, perchance, shall rival, in the number and excellency of its volumes, some of those provided by State paironage for the improvement of the othersex; that we have aided by our influence and our mits, an enterprise so praiseworthy and so volumble, in the exall it is destined to accomplish? Let us not be discouraged, because our little Periodical failed to do for our Library what we had fondly hoped.

A plan, of which you shall receive due notice, is now under consideration by the resident members, for increasing our Library, which we think must prove successful. The scheme contemplated wote, in which all, whether present or absent, can bear a part. Be prepared them, Dour Friends, to help forward the undertaking with a vigorous cordial hand.

To We hope our Subscribers, who are in arrears, will lose no time in making their remittences.

TF for those entering the Bratinoton Lantes' Academy, the Second Term of the Winter Session, will commence on Wednesday, the Third day of January, 1819. This will be a favorable time for pupils to enter, as several new classes will then be formed.

The several departments of the Institution are filled by able and experienced Teachers,—the Principal and Preceptress, having nine assistants.

In addition to Weekly Lectures, continued through the Winter Session, on a variety of interesting and useful subjects.—Two courses will be commenced at the opening of next term; one on Chi-mistry, the other on Astronomy, enlive ned and rendered interesting by numerous experiments and illustrations, for which extensive apparatus is provided.

It has been the constant aim of the Proprietor, to increase and improve the facilities of this Establishment; the result of which has been a steady increase of pupils since its first opening. Though only the connencement of the Session about 120 pupils, from various parts of the Province, ranging from Montreal to London, are now in attendance;—a greater number than during any previous Term.

The Institution is not subject to the control of any religious sect.

It is essentially a private enterprise; depending for support on the faithful and conscientious performance of duty on the part of the Principal, Preceptress, and Teachers, towards those entrusted to their Guardianship. While steady efforts are made to impress on the youthful mind the evidences, obligations, and duties of revealed religion, Sectarian influences are carefully excluded. No efforts are permitted to be made to divert religious faith from the channel in which home instruction has directed it.

The Pupils attend their own places of worship, accompanied by one of their Teachers; their associations being thus carefully guarded

For Expenses, and all other particulars, attention is invited to the Academy Circular, which may be obtained by application to the Principal, or of any Wesleyan Minister in the Province.

D. C. VANNORMAN, Princ pal.

Hamilton, 7th November, 1848.

Isabelia, Queen of Spain.

In the midst of all these scenes of crime, and war, and was, Christina and the courts of Europe were intriguing for a huband for the hapless Isabella. England France, and Austria each had a bridegroom to urge upon the passive princess; and yet neither of these powers would consent that either of the others should have the benefit of such an alliance. At last it was decided to compromise the question. All aband med their claims, and they agreed to force upon Isabella a husband so weak and impotent that none need fear his influence. Francisco, Isabella's youngest uncle, had two sons, Enrique and Francisco. The only difference between them was, that while the elder was coarse, brutal, energetic, and unblushing in atheism and vice, the younger was imbecile, silly, and mean in his besitted temper. Isabella preferred Enrique, if she must take one of the two. It was, however, decided that Francisco must be her spouse. His imbecile mind, and feeble person, and squaking voice, excited her contempt. For a time she flatly refused to surrender herself to one whom her soul leathed. She wept, she stormed, she declared that she would sooner die than wed Francisco.

One night, her unnatural mother and a crafty minister took the weeping, agonized child of sixteen into an inner chamber of the palace, to constrain her co. sent. The imperious mather, with her conspiring counselor, first tried the efficacy of threats upon the unprotected child. Finding them unavailing, she turned to entreaties and tears. Thus, expostulations, and solicitations, and menaces, the long hours of the night passed away, and day dawned upon the pale and tearful cheek of Labella, before she would give her consent to receive the despised Franciscs for her husband. At last, worn out with exhaustion and despair, she resisted no longer, and a huntted horself to the outrage. Fraring lest she might again summ in resolution to rebel, the marriage was hastily consummated. But hardly was the irrevocable tie formed, before Isabella's repugnance to her spouse becume so absolutely insupportable that she could not even endure his presence. Buth were proud and irascible. They quarreled; they separated. Again they attempted to live near each other; again the total want of congeniality, invincible disgust on the part of Isabella, drove them asunder. Our sympathies strongly incline us to represent Isabella as an amiable, pensive, and gentle child, fading away before the blight of untimely sorrow. Truth, however, compels us to admit that she is imperious, irritable, and masculine. She is the child of ungovernable passions, and is wrecked, both in body and soul, by a life of joylessmess. She possesses nothing but her sorrows to win our love. How could it be otherwise! Her father was one of the most worthless wretches who ever disgraced a throne. Her mother was an intriguing, unprincipled, abandoned woman. From infincy, Isabella has breathed as polluting a moral atmosphere as it is possible for one to inhale. It would, indeed, be a miracle, were one, born of such parents and recred in such a home, to possess the graces of a refined and lovely spirit. The wreck and ruin of her own heart are even more desolating and more to be commiserated than the external calamities which have enveloped her in glooms which apparently never can be dissipated. Isobelta has no resources within for consolation. She never has been, and never can be loved. Earth has no heavier doom than this.

Isabella's sister, Louisa, was a few months ago married, when fourteen years of age, to the Duke of Montpensier, the youngest son of Louis Philippe. This marriage produced every great excitement throughout Europe, and roused the most vig rous though unavailing, remonstrances on the part of England. Should Isabella die childless, Louisa will ascend the throne. And thus the son of Louis Philippe will be the hu-bind of the queen. Of course, the two kingdoms, had not Louis Philippe, been ejected from his throne, would have been most intimately allied, and the cabinet of Versailles would have had great influence in the councils of Spain. Indeed, it was more than possible that the crowns of the two kingdoms of France and Spain, as in the case of Castile and Aragin, would have descended upon one brow. This would fearfully destroy the "balance of power" in Europe. England was extremely jealous of this influence, and was ready to wage war with France, rather than have a son of Louis Philippe marry the Queen of Spain. Isabella would have liked, it is said, that connection.

The probability, however, now is that Louisa will soon ascend the throug. Isabella looks care-worn and haggard. Wretchedness has broken down her constitution, and epilepsy, one of the most awful diseases to which the human frame is subject, is apparently hurrying her to the grave. It is now most probable that her sorrowful life will soon be terminated by death. Indeed, it is alleged that the ministry of McLod are on the point of declaring their sovereign incompetent to reign, and of recommending to the Cortes the regency of Louist. The kingdom is filled with stories of her discreditable demeaner, and of her bickerings with her spouse. Eigland has been calling loudly for the queen's divorce, hoping that another union may be more successful, and that heirs of Isabella may yet prevent a son of Louis Philippe from being queen-consort. The dethronoment of Louis Philippe, for the present, allays these fears. But monarchy is not yet dead in France.

The death of Isabella, without issue, would probably be the signal not only for the outbreak of civil war in Spain, but it might also involve all Europe in hostilities. The Carlists would immediately present their claims to the three, sustained by England, Austria, and Russia. Louis Philippe, with his armies, would, of course, have sustained the cause of Louisa. There is no kingdom of Europe now in a state of deeper depression, or whose prospect for the future is more gloomy, than that of Spain. What combinations are to be presented by the new turn recently given to the political kaleidoscope, no one can tell-

And yet, were it not for foreign interference, Spain, under the nominal reign of Lonina, with the Dake of Montpensier as her coenselor, would unquestionably be far better governed than she has been for many ages. The duke is a young man of elevated character and education. He has seen much of the world, and, with peculiarly conciliating and affable momers, has great energy of purpose and action. He und ubtedly would be able to accomplish much toward the redemption of Spain from the dogradation into which she has fallen.—Joha S. C. Abbott.

INDEX.

	age.
Apostrophe to Genius, (original.)	1
A good Daughter	4
Automot Marines (arts 2)
A good Daughter, Autunnul Musings, (original.)	5
A Censual Revery,	20
Angry Words.	26
Angry Words	34
Analysis Charles
Ancient Curthage	43
Auctilion, (original)	5 9
Answer of a Sage	66
Annual Report of the Burlington
Ludina' Acutome	84
Ladies' Academy,
Address to the Library Association, 8
A Vision, A Voice at the Throne, (original.)	99
A Voice at the Throne, (original.)	100
Alexander the Great,	104
Assumption of Mills to Confut all
Ascension of Elijah, (original.)	105
An Accomplished Somnambulist,	119
Ambition,	140
Advantages of the Diffusion of Know-
ludes	150
ledge,
A Geographical Enigma,	151
Autumn,	155
An Enigma,	174
and an arrangement of the second of the seco
Danishan - CM	30
Breathings of Nature, (original.)	13
Brothers and Sisters,	23
Bethany, (original)	25
Beautiful Passages,	27
Bushaman Lade 2 Acc 1
Burlington Ladies' Academy,	29
Benefits of Walking,	51
Byron, (original)	53
Byron, (original) Beauties of Creation	75
Budily exercise,	77
Re row and Comme	143
Byron and Cowper,	1.3.
Babylon.—Belshazar's Feast, (ort-
ginal.)	149
Be wind to the Olds	151
20 11,110 111 110 010, 1111111111111111
Ob. 1
Christ rules the Tempest, (original)	12
Crown the Teacher,	19
Crown the Teacher,	23
Chemistry for Girls,	42
Charatan to Dansanatan as Assistant	57
Cherokee's Remonstrance, (original)	_
Cerals,	60
Charity like the Breeze,	71
Charity, (original)	72.
Chivalry, (original)	81
Canada, (original)	97
Carlyle,	99
Character of Dr. Johnson	10:3
Calliopean Library, (Ed.)	112
Crushed affections,	119
Ohn Character
Chanese Customs,	155
Close of our Session, (crigmal.)	156
Canadian Indians,	158
Chalmers and the English Aristo-
Character and Table	180
Cracy, I maked
Caroline Lucretia Herchel,	181
•
Description at Sea	19
Domestic Happiness,	54
Pittiankin	_
Difficulties, Duty and Reward of Original Think-	66
Duty and Reward of Original Thinking,	151
Dream of Death, (original.)	169
Depth of the Sea,	184
Education, (original.)	"i l
ANUGULUM (VICENTIE) JOOOOOOOOO	Ι,

Energy of Mind,
	11
E.nma -Eastwood, (original.)	11
Europe of all	• •
Etymology of the names of Coun, tries,	19
Education of the Vound	26
D.J
Education of Families,	32
Education in Prussia,	35
Puncation - I
Expecting a Letter,	54
Extracts from the Lectures of Ilo-34
race Mann.	04
Early Consecration to Christ, (original.)	67
Paralle Dr
Early Piety,	67
Etymology,	74
Eden	75
Eden, Engish Sovereigns,
Engish Sovereigns,	80
Emblems	106
a describer Cab. 37
Emblems, ducation of the Young	107
Eloquence of the Camp,	110
Engage Invention (original)
Empress Josephine, (original.)	113
Evil Influence of Popular Literature,	117
Early Education	123
Eurly Education,	_
roughton of luiots,	136
Essays on Decision of Character,.	136
Fugues Com	_
Eugene Sue,	140
Eugene Sue,	147
Effect of Different Colonead Lights
upon Plants	3 40
upon Plants	149
Education-What is it?	150
Emily Mentury (spinished)
Emily Morton, (original.)	164
English Eloquence,	178
Fanny Ellsler, (original)	5
Trillial Adriant in Company
Filial Affection, (original)	15
Family Prayer Remembered,	39
Friend-hip. (original)	55
Time notally (migrate)
Folly of Discontent,	55
Folly of Discontent,	55
Folly of Discontent,	55 77
Folicy of Discontent,	55
Folicy of Discontent,	55 77
Folly of Discontent,	55 77 88 89
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the Gospel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character,	55 77 88 89 96
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the Gaspel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character,	55 77 88 89
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the Gaspel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character,	55 77 88 89 96 116
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the Gaspel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character,	55 77 88 89 96 116
Folly of Discontent, Fehreia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the Gaspel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears,	55 77 88 89 96 116 150
Folly of Discontent, Fehreia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the Gaspel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears,	55 77 88 89 96 116 150
Folly of Discontent, Fehreia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the Gaspel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears,	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the Gospel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unen aging. (original)	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Fennales Eiervated by the G. spel, Fem de Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arith.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Fennales Eiervated by the G. spel, Fem de Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arith.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Fennales Eiervated by the G. spel, Fem de Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arith.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywaere,	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Every-body, God Geometrizes.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Every-body, God Geometrizes.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Every-body, God Geometrizes.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes. Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Engmn.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 124 141
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gascous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes. Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Hun. (original).	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gascous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes. Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Hun. (original).	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 71 124 141 141
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original) Gascous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, God	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 124 141 147
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unen aging. (original) Gaseous State of the arth, Good Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes, God Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original) Geographical Enigmic God took Hun. (original) Genus. Giverness	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 71 124 141 141
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unen aging. (original) Gaseous State of the arth, Good Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes, God Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original) Geographical Enigmic God took Hun. (original) Genus. Giverness	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 124 141 147 151
Folicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unenanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, Gof Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Hun. (original). Genus. Giverness, Guzekow, the Paish Musician,	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 124 141 147
Folicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Elevated by the G.spel, Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unenanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, Gof Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Hun. (original). Genus. Giverness, Guzekow, the Paish Musician,	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 124 141 147 151
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the Gaspel, Females Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, Gof Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original) Geographical Enigma. Geographical Enigma. Genus. Giverness, Guzekow, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing,	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 124 141 151 159 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes. Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Engman. Geomas. Geomas. Guzekow, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (or gin.d.)	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 124 141 150 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gascous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God took Hon. (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Hon. (original). Genus. Giverness, Guzekow, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original).	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 124 141 151 159 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gascous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God took Hon. (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Hon. (original). Genus. Giverness, Guzekow, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original).	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 42 52 71 124 141 151 150 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original) Females Elevated by the G.spel, Females Elevated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original) Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original) Gaseous State of the arth, Good Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God took Hon. (original) Geographical Enigma. God took Hon. (original) Genus. Giverness, Guzekow, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original) Home,	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 444 444 52 54 141 147 151 150 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites. Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging (original). God Unchanging (original). God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes. Grieve Not. (original). Geographical Engma. God took Hon. (original). Geomets. Guzekov. the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (or ginal). Home.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 42 52 71 124 141 151 150 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites. Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging (original). God Unchanging (original). God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes. Grieve Not. (original). Geographical Engma. God took Hon. (original). Geomets. Guzekov. the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (or ginal). Home.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 444 444 52 54 7 114 1147 151 159 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites. Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). God Unchanging. (original). God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes. Grieve Not. (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Hon. (original). Genus. Governess. Guzekov, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original). Home, History. Home Colta et original.). Hamah More, (original).	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 44 52 54 71 141 147 151 159 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). God Unchanging. (original). God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Han. (original) Gemus. Giverness, Gizekow, the Palsh Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original). Home, History. Home Coling a original.	55 77 88 89 96 150 172 7 44 44 52 54 71 121 141 147 151 159 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). God Unchanging. (original). God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Enigma. God took Han. (original) Gemus. Giverness, Gizekow, the Palsh Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original). Home, History. Home Coling a original.	55 77 88 89 96 116 150 172 7 44 44 44 52 54 71 141 147 151 159 171
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unen anging. (original). Gascous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Enigma, Geoffonk Hun. (original) Genus. Giverness Guzekow, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original) Home, History. Home Coling argenal.). Hamash More, (original) Hamash More, (original)	55 77 88 89 96 150 172 7 44 44 44 71 124 141 151 150 171 3 7 8 17 22 23
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the Gaspel, Females Eievated by the Gaspel, Females Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unchanging. (original). Gaseous State of the arth, Good in Every-bady, God Everywhere, Gof Geometrizes. Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Eargman. God took Hun. (original). Genus. Giverness, Guzekow, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original). Home, History, Home Calia c. original). Hamah More, (original). Hamah More, (original). Hymn, Hymn,	5577888996815681550172 7 444 445 524 71 124 141 147 151 150 171 3 7 8 8 7 124 22 3 3 9
Folly of Discontent, Felicia D. H. mans, (original). Females Eievated by the G.spel, Female Education, (original). Formation of Character, ollowing the Appetites, Fishion. Fears, Give no Pain. God Unen anging. (original). Gascous State of the arth, Good in Every-body, God Everywhere, God Geometrizes, Grieve Not, (original). Geographical Enigma, Geoffonk Hun. (original) Genus. Giverness Guzekow, the Paish Musician, Horrors of Composition Writing, (original) Home, History. Home Coling argenal.). Hamash More, (original) Hamash More, (original)	55 77 88 89 96 150 172 7 44 44 44 71 124 141 151 150 171 3 7 8 17 22 23

· Classical at the control in Table 1 を Tabl	M. >
I FIGURE HOLD E-GUERTION	80
Household Education,	100
mistory of the war between U.S.,	·
Human of War between U. S.,	.115
Hamilton and its Scenery, (original.)	155
Horrors of War,	154
Hu nave howed to Pean	150
the never bowed to I say,	190
Harriet Marineau, (original)	157
Harriet Martineau, (original.)	166
1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	ing 🖸
Immuneity " 140	AG
Time of A street	40
Insect Architects,	กบ
Intended Invasion of England by Napoleon, (original.)	57
Improvement of Society	* QU
Improvenience of Coming a sector for	. 43
Importance of forming a tarte for Useful-Reading while Young, (c.	٠.`
Useful-Reading while Young, (o.	-jt
riginal.	100
riginal.) Importance of Uniting the Moral with the Intelligence of Orleans of with the Intellectual Culture of the Mind,	149
Isabella.: Queen of Spain	, t • ' •
the Mind,	ne;
Jernanlem	. 35
Jane' Taylor, (original)	45
Jane: Laytor, (original)	45
James Montgomery,	57
James Montgomery,	172
Knowledge and Wisdom,	7
Kindness, (original.)	· 2 9
Kundana (minimal)	45
remainess, (original.)	40
Knowledge is Power,	60
7 2 4 4 5 4 5 5 7 3 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5
Light, (original.)	9
Light and Love,	10
Lady Jane Grey, (original.)	13
Life in Eurnest, (Ed.)	72
Line to Edinesi, (Ed.)
Lines to my Sister,
	76
Leaves of Antiquity.	76
Leaves of Antiquity.	76 76
Leaves of Antiquity,	76 76 84
Leaves of Antiquity,	76 76 84 91
Leaves of Antiquity,	76 76 84 91 98
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life.	76 76 84 91 98
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life.	76 76 84 91 98
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.)	76 76 84 91 98 104
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.)152, 120,	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 144
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe,	76 76 84 91 95 104 108 144 160
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original) Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child,	76 76 84 91 95 104 108 144 160 170
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France.	76 76 84 91 95 104 108 144 160 170
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France.	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 144 160 170
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original) Lead and Feathers, Life, Luve. (original) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace,	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 144 160 170 175
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France.	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 144 160 170
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.)152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices,	76 84 91 95 104 108 144 160 170 175 176
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.)152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices,	76 84 91 95 104 108 144 160 175 176 184
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original). Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music, (original.). Moving Onward,	76 84 91 95 104 108 144 160 170 175 176
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original). Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music, (original.). Moving Onward,	76 84 91 95 104 108 144 160 175 176 184
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original) Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy,	76 84 91 98 104 108 144 160 175 176 184 2 15 22
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Luve. (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Louterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music. (original.)	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Luve. (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Louterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music. (original.)	76 76 84 91 95 104 108 144 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices. Music, (original.) Moving Onward, Moutal Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.)	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices. Music, (original.) Moving Onward, Moutal Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.)	76 76 84 91 96 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33 36 37
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices. Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Moutal Philosophy, Music. (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly,	76 76 84 91 96 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33 36 37
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music, (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midane De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love,	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 144 170 175 176 184 2 2 2 2 2 3 3 3 6 3 7 7
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music, (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters,	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 175 176 184 2 155 22 33 36 37 59 77
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music, (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, Mistakes,	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 144 170 175 176 184 2 2 2 2 2 3 3 3 6 3 7 7
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original). Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music, (original). Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original). My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original). Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, My Sisters, Mistakes, Miss L. E. Landon, (original).	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 175 176 184 2 155 22 33 36 37 59 77
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love. (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Louterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, Mistakes, Mistakes, Mistakes, Mistakes, Moral Education.	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33 37 77 87 104 109
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love. (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Louterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, Mistakes, Mistakes, Mistakes, Mistakes, Moral Education.	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33 36 37 57 67 104 109 111
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love. (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, Mistakes, Mistakes, Mistakes, Mistakes, Moral Education, Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, (original.)	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33 36 37 77 77 104 109 111
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love. (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.) 152, 120, Louterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, Mistakes, Miss L. E. Landon, (original.) Moral Education, Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, (original.)	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33 36 37 57 67 104 109 111
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love. (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, Mistakes, Miss L. E. Landon, (original.) Moral Education, Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, (original.) Music in the Family, Mount Gilboa, (original.)	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 15 22 33 36 37 77 77 104 109 111
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love. (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music. (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Midame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, Mistakes, Miss L. E. Landon, (original.) Moral Education, Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, (original.) Music in the Family, Mount Gilboa, (original.)	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 2 33 36 37 59 77 87 104 111 116 122 145
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music, (original.) Moving Onward, Mental Philosophy, Music, (original.) My Mother's Grave, Madame De Stæl, (original.) Microscopic View of the Fly, Mother's Love, My Sisters, Mistakes, Miss L. E. Landon, (original.) Moral Education, Moral Education, Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, (original.) Montoes for Alboms,	76 76 84 91 98 104 108 117 175 176 184 2 155 22 33 36 37 59 77 67 104 109 111 116 112 116
Leaves of Antiquity, Language of Flowers, Lines by Rusticus, (original.) Lead and Feathers, Life, Love, (original.) Literary Notices, (Ed.). 152, 120, Loiterings in Europe, Laugh of a Child, Literature in France, Life in the Palace, Life in the Palace, Literary Notices, Music, (original.) Moving Onward,	76 76 84 91 98 104 160 175 176 184 2 2 33 36 37 59 77 87 104 111 116 122 145

The Walliopean.

		11	والمحمد المسابق المسانك
4	Never too Old to Learn, 26	Stream of Time, (original.) 92	The Great Ports 73
(No proof of the present existence of		The Sabbath, 80
l	a single Star	School-masters and Printers, 103	The Mother, 81
٨	a single Star,	Sketch of the life of Mrs. Graham,	The Eternal River, 36
•		(original.)	Thurking leads Man to Knowledge, 87
	National Dietetics,	Sir Walter Scott and Wilberforce, 107	To Spring (original) 88
	Noah's Dove,	Shelly and Byron,	To Oblitical foregroups.
1	Niagara, 139	Saul's Conversion, (original.) 121
1	Nature and Education, 150	Self Gouvernment, 122	The Dilling the
i	Nutmeg Tree and Froit 165	Sorrow and Sympathy, 123	The Soul,
1	Natural Bridge and Weir's Cave, 182	Sympathy, (original.) 124	Tho last Gladiator, 101
ì		Sketch of the Life of Mrs. Judson,	The Summer Tempest, 102
1	Origin of Modern Lawyers, (origi-	(original.)	The Heaven of the Bible, 101
;	nal.)	Sound. (original.) 140	The Monarchs of Europe, 106
į	Objects of Benevolence, 7	Song for August, 158	Thoughts on the Management of
1	One's Mother,	Splendid Tribute to the Talents of	Classes
1	On the Eclipse of the Moon, (ori-	Chutham,	The Spring.
ł	ginal.)	Scene of a Summer Shower, 170	To an Æolian Harp 113
ļ	Origin of the word Lady 55	Siberian Exiles 190	The Unhappy School Girl (original.)
1	Origin of Genius, 59		The Swan of Paradisc 114
(On Education, 82		The Rayen of Noals 115
ı		The Study of Poetry, (original.) 6	The Farmer
Į.	Obligations to Literature, 91 'Old Songs,	The Mother—a Guardian Angel, 6	The Cry of my Soul, 123
t	Old Canana 197	The Philanthropist, (original.) 7	The Mignionette. (original.) 129
1	Old Scraps, 127	To our Patrons, (original.) 9	The Seven Sages of Greece, 131, 141
l	Donato of Whatala	The Infant Pilgrims, (original.) . 9	The Contrast,
ŧ	Propagation of Thought 12	The Sun and Moon, 10	The Bible Reader,
ı	Personal Decorations, 19	The Child of Mercy, 11	The Mind—Its Diguity, (original). 133
1	Politeness,	Tears	The Sabbath, (original.) 139
1	Passing Away	Tears,	The Sabbath, (originate)
1	Position of Woman, 83	The Calliopean, (original.) 16	The Child and the Queen 140
	"Principles of the Interior or Hid-	The Future, (original.) 17	The Cottage Girl, 145
Ì	den Life," (Ed.)	The Fine Arts, (original.) 20	The Longing, 153
1	Palestine, 116	To the Evening Star, 20	The Key,
1	Pleasing Others,	The Sanctity of Home 20	The Coliseum by Moolight, 162
1	Perseverance, (original.) 121	The best way to Teach, 22	The Farewell of the Zepnyr, (ort-
١	Principal Manufactures of England, 154 Physical Education,	11 110 0000 11-15	The Consean Process of the Zephyr, (ori- genal.)
	Physical Education 156	Il Tire worsing or more (mg.	II Tha Gray Paresi Carles •••••• **
1	Proper Education of Daughters, 160		' 'ho 'Orn-rik'C
1	Planets between Mars and Jupiter, 176	The Voice of the Comming Year,	If The Sumach, (original.)
1		(original.)	The Orphan, 172
l	Queen's College, (Ed.) 32	The Bible, Votion Apollo	Il The Roy of Plays as a second of the
H	Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth,	The Statue of the Vatican Apollo,	Thoughts on Leaving Home, (original.)
۱	contrasted,		ginal.) 177
H	Queen Victoria, 181	11 INC MATCHES TO THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY	1) The Accomplished Lady (original) 110
1		Thoughts,	The First Steam-boat, 186
1	Religion,	The Mind, 31	The Child's Dream of Paradisc, (o-
11	Religion,	Taste for Reading	riginal.) 18
١١.	Keat 101 tue Alegan, (allgumes)	The Watcher, (original.) 36	1
11	Reading, 34	Time and Eternity, 36	The Solar
{}	Religion, 34	To my Brother 38	Ultimate Dissolution of the Solar
"	Rome	Trust in God, (original.) 39
11	Return of the Parents, 96	The Songs of the Night, 40	Uscfulness, 160
{{	Results of Astronomy, 109	The Morning Dawn 40
41	Retrospection, 123	The Child at the Teacher's Grave,	Vigils with the Sick, (original.) 52
Ŋ	Rambles in Canadian Botany,	[foriginal]	Wieign Akiha
#	No. 1, (original.)	The Study of Botany, (original.) . 41	Value and Brevity of Life,
I	Remains of Revd R. Cecil, M. A. 128	Il The Diene Molher, (OTIPITAL) 	Wision of Heaven 120
IJ	Responsibility of the Teacher, 159	The Journal of Education, Ed 48	Vision for a School Girl, (original.) 153
H	· Dambles in Consdien Bolant, No. 2	These (ariginal) 49	Visit to Miss Edgeworth, 165
31	(original.) 161	The English Language 51	A late to miss maken and
	(original.)	To Death, (original)
Ш	Study of Nature, (original.)	The Council of Four, 53	What is Life,
11	Sunrise from the Mountain, (original. 12	The Seasons, 53	- Watch ye well by Day-light, 53
.	Slander, (original.)	The Midnight Sun, 54	Ilw Woman.
1	Saint Paul,		Wordsworth-Byron,
١Į	Seek Knowledge, 20	They are my Famer's ours, 55	What might be done with the money
1	Studies from History, (original.) 25	1 caching,	wasted in War 90
	Superficial Attainments, (original.) 36	11 The Editions for Street,	Winter Studies and Summer Ram-
1	Superiiciai artaniamon (* 8	Il The Coral Insections and the Coral Insection	11 % blog
ı	Data des (mining) AC	If The Myrile, (orgular)	Washington, the Surveyor, 183
	Surrise on the Ocean,	The Eve. (original.)	18
•	2. Simplicity Exemplified. (original.) 69	The Tear of Gratitude,	Youth and Age, 104
ı١		If The Carnation, (original.)	Xoutu and vage,
V	Scene on a Battle-field, (original.) 79, Song of the Sea Shell,	Taste for Reading,
ď	Dong of the Dest Onesi,	The Suider	II